

GERALD OSTOIN

Ostoin named Salem principal

BY ED FITZGERALD

Gerald Ostoin has been named the principal designate for Salem High School. He will take office July 1 when current principal Bill Brown retires.

The Plymouth-Canton School Board unanimously approved Ostoin Monday night. The 'designate' title is a formality, the board said, in case the move was contested.

Ostoin, 42, has been an area coordinator at Salem for the past 12 years. He has been in charge of language arts and summer school. Norm Kee, assistant superintendent for personnel, said Ostoin had been in line for the Canton principal job given to Tom Tattan last year.

Kee said Ostoin was chosen for his leadership ability.

"He's done an excellent job and has a depth of experience in CEP administration."

Ostoin, who before coming to The Plymouth-Canton Community worked for two years as an assistant principal at Willow Run High, said he had been hoping for this chance.

"I have wanted to be a high school principal for some time. I feel very fortunate to get a job at CEP and especially Salem."

Ostoin is married, lives in Dearborn, and has one daughter.

A rape victim speaks out A gutsy woman

BY DAN NESS

She looks across the table and tells her story in a matter-of-fact manner. The ordeal she has experienced is betrayed by her calm appearance as she describes an attack that occurred almost a year ago.

She explains that last June 17, she was assaulted and raped on a bike path in Van Buren Township at noon, as she took a lunch break from work.

"It was a terrible ordeal," she begins. "I thought he was going to kill me. It wasn't a sexual thing. I thought he was going to kill me."

The man accused of raping her, Darrell Paul Morey, of Canton, faces sentencing today in four sexual assault cases that he has admitted to. Hers is the sixth case with which Morey has been charged and the trial for her case has been suspended pending the outcome of today's sentencing.

The woman, Mary Woods (not her real name), is 36 years old and a successful coordinator in a public institution. She speaks with self-confidence. She is a self-described "gutsy" woman.

She is changed from the experience, however. Coming to grips with a sexual assault involves an intense self-examination, which Woods says continues today. "He didn't hurt me physically -- he may have hurt me mentally, I haven't decided yet."

Woods says she was walking on the bike path last summer when a man approached from the other direction. Strangely, she says she thought "I will not let this man hurt me," as the man came near her.

As the man passed, Woods says he grabbed her head from behind with both arms, put his knee in her back, and pulled her to the ground. She says she heard the man say, "If you scream, it's all over with."

Woods screamed anyway. "I tried talking to him," she said. "I said, 'C'mon, you don't want to do this.' I begged him and begged him and begged him, 50 times, not to hurt me," she says. Then, the man dragged her 30 feet into the woods.

After the assault, the man told Woods to count to 100 and not look at him.

Canton man dies after stolen car crashes on I-275

A 19-year-old Canton man was killed early Saturday when a stolen car he was a passenger in rolled several times off of I-275 north of Warren in Canton.

Robert Duane Bartley was pronounced dead on arrival at St. Mary Hospital in Livonia, according to State Police.

The car Bartley was a passenger in was stolen at about 4 a.m. Saturday, according to State Police. Police will issue a warrant for the driver, who left after the accident.

Police would not release the name of the driver, pending a warrant.

According to police, the driver and another person drove the stolen car for about an hour, dropped off the passenger, and picked up Bartley. Bartley may not have known the car was stolen, a State Police spokesman said.

The driver entered I-275 at Ford Road and lost control of the vehicle north of Warren. Police estimate that the car was travelling more than 95 miles per hour when it left the road.

Bartley was thrown from the vehicle during the accident, police said.

State Police are investigating the incident.

Health officials blame virus for Allen sickness

BY ED FITZGERALD

An outbreak of gastrointestinal illness at Allen Elementary last week is being blamed on a virus. It was originally thought food poisoning may have felled the 160 students and teachers who became ill after school last Tuesday.

The type of virus has not been determined as the Wayne County Health Department awaits test results from blood and stool samples.

Dr. Donald Lawrenchuk, medical director for the department, said it was good news that it was viral, compared to a bacterial disease, which can be more serious.

He said it was unknown if the virus had originated inside the school or had been brought in.

"There's no evidence that Allen School was negligent in any way," Lawrenchuk said.

No lunches are being prepared in the Allen cafeteria until all tests are final. The cafeteria served only previously unopened food last Wednesday. A district-wide in-service workshop on Thursday sent students home before lunch. On Friday, and since, lunches have been prepared at Salem High School and brought to Allen.

Lawrenchuk cited three reasons for the viral diagnosis:

•Secondary spreading -- Many of the inflicted had siblings or

Prater found guilty

A Plymouth Township man who said at one time he planned to file suit against the Plymouth Township Police for "beating him up" had his day in court last week — but came out on the short end of the law.

It took a jury in the case just 10 minutes to find Jack Prater guilty of assault and battery against a police officer last Thursday in 35th District Court.

Court Administrator George Wiland said the jury returned about 5 p.m. with a verdict of guilty against Prater, who was charged with attempting to strike Plymouth Deputy Police Chief Chip Snider Dec. 22.

Snider was at the residence of Prater at that time investigating a domestic dispute which had reportedly turned into a possible barricading gunman. Police say Prater threatened to shoot police, and that he looked to be possibly drunk.

Prater attempted to hit Snider when the officer broke through the door.

Snider said Monday that Prater never filed suit to his knowledge and that his contentions were made in an effort of defending himself.

Prater was unavailable for comment on the decision. A pre-sentencing is scheduled before Judge John MacDonald May 20.

Campers in Canton?

Two parcels of land in Canton would be turned into an urban campground and a water theme park if the Wayne County Parks and Recreation Department gets its way.

The department is applying for two Natural Resources Trust Fund Grants to incorporate the land parcels into the Lower Rouge Parkway. R. Erick Reickel, director of the parks and recreation department, wrote, "We feel the acquisition of these two sites will not only preserve the Lower Rouge River Flood Plain but present invaluable recreational resources to the citizens of Southeast Michigan," in a letter of application.

The urban campground would be developed on property north of Michigan Avenue between Sheldon and Lilley roads. The parcel covers 24.7 acres.

The water theme park, which may include a wave-action pool or a water slide, would be on a parcel north of Michigan Avenue between Haggerty and Lotz roads at the I-275 intersection. The parcel covers 32 acres.

How secure is Plymouth's prison?

BY DAN NESS

Does Western Wayne Correctional Facility (WWCF) have a security problem?

No, according to officials from the medium-security prison on Five Mile Road in northwest Plymouth Township.

Yes, according to the township police chief, one prisoner and a prison employe that was contacted by The Crier.

Concerns about the security of the prison resurfaced this week after an altercation Friday morning left two guards hospitalized and three others with minor injuries.

The confrontation was contained to one of the prisoner barracks and only three prisoners were involved in the fight, according to Kurt Jones, administrative assistant to Prison Warden Emmett Baylor Jr. Although he called the scuffle "a critical incident," Jones added "the prison is under control."

But, a prison employe, who asked not to be identified, said the scuffle between guards and prisoners in one of the barracks could have "easily" spilled out into other barracks, and an escape of many prisoners was possible.

Prisoners are not "locked-down" in the barracks, which hold between 35 and 50 prisoners. The employe said the open-barracks set-up was a "very volatile situation," that could lead to more prisoner-guard confrontations.

The present security system at WWCF was a "very iffy situation," the employe said, and tense feelings between the prisoners and employes was creating an "uncomfortable situation."

The barracks were also mentioned as a possible security weakness by a prisoner, who detailed several "security flaws" in written communications to The Crier.

Rickey Simmons wrote: "On many occasions prisoners have left one (barracks) unit through the back door or windows and then entered another unit by the same means where they then gang-jumped some other inmate. On many occasions prisoners have left, undetected, through the back door or window to break in to some building -- or what have you. The unit officer just can't be in the sleeping area, bathroom, shower room, T.V. room, and outside the back of the unit all at the same time."

Jones said he disagreed with Simmons' assessment of prisoners leaving the barracks "many times." Guards are now making checks of the barracks every half-hour to prevent prisoners from being in the wrong area, Jones said.

"We did have a substantial problem when we took over," Jones said, referring to the change from Detroit House of Corrections to WWCF last summer. Jones said, as part of the "opening up pains," prisoners could take advantage of a new staff by moving between units and not being recognized as out of place.

Jones said that new doors had been ordered for the barracks, and with the half-hour guard passes, "that kind of activity has slowed down substantially."

Jones added that mass prisoner outbreaks were unlikely since WWCF holds only technical parole violators, and not prisoners serving time for crimes just committed. Jones said "problem prisoners" face being transferred to a maximum-security prison if they continue to display disruptive behavior.

Plymouth Township Police Chief Carl Berry, whose police department is contacted in the event of an escape,

Five injured at prison

BY DAN NESS

Two prison guards were hospitalized and three other guards were injured while trying to restrain several prisoners at Western Wayne Correctional Facility early Friday morning.

Michigan State Police are investigating the incident.

Three unnamed prisoners are being held in a prison detention center as a result of the scuffle, according to Kurt Jones, administrative assistant to Deputy Emmett Baylor, Jr.

"The prison is under control," Jones said. "We're operating under normal function."

The altercation, which Jones called "a critical incident," started between 3 and 4 a.m. when a guard discovered several prisoners out of their beds in a barracks building, which holds between 35 and 50 prisoners. When the guard tried to get the prisoners back into their beds, they "displayed disruptive behavior," according to Jones, and a struggle ensued.

During the fight, other guards were called in to help, Jones said. Guard Gerald Andrews suffered a broken wrist and guard Jody Bales suffered several broken ribs.

Other than the three prisoners in detention, no other prisoners were involved in the incident, Jones said.

Apathy or satisfaction?

BY T. M. SMITH

The biggest news coming out of Monday night's annual public hearing of the city budget, was ironically the public or the lack of the public.

One person, other than City of Plymouth department heads, turned out for the annual Plymouth City Commission meeting designed to listen to concerns and answer questions of the public. City Manager Henry Graper presented the proposed annual budget to the commissioners, and explained various changes for next year.

Due to lack of attendance, however, the meeting lasted less than 30 minutes, and only lasted that long because of discussion by the commission and the lone member of the public on how to get more people to attend the meeting.

Jack Wilcox, the single seat holder from the public suggested that members of the community might be included even earlier than the planning sessions. But he also pointed out that the lack of attendance might be a positive sign.

"The fact that there isn't a great number of people here, might indicate that they (the public) are generally satisfied with the work of the commission," Wilcox said.

Still, Graper pointed out the importance of the meeting in that 85 per cent of the business of the City of Plymouth is decided at the annual meeting of the budget, and that more public input would be welcome.

During the first ten minutes of the meeting, when Graper went through and explained the budget, the manager outlined the 18 point list of recommendations to the commission. The project 1986-87 budget which Graper presented the commission is at $4,498 million. This represents a 1.71 per cent increase over the 85-86 budget, but is still below the 84-8 budget of $4,588 million.

One of the biggest changes from last year's budget is the proposed increase in revenues from the 35th District Court. The court has projected an increase of more than 433 per cent from the previous year.

This amounts to revenues jumping from $15,000 last year to around $65,000 in the coming year.

Graper said that this increase is due to the court being run in an efficient manner, and police officers of Plymouth writing tickets that stand up in court.

One of the other points of interest that Graper pointed out was the increase of the debt levy from .2399 mills to .6959 mills for the street improvement bonds. He cautioned, however, that this will not change the amount of mills to taxpayers because of the loss of .4564 mills from the library, which is no longer in the city budget.

Cantonite cited in 3-car crash

A Canton man was hospitalized and released Sunday morning and charged with operating under the influence of alcohol (OUIL) following a three-car accident at the corner of Ann Arbor Trail and Haggerty, Plymouth Township police said.

Kenneth Bark, 28, of 44050 Michigan Ave. in Canton, was treated and released from St. Mary Hospital in Livonia for minor cuts caused in the accident, a spokesperson at the hospital said. No one else involved in the accident was injured.

Police said that Bark tested positive at the scene as being legally intoxicated with a blood alcohol level over the legal limits of .10 per cent. He was also cited for failing to stop at a traffic signal.

According to police reports Bark failed to yield a blinking light at the corner of Haggerty and Ann Arbor Trail and was struck by a car driven by Diane Blair of Plymouth. Bark's car was then forced into a third, unidentified car.

Canton homes vandalized

Several residences on Deepwood, Scottsdale and Cheviot streets in Canton were vandalized Sunday, resulting in more than $1,700 in damage.

According to police reports, several automobile tires were punctured and a car and a house were damaged with spray paint.

County considers drain office abolishment

BY DAN NESS

A ballot proposal calling for the end of the Wayne County Drain Commissioner's Office will be considered for a second time in the next two weeks, according to Wayne County Commissioner Milton Mack, who co-wrote the resolution.

The resolution calls for the drain commissioner's duties to be divided between the county's executive and legislative branches. It was rejected by the commission April 15, and re-introduced for consideration by Mack April 17.

The resolution, which failed on a 6-5 vote with three abstentions, would allow for a public vote to determine the future of Drain Commissioner Charles Youngblood's office.

"I knew we'd have some difficulties getting by on the first try," Mack said. Mack's district includes Canton.

"It's going to take some public pressure to get a vote," Mack said. Mack said opponents of his resolution did not want an elected position abolished.

"Also, there's a great deal of patronism flowing from the drain commissioner's office that we have to contend with," Mack said.

Youngblood could not be reached for comment.

The drain commissioner's office has been the target of criticism after preliminary audit reports showed a lack of competitive bidding on drain projects and cost overruns in many projects.

Records for some drain projects were out-dated and disorganized to the point where a complete audit could not be performed, according to representatives from the accounting firm of Ernst and Whinney.

"There is no other office I am aware of that provides that much unchecked power that the drain commissioner's office has," Mack said. "No one should have that much power, no matter how honorable or just they may be."

The resolution now has seven co-sponsors, according to Mack. The resolution needs eight votes in the County Commission to be placed on the ballot. If passed by the commission, the proposal would be put on the August 5 ballot, Mack said.

"It's amazing that a person like that could literally plunder a person's savings and not be held accountable for it," Mack said.

Commissioner Samuel Turner, who was not in favor of Mack's resolution, will introduce two resolutions which would direct the drain commissioner to submit for prior approval certain actions affecting drains in Wayne County, and forming a Drainage Board to govern drainage districts solely in the commissioner's authority now.

"I'm very happy - I can have a few beers and eat like crazy"

This accountant gets invited to races

BY ED FITZGERALD

Bill Boyd, of Canton, says he's hooked. He's hopelessly, pathetically addicted and not in search of help.

In fact, it may just get worse.

Boyd, 44, is a runner. Last year, in what he modestly calls "a good year," he won the master's division (over 40 years) in several state races, including the Free Press Marathon and a half-marathon in Port Huron. In fact, he entered 26 races and won his division 17 times.

Last month he was dubbed "Michigan Male Runner of the Year" by Michigan Runner magazine.

As far as running goes, Boyd is a relative newcomer, having starting in 1979 when the jogging boom was already in full bloom.

"I never ran in high school or college," he says. "I had started to put on weight. One day I was out golfing with friends and one of them was talking about being in a five-mile run. I sort of jumped in on it on a bet."

Boyd hasn't stopped running since. He has lost 35-40 pounds and is feeling great.

"I'm very happy -- and I can have a few beers and eat like crazy. I'm very happy about that."

Boyd says he's even started to earn some of the fringe benefits of being a successful runner. For some races he's an 'invited' runner.

"Last week I ran a race in Kalamazoo. They gave me a motel room and free dinner. And it turned out there was money for the master's division. I took second place and won $50."

Boyd says a personal thrill, akin to a baseball player "getting to play with Babe Ruth," came at an awards ceremony last year. He was presented his awards by noted running stars Joan Benoit Samuelson and Greg Meyer. Meyer is a former Boston Marathon winner.

Boyd, an accountant for Ford Motor, belongs to his company's running team. He also runs with the Redford Roadrunners. He trains around his home near Warren and Lilley, but does most of his running out of the Vic Tanny on Ann Arbor Road. "I go there, change my clothes and then run through Hines Park. It's good to train on those hills."

He is currently trying to run about 50 miles a week. He's increased his

Salem, Allen schools undergo improvements

BY ED FITZGERALD

Allen Elementary and Salem High School will undergo minor construction work as soon as this school year ends.

The Plymouth-Canton School Board voted unanimously Monday to complete a roofing project at Allen. The cost will be $102,747. This represents the last 60 per cent of the roof. The rest of the work has been done over the past two years.

Schools purchasing agent Thomas Rose said the roof had become leaky due to natural aging. The work was done in sections because different parts of the roof called for different materials and roofing techniques. He said a new roof should last about 15-20 years.

The Milbrand Company of Warren submitted the lowest bid.

The work at Salem will put a permanent roof on the greenhouse. This will give the school space for two new classrooms. The schools determined this more valuable than the loss of the greenhouse facilities. This work will be done by Schena Roofing and Sheet Metal, of Mt. Clemens, at a cost of $27,704.

Both projects will be charged to the 1986-87 Operating Budget. The Allen work will be charged to the upcoming bond issue if its passed.

School board president Roland Thomas asked Rose how long the Allen work would take. He was assured it would be completed by the time school resumes in 1986-87.

Thomas said he did not want to see a repeat of the problem caused when a roofing project at Farrand Elementary overlapped into the beginning of this school year.

Put Through Bifocals on the Spike

“The time has come,” the walrus said, “to talk of many things: of shoes — and ships — and sealing wax, of cabbages and kings....And why the sea is boiling hot, and whether pigs have wings....But most of all Betty’s Spike and what his life may bring.”

Apologies are due England’s Charles Ludwidge Dodgson, who wrote such classics as Alice in Wonderland under the pen name of Lewis Carroll, for this play upon those memboragle lines. However, had he been present las Saturday for the party at which Spike was guest of honor, I’m sure he’d have understood.

Actually, Spike is David John Smith. The feast was at the Plymouth Township home of his proud parents, John Elton Smith Jr. and Betty Delano Smith, and, to tell the truth, Spike slept through most of the revelry.

It was easy to excuse him for this social faux pas, realizing he was still tired from his nine-month journey geting here. Besides, as we calculare age, the four days that had passed since Dr. David Middleton helped bring Spike into this world at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital hardly qualified the brawny lad for the banquet circuit.

Friends of his parents gave the homecoming of mother and son a festive air with banners and balloons, and granparents fought off a possessive father to finally thake turns holding the newcomer. These incuded John Smith Sr. and Dorothy form Oscoda, Dorothy being laden with beautiful stuffed toys she had personally crafted, and of course the local contingent of Moter Goose and myself.

Speaking of Mother Goose, and because this is the final publication of Bifocals in The Crier, I must take the occasion to set the record straight. All those birthday greetings that were written about recently were for my 70th, not hers!

One particular message brought the realization that there may have been a misim,pression. It touched a sensitive feminine nerve and led to the instructions “Tell them I’m not even ready for

Through Bifocals

By Fred Delano

Social Security. Tell them you married a child bride. Tell them you like younger women. Tell them anything, but do it.”

So I have.

And where did Spike get his nickname? A group of girls at Salem High School are responsible. They were the members of the past season’s Salem volleyball team and when it became evident that Coach Betty was pregnant, that’s the way the Rocks talked about it, not knowing if it would be a spiker or a spikette.

Naming children sometimes is difficult. Officially Betty is Elizabeth Ann, a combination that honored maternal ties on both side of the family. We picked Robert Carl when I was driving Mother Goose to the hospital, the second being my father’s name and the first because we agreed that everyone we knew named Bob was a good guy. We think he’ll approve of the choice his sister and her husband made.

The middle name of John gives it third generation usage in the Smith clan. As for David, well, once there was a David Delano.

He was Bob’s and Betty’s older brother. To be specific, I should say half-brother. They both thought the world of him, but for 16 years he’s been only a memory.

Having another David in the family makes the eyes water and the heart strings grow taut. An unmatched warmth of love flows through the veins.

Welcome, Spike; your Uncle Dave would have liked you.

And to all the people of The Crier and COMMA, thanks; you’ve been great. so endth this chapter.

*If it’s not why save

the Wilcox House?*

EDITOR:

All I hear about is “save the Wilcox House.” Obviously, it is not going to be repaired at its present location so who cares what happens to it?

That building is rich with history and belongs in its original spot. But I understand money comes first. I just wish a high-rise building would not be erected in its place.

A tall building is definitely out of place in the downtown area. I’ve lived in Plymouth for 25 years. I love the town the way it is, although it’s been going downhill with all the new buildings going up on every available square inch of open space.

Why can’t city officials try to preserve the small-town theme? A three- or four-story high building would blend in better, but I guess money is all that ever matters.

Everyone I talk to agrees with me. I wish the city would take a poll and find out how residents feel. Let the people decide, not just a handful of people at City Hall.

Area farmers don't live happily ever after

Times Like These
By Ed Fitzgerald

It's nice to escape to the movies. There's not always a happy ending, but we can eat popcorn while larger-than-life heroes fight life's battles. And, if they don't win, they at least look beautiful losing.

Movies have a captive audience in this area. Last year, local boy Tom Hulce stole the biggest film of the year with classical giggling. A while back, a television movie was filmed in Plymouth. It was about a small town reporter, played by Karl Malden, who stood up for freedom of the press. It's nice that movies can make the Bill of Rights pay off. Unfortunately, the pen, at times, is mightier than the sword only when it helps pay the bills.

Plymouthites, desiring the great escape, are captive, partially, because there's not a lot of places to hide in the reel world. There's only a second-run theatre in town. Hopefully, that's because multi-theatre complexes are hateful, though my apologies to Canton which has another one on the way.

(The annoying thing about those behemoth Bijous is that people can drive there without buying a newspaper to see what's playing. With a dozen theatres, most assuredly there's a movie they haven't seen more than once.)

However, it's the movies, not the moviehouses, that fall short. No matter how many movies are made, even if controversial and poignant, nothing is helped by Hollywood. It's dangerous to think that if big stars like Malden or Jane Fonda or Willie Nelson stick their noses into some business (easy for Malden), the battle is being won.

A good example is the recent spate of movies about the plight of farmers. The tear-jerker movies go out of the way, I mean, out to the back 40, to sympathize with farmers. Of course, the actors playing the farmer role models, if they've ever done commercials for a bakery, are former roll models.

Guy Bunyea and friends at work

As in the movies, real farmers are losing their land and a way of life. As not in the movies, real farmers have to stay when the lights go up.

The Bunyeas, one of the area's best known farm families, of Powell Road in Plymouth Township, are close to quitting the business of growing food. Other area farmers are in similar shapes.

Pat Bunyea, whose husband Guy has worked on the farms of a father and grandfather, says her family is going to hold out and see what this year's harvest is like. Then if it's not go great (and grain prices are low) it might be that Guy's sideline of construction might come to the front lines.

"It's a bad situation," Pat said. "The farmers around here get together and say 'Should we be doing this?' There's got to be other kinds of work."

"No one's going to realize the problem until there's nothing to eat. You can't turn on a machine and grow a potato."

The Bunyeas have to keep at it till the end of this year, if for no other reason, than obligations to year-to-year land leases. Pat says they're hurt by the cost of seed, fertilizer, and machinery.

There's irony to the high cost of the machines.

"Guy bought a tractor 10 years ago," Pat says. "Right now he could sell it, if he could find someone, for more than he paid for it."

She says the whole farm industry is going "down the tubes." A farm implement dealer she used to do business with in Ann Arbor went out of business last month. Others are operating on a cash-only basis.

"It's really drastic," Pat says. "And it keeps going down."

The Bunyeas say they'll probably make their decision around November. That's about the same time all of the beautiful holiday movies will be released. And if that seems corny, you know who you can thank for the popcorn.

I'll vote against books, witches that denounce God

EDITOR:

I do not know what religion you practice; but, I would never say that it is "ludicrous" for you to base your decisions on your religious doctrine (Crier editorial April 2). Christianity is the belief in Jesus and His divine teachings that are found in the Bible. Our Lord tells us to seek His word for wisdom, comfort and answers for all our needs. This never spells disaster for me.

He does not tell us to practice His teachings at our convenience or to turn them off while at work. We cannot go to work and break God's commandments or make decisions that are in direct violation of Scripture and then come home and pick up where we left off with Him. I don't believe there is any religion that is based on this type of part-time devotion.

The aim for any group of people to seek representation in this free country of America is never "way off." This is a nation based on the freedom to seek representation in all levels of government, which includes the Plymouth-Canton School Board.

The American Heritage Dictionary defines 'censor' as a person authorized to examine printed or other materials and remove or suppress what he considers objectionable. Of course I plan to examine or censor material that comes in and out of the school system. I would consider it one of my duties.

What is more, I plan to do it according to God's printed word. I do not know anyone who does not censor, or in your case edit, what material is acceptable or not. I do not burn or destroy books, I simply avoid the ones I believe are undesirable. I am not in the least concerned about what is offered in the world or in other's homes, only what our children are being taught and are being exposed to at our schools.

Last November our board voted unanimously for a self-professed witch to come to our school and talk to our children. I would have voted against this based on Biblical principles found in both the New and Old Testament which state that Our Lord sees witcraft as an evil and detestable practice.

I would vote against any books or programs that are anti-Christian or denounce Jesus as our Saviour.

If the voters want this type of voice on the school board, they will elect me.

To The Point

By Dan Ness

Linda Chuhran has claimed throughout her tumultuous term of office as Canton Clerk that her story has not been told in full.

The press, she says, has been manipulated at times by those who would have her coming to board meetings as a citizen rather than an elected official. On several occasions, she has stated that there is "more to the story" than meets the eye regarding issues that have come up during her term.

In an experimental effort to dispel any fears of boosterism or manipulation in the newspaper, I am giving Chuhran this space to comment on several of the issues we have reported during her term.

As a disclaimer, let it be known that the following opinions are those of Linda Chuhran, and not mine:

On the recall effort: Chuhran says she is not concerned with the recall, that she is too busy with her job to worry about it. She also feels that the recall was initiated by Canton Board of Trustee members. "I'm not going to let them deter me from the goals I set when I took office. The people had their say in 1984, and they'll have their say in 1988."

On her working relationship with other township officials: Chuhran says some board members and township officials have "played games" with her. She says her own "naivete and openness" have helped others put her in controversial situations. She says she does not participate in game-playing in Canton government. "I have never hid anything in this office." Additionally, she says the all-male Board of Trustees treats her different because she is a woman. "They see me in a submissive role."

On the press: The local press has been manipulated by other officials who want to make her look bad, Chuhran says. The press also tends to report only the "bad" news, she says. "We do some good things in here that I feel don't get recognized."

On job duties performed by others that she feels are hers: Chuhran says state law dictates which duties are hers and that she is under a great liability risk as the duties are now delegated. "I can't believe they (the board) don't understand that. They're just not willing to discuss it. They don't want the clerk to have those duties."

On her job performance: Chuhran says she is proud of her office. "We work well as a team," she says of her staff. The staff backs her "100 per cent," she says. Chuhran says she has made the clerk's office more efficient, streamlined and more accessible to the public. She says the record-keeping system in the clerk's office has been greatly improved. She says, overall, the office is more organized. "It was not organized when I got here."

On the lawsuit she filed against the Board of Trustees: "I didn't have a choice," she says. Chuhran says that she would either have to work in a "vulnerable position, legally" or make a move and "take the political heat." She says she made a good-faith effort to discuss problems she had with her office before filing the suit, but that the board did not make an effort to discuss problems she saw in the present set-up.

On controversy: She says an incident in September where a Union Lake woman reported her for reckless driving and making an obscene gesture was "staged" by those who want her out of office. She says another incident where she had to have her township car repaired because of hitting a pothole provided another opportunity for officials to "play games" with her. She says the DPW held the car unnecessarily long and tampered with the car's repairs. "These incidents don't relate to my performance in the township as clerk."

Again, the above opinions are Chuhran's, and not mine.

I'm the guy who looks lost

The First Day of School.

If there was ever an event that I both hated and loved as a young tyke, it was The First Day of School. The ritual of it all, the excitement, the fear of the unknown. Now that was something to put a spark into the end of a boring summer.

Well Plymouth-Canton, I didn't get any new school clothes, but today is my First Day of School in Plymouth-Canton. A new reporter to deal with, a new face on the editorial pages. Wide-eyed and filled with enthusiasm -- here I am.

Not only is this my First Day of School, but I'm also the New Kid in Town. Talk about a great combination for apprehension. To beat it all, I'm supposed to fill the shoes of some guy that went "Down The Road."

No problem, I say as I gnaw the last remains of my fingernails away. This is what I've spent the last seven years of my life getting ready for. So, without further delay, meet T.M. Smith. A recent grad of Central Michigan University. A guy that believes in having a bit of fun while going through life, but also thinks it is important to call the shots At FACEVALUE. And for some reason, this is a man who just recently decided to drop the "i" in his first name just to be a little different with a very common name.

But all this doesn't help much on the First Day of School. A thousand questions run through my mind, like

At Facevalue
By T.M. Smith

who can I sit with at lunch time. Will I get to sit with the "in" crowd, or will I be stuck with my lonesome to eat alone by the swingsets.

All these thoughts bombarded my brain as I made the hour trek from Lansing last week to meet The Crier staff, and learn a little about The Plymouth-Canton community. Fingers drumming away on the steering wheel, radio blasting and palms sweating on the way all went for naught.

Once I got here, I quickly found out that this is going to be a very fun experience.

In my 22 years of making a pain of myself, and 17 years of "First Days" at school and jobs, I've never felt so comfortable in such a short time. The people I've met so far, both at The Crier and in the community have given me a very good feeling about being here. (Tell me I don't know how to make points with the boss!)

So when this gets into your hands, I will have been a member of the community for a grand total of five days. At least three of those spent packing and unpacking, loading and unloading. My first weekend here was spent trying to figure out why I packed my dishes with dirty clothes, and staring out the window wishing I could be in the sunshine.

I will be found from now on regularly on these pages, pecking back at you -- telling you my thoughts you may or may not agree with. Having some fun, and telling it like it is -- At Facevalue.

But if, by chance, in the next couple weeks you happen to see some guy who looks lost, there is a good chance it is me. Just give me a point in the right direction and hopefully I'll get where I need to be.

In a column last week it should have been reported that Plymouth and Plymouth Township both belong to The County of Wayne Community Development Block Program.

Breen meeting request denied by school board

Plymouth Township Supervisor Maurice Breen says he doesn't understand why the Plymouth-Canton School Board has declined to meet township officials to discuss some land the township wants to buy, but he told Board members at the April 15th meeting that he will try again to set up a meeting with the school board.

The issue at stake is the future of a 17-acre parcel of land the township hopes to add to its park. The land currently belongs to the school district.

Breen previously requested a meeting between the two boards, but received a letter from School Superintendent John Hoben which stated that the property was not for sale.

At the meeting Breen said that "the township board has never met with the school officials and that we (township board) think it would be worth it to sit down and talk with school board. Perhaps if I make it clear that we could discuss other issues other than the property" Breen said.

Hoben, on April 17, said that the schools would be open to talk about issues if they are "legitimate issues and they are relative to the schools, but if a meeting would just rehash the property issue, then we would not be interested. The schools have made its decision.

Hoben also questioned what issues there were to discuss relative to both boards.

Breen was instructed by the Board of Trustees to set a meeting between the township and the schools. He said he thought a meeting between the two boards was a "reasonable request".

"Obviously our board, which represents 25,000 people, has expressed a meeting with the school board and I think they should meet," Breen said.

The township is seeking a state grant to purchase the property, which would be added to develop a beech maple forest section of the property.

The schools have declined to sell, saying the property is considered a potential elementary school site.

Hoben's most recent letter to Breen offered to let the township use part of the property as soccer fields. It maintained, however, that it is not interested in selling the property. In a letter to Breen, Hoben wrote "It is the consensus of our (school) board that a meeting of this nature is not necessary as the desire to relinquish control of the property still is not a consideration."

Is WWCF secure?

said "informational problems" between the police department and prison were being worked on, but added, "No, I'm not confident about the security of the prison."

Prison officials, Berry and citizens meet once a month at WWCF to discuss concerns about the facility, Jones said.

Simmons also listed several other areas which he thought were weak in security. Jones said of the list, "I can't see anything we weren't aware of" or anything prison officials had already started to work on.

Included in Simmons' list of "security flaws" was:

- an open manhole on the side of the road behind barracks unit 10, which he felt prisoners could hide in or escape;
 - the fence behind units 8 and 9, which Simmons felt is too close to the barracks;
 - an open walk-way space above the office and bathroom in the kitchen, which he felt prisoners could break a hole in and jump out of;
 - another manhole, this one, with a cover not bolted down;
 - the warehouse, which Simmons felt could be raided for equipment in the event of a riot;
 - a wall separating the prison store from the quartermaster, which he felt could be pushed over to get tools;
 - gasoline engines inside the prison compound, the gasoline, Simmons wrote, could be used to start fires within the prison;
 - large kitchen windows, portions of which Simmons felt could be knocked out to pass food from the kitchen to prisoners waiting outside.
- Jones said of the list, the only immediate concerns were the manholes. Both manholes did not lead to tunnels, Jones said, and were only three and eight feet deep. Small water lines led to the manholes, Jones said.

Jones said the fence Simmons referred to was very close to the barracks, but that it would be impossible for prisoners to get over the fencing system, which consists of one microwave sensor fence, sensors on a wire fence with rolled "Concentina" wire (sharp razor-like steel blades), another sensor fence outside of the main fence, and a roving patrol driving around the perimeter of the prison, along with guards in the prison yard and in the control center.

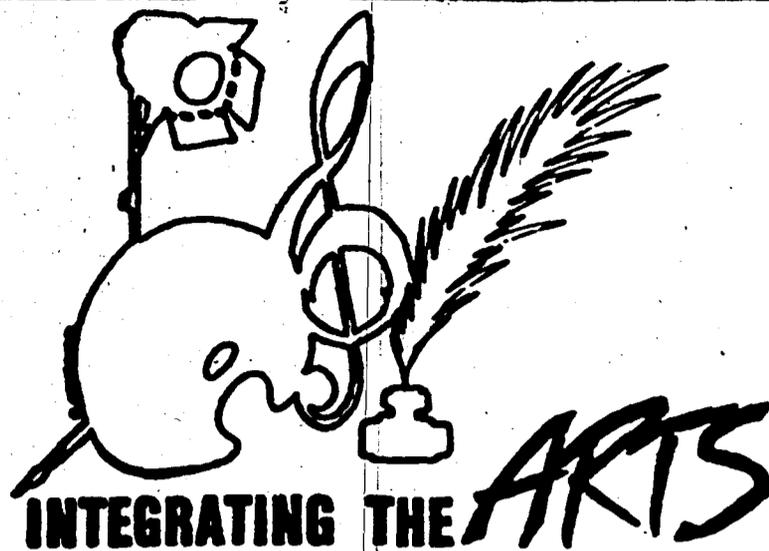

The open walk-way space has a "solid concrete wall" that would be nearly impossible to break through, Jones said. A window in that vicinity has had bars added to it to prevent someone from breaking through that, Jones said.

The prison warehouse does have security problems, Jones said, but prison officials had been working on it already.

Jones said of the wall separating the prison store from the quartermaster's office was "secure enough for our purposes."

Jones said that flammables in the prison compound were controlled by guards, as a result of a fire that destroyed a library building at the prison in January. "Also, we're insisting that every motor vehicle in here is supervised," to prevent gasoline siphoning, Jones said.

Jones said the large kitchen window had "already been identified as a problem" and screens had been ordered to prevent passing of food and supplies from the kitchen.

Changes for exchange pupil

BY CHRIS FARINA

The senior prom, yearbook signatures and graduation from Salem high school.

These are the things that Heather Bodell will miss this year as a senior in high school.

Heather was chosen by Youth for Understanding (YFU) to represent the state of Michigan as a foreign exchange student.

Heather, of Portsmouth Crossing, is currently living in Abbenrode, West

HEATHER BODELL

Germany; which is in the northeastern part of the country.

Heather applied to YFU in October 1984 and found out she was chosen as a representative a year ago April.

When she decided to apply it was because she wanted to learn about other people, places and ways of living.

"I wanted to experience things that very few teenagers have had a chance to experience," said Heather.

Heather left the United States in July of 1985. She flew with approximately 430 other students to Frankfurt.

After arriving in Frankfurt all the exchange students spent four weeks there going through an orientation program, and generally having a good time in the city.

"Frankfurt is an international city which still retains a bit of the old German heritage," said Heather.

Heather was the first of the exchange students to join her permanent host family.

The entire Bodell family is involved with Heather, even though she is overseas. They helped Heather apply to different colleges from Germany.

"If we had to do it over again we would have preferred her junior year; because of the college applications" said Heather's mother, Dianne.

The process of college applications became difficult because overseas mail usually takes seven to 10 days.

After Heather applied to a college they usually wanted to get in touch with her; not realizing she was overseas.

"I had to spend a lot of time filling out forms and writing essays in order to meet deadlines," Heather said.

The entire family is thankful to her counselor from Salem, Donna Stevens.

"She put a lot of work into getting teacher recommendations, finishing school records and taking care of general paperwork involved in applying to college," said Heather.

Heather's career plans are those of being a writer. During her stay in Germany she must perform a community service; according to YFU guidelines.

In January she picked her community service; a practicum at a weekly Braunschweig newspaper, where she ran errands, assisted reporters, learned word processing and wrote stories.

"I've become much more self confident and mature; I've also realized that only I have the power to determine my own life," said Heather.

During the year she has made certain comparisons to the U.S. and Germany.

"Here (Germany) one has time to sit down, talk, drink a cup of coffee, read or take a walk. In the states American life is so fast, busy and stressful," said Heather.

When Heather returns she will be a changed person.

"We're going to have to learn about each other again," said Dianne.

Heather will return to Plymouth in July, but first she and the other exchange students will visit Bonn and the German Parliament. They will also visit Washington D.C.

Going by the book

Elaine Bain says, for the last 10 months, it's like she's been married to Marcia Elsner. The two women have spearheaded the annual Plymouth AAUW (American Association of University Women) used book sale to be held May 2-3 at the Westland Shopping Center. Hours are 10 a.m.-9 p.m. each day.

Bain and Elsner, and many other AAUW members, have been spending most of their waking hours in the basement of St. John's Seminary - sorting packing and pricing books. Roughly 18,000 books in roughly 710 boxes.

"We have a little of everything in books," Bain said. In fact, there will be cookbooks, sheet music, mysteries, travelogues and children's books. And then some. One of the more interesting offerings is a collection of homemade theme scrapbooks on people ranging from Herbert Hoover to famous women.

This is the 32nd year for the Plymouth sale. "It started out in the old Kroger store on Forest," Bain said. "The books fit on a couple of card tables."

The money raised at the book sale, which Bain hopes to see reach $6,000, goes toward scholarships for local women returning to school. Included are funds for Madonna College, Schoolcraft College, and a small stipend for the Plymouth-Canton Community Education.

Plymouth's AAUW is also known for its annual children's play. Last February it presented the Wizard of Oz.

WINNER OF THE WEEK

Nancy Chrusciel, manager of the Lawson's in Plymouth, set out a collection jar on the store's counter when employe Mary Ann Little lost her home to fire last November. Over $300 was donated. "I had enough for a down payment on a house-the first we've ever owned," Little said.

(Winner of the Week is selected by The Crier Editorial Staff without knowledge of the sponsor. Nominations for this honor may be submitted to The Crier Editorial Staff.)

It can't happen here

Interviewing a woman who had been raped was a unique experience and one I will probably never forget. Rape is something you read about in the newspapers, hear about on TV, and always happens to someone you don't know.

Sitting face to face with this woman, listening to her describe what she went through and to some degree is still enduring, chills ran down my back. This was a real person, not just someone I would read about and soon forget about. For the first time I thought I might have an inkling to the horror someone in that situation must feel.

I couldn't help but be amazed by the strength of this woman. I think most people would find it impossible to talk about. She said if it hadn't been for the help of others, she's not sure she would have been able to report the incident. I can't imagine the emotional trauma she must have gone through. How do you deal with the fear that someone might kill you then cope with the aftermath of being sexually abused?

This woman has obviously come a long way. While still going to counseling, she has some advice to offer to anyone who is faced with this kind of an ordeal and for people who know of someone who has been raped. She strongly advises to seek medical help, notify the authorities, then find some kind of counseling to deal with emotions.

If one of her sisters was hurt in this way she said she would stay with her, make sure she knew she was loved, and tell her that what had happened wasn't her fault. Then she turned to me and said, "if your daughter is ever ..." Suddenly a siren went off in my brain. My God, something like this could never happen to my kid. For the first time I understood what she meant when she said the guy should get off with nothing less than 100 years in prison.

MEXICO CITY

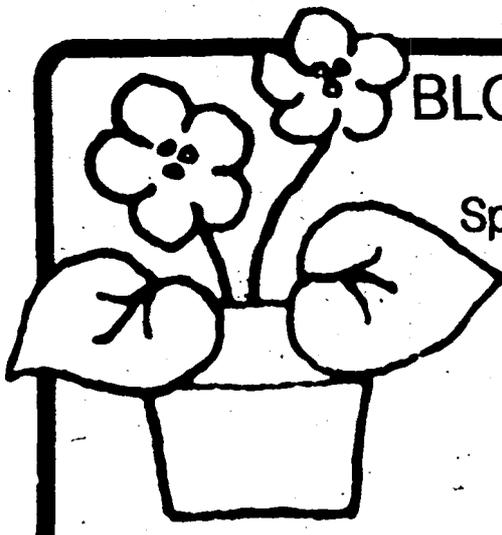

Anywhere you go in Mexico, you will see little roadmarkers, each bearing a number and nothing else. They indicate the number of miles to Mexico City, the heart of Mexico. It is the country's true center, politically, culturally and emotionally. What most people don't realize until they have been there is that Mexico City is not only the oldest city in the Western Hemisphere, but one of the biggest in the world. With a population of just over 8.5 million, it is surpassed only by Tokyo, London, New York, Shanghai and Moscow.

It is this combination of age and size that makes it such a fascinating place. You can step out into the street from the most luxurious of modern hotels and in five minutes be in a quarter of the city where most of the buildings are hundreds of years old. You can spend the morning shopping at a department store the equal of anything in New York, London or Paris and later in the day visit a street market where goods are brought in on burro and sold in the same way they have been sold before the Spanish came to conquer in the 16th century.

After mysterious sickness hits students, teachers

Allen attendance back to normal parents come down with the illness after going home.

•Symptoms -- Included were vomiting, diarrhea and nausea. One child was hospitalized and released for violent vomiting. Viruses do not respond to antibiotics.

•Duration of the illness -- Only about 40 students stayed home from Allen this Monday, just slightly above normal. Some of these were not necessarily ill but kept home on precaution.

Lawrenchuk termed it a "point source" outbreak because the illnesses occurred in such a short period of time. Most cases were reported between 7 p.m. last Tuesday and 3 a.m. Wednesday.

Thomas Workman, principal at Allen, said his cafeteria had "taken quite a beating" and was "pleased that there was indication it (the illness) was not connected with food or water."

Lawrenchuk said, though a virus, the illness could have been transmitted a number of ways, including through tainted water used to clean food, or poor hygiene on part of the afflicted.

Lawrenchuk said 36 different food and water samples were being tested. He said all the completed tests had come up negative.

THOR LANE, left, and Mike Tennis eat lunches furnished from Salem High School at Allen Elementary Friday. Allen students ate the box lunches from Salem after about 160 students and teachers became ill last week.

County health officials traced the illnesses to a virus. Thor and Mike judged the shipped-in food "not bad." (Crier photo by Chris Boyd)

Kids blossom in this cozy garden

BY CHRIS FARINA

Bev Corp always wanted to teach the younger kids.

Since August of 1984 she has been doing just that, teaching in her own pre-school; Academic Gardens.

Corp subbed through the Plymouth-Canton schools and was a sixth grade teacher at Tanger Elementary.

Most of the teaching is done through activities such as finger plays and puppet shows.

Academic Gardens is getting the kids ready for kindergarten, by teaching them the alphabet, colors and also putting particular stress on manners.

"The atmosphere here is very warm and cozy because we're small," said Corp.

In a larger group the children become overwhelmed, says Corp. With the smaller group the children feel more important.

Corp says she is a great believer in the outdoors for children.

"We took them outside and they looked for signs that showed them spring was here; like the green grass, buds on the trees and the snow being gone. We try to make them aware of the changes around them," said Corp.

Academic Gardens uses the technique of multi-sensory learning. The kids are to use all of their senses in every day learning.

"We also try to get the parents involved as much as possible," said Corp.

Corp says that 90 per cent of the kids don't want to leave when the parents come to pick them up.

"The children like it; it's their place," Corp said.

When father talked he must've listened

Bill Williams Jr. recently joined the staff at E.F. Hutton and Company Inc. at the Plymouth office, following in the footsteps of his father.

Williams joined the firm in May as a trainee and has since been promoted to an account executive. His father, Leon "Bill" Williams, who joined E.F. Hutton in 1984, was recently promoted to vice president.

School Business Officials International.

"I was so confused"

"I felt so sick, I could hardly walk," she says. Two high school kids in a van stopped and picked her up on I-275 and brought her back to where she worked. Woods says she could not even bring herself to call the police. When co-workers discovered what had happened, they called the police for her.

"I was so confused at being hurt -- so humiliated, scared," she says. "If those kids hadn't taken me to work, I would have gone home and put my head under a pillow. You have no strength or power.

"I pride myself on being a gutsy lady, but I'm not that gutsy," she says, almost apologetically.

The ensuing trial was an ordeal in itself, Woods says. "I couldn't answer questions -- I froze," she says.

The victim takes on a different role, also, when the trial begins, Woods says. "All you are is a witness. Nobody holds your hand. It's tough, real tough."

A friend of hers who was in court when she was testifying told her she looked "mean" on the witness stand. "I was real curt with my answers," Woods says. "I didn't look like the same person. I looked a wreck."

Woods describes Morey as looking "like an alter boy" during her trial, and was astonished by the contrast in his appearance and the crime she says he committed. "He looks like the most innocent little person in the world. It's amazing."

Woods took three weeks off of work immediately after the assault, "but I should have taken six months," she says. The struggle to come to grips with what happened began with medical help -- help she advises for anyone who has been through a sexual assault.

"That's most important," she says. "Get the medical attention."

Woods also sees a counselor, and through her sessions, she has discovered hidden side-effects of the assault. After the assault, Woods would advise other women not to fight back if attacked, thinking that is what she did when she was attacked. But, it turned out she had not given in to her attacker -- she had just told herself she had given in.

"After nine months of saying 'Give in,' I realized that I had screamed, I fought back," Woods says. "But, I didn't give myself credit for nine months."

Now, she advises other women to "be as calm as you can, and do whatever you can to live through it."

For Woods, the counseling continues. "I wouldn't say 'rape' when talking to people," she says, "I would say 'hurt.' I was hurt. My counselor would say, 'Mary, you were raped,' and I would say, 'Shut up, don't use that word.'"

Woods says she would not have made it through her ordeal without the help of others. "I would be a mess without those people helping me," she says. Getting help for herself, though, was difficult to do.

"The hardest person in the world to help is yourself," she says. "It was a crisis -- either you survive, or you go under. I don't want to think of myself as a victim. It's a situation that's over with. It's ended."

Woods speaks of several ideas she has for preventing sexual assaults like hers -- more police patrols on the bike paths, psychological tests on those who commit sexual assaults to better understand the criminal, and most importantly to her, stiffer penalties for those found guilty of sexual assaults.

If Woods were setting the penalty for the man she says raped her, he would get "100 years, minimum, with no parole. I say that because I thought the man was killing me, and I see no reason to put anyone else through that," she says with determination.

"I think rape should be a capital crime," she says. "The laws aren't strict enough. He could have beat me up and probably gotten a stiffer penalty than what he will."

"The police were good, they were sympathetic," she says. "But they can't do anything, because it's after the fact. They just report the crime, they can't protect you."

Specifically, Woods thinks the bike paths she was assaulted on should be protected by police officers. "Someone should be out there patrolling that bike path," she says. "Make it safe, then publicize the fact that it's safe. Lots of women won't go out there. Lots of kids won't go out there."

But, Woods did go back to the same bike path she was raped on about one month ago, to prove to herself that she was recovered from her experience. Although her friends urged her not to go back, she felt she had to, she says. "I was goddamn angry."

As she walked alone down the bike path, she heard someone approaching from behind, and the memories became too much.

"I screamed," she says. It was a man walking a bicycle that was coming up behind her, she explains.

"And he apologized."

The Canton-Salem rivalry between the two Plymouth schools was heated up last week when the girls soccer teams went head-to-head. Above Michelle Bright

(17) of Salem and Cheryl Nippa of Canton battle for position. Salem took the honors in this contest, winning 3-1.

Rocks top Chiefs 3-1

Salem dumps Canton in soccer rivalry

BY JEFF BENNETT

Their warpaint looked like bleeding scratches when the Canton Chiefs took a 3-1 beating from the Salem Rocks in girls soccer on Friday.

"I was expecting it to be an even game because of the rivalry," said Salem's Larry King who was substituting coach for Ken Johnson. "I thought it would come down to who would be more emotional."

For both teams, the game had a lot of body contact, pushing, and falling on the ground.

The Rocks struck first when Jill Estey, shot a passed ball from Julie Tortora into the net.

Before the first half ended, Rock junior Jennifer Bellhart scored for a 2-0 lead.

"We were expecting it to be close," said Canton coach Mike Morgan. "Salem came ready to play."

That fact became clear when both teams entered the field for the second half.

Johnson out for season

Salem coach Ken Johnson will not return to finish coaching the Salem girls soccer season. His heart attack on April 20, will take six weeks to recover from, said Larry King.

King will be joined by Ray Sturdy and they will act as intern coaches until the end of the season.

The girls were not informed of this fact on Friday by King, because he did not want it to upset them, said King.

Johnson will return in the fall to coach the boys soccer team.

With 4:37 left in the third period, Salem had a break away, but came up short when Canton sophomore goalie Jennie Saul saved the ball with a diving catch.

At the 1:38 mark, Canton had their first score when Kendra Whiteley shot the ball in on the right side of the goal, on a penalty kick.

"Kendra played one of her better games," said Morgan.

"I was expecting it to be an even game because of the rivalry. I thought it would come down to who would be more emotional."

*--Ken Johnson
Salem coach*

Things looked good for Canton as they streaked up the field for another score. But, Salem's Chris Casler had other ideas when she slid, knocking the ball away.

The last score of the game came in the fourth quarter when Estey, stuck between to Canton defensive fullbacks, power kicked the ball in the Chiefs' net for the 3-1 game.

"We were beaten to the ball," said Morgan. "We can't score when we don't have the ball. We made serious mental errors at key times. They were little things."

For Salem, the team out shot the Chiefs 21-8.

"The kids stayed together and played super," said King.

The Rocks are 5-2-1 after losing 6-4 against Livonia Stevenson last Wednesday, but dropping North Farmington 4-1 Monday night.

Today, Canton plays at Farmington at 4:30 p.m. They bring a 4-3-1 record with them.

Salem bats boom, win 3

BY JEFF BENNETT

Salem's softball bats seemed to burn the opposing pitchers when they out scored their opponents 47-11 in three games last week.

Heavy-ball hitting took the place of bad defense causing a 19-7 victory over Livonia Stevenson on Monday.

The game was called in the bottom of the sixth inning on the mercy ruling when the Rocks went ahead by 12 points.

In the first inning of play, Jessica Handley, Marcie Walker, Leslie Plichta, Denise Tackett, Sandy Oberliesen and Ann Mudingier rounded bases to score five runs for the Rocks. The Rocks added another in the second and then Stevenson had to close the gap.

The Chargers circled six players for a 7-6 ballgame.

Things changed quickly in the bottom of the third inning when Handley started off on first, causing Walker to follow with a single and Tackett with a triple.

After the first pitch which was dropped by the catcher, Tackett stole home. But, the Rocks did not stop their scoring until three more runs were scored for a 12-7 ballgame.

Fielding was where the Rocks had their downfall.

"There were too many errors," said Willette. "This was the first game out of six."

But Willette could not have been too angry with the Rocks adding four runs in the bottom of the fourth and two in the bottom of the sixth for a mercy call of the game.

Stevenson's third base coach left the game early when he was thrown out in the fifth inning for shouting at the homeplate umpire.

Last Wednesday, the mighty bat proved effective again with a 13-1 victory over Farmington.

Walker was 2-4 at the plate along with Plichta who was 2-3.

John Glenn could not stand in the way of the Rocks on Thursday when it fell 15-3 with help from Tackett who had three triples.

Thursday the Livonia Franklin Spartans will host the Rocks in a double-header at 3:30 p.m.

THE PITCHING of Salem's Maggie Meissner helped keep opponents off the base paths last week while her team won three times.

Rappin' J. B.
 By Jeff Bennett

Memories are sometimes unforgettable.

I remember when I walked into The Crier for the position of sports reporter. I wore a tie with a clip so that I could impress the sports reporter.

After waiting behind a beaten-up wood desk, a man with scraggly hair and a large smile sat down in front of me and asked "Do you want to write sports?" From then on Brian Lysaght was my friend.

What many of you don't know is that Brian is a molder. He has taken this sports writer, that you see before you and turned him into a better writer and person.

It began a year ago when I was studying under Dave Pierini. Brian, Dave and myself would gather together for sports meetings every Wednesday. There, we would put our feet up and talk about our mistakes in print and what we could have done better.

Many of you out there get angry when there's a spelling error, or that this paper is not as proficient as the Detroit Free Press, but because of Brian and this paper I have learned techniques that you can't find in a school book.

But Brian was not only the type of person that would cuss you out for spelling errors, he also was a comedian.

One week, his arms on his glasses fell off and being the guy he is, he wore bread ties on his ears to hold on the glasses.

He also liked to dress fine for occasions. At The Crier Christmas party he wore hiking boots and red suspenders.

This was the Lysaght that you didn't get to see everyday when you read the paper and believe me I am not poking fun at him or laughing behind his back. I respect him for the talent that he has to sit and take a list of facts and iron them out into a story.

Brian was not your basic Bill Bonds, but instead to me he was a teacher and a friend that I will miss. He gave me help and started me off in a career that I love and I owe him my gratitude.

So speaking for Pierini, Chris Farina, Ed Fitzgerald, and Dan Ness, we wish you the best of luck in London. And from me, I wish you a good life and may you learn and grow in Europe, they way I have learned and grown from you.

Ciao for now, big guy.

Canton takes 2nd at Tiger Relays

BY JEFF BENNETT

After taking second at the Belleville Tiger Relays on Saturday and burning shoe rubber to pass Churchill 73-64 last Thursday, Canton could be the team to watch in boys track.

At the relays, Canton took second place behind Belleville's first. Inkster-Cherry Hill took third and Salem was fourth.

Canton put points on the boards when their long jump team took first place with 58'11". Tyrone Reeves, lead with a 21'2" spring and Roger Trice and Geoff Estevey provided support.

The high jump followed with Steve Genyk leaping 6' and Ron Ziemia and Dave Mac adding their score for 17'8".

A Canton school record was broken in the running events when distance medley runners Dave McCollum, Pat Frederick, Jay Swieki, and Keith Rosul ran an 11:19.5, their time also took third place.

"The times are getting better," said coach Rob Neu. "They are mentally ready to run."

Canton's Bill Boyd, Al Byrens, Rosul and Swiecki ran a second place time of 19:25.0 in the four-mile relay and another second place was recorded in the shuttle relay with a 1:07.2 time coming from Dan Houdek, Jake Michaelson, Larry Allmond, and Brian Whiteley.

"We are running well and we have had injuries," said Neu. Jim Young who is the Chiefs' quarter-miler has been out with a pulled hamstring.

"Having him back will be a big plus," said Neu.

The lights of the CEP track illuminated the last event against Livonia Churchill.

The one-mile relay decided who'd take the victory.

McCollum took the baton, both Canton and Churchill runners were shoulder-to-shoulder. As they rounded the back straightaway, McCollum pulled out in front of Churchill by five feet and held on to raise his baton over for the victory. Cont. on pg. 28

Salem places 4th at Belleville...

BY JEFF BENNETT

Belleville Tiger Relays meant fourth place for the Salem girls track team, but a dual meet last Thursday against Stevenson was a definitive 80-47 loss.

Starting with the good news, Salem had 45 points to finish fourth at Belleville. Canton had 46 for third. Ann Arbor Huron was first with 90 points.

Salem's Karen Marciniak, Keri McBride, and Shelly Bohlen threw 279' for a second in the discus; shot-putters Nancy Reuke, McBride, and Marciniak had a measurement of 87'5" for second place.

Among others who placed were the 440 relay runners Heather Harwood, Lee Zelek, Jenny Smith, and Dena Head running a :53.0.

The long jump relay, the 880 relay, and the distance medley runners also took fourth's.

Fifth place was won by the Rocks' mile relay and sixth by their two-mile relay team.

Girls track wins 69-59

Chiefs beat Churchill

BY CHRIS FARINA

"When you beat Churchill; you know you're beating a good track program," said Canton girls track coach George Przygodski.

Canton pulled off a 69-59 win over the Churchill Chargers last Thursday; in a tight meet where the winner wasn't determined until the final event.

First place finishers for the Chiefs are: Angie Miller in the high jump with 5', Kara Harala, 28 feet in the shotput. In the 100 meter dash was Trish Carney, 13.9. Canton's relay teams placed first in the 800 meter in 154.3, the 3200 meter in 1025.9, the 1600 meter in 421.2. Carney also came in first in the 400 meter dash with 103.8.

"Trish had an outstanding day; being part of both the 800 and 1600 meter relay teams," said Przygodski.

Placing second for Canton was: in the high jump, Janet Armstrong with 4'10, in the long jump was Terry Triewski placed with 14.8, Tory Barger in the discuss throw 83 feet 11 inches. In the 1600 meter Marie Jarosz clocked 538.5 while Lori Schauder took the 300 meter hurdle in 52.6 and the shotput with 27.10. Sherry Figurski had a 29.3 in the 200 meter dash while Rachal Mann set a new school record in the 3200 meter with 1210.7.

"The keys for our win was we swept the high jump and the shotput, plus we won three out of four relays," said Przygodski.

Jaroz took third in the high jump with 4'8, while Lynn Massey threw the discuss 77.1 feet for third and Vicky Mianar placed third in shotput with 27 feet 9 inches. Also placing third was Mann in the 1600 meter dash with 544.2, Angie Miller in the 800 meter dash with 246.9 and Barger in the 3200 meter with 13.278.

Canton softball gets 8-3 victory

BY CHRIS FARINA

Canton is on a roll.

The Chiefs softball team beat Livonia Franklin on Friday 8-3.

Canton came away with the win; but also had 7 errors in the game. Senior, Diana Knickerbocker pitched the entire game.

Canton was 4-3 going into the fifth inning.

"We gave up a couple in the fifth but we were in the game," said coach Max Sommerville.

The Chiefs also took out Livonia

"I was really happy to win; you never know how you're going to react in the first meet," Przygodski said.

The Canton girls compete against Walled Lake Western tomorrow at Western. The meet begins at 4 p.m.

Canton and Salem place 3rd and 4th at Tiger Relays

BY ED FITZGERALD

The Canton and Salem girls track teams took third and fourth respectively in the Tiger Relays in Belleville Saturday.

Earning a first place for Canton in the high jump relay, with a 14-foot, two-inch combined jump, were Angie Miller, Janet Armstrong and Marie Jarosz.

Canton's other awards included: second place in the distance medley relay - Karen Boluch, Tricia Carney and Rachael Mann with a time of 13:45.6; third in the shuttle hurdle relay - Tonya Walaskay, Lori Schauder, Stacey Stroschier and Terri Pniewski; third in the four-mile relay - Mann, Boluch, Tori Barger and Kris Marquard; third in the two-mile relay - Carney, Barger, Miller and Jennifer Gansler.

Canton coach George Przygodski said he was pleased with his team's showing in the 12-team field.

"It's been a good season so far. We did real well at the relays. Ann Arbor Huron, which won it, is ranked fourth in the state, so we can't feel too bad about losing to them."

Churchill Monday, 17-1, in five innings.

Kelly McUmbler had a home run and a single, while Kristen Wines hit a double and a triple.

Defensively, Canton played well, with only two errors.

"They hit the ball and made the plays," Sommerville said.

Canton will play today, at home against Walled Lake Western. They will also host a double-header with Walled Lake Central at home which starts at 3:30 p.m.

But falls to Livonia Stevenson

For the bad news, Livonia Stevenson took 10 first places in the dual track meet on Thursday.

"Stevenson was better in a lot of different areas," said coach Fred Thomann. "When it comes down to the conference we'll be in the hunt."

Marciniak, who was a bright spot for the Rocks, threw 103'10", surpassing Stevenson's throw of 86'6". She also could not be beat in the shotput with a 31'5" throw.

"We did well in the field, and when we came out we were in good shape," said Thomann.

The only problem for the Rocks was that they only won one running event.

The 880 relay, with a 1:54 time, edging out Stevenson with 1:54.87, was the Rocks' only first place.

Salem's Amy Johnson gained some points for the Rocks in the high jump with a 4'6" leap.

On Thursday, Salem battles Walled Lake Central at home at 3:30 p.m.

Mile relay spells difference as Chiefs win meet in last race

"When I got through here," said McCollum pointing to the final turn, "and the crowd broke loose, that's when I knew I had him."

For the Chiefs, the victory was better than sweet.

"It was a gutsy race and we had to have it," said Neu. "I'm so proud in that they have spirit and it won't quit. It was a tremendous victory because we have never beaten Churchill."

For Churchill coach Fred Price, Canton was equal across the track.

"The kids were greatly improved and they were balanced in every event," said Price. "I don't have any disappointments, we gave it a good shot."

Canton solved an issue, after they ran a :16.42 time in the 120 high hurdles a second time. In the first race, a row of hurdles was off and after collaboration with the referee, the race was held again.

School record breaker Reeves, jumped 21'3" in the long jump for first place. Reeves struck again with a :10.7 sprint in the 100 yd. dash.

The 880 relay ran a 1:36.5 time for first and after a pep talk from Neu, the mile relay ran a foot race all the way in to beat Churchill

Five feet determined another race when Brian Carney beat Churchill in the 440 relay with a :46.25 time.

Canton took first and second in the 440 yd. dash and in the 330 low hurdles, Houdek crossed the line at :41.4.

The 220 yd. dash also belonged to Canton with a :23.5 time from Carney.

"Mike Spitz put this team together and gave them the base," said Neu about last year's coach. "The iron men of the meet were Houdek, Whiteley, Trice, and McCollum. They got the scoring done."

Canton runs against Walled Lake Western at 3:30 p.m. on their home track.

Curiosities

THE PLYMOUTH-CANTON BRIDGE Club was out in force at the Canton Ball.

THANKS FOR STEAKS on the grill! A nice Sunday evening.

Ferd, you're still three years older than me.

HY

To sing or not to sing ... that is the question.

Brian's last curio - goodbye to the Tigers, Academy award winners, my cousin, and errant trips down Warren Rd.

DOES MARY DINGELDAY need her shoes to dance the Charleston? NO - but Art Winkal does.

Robyn and Cindy - We enjoyed going to Oakland U. & Meadowbrook with you.

Sharon Evans is older, wiser, prettier, and nicer than ever!

Her really, really, really Good friend

Cpl. Brass,

You are becoming a great tour guide for Southern California. Have fun! I love it.

Love, Mom

Gloria, Thanks, I think ... Kathy said you guys talked about me ... all good, I trust!

Ellen and Jim at M.S.U.

You and Mark Twain have a great deal in common. Did you know?

Love, ma ma Lady

Sharon - how did you ever figure out so quickly, who Lefty was, when there are so many in the building? You are just too too sharp. Glad you had such a nice day.

Jeffer - Friday is the day! See ya soon, goodbye room 118.

Mary Meyer helps space cadets in need and talks to them a lot!

Overheard on a late Monday afternoon in Crier office: "You know I do not have a head behind my eyes." I think it was a Brass.

Fred, do you think we should sign up for dance lessons?

Ginger

You know you had a good time at a party when everyone asks how you feel the next day.

Try our new POTATO BAR in the Crow's Nest Pub aboard The Mayflower Hotel, 11:30 am-2:30 pm. M-S. $2.75 each.

You really do light up my life.

Joyce at Cloverdale's - Thanks for the birthday present. Cloverdale's not only has the best ice cream but also the best raspberry pie. Wow! Delicious - try it!

Thanks for the lunch Carol. Enjoyed the chance to get caught up on all the news. The lake is only a 2-hour drive so we can still get together.

Jean

Chris - thanks for taking time out of your busy schedule to drop in at the Hillside. I love my present! Thanks!

Arnie - Thanks for being such a special friend - the candy will be enjoyed - I'll love them, my hips will show them and my dentist will "crown" you.

TO Snicker-Snee and Snicker-Snore - thanks for sharing one of your "clovest" Snickers. I will enjoy it and my hips will love it.

House of Fudge has delicious truffles Michelle, thanks for the flavorful gift.

Dan and Phyllis - Thanks for the lovely flowers. We certainly missed you both at lunch.

Dining on the deck at noon at the Hillside is fun. Delicious food and warm friends. Thanks Cindy for the birthday surprise!

Red Head at Smitty's - You're terrific! Thanks for the flowers and your delightful friendship.

Curiosities

Dear Joan - Thanks for the little "Bud" boy I needed that! You're a great friend.

Ed Braun, you may not run 35 miles a day, but you're a Hiesaver.

To each his own, one must see; to let it fly, to set it free. One can never own another; one cannot possess. One can only hope to pass the test and find someone who wants to stay. To come and go - but, never stray. For one can never change another, to be another way.

Thank you to all of you who have offered support and comfort to me and my family, especially those who came to my home Saturday. They'll never know how important their friendships are. -Jim J.

See ya all in about a week (Upper and Toledo) or a little longer.

BEAUREGARD eats Penniman Deli hamburgers.

ROB HAYES is 18! Does the Bloated Goat Tavern shirt fit OK?

LOOK OUT! Peter Paulos takes his driving test today.

ERICKA MANSFIELD got a great report card.

WAY TO GO Jessica! Great report card.

Wes, would you, could you live in land near the prison?

Building Inspectors beware of Mr. Smith. Ma, let's have spaghetti sauce on everything.

Wes, the man who repairs camper tops and canoes.

Hi Debbie, Cheri, Lorie, Jamie, Dave, Ellen, Alice, Joe and all the other MSU kids. See you this weekend.

GO CANTON GIRLS TRACK TEAM! We'll be thinking of you next Tuesday. Last year's Team & Mom

Congratulations Canton Historical Society and Beautification Committee on a nice Dinner Dance.

Thanks Mark and Steve at Heide's. The flowers for the centerpieces were beautiful.

TIM: edrawkcab epat eht nar uoY But, everybody's allowed one when they start.

Mom and Dad - It was great having you here. Next time I'll show you around "Old Town" myself. See you in May. -Dan Ask Tim what his middle name is.

Tim - Nice column, if you read with a mirror.

Tim - Fold toward yourself, fold over, and THEN run the tape! -The Edit Staff

And uh ... It's for real, Anne's uh moving on. We'll miss ya! Alex, Kelly, Kathy(who?)

ARE YOU OUR MIFD ARTE?

Softball team can be bought - CHEAP! A group of over-educated, underpaid professional types are in dire need of a sponsor for the 1986 Plymouth Rec League. Bars can look to double their money. Call Craig Brass, 963-8580, during the day.

M & D-

Thanks for watching my son, you know he loves you!

KP

Well Stink, (Schlets, Suzie, Kneec, Blink, Boink, Drink, Mink, Anne-who's Anne?)

...Destinations unknown, eh? I must say it's been a pleasure being your working (partying/part-inghurning/studying) sidekick for the past few years, even though your mirrored turquoise sunglasses reflect loud & weird and beautiful gaudy ("if that's what you call it!") things. Take it easy and keep your fiber world about you!

-Kath
