The warm weather is responsible for causing trees, shrubs and flowers to again blossom out as in the spring. A plum tree on the farm of John Van Wagen is full of blossoms, a most remarkable thing in this latitude.

There was an error last week in the statement that Conary's monologue and McClary's lecture will each be 25c. They will each be 35c. The two concerts and Dr. Lewis' lecture will each be 50c. But remember, the ticket for the whole course of five entertainments is only $1.00.

A line of baby bonnets at Mrs. Dickerson's.

We copy the following from the Detroit Free Press: Mr. Ernest Gamble's deep, tuneful and finely modulated voice well deserves the many encomiums it has won, and it charmed its hearers last evening so that the singer was recalled even after the close of the program.—He sings in Plymouth October 27th.

John VanLoren, a farmer living in Superior township, five miles west of Plymouth, accidentally caught his left arm in a corn husking machine Tuesday, mangling it so badly that the arm had to be amputated. Dr. Oliver performed the operation and the injured man is getting along as well as could be expected.

A meeting of the township board of Livonia was held yesterday to grant the D. P. & N. a franchise over the highways, the route being the same as that granted the Detroit & Ann Arbor promoters. The line will be extended from Newburg and run straight to the city over Warren and Michigan avenues. Work will be pushed this fall.

Several members of Plymouth lodge No. 198, A. O. U. W., went to Wayne Wednesday evening to attend the ceremony of the presentation of the flag to Wayne lodge, which was won by them for having the largest number of men in line of any one lodge in the parade of the A. O. U. W. rally held in Detroit a short time ago. The boys report a fine time.

While helping to move a house Tuesday on the north side, Page Miller, of Northville, who was working under the house, was badly hurt by the underpinning under the sill giving away, the timber striking Mr. Miller on the back. He was taken to his home in Northville on the car. We were unable to learn just how badly he was hurt.

Miss Helen Boyee, the hypnotist, is drawing crowded houses at village hall every night, her success being almost unprecedented. She has half dozen boys and young men on the stage every night and compels them to do all sorts of ridiculous things, while under her influence, to the great amusement of the audience. Her power over her subjects seemed complete. The performances will be continued during the week.

The Northville Record man must be a trifle nervous with a campaign on his hands. Two weeks ago his paper stated Congressman H. C. Smith would speak in Plymouth on the following Monday. Last week's paper stated he would be here on the next Wednesday sure. The Congressman failed to put in an appearance, nevertheless, and as Plymouth people did not anticipate his coming, the Record's announcement did no harm. Mr. Smith will not speak in Plymouth until about the 24th of the month, so we understand.

One of our correspondents refers in a sarcastic manner to the mud-puddles in front of our business houses. We want to say to our correspondent that those mud puddles are highly ornamental and sweet smelling and it would be real pity if they should have to be dispensed with. Our business men have made due efforts to keep them up to standard, but sometimes a dry spell abolishes them for a day or two. No, we really couldn't part with the sightly things, even if the ladies must wear high boots and pedestrians on the walk take unlimited chances in having their clothes bespattered from head to foot.

The village council met Monday evening, a full board being present. A lot of accounts were allowed, and a warrant was also ordered drawn for $675 to pay interest on village bonds. The indications are that a new street will be opened to the north side. The line will be a continuation of Adams street, intersecting at Church, and run northerly across land owned by Messrs. Allen and Starkweather. Mr. Starkweather has already platted his land and laid out a street, and Mr. Allen has expressed a willingness to dedicate his land for street purposes. The street committee was instructed to take action at once in the matter. Consent must be obtained from the railroad company which may delay matters some. The street commissioner was instructed to place the walk opposite the Markham factory in a safe condition, pending a survey and establishment of a legal grade.

The public installation of officers of Plymouth Chapter O. E. S. occurred Saturday night, there being present also quite a large number of invited guests. Mrs. Lida Pratt, of Ann Arbor, acted as installing officer and Mrs. Ida Joslin, of Northville, as grand marshal. Their work was done in a very creditable manner. After the installation, remarks were made by Worthy Patron Whitbeck, Mrs. Pratt, Prof. Mealley, and Mrs. Joslin, interspersed with vocal and instrumental music by local singers and musicians. Following this, a banquet was served in the dining hall a bountiful repast having been provided by the ladies in charge. The event was a very pleasant one, a credit to all concerned and marked another epoch in the already many social functions of the chapter, which, in common with other bodies, seems to be enjoying a great amount of "prosperity."

The first game of foot ball this season was played on the fairgrounds last Friday afternoon between Wayne and Plymouth high schools and it proved to be a very close and exciting game, the teams being about evenly matched. Neither side was able to score a point, although it looked as if Plymouth must surely score a touch down in the first half when our boys succeeded in carrying the ball within a few feet of their opponent's goal. Plymouth boys play a remarkably good game for the amount of practice they have had. The following was the Plymouth line up—Elmer Huston, center; Ernest Genz, right guard; Chas. McLaren, left guard; Will McLaren, right tackle; Chas. Hassinger, left tackle; Ralph Samsen, right end; Frank Burrows, left end; Walter Bennett, quarter back; Frank Black, left half; Will Webster, right half; Bert Leadbeater, full back.

"To-Day," Detroit's penny daily, made its first appearance Monday. It is a six page paper, and would present a better typographical appearance, if its headlines were set in smaller type. It's news in condensed and up-to-date.

Farmers should be on the lookout for what is known as "barr grass," which is gaining a footing in some localities. It is a Mexican weed of most pernicious character, and steps should be taken to destroy it at once before it goes to seed.

A cuff containing a gold button marked with the initials H. W. L. was lost from a train near this station during the late Island Lake encampment. It belongs to a young lieutenant and if this item meets the eye of the finder he is kindly requested to leave it at this office. The officer was a soldier in the Spanish war and the button was one of a pair presented to him by the Ladies' Auxiliary Detroit Light Infantry.

Mr. Ernest Gamble is gifted with a remarkable voice and taking the advice of musical friends, he early began the study of voice culture abroad, in London and Paris, and after several years' study he returned to this country to engage in recital work. His success was immediate. The press and public all over the country are emphatic in their praise of his beautiful voice and his rare and great gift of expression. No lover of music should fall of an opportunity which is very rarely enjoyed outside the large cities.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Penfield and two children have moved here from Detroit and occupy the Elm house at 135 Main street. Mr. Penfield is foreman at the Hamilton air gun works at Plymouth. They will be warmly welcomed by the Northville people.—Northville Record.

Mr. Penfield is part owner and general manager of the Hamilton company and removed to Northville only because he was unable to find a house in Plymouth. He will be a resident of Northville only until he is able to locate here, which there is now a probability of his doing shortly.

A LOVE SONG

The moon shines pale in the Western sky, Like a heart set over a brow that glows...

THE KIND OF MAN

"And you really want my opinion in this question, Fred?" "Yes, and I'm all attention."

sure you're not talking of an attack of measles?" "Don't be impertinent. I'm telling the truth. In others the symptoms show more slowly..."

realism and of times seemingly good-for-nothing... "I've been expecting that. Well, you remember Eve?"

INCOGNITO

She has laughed as softly as she has sighed. She has counted six and over, With a purse well filled and a heart well tried...

"I've played more than one joke together, Sam. I won't let you think I'm disinterested in this, though. You know you must know how I feel about Isa."

should know more later. The conversation had taken place in a secluded corner of the veranda, and, according to agreement, the young fellows who had dubbed Miss Dobson 'Carmen' in the old time stood in the shadow and dug each other in the ribs, writhed in delight, and nearly exploded with suppressed mirth.

enough to the people surrounding her—made up quite a stunning picture. "A palace in Russia!" murmured one.

Captive Wild Animals. It is a common saying among keepers that, averaging one animal with another, a menagerie must be renewed every three years. Yet few know of one manager, who kept most of his animals, those of Woodward's Gardens, San Francisco, alive, healthy and happy from the beginning of his time to the end, sixteen years later, when the establishment was broken up, and the animals were ordered to be shot in their cages.

Japan Needs Foreign Capital. The Japanese government has taken one step which should have the effect of introducing a little of the much-needed foreign capital. It has granted permission for foreigners to become owners of shares in Japanese railways. The treaties do not explicitly forbid such ownership, but inasmuch as it would amount to an indirect ownership of land the authorities have hitherto hesitated to sanction the privilege.
