

City flood victims mad as wet hens

BY W. EDWARD WENDOVER

Residents and business owners from the City of Plymouth were soaking wet and hopping mad after Friday evening's flooding.

For the second time in a year, businesses around the Central Parking Lot sustained flood damage when the Tonquish Creek overflowed its banks and flowed into the streets.

Several of the merchants and residents attended Monday night's City Commission meeting to complain and to ask what the city was doing to insure the flooding would not be repeated.

According to City DPW Chief Ken Vogras, the flooding in the Central Lot occurred about 9:30 p.m. after debris blocked the culvert where the Tonquish Creek goes underground just west of Harvey Street.

Vogras said he realized that the damming was occurring but that by the time we got a man in on an emergency basis to take a backhoe down... it was already flooded.

"If we'd have caught this soon enough the parking lot wouldn't have been flooded. If we'd have known an hour earlier we could have avoided it," Vogras said.

He said Friday's rainfall was "not an unusual amount" but was complicated by the ice storm debris and tree limbs which washed down the creek.

City Commissioner Dave Pugh, who in February introduced a resolution to seek an injunction against Plymouth Township barring future building to the west of the city along the Tonquish Creek drainage area, again blamed westward development for contributing to the flooding problem. (The resolution failed.)

"The township should accept some accountability here," he said and asked the city attorney and administration to once again investigate starting such an action.

Pugh also suggested investigating the Tonquish Creek bridge behind St. Peter's Lutheran Church for its adequacy, designing a new screening grate for the Harvey Street tunnel, using the city's siren for a flood disaster warning system, approaching Wayne County to keep drains clean and continuing the sandbag program the city started two months ago.

Commissioner Beverly McAninch also suggested coordinating ordinances with the township to jointly work towards improving the drainage situation.

What caused Canton cellar flooding?

Canton Township engineers and officials were busy testing sewer and drainage systems to determine why about 300 basements flooded during the down-pour Friday.

Police and water department officials were swamped with calls, from residents with flood problems; mostly from the heavily populated northern half of the township. Roads throughout the township were covered with water, however, especially those near the Rouge River.

Bob Wade of Wade, Trim & Associates, Canton's engineering firm, said that most of the basement flooding was caused by the footing drains in the homes collecting too much water.

Footing drains run along the sides of houses at basement level and are connected to the sanitary sewer, not the storm sewer, he said.

Normally, said Wade, the storm water drains through just storm sewer system and does not back up the sanitary sewers.

"The soil was already well saturated by the spring melt when we got that rain," said Wade.

There is a possibility, he added, that there might be a break or a leak which caused storm water to enter the sanitary system. Numerous calls to the police complained of sewer smell from backed-up drains.

"We're testing for leaks," said Wade. "It's a detective job and it takes time."

"There's capacity in the sanitary sewer, but it just wasn't designed to handle all that water. If the sewers were over extended, then we'd have these problems all the time."

A sewer evaluation study, commissioned by the Board of Trustees last year, to study Canton's sewer capacity, is nearing completion by Wade, Trim, said Wade.

CENTRAL LOT MERCHANTS like Fred (foreground) and Bill (rear) Beitner of Beitner's Jewelry manned mops, squeegees, sandbags and carpet steamers to bail out after Friday evening's flooding. The merchants, many of whom were not contacted until after their stores were heavily damaged, complained that the city reacted too slowly to the flooding and termed the flood "disasterous" because, on the heels of last year's major flood, stores in the affected area are unable to get flood insurance now and cannot afford to keep replacing damaged fixtures and stock. ## Hopefuls have mixed school vote histories

BY PATRICIA BARTOLD

A review of the voting records of the 14 candidates for the two expiring seats on the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education shows both poor and excellent efforts.

Candidate Kevin F. Campbell, 40, voted in one of five school elections held since he registered in September, 1976. He's lived in Canton since August, 1976.

Stephen B. Foley, 28, registered to vote in January, 1979. He's lived in Canton for almost six years except from August, 1977 to December, 1978.

Linda Garrett, 30, voted in one of six school elections since she registered in June, 1976. She's lived in Canton since 1976.

John Kim, 42, didn't cast a ballot in the schools' January election after he registered in August, 1978. Kim has lived in Plymouth Township for about one year.

Douglas Koch, 39, voted in six of seven school elections since he registered to vote in March, 1976. He's lived in Canton for about three years.

Canton to cluster Ford Rd. businesses

BY CHAS CHILD

A plan to stop strip commercial development along Ford Road in Canton was informally adopted by the Planning Commission Monday night.

The commissioners agreed to cluster future commercial in two areas: between Canton Center Road and just east of Sheldon; and from Lilley road to the

I-275 intersection.

The vacant land in between these sections, the commission said, may be filled with either townhouses, apartments, single-family dwellings, or offices.

Some commissioners who favored this plan also wanted to restrict future commercial development on Canton Center Road from Ford to Warren. But they agreed to permit a commercial corridor to develop there in exchange for clustering business on Ford.

The plans for future development are part of proposed Master Land Use Plan which the commission is preparing. This plan, which the commission will probably complete within two months,

In compromise budget

City taxes to rise 1/2 mill; some cutbacks foreseen

City taxes may be raised by half a mill.

That appears to be the consensus of the City Commission following last Wednesday's budget meeting during which City Manager Fred Yockey submitted several revisions from his original budget proposal.

Yockey's original budget called for a two-mill tax hike but the commission then asked the manager to come back with a no increase budget. The original budget was out by $181,500 in expenses and increased by $24,000 in revenues.

The compromise half-mill increase budget would see the increase held as a contingency fund and several cutbacks in city services.

Among the contemplated cutbacks are:

*Eliminating commercial refuse collection (a $24,600 savings) which Yockey recommended against.

*Eliminating the police department community service officer position, an engineering department position and the hiring of two additional city employees when their current funding under CETA expires.

*Eliminating subsidy of school crossing guards (a $7,800 savings)

*Reducing planned purchase of some equipment and improvements including Christmas decorations.

The final changes in the proposed city budget for 1979-80 will be discussed at the budget public hearing at 7:30 p.m. Monday, April 30 in City Hall. Under the city charter, the commission must adopt the budget by its May 7 meeting.

State buys DeHoCo site; to build new, larger prison

The women's division of DeHoCo, located on 5 Mile Road in Northville Township, was sold to the state Department of Corrections by the City of Detroit on Friday.

The 320-bed facility will be used on an interim basis by the state until a new 550-bed structure can be built to house maximum, medium and low security prisoners, said a state spokesperson. This will take 3-5 years, she said.

The facility, unused now, will be renovated and will probably reopen around Jan. 1, 1980, said the spokesperson.

Detroit sold the structure for $1.6 million.

Bus stop doesn't phase students

Although the Plymouth-Canton school buses did not run on Friday, about 71 per cent of the students who were scheduled for class came to school.

This percentage of students in attendance qualified the school district for state aid on that day. To qualify for aid, at least 70 per cent of the students must come to school.

Bus drivers failed to report to work because of a contract dispute with school officials. They claimed that Good Friday which fell on Friday, April 13, was one of 10 holidays scheduled in the drivers' contracts.

School officials said classes were scheduled for students in extended school year schools in order to meet the state-required 180 days of classes per year.

Suit looms, Canton board slows sign law action

BY CHAS CHILD

A threatened lawsuit from the Canton Chamber of Commerce over the township's sign law prompted the Board of Trustees to halt progress on adopting a new sign law.

The board on Thursday evening voted to stop further discussion of a proposed sign ordinance until it consults with its attorney.

The proposed ordinance may have a provision to permit free-standing ground signs, but the present ordinance does not. And claiming that a lack of identity was hurting Canton's business, the executive board of the Chamber voted two weeks ago to create a fund to support a possible lawsuit and to seek a lawyer to challenge the ban in court.

"The only reason for the suit was a threat to get the board to act on the proposed ordinance," said Trustee Bob Greenstein. Why has the Chamber made no move to sue in four years? (The present ordinance was adopted four years ago.)

The cause of the suit was "frustration from people waiting for action," said Dr. Richard Kirchgatter, a chamber member. "The ordinance we (the Planning Commission) passed is a fair one. It may not be politically appropriate.

The suit was from frustration caused by the board's foot dragging."

Chamber President Frank McMurray said last week that one reason for the suit was alleged delays by the board to enact the new sign ordinance now before the board that would permit free-standing ground signs.

But Supervisor Noel Culbert denied strongly that there were delays. "I told him (McMurray) that we were going to hold more meetings this week.

Culbert added that McMurray was quoted as saying that he sent Culbert a letter before the threatened lawsuit requesting when the next hearing on the ordinance would be held. "But I didn't receive the letter until after he threatened the lawsuit," said the supervisor.

Greenstein said that Bert Burgoyne, township attorney, advised him not to consider further the proposed sign ordinance until the Chamber decides whether to sue. "We shouldn't act under the gun. There should be no decision until the closed session with Burgoyne," said Greenstein.

"I don't agree," said Trustee Lynne

Goldsmith. "We should get on with the business of the township. We haven't met in weeks on the sign ordinance. It's been delayed long enough.

"I would just disregard it (the Chamber's threat)," she added. "I hope we don't make decisions on threats."

Kirchgatter labeled Greenstein's proposal to halt discussion on the proposed law until after meeting with Burgoyne as "vindictive . . . You say the only way to continue is to have the Chamber eat crow and drop the lawsuit. I can't convince the Chamber to do that."

Police seek burger bandit

A man with a nickel-plated revolver robbed the Burger Chef restaurant in Plymouth on Friday evening, police said.

Around 10:15 p.m., a man entered the restaurant at 1365 S. Main St. and said to a witness in the dining area, "Just be cool, I'm gonna hold up the place," according to the report.

The suspect then approached the counter and said, "This is a hold-up, give me the money," and pulled out a nickel-plated snub-nosed revolver, said police. "Be calm," he added, according to the report.

The man then reached over the counter and grabbed money from the cash drawer, exited and left the scene in a green mid-1960's model Ford driven by an accomplice, police said.

A witness followed the getaway car as far as Ann Arbor Trail where it was seen travelling eastbound out of town, said police.

Stolen was less than $100, the report said.

He said his store was only lightly damaged compared to a year ago and that "another flood would have put me right out of business. And nobody in their right mind would give us flood insurance now," he lamented.

Dennis Gish, manager of Hugh Jarvis Gifts, then presented the city with a $1,316 bill for water damage repairs and loss of merchandise from Friday's flood. He said the Central Lot merchants were displeased with the new paving job in the lot which brought the lot level up to the shop doors without curbing.

Gerald Brunet of Byron Street, complained that the city has done little to correct Tonquish Creek problems brought to its attention. "The only concrete action we have is the sand bags," he said.

His wife complained that "as soon as we don't come to a city commission meeting, it (the creek problem) is forgotten."

Commissioners responded that the problem lies with the Wayne County Drain Commissioner's office and that a delayed report studying the Tonquish Creek was needed before long range solutions could be found.

"There's nobody in this room who knows what the long term solution will be," said Mayor Tom Turner, criticizing the report's delay.

The commission had asked Plymouth Township board to hold a joint meeting pertaining to the flooding problem but the township board postponed the move, suggesting a time in April.

Turner said the administration should contact the township and ask "what date in April they would like to meet" and to relate that "the mood of the commission is that we mean it."

Wayne County Drain Commissioner is a political hack

Unified front needed to correct flooding problem

When it comes to flooding in downtown Plymouth, it's easy to point the finger. The City of Plymouth blames Plymouth Township for not adequately protecting the upstream building sites from fast run-off of rains. And the township blames the city for not clearing off debris from the grate where the Tonquish goes under the city parking lot at Harvey Street.

Both sides point to a study underway for three long years being conducted by Wade, Trim & Associates, an engineering firm, aimed at finding a solution to the drainage problem. And everybody points to the Wayne County Drain Commission for inaction and lack of leadership.

The problem overlaps all these agencies, including the federal Soil Conservation Service and the state Department of Natural Resources. One government is bad enough, but when you get a number trying to work together, inaction is the natural, nay, inevitable result.

The county drain commission is the obvious one to get things moving, but notorious for neglecting its duty. It's no wonder, though, when Charles Youngblood, the drain commissioner, is a political hack of the UAW.

To get action, then, to avoid flooding like we've had for two years running, it will take coordination from local officials, preferably from City Manager Yockey's office. The city's been the main victim, so the city will have to ride herd on everyone to build retention ponds, or whatever else is necessary to prevent further damage.

Bused kids need attention

EDITOR:

Lack of consideration for the students, parents, and bus drivers was exactly the issue brought to the public's attention by the bus driver's "Yellow Flu Epidemic."

A driver's immediate concern for unattended students who had been brought back to the school for disciplinary action was irresponsibly ignored by the principal. This lack of action led to the use of mild slang used by the driver.

In a meeting, both the driver and the principal apologized, amends were made, and a better working understanding between the two left both feeling the problem was solved. However at this meeting, an administrator still felt the suspension necessary.

The ultimate concern for any school is it's students, not the exchange of words in the privacy of a principal's office, especially when the driver's greatest concern was for the students and their safety.

This is the only school that has no bus loader to help handle the students between school and the bus departure, but since that incident, you'll find the principal out doing the job that should have been done a long time ago. Maybe now the children will have the attention they need!

Lip or staying power ? Check the voting records

Fourteen candidates filed to run for two seats on the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education. Although it's still too early to make any predictions, such a large number of candidates will make the race more challenging for everyone.

One way to keep a tab on the candidates' expressed interest in the school district is to note their attendance at board meetings between now and June 11, the election date.

Whether or not a candidate attends weekly board meetings or workshops is a good indicator of the candidate's "staying power" versus his or her "lip power."

Although board meetings don't paint the whole picture, they are a good sign of how school business is handled and decisions are made.

Candidates would be wise to get familiar with the problems facing the district now. An uninformed candidate will gather no votes.

For all its squabbling, Canton must stand alone

There was a time when Plymouth area activists who supported consolidation of our governments to form a new municipality thought they might lure Canton Township into the fold as a fellow participant.

In the decade that has elapsed since that effort collapsed, the Canton leaders who rejected unification thinking have successfully pursued an alternate course of building a Canton identity of its own.

No longer is there any danger of that township being gobbled up by any of its neighbors, and in the long run this probably will prove fortuitous.

Canton has had its growing pains, true. By no means is the township rid of political turmoil. But if you accept the adage, "When two people always agree, one of them isn't thinking," then you must agree that Canton has more than the usual quota of thinkers.

A conversation with the newly elected president of the Canton Chamber of Commerce, Frank A. McMurray, recently turned my attention to this bustling area south of Joy Road.

I remember it from many years ago merely as a pretty farming section through which one drove from northwest Detroit to enter Ann Arbor by way of Geddes Road. Now it is one of Michigan's fastest growing population centers.

"Stabilization is needed, and it is coming," said McMurray, whom I first got to know when he was a moving force in the Canton Jaycees, formed in 1968 as the township's first service club.

A native West Virginian, the now 40 McMurray is a bulky man of 250 pounds who was brought to the Detroit area by his parents in his toddling days. He graduated from high school in Wayne, attended Henry Ford Community College, got into the insurance field, and has lived in Canton since the mid-1960's.

by Fred
DeLano

Frank never has been backward about coming forward, and is one of those with whom no one could always agree. Probably not even a wife. He has been a three-time loser in running for the township board, but as chairman of Canton's original recreation advisory committee, vice-chairman of the present township planning commission, and Chamber of Commerce president he knows what it is to stand up and be counted.

His major goal in the latter role is framed in these words:

"There's a tremendous need to put together a philosophy, an attitude, a visual presentation so that when someone inquires about Canton and its opportunities there will be a vehicle through which to welcome such an inquiry with open arms.

"It must involve residents, government and the business community working together. As things stand, there's no one place to get all the answers, and certainly the Chamber of Commerce office has no authority to make promises or commitments.

"We must put things together through a liaison committee of business, government and residents, cut red tape, and make new businesses want to come here. I have suggested this several times and have not found any resistance. We're trying to pull together."

Is cityhood needed for Canton? "No," answers McMurray, "but we do need more attention from Wayne County in solving growth and road problems."

The Canton of 1990 he foresees as an area "of thriving business, and increased tax base, an expanded recreation program, with just about every community service offered to its residents and businesses."

He, too, remembers - and one doesn't have to think back very far - when Canton Township's administrative building in the south end had a Belleville zip code number. Mail for the north end was addressed to Plymouth. Identity? Only the sweet corn knew Canton.

"The people are aging in point of residency in the township and are sharing an increased interest in all affairs," summarizes McMurray.

It's more than just having exclusive Canton zip codes, more than having a new township hall, more than getting the school board to change designation of the district officially to Plymouth-Canton. Perhaps it adds up to local pride.

For all of the political squabbling, it also adds up to the fact that Canton can stand firmly on its own two feet.

Child's play

by Chas Child

The Canton Chamber of Commerce has gotten itself into a mess over the sign ordinance.

Hoping to force the township Board of Trustees into adopting a sign law that would permit free-standing round signs after a four-year ban, the Chamber threatened a lawsuit over the present sign ordinance.

The board, however, led by opportunistic Trustee Bob Greenstein, grabbed the threatened lawsuit as an excuse to delay any further deliberation of the proposed sign law because it may damage its case in any upcoming court battle. In a word, it copped out.

Both sides are wallowing in self-defeating, short-sighted foolishness.

Why did the Chamber threaten a suit after four years? Because during the past weeks, some board members have been sending up signals that they will try to slash the size of signs permitted from 50 square feet as proposed by the Planning Commission, the author of the now law, to 25 square feet or less.

Greenstein, the self-styled crusader against business special interests, has even proposed limiting signs to two feet high. Businessmen cringe at this possibility.

In his typical bombastic style, Greenstein has come up with these beauties in the sign-ordinance debate. "It's a moral problem. Business and industry have run this country for 200 years. I don't want to see this happen in Canton." Or, "In every other community the Chamber decides everything. That's not going to happen in Canton as long as I'm around."

Although Greenstein feigned surprise and disappointment that the Chamber threatened to sue, it actually served his purposes. He is happy to find an excuse to indefinitely put off adopting an ordinance which would permit free-standing signs. He was supervisor when the current ordinance was written and has said that he will vote against any law that permits anything but very small signs.

The Chamber, led by Frank McMurray, blundered badly by not foreseeing Greenstein's initiative to halt discussion of the new law.

McMurray's sword-rattling against the board backfired. With a current law that bans signs, and a proposed ordinance now on the back burner, the Chamber has been left high and dry.

McMurray went off half-cocked, partly because he's using the Chamber's frustrations over the sign ban to further his own political interests. Defeated in his bid for a trustee seat as a runningmate of former Supervisor Harold Stein, also thrashed in November's election, McMurray is not doing the Chamber any good by threatening the board with a suit that has questionable grounds in the first place.

So the Chamber and the board are caught in a logjam of their own making. A little common sense that would get both sides to sit down and work out a reasonable compromise is needed badly. But a lack of common sense is what got them in the mess in the first place.

To E. Dale Lee, sports editor - Congratulations on your editorial (April 4). I, too, agree that Mr. Thomann is a tremendous asset to our community.

Although I have never been a player under him, I was a student in his basketball class last semester. When he first saw my basketball "talent" (or lack of), he almost cried. But throughout the 20 weeks, he took me aside to help me out. It was that something special that makes him a great coach.

Mr. Thomann has given Plymouth basketball six of its happiest, and most prosperous years. I'm glad that you brought up just how valuable he really is.

Court blocks Canton from yanking booze

BY CHAS CHILD

Efforts to deny a liquor license to the Canton House Restaurant were blocked Thursday when the Canton Board of Trustees was served with a temporary restraining order forbidding it from acting on the matter.

Signed by Wayne County Circuit Court Judge Charles Farmer, the order prevented the board from possibly rescinding an earlier board's recommendation to the state's Liquor Control Commission (LCC) to grant the Canton House a license.

Securing a liquor license is a two-step process. Both the local government and the LCC must approve a request.

Deputy Treasurer Maria Falkiewicz brought the question before the board, saying that the Canton House did not deserve a license. "The Canton House does not own the building, they lease it," she said. "They don't generate a tax base and there's no real permanency."

The Canton House's attorney, Peter Bundarin, said that Falkiewicz's objections did not justify rescinding the board's earlier recommendation. "There are other restaurants in the township that rent, like Cyprus Gardens," he said. "The owners spend time and effort filling out all the paperwork and providing financial data to the LCC."

"They have plans to renovate the restaurant, and even turned down an offer to buy it," he said. "They are committed to the township."

In the legal complaint to Judge Farmer, Bundarin also claimed that the state act governing liquor licenses makes no provision for a local board to rescind an earlier recommendation.

Further, he said that since the board's approval, the owners of the restaurant had made no actions to justify rescission, nor had it been shown that there was any fraud when the license was granted.

The board made its recommendation in early November, 1978, before four seats changed hands after the election.

Although the present board was barred from rescinding the recommendation, it voted to send a message to the LCC asking it to "hold in abeyance" its decision until the Canton board decides whether to rescind. This motion passed 5-2, with Trustee Eugene Daley and Clerk John Flodin casting "no" votes.

At the special Thursday meeting of the board, some residents who live near the Canton House (Ford at Sheldon) said they opposed granting the license. "I don't think we should have to pay for what the previous board did," one said.

Countering the restaurant's claim that without a liquor license, Canton Township would lose business to other communities, one resident said that Canton is already losing family-dining business. "There is not a good family establishment in Canton" to take children, she said.

Bundarin said that a circuit court hearing is set for April 27 to decide whether the temporary injunction against the board of trustees should be made permanent. The next LCC hearing will be held sometime after that in May, he added.

City backs off bid to rent police service to township

BY W. EDWARD WENDOVER

As it stands now, the City of Plymouth will not submit a bid for providing police protection to Plymouth Township.

In Monday night's pre-meeting of the City Commission, the commissioners discussed a two or three-page report completed by Plymouth Police Chief Timothy Ford last month projecting the costs of providing police to the township.

Mayor Tom Turner refused to release a copy of that report to the public, although copies of it were distributed to the commissioners based on their earlier request that the city administration prepare such a bid. The Crier filed Monday under the Freedom of Information Act to obtain the report.

The Wayne County Sheriff Dept. has already submitted a bid to the township to provide stepped-up patrols which would be funded in part by the township's share of state road taxes which go to the county.

The commissioners decision not to bid was based on Ford's estimate that "our cost to provide just the patrolmen is greater than what we understand Wayne County bid," Turner said.

"There's just no way we can compete with a subsidized bid," the mayor added.

City Commissioner Eldon Martin asked, "Should we inform them (the township) that we are not going to bid?"

The commissioners agreed that the city should send a letter to that effect.

Plymouth Township has been seeking methods of providing police protection in order to guard against annexation by the city under charter township status. Under a new Michigan law, charter townships which provide police and refuse services, and meet other conditions, are exempt from annexation.

The township board voted for charter government on March 29 and unless petitions calling for a referendum on the issue are filed by May 29, the board's action will take effect.

Woman held in shooting

A South Lyon woman was arraigned on the charge of assault with attempt to commit murder after firing two shots at her husband at the Plymouth Cab Co. office, police said.

Arrested was Virginia McCollum of 59450 10 Mile Rd., South Lyon.

According to police, the incident started when Virginia entered the cab office at 305 S. Main on April 10 and told her husband, Robert, "I am going to blow your head off."

She then fired two bullets from a two-shot Derringer pistol, both of which missed, said police.

Her husband told her that she was out of bullets and called the police, said the report. City officers arrested Mrs. McCollum at Starkweather Street and the Railroad crossing.

The officers also charged her with drunken driving, and her husband told police that they had been quarreling all the day of the incident.

The pre-trial exam date has been set for May 10, in 35th District Court.

Consider not only the initial cost of a house, but also the carrying charges, the cost of owning a house after you've bought it. The purchase price of a house is incurred only once, but taxes, repairs, interest, insurance, and other items recur annually. Many of these expenses vary directly with the size and cost of the house. The ability to make a large down payment or to pay all cash does not reduce any carrying charges except interest and principal payments and often is not a wise decision because of tax and other considerations. Check annual heating and other utility costs, property tax and zoning trends, school system capacities with respect to the age of the community, children, etc. We pride ourselves on our expertise in these areas and can advise you.

When you want integrity, reliability and fantastic service call on the staff at REALTY WORLD-COLONIAL VILLAGE INC., 42142 Ford Rd., Canton, 455-7790. NOW is a good time to buy a home as land values are increasing and a home purchased today still makes one of the best investments against inflation. We invite you to come in and visit with our friendly sales staff, who will be happy to answer any questions you have about real estate whether or not you are presently in the market for our services.

Do roads have you in a rut? Speak out Monday

PG. 6 THE COMMUNITY CRIER: April 18, 1979

BY CHAS CHILD

April showers bring . . . broken tie rods. At least for Cantonites who must drive the rutted and potholed streets like Sheldon Road, according to Tim Orbacti, president of Franklin-Palmer Estates Homeowners Association.

"Sheldon is so bad, I had to sell my Chevette and buy a truck," he said. "Something's got to be done."

That something -- possibly paving -- will be discussed at a special April 23 meeting of Franklin-Palmer residents, the Wayne County Road Commission, and County Commissioner Bill Joyner, whose district includes the Plymouth-Canton Community. The public is invited also to the 7:30 meeting at the Canton Recreation Building at the corner of Michigan Avenue and Sheldon.

The Sheldon stretch under study for paving runs from Cherry Hill and Palmer roads, said Joyner. "The Road Commission has said they are very anxious to pave it," he said, "but the township Board of Trustees must decide how it's to be financed -- that is, whether there should be a special assessment district created."

Because that stretch is what the Road Commission terms a "county secondary" road, the commission will not pay the whole price to pave it, said Joyner. "But it does have a policy that it will match dollar for dollar what the local communities come up with."

"If it doesn't get paved, then there might be possible legal action," said Orbacti. "The people are mad. The buck has been passed between the township and the county and nothing is getting done."

"A car with only 4,000 miles on it had to go in for frame repair from driving on that road," he said. "Top speed is 10 miles per hour. How could an emergency vehicle or a truck get back here? It takes a horse and buggy to go down Palmer."

Orbacti added that the state raised the gasoline and license plate taxes, "yet there's been no increase in services."

"South Canton is being neglected. North Canton is where all the roads are paved," said Orbacti. "If it's not paved, those responsible are not going to get our (Franklin-Palmer Estates) votes. So far the cooperation has been nil."

Joyner said that a couple of months ago, a hearing on the possibility of creating a special assessment district to pave that stretch of Sheldon was held. "But the property owners on Sheldon were against it because it was so expensive," he said. "Unfortunately, the people in Franklin-Palmer who use the road don't own property right on Sheldon."

The township is considering creating a special assessment district that would include Franklin-Palmer, however, he said.

Twp. board split on how to spend $646,000

BY FRED DeLANO

Plymouth Township has an estimated $646,000 burning a hole in its governmental pocket, an how to spend it has split the Board of Trustees as evenly as seven can be divided by two.

Supervisor Thomas Notebaert made it plain in a two-hour discussion of capital improvements Monday night that he wants initial commitment made to putting $300,000 into remodeling of old township hall, a project that also includes linking that structure physically with the newly purchased Teledyne Building next door.

Treasurer Joseph West goes along with Notebaert.

Trustees Maurice Breen, Gerald Law and Lee Fidge indicated they would vote "no" on that particular expenditure, awaiting development of a complete long-range capital improvement program for the township as a whole.

Clerk Esther Hulsing and Trustee Barbara Lynch were spared putting a decision on the record when the board postponed an official poll until at least next Tuesday, April 24.

Township hall remodeling bids under consideration have a life of 30 days from the date submitted (April 5) and so the talking process actually could take the board to its scheduled meeting date of May 1 before a decision is made.

Lynch admitted that at this moment she goes for the existing remodeling project, but she also was the trustee who brought about the voting postponement when she asked for deeper research information on the possibilities of a bond issue to finance capital improvements.

Hulsing, a former president of the Board of Education, said that she is "Waffling" between whether to vote "yes" or "no."

Immediate needs for more office space led the board into its present conflict, but the only private citizen present Monday night who had no vested interest in the board's ultimate decision had this comment:

"Township capital improvement planning has been a hodge-podge since the comprehensive plan of 1966 was submitted, and it still is. You haven't proved to me the need for spending this $300,000," said Chester Budzynski of 9125 Ridge Road.

That volume of 1966 projections was brought into the formal discussion by Breen, who at that time was a member of the planning commission and first was elected to the board of trustees in 1968.

"Unless we're going to utilize it, why should we waste our time on further studies?" asked Lynch an hour before she urged a delay to get more information on the possibilities of financing through bonding.

If there was one item of agreement Monday, it was on the need for construction as early as possible of a third township fire station. Projected west side site is the Beck-Powell-Ann Arbor Trail triangle opposite Hilltop golf course.

Of the general fund's available $646,000, a second $300,000 is talked about among trustees as being earmarked for additional land acquisition -- mostly for recreation purposes. Expansion of the golf course from nine to 18 holes, and necessary costs that would accompany this purchase, is pegged as another outlay of at least $530,000.

"I have the feeling that if we go ahead with the remodeling of township hall and the Teledyne Building, everything else we've talked about through the years will go by the boards," summarized Breen of the opposition stance.

"We need to proceed," answered Notebaert. Not hearing a motion for a roll call, he agreed that nothing would be lost in waiting until next week before standing up to be counted.

Twp. grants $22,500 to fund wife abuse program

Plymouth Township has joined the City of Westland in giving a financial push to First Step, a service project designed to aid in cases of domestic assault.

The Board of Trustees last week approved a grant of $22,500 to help First Step provide western Wayne County shelters and other services. Westland has earmarked $25,000 for the organization.

Unemployed?

Are you unemployed? Or an employer looking for help?

Then Growth Works, Plymouth's community youth center, would like you to call about its employment program.

Designed to help young people get a start, the program offers pre-employment training, paid on-the-job training, and opportunities for permanent jobs.

For employers, the program will subsidize 50 per cent of the trainee's wages during the three-month training period, and if the worker is hired permanently, 50 per cent of his wages up to $6,000 will be paid.

To be eligible, you must be out of work or underpaid, live in western Wayne County, and able to meet Michigan Employment Program guidelines.

Employers and employees should call 455-4090 or 455-4095 for more information.

First Step representative Debbie Benjamin told the township board that funding is based on 60 per cent from local sources and 40 per cent from the state. Plymouth's grant thus would bring an added $15,000 from Lansing and the Westland appropriation would mean an extra $16,667.

Financial support of other local governments in the county is being sought, said Benjamin.

"We want to expand our service to be able to take calls on a 24-hour basis, seven days a week," said Benjamin. "We have three shelters in downtown Detroit, but need more in the out-county area. Statistics show, for instance, that in Plymouth 21 per cent of the assaults are of a domestic nature."

Trustee Maurice Breen, declaring there "is a need for the program," presented the motion that the township provide financial support. He was supported by Clerk Esther Hulsing and it was approved unanimously.

First Step is headquartered in the Dorsey Community Center, 32715 Dorsey, Westland 48185. The agency can be reached by calling 595-1111.

A benefit showing of the film "Turning Point" to raise funds for First Step is scheduled for the Penn Theater Sunday morning, April 29, starting with coffee and donuts at 10 a.m. and the film at 10:30. Tickets are $5 each.

Suzuki helps 1 boy hear

BY PATRICIA BARTOLD

Life is easier for Florence Remski now. Her son, Howard, the sixth of seven children, is deaf. However, over the past year, Howard has changed from a handicapped child to a typical seven-year old who fights, uses nasty words occasionally, and is, otherwise, a normal boy.

His mother credits many of the changes in Howard's behavior to Suzuki violin lessons. He started one year and two months ago - a date his mother remembers.

"He's learned to listen by concentrating on what he wants to hear," Florence said, perched on a metal chair in the music room at Salem High School. Mary, her youngest daughter, leaned against her chair. Howard stood in front of the room, with 12 other students, looking more serious, but no different. They cradled their violins under their chins.

Howard listened and watched, glancing at the others from time to time. He followed directions perfectly. His mother explained: "Howard wears two hearing aids. With them, his hearing has improved so that, under controlled conditions, he can repeat 96 per cent of the words said to him. Last year he could only repeat 64 per cent."

Suzuki has made the difference, she said. Howard takes one private lesson and one group lesson each week and practices daily between lessons. Johann Strauss is one of his favorite composers.

Suzuki lessons, named after its Japanese inventor, stress learning violin like learning speech - through mimicry. Children listen and imitate.

Teacher Vicki Vorreiter stood poised in front of the students. "Rest position," she shouted and the kids stood still. "Violins up," she cried, kicking out her front foot and stepping forward with her back foot pointed. The students followed simultaneously.

Lifting their instruments, they began playing. "Ba, Ba, Black Sheep" quivered and rose from the strings.

They practiced co-ordination exercises, played more songs, and listened to small groups of students perform. Parents watched from the audience. They are considered an integral part of Suzuki lessons. "Not only are moms or dads required to attend lessons, but they are the student's teacher when the child practices," said Teacher Cathy Keresztesi.

Demetri Willeumier and Kaiulani Lie performed solos before the other students, but the audience didn't cringe

Good Friday fell on Friday the 13th this year, and although most people didn't give much thought to it, it turned out to be a bad luck day for many people. It was a quiet, overcast holiday, with most people having all or half of the day off work. Late in the afternoon it started to rain, and by dinner time the heavy downpour made the streets look like rivers.

It's not uncommon this time-of year to have rainstorms, and it's not uncommon to see the streets flood because the water can't go down the-sewer fast enough. But this time there was something different about the storm.

The afternoon rain clouds gave a funny yellow cast to things, so we turned the television on just in case there was a weather report. Learning nothing about the weather, we decided to chase the eerie feelings away by baking cupcakes. With the help of my junior cooks, their friends, and mine, we produced luscious, chocolate cupcakes.

The weather report said something about rain showers, but nothing unusual, so we didn't give another thought to the weather. Since we were in a upbeat mood, we turned dinner into a pizza party and invited our friends to stay and eat with us. What a fun dinner, although I'm sure pizza and cupcakes don't rate extremely high nutritionally.

Reports from the neighbors said that some of them were experiencing water leaks in their basement. Standing in the middle of our basement, I was so grateful not to see a drop of water. Then I noticed a little water in the middle of the floor, and suddenly the carpeting I was standing on felt like it was moving. In my bewilderment of trying to figure out what was happening, I had the feeling I was walking on a water bed.

The call for help rang out loud and clear, and all hands suddenly appeared in the basement, picking up and moving everything off the floor. The first plan of action was to move everything to the far end of the basement, which seemed higher, and since it had no sewer drains, was remaining dry. It didn't take long for that plan of action to prove obsolete, as our newly acquired fountain kept pouring out water.

Within the hour everything that could be stacked, piled, or thrown on top of something else was as high as we could get it. With wet feet and soggy jeans we retired to the kitchen and kept a watchful eye on the climbing water level.

As we have in the past during black outs and weather emergencies, we got together with neighbors. Even though we were without heat and hot water, we still had electricity. It makes you grateful for what you have, as you wonder how our ancestors lived without modern day conveniences.

The next day as everyone in the neighborhood hauled out ruined furniture and wet boxes of junk, the same question was asked up and down the block. "Why, after eight years of not having any problems, did the sewers back up? Could it be that Canton has over-extended the sewer lines?"

"PLAY IT AGAIN, SAM," a romantic comedy by Woody Allen, will be presented by the Plymouth Theater Guild on April 27, 28 and May 4 and 5 at Central Middle School. Playing the part of Humphrey Bogart is Lance Arp, on the right, with Allan Felix, portrayed by Tom Butki, on the left. Woody Allen is represented in the character of Felix.

Plymouth thespians stage 'Play It Again, Sam'

The Plymouth Theatre Guild will present Woody Allen's "Play It Again, Sam" on April 27, 28 and May 4 and 5.

In the three-act romantic comedy, Woody Allen is represented by his character, Allan Felix, portrayed by Tom Butki. He is the only character who can see Humphrey Bogart, his advisor on life and love, played by Lance Arp.

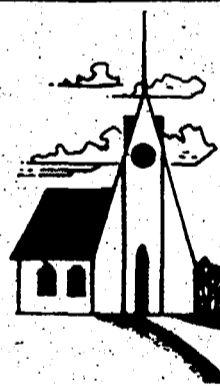

Butki, a former recreational therapist, plays guitar on weekends as well as taking part in the the Plymouth Theater Guild. Most recently, he worked lights for "Tom Sawyer." Past credits include two roles as Charlie Clinton in "It's Never Too Late" and as a guitar-playing troubadour in "Once Upon a Time."

The Cyburt family has taken roles both on and off stage in "Play It Again, Sam." Butki's niece, Fran Cyburt, plays Gina and Tom's sister, Clemie Cyburt — mother of Fran — is the assistant to the producer.

Among Arp's credits, he played Geoffrey in "Lion in Winter." While planning to attend Wayne State University in the fall and major in theater, Lance is currently pleased with the opportunity to bring Bogey back to the stage.

"Play It Again, Sam," directed by Patricia Bray, will be presented on Central Middle School on Church and Main streets at 8 p.m.

Tickets are $3 for adults and $2 for senior citizens and students and may be obtained by contacting Tom Hinks, 455-3063, after 5 p.m. Tickets may also be purchased at the door or at the following Plymouth businesses: Plymouth Book World at Forest Mall; Cork 'N' Cap Party Pantry at 40644 W. Five Mile Rd.; Plymouth Cultural Center on Farmer Street.

Nominate your Mom

If you are between the ages of eight and 10 and think your mother is more than special, nominate her as Plymouth's Super Mom.

The contest is sponsored by the Plymouth Jaycettes and any child who is a resident of Plymouth or Plymouth Township can nominate his or her mom by writing an essay.

The essay is entitled "Why My Mother is Plymouth's Super Mom," and it must be written or printed in the child's own handwriting on one side of an 8 1/2 x 11 sheet of paper.

Accompanying the essay, the child should include his name, address, school, and age. The entry must be postmarked no later than April 30. It should be sent to Super Mom, Mrs. J. Withers, 40970 Ann Arbor Trail, Plymouth, Michigan, 48170.

The winners, who will be announced the week of Mother's Day, will receive a grand prize of dinner for three at the Hillside Inn. Other prizes will include brunch at the Mayflower Hotel, and brunch at the Hilton Inn.

For more information, call Maureen Karby at 459-9893 or J. Withers at 455-6613.

during errors. There was no tension from parents as they hoped the child would finish perfectly; they listened, clapped, and accepted the performance. Praise and encouragement followed.

"Even if Howard only holds the instrument correctly, I ask myself - What can I praise him for?" said Florence.

Perhaps most important to Florence Remski, Suzuki stresses self-discipline. "From Suzuki, Howard's learned to listen and pay attention. The violin has stimulated his interest in everything and given him confidence," said Florence. Furthermore, she added the pride in which he handles a violin has been transmitted to other things around him as well. "It's really given him pride in himself," she said.

As Howard's teacher Cathy Keresztesi said, "Suzuki betters the soul through sensitivity to music."

concert on Sunday, April 22 at 4 p.m. at Salem High School, Canton Center and Joy roads.

Guest artist will be Frederick Weldy. Weldy is a graduate of the University of Michigan School of Music in piano performance. While at the university he worked as a teacher, vocal coach, and on the opera coaching staff. He also taught all-state piano at the National Music Camp at Interlochen.

Weldy won the Society of American Musicians Competition of Chicago, Young Artist Division, and the Grinnell Piano Award. He has played many engagements throughout Michigan and has appeared at Meadowbrook Music Festival.

Tickets are $3.50; $1.75 for senior citizens; students K-12 free. They may be purchased at the door or at Beitner's Jewelry, Heide's Flowers, Plymouth Book World, Arnoldt Williams Music in Canton, and Audette's Office Supply.

Baby sitting is available for pre-schoolers by the Girl Scouts. Senior citizens bus leaves Tonquish Creek at 3:15.

Cleansweeps hustle

April 14 marked the kickoff of Operation Cleansweep, a statewide campaign to clean up litter. The campaign will run from April 14 through May 14.

To be successful this program needs volunteers like you. If you are a part of an organized group in the Plymouth-Canton Community and would like your group to participate, contact the local coordinator, Lynne Goldsmith at 453-1664, for more information and litter bags.

Local Girl Scout groups have already signed up to participate. Local governments have been asked to pass resolutions in support of the campaign.

The clean-up was inspired by the implementation of Michigan's bottle bill last December. The deposit law provides an incentive to prevent new litter, Operation Cleansweep in focusing on eliminating old litter.

Teens tee off

Cemetery needs interested souls

BY PATRICIA BARTOLD

Old Cantonites, come out of the woodwork. The Canton Historical Society needs your help.

A tiny, triangular cemetery with about 100 gravestones is perched on top of a windswept hill near the intersection of I-275 and Michigan Avenue. Its oldest headstone has the year 1813 etched on it and the most recent one says 1911. Some of the headstones have been knocked over; others have beer cans scattered around their bases.

The oddity: No one seems to know very much about the cemetery.

It's called Downer Cemetery, according to Canton Township Clerk John Flodin, but he didn't know anything else about it.

Unbar the metal gates of the cemetery and stroll through the grounds. The dates inscribed on the headstones take you back to days when early settlers were staking out their farms. Most gravestones are from a 30-year period from 1860 to about 1890.

"I suspect it's an old family cemetery - perhaps the Hannan family since Hannan Road is nearby," said Dorothy West, a member of the historical society.

Other gravestones mark burial sites for members of these families: Butterfield, Bell, Bartlett, Rowley, Ballou, Mott, Sierbin, Smith, Weston, Downer, Wells, Secord, Moon, Perkins, Nichols, and Durham.

The early years of Canton are long-gone, but shouldn't be forgotten, according to the historical society. West and Edna Hauk are looking for persons who might provide clues to the history of Downer Cemetery.

Talk to old farmers or those whose families have lived in Canton for years, said Hauk. She said they might remember an incident or person who could help

Cannery becomes Chief Connection

"The Cannery" has evolved into "The Chief Connection."

That's the new name for the Canton High School store which recently spruced up its store front with new shingles and also sponsored a contest to rename the store.

Ken Peach, a Canton sophomore, submitted the winning name. He won gift certificates from local restaurants and theater tickets for his winning name.

Pack up rummage sale donations

The Canton Rotary Club's annual Rummage Sale still needs more donations, according to Carl Shultz, sale chairman.

Scheduled for Saturday, May 19, the sale will feature such items as furniture, hardware, clothing, toys and articles. All these and more are welcome from donors.

Items that are too large or inconvenient to transport can be picked up by calling Hank Salaa, 459-9396; Carl Schultz, 455-4194; or Orrin Hall, 455-3590.

Articles are now being stored across the street at Swartz's greenhouse garage on Lilley Road.

Proceeds of the sale at Bill Brown Auto Clinic on Lilley will go towards community service projects.

give a more complete history of the cemetery.

The Canton Historical Society meets on April 19 on the third floor of Canton Township Hall at 7 p.m.

SOME OF THE HEADSTONES are tipped over and beer cans are littered in Downer Cemetery, near the intersection of I-275 and Michigan Avenue, in Canton. # With new court, Canton gets most cases, income

Canton, which was added as the third site for the 35th District Court in January, has already become the largest portion of the court's docket — and the largest revenue producer.

Since the court is financed by the state and local governments based on the caseload, this will mean substantial changes in the overall funding level of the court during 1979 for the cities of Plymouth and Northville, as well as for Canton.

According to figures compiled for the state based on the month of March,

Ross lot rezoning OK'd

The rezoning of two lots at 845 Ross from residential to parking was approved last Wednesday night by the City of Plymouth Planning Commission by a 5 to 2 vote.

On a request from Fleet Street Association, the rezoning recommendation will now go to the City Commission for final determination. The parking would be used by The Community Crier which leases the property and the adjacent offices.

City meeting changed

The Plymouth City Commission meeting regularly scheduled for Monday, May 21 has been changed to May 22 — the next day — to permit the commissioners to participate in Mayor's Exchange Day.

the three host communities ranked in order (with the number of new cases started and the total amount of fines, costs, judgment and filing fees received) as follows:

Canton — 787; $23,977
Plymouth — 486 criminal, 173 civil; $19,289
Northville — 499; $13,213

The rapid growth in Canton cases, which previously were heard in the Plymouth court, was believed partly responsible for the discrepancy realized between the earlier estimated caseload in Plymouth for 1978 and the actual figures.

According to the audit of the court's 1978 operations, the City of Plymouth owes an additional $18,189.69 to the court because its percentage of the case load was higher than expected.

But, with the addition of Canton's court, even greater changes in the financing of the 35th District are foreseen.

According to the 1979 operating budget proposed by Judge Dunbar Davis, the court will produce some $372,816 in revenues this year compared to $282,738 last year. Of this revenue, Davis anticipates the following breakdown:

Canton — $152,854 (41 per cent)
Plymouth — $130,486 (35 per cent)
Northville — $89,476 (24 per cent)

This revenue will be returned to the state and to the local communities which provide their own law enforcement against the proportionate share of the court's costs.

Mayflower sub's traffic problems may get worse

Residents of Plymouth Township's Mayflower Subdivision are fed up with the traffic problems outside motorists cause within their sector, but fear conditions could get even worse before they get better.

It is a subdivision of 130 homes lying south of Ann Arbor Road, west of Sheldon and immediately north of Joy.

Those are three of the most heavily traveled thoroughfares in the area and it has become apparent that motorists from all three have adopted streets through the subdivision as frequently used out-through routes.

This was confirmed by a Wayne County Sheriff Department's representative when Mayflower residents protested en masse to the township's Board of Trustees last week.

"I sympathize with these people. Traffic comes through there like rain," the sheriff's deputy told the board.

Subdivision spokesman John B. Los told the board 240 children live in the area, adding, "The kids are scared."

He reported that there have been "thefts, obscene gestures and lawn jobs," adding that residents "are willing to make whatever concessions are necessary to get the through streets closed."

Although Supervisor Thomas Notebaert and his board colleagues expressed concern, Notebaert reminded the audience that the township government has no control over roads. This rests with the Wayne County Road Commission and Notebaert promised he would take the Mayflower traffic problems up with that agency "immediately."

Looking toward an even more traffic, Los called the board's attention to the 150 apartments now under construction on the south side of Joy in Canton Township, just across the street from the southern tier of Mayflower homes.

He warned that unless there is relief the people living there will be able to cut through Mayflower "to avoid the traffic lights on Joy at Sheldon and Canton Center."

From Ann Arbor Road, Baywood leads directly into Mayflower and the only warning is a sign facing westbound motorists which reads, "No left turn, 7 a.m. - 9 a.m."

Going south from the Plymouth Square shopping center at Ann Arbor Road and Sheldon, four streets run west from Sheldon into the subdivision: Marc Trail, Erik Pass, Albert Drive and Oregon Trail.

There are prohibitive signs only at Albert and Oregon, which are closest to Joy. Both read: "No right turn, 6 a.m. - 9 a.m., 3 p.m. - 6 p.m., Mon. thru Fri." The sign at Oregon has the added words, "Except buses."

On Joy, access into the subdivision is by Gregory Lane and Mayflower Drive. Both intersections are within walking distance of Salem and Canton high schools. Eastbound motorists are warned by two signs at each, "No left turn for thru traffic."

Notebaert reported Monday that he had met with Russell Harrison, director of road safety for the Wayne County Road Commission, and that they discussed totally closing Mayflower Drive at Joy as one means of immediate relief.

"They can't just arbitrarily close the roads," said Notebaert.

In a letter to Los, Notebaert said it was Harrison's opinion that to close Mayflower at Joy "would require a petition with 100 per cent of the property owners' signatures requesting the vacation of that portion of the street."

Such a petition would go to the road commission.

Remaining to be determined, said the supervisor, would be the cost of building a Mayflower turn-around "and where the funds would come from, such as from the road commission budget, or by special assessment to be levied on property owners within the subdivision."

Notebaert added, "There is also a slight possibility that the township may be able to obtain a grant for the project."

Remodeled landmark to house restaurant

A Plymouth landmark, unused and vacant for years, has been sandblasted, renovated and modernized, and awaits the grand opening of a first-class restaurant on Monday, April 23.

Originally the Markham Air Rifle Co. building, the born-again structure will house the restaurant Plymouth Landing on the ground floor, and offices on the top two floors.

Plymouth Landing will be operated by Sam Panzica who owns Shakespeare's Inn at Plymouth Road and Telegraph.

"The menu will be similar to Shakespeare's but with more fresh fish and specialty dishes," said Panzica.

The restaurant's decor will recapture the Victorian era when the Markham factory was built. Stained-glass windows and gas-light lamps will help create this atmosphere. A huge, 20 by 4-foot stained-glass window will highlight the restaurant's interior.

Also, the original brick and raw wood beams were left exposed in the building's interior. One can see numerous BBs embedded in the beams, memories of the structure's early history.

Owned by Plymouth businessman Harold Guenther, the Markham building lay unused for years. Originally Guenther hoped it could be renovated to house small stores, but plans for the showpiece restaurant were started about three years ago, said Panzica.

Plymouth Landing will seat 175 people.

Michigan Bell's newest Phone Center Store brings one-stop telephone shopping to Canton area customers.

Located at 44630 Ford Road, the store opens April 9 offers modular phones and related equipment to customers who have plug-in wall outlets.

Bruce F. Mirto, CLU, agency manager, of Bruce F. Mirto & Associates, 292 S. Main, Plymouth, has qualified for Woodmen Accident and Life Company's 1978 top sales production club. Bruce was honored at the company's convention held March 18-21 at the Aladdin Hotel, Las Vegas, Nevada.

Adistra Corporation of Plymouth has announced the appointment of Malcom D. McDonald as director of marketing and John J. Gore as director of business development operations.

McDonald, a graduate of Leicester University, England and formerly the Company's Director of Corporate Planning, and Gore, formerly Assistant General Manager of the Company's Scott Phillips Division will be responsible for spearheading the company's growth plan into the 1980's. He formerly served with the Plymouth-Canton Schools' CASTLES program.

community deaths

Addie Dell Rice, 93, formerly of Plymouth-Canton, died on April 12 at Oak Hill Nursing Home in Farmington. Funeral services were held on April 14 at Schrader Funeral Home with The Rev. Samuel F. Stout officiating. Burial was at Sheldon Cemetery in Canton.

She is survived by sons, Clyde Matevia of Yucaipa, Cal.; Glenn Matevia of Newaygo; seven grandchildren; several great-grandchildren; and, several great-great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Rice was a production worker and a member of the Nankin Chapter of the O.E.S. She lived in Plymouth-Canton until 1950 when she moved to Wayne.

City mulls go-go law

The City of Plymouth may yet face granting entertainment permits to liquor-serving establishments, even though the latest requests for such permits have been withdrawn.

Two applications for such licenses were submitted and then withdrawn by the Mayflower Hotel.

A similar application from Napoleon's Restaurant was unanimously rejected by the city last month on the recommendation of Plymouth Police Chief Timothy Ford. He opposed granting such permits (none currently exist) without an ordinance and enforcement capabilities to control entertainment.

In letters relating to the Mayflower permit request, Ford also recommended denial on the same grounds. But the requests were withdrawn by Mayflower owner Ralph G. Lorenz before Monday night's City Commission meeting at which the city was slated to act on them.

Ford's letters on the Mayflower requests said the city faced certain "hazards" in granting entertainment permits such as continued control once the license is granted and upholding an ordinance to control entertainment and thereby prohibit such things as topless dancing.

"The 'contemporary community standard' is too amorphous and incapable of distinct definition," Ford said.

After withdrawing his requests, Lorenz said he wanted to study the entertainment-license ramifications further before deciding whether to re-apply.

A previous application for such a permit was withdrawn by the hotel but the issue arose again when Plymouth police warned the hotel that the dinner theater program being held in the Mayflower Meeting House required an entertainment permit. Ford said such entertainment was "promptly ceased when these violations were brought to his (Kirk Lorenz) attention."

However, after discussions with the state Liquor Control Commission (which was following up on Ford's notification of alleged violations), Kirk Lorenz said he felt he had to apply for the entertainment permits in order to cover such things as showing movies at service club meetings.

Even though the most recent Mayflower applications have been withdrawn, it doesn't "eliminate the necessity of discussing something about this," said Mayor Tom Turner.

"We need to give some imaginative thought in this regard," the mayor told the commission.

Lorenz said he withdrew the applications to study the matter and because "I don't want to be blamed for bringing something like topless to town."

"When you can tell me the Rotary Club or the Kiwanis can't see films in an American city, then maybe we're in the wrong place," the hosteler concluded.

Happy youngsters hunt for eggs

READY, SET, GO! About 200 youngsters looked high and low for Easter eggs and candy on Saturday morning at Hamilton Park in Plymouth. The hunt was sponsored by the Plymouth Parks and Recreation Department. (Crier photo by Bill Bresler.)

FIVE-YEAR OLD Jamie Caksackkar climbed this tree at Hamilton Park on Saturday morning thinking there might be an Easter treat nestled in the fork. Although his search was futile there, many brightly-colored candies were spied by eager kids in the grass at the park. (Crier photo by Bill Bresler.)

in July, 1975. He's lived in Plymouth for four years.

Gary Roberts voted in one of three school elections held since he registered to vote in August, 1977. He's lived in Canton for two years, three months.

James L. Sinclair, 38, voted in two of 18 school elections held since he registered in October, 1968. He's lived in Plymouth Township for 14 years.

Allen Neil Smith voted in three of 13 school elections scheduled since he registered in October, 1971. He's lived in Plymouth for seven and one-half years.

Sylvia A. Stetz, 38, voted in 16 of 21 school elections since she registered in August, 1966.

Earl D. Swartzwelter, 45, has voted in two of three school elections held since he registered in September, 1977. He lived in Plymouth Township since 1977.

Kenneth Vogras, 42, voted in two of 32 school elections since he registered in October, 1960. He's lived in Plymouth since 1956.

Jeanette Wines, 38, voted in seven of nine school elections since she registered in September, 1973. She's lived in Canton for six years.

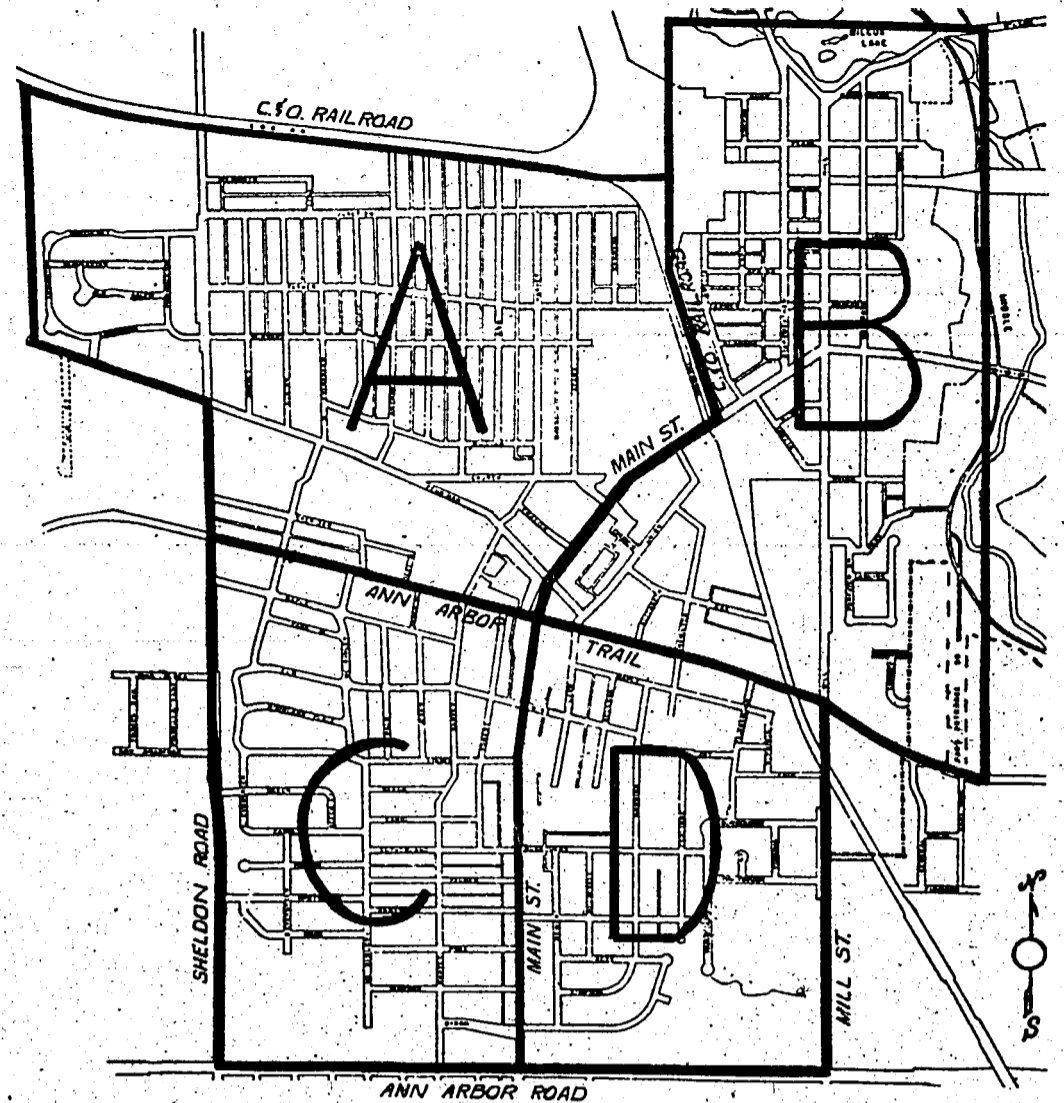

Thomas Yack, 33, has voted in 13 of the 13 school elections held since he registered to vote in April, 1972. He's lived in Canton for about eight years.

Meanwhile, last Tuesday one candidate who had filed a petition withdrew her name from the race saying that enough candidates had filed already. She was Marilyn Rickard of Canton.

The voting records of the 14 candidates were compiled from public files on school elections kept by the Plymouth-Canton School District.

CEP gets vacation

On Thursday, April 26, the Centennial Educational Park staff will be engaged in a faculty program. Students will be in attendance from 7:20 a.m. until 10:23 a.m. Class periods 4-6 will meet during this time. Bus transportation will be provided, however, the cafeteria will not be in operation.

City to ferret out sewer leaks with smoke

Don't be alarmed if you see smoke coming from City of Plymouth sewers next week. The city's Department of Public Works (DPW) will begin smoke-testing the entire city sewer system beginning, Wednesday, April 23.

The tests will try to determine if residential, commercial and industrial structures are properly connected to the sewer system and if there are any broken pipes underground, said Ken Vogras, director of the DPW.

Vogras asks residents to put at least one quart of water in all floor drains to prevent smoke from entering the house.

However, don't be alarmed if smoke enters your home. The smoke is non-toxic to persons and pets, he said.

If smoke should enter your house, contact the DPW office at 453-7737.

Vogras expects smoke to be seen coming out of the roof vents of some houses or in some older homes that have side vents. If the house has eave troughs connected to the sanitary sewer, smoke will also be seen, said Vogras.

Smoke testing will begin in area A (see map) on April 23 and run through the 25th. In area B, testing will be conducted from the 25th through the 27th. Area C's testing will run from the 27th through May 1. And area D will be checked May 1 and 2.

These tests were originally scheduled December, 1978, but were cancelled due to frozen ground.

Strip zoning eschewed

will govern future land use throughout the township. It targets where commercial, agricultural, industrial and residential uses should locate through zoning.

Before the plan becomes final however, public hearings must be held. Further, the zoning ordinance, which is based on the master plan and gives it legal status, must be adopted by the Board of Trustees.

"I believe this is the last opportunity to affect the character of the community," said Commissioner Dan Richardson, a strong advocate of clustering business on Ford. He has said that he does not want Ford Road in Canton to look like the strips in Westland and Garden City.

Apartments and more housing instead of businesses along Ford Road will "further clog traffic on Ford," said Commissioner Robert Shefferly, who opposed the cluster plan. "All those people will have cars."

"Most of the traffic comes from the surrounding subdivisions funneling onto Ford heading for I-275," replied Richardson. "The extra residential right on Ford won't add that much."

Restricting business zoning on Ford will also disperse stores and local convenience businesses to residential development south of Ford, said Richardson. "This will tend to keep traffic off Ford, too."

As tentatively planned, commercial zoning will extend on the west side of Canton Center from Ford to Warren Road. On the east side of Canton Center, however, it will stop at the Windmere subdivision.

"There may be a lot of traffic and curb cuts on Canton Center if we permit commercial there," said Commissioner Carol Bodenmiller.

But Chairman Bob Padgett said that the residential zoning both north and south of the Canton Center stretch will confine business and prevent strip development from spreading.

glimpse at yesterday

parking lot now stands on Harvey Street; they had four babies, twins that died and Myrtle and Grace Ermine. Eli worked for Harry Robinson," a noted Plymouth auctioneer, said Mrs. Alwood in a letter to The Crier. "... This is not a part of my reason for sending the pictures over but as I sat here thinking about Plymouth, looking over the huge great old trees that line Harvey, it brought to mind how important it is to keep history alive."

You can walk through Miller Woods

The third annual Spring walk through Miller Woods is set for Saturday, April 21 from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. The spring walk has become a way for area residents to enjoy the beautiful and fragile wild flowers of spring.

Located on Powell Road near Ridge Road, Miller Woods is an example of a beech-maple climax forest in which successive stages of plant growth — over a period of nearly 200 years — have culminated in a dominance of maples and beeches. Such a forest, with a large variety of rare plants, is unique to this area.

Wild flowers such as spring beauty, harbinger of spring, hepatica, squirrel corn and more can be observed during the spring.

Once owned by the Miller family of Plymouth Township, the woods is now the property of the Plymouth-Canton school district. For many years the 10-acre parcel of land was the site of unchecked littering. Since 1975, citizens interested in preserving the woods have worked to clear the trash and return the area to its natural state.

Last summer Plymouth-Canton high school students employed in a Youth Conservation Corps program, spent two months cleaning the forest, blocking access roads, and making a woodchip trail.

"Miller Woods has taken on a new look, thanks to these efforts," said Penny Wright, chairperson of the Miller Woods Committee. A recent donation of $150 by the Pilgrim Garden Club will be used to buy a sign and printed material. Other members of the committee include: Gerald Volrath, Pat Atchinson, Evelyn Edgar, Herb Conant and Irene Truesdell.

Committee members and other experienced naturalists will conduct the Saturday walk. Persons interested in taking a conducted tour should meet at the entrance of the woods on Powell Road.

Another walk is scheduled for Sunday, April 29, from 1 to 4 p.m. For more information call the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education office at 453-0200.

Also, on Wednesday morning, April 18, from 10 a.m. to noon a group of seventh graders from West Middle School will be working in the woods to prepare the area for the walks.

OV walk is Sunday

As part of Spring Walk in Plymouth's Old Village, carnival rides for kids will be set up on Liberty Street from Mill to Holbrook streets. The walk will be on Sunday, April 22 from noon to 5 p.m.

All proceeds from the rides will go to the New Hope Foundation, a group that raises money to help fund homes for small groups of severely-retarded children.

The foundation's goal is $1,200-$1,300 this year, said Bonnie Eddlemon, a foundation spokesperson. She said the group raised more than $4,000 during the past one and one-half years.

New Hope Foundation is a non-profit group which helps fund homes in residential communities for small groups of severely retarded children, said Eddlemon. Opportunity House in Plymouth is an example of such housing, she said.

One of the finest areas for growing grapes in the United States is the Napa Valley of California. Napa is an Indian word for plenty, and the Napa Valley does have an abundance of grapes. Vignerons of the Napa are constantly at work trying to match grapes with climate and soil so as to bring out the best in the grapes. They are following the same procedures that Europeans have followed for generations in experimenting and testing, but have the advantage of the knowledge already gathered by the European growers.

Stop in at the CHEESE & WINE

BARN, 515 Forest Ave., and "meet" some of the finest grapes grown in the United States and in the world. Whatever your taste, you will find a delightful selection to please you. In addition, we carry a unique and interesting selection of cheeses, crackers and much more all designed to meet the varying tastes of our customers.

RENT WITH OPTION TO BUY

If your home is on the market long enough, you'll hear the proposition: "I'll rent your home with the option to buy." We've heard it time and again. It is usually made by someone who wants to get out of the rain and is not really serious about buying ANY house.

I would not advise you to rent your home under these circumstances unless there is a serious consideration for the option over and above the rent. The consideration should be a significant amount because you are removing your home from the market. The longer the period of time, the larger the consideration. The option may or may not apply against the sale price. These and many other items should all be specified in the option contract which should be drafted with even more care than the usual purchase and sale agreement.

Most important of all -- remember that you are now culling your prospects down to one -- one who has already told you he would prefer to rent than buy.

PCJBL confronted by attorney

BY E. DALE LEE

There were plenty of fireworks at last Wednesday's monthly meeting of the Plymouth-Canton Junior Baseball League. Tempers flared when three men brought an attorney (identified as Mr. Erps) to the gathering with the expressed purpose of trading a veteran player from one team to another.

The three men, identified as Richard Osborn, John Longridge, and Jim Smith, were trying to get Osborn's 12-year-old son from the Red Sox to the Rangers in the "A" League. The elder Osborn is an assistant coach of the Rangers.

The league by-laws state that a non-veteran player related to the team's manager is exempt from the draft; but an assistant coach's relative doesn't have the same right.

The by-laws also state that a non-veteran can be exempt from the draft if the assistant coach has been with a team one year preceding the player's eligibility.

The attorney said that Osborn was an assistant coach on the Rangers last year, but PCJBL President Jim Schols said Osborn was never officially listed as a coach.

The manager of the Red Sox, Gordie Worster, offered to give his team to Osborn in an effort to end the bickering, but Osborn wanted no part of that.

Smith said the league was aware that this problem existed long ago.

"We did not try to sneak this in (transferring the boy)," he said. "Everyone in the

"A" League knew of this - it was above board."

Erps said that the rules state "a non-veteran of a team can be drafted," adding, "no one here is trying to commit a fraud."

"The rule, as I interpret it, wasn't written to bring a veteran ballplayer from another team," Schols said. "But I will consult the Primary and Executive Boards and make a decision on the rules interpretations with them. This isn't a decision I should have to make alone."

Schols added that the boards, which consist of 10 members, will take the rules of the league and past precedent into consideration before rendering its final decision.

"If the kids saw what you (the three men and attorney) were trying to pull off, they'd laugh," said "A" League President Dennis Schultz.

Ogden sets Rock milestone at Mehock track Relays

BY E. DALE LEE

The Salem High boys' track team accomplished a first under Coach Gary Balconi at the 48th running of the Mansfield (Ohio) Mehock Relays Saturday.

"This is the first time a performer from one of my teams has scored in Mansfield," the fifth-year Rock coach explained. "Dennis Ogden did it."

Ogden, a senior pole vaulter, beat out 55 others at the position for a fifth-place finish.

"He had the third highest height of all the jumpers (14 feet)," Balconi said. "He missed the opening jump at 13 (feet) and missed three times at 14 and a half feet."

Eleven other Rocks traveled to the Midwest's largest high school invitational meet.

Seniors Kevin Warra, Kris Kappler, Dave MacKenzie, and Dave Truesdel copped a third in the 3,000-meter distance medley preliminary heat.

Seniors MacKenzie, Rich Hanschu, Greg Stevens, and junior Greg Lipka competed in the 800-meter relays.

Senior Lance Willsey and juniors Paul Hess and Todd Curtiss competed in individual events.

Hanschu continues to impress the state's college scouts, running the 110-meter high hurdles in a 14.9 time during preliminary competition, good for a second-place showing.

"I thought all of the kids had good times even though the weather was real bad in Ohio," Balconi offered. "The weather has made competition impossible here."

"We've been having staggered practice times because of the weather. The track has had a great deal of use with all of the area teams on it."

"We've even had to cancel a home meet because of the rain (Livonia Bentley on April 11) because of the danger of having someone get hurt."

The Easter school break has hindered Balconi's practice attendance.

"Over 20 boys have left the state for the holidays," he said. "I counted 40 bodies at practice today (Monday)."

The Rocks are at Livonia Churchill High for a triangular meet Thursday at 1 p.m. Farmington Harrison will also be on hand.

Baseball today

JOHN MATTHEWS (PUSHING) and Frank McMurray (riding) were busy drying out the Canton High baseball field this week. The Chiefs, as well as Salem High, will play doubleheaders vs. Wayne Memorial and Livonia Franklin this afternoon at 12:30 p.m. following the rainout of all previously scheduled games. ## Koufax baseball tryouts

Tryouts for the Canton Koufax baseball team will be held April 27, 28, and 29 at Central Middle School, manager Gerald Ebmeijer announced last week.

He said the Koufax League has between 17 and 20 teams and his team is restricted to those boys who are not or will be attending Canton High School.

The players must be 13 or 14 years old as of Aug. 1, 1979. For more information, contact Ebmeijer at 729-1370.

*****

Tryouts for the Salem Koufax team will take place at East Middle School at 1 p.m. on April 29. Only those boys attending Salem High or will be attending next fall are eligible for the team. For more information, contact manager Joe Carlson at 455-8026.

Morman makes Pioneers

1977 Canton High graduate Steve Morman is expected to see action at first base and in the outfield for Marietta College of Ohio for the second straight spring.

Morman, whose parents (Mr. and Mrs.

Marcus A. Morman) still reside in Plymouth, batted .167 for the Pioneers in 1978.

Morman earned several varsity letters in baseball and golf at Canton.

PCJBL controversy should end soon

It's too bad some adults are continuing to tarnish the image of the Plymouth-Canton Junior Baseball League. As reported in last week's Crier, an attorney made an appearance at the league's monthly meeting to browbeat the hierarchy into bending some cut-and-dried rules.

While the by-laws of the league clearly state that the issue in question leaves no room for dispute, (see details elsewhere in this issue) the three men and their attorney think otherwise.

"Mr. Osborn has complied with the league's rules," the attorney said. "I think the thing (trying to transfer a player to another team) can be put to rest. The boy deserves to be with his father."

This argument is sound, right? Wrong. The guy was offered the team that his son is on and he refused to take it. "I want him to play for the Rangers," he said.

Why is Richard Osborn coaching on the Rangers when his son plays for the Red Sox? I believe that Osborn and the others in his party are trying to stack a team. Why else would he turn down a chance to manage the team his son is currently on?

PCJBL President Jim Schols isn't too thrilled with the whole mess.

"You know, when I saw this thing in your column last week that an attorney would be here, I thought it was made up," Schols explained. "It's pretty sad when the news media finds out about our internal problems before we do."

One manager at the meeting said he was ashamed that the men would even consider legal counsel as a means of muscling the league into doing what they wanted. Schols didn't mince words in showing his disgust for the confrontation.

What's next? Primary and Executive Board members of the league will gather and decide whether to amend the rules or to keep them the same. It's my guess that the 10-person committee will tell the three men and their attorney to take a hike.

You see, even if the three men and the attorney go to court, it will take so long that the only thing it might accomplish is precedent. It's a veiled threat . . . time will tell if they realize the PCJBL won't be bullied and buffaloed.

Spring sports teams have always gotten the shaft when it comes to weekly media coverage on the high school level - at least, from what I've seen. As a former spring sports athlete I know how aggravating it is to see pages upon pages of basketball and football during their respective seasons and then see an inch of copy on the tennis and baseball teams.

The Crier is different from other weekly publications - we believe in equal treatment.

Rock runners cancel opener with Bentley

The Salem High School girls' track team was forced to cancel its opener against Livonia Bentley last Wednesday afternoon because of rainy weather.

Coach Scott Kurtz said the meet would probably not be rescheduled.

The Rocks may run against the Canton High and other area teams in an informal meet on April 20.

The next scheduled meet for the Rocks is April 24 at Livonia Franklin. The meet begins at 3:30 p.m.

Hurry! Pitch, Hit & Run registration nearing its end

Pre-registration for Major League Baseball's Pitch, Hit & Run competition June 9 at Massey Field off Main Street in Plymouth must be made at the local Burger King restaurant on Ann Arbor Road before April 30.

Each youngster competes in three categories: pitching at a target, hitting for distance, and running the base paths for speed.

In pitching, each competitor is allowed three throws into a target 46 feet away. Each successful pitch is worth 50 points.

In hitting, each youngster gets three swings (fair or foul), with the longest fair fly counted towards the total point score at one point per foot.

In the running event, the entrant runs the Major League distance of 90 feet from home plate to first base with his or her score determined on a point chart based on time.

Canton girl softballers whip

Livonia Stevenson in opener, 12-8

Ignoring the cold air and slick playing field, the Canton High girls' softball team posted a season opening 12-8 victory over Livonia Stevenson High on April 10.

The Chiefs took an early 5-2 lead in the second inning and never lost control of the contest.

Canton led, 9-3, after five innings of play before Stevenson rallied for five runs in the sixth to pull within two, 9-7.

Chief Coach Max Sommerville was pleased with his squad's performance.

"Our biggest trouble was all the walks we let go," he said. "We did a fine job."

The Chiefs are off until their April 25 encounter with Livonia Churchill.

TOWNSHIP OF PLYMOUTH BOARD OF TRUSTEES - REGULAR MEETING April 10, 1979

The meeting was called to order by Supervisor Notebaert at 7:30 p.m. who led in the Pledge of Allegiance. All members were present.

Mrs. Fidge moved approval of the minutes of the Special Meeting of March 29, 1979 as corrected and with the added comment of Mr. Law. Supported by Mr. Law and carried unanimously.

Fidge moved approval of the Regular Meeting Minutes of April 3, 1979 with the slight correction. Supported by Mrs. Lynch and carried unanimously.

West moved that the bills of General Fund and Water & Sewer Dept. in the amount of $180,029.23 be approved. Supported by Fidge and carried unanimously on a roll call vote.

Hulsing moved that under Old Business No. II: Approval of the proposed Fire Hydrant Ordinance be added as item 3C; and two communications, Item No. IV, 10 A & B, Fire Dept. Statistics, and Informational Reports, both from Larry Groth, Fire Chief, be added to the agenda. Supported by Mrs. Fidge. Ayes all except Breen who voted no. Notebaert asked that Morgan be allowed to report on the Plymouth Commons vs. Township of Plymouth case on the agenda as first item under Old Business I. Fidge asked that a Resolution to the depositories be placed on the agenda under No. III, 4. Hulsing moved approval of the agenda with the added items. Supported by Fidge and carried on a roll call vote with Breen voting no.

Mr. John B. Los, representing the homeowners of Mayflower Subdivision, spoke to the traffic flow from Joy Road thru the subdivision. He was concerned first of all about the children, and secondly about personal property, theft and damage to lawns. The number one priority with the homeowners is to close completely the Mayflower entrance at Joy Road. Solution No. 2 suggested installation of a berm on Mayflower allowing a right turn entrance only to Mayflower Drive with appropriate signs. The homeowners also wanted the signs on Ann Arbor Rd. currently reading 'No left turn from 7:00 to 9:00' altered so that the residents could make left turns on Saturday and Sunday. It was also suggested that the signs would be more effective reading '6:00 a.m. to 8:00 a.m.' in order to control high school traffic. Notebaert pledged that the Board of Trustees would take up the matter with the Wayne County Road Commission immediately; ask the Fire Chief to make his comments regarding the situation, and move the complaint along as quickly as possible. Concurrence of the Road Commission is necessary in order to close the road.

Breen moved that the Attorney, Donald C. Morgan, be authorized to sign the dismissal order without prejudice of the suit of Plymouth Commons vs. Township of Plymouth * N.W. corner of Beck & N. Territorial) as proposed. Supported by Fidge and carried unanimously.

After discussion and answering of questions about New England Corners by the attorney, Breen moved that the form of the Agreement in the exhibits attached to Mr. Morgan's letter to the Board of April 3, 1979 with the attachments noted therein, be approved subject to the changes in the agreement as discussed and approved by the Attorney in terms of changes and subject to the resolution being re-drafted to provide substantially that the Township of Plymouth shall assume responsibility only in accordance with the New England Corners Agreement; final approval must be brought back to the Board for final acceptance. Supported by West and carried unanimously.

Fidge moved approval of the Fire Hydrant Ordinance which is to be published immediately after being signed by the Supervisor and Clerk. Supported by Lynch and carried unanimously on a roll call vote.

Breen moved adoption of the Ordinance XLIX (Sewer Rates) Amendment as presented being XLIX-B and authorizing the Clerk and Supervisor to affix their signature thereto and the publication in accordance to law. Supported by West and carried unanimously on a roll call vote.

Breen moved that the Board of Trustees adopt the Maintenance Responsibility Resolution as presented. Supported by Fidge. Ayes all.

Breen moved that $22,500.00 be budgeted as a grant to the "First Step" program for the Domestic Violence and Shelter Abuse Program. Supported by Fidge. Ayes all.

Notebaert read the results of the bids for renovation of the Township Hall. Mar's Building Company of West Bloomfield was low bidder - base bid $264,770.00. Law spoke to the need to determine over all the future needs of the Township and have to meet those needs through the development of an adequate master plan. He recommended the Board meet with department heads and Township Planner to begin to answer these questions. Lynch moved that the Board of Trustees have a Special Board Meeting on Monday, April 16, 1979.

Breen moved that the Accountant be authorized to prepare an annual financial report of the Township in accordance with the requirements of the statutes. Supported by Fidge. Ayes all.

Fidge moved to deny the request of West for additional personnel. Supported by Lynch. Ayes: Lynch, Fidge, Law, Breen, Notebaert. Nays: West, Hulsing. Motion carried.

Lynch moved that the Treasurer check with the Banks with whom Plymouth Township deals, as to why they charge us a service fee for collection of water bills and taxes; if indeed they are charging a service fee, and what other services they have available. Supported by Breen and carried on a roll call vote with Law voting no.

It was moved by Law that a resolution relative to depositories be adopted and sent by the Treasurer to all depositories. Supported by Lynch. Ayes all on a roll call vote. (Resolution included in official minutes of the meeting.)

Transfer of funds. Mr. Breen moved that we approve the request of James Briggs for the $1144.00 from Contingency to the appropriate account. Supported by Mrs. Lynch and carried unanimously.
