A FINE OUTLOOK

Reports from all sections of the country are to the effect that growing crops and fruit have been retarded somewhat by backward weather and that the planting of other crops has been seriously delayed. But so far no reports of deplorable loss in any section have been received, and as far as the community around Plymouth is concerned there seems to be no more than the usual amount of complaint about unsatisfactory weather.

In fact, if all reports were assembled and taken in their entirety, they would really give the people of this country considerable cause for rejoicing. We are not fully "out of the woods" yet. It is true, and many things could occur between now and harvest to change the situation. But as it stands, America is in for a big year from an agricultural standpoint, a year big enough, it is believed, to offset any slump that may exist in the manufacturing world. There is a pretty large building program going on all over the country, with the result that there is less idleness than during the fall and winter months. The problem of getting enough hands to harvest the western crop does not loom as a spectre this year. There will be plenty of men for the job.

Just about half of the hard times in this country exist in the mind only. The man who talks hard times, has hard times. The fellow who is not satisfied, but who wants to make things better, and the merchant who wants more business and goes after it through the right kind of publicity are the ones who win out. If you want prosperity—talk prosperity. If you are content with hard times—then keep talking hard times. But just now the ones who talk prosperity seem to have the floor.

A FORWARD STEP

Plymouth people who have had occasion to take long auto trips have noticed the confusing variety of signs intended to point out directions, to guide traffic and to give warning of dangers ahead in the road. They find that the styles change every little ways, until by the time they have traveled a few hundred miles there is conglomeration of signs and traffic orders so confusing that many drivers give up in disgust and quit paying attention to practically all of them. But now comes word from Washington that the American Association of Highway Officials is laying plans for a standardized road sign system. Under it all road signs throughout the United States will be uniform. Once a man learns the system he is safe in all parts of the country—the signs will mean the same wherever they are found, and there will be no need for confusion. With standard road signs, the elimination of speeding and drivers looking both ways, we may expect the excellent problem to take care of itself.

MUNICIPAL NOTES

The fire siren was moved from the tower behind the village hall, last Saturday and placed on a platform up under the steel water tank in the park behind the Presbyterian church. From this new position it is expected that the sound of the whistle will be more evenly spread over the town.

The old fire bell was also taken down from the tower. It will probably be placed up in the front of the town hall. This bell celebrates its thirtieth anniversary this year, having been cast in Cincinnati by the E. W. VanDusen Company in 1895.

The band concert enjoyed by a crowd last Saturday, in spite of the rain, was at least in part due to the effect of the looks of the town. The band leader, driving through, was impressed with the village and its park, and sought an opportunity to bring his boys here, and now he wants to come again.

The village sold its $92,000 sewer bonds to good advantage, Monday night. There were seven bidders, and the bonds were sold to the Plymouth United Savings Bank at an interest rate of 4% per cent and for a premium of $656.

The county has finished the pavement on the Ann Arbor road from the village limits west for a couple of miles. They have taken up the track, which has been used for hauling materials to the mixer. The village appreciates the care the county crew took in keeping Ann Arbor street passable during the course of this work. They appreciate the fine concrete intersection placed at the corner of Ann Arbor street and Moreland avenue.

Bids for the construction of 16,700 feet of sanitary sewer were opened Monday evening by the Commission. There were eight proposals received, ranging from $38,000 to $89,000. The two lowest bids were reserved for further examination, and were discussed further with the engineers last night. Next week the successful contractor will be noted in this column. All the bids received were very favorable from the village standpoint.

OBITUARY

Bertha Bernhardt was born in Schwetz, Germany, in 1864; was married to Carl Schmidt, September 17, 1885. They came to Northville, Michigan, in 1888, and lived in that vicinity until 1915. Then she came to Plymouth. To this union eight children were born, five of whom remain to mourn the loss of a dear mother: Mrs. Charles Rengert, Mrs. Gustav Lidke, Mrs. William Wallenmiller, and William and Carl Schmidt all of Plymouth. May 8, 1922, she was married to Godfrey Reinholz of Detroit, who also remains to mourn his loss. Since then, she has resided in Detroit.

She was a very faithful member of the Immanuel Lutheran church. She departed this life at her home, 3905 Cicotte avenue, Friday, May 8th, at 1:15 p. m. The funeral was held at her church in Detroit, Monday, May 11th, at 2:30 p. m., with interment in Riverside cemetery, Plymouth.

She was a kind and loving mother, ever looking to the welfare of her family; she also made many friends wherever she lived. Besides the immediate family, an aged mother, two brothers, four sisters, nine grandchildren and a host of friends are left to mourn the loss of one who was very dear to them.

A precious one from us has gone,
A voice we loved is stilled,
A place is vacant in our home
Which never can be filled.
God in his wisdom, has recalled
The boon his love had given,
And though the body slumbers here
The soul is safe in Heaven.

A CARD—We wish to thank our many friends and neighbors who were so kind to us during the illness and death of our husband and father.

KEEP THEM BUSY

Schools are now closing throughout the country, and the summer vacation season will again find our boys and girls enjoying the well-earned rest to which they are entitled. No one begrudges them a vacation, and everyone wants them to get the most out of it. But those who have their welfare most at heart are those who realize that vacation time should not mean a time of complete idleness. Give the boys and girls something to do through the summer months—it will be for their own good, even though it may be difficult to make them see it that way now. The streets of Plymouth are no place for boys and girls to spend all their leisure time. Find something for them to do around the house, just enough to keep their minds occupied a liberal part of the time, and the vacation will be worth more to them both now, and in the years to come. American youth has shown an inclination to "take things easy" in recent times, with the result that sooner or later this country may find her list of drones as large as that which now menaces the future of England. Keep the boys and girls doing just enough to prevent their forgetting the curse of idleness.

ANOTHER GOOD "CROP"

It appears that we are not only indebted to the rural sections of the nation for the things we eat, but also for those who are coming on to eat them. In spite of the fact that the population of the cities is increasing, Uncle Sam has just issued a bulletin showing that the birth-rate in the farming districts and small towns is 52 per cent greater. The figures state that at the time of the last census, there were 128 children in the cities for every 100 wives between the ages of fifteen and forty-five, while in the smaller towns there were 157 children, and in the purely farming sections 195 children. This reference to towns means places of from 250 to 2,600 pop-

There were twenty in attendance at the L. A. S. meeting, held at the home of Mrs. Henry Grimm, Jr., last week Wednesday afternoon. All are wide awake over the contest that is on in the L. A. S.

Congratulations are in order over the arrival of another son, James, Jr., to Mr. and Mrs. James Vassett, Thursday, May 14.

Miss Hazel Reddeman and Miss Onilee Hall closed a successful year of school last Friday, with a picnic. Ice cream and cake were served. The many friends of Miss Hall, will be sorry to learn she will not return here another year, as she has decided to take a school of one pupil.

Mrs. Charles E. Ryder returned last week Thursday, from her trip to Cincinnati, Chattanooga, Tennessee, and with her son and family at LaGrange, Illinois. While in Cincinnati, she was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Pattullo, seeing the sights of their beautiful city, which is indeed a city on the hills. One thing of especial interest, was the visit to the Rockwood Pottery, seeing them at work on the beautiful vases and jars for which they have a world wide reputation. Leaving there April 22, going over the Cumberland mountains, passing through sixteen tunnels in all. The Red lud was in bloom all along the route, making a pretty sight. One wonders how the mountaineers exist with their little shacks and patch of cleared ground. Mrs. Ryder visited her cousins, Miss Martha Britten and brother, Jay, while in Chattanooga. There are a great many things of historical interest in and around this old Southern city. The visit by motor bus to the old battleground of Chickamauga, with its cannon and numerous monuments. The different states, both north and south, have erected these to perpetuate the memory of the boys who wore the blue and the grey. Also the trip up Lookout Mountain, where the battle above the clouds was fought November 24, 1863. The views from this mountain, Missionary Ridge and Signal Mountain are grand, beyond description, overlooking the valley and Tennessee River, which you can see for 35 miles winding in and out among its pretty islands. There are beautiful homes and land under cultivation on the mountains, with lovely roses and wild flowers of all descriptions, where once was bloody warfare. A visit to the War Relic museum was of interest, where was shown the table and chair that were used by General Grant while stationed there in 1862; an old two wheeled chaise that belonged General Lewis Cass of Detroit, and other old relics too numerous to mention. Mrs. Ryder also visited the national cemetery, where 13,000 soldiers lie sleeping, who were killed in battles fought from September until November, 1863, around Chattanooga. The city was full of tourists going north after spending the winter in Florida.

The officers of the P. T. A. wish to thank all who attended or helped in other ways to make the play, "Safety First," which was repeated last Friday, the success it was. The music furnished by little Angeline Rousseau, piano, Kenneth Jewell drum, and Morris Garchow accordian, was certainly appreciated. They surely deserve credit for their splendid exhibition, for which we heartily thank them. The total receipts for the play, were $81.86, and the expenses were about $12.00. There was enough left to pay off the debt of $70.00 on the Victrola, which was purchased last December for $100.00. We still have about $60.00 left in the treasury, and our next effort will be to raise funds for playground equipment. A lawn social will be arranged for during the summer. Notice of special meeting of P. T. A. will be given later.

The House of Correction lost to the Chrysler Motor, 14 to 7, Sunday, Jaska, following for the Officers, pitched a good game up to the seventh inning, holding the Chryslerers to three runs, also putting one out of the park for a home run in the last of the seventh. But in the eighth, they got next to Jaska, getting seven hits. Then Hammond tried to check the rally, but had to call upon Crossman.

AT A SESSION OF said Court, held in the Court Room thereof in the City of Detroit, said County and State, on the 20th day of April, A. D. 1925.

PRESENT: The Hon. Harry J. Dingeman, Circuit Judge.

On reading and filing the Bill of Complaint in this cause from which it satisfactorily appears to the Court that title, interests or claims to the premises described in said Bill and hereinafter described, which rights, title, interests and claims of said defendants, and each of them, if they ever had any validity, said plaintiff avers to be barred by the continuous, open, notorious, undisputed, adverse and exclusive possession of plaintiff and his grantors for more than fifteen (15) years last past, and for more than fifteen (15) years since the several rights to the possession thereof accrued in said respective defendants, which possession has been, during all of said time, and still is, adverse and hostile to the rights, title, interests and claims of said respective defendants; and upon reading the affidavit of said plaintiff that it is not known, and could not be ascertained after diligent search and inquiry, whether their rights, title, interests and claims have been disposed of by Will, and that it cannot be ascertained in what State or Country said defendants reside.

DONTS

- Don't give lamp bulbs the final wrench when screwing them into the socket. This loosens the glass from its brass base and shortens the life of the lamp.
- Don't let dust gather on lamp bulbs. It will absorb as much as 50 per cent of the light. Wipe off with a soft, dry cloth.
- Don't use old, dim, discolored lamp bulbs. They waste much light and hurt the eyes. You can exchange them for new lamps, you know.
- Don't use any lamp bulbs bare. Use shades of glass, silk, or parchment to soften the light and save your eyes.

GAVE EXHIBITION OF PERFECT FAITH

Death of Christian Zulus to Be Deplored.

Those who read of the recent attempt of a party of Christian Zulus to repeat the miracle of the Red sea, as a result of which the children of Israel passed dryshod, may have smiled at first, but their smile could not have been of derision, for 50 of these simple people were drowned.

Christian mankind is told authoritatively that with perfect faith mountains can be moved, hills remedied and life itself preserved. What faith could be more perfect than that which impelled these homeward-bound Christians of but a few years' standing to kneel down and pray in unison, and then, after their headman had suitably bowed with an iron staff and commanded it to roll back, to advance bravely and firmly? It was sublime. One cannot help wishing that it might have been successful.

The Zulus are among the bravest, most faithful and most unquestioning people in the world. Their savage virtues, so ably portrayed by Sir Rider Haggard, formed a magnificent foundation for the application of Christianity. The first missionaries who visited Natal in the days of Chaka the Great, that talented monster, suffered acutely, both physically and mentally, but stuck heroically to their jobs. One recalls a story about Dingaan, Chaka's successor, he who later treacherously massacred the Boers under relief. When warned that his sins would undoubtedly send him and his adherents to hell, he had a vast headdress kindled, and then, when it was burning most fiercely, commanded a regiment of his younger warriors to stamp it flat. This he did, at a cost of three-fourths of its strength, to illustrate for the benefit of the missionaries just what their royal master would do to the fires of Gehenna.

Stuff like this was too good to go unutilized, and the labor continued in this difficult vineyard until today most Zulus are Christians, believing implicitly in Holy Writ and all that is promised therein. Just why tragedy had to stalk hand in hand with absolute faith is no question to be discussed here, nor, it is thought, will fancies attack it any too cheerfully, but in honor of that party of stalwart black men, whose savage theology once included no hereafter, no rewards or punishments, but who believed even then in "playing the game" to the end for the game's sake, hats may be lifted with propriety around the world. —Chicago Post.

Village Had to Go

The picturesque village of Mardale Green, near Haweswater, England, with its famous old hostelry, the Dun Bull, and the hillside lands, where many a sporting meeting has been held, will shortly be submerged, for it is the intention of the Manchester city council to build a huge reservoir in that district. The quaint old village, however, will be rebuilt on higher land, writes a correspondent of the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

The reservoir will be one of the largest in England and will involve the building of an aqueduct 84 miles long. It will provide storage for 20,000,000,000 gallons, will spread over 1,000 acres and will take ten years to complete at a cost of $50,000,000.

Important Waterway

The inner harbor navigation and industrial canal of New Orleans extends for over five miles from the Mississippi valley to Lake Pontchartrain. A concrete ship lock permitting the passage of 20,000-ton vessels will admit them to the gulf level of the inner harbor, from which there is a 9 by 14-foot channel through Lake Pontchartrain to the gulf, which it is expected will ultimately be substituted by a 30-foot channel. The canal adds about 11 miles to the waterfront. It was completed in 1923. It changes 95,000 acres of waste, low-value lands within the city limits to potential harbor frontage of high value.

World Has Little Use for the Hobo Laborer

He is almost a memory; he is gone because the need for him is gone. The industrial conquest of the country is accomplished; what remains to be done is extension, development, stabilization.

Industry no longer calls for pioneer labor, but for labor only. And the man who feels an urge to go away out there and help out on that big job has a hard time of it. Alaska, Canada, Mexico, the Argentine—yes, a man can strike out for those places. But there has been no excited talk in employment offices about work in foreign parts for a long time.

Panama is past, it has been a long time since the Canadian transcontinental roads were spiked, and the government railroad in Alaska—oh, lords, where'll we go? The Roman soldiers asked the same question, no doubt, when Rome conquered no longer, and so did adventurous sailors when the great days of the exploring navigators were done. And what became of Mark Twain's hordes of rivermen? Where are the snows of yesteryear?

Camp life still goes on, of course, in the woods, on construction work, and in the oil fields. But these camps are nowadays populated largely by laborers who support families, and who own cars, tailored clothes and bank accounts. The old-timers spin yarns of the happy days as they crouch around the bunkhouse stove, and they sometimes inspire a young laborer who has the soul of a roving adventurer. If he tries the box cars, he finds a dead life. If he journeys in an old flivver, he discovers something better, but not adventure.

The dance hall, the joy-ride, an occasional moonshine spree, poker and dice and the punchboards—these are the most spectacular elements in the life of the American laborer today. Its last raw, vivid colors went out with the hobo, and only the dream of sweat and effort is left. But this plain, simple drama has significance and merit, and, finally, the best words to be said for the hobo is that he was a hero in it.—James Stevens, in Century Magazine.

Pike's Peak Or—

The late Antonio de Novellis, the veteran musical director, who superintended the original American production of the "Mikado," has a very low opinion of jazz.

"The men who declare that jazz is a sign of progress in American music," Mr. De Novellis said one day in Flushing, "are as ignorant of music as the farmer was ignorant of photography."

"A farmer took his bride to a photographer's and said:

"We want the wife's picture took."

"Full length or bust?" the photographer asked.

"The farmer gave a hearty laugh and slapped the photographer on the back.

"All right; make it full length, young feller," he said, "and if she busts I'll pay for the machine."

Dollar Came Back

In 1878 a Confederate veteran named Doherty left South Carolina for Tennessee with his family. His fortune went with them for a while, for their home burned down and members of the family became ill, so that when the only money in their possession was an inflated silver dollar they parted with it reluctantly. Mr. Doherty goes on with the story: "Not a dollar has since fallen into my hands without my scrutinizing it to discover those initials. A few days ago a man called to me on the street and said, 'Here is the dollar I owe you.' As was my custom for 46 years, I looked for the initials, and to my great joy that dollar had the letters W. E. D. engraved on it."

Baseball in Argentina

Baseball has at last gained a place among Argentine sports, though as yet a small one. Two teams, composed of natives, have been organized, coached by Americans, one representing the Buenos Aires Y. M. C. A., the other the Gymnasium and Fencing club, the principal athletic club of Buenos Aires. Increasingly large numbers of spectators watch the games which they play with each other, with teams of American residents, and with one team of Japanese residents. They field and bat well, but have yet to develop pitchers able to fool their American or Japanese opponents often enough to win a game from them.

He'll Never Get In

William Milligan Sloane, the historian, is president of the American Academy of Arts and Letters, and in New York the other day a young novelist of the psycho-analytic or jazz school ridiculed the distinguished institution mercilessly. He said the French academy was no good, and the American academy was only an imitation of it.

When the jazz novelist got through Professor Sloane gave a good-natured laugh and said:

"Our American academy is like death. People only joke about it when they know there's no danger of its coming their way."

Helium Used as Starter

Helium, the non-combustible gas used in filling the lighter-than-air craft, has found another use. It has always been impossible on the Los Angeles to carry enough compressed air intact for the purpose of "kicking over" the engines in starting. Experiments conducted at Lakehurst, the naval air station, have developed the fact that this gas can be used successfully in starting the big motors of the craft.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

REV. S. CONGER HATHAWAY, A. M., PASTOR

Hiking in the Holy Land

says one who has done it, is a man-sized job.

He followed in the footsteps of Jesus as told in the Bible, and says that Christ must have been of athletic body to have stood such hard journeys afoot.

Christ experienced a man's life, understood man's difficulties, is man's most faithful Friend.

Learn more about Him

By Attending Church Next Sunday

BAPTIST NOTES

Sunday morning, the pastor spoke on "The Kingdom of God, its location, how to enter the kingdom, its location 'within you,' the King himself."

A number of books were given to the Sunday-school library by Mrs. Tighe. The Sunday-school gave her a vote of thanks.

The B. Y. P. U. rally at Walled Lake, last week Friday evening, was attended by quite a number of young people, and last Sunday evening, before the sermon, the young people gave a report of the same. Miss Sarah Daly was the first to speak; then Gaylord Sayles, Miss Bernadette Ballou and Stillman Warner each described part of the program. Alton Sayles, vice president of the Wayne Association B. Y. P. U., presided at Walled Lake.

The boys and girls of the Sunday-school have already held several recitals preparing for Children's Day, which comes the second Sunday in June, but will be held the first Sunday evening in June this year.

PRESBYTERIAN NOTES

The joint meeting of the Ready Service and Busy Woman's Bible classes was held Tuesday, at the home of Mrs. Frank Smith, on Ann street. A fine pot-luck dinner was served. On account of the prevailing sickness, the attendance was smaller than usual, but the usual good time was enjoyed. The June meeting will be at the manse. The pastor has been invited to attend.

Elder A. D. Stevens accompanied the pastor, last Sunday, and witnessed the ordaining and installing of elders at the Ypsilanti church. He was invited to sit with the Session following the morning service, and opened the meeting with prayer.

Rev. H. G. Kellogg, who occupied our pulpit last Sunday, was very much impressed by our beautiful order of service, now further enriched with the use of the bags. He asked permission to take a copy of it to the Jackson church, with which he is now connected, with the view of introducing it there. We hope it will prove successful, but where can he find a choir like ours?

The Daisy-Wenver class had a hike to Phoenix Park, last Friday night. Maurine Dunn headed the athletic list in the contests that followed the spread.

There was a triangular ball game at Phoenix Park, last Monday night, between the sheriff's force, the clergy and the school teachers. Ask Mr. Wenver what the score was, because the other parties don't know.

The pastor was pleased to know that the men turned out so well during his absence. Loyalty like that means a permanent organization.

Don't forget to reserve the evening of June 9th, for the pipe organ recital. Henry the Fifth has arrived, and has taken the place of Henry the Fourth, who abdicated a month ago. May he have a long and prosperous reign, and put down the handis who infect the borders of his realm on the Detroit side.

METHODIST NOTES

We enjoyed, Miss Virginia Giles' rendition of Van Dyke's "A Legend of Service" last Sunday. It was fine.

The Epworth League Cabinet meets tonight, at 8:00, at the church. The discussions on Stewardship, at the mid-week services have been interesting and profitable. Have you attended lately? Wednesday night at 7:30.

One needs religion at this time of the year as well as any other time. Do not let the lure of a delightful ride in your auto and a pleasant holiday tempt you away from the hour of public worship which is essential to one's spiritual growth.

"True worth is in being, not seeming. In doing, each day that goes by. Some little good—not in dreaming Of great things to do by and by."

—Alice Cary.
Attend church next Sunday.

W. C. T. U.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union will hold a tea meeting, next Thursday, at the home of Mrs. Albert Stevens, 473 Adams street. There will be a program, and a good time is expected. It is hoped that members will make a special effort to be present, and will also invite their friends. The new year books are ready, and will be given out at this time.

GRANGE NOTES

Children's Day will be June 5th, with a good program. The lecturer is going to serve ice cream and cake, the ladies to bring the cake.

Do not forget the Memorial services at the hall, May 29th. Speaker, Rev. Blake of Denton, Michigan.

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of our beloved husband and father, George Burton Crombie, who passed away one year ago, May 26, 1924:

A precious one from us has gone:
The voice we loved is stilled.
A place is vacant in our home
Which never can be filled.
How oft we think of you, dear father,
And our hearts are filled with pain;
Oh, this earth would be a heaven
Could we but hear your voice again.
God in His wisdom has recalled
The boon His love had given,
And though the body slumbers here,
The soul is safe in Heaven.
Sadly missed by his wife,
daughter and sons.

Air Service in Sweden
Regular air services were operated in Sweden for the first time during 1924. All of these were on a summer schedule, and included services between Malmo and Hamburg, Stockholm and Helsinki, and Malmo and Copenhagen. Although regular schedules were followed on all three lines, most of the traffic was on the Copenhagen route, over which 246 trips were made and 2,528 passengers carried. The fact that on January 1, 1925, there were 252 private individuals in Sweden in possession of licenses for operation of airplanes is an indication of the interest that has been aroused in civilian air services.

Easy to Remember
John B. Wright, of Tucson, recently appointed United States attorney of Arizona, knows the license number of his automobile without looking up a memorandum. He knows it because it is identical with the number of his house, the number of his postoffice box and his telephone number. He lives at 646 South Sixth street and it took him years to achieve the simplification of numbers.

PARENT-TEACHER ASSOCIATION STATE MEETING.

several hours observance he noted the little lad had a pet cat he was very fond of. He said to the boy, "The boy, attracted by the gold watch, naturally traded. The judge then took the cat under one arm and a hatchet he found under the other, and said to the father of the boy, "This cat is mine; I am going to the alley to chop his head off," and started out the door. The boy, realizing the danger of his pet cat, started after the judge, and called, "Here's your watch, I want my cat back." The judge said this boy was emotionally sound. Had he not been, he probably would have been glad to see the cat's head chopped off, even offering to do the chopping while the judge held the cat.

With emotion, you have conscience; without, you get criminals. Judge Olson cited many cases telling of their varied emotions and the result. He told the teachers they should know of the emotional side of a child as well as the physical and intellectual. There is seldom any cure for mental deficiency, but they should be carefully observed for their effect school, church and community.

Judge said we were very lax with our immigration laws, allowing hundreds to enter the U. S. who were emotionally defective. He stated that one-third of all the taxes paid in the state of Illinois, went to care for the defective people, and that one-half of all the taxes of the U. S. was paid for support of defectives in this country.

In conclusion, Judge Olson urged us to improve the race for tomorrow by making clean blood streams, and to make stringent marriage laws forbidding defectives to marry and produce a line of defectives for the future.

The evening speaker was Dr. Caroline Hedger, of Chicago, a member of the speakers bureau of the Elizabeth McCormick Foundation and a well known authority on child health. She gave her talk on "Health of the Pre-School Child." "Many cases of disease in a child can be cured by taking care of them in early life. It is not what is being done to the child today, as much as it is what you are doing so that it does not interfere with him fifty years hence," said Dr. Hedger. In order to grow right, a child must have a normal nervous balance and normal activities. More harm is done by over-stimulation than anything else.

"A comes home and wants to play, so he takes the small child and plays. Consequences—over stimulation, which the child should not have especially at the end of the day. The normal child plays and smiles, and has quiet spells; the over-stimulated one is restless, laughs, has a high pitched voice and red face.

Dr. Hedger said we expected too much of the child these days; that they should not have fine muscle or eye action. She said her mother wished her to be a perfect lady; gave her those nasty little pieces to sew together into quilt blocks. She said that consequently, all the sewing she ever did was done before the age of six years. She stated a case where the parents of a 25-month old child were so worried because the child had insomnia. The mother told her the child could recite several pieces, dance and sing and count to a hundred. Dr. Hedger said she had but two words to say in regard to this case, "FOOL PARENTS."

The child must act and play on the basis of his own demands and not the demands of adults. This applies to kindergarten also. There must be no demand for play that does not come from the child's own desire for activity. Fear is destructive to the child. Always try to overcome this feeling as far as possible. A child should eat everything set before it. He does not know what he should eat any more than he knows enough to buy an overcoat. You wouldn't send him down town to buy an overcoat, would you? Then don't let him be the judge of what he should eat.

Dr. said the parents should educate themselves, and learn to build sane, normal children, instead of insane asylums. It costs the U. S. $400 to care for a defective child one year.

She also said, "Do not keep the child up nights to do interpretive dances and entertainments. If you must have interpretive dances, DO IT YOURSELF."

Friday morning session was largely given over to election of officers. All officers elected were nominated by the nominating committee, no nominations having been called from the floor. The state officers for the year 1925-1926, are: President, Mrs. Fred Raymond, wife of the recently appointed federal judge of western Michigan; first vice president, D. F. Strong; second vice president, E. W. Stewart; third vice president, E. J. Dale; fourth vice president, Mrs. Elizabeth McKeel; fifth vice president, Mrs. E. W. Keffer; sixth vice president, Mrs. Louise Campbell; seventh vice president, Dr. F. M. Meager; treasurer, Mrs. W. E. Olds; assistant treasurer, Albert Tegle; corresponding secretary, Clara M. Wheeler; recording secretary, Mrs. W. C. Peterson and Mr. M. C. Collins; historian, Mrs. M. J. Gunn. Two new departments were created this year, those of Illiteracy and P. T. A. in churches. The appointed officers are: First district chairman, Miss Carrie Dickens; second district, chairman, Mrs. Alfred W. Norris; third district chairman, Mrs. Spencer Kelly; fourth district chairman, Mrs. Carl Gee; fifth district chairman, Supt. C. L. Poir; sixth district chairman, Mrs. Byron Olls; seventh district chairman, Mrs. H. Fischer Ames. Department chairmen appointed are as follows: Illiteracy, Mrs. J. B. Nicholson; P. T. A. in churches, Mrs. E. W. Reishlag; child welfare, Mrs. Frank W. Ayer; legislation, Mrs. J. E. Fitting; literature, Mrs. A. E. Richardson; child welfare magazine, Mrs. Edward Whitney; student loan fund, Miss Margaret Beach; safety education, Miss Beard; pre-school circles, Miss Elizabeth Cleveland; country life, Miss Otrilla Frisick; American citizenship, Mrs. W. E. Gault; home education, Mrs. Edith McKeel; home education, L. A. Bailey; publicity, Arthur M. Smith; program service, Mrs. P. S. Christiansen; recreation, Ralph C. Yeager; social standards, Miss J. Black; thrift, Mrs. C. M. Dodge; health, Dr. Neil J. Ward; editor official bulletin, Mrs. Eleanor R. Gage.

At this session, many resolutions were adopted and portions of the constitution and by-laws revised. Friday speakers were: Supt. J. L. Silversale of Menominee, and superintendent of public instruction, John Supt. Silversale talked on "Our Boys."

Menominee has perhaps the best range boys club in the U. S. Some prominent members organized a club of boys ten years ago, with twenty boys who "had no place to go." They set up two basement rooms in a school building, and started in providing the boys with amusements and books. The club grew so rapidly that they moved to the quarters, and when Menominee built their new school house, the board gave over a three-room building for the use of the club. A prominent citizen equipped a gymnasium, another gave a $1,000 player piano, another built a large fire place and provided a splendid library, another furnished a billiard and pool room for the older boys. The boys have to keep up a certain standard in their school work in order to play billiards or pool. There is no smoking, chewing or cursing allowed. It is no place for loafers. The boys learn to give and take, and obey the laws of the club. The boys are divided into squads, headed by an older boy from the senior class, who acts as a big brother. Boys find out more about the boys than teachers and parents can. Their motto is: "He profits most who serves best."

Menominee has 3,135 boys and girls in their public schools, and out of the population of 1500 boys, 1000 have joined the club. Every community can have just such a club if they are willing to work as these faithful people have. The club is so strong and its life so far spread that in a place of 10,000, people they have but one dance hall, whereas they had ten a few years ago, and have but one picture show.

We have a responsibility for the other child, for they effect our own.

Menominee has a public playground of two entire city blocks, with a $50,000 playground equipment, and a stadium seating 3,500 people. Mr. Silversale said you can go there at any time; you will never hear any cursing nor see any smoking. No professional games are ever allowed on the grounds for fear that outside teams would contaminate this playground that the boys hold so sacred. The park is a memorial to a fourteen year old boy.

"Provide Ideal boyhood for clean manhood." Superintendent of public instruction, in his talk to the P. T. A. delegates, said it was remarkable that the child of today were as good as they were, when you realize the great odds against them. There will be no hope for America unless we get together and learn and understand the child for a better future. We must have understanding to give encouragement, sympathy and spiritual guidance. The solution of any problem is to face it. The child shows a different side at home than he does at school. Therefore, by getting the parent and teacher together, they will learn to understand Johnnie as they never did before, and make every child an asset instead of a liability. Invocations were pronounced at the different sessions by the various clergy of the city.

SCHOOL NOTES

The High school notes were written by Juanita Coe; the grades by Gladys Clemens; the games by Everett Cummins, and the Lansing trip by Zetta Travis.

GRADE NOTES

(By Gladys Clemens)

Miss Kimball's room is having a good time destroying all the poor expressions in English. Each error is thrown in a garbage can and carried away. This is done by poster work.

Sixteen pupils in Miss Harford's room have been awarded prizes in the clean hands contest. The Second graders are very interested in their box gardens where the planted seeds have begun to grow. Garden booklets are being made by the language class.

Helen Ribar, Margaret Buzzard, Coraline Rathburn were all A students in Miss Franks' room this month. A little theatre was made by the children for the exhibit, Friday. Jack Smith and Margaret Buzzard stood highest in the reading test recently given.

Miss Stader's room also has a little garden in which they have planted violets. The blackboard has a border of little girls swinging, while the windows are decorated with flying blue-birds.

Junior Cole of the B First, has moved to Northville. Gladys Sprague and Jack Gordon have been neither absent nor tardy this semester.

The Grade Exhibit held last Friday, was well attended by the parents. Each room was decorated with all kinds of work done by the pupils.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

(By Juanita Coe)

Three registrations from the Senior H-Y club and two from the Sophomore have been sent for the H-Y camp in northern Michigan this summer.

Marian Beyer is taking the place of Randolph Edson as treasurer of the Junior class, because he has left school.

Mr. Parks, who has made a specialty of the study of bees, is teaching Animal Husbandry class, while they are studying bees.

The exhibit of Manual Training and Mechanical Drawing Friday, included toys, small pieces of furniture, bird houses and baskets.

The freshmen civics class has challenged the senior economics class to a debate on government ownership of public utilities.

The advanced Domestic Art classes are giving a fashion show Wednesday, May 27th, at the High school, in room 16. The garments which the girls have made during the semester, will be displayed. Punch and wafers will be served. It starts at 3:15. Parents are urged to come.

PLYMOUTH GAINS EASY VICTORY OVER WAYNE

By hammering Smith, Wayne's star pitcher, Plymouth early in the game of Wednesday, May 13, drove in eight runs, earning them an easy win, 8 to 0.

Bob Taylor for Plymouth, pitched a very good game, allowing Wayne but a few hits, which coupled with an air tight infield and errorless outfield enabled him to let down somewhat, which accounts for what hits Wayne got.

In winning this game, the team looked like real champions, and if they continue at this rate, they will undoubtedly win the championship. The team is fast rounding into a group of capable batters who are the terror of all the league pitchers.

YPSI COLLEGE RESERVES DEFEAT PLYMOUTH IN PRACTICE MEET.

(By E. Cummins)

The Plymouth boys' track team was defeated by a top-heavy score at Ypsilanti, Tuesday, when it indulged in a practice meet with the Normal Reserve squad. The Plymouth team was able to capture only two first places, in the high jump and javelin. Their defeat is nothing to be ashamed of however, as they were competing with seasoned college men.

Plymouth showed up well in the field events, capturing places in all of them. The meet enabled Coach Coatta to get a better line on his track squad, from which a lot of promising material is developing.

TRIP TO LANSING

Thursday morning, May 14th, the judging teams for grain, potatoes, stock and poultry, chaperoned by Mr. Holcomb and Mrs. George Travis, nineteen in all, went to Lansing to attend the contests held there on the 13th and 14th of May. They arrived at the agricultural building at 9:35 a. m. The first thing they did was to register, receiving at the same time, tickets for the banquet and base ball game. The grain and potato judging teams were busy all Thursday forenoon and part of the afternoon, while those who were not included in this, all being girls, visited the Home Economics and Women's Building.

After lunch the girls called on a Plymouth girl, Blanche Hutson, who went with them to visit the library, museum, engineering building, the art exhibit, the poultry houses and the greenhouses. Some of the boys attended a very interesting meeting, after which the entire group went to the ball game together.

At 6:30 o'clock Thursday evening, they were all present at the banquet, which was given for the benefit of those who were at the contests. About a thousand students were present, and a very splendid time was enjoyed by all. They were entertained by the Swartz Creek band; songs by the winners in the singing contest and the male quartet, and also by the following speakers: Mr. Gallup, toastmaster, state superintendent of agriculture; Dr. Butterfield, president of M. S. C.; Albert Kelsey, president of Grand Lodge; Mr. Walpole, associate professor of agriculture education; Dr. Mumford, professor of economics, and Dr. Lane, national supervisor of agricultural education. This affair was certainly enjoyed by all who attended.

Friday morning at 10 o'clock, stock and poultry judging took place. Those who did not enter these contests went through the city library and Beo Motor building.

All the girls were invited to lunch in the Home Economics building, and after a splendid meal, they visited another Plymouth girl, Marian Bennett, who accompanied them through the campus. About 2:00 o'clock in the afternoon, the group drove to the state capital, where they enjoyed themselves very much.

PLYMOUTH BOWS TO NORTHVILLE IN IMPORTANT GAME

(By E. Cummins)

Plymouth was obliged to acknowledge defeat at Northville Monday last Friday, when they were beaten in base ball, 13 to 5. This game was important as it decided whether Plymouth was to remain in undisputed first place in the league standings.

In the first few innings, Taylor seemed unable to find the plate, as he walked a number of men; but as he tightened up, the infield went to pieces and presented Northville with a large number of unearned runs. Errors in the outfield were responsible for five runs in the early innings.

Due to Rowland's injury in track, Plymouth was unable either to switch pitchers or to present their best infield, which accounts in some measure for their defeat. However, they committed eleven errors, which is enough to lose any ball game, with the best pitcher in the world. The boys must hit their stride again if they expect to win the championship.

DEARBORN VS. PLYMOUTH

In a practice track meet, Thursday, May 14th, the Dearborn girls defeated Plymouth by 8 points. The outcome of each event was as follows:

Event	Pts.
60-yard, 1st and 2nd	8
Broad Jump, 1st	5
B. B. Throw, 1st and 2nd	8
H. Jump, 3rd	1
100-Yard, 2nd	3
Shot, 1st and 3rd	6
Total	31
Plymouth	Pts.
50-Yard, 3rd	1
Broad Jump, 2nd and 3rd	4
B. B. Throw, 3rd	1
H. Jump, 1st and 2nd	8
100-Yard, 1st and 3rd	3
Shot, 2nd	3
Relay	5
Total	26

Dearborn's high point winner was E. Ford. She was first in the 50-yard, base ball throw and broad jump, and second in the 100-yard dash.

Plymouth's firsts were won by Elsie White (Capt.) in the 100-yard; Winifred Draper and Ida Bennett tying for the first in high jump at 4 ft. 4 in. The relay was run by W. Draper, D. Finnegan, J. Whipple and E. White.

ELM

Next Sunday will be the last Sunday for Sunday-school until after the remodeling of the school building. Classes will meet at the Community church at Livonia.

All Elm is grieving over the tragic death of one of our best citizens, Frank Wolfrom. Mr. Wolfrom was a man of high standing in the community and an ardent worker in the Elm P. T. A. He had been afflicted with severe head troubles and nervous complications for several years, and had been under the doctor's care recently. Our heartfelt sympathy is extended to the bereaved family.

Mrs. Clyde Bentley is at home now and able to be around a little. We are certainly delighted to hear this good news.

Mr. and Mrs. George Bentley and Mrs. George Michelin represented Elm P. T. A. at the state convention at Saginaw, last week.

Elm school district held a special election, Monday, to vote on the bonds for the new school building.

THE THEATRE

"ONE NIGHT IN ROME"

"One Night in Rome," the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer screen version of J. Hartley Manner's stage success, which comes to the Penniman Allen theatre, Saturday, May 23rd, is a personal victory for Laurette Taylor.

Miss Taylor, called by Sarah Bernhardt "America's foremost actress," established an immediate following with the appearance of her first two screen ventures, "Peg O' My Heart" and "Happiness," both delightful comedy-dramas. In "One Night in Rome," which, like the two former pictures is the screen version of one of her stage successes, she has essayed successfully a vivid dramatic role. She gives the part of Madame L'Indiana warmth and color that make it one of the most convincing portrayals seen here this year.

The clear cut, fast moving story is a credit to the director, Clarence Badger, who has solved the problem of telling a mystery romance with pleasing simplicity, yet including touches that give the story character and remove the possibility of its being labeled "just another picture." The difficult task of unfolding the intricate plot has been handled admirably.

The splendid acting of Tom Moore as the hero is second only to that of Miss Taylor herself, although the other members of the unusually strong cast deserve much praise. Among those whose work stands out are Alan Hale, Miss du Pont, Warner Oland, William Humphrey, Edna Titchener and Joseph Dowling.

More artistic and accurate settings and more beautiful photography have not been seen here this season.

"One Night in Rome," as a stage play, was written by J. Hartley Manner; he also made the film adaptation.

"THE THUNDERING HERD"

Two great "rushes" across the continent mark the history of the West's development. The first was the rush of the forty-niners from the East to the gold-fields of California and the free lands of Oregon. The second was the rush of '76 by the farmers of the Mississippi valley to the buffalo fields of Montana and Wyoming.

It is this latter rush that forms the theme of Zane Grey's "The Thundering Herd," which William K. Howard directed for Paramount. It will be the attraction at the Penniman Allen theatre, Sunday and Monday, May 24 and 25.

The picture vividly recreates the old west of fifty years ago. Through the plains of the mid-west, huge herds of buffalo roamed at will. Then, in the spring of 1876, news spread that the hides were bringing as much as three dollars each in the east. Immediately there was a rush. Persons from all over the country and from all walks of life started for the buffalo fields. Perhaps the greatest influx was from Illinois, Indiana and Ohio.

The story of "The Thundering Herd" tells of the journey of a group of hardy men and women from their farms in the east to the vast uncivilized territory of the far west—the hardships they suffered, the dangers they encountered, the obstacles they overcame and of their ultimate success when they arrived at their destination.

The picture is packed from start to finish with thrilling incidents and dynamic action. Two of the mighty scenes in the production show a terrific battle between five hundred Indians and a handful of white men, and a mad stampede of two thousand ferocious buffaloes.

A talented cast has been assembled, which is headed by four featured players—Jack Holt, Lois Wilson, Noah Beery and Raymond Hutton.

"NEW TOYS"

Joseph Hergeshelmer, the novelist, recently said of Richard Barthelmess: "He has a mind of his own, and he uses it."

Barthelmess in his latest photodrama, "New Toys," which comes to the Penniman Allen theatre, Wednesday and Thursday, May 27 and 28, gives a performance which more than confirms Hergeshelmer's diagnosis. His portrait of a young husband deserted by his wife and faced with the problem of caring for their new baby is one of the most intelligent bits of work we have ever seen on the screen.

Incidentally "New Toys" serves to introduce Mary Hay (Mrs. Barthelmess) to photoplay patrons as a leading woman. Since her marriage to Dick, back in the day when "Way Down East" was being filmed, Miss Hay has given her work to the speaking stage. She returns to the screen, however, in the role of the errant wife, lured from home by stage ambitions and false friends. Her excellent work assures her of a permanent position among the screen's luminaries.

"New Toys" is a picturization by John S. Robertson from the stage play of the same title, which had a long run at the Sam H. Harris theatre in New York recently. The story was written by Milton Herbert Groppe and Oscar Hammerstein, 2nd, and produced by Inspiration Pictures for First National.

South American Impressions

BY CASS S. HOUGH

CHAPTER SEVEN

Valparaiso, principal seaport of the west coast, the Hamburg of South America, long remained an obscure village, due to the attacks of the two numerous corsairs who prowled along this coast. In 1578, with a population of 250, it was pillaged by Drake, and again in 1594 by Hawkins. Its name, "Paradise Vale" was given it by the Conquistador Sanvedra, in memory of his native town, the Valparaiso of old Castile. As one looks at the city from the harbor, it is very difficult to see the justification for the name. The greyish-red slopes of the hill, rising directly from the bay, with their scanty vegetation of scattered or stunted trees, appear "refreshing only in the eyes of travelers coming from the sandy and parched shores of Peru." The form of the city is determined by that of the shore line. Three principal thoroughfares fill the space between the quay and the foot of the hill, and are intersected at regular intervals by transverse streets. From the foot of the hill, continuous lines of suburbs climb up the steep slopes, and the level area by means of lifts, similar to those seen in San Francisco.

Being devoted almost entirely to trade, Valparaiso is almost devoid of any monuments, but its arsenal, workshops and its naval school are unsurpassed anywhere south of the equator. Its exclusive residential district, for a city of this size, is at Vina del Mar, a resort northeast of the city, where an arm of the bay comes in, East slightly south of Valparaiso, about 130 miles, lies the Chilean capital, founded in 1541 by the Conquistador Pedro de Valdivia, who named it Santiago del Nuevo Extremo, after his own birthplace in Extremadura. Since then the last part of the name has been discarded, becoming simply Santiago, or more specially, Santiago de Chile.

Santiago de Chile stands at an altitude of 1755 feet, on the broad level plain between the two Cordilleras, extending some miles along the left bank of the Rio Mapocho. On the opposite side of the river stretch the suburbs, connected by bridges with the more central section of the city.

In the central square are the cathedral, post office and municipal buildings, as well as the rich shops which line the Alameda, the Pennsylvania avenue of Santiago. On the eastern side of the city rises the famous Santa Lucia Hill, 250 feet above the surrounding city. It was on this volcanic mass that Pedro de Valdivia stood when he founded the city in 1541, and where today stands a white marble statue of the conquistador, crowning the eminence and dominating the city.

The Chilean people are proud of their capital, and justly so. It is the most immaculately clean, and its buildings are not altogether destitute of architectural beauty. The houses are large and low, and are quite classic in tendency. Incidentally, there are probably more Corinthian columns in Santiago, than in Athens or Rome. The educational system here is quite thorough. The University of Chile, located here in Santiago, ranks among the foremost of the continent. Here are schools of agriculture, mines, industrial arts, practical engineering, painting, sculpture, music, and the military academy. Here, too, is found one of the finest collections of South American fauna in the continent.

The Chileans are great followers of the "carreras." Every Sunday, thirty finds the people of Santiago at the Club Hípico, one of the finest race tracks in all South America. It is indeed a picturesque sight as the sun sinks below the ridge of mountains that lie directly opposite the stands, to see the varicolored tunics of the jockeys streaming in the breeze, with the crowd wildly excited over the showing of some particular horse. The betting is fast and furious, but, win or lose, the poker faces of the Chileans remain unchanged. Quite different from their trans-Andean neighbors, the Argentinians, who bet each race as a matter of life or death.

The Chilean people probably pay less attention to society than any of their neighbors on the South American continent. Their great balls, usually masquerade affairs, take place very seldom. But they do have their tea hour in the afternoon. Five o'clock on Monday is much in those people as the "spitting time" whistle means to the average American workman. From five to six thirty the quaint little tea shops such as "Tinamar," on Jerfaunos Street, as well as the beautiful tea room in Gatt & Chaves great department store, are filled to capacity. Here, the Latin-American, single ladies, empty pockets, and aching hearts, which draws too heavily on their pride for them to show it.

But it is a glorious country, and for real pleasure in the American sense of the word, Buenos Aires and Rio de Janeiro, included. Santiago has no peer on the continent, although in Buenos Aires and in Rio money is spent much more lavishly than in Santiago.

CHAPTER EIGHT

Connecting Santiago and Valparaiso with the eastern coast of the continent is the Trans-Andean railway, one of the most wonderful bits of railway engineering in the world. The line from Valparaiso directly eastward, connecting with the branch line to Santiago at Jujuy, a small town not very far from the Chile-Argentin frontier. From Jujuy the road runs to Los Andes, the western terminus of the narrow-gauge railway which runs up and across the Andes. Los Andes is a typical "campo" town, unheard of until the Trans-Andean railway picked it as the junction point for the broad and narrow-gauge railroads. The atmosphere of the hotel "Los Americanos" is more typical of old Spain than any of the others visited so far—a great central patio surrounded on three sides by huge, airy rooms, which reek of new mown hay. The traveler must stay here overnight because the trip across the Andes must be made in daylight due to the many curves and tunnels.

Early the next morning we find our train drawn up in the patio of the hotel, decidedly a novel experience for one accustomed to the mad rush in a taxi from one's home to the railway station. Our carriages are small, and as we were to find out later, unheated, and decidedly uncomfortable. Immediately upon leaving Los Andes, the ground begins to rise. Looking ahead we can see the great snow-capped peaks, some with their tops masked with a heavy bank of clouds. There is a decided chill in the air which increases as we mount upwards. The landscape is marked by the general increase in the size and number of boulders, and a corresponding decrease of the vegetation. We come to a region where the rocks, some occupied by this mountain waste, soar in tremendous peaks towards the sky, and assume a brilliant and decidedly unexpected hue, coloring all its own. Black, red, orange, mauve, pink, green, violet—there is scarcely a tint that is not boldly painted on the great bare sides of the cliffs, all topped by the pure white of the great snow-caps hanging above. Farther along and up, the lonely and desolate station cling tenaciously to the stone faces which bear no other tokens of humanity than the rails themselves, and the few scattered hovels, some occupied by some of the men who were so unfortunately killed, probably in an attempt to cross the divide.

On and up! At last we reach the great tunnels, five of them with a collective length of 14,300 feet, the last and longest piercing the great Cumbre Pass at an altitude of 20,430 feet. We feel that we are up extremely high, but when we look at the great peaks towering above us to a height of more than 22,000 feet, we sense that in reality we are not up a great distance. The train stops at La Frontera for a considerable length of time, which gives some of us an excellent opportunity to climb a ways up the jagged cliffs and look back over the tortuous route we pursued in reaching this point. A word of explanation here relative to the railway itself will serve to explain how these trains reach such a height. The engines are specially built for this sort of a haul, but as a protection against the train's going backward should the engine fail, a ratchet is placed between the rails. A metal tongue rides this ratchet, but should the train slip backwards, this ratchet receives the metal tongue which ratchet car is equipped with, and, combined with the air brakes of the train, serves to hold the car in place. Compare this mode of travel with the perilous journeys of the first Conquistadors who so fearlessly rode the great Cumbre Pass! But the pass of history and tradition will be all but deserted now, and the raised arm of the gigantic Christ on the summit of the pass will bless a greater loneliness.

From Frontera, the first town in Argentin, crossing from west to east, the down grade is a gradual one, passing the famous Puente del Inca, a great natural bridge, until we reach Mendoza, before the capital of the Spanish vicereignty of La Plata, situated on the edge of the pampa, the land of the gauchos. The town does not occupy its original site, because, with its tall houses and heavy materials it was destroyed during the great earthquake of 1861, during which nearly 13,000 people lost their lives. It happened on Ash Wednesday, when all the inhabitants were assembled in the churches, all of which gave way, burying all the occupants beneath the ruins. It is said that the geologist Braunel predicted the shock somewhat before its occurrence, but that he too was numbered among the victims. Now, the buildings are of a sort of elastic masonry, which vibrates under heavy shocks.

Leaving Mendoza at night, we awake next morning amidst a wild and desolate region—the pampa—and find ourselves covered from head to foot with the fine, arid dust which has sifted in through the window. The word pampa, coming from the Quechua word bambu, meaning plain or barren, is certainly suited to this country. Never have I seen such barren and desolate land. However, as we move eastward, the land takes on a more fertile aspect, and we see the great herds of cattle roaming the plains, with the daily attired rancheros circling around them driving them in great herds to and from the temporary branding stations. Here and there we see bands of peaches, as many are raised on the pampa, and the land assumes a more settled appearance until at last we arrive at the capital city of Argentin, the Paris of South America—Buenos Aires.

Today's Reflections

The only thing the average Plymouth man hates worse than a homely girl is a "pretty" man.

A girl drops her maiden name as soon as she is married, and a few weeks later she drops the idea that she married the best thing that ever came down the pike.

Some Plymouth children find it pretty hard to have respect for a father who can't earn money faster than they can spend it.

It appears that the easier it is for some of them to get married the harder it is for them to stay that way.

We may be wrong, but it seems to us the world was better off when young folks learned at mother's knee, instead of at a dance hall.

If you want to try something difficult, try to convince a Plymouth boy that such a thing as an over-production of watermelons is possible.

Michigan has revived the whipping post for robbers. Now the next thing in order is to catch the robbers.

Every married man in Plymouth knows he can make a hit with a neighbor by telling her she bakes the best cake in the world, and he also knows better than to let his wife find out that he said so.

Hand-shaking would be a lot more frequent in Plymouth, if about every other man who wants to shake hands with us didn't also want to sell us something.

Picked Up About Town

Dad Plymouth says that there's one thing you can wear and never worry about its being out of style and that's a smile.

After all, the secret of happiness is in getting what you want instead of what you want others to think you want.

Federal officials say America now averages five and four-tenths to a family. We suppose the four-tenths represents father.

"Some fellows love to brag about what they've got," asserts Dad Plymouth, "but I notice they never do their bragging to the tax assessor."

"Marriage," says Dad Plymouth, "is the miracle that turns the first prize beauty into a third prize cook."

Isn't it strange how a barber whose hair resembles a brush pile can give you a first-class haircut?

"If these flier airplanes become popular," asserts Dad Plymouth, "there will be a fortune for a lot of fellows who can dig cellars."

Dad Plymouth is of the opinion that in a short time those of us who jump straight up in the air to dodge one of Henry's flivvers will be in danger of bumping our heads against one of Henry's fliers.

Death came Tuesday, May 12th, to relieve the sufferings of Mrs. Jennie McKimm. Funeral services were held Thursday, May 14th, at 2:00 o'clock, at the Free Church, Rev. E. L. Moon of Ann Arbor, a former pastor here, officiating. Burial was made in the Free Church cemetery beside her husband, who passed away in 1912. Surviving her are a daughter, Mrs. Blanch Dolby of Denton, and a son, George, with whom she made her home, and five grandchildren, besides numerous other relatives and friends.

Russell Trowbridge lost one of his work horses, last Wednesday night.

Mrs. Gottlieb Sweitzer has been in Northville several times lately to see her daughter, Mrs. Sophia Snow, who has been ill for some time.

Mr. and Mrs. Luis Kuhl have been in Ypsilanti several times the past week to visit her father, John Van Buren, who has been and still is very sick with a severe attack of gastritis. They were down again Sunday and found him feeling a very little better. This is the first time he has ever been ill and confined to his bed as long as two whole days in the past 46 years.

Mrs. Robert Clark has been suffering with a hard cold and severe throat trouble, but is a little better. She expects her sister, Mrs. Libbie Fowler, will leave California for Michigan, about May 22nd, if her health will permit of the trip.

O. A. Trowbridge and wife of Cherry Hill, spent Thursday with their son, Russell and family.

Telephones are again out of commission, following Saturday night's storm.

Several of the rural schools in this vicinity will close this week.

Henry Priebke and family entertained friends from Detroit, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Nollar were Friday evening callers at L. J. Kuhl's.

The heavy rain Saturday afternoon and evening was a great benefit to the farmers here. Now if it would only warm up some, we would be very thankful.

Sunday night supper guests at L. J. Kuhl's were: Ed. Matter of Detroit, and Miss Beryl Kuhl of Wayne.

Ammon Shaw, who sold his farm recently, had an auction Thursday of this week.

F. B. Ainger of Detroit, who recently purchased the Frank Butler and the Louis Balko farms, is gathering about the finest herd of dairy cattle to be found in the state. He recently purchased the best herd of Guernseys consisting of 42 head to be found in Michigan and 21 Holstein cows from the Senator Cousens herd. He plans to produce and offer for sale certified milk and he is securing the very best cows he can buy.—Northville Record.

DEATH OF PROMINENT LIVONIA FARMER

Frank Wolfrum, son of Charles and Frederica Wolfrum, was born in Redford, May 1, 1882, and departed this life Sunday, May 17, 1925, aged 43 years and 16 days.

On the 12th of April, 1918, he was married at the Lutheran church in Redford township, to Miss Alma E. Girth, who with two children, Albert Frank and Alice Virginia, now survives him. In 1923, Mr. Wolfrum united with the German Lutheran church in which he was married, and since that time had seemed especially anxious that his family should have religious opportunity and training. He was also a member of the Masonic lodge of Redford.

He leaves to mourn their loss, besides his wife and children, four brothers, Will, John, Frank and George, all of this vicinity. A fifth brother, Charles, was buried two years ago the 4th of this month. He is mourned also by more distant relatives and a large circle of friends and acquaintances.

Funeral services at his late home in Redford township, were conducted Tuesday afternoon by Rev. S. Conger Hathaway, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Plymouth. Following the services, interment was made in Grand Lawn cemetery, the Masonic burial service being used by the Redford Lodge with which he was affiliated.

DEATH OF MRS. FAY WELCH

Blanche Genz, daughter of Fred and Maggie Genz, was born at Plymouth, Michigan, November 14, 1888, and died Sunday, May 17, 1925, aged 36 years, six months and three days. She received her education in the Plymouth schools.

September 30, 1918, she was married to Fay Welch of Detroit, who now survives her. Her married life was spent in Detroit, where she proved a loving and faithful wife, finding her chief interest in her home and in the affairs of her household. She was confirmed in the Christian faith in the Lutheran church of Plymouth.

Besides her husband and parents, she leaves to mourn their loss, one brother, Ernest Genz of Detroit, one nephew, Owen Clifford Wood and one niece, Marguerite Etie Wood, both of Plymouth, and a number of more distant relatives and friends. Her sister, Mrs. Louise Wood preceded her about eight years ago.

Funeral services at the home of her parents on North Main street, were conducted Thursday afternoon at four o'clock, by Rev. S. Conger Hathaway, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, assisted by Calvin Whipple as soloist. Following the services, interment was made in Riverside cemetery.

CARL FREDERICK WILLIAM MOEDE

Carl Frederick William Moede, son of John E. Moede and his wife, Marie Louise, nee Krueger, was born October 5, 1845, in Roggow, Pomerania, Germany, where he was also baptized and later confirmed in the Lutheran faith. On April 12, 1870, he was united in marriage with Miss Louise Sophie Mainz, who died July 12, 1923. This union was blessed by God with a number of children, of whom several died in infancy, and four survive their mother and father: Mrs. Ernest Cirkaof of Wyandotte; Mrs. Frank Reddeman of Plymouth; William Moede of Detroit, and Fred Moede of Wyandotte.

Father Moede emigrated from the old country and came to the United States in 1881. He lived in and near Detroit, and for the last twenty years on a farm in Wayne county. For the last several years, Mr. and Mrs. Moede lived here with their daughter, where the mother died two years ago, and the father now has followed her. For the last few weeks, Father Moede seemed exceptionally well and happy, and on Wednesday morning was left by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Reddeman in such a state. When they returned from Plymouth, they found him dead on near the driveway, where he had collapsed while working, heart failure having caused his sudden death. He attained the age of 79 years, 7 months and 8 days. Outside of the above named four children, he leaves ten grandchildren, and also one sister in Fairbault, Minn. Father Moede was a member of the Lutheran church all his life.

Funeral services were held Saturday morning at 10 o'clock at the home of Frank Reddeman on Ann Arbor road, interment at Riverside. Rev. Charles Strasen officiating.
