BROWN-ECKLES

A pretty home wedding took place Wednesday evening at six o'clock at the farm home of Albert M. Eckles, east of Plymouth, when his daughter, Myrtle, was united in marriage to Harry E. Brown, Rev. F. M. Field performing the ceremony in the presence of only the immediate families of the contracting parties. The bridal couple were unattended. Immediately following the ceremony a four-course dinner was served, the dining room and tables being prettily decorated in pink and white.

The bride is one of Plymouth's most popular young ladies, being a graduate from the Plymouth High school with the class of '09. The groom is one of Plymouth's well known and promising young-business men. The young couple were the recipients of many beautiful and useful gifts. After a short wedding trip, they will be at home after May 10th, at the residence of the bride's father. They have the best wishes of a host of friends.

BIG CROWD HEARS MILLARD BAND

Not since the famous opening of the new theatre has there been such a crowd at the Penman Allen theatre, as that of Wednesday evening, for the benefit entertainment given for the Millard band. When the curtain went up there was not a vacant seat, and many were standing. The band rendered a splendid program of classical and popular medley selections that were thoroughly enjoyed by the large audience. The pictures which followed were excellent, and Millard's nine-piece orchestra furnished splendid music. The band will realize a goodly sum from the proceeds of the entertainment for their treasury.

A SERIOUS ACCIDENT

Will Brogan, who resides on what is known as the Faismann farm, west of town, met with a serious accident Tuesday afternoon, while assisting his wife with the family washing. They were using a motor for the washing machine, which was run by a gasoline engine, and in some unaccountable manner Mr. Brogan caught his trouser leg in the belt, causing a compound fracture of the right ankle. Schrader's ambulance was called and the afflicted man was immediately taken to the House of Providence hospital, Detroit, where medical aid was given him. It is now thought that his foot can be saved.

DEATH FROM AUTO ACCIDENT

Clarence P. Eckles of Northville, who was very seriously hurt a short time ago, when his car collided with the big portable building house at a recent building outfit on the cement road, died from his injuries last week Saturday afternoon. Mr. Eckles was a brother of W. A. M. and A. J. Eckles of Plymouth, and had many friends here who will regret to learn of his untimely death. The funeral was held Saturday afternoon from his home in Northville. Interment in Riverside cemetery, Plymouth. He is survived by his widow.

VICTORY LIBERTY LOAN

Plymouth is still the leader in the Victory Liberty Loan campaign. Only about 1000 more bonds are needed to reach the goal of $1,000,000.

At a meeting held at the Plymouth High school, the following list of names was given:

WILL CELEBRATE THE FOURTH

PLYMOUTH WILL HAVE A BIG FOURTH OF JULY CELEBRATION AND HOME COMING UNDER THE AUSPICES OF PLYMOUTH FIRE DEPARTMENT.

Plymouth will celebrate the grand and glorious Fourth this year, with a regular old-time celebration and homecoming. The big doin's will be under the auspices of the Plymouth Fire Department, and that in itself is a guarantee that it will be a grand success. The fire department have pulled off a number of successful celebrations in the past, and it is expected that the coming event will far eclipse anything they have ever before attempted.

It is too early yet to say just what the program will be, but it is a cinch there will be something doing every minute. One of the features of the celebration will be a high school picnic with all the soldier boys of the world war veterans of the Civil and Spanish-American wars, and other patriotic organizations will have a prominent part. It is expected that the home coming feature of the celebration will bring back to Plymouth many of its former residents, who will welcome this opportunity to again visit the old town and renew acquaintances of years gone by. It is going to be a gala occasion, in which every citizen should have an interest, and give his help to make it the success it deserves to be.

There is much to be done to make it the "whooper" of a day that it's going to be, and the boys are not starting the ball a rolling a minute too soon. Tell your friends and relatives when you write them your next letter what's going to be doing, and invite them to come to Plymouth July 4th. More details will be given in the Mail later.

NEXT SUNDAY WILL BE "MOTHERS' DAY"

EVENT NEVER MORE SIGNIFICANT WITH SOLDIERS BACK.

Next Sunday the high and the low, the rich and the poor will join in paying homage to mothers. It has been the custom since the first Mothers' day, 11 years ago, for daughters and sons to wear a white carnation for the mother who has passed beyond, and a colored flower for the mother who is living.

This year Mothers' day will mean more than ever before. The thousands of boys who have been overseas and have returned safely will have greater appreciation of mothers' love and care than being away from home, many for the first time. They have had opportunity to view mother from a distance and will appreciate now more than ever the many things mother does for them.

It is expected that pastors, as in the past, will send their congregations of mothers to mothers, though this year it will hardly be necessary, as that a hold has the significance of the day taken upon Americans.

OFFICERS ELECTED FOR ASSOCIATION

Superintendents and representatives of the four schools forming the athletic league announced last week, met at the High School, Monday evening of this week, when they were guests of the domestic science department of the High school. A six o'clock dinner was served by the domestic science students under the direction of Miss Budd, teacher of this department. The dinner was excellently prepared and served, and Miss Budd deserves much credit for this part of the entertainment features presented the guests.

Following the dinner the regular business of the association was taken up. Representatives of Dearborn, Northville, Plymouth and Wayne High schools, selected the title of Four-Square League for the association, and elected the following officers: President, Supt. LaRue of Wayne; vice president, Supt. Bowen of Northville; secretary-treasurer, Donald Walker, Plymouth. Plans for the first annual field meet were completed, the event to be held at Northville, Friday, June 15. A complete list of athletic events has been named for this meet with suitable trophies for the winners of each event—Wayne Weekly.

Miss Czarina Penney, assisted by Guy Bevier Williams will give a piano recital in the High School auditorium, Tuesday evening, May 20.

John Grove, who has been overseas with the 139th Infantry for the past nine months, has been honorably discharged and has returned home.

BUILD NOW!

Set your money to work on building a home of your own. This is the period of readjustment, and idle dollars are as detrimental to the national welfare as idle men.

Building is a basic industry. To build a home, aside from the obvious benefits to the home owner, is to make an important and direct contribution to the national readjustment and reconstruction.

First, the country needs thousands of homes. After that the home builder creates a demand for stone, brick, lumber, hardware, concrete, paint, etc., etc.; money circulates—only blood that circulates makes for health.

Building absorbs labor. That is of prime importance right now when thousands of soldiers are being released from the army, and industry is in transition from the war to peace gear.

Your money, invested in building a home, works for your permanent prosperity and welfare and at the same time renders a not less tangible service to your country.

TIME TO FIX UP.

Let's do this spring what we should have done and would have done had we not become engaged in war. Let's use the paint bucket and the white-wash brush freely.

Now that Kellogg Park has had its annual clean-up, we may look for further improvements.

MAY FESTIVAL AT ANN ARBOR

MAY 14, 15, 16 AND 17, RARE TREAT FOR MUSIC LOVERS.

Ann Arbor's May festival, which this year will take place in Hill auditorium May 14, 15, 16 and 17, will assemble a group of musical celebrities such as has seldom before been brought together at one time outside of the great operatic centers of this country.

Of particular significance will be the Ann Arbor debut of Rosa Ponselle, the sensational dramatic soprano, whose career at the Metropolitan opera house this year, has been so spectacular.

Other artists new to Ann Arbor are: Anna Fitzer, prima donna soprano of the Chicago Opera company; Merle Aleock and Minerva Komenarski, contraltos; the operatic star, Carpi, and Arthur Hackett, both tenors; deSecuro, bass of the Metropolitan opera; and Charles M. Corbin, the distinguished Belgian organist.

Among the other old favorites will be found Louise Homer, the distinguished "mother musician" deGogorza, the eminent Spanish baritone; Gustaf Holmquist, bass; Lois M. Johnston, the celebrated young Detroit soprano; Robert Dieterle, favorite baritone of Ann Arbor, and Ossip Gabrilowitch, pianist.

Mr. Gabrilowitch, who is at the head of the Detroit Symphony orchestra, and to whose wonderful musicianship the splendid progress of that organization is largely due, will be the principal attraction at one of the concerts when he will appear in the role of pianist under the baton of his fellow conductor, Frederick Stock.

Assisted by the University Choral union, under Dr. Stanley, and the Chicago Symphony orchestra, these musical celebrities will provide a series of brilliant programs sparkling with beautiful melody into which a spirit of patriotism and thanksgiving will be injected, the whole event representing a people's thanksgiving for the blessings of peace which have come, and a tribute to the gallant services of America's noble sons who have served, fought and died that democracy might live on.

Notice of Clean-Up Day, Thursday, May 15

All residents of the Village of Plymouth, are strongly urged to collect all rubbish about their premises and place same at street line during morning of the above date.

SOME GREAT PICTURES COMING

THE MOST FAMOUS STATUES IN ALL THE ORIENT, THE BRONZE BUDDHA OF KAMAJURA.

No more impressive or famous monument to an ancient civilization exists in all the Orient than the celebrated Dai Butsu, the gigantic bronze image of the Gautama Buddha, which stands at Kamajura, a motion picture tour of old Japan, which is a feature of the newest Lyman H. Howe Travel Festival, coming to Penniman Allen Theatre on Monday, May 19th, includes a remarkable picture of the Dai Butsu.

In all its history Japan had more than sixty capitals, of which Kamajura was one. But the city, which once numbered a million souls, has long since passed into oblivion. The Dai Butsu alone remains, now surrounded by trees where once were busy streets.

The Dai Butsu is over fifty feet in height, its face from ear to ear is seventeen feet, a single eye is four feet across, and within the image is a chamber so big that a hundred men might kneel in prayer.

This first film presentation of the Dai Butsu is one of the vivid features of Mr. Howe's screen tour of Japan. Other important parts of the newest Travel Festival program are: A thrilling visit to the South Sea Islands, showing the methods of capturing sea-elephants, sharks and swordfish; a fascinating canoe trip through the wilds of Canada, where a 24-pound salmon is an easy catch; spectacular scenes of Italian ski warriors in the Alps; looping the loop in a warplane over the national capital at Washington; a picturesque steamer trip down the famous Oklawaha river in the Florida glades; striking glimpses of monster caterpillars in action, including the moving of a house; a tour of Yellowstone National Park, with its falls, canyons and geysers; and "Who's Who in the United States Army," a novel animated explanation of military insignia. The usual Howe comedy cartoons round out the splendid bill.

About Rheumatism

Rheumatism causes more pain and suffering than any other disease, for the reason that it is the most common of all ills, and it is certainly gratifying to sufferers to know that there is a remedy that will afford relief, and make rest and sleep possible. It is called Chamberlain's Liniment.—Adv.

ALTON RICHWINE TELLS OF HIS EXPERIENCE ON ONE OF UNCLE SAM'S BIG TRANS-PORTS.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Richwine have received the following most interesting letter from their son, Alton J. Richwine, chief yeoman on the U. S. transport, Julia Luckenbach, who is now making his second trip across the big pond:

Bordeaux, France, March 22, 1919. Dear Folks: We are anchored in the North river near Bordeaux waiting for the tide to change so we can proceed up to the city. It is 9:00 p. m. here and 2:00 p. m. in Plymouth, and an hour's sleep away from home that I have been for some time. I wouldn't take a cold million for this trip, and I wouldn't give a cent for another one. Ocean voyages are like kids in this respect.

We shoved off from Brooklyn at 1:00 p. m. March 13th, and sighted land this morning for the first time in 11 days. We had fine weather for the first three days out and then we hit some rough times. The ship rolled as high as 45 degrees. In that position you could walk on the walls of your house on sooty as you could on the floor, or in other words the wall and the floor form a perfect "V," and she rolls from one side to the other. Imagine trying to drink coffee or typewrite in that position.

My bunk runs thwart ships so I was standing on my head half the time during these rough nights. It was hard to get to sleep, but it didn't wake me up once I had dozed off.

Because it was my first trip across, they arranged a little excitement for me. A British freighter caught fire, and sent out her "SOS," which we picked up. We changed our course and dashed madly to the rescue. If you want some real excitement you want to see a crew of exhausted seamen lowering a life boat over the side of a red hot vessel, which is rolling and pitching in a heavy sea.

When they got near the water a big mountain of salt water would pick them up and dash them against the side of the ship. It takes a real sailor to lower a life boat in a heavy sea. If you don't believe it, ask A. N. Brown. They finally got off and rowed against that heavy sea for about two hours, when they came alongside and then the excitement began getting them aboard. Old Julia L. was rocking something awful, and after a couple of hours near falling overboard, we landed them safely aboard. They had some wicker tables to tell. The ship had been afloat three days, and all hands had worked night and day keeping the flames down. They were exhausted and near starvation. Their poor captain was broken-hearted. The whole ship with 6000 tons of sugar, bound for Liverpool, and one poor little dog was left to the mercy of the sea and the fire. The whole crew was anxious to get back and get another ship and get back to sea. The sea is treacherous, and a sailor man loves to match his wits against its treachery. I love the sea, but I hate the life a sea-going man has to lead. They all do. Right now the hate of the life predominates, but after a few years unless they vomit in their shoes, for there is no room on deck for so many. When the rough weather started about half the crew were seasick, but, thanks to the blood of Captain Rose, it never affected me in the least. When the ship was rolling so much even the men who had been going to sea for fifteen or twenty years could not stand it, but I kept on typewriting until the typewriter slid off the desk. At times I would be sitting at the desk and when the ship rolled I would slide across the floor to my berth, and when the ship rolled the other way I have seen the cooks have a meal all cooked, and when the ship would give a lurch, everything would be dumped all over the deck.

We have a K. of C. secretary and a Protestant army chaplain aboard. The K. of C. man has a moving picture machine and a whole stack of films. We were having movies every night until last Tuesday night, when the heroine of the play wore a stolen jewel in her garter, which was displayed at frequent intervals. This was too much for the modesty of the preacher, and he told the captain that the pictures were not good for the morals of the crew. The skipper issued an order that no more movies would be shown. If that chaplain could follow this crew when they go ashore in France, he would think himself in heaven to get back the "movies" again. That's the trouble with some preachers. They spend so much time at W. C. T. U. meetings that they don't know the first thing about human nature or the world in general.

I just learned that the tide would be high enough for us to get under way at 8:30 in the morning. We will get ashore by noon, and I will get my first glimpse of home.

I hope there is a message from home, and I will write again before we leave. We started for home, but they changed our course by wireless. The hotel was full, and getting out after dark all the soldiers and sailors. The transportation will be among the last to get their men go.

With love, ALTON J. RICHWINE.

The MAN of MIGHT

EPISODE NO. 2.
WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

During the night of Mexico is a treasure, the only key to whose location is a flag, years before divided among six men who vainly sought the treasure. Dick Van Brunt and Polly, his bride, start after the missing pieces of flag. Scarface, a desperado, holds the piece of flag and also the key to the treasure. He kills Polly's father for the flag, which Polly hides. He seizes Polly, threatening to kill her.

Gripping the terrified Polly by the shoulders and thrusting her against the wall, Scarface shouted: "For the last time—will you give me that flag or will I have to take it from you?"

Polly had reached her limit of defiance and her only answer was to drop senseless at the feet of the outlaw, who laid his gun aside and started to tear the flag from her waist.

Dick had been only stunned by the ruffian's bullet and, recovering, he crawled up behind Scarface and, grasping him by the legs, yanked him to the floor. A fierce struggle followed, in which Dick was being worsted when the sheriff burst into the room and the outlaw was quickly manacled.

Polly was soon revived and with the doctor and Dick carried Ransome to the room from which a moment later Dick came and advancing threateningly toward the sullen Scarface, said to the sheriff: "I charge that man with the attempted murder of Capt. Ben Ransome."

Scarface, still defiant, started to reply, but was interrupted by a cry from the bedroom and a moment later the doctor came out and said solemnly: "Might as well make that murderer, sheriff; Captain Ransome is about—"

The three turned, as Dick, tenderly supporting Polly, came out, and they knew she had just seen her father pass away. The sheriff then turned to his prisoner and in searching him brought forth the piece of flag. Scarface started to seize it, but Dick interposed and the sheriff gave it to Dick, then turned to the doctor: "I'll take him to jail. May I use your car?"

Scowling, sullen as a bear, Scarface was bundled into the car and the sheriff took his seat at the wheel. Pressing his foot lightly upon the accelerator the sheriff turned to his manacled charge.

"Tell me all about it as we go along," he said.

"The outlaw gave him a black look. 'I'll tell you nothing, Mister Sheriff, except this. You have me in your power now, but it will not be for long. I'll turn the tables upon you yet.' Safely handcuffed as the other was the officer, thinking the other was merely boasting, gave a light laugh.

"All right, my man. Any time you want to start anything just go ahead with it. I reckon you will find me right there, and I warn you that it will go hard with you." Swiftly they spun along, speaking no more to each other.

The road to town at one point skirted a deep ravine, and as the car was speeding there, Scarface suddenly seized the wheel in his manacled hands and gave it a twist.

As he did so he arose in his seat, and before the astonished officer of the law could seize him he leaped from the machine. Thrown from his feet he went rolling over and over upon the soft ground unharmed, and before the sheriff could regain his hold upon the wheel the machine went plunging into the brink.

Over and over in mid air it turned, the officer falling close beside it. Together they struck a shoulder of rock, and glancing off plunged on to the bottom. There was a sickening crash of splintered wood and a slow cloud of dust arose from the bottom of the ravine and hovered close above the wreck of the car, beneath which lay the crushed and shapeless form of the dead sheriff.

A week passed and found Polly and Dick in the Ransome cottage reading her father's will, which left everything to her. But of special import was the reference to the buried treasure and the list of the holders of the pieces of flag, which were given as follows:

1. George Teel, of California.
2. Joseph Stebbins, of Massachusetts.
3. Chu Chen Ling, of San Francisco.
4. Juan Diaz, a Mexican.
5. Red Cloud, an Ogalalla Sioux.
6. Ben Ransome, of California.

Together they studied the names; then Dick said with sudden interest: "We must advertise for tidings of these men. Some may be alive and answer."

Polly asked why they should advertise and he explained: "It's your fortune, you know. I shall go and try to find the treasure."

Polly was at once enthusiastic about a search for the treasure, but rebelled at the thought of being left behind, and when he tried to point out the dangers, she exclaimed positively: "I will not stay behind."

"But I cannot permit you to risk yourself upon so dangerous a quest," said Dick as taking her hands he stood gazing into her clear eyes. "Stay where it is safe, and we will return to you in a little while with a queen's fortune to pour at your feet." But the girl's head shook determinedly.

"No. If it is too dangerous for me to go, it is also too dangerous for you. If either one of us goes the other must also be of the party. We will face it out together, no matter what befalls."

"But you could not go with me unless—" he answered, smiling meaningfully down into her face. A faint blush colored her cheeks.

"Unless what?" she asked softly.

"Unless we were married, dear." The next moment he was holding her close in his arms.

It was a very quiet and simple wedding they had there in the cottage overlooking the rolling sea—the sea that had cast up this treasure of which they were to go forth to seek as man and wife, and arms about each other they stood gazing out upon it, wondering what adventures would be theirs before they again returned to safety. Immediately they began their preparations for the journey, and it was but a day or two after the wedding and while they were in the midst of getting things together that their eyes fell upon the following notice which appeared conspicuously in a newspaper:

"Riven Flag—Any survivor of Capt. Joel Ransome's Mexican expedition, which was attacked by Yaqui, will learn something to his advantage by communicating with—"

Among the first to read this notice was Scarface, seated there a rude shack with Screwweave and several other unsavory companions. The murderer was relating how he escaped from the sheriff and how he intended obtaining the pieces of flag. A messenger came up at the moment and reported:

"The old man is dead. Van Brunt and the girl are married. The sheriff is dead and there's a big reward out for you. It's all here in the paper."

Scarface showed only contempt for the printed recital of his crimes, but evinced deepest interest in the notice relating to the Riven Flag. Calling his confederates about him he outlined his plans, after which all mounted horses and rode away.

High up in the mountains lived George Teel, named as one of the Ransome expedition. He was having breakfast, served by his Chinese servant, when he, too, read of the tragedy at the Ransome cottage and spoke his shocked feelings:

"To think of old Ben Ransome having no close to me all these years. And now he's dead."

For a long time he sat with eyes fixed upon the floor as his mind wandered over that fateful trip with the man of whose death he had just read. He had thought that the other had passed away long ago in that bloody fight with the howling savages, and that he had escaped and been close at hand all this time seemed well nigh incredible. Thought of the lost treasure and the little piece of hunting that he possessed once more filled his thoughts. That Captain Ransome had ever made another effort to retrieve it after the ill success of their expedition he very much doubted, but it was more than likely that he had carefully preserved his fragment of the flag. That being the case his daughter would in all probability now be its possessor. Whether the girl ever had been told the story of their ill-fated expedition of course he had no notion, but he now determined that he would search her out, tell her of his piece of the flag and learn if the fragment which the captain had retained was within her keeping. If so, it might not be too late to make money for the treasure, and availing himself from the treasure, and availing himself from the treasure, he arose briskly to his feet.

and at Olynth he constructed spectacles to bring to that city the water from Lake Symphalos. Sparta was then the most important city in the Peloponnese, and the visit of Herodotus there is established by an inscription. He was about four years old when he was taken to the court of the king of Persia. Herodotus believed he had seen the tomb of Olynth. Herodotus was then a young man and he had seen the tomb of Olynth. Herodotus was then a young man and he had seen the tomb of Olynth.

Then going to his tent he took up his piece of the flag. He studied it a moment then putting it back in the safe he entered his rumbust and drove away, arriving an hour later at the Ransome cottage, where he introduced himself to Dick and offered him his piece of flag, and assistance in locating the treasure. It was agreed that Dick and Polly should call at his home that afternoon, he meanwhile making a trip to Los Angeles.

"And this time," said Teel as he finished recounting to them his version of the former expedition and why it had failed, "we will let no savages stop us. Through some accident we embarked upon the other trip with insufficient arms and ammunition, and in other ways were not prepared to hold our own against such a force of savages as we encountered. But having had the experience once and knowing the country as I now do we will be able to avoid them, or even if we should come in contact with them will give them such a hot reception that they will be mighty glad to let us alone. He looked at the girl a little dubiously.

"However, I question the advisability of taking a woman on such a trip.

London.—The following are the terms of the peace treaty as outlined by the London Times—Public Ledger service:

The Allies publicly arraign the ex-kaiser "not for an offense against criminal law, but for a supreme offense against international morality and the sanctity of treaties." A special tribunal will be constituted to try him.

§ Military Terms Fixed.

Within two months of the signature of the treaty, the Allies demanded that German military forces be reduced to not more than 70,000 infantry and 30,000 cavalry. The total strength of officers must not exceed 4,000. Voluntary recruiting alone will be permitted. German armaments also will be limited strictly.

All fortified works 50 miles east of the Rhine will be disarmed and dismantled.

PERKINS TELLS OF "Y" WORK IN EUROPE

Reasons for the Unfavorable Criticism Are Explained.

DIFFICULT TO GET GOOD MEN

Complaints of Prices Charged in Canteens Generally Not Justified—Immense Extent of the Organization's Numerous Activities Abroad During War.

New York, May 7.—George W. Perkins of New York, chairman of the finance committee of the war work council of the Y. M. C. A., has just returned from Europe, where he spent four months in making a thorough investigation of the work done by the Y. M. C. A. His report was made public today, and in large part is an answer to the unfavorable criticisms of the organization so often heard of late.

First explaining the difficulty of securing efficient workers and the care exercised in the selection of the 11,229 persons who were sent abroad, Mr. Perkins says:

"Much has been said about the inefficiency of some of these workers, and, without doubt, a number of them were inefficient. In any form of organization in civilian life, whether it be public schools, chain stores or corporations, if 90 per cent of those originally employed make good, the result is regarded as highly satisfactory. If 10 per cent of the 11,229 people operating in France for the Y. M. C. A. were inefficient it would mean that there were 1,122 men and women who were more or less of a failure. I do not believe that anything like this number of people were unsuccessful; but if under the close scrutiny which the soldiers give these welfare workers even 5 per cent of them were failures, it would have put a large amount of criticism in circulation, and the work of the 85 per cent who were successful would be forgotten in the publicity given to the 5 per cent who were unsuccessful."

"That the workers as a whole were brave and unselfish is shown by the fact that 14 Y. M. C. A. secretaries were killed and 126 others were wounded."

Why Canteen Prices Varied.

The report relates the troubles and expenses met by the Y. M. C. A. after it undertook the management of the army canteens at the request of General Pershing and the confused conditions that made it impossible to arrive at an average cost price of the goods sold to the soldiers. It continues:

"The Y. M. C. A. never solicited money for the purpose of giving away its canteen supplies. If the Y. M. C. A. had given away canteen supplies in France on the scale of its sales, it would have spent in this activity alone at least as much money as its entire expenditures in France for all its activities. The constant policy of the Y. M. C. A. was to sell canteen supplies at as nearly cost as possible, and to bend every effort, when fighting was in progress, to furnish the men at the front with supplies free of charge where it was at all possible to get the goods to them."

"Some have criticized the Y. M. C. A. for not giving away more articles, such as cigarettes, chocolate, etc. Its policy has been not to give away generally, but only in special and needy cases. From June, 1918, to April, 1919, the Y. M. C. A. handled in France alone upward of 2,000,000,000 packages of cigarettes; 32,000,000 bars of chocolate; 18,000,000 cans of smoking tobacco; 50,000,000 cigars; 80,000,000 cans of jam; 29,000,000 packages of chewing gum; and 10,000,000 packages of candy. These are only a few of the items handled, but the size of these figures should convince anyone that it would be financially impossible for the Y. M. C. A. to give its supplies away generally. Furthermore, the army does not favor any such policy. It thinks that it is far better for the men to spend their money on such articles as these than to spend it in other ways. For the most part the men hold the same view."

Its Varied Activities.

In considerable detail Mr. Perkins relates the varied and extraordinarily extensive activities of the Y. M. C. A. abroad, including the manufacture of much of its supplies, the establishment of many hundreds of huts, with athletic, moving picture, and various other forms of entertainment; the management of sight-seeing tours for soldiers on leave; the immense work of the educational and religious departments and the distribution of reading matter. In conclusion Mr. Perkins says:

"The Y. M. C. A. undoubtedly made mistakes, but what it tried to do was to respond to every call that the army made on it. It never hesitated to tackle any job it was asked to undertake; it did not sidestep any task; it was asked to perform. It took the position that it was in Europe to do all it could, as best it could; that when it was called on to render service of the same kind or spirit that the soldiers did and not hold back because of some circumstances, might make it impossible to meet with maximum success. Surely every contributor of money will approve the Y. M. C. A. in this respect."

End of the Long World.

In view of the fact that the world is now at peace, it is not surprising that the Y. M. C. A. is now turning its attention to the work of the peace.

CURE FOR TINGLE ALMOST FATAL

NECK NEARLY BROKEN

Medical Man Tells Remarkable Experience of Man With Finger Tingle—Man's Neck Now in Plaster Cast.

Chicago.—They tried to cure the tingling in his little finger by breaking his neck, and they almost succeeded. Dr. Charles E. Humiston, retiring president of the Chicago Medical society, told the story of James C. Snow, and his adventures with a vibrator and a willing barber.

Mr. Snow is an insurance collector and lives with his wife and two children at 1451 Glenlake avenue. He is forty-five years old and at present in St. Joseph's hospital with a plaster collar about his neck.

Trouble Starts in Finger.

Snow experienced the tingling sensation in the little finger of his right hand a week ago. He tried rubbing it. He tried letting it alone. It still tingled. Some one suggested a vibrator.

The man with the vibrator also believed in adjusting the spinal column and the neck. He tried some of his best adjustments on Mr. Snow and for one instant the patient was rendered almost unconscious by pain.

He woke the next morning to find his head could not be turned. His neck was stiff as an icicle. He couldn't shave, so he went to a barber shop. The barber was a practical man in more ways than one.

Strenuous Treatment.

The human neck held no mysteries for him, he admitted, and he only asked permission to twist it a bit. He was given the chance to show his skill; and Mr. Snow almost fainted.

Now enter Dr. L. S. Trostler, X-ray specialist at St. Joseph's hospital; Dr. W. F. Grovener and Dr. Hugh McKenna.

"Mr. Snow came to the hospital," said Doctor Trostler, "to see what the X-rays would show. I found a bone

Mr. Snow Almost Fainted.

In his neck, technically known as the axis, had been fractured.

"I called in Doctors Grovener and McKenna. They put his neck in a plaster cast and he is said to be getting along all right now. But the next time there is anything wrong with him you can bet he won't have his spine—or his neck—adjusted to suit."

CURED OF BANDIT DREAM

A Spanking of Two Springfield Boys Ended Their Ambitious Thoughts.

Springfield, Ill.—Mike Dadrin and Harry Thompson, aged ten years each, are cured of all desire to be bad and hold-up men. They came to Springfield from East St. Louis via box car for the purpose recently.

Police became suspicious of their actions immediately on arrival and took them to the station. When searched each had cap pistols and a considerable sum of money which had been stolen from the mother's dress bag before leaving to become "regular bandits." The boys' relatives were notified and they took the youngsters home. But before departure the elder Dadrin was heard to remark something about a good spanking for Mark when they got home.

Thieves Find Phones Easy.

Atlanta, Ga.—The "drop-nickel" telephones recently installed over Atlanta are proving "just what the doctor ordered" for the petty thieves in search of spending money. The hard-working burglars, who formerly depended on the "smash-the-machine" method, now find it easy to remove the telephone apparatus from its fastening, take it to a secluded spot and empty it of their loot.

Auto-intoxication may be best ascribed to our own neglect or carelessness. When the organs fail in the discharge of their duties, the putrefactive germs set in and generate toxins—actual poisons, which fill one's own body.

Sleepiness after meals, flushing of the face, extreme lassitude, biliousness, dizziness, sick headache, acidity of the stomach, heartburn, offensive breath, anemia, loss of weight and muscular power, decrease of vitality or lowering of resistance to infectious diseases, disturbance of the eye, dyspepsia, indigestion, gastritis, many forms of catarrh, asthma, ear affections and allied ailments result from auto-intoxication or self-poisoning.

VERDICT $4,075

AUTOMOBILE DAMAGE SUIT

Kalamazoo, Mich., April 2, 1919.—In the circuit court today the jury brought in a verdict of $4,075 against J. Allen Snyder to recover for injuries sustained by Frederick Uithoven as a result of an automobile accident in which it is claimed that Frederick Uithoven has suffered injuries of a serious nature. J. Allen Snyder was insured in one of the small insurance companies which gave him protection for $800 for liability and he will have to pay the amount of $3,275.

As the result of this verdict automobile owners are much interested in the policy of insurance they take. The Big Mutual Automobile Insurance Company of Howell protects the owner of the car against damage claims made against him above $25 up to $5,000. During the five seasons that the company has been operating no member has had to pay to exceed $25 upon a claim, as the policy has been sufficient to take care of large claims.

Automobile salesmen are taking more interest in insurance and are recommending the Citizens Mutual Automobile Insurance Company of Howell, as it has a large reserve fund of $65,000 and monthly income sufficient to pay $15,000 of claims per month. This is the only mutual that has so large a reserve fund to meet the serious losses.

G. McAdoo, was passing through Jackson on a westbound train.

Detroit—With no more show of emotion than might have been expected if he were visiting a family of some childless man, a 16-year-old boy sat in Judge Hart's court chambers and told how his grief for pennies with which to buy candy induced him to shoot and kill "a lady." The boy is John Roselle and the "lady" was Mrs. Ada Rice, whose murder in her confectionery store at 3475 Hamilton boulevard, had baffled Highland Park police.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It

Applicants for Insurance Often Rejected.

Judging from reports from druggists who are constantly in direct touch with the public, there is one preparation that has been very successful in overcoming these conditions. The mild and healing influence of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its remarkable record of success.

An examining physician for one of the prominent Life Insurance Companies, in an interview of the subject, made the astonishing statement that one reason why so many applicants for insurance are rejected is because kidney trouble is so common to the American people, and the large majority of those whose applications are declined do not even suspect that they have the disease. It is on sale at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Adv.

Physicians Recommend Castoria

YOU know the real human doctors right around in your neighborhood: the doctors made of flesh and blood just like you: the doctors with souls and hearts: those men who are responding to your call in the dead of night as readily as in the broad daylight; they are ready to tell you the good that Fletcher's Castoria has done, is doing and will do, from their experience and their love for children.

Fletcher's Castoria is nothing new. We are not asking you to try an experiment. We just want to impress upon you the importance of buying Fletcher's.

Your physician will tell you this, as he knows there are a number of imitations on the market, and he is particularly interested in the welfare of your baby.

Children Cry For Fletcher's CASTORIA

Do the People Know?

Do you know why you are asked to call for Fletcher's Castoria when you want a child's remedy? why you must insist on Fletcher's? For years we have been explaining how the popularity of Fletcher's Castoria has brought out innumerable imitations, substitutes and counterfeits.

To protect the babies: to shield the homes and in defense of generations to come we appeal to the better judgment of parents to insist on having Fletcher's Castoria when in need of a child's medicine. And remember above all things that a child's medicine is made for children—a medicine prepared for grown-ups is not interchangeable. A baby's food for a baby. And a baby's medicine is just as essential for the baby.

The Castoria Recipe (it's on every wrapper) has been prepared by the same hands in the same manner for so many years that the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher and perfection in the product are synonymous.

Utility, as expressed in the various Buick Valve-in-head models for nineteen-nineteen, is a composite thing, made up of those elements, which may be considered vital factors in the serviceability of a motor car.

Always Buick cars have been developed, not redesigned. And for nineteen-nineteen they reach the highest pinnacle in this development. Each model has a certain scope, a particular range of usefulness. Enough models have been provided in the complete Buick line to enable any purchaser to select a Buick car that is exactly equipped to serve him to the utmost limit of his demands for utility.

Cause of Headache

By knowing the cause, a disease may often be avoided. This is particularly true of headache. The most common cause of headache is a disordered stomach or constipation, which may be corrected by taking a few doses of Chamberlain's Tablets. Try it. Many others have obtained permanent relief by taking these Tablets. They are easy to take and mild and gentle in effect.—Adv.

Do You Enjoy Life?

A man in good physical condition is almost certain to enjoy life, while the bilious and dyspeptic are dependent, do not enjoy their meals and find themselves a good share of the time. The reason is that a few doses of Chamberlain's Tablets to keep up the stomach, improve the digestion and regulate the bowels is all that is needed. Try it.—Adv.

Methodist Men

In spite of the heavy rain, a large number of men came just at church time both morning and evening last Sunday. There were seventy people at church in the morning and thirty at night. Forty-five attended the Epworth League meeting, at which Miss Maude Gracian gave an excellent talk on "Obeying God" followed by a general participation testimony meeting.

The colored slides on "The Mass Movement in India," which were shown at the church last Sunday evening were well worth seeing for their artistic value in addition to the information which they brought concerning that unprecedented movement toward christianity in a heathen country. Next Sunday evening, Rev. F. M. Field will show another set of these colored views on the Centenary, this time showing what the Centenary will do for China.

The attendance contest in the Epworth League, which has been continuing for the past three months, closing last Sunday, resulted in a victory for Miss Lorena Terry's unit, it having a lead of seventeen points over Lyman Judson's unit. The losers will entertain the victors within the next week or so.

At the annual meeting of the Epworth League, last Friday evening, officers for the ensuing year were chosen as follows: President, F. L. Barrows; vice presidents, Lorena Terry, Mrs. Edna Wilson, Roxey Jones, and Margaret Stanton; secretary, Lyman Judson; treasurer, Harry Hill. This flourishing young people's society has made striking advancement during the last few months under the leadership of the president, George Oldenburg, who retires from the presidency after nearly two years' occupancy. The young people expressed their appreciation of his work in the Epworth League by a rising vote, last Friday evening, Mrs. Oldenburg also being included in the vote of appreciation.

Last Friday evening, when it was announced in the Epworth League business meeting that $23.50 was still lacking on the society's pledge to the building fund, a paper was passed and $23.50 was pledged as fast as the paper could be got around. A good suggestion for other subscribers to the building fund, all pledges to which become due May 1.

The membership of the Epworth League now 107, about twenty new members having been received in the past month or so.

The thirtieth anniversary of the organization of the Epworth League will be observed at the regular meeting hour, 6:30, next Sunday evening. A special program has been arranged for this occasion, and all the older people who are alumni of the Epworth League are especially invited. Miss Beryl Hahn has charge of the meeting. The new officers will be installed at that time.

The pastor, Rev. Field, attended the Detroit Methodist Preachers' meeting, last Monday and heard Horatio S. Earle, a leading Methodist layman of Detroit, speak on the Centenary campaign, which comes the week of May 18 to 25. It seems that the progressive laymen are just as enthusiastic about this great movement as are any of the ministers.

Plymouth's quota for the great Centenary campaign is $1865.11 a year for five years, and it is confidently expected that the local church will go over the top with a surplus when the five year pledges are taken during the week of May 18 to 25. The local campaign, which will be directed by E. V. Jolliffe will be launched next week with a supper for the ten installment teams which are now being chosen. The total amount to be raised for the five-year period is $105,000,000, and more than twenty million of this is already raised before the intensive drive has begun. Many pledges are coming in from people of other denominations attracted by the broad and constructive plans of the Centenary.

About twenty-five were badly hurt and taken to Le Mans. This was a special leave train from Brast. They were to start for home soon. Three of the boys had their discharge papers in their pockets. Our captain sawed the leg off a French soldier, who was pinned down by the engine. He would have died in a short time. One of the boys said here are three dead ones, and the one in the middle spoke up and said, just get me loose and I am far from dead. They had been to Nice and Paris, and perhaps to a few other towns. One of the boys had a hand full of paper money. A French captain had his arm cut off and was walking around.
