LINDEN FOLKS ENJOY PLYMOUTH ENTERTAINERS

We take the following from the Linden Leader, regarding the entertainment given by Plymouth people there recently:

"There was an unique entertainment given in the Methodist church, last Friday evening by two little girls from Plymouth, Dorothy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hillman, and Virginia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Giles, all of whom were here, together with Miss Hall, the musical instructor. They are friends of Mr. and Mrs. David Jepson, and came in response to an invitation to appear for the benefit of the Methodist Primary Sunday school. The program consisted of elocution selections, singing, and several musical numbers. Two school girls of their age, should be able to commit such diversified numbers and present them with such skill bespeaks for them a place in the ranks of the best entertainers of the country. The world wants talent and they have it."

COMMUNITY PAGEANT FOR PLYMOUTH

"BETTER SPEECH WEEK" WILL BE OBSERVED IN PLYMOUTH ON TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 8TH.

"Better Speech Week," November 6-12, will be observed in Plymouth on Tuesday, November 8th, with a community pageant, given by the public schools, assisted by the Woman's Club. If the weather should be unfavorable on Tuesday, the pageant will be given on the following day, Wednesday, November 9th. The pageant will be under the direction of C. H. Bennett. A parade of decorated automobiles and trucks carrying the school children will assemble at the High school building in the afternoon at 3:30 for a parade about town. One of the features of the parade will be a banner upon each auto bearing the slogans of National American Speech Week.

"Better Speech Week" is being carried out in cities and towns throughout the United States, and this year marks the third annual observance of this movement. Every individual in Plymouth is expected to take part in "Better Speech Week." The purpose of "Better Speech Week" is to promote the use of good English. One of the criticisms made of the voices of the American people is that they are unpleasant. This is partly due to the sounds in our language, but it probably is mainly due to the carelessness of the Americans in speaking and to their nasal twang. One of the aims of "Better Speech Week" is to help overcome this. The Americans as a whole are very careless of enunciation. Such words as government and because, are very often enunciated poorly. There is also a great tendency to slur the ends of words—for instance, goin' and comin'. It might almost be thought that some people have no acquaintance with final g's.

"Better Speech Week" tries to make people be more careful of their enunciation, and it also aims to encourage pupils to acquire large vocabularies. One of its chief ways of doing this is by banishing slang, which is a hindrance to clear and effective speech. The idea of "Better Speech Week" is to force upon people the impression that good speech pays in every walk of life. The observation of "Better Speech Week" is more to arouse sentiment against slovenly speech than to form the habit of using good speech—because habit comes by long practice. "Better Speech Week" aims to begin the practice of that habit, which will in time result in the use of good speech.

FARM BUREAU WILL MEET IN PLYMOUTH

A general meeting of Farm Bureau members is scheduled to be held at the Grange hall, Plymouth, on next Tuesday afternoon, November 8th, starting promptly at two o'clock. This meeting is for the members of this agricultural organization residing in Plymouth, Canton, Northville and Livonia townships, and is one of a series at which it is aimed to secure for the executive board data on projects that it is desired to have undertaken during the coming year. Members of the county extension staff, Messrs. Gregg and Ross and Miss Rogers, will be in attendance at this meeting on next Tuesday. The women members of the family are also invited, as it is desired to find out what program they are most interested in for the coming year. Secretary Carmichael will represent the executive board and seek suggestions from the members; also he will explain the big produce marketing plan that the Farm Bureau has under consideration, being the secretary of the committee that has the organization thereof in hand. This will be the most important Farm Bureau meeting for the Plymouth section of the past year.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thumme, daughter, Mildred, and little son, Kenneth, visited relatives at Sebewing, Baginaw and Bay City, the latter part of last week, and over Sunday returning home by way of Milford, where they visited friends.

PLYMOUTH WILL CELEBRATE NOV. 11

ARMISTICE DAY AND THE TURNING ON OF THE NEW BOULEVARD LIGHT SYSTEM WILL BE OBSERVED FRIDAY EVENING, NOVEMBER 11TH.

A meeting of the directors of the Chamber of Commerce was called Thursday morning, and it was decided that the Chamber of Commerce would co-operate with the village commission in making plans to celebrate Armistice Day, Friday evening, November 11th, and the turning on for the first time of the new boulevard lighting system. President George A. Smith appointed a committee of three from the Chamber of Commerce to meet with a committee of three to be appointed by President W. J. Burrows of the village commission, to make plans for the celebration, which will be held during the evening. A delegation from the Detroit Edison Co. of Detroit, will be present. Watch next Friday's paper for program.

DEATH OF MRS. ORSON POLLEY

Plymouth friends were saddened the latter part of last week to hear of the untimely death of Mrs. Irene Polley, wife of Orson Polley, a former Plymouth boy, and a bride of only a year. Mrs. Polley had been in ill health for several months, but became seriously ill about two weeks ago and was taken to Grace hospital, where she passed away Friday, October 28th. Death was due to hip trouble. The deceased was 28 years of age and was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Dixon of Northville. Since their marriage, Mr. and Mrs. Polley had resided with her parents, as Mr. Dixon is the florist there and Mrs. Polley assisted her father greatly in his work. The funeral services were held from her late home, Monday afternoon at two o'clock, Rev. E. V. Belles, pastor of the Northville Presbyterian church officiating. Burial in Riverside cemetery, Plymouth. Friends here deeply sympathize with Mr. Polley in his bereavement.

A "Chunk" Can't Do the Work of a Percheron

If you used draft horses before the days of the motor truck, you know, of course, the difference between a "chunk" and a Percheron. Well, that's the difference between this big powerful Reo Speed Wagon and its flock of imitations. This Reo has the stout muscles and the clean limbs of a Percheron. Like the latter, there must be a strain of the Arabian in this Reo—for its roving disposition and ability to survive all conditions have taken it to all parts of the world. No motor truck that is lighter or less sturdily built can do the work of the Speed Wagon—any more than a 1,200 pound "chunk" could do the work of a ton Percheron.

IT'S DANGEROUS NOW

Were you ever walking along a country road looking for a lift and have someone deliberately pass you up with an empty machine? You remember how you beated that fellow through your clenched teeth and vowed you'd get even some day. Now, the world has gone so wrong these days we've got to take a different attitude as it is certainly risky business for an auto driver to pick up a stranger on the roads. It is getting back to that state of affairs of ancient times when robbers and thugs infested the highways, and made travel over them treacherous for anyone without ample protection. Possibly there is less of it around Plymouth than in some other parts of the country, but we have no means of knowing when the holdup epidemic is going to reach these parts. So don't be too hasty in blaming the fellow if he throws her in high and leaves you to foot it behind. Of course, if he foots "Hell" there's "Bill" and keeps going, that's different. The best we can say for that fellow is he's the smallest man in the world.

THE SMELL OF HEAT

Isn't it strange how the first pungent whiffs of scorching stove polish enthralls the human system? The fact is most Plymouth people like to sit around the fire as a sort of novelty after several months of sweltering sunshine. Artificial heat feels different; sort of comfortable and homelike. Some people get so anxious that they feign premature chills at the first slight cool spell of just for the sake of starting a fire. You must agree that we are all more or less like children in many respects, and we'll just cite you to the case of Dad rubbing his hands with a chuckle before the cook stove, with the temperature outside not more than 55 degrees.

ONE VALUABLE LESSON

Children are going to have their childish arguments and their youthful quarrels, and we must make allowance for it. But sometimes we feel the fathers and mothers of Plymouth could teach their offspring a valuable lesson if they would sit down with them and explain the true value of friendship, and the value of having good friends. Explain to them that there isn't a business man in town who could remain in business a week if it wasn't for the friendships he has made. Show them that no matter where they go on what they may do in future years, it is going to be impossible for them to put themselves off on the world and prove successful. They must have friends. Then, too, show them how friends can help in time of illness or accident, and how they can lend a helping hand when there are financial barriers to be removed from the path. In other words, make it plain to them that they can buy everything in the world worth having except love and friendship, and that once a good friend is lost money cannot replace him. If the children grow up quarrelsome, they are bound to be that way on through life. If they learn in early years the true value of cultivating an agreeable disposition, they will carry that good disposition with them in the years to come. Make them see that a sunny, cheerful disposition makes friends more quickly than anything else. And teach them that friendship is far better than all the money in the world rolled into a heap.

WHAT SERVICE COSTS

We hear a good deal of talk about "service" among Plymouth citizens, and often wonder if they realize what service costs. We wonder if they realize that service is a sort of invisible tax, and that if we insist on service we must pay that tax. According to a statistician, 37 cents of the consumer's dollar represents the cost of producing the article, 14 cents represents the profit, and 49 cents the cost of service. In other words, a pound of beef, on the farm, at the stockyards in Chicago, and then goes down town to a restaurant and pays a dollar for it. This does not mean, however, that somebody or a group of somebodies is profiteering to the tune of 90 cents. Perhaps nobody has profiteered; the man who sold the beef paid for it, of course he didn't want to sell the steer and dress it, and keep the meat or see whether it'd be worth it, or the end of a stick and pour it over a fire to cook. He wanted to sit down at a table with linen and silverware on it; he wanted music from an orchestra while he was eating, and a waiter to carry him water and stand at his side for further orders. He wanted that thing we call "service," and he got it, and paid for it.

It has come to be a pretty costly tax, this service tax, but the American people demand it, they are willing to pay for it, so that ends the argument. Only we wish that sometime we could do away with a lot of unnecessary service, just to see if we wouldn't have a little more money in our pockets.

The Plymouth Home Building Association Helps Plymouth

To the Editor:

It is now nearly two years since the organization of the Plymouth Home Building Association, and as we are often asked what the association was doing, we thought that an open letter stating some of the facts, as to the workings and work of the association, would be of interest to the general public.

The old saying that, "A rolling stone gathers no moss," is not true of the dollar invested with the Plymouth Home Building Association, the more it rolls the more interest it gathers, and it has been the endeavor of the officers to keep all the dollars rolling as much as possible.

A. borrows money of the association to build a home; at the end of the first month he pays back a portion of the principal and all the interest to date; this money is placed with more money and loaned to B. At the end of the second month both A. and B. pay back a portion of their principal and the interest to date; this money is placed with more money and loaned to C., and so on indefinitely, until to date we have twenty-four borrowers coming in each month making payments on their principal and paying their interest to date, and up to date every one of our borrowers have met their payments when due.

All monies loaned by the association is secured by first mortgages on the real estate involved, on which we are not allowed, by state law, to loan to exceed 65 per cent of a conservative valuation of the property, so you can see that the security of the funds invested is unquestioned.

Every person, who invests money with the association, whether in advanced payment or installment (savings) stock, becomes a shareholder and share alike in all the earnings as their interest may appear.

Shareholders who wish to withdraw their funds from the association, do not have to find a buyer for their stock, who will only take it off their hands at a discount, but the association will always pay them back dollar for dollar for their money invested, plus their share of the profits at the date of withdrawal. This is an advantage not enjoyed by stockholders outside of the building and loan associations.

During the last eighteen months the association has financed twenty-four new homes in Plymouth. Most of them would not have been built but for the help we were able to give, as money could not be borrowed from the banks for building purposes.

Twenty-four new houses placed in a row on one of our streets would make quite a show, and the amount of material and labor needed in the building and the amount of furnishings and supplies needed by the occupants, has helped the laboring man, the dealers in lumber, hardware, furniture, dry goods, groceries, drugs and all other citizens of Plymouth and surrounding country by the increase of taxable property as well as the increase in real estate values that naturally accrues to a growing town.

Since organization the association has loaned to builders $39,050.00, paid regular dividends to the shareholders, placed several times more in the reserve fund than the law required, have a small surplus and have charged off, at each dividend period a portion of the original fund spent for supplies and which we expect to wipe out during the next year. A record which we need not be ashamed of.

Until the last two months we have been able to meet every acceptable application for loans, but of late have been obliged to turn down some good loans because of lack of funds which has meant a corresponding lack of trade for our labor, merchants and professional men, because so many new homes were not established in our town, that would have been built if funds had been available.

Already we have on file applications for loans to build next spring, and the indications are that the demands on us another season will be greater than ever, if we are able to meet these demands or not will depend largely whether our citizens are willing to invest their funds with a home institution that will safeguard their money with the best security known in the business world, pay a reasonable dividend and at the same time help build up their home town.

We believe The Plymouth Home Building Association merits the support of every citizen and that they will give it when once awake to the fact of its importance in their home town.

Very truly yours,
W. R. SHAW, Sec'y.

Today's Reflections

The time of the year has arrived when a Plymouth man can go into the cellar of his home without exciting suspicion.

The average Plymouth voter has come to realize that about the most "promising" man in this world is the politician.

With the approach of Thanksgiving it might be said that turkeys that roost in trees are feathering their nests.

When a Plymouth man has a family on his hands he usually has to keep his hands in his pockets.

They're reporting "Another Crime Wave" in New York. When did the last one end.

Why is it that the men of Plymouth who are most liberal with advice are the stingiest with everything else?

Since the close of the ball season the list of unemployed is said to have increased wonderfully.

Every man in Plymouth will join with us in declaring that this would be a fine old world if there was only such a thing as a permanent shave.

When both the man and the woman are determined to make marriage a success you can bet it isn't going to be a failure.

Despite the fact that there's considerable interest in the disarmament conference we don't expect the crowd to be as big as the one at the Jersey city prize fight.

The Plymouth woman who always tells the truth tells more unpleasant things than she does things that tend to cheer.

MICHIGAN-POTATOES DO WELL IN INDIANA

CERTIFIED SEED OUTYIELDS
NATIVE HOOSIER STOCK
GREATLY—AVERAGE ACRE
INCREASE 68 BUSHELS.

Michigan seed potatoes, grown by state growers and shipped to Pulaaki county, Indiana, for demonstration work, outyielded the native Indiana stock used in the demonstration by an average of more than 68 bushels per acre during the past season. Results of the test have just been received from Indiana by H. C. Moore, secretary of the Michigan Potato Producers' Association and extension specialist at M. A. C.

On every one of the eleven farms on which the comparative work was run in Pulaaki county, the Michigan seed outyielded native strains, the increase running from 8 to 174 bushels per acre with an average increase for Michigan seed of 68.8 bushels. Certified seed potatoes, grown under the direction of the potato growers' association and the agricultural college, were sent from Michigan for the work.

Large out-of-state demand for Michigan seed is reported by Mr. Moore. High requirements for certification of tubers in the state have given the Michigan product a wide reputation in other states.

How Not to Take Cold

Some persons are subject to frequent colds, while others seldom, if ever, have a cold. You will find that the latter take good care of themselves. They take a shower or cold bath every day in a warm room, avoid overheated rooms, sleep with a window open or partly open, avoid excesses, over eating, becoming overheated and then chilled and getting the feet wet. Then, when they feel the first indication of a cold, they take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy without delay and it is soon over.—Advertisement.

If Your Buildings Need Repairs

you cannot go wrong if you proceed immediately, for it appears to be a foregone conclusion that lumber prices will not decline any further this year. Then, too, you can obtain the services of first class carpenters and builders at this time and at a fair cost. You can engage these men at your convenience this Fall, whereas, if you wait until next Spring the demand for labor will most likely exceed the available supply and you will be obliged to await your turn.

Think this over.

AN INTERESTING LETTER FROM CALIFORNIA

John Root has received the following interesting letter from Norman Miller, who with his family have recently arrived in California on a motor trip from their home here:

Palm Springs, Calif., Oct. 22.

Dear Roots:

How are you all? I suppose Henry is back in school, so you two are a one more. I suppose you have your apples all picked and probably sold by this time.

Well, we have put up the tent and tented a cottage and garage. We were up at Santa Monica and had about three days' fog. It was pretty gloomy. We had the opportunity to rent a small place, so we thought it best to do so. Now we can unload our stuff and ride around in comfort.

We are quite centrally located, just outside of Venice, near Culver city. This is a movie city. Oranges, nuts, lemons, etc., grow all around us, and just now they are thrashing lima beans. The thrasher furnishes everything. We went to see an outfit yesterday. They had fourteen teams, ten wagons, two water wagons, repair wagon, cook wagon. They used three teams of mules to move cook wagon. A good day's work is 2200 sacks of beans (100 lb. sack). They receive 50c a sack for thrashing. Beans sold me the expenses are $275 per day. They run till dark. But started up after dark and finished the job by the light of searchlights. This morning they pulled out. It is quite a sight. I asked the man that owned the beans to sell me some. He filled up the bag I gave him, about 20 pounds, then would not take any pay. Everything is different out here. I believe the white people are lazy or else they don't have to work. The Japs and Mexicans seem to do most of the farm work.

The boys are fixing a reel on a bamboo fish pole. They fish off the pier at Santa Monica. Last Sunday it was foggy, but I counted 150 fishermen on one side of the pier. One man had a dip net. He pulled up three mackerel, which weighed about one pound each. He sold them to me for 5c each.

We were down to Mrs. Riggs' to dinner the other day. She had salmon steak. They have a nice home.

We had a fine trip driving out here, 2700 miles. Some hardships, of course, but lots of pleasure. We struck up with two other cars back in Iowa, and we kept together the rest of the trip.

John, I never saw so many high windmills. Iowa and Illinois are full of them, all kinds, but I believe more corn hidden or wrecked by the wind. And such silos. We stopped to see them fill one 24x60, no top and iron stakes around top five feet high with fence around it. This farm consisted of 640 acres, owned by two brothers. They have five of these silos. Most of the big silos are cement, but lots are the ones, very few wood. The corn binders elevate the corn up to the wagon, so there are no men in the field.

We went up to Venice, last night. There are more amusement places there and places to eat and hot dog stands than you see at the state fair.

NEIGHBORHOOD NOTES

Lots of these places are run by the Japs. They seem to be great money makers.

We rent our house of some people who came from Lapeer, Mich. They have just been up to see us, and they are real nice people. We like the people here whom we have met very much, but they all think there is no place like California.

We were disappointed in not seeing your cousins, but we were told to leave the Lincoln highway at Salt Lake and take the Arrowhead trail south through Utah and Nevada into Arizona. This was a very scenic route, mostly mountains and desert; roads very rough and stoney, slow going and hard on tires, also car. Ever since we left about the center of Nebraska, we have come through desert or at least it is so dry we would starve if left to farm it. We saw sights of hay, lots of it two years old, all stacked, and they were putting up more. I have counted 100 stacks at a time, no barn, mostly alfalfa. Lots of farmers were pressing it right from the windrow. It is interesting to note different methods in different states for doing same work.

I like the Mormon's way of farming pretty well. They raise nearly all the stuff they eat, and are quite independent. They have fine schools and we saw several community houses, saw five best sugar factories one day, all running. We drove through a very fertile valley, irrigated, south of Salt Lake—about the nicest country we passed through after we left Iowa. We bought apples there for $1.00 per bushel and potatoes 2c per pound. Honey was about ten to fifteen cents per pound. The cheapest gas we have counted was 17c, back in Indiana. The highest was bought at St. Thomas, 45c; New Bunkerville, Nevada, sold for 50c, but we did not have to have any. We used 193 gallons to carry us here. Not so bad considering that our outfit weighed 5500 pounds.

Let us hear from you. Our address is Palms, California, Box 55, R. F. D. We will be glad to hear from you any time. Best regards to all, from your old neighbors.

In spite of the fact that three regular second team men were playing with the team at home, they were able to come out at the large end, with a score of 14 to 6. Plymouth scored both times in the first half—chiefly through the work of Doudt and Palmer. In the second half Northville came back strong and held them in the pinches. In the fourth quarter Doudt attempted a field goal on the fourth down, which went wide and was picked up by a Northville man, who came within scoring before he was tackled. Play was raged in many places on the part of both teams. However, some good foot ball material was uncovered. The game here between the same teams this week will show a big improvement.

BRING BACK PAST

Priceless Objects Used by the Early Egyptians.

Prof. Flinders Petrie Has Made Wonderful Discoveries. Soon to Be Placed on Exhibition.

Prof. Flinders Petrie and his experts are busy at University college, London, unpacking the ninety cases that contain thousands of interesting things dug up during the last two winters by the British School of Archeology in Egypt.

They will be exhibited before they are distributed among the British and foreign museums. Unfortunately many of the most precious finds are likely to be lost to Great Britain. The British school is far more generously supported by other countries than it is in England, and the arrangement is that the objects are distributed in proportion to the amount subscribed.

Before the war, says the Manchester Guardian, the exhibition of Prof. Flinders Petrie's discoveries used to be one of the London events of the year. He began work again in the winter before last in the tombs at Lahun, where in 1914 he had unearthed a wonderful collection of jewelry which is now in New York, for the reason given above. Last winter the school excavated a cemetery in the western desert, seventy miles south of Cairo. A rich harvest of objects belonging to the early dynasties, particularly the sixth and ninth was obtained.

A large number of tombs of the latter dynasty—which are entered by long stairways descending in the open desert to rock chambers—were opened, and a great many treasures that had escaped the thieves and despoilers of past centuries were found. Oldest of all was the body of a girl who lived (the experts say), about 8,000 years ago. The dry desert sand has extraordinary preservative properties, and this and other prehistoric bodies were in wonderful preservation.

The mass of the exhibition is formed of things that were buried with the dead. Among these is a beautiful "magic" jar of transparent alabaster found in the tomb of a daughter of King Senuzert II. It has an inscription saying that if she puts her hand into it she can draw out anything on earth or in the water that she wants. Some articles of copper are a very rare find, and one of the finest things is a stone cup carved in imitation of a lotus flower—a piece of most delicate workmanship.

Among the works of art there is a fine ebony statue of the sixth dynasty. It is to the ancient Egyptian belief that existence after death is a duplicate of the present life that she owes the little sculptured figures, usually in painted wood, which reproduce domestic scenes from the ordinary daily round of work on the banks of the Nile thousands of years before Christ. These fascinating statuettes are well known from earlier discoveries, but Prof. Flinders Petrie has added enormously to our knowledge of old Egyptian life by his latest finds. Carved and painted with surprising vigor and realism, these groups show a miniature granary filled with busy servants; a kitchen where one cook turns a trussed goose on a spit while another (his wig removed for coolness' sake) fans the fire; a sacrificial ceremony; the setting of a table; and high-powered boats with sails of brown linen manned by crews of black-haired sailors. The stone headrests, sandals, toilet sets, tools and weapons deposited in the graves made it possible to reconstruct every detail of that long perished civilization down to the minutest particular.

Comforts Weather Prophets.

Some encouragement is held out to the "sure sign" observers who make long-range forecasts of the weather by the actions of animals in their back yard, by Dr. C. F. Brooks, meteorologist at Clark university and formerly a government forecaster. Doctor Brooks points out that American and European investigators seem to have established the fact that in ordinary times a season appreciably above or below normal in temperature is likely to be followed by one to three or more seasons having temperature departures in the same direction.

"Thus it may be that forecasters of mild or cold winters who rely on some biological signs in autumn may justly claim more than chance success, though for reasons different from those commonly advanced," he declares. "Five out of the seven winter predictions which came to me last fall from newspapers east of the Mississippi river were to the effect that last winter would be mild, according to indications afforded by birds, worms, squirrels, muskrats, frogs, and the like."

Both Strong Words.

Two French soldiers recently came to America and on to Indianapolis where they soon obtained American sweethearts. They were telling some American Legion men about them. "I go to embrace mine sweetheart and I am so awkward," began one but the other interrupted to explain that the word was not awkward but embarrassed.

Straightway they began to argue, when a big ex-soldier interrupted them. "Don't fight over that fellow. Either term would suit you fellows, no doubt. But as for me," he drew himself up proudly, "it takes both of them to describe me on such occasions."

Chamberlain's Tablets Have Done Her a World of Good.

"Chamberlain's Tablets have done me a world of good," writes Mrs. Ella L. Button, Kirville, New York. "I have recommended them to a number of my friends and all who have used them praise them highly." When troubled with indigestion or constipation give them a trial and realize for yourself what an excellent medicine it is.—Advertisement.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union met Thursday, October 27th, with the Misses Cora and Nettie Pelham of East Ann Arbor street. The attendance was large despite the fact that occasional showers made the day somewhat unfavorable. Mrs. E. C. Vealey, delegate to the District Convention at Wyandotte, October 25 and 26, gave one of the finest reports ever read before the Plymouth Union. From start to finish, this report contained not a dull line, but was written in such a bright and witty manner that it delighted all who heard it.

Mrs. Phebe Patterson gave an excellent talk on, "Does Prohibition Prohibit?" which showed that despite the many obstacles in the way of strict enforcement of the prohibition law, the outlook is far from discouraging. Two vocal solos by Mrs. Frank Dicks, with guitar accompaniment by Mrs. Karl Hillmer, gave much pleasure to those present. In conclusion a tea was served and a social time enjoyed by the guests.

OFFICIAL AVERAGES OF MICHIGAN TRAPSHOOTERS

FROM JANUARY 1ST TO SEPTEMBER 30, 1921.

The Michigan shooters are justly proud of the records made by their shooting, as shown by the American Trapping Association's official average list published recently in the Sportsman's Review. The extremely high average of 9750 made by Howard W. Benson of Lansing, places him in fifth place among the shooters of North America. George W. Slaughter of Benton Harbor and William Thompson of Jackson, are also to be classed among America's best, their averages being respectively, 9590 and 9580.

The Michigan titular champion, J. A. Fesler of Detroit, whom we are very proud to claim as a United Club member, follows very closely with the fine average of 9533. J. A. Fesler's remarkable work at the state tournament at Battle Creek, where he broke 198 out of 200 targets, places him among the real contenders for highest honors in any tournament.

With the possible exception of two or three, the shooters whose names appear in the average list, are all well known to the local scatter-gun artists. Our old friend, Howard B. Hall of Northville, with an average of 9226 stands in first place among Michigan professional shooters. As was to be expected, Frank E. Hills and Harry W. Passage, president and treasurer, respectively, cannot succeed in getting farther apart than one per cent, their averages being, Hills, 9130, and Passage, 9182. For two years their averages have been less than one per cent apart. We expect a fine showing from Mr. Hills for the 1922 season. His work for the latter part of this season has been remarkable, he having turned in as high as 98 per cent scores.

TREASURER.

PRESBYTERIAN PARAGRAPHS

It was a treat to hear the Indian message last Sunday night delivered by Hon. Thomas L. Sloan, president of the Society of American Indians. Mr. Sloan proved to be a very interesting and fluent speaker and his address was received with applause by a large congregation. Mr. Sloan is an Omaha Indian, was educated at Hampton Institute (the school from which Booker T. Washington graduated) and is now a member of the bar of the supreme court of the United States.

Junior Endeavorers had a fine time last Friday night at the pot luck supper given for them in the basement of the church. Indian stories and games were added to the refreshments.

An illustrated lecture entitled "The Transformation of the Alaskans" will be given at the church November 16, under the auspices of the Ladies Auxiliary. This will constitute the mid-week service for that week.

The Executive Committee of Christian Endeavor met at the home of Miss Thelma Williams, last Wednesday night.

At a meeting of the board of trustees held Monday night new equipment was ordered for the church.

Mrs. John Henderson is recovering from a recent tonsillotomy.

National American Speech Week is being observed from Nov. 1-8, with "Better English" for its aim.

After a four months' visit at the manse, D. W. Hathaway returned to his home in Battle Creek.

Milton Laible has returned home from Harper hospital.

Mrs. F. L. Becker is recovering from her recent fall.

The members of the Ladies' Auxiliary are smiling over the success of their rummage sale, but are "mum" as to the amount taken in.

A Timely Suggestion

This is the season of the year when the prudent and careful housewife replenishes her supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is almost certain to be needed before the winter is over and the results are much more prompt and satisfactory when it is kept at hand and given as soon as the first indication of a cold appears and before it has become settled in the system. There is no danger in giving it to children as it contains no opium or other harmful drug. Advertisement.

"Only another Buick can ever satisfy a Buick owner"

"I HAVE owned seventeen Buicks," says Dr. Victor L. Garbutt, Detroit. "During all the years I have driven a Buick I have never had to walk home. And that's going some. I doubt if there is another car on the market that would have given me such service and I know of no car that would have given me better."

There are doctors in this community and many others who use Buicks exclusively because they know Buick never fails.

BROTHERHOOD OF ST. ANDREWS HOLD COMMUNITY SERVICE

Long before the hour appointed for the service to commence, last Sunday evening, the church of St. John's, Plymouth, was fairly well filled, but by the time the opening hymn had ceased every seat was occupied, the occasion being a community service, conducted by some young members of the Brotherhood of St. Andrews, under the supervision of Franklin L. Gibson of St. John's, Plymouth. One young man, a member of St. Paul's cathedral, read the lessons; another, a member of St. John's, Detroit, said the prayers; another, a member of Holy Trinity, sang the solo, and Rev. Harry Robinson, chaplain of the brotherhood, and late archdeacon of Detroit, gave a very inspiring address, and one could not help but notice the spirit of missions, which existed during this uplifting service. There were visitors present from Detroit, Redford, Northville and Plymouth. Three young men, members of St. John's, Plymouth, have volunteered themselves to establish a branch of the Brotherhood of St. Andrews here in Plymouth, and in a short time they will have laid the foundation in this town of a branch of one of the finest and noblest organizations in the world.

Making a Wife Useful

The wife of the great botanist beamed at him across the supper table. "But these," she exclaimed, pointing to the dish of mushrooms that had been set before her, "are not all for me, Aristotle, are they?" "Yes, Ma'ed," he nodded. "I gathered them especially for you with my own hands." She beamed upon him gratefully. What a dear, unselfish old husband he was! In five minutes she had demolished the lot. At breakfast the next morning he greeted her anxiously. "Sleep all right?" he inquired. "Splendidly," she smiled. "Not sick at all—no pains!" he pressed. "Why, of course not, Aristotle," she responded. "Harrab, then!" he exclaimed. "I have discovered another species of mushroom that isn't poisonous."
