A sideways glance at the President

Members of the CEP Marching Band found it hard to keep their eyes on their music Thursday when President Ronald Reagan walked into Cobo Arena for a Republican rally. Band members were required to bring their instruments to the arena at 6 a.m. in order for the Secret Service to check them, a band spokesperson said. The band earned its spot as the host band for the President by winning the state marching band championship the last two years. (Crier photo by Chris Boyd)

Canton Bd. may act on sewer ban

BY DAN NESS

The Canton Board of Trustees was to have met last night in a special meeting to discuss Canton's standing with "Supersewer," after hearing about a threatened sewer ban on Canton.

The board faces a Nov. 1 deadline for entering into a contract with other communities to join the North Huron/Rouge Valley project, or Supersewer, but voted against joining the system several weeks ago. The meeting was called because the state has threatened to ban Canton residents from building new taps into the sewer system, Supervisor James Poole said.

Three communities in the proposed 17-community project have voted to join the Supersewer, and only Canton has voted not to join, Poole said.

Trustees said they may "change the strategy" the board had taken earlier, depending on what they hear from C. Gerald Hemming, township attorney.

"Our objection is that we're getting hit with such a big portion of (the total cost of the sewer project)," said John

Enrollment jumps by 200

There are more than 200 more students enrolled in the Plymouth-Canton School District this year, as compared to this time last year, according to the "fourth Friday" student count.

The unofficial audit of students in the P-C Schools system showed an enrollment of 15,551, from K - 12, according to Ginnie Murdoch, coordinator of pupil accounting for the schools.

For elementary students, starting from kindergarten through 5th grade, the enrollment was up 150 from last year's count, Murdoch said. The middle school grades lost 136 students, while the 9th through 12th graders gained 198 students, she said.

Early morning collision

Local chiefs join for Fire Prevention Week

Nobody likes to plan for trouble.

It always seems easier to hope for the best, and not look for potential disaster.

But next week in Plymouth and Canton, the fire departments and McDonalds Restaurants are trying to get people to plan ahead in case of a fire emergency with "Fire Prevention Week."

They have declared Oct. 6 through Oct. 10 as Fire Prevention Week in the community, and they have planned tours, talks at school and even a city-wide fire drill to help people learn how to "get out alive."

For its share, McDonalds will be holding a drawing for some lucky boy or girl to be Fire Chief for a Day.

This person would be picked up from school Oct. 10 by Chief Matthews, and the receive the VIP treatment through the day, lunch at McDonalds and a ride home on the big fire truck as the grand prize.

To end the week, Matthews said there will be a city-wide fire drill at 6 p.m. on Friday Oct. 10, which will begin with the city siren being blown.

Master Plan adopted

Canton finally has an adopted Master Land Use Plan.

The Canton Planning Commission approved a final version of the plan last week, with significant changes in agricultural land in the west part of the township.

About 7½ square miles of land, formerly designated for agricultural use, is now designated for low-density residential use, according to David Nicholson, Canton director for community and economic development.

Also significant in this master plan are two parcels of land still under litigation. The master plan map shows the parcels not designated under any usage, with a footnote that the property is under litigation. The parcels are located on Haggerty north of Cherry Hill and Canton Center north of Ford.

The new master plan is also changed from the previous plan in that it is not "lot-specific," Nicholson said. Instead, the plan reflects general uses of property without marking individual lots on the map.

Adoption of the master plan was held up for several months because of lawsuits regarding the zoning of property.

Croll gets Elks' honor

Jennifer Croll, of Canton High School, is the Elks Student of the Month.

Croll maintains a 4.041 grade point average, is captain of the girls' varsity tennis team, a National Honor Society member, secretary of the Madrigal Singers, a member of the Concert Choir, and placed in the top five per cent for the Michigan Math Prize Competition.

She is very active in her church by being in the church choir, accompanist for vacation Bible School, a Sunday School teacher and also participates in the community basketball program.

Croll wants to pursue a major in psychology and special education. She is the daughter of George and Marjorie Croll of Plymouth.

Register Oct. 6 to vote

Monday, Oct. 6 is the last day for Plymouth-Canton residents to register for the Nov. 4 general election.

To register, you must be a U.S. citizen, reside in the city or township at least 30 days before the election and be at least 18 years old. Residents who are 17 years old can still register if they will be 18 by Nov. 4.

Registration applications can be completed at any Secretary of State branch offices or at the local city or township clerk's offices through Oct. 6.

Walk-away from WWCF not found

A minimum security prisoner walked away from Western Wayne Correctional Facility last week, prison authorities said.

John Albert Bricker, who was serving time for auto theft, was believed to have walked away from the yard sometime in the afternoon Thursday, Warden Emmett Baylor said.

"He was a minimum, minimum prisoner. He was working outside of the gate because he was classified low custody," Baylor said.

Plymouth Township police received word of the escape after the prisoner failed to show for dinner call, and searched the area, but Bricker was not located.

Local businesses held up

Canton police are investigating the third armed robbery within the last two weeks, while the City of Plymouth police are investigating an armed robbery of their own. Both robberies happened Friday evening, but they do not appear to be related.

Borics Family Hair Care Centre, 5834 Sheldon Rd., was the latest business to be robbed in Canton. It was robbed of more than $600 Friday at 7:45 p.m., after a man walked into the business, put his hand into a brown leather bag and told the three workers that he was holding them up.

In Plymouth, Hardees restaurant was robbed of more than $1,300 by two black males who forced their way in after the store was closed for cleaning, around midnight Friday.

The three workers at Borics did not see a weapon, according to police reports.

The suspect is described as a white male in his mid-30s, between 6 feet and 6 feet 3 inches tall, weighing between 150-160 lbs., clean shaven, with mid-length brown hair and brown eyes and a very pale complexion. He was last seen wearing a blue baseball cap, a blue knit shirt, blue jeans and white tennis shoes.

The Plymouth suspects are described as two black males; one armed with a silver or nickel-plated automatic pistol, while the other was apparently unarmed, police said.

The man with the gun was described as being 5 feet 10 inches tall, wearing white gloves, while the other man was believed to be 6 feet tall with an Adidas sweatsuit and Adidas tennis shoes.

Canton gets new postmaster

Canton has a new postmaster. Lloyd Wesley, Superintendent of Postal Operations for the Wyandotte Post Office since October, 1984, was sworn in last week as Wayne/Westland Postmaster, which includes Canton.

At his new post, Wesley will be responsible for 249 employees serving a population of more than 194,890, covering an area of 92 square miles.

Wesley succeeds William Stottemyer, who retired in April. In the interim, John Shivnen has been of-police said.

The report also stated that the two men forced the employees into a back room where the money was being counted and told them not to come out.

The men then escaped in a 1978 Cougar, police said.

Plymouth man injured in Sat. morning mishap

A Plymouth man is hospitalized with back injuries in Ann Arbor after being hit by a car on Joy Road early Saturday morning.

Randy Tarrow, 30, was walking along the east side of Joy Road near Brookpark Drive, when he was struck by a car driven by James Grant, 32, of Plymouth. According to police, the road surface was wet and it was raining heavily.

Tarrow was taken to Westland Medical Center, and transferred to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital.

Accidental shooting leaves one man injured

A Canton man was accidentally shot Sunday night when a man slipped and fell while holding a loaded rifle.

Anthony Paonessa, 25, was taken to Oakwood -- Canton Health Center and transferred to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor with a bullet wound to the shoulder and back.

According to police, Michael Reinbold, 29, of Canton, was walking through a garage at 44675 Dionne when he slipped on some oil, and the rifle discharged. The bullet went through an open trunk lid of a car and struck Paonessa in the right shoulder blade and back.

Supersewer meeting

Preniczky, Canton trustee. Canton would be paying up to 32 per cent of the total cost of the project, while not using that much of the system, according to trustees.

Preniczky compared the Supersewer to the Zilwaukee Bridge and the People Mover, and said the DNR, state, county and City of Detroit had not been clear enough on the requirements of entering the project.

"I think we're into an arena of some extremely significant outcomes, either way we go," said Bob Padget, Canton trustee. "Some big things are at stake, and we had better damn well know what we're doing."

Poole and Preniczky met last Wednesday with Livonia Mayor and Wayne County Executive-elect Edward McNamara and officials from the DNR, state and county to discuss the Supersewer issue. Poole and Preniczky said no progress was made regarding the issue, but that McNamara was now aware of some of the many side issues to the Supersewer project.

"We tried to impress upon them that we were not going to pay for 32 per cent of the Supersewer," Poole said. "It's just unfortunate that the county officials and engineers and the DNR people weren't listening."

Canton and Plymouth Township are already involved in a lawsuit filed against the DNR, state, county and City of Detroit, charging that those agencies are responsible for the townships losing federal money as a result of taking too long to get the sewer project going. The case will be heard by a circuit court judge on Dec. 8.

Poole said another suit would be filed if the state imposes a ban on new sewer taps by Canton residents.

"What the county is doing, what the DNR is doing, is all wrong," Poole said.

Vandals hit Canton golf course

Vandals ripped up three greens at Fellows Creek Golf Course in Canton sometime Thursday night or early Friday morning, causing $2,000 worth in damages.

The damage was done with a golf club and a sand trap rake, police said. There were no witnesses.

I think there is something to be said for old fashion chicken soup means of health care.

After a fiasco first-hand experience with modern health care last week -- chicken soup looks very medicinal.

I say this now in hopes of saving some other poor soul from the same frustration, embarrassment and anger I went through last week while trying to fight hospital red tape.

My pain and suffering came at the hands of Oakwood's Health Center Emergency Room. And, I for one, will never, ever go back there -- even if I do get sick.

At the risk of sounding cheeky, this place might compare to a 24 hour convenience store of hospitals. They sell a smattering of over-priced merchandise, at odd hours when nothing else is open. Like 7-Eleven the people at Oakwood have people by the nape of the neck and they know it.

I learned first hand of this fact last week.

Let me explain. Last Thursday my fiancée was struck down by an illness that no one has yet been able to determine the cause of -- or even what this illness was.

With a fever of 102 and then some, an inability to keep dinner (or any other meal, snack or fluid) where it belongs -- the decision was made Thursday morning to take her to see a doctor.

Being the careful people that we are -- we were concerned. Colleen has not been sick much in her 23 years, her mom is four hours away in Grand Rapids and she does not have a family doctor in the area.

After some study we ended up at a day clinic in Plymouth. (I was the driver) The doctor at this place was equally confused. He diagnosed the problem as an allergy and sent her home with instructions "to get some sleep and let it pass."

Not even two aspirins. Later that afternoon, it became clear that "letting it pass" was not going to work. The fever had risen, Colleen had taken a permanent perch in the bathroom and fear was quickly becoming a factor.

A quick phone call to clinic No. 1 revealed they close shop at 5 p.m. along with the car dealers. The first doctor she saw however, who was very helpful through the entire ordeal, called to suggest she try an emergency room at this point.

Naturally, because of some nifty advertising, my first thought was Oakwood.

Doctor No. 1 said that he would call ahead, tell them Colleen was on her way, and explain to the doctor on duty what the situation was and eliminate "the preliminary bullshit" as he aptly put it.

Unfortunately, there was too much bullshit to cut through.

We arrived safe enough, but things went quickly downhill.

I knew it was bad when Colleen said she was scared. Colleen does not scare easy. She told me she did not want to be alone.

Fine, I thought no big deal I'll just sit and wait with her until the doctor comes.

Silly me, hospital rules were against us. It seems sick people must wait alone to see the doctor.

No "ifs", "ands" or "buts" and no exceptions. Oakwood will not allow people to be comforted while they are scared and confused with a fever. Maybe it builds character.

It seems we also made the mistake of arriving at the hospital at the end of a doctors shift. The same doctor who spoke to doctor No. 1 -- who explained Colleen's problem.

He looked at her, left without a word, mumbled something to the nurse and then packed himself on his merry way. No word to Colleen. No mention of his plans.

Just gone. Now I know people need to eat, but where has courtesy gone? How can a doctor just leave in the middle of an examination? How can he leave without a word to the person he was examining?

So now, Colleen has doctor No. 3 of the day, and by now all she wants to do is get home. She was feeling better, and she wanted to go.

In time we left, after blood was taken, shots were given and IV fluids received.

The next day some of the blood tests were "misplaced."

In short, the people at Oakwood we dealt with, the stupid rules, and callus attitude have left a bad taste in my mouth about modern medicine.

I sincerely hope the people re-evaluate their services and put the care back in health care.

In search of pen pal

EDITOR:

I am currently doing time here at the Phoenix Correctional Facility in Plymouth, and thought if I wrote to you, perhaps you would be so kind as to consider printing my letter?

I have no one to correspond with, and a person can get lonesome in a place like this without outside friends! I am 47 years of age, and would very much welcome some pen pals!

Police cars set bad example by crossing RR tracks

EDITOR:

On Sept. 18th, my mother and I were traveling south on Mill Street when we were stopped by the famous Plymouth railroad gates and the flashing lights at the intersection of Lilley and Ann Arbor Trail. There were two Plymouth (city or Twp.?) police cars in front of us also waiting for the unseen train that obviously was taking its time approaching.

Much to our surprise, the flashers on top of the police cars were turned on, and "proceeding with caution" both vehicles drove around the gates, crossed the tracks and once over, turned their flashers off and continued on their way.

We certainly didn't see an emergency in progress -- they were abiding by the speed limit and sat at the gate for as long as their patience allowed.

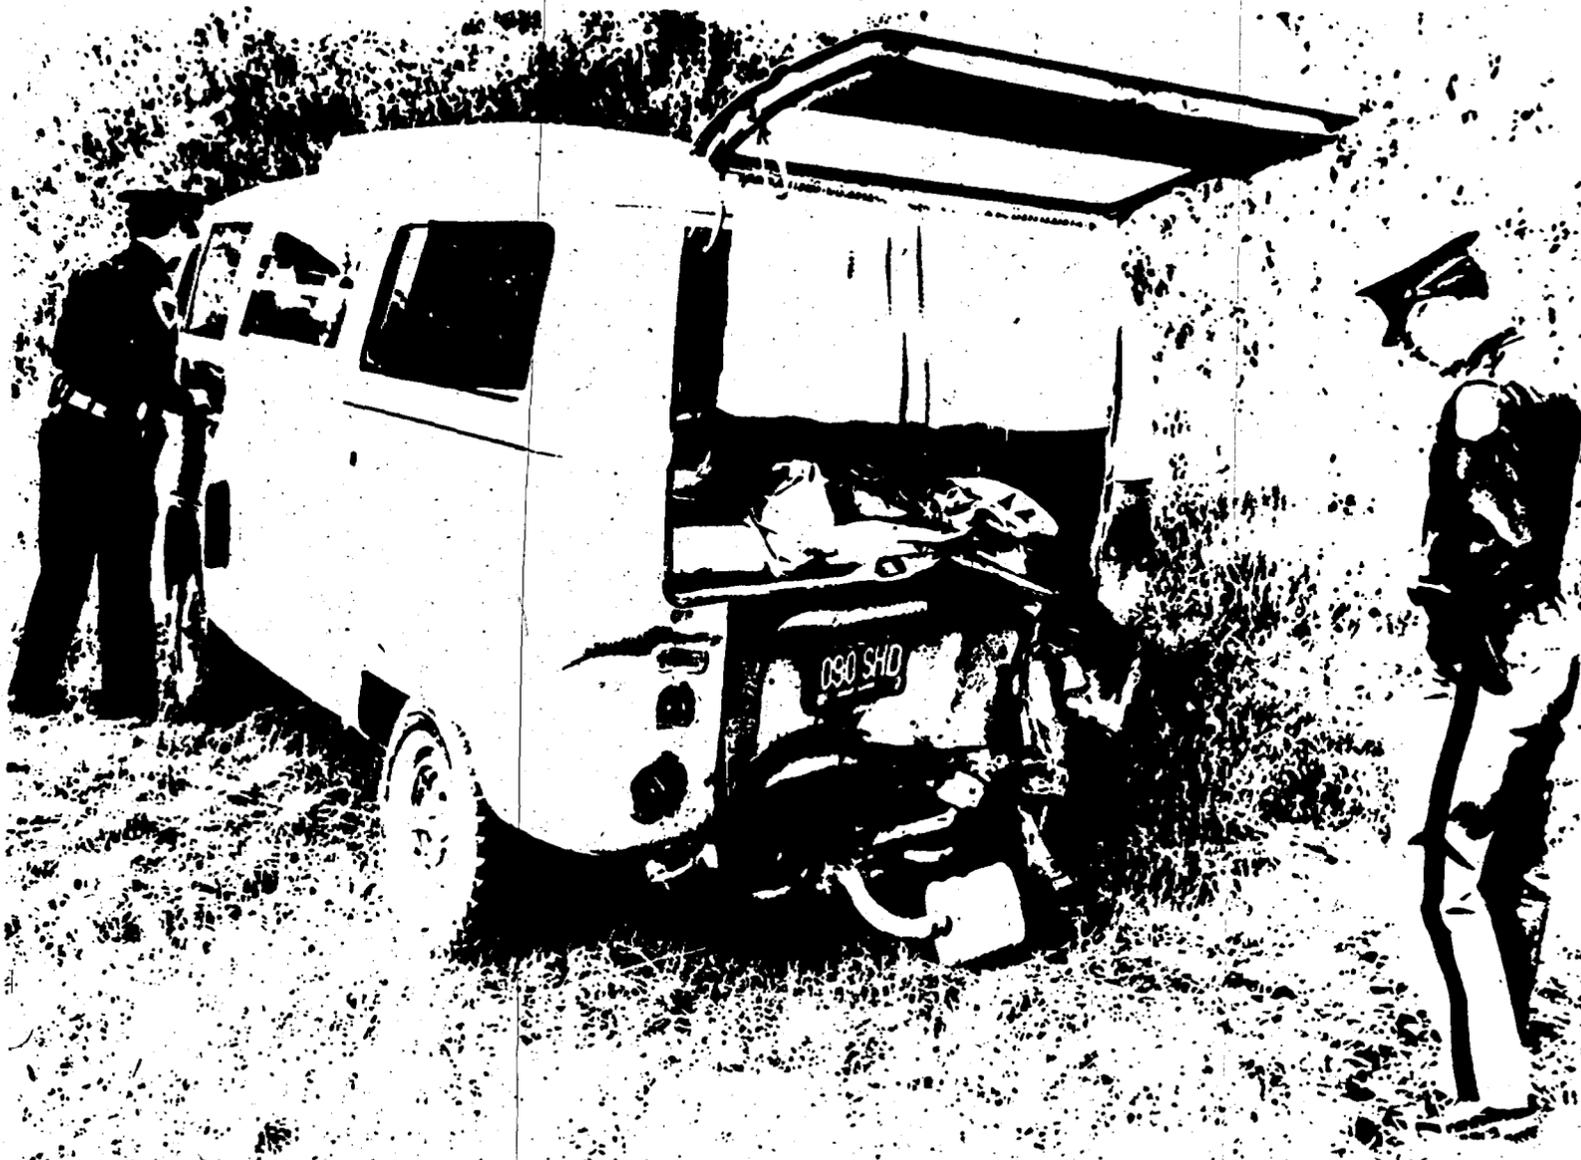

I was so angered by their example, I wanted to illegally cross behind them to get their car numbers or even follow them to their destination.

I wanted to ask what was so important to have to do that in front of residents that have the desire to do just that five times a week, but won't because of respect for the rules, let alone safety??

PG. 9 THE COMMUNITY CRIER: October 1, 1986

Be careful out there!

Drivers in The Plymouth-Canton Community: SLOW DOWN AND BE MORE CAREFUL WHEN DRIVING!

For some reason, residents in our community have been getting into more accidents within the last few weeks than they have in weeks past. Why the accident rate has increased is a mystery.

What we do know is how to prevent YOU from being the next accident victim. Simply slow down a bit, leave an extra space cushion between you and the next driver (getting closer isn't going to speed up traffic, and you can't just drive through other cars, try as you might), be aware of other vehicles around you at all times, and be especially careful at intersections. If you're turning left, wait until the oncoming traffic is through, and if you are part of the oncoming traffic, slow down to reduce the risk of a collision at the intersection.

Being more careful on our community's roads is even more important now, when school is back in session and our youngsters are walking between schools and homes.

And, finally, stop getting in accidents so newspaper people like us don't have to run out and take more pictures of the smashed windshields, twisted shards of metal and broken bodies. We've got better things to do than to take photos of the end result of a driver's lack of care for other drivers.

In fact, this collection of accident photos would normally take us between two and three months to accumulate. Instead, we've taken them in the last two weeks. We're tired of it. Stop it.

Stop and think before you leave in your car today. Slow down, look around and be extremely careful. For everyone's sake.

It's 4th quarter and anybody's guess

Linda Chuhran sat through another deposition session Monday, one year and three months after she filed a lawsuit against Supervisor James Poole, charging him with interfering with her duties as township clerk.

Chuhran says she's not giving up, her attorney says they're getting closer to some sort of settlement, and I feel like I'm writing about a lopsided football game late in the 4th quarter when everyone else has headed for home.

Only, in this game, I'm not really sure who's ahead.

The problem is that the proceedings in this litigation have gone extremely slow, which is not incidental, according to Alan Helmkamp, Chuhran's attorney. He says that inch by inch, progress is being made. He says, a settlement or summary judgment will be reached before it ever gets to court.

And it is a long, long ways away from getting to court.

In fact, this whole drawn-out exercise in legal aerobics is still in the "discovery" period, where both sides collect sworn statements from the other side and any other statements they can find. In this particular instance, the attorneys are getting the most strenuous workout.

But, ever since the lawsuit against Poole was dismissed, and amended to include the township Board of Trustees, not much had been happening. It seemed that the township officials were getting along, and more importantly, getting the job done with little or no haggling on who got to do what.

Chuhran says she's happy that everyone is working together better, but that she wants what she started out for -- the most important being compensation for a deputy clerk, and hands on responsibility for several financial duties within the township. "I still have the same feelings that the financial responsibilities I should have are not being taken care of by this office," she said.

To The Point

By Dan Ness

Helmkamp, who very accurately describes the situation as it now stands as "an abyss," hinted that the matter could be closer to an end that it looks. The way it looks to me, I think Chuhran should just wait awhile and run for treasurer.

In the meantime, however, Treasurer Jerry Brown has had to sit down with attorneys and explain how he does his job and why he does what he does. Next in line may be some of the trustees, to give sworn testimony, explaining their votes on matters regarding Chuhran's office (which they did, of course, at the time they voted on the issues). "I am now pondering which depositions I want to take," Helmkamp said.

And I am pondering why this whole mess continues one year and three months after it started.

"They (other township officials) weren't going to voluntarily change things, so we decided to push ahead," Helmkamp explained. He also notes that there are "no distinct time parameters on this thing," which means we haven't heard the end of this for a long time.

Whether there will be anyone around at that time who remembers or cares what this was all about is not as certain.

Canton historical book needs money

It started with Canton's Sesquicentennial two years ago.

Or maybe, it started with Canton's Centennial on March 7, 1934.

As Canton has grown, its historical roots have grown more important in its search for identity -- a sense of self.

Now the Canton Historical Society is undertaking its most ambitious project yet. It's going to publish a 36-chapter hardcover book on the history of the community's original farm families.

But before the project is described further, there's one slight problem. (Three guesses.)

Money.

The funding for the comprehensive publishing project is only half-way there and the Canton Historical Society is looking for help from local citizens and businesses. And, in keeping with fun, friendly approach of Sesquicentennial Balls and Ice Cream Socials, the Historical Society has a pleasant way to encourage donations.

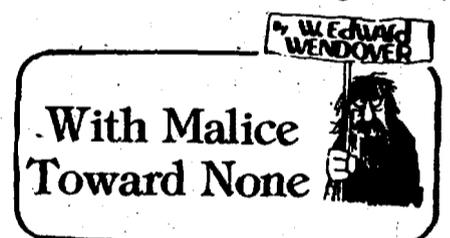

Mark down 11 a.m., Thursday, Nov. 6 at the new Fellows Creek Clubhouse (Lotz Road just north of Michigan Avenue) on your calendar. Call it "Sneak Preview" of the Canton history book (in fact, its title will be revealed there). A luncheon starts at noon and the program thereafter features the history's author, Diane Wilson, giving presentation on how Fellows Creek got its name and other selected bits of Canton's pioneers' history.

But first, reserve your tickets at $25 per person by calling Tillie Schultz at 453-6084 or Joan Palmer at 453-5231. The RSVP deadline is Oct. 31.

Wilson, you may recall, co-authored the Canton Sesquicentennial Time Capsule Edition along with John Tobin.

In the Historical Society's book, she is organizing information and photos of the earliest Canton families into chapters based on each of the 36 sections of the township in which they originally settled.

Much of the research, aided by Schultz and Palmer, has already been completed. But more help is needed there still.

"We need the old photos that are in their attics," Palmer said of the longtime Canton families, "especially those before the 1940s."

And as the research and writing continue, the Historical Society is mounting its search for funding the additional $15,000 to $20,000 it needs to publish the book.

"We need the cooperation of everybody," said Schultz.

Palmer added, "We're asking businesses, residents -- anybody."

The project is important to Canton's identity, said Frank McMurray, a member of the book's committee. "Canton is finally putting itself on the map. The roots are these families who've been there all these years."

While you're thinking about it, grab your checkbook and dash off a general contribution towards the Canton history book by sending a check to:

CANTON HISTORICAL SOCIETY --

BOOK FUND
P.O. BOX 87362

CANTON, MI. 48187

And then attend the luncheon on Nov. 6.

Yes that's Ross Hawk sitting atop a load of Canton cabbages in this 1930 photo. And that's Alice Mae Atwell on the cab. This is typical of the photos to be used in the history of Canton families.

Is it time to start building an ark? Maybe it just seems like it has been raining for 40 days and nights. Not only does it seem like it has been raining forever, but the thunder storms and amounts of rain in a short period have broken many records.

I've always liked lightning and thunder storms. It's almost like watching fireworks without the full color. However, during last week's storm we were dog sitting. For some reason I failed to convince a big, black lab that storms were fun. When his barking didn't scare the storm away, he finally decided to settle down and sleep next to my bed.

Later in the week my friend was a great help when water started coming up in the basement. He ran around and barked at the water while I tried to move some things to higher ground.

Visions of the Good Friday Floods five or six years ago ran through my mind. Everyone had about two and a half feet of water in their basements. We had to deal with wet appliances, carpeting, paneling and many boxes of treasures. That's one way to get the basement cleaned, but I really wasn't in the mood to deal with it last week. Thank heavens for those nice people at the township who were out working on the sewers and saved the basement from flooding.

Another bad thing about all this rain is moods. Everyone is in a rotten mood when the weather is grey and wet. It takes sunshine and rainbows to make people smile.

In case you haven't noticed there is one positive side to all this rain -- green grass. This is the first time all summer our lawn has looked this good. The bad part is that the rain makes it grow faster and you have to mow it more often. However, if it keeps raining, it's too wet to mow and there's nothing you can do about it.

If that doesn't cheer you up, just think of what it would be like if it was cold and all that moisture was snow.

Marine Pvt. Richard Hammond, son of Jack and Millie Combs of Canton, recently returned from a six month deployment to Okinawa, Japan. He is currently stationed with 3rd Battalion, 5th Marines, based at Camp Pendleton, CA.

Navy Midshipman Terry Smith, son of Gordon and Judith Smith of Russell in Plymouth, recently participated in a summer training exercise aboard the dock landing ship USS Germantown, homeported in San Diego. He is a 1983 graduate of Salem High School.

WESTWARD THE SKIER

"Go West, young man," said Horace Greeley. That was undoubtedly good advice for its time, and even now people are still heeding it. But we could add something, vacation-wise to that -- "Don't forget your skis!" Anyone who has ever seen those broad, beckoning sweeps of soft, fluffy powder snow will know what we mean. The slopes, runs, and trails from California to Colorado and from Idaho to New Mexico are like no others. Distinctively American, just like the Old West, they attract lovers of the sport from all over the world. Colorado has made such a name for itself ski-wise, that one would almost expect to see ski poles in the official flag! California and its neighbor Nevada also boast some fabulous resorts. Utah is also coming into its own as a ski state -- one of many lodges is known as the "Powder Capital of America." And the legendary Sun Valley in Idaho; Taos, New Mexico; and Jackson Hole, Wyoming (the Grand Tetons), and you have a magnificent "package" covering thousands of acres of ski terrain.

Neglected?

Improvements of the buildings of businesses on Michigan Avenue is the first step in a long-range project to pump life into one of Canton's busiest corridors. Resurfacing of Michigan Avenue will be sought with state funding, according to Canton officials. Also, a major motel chain will be locating on Michigan Avenue within one year. (Crier photo by Dan Ness)

Michigan Ave. gets a shot in the arm

BY DAN NESS

Travellers driving through south Canton can see it all around them along this road -- unrealized potential.

That's the tag this strip of Canton has earned over the years. The reputation is well known throughout The Plymouth-Canton Community, and residents would not argue with that label.

Recently, the federal government allotted money for economic aid to this part of town, which qualified as a "blighted area," under its definition.

It is Canton's Michigan Avenue corridor, a stretch of highway that should be one of the community's most active business sites, yet happens to be an apparent economic failure.

When Canton officials talk about the Michigan Avenue they hope to see, they talk like a baseball coach in spring training, and the phrases "great potential," and "lots of promise" pop up more than once.

However, when they describe the present-day Michigan Avenue corridor, words like "neglected," "deterioration," "undesirable" and "unattractive," are used more often. In applying for federal funds to bolster business development in the area, the Michigan Avenue described by Canton's director of community and economic development had to meet some very lowly standards.

"Sadly, in the Michigan Avenue corridor, those conditions do exist," David Nicholson said.

But, Canton officials are trying to revitalize the neglected Michigan Avenue business district, and this fall, a study of the corridor's businesses will kick off a long-range, and admittedly slow, project to bring business back to what is one of the busiest thoroughfares in Canton.

The revitalizing effort includes between $90,000 and $100,000 in federal aid for existing businesses on Michigan Avenue, the development of a major industrial park, the continued development of Canton's biggest recreation facility, the resurfacing of parts of the roadway and the arrival of a major -- and as yet unnamed -- motel chain on the strip, according to Nicholson.

Nicholson hopes to name a consulting firm by late fall to conduct the business study, which will help officials see "what's good and what's bad," on Michigan Avenue. The study should be completed by next May, in time for construction season, Nicholson said. Then, funds would be provided for businesses to make "basic facade improvements" on their buildings.

"I consider our particular project here one prong of our approach to this whole problem," Nicholson said.

The federal funds will also be used to help merchants learn how to improve their businesses, and provide lower-interest loans for businesses along Michigan Avenue.

The strategy of the whole project is to first improve the smaller-business environment, which should help attract the bigger businesses, according to he said. "Hopefully, what we're doing is providing a basic groundwork."

Other businesses have already helped improve the image of Michigan Avenue. The Canton Softball Center, on the south side of Michigan Avenue between Beck and Belleville roads, "has been an excellent project," Nicholson said. This fall, the recreation complex will be opening the Canton Soccerdome on the same property. The domed facility will allow soccer teams to play throughout the winter, and team play is already scheduled from November through April.

"Hopefully, what we're doing is providing a basic groundwork."

-- David Nicholson

Canton's biggest employer, Meisel/Sysco, is located at Haggerty and Van Born roads, but Nicholson considers it part of the Michigan Avenue corridor -- and a very important part of the corridor. The food service company employs 475 people, and Nicholson points to it as an example that business is not running away from Michigan Avenue.

The North Star Paper Products building, Monarch Press, the Wendy's and Dawn Donuts food establishments motel chain also planned for Michigan Avenue are other bright spots along the corridor, Nicholson said.

The Sheldon Industrial Park, south of Michigan Avenue and west of Sheldon Road, is one facet of the overall improvement plan for Michigan Avenue. On this site, the township has acquired 72 acres of land and is assembling the property into sites for industrial use.

The township has also pumped nearly $1 million in improvements to drains and roads since 1979 into the proposed industrial park, and Wayne County has pledged to fund half of the resurfacing of Sheldon Road south of Michigan Avenue.

The money invested into the industrial site should help provide what industry wants before it moves into a community -- a stable or improving area, Nicholson said.

Dib Odetalla thought the stretch of Michigan Avenue in Canton would provide a healthy business climate, so he moved his business from his Detroit location to Canton in 1978. Odetalla is happy with the move, which he says brings more customers because of his proximity to I-275, but says he could be happier.

"Sure, we'd like to make it (the store) nice," he said. "I think we need help."

And, with the federal funds being directed at Michigan Avenue, Odetalla may get that help. Nicholson is confident that the program -- in time -- will spur growth on the "neglected" corridor.

"I really do think there is some money to be made by investing in

The strength of a lug wrench and the power of fear keep many shady mechanics in business, but there are plenty of honest mechanics out there. It just takes a little time and some questions to find them. (Crier photo by Chris Boyd)

Finding the mechanics in white hats

BY MARTY TUNGATE

They don't wear masks, and they don't stick a gun in your back, but everyday there are mechanics out in garages who are robbing people blind.

There are also the honest mechanics who give everyone a fair shake.

But how does a person avoid the crooks and find the honest craftsmen?

With all of the new modern cars is it possible to find a mechanic who will fix your car, charge you a fair price, and leave you feeling satisfied the work is done right?

Yes, but it does take some work, and a little self-investigating.

Two mechanics who have received praise from their peers for their work with cars, and high reputations for doing the work right, explain how to find a good, honest, and fair mechanic.

Dan Fleck of Manchester, owner of Westside Automotive, and Moe Steshetz of Plymouth at Ted and Earl's, at 285 Dunn, both believe that to find a good mechanic it's going to take some looking.

"Ask around, talk to people who had work (done) on a car, that they were happy with," says Steshetz. Fleck says, "anything that sounds too good to be true -- probably is."

Transmission shops have been the target of many state investigations, with good cause according to Fleck. "They'll take you for all you got, and then ask for more."

Rights. Yes you do have rights which mechanics must heed by.

- Everyone has the option to receive an estimate if the amount of work exceeds $20.

- If the estimate is off by more than 10 percent the individual has the right to be notified by the mechanic before the work is done.

- The individual has the right to all of the old parts.

Winter car tips

Soon it will be cold. So cold it will be hard to hold onto this paper. So it might be smart to memorize the following 12 tips from the Michigan Auto Club on how to keep your car running when it's so cold it will be hard to.....

- Check motor oil level. Look at your manual. Four quarts is not always the magic number. Many cars require five quarts.
- Brake fluid should be within a quarter-inch of the top of the master cylinder. A screwdriver is needed to pry off the clip that holds the cover of the brake fluid chamber.
- Fill the window washer reservoir to prevent freezing.
- Check the level and strength of antifreeze in the radiator. Some cars have overflow tanks where the coolant can be checked. Strength of the antifreeze can be checked with the hydrometer (don't ask what the hydrometer is).

- Power steering fluid level can be checked on a dipstick similar to the motor oil. To avoid overfilling, add the fluid gradually and test the level several times.
- Hold the carburetor air filter up to the sun or by a light. If you can't see through it, it's time for replacement.
- Check the automatic transmission fluid with a dipstick (located on most cars behind the engine on the passenger side). The car should be parked on a level grade with the engine running.
- Test for fan belt tension and look for fraying or cracking. Press your thumb on the middle of each drive belt. If the belt gives more than a half-inch, have it tightened or replaced. Also inspect hoses and connections.
- Clean battery terminals and dirty cables with a baking soda and water solution, and check the battery fluid level.
- Turn on all lights and turn signals to make sure they work.
- Check tire pressure with a gauge and inspect tread wear. Don't forget to check the spare.
- Check windshield wipers and replace them if worn.

But these rules still do not guarantee the customer will receive the proper treatment. Especially where used parts are concerned.

"Getting back used does'nt mean to much, who knows if these parts are from your car," Steshetz said.

When it comes to big jobs "always get a second opinion," says Fleck. "It would be real easy to rip someone off, but it's just not right," says Steshetz.

•All mechanics must be certified by the State of Michigan. "But that's not always good enough," says Fleck, "Anyone who knows anything about cars can pass this test. If you still are unsure if a mechanic is qualified see if they have passed the National Institute of Automotive Service Excellence test."

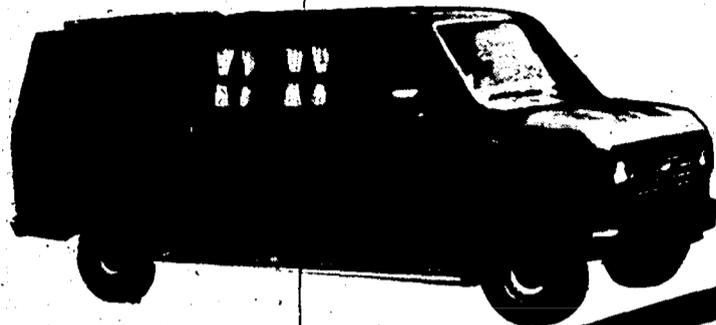

This test really tests a mechanics knowledge for automotive repairs.

Don't be afraid to shop around for a good mechanic, they are out there it just takes a little looking. And finally don't be afraid to question a mechanic's work.

"We all make mistakes sometimes," Steshetz said.

But it is those mechanics who avoid making those mistakes, who stay in business.

Those little yellow signs

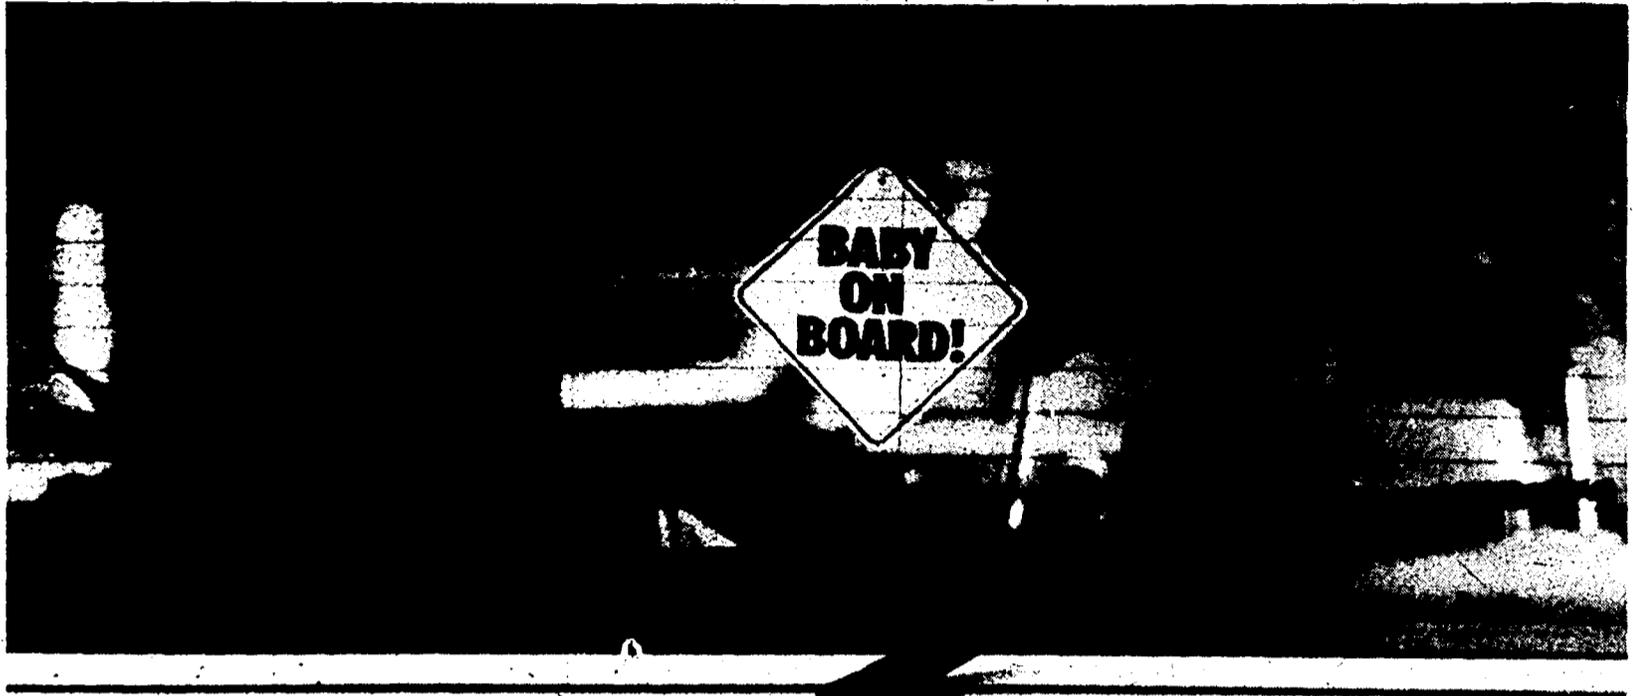

BY DAN NESS

They seemed to come from nowhere. Suddenly, they were everywhere -- on the highway, in the parking lots, even in the friendly confines of your own backyard driveway. Chances are, you will see about 15 of them as you go about your day, those little yellow signs shaped like yield signs that people are putting in the back windows of their cars.

One day they hit the market, and before you can say 'mood ring,' the little yellow yield signs have flooded the market and become the newest gimmick to catch on. And boy, have they caught on.

"The idea was good -- initially," said Bob Cullen, manager of safety and traffic for AAA of Michigan. Cullen said the first ones on the market -- which read 'Baby on Board' -- may have actually caused other drivers to pay more attention to the car. It was a clever idea, he admits, that they were in the shape of a yield sign to catch other drivers' eyes. But, as the sign messages changed, so did any effect caused by the sign.

"It's the proliferation of the nonsensical ones that have taken away from that," Cullen said. Instead of cautioning other drivers that there is an infant in the car, drivers see messages like "Brat on Board," or "Ex-wife in Trunk," Cullen said. Not much effect on safety, he notes.

The Michigan AAA has not formally stated an opinion either way on the signs, Cullen said.

The Michigan State Police also are not that concerned with the signs, but they can be illegal. Citing the Michigan Motor Vehicle Code, Sgt. Vern Reidsma of the legislative analysis unit said vehicles with "obstructions" in the rear window are required to have an outside, passenger-side mirror mounted on the vehicle.

"If placed properly, they aren't going to obstruct vision that much," Reidsma said. So far, he doesn't know of any cases where the signs have been a cause of an accident. He recommends that drivers, if they must, place the signs in one of the corners of the window.

Reidsma played down any benefits of having a 'Baby on Board' sign in the car window, from a practical viewpoint. "Most people don't care if there is a baby on board or not, they just don't want to get into an accident."

And being a State Police trooper, Reidsma gets the opportunity, whether he likes it or not, to see a variety of the little yellow signs, making him sort of an expert on the signs. "Some of 'em are kind of cute, some of 'em try to be cute but are offensive, and I've seen some homemade varieties that are terribly offensive," he said.

But, Reidsma doesn't spend all of his day driving around getting offended. There are some truly clever ones, he admitted. "I've seen some real interesting ones out there," he said.

His favorite one so far? It said, "Dumb Sign in Window."

Cold tips

CONTINUED

Now, if you don't plan on driving this winter, or at least not your good car, here's some more tips--on storing your car:

•Remove the battery. Store the battery anywhere except on concrete, which tends to draw the charge from batteries.

•Fill the gas tank to the brim. This prevents condensation. Even better to add dry gas.

•Leave new oil in the car. It will become thick though, and require new oil in the spring.

•If you put your car on blocks, and jack stands are preferable, cover the brake drums with plastic bags to prevent rusting.

•Cover your car, but not with plastic, which doesn't breathe. An old blanket will do.

A model day for airplanes

Fred Major from Indian City carries his plane to the run way.

The Red Baron was one of the attractions at the show.

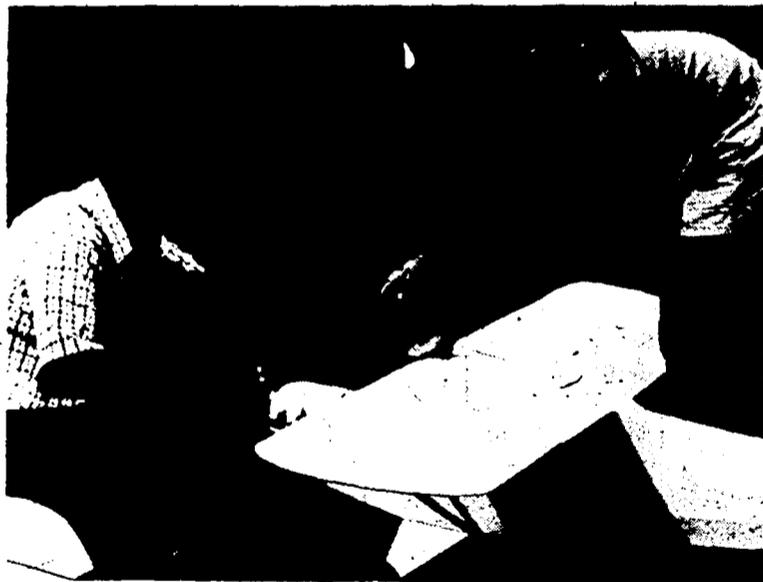

Look up in the air, it's a bird, it's a plane ... it's a model plane.

Last Sunday about 100 model airplane enthusiasts showed up in Canton to put on an aerial display of miniature proportion. The radio-controlled craft ranged from WWI's Red Baron to modern day jets to a helicopter. The event was sponsored by the International Miniature Air Plane Association.

The high pitch sound of the engines pierced the hot muggy air as the models revved up for the take-off. Once in the air, the planes performed acrobatics and just about all manueveres that their real life counterparts are able to do. All planes did come down safely and softly.

Above, the father and son team of Bart and Bart Bryan prepare their model for take off. The model planes were displayed on the run way for spectators to get a closer look.

Michelle Williams of Highland watches some of the acrobatics performed by the model airplanes.

Maya's Deli at home in Plymouth

BY T.M. SMITH

When Maya Kay and her husband Alex moved from Russia to the United States in 1974 -- cooking for a living was not what they had in mind.

Today, however, almost 12 years to the day from their arrival in America, the Kay's are etching their lives with a very successful restaurant business.

For the last two months Plymouth has been the home base for them, serving sandwiches, soups and salads out of a new lunch-time delicatessen in Westchester Square.

Maya's Deli, is the name of the new business. And although they have only been in town a couple months, they say word of mouth has the business booming daily.

"At lunch time this place is really busy," Maya said. "I think the people of Plymouth are just the best, in no time they have taken to us."

The reason Maya and Alex are both so impressed with Plymouth, is the ease and quickness the shop was accepted into the town.

"This town was just like a mother," Alex said. "It is like home, and we have only been here two months."

The Kay's came from Birmingham, where they owned a shop similar to the pastel, lunch counter setup that they use here in Plymouth. They say the shop in Plymouth has been much more successful.

"With the people like there are in Plymouth, it is so much easier to work, they make you feel like you want to try and do something more for them," Alex said.

But what they're doing now, seems to be working quite well for the couple.

She also handles Michigan Bell's community relations, college and university relations, and shareowners relations around the state.

Arold is a member of the Wayne/Westland Association for Retarded Citizens and is a board member on Plymouth Township Police Department's Interview Board.

A melting pot

Maya and Alex Kay, owners of Maya's Deli stand by the oven that Maya cooks her corned beef on every morning. She says everything is made fresh daily. (Crier photo by T.M. Smith)

Maya says the secret is very simple, when dealing with peoples stomachs.

"It really doesn't take someone very smart to know that you can't cheat people when it comes to eating. I just try and cook what I would cook for my family at home," Maya said.

Maya, who does all the cooking and ordering for the Deli, is proud of the fact that all the food prepared in the store is done with the freshest of everything, and made from scratch the day it is served.

The deli, which is open Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., caters to the lunch crowd with sandwiches, salads, soups and desserts made with Maya's hands in her kitchen everyday.

Salem football improving on 1-3 start

Rocks look for Homecoming win

MARTY TUNGATE

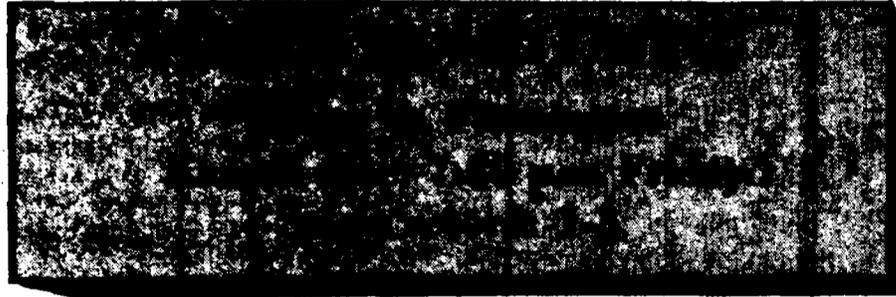

According to the statistics the Salem football team is having another one of its fine seasons. The Rocks should be 3-1, but that's not the case.

The Rocks are 1-3, but looking better. "We're getting better all the time," said head coach Tom Moshimer.

This is true, after the opening game in which the Rocks were trounced by Trenton 49-0, Salem has come back to be a force in the Lakes conference.

Salem's other two losses were by a combined total of two points. And in those same two games Salem rushed for over 500 yards!

The Rocks have put behind their poor start and are out for blood against homecoming opponent Farmington.

The Rocks are preparing for this game like they did for the other four. "We're going to do what we do best and that's run the option," says Moshimer, "we've been moving the ball quite well, but we just can't seem to stick it in the end-zone."

The Rocks are going to have to put the ball in the endzone more than once to be able to beat a bigger stronger Farmington team.

Farmington is a good balanced team, but will most likely open it up and throw the ball against Salem.

Joe Jouppi, team co-captain feels his team is ready to play. "The team's attitude has really improved since the start of the season, and we're a better football team for it," says Jouppi. "We're confident, now and feel we can play with anyone in our league."

Kurt Urban, Salem's other co-captain is quite confident that the Rocks will be ready for homecoming opponent Farmington. "We're definitely going to be fired up for homecoming, we want a victory vs Farmington," Urban said.

Just because the Rocks are 1-3, does not mean the Rocks are a bad football team. Any team that rushes for over 300 yards a game on the average is a power to be reckoned with.

They're a good team and still may surprise a lot of people.

Kick-off time is set for Friday at 7 p.m.

Foul weather gear

The rain, high winds and even an hour-long delay of game did not keep Plymouth-Canton School Board member Dean Swartzwelder from the Canton football game Friday night. Unfortunately, fan support wasn't enough for a chief win, as Canton lost to Churchill 16-6. (Crier photo by Chris Boyd)

Canton X-C warming up for big races

BY JANET ARMSTRONG

What does the future hold for Canton's cross country team?

"We'd like to win the division but we have a couple of tough races coming up," said Jim Hayes Canton boys cross country coach.

Canton has had a strong season so far running to a record of 5 wins and 1 loss, their loss coming from cross-campus rival Salem.

Canton has two tough races coming up in the next couple weeks which could decide the division championship -- the first with Franklin, the other with Northville. Although both teams finished higher at the Schoolcraft Invitational than Canton, Hayes still believes his team can beat Franklin and Northville.

"We think we are running really well now, but we'll see Thursday (when Canton takes on Franklin)," said Hayes.

Well, if last Thursday's win against Walled Lake Western is any indication, the Chiefs have an excellent chance of beating Franklin. Canton won the meet 25 to 31.

While B. Grosso from Walled Lake Western was the first to cross the finish line, the Chiefs placed the next four runners across the finish line to clinch the victory.

Dean Juergens, who was second overall was the first Chief to cross the line with the time of 18:01, then came Kirk Roessler, Jay Swiecki, and Al Byrnes to place third, fourth and fifth respectively.

Canton's meet against Franklin is set for Cass Benton Thursday at 4 p.m.

SALEM

FOOTBALL -- The Rocks lost a tough game to Livonia Stevenson Saturday, by the score of 15-16, although the Rocks dominated the game. Salem rushed for over 330 yards. The defense held Stevenson to only 77 yards, and only allowed Stevenson to gain three yards in the second half.

However, their performance was outstanding as they played in the 'Eagle Cup Soccer Tournament this past week. Immaculate Conception won the tournament. PCA recieved a 3rd place trophy by defeating Bethony in a come from behind 3-2 victory. Including the tournament games their record now stands at 6-3.

GOLF - PCA's second-year class D team is playing class A schools and looking good. On Sept. 23 PCA lost by only two strokes (174-172) to Crestwood. Monday they lost by three strokes to Northville (177-174).

GIRLS CROSS COUNTRY - A little rain didn't dampen the spirits or speed of the girls squad last week against Walled Lake Western, as the Chiefs ran to a 24-35 victory. Canton's Eori Penland, Sherry Figurski and Cindy Spessard finished second, third and fourth respectively.

FOOTBALL - Rain, thunderstorms and an hour delay did not help the gridders to a home win last Friday, as the Chiefs dropped the contest to Churchill 16-6 in the mud. The loss dropped the team to 2-1 on the year.

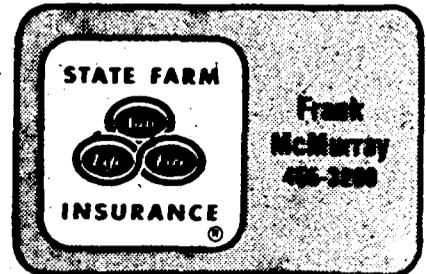

GIRLS SWIMMING - The Chiefs took Salem to the deep end of the pool, and dunked them last week, winning the cross-campus rivalry 99-73. Freshman Cassie Cummins led Canton, winning two events and anchoring a relay.

Junior football results

The Plymouth-Canton Steelers took two out of three games on their home field last weekend against the Westland Meteors.

Although the freshman squad dropped its game, the junior varsity and varsity teams both emerged with wins to up their record to 4-0 and 3-1-0.

The freshman team was blanked by the Meteors 13-0, but the junior varsity came back strong for a 14-0 win behind the scoring of Lam Pham and Ray Alvarado.

Chad Johnson, who scored on runs of 37 and two yards, led the varsity to winning ways with another shutout victory, 28-0 against the Meteors.

Liam Rentz and Mitch McDonald rounded out the scoring with dives of four and five yards.

Next week the Steelers head on the road to Ann Arbor to take on the Wildcats at Pioneer Stadium.

Canton b-ball riding season roller coaster

BY JANET ARMSTRONG

Riding a roller coaster is how Rob Neu sums up the Canton girls basketball season so far.

"Were getting better, but were not developing consistency, good teams are consistant teams" said Neu, Canton's varsity coach.

A good example of Canton's inability to be consistant would be Canton's loss to John Glenn last Tuesday 38-45, only to come back and beat Livonia Franklin 59-32 on Thursday.

Glenn's ability to capitalize at the freethrow line was what put them on top, Glenn was 13 of 21 at the line, while Canton was 3 of 11.

The leading scorer was Glenn's Stacy Graham with 16. For the Chiefs it was Michelle Fortier with 10 points and Heather Miller next with nine.

Canton had better luck on Thursday against Livonia Franklin.

Penny Piggott was the key scorer in the game with 19, again Miller was next with 14.

Canton's goal for the second half of the season?

"Our goal is to be consistant," Neu said.

PCA competes at Greenhills Invite

BY JILL SCHAUFLE

Plymouth Christian Academy's cross country team was not ranked at the top of the list on Tuesday Sept. 22 at the Greenhills Invitational in Ann Arbor.

Still, they were pleased with individual performances. The meet was of high quality, consisting of the best Class D teams in the state. Ann Arbor's Gabriel Richard took first place out of eleven schools.

To commemorate excellent achievement the top twenty five runners were each awarded medals. Christopher Snider a senior from PCA was among these few. Snider placed 25th overall with a time of 18:47. Andy Allmand, also a senior, came in second for Plymouth Christian and 49th overall. His time was 20:24. Randy Gauthier placed 55th with his time of 21:09.

Steve Bauslaugh, in addition to coaching cross country for over five years also teaches at PCA. His curriculum consist of all physical education classes with the ages ranging from first grade to twelfth grade. Early success in running sparked coach Bauslaugh's interest, so much so he has been motivated to continue in the sport for the past sixteen years, running over thirty thousand miles, that's around the world once and then some. "I enjoy running," stated Bauslaugh, "and that's the key thing!"

Being a very humid day on Tuesday Bauslaugh keyed his runners not to go out to fast on the first mile of the 5 kilometer (3.1 miles) run, because that could hurt their performance.

Referring specifically to the invitational, Bauslaugh stated, "One nice thing about cross country is sepearate performance. Even though we came in third from the bottom, overall I was pleased with our individuality."

Bauslaugh concluded, "Running as well as coaching provides many personal lessons you can apply to life."

ADVICE #421

Tips For Better Ad Copy

1. Vary sentence and paragraph lengths. Establishing this kind of rhythm to copy makes it more fun to read.

2. Avoid superlatives, vague words and cliches. A superlative is a word that claims your product is the best, biggest, finest, softest, ultimate, etc. People don't believe them and the product better prove it.

Salem plays top goalies in the state

BY MARTY TUNGATE

The 1986 Salem boys' soccer team has a problem with this year's team.

This is a problem head coach Ken Johnson calls "fantastic." But Johnson's "fantastic" problem, is a problem any coach would love to have.

Two, of who he calls the best goalies in the state, play on the same team. Making things more complicated they're both juniors

Dave O'Mally and Don Koontz are the two junior goalies, coach Johnson speaks so highly of.

So how do you decide which of these two stars will start?

"In the beginning of the season both of the boys (O'Mally and Koontz) were both quite equal in ability and either could have started, so we decided to alternate every other game until a decision could be made on a starter" Johnson said.

It now appears a decision has been made. O'Mally has the edge over teammate Koontz, according to Johnson.

So how would you expect two of the best goaltenders in the state to get along?

"Great," says Koontz

"We're always pulling for each other," says O'Mally.

Both have been in soccer for 10 years and for seven of those years in goal. Making each of the two very experienced at that position.

When asked whether or not the other feels relaxed and confident while the other is in goal, both responded "of cours, were always pulling and encouraging one another."

O'Mally carries a 4.0 GPA while being very busy with soccer and other school activities. Dave says he wants to stay in soccer for years to come, and hopefully earn a scholarship from the University of Indiana, or just have a shot to play Big Ten soccer.

Dave's parents have also played a large role in his soccer carrer, coming to the games, encouraging him to do his best, and helping him with his game as well.

"My parents have always been there for me," Dave said.

O'Mally's goal goal for this year is winning the state title.

Koontz a tough hardnosed soccer player, is the second string goalie behind O'Mally.

Don is the more aggressive of the two goalies and takes the extra chance or risk. Don also would like to play soccer for the University of Indiana, or Salem's goalies, Dave O'mally (top) and Don Koontz (right) are both considered tops in Michigan by their coach Ken Johnson. But deciding who will play has been about the only problem these two players have made for Johnson, and because the two are both Juniors this "problem" will be around for at least another year. (Crier photos by Chris Boyd)

"There's a special feeling among goalies, and between me and Don."

--Dave O'Mally

Elbow room

ar a Big Ten school. Don hits the books as well, with a 3.0.

"My dad has always been my coach, until I started high school soccer, and he has always been there to coach me and is someone I look up to."

So the battle will rage on week after week for the No. 1 slot.

"There's a special feeling among goalies and between me and Don. We will always pull for one another no matter who is No. 1." O'Mally in closing.
