The average man builds one house in a lifetime. It means a considerable outlay of money—BUT—that house will last twenty-five years or longer, AND the amount of money required to supply the average family with food for the same period will far exceed the cost of the house. So, after all, the HOUSE is NOT the BIG item of living expense.

NEW BANK HAS OPENING

THE PEOPLES STATE BANK OF PLYMOUTH OPENED ITS DOORS TO THE PUBLIC, MONDAY, AND MANY HAVE VISITED THE NEW BANK DURING THE OPENING WEEK.

The new Peoples State Bank of Plymouth, opened its doors to the public last Monday morning, and during the week, the bank has kept open house, and many citizens of Plymouth and vicinity have called and have been shown through the handsome banking rooms by the officials of the new bank. The entire week has been designated as opening week, and souvenirs in the shape of cigars for the gentlemen, carnations for the ladies, and pencils for the boys and girls have been generously given out to those who have called.

The beauty of the bank is enhanced by the many beautiful floral pieces, which have been received from friends and business houses, together with cordial greetings and good wishes for the success and prosperity of the new institution. President and manager, John E. Hubert, and cashier, Floyd Kehr, and various members of the board of directors have cordially received and welcomed the visitors and were in turn, the recipients of hearty good wishes and congratulations.

The building, which was purchased a short time ago from Frank Rambo, has been completely transformed into a modern and convenient banking home. The furniture and fixtures are of walnut, and present a fine appearance. The wall decorations are of a cream tint and blends in splendid harmony with the fixtures. The lobby, which has a terrazzo floor, furnishes ample room and a customer's desk is provided on the east side wall. At the front of the room is the office of the president, while at the rear is a nicely furnished directors' room. The bank is provided with a fireproof vault, which contains one of the most modern burglar proof safes of the Diebold make. A number of safety deposit boxes have also been provided for rental to customers. The work room back of the counter is provided with the latest bank equipment to facilitate the work.

The exterior of the bank also presents a splendid appearance with its white stone front, and a fine electric sign which overhangs the walk. The opening week observance will close with Saturday evening, and for that evening, Daniel Patterson's orchestra will furnish a musical program. The public is most cordially invited to come. The closing hour has been set at 9:30 o'clock.

DEATH OF A PROMINENT CITIZEN

G. B. CRUMBIE PASSED AWAY AT HARPER HOSPITAL MONDAY; FUNERAL SERVICES WERE HELD THURSDAY AFTERNOON.

George Burton Crumie was born at Romulus, July 27, 1873. In 1894, he was united in marriage to Maude Merritt of Salem. For nine years they resided at Northville, but since 1903 they have made Plymouth their home. Thursday, May 22, Mr. Crumie was stricken with pleuropneumonia. Saturday he was taken to Harper hospital, where he died Monday, May 26th, at 12:30 o'clock. The funeral was held Thursday, at 3:00 o'clock, at the Schrader Bros. Funeral home. Rev. D. D. Nagle conducted the service, and Ray Van Valkenburg of Northville, sang two beautiful selections. Interment was in Riverside cemetery.

Burt, as everyone called him, held the respect as well as the love of all who knew him in any way associated with him. His unselfish character and true consideration of others won for him the highest praise from everyone. The splendid homes that he has erected in Plymouth and neighboring towns will serve as a memorial to his untiring efforts, and will remind us of his enviable record in business transactions. Plymouth, indeed, pays tribute to one who, in every sense of the word, was a real man.

To mourn their loss, are left his wife; daughter, Mrs. Earl Ryder; two sons, Goodwin and Merritt; two sisters, Mrs. John Lundy and Mrs. Ernest Martin of Hollywood, California; many relatives, and a multitude of friends. The bereaved family have the deepest sympathy of the entire community.

MANY ATTEND MOCK TRIAL

PLYMOUTH BOOSTS SAFETY CAMPAIGN UNDER COVER OF MOCK TRIAL AT PENNIMAN ALLEN THEATRE, LAST FRIDAY EVENING.

Although the evening was a stormy one, the Penniman Allen theatre was well filled last Friday evening, to hear the mock trial of the million dollar breach of promise case. The trial was staged as a part of Plymouth's Safety Week campaign. Before the opening of the trial, motion pictures, showing how traffic accidents occur, were shown upon the screen. The pictures were very realistic and a splendid object lesson on the part of carelessness and thoughtlessness play in traffic accidents.

Miss Marjorie Pollock, with Mrs. Fred Tighe accompanying on the piano, rendered two beautiful solos in her usual pleasing manner.

H. S. Lee, president of the Plymouth Safety Drivers' Club, then introduced Leon J. Van Schoick, supervisor of safety in Wayne county, who gave a short talk relating to the safety campaign in the county.

Following Mr. Van Schoick's talk, Mr. Harris of the Detroit Safety Drivers' Club, rendered two splendid solos.

The mock trial opened with the introduction of the plaintiff and defendant, attorneys in the case, the judge and court attaches, by Mr. Van Schoick. The jury was drawn from the audience, and the examination of the jurors by the counsel on both sides caused no little merriment. The trial was before Judge Dewitt H. Merriman of the Wayne County Circuit court. The case was based on an alleged breach of contract to marry, the plaintiff charging that the $100,000 which she desired to recover as damages was barely sufficient to compensate her for the broken heart which she had suffered when the defendant in the case broke his promise. After hearing the evidence on both sides, the wise jurors of Plymouth returned a verdict in favor of the plaintiff, of course. It was a mock trial. All for fun—and all for safety.

During the progress of the trial, several of Plymouth's prominent citizens were "pinched" for imaginary offenses and fined by Judge Merriman, the funds collected going into the treasury of the Plymouth Safety Drivers' Club. Another entertainment in the interests of safety work will be staged here in the near future.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rigge arrived here from Venice, California, Tuesday. They expect to remain in Plymouth.

THE PERFECT TOWN

Not long ago we asked a well-known citizen to write down for us in black and white, just what kind of a town he considers perfect, that our readers might compare it with Plymouth. He has done so, and here is his idea of a perfect town:

"It should be a moral town where citizens obey the laws, and a woman can walk the entire length of Main street and feel that the men she passes respect womanhood; a town that forgets individual squabbles and unites for the common good of all; a town with a good public library, churches that are well attended and pastors reasonably paid; a town where nobody has to lock the chicken coop door; where each citizen is made to feel that he is needed in every movement of importance, no matter what his financial standing. The perfect town should have pure water and streets the taxpayers are proud of; a town whose citizens never say 'they' but always 'us'; a town fit to raise children in without blushing for what they may hear on the streets; where the so-called politicians are men chosen from the rank and file, seeking to help the community with no thought of selfish interest; a town with a playground for children, so they won't have to be in the streets, and with public comfort stations for both women and men. It should be a town that grows without knocking a neighboring town, one whose people are all ways courteous to strangers and one with faith in itself and its ability to get whatever it goes after."

Now read that over carefully and see how near YOU think your town measures up to it. If it doesn't, then ask yourself if there is any way in which you can help to make it measure up.

LET'S BE CONSIDERATE

One thing that keeps life from being far more pleasant is our disregard for the rights and property of others. Where is the Plymouth citizen who can truthfully say/deep down in his heart, that he practices the Golden Rule to the letter, and that he is always as considerate of his neighbor as he would like for his neighbor to be of him?

Just now we are hearing occasional complaints of trespassing, and every case is due wholly to thoughtlessness and not to a desire to injure some other person's property. The autoist, out for a Sunday ride with his family, spies along the way flowers, or shrubbery or something that he wants, and a moment later is taking it. Of course, he doesn't class it as stealing; he argues that the owner would give it to him if he could see him to ask for it. So in he goes and out he comes, leaving a trail of destruction behind, and possibly taking something that nature will be long years in replacing if, indeed, she ever does. Building fires on another's land without first asking permission is also inconsiderate of our fellowman. There may be no apparent reason why anyone should object, and yet it isn't right to do so without being sure. Parking your machine in front of another man's place of business or his home may seem perfectly legitimate. But have you stopped first to figure out whether leaving it stand there for several hours, or an entire day, is going to inconvenience him?

We can have a much better community and far happier citizens if we'll resolve to be still more considerate of the other fellow. Let's all try it awhile and see if this doesn't prove true.

TOWNSHIP BOARD OF REVIEW
There will be a meeting of the Township Board of Review of the Township of Plymouth, at the village hall, Tuesday and Wednesday, June 3 and 4.

DEATH AND FUNERAL OF FORMER RESIDENT

We take the following from Seattle, Wash., papers, regarding the death of O. B. Williams, son of Mrs. H. Williams of Plymouth, who died in that city, Friday, May 16th:

Owen B. Williams, Seattle sash and door manufacturer and a well-known clubman, died suddenly last night at 7:00 o'clock in the living room of his residence at 1701 Fourth Ave. N. The manufacturer had been confined to his home by illness for two weeks but his condition was not considered serious. A sudden heart attack is believed to have caused his death. He was 54 years old.

Mr. Williams was born in Plymouth, Mich., in 1870. When he was seventeen years old, he came west to Tacoma, where he worked in a lumber mill and later learned the trade of glazier. In 1889 he started business for himself in Fairhaven, which today is part of Bellingham. In 1902, after a brief experience in placer mining in British Columbia, Mr. Williams came to Seattle and established the paint, sash, glass and door firm which eventually grew to be one of the biggest of its kind on the Pacific Coast.

Mr. Williams was prominent in club life in the city. He was an active member of the Arcana Masonic body, Arctic Club, Rainer Golf Club, Automobile Club and Seattle Yacht Club. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Hannah E. Williams, a son, Lloyd, a student at the University of Washington; his mother and two brothers at Plymouth, Mich.; a sister at Claremont, Calif., and a sister in West Virginia.

Last tributes of friends and loyal employees were paid to O. B. Williams, pioneer sash and door manufacturer, yesterday, and his body in a flower-banked casket was carried to its final resting place in Mt. Pleasant cemetery.

Services at the Scottish Rite Temple were marked by the impressive solemnity of the Scottish Rite ritual and the Christian Science church, joint services being held.

Bereaved members of his family, more than two hundred of the O. B. Williams Company employees, and scores of close business and personal friends gathered in the temple auditorium to pay their last respects to the deceased manufacturer. Magnificent floral tributes filled every available space.

Williams' many virtues were extolled in a eulogy given by Will H. Barrow, wise master of Rose Croix chapter, Scottish Rite. The Masonic service was in charge of the Scottish Rite funeral team, composed of James H. Begg, E. S. Goodwin, P. J. O'Hara and Charles R. Snider. R. E. Forbes conducted the Christian Science service.

Sidney Homer's "Requiem" words of which were written by Robert Louis Stevenson, "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere" and two hymns from the Christian Science hymnal were sung by Magnus Petersen. Employees of the O. B. Williams Company served as active pallbearers. Honorary pallbearers were Harry Ballinger, the Rev. Dr. Major Herman Goetz, Ralph Stacey, George Sylvester and John Seaborn.

METHODIST NOTES

Our General Conference which closed at Springfield this week, has passed some important legislation which will vitally affect the life of our church and the cause of Christ in the years to come.

We note the appointment of Bishop Nicholson, formerly of the Chicago Area, to the Detroit Area, for this quadrennium. We are sorry to lose our active and able Bishop Henderson, who goes to Cincinnati Area, but rejoice in having such a capable leader as Bishop Nicholson to direct the affairs of the Area. He is one of the out-standing men of the church.

GOTHAM BOASTS UNIQUE FIRE AMBULANCE

The photograph shows the interior of the most complete ambulance that any organization can boast of. It is the property of the New York City Fire department and the gift of Messrs. W. F. and E. J. Kenny, honorary deputy chiefs. The Kenny brothers made this most unique and useful gift in memory of their deceased father who was Battalion Chief Thomas A. Kenny. During the first eleven months the ambulance was in service 1,401 miles had been covered in answer to 92 calls and the treating of 278 cases of smoke marcos. After every run all equipment is sterilized with the most modern means. Photograph shows the interior of the car with Charles Leavy applying the oxygen pump to an overcome fire fighter.

LIGHTS USED ON DIFFERENT CARS

Various Little Details Owner Should Know to Save Lamp Troubles.

(By DRWIN GREER, President Greer College of Automotive Engineering, Chicago)

The lightning bug is brilliant. But it hasn't any mind. For it blunders through existence with its headlight on behind.

Poor light lighting bug's headlight is standard equipment, as is his one speed (forward) transmission. Consequently Nature, not he, is to blame. Regardless of his defect the title of my story stands pat. I still maintain that there are headlights on the front of an automobile just as there are light bugs behind the steering wheel. To illustrate:

Jones used to buy bulbs for his car which either threw out as much illumination as a glow worm, or burnt out almost immediately. It cost him quite some money before he found that even the ornery little headlight bulb had to be humored exactly as did the engine.

What Jones didn't know was that every car has an individual lighting system of either a six-volt, twelve-volt or eighteen-volt plant; that the manufacturer either connected each lamp socket to two separate wires (double contact base), or used the metal frame-work of the car for return, running only one wire to each socket (single contact base).

House Lamps Uniform. Jones thought that motor lamps could be bought as one buys his house lamps. That lamps for home lighting were uniform in certain communities. That both cellar and parlor lights were of the same voltage? He was right about the home lighting, but wrong about his automobile lamps.

One day he ran into an accessory store where the salesman knew his business. This chap passed Jones a few questions that got him all bawled up.

"What voltage is your battery? Do you want a single or a double contact lamp, and what candle power? Or, do you want a B or C lamp?" inquired the salesman.

"I don't know," stammered Jones, "I thought—"

"But you shouldn't guess at an important thing like that," snapped the salesman. "It's fellows like you that buy blindly and then run down the lamp manufacturer simply because you don't know what type lamp is needed. You can't buy any of our lamps until you find out what kind your car should carry."

Jones Acknowledged Mistake.

Jones went home furious. As soon as he quit seeing red he dug up the car's instruction book and started to read it. Interested, he went over to the local library and made a thorough study of motor lamps in general. Then he went back to this salesman and bought his lamps, apologized, thanked him for saving him future money, and installed the new lamps. His lighting troubles have all disappeared. He acknowledges that he was at fault—that he went about his headlight troubles with a light head—and that the manufacturer did make good lamps.

Reader, are you in Jones' predicament, or did you become acquainted with your lamps in time to save money and temper? That salesman sure had the right idea. He woke Jones up and Jones reciprocated by becoming a steady customer.

Force of Sudden Stopping

When a motor car is running 15 miles an hour and is brought to an abrupt stop, the impact is equal to that of a body striking the earth from a height of 15 feet. When a car is running 30 miles per hour and is stopped in its tracks, the impact is equal to that of a 120-foot fall.

The Reader Is the Better Way. Don't poison yourself with calomel every Saturday night, but get a package of Chamberlain's Tablets. Take one or two on going to bed, and the morning will find you feeling good. Gentle and persuasive, they never gripe nor sicken. Only 25 cents.

Rules Insuring Safety

Look out for children.

Drive on the right side of the road. It's just as good as the left.

When making minor repairs, stop the car where it can be seen from both directions.

Warning signs are never put up as ornaments. Always read and obey their messages of caution.

Be sure that "dimmers" really dim. It is dangerous for a motorist to drive into a blinding glare.

Try to help, instead of hindering, the traffic officer. He has a tough job, but is always ready to offer assistance.

Always use discretion, having the car under control at all times and be considerate of pedestrians and other motorists.

Security Against Theft Afforded by Neat Lock

Many small closed cars are not provided with door locks, and the owners do not always want to pay the price demanded for handles of the locking type, or regular pillar locks.

A car of this type may very easily be locked by means of a padlock, however, thus making it a safe place to leave clothing and packages, as well as affording additional protection against car theft. As indicated, the left front door is provided with two flat-iron lock plates, one being screwed in a recess cut in the door edge, the other in the casing, so that the screws are covered when the door is closed. The remaining doors are fitted with simple latches, or sliding bolts, which are fastened before leaving the car.

These fittings are inexpensive, and, with a neat padlock of good make, do not detract from the appearance of the car, while adding to its security against theft.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Ordinary Adhesive Tape Will Stop Water Leaks

When water leakage develops between the rubber hose and the outlet from the cylinder jacket, or where the hose joins the radiator pipe, it can be obviated by wrapping the joints with ordinary adhesive tape. The proper method to follow is to remove the clamps, tape the joints and shellac the tape. When the shellac is dry the hose clamps should be replaced. Be sure that the clamp draws up in a perfect circle. If it is out of shape and will not draw up properly it will bunch up the rubber hose so that leakage will begin again before long.

AUTOMOBILE HINTS

Trouble comes when the jay walker meets up with the joy rider.

A collapsible water bucket for filling the radiator should be included in the equipment of every car.

Shellac, as well as graphite, is always helpful for preserving tires, and facilitates the removing of tires.

The horse may be passing out, but it is still a good idea, when approaching a railroad crossing, to whom.

No need in telling a girl her hair looks like a mop—too many of them nowadays don't know what a mop looks like.

Any married woman in Plymouth can tell you that the most uncomfortable day in any home is when the husband is home sick but not sick enough to go to bed.

Many Varieties of Opals; Where They Are Found

There are many varieties of opals, the varieties are divided into a few main groups. The Cachoing is an opaque white or bluish-white variety named after the river Cacho in Luk-lara. It has the opalescent glimmer of mother-of-pearl. It is associated with chalcidony and by reason of its porous quality sticks queerly to any tongue that touches it. It is esteemed by the superstitious as the stone of friendship, sincerity, truth.

The float stone is porous and fibrous and floats on water. It is esteemed as a stone that sanctions pledges. Lovers join hands over this stone as it floats in a vessel of water and pledge their vows with great solemnity, it being held that misfortune will dog the footsteps of the faithless.

The girasol, the Mexican fire opal, evanescent and variable, glows of hyacinth and yellow. This is the opal of Scott's "Anne of Gelestein."

Hyalite. A transparent or glassy opal otherwise called Muller's glass. In appearance like clear gum arabic. One of the eye-stones to which old writers attributed magic therapeutic qualities.

Hydrophane. Porous and translucent, developing opalescent tints and gradations of rare delicacy when it has been a little time in water. Otherwise of an opaque white or yellow, unattractive. Known in parts of the United States as magic stone.

Mendite. Found in slate near Paris. Known as liver opal, as it is held to have talismanic virtues in affections of that overworked organ. A concretionary opal—liver-colored.

Opal Jasper. Jasper-like resinous dark red, a ferruginous variety identified by the credulous as the opal of beautiful wisdom.

Rose opal. Found at Quincy, France. Exquisitely soft, rose-colored stone, known as the opal of childhood or of the baby cupid.

Sem-opal. A siliceous wood-opal of waxy luster, transparent to opaque. It is found in various colors—white, brown, gray, red, blue, green. It has the appearance of petrified wood. Esteemed as a tree-growing charm or forest opal.—Frank Morton in Adventure Magazine.

The Patient Postman

Old Peter, the mailman, toilsore and weary, had reached the end of his route and was congratulating himself upon having finished in such good time.

"Mr. Mailman, Mr. Mailman," came a voice from the last house on the street which could only be reached by climbing a hill of about 300 steps.

"I wonder what she wants?" thought Peter, as he started to climb the steps. "She may have an important letter she wants mailed. More steps, gosh! This sure is hard on an old man, but it is my duty to see what she wants?"

At last he reached the top of the hill and stood puffing before the woman.

"Did you have to take an examination to get in the post office?" she said.

"Why, certainly. I had to pass a civil service examination," said Peter.

"Oh, that's fine. I guess you are pretty bright then," said she. "Will you tell me how to spell Schenecady?"—Rome Sentinel.

Great Seal of England

The great seal of England, of which Lord Haldane again becomes custodian, has had several strange adventures. Besides being stolen and twice thrown into rivers, it was once buried to escape being burned.

In 1812 Lord Chancellor Eldon's house took fire, and he promptly rushed away with the great seal, which he buried in the flower garden. On returning, he records in his diary, he was "so enchanted with the pretty sight of the maids, who had turned out of their beds and were handing buckets of water to the fire engine, all in their shifts, and so alarmed for the safety of Lady Eldon," that next morning he could not remember in which flower bed he had buried the seal.

"You never saw," adds Lord Eldon, "anything so ridiculous as the whole family down the walks digging with bits of stick until we found it."—Manchester Guardian.

Wanted to Try It

Bessie was lunching with her mother in a restaurant.

Mother (helping herself to sauce)—You won't like this, dear. It's parsley sauce.

Bessie—Oh, let me have some. I know I should like it.

"Why, dear, you haven't tasted it."

"No; but I've read about it in the Bible."

"Where?"

"I've been reading about the man who was 'lick of the parsley,' and I want to try it."

Dangerous Handicap

Tommy had sprained his wrist and didn't want to go to school.

"But your wrist is nicely bandaged," urged his mother. "It won't prevent you from attending classes."

Still the boy held back. Dad took a hand at this point.

"Now speak up, son," commanded his father. "Let's have the real reason. Why don't you want to go to school with a sprained wrist?"

"Too many boys owe me a licking."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Worth Money in the Home

A bottle of Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy for immediate use for sudden and gripping pains and cramps, always alarming, especially when accompanied with black nausea and weakening diarrhoea. Gives instant warmth, comfort and ease from pain. Good for children and grown-ups.—Advertisement.

Hupmobile

The Hupmobile axle drive Cam is die-forged 3½ per cent nickel steel, case-hardened, double heat-treated, 50 per cent stronger than weight of car requires. Lower construction involves only straight carbon steel—not nearly so long-wearing—and much lighter.

A Futile Hope

Don't Expect Hupmobile Quality in a Car Less Finely Built

You know what a marvel the Hupmobile has been—you know its rugged performance over long periods—you know the high resale value it has always commanded.

The Hupmobile parts shown in the Parts Display and the processes of manufacture described, not only tell why, but they reveal the fallacy of hoping to get Hupmobile qualities in any car less finely built.

The whole question of price and value, money's worth and satisfaction, is bound up in these immensely important exhibits.

Come in and have us show you the Parts Display before you think of buying any car.

EPISCOPAL NOTES

Last Sunday our service was held in the evening. The rector preached a Memorial Day sermon, taking as his subject, "Moral Equivalent of War," and his text from Romans 12:21, "Overcome Evil with Good." Next Wednesday, June 4th, the Ladies' Guild will meet at the home of Mrs. Whitmore on West Ann Arbor street. All members are asked to be present.

Today, Memorial Day, memorial service and exercises will be held in the park in front of the school if the weather should permit, or in the school if unfavorable. The rector, Rev. Frank Copeland has been asked to deliver the Memorial Day address. Church services next Sunday will be held in the morning at 10:00 o'clock. This will be the service of the Holy Communion, and the Sunday-school session immediately after the service.

All are welcome.

LIVONIA CENTER LUTHERAN CHURCH.

There will be regular services at the Livonia Center Lutheran church on Sunday, June 1st, 1924, in the German language. After the service a short congregational meeting is to be held to elect a delegate and alternate for the bi-ennial session of the Michigan District of the Joint Synod of Wisconsin, Minnesota, Michigan and other states to which our church belongs. This church body convenes in Lansing from the 18th to the 24th of June. The matter of traveling our driveway will also be discussed, and perhaps decided upon. Sunday-school begins at 1:45, and will be in the English language.

WIXOM BOYS' PROJECT WAS MOST SUCCESSFUL.

The following will be of interest to many in Plymouth and vicinity, as the Becker family was former residents of this community.

"One of the most successful farm boys' projects ever completed in Michigan," in the words of State club leader R. A. Turner, has just been finished by the Wixom Farm Boys' club. Every boy in the club, which has 12 members, completed the five articles required in the handicraft project. First place went to Kenneth Rocker, at a combined meeting of the club with the Wixom Farmers' club on Wednesday.

The club has held regular meetings every two weeks during the past winter. An old summer kitchen at the Rocker home was used for a meeting place, and very simple tools were used. Among the articles made by the boys were bench hooks, bread boards, neck tie racks, broom holders, sleeve ironing boards and bird houses. Mr. Turner acted as judge at the meeting.

That he had told of the work of the club all over the state was another statement made by the state club leader. This was not the first project carried out by the club. Handicraft projects are worked on in the winter while pig and potato projects occupy the time of the boys during the summer. Mr. Turner believes that at least a part of the success of the club, which has been greater than that attained by the many organizations is due to the fact that the leaders are young fellows with push and enthusiasm. Harold C. Rocker and Heath Holden are the young men who have been in charge. Both will go to the A. C. C. year, and both expect to work their way through.

The club is composed of the following members: Albert Ramsey, Sidney Ramsey, John Healy, Alvin Waterman, Kenneth Rocker and Joseph Keenan of Wixom, and Arthur Price, Perry Holden, Heath Holden, Arthur Buffinger, Grant Buffinger and George Tuck of Milford.

A pot-luck dinner was served at the meeting Wednesday, which was held at the home of Mrs. G. H. Fuller. A discussion and study of the work of the boys was the theme of the Farmers' club for the day. A program followed the dinner, at which time the boys' club put on a stunt which was the feature of the entertainment. Mr. Turner was also on the program for a talk, in which he told of the work of the boys' clubs over the state, and what relation they had to the department of agriculture.

The Mothers' Day meeting held by the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, Thursday, May 22, at the beautiful home of Mrs. Luther Peck, was largely attended.

A very pleasing program had been arranged by Mrs. Fannie Doerr: A community sing led by Mrs. R. A. Cassidy, and Mrs. G. Brown at the piano, consisting of several beautiful old-time favorites, was greatly enjoyed by all. A well written and interesting paper, "Co-operation of the School with the Parents and Community," was read by Mrs. Wyman Bartlett; Mrs. Cassidy sang a beautiful solo, "Mother of My Heart"; Mrs. C. H. Bovee gave two fine readings, and pleasing instrumental selections were given by the Misses Hillman and Howell. Refreshments were served and a social hour enjoyed.

The new Year Books were distributed at this meeting, and they surely reflect great credit on the program committee—Mrs. Floyd Hillman, Mrs. O. B. Borch and Mrs. Robert Ross. One amusing feature is a "Smith" program, with the chairman, hostess and all those taking part bearing the name of Smith.

The next meeting will be "Flower Mission Day—Lawn Party," June 26, at the home of Mrs. W. S. Thomas, Main street.

HOME TALENT PLAY

A GREAT SUCCESS

The High school auditorium was well filled Tuesday evening, when the four act comedy drama, "Rosemary," was presented by local talent, under the direction of Elizabeth L. Alvia. The play was given as a Lutheran benefit. The play deals with the Civil War period, and the story is very interesting from beginning to end. Each one of the characters represented was well taken, and the work of the players not only reflected credit upon themselves, but on their director as well. During the evening Alfred Strasen rendered two clarinet solos, accompanied by Miss Hannah Strasen on the piano, most excellently; and Mr. Parre of Wayne rendered two violin solos, with piano accompaniment by Mrs. Parre, most artistically. Miss Alta Hamill gave two readings in her usual pleasing way.

The following is the cast of characters:

Rosemary, from North Carolina—Mrs. W. Westphal

Aunt Hephzibah, a Boston Gentlewoman—Mrs. J. Horan

Cousin Keziah, from Vermont—Mr. W. Westphal

CERTIFIED POTATOES
PROVE THEIR WORTH
COMPARATIVE TESTS IN STATE GIVE PEDIGREE SEED STOCK BIG YIELD MARGIN.

Production tests carried on in many counties of the state last year, comparing certified potatoes with the usual bin run stock, give the certified tubers a big yield margin over their common rivals.
In Kalkaska County, thirteen farmers planted certified seed along with equal amounts of bin run seed in adjoining plots. The average for the 13 tests showed an increase of 27.4 bushels in favor of the certified stock.

In Allegan County, similar tests gave the certified tubers a 25.8 bushel increase; while in Benzie County the increase ran 40 bushels per acre in favor of the pedigreed stock.
"These results were obtained without particular attention being given to the crop in the way of improved cultural methods or spraying," says J. W. Weston, potato specialist with the M. A. C. extension staff. "Many similar tests were carried on in Michigan and other states, and all reveal the greatly superior producing ability of good certified seed."
County agricultural agents have been lining up sources of certified seed for their growers, and large acreages of the blue ribbon stock will be planted in the state this year.

USED MANY MODES OF TRANSPORTATION

Suburbanite Has Exciting Time in One Day.

"The younger generation, and probably most of the older people who have gone about to any extent in recent years, take modern traveling facilities as a matter of course and give little or no thought to the marvels of transportation today," reflected the suburbanite, "and most of us go through our daily trips to business and elsewhere so mechanically that we fail to realize fully how remarkably diverse are the present-day means of passenger conveyance."

A man will think nothing nowadays of riding in a variety of vehicles in the course of a single day, from an elevator to a trolley, being carried along the surface of the ground, above it or under the surface, and utilizing several kinds of power. But an experience I had not long ago made me realize more than most of us do, or than I probably would have otherwise, how wonderfully diverse are the means of travel available to the people of today.

"In one day I rode on the surface of the earth, under the ground and the Hudson river as well, and also flew above the earth, being transported in trolleys, electric trains, steam trains, automobiles and an airplane, and employed the advantages of three types of power which play such important parts in the daily life of most of us—electric, gasoline and steam."

"I started out in the morning from my home in northern New Jersey and walked a short distance to a trolley line, then boarding a trolley car in which I was carried, by electric power, over the surface of the ground to a Hudson tube station. There I got on an electric train which transported me along the surface. Later I changed to another which took me through an un-covered depression, spanned a tunnel beneath the Hudson river and to the Pennsylvania station, New York."

"There I changed to another train which traveled underground for a distance, being drawn at first by electric power. Afterward it rose to the surface and, the locomotive having been changed, took me the rest of the distance to Mineola, L. I. above the ground—by steam power."

"At the railroad station in Mineola I got in a taxicab, which, by still another kind of power—gasoline—transported me to Eltham field.
"There I hopped off in an airplane which, also using gasoline, of course, bore me back over much of the same route I had followed to the field, with some deviations: soared over the community in which I live—almost above my own house—and then flew back to its starting point."

"Later I returned to my home by the same kind of conveyance I had employed on my trip to the flying field, impressed with the marvelous transportation facilities available to modern people as I fully could have been by such an experience."

Rialto Bridge

The Rialto bridge is a famous marble bridge across the Grand canal in Venice, built by Giovanni da Ponte in 1590. It consists of a single arch, 90 feet wide and 24 feet high, and rests upon 12,000 piles. The name Rialto is derived from Rivo-Alto, one of the islands on which Venice is built. This island was long the financial and commercial center of the city, and gave its name to the bridge that connects it with the mainland. There was situated the exchange; and it is probably to that building (and not to the bridge) that Shakespeare refers in his comedy of "The Merchant of Venice." "Signor Antonio, many a time and oft, in the Rialto you have rated me about my money and my usances; Still I have borne it with a patient shrug; For suffering is the badge of all our tribe."

Bell Shattered Windows

A church in Cincinnati, Ohio, claims to have the largest bell in America and, next to one in Moscow, the largest one in the world. This bell is 10 feet in diameter and 12 feet high and it weighs 30,000 pounds.
When it was hung a number of years ago its deep tones shattered windows in nearby buildings, and threatened to shake the supporting tower to pieces. Since then no one has dared to ring it.
It is sounded by tapping it with a hammer. Sounds thus produced are louder than those from smaller bells. Ring in the regular manner its peals in the tone of E-flat, could be heard over a radius of 15 miles.

Rough and Rocky

Tourist—I thought you said this was a good trail, a path of romance?
Tomaso—Well, it is so, ain't it?
Tourist—You mean the world's worst road. It resembles a jazy limitation of a disorderly stone quarry. The romance has been joggled out of it, and me.

Petters' Grammar

"Two negatives make an affirmation," declaimed Professor Dryasdust.
"Yup," agreed the youth from the rear row, who was leaving school, anyway. "Like when a girl says 'Don't! Stop that!'"—American Legion Weekly.

"No; I was born owing $30 of the world's debt."—Kansas City Journal.

What Will You Be Doing One Year From Today?

Three hundred and sixty-five days from now—what?

Will you still be struggling along in the same old job at the same old salary—worried about the future—never quite able to make both ends meet—standing still while other men go ahead?

One year from to-day you will still be putting off your start toward success—thrilled with ambition one moment and then cold the next—delaying, waiting, fiddling away the precious hours that will never come again?

Don't do it, man—don't do it.

There is no greater tragedy in the world than that of a man who stays in the rut all his life.

when with just a little effort he could bring large success within his grasp.

Michigan and Her Railroads

Since 1920, when the Government returned Railroad operation to private enterprise, service in Michigan has become yearly more dependable—more nearly adequate.

That Service is today the best Michigan has ever enjoyed.

As a result there has come into being between the State's 24 steam Railroads and the public they serve, a spirit of pride and mutual good will.

Geographical isolation has made railroad service a local more than a national problem in both Peninsulas of Michigan. Within the enveloping barriers established by our Great Lakes, Michigan and her Railroads can prosper only by prospering together. State and carriers become thus members of a close community of interest.

Michigan Railroads realize this fact and make it fundamental in all details of management and operation.

The public can also recognize this situation by neighborly co-operation and by insisting that the roads be repaid by receiving, in national and state supervision, the same square deal.

We invite from you any suggestion of more ways in which we can consistently better our service.

NEWBURG

Don't forget the church service at the usual hour, 11:00 a. m., with Sunday-school immediately after. Epworth League at 7:00 p. m. Junior League Wednesday at 4:00 p. m. Prayer meeting Thursday evening. Everyone most cordially invited to attend these services.

There was a full house Sunday afternoon, to listen to the Memorial Day exercises. The church was beautifully decorated with the national colors, potted plants and baskets of flowers, making a pretty setting for those taking part in the exercises, which were as follows:

Invocation by the pastor, Rev. Havens.

Singing—"America."

Lincoln's Gettysburg Address—Miss Louise Cheney.

Patriotic song by the choir.

Flags of a Nation—Miss Mildred Bennett, Miss Iva Bassett and Mrs. Clyde Smith, with a number of girls representing the flags.

A monologue, entitled, "A Vision, When the Band Played,"—Mrs. Donald Ryder, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Henry Grimm, Jr.

A splendid address was then given by the pastor, Rev. Paul Havens, his theme being, "The Flag That Never Trailed the Dust."

The patriotic society wishes to thank all who so kindly assisted in making their Memorial Day an occasion to honor those who so valiantly fought for the freedom of our country. Only one old soldier of the Civil war was present, Charles Westfall, who was in the 24th Michigan Infantry; also a veteran, John A. Blair, who fought with Custer. We wish to especially thank the Detroit Naval Circle No. 27, for so kindly donating 50 flags to place on the soldiers' graves.

Miss Margaret Clemens spent over Sunday at the parental home, having as her guests the following young ladies from Detroit: Harriet Grant, Bessie Rath, Gladys Easley, Meta Reynolds and Helen Lee.

The stewards of the church met at the home of Mrs. C. E. Ryder Monday afternoon, and they decided to purchase the electric light fixtures for the parsonage.

Everyone is busy this week setting out tomato plants. Those that were out before the hard frosts of last week did not stand much of a chance.

Last week's item in regard to the new Federal road, should have read, that it commences opposite the LeVan orchard on the Plymouth road.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark Mackinder were surprised Sunday, when their son, Vernie, drove in to take dinner with them. He had been to Detroit, and got a new Cleveland, and drove back to Grand Rapids the same day.

Spring Overhauling Is of Greatest Importance

Unfortunately, the increasing year-around use of the car has served largely to eliminate the annual spring overhauling performed by those motorists of a decade or so ago who religiously "put their cars up" for the winter.

While electric lights and self-starters, hard-surfaced roads, closed bodies and other cold weather comforts have brought the modern automobile into its most effective field of usefulness, it nevertheless requires as rigid inspection, adjustment and general overhauling as did the "horseless carriage" ancestors of today's motorcar.

Therefore, regardless of whether a car is used twelve months in the year, or but seven months out of that twelve, the spring is the best season for such inspection and overhauling.

The action of cold, snow and frozen ruts affects many parts, including the engine, cooling system, steering gear and tires.

The man who keeps his car in perfect mechanical condition will also take pride in its appearance. No piece of furniture receives more care in its original finish than does the modern automobile. In consequence, the motorcar should receive the same care with wax and polish as does the grand piano—more, in fact, for the former is subjected to the action of heat, cold, rain, mud and tar, whereas the pampered musical instrument is protected from the elements.—H. W. Blanson, in Leslie's.

THE THEATRE

"THE MEANEST MAN IN THE WORLD"

Saturday, May 31, the Penniman Allen theatre will offer its patrons the film version of George M. Cohan's famous stage success, "The Meanest Man in the World," a First National release.

Everybody knows George M. Cohan. And everybody knows that anything Cohan is interested in must be good. In the case of "The Meanest Man in the World," Principal Pictures Corporation assures theatre-goers that they will witness a most delightful comedy drama. The stage play ran several years in New York City with Mr. Cohan in the title role.

To Bert Lytell goes the honor of enacting the "meanest man" part in this forthcoming production. With this star is Blanche Sweet and Bryant Washburn and a host of others equally popular. The picture was directed by Edward F. Cline, who has a long list of notable productions to his credit.

The story of "the meanest man in the world" surrounds the business career of a young lawyer who just simply can't be mean. He is too soft-hearted, according to his associates. He finally determines to take the bull by the horns and be "hard-boiled." But does he? Wait and see!

Those whose pleasure it has been to witness private showings of "The Meanest Man in the World" claim it to be one of the outstanding features of the year. There is a laugh in every foot of the six reels and patrons of the Penniman Allen theatre should prepare themselves for one of the finest attractions of the season.

"MADEMOISELLE MIDNIGHT"

With Languorous and beautiful Mexico as a background and a thrilling story of love and intrigue set in it like a jewel, Mae Murray is said to have the best role of her career in "Mademoiselle Midnight," her latest picture, which will come to the Penniman Allen theatre Sunday and Monday, June 1 and 2.

In "Mademoiselle Midnight," Miss Murray plays two character roles—that of a French lady in the court of Napoleon III, and that of a daughter of Mexico, a senorita famed for beauty, wealth and cleverness.

The supporting cast is made up of many favorites, among them being Monte Hine, Robert McKim, Robert Edeson, John Sempell, Otis Harlan, Nigel De Bruin, Nick de Ruiz and Evelyn Selbie. Robert Z. Leonard directed and personally supervised the picture for Tiffany Productions. It is released by Metro.

The story is about a girl who is adopted with a curious midnight mad-dog which comes to unexpected end. "Mademoiselle Midnight" is the latest daughter of Don Pedro de Queros, who owns a vast cattle ranch in Mexico. She has inherited her grandfather's title from her grandfather, a lady in the French court of the Second Empire.

Jerry Brent, a young American, meets Renee when he comes to see her father about a plan for friendship relations between the two countries. They themselves make a good start in that direction.

One night, when Renee and her cousin, Carlos, are attending a gay fiesta in a nearby town, Manuel, an outlaw leader, raids the ranch to kidnap her and murders her father. Swearing vengeance, Renee goes to Mexico City to live with her father's brother. She is worse off than ever, for the latter is in league with Manuel, and has promised his niece's hand in marriage to the bandit.

In order to break Renee's will, her uncle has her locked in her room under surveillance, and a fake doctor tries to convince her that her mind is affected and needs treatment. When her cousin, Carlos, and the priest who has guarded her in her youth, come to call, the uncle tells them Renee's mind has gone and she cannot be seen.

Carlos communicates with Jerry Brent and the two of them, planning to rescue Renee, discover that the uncle is head of a revolutionary organization which is planning to overthrow the government.

The revolutionists hold a wild party to celebrate their anticipated victory. Renee, escaping from her room, enters into the midst of it. The frenzy of midnight is upon her and she does a mad Saturnalian dance which stirs the bandit, Manuel, to reckless endeavors. In terror she draws a dagger and stabs and wounds him.

Jerry Brent breaks into the party and tries to escape with Renee. They are surrounded by their enemies when Carlos arrives at the head of a cavalry troop. There is a terrific battle in which the revolutionists are routed, and Renee and Jerry Brent are led to church for a midnight wedding.

The picture is divided into a prologue, showing the court of Napoleon III at the time when Maximilian is being sent upon his tragic adventure as Emperor of Mexico, and the main story of modern Mexico.

"THE PERFECT FLAPPER"

It was inevitable that Colleen Moore, who created such a sensation in "Flaming Youth" and "Painted People," both First National pictures, should once again give the screen another portrayal of the modern flapper.

And judging by her remarkable characterization in these pictures it was also inevitable that her next picture be called "The Perfect Flapper," which will be shown at the Penniman Allen theatre, Wednesday, June 4th.

Exceptional attention was given Colleen Moore's forthcoming production because of the astonishing records of this winsome star's previous efforts, and it is said that she rises to still greater height in "The Perfect Flapper."

A cast of unusual quality was engaged to surround the star. Sydney Chaplin has a role which fits him like a glove and gives him opportunity to inject many laughs into the picture. He will be remembered for his side-splitting characterizations in "Her Temporary Husband" and "The Gallagher Fish."

Phyllis Haver schismata in the role of Gertrude Tregler. Frank Mayo, for years a star in his own right, has a role as Bud Andrews. The part of Aunt Sarah, a kindly soul, who stands by the star in her direct needs, is handled by Lydia Knott.

"The Perfect Flapper" was directed by John Francis Dillon, who also directed Corinne Griffith in "Lilies of the Field," and Colleen Moore in "Flaming Youth." It was adapted by Earl Hudson from "The Mouth of the Dragon," the Ainslee Magazine story by Jessie Henderson.

MOTORIST IS NOT ALWAYS AT FAULT

Surprising Amount of Foolishness Enters Into Hasty and Bustle Seen on Streets.

(By ERWIN GREER, President Greer College of Automotive Engineering, Chicago.)

Trying to catch up with lost time is as foolish as the fundamental cause of the majority of motor vehicle accidents. And any necessity for making up for this lost time is usually the result of procrastination before the start. It has been claimed.

Bustle and Hasty on Street.

It is really surprising the amount of foolishness that enters into the bustle and hurry we see on the street every day. And just think how much of it would be saved if each person followed a well-ordered schedule. If he planned just so much for one day, didn't put off a business engagement when its time on the schedule arrived, and didn't, on the other hand, try to do more in eight, nine or ten hours than it was wisely possible to do.

When you see a flock of pedestrians climb off a street car and chase recklessly across the street intersection to catch another car just starting for the crossing, just set it down that they put off starting from their home or office too long. Many a man risks his life catching a street car. I've seen men even run diagonally across a street intersection to catch a car. It seems hardly fair to leave all the watching out for the motorist to do.

Driver Just as Bad.

Yet the motorist is just as bad as anyone at trying to make up for lost time. It is proved by his confessions in police court quite often. If you want further proof watch a late afternoon melee at any busy street crossing. You will see driver after driver whip past a car in front of him, trusting his less reckless fellow drivers will keep out of his way. He overlaps the speed limit, maybe gets by with it but never catches up with the elusive minute. He should have started sooner.

AUTOMOBILE GOSSIP

A hole should be drilled in the bottom of the metal battery box to allow water or acid that happens to overflow to make its escape.

Be careful to remove everything from the side pockets—and remove the battery. If the car is repaired on one of these new devices used to turn it upside down.

Only two of every 1,000 accidents involving motor vehicles are unavoidable. 998 of them need not occur if proper care is observed and proper precautions taken.

It is always advisable to use tire chains whenever pavements and roads are in such condition as to make skidding likely to happen in turning corners, stopping and starting.

According to reliable sources, about 30 per cent of each gallon of gasoline is wasted in automobiles, resulting from wrong carburetor adjustment and consequent imperfect combustion.

There are usually two or three places in the brake assembly where a "take-up" is possible to remove the slack. Each time the brakes are adjusted a different place should be used.

SAFE MUST STAND MANY HARD TESTS

Modern Strongbox Gets Rough Treatment.

There must be no doubt about a safe. Therefore a safe that is being tested at the Underwriters' Laboratories has to undergo some pretty severe usage. If it does not weaken, says Mr. Harry Chase Brerley in a Symbol of Safety, it wins a label of utter trustworthiness.

First the safe is submitted to the "explosion test." Inside are magazines and loose papers and a recording thermometer. A photograph is taken of them. Then the doors are closed, and the safe is enveloped in flames. In less than three minutes the temperature exceeds a thousand degrees; and in 15 minutes it has reached seventeen hundred degrees. Those are extreme conflagration conditions.

For the second test the safe is placed in a furnace that consists of a box of thick masonry and that is heated with four rows of blast burners. After 20 minutes an observer looking through a peep hole at the back of the furnace can see the large sheet of steel that forms the back of the safe is beginning to show signs of distortion. That is only natural. Thirty minutes; tiny spurts of flame are issuing from joints in the safe from the generation of gases within the insulation. It is indicative of good design that they can escape without doing damage. Forty minutes, and the steel knob of the combination lock is brilliant red; one hour, and the entire surface of the safe is brilliant red. If the safe has been submitted for the highest classification it is subjected to an inferno of ever-increasing intensity for three hours longer; but at the end of the four hours the heat inside as indicated by a recording instrument connected with an external switch-board must not be sufficient to injure the most delicate papers on the shelves.

The "drop test" is even more spectacular. Toward the end of an hour's heating, which the safe must undergo for this test, eight men in overalls stand by at their stations like trained gun crews. Blocks and tackles are all set to open the wall door of the furnace and to roll out the bottom truck on which the red hot safe rests. The engineer at the instruments takes a last reading of temperatures, jots them down and puts his mouth to the speaking tube. "Ready!" he calls.

Two asbestos-gloved men disconnect the recording instruments and withdraw them while hot from the furnace wall holes.

"Ten seconds!" shouts an engineer.

"Fire!"

A man grasps a lever.

"Go!"

The flames go out with a pop. There is a thud as a man runs a timber against the door prop. The heavy door opens. Workmen, crouching to protect their faces from the heat, quickly hook the wheeled truck and draw it forth; then they raise the safe high in air until it is plumb above a massive concrete block set flush with the flooring of the yard and covered with a heap of loose bricks. The safe is dropped and, whirling down from the height of a fourth-floor window, lands with a crash.

On a second day the test is repeated with the safe turned upside down. After that it is carefully examined and disassembled, and, if it has done all that was expected of it, it wins its rating.—Youth's Companion.

General Cass an Explorer

Gen. Lewis Cass of Michigan was an explorer as well as an eminent soldier and statesman. He organized an expedition at Detroit and led it up the Detroit river and through the lakes to the Mississippi in the spring and summer of 1820 for the purpose of exploring the river to its ultimate source. General Cass reached the Mississippi too late in the season to penetrate its source and his expedition rested in the lake in Minnesota, which now bears his name. Having several men of scientific attainments, the expedition was distinguished by its attention to the peculiar characteristics of the Indian tribes and the botany, mineralogy and meteorology of the regions traversed. Cass lake is a fine body of transparent water about 18 miles in length.—Detroit News.

Singles

Two Scotchmen, in the habit of crossing a river on a ferry boat, took it in turn to pay the two fares.

Apparently they lost count, for one morning Jock said to Sandy: "Who's turn is it the day? I dinna think it's your turn."

"An' I dinna think it's yours," said Sandy.

"Well," said Jock, "we'll each pay our ain."

"Aw right," replied Sandy; "but look here, Jock, dinna tak' returns, tak' singles. We might meet someone on the ther side."

Built in Corner and Does Not Take Up Any Floor Space—Can Be Readily Made.

The drawing shows a concrete washbowl for use in garages. The bowl is built in a corner, as shown, so that it will not take any floor space. A number of holes are made in the wall at the point where the bowl is to be made, so that the concrete will be anchored securely. A wooden form is made as shown in the right-hand detail, two holes being drilled in it for the two
