CHRISTIANS AT THE FRONT

All positions of high authority in the great war are held by members of the church. General Joffre, General Haig and General Pershing are Presbyterians. Other denominations are doubtless represented. The question is: Are these strong men right or wrong in being identified with the church?

Drafted Men of Fourth District to be Examined Here

U. S. Registration Board Have Established Their Headquarters in the Village Hall.

"It reminds me of Civil War days," said a veteran of that conflict as he saw the little groups gathered around the bulletin announcing the numbers drawn for the new national army, at Washington last Friday and Saturday. Those who were subject to the draft were eagerly scanning the bulletins for their number.

The board for the Fourth District of which Plymouth is a part, have established their headquarters in the village hall, Plymouth. The members of the board are Dr. R. E. Cooper, Plymouth; Owen Raymo, Wayne, and Bert High, Redford. The board are in session from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. every day but Sunday. During the past few days while waiting for the draft numbers to be received from Washington, the board have been giving much of their time to the study of the regulations governing the method of exemptions and questions pertaining to the coming examinations. New instruction books are arriving daily and many confusing points have to be cleared away.

The young men of the Fourth District, which comprises the townships of Plymouth, Northville, Redford, Livonia, Canton, Huron, Romulus, Van Buren, Taylor, Sumpter, Nankin, Dearborn and Elyonstown, who will be called to join the new national army will be notified to report at the city hall in this village for their physical examinations. The estimated quota for the Fourth District is 207 men. It is expected that more than double this number will have to be called to fill the quota.

NOTES.

The members of the board are glad to answer all questions pertaining to the draft, between the hours of 9 a. m. and 5 p. m. each day, except Sunday, at their headquarters in the village hall.

The Mail was in hopes that we would be able to publish the official list of draft numbers in this issue of the paper, but at the time we go to press, the board had not received the lists from Washington.

The establishment of the U. S. headquarters of the Fourth District here will bring many people to Plymouth in the next few weeks.

Many are asking for information as to how they will be notified when to present themselves for examination, and we give below the following from the bulletin of information:

As soon as quotas are assigned to each State and each board, each board will call upon persons whose cards are in its jurisdiction instructing them to present themselves for examination. This call will be posted at the office of the local board and the papers will be requested to print it. A notice will also be mailed to you, but the posting of the list at the office of the board will be deemed sufficient notice to charge you with the duty of presenting yourself. The law therefore makes it your duty to inform yourself when you are called. The mailing in for your convenience, but if the letter never reaches you, you can not make that an excuse.

Watch the lists at the office of your board and see when you are called for examination.

State of Michigan, Adjutant General's Office, Lansing, July 21, 1917.

Bulletin No. 17.

TO ALL LOCAL BOARDS: The following telegram received from General Crowder is published for the information and guidance of all concerned:

The official list of numbers drawn at Washington, July 20 and 21, will be mailed to each local board as soon as received officially from the Provost Marshal General. Do not take newspaper numbers as official. No notices are to be sent out by the local boards based upon other than the official numbers, which will be sent to you.

JOHN S. BERRY, Adjutant General.

The Epworth League will entertain the Northville and Newburg Leagues and their friends at a pot-luck supper, at the date, Friday, August 3rd. Meeting at the church at 4:30 o'clock. Come and have a good time.

Wife of Former Plymouth Pastor Dies in California

Word reached Plymouth early this week of the sudden death of Mrs. A. J. Morgan, at her home in Covina, California, last Saturday morning. The funeral services were held in Covina, and the remains will be brought to Plymouth for burial, accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. Minnie Noyes. They were scheduled to arrive in Plymouth this evening, and the burial will take place Saturday morning, Rev. F. M. Field officiating.

The deceased was a resident of Plymouth for three years, when her husband, the Rev. J. G. Morgan, was the pastor of the local Methodist church from 1878 to 1881, and after his retirement from the ministry they made their home here again, building the home on Church street now occupied by W. B. Lombard. At the death of her husband about fifteen years ago, Mrs. Morgan moved west, making her home with her daughter at Covina, Cal., where she died. Besides the daughter, two sons are living, F. D. Morgan of Saginaw, Michigan, and J. J. Morgan, who is superintendent of schools at Imperial, California.

Gardens Have Been Inspected

County Agricultural Agent Gregg was in town last Saturday to inspect the gardens which are competing for prizes in the garden contest, which was launched early in the spring under the auspices of the Plymouth Patriotic Food Supply Club. Mr. Gregg was assisted in the work of inspection by R. O. Mimmack. There are more than eighty contestants, and the task of awarding the prizes is not going to be an easy one by any means, for there are a lot of mighty fine gardens. The local club were very fortunate in being able to secure the services of Prof. Gregg in this matter of vegetable culture. Prof. Gregg completed the inspection of the gardens yesterday, and as soon as the winners for the several prizes have been decided upon, the contestants will be asked to assemble in Kellogg Park on an evening to be decided upon by the executive committee of the club, and the prizes will be awarded. There will also be a short program and the Plymouth band has very kindly offered to furnish music for the occasion. Watch next week's paper.

Real estate is on the boom in Livingston county, especially so if it has a water frontage. Last week, Leo Wines of Hartland, sold his farm consisting of 120 acres to J. B. Crouse for the sum of $14,000. Of the 120 acres 35 or 40 of it is lake. A few years ago Mr. Wines purchased this farm for $5,000.—Livingston Democrat.

The first shipment of cars from the Harroun factory was made Wednesday, when a carload of the green and brown machines were sent by American express to a distributing station in the east. The local corporation is turning out cars as fast as material can be secured and the daily output is being gradually increased.—Wayne Weekly.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Weston motored to Ann Arbor Sunday to take Mr. and Mrs. Will Lincoln of Salem, to see their daughter, Mrs. Thelma Rentschler, a victim of the cyclone of June 6, who is in the hospital there. An operation performed on Mrs. Rentschler in the hope of bettering her condition disclosed the fact that her spine is broken, as was at first supposed, and her condition is pronounced by the physicians to be utterly hopeless, and the end to be expected at any time. She is to be removed to the home of her parents this coming Sunday. It is considered a remarkable fact that she has survived so long since her terrible injuries were inflicted.—Northville Record.

Thieves Steal Car From Garage

At an early hour last Friday morning thieves broke into the garage of Mrs. Hulda Everett on Penniman avenue and stole her Oakland automobile. Entrance to the garage was gained by forcing the lock on a small door and then opening the large doors from the inside. Several neighbors in the vicinity heard the robbers leave with the car, but thought nothing of it, as passing cars are heard at about every hour during the night.

An Interesting Service

White Ribbon Ambulance Day was held in the Presbyterian church Sunday evening. On account of the extreme warm weather, the gathering was not as large as was hoped for, but the offering showed that the ones who were there were surely interested in the movement. The solo by Miss Nellie Huger, accompanied by Miss Bennett and Miss Baker, was enjoyed by all, as was the one by Mr. Whipple.

A poem about our flag, a history of our flag and an article on what the W. C. T. U. is doing for our soldiers and sailors were read by several ladies of the union. The two addresses, given by Rev. Field and Rev. Miller, proved to all present that the W. C. T. U. have two earnest supporters in them.

A Pleasant Occasion

A pleasant gathering was held in the dining room of the First Presbyterian church, last Friday evening, when the members of the congregation and friends tendered a reception to their new pastor and wife, Rev. and Mrs. Karl P. Miller. About one hundred and fifty guests were present. The room was attractively decorated with pink and white flowers. Eggs were laid on the floor and chairs were placed about the room for the comfort of the guests. After a social evening, ice cream and cake was served.

Death of Former Plymouth Citizen

Charles Stanley, aged 37 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Stanley, died at his home in Northville, early last Monday morning. Mr. Stanley was recovering from an attack of scarlet fever, but suffered a relapse and pneumonia developed, which caused his death. He was a former resident of Plymouth and at one time was a member of the Plymouth band. He is survived by his wife and three small daughters, his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Stanley, one brother, Claude Stanley of Northville, and one sister, Mrs. Maud Conroy, of Farmington. The funeral services will be held from his late home Wednesday afternoon. The members of the Plymouth band attended the funeral in a body.

TAKES WHOLE DAY AND NIGHT
Altogether 10,500 Numbers Were Drawn From Big Fish Bowl Used for the Occasion—Probably None After the First 2,000.

Washington, July 21.—The draft for the national army is completed. The great task of determining the order in which the registrants should be called up for examination was begun at 9:45 o'clock Friday morning when No. 253 was drawn, and was kept up continuously until early Saturday morning, when the last number came out of the bowl.

It is not likely that men holding numbers drawn after the first 2,000 will be summoned before the boards for service in the first army. According to the officials in charge, the first 1,000 numbers drawn represented more than a million men.

The draft was invested with all the dignity and solemnity becoming so important an event, and was witnessed by a distinguished company. The first eight numbers were drawn respectively by Secretary of War Baker, Senator Chamberlain of the senate military committee, Congressman Dent of the house military committee, Senator Warren and Representative Kahn, ranking minority members of the senate and house military committees.

One of the greatest discoveries in the history of medicine was that of Dr. Ronald Ross, who at Calcutta, in July, 1896, found that the spores of malaria parasites are concentrated in the salivary gland of the mosquito. The exact route of infection of this great disease, which annually slays its millions of human beings and keeps whole continents in darkness, was revealed. These minute spores enter the salivary gland of the mosquito and pass with its poisonous saliva directly into the blood of men.

A Sad Accident

A sad accident occurred in the Pere Marquette yards about ten o'clock, last week Thursday evening, when Raymond Noughton, a switchman, attempted to board an engine, and the grab iron broke letting him fall to the ground. Early Friday morning the injured man was taken to Providence hospital, Detroit, where an X-ray was used, and found that he had sustained a compound fracture of the back bone. He died in the hospital, Saturday. Mr. Noughton and wife had been residents of Plymouth only about two weeks, having come here from West Point, Maryland. The remains were taken to his former home for burial.

A Sad Death

Little Otis Jefferson, the five-year-old son of Mrs. Agnes Hetsler, died Wednesday morning at her home on Union street. The child underwent an operation for the removal of tonsils and adenoids at Ann Arbor hospital last week, and was rapidly improving when he was taken with a hard cold and Tuesday night croup developed, which resulted in his death. Little Otis is survived by his mother and one younger sister. The funeral services will be held from the home this (Friday) afternoon, at two o'clock. Rev. F. M. Field will officiate. The bereaved mother has the deep sympathy of many friends in her sorrow.

New Anti-Dog Law Will Protect Sheep

Requires that License Fee of $2 and $5 must be Paid in Rural Districts

One of the most beneficial measures ever enacted in Michigan for the protection of the sheep industry of the state will become operative on August 1st. This is the law enacted by the last legislature which requires that henceforth owners of dogs in the rural districts must pay an annual license fee of $2 for each male animal and $5 for each female in their possession. The act enlarges the powers of deputies and police, and makes it possible for officers to kill off, without so much as a "by your leave," any unlicensed dogs roaming at large in districts to which the law applies. These districts, it may be added, include all the state with the exception of cities in which charters or ordinances provide otherwise for the disposition of fees derived from the tax upon dogs.

"The dog menace," says W. F. Raven, live stock specialist for the Michigan Agricultural college, "has in the past been probably the biggest single factor in the state holding back the development of the sheep raising industry. It hasn't been so much an under supply of sheep, as an overplus of dogs that has made mutton as scarce as it is. Dr. H. H. Halladay of the state live stock sanitary commission reports that last year between $150,000 and $200,000 worth of sheep were killed by dogs in Michigan.

"But this hasn't been the biggest damage, for when a flock is attacked and one or two animals are dragged down by the dogs, the remaining sheep become so nervous that they neither thrive as well or fatten as quickly as they would under normal conditions. The new law should stop much of this."

As under the old law, the new act provides that men losing sheep as the result of attacks by dogs may collect from the township.

Ruth Law, Flyer at Fair, Says Any Woman Can Do Her Stunts

RUTH LAW.

When Ruth Law, enwrapped in furs, sat in her aeroplane on the frosty November morning which marked the beginning of her flight to fame across the 785 miles of country intervening between Chicago and New York she little realized that her feat would mark an epoch in the history of woman's achievement in this world.

Never once, either in the preparation or the termination of her wonderful accomplishment, did Miss Law betray a weakness of her sex—not even a tremor of the voice revealed that she was the least bit nervous over the trip.

To combat the chill of the higher altitudes Miss Law dressed in a novel cold-defying costume consisting first of a suit of silk, one of chamois, two of wool, a garment of soft leather and finally a heavy fur-lined overcoat. On her head she wore a woolen cap covered with a stout leather helmet; her feet were incased in two pairs of heavy woolen stockings and high laced leather boots, and on her hands were thick woolen mittens. Despite this apparently invulnerable protection from the icy wind on high, the aviatrix complained of the cold when she reached her destination—New York.

A girl who can undergo the rigors of such a trip would naturally be suspected of qualities of endurance and a system of nerves not common to women. Miss Law insists she is possessed of no unusual qualifications, and that anything she has done may be accomplished by any member of her sex.

Fly Over French Front

Following her remarkable cross-country flight, Miss Law went to France where she associated herself with the American aviation corps attached to the French army, and made a number of successful flights over enemy trenches on the western front. She was the first woman to participate in war maneuvers in an aeroplane and her daring, won the warm appreciation and compliments of army officers and aviators long experienced in aerial warfare. She is the only woman in the country authorized to wear the uniform of the United States signal corps and the insignia of the aero corps.

Miss Law's appearance in Detroit during the Michigan State Fair, August 31 to September 9, has created interest in her throughout the state. Her aerial feats will be fully as spectacular as her other notable accomplishments constituting the most remarkable demonstration of courage in the air ever offered for the entertainment of Fair goers.

BOYS WILL JUDGE LIVE STOCK FRUIT CANNING PRIZES TO GIRLS

Boys of Michigan, under 21 years of age, will have an opportunity to exercise their judgment of live stock at the Michigan State Fair to be held at Detroit from August 31 to September 9, by entering the Boys' Judging Contest, a new feature of the Fair this year. Prizes to the amount of $150 are offered to the contestants making the keenest distinctions between the merits of prize stock.

Each contestant will be required to judge five classes—horses, beef and dairy cattle, sheep and swine. All entries must be made by Sept. 6th.

General Manager G. W. Dickson of the Michigan State Fair has established a special class for a Girls' Canning Contest at the 1917 exposition which will be held at Detroit, August 31 to September 9.

Girls who are members of any regular gardening and canning club under the direction of the Michigan Agricultural College will be eligible to enter the contest. Three prizes will be awarded teams doing the best demonstration work, the first prize is $150, the second prize $100, and third prize $50. Entries for the contest should be made before August 29.

McCormick binders sold now are better than ever before. Years of experience in binder building have eliminated impractical features and substituted in their place features that assist in better work, easier handling, and more years of service.

Few binder manufacturers have had these years of practical experience, and it stands to reason that unless they imitate McCormick construction they must be going through experimentally what the builder of the McCormick binders did several years ago. Imitators, while silently commending the original and genuine, are always a few years behind in improvements and refinements.

The Real Adventure

A NOVEL

By Henry Kitchell Webster

For the next half-hour, until the car stopped in front of her house, Rose acted on this request—told about her life before and since her marriage to Rodney, about her friends, her amusements—anything that came into her mind. But she lingered before getting out of the car, to say: "I hope I haven't forgotten a single word of your preaching. You said so many things I want to think about."

"Don't trouble your soul with that, child," said the actress. "All the sermon you need can be boiled down into a sentence, and until you have found it out yourself, you won't believe it."

"Try me," said Rose. "Then attend. How shall I say it? Nothing worth having comes as a gift, nor even can be bought—cheap. Everything of value in your life will cost you dear, and sometimes or other you'll have to pay the price of it."

It was with a very thoughtful, perplexed face that Rose watched the car drive away, and then walked slowly into the house—the ideal house—and allowed herself to be relieved of her wraps by the perfect maid.

There was still an hour before she need begin dressing for the Randolph dinner; when Rodney came home this vague, scary, nightmarish sort of feeling which for no reasonable reason seemed to be clutching at her, would be forgotten. She wished he would come—hoped he wouldn't be late, and finally sat down before the telephone with a half-formed idea of calling him up.

Just as she laid her hand upon the receiver, the telephone bell rang. It was Rodney calling her. "Oh, that you, Rose?" she said. "I shouldn't be out till late tonight. I've got to work."

"But Roddy, dearest," she protested, "you have to come home. You've got the Randolphs' dinner."

"Oh!" he said. "I forgot all about it. But it doesn't make a bit of difference, anyway. I wouldn't leave the office before I have finished this job for anybody short of the Angel Gabriel."

CONDITIONS FOR ROSE'S HAPPINESS ARE JUST TOO PERFECT IN HER NEW HOME AND SOCIAL SET—SO NATURALLY SHE BECOMES DISSATISFIED WITH THE EASY LIFE

SYNOPSIS.

Rose Stanton, student at the University of Chicago, is put off a street car in the rain after an argument with the conductor. She is accosted by a young man who offers help and escorts her home. An hour later this man, Rodney Aldrich, well-to-do lawyer, appears at the home of his sister Frederica (the wealthy Mrs. Whitney), and she, telling him he ought to marry, tries to interest him in a young widow. He laughs at "Freddy," but two months later he marries Rose Stanton. Rose moves from modest circumstances into a magnificent home and begins to associate with the exclusive social circle. She meets a French actress who tells her that nothing worth while is given us—for success, or happiness, or ease, or love, we must pay in some manner. These two are talking when the installment opens.

heaven!" he said. "There's nothing to tell! I've got an argument before the court of appeals tomorrow and there's a ruling decision against me. It is against me, and it's bad law. But that isn't what I want to tell them. I want some way of making a distinction so that I can hold that the decision doesn't rule."

"And it wouldn't help," she ventured, "if you told me all about it? I don't care about the dinner."

"I couldn't explain in a month," he said. "Oh, I wish I were some good!" she said forlornly.

He pulled out his watch again and began pacing up and down the room. "I just can't stand it to see you like that," she broke out again. "If you'll only sit down for five minutes and let me try to get that strained look out of your eyes."

"Can't you take my word for it and let it alone?" he shouted. "I don't need to be comforted nor encouraged. I'm in an intellectual quandary. For the next three hours, or six, or however long it takes, I want my mind to run cold and smooth. I've got to be tight and strained. That's the way the job's done. You can't solve an intellectual problem by having your hand held, or your eyes kissed, or anything like that. Now, for the love of heaven, child, run along and let me forget you ever existed, for a while!"

CHAPTER VII.

A Freudian Physician. Rose's arrival at the dinner—a little late, to be sure, but not scandalously—created a mild sensation. None of the other guests were strangers, either, on whom she could have the effect of novelty. But when she came into the drawing room—in such a wonderful gown—put on tonight because she felt somehow like especially pleasing Rodney—when she came in, she re-organized the social atmosphere.

She was, in fact, a stranger. Her voice had a head on it which roused a perfectly unreasoning physical excitement—the kind of head which, in singing, makes all the difference between a church choir and grand opera. The glow they were accustomed to in her eyes concentrated itself into flashes, and the flush that so often, and so adorably, suffused her face, burned brighter now in her cheeks and left the rest pale.

And these were true indices of the changes that had taken place within her. From sheer naked incredulity, she had reacted to a fine glow of indignation. She had found herself suddenly feeling lighter, older, indescribably more confident. They shouldn't suspect her humiliation or her hurt.

Her husband, James Randolph reflected, had evidently either been making love to her, or indulging in the civilized equivalent of beating her; he was curious to find out which. And, having learned from his wife that Rose was to sit beside him at the table, he made up his mind that he would. A physician of the Freudian school, trained to analyze people's souls, he was well equipped to find out, without Rose's knowledge.

He didn't attempt it, though, during his first talk with her—confined himself rigorously to the carefully sifted chaff which does duty for polite conversation.

"I Came Down . . . to See What Was the Matter With You." versation over the same hors d'oeuvres and entrees, from one dinner to the next, the season round. It wasn't until Eleanor had turned the table the second time, that he made his first gambit in the game. "No need asking you if you like this sort of thing," he said. "I would like to know how you keep it up. It can't be any of it get anywhere. What's the attraction?"

word—thinks we don't know our own game. Do you agree with her?" "I'll tell you that," he said, "after you answer my question. What's the attraction?"

"Don't you think it would be a mistake," said Rose, "for me to try to analyze it? Suppose I did and found there wasn't any."

"Is that what's the matter with Rodney?" he asked. "Is this sort of—a gesture with his head took in the table—'caramel diet beginning to go against his teeth?'"

"He had to work tonight," Rose said. "He was awfully sorry he couldn't come." She smiled just a little ironically as she said it, and exaggerated by a hair's breadth, perhaps, the purely conventional nature of the reply.

"Yes," he observed, "that's what we say. Sometimes it gets us off and sometimes it doesn't."

"Well, it got him off tonight," she said. "He was pretty impressive. He said there was a ruling decision against him and he had to make some sort of distinction so that the decision wouldn't rule. Do you know what that means? I don't."

"Why didn't you ask him?" Randolph wanted to know. "I did, and he said he couldn't explain it, but that it would take a month. So of course there wasn't time."

"I thought," said Randolph, "that he used to talk law to you by the hour." The button wasn't on the foil that time, because the thrust brought blood—a bright flush into her cheeks and a sudden brightness into her eyes that would have induced him to relent if she hadn't followed the thing up of her own accord.

"I wish you'd tell me something," she said. "I expect you know better than anyone else—I could ask. Why is it that husbands and wives can't talk to each other? Imagine what this table would be if the husbands and wives sat side by side!"

The cigarettes came around just then, and he lighted one rather deliberately, at one of the candles, before he answered.

"I am under the impression," he said, "that husbands and wives can talk exactly as well as any other two people. Exactly as well, and no better. The necessary conditions for real conversation are a real interest in what the other says, and a common subject; ability on the part of both to contribute something toward that subject. Well, if a husband and wife can meet those terms, they can talk. But the joker is, as our legislative friend over there would say—'he nodded down the table toward a young millinaire of altruistic principles, who had got elected to the state assembly—'the joker is that a man and a woman who aren't married, and who are moderately attracted to each other, can talk, or seem to talk, without meeting those conditions."

"Seem to talk?" she questioned. "Seem to exchange ideas mutually. They think they do, but they don't. It's pure illusion, that's the answer."

"I'm not clever, really," said Rose, "and I don't know much, and I simply don't understand. Will you explain it in short words?" she smiled—"since we're not married, you know?" He grinned back at her. "All right," he said, "since we're not married, I will. We'll take a hypothetical case. We'll take Darby and Joan. They encounter each other somewhere, and something about them that men have written volumes about and never explained yet, sets up. They arrest each other's attention—get to thinking about each other, are strongly drawn together."

Whereupon he shot a look at her and observed that evidently he wasn't as much of a pioneer as he thought. She did not rise to this cast, however. "All right," she said, "admitting that her ankles are serious and her mind isn't, what is Joan going to do about it?"

"It's easier to say what she's not to do," he decided, after hesitating a moment. "Her fatal mistake will be to despise her ankles without disciplining her mind. If she will take either one of them seriously, or both for that matter—it's possible—she'll do very well."

He could, no doubt, have continued upon the theme indefinitely, but the table turned the other way just then and Rose took up an alleged conversation with the man at her right which lasted until they left the table, and included such topics as indoor golf, woman's suffrage, the new dances, Bernard Shaw, Campanini, and the political parties; with a perfectly appropriate and final comment upon each.

Rose didn't care. She was having a wonderful time—a new kind of wonderful time. No longer gazing, big-eyed like little Cinderella, at a piquant some fairy godmother's whim had admitted her to, but consciously gazed upon; she was the show, tonight, and she knew it. Her low, finely modulated voice, so rich in humor, so varied in color, had tonight an edge upon it that carried it beyond those she was immediately speaking to, and drew looks that found it hard to get away from her.

She Listened With Mingled Feelings to His Argument.

again. For the first time in her life, with full self-consciousness, she was producing effects, thrilling with the exercise of a power as obedient to her will as electricity to the manipulator of a switchboard.

She was like a person driving an airplane, able to move in all three dimensions. Pretty soon, of course, she'd have to come back to earth, where certain monstrously terrifying questions were waiting for her.

CHAPTER VIII.

Rodney Smiled. The next day, Rose took two steps toward making herself her husband's intellectual companion.

From a university catalog she picked out the names of half a dozen elementary textbooks on law, and then went to a bookstore and bought them. She had taken her determination during the endless waking hours of the night: she was going to study law—study it with all her might!

The other step was to go and hear Rodney's argument in court that day. She was successful in slipping into the rear of the courtroom—up on the eighth floor of the Federal building—without attracting her husband's attention; and for two hours and a half she listened, with mingled feelings, to his argument. There was no use pretending that she could follow her husband's reasoning. Listening to it had something the same effect upon her as watching some enormous, complicated, smooth-running mass of machinery. She was conscious of the power of it, though ignorant of what made it go, and of what it was accomplishing.

The three stolid figures behind the high mahogany bench seemed to be following it attentively, though they irritated her bitterly, sometimes, by indulging in whispered conversations. And, presently, he just stopped talking and began stacking up his notes. The oldest judge mumbled something, everybody stood up, and the three stiff, formidable figures filed out by a side door. It was all over.

But nothing had happened! Rose had expected to leave the courtroom in the blissful knowledge of Rodney's victory or the acceptance of his defeat. In her surprise over the failure of this climax to materialize, she almost neglected to make her escape before he discovered her there.

One practical advantage she had gained out of what was, on the whole, a rather unsatisfactory afternoon. When she had gone home and changed into the sort of frock she thought he'd like and come down stairs in answer to his shouted greeting from the lower hall, she didn't say, as otherwise she would have done, "How did it come out today? Did you win?"

In the light of her newly acquired knowledge she could see how a question of that sort would irritate him. Instead of that, she said: "You dear old boy, how dog-tired you must be! How do you think it went? Do you think you impressed them? I bet you did!"

tragic. I might have known I could count on you. Is there anywhere we have got to go? Or can we just stay home?"

He didn't want to flounder through an emotional morass. And the assumption that she couldn't walk beside him on the main path of his life was just and sensible. But it wasn't good enough for Rose.

So the very next morning she stripped the cover off the first of the law-books she had bought, and really went to work. She bit down, angrily, the yawns that blinded her eyes with tears; she made desperate efforts to fog her mind into grappling with the endless succession of meaningless pages spread out before her, to find a germ of meaning somewhere in it that would bring the dead verbiage to life. She was very secretive about it; developed an almost morbid fear that Rodney would discover what she was doing and laugh his big laugh at her. She resisted innumerable questions she wanted to propound to him, from a fear that they'd betray her secret.

She even forbore to ask him about the case; it was "The Case in her mind—the one she knew about."

She discovered in the newspaper, one day, a column summary of court decisions that had been handed down; and though "The Case" wasn't in it, she kept from that day forward, a careful watch, discovered where the legal news was printed, and never overlooked a paragraph. And at last she found it—just the bare statement: "Judgment affirmed." Rodney, she knew, had represented the appellant. He was beaten.

For a moment the thing had bruised her like a blow. And then, all at once, in the indrawing of a single breath, she saw it differently. She saw she couldn't help him out of his intellectual quandaries—yet. But under the discouragement and lassitude of defeat, couldn't she help him? She remembered how many times she had gone to him for help like that, and most notably, during the three or four days of an acute illness of her mother's, when she had been brought face to face with the monstrous, incredible possibility of losing her, how she had clung to him, how his tenderness had soothed and quieted her.

He had never come to her like that. She knew now it was a thing she had unconsciously longed for. And tonight she'd have a chance! There was a mounting excitement in her, as the hours passed—a thrilling suspense.

For two hours that afternoon, she listened for his latches, and when at last she heard it, she stole down the stairs. He didn't shout her name from the hall, as he often did. He didn't hear her coming, and she got a look at his face as he stood at the table absently turning over some mail that lay there. He looked tired, she thought.

Rose tries hard to keep track of her husband's professional labors and to be mentally interesting to him, but she doesn't make much headway. Unusual developments in their relations are pictured in the next installment.

WOMEN NOT MOST GARRULOUS

Writer Calls Attention to Truth Which Is an Indictment of the Sterner Sex.

We men are accustomed to deride the garrulity of women; yet I doubt if any women under the sun could compete in loquacity with a pair or trio or quartet of young men engaged in the exchange of views on metaphysics, literature or art. We two or three or four spent ambrosial nights, Robert M. Gray writes in the Atlantic. There were no problems too knotty, no reaches of hypothesis too vast for us to attempt.

That was a time of life to remember, when the mind was growing like corn in hot weather. It is a pleasant thought that all over the land there are little bands of youths doing as we did. I get wind of one now and then—some boy with all the fire and foibles, some girl with all the sensibility and sentimentalities, by a chance look or word carries me back, as a whiff of lilacs or mignonette can transport us into our childhood.

He is a poor man who never was foolish. It is appalling to think over what he has missed. I am glad that there was a time when I was omniscient; that there was a time when in opinion was attractive because it was radical, and the "miserable little virtue of prudence" was not a part of my moral code. I think it makes me more charitable toward youth.

Whether it does or not, there can be no doubt that the surest corrective and sweetener of life is a vivid memory.

Cured of Borrowing. "Well, I've found a way to stop my neighbors from borrowing," said a young suburban matron gleefully. "You see," she explained, "we are not near any store, and, of course, sometimes one has to depend on a neighbor in an emergency. But my particular neighbor seemed to have such emergencies nearly every day. And it was usually vinegar that she wanted. Now we are particular about our vinegar, and get the best variety, and of course when Mrs. Neighbor asked for vinegar we gave her our best. But when she returned it she sent a very cheap grade, which we were unable to use, and were obliged to throw out."

"This was repeated so often that we began to weary of it, and suddenly a bright idea struck me. I carefully poured her cheap vinegar into a bottle and saved it. Next time she asked me to lend her vinegar I sent her own to her. The cure worked. She has never asked for another drop. And I suppose she thinks I am a mean sort of neighbor. But I don't care."—Ex change.

PLAN MILLION MEN TO FRANCE AT ONCE

FIRST MEN DRAWN, GUARD AND REGULARS WILL MAKE UP FORCE.

NUMBERS SENT LOCAL BOARDS

Each District Board Will Summon Twice As Many Men for Physical Examination As Quota Calls.

Washington—An American army of 1,000,000 men for service abroad at once instead of the 500,000 contemplated for the first draft is forehadowed by the government's request for an additional $5,000,000 made to the senate finance committee.

The first 1,000,000 men are to be made up of the first draft army of 500,000, the National Guard and the regulars. It is improbable that the first draft will be increased, but the government is arranging its finances for other drafts without the necessity of going to congress again for money.

Impressed with the apparent unreliability of the Russian offensive, the president and his military advisers are rapidly swinging around to the original plans of the army general staff for an expeditionary force of more than 1,000,000 men.

Secondary to these general modifications it developed that a comprehensive rearrangement of our armed forces for service on the west front is being worked out.

With the master lists of Friday's conscription drawing in the mail for distribution to the local boards, the task of assembling the national army had passed out of the hands of the federal government and into those of the civilian authorities who will notify the men drawn and pass on exemptions.

As soon as the lists are received, each board will summon for physical examination twice the number of men in the district quota. If more are needed the authorities will keep on calling until the quota is filled.

DRAFT LAW PASSED IN CANADA

House of Commons Gives War Measure Substantial Majority.

Ottawa—The conscription bill passed the house of commons by a majority of 54. It now goes to the senate, where its speedy enactment is assured by the presence of a substantial majority supporting the government. The majority upon the third reading in the commons was nine below that given when the principle of conscription was adopted on second reading.

There was no practical change in the lineup. English speaking conservative members voted solidly for the bill and 22 of the English-speaking liberal supporters of Sir Wilfrid Laurier broke away and voted for the government measure. The remainder of Sir Wilfrid's followers voted with him against conscription.

Before the vote was taken, an appeal for the measure was made by J. G. Turfitt, a liberal member, whose only son was killed in France. He opposed submission of conscription to the people by either referendum or general election because it would be defeated by the votes of slackers who had failed to respond to the call for volunteers.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier said that from the bottom of his heart he wished the resources of Canada would allow the sending of not merely a half-million, but a million men, but it was a question of how many men could be taken from the nation without imperiling the industrial and agricultural industries and the very life of the country.

DETECTIVE SLAIN; ONE WOUNDED

Pool Room Owner Taken to Officer's Bedside Denies Guilt.

Detroit—Detective Sergeant Emanuel Rogers was killed instantly and Detective Sergeant Joseph Kolb seriously wounded in a pistol duel with Italian bandits hiding between houses on East Lafayette avenue, between Rippelle and Orleans streets.

Antonio Lacotta, 32 years old, proprietor of a pool room, who gave his address as Wyandotte; James Rando, a merchant, 23 years old, 846 Monroe avenue, and Jack Bologna, an auto worker, 26 years old, 815 East Lafayette avenue, were arrested by Patrolmen Ort and Cannon near the scene of the murder as they were running away.

The police have sent out a description of "Dick" Capparotta and a man named Russo to all Detroit police and all nearby towns, asking that they be arrested. Lacotta was positively identified by Kolb as one of the men who shot him. Kolb is at receiving hospital.

Port Huron.—Port Huron will have a home guard company and former military officers of the Thirty-third regiment and the national guard will be in charge of the organization.

Lansing—Mobilization of grandmothers to teach girls and young women how to knit for soldiers is proposed by Richard M. Scott, general manager of a motor company here. Mr. Scott said knitting was a lost art among the younger generation. He suggested that certain night be set aside for instructions.

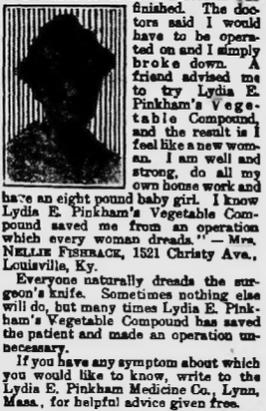

Flint.—Dr. W. H. Winchester, captain of the ambulance company here, told members to take vacations now and prepare for service early in August. He recently returned from Washington.

Kalamazoo.—The vigilance committee has voted to abandon its plans for the protection of the morals of the soldiers at the cantonment near here. Instead the organization will devote all its resources to provide wholesome recreation for the drafted men and will invite them into the community life of Kalamazoo.

Louisville, Ky.—"For four years I suffered from female troubles, headaches, and nervousness. I could not sleep, had no appetite and it hurt me to walk. EFFECT OF INSECTS ON WAR

Relationship is Closer Than Most People Realize, According to U. S. Bureau of Entomology. Entomology, that branch of zoology which treats of insects, has a much closer relation to war problems than most people realize, and the bureau of entomology has asked that pamphlets, circulars, posters, leaflets, etc., pertaining to war phases of the field of science be sent to its office in Washington, so that they can be assembled and classified for future reference, says Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Among the questions that properly come under this head and have a bearing on the war are those pertaining to the attacks of insects on crops, the prevention of mosquitoes, insects in food and water, and so on. While many publications will not possess material of special scientific value, all will at least have a historic interest.

DRAFT EXEMPTION RULES GIVEN OUT

Regulations Show What One Must Be and Do to Escape Service.

MUST MAKE CLAIMS IN PERSON

Seven Days Are Allowed in Which to Present Claims—Industrial Needs and Dependents Chief Basis on Which Draft May Be Avoided.

Washington.—The war department has made public the regulations which must be followed by all registered men. Step by step they are as follows:

1. LOCAL BOARDS.—In every county in the United States and for every city of over 30,000 there are one or more local exemption boards. Each of such boards is in charge of the registration cards of persons registered in the area, over which the board has jurisdiction, and has jurisdiction of all claims for exemption, except those based on industrial grounds. FIND OUT WHAT BOARD HAS YOUR CARD AND WHERE THE OFFICE OF THAT BOARD IS.

2. DISTRICT BOARDS.—In every federal judicial district there are one or more district boards, having appellate jurisdiction over a number of local boards and having original jurisdiction of claims for exemption on industrial grounds. IF YOU INTEND TO MAKE A CLAIM ON INDUSTRIAL GROUNDS, INCLUDING AGRICULTURE, LEARN WHAT DISTRICT BOARD TO APPLY TO.

Meaning of Numbers.

3. RED INK SERIAL NUMBERS.—Every board has numbered the cards in its jurisdiction with red ink in a series running from 1 to the number representing the total number of cards in its jurisdiction. Lists showing the names of persons in the jurisdiction of each board and the red ink number of each are open to inspection at the office of each board. INSPECT THE LIST AND INFORM YOURSELF OF YOUR RED INK SERIAL NUMBER.

4. ORDER OF LIABILITY.—These red ink numbers are to be drawn by lot to determine the order in which registered persons are to be called by the various local boards. As soon as the drawing is complete lists showing the order in which these red ink numbers are drawn will be published in the press, and will be posted at the office of each local board. (GO TO YOUR LOCAL BOARD AND FIND OUT THE ORDER IN WHICH YOU STAND FOR CALL.)

5. As soon as quotas are assigned to each state and each board, each board will call upon persons whose cards are in its jurisdiction instructing them to present themselves for examination. This call will be posted at the office of the local board and the papers will be requested to print it. A notice will also be mailed to you, but the posting of the list at the office of the board will be deemed sufficient notice to charge you with the duty of presenting yourself. The law therefore makes it your duty to inform yourself when you are called.

6. Physical examination—you must report for physical examination on the day named in your call. If you are found physically disqualified the board will give you a certificate which will explain to you what your further duties are.

If you are found physically qualified and file a claim for exemption within seven days after your call you will be given ten days after filing your claim of exemption to file proof in support of your claim of exemption. See (VII) below.

Watch for Your Name.

If you are found physically qualified and file no claim for exemption, or if you do not appear for physical examination, your name will be posted to the district board as one who was called for military service and was not exempted or discharged. On the eighth day after call, or within two days thereafter, copies of the list of persons so posted to the district boards will be given to the press with a request for publication, will be posted in a place at the office of the local board accessible to the public view, and notice will be mailed to you at the address on your registration card.

THEREFORE WATCH THE NOTICES POSTED IN THE OFFICE OF THE BOARD ABOUT TEN DAYS AFTER THE DAY YOU WERE CALLED AND MAKE ARRANGEMENTS FOR THE PROMPT RECEIPT OF MAIL.

7. EXEMPTION OR DISCHARGE.—No claim or discharge on account of the industry in which you are engaged can be decided by a local board. (See Par. XV, below.)

WHETHER YOU FILE A CLAIM OF EXEMPTION OR NOT, YOU MUST PRESENT YOURSELF FOR

PHYSICAL EXAMINATION ON THE DAY NAMED IN THE NOTICE.

From the day notice that you are called is mailed and posted you have seven days in which you may file a claim of exemption or discharge. The form for filing this claim is simple. If you wish to file such a claim—

Go to the board and get Form 110 for exemption or Form 121 for discharge. If the board has not the printed forms ask to consult the form pamphlet and copy the form shown there.

Fill out the proper form and file it with the board. Do this within seven days of the posting and mailing of notice to you to present yourself.

The following are the only grounds for exemption:

That you are an officer, legislative, executive or judicial of the United States, a state or territory, or the District of Columbia.

That you are a regular or duly ordained minister of religion.

That you were on May 14, 1917, a student preparing for the ministry in any recognized theological or divinity school.

That you are in the military or naval service of the United States.

That you are a subject of Germany, whether you have taken out papers or not.

That you are a resident alien who has not taken out that papers.

In addition to claims for exemption claims for discharge may be made on any of the following grounds, which are the only grounds for discharge by a local board:

That you are a county or municipal officer.

That you are a custom-house clerk.

That you are employed by the United States in the transmission of mails.

That you are an artificer or workman employed in an armory, arsenal or navy yard of the United States.

That you are employed in the service of the United States (under certain conditions). See paragraph (e) of section 26, Regulations.

That you are a licensed pilot regularly employed in the pursuit of your vocation.

That you are a mariner actually employed in the sea service of any citizen or merchant within the United States.

That you are a married man with a wife or child dependent on you for support.

That you have aged or infirm parents dependent on you for support.

That you have a widowed mother dependent on your labor for support.

That you are the father of a motherless child or children dependent upon your labor for support.

That you are a brother of an orphan child or children under sixteen dependent on your labor for support.

That you are a member of any well-recognized religious sect or organization organized and existing May 17, 1917, and whose then existing creed or principles forbade its members to participate in war in any form and whose religious convictions are against war or participation therein in accordance with the creed or principles of said religious organization.

These are the only grounds for exemption or discharge by a local board. If you wish to file a claim in your behalf, but must use different forms in filing the claim.

8. Proof of claims.—Your claim of exemption or discharge must be filed within seven days of the day on which notice to you that you are called was posted and mailed. But after you have filed your claim for exemption or discharge you have ten days within which to file proof.

The method of proving claims is very simple, but it is rather exact. If you follow the rules given below you will have done what is required of you.

(a) Go to the local board and consult the regulations to find out the form number of the affidavits that you must submit for your particular claim.

(b) Ask the board for the blank affidavits that are necessary in presenting your proof; if the board has not the forms, ask to consult the pamphlet of forms.

(c) Have the affidavits properly accomplished and return them to the board within the time limit assigned you—ten days from the filing of your claim.

Remember: (a) You must submit your proof in the prescribed form and the board has no authority to exempt or discharge you unless you submit all the affidavits required by regulations.

(b) There will be no argument before the board and no proof other than the prescribed affidavits, unless the board calls for other proof, which it will do in only a limited number of cases.

9. WHEN CLAIMS ARE DECIDED.—Every claim for discharge or exemption will be decided by the local board within three days after your affidavits have been filed.

10. CERTIFICATES OF EXEMPTION OR DISCHARGE.—If your claim is allowed, a certificate of exemption or discharge will be issued to you. Remember: (a) This certificate may be recalled at any time.

(b) If it is temporary or conditional it becomes of no effect when the time or the condition named is fulfilled.

(c) You have been drawn for military service and when the condition that has postponed your posting to the colors ceases you may be recalled at any time.

(d) Remember that your case may still be appealed to the district board by the government, and on this appeal your certificate may be withdrawn at once. When so withdrawn you stand precisely as though you had been selected for military service by the local board.

11. ADVERSE DECISIONS ON CLAIM.—If your claim is disallowed by the local board your name will be certified and sent by the local board to the district board as one who has been called for military service and not exempted or discharged. Within two days thereafter, if practicable, a list of those so certified to the district board will be given to the press with a request for publication, will be posted in the office of the local board accessible to the public view, and notice will be mailed to the address on the registration card.

Therefore, if you have filed a claim for exemption and proof in support thereof watch the notices in the office of the local board, beginning about five days after you have filed your proof, to see what disposition was made of your case and make arrangements for the prompt receipt of mail.

12. HOW TO CLAIM APPEALS TO DISTRICT BOARDS.—Claims of appeal may be made by a person within ten days after the day when notice has been posted and mailed that such person's name has been certified to the district board as one who has been called for service and not exempted or discharged.

Therefore if you desire to appeal— (a) Go to the local board and get or copy form 153 or 154 for filing your claim of appeal.

(b) Get or copy also form 151 or 152 for notifying the district board of appeal.

(c) File your claim of appeal (153 or 154) with the local board.

(d) Send your notice of appeal (form 151 or 152) to the district board.

(e) Do this within ten days from the day when notice that your name was certified to the district board was posted and mailed.

Remember: (a) You can only appeal the final order of the board exempting or discharging or refusing to exempt or discharge you. You cannot appeal other orders or actions of the local board.

13. PROVING YOUR APPEAL.—You have five days after the district board receives your notice that you have filed a claim of appeal in which to file evidence additional to that filed by you in the local board, but all such evidence must consist of affidavits.

Reception of Decisions.

14. DECISIONS ON APPEAL.—The decision on your appeal must be made within five days of the closing of proof, and you will be notified by mail of the action of the board on your appeal.

15. CLAIMS FOR DISCHARGE ON INDUSTRIAL GROUNDS.—Only the district board can receive claims for discharge on the ground that they are engaged in industry, including agriculture, found to be necessary to the maintenance of the military establishment, the effective operation of the military forces, or the maintenance of national interest during the emergency.

If you desire to file such a claim: (a) Get a copy at the local or district board of form 161 or 161a.

(b) Fill the form out properly.

(c) File it with the district board within five days after the mailing and posting of notice that your name has been certified from the local board to the district board. See section 44, regulations.

16. PROOF IN SUPPORT OF INDUSTRIAL CLAIM.—Only affidavits can be used in filing proof before the industrial board of a claim for exemption on industrial grounds. All such affidavits must be filed within five days after the filing of the claim.

17. DECISIONS ON INDUSTRIAL CLAIM.—Within five days after the closing of proof in any industrial claim the district board must decide the claim.

If the decision of the district board is in favor of the claim the board will issue a certificate of discharge. If the decision is against the claim the district board will so notify you.

18. APPEALS TO THE PRESIDENT.—Only decisions of district boards on industrial claims for discharge can be appealed.

If you desire to appeal the decision of the district boards to the president, you may do so within seven days of the date of mailing to you of the decision of the district board. To perfect your appeal: (a) Get or copy from the district or local board Form 163.

(b) Fill out the form and file it with the district board.

(c) Do this within seven days after the mailing of notice to you of the decision of the district board in your case.

19. HOW YOU WILL BE NOTIFIED.—As soon as your case is finally disposed of, the adjutant general of your state will notify you by mail that you have been selected for military service.

Your local boards will post a list of all persons selected for military service in a place at the office of the local boards accessible to public view.

Notice that you have been selected for military service will not necessarily order you into service.

The notice is to report for military service will come when the government is ready to receive you.

HUGE GATHERING OF STATE FARMERS

WILL ATTEND MICHIGAN'S "WHEAT DAY" ON AUGUST 1st AT M. A. C. COLLEGE.

PROMINENT SPEAKERS CHOSEN

Forty Million Bushels of Wheat in 1918 is Goal Set for Michigan Farmers.

Lansing. The raising of a crop of forty million bushels of wheat in 1918 is the goal towards which Michigan growers will strive during the coming 12 months, and on August 1 they will set themselves for the start. The 1st, the date when the word "go" will be given, has been named as "Wheat Day" in Michigan, and in observance of it a congress of growers will be held at the Michigan Agricultural college. From this gathering is expected to come plans for 1918 and the assurance that there will be no halting or dallying in the production drive.

Leading farmers in Michigan, Robert A. Shaw, dean of agriculture at M. A. C.; Prof. G. E. Williams, noted agronomist of the Ohio experiment station; and former governor, Fred M. Warner, will be among the prominent speakers. I. R. Waterbury of the state board of agriculture, will act as chairman. There is a possibility also that Commissioner Herbert C. Hoover, in control of the country's food preparedness campaign, will be present. He has been invited to attend and has wired back that unless he should be completely swamped with work on August 1st, he will come.

The guests of the day will be every Michigan farmer who can possibly attend. An appeal is made to all of them to be present. At the same time, county agents are urged to organize automobile caravans from their counties, particularly in central Michigan.

The announcement of the gathering, in detail, reads as follows: "In order to bring to bear all forces which might tend to increase Michigan's wheat crop for the coming season, it is planned to hold a congress of wheat growers, and all persons interested in the wheat crop, at the Michigan Agricultural college, on August 1.

Farmers, county agents, grain dealers, millers, bankers, and all others interested will be represented. As many others as can attend are urged to be present, and it is hoped that a great number of farmers of the state will gather at the college on this occasion.

"Forty million bushels for 1918" is the goal set. This figure is not unreasonable. In view of the fact that almost three times last year's acreage was planted to wheat in 1899. Under present conditions wheat is again a profitable crop and should be more widely grown. The need for a big crop for next year is apparent to all.

It is planned to spend the morning of August 1st in field trips over the Experiment Station experimental plots, which now offer a splendid opportunity to study the effect of various cultural and fertilizer treatments on wheat, and to note the superiority of pedigreed strains over ordinary varieties. These trips will be in charge of men familiar with the experiments.

An afternoon program will be held, for which we hope to secure such speakers as Professor Williams, noted agronomist of the Ohio experiment station and a representative from the department of food administration under Mr. Hoover. A series of 'four-minute' talks has been arranged. Representative wheat growers, millers, grain dealers, bankers, and others will speak. The question of how to increase Michigan's wheat crop will be approached from all possible angles. Each speaker is limited to four minutes so that the program will be widely representative. I. R. Waterbury of the state board of agriculture, and editor of the Michigan Farmer, will preside as chairman of the day's program.

Among other speakers will be the following: R. S. Shaw, dean of agriculture; A. B. Cook, Owasco; S. E. Weage, secretary State Billers' Ass'n, Coldwater; Judge F. H. Williams, Allegan; former governor, F. M. Warner; County Agent Blanford, Fremont; J. N. McBride, state market director, and F. S. Kédzie, president of M. A. C.

A college dairy lunch will be served on the college campus at noon.

Conestabulary Increased.

The Michigan war preparedness board will take several important steps at a meeting among which will be voting to arm and equip units of state troops, known as "home guards," and to increase the mounted troop of state constabulary at East Lansing from 50 to 200 men.

Shortage of Copper Sulphate.

Letters which have come to Michigan Agricultural college from druggists have brought word that general preparation is under way to remedy the shortage of copper sulphate disclosed two weeks ago by inquiries made throughout the state.

The druggists have been notifying the college that they are getting in enough of the chemical to insure farmers an adequate supply for the making of Bordeaux mixture, necessary to protect potatoes against blight.

Women Take Part in War Work.

By action of the war preparedness board an auxiliary committee of five women was created and an appropriation of $50,000 will be set aside to carry out the work recommended by the women. While the personnel of the board is not known, it is believed that among its members will be Caroline Haskett Grana, of Kalamazoo; Deann White, of the Michigan Agricultural college, and Mrs. Frances E. Barpe, of St. Louis.

HAD NO HOPE OF RETURNING ALIVE

Mrs. Cason Left Home for Atlanta Propped Up on Pillows—Was Only a Shadow.

ONLY WEIGHED 60 POUNDS

After Taking Tanlac Has Gained Thirty-five Pounds and Expects to Return to Home and Husband Well and Happy.

"About six weeks ago I left my home on our farm near Acworth, Ga., to come to my sister's home here in Atlanta, and I left with only a shadow of hope of ever returning alive.

"I left Acworth in a comfortable automobile, propped up on pillows, coming through the country. I had almost as much medicine as baggage—a big box full of all kinds that had been prescribed for me. I reached here very weak and with scarcely enough strength to walk to the door. This trouble from which I had suffered so long and which I was told was pellagra, had reduced me to almost a shadow, as I only weighed sixty pounds.

"My brother-in-law, Mr. Battle, said, 'Well, you have tried everything else with no relief, now I want you to lay aside your "drug shop" and take Tanlac.' Well, he got it for me and I started on my first bottle that day.

"When I had taken about half the first bottle I began to feel stronger and encouraged. I continued to take it and it is nothing short of marvelous how I improved day by day. My appetite returned and my food seemed to nourish me and agree with me. My skin and complexion began clearing and I improved in every way possible until I am now a well woman, and when I say well I mean absolutely what I say. I want to tell the whole world that I thank God for Tanlac.

"I weigh ninety-five pounds now and feel as well as I ever felt in my life. I am going back to my husband and home on the little farm, five miles from Acworth, tomorrow, and I tell everybody about what Tanlac has done for me."

The above remarkable statement was made recently by Mrs. O. C. Cason of Acworth, Ga., while at the home of her sister, Mrs. J. B. Battle, English Ave., Atlanta, Ga. There is a Tanlac dealer in your town.—Adv.

Ready to Give Instructions. Louise is proud of a recently acquired accomplishment of learning to turn somersaults. One day an unmarried schoolteacher passed the yard where Louise was playing. "Have you a little girl?" inquired Louise. "Yes," replied the teacher in jest. "Well, then," said Louise, "some day I am coming out and show her how to turn somersaults."

For Darkened Lenses. Suggestions for making ourselves visible "when the lights are low" are becoming rather alarming. We are advised, observes the London Chronicle, to wear "light clothes for dark streets." One humorist goes so far as to suggest a "coat of whitewash" for evening wear. White hats or gaiters would call for less expenditure than an extra light night suit which most of us would be obliged to add to our wardrobe. But perhaps the simplest device would be a white smock, with special musical box attachments; for one night wanderer says he makes a practice of singing as he walks to let other folks know he is coming.

Success is frequently the result of your ability to persuade others to accept of you at your own valuation.

No, Eleanor, the little dears are not seen at stag parties.

Golf Lingo Made Clear.

Henry's father was a golf enthusiast; therefore Henry knew all about the game. One time he asked: "Henry, why is it that men who play golf always yell 'fore' instead of 'look out' or some such thing?"

Henry thought for a second time before an inspiration came from looking at his young sister, who was diligently getting her arithmetic.

"You see," he replied, "it takes too long to yell 'too-too,' and that sounds so much like 'two-two' that they just add them together and yell 'for.'"

Humor From British Tar.

An incident illustrative of the quiet humor of the British tar is thus described:

In Modros harbor, in the eastern Mediterranean, a coxswain of the navy ran his picket boat into a trawler, and, knowing his error, listened with disciplinary patience while the frate master expressed his views on royal naval picket boats to a wealth of invective. The silent coxswain pushed off, but, passing under the stern of the trawler, looked up at one of the crew and shouted:

"What do you feed your old man on? Acid drops?"—London Tit-Bits.

Bound to Be Heard.

"Why this sudden fondness for music?"

"Well," replied Senator Sorghum, "in order to stay in the business a statesman must be heard. My people don't pay attention to my serious remarks, and they don't laugh at my funny stories. I guess it's up to me to take singing lessons."

Don't put on too many airs as you float down life's stream; your little boat may capsize.

Building Records Broken.

All records for quick building work are said to have been broken in running up the new training cantonment at the Presidio, near San Francisco. San Francisco lumber firms got together and delivered two and a half million feet of lumber two and a half million carpenters and helpers built 210 buildings in 18 days. When top speed was reached midway on the job a new building was finished every 30 minutes. The buildings are permanent, modern, sanitary and adequate.

The hermit and olive-backed thrushes have spotted breasts, are larger than an English sparrow, with rather long bills. The former is distinctly rufous on the back.

Five years ago the pupils in the Kwangji Girls' Industrial school, Korea, never had seen a crochet needle, yet they have acquired such proficiency in crocheting that they have earned about $400 for the self-help department of the school.

A new fire escape resembles a gigantic tape measure, as it consists of a steel ribbon that unrolls from within a circular casing as a person descends seated in a sling at its end.

For aviators a Frenchman has invented an apparatus that shows the speed of an airplane, the wind velocity, the angle at which a flier is facing it, and whether he is rising or falling.

In the sepulchers at Thebes, Egypt, butchers are represented as sharpening their knives on a round bar of metal attached to their aprons, which from its blue color is supposed to be iron.

Proverbial Wisdom.

All countries have sayings dealing with marriage, mostly taking rather a cynical view. The Italians seem to take a fatalistic attitude, for they say: "In buying horses and in taking a wife, shut your eyes and commend yourself to God." A wholesome piece of advice is contained in the Hindu saying: "Women are wise offhand and fools on reflection—so take your wife's first advice and not her second." The Irish saying is very comforting: "A man's best fortune is his wife."

EAST PLYMOUTH
A complete surprise party was given on Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Laffin at their home on the Schoolcraft road, Thursday of last week, the occasion being their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary. Relatives of the couple took them for an auto ride to Wayne earlier in the evening and during their absence, friends and neighbors, numbering a goodly number, gathered at home and illuminated the lawn with gasoline torches. On their return the couple were greeted with loud honks from the various auto horns parked on the lawn, and were escorted into the house to greet the guests. The evening passed pleasantly in visiting and getting acquainted with many of the neighbors who had not met their hosts before. Later ice cream and cake were served on the porch and lawn, and Mrs. Laffin gave a well rendered humorous recitation. Mrs.
August Miller, on behalf of the assembled guests, then presented the host and hostess with several nice gifts of silverware, which consisted of a cruet, set of teaspoons and a silver tray, on which was a sum of money to have the latter engraved as a remembrance of the evening.
Mrs. Laffin returned a speech of thanks for the gifts, and also for the kindness of the many friends gathered there and said how greatly they appreciated the very pleasant surprise given them. Many thanks were due Mrs. A. Miller, Mrs. W. Eckles

Boys in State Fair School Are Drilled After Army Standards

Martial spirit is very much in evidence at the annual Boys' State Fair School and it is largely through the army discipline maintained at all times that the Boys' camp has proved so successful during the many years it has been conducted on the Fair Grounds. The encampment will be held this year during the Michigan State Fair from August 31 to September 9.
Besides a form of recreation and entertainment, the school provides a liberal fund of knowledge of farm products and live stock through the demonstrations and lectures which are especially arranged for the benefit of the boys in attendance.

Time to Wake Up

Editor of Plymouth Mail,
Plymouth, Mich.
Dear Sir:
It seems to me that it is high time the people of Plymouth and of this whole country should wake up to the fact that the United States was at war, time that they should all realize that it is the solemn duty of each and every one of us to do that which we can to help our boys to win this war.
Many of us that are too old to join the fighting ranks of the army can do much to help those boys that are offering their lives for us, to win success, and now is the time that we should begin.
Do you ask how we should help?
As I was sitting on my lawn yesterday (Sunday) and saw the automobiles going by, it was brought to my mind that if this section was any criticism to go by, there was surely at least 5000 automobiles on that day that were out just for pleasure, for surely there were not one in one hundred of those cars that was upon business on Sunday. Have you stopped to think that the gasoline used yesterday would have taken hundreds of our boys to the front, or that it would have brought hundreds of them back from the front to the hospitals where their precious lives might be saved?
Is it asking to much of us that can do nothing else, to stay at home from our pleasure trips and save this most necessary commodity for the use of our army in the field. There are so many things that we old parties could and should do that it seems that some one should bring it to the attention of the people. Many of us have thought of these things, but few of us have done anything that will count in the great end; it is surely time that we woke up from this seeming security and at least tried to do something that will count in the end.
I believe that our councilmen here in town and elsewhere should think something about what they could do as our representatives. Have they thought that it is up to the United States to feed the most of the allied armies during the war, and yet they (in Plymouth) insist that a drain should be completed up Adams street.
How many people will be benefited by this drain? (Not a dwelling there.)
Would it not be a great deal better if they would say hold up that work for a period of sixty days and put those men to work saving the harvest, that is vital to the success of our armies in the field.
This would also apply to our county road commissioners. They have probably 500 or 600 men employed, and the farmers are unable to save the harvest. We all want good roads, but there are some things at this time that are more vital to us than cement roads—that is to save crops that are ready to harvest.
Let those men go for a short time and help with the harvest. They can and we accomplish more work later in the season on the drains and up the streets if they are seasoned men and worth twice those out of the shops) when the ground is dried out and they will not be hampered with so much water, and our country needs all the crops at this time.
How many will stop their riding for pleasure alone; do all they can to save those things that are necessary for the maintenance of our boys in the field. It may not be your boy, but it is someone's boy, and that boy is as dear to that someone as he would be to you were he your own. It is someone's sweetheart, someone's brother, and possibly someone's father, someone that is now too young to realize the seriousness of this, but I know from sad experience (my father died in a southern prison) that they will realize it later, when that father fails to come back to take care of them.
This draft is waking up some, but it is not enough, there are too many that are too much unconcerned in the draft. They know they will not have to go; they have no one that is near and dear to them that will have to go, but those that do have to go are going that you may continue to live in the greatest and best country on earth.
Cannot we do a little something? You can save a little here and there; you can give up all your pleasure trips; you will not be the worse for it and it will all count for a great deal in the end.
Let us all try together to make our great country the greatest United States, the winning factor in this greatest, most horrible war, the world has ever known. We cannot and must not be beaten, but to win we must all do our bit.

OSBORNE BINDERS

The New Osborne binder is a machine that has an enviable record of many years of satisfactory service. The New Osborne is a durable machine, strong of frame, easy of operation, readily accessible for adjustments or oiling, easy to mount on transport trucks, and light of draft. The New Osborne binder successfully picks up, cuts and binds the down and badly tangled grain that is entirely beyond the range of the ordinary binder. It is a light draft machine because all of the principal parts are equipped with roller bearings, because the great strength and rigidity of the main frame holds the parts in perfect alignment during the lifetime of the machine, and because of the many adjustment which enable the operator to always keep the machine in perfect working condition. For example, consider the eccentric at the base of the reel arm by which the reel can be kept always parallel with the edge of the platform.

Every Dollar Expended For Lumber Is Well Invested

The buildings you construct with the lumber you buy, mean not only economy in the conservation of crops, machinery and stock, but add to equipment and value of the farm.

Lumber purchased for repairs, is an especially wise purchase, as its use prevents the buildings from deteriorating in value and usefulness.
