INSPIRATION

In these days of doubt and fear, of expectation and wonderment, it is indeed refreshing to hear of that one great man out in the Golden West is doing and to know that through his accomplishment lies opportunity for peace and contentment. Not only does happiness follow in the wake of his efforts, but it furnishes to the rest of America an inspiration to higher things. We are told that C. C. Chapman one of the wealthiest and most progressive men in that prosperous country, is the guiding force back of a great men's Bible class, that through his efforts and those associated with him in the work, hundreds and hundreds of men each Sunday morning, regardless of denomination or lack of church affiliation, turn out to study and discuss lessons of the Bible. As a result of this intermingling of all the men of the community under such an ideal condition, there is little or no conflict of factions. In fact the community spirit has been made into a wonderful thing and the lessons taught to these hundreds of merchants, professional men and laborers has prevented perplexing community and economic problems from growing into disputes of hatred. Oil workers, ranchers, preachers, millionaires and teachers mingle as friends. The worker has learned to know more of his fortunate neighbor and the fortunate neighbor knows more about the problems of his lesser prosperous friend. The worker has discovered that wealth does not bring all the peace, contentment and enjoyment he thought, that the man of wealth also has his problems, his sorrows and his disappointments. And the man of wealth has learned that though his neighbor might not be possessed of much more than the mere necessities of life, there is in him a big heart and a real Christian spirit. It is a wonderful thing, this Bible class, and what a blessing it would be if in all the cities of the north, south and east similar organizations accomplished the same results—where all men could meet once each week to study the lessons of brotherhood—could be organized. What an inspiring thing to America to know that there is a way where community happiness can be brought about, that there is a way by which the bitterness of factions can be overcome and each man made to feel that he is his brother's keeper and his brother's equal. To the man who is the spirit back of this wonderful organization, America owes much. The example he is setting is bound to eventually react to the good of all. To the Mr. Chapman in the west, in the far west where a man's worth is figured on the basis of manhood, goes credit for really doing a wonderful thing in the true American spirit. He is one of the great Americans, not because of his wonderful business success, but because he has accomplished an everlasting benefit to mankind—and to what greater ideal can any man aspire?

"Let us have faith that right makes might, and in that faith let us dare to do our duty as we understand it."—Abraham Lincoln.

FRIENDSHIP

On New Year's day Frank Fitzgerald became secretary of state. At the same time Clark Brown, long an employe in the secretary of state's office, became deputy secretary of state. The deputy of each department in Lansing is the highest ranking official of the department outside of the elective officials and therefore Mr. Brown will have complete charge of all the work of the secretary of state's office directly under Mr. Fitzgerald's supervision and when Mr. Fitzgerald happens to be away, his deputy is directly in charge of the many hundreds of employes and all other matters pertaining to the secretary of state's office.

These facts are mentioned simply for the purpose of pointing out to you the importance of the position that Mr. Brown has been appointed to by Mr. Fitzgerald—and that appointment is due to a friendship established something like 20 years ago when both Mr. Fitzgerald and Mr. Brown were mere clerks in the office they now control. Mr. Brown was an employe of the secretary of state's office before Mr. Fitzgerald and when Mr. Fitzgerald was given a minor position in the department he was an assistant to Mr. Brown. Mr. Brown had worked in a newspaper office, was a proof-reader and Mr. Fitzgerald "held copy" for Mr. Brown.

As time went on both won promotions and finally Mr. Brown became head of the compilation department, one of the most important in the secretary of state's office. As one of his latest duties Mr. Brown had to look after the vast amount of detailed work for Secretary of State John Haggerty that resulted from the recent governorship recount.

A few days after the ballots of the last state election had been counted, Mr. Fitzgerald called Clark Brown over to his office in the state highway department.

"Well Clark I guess you will be my deputy if you want to be" the newly elected secretary of state is reported to have said to his visitor.

The brief conference resulted in the decision of Mr. Brown to become assistant to the new state official who had way back in years past been an assistant to him.

Neither of the two can be regarded as "politicians" in any sense of the word—but both have reflected the same kind of real friendship that lies back of Mr. Fitzgerald's appointment of Mr. Brown to his new position in the department.

Michigan need have no fear of the business of the secretary of state's office as it would be impossible to find two more worthy and efficient public officials than Mr. Fitzgerald and Mr. Brown.

MOSES WOULD FAIL

A modern Moses would need sand blast equipment and a huge quarry were he to undertake the tabulating of the laws of a modern legislature. We have just received the first volume of the compiled laws revised for 1930. There are two more volumes and an index to come. The first volume is a huge tome of 2150 pages. The other volumes will probably be as large.

The old saying that ignorance of the law excuses no man no longer should hold. Any individual who is able to digest over six thousand pages of Michigan law should receive the title of doctor of laws and a medal with several clusters of oak leaves. It is doubtful if any lawyer in the state can tell when he is obeying or disobeying the law and no layman can hope to get through a day without going afoul of some provision.

Every state legislature and every session of congress evidently operates under the theory that a day is lost unless some new law is passed. Nearly every convention of citizens meeting for any purpose whatsoever is loath to adjourn without passing resolutions, calling for the enactment of a half-dozen new laws.

We are all experts in the line of government. As Socrates pointed out two thousand years ago, if a ship was to be constructed no one would have the nerve to give advice unless he knew something about the building of a ship; if a man intended to erect a house no one except a carpenter, architect, or mason would feel qualified to give advice, but when it comes to government all of us feel we are experts, and no matter how complicated the problem any of us can easily set forth the solution.—Ingham County News.

INTERESTING FACTS

The Michigan State Digest, a weekly newspaper published in Lansing that deals entirely with state news and affairs, in its last issue printed a statement to the effect that Governor Wilber M. Brucker had recently had a check made of the number of state employes in Lansing and the amount of salaries they were drawing. According to the Digest the most surprising thing about the report was the discovery that during the past four years the number of state employes had increased in Lansing from 2,567 to 4,912 and that the amount of additional salaries and increased salaries was $3,250,000 per year. We all agree with the digest editor that Governor Brucker can start right under the capitol dome to putting into effect much of that badly needed economy in state affairs and we believe that Governor Brucker must have some idea in his mind along this line or else he would not have compiled all of this data. Taxpayers are hoping that he will do something to relieve the terrific tax burden Michigan property owners are carrying.

WHAT OTHER EDITORS ARE THINKING ABOUT

BUY AT HOME

One of Dearborn's many ambitious daughters went to Detroit last week, in search of employment, pending her father's enforced illness. She discovered a temporary job in one of the metropolitan department stores, the working hours beginning at 9 a. m. and continuing until the big establishment closed at 10 o'clock p. m. Her pay was one dollar a day.

Some folks may ask why the comment is made of so insignificant an incident. To each of such persons, the answer is, suppose that girl was your daughter?

There seems to be more than one reason for Dearborn shoppers to adopt the patriotic slogan of "Buy at Home."—William Klanser in The Dearborn Press.

THE VILLAGE CHOIR

It seems to us that the radio people have started something and soon they will have to finish it. This instrument has accustomed us to the voices of the finest singers in the land; we can listen to the great orchestras, and if we have a fairly good imagination can visualize a minstrel or whatnot. The result is that the old fashioned village choir, the little five-piece band and other institutions of entertainment attract little attention. Sometimes we have thought the public was nearly ready to condemn them as nuisances. Educating the public to hearing the best carries with it the responsibility of satisfying vision. Television should follow next.—Schuyler Marshall in The Clinton County Republican.

THAT PAY CHECK

"If our salary check is stopped just how long can you and your family live on the additional amount you have saved by postponing the purchase of something you need this year? If you haven't put something away besides that you'll be hungry before the grass is green in the spring. Not a pretty picture is it? Now that you have figured that out, consider this. If everybody continues to curtail their spending unreasonably, dividends will be stopped, and maybe times will really get hard. If spending normally would insure that continuation of your income you'd spend, wouldn't you? Now get this. Think it over. Talk it over with your banker. Talk it over with your business associates and your boss. If the people of this community resume normal spending your income is safe. It's up to you to do your share. CHINS UP! WHO'S AFRAID?"—Patrick O'Brien in Iron River Reporter.

NORTHVILLE PAPER BURNS OUT

Our sympathy goes out to Elton R. Eaton, publisher of the Northville Record, whose printing plant was destroyed by an early morning fire Saturday. The fire started at 11:30 a. m. and burned for an hour, but right in the heat of the Christmas rush it is doubly so. The Record, under the guidance of Editor Eaton, who has for many years been prominent in Michigan Republican circles, is one of the state's foremost weeklies, whose editorial expressions are widely copied by other papers. The building in which the Record was housed was a frame structure 75 years old. H. C. Mueller-Weiss in The Schwaning Blade.

SHORE LINES

Comments relative to the supreme court decision giving to shore line property owners the riparian rights to the waters edge was purposely withheld from these columns until this time. This writer had been rather caustic in dealing with the narrow policy which Michigan as a state had adopted and we wish to take note of the reactions from other sections. Editors with reputations for ability to gauge the public sentiment are practically unanimous in declaring that the reversal of the former court decision was a wise and just step, dictated by common sense and decency. Michigan is no longer in the position of grabbing something that belongs to somebody else.—Joseph Gladstone in the Delta Reporter.

ISN'T IT TOO BAD

While driving to Lansing last Friday we picked up a man outside of Paw Paw and carried him to Kalamazoo. He said he was a world war veteran out of a job and had left Pontiac to look for work and had none, and was going back home broke. He said he served in the 32nd division and was one of the stretcher bearers to carry George Corbit of Cassopolis off the field after he was wounded. Out of Kalamazoo we picked up another, who also claimed to be a world war veteran and who was making his way back to Detroit after a vain search for a job. He had been out of work so long his savings were exhausted. We carried him to Lansing. Both were good clean looking chaps and, if they are world war veterans, it seems a pity there isn't a job for them somewhere.—William Berkey in the Cassopolis Vigilant.

Tomatoes, fresh, raw, or canned, are a good source of vitamins A, B, and C. Include them very frequently in your meals. Give tomato juice to young children and even to babies. Dumplings for stew or soup must be cooked lightly covered. Don't remove the top during the cooking to see if they are done or they will not be light. Boil fifteen minutes and then serve.

Under no circumstances should milk be placed in a refrigerator in an open pitcher, bottle or other uncovered container. It should be tightly stoppered and should not be removed until immediately before use. If only a part of the bottle of milk is used, the cap should be replaced.

FOR THE SEAMSTRESS

OF UTMOST importance to the woman who sews is something to hold the implements of her handwork. The shops are full of attractive and convenient sewing cases—tables, boxes, screens and baskets. One clever screen, three-leaved, folds together and clamps to make a triangular table. The triangular top is on hinges and is folded down inside the screen when the table is not in use. The little table may be used as a stand to hold accessories of sewing, and the leaves of the screen are fitted with pockets to hold needles, pins, scissors and other articles for sewing. The old-fashioned Martha Washington sewing table is never out of place and the various other small stands and cabinets are always useful. Nowadays there is no reason to do all your sewing by hand even if you have no room for a large sewing machine. There are portable electric sewing machines quite as convenient as the portable typewriter. These may be carried from place to place in a comfortably handled box and then unpacked and set up for use wherever you find a convenient electric plug. The machine is placed on a stand or table of any substantial sort.

TO HAVE ONE'S BACK TO THE WALL

HERE is a peculiar expression familiar to all of us—an expression used constantly during the great war and which we understand to describe the condition of standing at bay facing odds making a last desperate stand. Interestingly enough, if we think about it, a man in a fight will, except when he is in extreme retreat, usually attempt to face his enemy. This tendency seems to be a racial reaction. And it is from this circumstance, that is, that in an encounter it is the overpowering natural desire to have one's back protected that we have the expression "to have one's back to the wall."

The SANDMAN STORY

ABOUT BOASTING

"NO LANDLORD," said Mother Kangaroo, "can complain of my children. If they get a bit wild or if they're apt to get into trouble, I can pat them in my pouch and carry them so they don't bother anyone. I'm very superior," Mother Kangaroo ended. "Ah," said the Cat, who was wandering about the zoo and who belonged to a lady who lived very near the zoo, "I rode in a taxicab the other night. Yes, when all the people were coming home in their automobiles and in taxicabs from the theaters one evening last week, I was riding with my mistress in a taxi, too. I looked out of the side window and when all the cars were stopped by the big policeman, so other cars could move in the other direction, all the people saw me from the windows of their cars. They looked at me and they turned and nudged each other so that everybody looked at me. My mistress was much amused and she held me up a little higher so I could see and be well seen. I can tell you, I was a proud cat. I wouldn't be at all surprised if some of those people wondered if I had been to a theater. I hadn't been to one. My mistress had been out of town for several days and I had been with her and we were on our way home. Oh, it was a splendid experience for a cat to have! I certainly have the right to boast."

I Have Even Greater Reasons for Boasting," said the Kangaroo.

THANKS FOR HIS FUNERAL

At Brooklyn, N. Y., a man who gave his name as Dan Bennett betted Mark Twain's famous remark about the report of his death being greatly exaggerated. Bennett called on a Brooklyn undertaker to thank him for his funeral. His sister had claimed the body of a man who had died on the street and ordered the funeral from the undertaker.

STATUES FOR USE OF SOUL

The Egyptians, who placed portrait statues of the dead in tombs, believed that the soul could occupy the statues at will, and in this state make use of the funeral offerings which consisted of jewels and other valuables. The prophets were almost right. Mr. Mellon is resigned to his job, if not from. An unhappy woman is one who has what she wanted.

"Generally the only phase of married life that disagrees with the wife is the husband."

Still, the lawlessness of officials doesn't prove the laws wrong. It's a rare doctor who will take his own medicine.

the Kangaroo, "but there is more excuse for my boasting. I have even greater reasons for boasting when you think that I can look after my children in such a fine way. Neither of you," said old Hippo from his yard nearby, "has as much reason or right for boasting as I have. Now, I can yawn quite openly when I'm bored or sleepy or tired, and you will admit that my yawn is quite a yawn. It's not a child's portion, nor a missus, nor a junior size. It is a real, real hippo's yawn. If people are bored or tired or sleepy they have to pretend that they are quite wide-awake. They have to cover up their yawns and appear not to be yawning. And if they're caught yawning they apologize and say: 'Dear me, I don't know what makes me yawn. I'm sure it's not the company.' 'Now, I don't have to say any such thing. I don't have to apologize. They can think it's the company or not, as they see fit. I don't care. I can do as I choose.' 'There's more reason and excuse for my boasting than for either of you,' said the Kangaroo. 'Just what I say about you and Hippo,' said the Cat. 'Just what I say about you and Cat,' said Hippo to the Kangaroo. And so they boasted. Again and again they told their stories—the Cat told of his ride in the taxi through the city streets at night when the people were coming from theaters and when they looked at him as though he, too, came from one of the theaters and had seen one of the plays. The Kangaroo boasted and old Hippo boasted. But all of a sudden they stopped boasting. For word came that the Elephant's mate was very ill and perhaps would not get well. And the Elephant was trumpeting his grief—oh, such sad trumpet wails and sounds—and he was pacing up and down, refusing any food, hoping with all his great affection that his mate would get well. And the three who had been boasting felt ashamed that they were so fond of themselves and so boastful when the Elephant cared not for himself, but for his mate. They stopped boasting then and were very quiet, wishing a great big wish that soon the Elephant's mate would be well!

Wayne Body Plant Hiring More Help

Production is being stepped up gradually at the body plant of the Graham-Paige Motor Corporation here and at the present time there are between 400 and 500 men employed with the possibility that this number will be increased by the first week in January, it was learned from reliable sources on Wednesday.

A few men are being hired each day, according to the demand and production is going forward steadily although not as rapidly as is expected by the first of the year. Most of the effort at the local plant at the present time is being centered on preparatory work for the annual auto show in New York and other cities and the organizing of a firm basis in order that production may proceed at a normal rate.

No definite facts concerning the 1931 Graham cars or other forms of motor vehicles have been obtained and they will be announced through the regular publicity channels of the Graham-Paige corporation at the proper time. With the return of approximately 200 men in the past two weeks, conditions have perked up considerably in the Wayne district and stifled business has had considerable relief. Unlike other years the change will not be sudden but gradual and more firm. It is the opinion expressed by economists of the district who have made particular study of the present conditions. A record of former employees, together with the names of the unemployed, is available by all factories in the district and hiring of men is being done in systematic manner and in a way which is more effective than combating more or less disorderly lines of waiting applicants. A statement concerning plans for 1931, may be available from Graham officials in the near future but in keeping with their policy of giving out conservative announcements, even an inkling of these plans has not been obtained.—Wayne Dispatch

ORANGE DISHES
THE orange is an all-year-round standby. And even if summer oranges have not always as delicious a flavor as those of winter, still they may be used in many desserts that bring out the best that is in them. Here are some of them:

Orange Fritters—Two oranges, one egg, one-fourth cupful milk, one-half cupful flour, one-third teaspoonful baking powder, one-half teaspoonful salt, one-fourth tablespoonful oil. Beat egg until light; add milk, flour (stirred with baking powder), sugar and salt, and all oil melted butter. Beat until smooth. Peel oranges, removing membrane with peel; cut into slices, and sprinkle with sugar and a few drops lemon juice. Have deep fat, hot enough to brown a piece of bread while counting to 60. Dip orange sections in batter mixture, and fry in deep fat until puffed and brown. Do not fry too many at one time. Drain on brown paper; sprinkle with powdered sugar, and serve with orange sauce.

Orange Caramel—Peel six oranges, remove rind membrane with peel, and cut crosswise, into slices. Put one-half cupful of sugar and one-half cupful water in small saucepan, and boil quickly until syrup is a golden brown. Arrange layer of orange slices in glass dish; sprinkle with sugar, pour over enough of the syrup to form a thin coating over the orange, and another layer of orange and syrup; repeat until all orange is used. Sprinkle with chopped pistachio nuts. One-fourth pound peanut butter melted may be used instead of the syrup and the pistachio nuts.

Orange Caramel—Peel six oranges, remove rind membrane with peel, and cut crosswise, into slices. Put one-half cupful of sugar and one-half cupful water in small saucepan, and boil quickly until syrup is a golden brown. Arrange layer of orange slices in glass dish; sprinkle with sugar, pour over enough of the syrup to form a thin coating over the orange, and another layer of orange and syrup; repeat until all orange is used. Sprinkle with chopped pistachio nuts. One-fourth pound peanut butter melted may be used instead of the syrup and the pistachio nuts.

Through a Woman's Eyes

ON COMMITTING SUICIDE

A NEWS dispatch from Vienna tells how a man's impatience with a collar button drove him to attempt suicide.

Fritz Mizmier, for that is his name, tried to jump, we learn, from the window of his third-floor flat. A policeman who frustrated his attempt was told by the chauffeur, for that was his occupation, that he had tried five times to fasten his collar. Finally the stud fell out and rolled out of sight, whereupon he decided to end it all by committing suicide!

It would seem that this chauffeur in Vienna lacked a proper sense of values! The phrase "your money or your life" is regarded as an obvious joke—because the two commodities cannot appropriately be mentioned in the same breath! How absurd then to say "my life for a collar button!"

And yet, while we do not do it so directly as jumping out of the window at the very moment of difficulty, we all of us commit suicide over matters of no more real significance in our lives than a collar button!

For when we fuss and fume and work ourselves into a rage we are most certainly committing suicide—though slow suicide. We are in fact damaging ourselves in a way that is likely to involve more suffering than merely committing suicide in one leap.

Such passing difficulties as the naughtiness of a child, or the trying ways of the aged, or the impositions of tradesmen, or the ingratitude of friends, or the perverseness of servants, or changes in the weather—none of these are more significant or fundamental or important than a recalcitrant collar button.

Yet we commit suicide—slow suicide, and therefore more painful—over them. Don't we?

HOW RICH WE ARE

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

COME, count our wealth, good wife; How rich we are, we two. We have the gift of life. You, me, and I have you. The children, girls, a boy. And one who waits beyond—What hearts have so much joy As hearts so fond?

Come, count our wealth again; How rich we are, indeed! A roof to shed the rain, And friends to help in need, And work for my two hands, For which the world will pay, No gems, no gold, no lands, But love each day.

Come, count our wealth, my dear; How rich we are, withal; One light forever near, Whatever shadows fall. These are the gold God meant, These and the gift of health. Yes, if we're discontent, Come, count our wealth.

NUTTY NATURAL HISTORY

THE BRITISH HOWL

THIS small feathered friend is quite common in the British Isles, and is the true explanation of the aversion to furnaces and other modern heating plants over there. Nearly every home has one tied up beside the fireplace. The snappy little creature is a regular little spirit, and whenever the fire gets low he becomes angry and expostulates into the coals, whereupon the fire revives. He thus acts as a very dependable automatic thermostat.

As shown here, the body of the howl is an English walnut, and the head a filbert. The feet are lima beans, the ears popcorn, and the beak is a split almond kernel sawed across. The eyes are painted in at almost any color.

One thing about long skirts is that they do not stay long when the wearer sits down.

Rosedale Gardens

By J. W. WALKER

The Same 2 U
Just because we did not see you yesterday, we wish to greet you with the season's best wishes. And another thing: The Ladies Auxiliary of the Rosedale Community Church, are taking the subscriptions hereabouts for the 52 issues of this great, grand and glorious news sheet. All the local news every week!

8 Talent Visits City
Last Friday, the community was well represented by some of our kiddies at the White Shrine Christmas Party, St. Paul's Memorial Church, Detroit. Master Howard Walbridge played solos on the piano; Miss Lona Belle Rohde and Master Wesley Hoffman, songs and dances; and little Miss Lois Hoffman sang. So the fame and talent of 8 kiddies has spread to the big city.

Our Xmas Gifts
Thanks to the weather man, the weather has been such that we have been able to "try out" all our sleds, neckties, skates, woolen Sox, electric trains, dolls, mothers' fur coats and one or two fortunate ones—the new flivver. And right now is the time to start your Christmas Hinting early.

Amusement
"I have a awful hard time at spelling out them words in Ephemerals," complained a young lady Gardenite last Monday at and by R Emporium, whilst shopping, to which we replied, "It is spoke the same way as it is writ, midame." "Just plain and simple Americanese" butts in R grocer, meaning it is writ as it is spoke.

The North Pole
Little Rose was explaining she had been down to the big village (Detroit) and how everything seemed so different with Santa Claus having departed for his home, the North Pole. "And," says brother Dale, "all the synthetic ones who gathered in pens on the corners have gone, too." Very, very sad, indeed, but don't worry, midame, Xmas will soon be here.

Bob Sleaz
Are in season, at least on the Berwick avenue side of the development. Buler W. H. Holton made a big one so that all the big kiddies, as well as the little folks may ride about the icy roads, and they do, too, with the aid and abetment of the family flivver on the front end. All there but the bells, and they're on the way.

Remember
The Easter, as per usual, this year, will come on the first Sunday after the first full moon, after the twenty-first of March. Which, for this year, post cards the Easter Bunny, will be Sunday, the fifth of April.

ROSEDALE SCHOOL NOTES
Playtime Over
Now next week we will all be back in school again, our Christmas Holiday over. Mother can now straighten out the home and it will stay nice till after four o'clock, and the teachers and pupils are having a long five months hard work ahead.
—Rose and Dale Gardenite

The Snow Man
"Real life like," commented the parson to the kiddies, the said comment being on the snow image. "Oughtabe," replies Junior, "Sister is on the inside," which all goes to prove the reason Jr. was absent from play last two afternoons, and why Sister has a bad cold. And don't forget, skating every afternoon at the York Ave. Lake.

Auto Accident
Last Saturday night, Mr. and Mrs. Robt. W. (Mike) Mason, 11815 York Ave., were returning home via Division Rd., when they met up with an accident, or rather the accident met with them. It appears that two city-lites ran into each other and then selected Mike's car to sort of buffer the shock. In the end, Mrs. Mason was cut pretty badly about face, necessitating stitches, and Mike badly bruised about face. They were treated at city hospital and arrived home early Sunday via taxi. Mrs. Mason has been suffering from shock, but we are happy to say it was not more serious, and we are to see her about again in a day or two. One of the aggressive cars aforesaid was occupied by four college boys out for a speed record, and got it.

The reason why a lot of people do not reach the top of the ladder is because they are used to using escalators.

Asks For Doctor. Then Robs Him

A well-dressed young thug, armed with a revolver, Wednesday evening paid a visit to the home of Dr. H. E. Service, 7253 Kingsley avenue, Dearborn, and ordered the physician to hand over all the money he had. Taking $3, which Dr. Service surrendered, the thug, not satisfied with the loot, ordered the physician upstairs where dresser drawers were ransacked by the thug.

Not being able to find more money in the house, the bandit locked Dr. Service in a storage room and escaped. A housekeeper released the doctor a few minutes after the thief left. Entering the house, the bandit encountered Dr. Service, who was asked if he was the physician. When the doctor answered affirmatively, the thug brandished a pistol he had carried in his hand behind his back. "Stick 'em up!" the bandit ordered. Dr. Service complied and was marched upstairs at the command of the bandit, who wore a black overcoat, dark suit and black derby.

Dr. Service, it was reported, remonstrated and denied having any more money in the house.

"You had better find some more money before I lock you up," the intruder advised the physician after he was shown the storage room.

"But I have no more money in the house," Dr. Service insisted. The thug locked him in the storage room, took the key and departed. Dr. Service saw him through a window of the room as he ran around the rear of the physician's home and into a side street. It is believed the bandit escaped in a waiting automobile.—Dearborn Press.

ESKIMOS EXTRAVAGANT

Eskimo families which earn $40,000 a year selling white fox furs and think nothing of spending $300 a ton for coal and large sums for airplane jaunts and radios were described by the crew of the Hudson's Bay Company trading vessel Baychimo after a season in the Arctic ocean. Easily won fortunes in the fur trading occupations of the natives have created a mode of life and disregard for expenses that startle persons from "the outside," officers of the Baychimo said.

NEWBURG

Happy New Year! Rev. Purdy preached a sermon on Christmas Sunday, demonstrating by using ten ears of corn.

Epworth League at 7:30. White Gift offering was $30.00 besides the canned fruit. First quarterly conference was held in the church Monday evening, Dr. Martin, district superintendent, presiding.

All had a merry time at the Sunday School Xmas party at the L. A. S. Hall last week on Monday evening. A short program under the direction of Mrs. Melvin Guthrie consisting of a community song, recitations by the children and readings by Mrs. M. Eva Smith, Viola Lattinmeyer, pantomime by Lydia Joy and her class, song by Angelina Schmitting. Then the jingle of bells was heard and old Santa came rushing in, just as young and spry as ever, each one received a box of candy from him, and promised to be good until another year.

Queen Esther Circle had a Xmas party at Joy McNabbs Saturday evening of last week. Twenty-five were present, and with Mr. and Mrs. McNabb acting as host and hostess, we know they must have had a merry time.

The Newburg carolers to the number of twenty, were out Xmas eve singing wherever they found a candle in the window. A treat was in store for them at several of the places visited.

A Real Home

In the design and furnishings of our funeral home we have carefully avoided any unnecessary suggestions of gloom. The entire establishment has been planned with the aim of duplicating the comfort and good taste of a representative modern home. For the funeral home is intended to be just that—a second home to the bereaved family, offering them the same comfort and privacy that they would enjoy in their own residence with the additional facilities needed at the time.

GO TO CHURCH SUNDAY

CATHOLIC NOTES

Happy and blessed New Year to all. There will be no religious instructions on the morning of Saturday.

Miss Mary, Therese Hill, the aunt of Charles and Rev. Archibald Hill was buried from the church last Saturday. Father Smit conducting the services.

Kindly settle your church accounts before the 10th of January, as the report must be made to the Bishop by the 15th.

Do not make too many resolutions for 1931. Make one and keep it—Go to Mass every Sunday during the year.

May 1931 bury the depression in good business. Again a Happy New Year to all.

Christian Science Notes

"Christian Science" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Christian Science Churches on Sunday, December 28.

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "But the Comforter, which is the Holy Ghost, whom the Father will send in my name, he shall teach you all things, and bring all things to your remembrance, whatsoever I have said unto you" (John 14:26).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Science is an emanation of divine Mind, and is alone able to interpret God aright. It is a spiritual, and not a material origin. It is a divine utterance—the Comforter which leadeth into all truth" (p. 127).

The subject of the Lesson-Sermon for next week will be "God."

EPISCOPAL NOTES

Parish Meeting
The annual meeting of this parish will be held on Wednesday, January 7, beginning with a pot-luck supper at 6:15 p. m. Every member of the congregation, including parents of all children in the church school, whether members of the Episcopal church or not, are urgently invited to attend this meeting when report will be made on the year's work and plans presented for next year. Those who will be a very important time. Be there!

The annual meeting of the Women's Guild for election of officers will be held Wednesday afternoon, January 7. Every member of the Guild is expected to attend.

The Vestry and the Junior Brotherhood of St. Andrew both meet on Monday evening at 7:30. Last Monday after the regular meeting the Brotherhood boys held a holiday party, including an indoor "athletic meet" and refreshments. A number of "dads" were present.

A week from Sunday, January 11, a mass service for the mission churches of the Diocese will be held at St. Paul's Cathedral, Detroit, at 7:30 p. m. Let us make an effort to have a large representation present from Plymouth! Those who will attend this service are asked to sign their names to the list on the bulletin board on Sunday.

A New Year? Would you like to make it better than the last? Then why not make this resolution: "To start right to go to church this Sunday." Make your communion. Go to church regularly this year.

METHODIST NOTES

"And he said unto them, How is it that ye sought me? Wist ye not that I must be about my Father's business?" Luke 2:49.

Should not every Christian in this new year be about our Father's business? Every day of the year, it is said, the market of the producers of the United States increases by seven thousand possible customers. This is the great argument for advertising. This is the reason why any business man who stops advertising goes down into failure.

There are at least seven thousand new people to reach every day in the Father's business—more likely seventy thousand, since the Father's business must go out into all the world and touch into life every soul.

If this call should summon the tradesmen into ceaseless and fiery activity, how about the Christian? Verily the King's business needs eager spokesmen, ardent advertisers, the persistent use of all the legitimate modes of publicity and persuasion. Forbid that the pursuit of worldly kingdoms should be more earnest than the forwarding of the kingdom of heaven.

Wednesday afternoon, January 7, the regular monthly meeting of the L. A. S. will be held in their parlor at the usual hour. This is to be Music day. Mrs. Koenig will be in charge of the devotions and the hostesses of the day will be Mrs. Fred Wilton, Mrs. Joe Finney, and Mrs. Olin Martin. All the women of the congregation are invited and will be made welcome.

As has been our custom, the first week in the new year will be observed as a week of prayer. The only public meeting will be a Union meeting of the members of the Protestant churches at the Methodist church on Wednesday evening, January 7, at 7:15 o'clock. The public is cordially invited to meet with us for this hour of praise and prayer, as a fitting beginning of the year.

PRESBYTERIAN NOTES

The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be observed in the morning service next Sunday. Church membership involves faithful attendance.

"This do in remembrance of me."

The Sunday school is introducing the Departmentally graded lessons into the junior, senior and intermediate departments at the beginning of the new year. The beginner and primary departments have been using the graded lessons for some time. The adult department will continue to use the International Sunday school lessons.

The Busy Women's class will meet on Tuesday, January 6th at the home of Mrs. Ashton, 272 Ann street. There will be cooperative dinner at noon with business meeting and program following.

To Drive Rabbits From Grosse Ile

Under the direction of Game Warden Isaac N. Peabody and R. W. West of the game division of the state conservation department, the movement to drive Grosse Ile of the far-too-numerous rabbits, will take the form of a rabbit drive which will be held Saturday and Sunday, Jan. 3 and 4.

Two thousand feet of three-foot, fine mesh wire netting together with 100 feet of five-foot netting have already been landed on the island in preparation of the event. The three-foot netting will be stretched funnel-wise over a section of the island, and the effort will be made to rout out the rabbits in this section with a posse of men starting at the large end of the funnel, driving the rabbits to the small end which will open into the trap proper, which will be an enclosure made with the five-foot netting.

A large number of sportsmen will be needed to make the drive a successful one, and it is hoped that those interested in the nearby towns will participate. The rabbits thus caught will be taken over to the mainland and set free.

The first drive will start at Horse-mill Road and will cover the upper end of the island. All the territory will be covered in this way, working from the head to the foot of the island. No dogs or guns will be allowed during the drives.

This step to rid the island, which is a game preserve, has been taken at the instance of the Garden Club of Grosse Ile, owing to the damage wrought by the rabbits to much of the vegetation of the island.—Trenton Times.

Detroit Factory Is Moving to Milford

While reports recently published in these columns regarding the improbability of the Spooner factory moving to this place were strictly true, it appears now that the same plan under new ownership or a new concern succeeding the Spooner Company is succeeding here occupying the former Schleider building, as arranged for by the Spooners.

It is stated that the Lowrie Lumber Company of Detroit is interested in the concern and that the program now outlined is more extensive than that contemplated originally.

The Spooner factory catered largely to the greenhouse trade, making kinds and sizes. To this will be added a florist basket line, according to information received by village officials.

Several truck loads of machinery have been moved here from Ypsilanti and indications are that the plant will soon be in operation with prospects better than those originally presented.—Milford Times.

FOOD FOR THE FAMILY

Now that the cold weather is upon us for a few months, we turn to the richer, heavier dishes: Pork, sausage, veal, puddings and rich steamed puddings may be eaten, as the body needs plenty of food to provide heat.

Baked Indian Pudding.
In the old days when brick ovens were the only places where baking was done, this was the only pudding baked in a brick oven. It was baked all day and served hot with brown bread and beans. What was left was warmed over; never a bit went to waste. Long, slow cooking with the delicious brown sugar flavor made such a recipe a family treasure. To do it justice one must have a good out of doors appetite as our puritan fathers had.

Scald one cupful of corn meal—the water ground meal is of course the kind that was used—and one may still buy it in some places where the old mills still run. Scald the meal with one pint of hot milk well mixed, add a teaspoonful of salt and two quarts of rich sweet milk. Stir until the mush is well blended with the milk, add one cupful of brown sugar or a little molasses and white sugar will do as well; add a cupful of kidney bean split, chopped, one cupful of raisins, two or three small beaten eggs, and place in a slow oven. Dredge the top of the pudding with flour and stir often during the first hour or two of baking. Five to six hours will be sufficient in an ordinary oven. The set forms a rich crusty top with the flour, and the pudding itself is brown, rich and full of flavor. Nixing or cinnamon is used for flavoring.

Here is something that will be different to serve at holiday time:

Chestnut Croquettes.
Take two cupfuls of boiled, peeled, and mashed chestnuts, add the yolks of three eggs beaten slightly, four tablespoonfuls of cream and two spoonfuls of sugar. Mix and shape into croquettes. Dip into crumbs, into beaten egg, then into crumbs again. Fry in deep fat. Drain on paper. Serve with turkey or other fowl.

Winter Conserve.
Take three cupfuls of cranberries, one cupful of diced apple, one and one-half cupfuls of water, one cupful of crushed pineapple, one lemon, juice and grated rind; two oranges, juice and grated rind; and three cupfuls of sugar. Cook the apple and cranberries in the water until tender. Add the pineapple, sugar and other fruit juices. Mix well and cook until thick and clear. Clover with paraffin.

NURSE REALIZES AMBITION
A childhood ambition to become an army nurse has been crowned by 30 years of service in military hospitals by Carrie Howard, now head of the convalescent ward at Letterman Hospital, at the San Francisco Presidio. She joined the army nursing corps in 1900. After being graduated from the San Francisco Hospital, in 1897, she served in the Philippines with the Red Cross until she enlisted in the army.

NUTTY NATURAL HISTORY

BY MUSH NUTTON

THE DOPPELED SNOOFER

Row after row of small cages containing these creatures can be seen by the casual visitor in the snuff factories at Copenhagen, where they are used to test out samples of the product so that it will be a uniform grade. When quite young they are trained for the work by placing them over a mixture of red pepper and boiled intestines, so that their sneezing nerves will be toughened, and only the highest-powered snuff will cause them to sneeze.

The above sketch depicting a snuff snorter sent out on a hunt for some lost snuff, shows very clearly the large paper-shell pecan head with split bean ears and clove nose. The body is a single peanut, and the feet are split almost to the base. The legs and tail are toothpicks, and the tassel on the tail is a star macaroon.

KNOWING THE TREES

SWEET GUM

(Liquidambar styraciflua)
SWEET GUM is a large, beautiful tree, 30 to 70 feet high, with deeply furrowed bark. The twigs are often covered with corky ridges and the leaves are star-shaped, dark green, smooth and shiny.

The sweet gum has many points to recommend it for street planting. Its narrow and well-shaped top, symmetrical growth and graceful, star-shaped leaves give beauty during the summer and in autumn the red and yellow foliage, with touches of brown and purple, give an unusual splendor to the street lined with these trees.

While there are no serious insects or diseases attacking this tree, its roots are particularly tender and susceptible to drying out. Its resinous sap is used in some sections in the manufacture of chewing gum. It also has a medicinal value as a cure for catarrhal troubles.

It's easy to pick out your superiors. They are the people whose little faults you point out as an alibi for your own vile sins.

Speedy Relief for Sore Throat

This Doctor's Prescription Requires No Opium.
No longer is it necessary to gargle and choke with nasty tasting medicines to relieve sore throat. Now you can get almost instant relief with one swallow of a doctor's famous prescription. This prescription was refined so often that the druggist who originally filled it decided to put it up under the name "Throatine" and make it available to everyone. The remarkable thing about Throatine is that it relieves almost instantly, yet contains nothing harmful. It is pleasant tasting, and acts for the whole family, and is guaranteed to relieve sore throat or coughs in 15 minutes or money back. Put up ready for use in 35c, 60c and $1.00 bottles. Sold by Dodge Drug Co. and all other good drug stores.

Study Insane To Find Crime Cause

How different types of mental diseases tend to lead to various sorts of criminal action is revealed in a study of the crimes committed by the inmates of five state hospitals for the criminal insane, including the Michigan Institution at Ionia, made by Ellen Plicher of the University of Michigan, under the direction of Professor A. E. Wood of the Department of Sociology.

"Criminologists in recent years have tended more and more to seek for the explanation of many seemingly unreasonable crimes of violence and cases of habitual law breaking in an abnormal state of mind of the offender, which makes him insensible to the checks of prudence, social responsibility and emotional revulsion which keep the normal man from illegal action," states Professor Wood. The Plicher study attempts to indicate what sorts of crime the various types of mental disorder are likely to result.

Of all the crimes committed by the insanity cases studied, 41 per cent were crimes against the person, 26 per cent were of a minor nature, 20 per cent were petty thefts or larcenies, 9 per cent were sex offenses, and 2 per cent were arson. Dementia Praecox, the commonest form of insanity also contributed the greatest number and variety of crimes, while Paranoia, alcoholic psychoses, psychopathic personality and manic depressive insanity are the other most important types in order named, both in their frequency and the great variety of criminal acts to which they may lead. Other types of mental disease such as senile arteriosclerosis are more infrequent, but may lead to as dangerous crimes.

It is of great importance that abnormal mental conditions be recognized as early as possible, Professor Wood states. The high percentage of crimes of violence, including homicide, made the early treatment or institutionalization of persons of unreliable mental and emotional makeup desirable before their delusions or absence of normal controls lead them into trouble.

OFFICIAL PROCEEDINGS OF THE VILLAGE COMMISSION

Dec. 1, 1930, Plymouth, Michigan. A regular meeting of the Village Commission held in the Village Hall, December 1, 1930, at 7:00 p. m. Present: President Robinson, Commissioners Hoyer, Kehrl, Mimmack and Wiedman. Absent: None. The minutes of the regular meeting held November 17th, were read and approved.

Two representatives of the Ex-Services Men's Club were present at the meeting and asked permission of the Commission to use the now unused fireman's room for their meetings, they to clean up and otherwise fit up the room for their purposes. Upon motion by Comm. Mimmack supported by Comm. Wiedman, the requested permission was granted.

A petition was presented signed by sixty residents of the Village requesting that the Village undertake to plow snow from sidewalks during the coming winter. It was moved by Comm. Kehrl that the petition be approved and that the Manager be directed to have two snow plows built and to make other necessary arrangements to have sidewalks plowed during the coming winter. Carried.

The reports of Chief of Police Geo. W. Springer and of Justice Oliver H. Loomis for the month of November were presented for consideration. Upon motion by Comm. Hoyer supported by Comm. Kehrl, the reports were accepted and ordered placed on file.

The question of the amount and kind of insurance protection to be carried by the Village upon its motor vehicles, including particularly the fire trucks, was raised for discussion by

Happy New Year! 102

We can't permit the old year to pass without a word of appreciation to our friends and customers. 102

You have been kind to us during the past year. We have enjoyed a fine patronage and we want to thank you most cordially. 102

And now there's a new year in front of us - 365 perfectly good days; days which we'll be looking back on next year at this time. 102

None of us knows just what those days have in store for us. 102

And that's just as well, perhaps!

But this much is certain—we can do a great deal ourselves toward making the coming year a useful one. 102

We can make better resolutions—set higher goals—for ourselves than we have ever set before. 102

And we can wish our friends a pleasant journey. 102

That's what we're trying to do here. The coming year, we hope, will be kind to you, bring you many pleasures. 102

Plymouth Lumber & Coal Company Everything To Build Anything From 10c To $100,000

In a few words, we hope it brings you happiness! 102

The wish for a "Happy New Year" is not a new idea—but after all isn't it the best wish we could make for you? 102

Happiness is one of the greatest things we can have. 102

It's greater than wealth; position— and it's what every father's son of us is seeking from the present down. 102

And so once again we say it just as the New Year is "warming its engines" ready for a non-stop, record-breaking trip. 102

Happy New Year! And many of 'em.

1831 100 YEARS OF STRENGTH 1931

On Jan. 3, 1831, a small group of public-spirited citizens assembled in a suburb of Philadelphia. There they organized the First Bldg. & Loan Association, forerunner of all building and loan associations and cooperative banks.

WHERE THE SAVINGS AND LOAN BUSINESS STANDS TODAY

- Over 8,000,000 American homes financed through building and loan in the years between 1831-1931.
- 12,342 building and loan institutions now.
- 12,111,209 accounts or members now.
- Over $8,695,154,220.00 in assets now. 90% of the nearly nine billion dollars of assets is invested in first mortgage loans on homes. Approximately three million families right now are participating in our home ownership program. Truly a great record of progress for a movement that was inaugurated just one hundred years ago.
- 67 organizations in Michigan with resources of $167,000,000.00.

For Meditation

By LEONARD A. BARRETT

NATIONAL DEFENSE

SELF-preservation is the first law of life. "If any provide not for his own house, he is worse than an infidel." Self-protection against dangers and safeguarding one's possessions in the presence of the enemy are acts which must be considered both natural and just. It is a duty to protect our possessions not only for our own sake, but also for those dependent upon us.

L. A. Barrett. The life of the jungle is perhaps the earliest application of this law. An animal will kill in order to obtain food. It will also kill for the protection of its young. It is natural for an animal to do this, because the life of the jungle knows no higher law. Such an act cannot be considered murder, for murder implies a moral element, and the jungle is bereft of all moral principles.

Nature also is just but at the same time most cruel. She will tolerate no interference with her development. Any attempt in this direction meets with extermination. The law of the jungle is nature's law in its coldest and most de-humanized form.

The question remains—is the law of the jungle the only method of obtaining self-protection or self-preservation? The very presence of a world of moral values argues in favor of a higher law. This law is Sacrifice. By sacrifice is not meant the surrender of basic principles essential to life and happiness. Life is sacred and is so regarded many times even by the most hardened criminal who will hesitate to kill if given a moment for pause. In moments of extreme danger or acts of last resort, murder is committed. Dangerous conditions arising from an unwillingness to sacrifice personal or even national ambitions, purposes and passions create a serious menace. Territorial possession which threatens the economic life of another nation is a serious offense. No individual has a right to obtain possessions at the cost of another's honor. Anyone attempting to steal Naboth's vineyard must pay the penalty. Self-preservation and not personal aggrandizement is assured when we are willing to live and let live. National defense must choose between the law of the jungle and the law of sacrifice for the good of all. The one leads to national degeneracy, the other to peace and prosperity.

Conducts Auction Of Prize Stock

Sale of beef set a new state record December 11 at the Junior Livestock Exhibition, Detroit, sponsored by commission firms, the Shippers Association and Michigan State College.

The sale was opened by L. W. Lovewell, with about 2000 spectators present. Mr. Lovewell invited Mayor Murphy of Detroit to sell the grand champion steer. This steer, weighing 1060 pounds went to the A. & P. Co. for the record price of $1.75 a pound. The reserve champion went for $0.6 a pound while the remaining 33 head sold at from 20 to 37 cents a pound. A number of counties in the northern part of the state were represented, and the sale was declared a great success.

One hundred and twenty boys and girls took advantage of the trip, visiting places of interest in Detroit and crossed the Ambassador bridge, passing through Windsor without a stop, returning by way of the tunnel. They were received by the U. S. Revenue force, who welcomed the crowd and cautioned them not to go back. From there they proceeded to the Fort Shelby hotel, where 250 people sat down to a banquet, at which Mr. Lovewell was toastmaster.—South Lyon Herald.

ILLINOIS TOWN ARMS CITIZENS

To combat the crime wave which police say they expect this winter, the village of Evanston, Ill., a suburb of Chicago, in which Ambassador Dawes has his home, is arming its citizens. The Evanston Business Men's and Women's Pistol Club, a vigilante association, has been formed and will hold regular target practice.

French pancakes are often served for dessert. Make a batter consisting of 2 eggs, 1-2 cups of milk, 1 cup of flour, 1 teaspoon of sugar, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 2 tablespoons melted butter and 1-2 teaspoon salt. Bake on a hot griddle in rather large cakes. When done, spread each one at once with a mixture of butter and any preferred jelly, roll like a jelly roll, and sprinkle with powdered sugar. Serve immediately.

Severe Coughing Spells Quickly Ended

Distressing coughs can not tire out and weaken you this winter if you take genuine Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. Each dose carries the effective balsamic virtues of pure Pine Tar, fresh demulcent Honey, together with other valuable cough-relieving ingredients, into direct contact with the irritated throat surfaces, ending the distressing coughs. Sedative and comforting without opiates or harmful chloroform, mildly laxative. Dependable for coughs, tickling throat, croupy and bronchial coughs, and troublesome night coughs. Sold everywhere.

The SANDMAN STORY

HER CHRISTMAS PENNIES

MAHALIA wanted to have some Christmas presents, and she wanted to do this with her own money. Now, Mahalia didn't have any money of her own. But she asked her daddy and her mother and her grandmother, who lived down the block, and her aunt and uncle, who lived four blocks away, if she couldn't earn some money.

"I should have lots of errands to run," said her daddy, "around Christmas time at the store. People will want small packages in a hurry—string or ribbon or tissue paper, and every time you run an errand I'll pay you just as I'd pay anyone."

"I'd like to be paid in pennies," said Mahalia.

"Pennies will be paid to you," said her daddy.

"I will pay you a penny a day if you eat a piece of bread at each meal without a fork," said her mother, "and if you eat two pieces of bread I will give you two cents." Mahalia did not like bread.

Her uncle told her he had an old desk which he hadn't time to clean out, and he had always told her aunt that he would be doing it himself some day, so she shouldn't bother about it. But now, he said, if Mahalia would take all the papers and put them together, and all the elastic bands in another pile, and all the pencils without points in still another, and the ones with points in still another, and put everything nicely sorted and arranged on a table nearby and then dust the desk in every corner thoroughly, he would give her lots of pennies.

"I will go over the papers then and throw away what I don't want, and really have that desk in order. It would be useful to me if it were in order. As it is I don't want to put anything in it for fear it should get mixed up with all the trash there now. "Of course, you must be very, very particular in a job of this sort."

And Mahalia promised she would be.

Her uncle told her that she could do it between supper time and bedtime, and then it would not interfere with the work she was going to do for her daddy.

Her aunt told her that when she was through with the work for her uncle she could spend several evenings fixing up work baskets about the house.

"The threads and pieces of silk are all mixed up. They're all in a tangled mass. I shall be delighted to see them in order."

Her grandmother told her that if she would come over and brush off the front steps each morning before she went up to the store she would get pennies for that.

"Of course, the snow would be too heavy for you, but it would be a great help at this time to have the steps done, for we're so busy with cooking that we haven't time."

Well, as you can see, Mahalia had a busy time of it. She had many pennies, too.

And she bought every Christmas present that year with her very own money she had earned.

She had felt so much more important, too, than if she had simply been given the money, and they all had said she had worked well.

The way those pennies she earned jingled in the little bag she carried wherever she went!

To Mahalia it seemed as though they were saying:

"Merry Christmas from Mahalia."

And maybe, after all, that was really just what they were saying, those jingling, well-earned, jolly Christmas pennies!

GARDEN TOPICS

Plant plenty of little bulbs. Stick them everywhere. You will have a surprising display next spring. It's not too late yet.

It is a good plan to get the vegetable garden well spaded in the fall.

Prepare for bulbs and irises and strong manures by spading in the manure now, to be well decayed by next spring.

Peat moss is a fine mulch for late planted hardy perennials, shedding moisture well, and preventing heaving from thawing and freezing.

Burn all refuse and use the ashes on the garden. Hardwood ashes are excellent fertilizer for bulb beds.

Plant double daisies, pagodes and violas in the cold frame to transplant in the garden next spring.

You can plant tulips and be assured of good bloom up to December 1 if you can work the soil.

Pot some hyacinths for indoor bloom. Put three bulbs in the shallow pots sold as bulb pans.

"I'm simply in love with my ELECTROCHEF electric range!"

Cash Price $108 Includes everything a 7-burner set of Micro-aluminum cooking vessels. Terms $10 down, $6 per month.

"My ELECTROCHEF is so superior to other stoves that I would never dream of going back to cooking with burning fuels. Food cooked on an electric range is simply delicious, and I find it easy to cook this modern way.

"Cooking with my ELECTROCHEF is really a pleasure, and it is such a beautiful stove that I show it to everyone. My friends all comment on how clean it is—and that's one of the best things about it. The whole range is spotless, snow-white porcelain, and the metal parts are easily kept mirror-like. I'm simply in love with my ELECTROCHEF."

*A study of 500 homes showed that the cooking cost with the ELECTROCHEF averages 64c a person per month.

THE THIRD ALARM

How to get an old-fashioned horse drawn fire engine for use in "The Third Alarm" didn't bother Tiffany executives at all. Two or three were available. But how to get the complete lot practical working order was something else.

It cost more to fix the thing up so it would function—burning and pumping water—than the rental of the machine itself.

As to the three white horses so necessary with such an outfit, any number were available, but the right ones to work together caused a little trouble in selection.

The heavy, a man-hauling and horse-drawn fire engine in actual working order was imperative to the plot of "The Third Alarm," the story of "The Third Alarm" for it is this apparatus—the only one left in the engine house that comes to the scene of the fire—the orphans on the Third Street and saves the heroines and a bunch of children who have been trapped in an elevator in the midst of flames and water.

"Africa Speaks" is a splendid motion picture recreation of a trip taken across the continent by Paul F. Hoefler, representing the Colorado-Alaska Expedition, and offers a riotous blending of gorgeous scenery, picturesque scenes, trial tribulations and thrilling episodes with wild beasts. These actual scenes of the jungle surpass in vivid beauty anything that has ever been shown.

Highlights of the production are the devastating effect of a vast army of locusts that all but denuded Tanganyika of plant life; intimate glimpses of the pyramids of the Itruri Forest, a race of tiny people whose dancing and singing would put to shame many a New York musical comedy; a magnificent view of Ripon Falls, the source of the Victoria Nile; thrilling pictures of the fierce Masai spearmen in hand to hand conflict with spears and shields; an intimate view of the spectacular Emir of Swaziland, a six-foot ruler, who is as colorful in his attire and mode of living as one of the heroes of the Arabian Nights. All the wonders of the African wilds are revealed by the motion picture camera in their stark beauty. Life on the dark continent is shown as it is lived by the black savages and the wild jungle beasts.

"MONTE CARLO"

Clair: Allister, English character comedian who rose rapidly to success in the talks through roles in "Bill and Ben," "Three Live Ghosts," "Slightly Scared," and "Ladies Love Brutes" is to be seen next week, Friday and Saturday, January 9 and 10 at the Pennington Allen theatre in his most important role to date, that of the prince in "Monte Carlo," the story of a prince who has been a sensation on the Broadway stage since that time.

Miss MacDonald starred immediately in the talks when she appeared as Marie Chevalier's leading woman in "The Love Parade." She has since been seen in the highly interesting production, "The Girl Who Came to Stay."

In "Monte Carlo," whose scenes are laid in the famous European gambling center, Miss MacDonald is a fortune-seeking countess. Buchanan is a wealthy count who rains her favor by making her a hair-dresser and Allister is a rich prince who thinks he loves the countess, but eventually learns that actions speak louder than thoughts.

Through a Woman's Eyes

DIPLOMATIC BURGLARS

A COLORED burglar, robbing the home of a millionaire, was helping himself to valuables in the room in which the owner of the house and his wife were sleeping, when his involuntary hosts awoke and surprised him. Instead of the usual gruff, brute commands to keep quiet, they were met by a tender, soothing voice, the accent of courtesy, as the intruder said, according to reports, "Don't worry folks, it's too bad you had to wake up and see me, but I won't do you the slightest harm."

After his departure the injured millionaire telephoned the police, which resulted in his capture. Then, in appreciation of the courtesy which the burglar had displayed under those trying circumstances, his victim visited the jail where he was confined and presented him with a box of cigars and the sum of $151.

If all the maxims of your copy-book days and all the inspirational efforts of this modern age have not convinced you of the hypnotic quality, the enduring benefit that lies in courtesy, that true story must!

However, your reaction to the story will doubtless be, like mine, that that poor burglar is losing time.

Any man who under such circumstances can maintain such a high pitch of unflinching courtesy is an artist whose efforts should bring him a far greater return than a box of cigars and $15.

Think what that man could accomplish in the realm of high finance! And he lends his magnificent qualities to such a crude proceeding as merely burglarizing a house.

Imagine the career of a man in politics who at a time of high tension can keep himself so well in hand as to maintain in full flower the last word in courtesy! And he turned that talent to keeping two persons quiet while he took their silverware!

Or diplomacy—that most respectable field of endeavor where success depends on just such ability to do a discourteous thing with the utmost and highly-polished courtesy—why that burglar is a born diplomat. And he languishes in jail—simply because he chose the wrong profession for the exercise of his talents!

People of wealth who don't know what to do with their money lack imagination.

There's one thing a man who knows it all knows, and that's how unpopular he is.

Some people attempt to light their way through life by lighting the candle at both ends.

You are more likely to be arrested for the glowing game without a license than for the glowing game.

What sort of entertainment gives the people so much for so little as the candle?

PLANT IS ENTERING NEW YEAR WITH GOOD BUSINESS

WAYNE DISPATCH TELLS OF EXPANSION OF THE STINSON AIRCRAFT CORP.

The following article from the last issue of the Wayne Dispatch tells of the progress being made by the Stinson Aircraft Corporation and its plans for the new year.

The most gratifying message that can be given to the residents of the Wayne district coincident with the coming of the New Year is the recent announcement of the Cord corporation of the establishing by February 1 of a Cleveland, Detroit and Chicago airline that would be served by Stinson tri-motor planes at regular railroad pullman rates.

More than the fact that the name of Stinson, a Wayne corporation is again the by-word in aviation is that hundreds of residents of the district will be assured steady work in the coming months due to an order of ten tri-motors and the assurance that others would be received soon at the local plant.

The following is a statement given exclusively to The Dispatch by the publicity department at the local plant:

"All rumors to the contrary, it is now certain that the Stinson Aircraft corporation will continue to build Stinson airplanes in its Wayne plant at the Industrial airport, also that improvement of the airport will begin in early spring with the end in view of putting Wayne on the map with up-to-date airport facilities.

"According to B. D. DeWeese, general manager, more Stinson planes were delivered to owners during 1930 than were built by any other manufacturer. The dollar value of these planes was also greater than any other builder, though profits for the year were lower due to the low price at which Stinson planes are sold, the high prices paid for aircraft materials and high wages paid to the skilled workmen employed.

"This plant has been employing 150 to 300 persons steadily throughout 1930 with only a few weeks on a four day basis and without any shutdowns, an unusual record and officials have promised employees steady work throughout the winter and the recent booking of an order for ten Stinson tri-motor airplanes to be used by a large aircraft transportation corporation for service between Detroit, Cleveland, Chicago and St. Louis with Wayne airport as one service base, assures work for the present force and for additional workers in the Wayne district.

"It is said that the company will favor old employees in Wayne in good standing first and then will welcome applications from workers in nearby towns west of Detroit.

"It was learned on good authority that the present organization will remain in charge. It is a well known policy of the Cord corporation, of which Stinson aircraft is a subsidiary, that changes in personnel are rarely made and company policies will continue to be formed in Wayne.

"The present organization consists of: E. A. Stinson, president and consulting engineer; W. A. Mara, vice president and director of sales; O. R. Stocke, treasurer; G. A. Locke, assistant treasurer; J. C. Kelly, sales manager; Lee Smith, district sales manager; T. J. Fitzgibbon, export sales; A. H. Saxon, chief engineer; A. C. Schwalm, purchasing agent; R. E. Palmer, assistant chief engineer; O. H. Plaire, chief test pilot; B. B. Jacobson, superintendent; E. J. Rivers, superintendent; A. R. Rankin, chief inspector; E. H. Huff, manager, stock and service division; F. X. Mara, manager, parts and accessory division; H. M. Kelly, superintendent of maintenance.

"According to O. R. Stocke, treasurer, it was unanimously decided by Stinson executives that all employees who have had work last year would be willing to waive the usual Christmas present if the company gave that sum to former employees in good standing who have not had steady work and the balance to the needy of Wayne through established charitable organizations. Therefore, each
