School burglary attempt foiled

BY DAN JARVIS

Two burglars were caught red handed attempting to remove more than $3,500 in computer and audio-visual equipment from Miller Elementary School in Canton, say police.

Brian Way, 21, of Canton, and a 16-year-old Canton youth were arrested about 12:30 a.m. Sunday when police responded to an alarm at the school, said Lt. Larry Stewart, Canton chief of detectives.

Stewart gave the following account:

Six officers were dispatched, surrounded the building, and spotted two people inside. As officers entered the building, the two ran out a side door. Way was immediately apprehended and the 16-year-old was arrested a short time later in Canton.

Stewart said that Way has already been arraigned on charges of breaking and entering and faces a pretrial examination on Oct. 14. Canton police also petitioned the juvenile court to charge the 16-year-old with the same offense.

Twp. resident arraigned on murder charges

BY PAUL GARGARO

An Oct. 24 preliminary examination has been scheduled for Plymouth Township resident Patrick Dennis, 22, who was charged, at an arraignment in 35th District Court on Thursday, with first degree murder in the slaying of a 23-year-old township resident.

35th District Court Judge James Garber said the preliminary investigation will determine whether there is enough evidence to conduct the trial.

Kevin Kinney's body was found last Tuesday afternoon in the bushes behind Forest Cleaners, on Ann Arbor Road, in Plymouth Township.

It was the first homicide in Plymouth Township since the township formed its own police department.

Dennis was arrested in connection with the homicide early last Wednesday morning based on a tip from a witness who saw the two together earlier that night, said Police Chief Carl Berry.

The suspect and the victim were seen at a local bar at approximately 2:00 a.m. on Tuesday, said police.

Police said a search warrant was obtained for Dennis' home (on Corrine Street) and was searched the morning after the slaying. Kinney's body was found at the edge of the lot next door to Dennis' house.

Berry said police found "miscellaneous" evidence at that address which led them to conclude it was the homicide site. He declined to elaborate, but said a murder weapon has not been found.

Church trespassing charges dropped

BY PAUL GARGARO

Criminal trespassing charges brought against an Our Lady of Good Counsel Catholic Church (OLGC) parishioner by the parish pastor were dismissed on Friday by 35th District Court Judge James Garber.

OLGC parishioner Cecile Jean was arrested on May 9 for trespassing at the parish rectory on the evening of May 9.

Jean was issued two tickets, one for trespassing and one for obstructing a police office. Although Garber dismissed the trespassing charge, he will set a November pre-trial date to decide whether Jean obstructed a police officer.

Jean was physically removed from the rectory by police officers after refusing to leave. At the time of her arrest, parish meetings were being held in the rectory.

In a hearing on Sept. 20, Jean and her lawyer argued that, as a parishioner, her arrest was a violation of her right to free speech, religion, and assembly. They also argued that she did not trespass because the meetings she tried to attend were posted in the parish bulletin and because they were held in a public part of the rectory.

Jean, 44, has opposed certain policy changes at OLGC, as well as the presence of a voluntary human sexuality course taught in the parish school.

On the night of the incident, City Attorney Ron Lowe said the pastor, Fr. Richard Perfetto, exercised his rights as the head of the parish.

For 'high risk' situations

Canton police buy 'flashover' grenades

BY KEN VOYLES

"We are not buying fragmentation grenades," Canton's Director of Public Safety John Santomauro told the township's Board of Trustees last week when they approved a resolution to purchase "flashovers."

The board agreed to purchase a couple-dozen "flashovers" for use by the joint community Special Operations Team, which includes Canton, City of Plymouth, Northville Township and VanBuren.

A "flashover" is an explosive device designed to "stun" assailants in "high risk" situations such as a hostage crisis, according to the chief.

"It's a device used for entry purposes," Santomauro said. "It actually stuns them."

Unlike a fragmentation grenade which is designed to inflict injury, "flashovers" are only used to temporarily stun a suspect, Santomauro said.

The $1,800 cost will be covered by the township, the chief added, though funding for the Special Operations Team is jointly shared among the communities involved.

The unit came into existence about two years ago, said Santomauro. It is similar to the "SWAT" concept, he added, and includes highly trained officers from each of the communities which participate.

Bar to sell?

'Rock' to remain open - for now

BY PAUL GARGARO

And so it goes.

The doors to the Plymouthrock Saloon in Plymouth Township remain open following a decision last Wednesday (Oct. 5) in Ingham County Circuit Court to uphold a temporary restraining order (TRO) against the Michigan Liquor Control Commission (LCC).

Ingham County Circuit Court Judge Thomas Brown ruled that the TRO imposed against the LCC would stand until the court could review Var-Ken Inc.'s (the owner of the bar) appeals, said Arthur D'Hondt, attorney general assigned to the LCC.

In August, the LCC voted to revoke the "Rock's" Class C liquor license. The LCC, however, was prevented from revoking the saloon -- restaurant's license by a TRO filed later that same week on behalf of the bar.

The Plymouthrock Saloon has been under scrutiny since 1986 for alleged violations of serving alcohol to minors.

Criticism of the bar reached its peak following the alcohol-related traffic death of a Canton woman, whose vehicle was hit by two underage patrons of the bar.

One of those patrons, Yvonne Hillier, is now serving a prison sentence for her involvement.

In a case before the Plymouth Township Board of Trustees last February, township-appointed attorney John Stewart alleged that additional minors had been served at the Rock.

Var-Ken attorney Norman Farhat has contested these allegations.

Ron Karp, of Hurwitz, Karp, and Wallack in Dearborn Heights, who replaced Stewart as attorney on the case because of Stewart's upcoming tenure as a township trustee, said a resolution to the matter is still up in the air and may be decided by a sale of the bar and its liquor license.

"In the case of the Plymouthrock Saloon, there are an assortment of items (under review). It'll all come down to whether the court decides that the bar is a public nuisance," said Karp. "In the meantime, we're hoping the matter will come to a resolution soon -- perhaps if the operator finds someone else to take over the saloon."

Karp said an Oct. 25 scheduling conference has been set up in Ingham County to determine a future date for an evidentiary hearing on the Rock case.

Neither Farhat nor Rock owner Peter Eleferio could be reached for comment.

Plymouth, Canton library boards on Nov. 8 ballot

1988

In addition to voting for local and national representatives in the Nov. 8 election, voters in The Plymouth-Canton Community will be asked to select representatives for the Plymouth District Library Board and the Canton Public Library Board.

Voters in the Plymouth Library District will choose four library trustees.

Incumbent candidates for the Plymouth District Library Board are current library board treasurer MaryAnn Prchlik and former board secretary Cathy Doetsch. Both Prchlik and Doetsch served on the Plymouth Library Board before the establishment of the district library.

The other two candidates, Larry Fobes and Sheryl Tripp-Khoury, will be facing election for the first time following their appointment to the board during the past year.

In Canton, voters will select six members to the Canton Public Library Board.

The incumbent candidates include John Schwartz, James Gillig, and Katherine Baldrice. The three remaining seats are sought by Bill Simmerer, Mary Gyorke, and Beverly Polcyn.

Board members Mary Feltz, Norma West, and Tom Yack will be stepping down following the elections.

Pollard to head 1989 Fall Fest

BY KEN VOYLES

Mike Pollard, of the Lions Club, was voted in as the new president of the Fall Festival Board of Directors during the group's festival critique meeting last Wednesday.

Pollard, a partner with the law office of Draugelis, Ashton, Scully, Haynes, Maclean, Pollard, Distefano and Morgan, will be the board president for the 1989 Fall Festival.

Other officers elected include Lorna Nitz, first vice president, Chuck Lowe, Jr., second vice president, Ann Schaffer, treasurer, and Eleanor Shevlin, secretary.

The election of new officers came at the end of a meeting designed to take a final look back at the 1988 Fall Festival.

Among the highlights of the meeting:

- Ken Holmes, 1988 board president, said he spoke with John A. Mulligan, postmaster of the Plymouth Post Office, about the possibility of having commemorative stamps designed for next year's festival.

"He applied for it," Holmes told board members and guests.

If they become available, Holmes said the stamps would be offered at the Post Office during the four-day festival.

- Jack Wilcox told board members that efforts to reduce the smoke problems during the Rotary barbecue on Sunday were to be "commended." Wilcox said he spoke with other residents, including Lloyd Duston, a critic of the cookout.

- Groups may start lining up to put on a Thursday night meal during the festival, if last week's meeting was any indication.

A representative of the Knights of Columbus said his group would like to host a Thursday meal, possibly a roast beef dinner.

Festival Manager Joe Bida said a Thursday meal is definitely needed next year. He suggested setting up such a meal in conjunction with making Thursday a "senior citizens day" during the festival.

Please see pg. 14.

"This is a situation that is limited to its facts and its facts only," said Garber. "If you change one of those, you have an entirely different case. The public should not consider this as a carte blanche to go in and disrupt meetings."

Among other things, Garber used the findings from one U.S. Supreme Court and two appellate court cases to support his decision.

"I struggled mightily to limit the decision to the facts," said Garber.

Among the "nice distinctions" that Garber used to draw his conclusion were: Cecile Jean was an OLGC member in good standing, she did not create a nuisance or have criminal intent, the meetings were announced publically in the parish bulletin, other parishioners were allowed to attend, and the meetings were held in a public part of the rectory.

"I feel a great injustice has been perpetrated by the abuse of authority," said Jean. "That Fr. Richard Perfetto signed the criminal warrant against me for trying to attend an advertised parish meeting shows how far an attempt to silence a voice in opposition can be carried."

Lowe said he was satisfied with Garber's judgement.

"It was a unique case and it was good law and it was good reasoning," said Lowe. "I can feel comfortable with the fact that we dismissed it because now there is a foundation for the future."

Investigators look for cause of National Concrete fire

Fire investigators are still investigating the cause of a blaze which destroyed a boiler room at National Concrete on Mill Street Friday.

Plymouth Township Fire Chief Larry Groth said 27 firefighters from both the township and City of Plymouth were called to battle the flames which engulfed the structure Friday evening. The fire was brought under control within one hour without injuries, said Groth.

Property and contents of the building were estimated at about $160,000, said Groth.

Support grass roots

When folks say, "There should be less government," they generally mean the upper echelons of the power structure.

The Federal, the State, the County, the City, the Township, or even the Schools governing bodies -- is what they pick on depending upon which ox is being gored.

Generally, I agree. There's far too much government in most areas for what the average family gets out of it (and there's too little in the areas where politicians are too chicken to tread -- but that's another column).

But there's a certain satisfaction to the lowest, grassroots parts of government. Not an evening goes by when one of the many boards, commissions, and community groups isn't planning, plotting or projecting just how its tiny role in the universe will eventually become an official micromention in history.

I went to my first, official, card-carrying (don't tell you know who) PTA meeting Monday night.

Having made the questionable lapse of judgment to "volunteer" to be on my daughter's school newspaper committee, I discovered that the committee is me. This also catapulted me onto the PTA leadership committee even though I hadn't even met any of the officers.

For an hour and a half, the PTA grappled with four basic topics: mechanics (minutes and other exciting stuff), fund-raising (like most community groups and especially chambers of commerce), liability (like most community and governmental groups these days), and -- for one third of the meeting -- whether the five kids in the school, who habitually forget their lunch money, should get free peanut butter and jelly sandwiches. (I was tempted at one point to jump up and scream, "Here's $20. I'll buy the peanut butter. Call me when you need more." But it was my first meeting and

with Malice Toward None

(I sat wordlessly by.)

And don't think I'm going to reveal the outcome of this spirited jam in which the parents were mired -- attend your own PTA or PTO meeting.

During two decades of newspapering, I've probably been to more meetings than the residents of an average city block combined.

But I hadn't been to such a grassroots one as my daughter's PTA in quite a while. It occurred to me that the thousands of such meetings are rarely covered by the media unless something major occurs (note this week's front page story on a parish board meeting at which a parishoner was arrested).

Most of the filtering out, hours of background work, planning, fund-raising, and politicking occur during those largely-unheralded meetings. The thousands of volunteer hours spent each year in The Plymouth-Canton Community are the collective secret treasure that set us apart.

Community Fund planning sessions, Fall Festival review meetings, pancake cooking at the VFW, chicken barbecuing at Fall fest, scout meetings, PTA meetings, Grange flower sales, BPW meetings, junior athletic board sessions -- and hundreds of other events each month are where the next chapters of our community history start.

Some of it may seem as mundane as peanut butter and jelly sandwiches.

But it's all as important as the annual budgets passed by the federal, state, county, city, township, or schools.

Hats off to the grass roots.

Way
to go
Gene!

Hats off to Gene Overholt!!

On Oct. 1, Overholt began his term as president of Kiwanis International with an installment ceremony in Indianapolis.

Beginning as one of the founders of the Kiwanis Club of Colonial Plymouth, Overholt has risen through the ranks to lead the international service organization.

A Plymouth resident, Overholt takes into office the good wishes and pride of everyone in The Plymouth-Canton Community.

He is just another fine example of the kind of resident Plymouth-Canton produces. And his election points to the quality of our community's non-profit service groups and clubs -- they transcend community boundaries and reach out to a wide variety of people in the region, state, country and world.

Driving complaints prompt response

In response to a letter sent by a reader in the Westbrier II subdivision, near Centennial Educational Park, the auto accident on Sept. 28 does not appear to represent any sort of trend. At least that's what local police and security people at CEP say.

In the letter, the reader states that driving near the high schools during certain periods of congestion is "like a game of roulette."

No one ever said that high school students were the safest drivers in the world, and the woman's concerns have been echoed many times at many high schools.

Fortunately for the occupants and their families, no one was killed. It could have easily had a different outcome. Witnesses on the scene said one of the drivers simply did not look before hitting the gas pedal.

Could it be that CEP security and the Canton Police are underestimating the problem? What about the teen that was killed in an accident last year near CEP? The woman has a point.

I remember an incident recently in northern Macomb County where two teenage sisters were killed when their car entered the path

Between the lines

by Dan Jarvis

of a school bus. They too were on their way to school.

It seems to me it can happen anywhere at any time. The area near the high school is not the problem; inexperienced drivers are the problem. Tragically, the deaths will continue wherever people drive, especially teenagers.

I'm glad the woman wrote her letter and addressed her concerns, but saying that the situation needs attention in the way of a monitoring system by local police, I feel, is missing the point.

The area is well patrolled, assert both CEP security and police. What needs to change is the driving habits and carelessness of teenagers (and adults). When someone figures that one out, we'll all be better off.

Canton Democrats in the running

This is not an endorsement. This is not a plug. There's no free publicity involved. Forget the idea that this is some kind of advertising gimmick thought up by those election gurus who tend to make or break political campaigns.

No, instead this is for those Canton residents who may have missed it -- there are Democrats seeking office in your township this year.

Yes, that's right. Democrats. They were kind of forgotten during the bitter primary in Canton -- even the media turned their backs on them to get at the Republican heroes (sic) waging war along the front lines.

Many residents did not even think about the Democrats. They were too concerned with the three-way supervisor's race (all Republicans) and the superintendent-supervisor issue. Besides there weren't even enough Democrats around to decide anything during this year's August primary.

Kind of sad.

Forget that now. Just remember there are Democrats on the Nov. 8 election slate -- four of them to be exact.

They are Carol Bodenmiller, a former township trustee, who is seeking to oust Gerald Brown from the treasurer post.

They are Cynthia Burgess, a newcomer to politics, who is after Linda Chuhran's job. She'll have to face Loren Bennett to get the nod as clerk, though.

They are Edwin Rasmussen and Matie Ostrum, two more relatively new political faces, who are seeking to join the township's board of trustees. They will go face-to-face with the four Republicans who survived the primary -- Elaine Kirchgatter, Robert Shefferly, Henry Whalen, and John Preniczky (a current board member).

All four of the Democrats have participated in the League of Women Voters forums and flooded the community with literature but still most of them feel left out of the political process thus far. And no they're not being cry babies, they just want the people to know they're in the race and have as much to say about the community as the other candidates.

In The Margin

By Ken Voyles

Residents of Canton deserve to hear the Democrat's side of things. How do they feel about the community center? What position would they have taken on the primary ballot issue? Do they feel growth and development is getting out of hand in Canton?

One Democrat told me she thought there were a multitude of issues confronting Canton residents this year after I made the mistake of calling the general election a potentially boring race.

This may or may not be true, but the Republican dominated primary was really a pretty boring, issueless affair (except maybe for the ballot question and community center).

Just ask a Democrat.

Churches using our courts to intimidate

EDITOR:

How much is it costing the tax payers of Plymouth to prosecute Mrs. Cecile Jean, a parishioner at Our Lady of Good Counsel, for trespassing? Fr. Richard A. Perfetto, pastor, had Mrs. Jean arrested last May 9, when she attempted to attend a Parish Council Meeting.

The 35th District Court of Plymouth recently found Mrs. Jean not guilty of trespassing since Mrs. Jean is a parish member, was not disruptive in her behavior, and the meeting had been publicly announced and was open to other parishioners.

Mrs. Jean, however, has spent several thousands of dollars in legal fees to clear her name of this criminal charge made by Fr. Perfetto.

Conveniently, Fr. Perfetto and the Archdiocese of Detroit who appears to support his action incur no expense in this scenario. Since trespassing is a criminal charge rather than a civil matter, Fr. Perfetto was not required to retain a lawyer. The city attorney acts as prosecutor with regards to his charge of trespassing against Mrs. Jean.

Are Fr. Perfetto and the Archdiocese of Detroit using our courts now at the taxpayers expense to intimidate and harass parishioners who disagree with their policies?

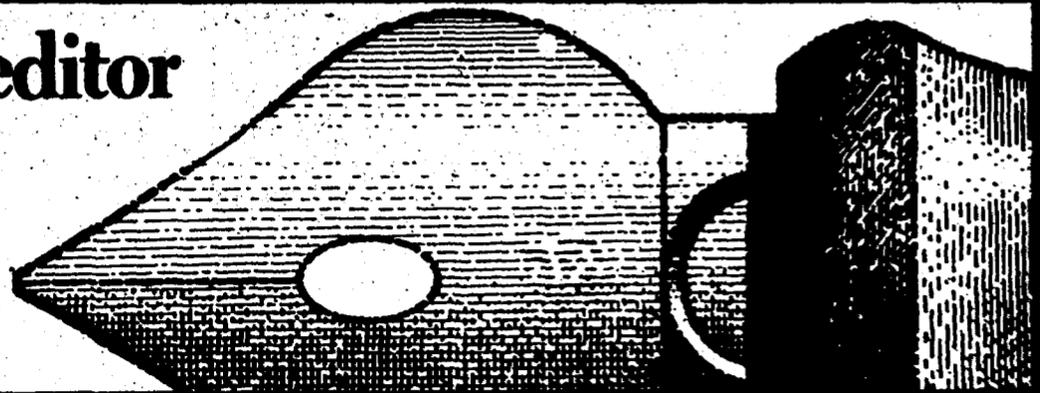

How much will the taxpayers of Plymouth be required to pay to underwrite this episode... let's see, there is the Judge's time, city attorney's fees, court recorder, bailiff, expense of the use of the court facilities...

Like mom, like Polkadaughter

BY DAN JARVIS

When Cindy VanBerkel says she like to dress up and wear makeup, she's not clowning around.

VanBerkel, 30, of Plymouth, has always had an interest in theatrical clowning. When she was about to graduate from the University of Utah's nursing program, she noticed a one-credit class in "clownology" and decided to give clowning around a chance.

The class, taught by west coast clown aficionado Lamar Williams, laid out the basics in makeup application, juggling, sleight of hand and the art of balloonery.

"It is an escape," said VanBerkel. "Once you get behind the makeup you lose your inhibition."

The first problem for VanBerkel was to develop an original costume and character. She began by shopping for material and stumbled across a polka dot print; thus forming her character: Polka Dottie.

She even had her daughter Erin, 7, get into the act: Polka Daughter; as well as her dog, Polka Doggie, who won a blue ribbon at this year's Fall Festival for best dressed dog.

As a nurse, VanBerkel recently decided to combine clowning and caring. As an employee of St. Joseph Hospital in Ann Arbor, she has received permission to visit children in the pediatric ward.

She has also visited children in a Utah burn ward, and has made appearances at promotional grand openings, carnivals and birthday parties.

"I love to visit kids in hospitals, it really helps to cheer up the kids," she said. "At birthday parties, I keep the kids occupied so their parents can relax."

"As you might imagine, a clown can have a profound effect on a child, whether at a party or recovering in a medical ward.

"We have to set a good example. We don't litter or smoke or tell tasteless jokes," she said. "Anytime you're in the public eye, you have to be on your best behavior."

For VanBerkel, the future is painted with bright colors.

Much like her outfit, which consists of a wide ruffled collar and a mass of brightly colored polka dots, VanBerkel's personality beams when she is presented with the opportunity to appear in costume, either to benefit children or to help put food on the table.

"I hope to get involved in retail grand openings," she said. "Also, with companies such as Ford and General Motors."

A hospital, whether VanBerkel's in her clown suit or not, is a setting in which this caring clown is comfortable and expected to make frequent appearances.

Scouts seek volunteers

The Huron Valley Girl Scout Council is seeking volunteers to "take the lead" in the Girl Scout tradition, including parents, professionals and senior citizens.

Volunteers are needed as program consultants, committee members, event directors, media reps and troop leaders.

More than 1,200 Plymouth-Canton girls are involved in the Girl Scout program.

For information on volunteering time to help the Girl Scouts call 483-2370 or write the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council, P.O. Box 539, Ypsilanti, MI 48197.

Furr named campaign head

Steven J. Furr, of Canton, has been named the district coordinator for the Ron Paul Campaign in Michigan. Furr will be coordinator for Canton, and Plymouth.

Paul, a Libertarian, is seeking the office of President of the United States.

Furr was the Libertarian Party's candidate for Lieutenant Governor in 1982. He said his motivation is to send a message back to Washington D.C. to reduce the size and power of the federal government.

Tell it to Phyllis

Beware, in case you haven't noticed, there's a flu bug going around.

It's the kind of bug that makes you feel like you're going to die, and as you make one more trip to the bathroom you could care less if you live or die. In fact, at that point the sooner the better.

What's the flu bug doing buzzing around this time of year? I thought it always waited until closer to the holidays when it could mess up all the family plans.

The only good thing about the flu is the wonders it does for the diet. That was the fastest three pounds I've ever lost.

By the third day, the old body starts to show signs of life again. The hands are a bit shaky and the legs aren't sure whether or not they can hold up the rest of the body or not.

That's when the nose starts picking up the smell of food and the brain is thinking that if the body had something to eat it could gain some strength back. Ha, the only comment from the stomach is — don't try it! Since the stomach has ruled the body for the past two days, then isn't the time to overthrow the leadership.

However, it doesn't take long for the stomach to accept some 7-up and chicken soup. After that you're home free.

It's a great feeling to realize you have managed to survive the flu bug. It makes you wonder when everyone is relieved and happy to know you're back to normal. Gee, I wonder if someone is a bit of a grouch when they don't feel well.

If you've managed to escape the bug, congratulations. If you didn't run fast enough and the bug caught you, my sympathies to your family and friends.

'89 Fest chief chosen

• The parking area behind City Hall may be blocked off for the entire festival next year because of the congestion back there, said Paul Sincoc, assistant city manager in Plymouth. "It's a real mess," he told the board.

Trucks utilize the area to haul in everything from sand, chicken, fish, ice, and materials to build the barbecue pits.

• Another suggestion was to hire a true master of ceremonies to introduce the entertainment at the bandshell during the four-day gathering. Along those lines, the board admitted that some kind of music for the younger festival goers should be provided next year.

Don't expect the likes of Dokken or Whitesnake, though.

• More than 175 people turned out for the festival's ecumenical service on Sunday morning. That's the best turn out for the service in years.

• The board will be considering toughening the application form for next year so that they can avoid confusion over whether or not a group qualifies to be in the festival. This year the board stumbled when it approved the Citizens For Better Education without first examining the group's status.

School parents file for busing information

DAN JARVIS

An angry group of parents have filed a freedom of information request with the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools to find out why their children have suddenly been refused school bus service.

Annette Patyna, a parent and resident of the Phoenix subdivision, near the Hamill and Northville Road intersection, heads a group of parents who say they have been wronged by the school district.

A new school bus driver for the district told students on a school bus that if they did not behave, that they would no longer receive a ride to school, Patyna said at Monday's school board meeting.

When parents reacted by visiting Dale Goby, transportation and safety director for the district, they were told that their children were ineligible to ride the bus because they live too close to Farrand Elementary School.

"We had no notice," said Patyna.

Within two business days of receiving a letter stating that the location was ineligible, the bus drove by, she said. "The kids were standing there waiting."

Goby said that a computer determined that the children lived too close to Farrand and were therefore ineligible to ride the bus.

"With our computer," said Goby, "We are better able to determine eligibility. It gives us a list and the ineligible riders are notified."

John M. Hoben, schools superintendent, said, "Other students in similar situations are walking. We've got to treat everyone the same. We've got to be fair to everyone."

School policy states: kindergarteners through second graders must live one mile or farther to ride the bus; third graders and up must live one and a half miles or farther to ride. Some exceptions are made for safety reasons.

Patyna said Goby and other school officials ignored their requests to explain the change and that she then hired a lawyer. They filed the request under Michigan's Freedom of Information Act.

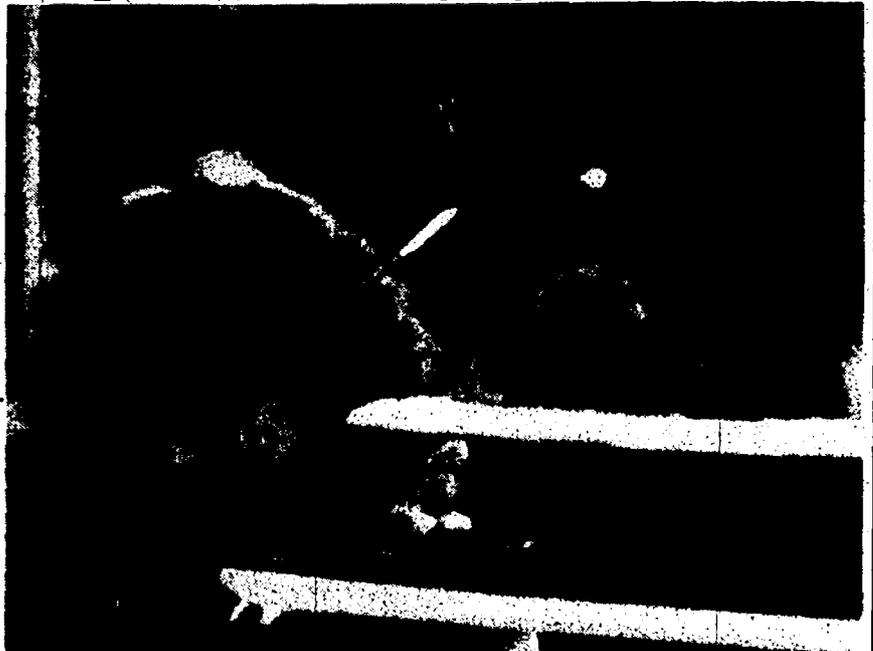

At Monday's school board meeting several parents voiced concerns on the matter.

William D. Brown, another parent, said he had measured the route with an odometer and found that the school was more than one mile from his driveway, thus making kindergarten through second grade students eligible to ride the bus.

Other residents at the school board meeting complained about the short notice given by the district, the fact that school officials would not provide information on the determination of eligibility and that their children would have to walk through areas with no sidewalks.

The group was told by school board president David Artley that they should address the school district's safety committee, scheduled to meet Oct. 26 at 9:30 a.m., in an attempt to solve the problem.

Suspect held in slaying

Patrick Dennis is led into 35th District Court for his arraignment on Oct. 6. Dennis is being held in connection with the Oct. 5 slaying of Kevin Kinney. (Crier photo by Chris Farina)

"We believe it (the homicide) took place sometime around 3-3:30 a.m. on Tuesday, but that hasn't been confirmed."

Police said that a report from the Wayne County Medical Examiner is still pending.

Garber turned Dennis over to the Wayne County Sheriff to be held without bond. The judge also said the court would appoint an attorney for Dennis, who told the court he was unemployed.

Twp. police kick off Crime Prevention Month

While cops fight crime from day to day, month to month, October has been proclaimed Crime Prevention Month in Plymouth Township and the township police are responding accordingly.

Sponsored in part by the National Crime Prevention Coalition in Washington D.C., Crime Prevention Month will feature seminars, police demonstrations, and Omnicom Cablevision programing, said Plymouth Township Police Officer Bob Smith.

On Oct. 12 at 7 p.m. the first in a series of seminars will be held by the township police on improving home security. Officers will be on hand to demonstrate how homeowners can improve the security of their home and property with deadbolts, lighting and alarms, said Smith.

"Unfortunately a lot of people here have this misconception that crime doesn't come west of I-275," said Smith. "That's not true."

On Oct. 18 the department will sponsor another seminar on organizing and implementing the Neighborhood Watch program.

From 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Oct. 22 the township police will be sponsoring an open house at the department and a vehicle I.D. number etching program. On Oct. 24 at 8 a.m. a seminar for detecting credit card fraud for retailers will be held. Finally, on Oct. 26, a youth protection seminar for parents will be held.

In addition to the demonstration and seminars, Omnicom will be running Halloween safety tips throughout the month.

Adding dollars

Home maintenance pays off

BY KEN VOYLES

First impressions are lasting impressions.

That's why it's so important to spruce up one's house with a variety of simple, common sense improvements, especially when it's about to go on the open market.

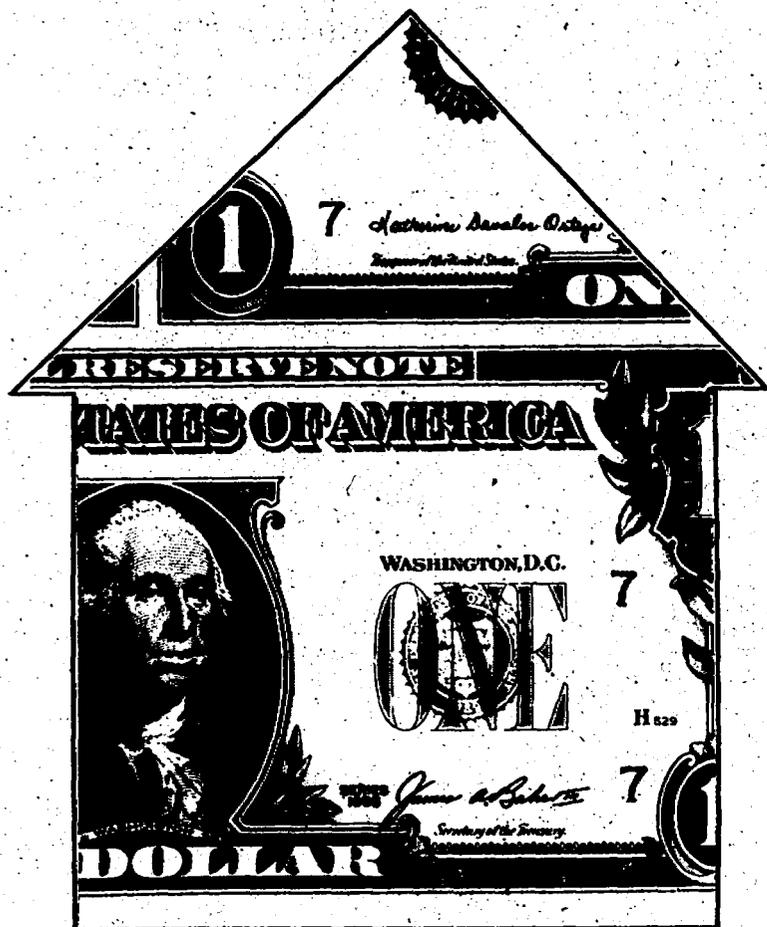

So say local realtors and appraisers who know it is a "must" for homeowners trying to sell a house that the home be well maintained, and even improved when called for.

"You want to make it as inviting as possible," said K.C. Mueller, of K.C. Colonial in Plymouth. "Too many people have this attitude that the buyer will want to redecorate anyway."

"If a house is in tip-top shape you have a good chance, but if not forget it," she said.

Home improvements and simple repairs or cleaning projects may not directly add to the value of the property, said one local appraiser, but any efforts directed that way will enhance the "marketability" of the house.

"The overall condition of the house should be well maintained," said the appraiser. "Nothing cosmetic will enhance the value of your house. That really depends more on its location.

"If you put in something like central air or a deck you'll almost always get your money back dollar for dollar," he added, "but you won't get much more than you put into it."

Mueller said, "Try to avoid any indicators that show poor maintenance. People want to see a house well taken care of."

Mueller added that a lot of people learn to live with certain things about their home but they may be noticeable when it comes time to sell.

"You'll pay the price if you're not willing to work to get it in shape for sale," said Mueller.

Mueller said she has sold homes in a day or so once the owners agreed to fix it up. Before the improvements the home may have been on the market for months.

So what can the average homeowner do to get ready for a sale?

"You can't lose on an up to date kitchen," Mueller said. "An additional bathroom is always helpful, too. You usually can get the cost back if you add one on."

Decks are also very popular, she said, "if done right."

Enclosing a deck or adding another room can also be considered, but Mueller warned against adding a room which only has access through another room, like adding a bedroom that you can get to only through another bedroom.

"And if you make major improvements don't build in obsolescence," Mueller said. "There are a lot of homes on the market right now and buyers can be very choosy."

She added, "Don't go overboard with anything. That's a good rule."

Most homeowners in Plymouth and Canton will get full return in terms of square footage when they make a major renovations, said Mueller.

"If you live in a subdivision you don't want to over improve it though," she said. "Major renovations should be done as long as they are in harmony with the surroundings."

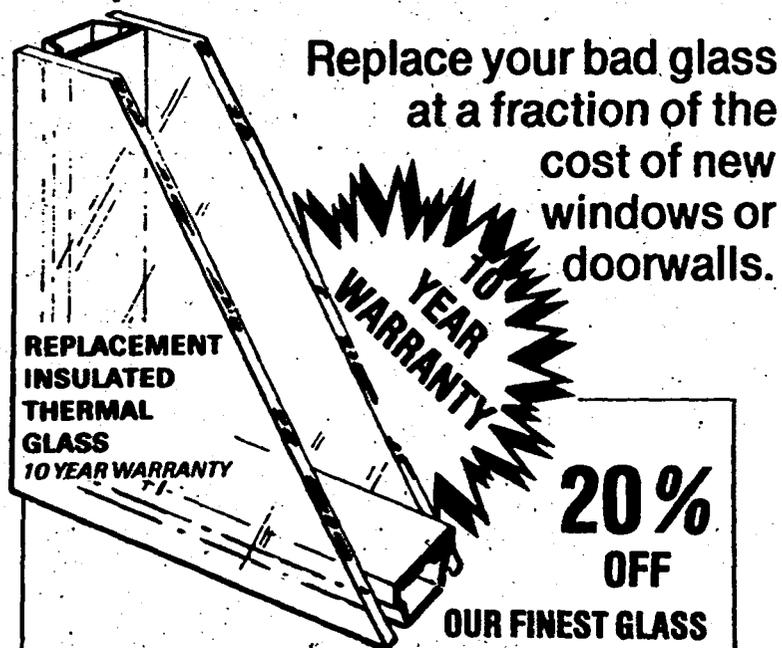

Mueller also mentioned swimming pools, finished basements, fireplaces, roofs and furnaces as areas of major work.

"You really need a finished family room of some type," she said. "A recreation room if you don't have a family room. And most people in Michigan insist on having a basement."

Adding dollars

Home improvements increase value

On a minimum budget, Mueller suggests homeowners make sure the kitchens and bathrooms are "sparkling" clean, sprucing up major appliances as well as the shower, any tiled areas, counters and glass doors.

"A well maintained kitchen or bathroom indicates the type of homeowner and implies the rest of the house is also taken care of," Mueller said.

"Also, nine out of 10 purchasers look at the windows and the sills," she continued. "And if the walls are in need of paint give it a fresh coat, in a neutral color."

Carpeting should be cleaned or replaced in bad spots, and squeaky floorboards should be fixed by counter screwing nails into the joists where the plywood has separated. Mueller calls squeaky floors a real "pet peeve."

Blight from the yard should be removed to add to the "curb appeal" as Mueller called it and any outside trim work should be fixed and painted.

Mueller said most people prefer painted walls so a seller might want to consider removing wallpaper, but it can also be put up, as long as it is in "neutral" colors.

On the next level -- actual major improvements -- homeowners can add central air conditioning, or update kitchen and bathroom counters, fixtures, tiles and appliances.

A finished basement will definitely add to the marketability of the home, Mueller maintained, and adding a fireplace will net the homeowner good return as well.

"Just don't expect to get what your neighbor down the street got because you have the same square footage," she said. "You could get more or less."

A home office adds practicality

BY DAN JARVIS

Are you a business person looking for a place to hang your shingle? How about in the place where you hang your hat? Right in your own home.

Several people in The Plymouth-Canton Community have done just that, created a business office in their own home.

Plymouth Mayor Karl Gansler, who also works as a sales representative, said people can convert a normal room into an office without hiring a professional architect.

"I had to shop around for a desk, a chair, cabinets and a computer, but it wasn't difficult," said Gansler.

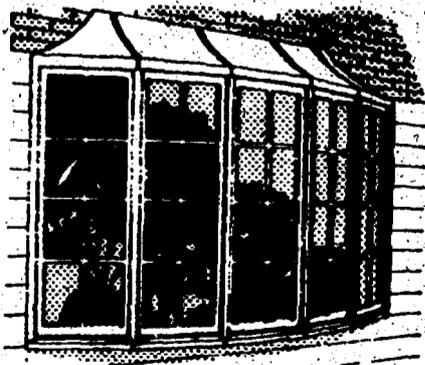

Gansler laid out a few helpful hints for folks who are considering installing a home office.

Home offices combine two lifestyles

At home in his office

Michael Dani is at home in his office — literally. He is among many who have installed an office in the home. (Crier photo by Chris Farina)

"The first thing, if you want to save money, is to determine just how much table space you need," he said. "Don't spend more money than you have to."

When purchasing a computer, don't buy one that is more than you need, he said.

"Have a phone installed near you. You don't want to run up and down the stairs or down the hall," said Gansler. "Get an answering machine. Even if people don't like them, you have to have one."

The mayor also recommends that people have more lighting installed than is found in a typical room.

"If you have carpet, get a chair with wheels," Gansler said. His honor added that a comfortable chair is a must for those who work long hours.

Michael Dani, a Canton based accountant, has had an office in his home for the last 10 years.

"I bought the house with an office in mind," said Dani. "I had to put in a tremendous amount of electrical, as well as a few partition walls."

Dani recommends that people keep office and home life totally separate.

"When you commingle the two, you totally lose the office atmosphere," said Dani. "If you are going to have people in, the office must be self contained; must have a rest room and separate entrance."

According to Dani, the Internal Revenue Service has strict regulations concerning home offices. In order to receive a home office tax break, the facility must be not be used for other purposes, such as a living room.

Office at home is advantageous

"It must be separate and distinct. If you use a section of the living room for an office out of convenience, you may not receive the tax break," said Dani.

Cited by Dani as the primary advantage of having an office in your home is the convenience.

"It is really handy to do work out of the home, especially when you're working long hours" he said.

Plymouth Township resident Lois Wolfe-Morgan, a professional speaker, also has a home office, as does her husband, Michael Morgan, a sales representative. In fact the couple has even hired a secretary to help with the myriad of duties, she said.

"We did all the work ourselves," said Wolfe-Morgan.

Among the items that an office should offer to the homeowner, she said, is the right furniture, adequate lighting, plenty of phone lines and plenty of electrical outlets. The electrical service is one facet of a home office which should be installed by a licensed professional, said Wolfe-Morgan.

The major advantages of having a home office is the savings in cost and the convenience of being at home, she indicated.

One disadvantage, however, is that the office is always there, even when you might want to get away, she added.

"If you are a workaholic," said Wolfe-Morgan, "You can spend too much time in the office."

Security measures add to quality

BY PAUL GARGARO

Unfortunately, home security additions wouldn't be considered under the heading of home improvements.

The majority think of aesthetics when they plan to make additions to the home. New drapes to let light in the sun room, a screened in porch for summer entertaining, or an expanded work area in the garage all constitute home additions and improvements. They add features to improve the home and contribute to the household's quality of life.

Home security additions aren't the type of thing you might proudly display at your next dinner party. Instead, they exist as ugly reminders that every home is susceptible to crime.

With that reality in mind, home security should be considered among the primary targets for a homeowner looking to protect and enhance his or her home.

Offered through a variety of manual locks and electronic alarm systems, securing your home is easier than you might think.

"Most people go bananas and think they need a fortress," said Harold Sneath, president of Unique Alarm Systems in Livonia. "Most burglars use a door wall (patio sliding door) and the front or back doors. People can take a lot of easy measures to protect against that. The main thing is to detect the intruder before he can take anything or harm anyone."

Sneath said a basic alarm system that covers two doors with an indoor siren and a siren activated at a central station can be obtained for under $250.

Sneath also said that outdoor controlled key lock and digital alarm systems are susceptible to the weather and to vandalism.

"Hardly anyone uses them anymore," said Sneath. "The kids put Crazy Glue in them and most of the digital outdoor alarms aren't waterproof. They're a service problem."

Coupled with the newer, worry-free systems, Sneath said a popular security item has been the close-circuit video security camera. The camera is about the size of a cigarette package and has audio capabilities.

While electronic security devices are sure to put the kabosh on break-ins, the deadbolt remains as one of the most effective crime deterrents.

In addition to the deadbolts, chain locks, electronic alarms and sliding doors jams, Tom Lewis, of Heritage Lock and Safe on Sheldon in Canton, said keyed locks on windows are a strong preventative device as are burglar bars on basement windows, which can be mounted on either the outside or inside.

Home security gives piece of mind

Locked out!

Plymouth Township Police Officer Robert Smith explains the advantages of a single cylinder deadbolt lock for home security. (Crier photo by Chris Farina)

CONTINUED

Smith added that further questions about home security systems and current home security status can be answered at most police departments.

"If people have enough time they can get into anything," said Plymouth Township Police officer Robert Smith. "Police suggest a single cylinder deadbolt with a thumb turn on the inside and a key lock on the outside.

"Double cylinder (keys on both sides) are a real fire hazard. People tend to panic and then they can't find their keys," added Smith. "The only problem with the single cylinder is that if people have a window on their door, the intruder can break through that and get to the lock. Still, you want to make things simple, so you should put the deadbolt near the handle so that it's constantly used."

Smith said that the ideal deadbolt should be at least one inch long. Smith also said police recommend that all doors should have a door viewer (peep hole). And he said that while door chains are good, they only slow down the intruder.

Smith said that many break-ins start in the garage.

"We see a lot of break-ins through the garage door that leads to the outside," said Smith. "Once inside the garage they (the intruders) can take their time and use any of the tools available to them in the garage."

Smith also recommended proper outdoor lighting.

"If there's good lighting around the outside of the house at night, the bad guys don't want any part of it."

Smith and a number of officers will be offering a number of crime prevention seminars throughout the month as part of the township's anti-crime month. Tonight's (Oct. 12) seminar on home security begins at 7 p.m. and will be led by officers Smith and Dennis Wilson.

Getting down to business

Sales down?

Downtown shops show summer slump

BY CHERYL KRICHO

Many retail store owners in Plymouth say they noticed a decrease in business during the summer.

Some stores in the downtown shopping district reported sales below that of last year's levels, said Mary Roehr, executive director of the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce.

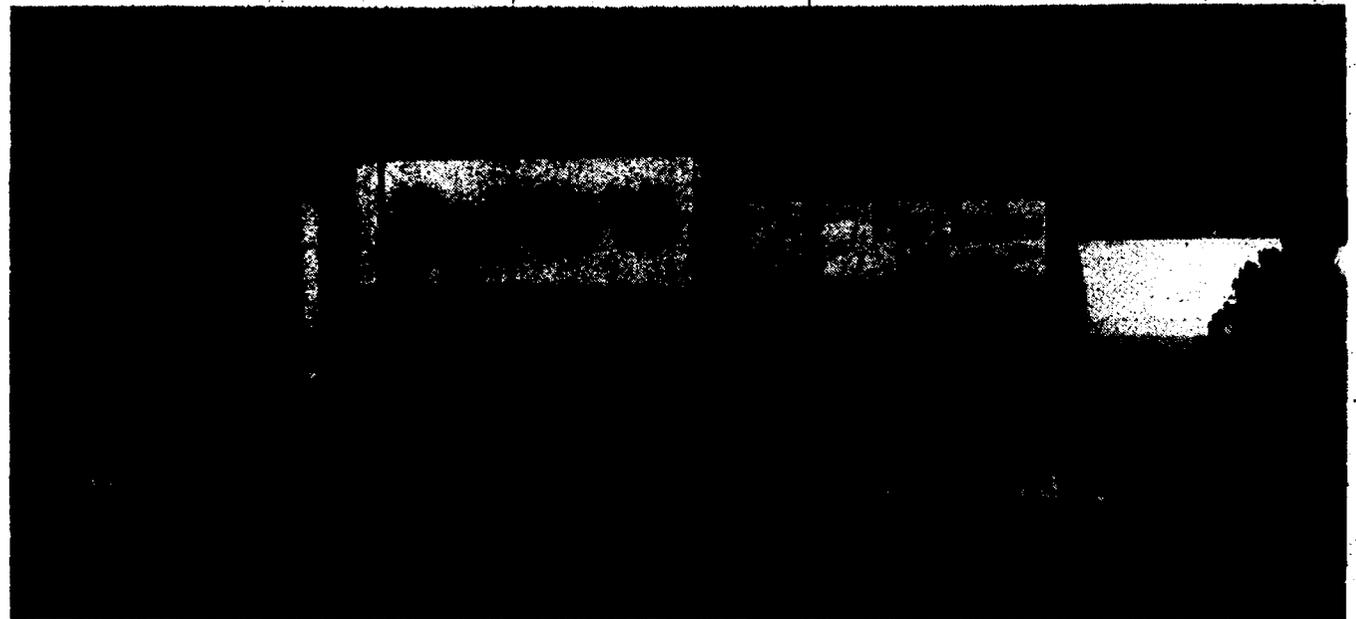

The main reason for the decrease in business is that the heat wave forced customers off Plymouth streets and into air-conditioned shopping malls, Roehr said. Many Plymouth retailers have reported that the amount of traffic in their stores decreased significantly because of the long heat wave.

Chris Saxton, owner of Saxton's Garden Center, said that his sales for lawn and garden products and services had decreased an average of 17 per cent for June-July. This summer's heat and dryness hindered the growth of lawns and thus curtailed lawn services, he said.

Plymouth stores may have also lost some of their sales to new stores in the area.

Patricia Mee, owner of Sacks of Forest Avenue, said that whenever a new store opens, customers flock to it. She estimates that sales in her clothing store were 10 per cent lower this year than in 1987 because of increased competition and the heat wave.

Since me & mr. jones petites opened in March, 1987, public knowledge of the store and sales have been increasing. According to Carol Ventola, the store manager, their success is due to the small number of women's clothing stores in the area which carry petite sizes.

Now Leasing!

Wayside Gifts has also had higher sales this summer due to store expansion which began in June, said Cheryl Cheske, the store's manager.

The Plymouth Chamber of Commerce's small business and retail committee, which consists of local store owners, said it is working to attract more business to downtown Plymouth. Its promotion program includes annual town-wide sales for the Plymouth shopping area.

Throughout the rest of the year, there will be a sale or special retail promotion going on in Plymouth every month, Roehr said.

Because of the hot temperatures this summer's Sidewalk Sale in July attracted substantially fewer customers than in previous years, some retailers said. But one gift shop manager blamed the decrease on the chamber's promotional efforts. She also said the Inflation Sale was not as successful this year.

Many retailers looked to the annual Fall Festival to help revive sales during the slack time preceding Thanksgiving.

Mee said that at the beginning of each season most area stores try to promote their merchandise individually. For her that means a new line of clothing and promoting it with fashion shows.

In October, store owners will be giving out candy to children during the annual Great Pumpkin Caper. Some 2,000 youngsters took part last year, some stores said.

Since store and public area appearances may also affect sales downtown, the chamber is also planning a beautification promotion for downtown stores. "You can never make a second impression," said Roehr. She added that it was important for store owners to be aware of the competition and to figure out how best to compete.

Mee, a member of the small business and retail committee, said the best way for store owners to succeed is to promote their own stores without depending completely on town sales.

Yazaki Corp. expands

The American Yazaki Corp., located in Canton on Haggerty Road, is on the verge of expanding with a $12 million, 100,000-square foot addition planned for just north of the present facility, according to information from the Canton Department of Community and Economic Development.

The new two-story building will house research and prototype development facilities, according to information released from the development department.

Yazaki specializes in the manufacture of automotive wire harnesses, electronic instrumentation, gas absorption, air conditioning projects and other automotive components. Annual sales exceed $1 billion.

Yazaki moved to its present site in 1986. It is an anchor to Canton's Northeast Industrial Development District.

The addition will provide general office space, design facilities, a computer graphics division, and complete testing laboratory.

It is expected to add 160 full time jobs to the present staff of 350.

Salem girls netters tie for division

BY JANET ARMSTRONG

While visions of a state championship danced in their head... That could be a verse in a song the Salem High School girls tennis team is now singing.

With Salem's dual meet tennis season wrapped up, the Rocks are concentrating on their post season play.

Salem finished up their season with a 10-1 record in the league and a 10-2 record overall.

"The girls really played some nice tennis," said Salem coach Judy Braun. "They worked hard."

The Rocks tied with North Farmington for first place in their division and hoped to take home a first place finish in yesterday's Western Lakes Activities Association's League meet, said Braun.

"We stand a good chance to come in first," said Braun of yesterday's meet.

Friday will also be a test, said Braun. Friday is the Class A State Tennis Regional at the Schoolcraft tennis courts.

"I think we can do well in regionals," Braun said.

Should Salem place either first or second in the regional competition, they would qualify for the Class A State Finals.

Braun said she's looking for seniors Missy Smith, Beth Cundiff, Julie Shimmel, and Sarah Underwood to lead her team through the post season.

Salem fumbles homecoming game for 2nd straight loss

BY JANET ARMSTRONG

Turnovers cost the Salem High School football team a homecoming win on Friday night and a chance at the Lakes Division title.

Four turnovers in the first half of Friday's game helped Westland John Glenn (6-0) spoil Salem's (4-2) celebration.

"We put ourselves in the hole early," said veteran Salem football coach Tom Moshimer.

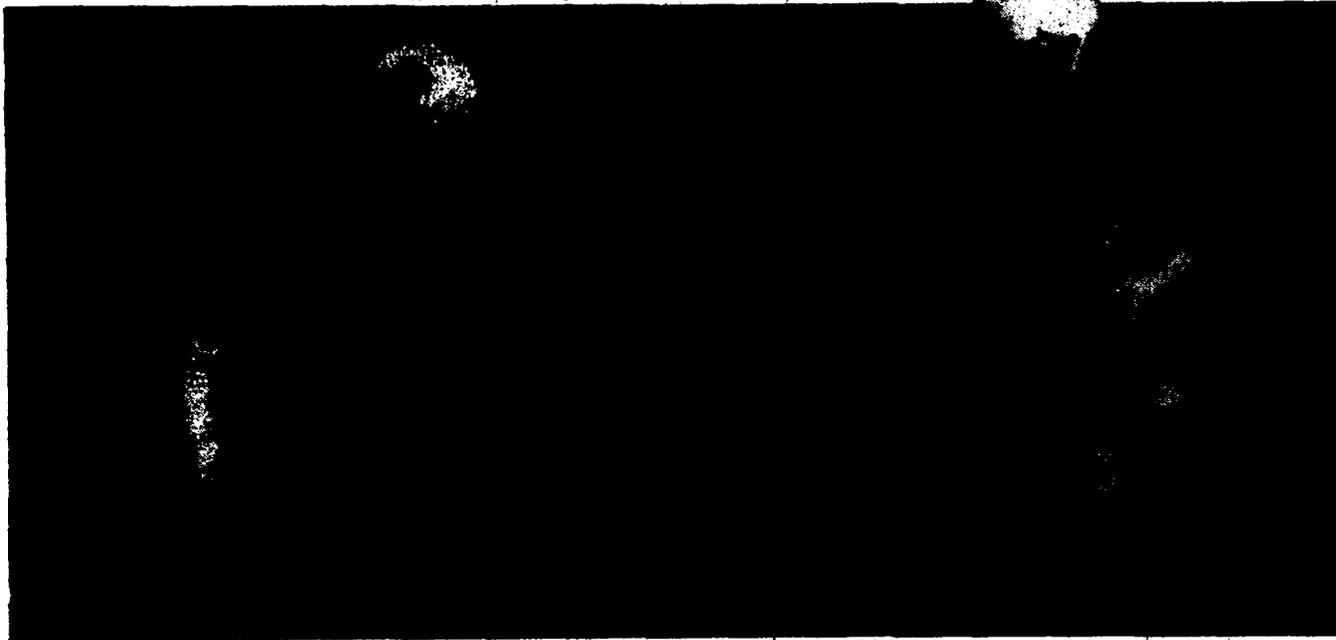

Salem was able to hold John Glenn from getting a touchdown after their first turnover. Glenn however, went on to score on their next possession.

In the following possession, Glenn got the ball back after a Salem fumble, but was unable to score when Salem came up with a clutch interception on their own two yard line.

But Glenn then recovered another Rock fumble and went on to score.

With time running out in the first half of play, Salem botched an attempted punt. Glenn recovered and ran it in to the end zone to close the half 19-0.

Salem quarterback Ryan Johnson scored on a quarterback sneak at the beginning of the second half to make the score 19-6.

But John Glenn reacted quickly, running the kickoff back to mid-field. They then scored a few plays later to bring the score to 25-6.

Glenn added one more touchdown to bring the final score to 32-6.

Moshimer said that while the score may not have reflected it, the Salem defense did its job.

"Our defense played real well," he explained.

Moshimer said his team should never come out of the first half losing by more than 7-0.

John Glenn tailbacks Brian Scatterlee scored all five of his squad's touchdowns, rushing for 178 yards on 35 carries.

"They were bigger, stronger and faster than we were," said Moshimer. "They wore us down through the whole game."

"You can't turn the ball over to this good of a team and expect to win," the coach added.

Salem next plays at Farmington on Saturday. Game time is 1 p.m.

Canton tankers edged out in the last event

The Canton high school girls swim team got dunked Thursday by Northville, losing the dual meet in the final event.

Northville edged out Canton 83-89 to bring the Chiefs' record to 3-2.

"It was even closer than the score shows," said Canton coach Hooker Wellman.

Nicole Drake captured two first place finishes for the Chiefs, one in the 200-yard freestyle and the other in the 500-yard freestyle.

Canton garnered firsts in two other events, Amy VanBuhler was the winner of the diving competition and Cassie Cummins swam her way to a first place in the 100-yard backstroke.

The next challenge for Canton will be a dual meet versus cross-campus rival Salem.

Salem swimmers' streak comes to an end

The Salem High School girls swim team came up short in its bid to stay undefeated Thursday. The Rocks lost to North Farmington 73-99.

Salem, whose record now stands at 4-1, captured two first place finishes in the meet.

Nicole Boase swam to a first place in the 100-yard freestyle, with Jenny Ezzo also taking a first place for Salem in the diving competition.

Salem will attempt to get back on the winning track Thursday against rival Canton. Meet time is 7 p.m. in the Canton pool.

The Plymouth-Canton Cruiser swim team edged out the Ypsilanti Otters in a close meet on Oct. 4.

"We're working really hard for this meet," said Wellman.

The showdown is scheduled for Thursday at 7 p.m. at the Canton pool.

The Cruiser team tallied 401 points to the Otters' 399 for the win.

The meet came down to the final event, the 13-14-year-old boys 200-yard freestyle relay.

It was Dave Krupin, Brian Petroskey, Chris Egan, and Al Sneath who came through with a first place finish to lift the Cruisers to the victory.

94 overall

Chiefs wrap up season, look to future

BY JANET ARMSTRONG

The end of the dual meet season is upon the Canton High School girls tennis team and the Chiefs can look back with pride on a number of successful performances.

The Chiefs finished up the season with a record of 7-4 in the league and 9-4 overall.

Canton is a team of underclassmen with the exception of one senior Tripti Kataria, who is a member of the number one doubles team for the Chiefs.

That's quite a change from last year, according to the Canton girls tennis coach Carol Michaels.

"We lost six of our varsity players last year," explained Michaels.

Michaels said she had her doubts coming into this season with the lack of experienced players, but she said her team surprised her.

Last year the Chiefs finished the dual meet season in fifth place.

"We finished exactly the same this year as we did last year," Michaels said,

Michaels said it had a lot to do with the hard work her team put in.

"They worked really hard," said Michaels. "They really came through."

Michaels said she was happy with her team's performance this season, especially her number three singles player.

"Sherri Bajer is undefeated at the number three spot on the season," explained Michaels.

The Chiefs finished up their dual meet season with matches against Grosse Ile on Wednesday, and North Farmington on Thursday.

The squad lost their league match with the North Farmington Raiders 1-6. Sherri Bajer at the number three singles position was the only winner in the meet, taking a 6-3, 6-2 match.

Canton was a little luckier versus Grosse Ile, winning that match 6-1.

Canton's number one singles player, Tonya Bowsman, was the first winner for Canton, taking her match 6-3, 6-3.

Also winning for the Chiefs were Alyssa Huth and Sherri Bajer at the number two and three positions respectively.

Michelle Sparkman rounded out the singles play with a win in the number four spot winning 6-0, 6-1.

Kataria and LeAnne Gurchak won in their number one doubles position, 7-6, 2-6, 6-4.

Canton's number three doubles team of Reshalm Batar and Heather Kaye rounded out Canton's victory, winning 3-6, 7-6, 6-4.

Canton's number two doubles team was the only losing match for the Chiefs.

With the dual meet season behind them the Canton netters are now preparing for post season play.

The Chiefs competed yesterday in their league finals, and Michaels said she wasn't expecting to finish high.

"Realistically I think we'll end up fifth," Michaels said.

The Chiefs will compete Friday at The Class A Regionals at the Schoolcraft courts. Michaels said the competition will be tough and added she didn't expect to qualify.

"I don't think we can make states," said Michaels. "But you never know."

As for next season, Michaels had just one thing to say: "Only time will tell."

Canton ties Harrison, shows steady improvement

BY RITA DERBIN

The Canton High School boys soccer team struggled last Wednesday, but managed to squeak out a 1-1 tie with Harrison in the last few minutes of the game.

Senior John Cortese scored the Chiefs' only goal with eight minutes to play in the game on an assist from Rick Menary. The Chiefs then held on for the tie.

Harrison had scored three minutes into the game and had control of the game before Cortese scored.

"We did a good job against Harrison in coming from behind to tie," Canton coach Mike Morgan commented on his team's effort.

"We do not have a great record and we are not having a great season," Morgan added. "But most importantly, the team has been steadily improving every game."

The Chiefs were 4-6-4 overall and 3-3-2 in conference play after Wednesday's tie. They played at Farmington on Monday evening and will be home against Franklin tonight at 7 p.m.

Injuries plague Salem soccer

BY RITA DERBIN

The Salem soccer team had its eight game winning streak and second place ranking come to an abrupt halt last week with two losses against tough opponents.

On Wednesday the Rocks went up against powerhouse Stevenson and lost both the game and two key players. The bigger and more experienced Stevenson team won 3-0.

"We played well against Stevenson," Salem coach Ken Johnson said. "We had our chances, but we are a young team that is in a rebuilding process and they have eight seniors starting."

Johnson added that Stevenson had bigger players and the Rocks lost their two big players, Donovan Nichols and Chris Olson to injuries in the game.

According to the Rock coach, Nichols and Olson should be able to play next week.

Saturday presented the same situation for Salem. The Rocks went up against highly ranked Portage Central with Nichols and Olson sidelined and were shutout 2-0.

"We're happy to be doing so well this year," Johnson commented after the losses. "We thought we were a year away from being a good team with so many sophomores."

"We also played without junior Jeff Gold, our top forward who is out all season with an injury and we have still beaten three of the top teams in Churchill, Brother Rice and Troy."

After Saturday's loss the Rocks' record fell to 9-4-1 overall and 6-1-1 in their conference. They are second in their (the Lakes) division. They played North Farmington on Monday and will play at Harrison today before the playoffs begin next Wednesday.

Chief gridgers suffer loss

BY JANET ARMSTRONG

The Canton High School football team fell back to its losing ways Saturday dropping a big one to the number one ranked team in the state of Michigan.

The Chiefs suffered a 62-14 loss at the hands of the Farmington Harrison Hawks Saturday.

Harrison had control of the game from start to finish, said Canton coach Bob Khoenle.

"They're (Harrison) a very good team," Khoenle said. "They deserve their number one ranking."

On the bright side, the Chiefs did manage to score on Harrison twice. Jason Denby and Mark Barrett scored the only touchdowns for the Chiefs on a day that Khoenle said he may just want to forget.

Khoenle said Canton's turnovers and Harrison's ability to capitalize on the Chief's mistakes played a key role in Canton's loss.

"We had a lot of turnovers in the game," said Khoenle. "We just didn't play well on either side of the football."

Khoenle said the play of Greg Wasiak was one of the game's few positive elements.

"Greg did a good job today," said Khoenle.

Canton will try to put Saturday's game behind them on Friday night with a homecoming match against Livonia Franklin.

Kickoff is set for 7:30 p.m.

Pee Wee car wash on tap
