8 file for City commission race

BY JIM TOTTEN

Eight Plymouth city residents will be running for the four open seats on the city commission this year.

By the 4 p.m. filing deadline yesterday, mayor pro-tem Ronald Loiselle, Commissioner Robert Jones, Dennis Shrewsbury, Douglas Miller, Ken Way, Thomas Doetsch, William McAninch and Rosita Smith had all been certified for the election, said City Clerk Linda Langmesser.

The three candidates with the highest votes will be elected to four-year terms while the fourth one will be elected to a two-year term.

The four seats open in this year's commission election are currently held by Mayor Kenyon, Mary Childs, Loiselle and Jones. Kenyon has decided not to run for re-election and Childs cannot seek another term under the City charter's rules.

Ronald Loiselle, 48, is currently serving his third term as commissioner and has also served two terms on the planning commission. He is a public accountant and has an office in the city.

Robert Jones, 64, is currently serving his second term as commissioner and has also served on the planning commission. He retired in 1987 from ANR Pipeline Company as group vice-president.

Dennis Shrewsbury is an attorney with a general practice and is currently serving his second term as president of the Suburban Bar Association. He ran against Gerald Law last year for 36th District State Representative and lost.

Douglas Miller, 41, is an assistant director for inpatient pharmacy services at Henry Ford Hospital and an associate professor at Wayne State University. He is currently completing a second term as vice-chairman of the planning commission and is serving as chairperson of the city's Historic District Study Commission.

Ken Way, 64, retired in 1990 after working over 38 years in the Plymouth city government. He began work as a police officer, then worked in the building department and later as treasury-assessor. He served as acting city manager three times.

Thomas Doetsch, 36, is an assistant prosecuting attorney for Wayne County and has lived in Plymouth since 1982. This is his first time running for public office.

William McAninch, 68, is retired from Ford Aerospace as a director. He is one of the leaders of the Plymouth Concerned Citizens and is also involved with the Senior Citizens Current Events program. This is his first time

Election dates set for 36th, county votes

BY JIM WHITE

Candidates seeking the 36th District State Representative seat or the 10th District Wayne County Commission seat have less than two weeks to enter the races.

The filing deadline for both seats was confirmed Tuesday for 4 p.m. on Tuesday, May 28.

Special primaries for both races are planned for Aug. 6. The general elections for the 36th and 10th will follow on Aug. 27.

The 36th District includes the Plymouths, the Northvilles, and part of Canton.

Northville Township Supervisor Georgina Goss, Plymouth City Commissioner Jerry Vorva, Plymouth-Canton Community Schools Board Vice President Dave Artley, and Plymouth Township Trustee John Stewart have all expressed interest in the race.

The seat was vacated last month when Gerald Law became Plymouth Township Supervisor.

Piggy backing the special county election on the same dates will help reduce election costs for the communities involved, said county officials.

Former Plymouth Township Supervisor Maurice Breen has been serving as interim commissioner for the 10th District, which includes part of the Northvilles, the Plymouths, and part of Livonia. He took over for Susan Hantz last month.

Lynch has missed votes in school elections

BY KEN VOYLES

One of the challengers in this year's Plymouth-Canton Community Schools Board of Education race has not voted in any local school elections.

Deborah Lynch, who is seeking a seat on the board during the June 10 election, has been registered in The Plymouth-Canton Community since September, 1988, but has not voted in any elections, said election officials with the district.

Lynch, a resident of Canton, missed election votes in June, 1989 and again in May, 1990.

The other challenger, Bobbie Cleary, also of Canton, has been registered in Plymouth-Canton since June 23, 1988. She was not registered for the June 13 vote in 1988, but voted in both 1989 and 1990 elections.

Incumbents Dean Swartzwelder and Roland Thomas have both been registered in the community since 1977 and 1978, respectively. Both have voted in 21 school district elections since that time.

The four candidates are seeking two two-year seats on the board (currently held by the incumbents). There is also a two-year millage renewal question on the June 10 ballot. Voters will be asked to renew 17.74 mills for operation.

LWV forum for candidates

Four candidates for two seats on the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools Board of Education will take part in a Candidates Forum sponsored by the League of Women Voters of Northville-Plymouth-Canton-Nov.

The forum, set for 7:30 p.m. on May 29, will be held in the West Middle School cafeteria. The four candidates are incumbents Roland Thomas and Dean Swartzwelder and challengers Bobbie Cleary and Deborah Lynch.

During the forum each candidate will make a two-minute opening statement. Written questions will also be accepted from residents who attend the meeting.

Prison deal includes property swap

BY JIM TOTTEN

Northville Township and the State of Michigan have cut a deal that involves land swapping for increases in the prison population at the Scott Correctional Facility on Five Mile Road.

At the Northville Township Board of Trustees meeting Thursday, Northville Township Supervisor Georgina F. Goss announced an agreement with the state to acquire state property which would be used for public purposes by the township.

The 16 acres of state land is located on Seven Mile Road between the Michigan State Police Post and the Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital.

"This is a win-win agreement for both the state and the township," Goss said.

In exchange for the 16 acres, the township will permit the state to double-bunk female prisoners at Scott, said Goss.

The state has also agreed not to build any new prisons in the township and that no male prisoners will be located in the township.

The agreement also stipulates that the state will offer for sale 50 acres of state owned land at Seven Mile and Haggerty roads to be put back on the tax rolls.

In addition, the Phoenix Prison site of approximately 35 acres will be offered for sale by the state and put back on the tax rolls.

"Western Wayne County will be the real beneficiaries," Goss said.

"We will have reduced costs, eliminate a prison site and Northville Township will have accomplished its long standing goal of obtaining additional land for new recreation fields for our youth," she added. "Also, having this additional land for sale by the state could broaden the tax base to reduce the overall tax burden for Northville Township and Wayne County residents."

Goss said she is happy with the agreement.

The agreement will help move forward several changes occurring in the Michigan prison system.

Once the 260 male prisoners at Scott have been moved to the new Ryan Correctional Facility in Detroit and the Adrian Regional Facility, the next step would be for the women prisoners from Huron-Valley Correctional in Ypsilanti to be moved to Scott.

Originally, the township had a court stipulated order from the courts to keep the prisoner population at Scott 432. The legislative cap for the Scott prison is 528 prisoners.

The plan was to move just the overflow, approximately 280 female prisoners, from Huron-Valley to Scott said Joan Yuckins, warden at Huron-

Lyon man killed in Canton

A South Lyon man was killed early Saturday morning in a fatal automobile accident along Ford Road in Canton.

John A. Snore, 25, was pronounced dead at the scene, said Pat Nemecek, public information officer for Canton Police.

Snore was eastbound on Ford east of Ridge at about 3:10 a.m., Nemecek said, when he crossed over the center line. His Ford Escort was struck head on by a Suburban truck.

The westbound truck was driven by Lee Skyles, 39, of Chelsea. Skyles was taken to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Superior Township with leg injuries, Nemecek said.

Snore was not wearing a seat belt, said Nemecek. Police are awaiting an autopsy to determine whether or not alcohol was involved. Skyles had not been drinking, Nemecek said.

It is the second fatal accident in Canton so far this year.

Woman guilty of embezzling

A Canton woman plead guilty in federal court to a charge of bank fraud.

Helen Conwell, 51, former accounting manager of Kurtis Kitchen and Bath Center in Livonia, was charged with forging and negotiating checks on the Kurtis account. She entered her plea April 30 before U.S. District Judge Anna Diggs Taylor.

According to U.S. Attorney Stephen Markman, Conwell forged 187 corporate checks totalling $740,000 from April 1, 1984 to May 1, 1990.

Conwell faces a maximum penalty of 20 years in prison and/or a fine of $1 million.

West parents go to ACLU

BY KEN VOYLES

Parents upset over what they feel is an "inconsistency" in the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools substance abuse policy urged members of the school board Monday to reconsider the policy and recent suspensions at the West Middle School.

At the same time some of the parents whose children were suspended have turned to the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) for help.

Led by Lane Sabourin, herself a teacher at Centennial Educational Park (CEP), the parents asked Monday that the board clarify several "gray areas" in the substance abuse policy.

"This policy is not clear and it's not clearly enforced," said Sabourin, who asked that the board clear up what is that is considered an "illicit" substance. "These children have been punished enough."

Sabourin said some of the parents contacted the ACLU about the student suspensions which took place April 18-19. On those days, 23 West students were suspended for distribution and possession of caffeine pills.

David Wineman, assistant to the legal director at the ACLU, said Tuesday that the organization is currently investigating the case. He said three parents contacted the ACLU last week.

"We're looking at the facts to formulate some kind of response," Wineman said. "It's too early to say whether or not it will become an ACLU case."

"We do think it was appropriate for

Even when it closes

Historic mural will remain in PO

BY JIM TOTTEN

The change in facilities at the Plymouth Post Office has raised concerns over the fate of a historic mural in the lobby of the downtown building.

The mural was painted by Carlos Lopez in 1936.

"To the extent possible, I would hope such preservation is given a high priority as you assess future uses of the building," wrote Congressman Carl Pursell in a recent letter to Plymouth

Postmaster John Mulligan.

Pursell wrote that some of his constituents had expressed concerns about preserving the mural for historical purposes.

Mulligan said that the mural will stay in the downtown building, but will remain the property of the post office.

"The mural, for the life of the building, will remain part of the post office," Mulligan said. He added that a plaque will be placed in the lobby indicating that the mural is post office property.

The building is currently being offered first to federal agencies, then to state agencies and lastly to local agencies. If it is not purchased, the building will be put up for bid.

The process is expected to last 90 days.

A new post office building is nearing completion along Beck Road in Plymouth Township.

City obligated to protect welfare

Trash supervision needed

The Plymouth City Commission cannot slink away from commercial refuse collection supervision.

It has the obligation to protect the safety, health and welfare of its citizens -- including those in the business community.

With hot weather approaching, it must enforce health standards by monitoring commercial refuse containers.

The Fleet Street trash compactors are a joke. They don't work more than they do. Last weekend -- a busy time commercially because of Mother's Day and the start of Farmers' Market -- several businesses found the dumpsters inoperable.

This led to refuse being left in piles around the dumpsters, refuse being placed in other privately-owned dumpsters ("garbage poaching" is the newest rage downtown), or in business owners propping open the dumpsters' heavy lids -- a dangerous habit.

No offense to Midwest Sanitation, the city's trash hauler, but the Fleet Street compactors have joined the list with the pigeons and the frequently-malfunctioning parking gates as another reason why businesses consider moving elsewhere. A better system would encourage a cleaner downtown.

The City Commission made a mistake to leave the commercial garbage business and its solution for Fleet Street is not working.

Needs heating and cooling system

Cool to donate to museum

History runs hot and cold.

Especially at the Plymouth Historical Society's Dunning Memorial Building.

The museum, which houses one of the most noted community historical collections in Michigan, needs a new heating and cooling system to preserve its collections. Wide variations in temperature and humidity are harmful to artifacts on exhibit.

But, there's no money in the historical society's meager budget.

"The Plymouth Historical Society is facing a crisis of sorts just now," begins a letter sent soliciting funds. Donations totaling $45,000 are needed to replace the four rooftop units before the cooling season sets in.

If you can spare an extra few dollars -- the donations thus far range from $25 to $1,000 -- it would be timely and a "cool" thing to do.

The White pages By Jim White

Sorry to see 5 p.m. come

For me, April 26 was like going back to school. Only this time I stayed awake, and it was well worth it.

That Friday, U.S. Representative William Ford, whose 15th District includes Canton, was in town as members of Congress toured Detroit auto plants. He stopped in The Crier office before heading back to Washington.

As our editorial staff sat down around the table, Ford lit his pipe and then began on a meandering discourse.

Along the way, we touched upon anomalies in how damages are awarded in civil rights cases and how the civil rights legislation under discussion, such as HR 1, does not use quotas.

"The legislation has to do with proof of cause of action," Ford said. "It does not change employers' cause of action."

In other words, the legislation "doesn't say you have to hire blacks. You have to simply have a reason besides race not to hire someone."

As he moved on to loopholes in labor law -- there is a difference, for example, between firing a striker and simply finding a permanent replacement -- he explained legal intricacies in layman's terms.

Ford reminded me of the best professors I had in school, and he rekindled a longtime interest in constitutional law.

He added his own philosophic insights on the limitations of law when he talked about abortion.

For purposes of inheritance, he said, an unborn child is not a person. This is the closest existing case law comes to determining when life begins. We must depend on something more than our legal codes to answer the question.

"Government is the last place to make these decisions," Ford said. "There are forces greater than us -- people's conscience, their family, the force of free will. Government ought to step back."

And there was more. He talked of problems in education, and how kids who are not read to as preschoolers are at a disadvantage early on. The intelligent, articulate man before me had himself gotten a push when his parents read to him of the adventures of Zane Gray.

You get to know the ins and outs of Washington politics after 27 years in the House of Representatives and Ford shared some of his experience. Unfortunately, my notes get more terse. I couldn't stop watching how many matches he was going through trying to keep his pipe lit.

Ford was on a tight schedule and soon our time was up. But it was the first Friday ever where I was almost sorry to see 5 p.m.

With malice toward none

Reappointment blues

By this fall voters will begin to see the biggest political story of the 1990s -- unfold in Michigan.

It's called: reapportionment.

Each decade, after the U.S. Census figures are finally through the wrangling process, political districts must be redrawn to reflect population shifts.

This poses some especially interesting scenarios for Michigan this year.

Because the state's population grew only a smidgen while southern and western states boomed, Michigan loses two of its 18 seats in Congress. This means that unless two of the state's seven Republican or 11 Democratic representatives retire, new districts will force two runoffs amongst incumbents.

Since The Plymouth-Canton Community splits two U.S. Representatives -- William Ford, whose district includes Canton, and Carl Pursell, whose district includes Plymouth -- the redistricting will hold special significance.

Because Ford is a Democrat and Pursell a Republican, it's meant greater access when the community is dealing with post office, education or defense issues.

Additionally, the two men have made significant gains up the "power ladder" in Washington, D.C. -- especially in this term.

According to "Roll Call," the newspaper of Capitol Hill, Michigan has moved to third in "clout" in Congress this term.

Ford now chairs the Education and Labor Committee and thereby plays an important role in the new Civil Rights bill (H.R.1) which will be grabbing headlines soon. During testimony on the bill recently, Ford presided over the crowded hearing amidst a swarm of national media attention. With his office in the Rayburn House Office Building near Michigan Congressman John Dingell (head of the Committee on Energy) and Michigan Congressman John Conyers (head of Governmental Operations Committee), it's termed "One Stop Shopping" for Michigan power brokers.

Pursell has also attracted national media lately. During the budget "crisis" last fall, his seat on the Appropriations Committee gave him a platform for leadership in the compromise movement. He became somewhat of a media darling when he stood up to White House Chief of Staff John Sununu.

Will reapportionment move either of these two out of Plymouth-Canton? Or pit them against each other?

It's too early to speculate with any accuracy, but the political parties are already plotting.

In fact, Michigan's Republican Party has picked Plymouth Township to set up its "war room." A high-tech computer operation will crunch census figures here to find 580,956 folks in each district by moving lines a block at a time if necessary.

Dave Doyle, the state GOP chairman, says Plymouth was picked because of its access and because one of the committee's nine members is Pursell.

By September-October, Doyle predicts, the two parties will suggest new districts and then the fun begins. If the parties, the Governor and the Legislature cannot agree on new districts, the plans would head to court.

Will that happen? "If you look at the history here, it's a pretty safe bet," Doyle said.

In addition to the Congressional battle, new districts for the state senate, the state house and Wayne County Commission must also be hammered out. Stay tuned.

The Board Report A brief review of actions at the regular Plymouth-Canton Community Schools Board of Education meeting of April 22, 1991

The Board heard a grievance from the Plymouth-Canton Education Association concerning hiring practices.

Lowell Middle School teacher Judy Suszko was named as an "Extra Miller" by Board President Dean Swartzwelter. In presenting the award, he cited her for being "Lowell's computer whiz," and said, "everyone in the district is lucky to have Judy on our staff."

Superintendent Hoben reported the Canton Quiz Bowl Team will be going to Orlando, Florida for national competition. He and Ray Buckman, Volunteer Legislative Liaison, spoke of the 14 tax proposal bills which are currently in the Michigan House or Senate.

In citizen comments, the Board heard from Lane Sabourin and Dan Holton, concerning use of a "look-alike" illicit substance at West Middle School; Pat Lilljesgrand, President of the Plymouth-Canton Music Boosters, concerning band financial support; and Robert Jones, concerning teacher absence data.

The Board took the following actions:

- paid bills in the amount of $5,879,967.52.
- accepted the retirements of Jane Armstrong, Gallimore teacher with 14.5 years of service to the District; Dallas Goss, Canton science teacher with 32 years of District service; Irene Reilly, Salem mathematics teacher with 18 years of District service, Janet Stafford, Bird teacher with 22 years of District service, Dr. Beverly Marshall, Bird Principal, with 23 years of District service and Shirley Spaniel, Executive Director of Elementary Education, with 26 years of District service. The Board also accepted the resignation of Dr. William Pearson, Hoben Elementary Principal, to accept a position in the South Lyon School District; rescinded the retirement of Field teacher Carol Dombkowski and accepted the retirement of Janine Myers, Pioneer English/Spanish teacher. All retirements and resignations are effective at the end of the school year. The Board also hired Roy J. Anderson as the District's Chief Security Officer.
- appointed Trustee David Artley as Acting Secretary to certify the Annual School Election Results on June 10, 1991 because Board Secretary Roland Thomas is a candidate in the election.
- made cuts in the 1991-92 County Allocation Budget of approximately $1,500,000 to begin to offset the anticipated losses in tax revenue due to current legislative action which will freeze assessments at 1991 levels.
- adopted temporary busing recommendations from the District-Wide Safety Committee for the 1991-92 school year.
- purchased lockers for Pioneer and West Middle Schools for $67,921 from the low bidder, Steel Equipment Company.
- accepted the proposal from Laich Equipment Company, a sole supplier, to rebuild cafeteria tables and benches at Farrand, Fiegel and Miller Elementary Schools for a total cost of $37,700.
- appointed Trustee E. J. McClendon to represent the Board as a voting delegate at the Wayne County RESA election on June 3, 1991. The Board chose candidate James Petrie, current President of the Northville Board of Education, to be the person for whom Dr. McClendon will cast a ballot.

There will be a workshop on May 20 at 7:30 p.m. at Lowell Middle School to consider the bond proposal report and the topic of "inclusion." This will also be a special meeting to appoint election canvassers, consider some furniture for the renovated administrative offices and consider a negotiations agreement. An executive session beginning at 7:00 p.m. will deal with negotiations.

The next regular Board meeting will be Tuesday, June 11 at 7:30 p.m. at the Canton High School viewing and listening room in the library. Be sure to vote on Monday, June 10, 1991!

This report is brought to you as a means of communicating your Board of Education's actions. If you have questions about these actions or would like further information about your schools, call 451-3188.

OAKWOOD CARDIOLOGY CENTER

"I Used To Think I Was Indestructible,
But Now I Know I'm Not.
That's Why I Chose Oakwood."

"I didn't think anything could stop me... not until I had a heart attack. It was lucky for me I got to Oakwood's Cardiology Center, where an expert staff took excellent care of me. Their specialists looked me over with all their state-of-the-art equipment, and put me on a personal treatment program. And with follow-up care, educational courses and monitoring, Oakwood will have me back to an active life. Which is how it should be. Just because a guy has a little heart attack, doesn't mean he has to stop living."

For 30 years, Oakwood Cardiologists have been dedicated to the treatment of cardiovascular disease with the latest treatment programs and surgical techniques. It's part of the Oakwood health care system, one of the largest health care systems in Michigan, with six hospitals, more than 30 local health care and specialty centers and more than 1,000 physicians. # Who will fill in for Preniczky on Canton board?

BY JIM WHITE

Perhaps as early as June 15 Canton Trustee John Preniczky will vacate his seat on the board and move to Northville Township.

Several names have already been thrown out as possible successors, but none seem to have enough backing at this point to win four of the present trustees' votes.

In a field without favorites, Robert Padgett may have to be considered the front runner only because he is everyone's second choice. Padgett, himself a former trustee, may be the one candidate on whom the present board can compromise.

Melissa McLaughlin is Clerk Loren Bennett's first choice. McLaughlin has been active in preserving the Cherry Hill historic district, but otherwise, she is short on experience and is seen by some as not ready for Tuesday night prime time.

The logical step for her would be to move up to the Canton Planning Commission. There may be an opening soon — commissioners Vic Gustafson, Tom Sullivan, John Burdziak, and Cathy Johnson have all been touted for Preniczky's seat. The smart money could be on Burdziak.

Trustee Bob Shefferly has come out in favor of Ralph Shufeldt, a member of the Downtown Development Authority. Shufeldt ran for the board previously and lost. Beyond Shefferly, his support is thin.

Shufeldt helped Hank Whalen successfully campaign for a trustee's seat in 1988. Whalen died early in his term and Phil LaJoy was appointed. Now Whalen's wife Pat may be under consideration.

Bruce Patterson is another possibility. Currently running for

Flasher revealed in Canton

Canton Police received several reports Saturday of a "flasher" in the vicinity of Sheldon and Ford roads.

Witnesses described a man with blond hair in his 20s or 30s, wearing sunglasses, a white shirt, dark shorts, and riding a 10 speed bicycle.

The man was first reported outside Winkelman's at about 12:40 p.m. He approached a store employee working outside and exposed himself, according to police reports.

At 1 p.m., said the reports, two girls in the Arbor Drugs parking lot on the other side of Sheldon were also approached by the man.

The cyclist was spotted a third time at about 2:30 p.m., police said, by two girls walking along Sheldon at Westminster.

Police said they have no suspects in the incidents.

8 homes on '91 circuit PSL set for home tour

The time to tour those beautiful homes that line Plymouth community's streets is almost here.

Estate, country and contemporary home styles will all be featured in the eight homes in the 1991 Plymouth Symphony League Home Tour.

The home tour — one of the league's major fundraisers — will be held May 31 from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. The eight homes on the tour are located in the City of Plymouth and Plymouth Township.

Architectural interest, historic significance, and lovely furnishings and antiques were all part of the selection process for the home tour.

Hostesses will be in each room of the homes to explain the significance of the styles and furnishings.

The theme for this year's tour is "Home Is Where the Hearth Is."

One of the featured homes in the tour this year is that of Kenneth and Helen Merrill, 1450 Maple Street in Hough Park. The colonial home is filled with family treasures that the Merrills have collected from their world travels.

An ivory fan and silk scroll are two items on the bedroom wall which Helen Merrill collected while traveling in Beijing, China. An 1820s cherry wood corner cabinet, a 1760 clock, and an original Erte serigraph also adorn the Merrill home.

"I buy what I like — and it always fits," said Merrill about how she collects items while traveling. She described her home as having an "eclectic look."

"I see detail that a lot of people don't see," she added.

"The sun room is my favorite. I spend all my free time there," she said. The sun room has wicker furniture and a beaded ceiling.

Tickets for the tour are $10 per person and can be purchased at Mc & Mr. Jones, Beitner Jewelry, the Mayflower Hotel, the Frame Works, Bluford Jewelers and Village Patchwork. In Canton tickets are available at Frame Works II, and in Northville at Orin Jewelers.

For additional information call 453-3016.

The home tour will include a raffle of a queen-size, Bargello style quilt created by Village Patchwork of Plymouth. The quilt will be on display at Village patchwork and then Mc & Mr. Jones prior to the home tour. Raffle tickets are $2 each or 3 for $5.

Tell it to Phyllis

By Phyllis Redfern

Oops, I goofed. A Michelle should have been a Michael in last week's column. Congratulations to Michael John Libbing, a 1987 Salem High School graduate, who is receiving a degree from E.M.U. The son of Jane and Fred Libbing of Plymouth, he was recently named "Outstanding Senior" in Accounting Information Systems in the College of Business.

Andrea Abair of Simsbury Drive in Canton has been placed on the Honorary Dean's List at M.S.U. A 1988 graduate of Canton High School, she is a junior in the College of Liberal Arts.

Plymouth students named to the Dean's List at Albion College are: Lauren Madsen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Madsen of Crestwood; Heather Murley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Murley of Canton Center; and Kristin Pruse, daughter of Yvonne Lawrie of Purcell.

Andrew Flower of Herald in Plymouth received a BS in Computer Science and Mathematics from The University of Kansas.

Area students included on the Dean's List at Siena Heights College are: Norbert Nowak of Honeytree in Canton; and Todd Marsee of Robin Court in Plymouth.

Students from Canton receiving degrees from Western Michigan University are: Michael Dunlop of S. Umlerland, BS in Aviation Tech; Jeffrey Smith of Embassy Drive, BS in Aviation Tech; and David Wanat of Brookshire, BS in Computer Science.

Plymouth students receiving degrees from Western Michigan are: Jacqueline Bar of Wildwing, BS in Public Relations; and Margaret Mundt of Ann Arbor Trail, BS in Public Relations.

A former Salem High School student has achieved the rank of Eagle Scout, the highest rating in the Boy Scouts.

Garrick West attended Salem before moving to Renton, WA, with his parents Roy and Cheryl Chance. He was formally honored last month.

For his Eagle Scout project, West coordinated the design and construction of a portable writing center, which was donated to Sierra Heights Elementary School.

A high school senior, West is active in Natural Helpers, a peer-helping-peers program. He is an assistant scout master with Troop 499 and is an affiliate member of the American Institute of Archaeology.

He plans on studying computer systems analysis in college.

Preniczky's seat

The transition from Preniczky, known for a gentle sense of humor, to Patterson may be more than some trustees want to face, however. Schoolcraft College's Board of Trustees, he resigned Friday from the Canton Merit Commission to avoid any conflict of interest.

Patterson is considered to be more interested in a judgeship than anything else, but an appointment as trustee could prove tempting.

In 11th District Election draws little interest

BY JIM WHITE

Last week's special general election for 11th District Wayne County Commissioner drew even fewer voters than the March primary.

Democrat Bryan Amann defeated Republican Jim Poole in a race that drew 6.7 per cent of the district's voters to the polls. That compares with a turnout of 8.3 per cent in March. Both figures were given by the Wayne County Elections Office.

In Canton, the most populous of the district's nine communities, 6.4 per cent of the registered voters turned out.

Clerk Loren Bennett said the turnout may have been much lower if not for a new absentee ballot system he developed.

"If people were interested in voting absentee in the primary, they automatically got one again" for the general election, Bennett said Monday. "That was a real key. I think that helped."

Of 2,032 votes cast in Canton last Tuesday, 1,310 were cast by absentee ballot.

Encouraging as many voters as possible to vote absentee also helped Canton cut costs for the special election. Bennett pared staffers "back to a bare minimum at every precinct" in anticipation of a light turnout.

Still, Bennett said $16,000 would be "reasonable estimate, if I had to grab a number out of the air" for how much Canton spent to hold the election.

This is in addition to the $21,000 spent for the primary.

Canton voters who turned out did so in overwhelming favor of Amann. The Wayne resident collected 1,360 votes in the township, good for 67.6 per cent.

Poole, former Canton Supervisor, collected 653 Canton votes.

District-wide, Amann won 4,167 votes while Poole garnered 1,612.

Canton polls were relatively jammed compared to communities such as Rockwood and Romulus.

Of the 1,782 registered voters in Rockwood, 82 exercised their right. Amann collected 66 of the votes to Poole's 16.

In Romulus — where Amann was ordered by city officials who thought the election was over to remove campaign signs shortly after the primary — a clerk's official said Monday, "nobody's even interested" in results.

City election

running for public office in the city.

Rosita Smith, 51, has lived in the community for 20 years. This is also her first time running for public office.

A primary will not be held for the election since the necessary nine certified candidates did not file Tuesday. The general election is scheduled for Nov. 5.

The candidates have until Friday, May 17 to withdraw from the race.

Places to be

Farmer's markets open

Once again it's that time of year for fresh produce. And it can be found at local farmer's markets in Plymouth-Canton-Northville.

The Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce Farmer's Market will be selling fresh produce, eggs and cheese, baked goods, flowers, plants and herbs. And there will also be animals to pet and musicians.

The market, which opened for the first time May 11, will be held every Saturday morning from 7:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. in the Gathering in downtown City of Plymouth.

The market will run until October 19.

When in Northville, stop by the farmer's market which is held there every Thursday from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. at Seven Mile and Sheldon roads (across from Northville Downs). The market will run until the end of October.

The Canton Farmer's Market, sponsored by the township, will begin later this summer on July 27 and run through Oct. 26.

It will be held two days a week, every Wednesday from 3-7 p.m. and Saturday from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the New Towne Plaza (at Ford and Sheldon roads).

Music exhibit at museum

If music is your pleasure then the Plymouth Historical Museum has a new exhibit just for you.

"Music: The Heart of the Community," opened last week at the museum, located on Main Street in the City of Plymouth, and runs through Aug. 18.

The exhibit features the history and importance of music in a community. It includes antique musical instruments, large collections of wind instruments, strings, guitars, banjos, flutes, brass instruments and others.

Another focus of the exhibit is musical instruments from the Civil War. There is a cornet played at Gettysburg for Abraham Lincoln as he gave the Gettysburg Address.

The history of the Millard Musical Instruments Company of Plymouth is featured also, including bugles and cornets made for the U.S. Army in World War I.

Also on display at the museum currently is a poster and photo exhibit celebrating the 100th anniversary of Carnegie Hall.

The museum is open Wednesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays from 1-4 p.m., and Sundays from 2-5 p.m. Admission is $1.50 for adults and 50 cents for students (five-17). Children under five get in free.

For further information call 455-8940.

Experts give tips for green lawn

BY JIM WHITE

A lush lawn that will turn your neighbors green with envy is not too difficult to achieve, say the experts.

Bob Wagenschutz, of Wagenschutz Lawn Spraying in the City of Plymouth, has seen business grow tremendously in 32 years.

"We do about 5,000 lawns a month, now," he said Thursday.

More people have hired lawn services in recent years because they don't have the time themselves, Wagenschutz said.

His son Terry said the biggest mistake made by people who tend their own lawn is mowing it too short.

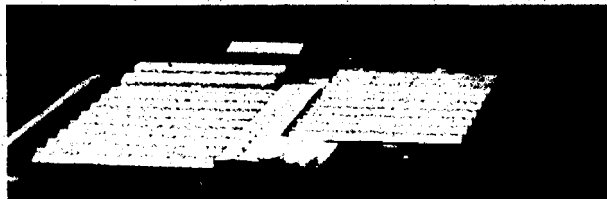

"It should be three inches tall and should be cut once a week," he said. "Don't take more than a quarter of the blade off at one time.

"Instead of watering every day for 10 to 15 minutes," he said, "you should water two to three times a week for a half hour at a time. Encourage the roots to go down deep."

To avoid fungus, the lawn should be dry by evening, Wagenschutz said.

There is good soil in the City of Plymouth, Wagenschutz said, and the Lake Pointe area of Plymouth Township is sandy. But the rest of Plymouth and Canton townships sits on clay.

Aerating makes the most of soil

"They take the sod out of peat and lay it on that clay, and the lawns are in shock for a couple of years," Wagenschutz said. "The roots grow sideways between the peat and the clay. It makes aeration important."

Aeration ought to be done once a year for lawns on clay soil, he said. It can be done any time during the season and is much better than thatching.

"Don't thatch unless absolutely necessary," Wagenschutz said. "People just ruin their lawns. They tear out more good stuff. Thatch is extra roots clogging the lawn, not grass clippings."

A lawn should be fertilized about five times during the growing season, Bob Wagenschutz said, adding, "If you aerate, everything you use is more effective."

Wagenschutz Lawn Spraying does fertilizing, aerating, and, if a customer specifically asks, weed killing.

"We don't put weed killer on a lawn unless a homeowner wants it," said Bob Wagenschutz.

Concern over chemical weed killers and pesticides has grown recently, he said. His company limits the amount used in weed killing, and only uses organic fertilizers.

"In the last two years, the trend has been towards organic," he said. "We offer a granular nutrient such as milorganite. It's all natural, but it doesn't make your lawn grow as fast."

Organic fertilizer can also be sprayed on a lawn, he said.

"We never spray without moving any toys or pet dishes or bones," Wagenschutz said, adding that the Environmental Protection Agency is in the process of making it mandatory for sprayers to post signs on wet lawns.

"We have always said keep children and pets off the lawn till it's dry," he said. "You just have to be careful, which we always are."

Terry Wagenschutz added that all lawn sprayers have to be licensed in turf management, and their use of chemicals for weed killing or pest control is monitored by the EPA.

"If people want it and need it, we spray," he said. "Otherwise, we don't blanket spray. We have to store chemicals separately, we have to dispose of containers in certain landfills."

"The biggest abuses come from homeowners, who can buy the chemicals right in a garden store," he said.

His father added, "A homeowner can use them without gloves, without training, or without having read the directions."

Archer's tremendous tulips Making a yard burst with color

BY JIM TOTTEN

Robert Ernie Archer does not have your typical cozy backyard. His is yard bursting with colors and fragrances from the many flowers growing there.

Yet the methods he uses to grow healthy flowers are not an exact science. Archer explained that much of what he has learned has been by trial and error.

"Watch and see how it grows in the shade and sun," he said, adding that flowers should be switched around to different areas to see where they grow best.

Tulips, day lilies, rose of sharon and other flowers surround a small tree in each of the 25 round plots in his backyard. He said nurses have brought patients to his backyard just to sit and watch the flowers.

Growing flowers has been his hobby for the past 12 years since retiring.

For those just beginning a flower garden, there are a few basic guidelines to follow, said Archer.

"The most important thing is to find out what kind of soil you have," he said, adding that the soil should be analyzed by the county to find out what nutrients and minerals it might lack, and what can be done to correct the problem.

To keep his soil fertile, Archer spreads sheep manure on his plots once or twice a year during the spring or fall. He said that other manure would be just as good.

"Through the years we buried our leaves out here," he said, which has also helped keep the soil fertile.

After preparing the soil, he recommends having the lawn sprayed to prevent the growth of dandelions and other weeds.

One of his favorite flowers is tulips. His yard is packed with a rainbow spectrum of these flowers.

Archer recommends planting tulip bulbs in October and said that once planted, they will sometimes come up for years. Tulips seem to grow in any place, he added.

Ernie Archer tends some of the many flowers growing in his front yard.

Follies fun for hoofers, goofers, woofers

BY W. EDWARD WENDOVER
Some would say it's, simply type casting.

Like having Jeff Counts, local office manager for a regional newspaper chain, smoke a cigar and follow a stripper around.

Others would argue the point, maintaining that an attorney as a "Good Fairy" or a "Prince Charming" (?) character were cast as opposites.

Whichever way, the Follies -- an impossible mish-mash of local talent, Broadway melodies, and Vaudeville schtick -- is history for 1991.

Some 150 hoofers, goofers and woofers have returned from their families, thereby...

number of "missing persons" reports. For the last three weeks, these brave volunteers rubbed liniment and pounded hammers into scenery, rehearsed 'til they dropped, night and day.

The Follies is an on-the-road presentation of the Jerome H. Cargill Production Company in New York, which sends along several trunks of costumes and props, the sheet music -- and, most importantly, the director. This year's mentor was Tom Chatham, whose famous "Love You" following each criticism became a trademark for future Follies.

Chatham apologized for being "so rough" but this is the "toughest show I've put on," he said.

And so, okay, okay. Gary Van Buren forgot his neurotic lines on Friday night. He remembered them at the Box Bar afterwards and probably will never forget them now. "I'd rather forget my lines than use cue cards," he laughed.

It was all part of the show. And, what a show!

This Follies -- the eighth of the bi-annual Plymouth Community Arts Council sponsored shows -- was notable for its dance talent and its humor... if you can call the rotund Bill Baxter, clad in a towel and shaving cream, "humorous." But, if you are that warped, this show was one of the funniest Follies yet.

When Morand Zimmer came out as Ghandi, you knew something was up. Sure enough, the Ghandi Dancers tap danced onto stage. Is this any way for grown men to behave? Some folks will do anything for a good cause.

Even the old gags -- the men behind the screen when the husband comes home -- get new life when you see local folks you know like Sue McElroy smothering Jim Totten and Van Buren trailing a piece of toilet paper across the stage.

And the re-incarnation of the "Has Beens" as "The Last of the Red Hot Mamas" shows just how important it is to laugh at ourselves. (Ego trips have no room on the Follies intense rehearsal time-frame -- although it seems that someone throws a tantrum every show). If these noted "red hot" business women from The Plymouth-Canton Community can perform like that, it's all just good clean fun.

It's that "local" showcasing that makes the Follies the best entertainment bargain in The Plymouth-Canton Community. Unfortunately, though, last Friday's crowd was much smaller than it should have been -- albeit enthusiastic. Saturday's crowd was more subdued but flowed over into Salem's balcony.

Have the Follies run their course? Some think so; let's hope not.

Where else can Mike Diebolt and Sue Schuler (regulars on the Follies stages), Karen Chapin and John Stewart belt out a tune for their neighbors? (Other than church.)

The dance routines stood out at this year's Follies. The Fandango Couples, Sue Schuler's tap, Sue Naudi's Charleston, Kim Ollar's disco, Jacqui Burkowski's belly dancing, the kickline Rocketettes (who drew one of the biggest applauses), and Suzanne Thomas's ballet showed that even though there are comic parts, there are occasional serious outbreaks of pure talent here.

Combined dance-song with humor is another Follies trademark. Bruce Gerish, Steve Perrie, Jan Harwood, Kathy Harenda, the Julio Girls, Sharon Belobraidich, Bill Decker (Groucho), Lowanda Jarvis, Sue Pocklington, Jacquie Rundell, Karen Lambert, Paul Jones, Clint Stroebel (Chico) and Michael Vaz (Harpo), all worked in combined routines.

This year's Follies was a simpler set than two years ago, but the black light effect was a fresh approach. Like the scenery and props, there's plenty of behind the scenes work on costumes, make-up, program ad sales (Janet Campbell gets that "Silver Hammer" award), ushers, and raffle tickets sales. All those supporting actors and actresses came through too.

Live music adds to the show, especially when led by Pianist Jim Wilhelmsen, who adroitly rescued Chatham when he lost his musical place twice in the first act Friday night. (It was amazing that the piano player's attention was on the stage; he became a proud father during rehearsals -- welcome Britta Wilhelmsen.)

After 14 years of Follies, it's inevitable that the "Has It Run Its Course?" question will come up.

But when you see the second generation of stars taking over -- there was Debbie Redfern at the opposite side of the stage from her mother and veteran Follies "star" Phyllis Redfern -- it seems to indicate otherwise.

Bring on the 1993 Follies and disregard all those, "I'll never do this again" comments as idle threats heard every time after the show.

Growing flowers by trial/error

CONTINUED

Spacing is another important part of growing flowers that must be done with care. He allows eight to 10 inches between each tulip when planting. For flowers in general, he said the spacing recommendations stated on the seed package should be followed.

For tulips, the amount of watering depends on the season, Archer has found.

"Usually in the spring they don't need much water," he explained.

For flowers in general, he said that, "When you sense the ground is dry and things get droopy," it is time to water.

After the tulips wilt and die, Archer will cut off the stem and let the remaining part settle and combine with the soil. The flower should grow back the following year.

For impatiens, begonias, red and blue salvia, he waits until the end of May for planting to avoid the frost season. If planted before this time, the flower might get "nipped" and might die.

If the flower does get struck by frost, he recommends cutting the part that has been frosted since it will send poison into the plant.

He also recommends cutting plants down to shape them and since it also puts new growth in them.

One flower that he has given up trying to grow are geraniums. He explained they can be difficult since one must be careful not to give them too much water.

But that is the exception for Archer. Hard work and extreme care has made his yard, which he described once as a "jungle," into a gorgeous flower garden.

And once the flowers are planted, he said "there is always something do" to keep them growing and keep them healthy.

Dealing with Canton's clay

BY KEN VOYLES

Barry Burton knows a little something about clay. And it's well that he does.

The 28-year-old landscape architect in Canton has been on the job since last fall helping residents and township planners deal with landscape design issues.

He has also discovered that the soil in The Plymouth-Canton Community largely consists of clay.

"This area use to be the bottom of Lake Erie," said the Michigan State graduate who inspects sites in the township for landscape compliance and works with the township beautification group. "This basin is made up of compacted soil -- clay."

Last week Burton began a series of workshops for local residents interested in creating a majestic garden or landscape in their backyards. Most of the sessions will deal with design questions and ideas, he said, but it's also likely that the nature of the soil will be on everyone's minds.

Burton said there are ways to deal with clay when preparing a space for a garden, flowers, shrubs or even trees.

Investing in soil for a greater yield

First of all, he said, residents need to make sure the site is properly graded. He said that it is also important for residents to mix "good soil," peat, gypsum pelts or vermiculite with the clay to help loosen it up. Sand will also perform the same function, he said.

"You can also till mulch into the soil or put it on top," Burton said. "Clay absorbs water and saturates the ground so that plants drown. Then when it dries it gets hard. You need a slow, steady stream of water."

Soil is based on the size of its grains, he said, with clay having the smallest, most compacted grains.

"Ash trees do well in it," he said. "But don't just dig a hole and throw something in it. The soil must be loosened up. If not, the roots can't spread and it will die."

Trees, such as ash trees, help break up the clay and allow for oxygen in the soil. Clay tends to "strangle" oxygen, Burton said.

"Clay isn't short on nutrients," he said. "It's just short on looseness. That's why farmers do well around here. They till the soil."

Clay soil in the community can reach depths of 50-60 feet, he said, but it has one property which a homeowner can take advantage of during the winter.

"Water in the clay will freeze in winter and break apart the soil," Burton said. "This is called 'heaving.' You should water your trees before the ground freezes and during winter the water will help break up the soil."

He added, "Investing in the soil will mean a greater yield. Look at all of the hard work farmers around here have done."

Burton said the nature of soil in the area even adds a "poetic perspective" on the nature of the communities along the I-275 freeway.

"The quality of soil relates to the wealth of the communities," he said. "Northville, which has much better soil than Canton, was a larger market center. They needed a central market. Plymouth's the same way.

"Canton didn't produce enough to set up a central market place," he continued, perhaps explaining why Canton to this day does not have a downtown along the lines of Northville or Plymouth.

One advantage to clay soils, said Burton, is that they reduce the effects of erosion. "I'd like to see more erosion," he joked.

Burton emphasized that the homeowner just starting to plant should not try to "do everything at once.

"Start with a little bit," he said. "Start with a few trees and then expand." The trees will help break up the clay and make way for shrubs, flowers and eventually, vegetables and even fruits.

"It's all in one's attitude toward the space," Burton said.

Anderson gets nod New chief to start at CEP

The Centennial Educational Park (CEP) has a new chief security officer.

The Plymouth-Canton Community Schools Board of Education appointed Roy J. Anderson to the top security post during a meeting Monday.

Anderson, 47, has been with the Michigan State Police for 27 years. He is currently a detective sergeant with the MSP's Criminal Fugitive Investigation Unit.

Anderson, a graduate of Niles High School, will retire from the state police on May 31. He is expected to take over officially in the school district on June

3. Anderson was one of 25 candidates who applied for the post. Of those 25, five were interviewed for the job.

"This job closely parallels Anderson's training and experience," said Ken Jacobs, area coordinator at Canton High. "We believe he possesses the maturity, knowledge and capability which this job requires."

Anderson's wife Charlene helped start the community education nursing program in the school district and is currently a teacher with the program.

Valley. "It has been a long term plan to move the overflow to Scott," she said.

Now that the township has agreed to permit the state to double-bunk at Scott, the state can move ahead with its plans to completely switch Huron-Valley over to a psychiatric prison.

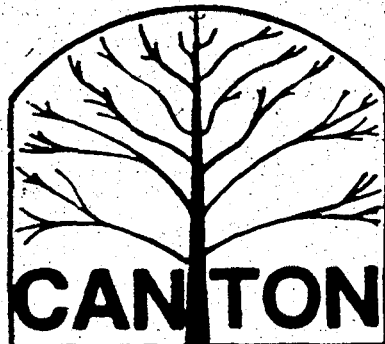

Yuckins said that governor John Engler's task force recommended the prison for a psychiatric facility because of its physical layout.

"The physical layout lends itself to a psychiatric facility," and a nearby university makes it a good site for a psychiatric facility," Yuckins said.

Lance Schuhmacher, administrative assistant to the warden at Scott, said that he had not received any information about the agreement between the state and Northville Township.

Gail Light, department spokesperson for the Michigan Department of Corrections, also said that she had not learned details of the agreement.

John Truscott, press secretary for the governor, said that he had not heard that the agreement had been finalized. He added that it would still take an act of legislation to increase the legislative cap for the prisoner population at Scott.

Concern over records West parents contact ACLU

them to call us," he added.

Wineman said the ACLU is trying to establish the type of student record put in the files of those who were suspended. "The parents concern is the kind of record created," he said. "We want to find out precisely what that records is."

Sabourin, who has yet to see principal Judy Stone's report on the suspensions, said she was "shocked" by how her son was treated. She called the suspensions an "overreaction" since caffeine pills are not considered an illicit substance and are sold over-the-counter in Michigan.

"We're not real happy this happened," she said, adding that the students caught with the pills were treated the same way a student caught with cocaine might be treated.

Sabourin said the school policy needs to be clarified, particularly in what it terms illicit. She pointed out that the district's smoking policy is also not clear and has not been addressed by the district. Student handbooks at CEP outlaw tobacco products, but smoking areas behind Salem and Canton are heavily trafficked by students.

Sabourin also voiced her concerns about the suspensions in letters to each member of the school board and to John M. Hoben, school district superintendent.

Another parent, Dan Holton, said Sabourin was speaking on behalf of about 15 parents concerned by the recent suspensions.

"It is a serious issue. This record travels with the student," he said.

Holton asked that the board erase the suspensions from the student files and for a written explanation of why each student was suspended. He said the only record he received said that his child had been suspended for "substance abuse."

Dr. Doug Buchanan said the board was "shooting at a fly with a machine gun."

"This is not an illicit substance," he said. "It's an over-the-counter product."

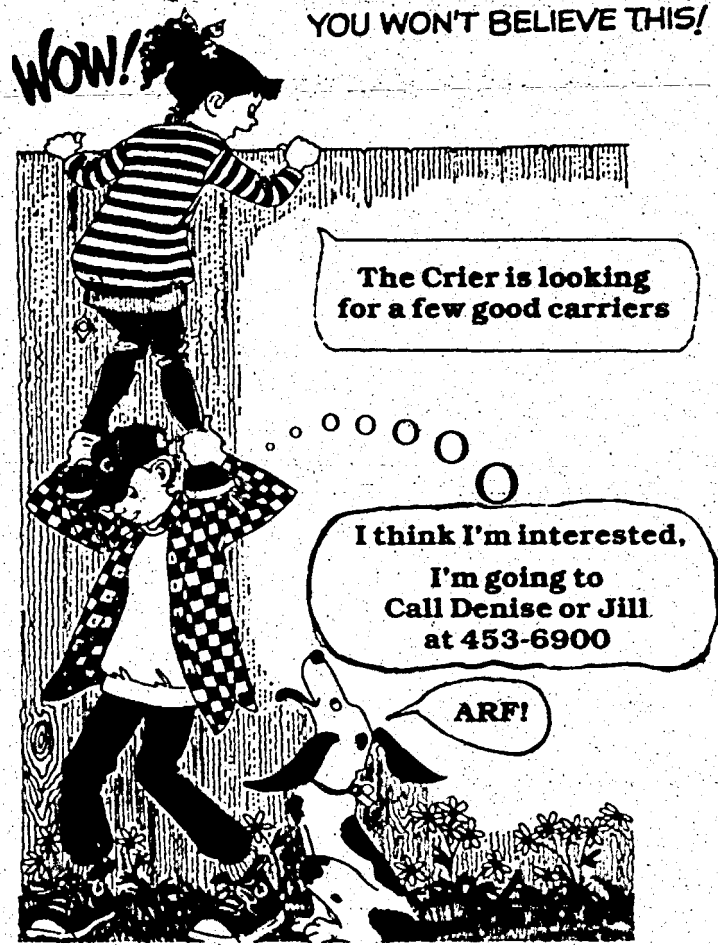

E.J. McClendon, a board trustee, said, "I think this policy is very important for the protection of our children and I'm opposed to any changes."

Dean Swartzwelter, board president, said nothing in the students' personal files "follow" the students. He said a code is used to track violations and called it an "accounting record."

Swartzwelter added, "I sense that the board is in agreement on this position that we will continue to do everything we can to discourage such use in our facilities."

"We'll not waver in this message -- illicit substances will not be tolerated," he continued.

To that Buchanan said the board was "missing the point."

A REAL TALK ABOUT FLUORIDE IN YOUR DRINKING WATER

We've been hearing a lot of talk about whether or not we should continue to allow municipalities to fluoride our drinking water. The answer is a resounding YES.

When a study last year suggested that fluoride could increase the risk of a rare form of cancer, there was an immediate and very loud demand that our cities stop fluoridation. The Food and Drug Administration contracted for three independent studies to determine the actual effects of fluoridation. These studies concluded, "every effort should be made to continue the practice of fluoridating community water supplies."

The study even suggested, "that fluoridation at recommended levels may provide a protective effect against the formation of osteosarcoma."

For years the American Dental Association has stressed the need for fluoridation and routine fluoride treatments as a preventive steps in decreasing tooth decay. It was very disappointing to hear that this proven and successful treatment was threatened by one sketchy study.

It is, therefore, rewarding to note that we can once again recommend fluoride with good conscience to all of our patients.

Newly expanded Veronica's helps home decorators

BY JIM TOTTEN

Choosing those new, special decorations for a room at home can sometimes be a difficult task.

What color, pattern, style...

It's during these times that the family-owned Lady Veronica's in City of Plymouth's Westchester Square Mall can supply advice, ideas, gifts and custom decorations for a coordinated home.

On May 1, Lady Veronica's expanded into a second store at Westchester Square specializing in home furnishings while the other specializes in gifts.

"The whole concept of the store, more or less, is to be able to come in and coordinate an entire room," said Lisa Flynn, who handles marketing and design for the two stores. She added the goal is to coordinate a clientele's current home decorations with what they want, keeping in mind the money.

"Victorian is very nice -- yet it is not necessarily feasible for some people to redecorate their entire home," said Flynn.

For clientele unsure how to spice up their home decor, Flynn said that learning a little about their lifestyle is the first step.

"The easiest way to find out what people want is talking to them," she said.

Custom draperies, accent furniture pieces, wall paper, Baldwin Brass and Staffordshire China are just some of the items available at the two stores. Two unique items are lace toilet seat covers and a courting chair from 1900.

But Flynn said that selling home furnishings and gifts are only part of the business.

Finding and buying home decorations can be a one-stop task at Veronica's. After deciding on what decorations are wanted, the Flynn family can schedule hired contractors to paint, wallpaper and perform other work to service their clientele.

"We have a tremendous amount of specialties for our clientele," she said. These include gift wrapping, delivery and custom ordering.

Lady Veronica's also offers personalized shopping which allows a customer or group to be the only one shopping in the store.

Flynn said they are also planning to add wedding/bridal registries to their stores.

"Always wanted to get into running our own store," said Flynn about starting the family business.

The Flynn family includes mother, Veronica, father, Frank, brother John, and Lisa. The duties are divided among the family with Veronica Flynn as president, Frank as CEO, and John, who will be graduating from University of Michigan this year, handling the finances.

Lisa Flynn added that the family worked together and did all the painting and wallpapering in the new store to give it their own special touch.

PCAC takes over mill, celebration planned

It was once a flour mill and later a part of Henry Ford's cottage industry.

Now the Plymouth Community Arts Council (PCAC) sees the Wilcox Mill as its new home, complete with a spacious gallery and classroom with a picturesque view over Wilcox Lake.

In April, the council became 20-year tenants of the long-abandoned facility, leasing it from Wayne County for $1 a year.

And with a little help from the Wayne County Parks Division, the mill could be a renovated attraction for the entire community by the end of 1992.

"Our goal is to redevelop the whole area, reclaim it in a sense," said council director Kathryn Savitskie, of the efforts to revitalize the mill building. "The real winners are everyone in the community."

According to Hurley J. Coleman, county director of parks, his department will be responsible for outside maintenance of the facility and upkeep of landscaping, while the arts council will take care of the inside.

The cooperative effort gives the council its new headquarters and restores a stop on the Rouge River Route of the Ford Heritage Trail, he added.

"It's going to be a place where our community events and activities can take place," Coleman said.

Quinn Evans Architects, of Ann Arbor, has drawn up the council's plans for the facility. They call for a lobby, storage and gallery on the first floor and an office and classroom with skylights on the second floor. The classroom windows would look northwest over Wilcox Lake.

The county applied for a Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) recreation grant to help fund the renovation, the approximate cost of which is $600,000, according to Savitskie. That grant is potentially worth $160,000, she said, with the council required to chip in another $40,000.

The council hopes to raise the rest of the money from the Kresge and Ford foundations, while pursuing other state grants and private donations, Savitskie said.

This Friday from noon to 5 p.m. the PCAC is hosting "A Day At The Mill" to celebrate the group's new home.

There will be musicians, local artists demonstrating and displaying their work, an exhibit on the mill's history, refreshments, and the opening of the PCAC's Art Rental Gallery.

WHY PEOPLE DON'T GO TO THE DENTIST

- They had a painful experience
- They are concerned about cost
- It's been so long that there is probably not much that can be done to save their teeth
- They have more important things on which to spend their money
- They've been thinking about it
- The pain will go away by itself
- They can't justify spending money on themselves at this point in life

Do any of these sound familiar? Dentist hear these all the time, but the truth is that dental problems snowball. When a regular preventive routine is not maintained, simple problems grow. If you find yourself described in the reasons above, give today's dentistry a second chance. Find an office that is gentle and careful and listens to your concerns. GET ON TRACK AND STAY THERE! There are no valid reasons to neglect your teeth and lots of long lasting reasons to go back to the dentist.

Look to conference meet Chiefs golf finishes 7-0

BY RITA DERBIN

One down and two to go.

The Canton girls golf team attained one of the goals it set about to accomplish at the beginning of the season when they went undefeated during the regular season with a 7-0 mark in the newly formed Western Lakes League.

"We can't get much better than that," said Canton coach Dan Riggs. "That was one of our goals -- next is to win the conference meet.

"After that we'll concentrate on the state meet," he added.

Friday the Chiefs achieved their first goal by edging previously undefeated Northville, 211-214.

Overall medalist for the day was Canton senior Sarah Beckman, who shot a 46. Senior Melissa Vernon finished second for the Chiefs with a 54 and senior Kerri Kittleson shot 55. Rounding out the four top scores was sophomore Audrey Meissner, who shot a 56. Kristin Woodsum shot a 48 to lead Northville.

Wednesday, the Chiefs defeated Livonia Franklin, 196-229. The 196 marked the first time a Canton girls team had broken the 200 mark.

"When you break 200 in girls golf, you're playing well," said Riggs. "The girls have been consistent all season long."

Medalist on the afternoon for the Chiefs was Kittleson, who shot a 44. Beckman came in second for Canton with a 48, Katie Konovaliv was third with 51, and Meissner was fourth with a 53.

Last Tuesday, the Chiefs defeated Walled Lake Western, 226-236. Kittleson, Beckman, Meissner and Melissa

Now 13-2 Chiefs take Novi invite

BY RITA DERBIN

The Chiefs are 13-2 overall after winning the Novi Invitational Softball Tournament.

The Canton squad swept through three games Saturday enroute to winning the tournament.

The Chiefs didn't play their best in the first game, but won, 7-4. Kelly Holmes (10-2) pitched the entire game for the victory, striking out eight and walking eight.

Renee Dory went three for four in the game with two doubles, and Julie Nicastrì hit two doubles and drove in three.

In the second game, the Chiefs defeated Thurston, 10-2, behind the strong starting pitching of Shannon Murphy (3-0), who gave up three hits, struck out one and did not walk anyone. Holmes came in to relieve in the sixth for the save.

In the game, Denise Koziol delivered the key hit. With the bases loaded, Koziol cleared the bases with a three run single. Also in the game, Anne Hooper was one for one with two RBI.

In the championship game, the Chiefs had to come from behind to beat Novi, 8-3.

With Novi leading 3-2 with two outs in the fifth inning, Bridget DeRosa, started the Chief rally with the first of four straight singles.

"It was real exciting," said coach Jim Arnold. "We weren't hitting well and then DeRosa came up and got it going."

Kelly Holmes won the game and the offense was provided by Dory, who went two for four, and Sarah Schimmelpfenneg, who was three for four.

Monday the Chiefs will travel to Farmington Harrison for a 4 p.m. game.

Rocks go 2-2 over week

BY RITA DERBIN

On Saturday, at the Midland Invitational Tournament, the Salem baseball team defeated Traverse City, 5-0, in the first game, behind an outstanding pitching performance by senior Scott Rodgers.

Rodgers (7-2) pitched a no hitter into the sixth inning before giving up a double. Ed Gundry started the game off with a home run to give Rodgers all the runs he needed. Catcher Scott Niemic hit a triple in the game, and behind the plate, provided outstanding defense when he gunned down two Traverse City runners.

In the second game of afternoon, the Rocks were defeated by Grandville, 8-3.

Dan Hutchinson (2-1) was battered around in the first two innings of the game, giving up four runs in the first and two in the second. The Rocks could not recover.

Last Thursday was exciting until the seventh inning for Salem. Salem was tied with division rival North Farmington 2-2 in the sixth when Scott Bright hit a solo home run to put the Rocks ahead. Rodgers then came in to relieve in the seventh and lost the game when Raiders scored three runs on a single, two walks, an error and a wild pitch to make the final 5-3.

"It was a devastating division loss," said Salem coach John Gravin. "We now have two division losses and Westland John Glenn will have to lose in order for us to contend for the conference title."

Last Tuesday was the Ed Gundry show as the Rocks pounded Livonia Stevenson, 14-7, in a make up game.

The Rocks decided the game early when Gundry led off with a home run and added another during an eight-run outburst in the first inning.

This weekend the Rocks will host Redford Union at noon on Saturday, and Adrian at 3 p.m. Monday, Salem will travel to Farmington for the team's last regular season division matchup. The game begins at 4 p.m.

Pistons host camp at CEP

Could you take on Isiah Thomas and Joe Dumars? Now is your chance to try.

The Piston guards will be at Centennial Educational Park in July and all interested teenage boys and girls in the Plymouth-Canton Community are welcome to join them on the court.

The two NBA all stars will be offering a basketball camp July 25-27 at Canton and Salem high schools. Thomas and Dumars will each instruct one class and either a Piston coach or another NBA player will coach the third day.

The cost of the three-day camp will be $125. The price of the camp includes specially designed t-shirts, concentration on fundamentals, an autographed poster of Thomas and Dumars, and daily games.

The coed day camp features sessions for three different age groups.

The first session will be from 8-10:30 a.m. for girls and boys ages seven through 10. The second session is from 11:30-2 p.m. for 11 and 12-year-olds, and the third session, from 3-5:30 p.m., will be for youths ages 13-17.

For more information call camp coordinator Fred Thomann at Salem, 451-6600 ext. 247, or Bob Blohm at Canton, 451-6600 ext. 302. Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Chief duffers

King recorded the top four scores for Canton.

Today, the Chiefs will be at Huron Meadows in Brighton for the 18-hole league meet. They will then travel to Oak Point, also in Brighton, for the regionals Friday with the top three teams advancing to the state meet.

"I see Canton, Northville and Livonia Stevenson — a team that has really come on lately — battling for the conference," Riggs said.

He went on to say that the Chiefs have a good chance of advancing to the state meet in regionals action.

"We'll be up against 19 teams, some of which are perennial state qualifiers," Riggs said. "The way we're going I think we have a better than average chance — but we'll think about (the regionals) Thursday. We have to concentrate on the conference now."

Mr. K, Canton roll on

BY RITA DERBIN

Scott Kennedy, who is averaging 13 strike outs per game, has been carrying the Canton baseball team to victory after victory. The senior played a key role in each of the Chief's last three victories.

Kennedy, who has a 7-2 record with four saves to his credit, pitched his second one-hitter of the season Monday afternoon as the Chiefs downed Northville, 6-0.

For the day, the righthander struck out 16 and walked two as Canton improved its record to 15-4.

Brian Tiel and Mike Wougamon each had two hits in the game for the Chiefs.

Kennedy pitched a complete game Thursday, striking out 11 and giving up four hits as the Chiefs shut out Walled Lake Western, 3-0.

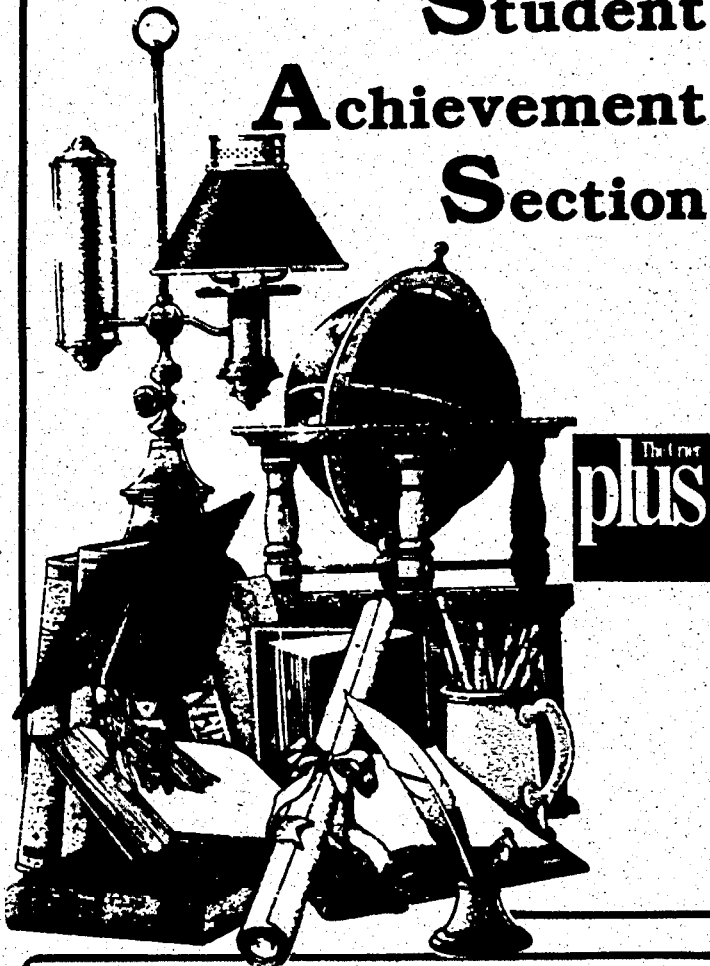

Monday, Mike Stafford went five innings against Livonia Churchill striking out five but left the game trailing, 2-1. Kennedy, pitching in relief, won the game as the Chiefs rallied to a 5-3 victory.

Canton will host two games Saturday afternoon. The Chiefs will play Adrian at noon and Redford Union at 3 p.m. The team will then host Farmington Harrison Monday afternoon at 4 p.m.

Salem residents to air gripes at public hearing

BY JIM WHITE

"Horse owners against the city slickers," is how one Salem Township resident has billed Monday night's (May 20) public hearing before the township planning commission.

Residents unhappy with proposed zoning changes will air their grievances at the meeting and a newly-formed citizens group, the Salem Agricultural Committee, will be on hand as well.

That group is unhappy about proposed ordinances in Salem regarding barns and the disposal of manure. The members are also concerned about possible rezoning of agricultural land for commercial use.

"They want to pass zoning regulations against accessory buildings," group-spokesperson Mary Cowmeadow said Monday. "They say barns have to be so many feet from the house, they have to be behind the house."

Cowmeadow lives on a 17-acre farm that is 160 years old. Her barn is in front of her house, and she is worried about becoming a nonconforming land user.

"If my barn burns down, I won't be able to build another one," she said.

Cowmeadow boards horses for owners who cannot keep them on their own property.

She composts or spreads the manure presently, but should the new ordinances pass, she will be forced to put it in a pit or have it hauled away.

"Horse manure is dry, not like cow manure," she said. "It makes wonderful topsoil. I sell it to my suburbanites."

"The Soil Conservation District Newsletter for May just came out," she said. "It's perfect timing. It talks about how manure pits, at least for cow manure, are potentially lethal, how you have to wear breathing apparatus around them because of gasses."

"Hydrogen sulfide can kill in one or two breaths," said Cowmeadow.

Rezoning land for commercial use doesn't make sense to Cowmeadow, either.

"Raising horses is one of the better uses for Salem land, because it's low," she said. "You have a good meadow in the summer and if it floods in the spring, so what?"

The commission meeting will begin at 7 p.m. in Salem Township Hall, 9600 Six Mile Rd.

Hoben pushes high tech

The need for advanced technology in this country's schools will be the focus of John M. Hoben's testimony Thursday (May 16) as he appears before the U.S. House Appropriations sub-committee on education.

Hoben, who has been pushing for a grant to help the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools begin an integrated technology program in recent talks with U.S. Congressmen Carl Pursell and William Ford, will journey to Washington D.C. for his testimony.

The superintendent's efforts come after recent recommendations from a bond committee suggesting a bond proposal include $12 million for an integrated high technology package for district schools. The high-tech program would include equipment to link classrooms in all schools with television monitors, video equipment, computers and other advanced media forms.

Later this month Hoben will also be making his second visit to an Indiana school district, Penn Harris Madison Schools, which has already implemented an integrated technology program.

Hoben, who traveled to the district last month, will return again on May 28 to study the district's high technology efforts.

Representatives Pursell and Ford may visit the district with Hoben to get a look at a fully functioning technology program in that school district.

Schools prep for P.A. 25

Students in the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools district will be released early next Tuesday (May 21) so that teachers and administrators can work on the dictates of Public Act 25.

Issues addressed under P.A. 25 include school improvement planning, preparation of the annual school report and core curriculum considerations.

Students released early must follow the bus schedule for the day as follows:

Allen, Bird, Eriksson, Gallimore, Hoben and Hutsing elementary schools, 2:15 p.m.; Farrand, Field, Fiegel, Isbister, Miller and Smith elementarys, 2:35 p.m.; all middle schools, 1:45 p.m.; Centennial Educational Park (CEP), 1 p.m.; and all non-public schools, 1:30 p.m.

Morning kindergarten classes will not meet on that day and afternoon kindergarten classes will meet during the morning session.

John M. Hoben, superintendent of Plymouth-Canton Schools, said the effort on May 21 will help in meeting state requirements prior to the end of school in June.

Information for P.A. 25 must be sent to the state by July 31 this year, he said.

Richard Egli, the district's community relations director, said that efforts were already underway to finish plans at the elementary school level.

City DDA approves surveying for streetscape plan

BY JIM TOTTEN.

The City of Plymouth's streetscape project has taken another step forward.

The Plymouth Downtown Development Authority (DDA) at its

Thursday meeting, approved a contract for surveying services contingent upon review by the city attorney Ron Lowe and new City Manager Steve Walters.

"Providing that the questions are answered satisfactorily," said Greg Goodman, chairperson of the DDA, the contract should be awarded to Spalding DeDecker, Inc.

The survey would complete the necessary preliminary work such as locating water mains and gas lines, Goodman said.

He added that architects and planners Schervish Vogel Merz recommended that Spalding DeDecker perform the actual surveying.

Goodman's best guess as to when construction for the streetscape project will begin is late spring of 1992.
