PLYMOUTH H. S. ON ACCREDITED LIST

PLYMOUTH HIGH SCHOOL RECEIVES HIGHEST ACADEMIC RATING.

Plymouth High school is again placed upon the accredited list of the University of Michigan for a three-year period—1928 to 1931. This is the highest honor that the University of Michigan can confer upon any high school within its jurisdiction. In addition to attaining this splendid recognition Plymouth High school has also achieved the coveted approval of the North Central Association of Secondary Schools and Colleges, and again is placed upon their roster. This is the highest academic ranking at present attainable for high schools in the United States.

The supporters of the public school program in this city will rejoice with the pupils and faculty when they realize exactly what this honorary recognition means. A short historical sketch will aid in this understanding.

The first higher institution in the United States to accredit high schools was the University of Michigan. The plan originated in 1871, and five high schools—Adrian, Ann Arbor, Flint, Detroit Central and Jackson—were inspected and accredited. These schools have been continuously accredited for 50 years or more. The growth of the list of accredited schools has been very rapid in late years. In 1900 there were 95, in 1910 there were 200, and in 1928 there were 543. Plymouth High school has been continuously accredited for 28 years (since 1900), and was among the first 200 schools to be listed as an accredited school. This is indeed a high honor.

The plan of the university for accrediting includes three groups: Schools accredited for terms of one year, two years and three years, respectively. They have set up a definite standard of requirements for each classification with regard to teacher training, teacher load, organization and administration, school policy, program of studies, building, equipment and grounds, standard of work, and attitude of board of education and public toward their schools. Schools of sufficient size and scoring sufficiently high are accredited for their respective period. The previous announcement of a three-year accrediting shows the rating of Plymouth High school.

The advantages that the High school realizes are summed up in the 1928 report of the Division of University Inspecting in this manner:

1. The recommended graduates of accredited high schools are privileged to enter the University of Michigan without entrance examination.

2. As the accredited list is accepted by all of the other higher institutions in this state and by many schools in other states, this privilege of admission on certificate may be enjoyed by graduates going to higher institutions than the University of Michigan.

3. The graduates of accredited high schools have the assurance that their high school diplomas will be acceptable to state boards having to do with the granting of certifications for the various professions of medicine, dentistry, law, etc.

4. An accredited high school enjoys a greater prestige in the surrounding country, and therefore finds it easier to attract non-resident students.

5. The examination of the school at regular intervals by a representative from the university serves to stimulate progress and to prevent the development of questionable practices and tendencies.

6. The patrons have more confidence in, and are generally more willing to support, a high school recognized by the university.

In addition to being accredited by the University of Michigan the Plymouth High school is a recognized member of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. This membership has been continuously granted since 1916, or for a period of 12 years. Only 175 of the 543 accredited schools in Michigan have become members of the North Central association. Quoting from the special report of 1928: "The association is conservative. It aims to accredit only those schools which possess organization, salary policies, teaching force, standards of scholarship, equipment and esprit de corps of such character as will unhesitatingly recommend them to any educator, college or university in the North Central territory." It is a distinct honor for any school to be recognized as a North Central association school. This is again an advantage, because any recommended graduates from Plymouth High school can attend a higher institution of learning provided that college or

1929 License Plates On Sale December 1

Edward M. Plachta, local manager of the branch office of the department of state, received word from Lansing that the assignment of 1929 license plates is being shipped.

Yellow lettering on a black background has been chosen as the color scheme for the new plates. They will be ready for distribution on Dec. 1, and may be used on date of purchase.

Mr. Plachta wishes to state that in order to be able to procure 1929 license plates for new cars purchased previous to Dec. 1, and not bearing 1928 plates, an affidavit must be made by the purchaser that said car had not been driven on the highways of Michigan.

He also wishes to inform anyone leaving Michigan for the winter months that by bringing their titles to his office plates will be mailed directly to them without extra charge.

PLYMOUTH SUFFERS ANOTHER FIRE LOSS

BIG BARN BURNS TO GROUND WEDNESDAY MORNING; SPARKS ENDANGER NEARBY BUILDINGS.

The large barn in the rear of the Mail office, owned by Walter Bronson, was burned to the ground shortly after midnight on Wednesday morning. The fire had a big start when it was discovered, and although the fire department made a quick response and had several streams of water playing upon the flames, the building was doomed and the firemen turned their attention to the saving of adjoining property. The flames, fanned by a strong wind, carried the burning embers onto the roofs of store buildings nearby and it was necessary to carry a line of hose to the top of these buildings for their protection.

A. J. Baker, who occupied the west half of the barn as a public service garage, lost all of his equipment. An automobile owned by Wm. B. Petz and a car owned by Mr. Baker which were in the garage were destroyed.

Sanford Shattuck lost a truck and Lawrence Johnson a sedan which were stored in the middle section of the building. Roy Streng had a truck destroyed as well as a cement mixer and other equipment which were stored in the building.

Seven horses which were in the stables on the east side of the building were all gotten out safely.

About 14 tons of hay was burned. Mr. Bronson's loss is well covered by insurance, while Mr. Baker had no insurance on his garage equipment. Mr. Bronson informs the Mail that he expects to rebuild. How the fire started is not known.

In response to a call, the House of Correction fire department made a quick trip to Plymouth and rendered valuable assistance.

PLYMOUTH MAN ADDRESSES NORTHVILLE ROTARIANS

Oliver Goldsmith of Plymouth, always a welcome visitor in Northville, was the speaker at Monday's meeting of the Northville Rotary Club. The program was in charge of Edward C. Langfield, who in his introduction of Mr. Goldsmith, stated that it was always a pleasure for this community to have him come and take part in our local affairs.

Mr. Goldsmith's talk was on clean business practices. He pointed out that by playing the "rules of the game" square, one is always bound to win in the long run, that no one ever profited by a "dirty" deal or a transaction that could be questioned. His entire appeal was for the adoption of clean methods in the contracts one had with the other.

BANKS MAILING OUT CHRISTMAS CLUB CHECKS.

Plymouth's two banking institutions are mailing out Christmas club checks this week to the amount of approximately $30,000. The Christmas club savings are increasing each year, as the people more fully realize the advantage of having a systematic method of saving money in this way.

University is a member in the North Central association in the group of 20 states comprising the North Central district.

(This article will be followed later by an explanation of the class A, B, C and D high schools, rating depending upon their enrollment and arranged by the Michigan High School Athletic association.)

PLYMOUTH WINS FIRST DEBATE

PLYMOUTH CONQUERS ECORSE—WIN BY THREE VOTES TO NONE.

Written by Lester Daly.

Before a group of 175 people the Plymouth High school debating team earned a three to nothing victory over the Ecorse High school debating team Friday, Nov. 16, in the Plymouth High school auditorium. The Plymouth team showed itself in every way superior to that of Ecorse. They took full advantage of the several costly errors committed by Ecorse and turned them to their advantage in the approved manner. Though their opponents, contrary to reports, turned out a weak team, it is very likely that Plymouth would have won from a stronger team, on account of their co-operation, adaptability and headwork.

Mr. Perdue, coach, as well as the rest of the faculty present, was more than pleased with the showing of the Plymouth team, and Mr. Perdue was complimented several times on the fine team he had turned out.

Every judge voted for Plymouth, which, with the point for winning the debate, gives Plymouth four points towards the eleven required to reach the elimination series of debates.

Ruth Root, Alice Gilbert and Harold Huber gave Plymouth its good start at the expense of Robert Thomson, Margaret Dillfull and John Brand, Ecorse debaters. The order of the Plymouth team was the same in rebuttal, while the order for Ecorse's rebuttal was John Brand, Margaret Dillfull and Robert Thomson.

Mr. Smith, superintendent of schools, was chairman. The judges were: Professor J. Muyskens, speech department University of Michigan; Professor A. A. Metcalf, education department Michigan State Normal college, and Mr. Erickson, superintendent of public schools of Ypsilanti. The timekeepers were Maurice Dunn, of Plymouth High school, and Mr. Davis, principal of the Ecorse school.

The various committees, taken from Mr. Perdue's public speaking class in High school, were as follows: The advertising committee, Lester Daly, Viola Luttenmoser, Doris Williams and Doris Dietrich; the committee on arrangements, Harold Stevens and Kenneth Groth; the reception committee, Doris Dietrich and Charles Hall; and the ushering committee, Jewell Bengert, Beryl Smith, Arbutus Williams and Doris Dietrich.

And now, as Mr. Perdue said, the next big thing is the second league debate, of which announcements will be made later.

ROTARY CLUB HEARS HACKLEY BUTLER.

The Rotary club had the privilege Friday, Nov. 16, of hearing a very interesting travel talk by Hackley Butler, of Ann Arbor, on "Soviet Russia."

Mr. Butler traced very carefully the effect of communism on government in general, the effect upon men and women, effect upon industry and farming. His talk was so intensely interesting that everyone present regretted the time which he had at his disposal was so short, and are all in hopes that he will return at some future date.

HOTEL MAYFLOWER WILL SERVE SPECIAL THANKSGIVING DINNER.

Manager R. J. Lorenz of the Hotel Mayflower announces a big Thanksgiving dinner at that popular hostelry. A most tempting menu has been prepared and is given elsewhere in this paper. Many have already made their reservations and many more will no doubt do so within the next day or two. If you have not already made your reservations you had better do so at once.

ANNOUNCE THANKSGIVING SALE OF GAS RANGES.

The Michigan Federated Utilities announce a Thanksgiving sale of A. B. gas ranges, starting Saturday, Nov. 24. A 10-pound turkey will be given away with each stove and a $30 allowance on your old gas, oil, wood, coal or electric stove. See the big ad in today's Mail.

FIREMAN'S HELMET LOST.

A black helmet was lost from the Plymouth fire truck upon the way back from the fire at Northville Monday evening. Finder will please notify the village office as to where same may be called for.

Thanksgiving Time

Much of the spirit of the old time Thanksgiving holiday has gone, and yet much of it remains. It was originally a day of genuine religious observance, in which out of full hearts people rendered thanks to the divine power that had brought them safely through another year. They did not have to be begged and implored to go to church or to offer prayers of thankfulness. Such expressions came naturally and without effort.

Much of that spirit today is lost. Even the multitudes of people who have a strong religious feeling are apt to be too busy with their own holiday doings on Thanksgiving day, so that they do not attend the church services, and they may give scarcely a thought to this means of recognizing our blessings.

As we approach another Thanksgiving day we wish everyone around Plymouth remember that for most of us life brings much cause for gratitude. If we stop to look at our troubles and then at the things that bring us happiness, we find that for the most part the joys predominate. It seems rather hard and unfeeling not to render a prayer of thanksgiving to the author of all good.

While those sentiments are weaker than they should be, Thanksgiving day still brings millions of families together in happy family reunions. Our families are scattered all over the country, and it is not always possible to assemble the children and the sisters and cousins and aunts as was formerly done when they all lived close to the old home. Now many of them are hundreds, possibly some of them thousands of miles away. But the auto makes such gatherings possible for many of us. It is an easy thing to go a hundred miles or even more—and we lose a lot if we let another holiday pass without making such use of it.

As for Thanksgiving day itself, count your blessings and you will find that they are many. Then be thankful for them, great or small, and thankful, too, that we have bright prospects for still another year of peace and happiness and contentment just ahead.

Women's Club Held Meeting

The regular meeting of the Women's Club of Plymouth was held Friday afternoon, Nov. 16, at the Hotel Mayflower. In spite of the inclement weather the meeting was well attended.

Division IV, under the able leadership of Mrs. Otto Beyer, presented a very fine program for the day.

Mrs. Beyer gave a short, comprehensive talk on "The United States—Melting Pot or Dumping Ground?"

"What does the new American contribute?" Examples of this were papers by Mrs. Walter Nichol on Mary Antin; Edward Bok by Mrs. Fred Thomas; Anzia Yezierska by Mrs. Ernest Thrall, and Edward Steinmetz by Mrs. Charles Gallimore. They were keen, interesting papers and the audience by its close attention showed its appreciation of the time and thought devoted by these ladies.

In the absence of Miss Melissa Roe, who had charge of the musical program, Mrs. Chapman in her gracious manner presented a short paper on Antonin Dvorak, the New World Symphony.

The club was again indebted to Mrs. Bake, who so very delightfully sang "Going Home," accompanied by Mrs. Chapman. As an encore a duet was rendered by Mrs. Bake and Mrs. Chapman, "Brown Bird Singing." Miss Doris Hamill, accompanied by Miss Evelyn Starkweather, gave two violin numbers, which were very much enjoyed by the club members.

MERCHANTS SERVICE BUREAU DINNER.

The Merchants Service Bureau dinner at the Hotel Mayflower Tuesday evening was attended by a goodly number of its members and several interested visitors.

The dinner was followed by the introduction of J. L. Barrett, manager of the Ann Arbor Credit Bureau, and D. S. Gardner, manager of the Dearborn Credit Bureau. Several topics of interest were discussed and a lively discussion and "round the table" talk followed.

FERRI LYRIC COMPANY AT LOCAL THEATRE.

Another big stage attraction is booked for the Penniman Allen theatre for Sunday and Monday, Nov. 25 and 26. The headliner is the Ferri Lyric company, in operatic and popular gems. The company is composed of two men and two women. They will present gems from the famous operas as well as outstanding bits of popular composers. This is an act of high merit, consisting of both singing and musical instruments. The feature picture is Wallace Beery in "Beggars of Life."

F. D. SCHRADEE HOME FROM HOSPITAL.

F. D. Schradee, who has been a patient at St. Joseph's hospital, Ann Arbor, for the past three weeks, was able to return home last Sunday. Mr. Schradee's many friends are pleased to know that he is home again and well on the road to complete recovery.

Two Brothers Die of Crash Injuries

Paul Stelway, 19 years old, of Manchester, and his brother, Herbert, 24 years old, of 2306 Forest avenue, Port Huron, were so seriously injured last Sunday afternoon when their motorcycle crashed head-on into an automobile driven by Sam Lazebnek, of 527 J street, Jackson, that both young men died in St. Joseph's hospital, Ann Arbor, Monday morning. The accident occurred on the Plymouth-Ann Arbor road, a mile and one-half east of Frahn's Lake.

Herbert, sitting on the rear seat, was thrown completely over the Lazebnek car and Paul into it. Both suffered fractured skulls. The motorcycle was demolished and the car badly damaged. Dr. H. B. Brisbois, of this place, was called and rendered first aid, after which the brothers were removed to the hospital.

Mrs. Ida Lazebnek and her daughter, Jeannette, seven years old, who were riding in the front seat of the car, were injured and were taken to University hospital.

HOCKEY TEAM GIVEN STRENUOUS WORKOUT

TEAM SHOWS MORE SPEED AND BETTER TEAMWORK.

The Plymouth hockey team was given another strenuous workout last Sunday morning at the Border Cities arena and the players showed much more speed and better teamwork than in any previous game.

All players on the team were present with the exception of Lowrey, the star forward who recently signed with the Plymouth team. Sickness has kept him out of the lineup for the past two weeks.

With the added strength of Lowrey, unless all signs fail, will make the Plymouth team a hard one to beat this season. Another practice will be held Sunday morning from 11 to 12 o'clock at Windsor. This is the only hour that ice is available for the Plymouth team.

The club purchased some new equipment last week—sticks, gloves, pants, socks, etc.—and the Plymouth team will be a neat-appearing lot of players in their navy blue and white sweaters with "Plymouth" in white letters across the front, white pants and blue and white socks to match the sweaters.

Russell Roe, manager of the team, attended a meeting of the Detroit Municipal Hockey league last Monday, at which time part of the schedule was drawn up. The first league game is to be played on Nov. 23 at the Olympia, following the Cougars game.

Inley A. C. and Parke-Davis teams are scheduled to meet in the opening game. However, it is possible that another team will play Parke-Davis, as the Haley team would like a little more time to get in shape. In case this change is made Plymouth will probably meet the Parke-Davis team in the opening game.

Storage House Burns

Last Thursday afternoon a storage shed owned by Blunk Bros. in the rear of their store was discovered to be on fire. An alarm was turned in and the fire department responded quickly and had several streams of water playing on the flames. The high wind which prevailed at the time might have caused a great loss to adjoining property had the blaze not been discovered in time, and but for the efforts of the firemen. The wind fanned the flames toward the store buildings across the alley and windows were cracked and broken by the intense heat. The building was used by Blunk & Smith for storing their cement mixing equipment, and this was considerably damaged.

B. D. BROWN PASSES AWAY.

Berton D. Brown, for many years a highly respected citizen of this village, passed away Tuesday evening at Providence hospital, Detroit. Mr. Brown had been ill for the past several weeks and was taken to the hospital Monday, where he underwent a serious operation that same evening.

Mr. Brown was 67 years of age. Besides his wife he leaves two sons, Harry, of this place, and Oro, of Pontiac, and one daughter, Mrs. E. E. Harrison, of Detroit.

The funeral services will be held from the Schrader Brothers' Funeral Home this (Friday) afternoon, Nov. 23, at 2 o'clock, Dr. F. A. Lendrum officiating. A more extended notice will be given next week.

SPECIAL SERVICE AT BAPTIST CHURCH

REV. WILLIAM G. COLTMAN, OF HIGHLAND PARK, WILL PREACH.

Rev. William G. Coltman, pastor of the Highland Park Baptist church, will preach at the First Baptist church of Plymouth, Tuesday evening, Nov. 27, at 7:30. His subject will be "Gray Hairs."

Rev. Coltman started his work in Highland Park 14 years ago. At that time there was a small Baptist mission with only 70 members, holding their services in a store building. Since then they have built the church in which they now worship, with a seating capacity of 750, which they have outgrown. Their membership now exceeds 1,000. They are building a new church with a seating capacity of 1,200.

Rev. Coltman has unusual ability as a preacher, teacher and pastor. As a teacher he has organized a group of boys known as the Inshoremen club, consisting of 40 or 50 men of his church, who hold services in other small churches in the vicinity of Detroit, also in the jails, hospitals and rescue missions. In his 14 years' service in Highland Park he has ordained more than 10 men from his church into the ministry. At present there are 10 young men and women from his church in Bible schools and seminaries training for the ministry and mission fields.

Along with Rev. Coltman we have been able to secure the services of Mr. and Mrs. Ray G. Swartzbaugh, who will have charge of the song service and solo work. Since Mr. and Mrs. Swartzbaugh have traveled with some of the most outstanding evangelists in our country, such as Harry Von Bronch, Dr. H. C. Morrison and G. Campbell Morgan of England, we appreciate greatly the privilege of having them with us.

Death of Former Plymouth Resident

Lella Murray Smith was born in Superior township, Washtenaw county, Sept. 2, 1857, and grew into womanhood in this immediate vicinity. During the last 11 years she had resided in Detroit. She was united in marriage to Harold Smith Feb. 21, 1922. To this union one girl was born. Mrs. Smith was a loving wife and mother and her life was devoted to her family and home. Her demise was a great shock to relatives and friends, as she was sick less than a week. Only a week ago last Sunday she came to Plymouth to spend the day with her parents, apparently feeling as well as usual. She became ill the following day and pneumonia followed, causing her death on Saturday, Nov. 17.

She leaves to mourn their loss her husband, Harold Smith; daughter, Shirley Mae; mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Murray; one brother, Merle Murray, and a host of relatives and friends, who had learned to love and respect her.

The funeral was held on Tuesday, Nov. 20, from her late home on Rose-lawn avenue, Detroit, to Schrader Brothers' Funeral Home in Plymouth, where a public service was conducted by Rev. Walter Nichol. Interment was in Riverside cemetery.

The attendance at the funeral was very large and the flowers many and beautiful. The sympathy of many Plymouth people is extended to the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Murray, of this place.

STORE WILL REOPEN AFTER BEING REDECORATED.

The Plymouth Furniture Exchange, which has been closed this week on account of the store being redecorated and other changes made, will reopen for business Saturday morning, Nov. 24. The store now presents a very fine appearance.

A FLOOD OF VOTES.

All that's necessary to get the American people to do their duty is to get them excited. We declared war a few years ago, and in two hours we had an army of millions standing ready for instructions. Last June the newspapers began firing their "get-out-the vote" ammunition. They got the American public excited, and we saw the result recently when almost 40,000,000 voters surged to the polls. It meant that one-third of the entire population did its duty this time—one out of every three voted. It is the largest percentage ever recorded. No matter who happens to be elected, a country is on the safe side when its citizens are actually voting instead of staying at home and letting the office be filled by default. It's a fine showing of increased interest in public affairs. We can only hope that the same spirit prevails in all future elections.

FRESH AIR.

With the arrival of cold weather comes the fresh air problem. In a talk with a well known physician he points out that it is well enough to protect ourselves against colds, but in shunning fresh air too much we are apt to run the risk of lowering our resistance against disease. Outdoor air is the most healthful and we need large quantities of it daily. Our bedroom windows should be open while we sleep. It must also be remembered that we can work more efficiently and more contentedly in house, store or office if plenty of fresh air from the outside is let in. To avoid drafts the windows may be opened for a few minutes several times during the morning and afternoon. Just learn the difference between fresh air and draft, he says, and you'll be on the road to better health. And it is timely and valuable advice.

CARELESSNESS.

We know a Plymouth motorist who never tries to pass a car when ascending a hill or on a curve. When he comes to a crossing he slows down and makes sure of his road. It sometimes seems he is too cautious, but he is not taking any chances on the train. When he sees a man on the road ahead of him, standing on the outside of his car peering into it, he discreetly toots his horn. He remembers a time in his youth when he was riding a bicycle and sought to pass behind a woman who was standing talking to a huckster. Just as he was about to pass noiselessly she stepped backward, and he and he and the bicycle all rolled into the ditch.

Would that we had more drivers like him. If we had there would be far more pleasure in motoring, and far less heartaches and saddened homes. It would mean a saving of about 60,000 lives in the United States yearly. It would mean a saving of hundreds of dollars in repair bills. And think how much money we would have in circulation right here in this community if every motorist drove his car as though he couldn't get repairs or a new one if he wrecked it.

A HINT OF CHRISTMAS.

It will be good news to the younger generation around Plymouth to know that although Christmas is several weeks away the agents of Santa Claus are already busy getting out his stock. A newspaper story from Canada is to the effect that the work of cutting Christmas trees for use in the U. S. has already started. Operators go there from this country, make their contracts with farmers or owners of woodland property and put crews to work in the woods. After the little trees are cut they are hauled to the station, where they are tied in bundles and the butts sawed off. The supply is cut from privately-owned lands, as Canada forbids the cutting of trees on public acres. She protects them until they reach the pulp-wood size and then get a much better price. Even as you read this the agents of Santa Claus are busy not only in Canada but in a thousand toy shops in a dozen countries. And each lick they put in is a hint of Christmas and a step nearer to it.

Wonder what has become of all the switches that used to be an indoor necessity during school time?

Ever notice that sometimes a little man will come up to your expectations and a tall one will fall far short?

NIGHT LAW SCHOOL
ATTORNEY'S HOBBY

Helps Stenographers and Clerks to Legal Degrees.

Okmulgee, Okla.—A law school which holds classes at night, so clerks, stenographers and others who must earn a livelihood during the day may satisfy an ambition to become lawyers, is run as a hobby by W. L. Merwine, Okmulgee attorney.

Merwine, too, must work in the day, as he is dependent on his professional practice. The law school, he says, is his contribution to his city.

Merwine is dean of the school and the students are its officers. Several members of the Okmulgee bar help the enterprise by teaching subjects with which they are most familiar. The classes meet in the basement of the city library.

Twenty-six graduates have taken the state bar examination and only one of them has failed. Miss Jewell Russell of Tulsa, who last spring received the highest grades in the Oklahoma bar tests, began the study of law under Dean Merwine.

Does Not Seek Students. The Okmulgee school does not seek students. Persons in other states and in other Oklahoma cities have asked whether they may enroll, but the dean has advised them to go elsewhere if possible, explaining the institution is intended for Okmulgee men and women who must work.

The school had its beginning several years ago, when three young men, employed in an abstractor's office, asked Merwine whether he would devote a small amount of his time to instructing them in law.

The school was incorporated in 1926 and the students divided into senior and junior classes. Since then a score or more of ambitious young men and women have attended the night meetings.

Laggards Drop Out. "The students enroll because they have a real desire to learn," Merwine says. "A person in the class who does not apply himself soon finds his surroundings uncomfortable and some what in shame drops out. For those willing to work, however, there is the utmost co-operation."

To meet expenses the school charges tuition of $50 a year, but this is assessed at the convenience of the students, some paying in monthly installments and others waiting until graduation.

Dean Merwine was born in Ohio in 1861. He worked his way through Ohio Northern university at Ada and later practiced law at Columbus in partnership with Charles W. Allison a first cousin of President McKinley.

According to Dad Plymouth, the only time a fellow can afford to be funny is after he has made all the money he is going to need.

The feminine "blot" is quiet strong in Congress now. Let's hope it doesn't prove to be a "block."

RUSS OFFICER ONLY NAME TO FOOL CZAR

Buried With Great Ceremony in Empty Casket.

Berlin.—Among the strange stories being dug out of the archives of the Russia of the czars by Soviet investigators and writers is one concerning Paul L. the "mad czar," whose brief and stormy rule was brought to an end in 1901 by his assassination by a group of officers. This tale, as given in the German press, runs as follows: "One day Czar Paul was awakened from his midday siesta by a loud cry for help outside his door. He angrily ordered his adjutant to give him the name of the wretch who had dared interrupt the imperial nap. The adjutant was in a pickle for a moment, but a happy thought saved the day. He answered calmly that the offender was 'Lieut. As Well As.'

Only a Name. "Now this 'Lieut. As Well As' had a strange history. He existed only on the rolls of his regiment, thanks to the mistake of a clerk who, in copying the names of Lieutenants Petroff, Semiuoff, as well as Ivanoff, had in error written 'As Well As' in capitals. When the mistake was discovered it was too late to make a correction, as the order was about to be submitted to the czar for his signature. Consequently, the regimental commander decided to enter 'Lieut. As Well As' on the rolls, so that the czar would have no occasion to reprove him for the mistake.

"This was the nonexistent officer named by the adjutant as the disturber of Paul's slumbers. The irate ruler ordered the offender to be sent to Siberia at once on foot and added a penalty of 100 lashes for good measure. There was nothing else to do but to continue the game. An escort of four soldiers was sent to Siberia, and from every important stage of the route reports were dispatched to the czar telling of the 'victim's' hardships.

Remembers Victim. "About two years later the czar suddenly recollected the case of the exiled officer, and in a moment of magnanimity, pardoned him. From then on Paul kept 'Lieut. As Well As' in mind. Soon he made him a major and a few months later a general. Then the affair began to get fisky, as the czar expressed a desire personally to meet his new general. As the members of his entourage dared not ask another officer to play the part of 'Gen. As Well As,' the czar was informed that the general was suffering from a serious illness, and a few days later it was announced that the valiant warrior had died. 'Gen. As Well As' was buried with full military honors. The whole regiment escorted the empty coffin to the grave; every detail was carefully observed and the name of the general was entered upon the list of dead dignitaries."

Private Citizens Aid Migratory Bird Survey

Ware Shoals, S. C.—How the United States Department of Agriculture is aided by private citizens in obtaining data on the habits and life histories of migratory birds was revealed here by W. T. O'Shields.

Capturing a chimney swift, O'Shields found it carried an aluminum leg band on which were numerals. He sent the numbers to the bureau of biological survey, which informed him that the bird was banded a year ago at Tallahassee, Fla., by Charles O. Handley and H. L. Stoddard. The information revealed by the bird's flight, the bureau said, will be valuable to its study of bird life in America.

The bureau added that such voluntary assistance on the part of persons anywhere in the country can be augmented by prompt reports on tagged birds.

South China Aspires to Economic Rebirth

Canton, China.—"Trade revival and promotion of native industries," is the slogan of South China merchants, who are seeking to stage a comeback from the lean times experienced during the past year. Co-operation with the government to eliminate communism, harmonious terms with labor, eliminate the foreign middlemen with Chinese and still other phrases are being passed about throughout the province of Kwangtung as Canton's merchant princes seek a trade revival and the prosperity that has not been Canton's for years. At a conference of delegates from provincial chambers of commerce, held here and attended by 300 representatives from all parts of the province, appeals were made for unified efforts toward a general trade revival.

Gambling War Disturbs Monacans and Riviera

Cannes, France.—The battle between Riviera casino interests and the world-famed Monte Carlo casino has now turned into a picture contest, with the general public enjoying itself and the police having difficulty keeping the signboards free of the lurid and bitter posters which appear during the night.

Both sides have also resorted to subsidizing papers and weekly magazines to back them. Monte Carlo is working to obtain an extension of its agreement with the French government whereby roulette will not be permitted in France. The present agreement ends in 1931.

It is getting so that it would seem as strange to think of Thanksgiving without football as it would be to think of it without turkey.

A Vermont town seeking tourist trade has put out the sign, "Speed limit 90 miles per hour." A lot of them dies before they reach that limit.

Why Turkey for Thanksgiving?

WHEN the Pilgrim Fathers had their first crop harvested, Governor Bradford directed the settlers to go gunning for wild turkey. These native birds, with products of the Pilgrims' fields, were made the means of a bountiful thanksgiving festival, at which the Indians were royally entertained.

In this way the turkey became the national Thanksgiving bird—a symbol of completed harvest, of goodwill, of grateful appreciation for blessings received.

We hope your blessings include a growing cash reserve, deposited here where it acquires safety, the helping hand of an influential financial institution and the profit of a generous interest rate.

AGED LADY PASSES AWAY

Mrs. Henrietta Gray passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Mrs. George Meddaugh, on Blunk avenue Friday evening, Nov. 16, at the age of 80 years, six months and five days.

The funeral services were held from Schrader Brothers' Funeral Home Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Dr. F. A. Lendrum officiating. The interment was made at Riverside cemetery.

Henrietta Huff was born at Rome, Lenawee county, Michigan, in the year 1848. She was united in marriage to Albert Spangle in August, 1866. To this union was born two children. One died in infancy.

In 1881 she was united in marriage to William Gray, who passed away Sept. 3, 1922. Since that time she has made her home with her daughter of the former marriage, Mrs. George Meddaugh, of this place.

She was a home loving woman and a good mother, loved by all who knew her. She had been deaf and blind for several years but cheerful at all times. She leaves to mourn, one daughter, one grandson and three great-grandchildren.

She is not dead—just away. With a cheery smile and a wave of the hand:

She has wandered into an unknown land;

She is not dead—she is just away.

MUNICIPAL NOTES

BY THE MANAGER

The formation of snow and ice upon our pavements places new emphasis upon the need for careful driving by motorists in order that accidents may be avoided.

Despite the wet and cold weather during the past week, progress is being made with the construction of the storm sewer trunk line in South Harvey street. This improvement is aimed to be completed this fall so that it will render the necessary drainage service to the South Harvey street area when spring rains set in.

Many requests are being made of the police department for discarded clothing which has still some value. Any of our citizens who may have any men's clothing that they may wish to donate to a worthy cause will please leave same at the village hall or phone the village offices as to where these articles may be secured. Overcoats, suits and shoes are the items particularly in demand.

Two bad fires during the past week in the village place emphasis for care in avoiding fire hazards in and about frame buildings during the winter months. Especial caution must be exercised in the burning of waste paper, etc., that no opportunity is given the fire to spread to nearby structures.

New Mesa Verde Coal Produces Much Wax

Pittsburgh, Pa.—Over three gallons of wax has been extracted from one ton of Utah coal in the United States bureau of mines laboratory here.

The wax is essentially the ordinarily known stuff used in candles. The coal yielding the wax is Mesa Verde, one of the best-known in the United States and one of the most recent, that is, coal which was formed in geological times that are recent as compared with eastern coals.

The bureau of mines first extracted the tar from the Utah coal, getting about thirty-two gallons from a ton and then from the tar obtained 11 percent of wax. In announcing the research the bureau says: "It is suggested that the high wax content of tars of this sort might be directly exploited to yield an important increase in by-products with very little preliminary development work."

Spider Is Called a Harmless Fellow

Gainesville, Fla.—C. B. Merrill, assistant entomologist of the Florida state plant board, can't understand why people think spiders are poisonous.

Maybe it's because they look that way.

Anyhow, they're wrong. Merrill says these familiar with the facts know the only spider considered dangerous is the half-inch long, jet black fellow with a reddish mark shaped like an hour glass on the under side of its abdomen. He may have a lot of other tricks, too, if anyone wants to stop long enough to see. His home is outdoors, usually under loosely piled boards or firewood.

Plan to Utilize Power From River Shannon

Dublin, Ireland.—Where the River Shannon flows Ireland has launched a scheme to develop electrical power. The Free State government financed a project costing $25,000,000 and is attempting to enlist public support by inviting every one to visit the scene of construction work.

Within a period of several months 60,000 persons have made the trip and been shown through the plant by government guides. The Free State is the smallest consumer of electricity in Europe and the authorities are anxious to arouse public interest and a demand for better facilities.

Winning Smile

Malden, Mass.—Thomas J. Garrity, letter carrier, has received a $1,000 check. For 40 years he has delivered mail to Mrs. Bessie L. Eaton. "He is a fine man who daily greeted me with a smile and a word of cheer," she said, explaining her gift.

SELLS WATCHES WITHOUT WORKS

Street Vendor Finds No One Returns to Yell.

New York.—The watch vendor in City Hall park has a sincere and straightforward air. "Folks," he says to the group clustering about him, "these are German silver watches and good time-keepers. Nothing fancy about 'em—they're just serviceable, dependable timepieces for people who don't want to spend a lot of money for a watch. They cost $2 or $3 at a jewelry store. I'm selling these today for a quarter apiece. If you're suspicious of them don't buy one. Maybe you'll feel better if you go to a jeweler and pay several times as much for the same thing. "These don't look flashy—they're made to give good service. I carry one myself. Thank you, sir. Thank you. Who else wants one? Thanks. Thank you. Two? Certainly. Thank you, sir."

And so he moves slowly along the square, always in the center of a group of customers—office employees from nearby buildings, errand boys from Wall street, casual passersby. His twenty-five cent watches have no works in them. The case is all in one piece and does not open. The minute and hour hands move jerkily and uncertainly at a twist of the stem, but the second hand is painted on the face of the watch. Occasionally the salesman holds one of his bogus watches up to the ear of a bystander to let him hear its tick for himself. Of course, nobody could hear a watch tick on lower Broadway, and the device usually works. And patrons, forewarned not to buy if they doubt the worth of the article, never return to complain after they have inspected their prize and found themselves bilked.

The fraud is one of the oldest known to the sidewalks of New York, but in five minutes the salesman took in twenty-three quarters—an average of better than a dollar a minute. Despite all of which, Item A in the New Yorker's credo is that gullibility is an attribute monopolized by the outland, and that the gold watch is an emblem which appeals only to the stranger within the city's gates.

Napoleonic Art Loot to Be Sold in America

Paris.—Napoleonic loot, old paintings taken from captured towns in Belgium and Holland, are being sent to the United States for sale. These pictures, forty-eight of them, were part of the collection of General Haquin, once aide-de-camp of the emperor and commander of one of his armies. He was "fired" because he refused to execute all the terroristic orders his superiors thought necessary to cow the populations of conquered towns. For a century the pictures remained in the Haquin family, but were sold last year by the general's grandniece, Mme. Giovannoni, and have just been bought by the Master's Art gallery of New York. They have been valued at $1,000,000 by a group of experts, including Dr. W. N. Robinet, Petrograd, Desparmet Fitz-Gerald, the Spanish art authority, and Henri Germet, one of the French government's appraisers.

Dahlia Juice Supplies a New Kind of Sugar

Washington.—Discovery of a new sugar in the juice of dahlia tubers is announced by the United States bureau of standards. It was discovered during tests to find out the structure of inulin, which is a starchlike substance found in the dahlia juice. About 92 per cent of this juice was resolved into the already known sugar called levulose or fructose, but the remaining 8 per cent was a mystery. This residual substance was subjected while in sirup form to a light polarization test. Fructose when given a similar test rotates the polarized light to the left, but this unknown sirup rotated it to the right. Other tests red-ed it to crystalline form, which the announcement says is a sugar that has "never hitherto been isolated."

Berlin Ranks in Area Next to Los Angeles

Berlin, Germany.—With a speed equaling that of any booming western city in America, Berlin has become the second largest city in the world territorially, today covering an area of 87,810 hectares, or 216,381 acres, according to the Berlin statistical bureau. It is only exceeded in size by Los Angeles, while London, with its 7,500,000 inhabitants, is only half as large, and Paris, with a population of 3,000,000, only one-tenth the size.

Attacked by Bunnies Is Hunter's Defense

Racine, Wis.—A young hunter who killed six rabbits before the season for such activities was open, was brought before officials here. The defendant persistently reiterated, "They attacked me. I shot in self-defense." Lawyers have been unable to penetrate this defense since there were no witnesses to the murderous assault.

When they catch you with the goods don't blame it on the woman. That was the first defense ever offered by man.

We've also noticed that the Plymouth man who is liberal with his promises is also liberal with his excuses.

It doesn't matter much whether the world is round or flat—the real trouble is to keep your balance.

BELLEVILLE IS OUTPLAYED

Continuous rain and a mud and watery field failed to dampen the enthusiasm of football boys from Plymouth who went to Belleville to meet their high school team on the grid-iron late last Friday, nor were the fans kept at home by bad weather. In their last game of the season the Plymouth boys easily defeated their opponents by a score of 12 to 0.

The first touchdown came in the first quarter when Danahel Herrick broke through Belleville's line for a 28-yard run. A pass from Herrick to Carney for 29 yards and then the star end crawled 6 yards for the second touchdown in the second quarter. Keeping the ball in Belleville's territory throughout the game, Plymouth was never in any danger of being defeated by the much heavier team. In the last half Coach Matherson sent in many substitutes who showed good knowledge of football.

PLYMOUTH-BELLEVILLE GAME

FIRST QUARTER:

Herrick kicked off to Ives who returned the ball 5 yards before he was tackled. Two plays, a line buck and an end run, resulted in no gain. Ives punted outside on Plymouth's 40-yard line. A pass, Herrick to Gust, gained 14 yards. Herrick skirted right end for 3 yards. A try at the line failed to gain. At this point Plymouth was penalized 15 yards for pushing. Herrick was given the ball and picked up 3 yards. He punted to the 20-yard line where the Belleville safety man fumbled and Plymouth recovered the ball. A line plunge by Orr and an end run by Beegle gained 4 yards. Herrick lost 5 yards but Beegle made it up by a gain of 6 yards off tackle. Herrick smashed the line for 2 yards and on the next play, an end run, near the sideline, he took the ball over for a touchdown. The try for point failed. Herrick punted to Wicker who was tackled on the 30-yard line. A pass failed and a smash off tackle gained only 3 yards. Ives received a lateral pass for a gain of 5 yards. Hero Belleville fumbled and Plymouth recovered the ball. Two line smashes by Orr gained 10 yards. Gust took the ball for 5 yards. Herrick fumbled and Belleville recovered. Ives' punt was blocked by Herrick and the ball was given to Plymouth. A fumble lost 8 yards. Orr was given the ball but failed to gain. Herrick punted and the ball was fumbled by the Belleville safety man and was recovered by Carney. Orr took the ball for 2 yards and Herrick made 8 yards and a first down. At this point Curtis replaced Orr. Plymouth fumbled and Belleville recovered on the 20-yard line. Ives' line plunge by Ives gained 10 yards. A lateral pass was fumbled but a Belleville man recovered. A line smash lost 2 yards and the ball passed into Plymouth's possession. Gust and Beegle gained 2 and 3 yards respectively as the quarter ended.

Score—Plymouth 6, Belleville 0.

SECOND QUARTER:

Both sides were offside on the play and the ball was brought back to its original position. Ives punted to Gust on the 30-yard line where he was stopped in his tracks. Herrick picked up 13 yards in 2 tries at the line. Beegle made 5 yards on a wide end run. Herrick was given the ball but failed to gain. A pass, Herrick to Carney, was successful and resulted in a gain of 25 yards and a touchdown. The try for point failed. Score—Plymouth 12, Belleville 0.

THIRD QUARTER:

Herrick kicked to the 5-yards line and the ball was back 15 yards. Two tries at the line resulted in no gain. Belleville lost the ball on downs and Plymouth took possession of it on the 30-yard line. Two line plunges by Ives gained 2 yards. Herrick's punt rolled side on the 15-yard line. No gain was made on an off tackle smash. Ives picked up 5 yards on an end run. Ives punted to Gust on the 40-yard line. Beegle and Herrick gained 7 yards on end runs. Beegle was thrown for no gain. Herrick punted outside on the 15-yard line. Two passes were incomplete and Belleville was penalized 5 yards.

went in for Gust. Ives punted to Dudek who ran the ball back 5 yards. Beegle took the ball for 5 yards on a line buck. Herrick failed to gain. FOURTH QUARTER:

Ball replaced Fockler and Dudek. Dudek replaced Carney. Herrick was given the ball but failed to gain. On the next play he made 15 yards on an end run. Beegle gained 12 yards off tackle. A gain of 5 yards was made by Herrick on an end run. At this point, Ives replaced Beegle. Herrick was thrown for a 2-yard loss as the final whistle blew.

SENIOR ASSEMBLY

At the Senior assembly last Wednesday our club gave a very satisfactory demonstration of their talents. The clogging club presented two clever numbers, a dance by Janet Bickenstaff and Elaine Hamilton and also a folk dance by Annabelle Withey and Roberta Chappel.

Mr. Emens gave a very interesting talk on manners. He doesn't like to see people chewing gum as it reminds him of his boyhood days on the farm. As he said that forks should not be used to illustrate conversation and that there is a certain amount of danger connected with eating with knives he must have looked into our lunch room one noon. He read more rules from a booklet called "Minimum Essentials of Conduct," a pamphlet designed to teach etiquette to school pupils.

A representative from the Junior class, Gale Kenyon, announced that the Junior play will be given this Thursday and Friday and promised us many thrills from the mystery play "The Monkey's Paw," one of the three one-act plays to be presented. As Friday was our last football game of the season and the last one any of our graduates-to-be would play in, Captain Beegle asked to have as many as possible attend. Harold Hubert told us about our first league debate with Ecorse and asked all who could possibly attend to be there. Margaret Dunning from the Girl Reserves, announced that candy bars and pop corn would be sold before the game Friday.

Mr. Emens' next announcement was a surprise. The Girls' Glee Club double quartet sang "Roses of Picardy" and "Moonrise." We were then excused five minutes early to receive the bad or good news on our report cards.

A "RECORD" FOR HISTORY
Miss Lyke managed to get a portable victrola up on her desk Monday and played one of her records brought from her home in Northville. Washington gives his Farewell Address on one side while Webster replies to Hayne on the other. Private sources inform us that the Farewell was not quite as clear as the other but that they were both very good and were also a rather unique way of bringing them into classwork.

DENTAL SURVEY

Doctor Hoyer examined the teeth of all the seventh, eighth, and ninth grades Monday while our nurse, took a record of it. The accumulated records are filed and kept through all the grades showing the condition of each pupil's teeth. One poor Freshie returned from the office to Miss Crumble's algebra class with a very strained and puzzled expression on his youthful brow. "Why, what's the matter?" she asked him and received the following reply. "Well, the doctor told me I had purple xibs but I don't know what that is." The medical portion of our staff should be more careful when using such terms as "xibs" and "purple" to our young scholars. Plymouth may well be proud of the progress made in this line which has probably been accomplished as a result of the dental educational study that the very young grades are receiving nowadays.

RED FLASHES AND BLUE STREAKS.

The Junior class was unexpectedly called to meeting Tuesday instead of Wednesday, and when the students saw a man with a "great big head" they immediately became curious.

Miss Cary introduced Mr. Powell, of the Crowell publishing company, who explained his errand. He said that his plan was for the Juniors to sell magazines. "For each 'American' we sell we make one dollar; one dollar for each 'Collector'; fifty cents for each 'Woman's Home Companion'; one dollar for each 'Monitor'; and fifty cents for 'Farm and Fireside'."

Then our president, Gale Kenyon told us to vote as to whether or not we approved of this plan. At first it was rejected, but after taking the vote again, most favorably, Gale then appointed Catherine Nichols as president of one side and Madelon Shingleton of the other. Then each Junior received either a blue or red button. Hazel Rathburn was then appointed as president of the campaign and to help the two leaders. Mr. Powell showed us a chart for our rates. It is a picture of the Blue Danube and the Red Sea. The Blue Streaks are on one side and the Red Flashes on the other. They are having a tug-of-war. At the end of six days if the Blue Streaks have pulled the Red Flashes into the Blue Danube the blues win and if the Red Flashes have pulled the Blue Streaks into the Red Sea, the reds win. The losers have to give the winners a party. Both blues and reds are going to work very hard. The quota has been set at 85—that is we agree to sell at least that many subscriptions.

SPORTSMANSHIP

The Senior Girl Reserves and the H-Y boys met together a week ago last Friday to discuss sportsmanship. The discussion became so interesting that they continued the meeting last Friday. First Kenyon Miller talked on sportsmanship among the team members, about receiving defeat good naturedly, helping others when they are hurt and trying to make the team work together with no spectacular player. Then Winona Kent lead the discussion on good sportsmanship in the audience; recognizing a good play on the other side as well as their own, cheering for a hard fellow and not razzing the umpire.

To find what the group considered a good girl sport and a good boy sport should be. They had several speakers. Elmore Carney and Catherine Nichol discussed a good girl sport. She should be fair, as athletic as possible, a comrade to the boys as well as the girls and she should be sociable. However this does not mean that she should do things in a group which interfere with her own ideas of right and wrong.

Then Beryl Smith and Margaret Dunning gave their opinion on a good boy sport. He should go out for sports if he can but not let those interfere with his schoolwork and he should not be shy or silly but be a good friend to everybody.

"SPORTS" IN PUBLIC SPEAKING.

A dandy program was put on last week in Public Speaking class by Doris Dietrich. She chose "Sports" for her subject and Amy Blackmore opened the day with the difference between boys' and girls' games—rules and strength. That was followed by a talk on basketball by Doris Haines, while Max Cool coolly spoke on the coolest of cool sports, skiing and snowshoeing.

Harold Stevens told us about the difference between summer and winter games and during the course of his talk he happened to mention that golf used to be a gentleman's game but now everybody plays it. I wonder if Harold has learned to play it recently. His was considered the main or best topic. Kenneth Groth had Ice Hockey and Shiny; Marlon Dreyer had girls' and boys' baseball while Doris Williams ended with Tennis.

These programs are becoming very popular in Mr. Bodine's class besides helping the students gain poise and distinction in speaking.

NINTH GIRL RESERVES

The ninth Girl Reserves worked on their scrapbooks and discussed Thanksgiving baskets in the last meeting.

JUNIOR GIRL RESERVES

"By Ways" was the second program given by the Junior Girl Reserves. The leaders were Camilla Ashton and Viola Lutemmoser. They gave us some good ideas on what to do with our leisure time and told us what kind of books to read. They also brought out good points on athletics in reference to health. Afterwards there was an open discussion and all girls could give their opinion.

The broad board sale has ended and we have been very successful. Our next meeting will be a song meeting.

A FAMILIAR ESSAY

The familiar essay attempts to find enjoyment in the ordinary and the familiar. The quality of being common-place is not inherent in our surroundings, but is only inherent in the mind of the beholder. And so the eleventh English class in section three has been trying to look at their familiar world to see what might be interesting. The theme given below was the result of one such assignment.

A Day on Belle Isle

I want to take you back to the days of my childhood when during the summer vacation we took our annual excursion to, in our childish eyes and hearts, the happy spot of the world. For days and days ahead we would plan and feel little thrills of expectation at the thought of the treat in store.

Of course the hardest part of anything is the getting ready and this was also a tedious task for us. There being a large family of us, the older ones had to help the younger to scrub their necks and wash their ears. Then we donned our finery; there were white lace dresses, starched so stiff they could almost stand, for us girls while the boys were equally starched shirt-waists with a rubber band around the middle. We had one of the first Fords in the neighborhood, and I can remember the day Dad brought it home. My, but we were proud and the whole neighborhood turned out to look it over and Dad took them for rides in groups of five. I think he made about six trips, but a few of the boys slipped in and went twice. But on the day of the picnic the Ford came into view clean and shining, for the boys had spent the afternoon fifteen pairs of water, and all their energy in polishing it.

The next thing was to get packed in, and that is said truthfully, for have you ever tried to pack six children, together with the lunch basket and various other packages? And once Carl hid the cat and we took her along, too. Dad, Mother, and my youngest sister sat in the front seat, while the three oldest boys sat in back and my younger brother and I sat on their laps. The back seat troupe sat in first and Mother packed the bundles around our feet so that we had to sit in one position for the whole ride, once Ralph moved his foot and stepped in the cake and we had to throw it away. When we finally got under way and were about two miles from home, Mother inquired as to which one she had given the bottle opener for the olives. It was discovered that she had given it to Don and he shouted that he had left it at home on the kitchen table. So we went back and looked high and low for that bottle opener until Don finally discovered that he had had it in his pocket all the time. We got packed in again and arrived at the Isle all straining our necks out the sides of the car. After lunch was over, and all the animals had been viewed, and we had fed peanuts to the white bears and stuck our fingers into the monkey cage, the boys went in bathing. This was before the days when bathing suits were prevalent and our boys wore a clean pair of overalls for a suit. We girls were refused the privilege of going in, but we could usually sneak away behind some rocks and paddle our feet in the water until Mother came and hauled us out before we prepared for the home trip.

Often in the summer time I go riding on Belle Isle, yet it gives me no thrill; and when I see groups of people packed in large cars and the folks all there except the children who have been left at home with Aunt Susan, I wonder if they realize that they have taken the best things from their lives, even though they may have the best of advantages and all modern conveniences.

READY FOR SERVICE.

Up a long sloping hill and into a large room filled with rows of small white cots and chairs holding many little boys and girls with eager, expectant faces, went the Senior Girl Reserves Monday night after they entered the gates of the Maybury sanatorium. Once there, they began their entertainment, which was a service program, under the direction of the service committee.

A quartet composed of Pauline Deal, Dora Gallimore, Catherine Nichol and Velma Petz sang a song then eleven girls dressed in blue and white uniforms and carrying large blue letters spelled out and said the Girl Reserve code: next our whole ensemble—the circle of service, and the triangle with sides representing body, mind and spirit—was dramatized. The meaning of service was explained by Heloise Travis and Irene Krauter.

ATTENTION!

In an editorial last week concerning the Torch club a mistake was made. It was stated that the Torch club was a branch of the H-Y. It is not a branch but a part of it. The H-Y consists of two chapters—a junior and a senior one. The junior chapter is called the Torch club and the senior chapter the H-Y. Mr. Emens and Mr. Bodine sponsor the senior chapter and Mr. Cobb the junior or Torch club.

After two week's absence, Kenneth Timmus is back in Miss Holliday's room. Mrs. Barlow and Mrs. Timmus were visitors last week. The children are having a grand time making pictures for the story of Hiawatha.

Team 5 in Miss Feuner's room is expecting a treat from "it" at Thanksgiving for they are still ahead in spelling. A new boy has been added to each side.
Miss Hallahan's pupils are learning the names of the Presidents of the United States in order. Robert Smith and Edward Gates had perfect scores in arithmetic Friday. Carroll Hammond was room reporter for the week.

AMERICANIZATION PARTY GIVEN

The Sarah Ann Cochran chapter, D. A. R., sponsored an Americanization party Tuesday evening in the kindergarten room of the High school. They had as their guests a group of Swedish people who have recently come to Plymouth. American patriotic songs were sung, then the Swedish group delightfully entertained with several of the Swedish popular songs. A few words of welcome were given by Rev. Frederick A. Lendrum, and George A. Smith, superintendent of public schools, spoke upon the subject, "What It Means to Be an American."

Refreshments were served, after which Mr. Erickson thanked the members and friends of the Daughters of the American Revolution for the pleasant evening and the gracious spirit of hospitality and brotherhood. Much credit for the success of the evening is due Mrs. George Wilcox, who was chairman in charge of this first Americanization party. It was the opinion of all present that Plymouth is proud to welcome such a splendid group of people.

PLYMOUTH, MICHIGAN, FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 23, 1928

CHEVROLET BRINGS OUT NEW SIX CYLINDER CAR NOV. 24TH

Passing on to the motoring public the benefits of economies arising out of tremendous volume production, the Chevrolet Motor Company today introduces "the outstanding Chevrolet of Chevrolet history—A Six in the Price Range of the Four."

In making this important announcement, W. S. Knudson, president and general manager, points out that the sensational public reception accorded the car in recent years has enabled Chevrolet at this time to offer the added power, speed and smoothness of six cylinder performance at practically the same price that contributed so much to the world-wide popularity of the four.

Preparations for the greatest year in its history are now being made by the Chevrolet Motor Company. Production of the new car was started last week and the company's fifteen giant factories across the country will be turning out cars to be shipped to dealers by December 15. Deliveries to the public will start January first.

Although no definite schedule has been set for 1929, Mr. Knudson declared that production of the new car would probably exceed 1,250,000 units, thereby surpassing all former records.

In its new offering Chevrolet has retained the highly successful valve-in-head principle. The motor is of the high compression type with a non-detonating head and develops 32 percent more power than its famous predecessor. Its acceleration is more readily greater and its speed has been stepped up to satisfy maximum requirements. The piston displacement is 194 cubic inches.

Despite this greatly improved performance standard, thousands of miles of testing under every road and weather conditions at the General Motors Proving ground in addition to many cross country runs, have shown that the new Chevrolet engine will operate with an economy averaging better than 20 miles to a gallon of gasoline. This is practically the same fuel economy enjoyed by the owners of the previous four cylinder model.

The motor develops 46 horse power at low engine speed and as a result of the automatic lubrication of the valve mechanism the motor is exceptionally quiet throughout the entire speed range.

Seven models of passenger cars and three commercial types comprise the line, which according to General Motors officials, embodies the greatest dollar value ever offered in an automobile. Included in the passenger car line are five closed and two open models. All bodies this year carry the famous Fisher stamp of craftsmanship. The commercial car line embraces a new and larger Utility Truck of one and one-half ton capacity, a new light delivery chassis, and the Sedan Delivery.

From an appearance standpoint as well as from inherent design, the car is completely new and with a wide range of attractive colors and fine appointments formerly found only on the more expensive makes.

Despite the score of advanced features, prices remain practically the same, chiefly as a result of the efficiency of tremendous volume production. The passenger car range is from $525 to $725, f. o. b. Flint, Mich. The prices, according to models, are as follows: Roadster $525; phaeton $525; coach $595; coupe $565; sedan $675; sport cabriolet $655; convertible landau $725. The commercial car prices are: light delivery chassis $400; one and one-half ton Utility truck chassis $545; one and one-half ton Utility truck chassis with cab $650; and the sedan delivery $595. All prices are f. o. b. Flint, Michigan.

Advance showings of the new Chevrolet line will be held in leading cities strategically located throughout the country beginning November 24 and continuing until December 22. First deliveries to purchasers will start January first. No deliveries will be made prior to that time, officials stated.

Dates and places of the special advance showings are as follows: Detroit, November 24-26, Auditorium General Motors Building; New York, November 24-26, Waldorf-Astoria Hotel; Chicago, December 1-3, Grand Central Station; St. Louis, December 1-3, Grand Central Station; Philadelphia, December 1-3, Independence Hall; Boston, December 1-3, Hotel Huntington; Washington, D. C., December 1-3, Mayflower Hotel; Chicago, December 1-3, Pullman Building; Warkor Drive and Washburn Ave.; Los Angeles, December 1-3, Auditorium; Ambassador Hotel; Cincinnati, December 1-3, Union Hotel; San Francisco, December 1-3, Civic Auditorium; Larkling Hall; St. Louis, December 1-3, Grand Central Station; Atlanta, December 1-3, Auditorium; Dallas, December 1-3, Adolphus Hotel; Portland, Ore., December 1-3, Public Auditorium. All of the foregoing dates are inclusive.

In each of these places the complete passenger car line will be displayed in automobile show style. Elaborate entertainment features have been arranged for the display in each city and in every case provision will be made to accommodate the hundreds of thousands of visitors who will view the new Chevrolet line between November 24 and December 22.

Advance orders will be taken immediately following the announcement with deliveries starting January first, officials stated. They also pointed out that to insure delivery early next year it would be advisable to place orders as soon as possible.

The plan of introductory showings with deliveries to follow after January first was adopted for two reasons, it was explained. In the first place, officials pointed out approximately five weeks will be required to change over the production line from the four to the six in the motor plant at Flint, Michigan. Added to this was the necessity for inventory taking, which is customary at this time each year.

At the same time, R. H. Grant, vice president of the Chevrolet Motor Company, in charge of sales, saw in this necessary five weeks interval an opportunity to provide the sales organization of some 30,000 dealers and salesmen with a means of profitable activity during this period when otherwise they would be comparatively idle.

The new Chevrolet, which on its debut November 24, promises to write a new chapter in motor car history, is in every sense a proved product. Four years ago Chevrolet engineers began their research work, engineering, planning and General Motors Proving ground testing. Associated with the Chevrolet engineers were the specialized engineers of the General Motors Research Laboratories.

Night and day, in doors and out, in good weather and bad, they designed, built and tested every modern type of motor so that no opportunity would be overlooked so that every desirable feature might be harmoniously incorporated in the new product. Perhaps a thousand ideas were considered and discarded. More than 100 different motors were built up and given exhaustive test runs and road tests before the cabinet of expert engineers, presided over by G. E. Hunt, Chief Engineer of the Chevrolet Motor Company, finally approved the new Chevrolet valve-in-head six cylinder motor.

Speed, acceleration, power and smoothness, to an unusual degree, are offered in the new motor. It is of the high compression type, fully enclosed and with a non-detonating head. It has a three and five sixteenths bore and a three and three quarters inch stroke with a 194 cubic inch piston displacement.

The motor develops 32 per cent more horse power than its famous predecessor and has an abundant source of reserve power for fast getaway, heavy roads and steep grades. New features that contribute to this added power are an improved cooling fan clammer; a newly designed cam shaft and four exhaust and three intake ports.

The speed has been stepped up to satisfy maximum requirements and in acceleration the new motor is vastly superior to any previous Chevrolet model. This remarkable acceleration is due partly to the use of a new accelerating pump. When the accelerator is suddenly depressed this pump forces a small quantity of gasoline into the manifold of the carburetor, giving the car the instant power and getaway so necessary in modern traffic. On actual dynamometer tests the new engine develops 46 horsepower at low engine speed. At all ordinary speeds it develops from three to four times the amount of power required to drive the car.

Torsional vibration is imperceptible at any speed through the use of a heavy 46 pound crank shaft which is perfectly balanced statically and dynamically. A further contribution to the exceptional quietness of the motor is the automatic lubrication of the entire rocker arm mechanism and of all valve operating parts, which in addition are completely enclosed.

Another advanced feature is the fuel pump which insures a positive and uniform supply of gasoline to the carburetor under all driving conditions, regardless of engine speed, load or road grade. A gasoline filter, built in as part of the fuel pump insures only clean gasoline reaching the carburetor and engine. The carburetor is further protected by a new type AC air cleaner which prevents grit and dust from entering.

There is a combustion splash and wick flow method of lubrication with the oil supplied through an oil filter at the bottom of the crankcase by means of a newly designed vane type pump. There is an oil pressure gauge incorporated in the new instrument panel.

Assuring maximum cooling efficiency, there is a large aluminum-plated Harrison honeycomb radiator with water pump and fan.

The clutch is of the single plate dry disc type and requires no lubrication.

The new rear axle is similar in design to that used on the most expensive cars. It is of the semi-floating type with a strong one piece, hump type pressed steel housing. Six heavy duty New Departure annular ball bearings and extra heavy cut spiral bevel gears make for smooth driving operation.

The steering gear is semi-reversible of the ball bearing full worm and gear type. The new shaft is solid, replacing the tubular type formerly used. It is mounted in a bracket securely riveted to the frame. The beautiful seventeen inch black finish steering wheel has a rubber covered spicer.

Dependable non-locking wheel wheel brakes with rear service brakes in two self-aligning segments contribute to the quiet, safe operating features of the car.

The service brakes on the 11 inch drums on the rear wheels are of the external contracting type and those on the front of the internal expanding style. The emergency brake lever is conveniently located on the driver's right and operates a braking system independent of the service brakes.

Long chrome vanadium shock absorber steel springs of the semi-clipper type are one of the factors accounting for the easy riding qualities of the new car. The springs are set parallel to the frame, assuring safety as well as comfort at all speeds. The front springs are each 36 inches in length and the rear springs 54 inches. The wheelbase is 107 inches.

Attractive new colors and a new order of beauty in Fisher body design characterizes the entire passenger car line. The high fashioned hood and the gleaming chromium radiator shell supply the keynote of unusual smartness and grace. The rakish, unbroken lines, emphasized by distinctively grouped hood louvres suggest speed and alertness. The divided body moulding and the concave front pillars reflect the taste so widely favored by leading custom builders, while the larger, longer, lower bodies stand out as tributes to the latest advance in Fisher craftsmanship.

Appointments are the richest and most luxurious ever offered by Chevrolet. The seats are wider and more restful. The driver's seat in all closed models is easily adjustable, forward or back, a feature recently introduced on a few of the high priced cars. The redesigned dash carries six attractive grouping of all control instruments in directly lighted including the new motor temperature indicator. Rich, long-wearing upholstery and specially designed Torstedt hardware contribute to the environment of distinction.

Added safety in night driving has been accomplished through the use of a light control switch at the left of the clutch pedal. Instead of dimming the lights the same effect is attained by changing the angle of the new two-beam head lamps by pressing the floor button with the foot. Both hands meanwhile may remain on the wheel directing the course of the car.

A new body style takes its place in the new Chevrolet line, supplanting the Imperial Landau. It is the convertible landau sedan on which the rear quarter may be completely folded down. The car is finished in Crockett brown with Mistho gray belt and striped in Shalimar orange. Window Mouldings are in Mistho gray with upholstery in rich mohair.

The new coach is finished in Norse gray with Mistho gray belt and striped in Tusk Ivory. Window mouldings are Helmet gray and upholstery in blue corduroy. Smart Cordie blue with Budda blue belt has been selected as the finish for the coupe. It is striped in Mountain ash scarlet and has window mouldings in Budda blue. It is upholstered in tawny corduroy.

The sedan is finished in Huntington green with Mistho gray belt and striped in Odyssey ivory. Window mouldings are in Como green and upholstery in green corduroy. The convertible cabriolet is finished in Trinton blue with Delphine blue belt and striping in Tusk Ivory. Window mouldings are Delphine blue. The cabriolet is quickly converting into a sport roadster by lowering the top.

The new phaeton, which has taken the place of the touring car is finished in Lush green with Zanzibar green belt. It is striped in Tusk Ivory and has mouldings in Zanzibar green. The roadster is finished in Mistho gray with Estes Park gray belt. Striped in Vincennes red, its mouldings are in Estes Park gray. The top is easily and quickly lowered. A boot for the top is provided.

All models are equipped with parabolic type headlamps, with parking bulbs, operating from the lighting switch. A theft proof electro-lock is also standard. There is a storage battery with composition case; motor driven Klaxon horn; complete tool kit; weatherproof pedal enclosure; automatic spotlight and rear vision mirror.

Both open cars have curtains that open with the doors, and a full vision windshield with weather strip and wiper. Coach, coupe, sedan, cabriolet and convertible landau are equipped with military sun visors, Fisher VV type windshield with automatic type wiper and narrow windshield posts which eliminates blind spots. There are adjustable driver's seats in all closed models and cow lamp on the cabriolet and convertible landau. Balloon tires, 4.50 by 20 are standard on all passenger models.

Hints for the Home by Nancy Hart

When planning the table decorations for Thanksgiving do not forget that all fruits and vegetables are as decorative as flowers for the centerpiece—and far more expressive symbols of harvest time.

One of the most beautiful Thanksgiving tables I have ever seen had for its centerpiece a large flat bowl of amber glass holding a small pumpkin, a purple egg plant, an ear of corn, a tiny winter squash and apples, plums, oranges, purple and wine-red grapes. Tall cones of amber glass filled with small fruits and grapes were placed at either side of the large bowl. Amber goblets and ivory-bodied china in a colorful pattern were used for service.

Although the table was planned for a sophisticated New York home it seems to me it bears a special message for all who live far from good florist shops.

For the Meatless Meal:

- Creamed carrot and pea soup
- Vegetable cutlets
- Cauliflower au gratin
- Tomato sauce
- Egg salad
- Prune pie
- Non-stimulating drink

Luscious Pumpkin Pie.

This time use prepared cake flour to make your pie crust and condensed milk where your pumpkin recipe calls for milk—and you will have a richer, creamier filling and a flakier crust than usual for this piece de resistance of your Thanksgiving meal.

A New Salad.

Chop 12 stuffed olives and 1 cup celery. Heat 1 cup water and 1 cup tomato soup to boiling; add 2 table-spoons vinegar, salt and paprika to taste. Dissolve in this 1 package lemon-flavored gelatin. When cool and slightly thick, stir in celery mixture and pour in molds to harden. Very good with "curries and trimmings."

Mends Broken China.

A splendid cement for broken china may be made by mixing plaster of Paris with white of egg until it is creamy. Apply as you would any prepared cement.

Fruit Men to Talk New Orchard Ways

STATE HORTICULTURE SOCIETY
WILL HOLD FIFTY-EIGHTH
MEETING FROM DEC.
4 TO 6.

Problems uppermost in the minds of progressive fruit growers of Michigan will be dealt with by horticulture specialists and leaders in the industry during the three-day program of the Michigan Horticultural Society in its 58th annual meeting at Grand Rapids, December 4, 5, and 6.

Through research investigations of recent years, W. C. Dutton, of the M. S. C. horticultural department, has developed a procedure which eliminates much of the spray injury to apple foliage and produces fruit of better finish and color. Mr. Dutton's lecture on the use of spray materials will be illustrated. There will also be a display of apples sprayed with various materials.

F. H. Burkhart, of Traverse City, prominent cherry grower and canner, will tell of his experiences with bees in his cherry orchard. He has moved bees into his orchard at blossom time for many years and has obtained exceptionally good results. A discussion of "The Facts on Orchard Heating" will be given by F. C. Bradford, of the college horticulture department, while the results of experiments in girdling to produce apples on young Northern Spy trees will be explained by H. M. Wells, superintendent of the Graham Horticultural Experiment Station at Grand Rapids.

An apple show and exhibits of spray machinery and materials, orchard equipment, fruit packages, and nursery stock will be held in connection with the meeting.

Lucy's Answer to Leander

By HILDA SPRAGUE
(Copyright)

LEANDER HUTCHINS rattled up the village street in his noisy little car, finally coming to a standstill before the snug white cottage of Capt. Dan Bruce. Captain Dan trotted swiftly around the shell-bordered path to the front gate.

"What you bringing that glazing old craft around here for, Leander?" he complained. "I was feeding my hens and they's all scudded off, and it'll take a lot more of bait to catch 'em."

Leander's car was the official bus that ran to the railroad station, and Leander had the contract to carry the mail. And, in an almost imperceptible degree, Leander was improving. He was saving money and thinking of getting married.

He confided this last determination to Captain Dan.

"Married?" the captain lifted his head quickly and regarded Leander from his keen, frosty blue eyes that seemed the color of the blue seas he had sailed, laced with white foam. "Married?" he repeated again. "Picked out any one as yet, Leander?"

"Perhaps," said Leander, cautiously. "You can laugh, Dan—maybe you're thinking of getting married yourself?"

"Dusen't change my luck," muttered the bachelor captain, his blue eyes fixed on the distant horizon. "You said you wanted my help. What can I do?"

"Tell her—I—well, I haven't got the nerve, Dan. Maybe you could."

The captain glared at him. "What do you want to marry for if you're scared of women?" he demanded. "You keep out of it, Leander."

"I wish I could," sighed Leander. "But, honest, Dan, I ought to get married. And besides it might be well for the business. Next year I could buy a real motor bus, and that means success for me."

"Foul," sneered the captain angrily. "I'll see her. What feather-headed girl do you want me to ask?"

"She's no feather-head, Dan. She's sensible. I'm talking about Lucy Wayne. Will you do it, or won't you?" He climbed into the little car. Then climbed out again and cranked it; climbed in again and lighted a pipe, and all this while Captain Dan had not answered.

"What say?" Leander was impatient. "I'll do it, Leander," promised the captain, his gaze flickering back to Leander, and then away to the horizon again. "She shall have a chance."

"That's what I thought," murmured Leander, smugly.

"Excuse me!" ejaculated the captain as the car rattled away. Many minutes he stood there, his thoughts busy with his past in which Lucy Wayne had a part. Even now with their gardens adjoining they did little more than pass the time of day when they met.

A voice suddenly cut the silence of the afternoon.

"Why don't you come and give me Leander Hutchins' message?" asked the low, pleasant tones of Lucy, who was leaning over the snow dusted hedge between their yards. She was fair and fresh looking, with big brown eyes that were inclined to be mischievous, and a sweet little face that refused to grow old as the years fled over her bonny brown head. "I want to hear what he had to say."

The captain came to the hedge. "Lucy, he wants to marry you," he announced abruptly.

"Oh!" Lucy was really surprised. "I thought perhaps he wanted to borrow money to go into the automobile business."

"I said I would ask you—I've done it," growled the captain, knocking out his pipe and putting it into the pocket of his blue pilot jacket. He was gazing at her with hungry eyes; he looked lonely and wistful, standing there, asking her to marry another man.

Lucy was sorry for the lost years, too. She handed a little envelope over the hedge. "My answer to Leander is here—I heard his conversation with you—I was pruning my grape vines—so I wrote down the provisions under which I would marry Leander."

"You would—you might—marry him?" gasped the captain as she walked away toward her cozy little house. He knew there was a bright coal fire in the sitting room grate, two cats would be on the rug, and perhaps Brownie, the spaniel—Lucy would be in there now, making some tea and preparing her supper, while she considered Leander's proposal of marriage. He tore open the envelope and read the few penciled lines over and over again.

"I agree to accept Leander's proposal, if Captain Dan does not ask me to forgive and forget, and if he does not ask me to marry him before nine o'clock tonight."

At last the truth smote the captain between his blue eyes and they lost their frost forever—something came into them that warmed them with the fire of youth. He leaped over the hedge and ran up the path, presenting himself at Lucy's door in breathless haste.

"I'll telephone Leander that you're going to marry me, and that we will be glad to lend him some money so that he can start a business," suggested the captain.

"That is just what I was thinking," agreed Lucy demurely, as she poured another cup of tea.

THE THEATRE

"BEGGARS OF LIFE."

Jim Tully's realism, his humor, his drama, on the screen for the first time, has startled, thrilled, warmed and pleased large audiences and will show at the Penniman Allen theatre Sunday and Monday, Nov. 25 and 26.

Never before has the saga of Hobokenia been told with such fidelity. Never before has the secret of the wanderlust been revealed with such certainty. Here is a fighting story; a story of men fighting an environment; a story of rough, cruel, lustful, brutal men, of dreaming men.

Wallace Beery is back once again in the heavy, serious, dramatic roles in which he attained his greatest fame. As Oklahoma Red he is a smashing, dominating genius. His interpretation of this huge, vital, human animal of trambolm is something to marvel at, to captivate the imagination. Paramount has chosen well in placing Beery in the pivotal role in this great drama.

No less important to the story and no less successful in her interpretation is Louise Brooks, that slim, graceful girl who has won her way to moving picture fame by the sheer force of ability and personality. In "Beggars of Life" she plays a difficult role wonderfully well and climaxes many rungs on her ladder to stardom.

Richard Arlen actually submerges himself in his part. His is the important juvenile role; his is the difficult business of translating the true spirit of the wanderlust.

"THE PATRIOT."

Great figures of Russian history have emerged from the shadow, to re-live upon the screen at the Penniman Allen theatre Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, Nov. 28, 29 and 30, events which once rocked Europe.

Revisited for Emil Jennings' next starring picture, "The Patriot," which Ernst Lubitsch directed, such mighty names as Czar Paul the First, Count Pahlen, Mlle. Lappoukhine and the Countess Ostermann, forgotten for a century, were in everyday use among the players and technical staff engaged in preparatory work.

"Napoleon overshadowed nearly all the men of his day, but there were other mighty soldiers and statesmen who have never received their due because of the great Frenchman," said Lubitsch. "We have brought back some of these people and make them live with such vividness that audiences will look upon them as familiar characters, human, well remembered people."

Jennings himself portrays the Czar Paul, the emperor who lived in such constant fear of his subjects that he built a fortress-palace to keep himself safe. Florence Vidor is cast in the role of the Countess Ostermann; Lewis Stone plays Count Pahlen, the man who fostered the conspiracy which led to the assassination of Paul; Vera Voronina portrays Mlle. Lappoukhine, the czar's favorite.

"Gang War."

Something bigger than the usual underworld picture story runs through the new FBO special "Gang War" which is coming to the Penniman Allen theatre Saturday, Dec. 1. It is the story of the love of a girl, given to one fine boy of her own accord, but to another, equally fine, by stress of circumstance.

Olive Borden as the girl is forced to marry a gang-leader who loves her more than anything in life. She, however, loves a boy of her own kind. A fine fellow, but incapable of fighting the gangster rival. Driven by fear for the one she loves, the girl is compelled to marry the gangster, only to find that she has not saved her lover after all.

With the truth coming out, Eddie Gribbon as the gangster, proves himself to be a real man, and chooses death beneath the flaming guns of a rival gang so that his wife may have the man she loves.

Bert Glennon, who directed "The Perfect Crime," also directed "Gang War" from a story by James Ashmore Creelman. The cast also includes Jack Pickford as the boy, Walter Long and Frank Chew, Chinese character actor.

When we told Dad Plymouth that we thought flying was safe as driving, he replied: "Yes, as safe as some driving."

The reason a Plymouth woman can hide her age easier than her husband can is because it's impossible to dye a bald spot.

The old-fashioned Plymouth man who used to worry about wearing out his shoes through walking now has a son who wears his out on the clutch and the accelerator.

Dad Plymouth contends that after a girl has waited for the fairy prince to come and fly away with her she winds up by marrying an ordinary two-legged mutt who chews tobacco and eats onions.

PIRATE ISLANDS NOW AID CANAL COMMERCE

Confusion as to Ownership Is Cleared Up.

Washington, D. C.—A recent agreement among the United States, Nicaragua and Colombia in regard to a handful of little islands and low-lying sand banks in the western Caribbean sea clears up a long-standing confusion as to their ownership and control. They are bits of land that, despite their smallness, may be of considerable importance in the years ahead, according to a bulletin from the Washington (D. C.) headquarters of the National Geographic society. They lie from 40 to 225 miles off the eastern coast of Nicaragua.

Once Lairds of Buccaneers.

"The group of isles, keys, and banks, rising from relatively shallow water, and similar ones to the north, almost form a barrier across the Caribbean," says the bulletin. "Parallel to the eastern side of this near-barrier and close to it is the feeding ship lane that extends from the Panama canal to the passage between Cuba and Haiti and thence on to the eastern ports of the United States. If the Nicaraguan canal is ever built, the main stream of traffic to its Atlantic entrance must pass even closer to the shallow waters marked by the scattered islands."

"A stream of ships has been moving along these routes ever since early Spanish colonial days. And from some of these isles buccaneers swooped out to prey on the galleons that took treasure from Panama and Cartagena north toward Cuba and Haiti."

"All of the islands and keys affected by the recent three-cornered agreement have long been claimed by Colombia, yet that country is 400 miles from the nearest of the isles, while they are relatively close to Nicaragua, Honduras, Costa Rica and Panama. It must be recalled, however, that Colombia, until a quarter of a century ago, embraced the entire Isthmus of Panama, and that its claim to some of the islands runs back a century or more. When Panama was a part of Colombia, some of the islands were almost as close to the territory of the latter country as to Nicaragua."

"By the recent treaty the islands were divided into three groups. The northern group, comprising Quita Suano, Serrana and Roncador banks and keys are claimed by both the United States and Colombia. The United States maintains on each of them a lighthouse to aid navigation. It was agreed that Colombia shall raise no objection to this use of the keys; and that on the other hand the United States shall not object to Colombians fishing over the banks and near the keys. Only small areas of sand and coral rise above the waters, and the tiny patches cannot be used save as sites for lights, and as temporary bases for fishing operations."

"The middle group consists chiefly of true islands: Providencia or Old Providence and St. Andrew or San Andres are the principal ones. Santa Catalina, sometimes listed separately, is virtually a part of Providencia, but is separated from it by a narrow channel only. San Andres, seven miles long and an average of one mile wide, is the largest of the group. On it is a considerable settlement, San Andres village, which is the seat of Colombian government for the island territory. On the entire middle group nearly 3,000 people live. Among them are a number of American planters and many Jamaican negroes. A ridge of hills, with crests reaching 340 feet in height, runs down the center of San Andres."

Nicaraguan Islands Leased.

"The third group covered by the agreement consists of two islands, Great Corn and Little Corn, only 40 miles from the Nicaraguan coast. These are also true islands as distinguished from the outlying keys. The claim of Nicaragua was recognized to these bits of land. Great Corn is two and a half miles long by two miles wide and Little Corn is about one and a half miles long. Hills several hundred feet in height rise on Great Corn while Little Corn has an elevation of about 50 feet. About 300 people live on Great Corn and use Little Corn, seven miles away, as pasture land for their cattle."

"Great Corn and Little Corn are likely to be the most important of all the islands to the United States since they lie only a few miles off the Atlantic entrance to the proposed Nicaraguan canal. Both are under lease to the United States government."

"The four true islands, Providencia, San Andres, Great Corn, and Little Corn, are well nigh ideal places to live in the Tropics. All are free from swamps and healthful. The land, probably of volcanic origin, is fertile and grows vegetables, tropical fruits and coconuts to perfection. It was on these islands, back in the Sixteenth and Seventeenth centuries, that some of the most notorious of the pirates of the Spanish Main had their lairs."

Washington.—Disposal of the used automobile is becoming an international problem, the Department of Commerce says, except in New Zealand and a few other markets where the demand exceeds the supply.

CENTRAL P. T. A. HOLDS INTERESTING MEETING.

The parents and teachers of Central school were very pleasantly entertained on Monday evening of this week.

Due to the illness of the president, Mrs. C. H. Buzzard, the meeting was called to order by the first vice-president, Mrs. B. E. Champe, after which Karl Hillmer took charge.

"The Girls' Glee club sang two lovely numbers, "Roses of Picardy" and "Morn' Rise," accompanied by Miss Schrader at the piano.

Two violin and piano duets, "Simple Aven" and "Giovette," were beautifully rendered by the Misses Doris Hamill and Evelyn Starkweather.

The speaker of the evening, Prof. Hoppes, of the Michigan State Normal college, then gave a very interesting talk on the subject of "Waste" and told how waste can be eliminated by debunking advertising and by standardization. He said that anyone who cared to go further into the subject should read "Your Money's Worth" and "The Tragedy of Waste," by Stewart Chase.

Following the program, a social half hour was enjoyed by all, during which dainty refreshments were served by the Girls' Glee club.

MARVELS FOUND ON OCEAN FLOOR

Flowers of Many Hues Greet Sea Divers.

New York.—A diving helmet, hose and pump open a new world to science—the extravagantly colorful ocean bottom where dwell some of nature's strangest and most beautiful creations.

William Beebe, a pioneer in this submarine method of research, spent many hours on the floor of the Gulf of Gonave during his recent visit to Haiti. There, four, even ten fathoms down he prowled among fantastic shapes, taking notes on a lead pad.

"You learn," writes Doctor Beebe in "Beneath Tropic Seas," "against a framework of purest marble while at your elbow is a rounded table of lapis lazuli, on which are blossoming three flowers—flowers unearthly and which seem toward you of their own free will. Their petals are resplendent in hues of gold and malachite and are fluted and fringed like some rare and unknown orchid. You reach forward to pluck one, and faster than the eye can follow, the blossoms disappear beneath the tur of lapis velvet from which they seem to sprout.

"Dozens of fishes, all strange, all graceful and beautiful, play about you, nibbling at the coral, rushing toward the sponge which you have lifted from its place, hopping for some disturbed tidbit. When you sit quietly they gather closer and peer in through the glass at you again and again.

"There is no sense of wetness, the air you breathe is, if anything, better than that in the motor boat rocking overhead. You hold up your hands and see little washerwoman wrinkles on the soles of your fingers and you realize you are where you are. A great blue enameled fish glides past, then suddenly stands straight upon his head and nibbles something: to your friends in the boat it is merely a school of jellyfish."

Gives Taxi Driver $12 for Returning $38,500

Berlin.—An American tourist bestowed a $12 tip on an honest Berlin taxi-driver who had restored $38,500 in cash which the American had left in the taxicab. The American and his wife arrived in Berlin by rail and were driven to their hotel. The driver put his car away for the night and in the morning found an open satchel on the rear seat, filled with United States currency in stacks of $1,000.

He returned the money and the tourist, after counting it over, handed the driver 50 marks.

Milton Shrine

London.—The kitchen of the historic old cottage at Chalfont St. Giles, not far from London, where John Milton, the poet, lived in 1645, at the time of the great plague, has been restored and is one of the favorite pilgrimages of American tourists.

Farmer Uses Sack to Take $8,000 to Bank

Tulsa, Okla.—A roughly-dressed farmer carried a gunny sack containing $8,000 in gold coins, through busy downtown streets to the teller's window of the Exchange National bank here.

"I want to deposit some money," he said. "I was afraid I might be robbed. I've had it buried on my farm."

The bank refused to divulge the customer's name. The money was carried put more gold in the bank's vault than it has had this year.

EELS GUARANTEED TO PARALYZE HAND

Berlin Fish Market Has Electric Reptiles.

Berlin.—Recent strength in the crocodile market has centered attention on the world's largest clearing house for fish and reptiles, located in Berlin.

Thousand of water animals and amphibia arrive here annually from all parts of the globe to be sold and shipped with care, "this end up," to every continent.

Following the extraordinary demand for crocodiles, which totaled 700 from March to August, an unprecedented boom for turtles has set in.

These sodate travelers have become fashionable as house pets.

Unfortunately, however, this year's supply from Greece, which is the principal market, proved inadequate.

A reported epidemic among the tree frogs of Louisiana also tended to stiffen prices for these little green chips popularly believed to be infallible weather prophets.

At present the great attractions at this firm are two electric eels, each two meters long and with a diameter of a man's arm, which are guaranteed to paralyze for several days any human hand touching them.

But by far the most profitable business is done with goldfish, of which more than 1,000,000 pass through Berlin annually.

Among the average of 1,000 bidders for different kinds of reptiles there are never more than five or six prospective buyers of poisonous snakes which as a rule are only negotiated for the various zoos.

Naturally, all the women stars are showing great anxiety to get into the new talking pictures.

Make Walking a Pleasure

THERE is no reason why walking should be a hardship. Your doctor tells you to exercise, and he will also tell you that no exercise can excel walking in the open air.

Most of us exercise too little. Let's resolve to walk a specified distance each day. If it can be combined with business, so much the better. It makes little difference what clothes you wear but your shoes must be comfortable. May we suggest Walk-Overs?

NEURITIS PAINS VANISHED SINCE HE GOT KONJOLA

Says It Also Strengthened His Nerves and Filled Him With New Life Energy.

MR. RALPH SMITH.

"My system was so filled with aches and pains before I started to take Konjola that I didn't think a single medicine would ever be of any help to me," said Mr. Ralph Smith, 1405 Howard street, Detroit, Michigan.

"The pains centered in my arms and shoulders and sometimes there was a feeling of numbness from my fingers to my elbows. My shoulders were a solid mass of aches and pains and often I couldn't raise my arms above my head. I would lie awake nearly half the night from pain and nervousness. I couldn't find a medicine to help me and even my doctor was unable to give me relief.

"Four bottles of Konjola banished all my suffering and I have not taken any other medicine since. That was two years ago. It also strengthened my nerves and filled my system with new life energy. I strongly indorse this Konjola to anyone who suffers as I did."

Konjola is sold in Plymouth at the COMMUNITY PHARMACY and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

Collecting Sea Shells

This Man's Odd Hobby

Did you ever pick up a sea shell and listen to the roar of the distant waves coming from its whirled interior? John Jones of California, former student at the University of Illinois in the class of 1886, did many years ago, and as a result today he has one of the finest collections of sea shells in the country. More than 5,000 different specimens are included in his collections.

Many years ago, when John Jones was forced to leave the university and go to work just at the close of his sophomore year, he became interested in sea shells. Whenever he would find a pretty shell he would pick it up and carry it home. This hobby became a habit. As time went on his collection began to assume scientific importance. It attracted the attention of others interested in conchology, as the study is called technically, and he began to trade his duplicate specimens and buy entire collections until today his is one of the most complete in the United States.

Being a natural born collector of things, Mr. Jones more recently has started gathering mineral samples of various kinds. In 1922, after being away from the university for thirty-four years, he again re-entered and studied geology and chemistry. This aroused his interest in collecting minerals and gem stones.

Mr. Jones, while a contractor by vocation and a collector by avocation, plans to receive his bachelor of science by 1931, the fiftieth anniversary of his first entering the academy of the university in 1881.

The Outstanding Chevrolet of Chevrolet History
- a Six in the price range of the four!

The Chevrolet Motor Company announces The Outstanding Chevrolet of Chevrolet History... a Six in the price range of the four!

Spectacular as Chevrolet's achievements have been in the past... notable as its engineering triumphs have proved themselves to be—this remarkable new car dwarfs every previous Chevrolet accomplishment. Not only does it introduce into the low-priced field a new measure of performance, comfort, beauty and style—but it is sold at prices so low as to alter every previous conception of motor car value.

The new six-cylinder valve-in-head engine—developed from more than a hundred motors designed especially for this sensational car—stands out as an engineering masterpiece. With a power increase of approximately 32% over the previous Chevrolet motor... with sensationally greater speed and faster acceleration—it offers a type of performance that is literally astounding... even to those who have been accustomed to driving cars costing hundreds of dollars more. And it affords an economy averaging better than 20 miles to the gallon of gasoline!

In appearance, this Outstanding Chevrolet is destined to become an automotive sensation—so smart, so stylish and so distinctively appointed that it rivals the costliest custom creations. CATHOLIC NOTES

Instructions Saturday for the children, and next Sunday is their Holy Communion Sunday.

Tonight (Friday, Nov. 23) the young people will give a dance in the auditorium. Music will be furnished by the Ann Arbor Lochnagar Country club. A cordial invitation is extended to the public.

Next week the young people will entertain the young people of Northville at a get-acquainted party. A cordial invitation is extended to all the young people.

December 12 the ladies of the parish will give a chicken dinner for the public in the auditorium.

The pastor assisted at the forty hours' devotion in Sturgis last Tuesday night.

Next week Thursday is Thanksgiving day—a legal holiday—a day on which all the nation is called upon to offer up thanks to God for past favors, and a petition is offered up that the Almighty may continue to shower blessings upon the nation. A high mass will be offered up at 9 o'clock.

Sunday is the last Sunday of November. M. C. envelopes are due. New families will kindly report at the rectory and get acquainted with the pastor.
Several new families have moved into the parish recently, but to date are not on the records. Do not forget your M. C. envelope next Sunday. Just a little laugh: Jim says he graduated from Shoe college. How come Shoe college? Well, it is higher than Oxford.

PRESBYTERIAN NOTES.

This week the subject of special interest to the congregation is the bazaar and supper on Thursday afternoon and evening. Before this paper reaches the readers these events will be passed. Judging by past experience and present preparations, success is assured.

The hour of morning worship has been changed from 10 a. m. to 10:30 a. m., beginning next Sunday.

The musicale on Thursday evening of last week proved a treat and a success. The thanks of the congregation are extended to all the kind friends who helped.

On Thanksgiving day at 10 a. m. the churches will unite in a service to be held in the Methodist Episcopal church, at which Rev. Mr. Seltz, of St. John's Episcopal church, will preach.

On Sunday, Dec. 2, a religious census of Plymouth will be taken. Everyone is courteously asked to cooperate in making this a success.

EPISCOPAL NOTES

On Thanksgiving day, Thursday, Nov. 29, a united service will be held in the Methodist church at 10 a. m. All people of the community are urged to make this service a part of their observance of this national holiday. We especially urge the members of our congregation to be present and to feel that this is their service, the only service we will have that day. In no more fitting way can we demonstrate our gratitude for the manifold blessings of our heavenly Father than in fellowship with our brethren.

On Sunday last the members of the choir accompanied the rector to the Maybury sanatorium at Northville, where they assisted in the morning service at 9 o'clock.

Bishop Page held a special service of confirmation at the sanatorium Wednesday, Nov. 14.

UNIQUE SERVICES AT THE WAYNE BAPTIST CHURCH.

The people of Wayne and surrounding territory are to have the unusual opportunity of hearing Roy L. Brown, business man, Bible student and evangelist. This is a unique combination rarely seen in one man. Mr. Brown is a kindly gentleman, a convincing speaker and has a strong and pleasing personality. His messages, which are very interesting, instructive and inspiring, will be made attractive through the use of large highly-colored charts.

In this age when atheism, modern skepticism and kindred false teachings are raising their voices in the land it is then that a man like Roy L. Brown can be appreciated. A man who is experienced in business, stalwart in character, an excellent Bible teacher, a defender of the faith and a champion of the Cross of Christ, his services are much in demand, and it is with good fortune that Wayne will hear him for one short week.

This will be an opportunity indeed for Christian people to learn more about their Bibles. Those who have heard Mr. Brown are anxious to hear him again. Those hearing him for the first time will want to hear him repeatedly. To miss one meeting is a loss.

The meetings, which will be held in the Wayne Baptist church, will begin at 10:30 a. m. next Sunday, Nov. 25, and will continue through Sunday, Dec. 2. In the evening the services will begin at 7:30, attended by a half hour of gospel singing. No meeting on Saturday.

BAPTIST NOTES

There will be baptismal service held Sunday evening, Nov. 25. After the service the pastor's subject will be "Why Baptists Baptize."

There were 18 present at the young people's service Sunday evening. It was decided during the month of January some of the outstanding questions of the Bible should be studied in debate form.

The young people of the Wayne association will hold their regular annual B. Y. P. U. rally Friday evening, Nov. 23, at the Bethany Baptist church of Pontiac. Officers for the coming year will be elected.

W. C. T. U.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union held a pleasant meeting Thursday, Nov. 15, at the home of the president, Mrs. E. R. Daggett. A very interesting report of the district convention, written by Mrs. E. C. Vesley and read by Mrs. J. Rattenbury, was greatly enjoyed by all.

The next meeting will occur Dec. 14 at the home of Mrs. George A. Smith, with Mrs. E. R. Daggett as leader.

The Michigan Union of November says: "Sir Donald McLean, speaking before a London audience recently, declared that prohibition as an international issue is destined, before many years, to come before the League of Nations as a problem demanding solution."

England Moves Five Meters in 300 Years

Paris.—That the distance between England and France has increased five meters during the last 300 years is one of the possible deductions from new longitude reckonings made public by the Paris observatory.

The longitude between Paris and Greenwich taken in the reign of Louis XIV in the Seventeenth century was 9 minutes 20 seconds and 83 hundredths of a second. The new measurements reveal a difference of two hundredths of a second, which reduced to linear measurement is five meters or about five yards and a half.

Scientists point out that the difference may be due to the greater accuracy of modern instruments. On the other hand, it may also be due to the generally accepted theory of the movements of the continents.

The World Moves

New York.—George M. Bistany, hunter, is going to Africa with the firm intention of not returning until he can bring a white rhinoceros alive from the Sudan. It has never been done yet.

Tackles Big Job

Mexico City.—Antonio Rios Zertuche, inspector general, has instituted a reform in the police department. For years policemen carried oil lanterns. Now they have pocket flashlights.

OFFICIAL PROCEEDINGS OF THE VILLAGE COMMISSION

Plymouth, Michigan, November 5, 1928. A regular meeting of the Village Commission held in the Commission Chamber of the Village Hall, November 5, 1928 at 7:00 P.M.

Present: President Henderson, Commissioners Fisher, Nutting, Pierce, and Shear.

Absent: None. The minutes of the adjourned regular meeting of October 22nd were read and approved.

A communication was presented by the Manager from the Detroit Edison Company reporting that the Village is entitled to a refund of $306.38 upon power bills paid since July 31st last, for power consumed at the booster station upon North Mill St., a study of the demand at this point having indicated that the Village is entitled to a commercial power rate at this station rather than the higher rate in effect in the past.

Copies of a contract to be executed by the Village, and designed to put into effect the lower commercial power rate, accompanied the communication. It was moved by Commissioner Nutting, supported by Commissioner Pierce that the President and Clerk be authorized to execute the contract with the Detroit Edison Company making effective a commercial power rate at the booster pumping station upon North Mill St. Carried.

A petition was presented signed by the President of the Plymouth Klwanis Club and the Plymouth Hockey Club requesting the Village Commission to make provision for the development and maintenance of a public skating rink upon the W. S. Thomas property at public expense. It was moved by Comm. Fisher and supported by Comm. Nutting that the petition be tabled for further consideration at the next regular meeting. Carried.

It was recommended by the Manager that public hearings relative to the construction of storm sewers in South Harvey St., of water mains in Golden Road, Kellogg St., Sunset Ave., and Pacific Ave. and public hearings relative to the proposed regrading of Cherry St. from west Pearl St. to the P. M. R. R. property be postponed to November 19, at 7:00 P. M. Upon motion by Comm. Fisher supported by Comm. Pierce the recommendation was adopted and the Clerk was instructed to cause public notice of said hearings to be published.

It was moved by Comm. Fisher, seconded by Comm. Shear that the Virginia Park and Marquette Sub. sanitary sewers special assessment roll No. 18 be reviewed by the Board of Review Saturday, November 17, 1928 from 3:00 to 5:00 P. M. Carried.

A recommendation was presented by S. D. Strong, Engineer, that the area bounded by Blinn St. upon the north, Pacific Ave. upon the west, William St. upon the south and the alley upon the east be ordered platted for assessment purposes, same to be known as Assessor's Plat No. 3 of the Village of Plymouth. It was moved by Comm. Shear, supported by Comm. Pierce that the recommendation as presented be adopted. Carried.

This was the time appointed for the opening of bids covering the construction of a system of storm sewers in South Harvey St. and contiguous territory. It was moved by Comm. Fisher seconded by Comm. Pierce that the Clerk open and read the proposals received. Carried.

The Clerk opened and read the nine proposals received. Upon motion by Comm. Nutting, supported by Comm. Shear the bids were referred to Strong and Hamill, Engineers, for tabulation and for their report and recommendation. Carried.

A report was received covering the activities of the Police Department and of Mrs. Patterson, Justice of the Peace, for the month of October, same being accompanied by a check for $32.40 covering fines collected and payable to the Village. Upon motion of Comm. Fisher, supported by Comm. Pierce the report was accepted and ordered filed, and the check was ordered turned over to the Treasurer for deposit. Carried.

Considerable discussion was entered into relative to the interest being manifested in the question of annexing to the Village of Plymouth the area lying east of South Mill St. north of Golden Road and south of Ann Arbor St., also of the area surrounding Phoenix Park. Motion was presented by Comm. Pierce supported by Comm. Shear that the Village Attorney be directed to prepare an annexation petition covering these areas and that same be reported at the next regular meeting. Carried.

A memorandum of agreement to execute a deed in favor of the Village of Plymouth and covering land needed for street purposes in connection with the opening and extension of Blinn Ave., signed by William A. and Maudie M. Blunk, was presented by John S. Dayton, Village Attorney. Upon motion by Comm. Nutting, supported by Comm. Shear the memorandum was accepted and ordered filed.

Centenarian Likes Girls but He's Still Bachelor

New Orleans.—Leopold Cahn, who celebrated his one hundredth birthday here recently, refuses to permit his age to warp his viewpoints.

The centenarian is alert of mind quite active for his years and keeps abreast of modern times by reading newspapers and conversing with the younger generation, he said.

"It depends on who wears 'em," Cahn said when asked to state his choice—short skirts or hoopskirts.

"No, I don't like automobiles. They are too lumpy. But I would like to ride in an airplane.

"Girls? I like them. I never married any of them. I always just liked 'em," said Cahn, adding that he thought that bobbed hair was "magical."

Long Cold Winter Seen by Weather Prophets

O'Neil, Neb.—Weather prophets are at it again. Predictions of a long, hard winter were made here by pioneers who have observed conditions for the last 30 years. It seems the husks of the corn in the field are heavy this year; vegetation on the north side of the plants and trees is thick; plant roots go down but a short way; fur-bearing animals are growing exceptionally heavy coats of fur; migratory birds nested and hatched early. These, with the unusually wet spring, indicate early and severe winter weather.

After all that has been said about it these past months, we wonder how many people really understand what the equalization fee is all about.

ASSERTS CHIPMUNK DARNED MAN'S SOCK

Forest Official Tells of Animal's Gratitude.

Palmer Lake, Colo.—Assistant Supervisor U. D. Petheram of the Pike National forest has been accused of spreading a Ruyard Kipling nature story among his friends.

Despite reiteration that his story of a mother chipmunk's gratitude is true, Petheram has met skepticism wherever his talk has been told.

The supervisor found a baby chipmunk, abandoned and starving, on one of his jaunts through the forest. He brought it back to camp and protected it against the cold by wrapping it in an old woolen sock with a large hole in the toe.

A week of feasting on honey made the baby chipmunk fat and lively. It slept warmly each night in the old sock, its nose protruding from the hole in the toe.

The mother chipmunk found her baby two weeks after Petheram had brought it to his quarters, and the two departed for the forests together.

Petheram watched them go rather sadly. He picked up the old sock that had been the chipmunk's home to throw it away and found that the hole in the toe had been crudely darned with pine needles and moss.

The patch was constructed bird's nest fashion and wouldn't have been so visible, but Petheram believes it "the best a poor grateful chipmunk mother could do."

Belgian Hens Do Part Toward Stabilization

Brussels.—Statisticians reveal that 24,000,000 hens cackle in Belgium today, as compared with only 12,000,000 in 1914. No other Belgian industry having doubled since prewar days, credit must be given to Belgium's hens for being unusually active and prolific.

Belgian hens, it is averred, have done their share in stabilizing the franc and improving the kingdom's trade balance since Belgium now exports 900,000,000 eggs a year, instead of importing 30,000,000 as before the World war.

Belgian hens lay eggs scientifically these days. Their greater output is put on the account of rational feeding, fights against epidemics, and selection of the best poultry races. The very weight of the eggs has increased that way; a prewar egg weighed no more than 50 grams; the modern, scientific egg in Belgium weighs from 60 to 70 grams. Egg preservation by cold storage or chemical means has made great progress, too, particularly in the Flanders country around Courtrai, where a single plant kept 15,000,000 eggs last winter. Most of the eggs go to England.

Expedition Finds 167 Kinds of Sugar Cane

Washington.—How an American expedition traversed over 10,000 miles in search of different varieties of sugar cane was revealed by Dr. E. W. Brandes in a report to the Department of Agriculture.

He said his explorations have yielded over 167 different varieties. They will be used for interbreeding.

Doctor Brandes' party was limited to four so that airplane transportation could be used. Many of the sections of New Guinea are inhabited by savage Indian tribes.

Cuttings of each variety are to be shipped to the United States in refrigerated rooms of steamers. As soon as they arrive in San Francisco they will be shipped to Washington by express for growth under observation in the department's sugar-cane detention greenhouse at Arlington farm.

Chinese Girl Students Invade U. S. Colleges

Tacoma, Wash.—Chinese girls are arriving here on every liner to enter universities in various parts of the United States. Most of them are private students, coming at their own expense, preparing themselves to help in building a stronger nation at home.

Although several hundred reached here and Seattle before the universities opened, all are members of a club, pledged to keep in touch with each other despite temporary separations. Fewer young men have arrived this year than heretofore for college work.

New Engine Record

London.—An English locomotive, the Flying Scotsman, recently made a world's record nonstop run of almost 400 miles, by carrying two engine crews and shifting crews without stopping the train.

Electrical Ship Can Be Run by One Man

Greenock, Scotland.—A 9,000-ton ship which one man could take across the ocean has been built here for an American firm. It is an all-electrical ship, the Brunswick, built by Scott, Ltd., for the Atlantic Oil Shipping company of Philadelphia. At its trials on the River Clyde, one man at a switchboard operated the whole ship. The vessel steers automatically, does not require engineers to start or stop the Diesel-electric engines. Once the course is set, the steering does not require further attention.

A RECORD IN POLITICS

A STATUE TO PASTEUR

THE EYE OF THE NEEDLE

PRAISE FOR THE MOVIES

The President cast his first vote in Northampton, was elected congressman there long ago, and has been steadily in office ever since, nominated nineteen or twenty times—never beaten. A record in politics as good as Cromwell's in war, Cromwell never lost a battle.

The old farmers would observe with pleasure that being President with $75,000 a year, a White House and a big yacht have not spoiled Calvin Coolidge. Next March he will move from the White House to Northampton and resume life in a small house which he rents for $32.50 a month.

Such a man is not dependent on money. But the President could save plenty of it. More than one law firm would be glad to guarantee him three times his presidential salary. And he would not have to work hard. Perhaps the President chooses to wait awhile, look around, and possibly take a second elective term in the White House eight years hence.

The erection of a fine statue to the great Frenchman, Pasteur, honors Chicago. Excepting the Lincoln statue, none in Chicago is erected to so noble and useful a man.

Dr. Leopold Stieglitz, of New York, able scientist and brilliant diagnostician, who teaches chemistry at Chicago university, says: "We need a Pasteur to solve the cancer problem. That task calls for a man free of preconceived notions and prejudice; not a man of medical training seeking to explain cancer according to old methods."

The ignorant sometimes ask "Of what real use is science?" Bismarck taking five billion francs from France, after the war of 1870, thought he had reached the limit. Dr. Stieglitz reminds you that the cash value to France of Pasteur's discoveries far exceeds five billion francs, to say nothing of his work against human disease and suffering.

What Dr. Stieglitz says of Pasteur and the cancer problem encourages men of no special training. Clear thought and accurate observation work wonders. The inventor of the sewing machine did not know how to sew. Had he known, it would not have occurred to him to put the eye of the sewing machine needle in the point of the needle, rather than in the old place, farthest from the point.

That one idea made the sewing machine possible.

Mussolini, wiser than superficial critics in America, has only praise for moving pictures. Quite accurately he classes them among the greatest agencies for the education of mankind. The other two are moreable type and photograph.

Why Not Put the Half-Billion to Work?

Six thousand lives lost—a half-billion in property destroyed by fire every year! What a tragic, needless sacrifice!

Every owner pays a share of the annual half-billion loss—whether he has a fire or not. He pays it in insurance, taxes and depreciation.

Most of this loss occurs in structures of comparatively small size; common sense has forced fire-safe construction of new large buildings.

Sound financing will not always permit making a small structure completely fire-proof. But a small increase in cost will yield a large increase in fire-safety.

Competent architects say that a fire-safe first floor of reinforced concrete will increase the cost of the average dwelling about two per cent—and even less in larger structures. Statistics indicate that at least thirty per cent of residential fires start in basements. A first floor of reinforced concrete will effectually protect the upper structure against a basement fire.

Single dwellings, small apartment houses, stores, hotels, factories, warehouses, theatres, and churches can have the fire-hazard reduced to minor proportions by employing reinforced concrete for first floors, stair enclosures and other vital locations. The additional cost is surprisingly low—and the reduced fire-risk only one of the benefits.

Why not put the half-billion to work?

Dr. Frank Crane Says

WHY GIVE UP?

I have received a very pitiful letter from a woman out west.

She has had a hard time all her life. She has raised three children, who do nothing for her support. When her husband died he was found to have been improvident and left her no money. She has gone stone deaf. On top of this she has just had a serious operation in a hospital.

She can see no way out. Nothing presents itself to her but continued suffering, privation and dependence. She is about ready to give up. What should she do?

Why give up? Of course, it is difficult for anyone in comparative health and well being to give advice to sufferers. One is always open to the imputation of being supercilious. It is always easy for the philosopher to bear the toothache patiently when some one else has it.

At the same time, and at the risk of being called hard names, I repeat the question, "Why give up?"

Suppose you do give up. Will life be any easier to bear?

It is just as well to look squarely at the alternative.

When some one told Tolstoy that many kind, virtuous and honest people had a very hard time, he replied: "What about those that are unkind, not virtuous and dishonest? Look about you. Do the people like that whom you know have any easier time?"

The church in the middle ages is often accused of being very cruel; but what about the people outside of the church? Were they any less cruel?

Life may be hard at best, but it is easier and pleasanter all around if we keep a stout heart and do the best we can under the circumstances.

Whatever may be in store for this woman, whatever deprivation and suffering, we can be sure that she will get along better if she meets her fate bravely and smilingly and does not give way to despair.

Whatever happens to us we are better off if we battle on and keep our chin up.

Despair is nothing but a bog, a quicksand, that engulfs the soul. It leaves us no spirit with which to fight.

When a Persian soldier told a Lacedaemonian that in battle the Persian arrows would be so thick they would darken the sky, "then," said the Lacedaemonian, "we will fight in the shade."

See Danger In Developing Unprofitable Muck Areas

Danger of farmers expending time and effort on new muck areas in the state that will not give profitable returns on the investment, is believed to be imminent by Paul M. Harmer, muck soil specialist at the Michigan State College.

Reduced yields in eastern muck areas because of adverse weather conditions, have resulted in a decided shortage in many of the special muck crops. This is especially true of onions and carrots, and to a less extent of celery and cabbage, according to Mr. Harmer. The effect of favorable prices is already apparent in the desire of many farmers to develop new muck areas or to increase their acreage on the old areas.

Mr. Harmer calls attention to the fact that not all mucks are alike in their ability to produce crops. "The fact that one muck area will produce good crops is no indication that another nearby area will also give good results," he says. "Be sure that you know the possibilities of a new area of muck before you spend money preparing it for crops."

Around About Us

As far as is known the largest yield of beans on a good acreage ever made in Green Oak township was produced by Herman Neverth, this year. He produced 162 bushels of marketable beans, valued at $700, from six acres of land. He attributes his success to the use of improved robust bean seed and then planting them on alfalfa soil. Mr. Neverth is a firm believer in alfalfa and good seed.—Brighton Argus.

Announcement has been made by Myles F. Gray, superintendent of the State Old Fellows home at Jackson, that a movement to provide a new hospital unit at the home is now under way. A committee of seven members to investigate the cost of a 50-bed hospital was named and Rebeckals will attempt to raise $30,000 to equip the institution.

A whiskey bottle imbedded in the brick of a chimney on the Rochester Paper Mill at Rochester contained a well preserved sheet of paper upon which was written a record of the rebuilding of the present mill and the date of its erection—1875. Only one man named on the paper (of those who built the chimney) is now living.

Howell has purchased a tract of land to be used as an airport landing.

An effort is being made to raise funds at Orion to establish a factory for motorless airships or "gliders." The promoters want a building and $75,000 taken by Orientites in capital stock.

Deurnborn and Fordson are to vote on the charter which consolidates the two communities into one city, on January 8. Officers for the new city are to be nominated on December 12, and elected at the January election.

WASHINGTON TO LOSE ITS HISTORIC MART

Federal Office Building to Take Its Place.

Washington—Washington is soon to lose what is believed to be the only market owned and operated by a national government. It is known as Center market and occupies two city blocks at Seventh street and Pennsylvania avenue, a stone's throw from the National museum and the Smithsonian institution. Center market was established a century and a quarter ago, and it has occupied one site continuously. Within two years it will be replaced with a building to house the Department of Justice.
 Notley Young gave the site to the city when his firm ran from Giesboro Point on the Maryland bank of the Potomac to Pennsylvania avenue. In his will he directed that it should be used at any time for any other than market purposes the property should revert to his heirs. This provision led to a controversy as the land passed to the Washington Market company and from the Market company to the United States government, which took possession about ten years ago. Finally the issue reached the attorney general of the United States, who held that under the right of eminent domain the government could use the property for a public building just as readily as it could for a market. In accordance with this decision stall owners were notified a few weeks ago that in the course of two years they must vacate. The market has been a good investment for the government, which paid about a million dollars for the property and has derived a revenue of more than $100,000 yearly from the rentals ever since.

Show Place of City.
 Under the administration of the Department of Agriculture, Center market has been conducted in an efficient manner. No market hereafter established can take its place in the minds and hearts of Washingtonians. In fact, they have regarded it as one of the show places of the city and a center of local color as distinctive as the old French market in New Orleans.

It was always a home of democracy, for diplomats and statesmen, society matrons and persons of lowly life met there. Senator Cuckrell, of Missouri, would walk down, basket on his arm, and return foot to his home supplied with the choicest of the market could afford. Judge Wylie, living in Thomas circle, did the same, and was a familiar sight as he walked down Fourteenth street every morning on his way with his basket.
 It is doubtful whether any market the world over ever offered a greater variety of things to eat. Chesapeake bay and its tributaries supply three-fourths of the people of the United States with crabs, oysters and fish of every variety. All are found in Center market. Potomac roe herring are found in no other market of the country.

Farmer Uses Submarine.
 More colorful even than the buyers are the producers who bring in their truck, fish, fowl and meats from adjacent states. Recently a Virginia farmer bought a submarine at a sale of condemned government property, but decided to stay above the water and take no risks beneath the surface. Persons on the municipal wharf were astounded to see him appear in the river one day aboard his formidable war craft. Hatches were opened cautiously, but the hold was filled with juicy melons and fresh vegetables from his farm, instead of torpedoes. Presence of the war-painted submarine in a place so unusual drew a crowd and the farmer saw his opportunity. He mounted the wharf and standing on a box began to ask bids for "submarine melons," "submarine cabbages," "submarine this" and "submarine that." He soon had sold his entire stock. He announced with a chuckle as he started home that he intended to make regular trips to the city and expressed the hope that some of the things he would bring with him would reach the Center market.

Auto Clubs of Europe Issue New Road Maps

Washington.—The first complete automobile touring maps of Europe have been issued at Paris by the International Association of Recognized Automobile clubs, H. O. Kelly, United States trade commissioner there, informed the Department of Commerce.
 The new maps are expected to give an impetus to touring in Europe, where heretofore there have not been available detailed charts of the principal international highways. The maps were compiled with the assistance of experienced motorists, government authorities and skilled cartographers in all countries of Europe. It is planned to keep these maps up to date by annual revision.

New Fire Engine Falls Apart on False Run

Livingston, N. J.—Livingston volunteer firemen are prepared to answer calls with a borrowed fire engine, their own having collapsed when responding to a false alarm. The machine is only a few months old.
 The firemen were going at more than fifty miles an hour when at Granes corner the bottom of the motor fell out, leaving a trail of gears, clutch and various other parts along the roadway. None of the firemen was hurt. Chief Hockenjos said the factory had taken back the machine and loaned them one in its place.
 Now at last there is some real farm relief! The farmers are no longer reminded of their plight over the radio every single night.

A Cincinnati employer says that blondes work harder than brunettes. Well, some of his most industrious helpers may really be brunettes without his knowing it!

Thanksgiving Proclamation

"By the President of the United States.
 "A proclamation.
 "The season again approaches when it has been the custom for generations to set apart a day of thanksgiving for the blessings which giver of all good and perfect gifts has bestowed upon us during the year. It is most becoming that we should do this, for the goodness and mercy of God, which has followed us through the year, deserve our grateful recognition and acknowledgement.
 "Through His divine favor, peace and tranquility have reigned throughout the land. He has protected our country as a whole against pestilence and disaster and has directed us in the way of national prosperity. Our fields have been abundantly productive; our industries have flourished; our commerce has increased; wages have been lucrative and contentment has followed the undisturbed pursuit of honest toil.
 "As we have prospered in material things, so have we also grown and expanded in things spiritual. Through divine inspiration we have enlarged our charities and our missions, we have been imbued with high ideals which have operated for the benefit of the world and the promotion of the brotherhood of through peace and good will.
 "Wherefore, I, Calvin Coolidge, president of the United States, do hereby set apart Thursday, the twenty-ninth day of November next, as a day of general thanksgiving and prayer, and I recommend that on that day the people shall cease from their daily work and in their homes and in their accustomed places of worship, devoutly give thanks to the Almighty for the many great blessings they have received, and seek his guidance that they may deserve a continuance of His favor.
 "In witness whereof I hereunto set my hand and cause to be affixed the great seal of the United States, the one hundred and fifty-third.
 Calvin Coolidge."
 "By the president:
 "Frank B. Kellogg, secretary of state."

Dad Plymouth asserts that if we ever have two women running against each other for the presidency we'll probably see the good old-fashioned hair-pulling matches revived.
 "It's easy to identify the owner of a car," says Dad Plymouth. He is the one who, after you've closed the door, always opens it again and slams it harder."
 "Some fellows seem to think that the way to settle the farm problem is to get a job in town."
