Vol. 15 No. 40

BY PAUL GARGARO AND AMY BENSINGER Long after you wrap your fish dinner with this paper, incumbent 2nd District Congressman Carl Pursell and challenger, State Senator Lana Pollack will still be looking for votes in backwater townships in Hillsdale County.

Pursell has apparently squeaked by in his toughest race in 12 years in office.

With about 60 per cent of the precints reporting, he was maintaining a narrow, but steady lead as of early this morning.

In his own backyard, the City of Plymouth, Pursell dropped two of five precincts to Pollack. Despite this, he took Plymouth with 2,651 unofficial votes to Pollack's 1,970.

In his home community of Plymouth Township, Pursell took 7,653 unofficial votes, while Pollack collected. 3,962.

Northville City went 797 for Pursell to 502 for Pollack.

In other portions of the district, Pursell did not fare as well.

'I am encouraged by the number of residents who voted for the proposal,' Gulkewicz added. "We'll just have to analysis the results and see if repackaging the proposal is warranted."

The proposal asked voters to approve funding to design, construct and maintain a "multi-use" recreational center for all ages. It included a planned swimming pool and was expected to cost $8 million to construct.

"I have to conclude that people want the facility, but this is not the way to pay for it," said Tom Gulkewicz, chairperson of the citizens committee which supported the plan. "We may have to find an alternative way to fund it."

Nankin Transit seeks to become taxing agency

BY KEN VOYLES

The Nankin Transit Commission (NTC), which serves five Wayne County communities including Canton with small bus service, is in financial trouble.

One solution, presented to Canton's Board of Trustees last week, may be the formation of an authority which could raise tax millage to offset expenses.

Glen Shaw, a representative of the NTC, told the board that the commission needs to be re-organized into an authority.

"Then we'd have taxing ability to get back to our previous service levels," Shaw said. "We want to dissolve the commission and create the Nankin Transit Authority.'

Shaw said the authority, if approved by the five communities, would set up a special election sometime in February of next year to ask for millage to help offset a $200,000 shortfall.

"We don't need action right away but we want to move on this as soon as possible," Shaw said.

Three years ago Nankin suffered cutbacks in revenues from the Southeastern Michigan Transit Authority (SEMTA), which forced the commission to cut bus service from 16 buses down to 10 or 11. Ridership fell from 16,000 riders per month to around 8,000 per month.

Last year the NTC received a one time grant of $114,000 to offset costs and allow it to continue to operate until July, 1989.

"We promised Lansing we wouldn't be back," Shaw said. "We told them we would work on a long term solution."

The

Public Act 196 of 1986 allows NTC to be re-organized as an authority. The new authority would maintain a contractual relationship with SEMTA; but would be authorized to seek approval of a millage to acquire funds to continue the small bus service.

Member communities will have to agree to form the authority, Shaw told the Canton board, and fund a special election. To pass, the millage needs a majority of the aggregate vote of its member communities, he added. The communities include Canton, Garden City, Inkster, Westland and Wayne.

If the plan is approved, the new Nankin Transit Authority (NTA) would pursue a vote on an assessment not to exceed a half mill, said Shaw. That represents $17.50 per year on a $70.000 home in the NTA area.

The millage would be subject to a renewal after five years.

Nankin is a small bus service for seniors, handicapped citizens and those residents without automobiles or who are economically disadvantaged. The system would be brought back up to 16 buses, said Shaw.

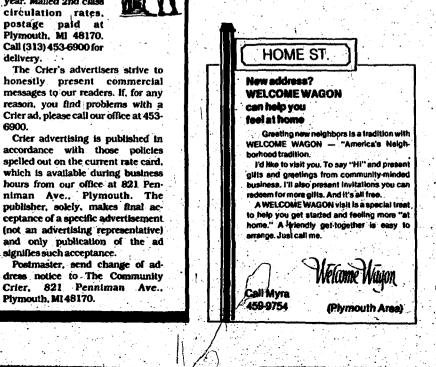

"We don't have anything definitive vet from those communities," said Charlie Hunter, director of operations for Nankin. "SEMTA didn't like the idea at first but now they feel this is the right approach."

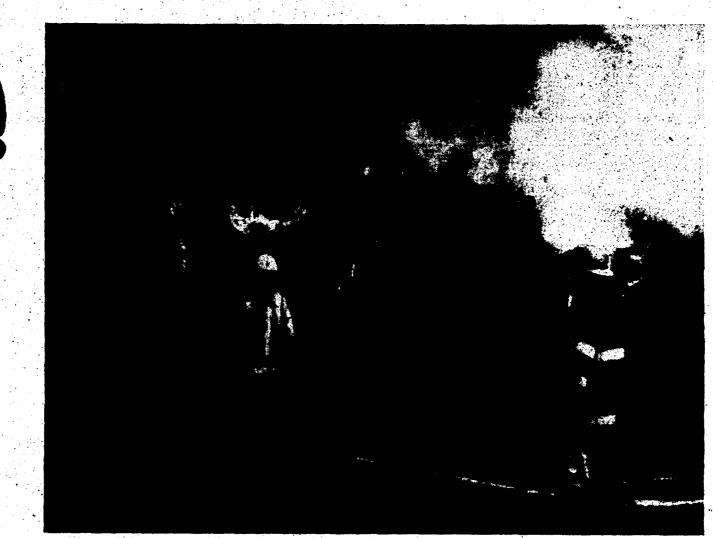

When the transit commisssion first lost revenue. Canton chipped in $10,000 to keep it afloat. Shaw said Nankin would have to seek $30-40,000 from Canton if an authority cannot be formed. The other communities have also helped to subsidize the commission in the past.

"We just want to create an ability to raise, revenues on our own," said Shaw.

"I strongly support and endorse this," said Robert Padget, an outgoing trustee in Canton. "But I really think it is more appropriate that the new board makes this decision."

After further discusssion of the matter last week Canton's board voted to table any motion of support until the new board is in place.

Accident or arson? Fire still under investigation

BY PAUL GARGARO "My first thought was something fell on me -- like a plane."

Such was the reaction of Connie Perry, whose unit in the Heritage Square Apartment complex at 300 N. Mill Street was destroyed by flames when an adjacent unit blew up at 4:08 p.m. on Friday afternoon.

Five units in the 18-apartment complex were gutted and three others received minor smoke damage, said City of Plymouth Fire Chief Alan Matthews.

Guy Zukowski received extensive third-degree burns over half of his body in what fire officials said was an explosion due to a gas leak in his apartment.

Zukowski is currently being treated at the University of Michigan Burn Center, said Matthews.

"It was loud and it knocked stuff off the ceiling and I could see flames through the wall," said Sue Leksche, who lived in a neighboring apartment with her 11-year-old daughter, Angel. "We were right in the living room. If we were in the bedroom we would have been trapped. My daughter had just

"I tried to call the police, but the phone didn't work so we ran," added Leksche.

Derek Davis and his uncle John Davidson, of Connecticut, and a friend John Foley, who were all at Davis' neighboring condominium following the funeral of Davis' mother, Sue Ann Eberline, ran to the scene just after the explosion.

"It was really loud. It sounded like thunder. We thought a tree had fallen on our unit," said Davis. Davis said they kicked in the door of one burning apartment in an effort to save its resident. Foley received a cut on the forearm while trying to rescue a dog which was inside.

The dog, Muffin, escaped unharmed, said Foley. (Other pets were not so lucky, said fire officials.) The dog's owner, Mark Ratza, 26, said his pet ran off during the fire's confusion and is still missing.

"The burn victim was sitting outside -- I don't think he realized he was burnt," said Davidson. "I took him next door and when we got him inside, we couldn't get him to sit. He looked pretty bad."

Matthews said units from Plymouth Township, Canton, Northville City and Township were called in to assist and the flames were brought under control within 40 to 45 minutes.

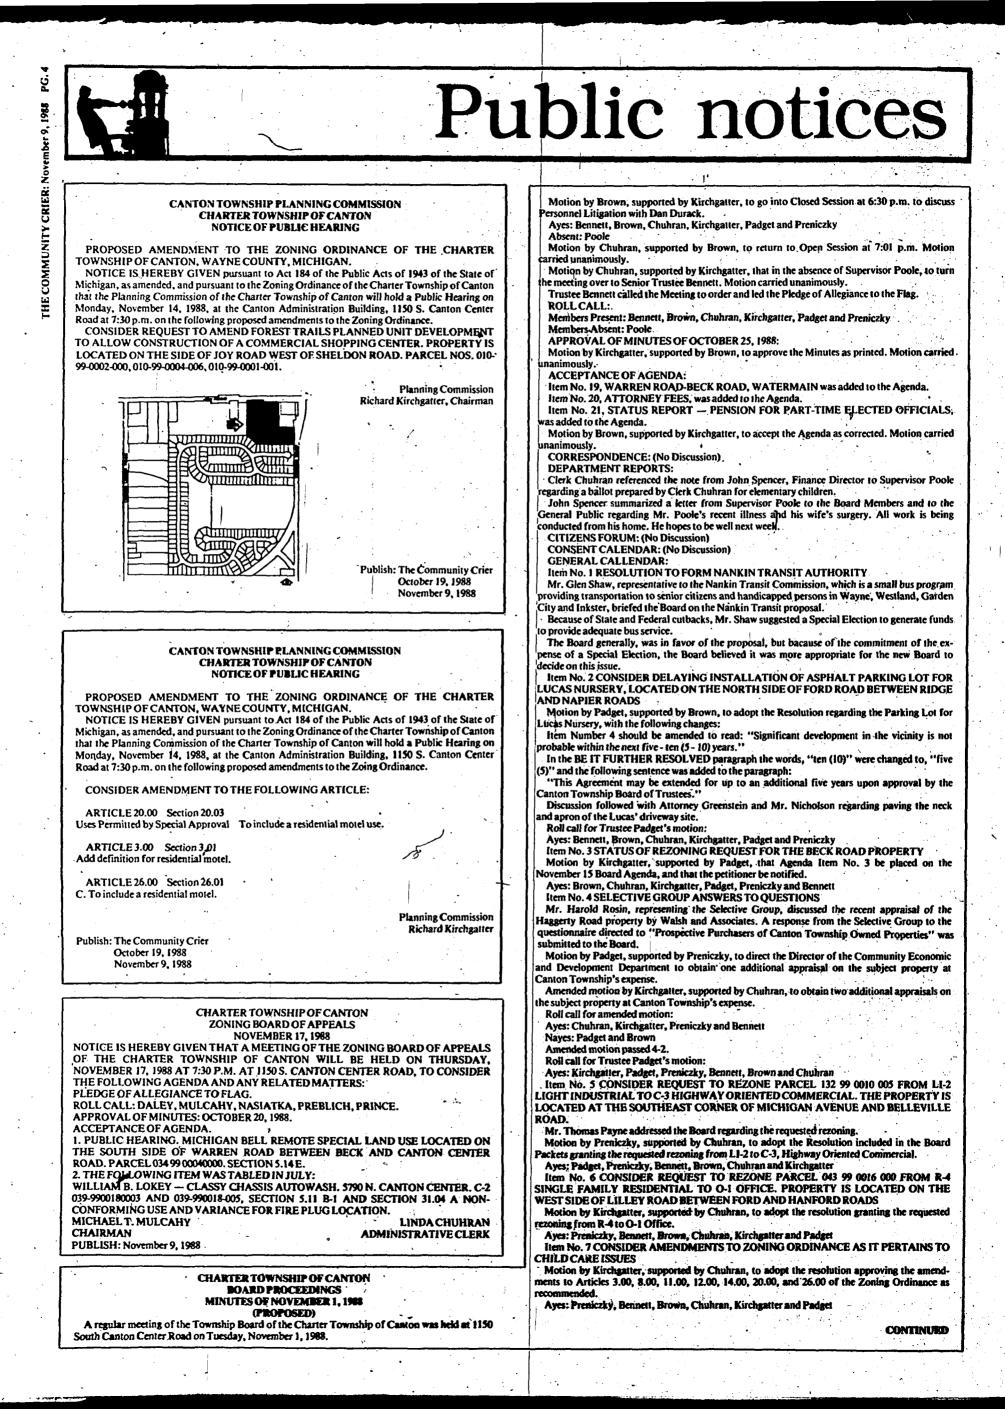

The exact cause of the explosion and subsequent fire were still under in-

Twp. man arraigned in student's death

BY DAN JARVIS

A Plymouth Township man has been arraigned and charged with operating a vehicle under the influence of alcohol in the Oct. 16 death of a West Bloomfield student attending Michigan State University.

Richard Karpinski, 49, was driving through East Lansing on Grand River Avenue when Philip Rader, 19. ignored a traffic signal, ran into the road and was struck by Karpinkski's car shortly after midnight of the 15th, according to Kim Eddie, Ingham County chief assistant prosecutor.

Karpinski was given an alcohol breath test by East Lansing Police, who said the result was .16, exceeding the legal limit. Eddie said there was reason to believe Rader had also been drinking but added that official test results will not be available for several weeks.

According to Eddie, that portion of Grand River has been the site of at least three other fatalities over the past several years.

"It's a difficult area," said Eddie. "The student hangouts are on one side of the street and the university is on the other."

Eddie added that Karpinski is awaiting pre-trial legal proceedings, but that a date has not been set. No other charges will be filed against Karpinski.

Voters Beware!!!

Election etiquette. Is it disappearing?

In this year when dirty campaigning started on the road to the White House and trickled down, a number of infractions have come to light.

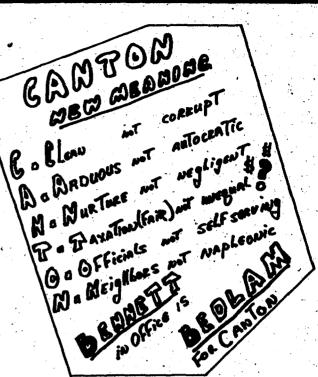

The most common indecent assault on voters is the placement of campaign signs on public property and rights of way. There's only one way to stop that -- don't vote for any candidate or position that uses that tactic. (Watch how many signs stay up after election day too! Maybe they should prohibit candidates from taking office until all his or her signs are down.)

Last minute "smear" literature has also surfaced. There's little opportunity to rebut such fliers. Worse yet are anonymous attacks.

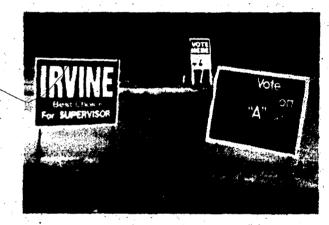

Overzealous campaign workers were also a problem at polling places in The Plymouth-Canton Community yesterday. School Board Member E. J. McClendon was seen vigorously arguing with a Proposal A un-advocate whom he agreed with, but who was campaigning inside the line at the Farrand Elementary School poll. (Voters there also complained about a Proposal A sign that was placed on the school's lawn election morning.)

Plymouth-Canton voters are not fooled by such blatant lapses in election etiquette.

And, like E.J., they should stand up to it. THE COMMUNITY CRIER

A 'dirty' campaign flier -- unsigned -- slammed Loren Bennett. Political signs were often placed in public rights of way.

Fever heats up protester

Larry Brayboy and George Bush have nothing in common, except maybe that they both vote.

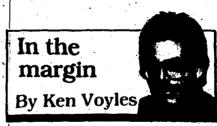

Brayboy, a history teacher and supporter of Mike Dukakis, stood alone in the cold rain Friday waiting outside the gymnasium at Schoolcraft College, while inside Bush addressed a warm crowd of nearly 3,000 on one of his last campaign stops.

Brayboy carried a sign that read "Reagan, Bush, Oliver North --Shredders of the Constitution," while Bush carried the partisan crowd with a 20-minute speech attacking Dukakis and calling himself a "mainstream candidate."

The gym in which he spoke was decked out with banners, balloons, and several giant American flags. It was filled to the rafters with partisan followers of all ages, along with the ever present phalanx of media.

One sign on the gym wall read: "The Choice of a New Generation --Bush/Quayle." Another noted: "George is here."

Outside, though, a cold drizzle pounded the campus pavement, trickling off those lucky enough to be invited as they rushed to get inside the

Near one entrance stood Brayboy, looking not at all like a candidate, his hair in clumps and dripping furiously down his face.

Several angry Bush followers set upon Brayboy and told him to go home (as if he weren't allowed on our free streets). Brayboy lost his cool and punctuated a sentence with a loud "f-k."

Someone glared at him for a moment, and then another called a Livonia cop over. In just a minute Brayboy was in the back of a Livonia police car.

"They told me they'd get me for inciting a riot if I wasn't careful," Brayboy said after being released from the custody of his convictions. But he didn't leave the scene and instead continued to hold his sign high - the lone Dukakis supporter in a sea of unfriendly Republican faces.

Inside, Gabe "Welcome Back Kotter" Kaplan spoke of the Republican message and vision. He followed other Republican stars on stage including L. Brooks Patterson, George Romney and Plymouth's own Carl Pursell, who called Bush "a great American."

Then it was Bush's turn. He stood on stage with a large "family" of friends behind him and his wife and daughter by his side.

He spoke of the "great divide" and how deep it was between himself and Dukakis. He spoke of "mandate" and "mainstream." He thanked Schoolcraft College and congratulated the school's president Richard Mc-Dowell. He talked of going "forward." He called the best answer to unemployment a job.

When it was over, and the sweat was rolling down the backs of everyone in the place, they released the balloons and set off a frenzied stomping.

The Republicans had gone mad with pre-election fever.

And Larry Brayboy was just plain mad.

Community will benefit if proposal passes

EDITOR:

I had written a long, two-page letter to you as editor, but I met with Mike Gouin recently, and put the letter aside. This is its replacement.

I just wanted to say I am for the proposed community center here in Canton. I have talked with heads and assistants of six different recreation departments and can find nothing that is lacking in our proposed center to deny passage of the millage proposal.

For just $1.20 a week per home, I think we'll all benefit greatly from the structure. I wish more could be said to gain everyone's approval, but the most I can do now is write this letter and vote.

All the best. From a Cantonite,

Ostrum would be dedicated

EDITOR:

Although I do not live in Canton, I thought it was important to alert the voters in your community about a great opportunity facing them on Nov. 8. I am refering to the opportunity toelect Matie Ostrum to the Canton Township Board.

I have know Matie for many years and have worked with her on a variety of community and charity projects. I have never met or worked with anyone so hard-working and dedicated to the causes she chooses to get involved in. I am sure she would provide that same dedication as an elected leader in Canton Township.

Canton voters, do yourselves a favor and vote for Matie Ostrum for Township Trustee.

Schools seek more support

Community relations was on the agenda at Monday night's workshop of the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools Board of Education.

At the workshop, Dick Egli, community relations administrator, stressed the need for community support and the need for good communication between the schools and parents.

One recent problem with community relations has been the incident involving the busing of students living near the Hammil-Northville Road intersection. The district determined that the stop was too close to Farrand Elementary and therefore those students were ineleigible to ride.

Several parents complained about the treatment they received from transportation director Dale Goby when they asked questions regarding the two-day notice of bus service cancelation.

Finally convinced that the stop is too close to warrant bus service, parents were still miffed over the way they were told their children would not be riding and because many of their questions were unanswered.

Egli was caught in the middle, explaining that Goby really had a lot to worry about and is not a bad person. Parents remained unconvinced. They wanted to be told "in a polite way," said Anette Patyna, one of the more vocal parents involved.

Perhaps expecting that a large bureaucracy can be polite to everyone is a bit much, but parents and residents may have a good memory if a June school millage proposal is put on the local ballot.

The district would do well to consider such minute details, especially when the voters are involved.

School board secretery Roland J. Thomas said, while quoting a public speaking advocate, that the board should treat people the way they want to be treated.

"We should adopt those principles," said Thomas. "We would be a lot better off." With malice toward none

"Traffic safety isn't a popularity contest."

Translated, that means the City of Plymouth doesn't have to ask any of its constituents affected by a "problem" what possible solutions there are.

Never mind that voters, taxpayers and business owners who are affected might have an idea or two.

City Hall knows what's good, what's right and needn't be bothered by asking anyone else.

So says City Engineer Ken West, who by fiat wiped out three parking places on Penniman Avenue (in front of the deli) last week.

The "problem," he said, was that trucks loading and unloading didn't use the existing loading zone. (Apparently he didn't recognize that the root of that problem was that it's difficult for cola truck drivers to back in next to the city's quaint, charming and unique planter.)

So without asking any of the businesses affected, West just had the DPW folks wipe out three of the city's most used parking spots.

Sure there's a problem. The business owners would agree. But thank goodness they've got Emperor West to take care of things.

If only City Hall would act so expeditiously when citizens bring problems to its attention.

Kosteva gets job done

EDITOR:

I am remiss in writing this letter to express my gratitude to State Representative Jim Kosteva of Canton. It concerned the terrible disrepair of the railroad crossing on Koppernick near Haggerty.

It was brought to the attention of the department of transportation in Lansing, Norma Flemings' office and W.B. VanderVeer of CSX Transportation in Livonia.

Dolores Meador and myself had a meeting in Jnauary at the railroad tracks with railroad and county officals. Their determination was that it was in poor shape and needed attention. We were assured it would be completed as soon as possible.

As five months elapsed I sent another letter off to Norma Flemings. Since no reply from her, I decided to call Mr. Kosteva. He got to the source, returned with a call to whom he had spoken, then told us that if we weren't making any progress that we should get back to him.

I might add he is a patient, polite listener and understanding as to our needs.

It was several days later I received a telephone call assuring me this was a priority and would be taken care of shortly. Sure enough, on Sept. 9-10 the contractors came and repaired a portion of the road and tracks. An excellent job.

It's a real pleasure driving over the tracks now. It goes to prove one senior citizen can fight the system and get results.

To all of you who wondered how this all came about and wondered who to thank, we should thank Jim Kosteva of Canton.

Celebration!

THE COMMUNITY CRIER: Nov

Democrats frustrated Canton Republicans take the race

BY KEN VOYLES

The Republicans apparently swept to victory in Canton's three key general election races, according to unofficial voting returns from the township clerk's office this morning.

With nearly all of the township's 23 precincts in last night, Republicans held the lead for the treasurer and clerk's jobs as well as the four trustee positions.

Apparent winners last night were Loren Bennett in the clerk's race; Gerald Brown in the treasurer's race; and Elaine Kirchgatter, John Preniczky, Robert Shefferly, and Henry Whalen in the trustee contest.

Based on unofficials results, Bennett defeated Democratic opponent Cynthia Burgess, while Brown, an incumbent, bested Carol Bodenmiller.

Kirchgatter led all vote getters in the trustee race, followed by Preniczky, Shefferly, Whalen. Democrats and Edwin Rasmussen and Matie Ostrum trailed the four Republican leaders.

The strict partisan outcome of the voting in Canton led to some frustration on the Democratic side of the line, and even among other political watchers in the township.

"If they (the Democratic candidates) had not done anything at all, they would have had the same result," said Bill Joyner, the former Wayne County Commissioner who has helped on both Burgess' and Supervisor Elect Tom Yack's campaigns.

"We ran very well together, but we ran as individuals also," said Bodenmiller.

Burgess wasn't completely dissatisfied by the Democrats' showing. "We showed Canton that Democrats offer qualified and competent candidates," she said after losing to Bennett, who chose not to run as a trustee this time to seek the clerk's job.

"Of course I'm elated by the results," said Bennett. "I've worked hard on this campaign."

He added that his first priority once in office will be a close look at the handling of yesterday's general election. Bennett called it a "disgrace."

Brown said he felt happy over the victory, despite the strain of what he called a tough campaign. He added that the election "may determine" whether or not a non-partisan campaign is more appropriate at the local level.

"I feel just fine," said Kirchgatter about her victory. "I'm pleased to see the whole community stick with the party line."

Kirchgatter said she felt the township definitely has a partisan leaning toward the Republicans. She added that her goals were to "restore Canton to the kind of community residents can be proud of."

Preniczky, who said he felt "great" over the win, added that he wasn't surprised by an apparent sweep by the Republicans.

"I'm very happy about it," said Shefflery of his finish. "Now we just have to go on and work together to do a good job."

Shefferly attributed the Republican victory partially to George Bush's win in the presidential race. "I guess with Bush going so heavy in western Wayne County it sort of carried us along."

Long lines frustrate voters

BY KEN VOYLES

Voters in Canton faced long lines at many of the 23 precincts and some were irate and frustrated by the whole ordeal.

Polls remained open well after 8 p.m. at some precincts, such as Precinct 19 in Canton High, to accommodate the voters, who apparently turned out in larger numbers than in 1984. More than half of the Canton voters went to the polls yesterday, according to the unofficial counts. There are about 36,000 registered voters in Canton.

Voters at Precinct 19 waited up to two and a half hours in some cases to cast a ballot.

"There are a lot of irate people in there," said one Canton woman after leaving the Canton polling place. "This is ridiculous. We waited two and a half hours."

Inside a line snaked through the halls of Canton, ending near the principal's office. At approximately 8:10 p.m., last night several hundred voters still waited to vote.

"This is the third time I've been here today," said one Canton man. "They're saying a three hour wait." The resident held the last spot in the line and was on the verge of giving up — like a lot of residents he was trying to decide whether or not to wait.

He added, "I think I know what I'm doing."

Most of those in line, at Precinct 19 anyway, said they had waited to vote anywhere from one hour to two and a half. And many still had another hour's wait.

Some residents suggested it was time to seriously look at changing precinct boundaries. They noted that Precinct 8, also at Canton, closed on schedule. One resident called it "dead" in Precinct 8.

A precinct worker said, "There's just a lot of people." She added that all the machines were working fine.

In other spots around the township as well, the long lines worked to delay the flow of results into the township administration facility. Some precinct workers still had not arrived at 1 a.m. last night and their information had yet to be tabulated and run through the computer for a printout.

Many helped

The election information presented in today's paper is due largely to the cooperative effort of a number of citizens in The Plymouth-Canton Community.

A special thanks goes out to Dave Snyder and his crew at WSDP, the student-run radio station at the Centennial Education Park. Included in this group of students were: Lisa Jones, Tonya Szyszko, Amy R. Schmidt, Sarah Kahaneck, April Bankowski, Cholley Kuhaneck, Chris Townley, Joe Ryan, Jim Salame, Brian Roden, Steven Laurette, Erin Rowland, Michele Davis, and Kathryn Shimohammed. CEP student Jason Bennett must also be thanked for his help with photography.

In addition, The Crier would like to thank K.C. Mueller, Gary Glass, and University of Michigan journalism student Amy Bensinger.

We would also like to thank the candidates, parties, exit pollers, and the many, many folks who supplied the paper with crucial information.

And as always, a big thanks goes out the entire staff of. The Plymouth-Canton Community Crier.

Kosteva retains seat in 37th House District

BY DAN JARVIS

The race between 37th District State Representative James Kosteva, a Canton Democrat, and challenger David Dossette, a Romulus Republican saw Kosteva pulling ahead in most precincts by a two to one margin.

In Van Buren Township, an early count of 3,261 for Kosteva and 1,909 for Dossette told the story across the district as further election numbers were tallied this morning.

Kosteva projected that Canton voters had put him ahead of Dossette by approximately 500 votes. As more precincts were tallied the margin continued to grow.

"The votes in the district look good to us," said Kosteva. "In Romulus we are three to one. In Van Buren and Belleville we are roughly two to one:

"I'm just looking to get one more vote than him (Dossette)." "It will give me pleasure to serve for another two years.

"There's no doubt that a strong turnout helps give elected officials such as myself a much clearer picture of the mindset of my constituents," said Kosteva.

Challenger Dossette in what he described as a "painful defeat," said, "It looks like we got about a third of the vote, about 30 per cent.

"I was being considered as a sacrificial lamb," said Dossette. "If we could get the word out under different circumstances then we would stand a chance.

"We needed to raise more campaign dollars. The race just unraveled in our hands," said Dossette. "It was a painful loss. I want to congratulate Kosteva on his victory. In the future we will be a voice in the district," said Dossette.

Law secures fourth term in 36th District

BY PAUL GARGARO

Republican Gerald Law will return to Lansing for a fourth consecutive term as state representative from the 36th House District.

Despite the absence of vote totals from Northville Township, due to last night's vote tallying machine malfunctions, Law showed a solid grip on the City of Plymouth, the City of Northville; and Canton.

In fact, Law fared better in Plymouth Township against Democratic challenger Jeanne Stempien than incumbent hometown Congressman Carl Pursell did against his Democratic challenger, State Senator Lana Pollack.

In the City of Plymouth, unofficial totals gave Law 2,887 votes, while Stempien, a Northville Township attorney collected 1,472. Of those unofficial totals, Law took 827 absentee votes to Stempien's 315.

In Plymouth Township, Law was dominant, collecting an unofficial vote total of 8,091. Stempien took 3,177.

Of that total, 1,759 absentee votes went to Law, while Stempien took 594.

With three precints still out in Canton at 3 a.m. and this morning, Law was ahead of Stempien 5,899 to 3,526.

In Northville, unofficial count gave Law 825 votes to Stempien's 428.

Looking to the upcoming term, Law outlined a number of priorities.

"We need to prioritize the current budget. What money goes where is the question," said Law. "Property taxes and school financing reforms need to be looked at and will probably be neglected a bit longer."

In addition, Law said he will continue to address local and environmental issues.

Also in the race was Libertarian candidate Jeffrey Hampton, a manufacturer's representative from Northville Township.

Ford defeats Ad

BY DAN JARVIS The 15th Congressional District race between incumbent Democrat William D. Ford and Republican Challenger Burl C. Adkins ended in a two-to-one win for Ford.

Across the district, as precinct votes were tallied, Adkins fell behind as the Ford camp claimed an early victory.

Tom Joyce, press secretery for Ford saiu, TII looked like across the district. He's (Ford) pleased with the victory and ready to return to work on educational opportunities for everyone.

"I think his total record got him elected."

Jovce also spoke of Ford's controversial plant closing bill and several other pieces of legislation as helping the 24-year incumbent build support across the district.

Adkins, in conceding defeat, said, "We received about 34 per cent across the district, and I'm happy with that. I'm proud we've run an good campaign. I'm thinking very positive.

"We've increased our support by about five per cent over the last election. That's a lot to be thankful for," said Adkins.

Receiving only marginal supprt in the race, Eric Blankenburg, of the Libertarian Party, said, "I'm real happy. We are a small group with not much money. We were sucessful in our goal of getting out the name recognition,"

The win marks the 13th consecutive term for Ford in his role of Congressman in the 15th District.

Airport facelift Ninety-Nines to repaint runway

BY KEN VOYLES

Members of The Ninety-Nines, an association of women pilots, will shut down Mettetal Airport in Canton on Saturday (Nov 12) as they give a fresh coat of paint to the airport's fading runway markers.

The airport will be closed from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., according to Airport Manager Tom Klochko of Jet Services, Inc. During that time the runway markings will be painted by members of the group using paint and equipment provided by Jet Services.

Jet Services bought the airport from the Mettetal family earlier

The non-profit group is one of three chapters of The Ninety-Nine in Michigan, said Pat Gilgallon, chairperson of the airport marking committee. The local flying chapter consists of more than 100 members, including two women from Plymouth.

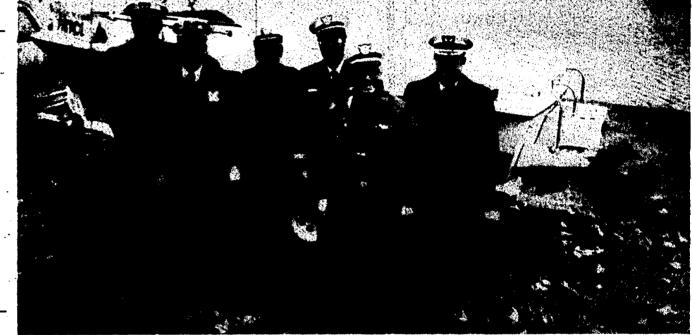

Gilgallon said some of the members fly out of Mettetal, while others fly out of Metro Airport in Romulus.

Besides painting runway markers at airports, members of The Ninety-Nines fly blood for the American Red Cross, host FAA safety seminars, run co-pilot flying clinics and organize airport tours.

Coast Guard volunteers Plymouth Flotilla promotes safety

BY DAN JARVIS

Boating enthusiasts and Coast Guard volunteers in The Plymouth-Canton Community will have cause to celebrate soon. Next year marks the 50th anniversary of the creation of the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary.

Robert Kinsler, commander of the Plymouth-Canton Flotilla 9C-11-11, heads a group of 28 local volunteers, most hailing from Plymouth and Canton. The group will be on hand at upcoming Detroit River the celebration, which will include a blessing of the fleet.

Throughout the year, volunteers spend their summer weekends on the Detroit River assisting other boaters who may get into unexpected trouble and need a hand.

"We have pulled people and boats from the water," said Kinsler. "We cover the Detroit River from the southern point to the Ambassador Bridge."

Robert's wife Shirley Kinsler acts as a public affairs officer. She became involved in 1983 because like, her .

husband, has a concern for boating safety.

"When someone needs aid and sees our boat, they know they can look to us for assistance," she said. "We are not a law enforcement agency, but we will alert the harbormaster and other law enforcement agencies when the law is being ignored."

The Kinslers, and several others, decided to form the Plymouth-Canton Flotilla when they discovered the group to which they originally belonged, the Grosse Isle Flotilla, had several residents of The Plymouth-Canton Community.

Since its formation, the group has continued to grow.

Why would anyone in a landlocked community be interested in joining the Coast Guard Auxiliary?

The location of a flotilla auxiliary doesn't really matter since the organization is tailored to those residents who own a boat, and there are a large number of boat owners in southeastern Michigan, say members.

John Mulligan, information systems officer (and postmaster of the Plymouth Post Office), became involved with the flotilla in 1986 because of a concern for boating safety. Mulligan operates marine radios and transmits emergency information, whether a boating accident or just inclement weather.

"When a boat is capsized," said Mulligan, "we rescue the personnel and help pump the boat out."

Mulligan is also a safety instructor who teaches a 13-week course at Centennial Educational Park (CEP) and is a qualified boating instructor through the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR).

The U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary was created in 1939 by an act of Congress to assist the Coast Guard in promoting safety on the water. Today, the Auxiliary has more than 1,300 flotillas throughout the U.S. with membership exceeding 40,000 men and women.

The Plymouth-Canton Flotilla was years received a national award for being the fastest growing flotilla in the country.

The group assists local boaters in educational programs, courtesy marine examinations and operational missions such as rescues and locating lost channel markers, said the commander.

Educational programs, some taught at Canton High School during evening hours, include piloting, marine engines, sailing, understanding weather, radiotelephone and locks and dams navigating.

A new course, Coastal Piloting, is a multi lesson course covering knowledge necessary for boating through large bodies of water such as the Great Lakes.

"The aim," said Shirley Kinsler, "is to get every member of a boat crew qualified to help with operations around the country.

"One of the most enjoyable things," she said, "is when people say 'Hey, I took your course and I bought a boat.' It's nice to see people learning. We get satisfaction out of seeing a goal acchartered in May 1984 and within three recomplished with a reger or records

Having friends over for dinner is always fun, especially when they're real friends who know you. People who know you, know your talents and abilities.

My friends realize that my house will never be spotless, but as long as I have some lead time, I can put it together to look presentable. In other words hide everything in the bedrooms, basement or garage.

When you invite people over for a meal it also means you have to try your talents in the kitchen. For some of us that involves getting reaquainted with the stove and finding the cook books.

The best way to entertain is to be part of a gourmet group. Here again remember it is important to be with friends who know and understand you. When it is your turn to have the group at your house, you simply have them bring all the things that are complicated to cook and you do something easy.

Good friends also know when it's their turn to have the dinner at their house, to give you options on something fairly easy to fix if they want to try to eat it. When all else fails, including your dish, everyone pretends to take a taste of yours and gobbles up the other food.

One nice thing about having dinner at your house is discovering things you forgot you had. However, trying to locate table cloths and napkins you know you have stored away someplace but can't find is another story. Then there's the good china up on the shelf. Of course you have to wash it because it has been long since you've used it.

Before getting into the meal I discovered I had forgotten something important to many people. I don't own a coffee pot. I don't drink the stuff so why bother -- unless you are having dinner guests. I don't understand why more people don't drink tea. I don't own a teapot either, but that's easy to make with a tea kettle and tea bag and no one complains about it being instant.

It sure is fun getting together with friends, you know the kind I mean -- the real friends.

Lambert-Vermeulen starts new program

The Lambert-Vermeulen Funeral Home, of Plymouth, and the Vermeulen Memorial Funeral Home, of Westland, are offering a service program call Forethought planning to accomodate advanced funeral planning in The Plymouth-Canton Community and in the Westland area.

According to Funeral Director James Vermeulen, advanced funeral planning ensures the individual's personal funeral wishes and keeps the family from having to make difficult funeral decisions.

Vermeulen said, "All of the arrangements, all of the services and all your special desires are planned in advance."

The program can be funded with a Forethought Life Insurance policy, which guarantees that funerals planned today will be conducted as planned and at the same cost when needed.

The Forethought plan also goes with its purchaser in the case of relocation.

To provide customers with this service, James Vermeulen, Wendell Sikes, and James B. Vermeulen have earned Michigan insurance licenses and have obtained training in the Forethought plan.

Hours after Heritage fire 2 firefighters hurt in Plymouth Cab blaze

Within seven hours of the Mill Street explosion, flames gutted the Plymouth Cab Company at 454 N. Main Street. Firefighters recieved a call at 11:17 p.m.

Plymouth Fire Chief Alan Matthews said the building, which was a garage converted into the cab office and an apartment, was gutted by the flames.

Matthews said the building was insured for $8,500.

-"After our investigation of the scene, there were reasons to believe that it might not have been accidental," Matthews said. "We're continuing our investigation."

The first two firefighters on the scene, Capt. Tom Lenaghan and Bill Warren, were transported to St. Mary's Hospital after the fire to be treated for smoke inhalation, said Matthews.

Both men were treated and later released.

vestigation as of Monday, the chief said; although city officials earlier said the fire apparently resulted from a lit cigarette igniting a gas buildup in Zukowski's apartment.

"The gas supply line to the stove was ripped apart," said Matthews. "During our investigation, patterns were found on the floor, which has encouraged our investigation to determine whether the fire was accidental or purposefully set."

Matthews said samples from the scene have been sent to the Michigan State Fire Marshall's office for investigation.

Clean-up crews razed the destroyed apartments over the weekend and Matthews estimated the property damage to be approximately $150,000. "The complex is insured for $250,000. Contractors have estimated the loss at around $200,000," said Matthews.

The Salvation Army and the nearby Hardee's Restaurant provided food to victims and firefighters at the scene and the Mayflower Hotel provided rooms for the homeless victims.

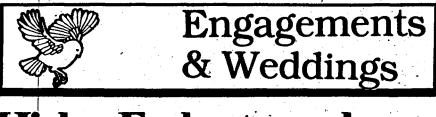

Heritage Square Apartments owner Joe Dylag said he would not speculate on the cause.

"All they are are rumors. All I know is that it's a big mess, but it looks like everyone's coping pretty well," he said.

One of the burned out residents has moved into another vacant apartment in the complex, Dylag said.

A blaze of suspicious circumstances gutted a structure belonging to the Plymouth Cab Company. Estimate damage is $8,500. The investigation continues. (Crier photo by Chris Farina)

P-C Schools form R-rated materials committee

BY DAN JARVIS AND KEN VOYLES

In an attempt to quell concerns over the use of R-rated films and videos in district classrooms, Plymouth-Canton Community Schools Superintendent John Hoben has formed a 15-member committee to study the matter.

At the same time the schools' biggest opponent on the subject -- Diane Daskalakis -- said she is prepared to file a series of complaints by the end of the year if the district continues to do nothing with its policy.

"I wanted minority and majority opinions," Hoben said referring to why he formed the committee. The committee includes various staff members of the school district.

Michael Homes; assistant superintendent for instruction for the district, said the committee was formed primarily in response to several formal challenges by Daskalakis and the Citizens For Better Education regarding the use of classroom instruction materials.

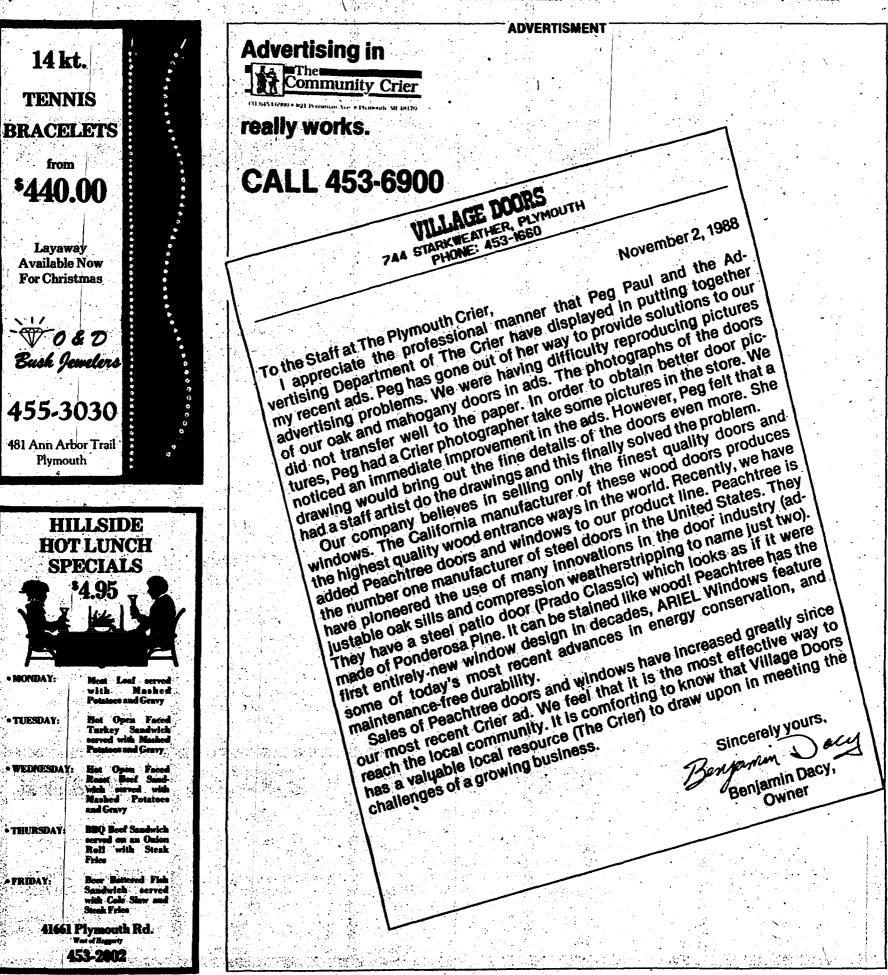

"The superintendent wants a recommendation from the committee on whether or not certain materials, such as 'The Breakfast Club' film should be continued or discontinued," said Homes. The committee has met three times since the formation and the majority of members have recommended to the superintendent that the materials in question be continued to be used incertain classes, said Homes.

Hoben said the committee members were chosen to represent both sides of the issue. Members range from district teachers to a member of the Plymouth-Canton Education Association.

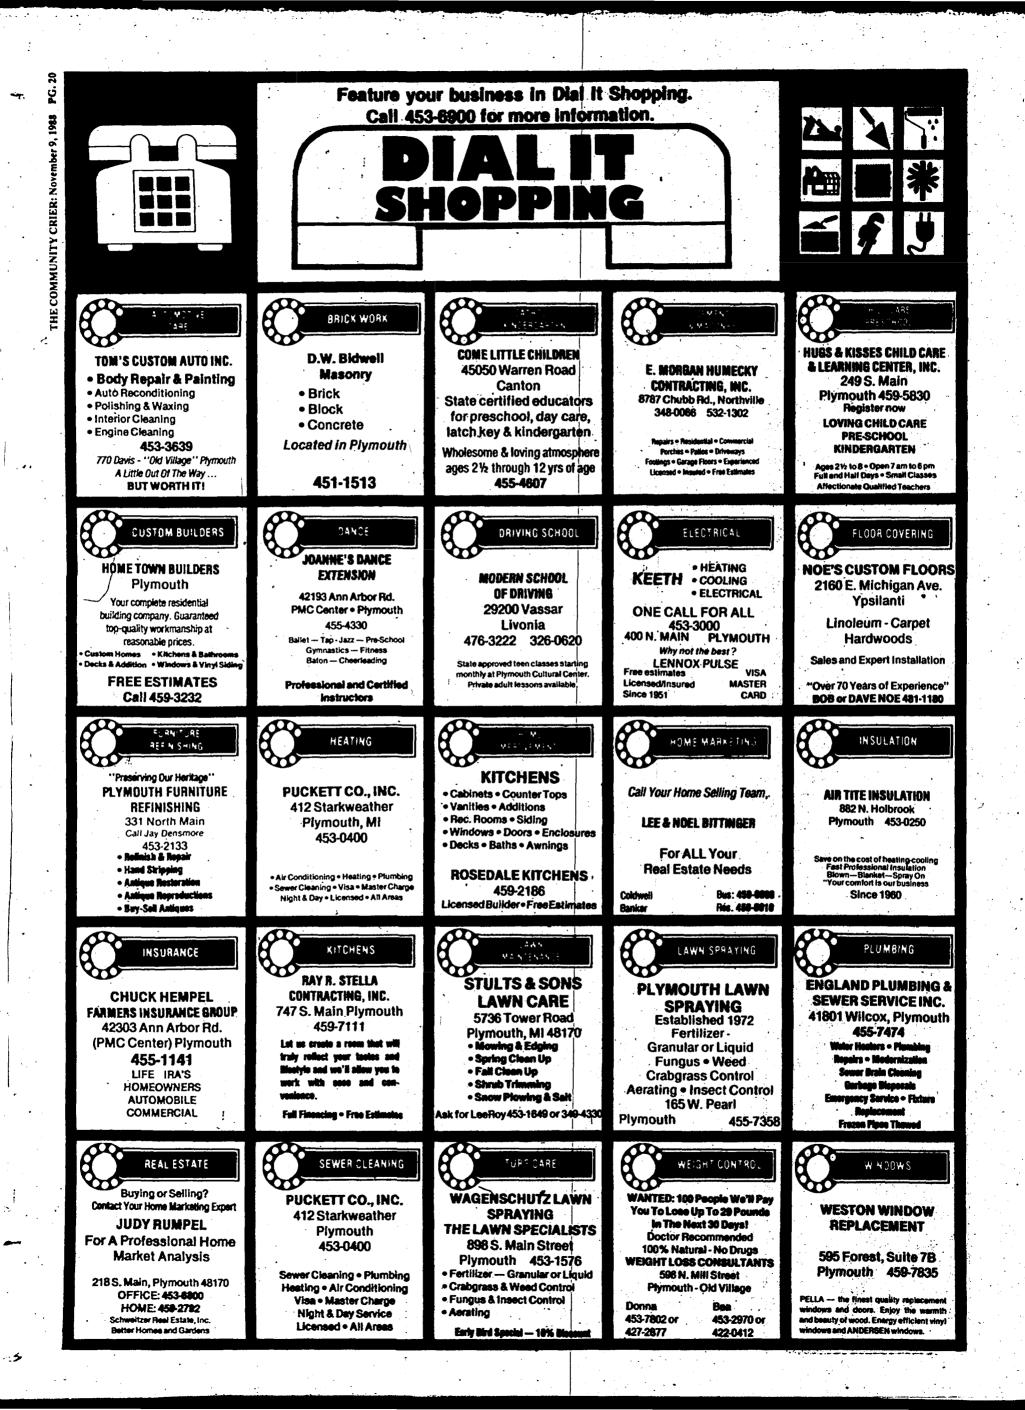

"Dr. Hoben will submit a full report to the board of education on an undetermined date and will offer his recommendations," said Homes. "The matter is in his hands." "Gee, I wish I could be on that committee," said Daskalakis, who originally filed complaints against the use of such materials as "The Breakfast Club" more than two years ago. "This committee should have been formed three years ago.

"No, I don't comprehend the need for the committee. I don't comprehend why they're using R-rated materials either," she added.

Daskalakis said her group has a "whole stack of movies" they'd like to stop. "If they don't move on it by the end of this year we're going to be filing a multitude of them," she said.

Canton approves another land appraisa

BY KEN VOYLES

Officials from the Selective Group interested in a portion of land on Haggerty Road currently owned by Canton went before the township board last week requesting a second appraisal on the land.

When the discussion ended the board approved not only a second appraisal, but also a third appraisal for the land dubbed the "Haggerty Triangle."

"We still have our offer on the table," Hal Rosin, from Selective Group, told the board. "I'm here tonight to try and bring about a resolution to this." That offer of approximately $48,000 was originally made in 1987.

Rossin contended that the first appraisal; which put the land at a worth of approximately $85,000 per acre, was just too high. His company has offered about half that much for the land.

Canton Treasurer Gerald Brown agreed with Rosin when he said he was 'shocked" at the $85,000 figure. "I think our appraisal is high," he said.

Brown added that the reason the appraisal may have been high was a lack of "comparable" site information with which to make a land value comparison.

Trustee John Preniczky said, "I'd be uncomfortable selling township property at a price lower than our appraisal."

Machacek sentenced to life

Chris Machacek was sentenced to automatic life in prison on Oct. 28 for. his role in the slaying of Canton youth Mary Anne Hulbert.

Machacek was found guilty earlier in the month on first degree murder charges, according to Washtenaw County Prosecutor William Delhey.

"I see the logical conclusion of this

Trustee Elaine Kirchgatter favored discussion is to set up parameters and a mechanism for the next board to act

the plan to seek two more appraisals, on," said Trustee Loren Bennett.

The motion passed unanimously.

Machacek's life sentence does not allow for parole, said Delhey.

Canton girls stop John Glenn Chiefs win big in first round

BY JANET ARMSTRONG

It was a big change from the tight knit game of three weeks ago, said Canton girls basketball coach Rob Neu, referring to the close game the lady Chiefs played against the Westland John Glenn Rockets.

This time, the Chiefs dominated the Rockets in the first round of league playoffs on Thursday, 64-33.

"We've changed from being in a slump to being focused," said Neu. "We came in (Thursday) more prepared mentally and physically."

Junior center Susan Ferko helped lead the way to the Chiefs victory.

Ferko scored 24 points and brought down 8 rebounds in 1 Thursday's contest. Senior Candi Jones had 16 points and 12 rebounds on the night.

Neu said Senior Michelle Fortier was another key in the victory with 13 points, six rebounds, five assists and four steals.

Rebounding was key improvement, said the coach.

"Our post game is definately improved," said Neu. "They're getting to the offensive glass." The Chiefs were never behind against the Rockets, jumping to a 19-6 first quarter lead. Canton ended the half ahead 30-12.

Canton increased the lead to 42-22 at the end of the third quarter, and finally finished Glenn off, beating them by 31 points.

Canton played in the semi-finals yesterday against Walled Lake Central.

Chief kickers booted by Stevenson, 6-1

BY RITA DERBIN

The magic ran out for the Canton soccer team last Wednesday at the Regional semifinals when they lost to Livonia Stevenson 6-1.

Dan Martin scored the lone goal for the Chiefs in the losing effort which snapped a five game winning streak and ended Canton's season with a record of 9-8-4.

"All in all it was a successful season," said coach Mike Morgan. "We would have liked to have gone farther but it was a good end for us after such a slow start.

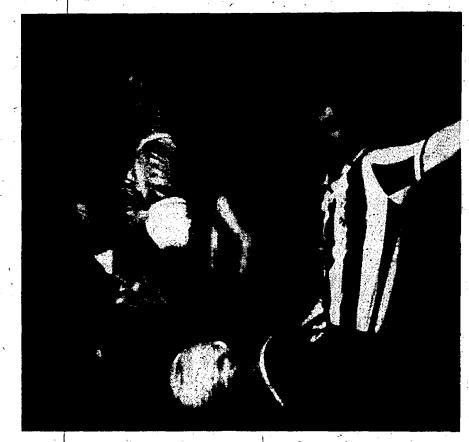

"I thought we did quite well. We're in a tough league and it's difficult to win. We proved we could and ended up being district champions for the first time. We're proud of that," added Morgan.

The Canton soccer team made it to the regional semifinals in 1985 where they lost to Stevenson 1-0.

Next season looks bright for the Chiefs despite losing 11 seniors, including co-captains Jeff Tutor, Rick Menary, and Jamie Nesbitt.

Other starting seniors who played their last game for Canton were Dave Presley, John Cortese, Bill Teller, Jerry Staszel and the two goalies, Marty Adamian and Brian L'Heureux.

"We're going to miss those guys but we will be getting back a strong nucleus," Morgan said. "Eric Miller, Kris Kilpelainen, Shawn Mac and Daryl Magreta will all be back to help us next year."

Canton girls harriers look solid at states

BY RITA DERBIN

Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA) champion Canton girls cross country team finished ninth in the state finals on Saturday.

"We had an outstanding season," said George Przygodski after the Chiefs capped off their season by winning the WLAA dual meet championship for the third straight season, and the WLAA conference championship for the second straight year with a 6-0 record.

"We lived up to our expectations and are very proud of our top 10 finish in the Class A state finals," the coach said. Of the 196 runners from 28 paticipating schools, Canton had seven finishers.

Lori Penland was the top Chief finisher with a time of 20:35, putting her in 34th place.

Canton teammates who followed Penland were 37th place finisher, Cindy Spessard (20:39); Missy Jasnowski in 55th place (20:56); Kris Marquard, in 72nd place (21:56); Lynda Schendel, in 76th place (21:21); Adrienne Garrow in 82nd place (21:31); and Cathy McCabe who finished 103rd (21:52).

"We lived up to our expectations and had great senior leadership to help us," commented Przygodski on the season of Chiefs' seniors Spessard, Maquard, Schendel, and Heather Dejong. "They helped throughout the season and everyone's performances were outstanding.

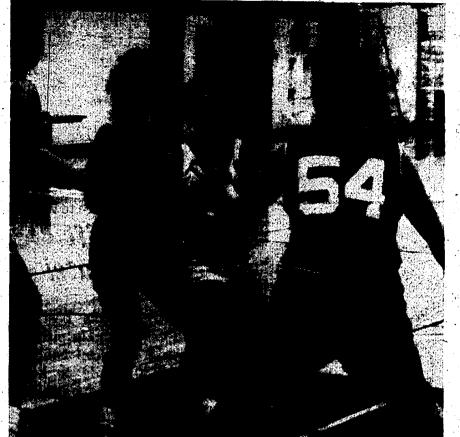

"We have no stars on this team," added Przygodski. "We had a great team effort that enabled us to win. That's the way this team worked."

The Canton boys cross country team did not qualify for the state finals, with the exception of their top runner, Brian Beach.

Beach slipped on the muddy course and did not finish the race after his ankle was stepped on by another runner.

"He was very disappointed," commented Canton boys coach Jim Hayes. "But he is only a junior and will be back.

"This season was remarkable for him," Hayes said. "He went from being on the junior varsity team and being about the 15th runner on the team last season to being Canton's only representative in the state finals. It's unfortunate the season ended the way it did, but it won't take away from all he did throughout the rest of the season."

W.L. Western drops Rocks in first round

BY JANET ARMSTRONG

The Salem girls basketball team came out on the losing end of the stick Thursday against Walled Lake Western, 51-47.

The loss, which came in the first round of the Western Lakes Activities Association playoffs, denies Salem the opportunity to play for the league championship.

While they can go no further in the league playoffs, they still have the district playoffs to look forward to.

According to Salem coach Fred Thomann, the Rocks were down from the opening jump ball.

"We started off down," said Thomann. "We made a number of runs at them."

Jill Estey was lead scorer for the Rocks, tallying 21 points in the game.

Thomann said Western deserved the win.

"They did a good job of spreading the lead out," said Thomann. Salem played in a consolation game yesterday against Livonia Franklin.

The Rocks begin their district playoffs Nov. 17.

Next Thursday night the Rocks will host Livonia Stevenson at 7 p.m.

Ford begins work on three city soccer fields

BY RITA DERBIN

Construction is underway on three' new soccer fields in Plymouth Township.

The Ford Motor Company Climate Control Division, located on Sheldon Road has donated the use of company land to the City of Plymouth to build the fields, which Chuck Skeene, director of Plymouth Parks and Recreation, hopes will be open next fall.

The fields and a gravel parking lot will be built on 1,600 acres of located between the Ford plant and railroad tracks on the southside of the building.

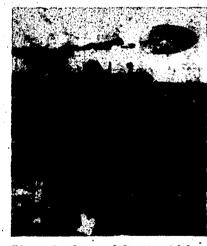

"Having Ford donate the use of their land has been a great help to Plymouth," Skene said. "We are very short on soccer fields because the only fields we can us are through the schools, Hines Park fields and private land. Unisys has donated the use of a soccer field and now Ford. We are very grateful to the community minded people in those organizations.

"This fall 1018 kids participated in the Plymouth soccer club so it is obvious we need a lot of fields," Skene added.

The fields will be used for games by the Plymouth soccer club and Premeir teams. All three fields will be used the for a year the field use will be rotated to assure good playing conditions, according to Skene.

A physical fitness course with 10 stations is now open to the public on the Ford property opposite of the soccer fields. Just north of the course will be 1½ miles of a wooded walking area that is under construction and will be open to the public this spring.

Revamped softball fields on the northeast portion of the Ford property are also open to the community, said Skene. À. :+

Curiosities

The "Voice of the Universe" is inside you.

HANK GRAPER lets his Spartan stripes show in his umbrella. (Thanks)

If you didn't vote-Don't complain! JOANNE DELANEY survived another birthday. Hench heads home hopefully. We hear he's engaged. How engaging!

Jayne — "Break a Leg." — Peg G.

CONGRATULATIONS WMMQ in Lansing on your new Guide!

PHYLLIS REDFERN'S surprise birthday party bash (set for Nov. 19) is being moved to a larger hall -- MSU Stadium. Get tickets now!

Hurricane hurry pass the cleaner. I'm going for another dish. Look out, incoming grease. We've had it. The bubbles have collapsed. Defeat. Tornado down ...

BEAUREGARD says, "Thanks Joanne."

Shel — I think your coach needs to seriously consider the possibility that he needs to find a new optometrist!

LESTIE VAN FLEET gets older soon.

Happy Birthday, Margaret! Have a great day! — Peg G. (P.S. Rumor has it that this year's celebration is going to be a little quiter than last year's. Is there any truth to that statement?)

Red is a happy camper, but watch out for burnout. That's the malaise when nothing matters. Just remember, you matter. Blue. "Excuse me, but that wasn't me." AHHH, the, sweetest words from you. Next the brakes

OPPOSE J.O.A.? Join us at the Detroit Press Club (on Howard St. downtown) from 5:30-8 p.m. tomorrow. Donations $15 each towards legal fees.

HoneyBunny - Glad to have you back where you belong!!! - Your, S.C.

Phyllis — Yourself control never ceases to amaze me!

Jayne — Happy Belated Birthday! — Peg G. (P.S. I didn't forget — I'm just "fashionably late!")

Kathe (with an "E") Welcome to The Crier staff. Glad to have you with us! -- Peg.

The lady on Ann Arbor Rd. took down the black flag and put her scarlet & gray one back up, but she is keeping the black one handy.

MOM: we'll meet the plane on Dec. 9th

Kevin K. — I promise not to make you go on any "educational - historical" tours while you're home this weekend. — Julie's mom.

DID YOU VOTE?

NOV. 8 was not only presidential election. day - it was Stave Mansfield's birthday. If his day comes with president elections, that makes him 11 years old, he says.
