NOW—ALTOGETHER!

The new year is here—1930 with all its depression and hard times is a thing of the past. What we all do will have a very material bearing upon the new year. If we all work together to make it the best we have ever had, if we will look for the breaks in the clouds through which the rays of sunshine now and then break, finally to spread over all the land, you can bet it will have much to do with what the new year will be. It's the sunshine, the happy spirit, that counts. It has been gloomy, there is no question about that—but now lets begin looking for those little streaks of sunshine that glisten beautifully in the clouds in the sky. Have you ever noticed that these breaks in the clouds are generally followed by a flood of sunlight? True. Now, altogether for the happiest and very prosperous year of 1931!

NOT MUCH CHANGE

Years ago there was a boy who amused himself by bringing down birds with a slingshot. Whenever one of his feathery victims was lucky enough to escape death from the slugging, he would pull off its wings as it lay helpless on the ground, and would then chortle with ghoulish glee when the little creature wiggled its little stumps in a futile effort to rise.

It was great fun for the boy. It wasn't much fun for the bird. The good people of the community predicted a dire end for that boy. They were certain that, in some manner, justice would catch up with him and treat him to a hempoen Hallowe'en party, that is, if he avoided being struck by a bolt from the blue in the meantime.

Nothing of the sort has happened. He has grown right on up, like weeds have a habit of doing, and travels on, contaminating everything he touches with the bacteria of pestilence and ruin.

He is now a professional bear—
He sells all things short.

His mission in life is to depreciate, underestimate and pull down everything and everybody.

To him nothing is ever worth as much as you and others think it is.

To see anyone or anything making headway causes him a pain amidship.

He is always pessimistic and heavily laden with gloomy forebodings.

While things are prospering, he thinks it is all a mistake, and so he waits around the corner with his new slingshot—more deadly than the crocheted weapon of his youth—the short sale, with which he lams into prosperity with deadly purpose, little recking of the suffering that is visited upon the thousands upon thousands of innocent people who must bear the brunt of his devastating attack.

THE NEW GOVERNOR

Amid more regal pomp than any other governor ever assumed office, Hon. Wilbur M. Brucker Thursday took over control of Michigan's government. The grand display was not of Governor Brucker's doings—it was the outpouring of the friendly spirit of his host of admirers about the state. This young Saginaw man has the greatest opportunity ever offered to any man entering the executive office at Lansing. He is faced with problems that will tax the best minds of Michigan's leading citizens—and he has announced that it is his purpose to consult with them in trying to solve some of these difficulties. Michigan taxpayers are demanding reduced taxation, not new forms of taxation—and if Governor Brucker brings that about he will have won for himself the everlasting gratitude of a tax-burdened state.

FIVE TRAGEDIES

A man struck a match to see if the gasoline tank in his automobile was empty. It wasn't.

A man patted a strange bull dog on the head to see if the critter was affectionate. It wasn't.

A man speeded up to see if he could beat the train to the crossing. He couldn't.

A man touched a trolley wire to see if it was charged. It was.

A man cut out his advertising to see if he could save money. He didn't.

ONE TO THINK ABOUT

Here is one to think about. A member of the Independent staff had his attention called recently to the matter of collecting bills from a Detroit firm owning one of the finest buildings in that city. A creditor, an interior decorator, to whom this firm owed the neat little sum of three hundred and fifty thousand dollars, declared that it had been unable to get a cent on it for four months. This seemed incredible so the reporter checked it up with a well-informed acquaintance in the motorcity who informed him that such was the regular practice of this much vaunted firm, that a friend of his had furnished one member of this firm with ninety thousand dollars worth of shrubs for his country place last spring and had not been able to collect a cent as yet. When the multi-millionaire, relying on the fact that their creditors cannot afford to incur their ill-will by suing them, refuse to pay bills, what can we expect of common ordinary folk?—Grand Ledge Independent.

NO TIME TO WASTE

After thirty, a man's foremost duty is to take care of himself and his family. He has no time to waste. Reform of the world can wait, but personal reform after thirty is urgent.

An advertisement of the Provident Mutual Life Insurance Company read:

"There is an old man ahead you ought to know.

"He has your eyes, your nose, your walk. He talks like you, acts like you, thinks like you. And whether he hates you or loves you, respects you or despises you, depends on you.

"For you made him. He is you."
It's a good thought.

CLINIC NEEDED

A lot of editors around the state are getting all het up again about a pardon for Irving Latimer—the fellow who murdered his own mother. Some of them seem to think that because he has been in Jackson a long, long time the Governor should turn him out. And some of these editors like Muri DeFoe of Charlotte, Harry Izor of Durand, Fred Keister of Ionia and Schuyler Marshall of St. Johns, are supposed to be among the brightest in the state. Well it's the old story, every abnormally intelligent person is supposed to have a screw loose somewhere.

THE PAY CHECKS

Taxpayers of Michigan have been wondering for many months what ex-Governor Green planned to do with his $20,000 in pay checks that he permitted to accumulate on his desk. No one really knowing the retiring governor had any idea that they would go back to the state uncashed. He announced on his last day in office that he had given them to his daughter, a very fine thing for him to do. Now the daughter says she is going to spend at least a part of the money for another dog and a riding horse.

WHAT OTHER EDITORS ARE THINKING ABOUT

Help For Bandits and Hit-Runners

Next to the question of "Who thinks up the foolish names on Pullman sleeping cars" comes the question: "Who thinks up the foolish color combinations on Michigan license plates?"

The 1931 plates, dark red numbers on a black background, takes the cake as about the poorest combination of colors on record.

Such a color combination is an aid to all the bandits and hit-and-run drivers in the state. It helps to defeat the purpose of license plates, this purpose being identification of cars. Numbers on this year's plates cannot be read by the person of average good eyesight across a narrow street with any degree of accuracy.—A. D. Gallery in Tuscola County Advertiser.

Anti-Honker

In case no newspaper has sponsored an intensive campaign having as its object the erection of a solid gold and platinum bust of Mr. Anton Kral of New York City in every community in the United States, then let us here and now inaugurate this worthy movement.

It seems that John Sleter drove up in front of a Manhattan residence just as the gray dawn was breaking, parked his car and proceeded to honk loud and long. His idea was to wake up one particular sleeper: there were, however, other sleepers, and one of them, Anton Kral, our hero, woke up, got a gun and shot Mr. Sleter in the big toe as a gentle hint that he found prolonged honking disagreeable.

Mr. Kral was arrested, but even in the present degenerate state of American civilization we do not believe the judge will do more than grasp Anton warmly by the hand and pronounce his example one worthy to be followed by every honest citizen.—George Welsh in The Grand Rapids Chronicle.

Words Of A Wise Man

To live content with small means, to seek elegance rather than luxury, and refinement rather than fashion; to be worthy, not respectable and wealthy, not rich; to listen to stars and birds, babes and sages with open heart; to study hard, to think quietly, act frankly, talk gently, await occasion, hurry never; in a word to let the spiritual, unbidden and unconscious, grow up through the common—this is my symphony.—William Ellery Channing.

Play Safe

Don't do it boys, it's dangerous. Don't hitch your sled to the rear of an automobile for a tow. The chances against you are too many to make the sport safe. The automobile driver does not want you hitched behind; he does not want to take the risk of your injury. Dave Hubbell in The Crosswell Jeffersonian.

The Secret of Happiness

It was Luther Burbank's custom on his birthday to sit quietly at his desk in the early morning hours, and looking back down the years, make a summary of his thoughts in some brief paper.

All of these papers except one were published. This one he put away and not even his wife saw it. It came to light just recently and was published in one of our national periodicals.

In this essay the plant wizard gives us his secret of happiness. He tells us how to attain that which the whole world is seeking.

"Happiness," he says, "is a shy bird; if we chase it with too much haste and as the sole object of life, it eludes us forever. Its coming is by indirection. We seek success and the attainment of it has a temporary power to satisfy us. But presently we realize that it is not reaching the goal that has made us happy, but the striving and the struggle and the contest. What is true success, the attainment of which brings satisfaction and the struggle for which insures success? Why, it is a long life filled with kindness and with good work honestly done for ourselves and for others."

"Happiness comes from accepting circumstances as we meet them and from making the best of them. Happiness comes from seeking to improve one's own condition and the condition of those around us. Happiness comes from the realization that The Golden Rule is the one best guide in life. Happiness comes from self-control."

Luther Burbank wrote this essay at the age of seventy-six, in the sunset of his life. It is the result of a long life of thought, experience and keen observation.—E. J. Hanna in Emmet County Graphic.

Political Opportunists

To the roll of drums, the blare of bugles, to say nothing of the popping of corks and the slapping of backs, the Boys Who Claim They Elected Brucker gathered this week for their festival.

In all the vast multitude of Legionnaires, lobbyists, politicians and ordinary citizens paying homage to the newly inaugurated governor, not one can be found who wasn't with Brucker first, last and all the time.

Sundry gentlemen who actually supported the new executive last summer, and who were so scared two weeks before the primary their knees rattled against each other like castnets, shyly claim to emerge to claim "I knew he would be elected all the time." Others who hid silently around corners working for Groesbeck, because they thought he surely would win, burst forth in flaming Brucker colors; and if pressed admit they never wavered from the Brucker cause. Marching Legionnaires, now that victory is clasped to their bosoms, bravely announce they did it all, and some of them ask "where is our reward?"

May their souls rest in peace. If the truth be told there is not a smart politician in all Michigan who was not convinced two weeks before the primary election, even with Judge Jeffries in the race to split the Republican vote, that Groesbeck would win. He had the votes in the bag—and we mean he actually did. Many of those who now clap the Brucker hand the warmest and cheer the loudest, at that time were quietly seeking ways and means to slip aboard the Groesbeck handwagon. They are the kind of political friends not worth having. Better far, to have those who are not ashamed of where they stood; but are willing now to support Brucker's administration because he was the choice of the most people.—Ed. A. Nowack in The Michigan State Digest.

Go Slow And Investigate

Recently a number of people in this locality were bedegged with circulars offering blocks of stock which had been "especially reserved" in the Standard Oil company of Colorado for certain "selected investors."

Now comes the Standard Oil Company of Indiana with a disclaimer of any knowledge of such a concern and with holes that suit in about to be brought to prevent the use of the name "Standard Oil" by the Colorado concern. How many have been nipped in this latest financial scheme?

In this day of depressed stocks and bonds, many clever swindlers are about the country calling on disappointed investors and trading stocks with them. One such recently inveigled a local woman into parting with him to take her stocks to sell. He has not been seen since and an estate is defrauded to the amount of his pilfering.

Any investment worth making will wait for an investigation. It doesn't take very long to consult a banker or financial authority. It may save severe losses. Next time a clever salesman visits your home, show him the gate if he will not consent to time for investigation. And next time a cleverly worded "come-on" circular finds its way to your mail box, toss it in the waste basket.—Vern J. Brown in The Ingham County News.

A TIP TO PARENTS

IN GIVING the horoscope of the child of a prominent man, a well known astrologer said this:

"Babies born on that date must be brought up gently, without too many 'don'ts and musts,' or they may become stubborn and contrary."

The implication, was of course, that the child in question was strong willed, with a tendency to stubbornness.

Therefore—bring him up strictly, discipline him out of his willfulness, "beat him out of his stubbornness," "beat him out of his stubbornness." That is what a good many old-fashioned parents might have said—"he needs a strong hand."

No—on the very reason that the child is so inclined, it is all the more important to "treat him gently." That means avoid creating issues and showing force. Appeal to his affections and his reason, rather than any possible fear. Don't try to overcome his willfulness by clashing with it. Further lead it into the right channels and so bring out the best, not the worst, in him.

When the astrologer worded her warning in that way, "he must be brought up gently, without too many 'don'ts and musts,' or they may become stubborn and contrary," she said, in the language of Jimmy, "a mouthful." In fact she said more than a chapter in the book of child psychology; she sounded to parents a warning that is of universal importance and cannot be too widely broadcast.

NUTTY NATURAL HISTORY

THE CONNECTICUT WHIFFLETICK

THE whiffletick is rather well known in the southern New England states for the peculiar way in which it must be captured. Two hunters will start out in a duck boat, equipped with a post hole auger, a pound of cheese, a shovel, and a landing net. On reaching the middle of the lake they bore a hole in the water about ten feet deep and drop in the cheese. Soon a whiffletick, attracted by the cheese, comes skating over the water and falls in the hole. The hunters then shovel in water to fill up the hole and drown the whiffletick. When it floats to the surface it is picked up with a net.

The whiffletick shown here about to embark on the water to follow a cheese scent, has a well-ripened pine cone body, peanut head, and split fibert kernel ears. All the parts are stuck together with chewing gum.

South Lyon Gets Old Postmaster

Postmaster J. V. Baker has received a letter from Walter Brown, postmaster general at Washington, to the effect that he has been re-appointed Postmaster at South Lyon for another term of four years. Mr. Baker has already served the community as postmaster for eight years and his re-appointment is proof that he is conducting the office in accordance with the high standard of public service set by the president.

Our people will be pleased to learn that he is remaining at the old post for another term.—South Lyon Herald.

Edison Company Numbers Houses

But a small section remains in Monaquon township for the completion of the metropolitan numbering system which is to be put into effect some time during the month of February, it was announced by E. J. German, district superintendent of the Detroit Edison company, who has undertaken the task.

Merchants and people residing in the district will be able to learn the complete numbering system either by visiting the Edison office or inquiring at the offices of the village clerk or township supervisor, who are to be furnished maps now being compiled by the Detroit Edison engineers.

The new system not only eliminates duplication of road names in the metropolitan area but simplifies considerably the task of locating a house or lot number.

The north and south base line is Cherry Hill road while the numbering east and west commences at Woodward avenue in Detroit. The lowest number is 100, thus on one side of Cherry Hill road on the street running north and south would be 100 and similarly on the other side.

There are 2,000 numbers to a mile and thus if a person is looking for number 20,000 Michigan avenue he knows that he has to go 10 miles from Woodward avenue in Detroit, which would probably be in the vicinity of Telegraph road, Dearborn.

Nankin township numbers start at Inkster road which is 27,000, while numbers in Wayne are in the vicinity of 35,000. The east and west township at Michigan avenue is approximately 39,400, while the last number on Michigan avenue in the metropolitan area is at Canton Center road, which is 45,400.

While the numbering has been practically completed some time will be required before the system can be in working order. Merchants will be required to change their files, the post office will have to obtain a map and revise its present system and in general there is still a lot of work to be done before residents can become accustomed to using the new numbers.

The task will not be so difficult in the village and cities where numbers have been in use for some time but in the rural section where the houses have not been previously numbered residents will be required to give their address according to number.

While the Detroit Edison company will probably put the system into effect at their office in February this will only include the commercial accounts. Homes are given a bill but every two months and thus they will not receive their statement with the new numbers until March, Mr. German stated.

Residents of the Wayne district from now on, when they are requested for their house number, are asked to give the new number. This may be a bit difficult for some whose figures look like a license plate on an automobile but "practice will make perfect."—Wayne Dispatch.

Village In Fear Of Being Isolated

A blow to the business life of northwestern Wayne county and Farmington would be struck, if plans are carried out by the state highway commission to get rid of the traction line on Grand River superhighway. This problem was canvassed at a meeting in Redford, with representatives present from Farmington, Clarencville, Redford Township and Redford.

The situation is this: In building the 204 foot superhighway between Redford and Farmington, the state highway department, desiring to beautify the aspect, would eliminate the traction line, which now is the sole heavy freight outlet for Farmington, Southfield and Clarencville. The arduous right of way is owned by the defunct Eastern Michigan railways, whose equity was taken over by the old D. U. R.

The state highway department proposes to pay $22,000 for the right-of-way, eliminate the tracks and leave Farmington, and points between Redford and Farmington without carload freight shipments. Such shipments to Farmington now amount to 388 cars per year.

Although possessing funds to eliminate a long-used and needed rail transportation system, the position of the state highway department is that it has no funds to relay the tracks in a new site, after the present lines are torn up.

The Detroit Street Railways, through Del Smith, manager, has agreed to maintain traffic, if given the right-of-way, but does not wish to buy the right-of-way.

While Dec 31 was the date set for transferring the track-site to the highway department, Grover C. Dillman, state highway commissioner, has agreed to withhold action temporarily.

Petitions with more than a thousand signatures have been lodged with the state highway commission, representing the vehement protest of residents in the affected zone against the elimination of their only rail-freight line.

Isaac Bond, Oakland county road commissioner, has interceded with the state highway department, also urging that the state retain the present railway on Grand River.

The state highway commission had planned to put a boulevard between the strips of cement superhighways, eradicating the rail-line, the one means of efficient communication for 40 square miles of territory with 5,000 population. Such a step, it was pointed out at the Redford meeting, would injure business.—Redford Record.

Being a Good Indian

At every first meeting of red men and whites, the whites were inferior in numbers, and yet were received teacherously by the men who with the utmost kindness, until they had helped them. They were always friendly, hospitable, and humane in peace. They were the best friends of any people in the world. There are very few people who are as generous as the Indian, dividing with some one who needed it, even down to the last morsel of food. No people were more hospitable.

To Start Milford Factory on 15th

It is now definitely announced that Milford's new factory, to be known as the "Wood Specialties Company" will be operating in the former Schlieder building about January 15, possibly before if the plans of the management carry through. The machinery is all on the factory floor here and is being installed as rapidly as possible. The manager is anxious to get going with little delay as orders are crowding them.

The Wood Specialties Company is a partnership with H. W. Campbell, plane manager and W. Beaudon, sales manager as chief owners. The company is successor to the Spooner Company, having purchased the machinery and business of the latter.

The company will manufacture a wide variety of crates, boxes, etc., and wood specialties, including almost anything except furniture and building material. The line will include green-house flats of various sizes, celery boxes, heart boxes (for celery hearts), cauliflower crates, bushel crates, etc. Side lines will include road stakes, used by highway surveyors, rough boxes for undertakers and the building of truck bodies to order.

A line to be added as soon as quarters can be arranged for it will be the manufacture of flower baskets used by florists. It is expected that this department will employ fifteen or twenty women within the next six months.

Along with their other machinery the company operates a portable saw mill which will be installed at the east of the present building. The concern buys supplies in the log where timber is available, almost any variety of hardwood being used. Mr. Campbell states that a display room is to be arranged in connection with the office. Here will be displayed samples of the various lines of goods manufactured. He also states that it will be the policy of the concern to employ local help almost exclusively. It is expected that only four or five experienced men will be brought from the plant's former location.

All the machinery will be operated by electric power and it is expected the electricians will be installing the necessary wiring next Monday. A quantity of logs at the Ypsilanti location are to be sawed before the saw mill is moved. When this and other stock is brought over the transfer will be completed.

Mr. Campbell states that the outlook for business is very favorable. The Spooner company was obliged to turn down large orders last season which they could not handle for lack of room and facilities. As an example, one buyer wanted a million celery boxes.—Milford Times.

In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Edna Dalko, who passed away one year ago, Jan. 6, 1930. In memory a constant thought. In our hearts a silent sorrow. Beneath our smiles nobody knows. How we miss our darling mother. For all of us she did her best. Until God gave her eternal rest. Sadly missed by her loving children and grandchildren. 1p

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of my dear mother, Mrs. Sophia Dethloff, who passed away six years ago, Jan. 10, 1925. Friends are friends when they are true. I lost my best friend when I lost you. Not a murmur, not a sigh. Passed your lips as death drew nigh. As you lived, so you died. Ready, willing, satisfied. I miss you at morning, at noon, and at night. Your duties performed are ever in sight. I miss you in so many ways. Oh, my mother, along this weary way. For life has never been the same to you. Since you were called away. Her loving daughter. 1p

The SANDMAN STORY

AT THE DOLL'S PARTY

PAM had been given a beautiful doll for Christmas. Two of her little friends had been given dolls, too. And Pam had been given a wonderful trunk for her doll's clothes. Her father had made the trunk.

It was what people called a wardrobe trunk because all of the doll's clothes could be hung up or put into drawers just as though in a wardrobe. It was a splendid trunk.

And she had also been given a lovely set of pink dishes by Santa Claus.

On New Year's day her mother had told her she could have a party. Her

"Miss Doll, will you have some more chicken salad?" the doll's mother would bend the doll forward so as to make a little bow, and the doll's mother would say in a squeaky little voice, which, of course, was the make-believe voice of the doll:

"Thank you, very much, Miss Pam, I would greatly enjoy a little more chicken salad."

So the doll was given two more buttons upon her little pink plate.

"And will you have some more cocoa?" Pam asked the other doll guest, and the other doll guest's mother bent her forward and answered for her:

"Thank you so much. It is really delicious."

None of the dolls fell over on their plates, as sometimes badly-behaved dolls do.

And none of them spoke out of turn or forgot to say "Thank you," or "I'm much obliged," or "This is so good. Won't you tell me how you make such nice cake?"

It was such a beautiful party for the New Year. Everything was so new—in addition to the year being a new one.

The china was new. The dolls were new. The party dresses were new and so pretty.

And the manners were so perfect they seemed new, too.

After the dolls had finished eating, the three mothers had a delicious supper which Pam's mother made.

And, as a great surprise Pam's mother gave the children some dishes she had been given when she was a little girl and which she had saved all these years.

They were so pretty and old-fashioned, and they were really quite good-sized.

They all thought they were really beautiful.

After a time the dolls were dressed in their coats and hats to be taken home, and each doll shook hands very politely with Pam and Pam's mother and Pam's doll.

Of course they had to be helped a little, but none of them put their hands behind their backs, saying:

"No, I don't want to."

They said nothing like that. They spoke in polite, squeaky little voices about the nice time they had had and how much they thanked Pam.

They asked Pam to come and see them soon and bring her doll, too, and Pam and Pam's doll said they would be very happy to do so.

It was a beautiful party. Dolls, after all, when they tried, could behave as nicely as grownups any day—perhaps, most particularly, on New Year's day.

Dressed in Coats and Hats to Be Taken Home.

mother had made her new doll a pretty new party dress to wear.

It was really and truly a party dress with ribbons and lace and lots of trimming.

Pam invited her two best friends to come and bring their dolls.

At three o'clock they arrived.

They dressed and undressed their dolls, and the dolls didn't seem to mind in the least.

They played shopping and house-keeping and going-away-on-a-visit, and all sorts of lovely games.

Then the dolls were dressed once again in their best party clothes, and Pam brought out the little pink dishes upon which were little buttons and empty spoons, and the dolls had a very delicious make-believe tea.

They all sat up by the pink dishes, and they all behaved beautifully and were a great credit to their mothers. For their mothers had them a very short time and hadn't had much time to train them.

But they behaved so well that each mother was proud of her doll child.

Each mother sat back of her doll, and when Pam would say:

It's a good idea to figure out the daily herd's need for feed for next year well in advance of planting time.

Though of course the quantity of feed varies with the cow's size and production, the average-sized cow that is on pasture in summer will need almost two tons of hay, or one ton of hay and three tons of silage yearly.

High-producing cows require annually from one to two tons of grain, or even more, according to their production. The yearling heifer needs small quantities of grain and about one-half as much pasture and roughage feeds as a mature cow. It is well to plan for a little surplus of roughage feeds, as any not consumed can be carried over to the next season.

Man Asks to Go to Jail—He Does!

"Lock me up, officer," requested Clyde Eckard of Policeman Frank Woods, in Massillon, O. The policeman, his suspicions aroused, searched Eckard and found a pistol in his pocket. He has gone to jail to await trial for carrying a concealed deadly weapon.

Man Burns Himself to Death

After writing a note to friends in which he said he had become tired of life, Achilles Allogg, 60, chained himself to a pole near his home, in San Jose, Cal., saturated his clothing with gasoline, and then set himself afire. He was dead when aid reached him and the fire was extinguished.

KNOWING THE TREES

BLACK WILLOW (Salix Nigra.)

THE black willow is a small tree, 15 to 35 feet high, with rough, black bark. The branches are slender and brittle and the leaves are narrow, long pointed, smooth and dark green above, and pale green beneath.

The black willow is not subject to many important diseases but a few leaf diseases are known which may cause defoliation and leaf-rusts are common. The trunks and branches are frequently injured by the mottled willow borer.

The rough, thick-scaled, black bark is a distinguishing characteristic of the black willow and it is common on the banks of streams and lakes.

The black willow is of no value except as a soil conservator and to a limited extent as a producer of fuel wood and charcoal. Other more valuable and more attractive trees should be grown in place of it.

"RED TAPE"

ANYBODY who ever had occasion to deal with governmental departments of one kind or another has unquestionably expressed his disapproval of the so-called red tape involved—meaning the apparently useless and wasteful expenditures of time and energy in formalities that one must undergo before he gets what he wants.

This significance is something which we all comprehend in the use of the expression "red tape." Why, however, should it be so-called?

The answer is due to the circumstance that the material used to tie official documents is actually red tape. We have the expression originally from England where it was first used in the sense referred to by Lord Lytton in the work "Alice," published in 1833.

"RED TAPE"

ANYBODY who ever had occasion to deal with governmental departments of one kind or another has unquestionably expressed his disapproval of the so-called red tape involved—meaning the apparently useless and wasteful expenditures of time and energy in formalities that one must undergo before he gets what he wants.

This significance is something which we all comprehend in the use of the expression "red tape." Why, however, should it be so-called?

The answer is due to the circumstance that the material used to tie official documents is actually red tape. We have the expression originally from England where it was first used in the sense referred to by Lord Lytton in the work "Alice," published in 1833.

To Rename Wineville
Wineville, center of a vineyard area, in California, is going to have a new name soon. Reasons for the change are varied. Some said Wineville was a strictly pre-prohibition name and therefore out of date. Others assert it had received too much unfavorable publicity because of the nearby "murder farm" of Gordon Stewart Northcott, who was hanged recently for slaying three boys. The name will be Mira Yuma, Spanish for "Views of the Hills."

Third Coins Watch For Cash
For 28 cents Martin Natman, of Chicago, got a perfectly good watch, but he isn't sure that he knows just what to do with it. He was held up and robbed of 28 cents the other night. A few days later he received the watch and a note: "Thanks for the 28 cents you gave me. It helped me to bigger things."

"HOOK, LINE AND SINKER"

Not only is "Hook, Line and Sinker" to be seen at the Penniman Allen theatre Sunday and Monday January 11 and 12, said to be the greatest Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey comedy to date, but it is said to contain more varied and genuine entertainment than any fun-film ever produced.

Much of its action takes place in the largest indoor set ever built, a rambling completely equipped hotel where the troupe spent six weeks, "shooting" 868 hilarious scenes.

For exterior scenes, the historic Bakersfield, California, country—a land of magnificent rugged beauty—was visited.

The story, constructed solely for laughing purposes, presents a laugh-a-second tale of a clash between big underworld mobs and high society fashionables.

This necessitated using dramatic players such as Ralf Harold, Hollywood's most debonair villain; Natalie Moorhead, ravishing beauty; Geo. Marion, with 50 years' experience in acting; Hugh Herbert, well-known character actor, and six others equally as well known.

Among the professional funsters who contributed to this thrilling all-laughing comedy-romance, were Dorothy Lee, whose sense of humor does not detract from her rare beauty; Johnny Howland, Amazonian comedian; Tim Whelan, veteran humorist-writer; Ralph Spence, wise cracking dialogist, and, of course Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey.

Eddie Clive, who directed most of the original comedies of Mack Sennett, piloted the story for Radio Pictures.

"HEADS UP"

Run-smuggling villains; smug, grumbling dowagers; heavy lovin' and heavy laughin'—these are some of the features of "Heads Up", the rollicking romance with music which will appear at the Penniman Allen theatre Wednesday and Thursday, January 14 and 15.

Charles Rogers, who made such great musical achievements out of "Close Harmony" and "Safety in Numbers" is seen in the leading role of "Heads Up" as the youthful graduate of the Coast Guard Academy who is sent aboard a private yacht to get the goods on its captain who is suspected of dealing with run-runners at sea.

Aboard the vessel Rogers gets better acquainted with Margaret Breen, daughter of its owner. He had met Margaret, a very comely debutante, at the graduation exercises of his academy and had fallen for her in a big way.

There are a number of thrilling episodes—and a number of hilarious ones as well, before the picture reaches its serene haven of a lovers' embrace.

The comedy support is ledged by Helen Kane, the "boop-boopa-doop" girl herself, and Victor Moore, the Broadway musical comedy veteran who was her partner as the Med Show Doctor in "Dangerous Nan McGrew."

The cast includes also, Gene Gowing, Helen Carrington, Billy Taylor, Harry Shannon, C. Anthony Hughes and John Hamilton.

"Heads Up" is the finalization of the musical comedy smash of the same name which enjoyed one of the few long runs on Broadway last season. The original show was written by John McGowan, Paul Gerard Smith, Richard Rodgers and Lorenz Hart.

"ANIMAL CRACKERS"

The curious nicknames of the Marx Brothers, who will appear at the Penniman Allen theatre Friday and Saturday, January 16 and 17 in their second Paramount talking comedy, "Animal Crackers," are explained thus:

Groucho Marx, who started life as Julius, got his name from the disposition he displayed when approached for a loan—or so his brothers explain it.

Harpo is really Arthur, but his performance on the harp won him his stage cognomen.

Chico once was Leonard—but he became fond of poultry.

Zeppo, or Herbert, received his name from his brothers who insist that in boyhood he resembled a circus freak of that name.

The trapper who tries to outwit the red fox must sharpen his wits, as this fox is keen-scented and suspicious and has a wholesome fear of man. Traps and the ground where they are set must be free of human odors. Steel traps may be cleaned by boiling them with twigs of spruce, fir, hemlock, birch or sassafras, by burying them, or by leaving them in running water for a day or so. After being cleaned they should be handled only with leather or waxed gloves and kept in a clean bag or basket until set. Grey and kit foxes are not particularly wary and are more readily caught than red foxes.

A roast meat thermometer eliminates guesswork by indicating exactly when a piece of meat has reached the rare, medium, or well-done stage. It can be used for any thick roast—beef, lamb, pork, ham or veal. The Bureau of Home Economics recommends its use in all recent publications on meat cookery.

MICHIGAN BELL HEAD ANNOUNCES PLANS FOR 1931

PRESIDENT FORAKER SAYS YEAR'S EXPANSION IS ENGINEERED ON BASIS THAT CONDITIONS WILL IMPROVE

NEW PLANT PLANNED WILL APPROXIMATE $22,000,000

MAINTENANCE AND OPERATION WILL COST LIKE AMOUNT. PROGRAM ADDS MATERIALLY TO INDUSTRY OF STATE

The Michigan Bell Telephone company has planned for 1931 an expenditure of approximately $22,000,000 for new construction, Burch Foraker, president of the company, announces.

This work has been engineered on the basis that business and industrial conditions will improve as the year 1931 advances.

The contemplated expenditure will be made from new capital, entirely for new plant and equipment, Mr. Foraker said, and he expects the program will be followed unless conditions unforeseen arise.

In addition to the construction expenditures for new telephone plant planned for 1931, there will be spent approximately $22,689,000 for maintenance and operation of the company's service in Michigan, making total expected expenditures of approximately $44,689,000.

The telephone program engineered for this year includes the completion of new buildings at various points, construction of additional long distance lines and cable, and installation of considerable dial central office apparatus and other exchange equipment, for the purpose of extending facilities and further improving the present high grade of service.

Building construction planned for 1931, will cost, including sites, $1,000,000, and new central office and subscribers' telephone equipment will cost $14,400,000. New exchange plant expenditures planned will total $6,140,000, including $1,125,000 for pole lines, $1,592,000 for aerial cable, $1,052,000 for aerial wire, $685,000 for underground conduit, and $1,686,000 for underground and aerial cable.

Long distance telephone plant construction projects contemplated total $1,000,000, including $300,000 for additional circuits in stormproof cable.

Material requirements for the year under this program will include 44,000 poles, 500,000 pounds of bare copper wire, 3,400,000 feet of wire strand, 1,117,000 duct feet of clay conduit, 25,500 crossarms, and 1,581,000,000 conductor feet of wire in cable.

It is planned to place new central offices in service during 1931 at Saginaw, Benton Harbor, Big Rapids, Detroit, Scottville and Escanaba. Large additions to local exchange facilities are engineered at many points, among them being Detroit, Ann Arbor, Battle Creek, Grand Rapids, Jackson, Kalamazoo, Lansing, Ypsilanti, Bay City, Saginaw and Marquette. Among the long distance facilities projects under consideration are the building of a cable between Saginaw and Reese, and completion of that now under construction between Grand Rapids and Big Rapids.

The Michigan Bell company now has 678,000 telephones in service, of which 292,000, or 42.75 per cent, are dial operated. A net gain of 25,000 to the number of telephones in service is anticipated during the next twelve months.

How To Thrive On Little Food

A plan to make every cent spent for food count in preventing malnutrition and in maintaining health has been developed by the Bureau of Home Economics of the U. S. Department of Agriculture for the President's Emergency Committee for Employment. This food plan or guide is designed, primarily, to help families with low incomes, according to the announcement made by Dr. Lillian M. Gilbreth, chairman of the Woman's Division of the Committee.

"This winter many families throughout the country are confronted with the problem of getting a satisfactory food supply with very little ready cash," says Doctor Gilbreth. "Our immediate relief necessity is no longer conservation. What we need to know now is how to spend money wisely for food."

Doctor Gilbreth has appealed to the women of the country, and to the many organizations that worked with Mr. Hoover on food during the war period to rally and meet the demands of this new problem that faces the Nation. "Our food standards," she says, "must not be lowered or adults will suffer and the children may be handicapped for life."

"Because of the drought there is less than the usual reserve of home produced foods and in many rural sections practically everything must be bought," she points out. "In periods such as we are experiencing now, the danger is that lack of funds will result in a diet which is not properly balanced from the standpoint of health."

For this reason the President's Emergency Committee for Employment asked the Bureau of Home Economics to work out an adequate diet at the lowest possible cost. The following food guide has been tested thoroughly by the bureau, and the diet outlined will prove adequate from the standpoint of thrift as well as health.

Every day—Milk for children, bread for all.
Every day—Cereal in porridge or puddings.
Every day—Potatoes, Tomatoes (or oranges) for children. A green or yellow vegetable. A fruit or additional vegetable.
Two to three times a week—Tomatoes for all. Dried beans and peas or pinto beans. Eggs (especially for children). Lean meat, fish or poultry, or cheese.

Cushions Wanted

For some of those who are learning to skate on the York avenue Lake. At other times some of the older young folks are cutting fancy figures and otherwise diverting themselves before the little folks, many of them having made the new year resolve to be able to skate like that or bust—hence the hurried requisition for pillow cushions.

Tarantula!

When Sunny Jim, unpacked the fruits and fresh vegetables last Saturday he also unpacked a bit of bugology. First came the eggshell from the banana sack. A few moments later the baby tarantula, who was about four inches (outside diameter). Later a nice yellow butterfly flew forth from the Calif. cauliflower. Now Hopf has picked the tarantula and he reposes in his jar tomb at the schoolhouse.

Fish

Now comes the word from our back woodsman, way up Towas Lake, saying the snow is so deep and the ice is ten (10) inches thick. Burt McKinney and Angel, Lee Rider, Fee Schaffer and Roy (Redford) Smith are pike fishing thru the ice. It is reported ten pounds are in season every day, or rather eve. The New Year's Eve supper started all this 10. h. argument with a good old pike bake.

Spring (?)

Among the fogs and frosts of nature are the weather man's prophecies for some time past. We certainly are enjoying this Indian Winter. (guess that is the name) or is it Indian Spring? With squirrels and butterflies, and even tarantulas at R. Emporium we certainly are having a mild winter. About the only thing left to have maybe is the apple trees and lilacs to bloom forth.

Auto Show

Plymouth Road held its regular weekly auto show last Sunday. All makes for the past decade, and models, old and new, were shown up thru the mist and fog. So New York has 'nothing' on us when it comes to having a real auto show. Even the license plates were of mixed years and various state vintage. One flogger we know of will be old enough to vote next spring.

Rosedale School News—One Week
What a relief the four o'clock bell will bring today. All thru the week little feet have been tramping wearily to and (not so wearily) from the school. The main subject for conversation and composition was on what Santa had brought and various disposition of seed articles. Next week won't be so hard, so we will find time to write some news—Rose and Dale Gardente.

Xmas Trees

Are now for birds only. All the indoor trees are out in the snow and decorated with crabs and other morsels the birds like. So you see that even discarded Xmas trees may be put to a good and amusing purpose. As these little feathered creatures bring cheer and song these muggy days as they drop down for food.

Chester Returns

Our Chester has returned to piloting the two double oh two. He has been way down West Virginia way, visiting his mother and some twenty-six nephews and neices. Brother Robinson, (Chester's side kicker) says that the vacation and mother's cooking taxed the railroad eight pounds more coming back than it did going down. Anyhow, welcome back, Chester.

"Hello"

said our Vera the other day. "Yes, this is the Blackburn Corner Store—Yes, we have them—Send them over?—Yes sir, but what for?" "None you're darn business," yelled male voice at other end of wire. "And you heat that!" remarks Miss Y., as she slowly hung up the phone. Which all goes to prove that R. Emporium delivers, (as advertised) but delivers only if name or at least address is given. We are requested to announce this so that the party in question will understand why the (blank) were not delivered.

The Census

Miss Peck had been lecturing about the census, the periods of taking, etc. The evening had a composition on same as home work. Little Rose was stuck, could go no further than half page. "Big Bro. Dale volunteered to aid. "Where's the population most dense?" asks Rose. "Just above the neck," butts in Pa. But just then Ma remembered Pa had neglected to chop some wood for the fireplace, and Rose and Dale completed the Home Work with Ma Gardente at the pencil tip, and Pa out behind the garage.

Ice

covered everything, everywhere. Monday antemeridian. The folks, whose usual morning pastime is the pursuit of the 7:30 bus, who are due in the village at about 9:15, did not get there until later, as a nice shiny Marmon (almost new) tried tail spins about new Detroit Sales Office and to save all Bro. Robinson (the Busman) ran the 2003 up on the sidewalk breaking his steering gear whilst said Marmon man just smoked the rear end of the bus for lack, and such luck, for the poor M just crumpled up like a paper bag full of wind. Then further along there were seven cars all in the same ditch by the Orchard and Vineyard Sub, and all along were numerous others who forgot skid chains or something. Glad to report that so far no one was hurt—or even killed!

Books

A branch of the Wayne County Library is being opened in Rosedale Gardens in the McKinney & Hoffman store. Miss Warner and Miss Hoque brought out 200 books to start the station. We hope all Rosedale Gardenites will do some reading this winter. If the book you want isn't in the collection, we will be glad to send for it. The collection will be changed periodically—books for children and adults are here. So whilst doing your shopping early, you can pick out a good book for each member of the family.

Cottage Burns At Silver Lake

Fire completely destroyed the Hertha Arms cottage and contents on the east shore of Silver Lake, Saturday night. The cottage had been occupied that day by two boys from Detroit who had driven to Northville at about 8:30. When cottagers across the lake at first saw the fire, at about 9 o'clock, the building was a mass of flame. It is believed that it started from a stove. Chemicals of the South Lyon fire department kept the blaze from spreading to nearby cottages. An attempt to check the fire at the Arus cottage was futile. Miss Arus whose home is in Detroit, has not been told of the loss because of her very poor health at this time.

While insurance was carried, many of the contents of the building were very valuable to the owner and can never be replaced.—South Lyon Herald.

Homeless Sheltered in Jail

The jail cells of the eight police precinct stations in Newark, N. J., are serving as free "hotel" rooms for the homeless, under an order by Director of Public Safety William J. Egan. It has been a custom of many years' standing to allow men to become police prisoners for a night during the winter, but this year Mr. Egan ordered such accommodations, and the "guests" are asked to sign registers.

PILGRIM PRINTS A SCHOOL AND A BUSINESS CAREER

Are two years in high school sufficient to make a business woman? Now let me tell you of my experience.

After two years of acquiring knowledge under learned and severe teachers I, like many others, thought myself ready for my great venture as a business woman.

First I answered news advertisements. Well it is my privilege, is it not? Answering news advertisements is somewhat like going to a masquerade and being the only one masked.

Now to get on with the story. I found after a few months I was coming to the point of being practically illiterate. "More schooling in the business ways of the world," says I.

Wearing apparel was the next problem. Clothes make the woman. I have often heard it said at the time I wondered whether it meant the business woman.

Now I have started high school again, right back where I finished two years previous. But I still insist I'm a business woman.

Having heard my experience, what do you think of the question asked? If there is any doubt in your mind try it yourself.

Two Clubs HELP NEEDED The Torch club directed by Mr. Cobb and Miss Cary's group of Girl Reserves have each divided into four groups in order to carry out a plan to help a needy family throughout the year.

TRAVEL CLUB VISITS GREENWICH VILLAGE

The Travel club visited Henry Ford's Greenwich Village near Dearborn Tuesday, December 30. There was a horse and buggy riding up the street as we started on our tour of this old-time town.

The motor is in front followed by a trailer with an open seat, and behind that there is still another car, this one closed and containing six chairs. The "Swanee," a replica of the boat of the same name which sank in the Mississippi several years ago, is in a ditch which is to be flooded with water from the Rouge river in a short time so that the boat may go up and down as the original used to do.

We passed Lincoln court house, the first court house that Logan county, Indiana, ever had. The judge's bench was in the front part, and before it were some chairs where the jury and the audience sat during a trial.

A big bookcase which formerly contained law books constituted the remainder of the furniture of the room. Upstairs we saw some rails Abraham Lincoln himself split. The cabinet he gave to the neighbors whose book he borrowed and which the weather man destroyed, and an old table and some chairs very stiff and uncomfortable looking which were made from some of the Lincoln rails.

We next saw the church now being erected which is to be named after Mrs. Ford's mother. This church contains a very good pipe organ which students are to take lessons on.

Now I have started high school again, right back where I finished two years previous. But I still insist I'm a business woman.

TEACHERS ENJOY VACATION TRIP

Many and varied were the visits of the Plymouth high school teachers during Christmas vacation.

Mr. Winkelman spent several days in Chicago where he attended a convention of the National Association of Teachers of Speech held in the Hotel Steger, one of the largest hotels in the world.

Miss Wells went way to New York City to visit her brother. Miss Berg went to her home in Ishpeming in the northern peninsula between six hundred and seven hundred miles from here and was accompanied by the usual amount of snow and delayed trains.

Mr. and Mrs. Dykhouse spent Christmas in Grand Haven and New Year's day at Bronson, Michigan. Both Miss Adcock and Miss Schrader went to Illinois. Miss Adcock visited her home in Galesburg and Miss Schrader visited friends in Dixon.

Miss Ford spent the vacation at her parents' home in Highland Park. Miss Allen went to her home in Royal Oak. Mr. Evans visited his home in Battle Creek. Miss Trout spent her vacation visiting relatives in Edmore, Michigan.
