Opinion Divided

To appeal or not to appeal, that is the question which City Hall has faced since a federal district judge ruled a section of the Plymouth charter unconstitutional. The outgoing city commission groped for an answer Monday without finding one, so now it passes to the new regime.

Just Like Home

The Stroller is back from a vacation in Florida, where he broke bread with a happy lot of SOB's who are worried about their state's population explosion. "We sure were glad to have you — as a guest," was the message The Stroller brought back from the Save Our Bay committee.

Phil Maly wasn't fooling when he took bow and arrow in hand and went out to stalk deer in the area near Dexter. The 120-pound buck he brought back home to Plymouth as a prize was felled on the run with a single arrow.

McAninch, Sincock, Henry, Silvis Capture City Election

By FRED DELANO

Shades of the '40s and '50s when Ruth Whipple and Eleanor Hammond were the queens of Plymouth city politics!

Tuesday, for the first time in any municipal election since that era, the voters of this city not only elected a woman to their city commission but also gave her such a resounding endorsement that Mrs. William (Beverly) McAninch led the field of eight candidates by a wide margin.

The past president of the League of Women Voters polled 917 votes to 772 for the runner-up, incumbent Robert Sincock, in the biennial contest to elect four members to the city's governing body.

The two others chosen Tuesday in a turnout of only 26.9 per cent of the registered 4,817 voters were Ernest L. Henry, who received 761 votes, and incumbent William B. Silvis, 602.

Trailing in this order were Peter D. Schweitzer, 480; Paul Muller, 446; Benjamin F. Creech, 326; and Mahlon D. Green, 198.

UNDER CONDITIONS of the Plymouth city charter, Mrs. McAninch, Sincock and Henry receive four-year terms on the commission. This is the second straight election in which Silvis has won a two-year term by finishing fourth, and the charter dictates that he cannot run again in 1973.

Mrs. McAninch, Sincock, Henry and Silvis will be given the oath of office at 7:30 Monday night, Nov. 8 to join carry-over commissioners James McKeon, Donald Bidwell and Harold Guenther in the new government. Their first major issue will be the selection of one of their own members to serve in the titular role of mayor during the ensuing two years, a title now held by McKeon.

Despite her polling booth strength in her first quest for public office, Mrs. McAninch is not expected to be the choice of her male colleagues for that office. Most likely candidates include Bidwell, who has been mayor pro tem for two years; Sincock, whose second-place finish Tuesday did no harm, and McKeon himself.

The results of the election demonstrated the old-line popularity of the Plymouth Civic Federation "slate," sponsored by such Republican stalwarts as Anthony Licata, James Houk and James Jabara. Theirs were the only published endorsements which swept the board.

Although the local Democratic committee also joined in supporting Mrs. McAninch and Sincock in what is termed officially as a non-partisan election, the two other Democratic choices, Creech and Green, r an seventh and eighth.

THE NEW commission will be a blend of new and old talent with this makeup:

Mrs. McAninch, 45, has been a political activist but not a participant in her six years of residency in the sense that as leader of the LWV she has maintained neutrality.

Sincock is in his second commission go-round after serving as a member a decade ago, including a stint as mayor.

Henry, too, is a returnee to city government, having served two terms on the commission in the first half of the '50s.

Silvis, as an incumbent, helps maintain the continuity from the outgoing government.

THEN THERE WILL be McKeon, Bidwell and Guenther, meaning that in the final analysis it is only Mrs. McAninch who will come to Monday night's organizational meeting of the new commission as a Plymouth governmental neophyte.

"I'm very pleased," said the No. 1 woman in Plymouth government late Tuesday night, "and I hope I can produce as the voters seem to want."

NEARLY 150 YOUNGSTERS entered Plymouth's pumpkin carving contest as one of the planned features of Halloween weekend, and although 4-year-old Beth Ann Schwartz didn't win a prize she obviously had as much fun as those who did.

H'ween Treats Yield Razor Blade, Needle

The parents of two Plymouth youngsters averted what could have been a tragedy when they inspected their children's Halloween goodies -- and found a razor blade and a needle.

These two incidents spoiled an otherwise perfect record of Halloween gaiety throughout the Plymouth community as nearly 1,800 youngsters took part in fun events sponsored for the first time by the city recreation department.

The first report of harmful objects being found in Halloween "treats" was made when Doris Jones, of 685 Starkweather, called police Saturday night. She said she had found a needle embedded in a piece of candy collected by her eight-year-old son earlier that evening.

Mrs. Jones told police her boy had been trick-or-treating between 5:30 and 7 p.m. Saturday along Adams, Karmada, Liberty, Starkweather, Farmer and Spring streets.

Robert Pelto, of 10165 Ann Arbor Rd., called police Sunday afternoon to report that his 11-year-old son had just discovered a razor blade embedded in one of several apples which had been collected Saturday evening.

Pelto told police his son had gone trick-or-treating from 5 to 7 p.m. Saturday and was given the apple either on Ann or Blunk streets between Junction and Blanche.

PLYMOUTH POLICE Chief Timothy Ford praised Mrs. Jones and Pelto for checking their children's candy and treats before allowing them to be eaten.

Ford also praised the youth of the area in general for the manner in which Halloween hi-jinks were conducted. The Saturday observance, as he and Mayor James B. McKeon had requested, was well received and treating far exceeded the tricking.

Recreation Director Stanley Stenek, who mapped an organized series of activities for young folks, was elated by the turnout. The program which Stenek and his staff arranged included a Halloween pledge, a downtown window painting contest,

Road Patrol Gets County Reprieve

The Wayne County Sheriff's road patrol has been given 11th-hour funding to maintain police service in township areas past the Dec. 1 deadline previously established, but the reprieve is considered temporary and has brought united action by nine out-county supervisors.

These men represent Plymouth, Northville, Redford, Canton, Van Buren, Sumpter, Brownstown, Huron and Grosse Ile Townships.

Tuesday, their spokesman, Maurice M. Breen of Plymouth, announced they will fight the County Board of Commissioners in an attempt to perpetuate the road patrol which, in most of these areas, provides the only police protection available.

He revealed that the nine have banded together to form the Out-County Supervisors Association and have retained Attorney Nathan B. Goodnow of the Detroit law firm of Dykema, Gossett, Spencer, Goodnow and Trigg.

The assignment for Goodnow, one of the most prominent members of the Michigan legal profession, and a past president of the State Bar of Michigan, is to do the basic research on the question of Wayne County's responsibility for maintaining the road patrol.

Legal counsel for the Board of Commissioners takes the position that the responsibility for law enforcement is subject to budgetary control, while the supervisors feel the sheriff is duty-bound by law to provide protection where there is no local police force. Plymouth Township is a prime case in point.

UNTIL JUST a few days ago, the county board seemed ready to follow the recommendation of its ways and means committee that no funds be provided for the road patrol in the sheriff department's budget for the fiscal year starting Dec. 1.

This led Sheriff William Lucas to tell a banquet audience two weeks ago at the Thunderbird Inn, "Effective Dec. 1, the Wayne County Sheriff's Department will no longer be patrolling the townships. Local government will have to carry its own share of law enforcement functions."

However, at a later meeting the county commissioners did allocate sufficient funds to continue the road patrol, but with no assurance that it will go on indefinitely.

"It seems that the situation is to be under continued review and the ultimate aim of the Board of Commissioners is to have each township contract for sheriff services," said Breen Tuesday.

He added that he had discussed the matter with both Sheriff Lucas and Robert FitzPatrick, chairman of the commissioners.

IN A LETTER to supervisors of the eight other townships, Breen stated:

"Because of the commissioners' opinions, as expressed to me, and because of the conflicting legal opinions heretofore given to the commissioners, I feel that we should still pursue our independent action.

PIERRE'S OUTPOST Brings You Arctic Cat 72

Cheetah

New Arctic Cat Cheetah. Named after a runner for a reason.

This is the one with the special-size chassis that was developed and tested in competition to perform dependably, regardless of snow and weather conditions. Whether it's waist-deep powder or hard pack and ice, rutted mid-winter crust or soft and slippery spring snow. These are difficult and unpredictable conditions to race under, but they're not that much different from the conditions you encounter as a sports rider. So get with a runner you can count on.

The main reason people trade up to Arctic Cat. After you've been around snowmobiles for awhile, you recognize the value of lightweight aluminum chassis, a torsion spring/slide rail suspension system, and a balanced chassis layout. You learn about traction, stability, ride and flotation. And you find out which machine has it all. The Boss, Panther, has been setting standards for comfort, control, and durability for some time now and 1972 is no exception. You can count on it.

ROBERT MOORMAN

Ex-Pal Of Leary At SC

Robert Moorman, a former associate of Dr. Timothy Leary and a drug dependent himself for six years, will tell of the horrors of drug abuse at Schoolcraft College on Nov. 9.

Moorman's lecture is entitled "Marijuana – Fact or Fantasy." He describes it as a real and clear picture of marijuana and hashish: What they are, what they do, some of their social, legal, physiological, and psychological complications.

In 1961 Moorman went to Cambridge, Mass. to begin his college studies. It was there that he was introduced to and started using drugs, back when hippies were called "beatniks." It was not long after he had started college that Moorman "dropped out."

DURING THE next six years, Moorman experimented with marijuana (extensive use), morphine and heroin (eight months addiction), LSD and mescaline (four years off and on), amphetamines (five years off and on), solvents and glues (limited use), romalar (limited use), barbiturates (limited use), and various assorted pills from time to time.

The end of the road for his drug dependence came in 1966 when Moorman was arrested in Tampa, Fla., for grand larceny and possession of narcotics. For 14 months, confined behind the fences of the Florida State and County Prison System, Moorman began a painful, agonizing rehabilitation.

For the past two years, Moorman has lectured at high schools, preparatory schools, colleges and universities from coast-to-coast.

The lecture will be presented at 8 p.m. in the Waterman Campus Center. It is sponsored by the Cultural Affairs Committee. Admission is $2 for the general public and $1 for non-Schoolcraft students.

Held at Caberfae Lodge in Cadillac, the convention featured discussions of newspaper problems by a number of industry leaders.

Ameen Leaves Pursell Staff

Bob Ameen, administrative assistant to Sen. Carl D. Pursell (R-14th District), Thursday announced his resignation due to "personal reasons."

Ameen, former editor of the Livonia Observer and a veteran newspaperman, had worked for Pursell since March of this year. The senator began his freshman term in office last January 1.

Ameen said he was considering several job offers, but had not committed himself at this time.

THROUGH BIFOCALS

By FRED DELANO / Editor: Mail & Observer

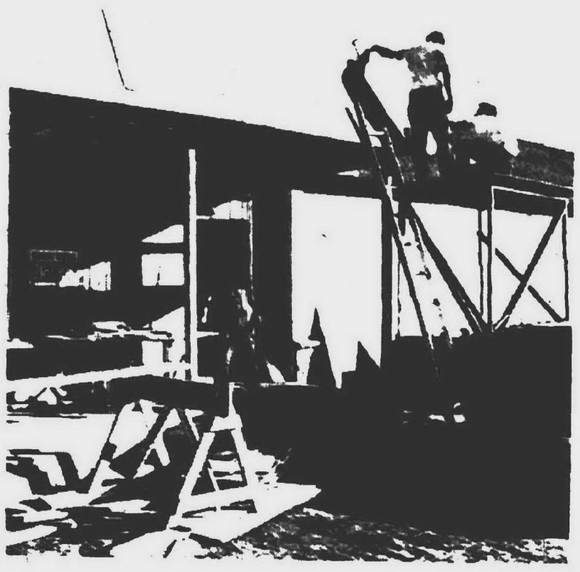
OWNERSHIP OF THE property and Class C liquor license at 47660 Ann Arbor Rd., known for years as Mango's Restaurant, passed into new hands this year, and one way or another it has brought a new twist to a long and bitter fight involving many of the neighboring residents and the Plymouth Township government.

The location, if you're new here, is in that triangle west of town where Ann Arbor Rd. and Ann Arbor Trail meet just west of Beck Rd.

The blood of those who dwell in the high - priced homes of that area is hotter than ever because Supervisor Maurice Breen personally signed a building permit to allow continuation of repairs on the structure after the township's own building inspector, Ralph Alloway, had issued a stop order.

That little detail has the anti-Breen troops of the township board in an uproar, and Township Attorney Donald Morgan has been asked whether Maurie can get away with it. Morgan calculates that it may take him as long as a month to render an opinion.

Meanwhile, at what used to be Mango's and which soon will be called the Ann Arbor Road House, carpenters are hard at it -- and even were working Sunday -- as they race the clock in what basically is a legal quarrel as to what alterations are permissible on a structure that has a non-conforming use zoning status.



OBJECT OF CONTROVERSY in Plymouth Township is the former Mango's Restaurant at 47660 Ann Arbor Rd., now being given a face-lifting by new owners. The basic issue is whether "structural changes" are being made in violation of the establishment's non-conforming zoning district status. (Observer photo by Bob Woodring)

FRANK AND JULIA MANGO bought the original acre of the tavern in 1955, later acquired two adjoining parcels for a total site of about four acres, and in 1962 were issued a Class C license which permits the sale of liquor by the glass on the premises.

Along the way, the township passed a zoning ordinance, which among other things classified the area in which the restaurant was located as a residential district, thereby putting Mango's into the classification of non-conforming use.

That was the start of much woe for the Mango couple who wanted to make improvements to upgrade the establishment, but who were opposed by householders of the area who don't want a bar there at all.

The thing has been in and out of court a couple of times, but the Mangos never were able to turn their restaurant into a top-notch attraction primarily because of this paragraph in the zoning ordinance:

"No non-conforming building shall be enlarged or structurally altered except those required by law or ordinance, or such repairs required for safety or such repairs as may be necessary to secure or insure the continued advantageous use of building during its natural life."

The township's position was best defined in a Board of Appeals opinion of Dec. 9, 1969 which rejected proposed alterations because "the ordinance contemplates that non-conforming use will expire with the completion of the natural life of the building, and these improvements would extend its natural life."

THIS YEAR the Mangos sold out to George, John and Peter Ginopolis, James Capeneka and James Tsilis, operating as C.G.T., Inc., and both the township and Liquor Control Commission approved the transfer of the Class C license.

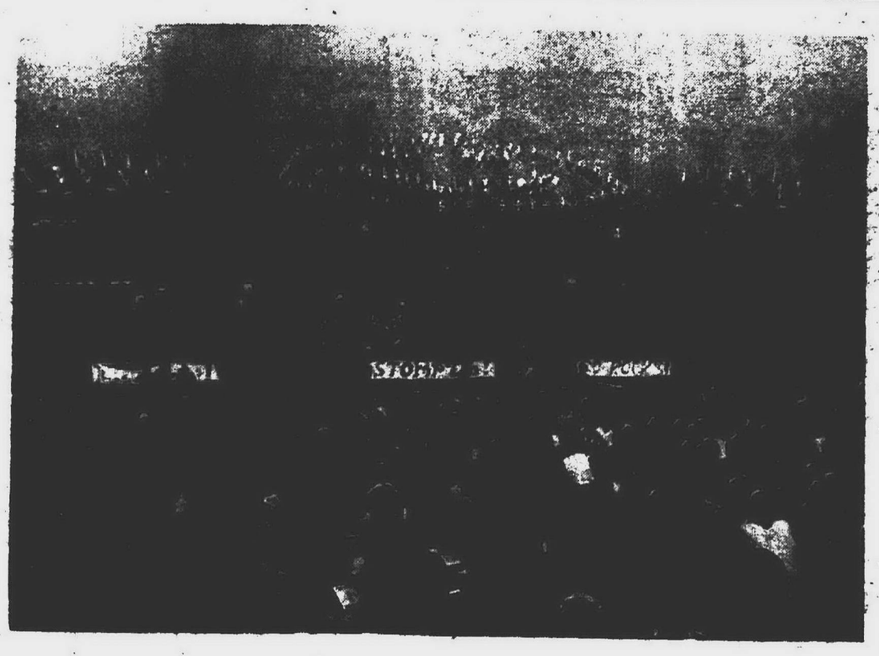
A new facade, roof, flooring and paneling of interior walls are in progress, with Breen's name on the permit. This has stirred up the folks who live nearby who insist that "structural" changes are being made in violation of the ordinance, and want the project halted.

Breen told them, "Nowhere is there an indication of a change of structure. On that basis I signed a remodeling permit which I feel I had the authority to do under the law. They have proceeded only with remodeling work, and nothing has been added to give life to the structure. Otherwise, I, too, would have denied the permit."

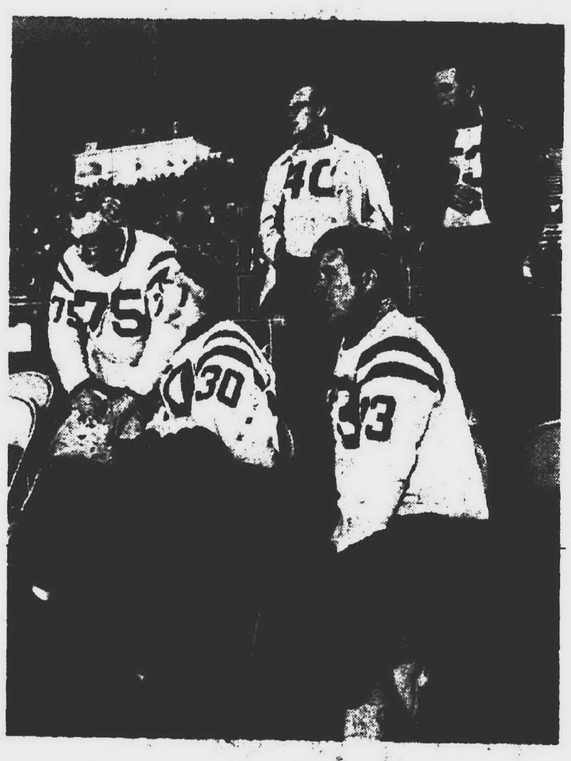
At the same confrontation, Alloway declared, "In my opinion there is a structural change, and I told you that."

Township Treasurer Elizabeth Holmes commented, "There are some things I don't like, and one of them is issuance of a building permit by anyone other than the building inspector." However, even she concedes that the whole thing needs legal interpretation, and that's to be the next chapter.

All the while, though, the face-lifting goes on and an eyesore is being beautified in just one more chapter of the turbulent history of that triangle. No doubt it will add another log to the fire that will make the 1972 township election a warm one.



FOG WHICH GREW HEAVIER as the game progressed spoiled spectator visibility, and the gridders of Edsel Ford handed Plymouth its third shutout of 1971, but still it was a successful night Friday as Plymouth High School opened its new football stadium for the first time. The reaction of the nearly 4,000 fans was highly enthusiastic, and school officials said there were nothing but compliments for the facilities, which would do justice to many a small college. (Observer photo by Harry Mauthe).



DAD'S NIGHT was picked for the opening of the PHS stadium, and fathers of the Rocks had honored places on the sideline as each wore a football jersey with numerals matching those of the sons, who lost to Edsel Ford, 22-0. (Observer photo by Harry Mauthe.)

New Commission Handed Charter Appeal Issue

PLYMOUTH — Decision on whether the City of Plymouth will appeal or passively accept, the federal court ruling which branded an entire section of the municipal charter as unconstitutional has been left to the new city commission which will be seated Nov. 8.

This was assured Monday night when, in the last meeting of its reign, the outgoing commission split 3-3 on a motion by Commissioner William Silvis which would have put the city on record as accepting U.S. Judge Damon J. Keith's verdict as final.

Voting for the motion were Silvis, Mayor James McKeon and Commissioner Norbert Battermann. Negative votes were cast by Commissioners Donald Bidwell, Robert Sincock and Harold Guenther, the motion failing because of the tie.

Commissioner Arch Vallier, for whom this would have been the final meeting of his eight years in city government, was absent.

At Guenther's request, the issue has been scheduled as an agenda item Monday. This is to be the organizational meeting for the new commission and will include swearing in of new members, plus selection of the mayor and mayor pro-tem for the next two years.

Silvis also proposed that the commission begin committee of the whole discussions on new wording of a section to replace that which Keith threw out, adding his hope that it be one "that can be upheld in court."

This undoubtedly will be done regardless of the decision on appeal, because City Attorney Charles Lowe advised, "As it stands now we have nothing at all in our charter regarding qualifications for candidacy."

THE SECTION which Keith ruled an unconstitutional had set residency of two years and local property ownership, also for a minimum of two years, as prerequisites for becoming a candidate for municipal office.

Seeking to establish conditions which will survive a court test is not as pressing as deciding whether to appeal Keith's ruling to a higher court. The city has only 20 days from the date the judge's order was entered into the records to decide that course.

"I don't think there's any chance of winning an appeal on the provision relating to property ownership, and no better than a 50-50 chance on the provision regarding residency," Lowe told the commission.

"As to whether or not you should appeal, this is a policy matter which you will have to decide," he stated.

KEITH'S opinion was handed down in a case started by Mahlon D. Green, a non-property owner who has lived in the city only since March, and it brought Keith's specific instruction to the city that Green's name be included on the Nov. 2 ballot.

Recalling that the Michigan Supreme Court upheld the charter when Peter D. Schweitzer challenged the property ownership provision, Lowe pointed out to the commission that the federal court ruling under the 14th amendment of the U.S. Constitution overrules "anything in our state constitution or city charter."

He added that since the Schweitzer case was settled there have been three other cases in the U.S. District Court of Eastern Michigan in which opinions have been handed down that were similar to Keith's.

THE SOROPTIMIST CLUB of Plymouth has joined with sister clubs throughout the world in planting an oak tree in their respective locales as a symbol of world peace. Participating with Mayor James B. McKeon in the planting of an oak at City Hall recently were, from the left, Soroptimists Virginia Bartel, Helen Van Dyke, Florence Nelson, Alta Moore, Mildred Field, Lorena Hubbs, Helynn Caplin, Roberta Orr, Willo Shirey and club president Lorraine Hendrickson.

Chamber Fete Is Nov. 11

PLYMOUTH — The Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce will celebrate its golden anniversary Thursday, Nov. 11 when the 50th annual banquet is held in the Mayflower Meeting House.

Joe Weaver, special projects editor of WJBK-TV (Ch. 2) in Detroit, will be the night's guest speaker and has chosen as his topic, "TV News—The Enigma of the News Business."

Another highlight of the program will be the introduction of the chamber's newly elected officers and directors, who will assume their duties Jan. 1.

Dr. Robert A. Petersen is now concluding his second term as president and other current officers include John Thomas, vice president; Fred Hill, treasurer, and Richard Anderson, secretary.

The banquet is open to men and women alike, including non-members of the chamber. A cocktail hour is scheduled to open at 6 p.m., dinner being scheduled for 7. Tickets must be ordered in advance through the chamber office in the Mayflower Hotel and are $7.50 each.

AREAS TO BE discussed by Weaver in his featured address include the expanding field of television journalism, controversial management of news, objectivity of reporters and editors, and where the government should draw the line in its attempts to control television news.

Weaver joined WJBK-TV news in 1963 after breaking into the broadcasting field in 1948 as a staff announcer at WTOD, Toledo. He worked both in Toledo and Fort Wayne over a period of years. In Detroit he has won numerous awards for his documentaries and reporting of special events.

Weaver's most recent accolade came from the Detroit Press Club Foundation which honored him for his special report on teenage drug abuse, "Flight From Sanity," a show which also brought his station the highly prized Press Club medallion award.

Weaver has reported on a variety of stories from all over the world. He was appointed head of the newly created special projects unit last February, and in this assignment Weaver and his staff concentrate on producing the special reports seen in newscasts, as well as special documentary programs.

Schrader Wins Naval Acclaim

Lt. Edwin A. Schrader Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Schrader Sr., 1348 Park Place, Plymouth, has been awarded the presidential bronze star medal for outstanding meritorious service in Vietnam.

Lt. Schrader, who returned home a few days ago after receiving his honorable discharge, also received the armed forces honor medal, a certificate of recognition for outstanding performance of duty and overall contribution to the efficiency, morale and accomplishment of the mission of Coastal Squadron One while engaged in combat operation in the Republic of Vietnam, and the Vietnamese armed forces honor medal, first class.

A graduate of Plymouth High, Schrader enlisted in the United States Naval Forces, Vietnam, and spent more than a year in actual combat.

LT. EDWIN A. SCHRADER JR.

THE BRONZE STAR citation from the president reads:

"For meritorious service while serving with friendly foreign forces engaged in armed conflict against the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong communist aggressors in the Republic of Vietnam from January to December 1970.

"While serving as an officer in charge of inshore patrol craft attached to Coastal Division Thirteen, Lt. (junior grade) Schrader participated in over 60 combat partols and engaged the enemy on several occasions in conjunction with operations Market Time, Sea Lords, Blue Shark and Tran Hung Dao XI and VIII.

"During these patrols, he boarded and searched numerous junks and sampans, interdicted cross river traffic, enforced curfew, inserted and extracted friendly forces in hostile territory and provided fire support for besieged units and outposts.

"By supervising the preparation of over 30 inshore patrol craft for turnover to the Vietnamese Navy, he significantly contributed to the accelerated turnover of United States Navy assets to the Vietnamese Navy program.

"Lt. (junior grade) Schrader's exemplary professionalism, devotion to duty and courage under fire were in keeping with the highest traditions of the United States Naval Service."

THE CITATION for the armed forces honor medal, first class, from the Vietnamese government reads:

"For tour of duty Jan. 30, 1970 to Jan. 22, 1971. During the time serving in Vietnam, Lt. Edwin Schrader, serving as captain of USN patrol PCF 99, has displayed true cooperation spirit.

"Paralleling with routine daily duties in unit, he has also resolutely joined work with the VN Navy and Infantry units, afforded useful initiatives in the staff works, operation and support.

"Besides, he has personally participated to diverse combined operations with the Republic of VN armed forces to support the program of pacification and the rural development. His brilliant works have combined to defeat the communists, to win the heart and the mind of the people in South Vietnam."

The citation is signed by Gen. Cao Van Vien and Lt. Gen. Nyguyen Van Minh.

Plymouth Brevities

AMERICAN LEGION auxiliary past presidents from Plymouth's Passage-Gayde post will be sending Christmas boxes to local servicemen overseas again this year, and need names and addresses from the parents no later than Nov. 15.

This information should be sent to the project chairman, Mrs. Marion Kot, 42036 Micol. In a similar undertaking a year ago the Legion ladies sent boxes to 18 Plymouth men in uniform abroad.

PLYMOUTH GRANGE 389 will be holding its annual bazaar and bake sale Saturday, Nov. 6 from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. in Grange Hall, 273 Union.

From 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. the Grange will be serving a special turkey luncheon for which the donation will be $1.50 for adults and 85 cents for children through the age of 10.

CARL BERRY, Plmouth youth officer, and James Doyle of the school district's administrative staff will discuss drug problems tonight (Wednesday) at a meeting of the Starkweather PTA.

The meeting will get under way at 8 p.m. at the Starkweather school and the public is welcome. Refreshments will be served at the conclusion of the program.

THE CHRISTMAS committee of the chamber of commerce has asked various organizations to offer volunters who will help put up the decorations this year. This work is supposed to start Nov. 15 and it's figured that volunteer labor will cut costs by $2,000.

Service organizations also are being asked to consider purchase of one figure each to complete the Nativity scene in Kellogg Park. Suggested items range from a shepherd kneeling at $245 to a wiseman standing for $295.

IF ANY LOSERS from Tuesday's city commission election are job hunting, there is this ad in the current issue of the Michigan Municipal Review under "positions open:"

"Administrative Aide – City of Plymouth. Pop. 11,758. Requires a practical knowledge of municipal govt. exp. Degree preferred. Desire person with imagination, ability to take charge of projects. Starting salary $11,000 Contact city mgr."

THE PRESCHOOL story hour at Dunning-Hough Library has proved so popular that Librarian Elizabeth Brownell had to divide the youngsters into two groups, one meeting Tuesday mornings and another on Wednesday mornings. It gives mothers a good chance to shop for an hour without the little ones tagging along.

Miss Brownell also reports that the American Legion recently donated a new 50-star U.S. flag to the library to replace the outdated 48-star flag which had been displayed in the adult reading area.

KENNETH VOGRAS, city DPW director, presents pretty good evidence that it was a warmer October than usual, and so does Mrs. Henry Rupert of Koppernick Rd.

Mrs. Rupert reports that her lilac bush bloomed last weekend, while Vogras says leaves started falling so late that DPW truck crews picked up only 20 loads during October compared to 135 during the same month last year.

Now Vogras is worried whether snow will interfere with the leaf collection problem in November.

PLYMOUTH JAYCEES had a real bonanza in that "haunted house" which they and their auxiliary, the Jaycettes, rigged up out on Ann Arbor Rd. last week as a halloween feature.

More than 5,000 persons went through the spook palace between the time it opened Tuesday and closed Sunday night. The money they raised will go to the support of the many projects Jaycees conduct for the good of the community.

CITY HALL is studying the site of the old water tower on Byron for the possibility of a new park.

It would be necessary to move some trees, fence some of the area and lay out the plan, but officials feel the idea would be well accepted in the neighborhood. An extra large sand box has been suggested as one possible feature.

ANOTHER IDEA being brainstormed in City Hall proposes passage of an ordinance which would eliminate the use of metal garbage cans. Polyethylene refuse base would then become mandatory.

Many cities across the country, including several in Michigan, already have taken this step. If Plymouth does it, too, the city would hope to sell cartons of bags to the residents at cost.

New Library Books

The Mayflower Button Club has given the Dunning-Hough library Sally Luscomb's "Collector's Encyclopedia of Buttons." This has information covering all periods, materials, and manufacturers of buttons.

"Jennie: The Life of Lady Randolph Churchill, Volume II," by Ralph G. Martin. This work continues the life of Lady Churchill. A capable and inventive businesswoman, she organizes and manages a hospital ship during the Boer War and travels with it to South Africa where both Winston and her younger son Jack are in combat.

"Wonderland," by Joyce Carol Oates. This books explores the sometimes dark, always mysterious, inner core of every human being–the place in which we come face to face with our private terrors and longings.

"They Call It A Game," by Bernie Parrish. This is an indictment of the pro football establishment; how it manipulates and protects its monopoly at the expense of the players and public.

The Stroller . . .

Problems Everywhere

By W. W. EDGAR

A fellow ofttimes can find himself in the middle of some unusual circumstances when he wanders away from the beaten path.

This was proven again to The Stroller a few days ago when, during a sojourn in Florida, he attended a meeting of the Rotary Club in Sarasota as a guest – to keep his attendance record intact.

After locating the hostelry in which the weekly meeting was to be held, he sauntered over to the hostess in front of the main dining room and asked, "Can you please tell me where the Rotary Club is meeting today?"

"I'd be glad to," she answered very matter of factly. "They'll be meeting with those S.O.B's in the rear dining room."

Well, The Stroller has visited many Rotary Clubs, but never with such a greeting. So he found his way to the rear dining room, and much to his surprise, everyone was wearing a big white badge with S.O.B. in red letters, instead of the customary Rotary badge.

For a time he wondered if he had made a mistake, but he had followed instructions to meet with those S.O.B.'s in the rear dining hall.

Almost too puzzled to ask, he sat at the dining table and enjoyed the companionship of the lads with the big, white badges and thought they were a happy lot of S.O.B.'s.

IT WASN'T until the weekly program started that the true meaning of the three red letters came to light.

"We are privileged today," the president said, "to have with us the chairman of the Save Our Bay movement to bring us up to date on the big task we have undertaken."

So that was it -- S.O.B. was something much more than the jocular meaning often given the three letters. These lads were proud to wear the letters and The Stroller learned, with some amazement, the problems that many of the Florida areas are facing.

"This is no easy task we are facing," the committee chairman stated, "for it means that, in order to save our bay, we must not only prevent any further reclamation of land, but we must battle the population explosion.

"We know," he went on, "that we can't deny any one the right to take up residence here, but we should discourage it as much as possible.

"If we permit many more to come in, they'll not only crowd us even more than we are, but they'll force the reclamation of land, help pollute the land we now have and the first thing you know we'll lose our bay."

THE STROLLER scarcely could believe what he was hearing. He couldn't help thinking that these S.O.B.'s were much like the American Indians of bygone days when white men came along to take their land and pollute the waters – and still are doing it.

As the meeting closed, the president came over and extended his hand, then asked, "Are you planning to be with us permanently?"

When The Stroller answered in the negative, the president countered, "We sure were glad to have you – as a guest."

The Sarasota Bay problem was only one of many The Stroller found on his journey into the sunny climes.

As a matter of fact, he felt right at home when reading in the public prints that there is a drive on to establish a new tax to help finance the schools, and another battle on along the west coast of Florida to establish county government as a means of solving many of the problems.

But the one that had the most unusual approach was the organization of the S.O.B.'s in Sarasota.

If only that enthusiasm could be instilled in Observerland there would be a better than even chance to make the Rouge River and its lakes a body of water of which we all could feel proud.

Warrant Charges Desertion

PLYMOUTH

While investigating a report of a disorderly person Saturday night, Plymouth police apprehended a man charged in an outstanding warrant with desertion from the U.S. Army.

According to police reports, Patrolmen Lawrence Ray and Roger Roy were dispatched to the corner of Wing and Deer about 10:20 p.m. Saturday to investigate the disorderly person report.

On arriving there, they observed James A. Micol and asked him for identification.

Micol's name was then checked by radio through the law enforcement intelligence network which showed he was charged with desertion in an outstanding warrant from the Army Provost Marshal, according to police, who called the provost marshals' office to confirm the warrant.

Micol, who gave his address as 673 Wing, Plymouth, was held until Monday when he was picked up by military police.

A HEALTHY SHOT IN THE ARM was given the Plymouth Community Fund campaign Monday when the Sheldon Rd. plant of the Ford Motor Co. presented a record donation of $30,066. This represented $26,566 pledged by hourly and salary employes and a corporate contribution of $3,500. Receiving the check is Tony Ruggerio (left), chairman of the industrial phase of the PCF drive, from Plant Manager R.C. Townships Still Have Rd. Patrol

"Therefore, I have asked Mr. Goodnow to do the basic research on the question of Wayne County responsibility for the sheriff's road patrol."

Breen indicated that had the commissioners not taken their last-minute action to provide an extension for the road patrol, his group would have sought an injunction against the board to force a court decision. Now, the supervisors have more time but still are intent upon eventual court action.

"The townships had been told that unless they ante up $189,000 per year per township, the road patrol would not be available," said Breen.

"This ultimatum was given by the Wayne County Board of Auditors on instruction from the ways and means committee.

"Our association intends to test the issue of county responsibility to local government if our attorney finds this to be a valid ground for a lawsuit. Wayne County's legal responsibilities to its unincorporated municipalities is the reason the supervisors first formed, and the immediate issue is that of the sheriff's road patrol."

8 Firefighters Learn Aid For Emergencies

Eight city of Plymouth firemen are attending a six-month long advanced emergency aid course at University and St. Joseph hospitals in Ann Arbor.

The "Basic Training for Emergency Medical and Ambulance Technicians" course is sponsored by the American College of Surgeons and includes course meetings at both Ann Arbor hospitals. Cetificates will be awarded to the participants upon successful completion of the course in May.

The Plymouth firefighters taking the course are: Lt. Charles Groth, Lt. Paul Sanders, Sgt. Roger Norris, Dale Bowerman, Alan Matthews, Robert Degen, John Morrissey and Donald Belsky.

His unit, the only patrol squadron on the east coast to receive the award, was cited for superiority in operations, readiness, competitive exercies, and overall performance during anti-submarine training operations.

He is a 1965 graduate of Plymouth High School.

Burk Suffers Knee Injury; Lost For Season

RU Loses Star Back; Parkers Triumph

By TOM DONOGHUE
Sports Editor

Redford Union's football season slipped away into the fog...

RU's star back Tom Burk was injured on the first play of the game, carried the ball four times for 28 yards and then limped off the field...his high school career ended.

And with Burk went RU's hopes for a perfect season and an undisputed Suburban Eight championship.

WITHOUT BURK, the Panthers challenged unbeaten, but once tied, Allen Park to a hard hitting, bitter battle before losing, 15-8.

Burk was hurt while blocking on the opening kickoff return. An Allen Park defender fell on his left leg tearing ligaments near the knee cap.

"It took our boys too long to adjust to not having Burk in there," said RU Coach Bob Atkins. "They were looking over their shoulder the entire first half."

"We started to get it together the second half," added Atkins, "But it was too late, the harm had been done."

ALLEN PARK'S star halfback, Don Trionfi, showed his ability the first time the Jaguars had the ball. He galloped for nine yards on the first play and followed with a 27 yard romp.

An RU offiside penalty moved the ball to the RU 39 and Brian Lott followed with a 24 yard run around end. RU's Scott Bjerke was the only thing between Lott and the goal line and he made the tackle but Allen Park was threatening in the opening moments on the RU 15.

Trionfi moved the ball to the RU six before a holding penalty pushed Allen Park back to the 22. Trionfi again drove for the Parkers but RU's Glenn Richmond halted the drive with a pass interception on the seven.

Allen Park drove into RU territory late in the quarter but another turnover stopped a scoring threat. Bill Humphrey recovered a fumble for the Panthers on his 19 and the first quarter ended with no score.

Trionfi carried 11 times for the Jaguars in the quarter for a total of 88 yards.

THE PARKERS took control with 10 minutes remaining in the half on the RU 43. Trionfi drove to the 34 for a first down but a penalty eased the drive back to the 36 after two running plays had picked up eight yards.

On a third and seven play, Trionfi broke loose for 20 yards and a first down on the RU 9.

Gil Barker finished the drive with a seven yard run around right end and the North Rips Eagles For Title

By TOM DONOGHUE
Sports Editor

North Farmington captured its second straight Northwest Suburban Conference championship with a 22-8 win over a "flat" Thurston squad.

The Raiders, who lost their league opener to Oak Park, rebounded with four straight wins while second place Franklin whipped Birmingham Groves 55-0 to finish 3-1-1 behind North's 4-1 record.

THE RAIDERS took control of the game midway through the first quarter and were never challenged.

A Thurston win over North would have resulted in a Franklin-Thurston first place tie. Thurston concluded league play with a 2-2-1 record.

A short Thurston punt set up the first Raider score with four minutes gone in the game. Brad Smith broke loose on a run around end advancing the ball from the 44 to Thurston's seven.

It took Craig Gow two plays to push the ball over, scoring on a six yard romp-up-the middle. A John Dwyer to Smith pass was deflected on the extra point play but North had the lead.

With one minute remaining in the quarter the Eagles were halted on their 25. Thurston's Randy Brewer booted a 40 yarder and North took over on its 35.

Sophomore Brad Pease took the ball on the first play and sprinted 65 yards around right end. Quarterback Marty Raymond went right up the middle untouched for a two-point conversion and North led 14-0, with 35 seconds gone in the second quarter.

Thurston drove to the North 36 late in the quarter but a Bob Graustein pass to Dave Harding was intercepted by Raymond on the five.

The Eagles took the second half kickoff and started driving into North territory. On a third and nine situation from the Raider 26, Graustein was dropped for an 11 yard loss attempting to pass, by linebacker Tom Fredricks.

On a fourth and 21 play, a Graustein pass intended for Greg Scott fell short.

NORTH FARMINGTON'S Bill Doerr unleashed a 54 yard punt halfway through the fourth quarter to push Thurston back on its two yard line.

Brewer punted the Eagles out of trouble but North's Bill Weaver returned the kick to the Raider 25 and North was on the move. A personal foul penalty advanced the ball to the 12 and Raymond spurted the distance for the third Raider score.

Brewer punted the Eagles out of trouble but North's Bill Weaver returned the kick to the Raider 25 and North was on the move. A personal foul penalty advanced the ball to the 12 and Raymond spurted the distance for the third Raider score.

A Raymond to Bill Gilmour pass play scored a two-point conversion and North led 22-0 with six minutes left.

THURSTON FINALLY put it together on a drive from its 26. Three Graustein passes and an interference call moved it to the North 30.

Graustein uncorked a pass to Bob Ghannam who was knocked flat by Raider back, Bill Weaver. The pass interference advanced the ball to the 15 where Mark Miller carried three times for the score.

Graustein connected with Harding for a two-point play and Thurston was on the board, still trailing 22-8.

North Farmington took control and ground out the clock.

Raymond hit on only one of four passes for North while Graustein connected on 17 of 30 but had three intercepted.

Pease was the game's leading rusher with 117 yards in 13 carries.

North entertains crosstown rival Harrison Saturday afternoon in a battle which pits two league champions Harrison captured the Western Six Conference with a 35-0 win over Walled Lake Western.

GC West Wins Sixth; Awaits Taylor Battle

It's Garden City West and Taylor Kennedy Friday in the Tri-River League show-down.

West clinched at least a tie for the crown with a 44-20 win over Cherry Hill while Kennedy squeaked by Southgate 10-7 on a 42 yard field goal.

West stands undefeated with a 6-0 record and Kennedy holds a 5-1 record with Friday's clash wrapping up the Tri-River Conference play.

Melvindale is still in the running for the crown tied with Kennedy for second at 5-1, after a 28-0 lashing of Southgate.

WEST TOOK an early 6-0 lead over Cherry Hill with Jim Simms breaking loose on the third play from scrimmage for a 76 yard touchdown romp.

The Tigers scored twice in the second quarter before Cherry Hill could get on the board. A penalty on a punt return gave the ball to West on its eight.

Dave Wiacek passed to Tom Wolfrom who romped 92 yards for a score. Wiacek passed to Kim Murray for two points and West led 14-0.

Simms scored his second touchdown midway through the second on a 54 yard gallop with Wiacek connecting with Kurt Lewis on a two-pointer to put West up 22-0.

Cherry Hill rebounded in the closing minutes of the first half on a 32 yard TD pass from Bob Dunsmore to Tim Croft. The combination of Dunsmore and Croft accounted for a two point play and the score stood 22-8 at the half.

West accounted for 254 yards rushing and 124 passing the first half compared to 42 rushing and 84 passing by Cherry Hill. Simms carried the ball 13 times for 149 yards.

CHERRY HILL received the second half kickoff but West took over on the Cherry Hill 32 after Tiger Tim Dybas returned an interception 31 yards. A face-mask penalty moved the ball to the 17 and Simms took it the rest of the way scoring on a five yard run making it 28-8.

Cherry hill scored in the final minutes of the third quarter on a Dunsmore to Barry Coughenour 44 yard pass capping a 69 yard march. The point after was missed and West led 28-14.

An attempted onside kick by Cherry Hill backfired with the kick going off to the side and deflecting off a Cherry Hill player for a 7 yard kick giving the ball to West on the Cherry Hill 33.

Wiacek combined with Steve Jacunski for a 12 yard TD pass and Ken Yeager ran the extra point to boost the lead to 36-14.

The Tigers drove 47 yards early in the fourth with Wiacek going over from the one and Yeager running the two-point play to put West up 44-14.

Cherry Hill salvaged a touchdown in the final minutes on a 54 yard pass from Dan Corp to Mark McIntyre. The point after failed and the score stood at 44-20.

Cherry Hill totaled 10 first downs to nine by West but the Tigers capitalized on long gains over winless Cherry Hill.

WEST OUTDISTANCED Cherry Hill in rushing 326-115 but fell behind in the passing department; eight for 15 for 156 yards while Cherry Hill had 10 for 19 for 198 yards.

The Tigers intercepted one Cherry Hill pass and recovered three of four Cherry Hill fumbles.

The game was marred by penalties with West collecting 119 yards including five holding errors to 100 yards marched off against Cherry Hill including three clips and one face-mask.

Simms carried 28 times for 218 yards and three touchdowns. This brings his total to 14 touchdowns and an average of 108 yards rushing per game.

Laughren's Three TDs Spark Glenn Victory

John Glenn wrapped up its Northwest Suburban League play with a 20-6 win over lowly Oak Park. Glenn finished third in the league behind North Farmington and Franklin with a 3-2 record.

The win over Oak Park added to the dedication celebration of the Irma E. Kiesha Athletic Field. The Rockets had played all home games on the Wayne Memorial Field since the school was established in 1964.

The Rockets rolled to a 14-0 halftime lead and added its third score late in the fourth quarter.

Senior running back, Jim Laughren, enjoyed his finest day as a prep footballer scoring all of Glenn's points on three touchdowns and two conversions.

Laughren scored on runs of eight and five yards and kicked two extra points in the first half to lift Glenn to a 14-0 advantage.

Oak Park bounced back in the third quarter on an 18 yard touchdown pass play from Ed Bradford to Lonnid Ford.

Laughren concluded the scoring in the fourth with a four yard gallop. The conversion attempt failed but Glenn was the victor 20-6.

Laughren rushed for 137 yards in 28 carries to lead the ground gaining attack.

Glenn hosts Robichaud Friday afternoon in its season finale and the Rockets hope to extend their win streak on the new gridiron.

Borgess Faces 'Must' Game

It's down to the wire for Bishop Borgess in the Catholic League West Division.

Borgess toppled Gabriel Richard 28-0 to stand 3-1 in league play. Aquinas and St. Francis Cabrini also stand 3-1 with all three wrapping up regular season play this weekend.

Borgess travels to Wisner Stadium to meet Pontiac CC Sunday; Aquinas plays Gabriel Richard and Francis Cabrini meets Dearborn Sacred Heart.

In case of a tie, the team with the most winning point margin wins the right to compete in the Catholic League championship against Brother Rice.

GOING INTO the last week Cabrini has 56 points, Borgess has 53 and Aquinas 44. A team cannot be allotted more than 21 points in any one given game, so if Cabrini downs Sacred Heart by more than 18 it wins the title.

"I think we have a real good shot at it," said Borgess Coach Fred Mushinki. "But we have to beat Pontiac by at least 21 points."

Borgess stands overall with a 6-1 record, losing two weeks ago to Cabrini.

BORGESS quarterback Jerry Sharon highlighted action against Richard with two short TD romps.

Borgess got on the board early in the first quarter with Sharon spurting four yards to cap a 55 yard drive. Sharon scored in the second on a one yard burst and followed with a two-point conversion to give Borgess a 14-1 haltime lead.

In the middle of the fourth quarter Mark Sapond went over from the three and Neil Falls ran the two-pointer and Borgess was up 22-0.

With seconds remaining Frank Knasiak returned a pass interception 26 yards for a touchdown and the gun sounded with Borgess up 28-0.

Neil Falls led Borgess rushers with 134 yards in 25 carries. Borgess gained 277 yards on the ground to 53 by Gabriel Richard. Sharon was five for seven for 40 yards passing while Richard didn't complete a pass in eight attempts.

GC East Routs Lutheran West; Needs Inkster Win For A Tie

Garden City East ripped Lutheran West 34-0 to move into a first place tie with idle Wayne in the Mid-Wayne Conference.

Both East and Wayne enjoy 4-1 records with Robichaud trailing at 4-2. Robichaud was knocked out of the running by Inkster in a 20-14 upset, after winning its first four league games.

East meets Inkster Friday while Wayne faces Annapolis.

"It's all up to us now," said East Coach Gary Humphrey. "If we win we are assured at least a share of the title."

"I just hope the team doesn't look by this game to the next," added Humphrey.

East plays West in the season's finale.

THE PANTHERS scored twice in the first quarter with Dennis Burton putting East on the board with a 41 yard TD romp capping a 70 yard drive. Rick Jose converted and East led 7-0.

Alex Patterson scored on a five yard run highlighting a 40 yard march and Jose converted to give the Panthers a 14-0 edge.

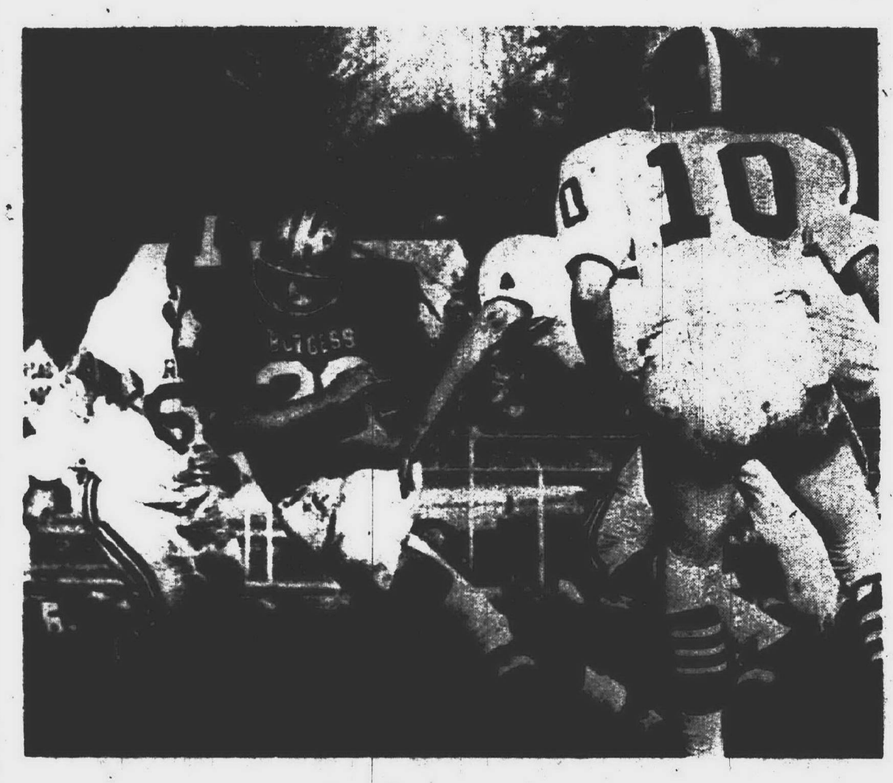
East came back with 13 points in the second quarter on a 41 yard gallop by Jerry Berger and an eight yard spurt by Burton. Jose added the extra point and East led at the half 27-0.

A 28 YARD TD pass from Dave Susewitz to Larry Bentley on a 50-yard march concluded the Panther scoring attack with Jose splitting the uprights on the PAT giving East a 34-0 margin.

Lutheran West threatened in the closing minutes but Andy Arena intercepted a pass on the East 10 to halt the only scoring drive West could put together.

Burton totaled 121 yards in 17 carries and raised his year's touchdown production to 11.

East out totaled Lutheran West in yardage 380 to 121, with quarterback Steve Orr going seven for nine collecting 60 yards in the air.



BIG HOLE for Mark Szpon, of Borgess, as he breaks through Gabriel Richard line for a long gain as his team rolled to its sixth victory in seven starts. (Observer photo by Harry Mauthe)

Has Racing Commissioner Leo Shirley won his battle to force the board of directors of the Hazel Park Racing Association out of the business?

Shirley has been hammering away at the Hazel Park executives for several months...ever since three of the top brass allegedly became involved in federal indictments.

He asked for the resignation of track president Anthony Zerilli, executive vice president Jack Tocco and secretary Peter Bellanca from their positions although all three remained as directors.

Later Tocco was cleared of the charges while Zerilli and Bellanca remain under indictment in Los Angeles for allegedly having concealed ownership in a Las Vegas hotel and gambling casino.

All of which again brings up the question of whether Shirley was won his fight.

The reason...Hazel Park's managment has announced plans to sell the track to Southfield developers Herbert Tyner and Bernie Hartman for $14,430,000, representing approximately $11 per share.

The management made it known more than two years ago that it would sell "if the price was right." Apparently the negotiations with the Southfield duo reached that level and all that remains for the transfer is the approval of the stockholders.

Other than the bare announcement of the prospective sale, no details were provided pending completion of all the details necessary for the transfer of the track's assets.

HARTMAN and Tyner, both 40, have been active in the real estate field for almost 20 years.

They have been responsible for the construction of apartment developments such as Knob in the Woods, Colonial Village, Franklin Hills and Lancaster Hills.

Neither has ever been involved in horse racing or sports of any type.

With a change in ownership, it will be the second time in less than four years that the area's major racing plants, the Detroit Race Course and now Hazel Park, changed hands.

A syndicate headed by Jack Davis, retired Ford Motor executive, and Frederick Van Lennep, president of Wolverine Harness Raceway, a tenant of the Detroit Racing Association, purchased the plant and facilities from R.E. Dale Shaffer.

The price was never announced but was rumored to be $15,500,000.

Just a few days ago, the Racing Commissioner indicated he would approve dates for both thoroughbred tracks with Hazel Park accepting an additional 12 days the DRA didn't feel it could handle in 1972 due to the highway conditions.

Shirley also indicated he would announce all dates some time this week. It remains to be seen whether the new development will force him to delay the announcement until later.

MEANWHILE, Wolverine Raceway rang down the curtains on its second most successful campaign in history. It was an amazing year for the harness track which came within an eyelash of equalling last year's all-time high wagering.

With business conditions as they are, it was thought Wolverine would show a decided dip in handle and attendance. True enough, the crowds were down about three per cent from a year ago but betting was down less than one per cent.

It will be interesting to see if the impetus created at Wolverine will carry over to the Jackson-at-Northville meeting which opened Monday with a crowd of 2,564 and a handle of $234,427. Competition from the Lions-Green Bay televised game had to hurt but the real test comes when Jackson clashes head-on with Windsor. That was to start Tuesday night.

A closing night of 9,315 sent $740,795 through the mutuel machines at Wolverine for the best finale in history.

It gave the track a nightly average of $571,564 compared to the record $572,793 for 60 nights in 1970. Wolverine had a 76-night meeting this year.

Wagering totaled $43,438,890.

Total attendance was 563,965 for an average of 7,421. A year ago for 60 nights, the total was 473,157 and an average of 7,886.

The winner will be announced early next year.

North Girls Take League Swim Crown

The North Farmington girls' swim team captured seven firsts of 10 events to win the annual Northwest Suburban League meet.

North totaled 99 points with Birmingham Groves second with 91. Franklin followed with 51 trailed by Oak Park with 19 and John Glenn with 16 points.

North Farmington set three league records: S. Siarto in 100 breaststroke; A. Bertsch in 100 freestyle and L. Shakotko in the 100 backstroke.

Northern Too Much For Falcons, 32-6

Farmington stumbled to its third Interlakes defeat at the hands of Pontiac Northern in a 32-6 league finale.

The Falcons closed out conference play below .500 ball with a 2-3 record and stand 3-4 overall with two games on tap against Southfield and North Farmington.

NORTHERN STRUCK first with Dan Mathews romping 12 yards to give the Huskies a 6-0 first quarter lead.

Farmington evened it up in the second with Dan Feiten capping a 50 yard drive on a two yard plunge.

Pontiac captured a 12-6 halftime advantage with Bobby Chism passing 48 yards to George Washington. Falcon Mike Eyeleth deflected the pass but Washington hauled it in for a score.

Farmington's Kevin Ratliff fumbled on the first offensive play in the third quarter and Northern recovered on the Falcon 12. John Smith made good the Farmington turnover and Northern led.

Farmington received the kickoff and once again fumbled deep in its own territory with Jeff Baker losing the ball on the 15. Chism connected with Mathews for eight yards and a 26-6 lead.

The Huskies concluded their scoring in the third quarter on a 28 yard TD pass from Chism to Ken Duff.

FARMINGTON WAS outrushed by Pontiac 148-100 and outpassed seven of nine for 123 yards to Farmington's nine of 18 for 84 yards. Four of Tony Wenson's passes were intercepted by Pontiac and all three of Farmington's fumbles were lost.

"It was a simple story of nobody able to hang onto the ball," said Farmington Coach Hal Beardsley.

MSU Junior Outstanding

Michigan State junior middleguard Ernie Hamilton turned in an outstanding performance in the Spartans' losing effort at Georgia Tech. He was credited with 14 solo tackles and assists on five others.

Harrison Wins First Loop Crown

Farmington Harrison climaxed its second year of football with a 35-0 win over Walled Lake Western, and the Western Six Suburban Championship.

Harrison captured the league title with a 4-0 record, ahead of defending champion Waterford Mott at 3-1. Mott closed out its season with a 31-3 triumph over Northville. Harrison toppled Mott a week ago 13-0.

"This has been a very rewarding season for us," said Harrison Coach John Herrington. "We lost seven starters before the season even started but our juniors have really produced."

"Our starting quarterback, Rick Hughes, moved to Colorado right before the season," added Herrington. "He is the third leading scorer in Colorado prep ball this year."

"We have come a long way this year and in the last three games our defense has been given up only one touchdown."

AGAINST WALLED LAKE, Harrison converted four pass interceptions into Hawk touchdowns.

John Kluf gave Harrison a 6-0 lead in the first quarter with a 20 yard pass interception return.

Early in the second quarter Dave Manos picked off a Walled Lake pass for Harrison on the Western 30. Chris Pagnucco threw his first of two scoring passes, a TD pass to Craig Perkins on a 25 yard play. Manos passed to Dennis Thibodeau for a two-pointer and Harrison led 14-0.

Midway through the quarter, Harrison's Dave Norton intercepted a Western pass on its 35 and returned to the 20. After being pushed back, Pagnucco connected with Perkins again for a 20 yard touchdown. Manos ran a two-point play and the Hawks were up 20-0.

MANOS TALLIED two touchdowns in the third quarter to conclude the Harrison scoring attack. He intercepted a pass and returned it 75 yards for a TD with Sam Pink converting, and climaxed a 42 yard drive with a nine yard spurt and converted a two-point play.

Walled Lake's deepest penetration was to the Harrison 23 late in the third quarter.

Harrison totaled 15 first downs to Walled Lake's six. The Hawks outdistanced Western on the ground 139 yards to 58 and in the air 61-10 on five of 12 passes. Harrison intercepted three while Walled Lake picked off one.

Manos picked up 80 yards in 20 carries to lead the Hawk rushers.

Harrison meets with rival North Farmington Saturday in a contest which pits two league champions.

Grid Ratings

Southfield Lathrup rolled to its 15th straight win in a 49-0 rout over Waterford and holds a slight edge over undefeated Brother Rice for the No. 1 spot in the Observer and prep grid ratings.

Lathrup successfully defended its Inter-Lakes championship with a 5-0 record, while Rice clinched at least a tie for the Catholic Central Division title in a 30-6 conquest over Catholic Central.

Redford Union dropped its first game of the season in a 15-8 heartbreaker to Allen Park. The Panthers, now 6-1, slipped to the No. 3 spot.

Defending state champions, North Farmington, captured the Northwest Suburban Conference with a 22-8 win over Thurston; dropping the Eagles to the No. 9 spot. The Raiders stand 6-1 with the Oak Park loss sticking out like a sore thumb.

Garden City West clinched at least a tie in the Tri-River league by overpowering Cherry Hill 44-20, and Franklin held onto the No. 6 spot with an impressive 55-0 show over Birmingham Groves.

Borgess shut out Gabriel Richard 28-0 for its sixth victory and Garden City East slipped ahead of Thurston with a 34-0 win over Lutheran West. East is tied with Wayne for the league lead entering the final week of play.

Farmington Harrison moved into the No. 10 spot, knocking out St. Agatha which lost to St. Thomas. Harrison won the Western Six crown with a 35-0 win over Walled Lake Western.

Bentley Drops Scoring Fray

Bentley dropped a 29-14 contest to Belleville to stand 1-4-1 in the Suburban Eight Conference.

BELLEVILLE TALLIED with one minute gone in the game on a 77 yard drive capped by a two yard run by Mike Dansard. Les Crawford converted to give the Tigers a 7-0 lead.

Bentley captured the lead at the 3:19 of the third quarter on a four yard quarterback option run by Brian Gates. Bob Wasiewski ran the two-point play and the Bulldogs led 8-7.

Four minutes later Belleville struck back with Dansard scoring from the two capping a 58 yard march. Dansard converted and Belleville was up 15-8.

Early in the fourth quarter, Dansard scored again on a five yard run finishing a 69 yard drive, and the Tigers were on the move, 22-8.

DANSARD, who performed a one-man show for Belleville, intercepted a Gates pass and returned it 57 yards for his fourth touchdown. The extra point was good and the Tigers jumped out 29-8.

Bentley came back with three minutes remaining with Bob Deacon passing 18 yards to Bob Wasilewski. The conversion failed and the score stood at 29-14 when the gun sounded.

Chargers Tip Utica, 14-8

Churchill scored two touchdowns in the first half and held off a driving Utica Eisenhower to capture a 14-8 victory and place its season mark at 4-3.

The Chargers completed Western Six competition with an even 2-2 mark and play their season's finale Friday afternoon at home with rival Franklin which stands 6-1 on the year.

Churchill tallied midway through the first quarter with Gary Corte recovering a Utica punt fumble on the 11.

Phil Damaska, who only a week before scored the game's solo touchdown against Walled Lake Western, romped 11 yards and Ernie Comini converted to put the Chargers up 7-0.

Two minutes into the second quarter, Churchill marched 50 yards with Damaska going over from the nine for his second TD. Comini split the uprights and the Chargers were on top to stay 14-0.

Churchill's Nick Crom stopped a Utica drive with his 12th career interception.

WITH FOUR minutes remaining in the game Utica drove 60 yards climaxed by a one yard plunge by Kim Humphreys. He also scored on a two-point play to cut the Charger lead to 14-8.

Utica attempted an onside kick but Churchill covered and ground out the clock to win its second non-league contest.

"The fog was really bad on the field," said Churchill Coach Ken Kaestner. "At one time you couldn't even see the scoreboard."

Churchill rushed for 218 yards and passed for 27 on three of six passes with one interception. Utica gained 117 yards on the ground and passed for 49 on four of nine tosses.

Damaska led all rushers with 107 yards in 13 carries to set a Churchill record.

Ford Blanks Rocks, 22-0

By FRED DELANO

After suffering their third shutout at the hands of the Suburban Eight's trio of major powers, Plymouth's Rocks will close out their league schedule Friday in quest of a second division victory over Livonia Bentley. Kickoff will be at 7:30 p.m. on the Bulldog gridiron.

Edsel Ford was the latest to whitewash the Rocks, spoiling Plymouth's opening of its new stadium with a 22-0 pasting which saw quarterback Mike Booth steal the fog-bound show as he had a hand in all 22 points.

BOOTH RAN 16 yards for the first Edsel Ford score, passed two yards to Randy Owen for the second and then pitched six yards to Ralph Plummer for the third as the visitors tallied in the first, second and third quarters. He also threw successful passes for a pair of two-point conversions.

The nifty quarterback personnally accounted for more than 170 yards on running plays, including sprints of 50 and 71 yards, as he was instrumental in boosting Edsel Ford's league record to 4-1-1 and dropping Plymouth to a 2-4-0 mark.

Plymouth had two good scoring chances in the second period when trailing 14-0, but couldn't cash in on either.

One of Steve Robb's two interceptions of the night put the Rocks on the Ford 39 yard line, and Jim Szilagyi, Carl Herter and Mike Tiano sparked a nine play march to the seven before it was thwarted by a fumble. Biggest gain in the drive was a 13-yard aerial from Szilagyi to Steve Crowther.

IN THE WANING moments of the half Szilagyi's passes to Ron Egloff and Crowther gave the Rocks a first down on Ford's one-yard-line, but two successive quarterback sneaks were stopped cold and time ran out to preserve Ford's 14-0 edge at the intermission.

In addition to Robb's two interceptions, Bob Harteg, Scott Bacon, Rick Grimes, Mike Henry and Mark Allen all threw Edsel Ford backs for losses.

Plymouth lost one of its best defensive backs, Dave Hees, for the balance of the season when the senior star suffered a broken collar bone.

Ski Heil

By

BILL CAMERON

Where can you find 75 of the most intelligent, beautiful, gregarious, citizens of Observerland each Tuesday or Thursday evening?

Where else but at the Livonia Family Y participating in our pre-ski conditioning class. The response was more than we had planned on, almost doubling last year's registration.

It proves that people are becoming more fitness-conscious. It also proves that misery loves company. A physical fitness program is great for the other guy.

The discipline required to maintain an individual program is generally lost on skiers. They are usually extroverted, fun-loving people who prefer group activity and the company of others. It's not true that they enjoy watching others suffer. (The instructer may enjoy it.)

Exercise should be fun. Probably the most beneficial exercise known, and the least practiced in this country, is walking. If one stops to think about it, one soon realizes that reducing and weight control do not require a strenuous, punishing program.

Most overweight individuals are overweight because they eat too much and exercise too little. In a pound of body fat there are approximately 3500 calories. When you eat 3500 more calories than your body needs, you store that pound. If you burn up 3500 calories you lose that pound.

From a time standpoint, if you eat 117 calories more per day than your body needs, you will gain a pound a month. If you burn those calories you will lose a pound a month, 12 pounds a year. If you walk 20 minutes a day (beyond your normal routine) you'll lose that pound a month.

We are the victims of the age of automation. "Why walk when you can ride?" "Let's drive a golf cart, it's easier and quicker." We abuse our bodies with drugs, gluttony, overindulgence.

LADIES, see you at the Fashion Show at the Family Y, Nov. 10. Find out how you too can become a skier, bring a friend. Donation of $1 per individual.

Stevenson, Lahser Tie For 'A' Title

By TOM DONOGHUE
Sports Editor

It's Livonia Stevenson and Bloomfield Hills Lahser to the state high school cross country meet Saturday at Washtenaw Country Club. The two finished in a first place tie in the Class A regional at Cass Benton Park with identical scores of 101.

Farmington closed behind Stevenson and Bloomfield Hills with 103 points. Churchill was fourth with 152 followed by Franklin with 184 and Redford Union with 185.

RICK KRITZMAN, of Redford Union, paced the 140 runners from 20 schools, with a winning time of 12:39. Stevenson's Dave Mathia placed second in 12:41 followed by Dennis Kurtis of Churchill with 12:50.

Following Mathia down the line for Stevenson were Bill Walker, 16th; Paul Walcheski, 26th; Kevin Maly, 28th; Pat Opsommer, 29th; Rick Galindo, 45th; and Tim Duffy, 54th.

Spartan Coach Paul Holmberg was surprised at Churchill's fourth place finish, 51 points off the pace.

Churchill, favored team in the meet, ran into some bad luck near the two-mile mark as its fifth man, John Kaminski, blacked out and fell to the ground.

Kaminski got up and finished the last half mile. "I don't know how long I laid there," said Kaminski. "I got up and just started following people."

He managed to finish 125th out of the 140 places with Churchill's sixth man Mark Johnson taking the Charger fifth position with an 84th place finish.

If Kaminski had not fallen and placed in the top 33 Churchill would have taken the honors. With one-half remaining in the race, Kaminski was in the top 15 before he fell.

The following individual runners all qualified to run in the Saturday state finals:

1. Rick Kritzman 12:39 Redford Union
2. Dave Mathia Stevenson
3. Dennis Kurtis Churchill
4. Mike Manz Bloomfield Hills Lahser
5. Dan Henry Bloomfield
6. John Dawe Franklin

8. Steve Sosler Thurston
9. Mark Kobylarz Churchill
10. Pat Rosin Bentley
11. Jay Kershenbaum Bloomfield Hills Lahser

Franklin Smothers Groves

By TOM DONOGHUE
Sports Editor

Franklin wrapped up its Northwest Suburban League play with a 55-0 romp over Birmingham Groves. The Patriots finished 3-1-1 behind North Farmington at 4-1.

Against Groves, Franklin tallied 13 points in the first quarter, 28 in the second, and seven in each of the last two quarters to hand Groves its fourth league defeat against one win.

Mark Newman, John Piippo and Ken Yuhasz scored two touchdowns apiece for Franklin which stands at 5-1-1 overall.

The Patriots conclude their season Friday afternoon at Churchill.

FRANKLIN GOT on the board the first time it had the ball with a 35 yard drive in 10 plays. Piippo went over from the four and Franklin led 6-0.

Franklin came back the second time it had the ball with a 32 yard drive in three plays following a bad Grove's punt. Yuhasz's 22 yard TD romp and Dave Morrison's conversion gave Franklin a 13-0 first quarter lead.

The third time the Patriots got control of the ball, John Casey tossed a 50 yard touchdown pass to Yuhasz to conclude a 64 yard march in four plays and give Franklin a 19-0 lead.

Franklin could do no wrong as it stopped Groves and gained control for the fourth time in the game, with Robert Benedict intercepting a Birmingham pass on its 36. This time Franklin used seven plays to march off the distance with Dennis Schick plunging in from the three.

Guy Burke ran a two-point play and Franklin was up 27-0.

The first four times Franklin got the ball it had marched 188 yards scoring four touchdowns in 24 plays.

WITH THREE MINUTES remaining in the half, Neuman intercepted a Groves pass and returned 32 yards for Franklin's fifth score. Morrison converted to make it 34-0.

Franklin kicked off and Groves started moving but Newman again intercepted a pass and this time gallopped 75 yards for a TD with Morrison converting to give the Patriots a 41-0 halftime showing.

Franklin's Chuck Quinn intercepted a Birmingham pass with four minutes remaining in the third quarter. Casey took over and marched his squad 24 yards in six plays; scoring on a 13 yard spurt. Morrison kicked the extra point to make the score, 48-0.

With three minutes left in the onesided contest, Piippo went over from three yards out to score Franklins eighth touchdown. The run sparked a 57 yard drive in 12 plays. Morrison split the uprights for the fifth time to conclude the scoring at 55-0.

Casey was 9-14 for 137 yards while Dale Petroskey had a rough afternoon for Groves going 2-12 for 12 yards and having four intercepted.

Franklin rushed for 230 yards in 43 carries to 66 yards for Groves in 46 carries. Each team fumbled three times with Groves losing the ball once.

Piippo led the Patriots in rushing with 91 yards in 15 carries followed by Schick with 60 yards in 13 carries.

RU Loses Its Star; Game To Allen Park

Parkers were on the board. Trionfi scored a two-point play and Allen Park was ahead 8-0 with seven minutes to play in the half.

RU did not challenge in the first half and the score stood at 8-0 Allen Park.

The Panthers offensive unit didn't move the ball into Allen Park territory the first two quarters. Field position told the story for RU as it was always deep in its own territory when it took control of the ball.

Allen Park rushed for 168 yards and eight first downs compared to RU's 44 yards and two first downs.

LATE IN THE third quarter RU started to move. The Panthers had the ball on its 32 with a first down situation when Glenn Richmond dropped back to pass and was hit with his arm cocked to throw. Barker hit Richmond andfell on the loose ball to give Allen Park possession on the RU 31.

Parker QB Neal Leonhard carried twice to the RU five on runs of 11 and 15 yards. Leonhard was thrown for a loss to the six and then to the 10.

On a third and 10 play, Trionfi drove to the three before being stopped by four RU defenders and the third quarter ended with the halftime score of 8-0.

On the first play of the fourth quarter Trionfi went up the middle for Allen Park's second touchdown. Frank Mohasci converted the extra point and the Parkers led 15-0.

RU's defensive lineman, Ron Responds came off the field saying "Coach, we can't see out there." The fog was getting heavy and it was almost impossible to follow the play from the sidelines.

On the touchdown romp, the announcer blurted out "They are in the fog - we will have to wait to call it."

RU bounced back with a 74 yard drive that ate up three and one half minutes.

Richmond went to the air hitting Bob Eland for eight yards and Scott Bjerke for five. On a keeper Richmond carried for 10 to midfield and it was back to the aerial assault.

He connected with Joe Randolf for 13 and Bjerke again for 20 yards on the Parker 17. On a fourth and nine play, Richmond pounded down to the one yard line.

Tom Tullock was stopped at the goal line but Richmond went over on the following play on a quarterback sneak.

Richmond connected with Eland for a two-point play and RU was back in the game trailing only 15-8.

Allen Park outrushed RU 288 to 105 but RU had control of the passing game with Richmond hitting on eight of 15 for 90 yards while Leonhard of Allen Park went 0-1 with the one pass being intercepted by Richmond.

Trionfi led all rushers with 186 yards in 31 carries.

NEW PLYMOUTH K mart store is at Ann Arbor and Haggerty roads.

K mart Opens In Plymouth

Nov. 4 is the grand opening date for the new Kmart discount store on Ann Arbor and Haggerty roads in Plymouth Township. Construction cost was nearly $1 million.

It will be one of 1,100 stores operated by S.S. Kresge Co., headquartered in Detroit and founded 72 years ago.

Opening next door will be a 20,000 square foot Wrigley Food Market, operated by Allied Supermarkets.

Manager Eugene W. Looser, previously manager of a Bay City outlet, said that more than 150 area residents will be given employment by the new store.

The store will carry appliances, furniture, building tools and supplies, floor coverings, household furnishing, clothing, jewelry, camera supplies, books, records, pets and pet supplies, health and beauty aids. It will also have an automotive service center, sporting goods department and self-service snack bar.

The company leases the building, which was developed by Keywell & Rosenfeld of Southfield.

Housing Group In Big Novi Loss

A proposed low-income housing venture in Novi may cost a non-profit agency more than $1 million and never yield a single housing unit.

The project was planned by the Metropolitan Detroit Citizens Development Authority (MDCDA) but had to be abandoned when city officials, under great pressure from private citizens fearful of low-income housing and racial integration, denied an appropriate zoning change.

MDCDA's serious losses came to light in an investigating committee's report commissioned by New Detroit Inc.

SOMETIMES erroneously called a "new town," the Novi venture was one of five major objectives of MDCDA, which was founded in 1967 by the late Walter Reuther, UAW president; Detroit Edison Chairman Walker Cisler, and then-Mayor Jerome Cavanagh of Detroit.

If MDCDA attempts to sell the land, it will suffer a serious capital loss of $1.1 million plus $270,000 in interest and taxes over two years. If it hangs on, it will suffer additional losses of $135,000 in interest and taxes.

The investigating committee, headed by Richard Strichartz, director of Wayne State University's Center for Urban Studies, reported that MDCDA bought or optioned some 525 acres of land at $4,250 an acre and paid a $100,000 deposit. It did so prior to getting approval from the group's own executive committee and without the advice of land developers.

When it became clear that Novi would block the idea, MDCDA was faced with the options of either losing its $100,000 deposit or trying to complete the purchase and resell the land.

IT CHOSE the latter course, borrowing nearly $2.4 million at prime rates.

But attempts failed to sell the land, whose value has since been appraised at $3,000 to $3,500 an acre.

The investigative report shows that in four years MDCDA spent nearly $3.9 million to start or complete only 2,429 housing units. A similar group in Pittsburgh needed less than half as much, $1.6 million, to generate 4,000 units.

If approved by New Detroit, the study committee's report would result in MDCDA's being drastically reorganized into a small group of seven or fewer professional employes and a goal of 1,000 new and rehabilitated housing units a year.

The study committee said MDCDA, in its Novi venture, "made a mistake of buying part of the land outright and optioning the rest without conditions when the normal arrangement would have been to option it all subject to property rezoning and FHA approvals."

Senate Asks State Board To Appeal

LANSING

Sen. Carl D. Pursell (R-Plymouth) lauded Senate action in passing by an overwhelming 27 to 4 vote a resolution designed to guarantee the "traditional concepts of neighborhood schools in the United States."

Pursell's resolution put members of the Senate on record as "strongly" urging the State Board of Education to appeal a recent order of U.S. Judge Stephen Roth involving possible busing of pupils across school district lines in the Detroit area to achieve racial integration.

The State Board of Education earlier declined to appeal Roth's decision.

Pursell's resolution noted that the state board "has indicated it will attempt to carry out the order and, in doing so, will be embarking upon a questionable structure for education which could destroy the traditional concepts of neighborhood schools in the United States."

Supporting it were Observerland's three Democratic state senators—Daniel Cooper of Oak Park, David Plawecki of Dearborn Heights and William Faust of Westland.

ROBERT JENKINS, a veteran of 15 years in the grocery business, is manager of the new Wrigley's super market in Plymouth Township in the new K mart center at Ann Arbor and Haggerty Roads. Jenkins was previously manager of the Garden City Wrigley's.

Wrigley Sets 2 'Sprees'

The first lady in line at 9 a.m. Thursday will get a free "five-minute shopping spree" through the new Wrigley supermarket in Plymouth.

The second spree will be awarded next Thursday, Nov. 11, when the store opens at 9 to a person whose entry blank is picked from a hat. Blanks must be turned in by Nov. 9 for the Nov. 10 drawing.

The store is located at Ann Arbor and Haggerty Roads in the new Kmart shopping center.

The winner will be allowed to fill one shopping cart and may take only one item of a kind—for example, one ham, one loaf of bread, one turkey.

In addition, 300 helium filled balloons containing free gift certificates worth from $1 to $50 in value will be floating inside the store on grand opening morning Nov. 4. Customers age 18 or older may take them on a first-come, first serve basis with a limit of one to a customer.

The Green Thumb

By GEORGE ABRAHAM

Bonsai Art: Bonsai (pronounced "bone- sigh") is a Japanese word compiled of two characters meaning "tray" or "pot", and "to plant". Roughly you can translate it to mean a small tree in a pot or tray.

While everyone speaks of it as being a Japanese art, actually Bonsai culture originated in China and it was brought to Japan many centuries ago.

Is the average American equipped with temperament to practice bonsai? I doubt it, although many are interested in it and are attending workshops to learn this delicate and demanding hobby.

One of the membership rosters of a Bonsai society is this: "Bonsai is an art form which has developed and matured over the course of eight centuries. It is a miniature living tree grown to great age in a handful of earth in a shallow container, of perfect little proportions by the creation of its owner.

FREE: If you're interested in growing Bonsai, send me a self-addressed, stamped envelope for a copy of my guide, "How to grow plants Bonsai. While I'm not a Bonsai expert, I gathered information from specialists and put it together as best I could for the benefit of our readers.

WHY PLANTS change colors: Did a lot of your gladiolus change colors and did you wind up with a lot of white blooms this year? And did your garden mums show up a different color? Every year we try to explain why colors "change".

Actually, there's no change involved. What happens is that the "color" bulbs grow and become the stronger ones to multiply. Chromosome mosaic causes contagious variegated patterns in gladiolus, but some of these changes are attractive to customers. However, commercial growers cannot tolerate them because they act as mixtures and in time the infected glads become much shorter than normal ones.

There are several fungus diseases which kill off gladiolus corms. Garden mums and iris "change" for the same reason. Iris sometimes form seed which drops to the ground and produce different colors. With gladiolus, the colored ones are more susceptible to disease and the whites are more resistant.

GREEN THUMB CLINIC: A reader writes: "Is it all right to let our parsley winter over? Or should we sow new seed in spring?"

Answer: When parsley winters over, usually the old plants go to seed the following year and you lose out on fresh parsley. I'd sow a fresh batch of seed next year.

Grouping Activities Saves Time

An efficient home sewing center involves more than just an unused corner in which to set up the sewing machine.

The idea is to group activities and eliminate much time-wasting shuttling of clothing and equipment around the house.

One suggestion is to combine sewing and laundry facilities in one area so that ironing equipment always is handy to both, and clothes folding space also can be used for cutting out patterns. Mending also can be done handily before putting away laundered clothes.

BeamsLend Character

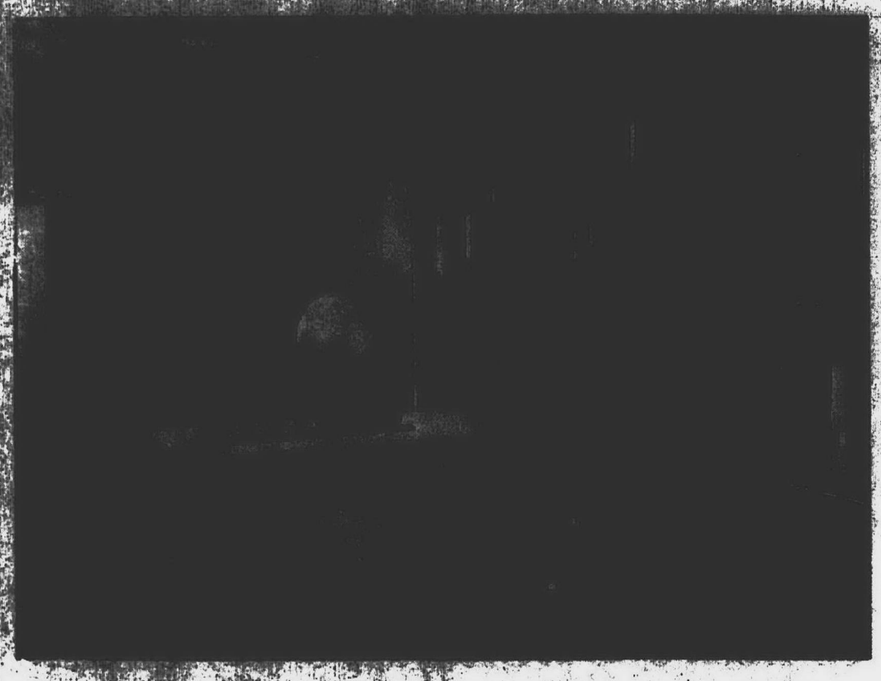
When remodeling or building a home, give special attention to ceilings. Rooms seem more spacious with high ceilings, and exposed beams over decking add design interest and character.

Beam construction can lend a simple, contemporary look or achieve a rustic hideaway throughout a house. Dramatic dimensions of light can be added with clerestory windows or skylights.

For colorfully illustrated ideas on "Wide Open Living in the Great Outdoors," send 15 cents in coin to Western Wood Products Assn., Dept. 332-P, Portland, Or. 97204.

FIX-IT TIP

If you move furniture around frequently, you may want to equip all the large pieces with casters. They are available in a variety of sizes, styles and materials. Use hard rubber on rugs, plastic on floors. Soft rubber might be marring and steel casters if they must roll on concrete.



FLEXIBLE HOME OFFICE is attractive, functional and quiet. This executive office area designed by Robert H. Kimes, NSID, features Masonite Corp. grooved siding on wall surfaces. Comfortable chairs behind the desk and around the table can serve for poker sessions on the exec's "night off."

Suburban Gardener

MSU Bulletins Aid In Choice Of Trees

By BETTY FRANKEL

Take a look up and down your street and note the different kinds of trees that you find growing in one rather small area.

If it is a city street you may find Norway maple, pin oak, honey locust, flowering crabs and many other varieties of trees both large and small. If it is a suburban street the list is even longer and might include sugar maples, silver maple, ash, linden, and horsechestnuts.

If you live on a country road the trees that line it might be quite different, large, or even a few die-hard elms.

There are hundreds and hundreds of kinds of trees that grow in Michigan. How do you know which to choose to plant in your back yard to shade the patio, or to put in the front of the house to enhance the front entrance?

The Michigan State University extension service has published several bulletins to aid the homeowner who is planning to buy a tree. These include "Michigan Trees Worth Knowing" which describes about 80 trees, and a new bulletin called "Selection of Shade and Flowering Trees."

HONEY LOCUSTS (Gleditsia triacanthos) are being widely planted as a substitute for American elms. These trees grow 70 to 75 feet tall with a crown open habit and small leaves that provide light, dappled shade. The bulletin lists nine different kinds of honey locusts which are thornless and seedless.

Best known is the Moraine locust with wide-spreading branches. Imperial is graceful with a straight trunk and spreading branches. Majestic is upright and compact. Shademaster is upright and Skyline is pyramidal. Sunburst is noted for the golden color of the new foliage, and Ruby Lace has leaves that are red in spring and bronze in summer.

Norway maples, (Acer platanoides) are popular shade trees. The species has dark green leaves and a round dense crown from 50 to 75 feet tall. Crimson King is a variety with wine-red leaves all season long. Faassen's redleaf is similar to Crimson King.

Drummondii has light green leaves edged with white, and Greenlace has finely cut leaves. Almira and globosum are small sized with round heads. Erectum is conical in form, and Columnare is upright and narrow.

Among the sugar maple (Acer saccharum) varieties, Globosum is slow growing and remains a small tree. Green Mountain has dark green leaves that color scarlet in Fall. Temple's upright and Sentry are upright columnar trees.

RED MAPLES (Acer rubrum) are noted for their brilliant red fall coloring. The named varieties have been chosen because of special color characteristics. Autumn flame is bright scarlet. October Glory has orange coloring in fall and the leaves hang on longer than most red maples. Scanlon has a pyramid form and Armstrong and Bowhall are slender and upright. Garling is a broad pyramid and Tilford is globe shaped.

White birch are small decorative trees that reach about 40 feet in height. The varieties pendula, Tristis, and Youngii have slender pendulous branches. Fastigiata is a narrow upright form, and laciniata has finely cut, lacy leaves. Purple splendor and purple glory have purple leaves.

Another good tree choice is the little leaf linden (Tilia chordata) which has small heart-shaped leaves. Chancellor and Greenspire are narrow and upright and Pyramidalis spreads wide.

The popular flowering trees each are available in numerous varieties, too. Choose the shape and size that fits the space you have. Varieties have been selected for special flower color or other flower characteristics as well as size and shape of the tree.

Twig Pruners At Work?

Twig pruners may be the culprits if you have been plagued by a scattering of fresh twigs on your lawn during the past several weeks.

According to Michigan State University entomologists, twig pruners are small borers that live in the center of small, growing, tree twigs. When the insects are fully grown, they partially cut the twig and then wait for a strong breeze to break off the weakened twig.

The borers hibernate in the fallen twigs during the winter and emerge as beetles the following summer.

Oak, hickory, maple and elm trees are the varieties commonly attacked by the twig pruner. This damage will not kill trees but can thin the tree canopy by pruning out small twigs.

To find out if twig pruners are causing your lawn clean-up problem, carefully split several of the fallen twigs and look for the borer.

Putting an end to twig pruner problems is best accomplished by burning all the fallen twigs. This breaks the insects' life cycle and reduces the number of beetles emerging next year.

Garden Reminders

It's late now to plant evergreens because they don't have time to make good root growth before winter . . . This is the ideal time to plant deciduous trees and shrubs. Their roots will grow some this fall and more in the spring before the leaves come out . . . It is safe to transplant large trees even during the winter. When the ground is frozen a truck can deliver the tree to the planting spot and not damage the lawn. Dig the hole in advance and fill it with water or prepare . . . [illegible] . . . Remove snow from the planting and fill it with water.

National Griffin Tribute In S'fld

The Raleigh House in Southfield will become the national capital of Republicanism next Saturday evening as GOP leaders hold a birthday salute to Sen. Robert Griffin (R-Mich.).

Griffin, No. 2 Republican in the U.S. Senate, will be celebrating his 48th birthday that day, and the local banquet hall will be the center of a radio-linked statewide affair.

In another local honor, the Thurston High School Band from South Redford School District will close the program with "God Bless America," accompanying Fat Bob, the Singing Plumber.

FOUR CABINET members, 17 senators and 13 representatives will fly from Washington Saturday, arriving at Metropolitan Airport at 3 p.m., and then scatter to various points around the state where they will be heard through the radio link.

Tickets at $150 a person and $300 a couple are available from the Bob Griffin Birthday Committee, 415 New Center Bldg., Detroit 48202.

Tickets for a VIP reception will be $250 a person and $500 a couple.

Cabinet members attending will be George Romney of HUD, John Mitchell of Justice, Elliott Richardson of HEW and James Hodgson of Labor.

Among entertainers will be Margaret Whiting and comedian Jud Strunk.

SIMILAR DINNERS will be held simultaneously in Alpena, Ann Arbor, Battle Creek, Benton Harbor, Coldwater, Flint, Jackson, Kalamazoo, Marquette, Midland, Muskegon, Port Huron and Traverse City.

Local congressmen Jack McDonald of Farmington and William Broomfield of Royal Oak will participate.

The immensity and cost of the affair are indication of the priority the GOP is placing on getting Griffin re-elected. Although he defeated former six-term Gov. G. Mennen Williams in 1966, Griffin faces an uphill battle for re-election, according to pollsters.

V.O. Valve Begun In Joint Venture

C.W. Morris Co., of Livonia, manufacturers of Quietaire pneumatic exhaust silencers, has entered into a joint venture with V.O. Corp., of Southfield, in the manufacture of lapped spool and sleeve air valves for industry.

The new firm is named V.O. Valve Co., according to Myles Bradley, Morris Co. president.

V.O. VALVE'S administrative headquarters and manufacturing operations will be located at 36740 Commerce, Livonia.

Studies indicating projected market expansion and diversification precipitated the move, Bradley said.

Joseph Rey, vice-president of sales for the Morris, also will assume the post of sales manager for V.O. Valve. Norman Van Husen, vice-president of V.O. Corp., will become manufacturing manager of the joint venture.

"The joining of these two firms will allow for expansion of engineering and manufacturing facilities, to better serve our valued customers. This physical expansion will better enable V.O. Valve to maintain its competitive sales position and expand within the increasingly demanding and sophisticated market," Rey said.

S'craft Leaders Set 'Retreat'

Nearly 50 students, faculty, trustees and administrators of Schoolcraft College will escape the pressures of the city for an informal retreat to discuss the future of the college.

College President C. Nelson Grote has been the force behind planning an overnight retreat at Waldenwoods Conference Center south of Flint for Friday and Saturday, Nov. 12 and 13. "I consider this to be essential to the future of the college," Dr. Grote said. "I personally am of the feeling that this is one of the best investments we can make."

PURPOSE is to identify major problems facing the college, establish priorities in which they should be considered and propose tentative solutions or alternatives.

Attending the retreat will be Dr. Grote, the eight board members, eight members of the administrative committee, eight administrators recommended by the Schoolcraft College Association of Administrative and Professional Personnel, eight faculty, eight students, and eight non-bargaining and bargaining non-academic personnel.

The meeting will be open to representatives of the press though the number of persons who can stay overnight is limited to 50.

Total cost for the weekend is anticipated at $875 which will be taken from the corporate account or the president's office account.

DB & T Buys SC Tax Notes

Detroit Bank and Trust Co. was low bidder for the purchase of $450,000 in tax anticipation notes for Schoolcraft College.

The board of trustees voted to let the bank purchase the notes at the 2.69 per cent interest rate proposed with maturity on May 1, 1972.

Other bidders included Michigan Bank with a proposed interest rate of 2.88 per cent and National Bank of Detroit with a 2.70 per cent interest proposal.

Bomb Thrown

Awakened by their dog's barking, the Adelard Dino family discovered a flaming Molotov cocktail on the driveway of their home at 17340 Roseland early Sunday morning, police reported.

As they looked from the window, they spotted two boys in the act of hurling a second one onto the lawn. Police described the missiles as glass bottles filled with a flammable fluid.

The boys escaped.

Ibsen Drama At Schoolcraft

The Masque Players of Schoolcraft College will take a look at the problems of woman's place in the home and in the world this weekend when they present Henrik Ibsen's drama, "A Doll's House."

The play will be staged in the Liberal Arts Theatre on Thursday and Friday, Nov. 4 and 5, at 8 p.m., and Sunday, Nov. 7, at 7 p.m.

Tickets, at $1.50, are available in the campus bookstore, the student activities office and at the door.

"A DOLL'S HOUSE," written in 1879, is being revived currently in various parts of the country, including the John F. Kennedy Center of the Performing Arts in Washington, D.C.

Plot of the story centers around Nora Helmer, who lived a sheltered life with her father and later with her husband. She was not permitted to "acquire a broad education or even to master the elementary realities of the social world."

She committed forgery to obtain a loan with which she could save her husband's life.

Because of the complications which ensued, Nora felt she needed to learn something about the world at large, and she could only accomplish this if she walked out on her husband Torvald and her children.

SHE FEELS that her husband has her locked up in a "doll's house" where she is expected to be "pretty and playful, submissive and mindless."

Ibsen's play became a burning issue in his time, just as women's liberation is today.

The cast includes Karen Schmidt, as Nora; Mark Kellman as Torvald Helmer; Sandy Richmond as Christine Linde; Larry Gilbert as Nils Krogstad; Tom Bienias as Dr. Rank; Brenda Clem as Anne; Cheryl Smith as Helen; Gary Martel as Porter; Brian Hulslander as Ivar; and Cynthia Price as Emmy.

Dr. Lawrence Rudick is drama adviser for the play.

APPEARING TOGETHER in the play "A Doll's House" are Schoolcraft students Sandy Richmond and Karen Schmidt. The Ibsen drama will be presented in the Liberal Arts Theatre on Nov. 4 and 5, at 8 p.m., and Nov. 7, at 7 p.m.

Osgood Is Chosen Festival Chairman

DEARBORN

Richard E. (Dick) Osgood, of Farmington, veteran broadcaster and consultant to the Henry Ford Museum and Greenfield Village, has been named honorary chairman of the "Mary Pickford Film Festival: A Retrospective Tribute" to be presented at the Museum Theater from Nov. 5 through Dec. 5.

Prior to his association this year with Greenfield Village, Osgood was a movie reviewer for 35 years on radio and television, making him the dean of entertainment reporters in the Detroit area. Earlier in his career he was an actor on Broadway and in motion pictures during the 1920's.

Osgood's background as an authority, and his admiration for Mary Pickford's contribution to cinema history, led to his appointment.

OSGOOD RETURNED recently from California where he interviewed Miss Pickford and her husband, Buddy Rogers, about the tribute here.

The nine films being offered in the museum series were selected by Miss Pickford to represent her career from 1910 to 1929. It was in 1929 that the Henry Ford Museum and Greenfield Village were first opened to the public.

Among his other contributions as honorary chairman of the festival, Dick Osgood will be master of ceremonies for a special preview Thursday, Nov. 4, at which Buddy Rogers will be present to represent Miss Pickford.

DICK OSGOOD
Honorary Chairman

THE FILMS will be shown Friday and Saturday evenings at 8:30, with matinees at 2:30 Saturday and Sunday.

How S'craft Pioneered In Electromedical Tech

By KATHY MORAN

Heart disease can be detected and treatment prescribed on the basis of tests involving electrical equipment.

But what happens when the electrodes are attached to a person for an electrocardiogram if there is a leak of electricity?

If the patient is electrocuted, he won't be the first -- or the last.

And what becomes of the patient whose life depends on a kidney machine if the machine misfunctions and has to be sent out to the manufacturer for repair?

The dangers in use of electrical equipment are obvious -- as are the life-saving advantages.

BUT WHILE Ralph Nader and hospital officials campaign for high safety regulations, Schoolcraft College has taken the bull by its horns.

Recognizing a growing need for persons trained in both electronics and medical terminology, the college instituted an electromedical program in August, 1970.

Nowhere else in the state can a student go for training in the field, despite the fact that new hospitals have trained electricians among their staffs to combat the dangers.

Besides being the first in the state, Schoolcraft's program is one of six in public colleges in the country. Yet the need is demonstrated by the 37 colleges now planning such curriculums.

"WE COULD SEE the need and then it was just a matter of adapting the curriculum for a program," said Del Sipes, associate professor of electronics.

Together with his friend Donald Le Pla, who now works on hospital equipment through an independent business, Sipes determined what type of training was necessary to work in the hospitals and started the 2½ year program.

Though it is still in an embryo stage, the program has graduated two students and has jumped from 10 students a year ago to a current enrollment of 37.

Sipes said the program was initiated because of a demand that even independent companies can not accommodate in repairing equipment.

"THE MEDICAL profession was not quick to adopt electrical equipment," Sipes said. "But after World War II it slowly mushroomed.

"Most of the repair work on hospital equipment was handled by the manufacturers and suppliers, and now several companies have gone into business just for repairs. But the demand is even getting beyond them."

Graduates from the program are in high demand, both as full time hospital employes as well as for the companies that service hospital equipment.

A large part of their work is "preventive medicine" where technicians check equipment regularly to make sure it is functioning properly before a patient is endangered.

In addition to maintaining the equipment, the technician must have a knowledge of medical language in order to communicate with hospital personnel on safety hazards.

THUS, SCHOOLCRAFT students must study medical terminology and anatomy as well as electronics. They are also required to spend two semesters (32 weeks) in cooperative training where they actually get on-the-job experience.

Sipes includes a film on hospital safety in his classes where an expert is quoted as saying that 12,000 deaths have occurred in 14 years in just New York City Hospitals due to electrocution.

Two students who recently completed the first semester of their cooperative training described it as the most educational part of their program.

"It was a new experience," Gary Hoss said. "It is like a different world in a hospital to a person coming into it for the first time."

Tom Ortner said his cooperative training in a Detroit Osteopathic Hospital taught him about different types of equipment and how it works.

"If you get out (of college) with no experience on the equipment, you end up spending all your time learning how it operates and has to be maintained," he said.

HOSS, WHO also worked at Detroit Osteopathic, said that the medical technology class he had before the cooperative training was necessary because "you find you can't communicate with them without it."

"You need it to express to them the safety and hazard features of the equipment," he added.

Both students spent the first term of training learning how the kidney machine operates as well as electrocardiographs, laboratory equipment, pacemakers, and respirators. During their second semester, they will learn to repair the equipment.

SINCE DOH has three branches including Riverside Osteopathic Hospital and Bi-County Hospital, Hoss said they had the opportunity to work various brands of equipment.

"We worked on a variety of equipment that is designed to do the same thing, but is made by a different manufacturer," he said.

And they worked under one of Schoolcraft's first graduates, Bryanne Patail, "who understood what we needed to accomplish."

Once the number of electromedical graduates in Schoolcraft's and other nationwide schools increase, a federal regulation requiring hospitals to perform safety checks on a regular basis will be enforced, and the number of casualties due to misfunctioning equipment will decrease.

SC Meetings Rescheduled

The regular November and December meetings of the Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees will be held one week early this year because of Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays.

The board voted Wednesday to change the meetings, which normally meet on the fourth Wednesday of the month, to Nov. 17 and Dec. 15.

Bussing Con-Con Gets 7-1 Support

LANSING

State representatives from Observerland split 7-1 in favor of writing an anti-bussing amendment into the U.S. Constitution.

Using an obscure method of initiating an amendment, the House voted 67-31 to adopt an anti-bussing resolution.

If 33 other legislatures adopt similar resolutions, Congress would be required to submit such an amendment to a constitutional convention. The method has never before been successful.

Only Rep. Marvin Stempien (D-Livonia) voted against the plan.

Favoring it were Reps. Richard Young (D-Dearborn Heights), John Bennett (D-Redford), James Tierney (D-Garden City), Thomas Brown (D-Westland), Raymond Baker (R-Farmington), Joseph Forbes (D-Oak Park), and James Defebaugh (R-Birmingham).

EARLIER LAST week, seven local lawmakers voted against a pro-bussing resolution to achieve racial balance in the schools and for another resolution asking the State Board of Education to appeal Federal Judge Stephen Roth's opinion in the Detroit desegregation case.

Only Observerland representative absent was Bennett who worked for their passage but was ill at the time of the vote.

Observerland's senators voting both in favor of encouraging the State Board to appeal and for a proposed U.S. constitutional convention to consider an anti-bussing amendment were Sens. William Faust (D-Westland), Carl Pursell (R-Plymouth), David Plawecki (D-Dearborn Heights), and Daniel Cooper (D-Oak Park). The convention vote was 25-10.

The local representatives did split on a vote that would have established a House committee with a $3,500 budget to investigate bussing.

Voting for the committee were Young, Stempien, and Forbes. Opposed to it were Tierney, Brown, Baker and Defebaugh. Bennett was absent for the vote which failed with 39 yes and 49 no votes.

Chicken For Sunday Company

By ELLY

When Herbert Hoover envisioned "a chicken in every pot" as a step toward the ideal society, hamburger was about 17 cents a pound. Chicken, even though you lived on a farm was strictly for Sunday or company dinner.

Now, chicken rates almost as an economy food as far as meat prices go, but these recipes put it right back in the company dinner category.

The "Sumptuous Chicken" is Jane Moehle's recipe. She got it from Beth Fischer. Jane used fresh peaches but the canned variety is fine too.

SUMPTUOUS CHICKEN

2 broiler fryers (3 lb. each cut up)
¾ c. all-purpose flour
½ t. pepper
2 t. salt
1½ t. paprika
½ c. butter or margarine
½ c. vegetable shortening
1 c. blanched slivered almonds
1¼ c. water
1 c. condensed beef consomme
2 T. catsup
1 c. dairy sour cream
1 can cling peach halves
1 c. grated parmesan cheese

Shake chicken pieces in paper bag with flour, salt, pepper and paprika. Brown chicken in butter and shortening in skillet. Remove to a casserole. Lightly brown almonds. Stir in remaining flour mixture, mix well. Gradually stir in water, consomme and catsup. Cook stirring constantly until thickened. Remove from heat and stir in the sour cream. (I have omitted the sour cream and feel it would be too rich with it – optional). Pour liquid mixture over chicken. Cover. Bake at 375 degrees 30 to 40 minutes. Drain and arrange peach halves with cut sides up. Sprinkle cheese over meat. Return to oven uncovered for 10 minutes and serve.

CHICKEN-TICEMENT

4 chicken breasts
¼ c. enriched flour
½ t. salt
¼ t. paprika
Dash of pepper
2 c. dry bread cubes
1 T. chopped onion
½ t. salt
Dash of pepper
¼ t. poultry seasoning
2 T. melted butter
¼ c. hot water
½ c. melted butter

Split chicken breasts just enough to fold. Combine the next four ingredients in paper bag. Add chicken and shake. Make dressing by mixing bread cubes, onion, salt, pepper and seasoning. Add two tablespoons of melted butter and water; toss. Fill cavity of each piece of chicken. Skewer together with toothpicks. Dip chicken in half cup of melted butter; place in baking dish. If any butter remains, drizzle over top. Bake in 325 degree oven for 45 minutes. Then turn and bake an additional 45 minutes. Pour sour cream mushroom sauce over chicken and garnish with parsley.

SAUCE

½ lb. fresh mushrooms, cut in half
¼ onion, minced
4 T. butter
2 T. flour
½ c. heavy cream
½ c. sour cream
Salt and pepper

Brown mushrooms and onion lightly in butter; cover and cook for 10 minutes. Stir in flour. Add heavy cream, sour cream and seasonings. Heat slowly, stirring constantly. Do not boil. Pour over chicken in casserole. Makes four servings.

Spice CABINET

PATE VELVET

1 cup (8-oz.) pheasant and chicken livers
1 cup water
¼ teaspoon salt
⅛ cup butter or margarine
2 tablespoons chopped onion
⅛ teaspoon nutmeg
⅛ teaspoon dry mustard
Salt and pepper, to taste

Simmer livers in salted water 10 minutes; drain, saving ¼-cup of the liquid. Coarsely chop livers and place in a blender with the reserved liquid and remaining ingredients. Blend until smooth; chill slightly before using.

OBSERVATION POINT

A Grim Celebration Of Trick-Or-Treat

By Philip H. Power
Publisher

One of the dirtiest Halloween tricks I've heard about has nothing to do with ringing doorbells, soaping windows or damaging property.

It was the tactics used by some anti-bussing people to try to make their Oct. 25 school boycott effective.

They tried to get children scared stiff.

It happened in a number of places throughout Observerland, and the procedure went something like this:

A child or group of children would be waiting for a school bus. An adult would drive up to them and say: "If you go to school today, they're going to bus you to Detroit" or "they're going to bus you to Inkster."

Such a lowdown tactic had a number of bad effects. It intimidated some children from missing a day of class. It undermined their respect for the school teacher and officials who told them nothing of the sort was about to happen.

But worst of all, it damaged the confidence of those children in the people who had sent them to school that day – their parents.

IN PLYMOUTH, Earl Gibson, the assistant superintendent for public relations, said: "We had reports from youngsters in almost every school of adults having driven by bus stops urging them not to board the busses. Most of them said they were told that if they did ride the bus, they would wind up going to school in Inkster."

Then he added something very significant:

"There was no recognition or identity established in any of the instances, but in every case there was nothing but women involved – no men."

All along, I thought only dirty old men did things like that to children, but with Women's Lib everyone is getting involved, I guess.

SOUTH REDFORD Supt. Joseph Rzepka, whose district was one of the hardest hit by the boycott, said he received calls from parents saying they didn't send their children to school that day because they understood those would be the first to be bussed.

"More than one parent felt that their child was going to be bussed that very day," Rzepka said, adding that children who were staying home told those who went to classes they would be on the list to be bussed soon.

There was no general campaign of that sort in the Livonia, Garden City or Wayne-Westland school districts, but we did pick up a second-hand story from a Livonia junior high teacher about a girl who was told at the bus stop that she had better carry a knife with her because she would need it in Detroit.

That's another thoroughly evil thing about that Halloween trick: Many parents will never find out that their children were exposed to such vicious propaganda because the kids are too frightened to tell them.

Farmington has been rife with rumors that bussing was imminent.

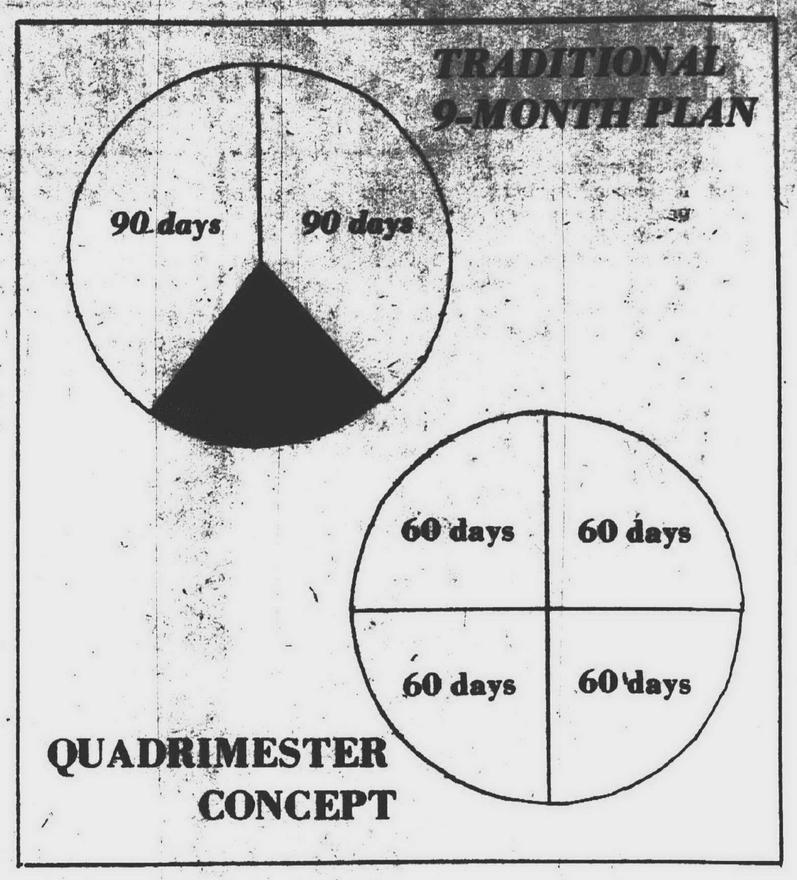
I'M NOT saying that everyone who is opposed to cross-district bussing to achieve racial balance would stoop to such low tactics.

But I am warning the anti-bussing forces to check carefully on the kinds of persons who are trying to form alliances with them.

The people opposed to bussing have a legitimate point of view, whether one agrees with it or not, and their cause will only be discredited by associating with the sick minds who threaten children at school bus stops.

The boycott itself solved exactly nothing. It didn't change anyone's mind about anything. It was feeble in most places anyway. It did damage – whether severe or slight I don't know – to trusting young children.

It was the dirtiest Halloween trick I've heard about.



R.T. Thompson writes

Year-Round School May Be The Answer

With all of the anti-bussing talk, the numerous meetings of groups in practically every community, the way parents have become worked up, perhaps it wouldn't be such a bad time to bring up a subject that could stir up more agitation in the months ahead.

We are referring to year round schools which proponents say will provide better education at reasonable cost

Northville has been in the midst of a study for the past two years but hasn't been able to sell such a program to the parents and students.

But in some sections of the land, year round school programs are being tested and initial reports indicate they are being accepted and endorsed as not being that bad.

Those favoring the plan point out that when absence or poor performance causes a student to fail, he repeats only one term and not a full year.

A two-year pilot program in Hayward, Calif. provides for four quarters of 50 days each with three weeks between quarters for students and two weeks for teachers.

TEACHERS USE one week of each break for parent conferences, staff development, and planning. Support of the program's implementation was strong with 81 per cent of the parents surveyed voicing approval.

In Prince County, Va., a year round school has been inaugurated to alleviate split sessions. Emotional polarization on the issue led to a bitter storm of protests from opponents of the plan, with a threat of a lawsuit over the calendar change.

As hundreds of districts across the country undertake serious studies on the feasibility of introducing year round schools in their areas...either in the quarterly semester plan or one of several other arrangements...it becomes increasingly clear that lengthening the school year is not a fad nor panacea.

Rather the advocates assert, it is an effective and practical means of achieving better learning at a reasonable cost.

Intelligently and cooperatively implemented, say proponents, the year round concept provides the basis for accomplishing worthy objectives such as making available more classrooms, reducing class size, strengthening the curriculum, eliminating obsolete facilities, meeting the special needs of disadvantaged children, talented students and other special groups, and last but not least, making better use of funds.

YEAR ROUND SCHOOL is something that has been talked about for 50 years, and now is being tried. But interest in the concept has been growing by leaps and bounds in the last few years.

Many educators, including several in the Observerland area, are considering year round school as a solution to the problems of overcrowded schools, skyrocketing costs and rising dropout rates.

When the United States was an agricultural society, the three month vacation was necessary so children could help with the farming. The cost of letting the one room schoolhouse stand idle in the summer was small.

But today, less than four per cent of the population is engaged in farming and schools have become multi-million dollar plants.

Although many of the school systems in the immediate area have discussed the program and some, like Northville, have actually made lengthy studies, none has seen fit to adopt year round schools.

The school boards and school administrators might do well to see what has happened in other parts of the land.

They are looking for ways to cut down on new construction. Anyone close to the situation knows that a new school building costs many times more today than a decade ago.

SCHOOL ENROLLMENT has skyrocketed, more classrooms are needed. This requires more teachers and facilities and this means the taxpayer will be asked to approve additional millage and that means a higher property tax in Michigan.

The plan proposed in the Northville study contrasts the traditional nine-month plan, in which students attend classes for 180 days and then have 10 weeks off in the summer, against the quadrimester concept.

Under the quadrimester plan, the school year would be divided into three semesters of 60 days and the student would have a choice of which three he would attend.

However, the programs calls for no less than 25 per cent to be on vacation in any semester, thus assuring year round classes.

TAKING IT for granted that the plan would bring savings in construction and reduce other costs, the biggest opposition came from those who traditionally have summer vacations and refused to think of going at any other time.

Thus a problem would come up if the student elected to go to school in the summer semester and take a vacation in the fall or winter. Parents can't arrange two vacations in one year and none wanted to go without their children or have the children on vacation with the parents busy.

Maurie Walker writes

Why Not A Holiday Every Month?

The confusion over which day Halloween was to be celebrated, Saturday or Sunday -- or maybe Friday -- plus the ignoring in many areas of Veterans' Day due to the fact it had been moved from Nov. 11 to Oct. 25, makes us wonder how many more holidays will be changed.

Of course, in addition to Veterans' Day, three other holidays have already been moved to Mondays. Washington's Birthday, normally Feb. 22, was observed on Feb. 15 this year. Memorial Day, which in the past was observed on May 30, was moved to May 31, a Monday. Columbus Day, Oct. 12, was changed to Oct. 11.

The Federal Monday Holiday Act has pushed tradition down the drain.

If it is used to its fullest extent, sometime in the future, we could have one Monday holiday every month of the year.

FOR EXAMPLE:

New Year's Day is traditionally on Jan. 1. But since Jan. 1 isn't always a Monday, why not move New Year's Day to the first Monday in January?

In February we have already tampered with Washington's Birthday, moving it from the 22nd (which by the way was a Monday this year) to the 15th, a Monday.

We don't need to have Valentine's Day or Lincoln's Birthday in February, so why not move one or both to a Monday in March?

Easter Sunday spoils the whole pattern of our Monday holidays, so the first Monday in April could be designated as Easter. Why not? Sunday is too traditional.

Memorial Day has already been changed to give us a three day holiday in May.

NOW IN JUNE, we have Father's Day and Flag Day to play with. Surely one of them could always be on a Monday.

Independence Day fouls things up because it has always been called the Fourth of July holiday. This is being moved to a Monday.

August is a bad month: no holidays. But wait! We haven't celebrated St. Patrick's Day yet. Oh sure, that is supposed to be on March 17. But here is a day we could move to the first Monday in August, and maybe make it a national holiday to compensate for changing months.

Labor Day in September falls into line. It's always on a Monday.

We have already made two date changes in October, Columbus Day and Veterans' Day. Let's make it a clean sweep and make the last Friday or Monday of the month Halloween. This would avoid a lot of confusion.

Thanksgiving Day, falling each year as it does on a Thursday, has to go. The last Monday of the month is bound to be deemed a much better day to observe this old - fahioned holiday.

ONE MORE MONTH in the year is left – December. Christmas, too, is always a problem, except when it is on a Friday or Monday. We can see this being changed to one or the other to conform with our "holiday a month" year.

This whole program would eventually make life a lot simpler. Of course, it might take several years for all of us to remember what holiday falls in what month and on what day.

Another problem suddenly comes to mind, though. It's the matter of Christmas cards. Until we all learn what day it is to be celebrated, we might not be certain when to mail them.

We could remedy this by mailing them on the first Monday in December.

For a while though, it might seem strange receiving a Christmas card which says, "Here's wishing you a happy holiday – I think."

Commendable Idea

By W. EDWARD WENDOVER

Remember the war? You know... the one in Vietnam? It's not over.

Today and Saturday (Nov. 6) have been designated national "moratorium days" by anti-war groups who advocate student strikes, work stoppages, boycotts, business closings and special programs in schools, churches and shops to redirect attention to the fact that the war is not over.

Student Mobilization Committee spokesmen say they have contacts at Schoolcraft and Oakland Community Colleges and Stevenson and Clarenceville High Schools in Livonia where they expect high absentee rates caused by striking students.

Anti-war speakers and films are scheduled at Schoolcraft.

WHILE FEW, if any, of these measures will succeed in disrupting the normal daily routine of anyone to the point where he or she is forced to stop and remember that the war drags on, the idea is commendable.

As President Nixon draws near to the end of his first term and eyes re-election, the 1968 campaign promise of "winding the war down" seems lost behind the recent Vietnam election farce and the wage-price (but not profits) freeze that was ordered as a solution to economic stability caused, in large part, by the profitable, big business of war.

Perhaps we cannot get Nixon to end the war now, but we should not give up trying to do so.

It might not help, but it certainly would not hurt, if each of us in some small way takes a moment today – and everyday – to remind someone else that the war is still on.

The war in Vietnam is not over – just forgotten.

Sense And Nonsense

It's generally agreed that the recent open forum on anti-bussing held recently in Clarenceville was a fiasco.

The adult audience acted abominably when a handful of students – with all the idealism of their age-- said they favored bussing; a hand-waving, kiss-throwing Irene McCabe did her pitch for NAG; and Supt. of Schools David McDowell squirmed when parents pinned him down on his views on bussing.

But something good came of it, after all.

School officials found out that the high school auditorium's fire curtain was inoperable.

"Oh, you mean I was sitting in a hot seat after all," quipped McDowell when he learned about the inoperable curtain.

Indians Thank Generous Readers

Indian Enterprises, Inc., based in Oceana County, is once again the recipient of toys and miscellaneous articles from Mr. and Mrs. Hank Chruscial, of Livonia, who work under the auspices of the Western Wayne County Conservation Assn.

Mr. and Mrs. Chruscial had previously brought up approximately 650 or more toys, and we are collecting the names of the needy Indian children in Muskegon, Oceana, Mason and Manistee counties. To date it looks like we will go at least 150 children over.

So we called Mr. Chruscial and explained the situation and he made arrangements for us to come right down and pick up the extra toys we will need.

We would like to publicly thank all the folks who have helped or donated in the Observerland area. We are very much thankful to them because our people up here are going to have a wonderful Christmas this year.

Low Value On Life

EDITOR:

What has happened to justice in America today?

There is a man, living in Livonia, who murdered a friend of mine last December. His weapon was not a gun or a knife or a club, but a 4,000 pound automobile. He was operating this automobile while being completely intoxicated, by anyone's standards, by alcohol.

A hospital test revealed that he had .19 per cent alcohol in his blood. Michigan law now says you are legally drunk when you have .15 per cent blood alcohol, a figure many authorities believe should be .10 per cent.

This man was convicted of negligent homicide. His sentence for killing a human being, $400 fine and two years probation. Not much for a human life.

The same day as this man was sentenced, there were others in the court who had also broken the law. One young man was found to have a small amount of marijuana in his posession; his sentence, $400 fine and 60 days in jail followed by a period of probation. Another man was arrested while he was tampering with a car, his sentence ninety days in jail and $800 fine.

All this shows what little value we place on life. The young man in possession of marijuana, a crime in which he could only hurt himself, and the man tampering with the car, a crime against property, were punished more severely than the man who killed my friend.

Why? Maybe it's because so many of us driving automobiles are also voters. It's just plain unpopular for politicians to legislate laws which restrict drivers. It is much more popular to make large impersonal corporations, the auto makers, add seat belts, shoulder harnesses, collapsible steering columns, and the like. This is not to say that these safety features are not desirable, they are tremendously so. However, it seems, these new features have not appreciably lowered fatalities.

It all boils down to the simple fact that it is not the car that kills, but the driver. We must insist on much stricter enforcement of our present laws. We must not allow drivers with terrible records to remain on the road. We must channel more of our monies and energies into programs to improve the driver, not just the car.

The Goblins Are At It

EDITOR:

I would like to address this letter to parents of school-age children.

It is that time of year again, and the goblins are at it. Are you a parent who naively thinks that his child is soaping windows and ringing doorbells? Well, they aren't. They are out spray-painting stores, vandalizing schools, breaking park equipment, etc.

Some of this damage is irreparable, but you'll pay for it in increased product prices and higher school taxes. Think of how embarrassing it would be if you had to appear in court with your child because of a Halloween "prank."

Do you know where your children are?

Integrationists, Move Out

EDITOR:

An open letter to you enthusiasts of bussing and integration:

If you are so strong in favor of these principles, then move into the inner city, or bash into the inner city (which ever the case may be).

I'm sure your present neighbors won't mind. And you may get a welcome from your new ones.

Board Didn't Step Forward

EDITOR:

At their Oct. 18 meeting, the Livonia Board of Education passed an anti - bussing resolution.

I attended the meeting more from an interest in hearing both sides of the debate than out of belief that pre - established persuasions would change. The interesting, but not so surprising, point of the evening was that no one was for bussing children across district lines. Speakers and Advisory Board members all agreed on this.

I thought that the position to table the motion for the resolution taken by Dr. Katz, Mrs. Hierta, and Mr. Murch was farsighted and ultimately would have benefitted the community more than the action finally taken by the majority of the board.

We had the opportunity as a community to be our "own man," to investigate and assign our own merits to issues, and to rely on reason and facts to arrive at just solutions.

The majority of the board, however, chose to take the popular route and, in the process of imitating other communities, lost a golden opportunity to provide some leadership to the metropolitan area where otherwise mass hysteria prevailed. I think this says something about the gut quality of those we call our leaders.

In the eyes of the broader community, I am sure that we jeopardized community dignity in pursuing this action. I for one will look suspiciously at the action of the board members who perpetrated this upon us, fearful of what other kinds of influences they might give in to in the future.

Let me add that we could have taken another humanitarian step forward to correct social injustices imposed upon us by prior generations of people. Unless we change the posture, we risk perpetuating the problem by handing it down to our children too.

State Should Pay Suburbs

EDITOR:

When my family moved to Clarenceville School District 20 years ago, my son had to attend a portable school. The present high school, the gymnasium, the swimming pool, walk-over bridge, auditorium, or one of the grade schools hadn't been built. There wasn't even a crossing guard at one of the busiest intersections.

My family, as well as other parents wanted a good education and decent school for our children to attend; therefore, every time a millage increase was proposed, we and other concerned parents saw to it the millage was approved. This meant an increase in our property taxes.

Because of the high cost of school taxes, property owners in this district had to do without many conveniences. Things Detroit residents have. Such as city water at a rate within reason, paved streets, curbs, sidewalks, street lights, garbage and trash collection, fire protection (not volunteer) and public transportation.

Now, all things being equal, if the state wants to take over the Clarenceville School District, which our taxes paid for, don't you think it only fair that the state in turn give us equality?

If my child has to go to a school in Detroit not up to the standard of Clarenceville, how about the state reimbursing residents of Clarenceville School District the money spent improving their school district? This money to be used for paved streets, water, sewers, street lights etc.

I have no objection to my children going to school with black children providing ... the black families live in the Clarenceville School District, pay the same taxes, and suffer the same hardships such as unpaved streets, mud, septic tanks, inadequate street lighting and lack of public transportation.

If Detroit wants equality, then so does Clarenceville. Will it be forthcoming?

Bus Only Volunteers

EDITOR:

As a parent, student, and prospective teacher of next year, I am not seeking argument on whether to bus children. I see the need for it [illegible] the philosophy [illegible] principles of [illegible] educational [illegible] for all children. It [illegible] and busing that [illegible]

[illegible] the children [illegible] involve them in our experimentation. The desired outcome of our present method of bussing is too far in the future (i.e. the time it will take our children to reach adulthood) to practically subject an entire generation to hypothesis.

And should our hypothesis fail, then what? Therefore, let me point out that what I term "mass-bussing" is the problem.

If this experiment were conducted with families who participated voluntarily, the platform would have a sturdy foundation on which to build. It could eventually spread nation-wide among concerned families, which would be a giant step in the right direction.

But the involvement of entire school districts through a court decision involves far too many families who, because of either a misconception of "bussing," or belief against it, will only serve to vastly confuse the children, create chaos, and undermine an attempt to establish homogeneity.

After all, where does the child go in the evening after he has left his "bussed environment?"

I do hope that if bussing does continue in its present fashion, we will not infect innocent children with the poisonous attitudes of some "action-oriented" adults. Please, let's use more foresight now than in the past.

Vandalism Costs C'ville $4,725 At 3 District Schools

By EDWARD WENDOVER

Vandals caused more than $4,725 damage in Clarenceville schools during the past six months, the Clarenceville Board of Education was told last week.

In a report to the school board, Edward J. Salisz, school district business manager, said the total was derived from school principals' reports of lost stolen and damaged equipment and broken glass.

THE THREE major items of the vandalism report are:

Glass damage at the Westbrook Elementary school that cost $1,379 to replace.

Vandalism and theft of equipment from the high school that cost Clarenceville taxpayers $1,173 to replace and repair.

Equipment loss and damage valued at $930 at the junior high school.

The high school equipment loss included: three cassette tape recorders ($345), a stereo tape recorder ($450) and a tape recorder ($165).

The junior high school equipment loss consisted of six tape recorders ($580), a slide projector ($150), two record players ($120) and padlocks worth $80.

The glass damage total of $2,522.80 reported to the board in Salisz's report accounts for damage only during the past four months – including the Westbrook school figure which stemmed largely from one, 50-window slingshot spree last summer.

SCHOOL SUPT. David B. McDowell said that insurance covers no glass damage.

McDowell said the school district's insurance for other items is $1,000 deductible (the school district pays up to $1,000 for repair and replacement in each incident of vandalism).

"Certain schools in our area can't get any insurance," McDowell said. "Insurance companies just don't want to insure schools."

While the school board took no official action on Salisz's report at its meeting last week, board President Martin T. Wechsler suggested that "school principals should be thinking about how they can reduce this loss of easily removable items.

"This is such a large item in the budget and there's such a large amount of money involved, maybe there's an investment we can make to slow it down," Dr. Wechsler said. The board discussed the possibility of purchasing locking storage cabinets or using school office safes to lock up equipment.

McDowell said the annual vandalism cost to the school district is about $8,000. "This is $8,000 we can't spend on education," he said.

Lunch Prices To Rise In C'ville After Freeze

One of the first things in Clarenceville to get the bite when the wage-price freeze ends in two weeks will be that old American standby – the hot dog.

The Clarenceville Board of Education last week unanimously approved a hike in prices charged in the district's school cafeterias that would take effect as soon as possible under wage-price freeze stipulations.

The increase in lunch price costs is necessary to offset increased labor costs, Edward J. Salisz, school business manager, told the board.

Last year the school cafeterias lost $5,000 but, because of previous equities in the cafeteria fund, the cafeteria fund finished $2,000 in the black after last year, Salisz said.

The student lunch costs would be increased a nickel – to 40 cents at elementary schools and to 45 cents at secondary schools. The prices of a la carte items would be increased about 10 per cent and would be standardized throughout the schools.

Mrs. Renis Donaldson, district cafeteria supervisor, told the board that the increase in a la carte prices would encourage students to eat the well-balanced prepared lunch while also helping to balance the budget.

"If we start to get rich, I'll come back and ask (the board) that we cut the prices," Mrs. Donaldson promised.

After it approved the cafeteria price raises, the board also approved the purchase of a blending-chopper machine for the cafeterias for $1,000.

Mrs. Donaldson told the board that the machine, which cost $2,500 when it was new three years ago, could be used to puree government surplus items, which are usually unpopular foods with students, and include them in desserts and salads where they would not be noticed.

Technology brings more natural gas to Michigan

A typical natural gas reforming plant.
For the past year Michigan has been affected by the national shortage of natural gas, and by the limited supplies available by pipeline from other states. At the same time, the demand for natural gas — one of the cleanest sources of energy — has continued to rise.
Now, thanks to a technological breakthrough developed by the British Gas Council in 1964, a new source of natural gas will become available to our 860,000 customers — from Canada.
To provide this additional gas for Michigan, Consumers Power Company is building a $40-million natural gas reforming plant at Marysville, in St. Clair County; the first of its kind in this hemisphere.
This new reforming process takes light liquid hydrocarbons and reconstitutes, or reforms, them into natural gas. In 1972 these natural gas liquids will begin arriving from Alberta, Canada, via a 1600-mile pipeline. By 1973 we expect to be able to provide 100 million cubic feet of natural gas daily for our customers; and output is expected to double in 1974.
Natural gas is vital for Michigan and its people, and Consumers Power is seeking every available means to meet this ever-growing need.

After 60 Years...

It's Still A Music World For The Badalamentis

Sixty years of marriage and music have been the fortunate lot of the Carlo Badalamentis of Garden City.

At 85, Carlo no longer bows his bass violin fiddle or blows his tuba, and arthritis has kept Catherine Badalamenti from the lovely chords she used to find on the piano.

But Carlo continues to work with his son, Joseph, in their basement instrument repair shop and both enjoy remembering his years with the Detroit Symphony, the Detroit Opera House orchestra, the Belle Isle band and Catherine's years of training fine young musicians.

AND ON OCT. 24, just six days after the couple marked 60 years of marriage, they joined their daughter and her husband and a niece and her husband in a triple anniversary celebration during a party for family and friends in the Chicago Road House in Dearborn.

Oct. 18 marked 24 years of marriage for Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Cornair, who live next door to the Badalamentis in Garden City, and two years for Mr. and Mrs. James Girard of Plymouth.

Carlo and Catherine Badalamenti were married in Louisville, Ky., and came to Detroit two years later.

HE JOINED the Detroit Symphony in 1915, and has proud memories of playing under the baton of Ossip Gabrilowitsch.

"But the symphony didn't pay very much, and I had three children, so I left and joined the orchestra that played at the Detroit Opera House," he said.

There also were many concerts as a tuba player for the Belle Isle band that ended only six years ago.

THE REPAIR BUSINESS was a sideline for many years, but now is a full-time endeavor that keeps the elder Badalamenti and his son busy nine hours a day. Another son, Carlos, helps on a part time basis, and Mrs. Badalamenti helps by answering the telephone.

Carlo also has done a bit of inventing in his day--devices to make instruments easier to hold and a folding coat hanger.

The couple's friend and physician of many years, Dr. W.E. Johnston of Detroit, made the toasts at the anniversary party.

And the well-wishers agreed they would be smart to bet on Carlo and Catherine for another 60 years.

Spotlight on Women

Women's Clinic Theme Is Personal Development

Observerland women may participate in a day packed with ideas for reaching their top potential in the Personal Development Clinic scheduled on the Schoolcraft College campus from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 6.

A talk by Mrs. Isabelle S. Streidl of Washington on opportunities for women and a wide variety of workshops will highlight the day's activities.

Mrs. Streidl is chief of Economic Status and Opportunities of the Women's Bureau, U.S. Department of Labor.

She will be keynote speaker for the noon luncheon.

THE CLINIC, expected to attract participants from all over the state, is sponsored by the college in cooperation with Business and Professional Women's clubs of Livonia and West Detroit.

Among the workshops to be offered in the morning and afternoon will be a capsule version of a Schoolcraft College course on Women's Human Potential.

The two BPW clubs have announced that any profits from the clinic will be used to finance scholarships for women interested in taking that course, designed to help them decide the best use of their time and energy outside the home.

THE FEE for the day, including continental breakfast and lunch, will be $7.50.

Reservations are being accepted by Mrs. Edward Milligan, 16115 Burton Court, Livonia, and Mrs. Peter Ventura, 16832 Surrey, Livonia.

A fashion show of styles from Harvi's will highlight the morning, and a display of arts and crafts will be shown throughout the day.

Workshops, in addition to one on women's human potential will be concerned with public speaking, flower arranging, interior decorating, macrame, self-defense, and returning to the working world. Women may participate in two or three of the workshops.

MRS. STREIDL, in addition to speaking for the clinic, will hold sessions with Schoolcraft College leaders during the weekend as the school conducts an in-depth study of educational, social and career needs of women.

She will have consultations

And A Life Of Pictures For The Romey Woods

One of the things Plymouth photographer Romey Wood did to mark the passage of 60 years in his marriage was take an anniversary picture of himself with his wife, Dora.

He did it by the method that's time-honored by photographers--he set a delayed exposure and then ran around to pose on the other side of the camera.

Only trouble is, he hasn't had time to print the pictures.

Parties to celebrate the 60th anniversary and plenty of other photographic work in the studio that has been a Plymouth institution since 1908 have taken up all his time.

They were honored with a family party Sunday, Oct. 24, at the home of their nephew and niece, Mr. and Mrs. O.C. Wood of Plymouth, and friends also have been anxious to take note of the big occasion.

DORA AND ROMEY WOOD ("It's really Romeo," his wife explained, "but he never liked that name") have lived in Plymouth since just past the turn of the century and were married Oct. 26, 1911.

They were the first couple married by the Rev. Benjamin Farber, a newly-ordained young minister who had come to Plymouth to head the Presbyterian church, Mrs. Wood remembered.

Mr. Wood opened his photographic studio in 1908 and has recorded with his camera a good many events important in Plymouth history. A lot of his pictures are property of the Plymouth Historical Society, of which the Woods are active members, and they'll hang in the new historical museum when it is constructed.

DURING BOTH world wars, Mr. Wood took many industrial pictures and until recent years Wood's Studios on Ann Arbor Trail handled many weddings and social events.

"I leave those to the young fellows now," this photographer said.

But with Mrs. Wood's assistance, he's still ready to give one-day service on business like passport photos, and he continues to add to the list of hundreds of studio portraits in his files.

Photographer Wood likes to mix his own chemicals for developing and continues to do oil retouching in preference to using color film.

When using commercially mixed chemicals and color film, he explained, "I can't get the results."

No problem, though, in mixing ingredients for a long and happy marriage. There, the Woods definitely "get the results."

Recycling Center Celebrates

A mighty "youngster" in Redford Township, just six months old, already has handled 115 tons of glass, 90 tons of paper and 13 tons of glass.

To celebrate, the youngster will give away a few hundred trees this weekend.

The celebrant is, of course, the township's Recycling Center, which opened last spring near the public service building on the east side of Beech Daly north of Plymouth.

The only center in this area that offers ecology minded residents a one-stop place to take glass, cans and newspapers, it is making preparations now to go on into the winter months.

The adult and teen volunteers who have manned the center on weekends since last spring want to show their appreciation for the many tons of recycled materials that have been brought to the huge bins.

So from Nov. 5 to 7, a seedling tree--white or red pine or Norway spruce--will be presented to each person bringing bags of bottles or cans or bound piles of newspapers to the center.

PERHAPS MORE remarkable than the consumption record of the center are the statistics on the volunteers who man it.

In the six months, the center has been open about 300 hours and has compiled some 1900 man hours. More than 500 people have helped.

Each weekend, for three hours on Fridays, eight on Saturdays and four on Sundays, the center has been supervised by 28 students and seven adults.

IT IS THE supervision and the willingness of volunteers that have made the center continue in operation when many others have had to close, said Mrs. Betty Shaw, one of the original founders of the center.

To thank all the young and not-quite-so-young volunteers, the recycling center committee of the Redford Township Beautification and Improvement Commission held a special appreciation meeting last Thursday.

Ecology flags were presented to Thurston High School and Marshall, Pierce, Pearson and Hilbert Junior Highs in appreciation for the work students from these schools have done.

Redford Union, already possessor of a flag because its students had been on the job from the beginning, received instead a book on ecology.

St. Agatha High School, which sent volunteers to the center for the first time last weekend, will be awarded an ecology flag soon.

BESIDES VOLUNTEERS from the schools, the center has drawn young people from Boy and Girl Scout troops and members from the Redford Rotary, who supply adults for the fourth Sunday of each month.

Supervisor Bill Robbins and Trustee Dan Christie also have taken their turns by the bins.

Volunteers make sure that colored and white glass go into separate bins for collection by the Owens-Illinois Co. of Charlotte. They also check to be sure the glass is reasonably clean and free of metal rings that would contaminate recycled glass.

Cans are sorted for National Can Co. and flattened. Paper is stacked for the Fishman Paper Co. of Detroit.

Mrs. Shaw said the clear glass bins fill in about two weeks, the colored ones in four weeks and paper goes out about every four weeks.

LOOKING AHEAD to winter, the center has started closing at 5 p.m. instead of 6 because it gets dark earlier. Opening time is 3 p.m. Friday, 10 a.m. Saturday and 2 p.m. Sunday.

Some sort of gravel or asphalt also will be added to the center when things start to get muddy.

"But the center definitely will remain open all year," Mrs. Shaw said. "We want to do all we can to help preserve our resources by reusing materials. And we want the people of this area to know we appreciate their efforts to help."

Women on the Go

This Family Likes To Act Together In Local Theater

By MARGARET MILLER
Women's Editor

Community theater is a family thing for Mrs. Rosemary Moorehead of Westland and her clan.

Six of her nine children have taken part in various productions of the Wayne Civic Players in the decade she's been a member, said Mrs. Moorehead who is directing the Players' current production of "Flowers for Algernon."

The other three are waiting their turn to be in a play:

And even husband Edmund gets into the act, although, his wife explains, "actually he says he doesn't like community theater."

"But he said he would do it for me since I learned to play bridge for him," Mrs. Moorehead added. "He came to do props and wound up taking parts because we needed him.

"He's the father in this play – don't you think that's pretty good type-casting."

THIS WEEK is a busier-than-usual one in the always hectic Moorehead household while Mother puts the finishing touches on the drama that will go on stage in John Glenn High School in Wayne for three evenings beginning Friday, Nov. 5.

Rosemary and Edmund Moorehead will be spending a good share of time on the play, as will daughters Marilyn and Rosanna, both of whom have roles, and son Marty, a John Glenn student who is helping with the lighting.

Son Mark, a Henry Ford Community College student, is studying drama "and he'll probably be writing a tough critique on the play," said his mother.

And Mimi, 12, Rebecca, eight, and Alan, six, will be on the other side of the footlights.

"They're anxious for their chance to get into a play," Mrs. Moorehead said. "Mimi was disappointed that she was a bit too tall for one role in this production."

MRS. ROSEMARY MOOREHEAD goes over the "Flowers for Algernon" script with daughters Marilyn (left) and Rosanna. (Observer photo by Harry Mauthe)

TWO DAUGHTERS now married also have been in Wayne Civic Players productions. One of them, now Mrs. Karen Weingarden of Columbus, Ohio, began with a lead in "Picnic" several years ago, went on to study drama at Michigan State University, and now is teaching high school dramatics.

"More and more, community theater is becoming a family activity," said Mrs. Moorehead. "It's something the whole family can enjoy – there's no age limit and you don't have to be stagestruck to enjoy it. There are plenty of backstage jobs.

"We also enjoy reading plays together."

FOR ROSEMARY MOOREHEAD, the love of footlights began when she danced with a USO troop during World War II.

When her family was young, she was active in things like politics and PTA and Girl Scouts.

"But I went through all those and have stayed with community theater because I enjoy it and so does the family."

With the Wayne Players she has played several roles and been director three times – "Barefoot in the Park" and a one-act play titled "Not Enough Rope" before the current production.

"I also played the part of the mother in 'Barefoot' with the Lafayette Park Players in Detroit," she said. "So I learned that play from both sides."

WHILE SHE prefers directing, she believes it's a good idea to get in to a play once in awhile.

"When you are acting you get totally involved in one role," she said. "As a director you see the whole thing. And it's fun to read a play and then see it come alive."

Rosemary Moorehead works the Wayne Civic Players into a life that also holds plenty of family responsibility and includes a job with Pacer Manufacturing Co. of Plymouth.

"I'm their one-girl office," she explained. "I usually can finish my work in the early afternoon so I'm home when the family gets in from school."

Family responsibilities are divided in the household with each of the older kids taking one evening a week for babysitting.

"They know it's their job to be there and they accept it," she said. "Besides, they all know that one of these times they'll be the ones at the theater."

Group Aims To Start Center For Retarded

An activities center for retarded young adults not involved in other programs is a major aim this year for the Northwest Communities Association for Retarded Children.

"There are many retardates over 21 who spend all their time at home with little to occupy them," said Mrs. Barbara Moore of Redford Township, current president of the association.

"We're hoping to set up a center that would give them a place to go occasionally and some definite activities that they could look forward to."

Parents of retarded children and others interested may learn more about the proposed center and the association when the group meets at 8 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 9, in the Cooper School Annex, Middle Belt and Joy.

The speaker for that meeting will be Robert P. Pangburn, assistant executive director for the Michigan Association for Retarded children.

MRS. MOORE said the projected center would have to be one that could be inexpensively run – possibly in a church location – and added that volunteer help on the part of teens or perhaps senior citizens would be needed.

While sheltered workshops can take care of some retardates, Mrs. Moore said there are many in this area who are not part of any program.

Families of such persons or those who would be willing to help in the establishment of a center are invited to contact the Northwest Communities Association, P.O. Box 2565.

THE ASSOCIATION, which serves Redford Township, Plymouth, Garden City, Livonia and Northville, also is giving high priority this year to developing a residential living situation for certain adult retardates and to pushing for Michigan legislation to make special education programs mandatory for all handicapped children.

The residential center, she said, would provide a supervised home for mentally retarded persons who are able to hold jobs.

"The idea has been tried successfully," she said, "and it's our hope to get one established in this area. Such homes are good for all concerned. They give the retardates a pleasant living situation, take them out from community support and make taxpayers of them.

"The ideal home would be for about 16 residents. The only one near here has 20, and there are at least 30 on a waiting list."

The association currently is raising funds through sale of Christmas Cards, and those interested in a bulletin showing the variety available may write to the post office box.

ALSO PLANNED is a dance from 7 p.m. to 1 a.m. Saturday Nov. 13, in the Knights of Columbus Hall, 8600 Haller, Livonia.

A ticket price of $7.50 will cover a buffet dinner and beer and set ups, and proceeds will go to the association's projects.

The group meets regularly at 8 p.m. on the second Tuesday of each month in the Cooper School Annex, Middle Belt and Joy, Livonia.

All parents of retarded children are invited to attend.

Symphony League Sets Sale

"Deck the Halls" will be the theme of a Christmas bazaar scheduled Saturday, Nov. 13, by the Plymouth Symphony League to raise funds for the orchestra.

The sale will run from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the Plymouth Community Credit Union, Maple and Harvey.

It's a first for the Symphony League, and all groups within the organization are contributing sale items.

Included among the booths will be a potpourri of one-of-a-kind boutique items. There also will be Christmas decorations, including burlap wreaths, and knitted items, most of them the work of the Senior Citizens of Plymouth.

A candy and baked goods sale will be part of the bazaar.

Also on sale will be the second printing of the Plymouth Symphony League's centennial cookbook, "Medley of Menus," first issued in 1967.

300 Women To Visit Loch Rio

The Women's Club of Plymouth will hostess the annual "In Gathering" at Loch Rio Saturday, Nov. 6. Loch Rio is a home in Belleville for emotionally disturbed girls. It is sponsored and supported by the Michigan Federation of Women's Clubs.

Each fall, every federated club in the state collects from its members gifts of food, toilet articles, cosmetics and money for the girls at Loch Rio. These items will be presented Saturday.

Some 300 club women from all over Michigan are expected to attend. Mrs. Robert E. Willette is president of the hostess club, and Mrs. Ronald Wood and Mrs. Bert Goodwiller are representatives to Loch Rio for the club.

College, Secretaries, In Pact

A tentative agreement was reportedly reached by the Schoolcraft College secretaries and administration this week.

Gerald Munro, chief negotiator for the administration, said that the Board of Trustees was informed of the agreement in an "executive" session Wednesday.

The board was informed that the secretaries will meet on Monday to vote on the agreement. If it is approved by the secretaries, the board will call a special meeting to consider ratification next Wednesday.

IF FINAL agreement is reached this week, it will conclude bargaining that began in May and resulted in a strike by the secretaries in August. The 50 members of the Schoolcraft College Association of Office Personnel (SCAOP) have been working without a contract since July 1.

They left their jobs over a stalemate in the talks and had resolved not to return to work until an agreement was reached.

However, the strike was cut short by President Nixon's wage price freeze, and the secretaries voluntarily returned to work after just four days on the picket line.

Two fact-finding sessions were held at the college with state fact finder Alan Walt presiding. Walt's report was issued on Sept. 17 and has been the basis for recent negotiations.

Wage Freeze No Aid To SC

Any money saved by Schoolcraft College as a result of the wage-price freeze is quickly being soaked up by the state, according to trustee Leroy Bennett.

In discussing college finances at the Wednesday board meeting, Bennett pointed out that an up to three per cent reduction in state appropriations to the college will take $72,339 from the budget. The wage price freeze has saved the college an estimated $84,810 in salaries.

THE TOTAL financial picture of the college shows the budget was out of balance $204,438 until adjustments were made.

It currently shows a $67,428 imbalance, but college President C. Nelson Grote said the college has identified areas to make up more than half of the deficit without having to cut programs or services.

The original $204,438 imbalance was the result of receiving $27,000 less in state appropriations and $50,000 less in federal grants than the college anticipated.

In addition, the college had budgeted $227,189 in reserves from the previous year's budget that were usurped by the 1970-71 budget. Plus $72,339 can be cut from the state appropriation to the college.

Since the college received $172,314 more in tuition and fees than expected, it was left with an imbalance of $204,438.

Currently the administration hopes to be able to balance the budget in part with the $84,810 in money saved by the freeze, $39,200 saved by increasing teacher's loads under terms of the new appropriations act, and $13,000 savings from the "maintenance optimization program."

Master Cellist

DETROIT

Master cellist Antonio Janigro will conduct the Chamber Orchestra of the Saar in its Detroit Institute of Arts concert series appearance at 8:30 p.m., Saturday, Nov. 6, in the auditorium.

Tickets are available at the institute ticket office and at Hudson's.

Law Firm Retained By S'craft

After reaffirming the appointment of the law firm Miller, Canfield, Paddock and Stone as general counsel to Schoolcraft College, the Board of Trustees voted last week to select legal counsel from the college community when possible.

The Detroit-based firm has been serving as legal counsel since April when Plymouth attorney Edward Draugelis resigned. Previously the firm had been employed in bonding and finance matters and elections for the college.

Under the motion suggested by Arch Vallier, the college will make it a policy to select future general counsel from the college district provided qualified counsel is available.

The college district includes residents of the Livonia, Northville, Plymouth, Garden City and Clarenceville School Districts.

"I think we should bend over backwards to give business back to the community that supports you," Vallier said.

College President C. Nelson Grote recommended that the college continue with Miller Canfield for the balance of the college year.

LaRue Gets Board Duty

John LaRue was appointed parliamentarian of the Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees last week.

The appointment was made in the first regular meeting of the board since five new trustees were elected to it on Sept. 13. LaRue was parliamentarian for the old board.

The new board also voted to defer action on appointments to a bylaws and policy subcommittee, the only active subcommittee to the board.

Rosina Raymond and LeRoy Bennett expressed opinions that the entire board should serve on the committee, but final action was delayed.

Probation Officer To Discuss Court Volunteer System

Kenneth Jacobs, newest staff member of the probation department of the 35th District Court, will speak before the Plymouth Lions Club on Thursday, Nov. 4 at the Thunderbird Inn.

Jacobs, who became chief probation officer for the City of Plymouth in September, will discuss the purpose and organization of the voluntary probation officer program as established here by Judge Dunbar Davis.

The program involves interested private citizens in working as probation officers on a one-to-one basis with first time criminal offenders.

The program is operating in all five municipalities served by the 35th District Court—Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Northville, Northville Township, and Canton Township.

NO STRANGER to voluntary probation work, Jacobs directed the district's volunteer work detail for the past three years.

A graduate of Eastern Michigan University, with his B.S. degree in special education and an M.S. in administration, Jacobs is currently teaching special education at Plymouth's senior high school. He taught at the junior high level here for the past three years and in the Wayne school system for two years.

Jacobs has served as a supervisor at both Hawthorn Center and the Wayne County Child Development Center. He was also instrumental in establishing a tutorial program at Milan Federal Prison.

Jacobs' hope is that the department will be able to recruit enough volunteer probation officers to satisfy the court's need and assure an officer for every offender eligible for probation.

He asks that anyone interested in further information on the program contact him or one of the other chief officers at the probation office in Plymouth City Hall between 7 and 9 p.m., Tuesday through Thursday.

PHIL MALY displays the buck he brought back home to Plymouth this week after he felled the animal with one arrow while hunting near Dexter. (Observer photo by Bob Woodring)

Patience Pays Off For Bow Hunter With Young Buck

PLYMOUTH

Phil Maly, 18-year-old bow hunter of 251 Auburn, Plymouth, came home with a 120-pound buck last week which he landed with just one arrow after three hours of stalking and lying in wait in an area near Dexter.

The young archer was camouflaged next to a tree when he heard a rustling sound to his rear. Thinking it was a friend who had left earlier to hunt another area, Phil turned and was surprised to see a running deer.

His arrow was nocked and ready, but by the time Maly could swivel to aim the deer was a narrow target running away from him, a rough shot for even veteran bow hunters. His one shot drove into the neck, through the head into the brain.

There's no rack or teeth with the prize, as it was a new deer this year. However, antlerless deer are permissible on a doe permit, and Maly has one.

Most bow hunters hope to hit an artery or the heart, both difficult shots. But to hit a small area such as the back of the head on a moving target is a source of special pride for Maly.

Fire Rips Apartments

PLYMOUTH

A fire, apparently caused by careless smoking, damaged two Plymouth apartments Saturday night.

And, as if the disruption caused by the fire itself wasn't enough, the parked car of the last fireman to remain on the scene was heavily damaged when it was struck by another car and careened into a tree.

City firemen received an alarm for the fire at 983 Wing at 9:17 p.m. Saturday and upon responding saw smoke pouring from around the apartments' windows and eaves.

WHILE FIREMEN searched the apartment for occupants, other firefighters broke into an adjacent apartment at 605 S. Harvey which had also become filled with smoke.

The firemen set up smoke ejectors to clear both apartments.

Fire Chief George Schoenneman, who said the fire was apparently caused by careless smoking, said the occupant of the Wing street apartment, William T. Moore, told firemen when he returned that he had been home early in the evening Saturday and then had gone out.

SCHOENNEMAN said the fire apparently started in the living room couch. He estimated damage to the Wing street apartment living room and contents was "extensive," while the only damage to the rest of the apartment and the S. Harvey apartment was from smoke.

After firemen completed their mop-up operations, Moore had not yet returned home, and fireman Robert A. Degen was left on duty to wait until he returned.

According to police reports, Degen's car was legally parked along S. Harvey at 10:38 p.m. when it was struck from the rear by a car driven by Ricky L. Freeman, 17, of 662 Karmada, Plymouth. After it was hit, Degen's car jumped the curb and smashed into a tree.

Freeman was cited for careless driving.

DAN HAY of 449 Sunset, who will display wire working; Mrs. Grace Kabel of 11630 McClumpha Rd., basketry and origami; Mrs. John Ohno of 11650 McClumpha Rd., basketry and origami; Mrs. Dee Schulte of 40582 Micol, pen and ink sketches and cookie castles; Mrs. Katherine Nyhus of 15100 Bradner, oil painting on wood;

The fair, open to Plymouth residents, will be held in the Northville Methodist Church from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m., on Nov. 12 and from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Nov. 13.

PRIMARY purpose of the fair is to raise money for the preservation and restoration of the 150-year-old former library building in Northville.

Located near the corner of Main and Wing, the building currently is being used as the township hall. However, its site has been designated as part of a shopping center development.

Plans are under way for moving of the building to another location. It is to become a museum, fashioned after the Plymouth museum.

Origionally built as a church for a splinter group of Presbyterians, the building has been used as a young men's hall, a Salvation Army barracks, library and school board office.

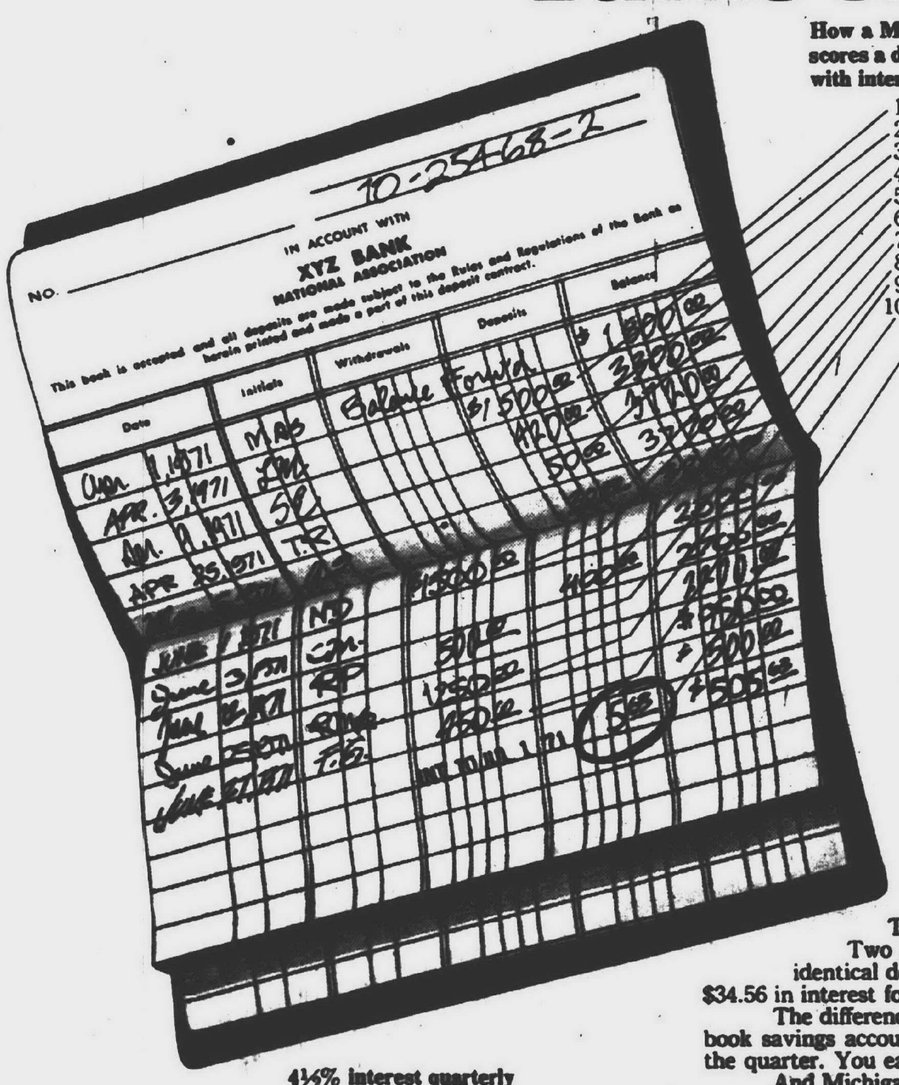
Battle of the Bankbooks.

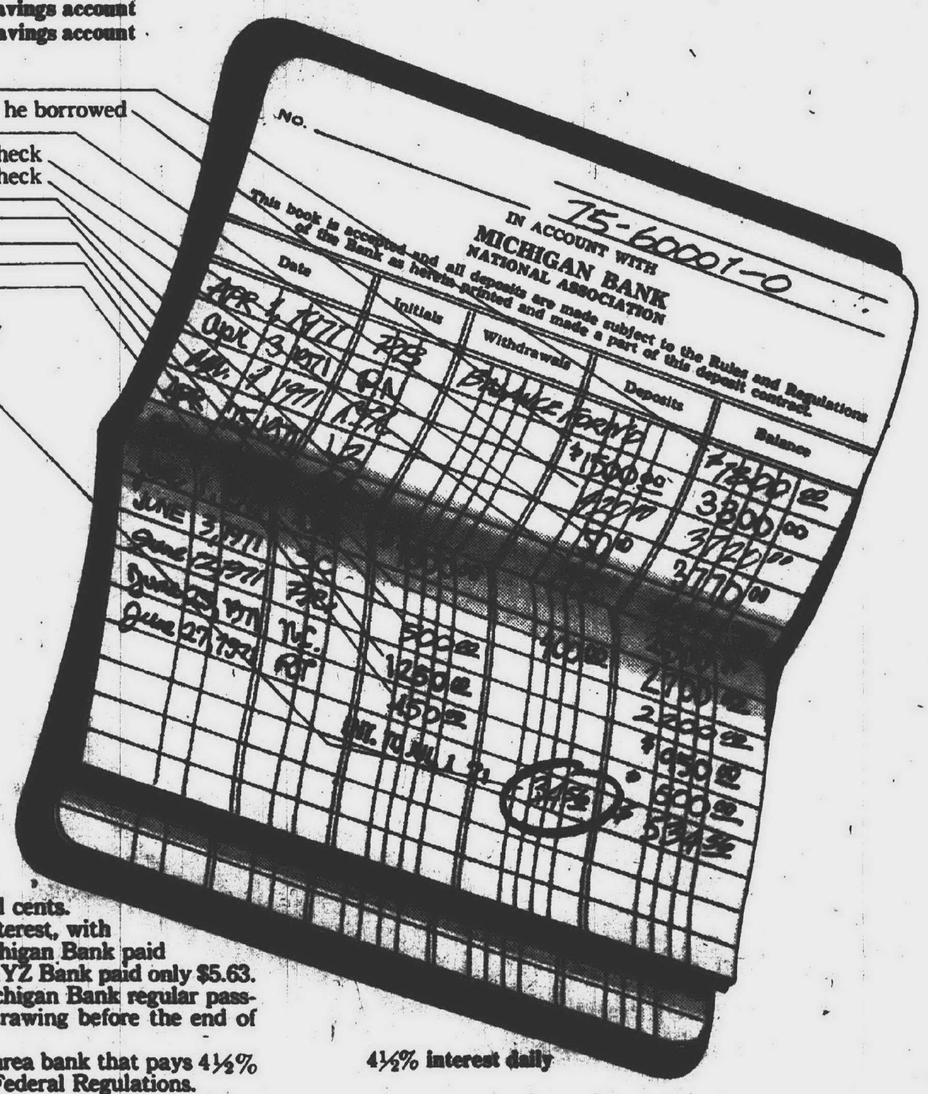
How a Michigan Bank 4½% daily interest savings account scores a decisive dollar victory over a 4½% savings account with interest paid quarterly.

1. Beginning balance
2. Uncle Harry returns the money he borrowed
3. Income tax refund check
4. Worked overtime—larger paycheck
5. Worked overtime—larger paycheck
6. Down payment on new car
7. Stock dividend check
8. Money for vacation expenses
9. Bill for Suzy's orthodontist
10. New washer and dryer

The Winner? A clear-cut victory for Michigan Bank!



4½% interest quarterly



4½% interest daily

The results are there in dollars and cents.

Two savings accounts paying 4½% interest, with identical deposits and withdrawals. Yet Michigan Bank paid $34.56 in interest for the three-month period, while XYZ Bank paid only $5.63.

The difference? Daily interest. It means a Michigan Bank regular passbook savings account never penalizes you for withdrawing before the end of the quarter. You earn interest day in and day out.

And Michigan Bank is the only large Detroit area bank that pays 4½% daily interest—the highest book interest allowed by Federal Regulations.

So why settle for a smaller return on your savings? Why be tied down by a quarterly interest account when you can get 4½% daily interest? And, since most Detroit banks only pay 4% daily interest, you would be losing money there, too. Be a winner. Switch your account to Michigan Bank today.

Owner Searches For Missing Dog

GARDEN CITY

An Inkster man last week walked into the Garden City Public Library to get a book on dog grooming techniques.

When Fred Leahey, of 29033 Birchwood, returned to his car, he found that his five-year-old miniature poodle left in the car was missing.

THE CAR was unlocked and the windows rolled down, said Leahey, who was later told by several young boys that the dog jumped out of the auto.

After a lengthy search for the dog that night, Leahey offered a $100 reward for the dog's return.

Leahey asked for tips from persons who might have seen the dog run from the parked car about 5:30 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 26, in the library parking lot.

THE DOG, which answers to the name of "Missey," is just a "spoiled little mutt," its owner said.

The white, female poodle was given to Mrs. Leahey by her sister-in-law five years ago as a Christmas present.

As part of the unhappy day, Leahey said that the dog grooming book he wanted at the library wasn't in stock, and the library would notify him when it does receive it.

Senate Honors Tinkham

LANSING

A resolution honoring the late Matthew H. Tinkham Sr., former president of the Wayne-Westland Community School District Board of Education, has been approved by the Michigan Senate.

Sponsored by Sen. William Faust, (D-Westland) the resolution expresses the Legislature's "admiration and gratitude" for Mr. Tinkham's years of dedication to the community.

A resident of Wayne, Tinkham died in July after a long illness.

"Although he was busy with a successful law career and civic activities, Mr. Tinkham devoted numerous hours to the improvement of children and young men and women in our community," said Faust.

A member of the Wayne-Westland Community School District Board of Education for several years, Tinkham was president of the board for 18 years, building, as Faust put it, "an educational system and physical plant of a first-class school system."

Tinkham Elementary School, located at 480 Venoy Road, Westland, was named in his honor in 1967.

Halloween Goodies No Treat

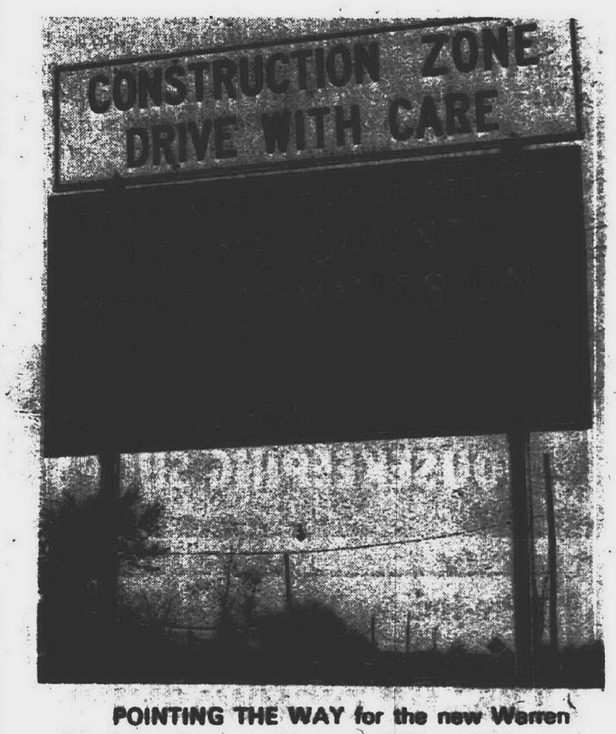
WESTLAND

Seven Westland children found something they didn't want in their Halloween goodies over the weekend.

Police Chief Garrison Clayton reported that there were seven cases of Halloween candy and apples spiked with hair pins, needles, or straight pins.

Clayton said that only one child was injured, and then only slightly, when he bit into a Halloween treat containing a pin.

One of the apples containing a pin was bought at a local store, and the pin was noticed on the way home.



POINTING THE WAY for the new Warren Rd. detour between Venoy and Wayne Rds. are these new signs posted by the Wayne County Road Commission. The county will widen the one-mile stretch east of Westland Shopping Center to five lanes. The commission advises that drivers going to and from the center use Venoy, Ford and Wayne roads. The county hopes to finish the widening by mid-December --just in time to frustrate thousands of Christmas shoppers. (Observer photo)

Ecology Group Listings Sought

Observer Newspapers is joining with the Comprehensive Health Planning Council of Southeastern Michigan (CHPC) and the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG) in compiling a complete listing of all citizen groups in the region concerned with the environment.

Search for identity of these organizations and their special purposes was initiated last month by the CHPC as part of its overall planning program.

A 35-man environmental health planning committee of CHPC recognized that as a starting point it would need a listing of such organizations. None is presently available in the seven county region of Livingston, Macomb, Monroe, Oakland, St. Clair, Washtenaw and Wayne counties.

HARRY F. BOYLE, director of the bureau of environmental health, sanitary engineering and facilities, where needed, and chairman of the CHPC help coordinate all programs committee, said SEMCOG staff efforts have identified 35 citizen and voluntary associations groups with environmental concerns.

"We want to be thorough, however, and I'm sure with the availability many we have not been able to identify exist in communities," Boyle said.

SEMCOG, a voluntary association of local governments in the seven - county region, was asked to compile the listing because CHPC, now only one year old, lacks personnel and "we needed those first answers as quickly as possible," Boyle said.

When the inventory of organizations is completed it will be published and widely available throughout the region, Boyle said.

The CHPC Environmental Health Planning Committee then will assess the contribution of programs, agencies and facilities in sanitary engineering and health where needed, and to more toward a quality environment, Boyle said.

Readers of this newspaper concerned with a local group involved in protecting the environment are urged to make certain the secretary or other officer fills out and mails the accompanying form to SEMCOG before Nov. 7.

RETURN TO BASICS

Wire rims make it. And there are basic reasons for their return to the fashion front. They're light, they're strong and wire frames fit the shape of any face. We have over thirty styles of gold filled frames, in gold, silver and black in the optical department at your nearest hudson's store and charge it too.

4 Docs In Family Like Soft Lens

"The new soft type contact lenses are a great thing to come along in the optical world in several years, and they fit, eyes perfectly," commented Dr. William Greenberg, who shares offices at 32000 Warren Road in Westland with his father-in-law, Dr. Myron Hauser.

"We have been working with the new lense for several weeks and our experience has been good. We don't have the same feeling of some specialists in our field who recommend waiting for a while to completely test the soft lenses.

"Our supplier was one of the first to get the new type on the market and only after years of tests. It is the feeling of myself and my associates, who include my wife, Dr. Joann Greenberg, and her parents, Drs. Myron and Pearl Hauser, that the lenses will not cause any discomfort.

"We have ordered numerous sets for patients, and every single one has nothing but high praise. The soft lenses curve around the eye, fit perfectly and don't seem to fall out as often as the hard types."

THE TWO husband and wife teams are a rarity in Michigan. Seldom does one hear of four registered optometrists in a single family...but that's the story of the Greenbergs and Hausers.

The male members have the office in Westland, but Dr. Hauser also has an office in Detroit.

The female members have offices in Hamtramck and all are busy.

Each office includes a waiting room, examining room and a visual training room.

It isn't unusual to find four Scotch golfers in one family nor unusual to have four expert bridge players in a family...but it is a rarity to have four registered optometrists, all engaged professionally in their occupation.

The parents have been practicing for years, and their daughter decided to follow in their footsteps.

But when Joann married William Greenberg, the families decided it would be better for the men to join forces in offices and the feminine members to join up in another site.

The Haugers had offices in Hamtramck and Detroit and when the split came, the distaff pair took over in Hamtramck, Dr. Bill opened offices in Westland and Dr. Hauser is in Detroit part time and with his son-in-law part of the week.

This setup has been very successful and now the quartet is working with the soft lenses and find they are being accepted by the majority of those seeking contact lenses.

"We can't miss," explains Dr. Bill Greenberg. "There are four of us, all dedicated to the same motto."

Topic: Politics At Retail Center

The highly controversial issue of demonstrations on shopping center property will be one of the subjects under discussion during a day-long idea exchange seminar sponsored by the International Council of Shopping Centers Nov. 16, in the Pontchartrain Hotel in downtown Detroit.

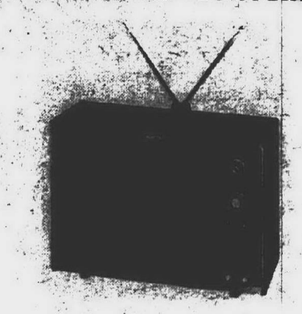
Stanley Winkelman, president of the Winkelman Co., will moderate a panel consisting of Ronald Reosti and Avern Cohn, attorneys representing the American Civil Liberties Union.

Representing shopping center developers will be attorneys Milton M. Maddin of Maddin & Maddin and Maurice S. Binkow of Honigman, Miller, Schwartz & Cohn. Maddin will speak for the Schostak Co. and Binkow for Forbes-Cohen.

THE RIGHT of demonstrators has been hotly contested by developers and civil libertarians since 1967, when a decision by the Pennsylvania Supreme Court ruled shopping centers quasi-public property.

The precedent-setting decision, though under appeal, has since formed the basis for argument by free-speech advocates throughout the country.

The Sony familiar-size portable color TV. TRINITRON color in a "picture-window" size screen... with "more-about" convenience.



Great Trinitron color in a family-size screen . . . will become the center of attraction at any home. Prime time becomes a "must." Favorite programs offer new viewing excitement.

Trinitron's one gun system comes through with vivid reality. The brighter, sharper pictures take on new true-to-life proportions on Sony's 17-inch diagonal size screen. See details like you've never seen before.

And more Sony conveniences: all-in-one push button automatic fine tuning with pre-set color saturation and hue control, illuminated VHF and UHF dial indicators for easier programming.

Trouble-free all solid state circuitry makes for greater reliability and infrequent servicing. Handsome walnut grain finish cabinet with gleaming brushed chrome.

Add new dimension to TV viewing with Sony KV-1710.

Dear Home Owner

I was driving in your area and saw your sign, "For Sale by Owner." I thought how unfortunate that sign wasn't Real Estate One's attractive blue and white sign backed up by 22 offices and 400 professional sales people.

I could not help but wonder if the owners had priced the home properly; if they were aware of all the tools used by professionals to determine value and pricing at which the home would sell quickly.

I wondered too if they were aware of our regular advertising in the various media, plus radio and T.V., plus our Beautiful Color Brochure we publish of our current listings and our national Inter-City Transfer Program assuring us of a steady flow of clients.

I also wondered do they know we qualify purchasers, assist in securing mortgages and do all the needed and necessary services to make for happy closings.

For these and other good reasons I take this opportunity to tell you I will be delighted to meet with you and assist in the listing and selling of your home.
