SERVICE IN WORLD OF EDUCATION BRINGS HONORS TO TEACHERS

MISS ANNA SMITH HAS BEEN INSTRUCTOR FOR 16 YEARS IN SCHOOLS HERE.

Wednesday, April 1, Miss Smith with eight other women in the state of Michigan who have pioneered and achieved outstanding distinctions in different fields of educational endeavor, was honored at a luncheon held at the Methodist Episcopal Church of Ypsilanti.

Mrs. Emma Fox of Detroit, and Miss Anna Smith of Plymouth, were the two having rendered the longest service, being 24 years of age. The other seven were of varying ages.

At the dinner each of the honored guests was presented with a beautiful corsage bouquet after which all returned to the auditorium where a program in honor of the distinguished guests was continued. The address of the afternoon was given by Miss Estelle Dossing who spoke on the "Austrian Spirit" which in her analysis meant the creating of something for the love of the thing itself in contrast to the professional spirit which looks toward the amount of reward to be gained. At the close of this outstanding, applicable, and scholarly address she read a short resume of the achievements of each of the honored guests and in a very fitting manner presented each with an honorary membership in the Study Club of Ypsilanti.

Miss Smith began her services in the Plymouth Public Schools in 1874, and continued as an instructor for 40 years at the conclusion of which she accepted the position of Supervisor of Juvenile Reading which she now holds.

Practically all those who have come through the Plymouth schools in the past two generations have been inspired by the wonderful influence and instruction of Miss Smith, and many who are holding their high positions in the professions, industry, politics and religion attribute much of their success to the wonderful inspiration of optimism, industry and sunshine which Miss Smith has always endeavored to instill.

All who know Miss Smith would doubt the fact of her having passed her eighty-fourth birthday because she is active, mentally alert, interested in all modern and up-to-the-minute developments which tend to make human beings better and life happier. To know Miss Smith and to enjoy the sunshine in life which she radiates is to see personified the truth that happiness comes from one's ability to render service to others.

ROTARIANS HEAR ABOUT TAXATION

At the regular meeting last Friday the Plymouth Rotary Club was, indeed, privileged to hear Mr. Fenner, executive secretary of the Home Defense League. While Mr. Fenner did not speak on any set subject, the main part of his address was concerned with present problems with taxation in the state, and some of the legislative issues now before the legislature.

The Home Defense League is an organization of independent retail merchants, and is naturally working to secure the passage of a home owned store equalization bill, because they believe that chain and syndicate stores today are not paying their fair share of the tax burden in the state. Should this bill be passed, the entire revenue from it would be turned over to the primary school fund, and undoubtedly, according to Mr. Fenner, lightening a great deal the present all teachers throughout the state would be paid from this fund, thus school tax burden throughout the state. Mr. Fenner explained that in many cases total yearly taxes to farmers and those living outside corporations and clubs would be reduced as much as 50%.

The club is greatly indebted to the committee which secured Mr. Fenner.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR MRS. BLUNK FRIDAY

Mrs. William Blunk of 1047 William St., passed away Wednesday morning, April 1st, after three months illness.

Funeral services will be held Friday afternoon, April 3rd, at three o'clock from St. Peter's Lutheran church.

Obituary of Mrs. Blunk will be published in next week's Mail.

Will you kindly note this morning, L. P. Cookingham, the new city manager of Plymouth.

Robert Minnack, better and best known among his many friends as just plain "Bob" Minnack, the newly selected president of the Village of Plymouth, and If rumor has it right, will you meet Vaughn Smith, a well known young Plymouth man who will doubtless be a visitor of the village in the next few days. Better meet him now than later.

Mr. Minnack, long active in village affairs, will preside at future meetings of the village commission, having been honored a week ago by his associates on the commission by his selection as village president.

Following careful investigation of a number of applicants for the place, the commission has already engaged L. P. Cookingham, former village manager of Clawson, to become manager of Plymouth's municipal affairs.

Mr. Cookingham has had long and excellent experience in the work he has already assumed here. Born in Chicago in 1884, he received his early educational training in that city. He was in the United States Army signal corps during 1918 and 1919. For a time he was in the engineering department of the U. S. E. I. R. D. Cong. construction and maintenance work. For a number of years he acted as resident engineer in the Indiana coal fields, and in 1920 entered the engineering department of the city of Flint.

Here it was that he gained much of the experience that will prove of benefit to him in his work in Plymouth. For two years he did pavement and sewer design and construction work in Flint, and for five years he was office engineer, being in charge of administration of affairs for all divisions of public work in Flint. In this capacity he was in charge of the organization of construction schedules and the purchase of materials and supplies.

In 1927 he became city manager of Clawson, and was in direct charge of the $600,000 construction program that was carried out by that fast growing municipality. He organized and operated the public library, conducted the summer recreational program for both children and adults of the community and built the new water production plant.

He also served as chairman of the inter-municipal transportation committee, regulating all transportation in the North Woodward avenue district, and he was secretary of the Metropolitan Planning and Zoning committee.

He is a member of the International City Managers Association, and in 1920 was president of the Michigan City Managers Association. He is also a member of the Michigan Engineering Society, the American Water Works Association and the American Road Builders Association.

Claims Loss Of $630 In Saturday Robbery

William Matthews, manager of the Hotel Mayflower food department reported to the local police chief last Sunday morning the loss of $630.00 from a leak in the hotel kitchen. The money had been placed in the desk Saturday afternoon according to Mr. Matthews and when he opened his desk Sunday morning it had disappeared.

A fire was discovered in the kitchen Saturday night about 11:30 and the Plymouth fire chief had been called to extinguish it. A brief inspection found a rag burning on one of the grates in the kitchen.

Chief Springer called a finger print expert and a detective from the Wayne County Sheriff's office to investigate the case with him. Finger prints were taken of every one in the hotel who had access to the kitchen and so far no definite results have been obtained. There are no clues and Chief Springer stated Wednesday that there was no definite information with which to work.

NEIGHBORING POSTS AMERICAN LEGION ENTERTAINED HERE

PLYMOUTH MEMBERS PROVE TO BE ROYAL HOSTS TO VETERANS OF WORLD WAR.

The regular meeting of the Myron H. Beals Post No. 32 of the American Legion held last Friday, March 28th, was unusually interesting, due to the presence of visiting delegations from the Farmington and Northville Posts, in addition to the regular members of the Plymouth Post. The Farmington legs offered to bring their officers to a regular meeting of the Plymouth Post to show how they conduct their regular meetings and how they formally initiate new members. Their initiation ceremony was very interesting and impressive. It refreshed the memories of attending Legionnaires with the high ideas and purpose of the American Legion. The Farmington legs had their parts well in hand and conducted the ceremony with smoothness and precision. Earl Mastick and Dick Harvey were the new members of the Plymouth Post to be initiated. Officers of the local post wish to express their appreciation to the Farmington Post for their courtesy.

The most important matter discussed during the business session which followed the initiation concerned plans for a membership drive to be staged during the entire month of April. The Myron H. Beals Post now has 50 members. It is the hope of interested members to raise this total of 100. According to Don Ryder, Post Commander, every man who saw service under the American flag during the World War should become an active Legionnaire.

It is safe to assert that similar efforts will be made by every post in southeastern Michigan in order to present the strongest possible front in preparation for the National Convention of the American Legion to be held in Detroit early this fall.

Officers of the Plymouth Post wish to thank Francis Bows for the gavel which he made and donated for meeting purposes.

A card party and general social gathering followed at which time the visiting Legionnaires and members of the local Post were served the usual fine lunch by members of the Auxiliary.

Woman's Club Will Have Reception Soon

The music group, of which Mrs. Charles O. Ball is chairman, promises a most delightful entertainment for its members at the next regular meeting, to be held on Friday, April 10th, at 2:00 o'clock, at the Hotel Mayflower.

Helen Bulkley Walbridge, an unusually gifted and talented musician, will play the following request group: The Lark—Glinka, Balakirev, Two Preludes—Chopin.

Mrs. C. T. Sullivan, one of Plymouth's most popular new matrons, will sing a group of songs, including "Morning" by Alex. Spooks. She will be accompanied by Mrs. Welbridge.

Howard Walbridge, a clever youngster, who already shows remarkable talent, will conclude the musical program with three numbers: "Wild Rider" by Schumann, "Jugler" by Kern, and "The Spanish Dance" by Rebe.

Count Alfred de Nieszchowski will not speak on this occasion, owing to the fact that he was unexpectedly called to New York for a speaking tour. Mrs. Arlo A. Emery has been very fortunate in securing as the speaker for this program Cal. Heinrich A. Pickett, inspector of customs of the port of Detroit, who will talk on "The Growth of a City." Col. Pickett is an outstanding speaker, and this will be a most interesting talk.

There will be a reception to new members, followed by refreshments, at the conclusion of this program. The following comprise the committee: Mrs. Charles O. Ball, chairman; Mrs. Russell Roe, Mrs. Harold Brishols, Mrs. Irving Blunk, Mrs. Wm. B. Baker, Mrs. J. R. Hubert, Mrs. F. B. Park, Mrs. J. W. Henderson and Mrs. E. C. Hough.

The committee requests the club to cooperate with them by attending this meeting, and has extended the special privilege of permitting each member to bring one guest.

DISPLAYS TO BE FREE FOR ALL VISITORS

Plenty of Entertainment, Gifts, Attractions—Helps for Home Lovers.

It is a safe assertion to make that Plymouth's Second Home Complete Exposition to be held Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings of next week, April 8th, 9th and 10th, will have improvements and refinements over Plymouth's First Home Complete Exposition held the latter part of June last year. And it will be remembered that no one was disappointed who attended last year's exposition. The exhibitors have last year's experience to guide them, and everyone is planning a more attractive display and more entertaining features than was the case in their first attempt.

For one thing the exposition will be held this year nearly three months earlier than last year, at a time when people, with the beginning of spring, are thinking in terms of building, remodeling, repairing and repainting, refurnishing, rejuvenating houses, gardens and lawns, in fact in terms of everything which pertains to themselves and the interiors and exteriors of their homes. In this Home Complete Exposition, therefore, with its many attractive educational exhibits, large crowd attraction during the evenings, not enough people attended in the afternoon to warrant the expense of remaining open or of the time necessary to be spent by those in charge of the exhibits. For quite natural reasons, the majority of people seem to prefer to come in the evenings when they can come in family groups, so it was decided this year to discontinue staying open in the afternoon.

It will be remembered that last year literally swarms of small children were all over the place laughing and shouting, under people's feet and causing quite a bit of confusion. The kiddies are welcome, the exhibitors want them to come and have a good time, but it was decided this year to make the perfectly reasonable request that children under twelve years of age must be accompanied by an adult. Every display will be worth any one's time to see. Space in this article will not permit more than a general description touching the high spots. For example, the Detroit Edison Company will have a large display principally featuring their new Electrotherm stove.

Dewey Holloway, in connection with the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, will again put on an instructive display and promises a novelty feature that will surpass in interest his famous vases of last year.

According to Robert Willoughby, the Walk-Over Roof display will feature shoes, more shoes, and the more shoes the better. The "Walk-Over" "Walking Man." The distance he covers will interest you.

Schneider Bros. will again feature a beautiful furniture display on the stage.

The Plymouth Lumber & Coal Company will principally feature garden sets with a chance to obtain one for yourself.

Huston & Company will display the new Detroit Jewell Stove and will feature Philips service.

Jewell & Balch will have a display of Mordak furnaces, A. B. C. oil burners and Duro pumps and water softeners.

The Plymouth Buick Sales Company will display their line of Frigidair refrigerators and General Motors radios. The R. L. Hills Dairy will share in this display.

The Michigan Federated Utilities Company will exhibit Raud Autobot water heaters and their line of insulated water pipes, radiators and the other. The Westinghouse "Colonnade" Radio.

The Eckles Coal & Supply Company will feature Vigoro plant food and German Peat Moss. A specialist will be in charge of their display to answer questions pertaining to the proper care of lawns and gardens.

The Conner Hardware Company will feature Sherwin-Williams Paints and Maytag washing machines.

Blank Bros. will feature carefully chosen items from their furniture department and possibly other reasonable items from some of their other departments.

The Parrott Agency will have an instructive display in connection with Auto, Fire and Windstorm insurance.

Paul Hayward will show what the well dressed man will wear in the spring and summer of 1931.

The National Window Shade Company will demonstrate that window shades of the highest quality bearing their trade name of "Molas" are manufactured right in Plymouth.

Gayde Brothers will feature a paint display and possibly other leading items from their stock.

The Wood & Garrett Agency, Inc., will stress reasonable lines of insurance.

Roy C. Streng, contractor, will have an attractive display full of suggestions for both new residential construction and remodeling.

Dworman Brings Fame to Plymouth

More honor has come to Plymouth through the efforts of Herman Dworman, well known local fire merchant and one of the best known handball players in the United States. This time "Lefty" teaming with Joe Bathe of Detroit captured the National handball doubles title at Minneapolis while the tournament has been in progress over the last week.

By their victory over Al Bannet, singles champion, and Barney McGeigan, 21-8, 19-21, 21-9, they brought the title back to this part of the country. Dworman is the former co-holder of the national championship, having won it with Willis Kimmann, while Bathe is Detroit and State singles champion.

A hand ball exhibition will be given in the Plymouth Recreation hall next Thursday night when Dworman will entertain his partner, Joe Bathe and Joe Griffin, Harry Bell, Lefty Rothberg and possibly the national singles champion Alfred Bannet for the evening. This array of champions will give Plymouth the opportunity to see the cream of the hand-ball courts in action at 7:30 on the night of April 9th.

Florida Visitors Leave For Home

The following letter was received by the Editor from Mr. Larkins who has been wintering in Florida and is published because we know his many friends in Plymouth will be interested to know of him.

"As we are leaving West Palm Beach April 3rd kindly mail all future issues of the Plymouth Mail to my Plymouth address: 1375 W. Ann Arbor Street.

The Plymouth Mail, with the gold-tinted and sunshine flowers of Florida has made our stay here of three months a wonderful and delightful vacation.

We will come home by the way of Washington, D. C. and try and get some of that money that my friends Will Connor and John Witcox saw being made."

Sincerely
John Larkins

Mrs. Ruth E. Huston-Whipple spent last Friday and Saturday at Lansing, at the eleventh annual representative assembly of the Michigan Education Association. She was one of eleven delegates appointed from the high school of Detroit by Assistant Superintendent of Schools Edwin L. Miller.

The Plymouth Auto Supply Company will feature their line of General Electric Refrigerators.

J. K. Shontz, district representative of the Holland Furnace Company, will have an interesting exhibit showing the Holland Furnace Company's principal of winter heating and summer cooling.

Wm. C. Renger will have an attractive display of the Davis line of made-to-measure men's suits.

The display of the Torie & Roe Lumber Company will suggest the thought of remodeling and will feature the materials of first consideration in a remodeling program.

HIGH TRIBUTE PAID FORMER LOCAL JUSTICE

Wayne County League of Women Voters Adopt Resolution.

At the annual meeting of the Wayne County League of Women Voters held in Detroit at the Hotel Statler, Wednesday, March 18th, a special tribute was paid to Judge Phoebe Patterson of Plymouth who was prominently connected with the Wayne County League for many years.

Mrs. Charles O. Ball, chairman of the Resolutions Committee, read the following article and resolution, and it was unanimously voted that a copy be spread on the minutes of the meeting.

Mrs. Phoebe Ely Patterson, 73 years old, first woman justice of the peace in Michigan, died January 16th, 1931 at her home in Plymouth after an illness of three months.

She spent her girlhood in that village, receiving her education in the public schools. After her marriage she became active in women's organizations and church work. She was a charter member of the Plymouth Woman's Christian Temperance Union, and for two years was president of the Wayne County Union. For 25 years she served as recording secretary of the County Union and at the time of her death was first vice president at large.

Always a pioneer for women's rights, in April, 1879, she was elected justice of the Peace in Plymouth—the first woman to hold such a post. She was serving her 12th year in this capacity, when a Detroit lawyer challenged the rights of a woman to hold this office. The matter was taken to the Supreme Court and Judge Patterson was victorious.

For two years she was president of the Plymouth League of Women Voters, holding the office of vice-president for two years preceding her death. She was also vice-president of the Plymouth Business and Professional Women's Club. She was a member of the Woman's Club, the Woman's Auxiliary of the First Presbyterian Church and the order of the Eastern Star.

Mrs. Phelps of Ypsilanti, in writing of an interview with Judge Patterson, says:

"I talked with this handsome, white-haired woman, when she had seated me in her office, her courtroom—the living room, as well as of her spacious twelve-room home, in the suburban village of Plymouth, a few miles out of Detroit.

"Looking casually at this dignified, modestly groomed matron, in black satin, her hair coiffured as Mrs. Vanderbilt's might be, carrying off the gold and jet necklace and earrings as a society lady might wear them, I was surprised. I had looked for a severe, plain-garbed official with the mannish style of address and I had found a gracious lady. Nevertheless, there was without a judicial character to her personality, strength and decision and a business-like alertness."

Whereas, Our Heavenly Father, in His infinite Wisdom has seen fit to call from our midst Judge Phoebe Patterson, our friend and co-worker, and

Whereas, our departed friend has during her lifetime displayed those sterling qualities that endeared her to all who knew her, and

Whereas, in her death we have lost a true Christian woman, an ardent worker, the County and Community a conscientious representative citizen now, therefore be it

Resolved, that loving in submission to an all-wise and merciful Father, the Members of the Wayne County League of Women Voters, do hereby extend our deep sympathy to the family of the deceased.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS TO GIVE ROOKIE COMEDY

The executive board of the Knights of Pythias has completed all arrangements with Mr. I. K. Stemen, representing the Universal Producing Co. of Farfield, Iowa, for producing the famous Rookie Comedy, "Corporal Eagen," to be staged on the 12th and 13th of May in the High School Auditorium.

This production is something entirely new and different in the manner of clean, patriotic, community entertainment. "Corporal Eagen" has a coast to coast record of large and appreciative audiences and unusually good Press reports. The entire cast, which includes a children's Pageant, Girls' Chorus, Sailors' Chorus and Minstrel act exclusive of the main play, requires more than 65 local characters using elaborate costuming and scenic effects.

Indications point to a very successful showing of this production in Plymouth as has been the case throughout the entire country.

For laughter, pathos and patriotism see "Corporal Eagen" at the Plymouth High School Auditorium on May 12th and 13th and watch for particular in regard to the cast and the rehearsals.

BANKS OBSERVE HOLIDAYS

Both Plymouth Banks will close Friday, in observance of Good Friday, from 1:00 until 3:00.

Because of Monday, April 6th being election day, both banks will remain closed all day.

"WE MAKE NO WARLIKE GESTURE"

"Only a month or so ago General Pershing publicly stated that so far as the army is concerned America is disarmed. The Christian Science Monitor only this week, dealing with the coming disarmament conference in Europe, said that so far as the lessening of its armed forces would be concerned the contribution of the United States would be negligible.

"In view of these statements, it may have bothered some to reconcile the fact of an army appropriation of $445,765,735 by the last congress. The explanation is easy. Practically half of the appropriation goes to ends that have not even a remote bearing on preparedness or on war. The rivers and harbors expense is a case in point. The war department would be glad not to be charged with that account, but no other department will have it. The war department has attempted to unload the items which so increase its budget but has been unable to do so. It appears to have reconciled itself to the disproportionate aspect of its account. The situation is somewhat irritating, however, because some are so disposed to make unfair handling of army figures. Any current book of statistical information will set the army down as having $445,765,735 without any explanation.

"Exact figures as to what proportion of the total appropriation goes for things military are not available, but remembrance is that they represent about half of the total. This brings our strictly military appropriation down to a point where it is well inside other large supply appropriations. The treasury department, for instance, gets almost as much as the army. The postoffice appropriation vastly outruns the military appropriation.

"What the military expenditures amount to at the present time is about comparable to the allowance a court would make to a receiver to keep a business in being until disposition might be made of it. There is nothing going on in army circles at the present time, other than some experiments to keep abreast the world in the perfection of ammunition, arms and other implements. There is scarcely any storage of war material.

"Our experience is something like that just announced by the Labor government in England. Tom Shaw, secretary of state for war, in the MacDonald cabinet, told parliament the other night that England was tired of setting examples in disarmament that other European nations did not follow."—The Lansing State Journal.

"ALL ARE TAXPAYERS"

One of the reasons why so much is talked and so little done about mounting taxation in this country is that a large number of people think that other people are paying the taxes. They do not sufficiently realize that no person living normally in this country, state and city escapes taxes. Otherwise they would take a more active interest in restraining those who appropriate other people's money.

This is particularly true of the poor. They may not have a taxable home. Their income may not be sufficient to be noticed by the income tax collector. At the same time, as long as they live under a roof and wear clothes and eat food they are paying taxes. They are paying prices for everything they buy that is influenced by the inclusion of the vendor's taxes in his overhead, which is charged to the renter or purchaser.

A more general recognition of this fact ought to operate helpfully in two ways. The legislators who have charge of public spending, which is the cause of taxes, would perhaps be a little more hesitant in voting unnecessary sums out of the people's pockets if they fully realized that the incidence of virtually all taxation falls finally on the class which can least afford to support it; and the members of this class, who think that the rich pay all the taxes and that they escape, would perhaps be moved by the realization that this is a costly fallacy to use their ballots to force economy.

Some people pay more taxes than others, all must pay something either directly or indirectly. The effect on the pocketbook is the same, whether the tax bill comes to you or to your landlord. When that perfectly obvious fact has been burned sufficiently deep into the minds of all elements in the electorate, we may hear less talk and see more action in the direction of keeping taxes at the irreducible minimum.—The Detroit Free Press

The Story of "Cimarron"

In the Oklahoma land rush, April 22, 1889, is a picturesque attorney-editor, Yancey Cravat (Richard Dix). At the sharp report of the starting pistol, the nondescript thousands rush forward, afoot, horseback and in animal drawn vehicles. Yancey's pony races beside that of a young girl, Dixie Lee (Estelle Taylor). They outdistance the others. The girl, through trickery, secures the piece of land Yancey wanted—leaving him empty-handed.

He returns to his home in Wichita, and announces that he and his family will move to the new Oklahoma settlement. The wife, Sabra, (Irene Dunne), in spite of vigorous family objections, goes with him.

Nine days later the Cravats, with their son, "Cim," (Douglas Scott) and Isaiah, Negro boy (Eugene Jackson) arrive in the boom town of Osage, only to learn it is an unhealthy place for editors—one having recently been assassinated. Yancey promptly notifies the citizens that he will expose the murdered in the first edition of his paper.

Lon Yountis (Stanley Fields) suspected of the murder playfully shoots a hole through Yancey's hat, as he walks with Sabra. Yancey answers with a hole through the "bad man's" ear. The feud climaxes the following Sunday with Yountis' exposure and death at the hands of the new editor.

Sabra is speechless with horror as she notes that her husband files a sixth notch in his revolver handle.

A year later many things have happened to the Cravats. A daughter is born to them. Yancey's editorial dictatorship is accepted. "The Kid," a notorious outlaw, attempts to rob a bank in Osage but is killed by Cravat, who spurns the $10,000 reward much to his wife's dismay.

Three years later Yancey unexpectedly rides away to ride in the opening of the "Cherokee Strip," leaving his family behind him.

In 1898 he returns in the uniform of a Spanish-American war veteran. Hardly has he embraced Sabra, who is now a powerful political figure, when he rushes to the public defense of Dixie Lee. The latter is being tried on a public nuisance complaint preferred by Sabra. At Dixie Lee's acquittal, Sabra is bitter toward her husband—but not for long.

Nine years later, in 1907, Oklahoma is admitted to the Union. Indians, because of oil found on their arid lands, have become fabulously wealthy. Inter-marriage has raised them to social equality with the whites. Yancey Cravat, the crusader, feeling that his work for the Indians is finished, disappears.

Sabra, in spite of her hungry heart, grows more powerful editor and Congresswoman.

A Congressional party visits Osage to attend the unveiling a memorial to the Oklahoma pioneer. Sabra takes them to view the oil fields. A gusher comes in with a swishing roar.

Word spreads that the nitro-glycerin torpedo has been forced up by the premature flow of oil, and the lives of the entire party have been saved by an unknown man, who suffered fatal injuries in the attempt.

Sabra hears that the hero is known as "Old Yancey." She rushes through the sea of oil, and takes the crumpled form of Yancey Cravat in her arms. As he dies, his statue is being unveiled in the town of Osage.

The Story of "Cimarron" will be shown at the Pennington Allen Theatre, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, April 5th, 6th and 7th.

KILL IT OR FILL IT

WHAT OTHER EDITORS ARE THINKING ABOUT

DON'T ECONOMIZE ON SCHOOLS

Dr. Bart R. Shurly, president of the board of education, is to be congratulated on his stand before the city council in opposing further cuts in the school budget.

One of the difficulties in the educational system of the city today is overcrowding of schools to the point where discipline is hard to maintain and instruction has been weakened.

If the city fathers want to save cash, let them discover ways of doing it, such as by compelling sewer contractors who have been robbing the city, to repair their slovenly work by compelling about three-fourths of the city employees who ride around in automobiles at city expense to patronize the street cars, by arranging for the city firemen to use their idle time in city clerical work, by requiring all city employees to do as much work for their pay as they would have to do in private employment. When these things are done, there will be enough cash on hand to staff our schools properly, provide buildings and perform the educational function more adequately.

There is one thing we can say for Dr. Shurly: when he believes in a thing he sticks up for it and fights for it all the way through. We must admire his spunk in the matter of keeping the school budget from further cuts, we believe he is right, in principle.

The council should not cripple the school system; it has plenty of other places wherein it can economize, if it is really in earnest.

Redford Record

The Michigan teachers retirement fund is $14,218,514 short of the possibility of meeting promises made to Michigan teachers under the teachers pension law. Unless changed, it can pay teachers only twenty-two per cent of the sums they supposed they would receive.

By one of the most heartless blunders in its history Michigan adopted this law, assured teachers of certain stipends on retirement, encouraged the retirement of unannumated teachers—and then neglected to set up either a proper actuarial basis of participation by the teachers themselves or a state fund to make the payments possible.

Things have run on until it would take $3,571,918 more assets in the fund to continue present annuities to teachers now retired, and another $2,000,000 to pension even those who are eligible for retirement today, not to mention those who are contributing toward their future retirement.

The state has an obligation. It has recognized the principle of a pension, allowed thousands of unselfish public servants to contribute and govern their careers on the promise of support on retirement, permitted eight hundred teachers to retire and become wholly dependent upon the annuities—and now on investigation finds it made no proper financial provision.

The teachers would have to multiply their salary contributions to the fund by six in order to supply the whole deficiency. Other states with sound teachers' retirement laws do not expect the teachers to stand the entire burden. Neither should Michigan. If it is unwilling to contribute part by taxing the whole state practically every member of which owes his education to the class of people benefited—then the only policy left is to repay the unmet obligations of teachers to date, amounting with four per cent interest to $2,497,252, abolish the fund, leave the eight hundred to shift for themselves and force teachers past the proper retirement age to go on working or face dismissal without the income they had relied upon.

The commission in charge of the fund has told the legislature how it can avoid that shameful course, by raising the teachers' contribution to five per cent of their pay, and matching it by state taxes, "a substantial reduction" can be made in the deficit, and a sound plan adopted. Presumably the rest of the deficit would have to be met by special legislative grants—which is fair enough since the state itself made the blunder.

TOO MUCH FOOTBALL

The Foster Death Penalty Bill still enjoys the status of a political football, passing back and forth between the pros and the ants through a fog of meaningless verbiage. The police departments and prosecutors' offices of the state want it, almost to a man. The bench is about evenly divided. The pulpit is for it and against it, depending which corner the sermon is being preached on. University professors as a general class, see little or no good to be derived from it. The newspapers, again as a class, see much good to come from it, with the exception of one or two worthy examples whose arguments against the proposition have been constant and unrelenting. The Press cannot help but feel that all this talk is of little advantage, departing, as the bulk of it does, so far from the real core of the problem. The law, says its proponents, is aimed at organized crime—yet the root of organized crime is not in murder, but in a vicious political situation which makes right might in the face of all the laws of the land. Honest government and honest elections would cause this root to wither and die; if capital punishment will have the same effect, it remains to be proven. The answer, happily, will come next month from the ballot booths, not from the over-sager partisans who have done all too much stumping.—Dearborn Press

Now's the Time for Doing Things

There's joy in watching things "work out"—whether they be just hobbies or the more serious affairs of everyday life. To plan—then to bring those plans to a successful conclusion—it's these accomplishments that make progress.

For hundreds of our neighbors, this institution is "partner" in their planning, and in their successes. Accounts here, growing through regular additions, insure the ready funds that opportunities require. Accounts here also insure for their owners the aid of the skilled counsel, the broad experience and the judgment of our officers, whenever these can be helpful.

ADVANCED REFRIGERATION

Quiet?

You'd never know you had a Frigidaire in the house!

Frigidaire does its work of keeping things cold almost as quietly as Jack Frost freezes a pond!

So superbly smooth and silent is the famous Frigidaire unit that only a ghost of a whisper announces its operation... like a sleeping child, "you'd never know you had one in the house!"

Yet, for all its astonishing silence, the Frigidaire unit is far from sleep—it is, indeed, a storehouse of super-power, more than sufficient to meet every possible freezing demand of modern refrigeration. So don't be deceived by the surprising absence of sound in your Frigidaire... there is surplus power back of Frigidaire silence!

Practically noiseless and less frequent motor operation is one of the many very real advantages of Frigidaire Advanced Refrigeration. There are many others. It is such advantages that have placed Frigidaire in the forefront of its field. We invite you to come in to our showroom and learn all about them.

EPISCOPAL NOTES

EASTER
If ye then risen with Christ, seek those things which are above."
Easter Day, with its message of Life Eternal makes this life worth living and worth living well! Every Christian knows the great value of this day, and every communicant of the church will wish to enter into communion with the master, either at 8 o'clock or at the second celebration at 10.

But while the Resurrection alone gives true meaning to the life and death of Christ, it is not possible to have Easter without the Cross. The only fitting approach to our Easter communion is by an observance of our people make an earnest effort to do their buying and selling before 12 or after 3 o'clock on this day, and attend the community service to be held at the Methodist church at 1:45 p. m. Tomorrow, Friday, April 3, we shall hold our Good Friday service in this church. Even one who wishes to enter fully into the joy of Easter will find this service a helpful preparation. "Is it nothing to you all ye that pass by?" The children of the church school will present their Lenten Miss Boxes on Easter Day at 11:30 o'clock. In view of all that Christ has done for us, shall we not follow their good example by making our offering just as liberal as is possible. A check for $2000 has been received from one of our good friends of the church. Let each one do all that he can!

The Men's Club announces a post-Easter party and entertainment for all men of the parish on Tuesday night, April 7. Come on, fellows! Be there! The Brotherhood of St. Andrew will continue its meetings on Wednesday until further notice. The daily Bible readings for the week of April 1 to 8 are to be taken from Matthew 27 and 28.

Remember! The church expects every faithful communicant who wishes to remain in good standing to make his communion on Easter. May you all have a blessed and happy Easter!

hooved Christ to suffer, and to rise from the dead the third day;
"And that repentance and remission of sins should be preached in his name among all nations, beginning at Jerusalem."

In the evening at 7:15 there will be a pageant, "In the Hearts of Men," by the pupils of the church school, under the direction of Mrs. Walter Faber and Mrs. Squires. You are cordially invited to worship with us at both of these services.

Those desiring to honor their loved ones will as usual bring either pressed plants or cut flowers with which the pulpit will be decorated. There will be a committee in charge.

Christian Science Notes
"Reality" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Christian Science Churches on Sunday, March 29.
Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "I know that, whatsoever God doeth, it shall be for ever: nothing can be put to it, nor anything taken from it: and God doeth it, that men should fear before him" (Ecc. 3:14).

WHERE GREAT LETTUCE CROP IS PRODUCED

Imperial Valley of California Provides Nation This Vegetable.

By E. R. Eaton
Brawley, California. From out of this great Imperial valley lying from 50 to 200 feet below sea level, sometimes called America's valley of the Nile, is shipped practically all of the winter head lettuce consumed in the United States and Canada.
And when the good housewife of Plymouth or any other eastern city goes down to the market and pays for a good, solid head of lettuce, the man who has grown that head of lettuce, will receive one cent, sometimes a fraction over one cent, for his part in producing a crop that has become a necessary part of the diet of Americans. The railroad will charge something like a cent and a half to ship that head of lettuce from this winter garden spot of the North American continent to you.

All of the rest of the costs above the two and half cents paid to the grower and railroad, is for handling the crop.

Lettuce shippers in this country say that lettuce should sell in the east for possibly not more than 10 cents a head.

In each crate is packed 72 heads of the most beautiful lettuce you ever saw. No culls, no small heads are packed. When a crate of lettuce goes into one of the Southern Pacific railroad cars that carry practically all of this crop to the east, it contains only the best that the lettuce fields produce. Lettuce is sorted in the fields and again in the packing houses and it is shipped to you the very day it is picked. Ice is packed in the crate and the freight car is ice free from two to four times before it reaches its destination in the east. When the lettuce reaches the eastern market it is as fresh as the day it was picked. The Southern Pacific gives to the grower a remarkable railroad service that eastern shippers have often dreamed about but have never hoped to realize.

The other day the writer was sitting in the offices of the Southern Pacific here when one packing house called up and asked to have three box cars put on his sidetrack. In less than 15 minutes from the time the call came in, the cars had been placed. Sometimes back in Michigan if such an order is filled within three days a shipper might be surprised. But of course here the product being handled is of the perishable type and it is therefore necessary that there be no delays in shipping.

This is along towards the end of the lettuce shipping season, but a night or so ago one hundred and eighty carloads went out over the lines of the Southern Pacific to the east.

Since December first when the harvesting of the lettuce crop started, there have been shipped from the Brawley station of the Southern Pacific 3503 carloads of lettuce, one hundred and sixty one carloads of carrots and 445 carloads of peas.

But Brawley, while the largest, is not the only place in the Imperial valley from which lettuce and other garden products are shipped. Hundreds of carloads go out of El Centro and other smaller stations in the valley. This is the beginning of the pea shipping season. For the next few weeks many hundreds of carloads of peas will be leaving the Imperial valley for the east and north.

Then late in April or early May will be shipped the first of the cantaloupes and for four or five months thereafter hundreds of trainloads, yes hundreds of trainloads, of melons will leave here for the eastern market.

August, September and October are quiet months in the valley. It is not until late in the fall when the ground is prepared for the lettuce crop and these are the three months of the year when not much of an effort is made to produce anything for the market.

The Imperial Valley is one of the few sections of the country that has shown "white" on the business map since the beginning of the depression. Here is one place you hear nothing of or about hard times, although just at present some of the automobile dealers have begun to note a decline in the demand for their product and jobs are not quite as plentiful as they were a month or so ago.

Nothing is produced except by irrigation. The Imperial Valley not so many years ago was a hot, burning desert. It is hot here during the day time right now, but the late fall, winter and early spring weather is delightful. Not quite so much can be said for its summer climate. Here too is one place in the world where the farmer and grower never wish for rain. In fact, they do not like to have it rain, because a rain-storm always does damage to their growing crops. Within the past two years there was a thirteen month period when not a drop of rain fell in the Imperial Valley.

It is nothing less than marvelous what has been done by the residents of the Imperial Valley. They have transformed thousands and thousands of acres of barren land into one of the most productive garden spots in the world—the Valley of the Nile being nothing as compared to the Imperial Valley in fertility or productivity. In fact it is doubtful if there is any other place than can and does produce so many and such big crops on an equal amount of space as the Imperial Valley.

One should not gain the idea that farming is an easy matter here. It's a business, a big business. It takes many thousands of dollars to just plant forty or fifty acres of melons, say nothing about the other costs that enter into the production and harvesting of the crops.

Many fortunes have been made here and many fortunes lost in considerably less time than they are made—but there is this about the Imperial Valley business man and rancher—he never quits. More than one of them that a few years ago lost all he had through market fluctuations or other reasons, is again on the road to prosperity.

SEVEN-A GIRLS LEARN TO PATCH

The girls of the 7-A clothing class reminded one of an old nursery rhyme when they arrived in class Tuesday morning, each burdened down with a newspaper bundle. The mystery was solved when one discovered that it was patching day. Warm dresses, aprons, under garments, childrens clothes, and even pillow cases appeared out of the large bundles and the first patching lesson began.

Did the material match the recommended article as closely as possible, was the first question tackled. Then the preparation of the piece to be patched began and so the work continued. Soon some very neatly mended garments began to appear, and the first lesson on the hemmed patch was ended.

PICTURES IN THE HALLS

The pictures of the student graduates in the halls are very poorly arranged. They do not come in the order in which they should. In looking over these pictures, one would find a picture of the class of 1929; then the next one will be of the class of 1922. The manner in which they are now arranged makes it very awkward for graduates wishing to find their own pictures. The Home Economics class of last semester wanted to change these pictures around, but I think that they did not have the time in which to do it. We are hoping that in the future some one will have the opportunity to arrange them in the order in which they come.

ing about the other costs that enter into the production and harvesting of the crops.

Many fortunes have been made here and many fortunes lost in considerably less time than they are made—but there is this about the Imperial Valley business man and rancher—he never quits. More than one of them that a few years ago lost all he had through market fluctuations or other reasons, is again on the road to prosperity.

GUM CHEWERS HAVE HARD FATE

Chewing cows must all remind us. We can chew our cuds as well. And departing, leave behind us Cuds on every window sill.

Such is true of many of the students of our high school. It seems that there are some members of our big happy family who simply cannot concentrate without the help of an ever-present end of gum. It may be Dentine, Black Jack or some sort of tooth-ache gun, but, however rare the variety, it is still gum. Of course these gum chewers must never have seen themselves as members of the school if they had, they would immediately withdraw from that famous group. I do not mean to say that all gum chewers look the same, because some succeed very gracefully in disguising the fact that they are chewing gum.

There is a regular army of workers who, paying deeply for their sins in classroom and study hall, labor each afternoon when school is dismissed, scraping the offending gum from the corridor floors. There are various members of this squad who are really quite amusing. One that I happen to know about has a title of the Gum Specialist. Certain terms are involved so that eventually he will lose the title but not until he has fulfilled the conditions of his sentence. So before closing, I wish to pronounce a solemn prophesy—Gum chewers in class and study hall usually come to some bad end.

MICHIGAN BELL TELEPHONE CO.

Anne Campbell, well-known and beloved Michigan poetess, has caught the romance so often associated with the telephone and has expressed it charmingly in the following lines, reprinted by special permission of the author and of The Detroit News, which published the poem November 13, 1930. (Copyright, 1930):

Long Distance Telephone

Over the lonesome miles, your voice meets mine in space,
And in a few short sentences you say
Enough to pull the sun out from his hiding place
And turn my nighttime into glorious day.

In days gone by beneath the window of his love,
The troubadour sang goldenly and long,
His chosen lady listened from her room above,
And drifted off in slumber to his song.

Now in a few crisp phrases flung across the wire
You tell me all that warbler could impart.
The telephone has grown to be the modern lyre
From which the lover sends his singing heart.

Shell pioneers great step forward in motor fuels. Perfects new fuel amazingly high in the anti-knock value modern engines need... AT REGULAR GASOLINE PRICE. SHELL has succeeded—a few months of effort! Today Shell offers a new fuel high in the precious quality that all cars need—the quality most ordinary gasoline lacks. Study this chart. Note that most of the ordinary gasoline on the market falls below the needs of the great majority of all cars. But note that New Improved Shell 400 is far higher in anti-knock value than the ordinary fuel. Best of all, it costs you no more than the ordinary kind! Now you can be safe once and for all against motor ills and damage caused by gasoline that knocks. Shell acts to give you the kind of gasoline your car ought to have—at the lowest possible price. In the interest of low cost driving, Shell pioneers this great step forward in motor fuels. You may be getting the kind of gasoline your engine should have. But millions, as this chart will prove, are putting up with poor motor operation, getting less power and facing higher repair bills than they should—due to incorrect gasoline. Make a test of New Improved Shell 400. Try one complete filling of it—at least 10 gallons. Ask about the nation wide mileage test. Enter it, today. NEW IMPROVED SHELL 400. Definitely better than many premium priced fuels, yet sold at regular gasoline prices. High in the quality all cars need—anti-knock value. JAMES AUSTIN OIL COMPANY Wayne, Michigan

Rosedale Gardens

By J. W. WALKER

Dr. A. M. Gray Dies
Mrs. Anna Medora Brockway Gray, M. D., died Sunday morning, March 29, 1931, at her home 1925 Berwick Ave., Rosedale Gardens, very suddenly of heart attack.

Dr. Gray was born at Northwest Mine Keweenaw (Hollon) County, Michigan, February 1, 1851, the third child of Daniel D. and Luecia Harris Brockway, who were the first white settlers west in the copper country Upper Peninsula, in 1846. Receiving her early education in the family circle, later graduating from Allison and receiving the Doctor of Medicine Degree at the University of Michigan, Class of 1883, the first of the three courses, the class of the class is the renowned Dr. William Mayo of Rochester, Minn.

Mrs. Gray practiced medicine for several years in Duluth, Minn., where she married Willard Eugene Gray, a prominent attorney of that city, in 1884. Returning to Michigan both husband and wife practiced their chosen professions in and about Allouez, then they came to Detroit in 1901. Mr. Gray died on February 1, 1924. In the spring of 1928, Dr. Gray and her son moved to Rosedale Gardens, Plymouth.

Dr. Gray has long been known in literary circles as a brilliant writer of children verses and for her fifty-three volumes of script in the Historical Department, Detroit Public Library. She was a member of the Michigan Women Writers Club, Poetry Division, and Daughters of the American Revolution.

A son Perry R. Gray, a brother Albert A. Brockway, Rosedale Gardens, and a sister Mrs. Sarah L. Scott, of Hartford, Conn., are the survivors of Dr. Gray's family. Mrs. Scott being the first white child born west of Sault Sainte Marie (on July 17, 1844), the father Daniel D. Gray, then being a blacksmith and carpentry instructor on the Indian Reservation of L'Anse.

Funeral services were held at Schrader Bros. Funeral Home, on So. Main Street, Plymouth, at 3:30 p. m. Tuesday the 31st, instant burial will be arranged in the family burial grounds, Lakeview Cemetery, Calumet Michigan.

Mrs. Gray was loved by all, especially the many little folks, who delighted in her many children stories and kind words, always cheerful and thoughtful of the cares and worries of others. Her death came as quite a shock to all, as she had been about her home and neighborhood and never seemed to care for the cold or inclement weather we have had of late. Saturday evening about 8 o'clock, Mrs. Gray called her son Perry and said she thought he had better find a doctor, whereupon she retired to her room. After 9 o'clock the physician who had been called declared that they could do nothing, and Mrs. Gray lapsed into unconsciousness, and then death Sunday morning at about 9.

According to Mr. Perry Gray, his mother had made as one of her last entries in her diary that she had a premonition of impending death, writing "I have been feeling death for a week."

Election

Don't forget the Biennial Spring Election next Monday, the sixth instant at the Sales office, and don't forget to come over before SEVEN o'clock this time.

Last primary, several Gardenites thought they could listen to Amos 'n' Andy and then come over, but time and attention closing waits for no man. So now our Township Clerk, our Hon. John Harlan, et al, have made the closing hour before Amos 'n' Andy, and now you first and taxi right home or to R Emporium next door where R Emporium will have the radio on real loud, so every one may hear.

Inclement or clear weather, we have plenty of parking space, but come out early to give the clerks a chance to get over and invest in this life story, at least synthetically.

Three

Amendments to the State Constitution are in order and on the ballot, which require much thought on part of all; then there are two Supreme Court Justices, two regents of M. Super of Public Instruction, Members of Board of Review, Highway Commissioner, and overseer, also four Constables. The local and city press, radio, R Emporium and neighborhood gossip should give one a good idea on what the amendments really are and mean, the one on capital punishment surely should make you scratch your head and also scratch your ballot, so fall not in your duties as a citizen this coming Monday, anytime from eight antemeridian to seven postmeridian.

The III

Mr. A. Cromer Burton, Miss Estelle

Lutwitz and several other grown ups are out and about again. Master Wesley Hoffman has been ill, but is better. Miss Ethel M. Belden will resume her post at the School next week.

Easter Vacations

are in order this week, though the weather man has not entirely been unkind, one could hardly term it Spring Vacation. However, children will be vacationing, and it takes a lot to weaken vacation spirits in the young folks. Marbles and snakes, and kites and doll jingles will find a way, a manner, and a place to disport in the hearts and minds of the little folk.

Easter Music, Etc.

will be featured at R Church Sunday, so don't forget to come over at eleven o'clock. Let the garden go 'til afternoon at least.

It is understood that the Sacrament of Baptism will be for several Gardenite children at this time. Rev. Bennett has promised an unusual service, and we all know that music it will be, and the regulars are volunteering to bring a friend or neighbor, as one Gardenite explained, "If it is only my husband, it will mean that many more."

Labor

A number of Gardenites have been recalled from forced vacations, so now many more are working at least three days a week, in some cases four and even five days a week have been reported. We are all hoping for no jobs than men as in the good old days, and from all indications they will be on us before we know it, then R Emporium will have to remain open later than ten on Saturday after, in order to accommodate those who lately have been doing their shopping during the day, having three to seven days for a week end. A number are also snooping around the development in order to get ideas on home building, wish they'd make up their minds soon.

In the seventh and eighth grades, Betty Jane Housley won on the word "supersede." About twelve people went down on this word.

GOLFERS LOOK FOR DRY GREENS

Although the snow is hardly off the ground, the Plymouth turf lovers are shining up their weapons of war and looking for dry greens and for the golf links to open. Plymouth is rather fortunate in respect to golf because three of its four veterans will be back for the lineup, but about ten or twelve other fellows claim that they are just as good as these, so it looks like tough sledding for those that want to represent the Blue and White on the golf links. Among those coming back are Charles Ball, captain; Edward DePorter and James Williams.

The schedule has almost been completed and although it is a rather tough one, Plymouth should come through with flying colors. Last year the team took second place in the Suburban League, only one-half game behind Wayne who won the championship. It is hoped that the Plymouth golf team will be able to place another trophy in the high school show-case.

Coming Attractions At Penniman-Allen

"THE LAST PARADE"
 The old expression "His face is his fortune" was never more fitting than when applied to Robert Ellis, who depicts the role of Martin, bootlegger, racketeer and gunman, in Columbia's gangland picture, "The Last Parade," which comes to the Penniman-Allen Theatre on April 5th and 6th. Nor was there ever greater proof of Shakespeare's adage "There is no art to read the mind's construction in the face," for the screen has never produced a more sinister character than Robert Ellis, and neither has there ever been bestowed upon any man a more gentle nature.

A strange and composite figure is Ellis. His face radiates hate, murder and ruthlessness, from the snarling, black sockets which are his eyes to the twisted sneer which forms his mouth. Yet in real life Ellis would never dream of even reading the agony columns of the newspaper and the very thought of physical violence has a depressing effect upon him.

He loves silence and the great outdoors. Among his hobbies are: shooting, fishing, and sailing. Mr. Ellis has never visited a night club, never hopes to and will not drink liquor because it is unlawful and he doesn't care for it anyway. Truly an unusual type for a gang chief, yet the force and conviction Ellis places in his underworld characterizations are convincing enough to belie his true character. Although, if Mr. Ellis were as formidable as he looks and acts upon the screen, he no doubt would have been put "on the spot" long since.

The story of "The Last Parade," contains a romance of gangland and the modern racketeer. Jack Holt and Tom Moore are teamed in the featured roles, with Constance Cummings, Gaylord Pendleton, Robert Ellis, Edmund Ross, Earle D. Bunn, Vivi, Jesse De Vorka and Clarence Muse rounding out the cast. Eric C. Kenton directed.

"HONOR AMONG LOVERS"
 Fredric March will present an entirely different screen personality in the new picture in which he and Claudette Colbert are starred.

Credit for the change of character will be due largely to a mustache. In "The Royal Family of Broadway" in which he played the handsome debonair young man whose greatest interest was the stage, March wore a thin straight Barrymore-type mustache. It gave just the necessary touch of self-confidence to the characterization. It denoted the artist beneath. Now he has let it grow. (By way of assurance, both these lip-growths are of his making; they are not of the same root as the Harpo Marx monstrosities. It is slightly bushy now, and covers the whole of his upper lip. It is not neatly cropped, and for that very reason gives March the appearance his new part needs, that of the cultured Yale-graduate stock broker who has so much money and social position that he doesn't need to be precise in his dress if he cares to be comfortable.)

And thus mustached, he is presented in "Honor Among Lovers," at the Penniman-Allen Theatre, April 10th and 11th. Directed by Dorothy Arzner from an Austin Parker story, the plot develops the dramatic romance of a pretty Wall Street brokerage secretary, so much in love with her man that she spurns a more luxurious life less honorably proffered by her employer.

"CIMARRON"
 "While I believe that Edna Ferber's "CIMARRON" affords me the greatest role of my career, I dislike to say so."

HEALTH POSTERS ARE ORIGINAL

Originally has certainly been shown by Miss Kees, 7-A and B hygiene classes in their health posters. Health soldiers, vegetables, milk and sleep stand up so firmly on one. Another large poster shows "Sunshine Children," happy, joyous youngsters playing in a colorful, flower-brazing garden. Even music was not forgotten, for in the "Song of Health," vegetable notes march bravely up the staff. And with swilling bees so much in the air, that theme could not be neglected; so candy and pie are shown weeping, deflated by smiling milk and vegetables.

Ruth Biehy has also made and brought to class a clever little cardboard house with a porch on which are small human figures, and to complement the house and yard, she also made a fenced field containing the animals and a shed.

STUDENTS GIVE MORE PROGRAMS IN DRAMA CLUBS

The system of student government in the drama clubs seems to be working on very well. Many interesting programs have been presented and some of the most interesting were those presented last week. In the Thursday "Masque" a series of short acts was prepared among which was one involving ghosts and spirits and another concerning a family who are paid a visit by President Hoover and Mrs. Hoover. The difficulties encountered during the act make the play very amusing. The program in the Senior Drama Club on Thursday was composed of a short play given by members of the club, and two impromptu acts. On Friday, the "Masque" presented the Jerry Buckley says Richard Dix in speaking of his latest screen portrayal—Yancey Cravat opening Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, April 5th, 6th and 7th at the Penniman-Allen Theatre.

"It is hardly fair to compare a talkie role with a silent one," he explained. "I never worked so hard in my life or enjoyed a role more. I never expect to have a greater part."

"So I prefer to let them stand on the sympathy, glamour, color and mystery of the Edna Ferber hero already enshrined in the hearts of millions of readers."

"In 'CIMARRON' for the first time in my life, I portray a man's gradual deterioration over a period of forty years. I also was given the task of creating their silent merits."

"I have a soft spot in my heart for 'The Christian' and 'The Vanishing American,' my best two characterizations out of fifty silent pictures."

More than six months were spent in transferring the Edna Ferber novel to the screen. A cast of thirty-three players including Irene Dunne, former stage beauty, portray the fascinating characters of the book. Wesley Ruggles directed.

trial. Spot lights were used, and the trial was worked out very cleverly.

CENTRAL GRADE SCHOOL NOTES

In the kindergarten, the children have been shown electric lantern pictures of Little Black Sambo, Eppurimandoo, The Three Bears and other nursery rhymes.
 The children in Mrs. Root's room have been working hard on their penmanship papers so that they will receive plus for good writing. They made some pretty Easter baskets and are hoping that the Easter Bunny will find them. This room has also enjoyed the pictures thrown on the blackboard by the electric slides. Group three is reading in the new Elson Primer. They have been learning about the crow in Nature Study.

Robert Birch has returned from California, and has entered the 1-A division in Miss Mitchell's room. Merle Melow is a new pupil in the 1-A. In language class the children are learning the poem "I Saw a Ship". They are all very interested in their flower gardens which are wooden boxes filled with dirt and in which they have planted seeds. They have been studying the robin in nature study class.

Mrs. Richard visited room 6 one afternoon last week. Jean Hadley from Grand Rapids, has been visiting this room during her spring vacation. The children have been learning songs for the May Festival. Richard Strong received the highest mark in the spelling test last week.

The boys and girls in Miss Fenner's room have been busy studying for the school spelling contest. The fifth graders are making safety first posters. The names of the winners will be announced next week. Eleanor King and Mary Holdsworth received the highest marks on the spelling test last week. Morris Hillier has been visiting this room during the week. Both spelling teams had one hundred per cent scores last Friday.

The fifth graders in Miss Holt's room have begun the study of Europe in geography. The fourth grade language class has been reading stories and then telling them aloud. Four children had one hundred per cent in arithmetic on the test. Mrs. Barrows visited this room last week.

The children in Mrs. Atkinson's room are making and painting maps of Africa. This room won the thrift banner again this week for having eighty-five per cent of the members banking. The 8-A children are learning to diagram in English class.

A CORRECTION

In last week's issue it was stated that Mr. Cable obtained an audition for Maurice Duna and Jean Strong over Station WEXL. The name should have been Mr. Cobb.

GIRL WINS TYPING CONTEST

Recently in a speed test Elizabeth Curro typed sixty-two words a minute with only four errors. This high rate of speed with such a low percentage of errors has not been attained by any typing students of Plymouth High School during the last two years. In fact last year at the district contest, in which ten schools participated, a girl writing fifty-nine words a minute won the amateur contest.

Accurate speeds acquired only thru constant and efficient practice. One needs almost perfect rhythm. Elizabeth placed fifth in the contest she entered last year, but we are looking forward to her bringing home a first place this year.

COAL GAS IS MADE IN LABORATORY

The sixth hour chemistry class conducted an experiment last week Monday, in which coal gas was one of the products. The apparatus was first set up. This consisted of a test tube known as the generator, fitted with a delivery tube to another test tube, known as the condenser, which also had a delivery tube from which the gas could issue forth. The generator was then half filled with particles of bituminous coal. This was then intensely heated, and soon a thick creamy gas appeared in the condenser. This gas cooled in a beaker and a colorless gas issues forth from the delivery tube. Upon the application of a flame this gas burns with a white flame. This experiment showed how coal gas could be made in small quantities.

PASTEUR A MAN OF MANY LIVES!

During a history discussion on modern scientists several days ago, the teacher asked a boy if he had read the life of Louis Pasteur. After hesitating a bit, he answered, "Well, or, anyway I've read one of his lives."
 Art classes are head modeling. Smiling, mischievous, somber and smiling well known faces are pinned up on the bulletin board in Mrs. Brower's room. No, not the faces themselves, but some very good reproductions of them, for now that the poster contest is finished, the art classes are working on head modeling. They have drawn some clever pencil sketches of living models who are otherwise their fellow students. Many different expressions of the same people have been caught by the artful pencils of the drawing people and posted up for the school world to see.

GIRL RESERVES HOLD GENERAL BUSINESS HOUR

It is a different thing to find a novel scheme and program that has not already been used, as the Senior Girl Reserves discovered at their meeting of March 27, when among other things they discussed tentative plans for the Mother-Daughter banquet to be held in May. For almost everything proposed there was the same protest, "Oh, that's been used already."
 This meeting was rather a clean-up of old and new business and in addition to plans for the banquet, the question was again brought up of having tangible rewards of merit besides arm bands for the Junior high school.

girls and rings for the seniors. The proposed silver bracelet with its small triangle was shown and was much admired. It was also proposed to draw up a system of points by which Girl Reserves of the tenth and eleventh grades could earn first a plaque and then a bracelet.

MORE GIRLS WIN SCHOOL LETTERS

Three more girls, Katherine Hill, Zephora Blunk and Elaine Hamilton, have won the coveted right to wear the school letter by gaining the necessary thousand points.

FACULTY TIED WITH SENIORS

The past week has witnessed several sensational games and some very important ones. In the Senior League, the faculty beat the sophomores who were tied for first place. The seniors and then the juniors handed them a flogging which completely took them out of the race. Up to date the seniors and the faculty have yet been unbeaten and it seems as though the championship will be at stake when these two teams will clash. The other senior team is trailing behind with only one, and if they are not beaten, the loss of the two leading teams will probably play them for second place. The freshmen, sophomores and Juniors are all working hard to keep out of the cellar in the league standings.

In the Junior League the leading seventh graders suffered a serious setback by being beaten by one of the weaker eighth grade teams. The loss put an eighth grade team into the lead by virtue of having played more games. It is a very close race and no one will gamble on the outcome of the rest of the schedule. So far every team is determined to win so that it makes keen competition for any team.

SPRING FEVER

Spring has come and as usual "Spring fever" has come with it. Spring fever is a very contagious disease and is hard to cure. In classes everyone looks sleepy and only a few know their lessons. Everyone seems to be gazing out of the windows and yawning. When the end of the eighth hour comes, walking along everyone seems to be feeling better. When the majority of the class is gazing out of the windows the teachers have a hard time trying to teach the class. Once in a while some teacher will get a symptom of spring fever. No matter how much the teachers dread to see the spring fever come, it will come year after year and will continue to come until someone finds a cure for it.

BOYS STILL LEAD

The boys are still leading in the contest held between the seventh grade boys and girls. The boys average was 6.5, while the girls' average was 6.0. Although the boys won only by a few points, they still lead in the contest and that is what counts. It looks as if the girls will have to furnish all the boys with supper. An A counts as four points, a B as three, a C as two, a D as one, and an E as zero. The total points divided by the total marks equals the average.

PRACTICE BEGINS FOR TRACK MEN

During the last week or two several fellows have been working out for track. It is rather early and cold yet for running out-of-doors, but several fellows can be seen making their daily trips around the cinder track. Marvin Bannerman, veteran shot putter and track captain, has been working out indoors, and it is no uncommon thing to see him or a dozen or so other fellows jumping rope or doing aerobatics on the parallel bars or mats. The fellows are beginning to work hard in order to bring track honors to Plymouth this year.

Marvin Bannerman, Harlow Wagenschitz and Charles Ball are the only veteran tracksters coming back, but there is a lot of good material which can be developed and prospects look fairly bright for the Blue and White track team this year.

PLAY TELLS HOW A CITIZEN IS MADE

A lesson in the naturalization of aliens was the theme of a play given by Miss Berg's eighth grade American history class last week in Miss Likely's room. Miss Likely and Mr. Dykehouse were the only guests. The name of the play was "The Naturalization of Tony De Proto, or How Tony De Proto, Allen, Became Anthony D. Pratt, American." There were four scenes, the first in which Tony decides to become a citizen; the second, he takes out his first papers, or "Declaration of Intention"; the third, he takes out second papers or "Petition of Citizen-

TUBERCULOSIS TEST TO BE GIVEN

The assembly was opened with an announcement that within the next three or four months there would be a test to all students, a tuberculin test to determine whether or not students had tuberculous infections. The tests will be followed up with the permission of the parents, by an X-ray to see if the persons actually have tuberculosis, for those with the infection do not necessarily have the disease.

A film was shown which illustrated the test for and discovery of the disease and the treatment which consists mainly of plenty of good food, fresh air and sleep. Mr. Dykehouse then introduced Dr. Seale of the Maybury Sanatorium at Northville, who told something about the disease, its discovery, and cure, and told of the tuberculin test.

The tuberculin is injected into the arm and the presence of a red spot at the point of injection indicates the presence of the infection. His talk was followed by a comic film about a man who dreams of the invasion of his body by the tuberculous germs and who upon waking, begins to take the necessary care of himself to become once more healthy.

It was announced that all remaining Plythean pictures would be taken Wednesday, April 1, that the assembly next week would be on Good Friday, and that players for the golf team were being sought for. Slips were given out to be taken home to the parents to inform them of the tuberculin test to be given.

BUNCO-TEA WAS GREAT SUCCESS

Not only socially but financially as well, the Bunco-Tea party given by the money-making group two of the Senior Girl Reserves on Thursday, March 26, was a great success, for not only did the ladies attending have a good time but the girls also cleared ten dollars and thirty-five cents. This is the first of the four divisions to make any money.

Each girl in the group was responsible for one table, inviting enough ladies to fill it, and then serving them with a luncheon of sandwiches, wafers and tea. Mothers, neighbors, teachers and some alumnae attended the party which was held in Miss Schrader's room from 3:45 to 5:15.

They played bunco until 4:45 when refreshments were served. During the lunch the party was entertained by Leo Riflar and Russell Egloff, the two-man band, by the double quartette singing two numbers, and by Avis Perkins giving two readings.

TRAVEL NOTES

Miss Perkins told the Travel Club about her trip to Florida, which she took last summer in August. She and some friends left Ann Arbor on a Monday morning in an automobile, and arrived in Florida the third day of the trip.

The first night they stayed in the Kentucky Mountains. The towns are small and the homes are little one-story dwellings with no basement, and only one or two rooms. Southern cooking is quite different from our Michigan cooking. In place of toast, hot biscuits were served the travelers for breakfast, and corn bread is substituted for white, which is eaten only on very special occasions down there.

Every day they were in Florida, it rained. The third night they spent in Orlando, and as they entered the city, a pajama parade showing the latest styles and colors for beach wear was in progress. The next day was spent in sight-seeing in and around Orlando, the largest inland city of that state. The woods are very wild and the undergrowth is very thick. It was necessary for them to walk single file because of the thickness of the growth in order to see the largest tree in Florida, a cypress. The sulphur springs were also visited that day. It is shady and cool there, which was quite a relief from the extreme heat of the day.

The next day they journeyed sixty or seventy miles to the Singing Tower which is surrounded by several gates, only one of which is opened. It took two years to complete this tower. There are seven bells in it, the largest weighing twelve tons and the smallest seventeen pounds. No matter how hot the day happens to be, all men are required to wear their coats when they enter the building.

They passed through Palm Beach, West Palm Beach and Miami. The most notable things here are the hotels which are many and huge. Fruit in Florida, like corn in the northern states, is not allowed to be transported from one county to another because of some insect which destroys the fruit as the corn borer does our corn. At Daytona Beach, the architecture is almost all Spanish. On the homeward trip, Miss Perkins and her companions drove through

THE PIGRIM PRINTS

Georgia and the Carolinas to Richmond. The sand in Georgia is red, and is quite a contrast to the green grass. The cotton mills are chiefly in the small towns. They visited Fredericksburg, Mt. Vernon, the White House, the Congressional Library, the Lincoln Memorial, the Washington Monument, and the Arlington National Cemetery. They traveled through Pennsylvania and Ohio and arrived home, having gone through twelve states in twelve days. The Travel Club members enjoyed Miss Perkins' talk very much.

NINETEEN GIRLS GIVEN ARM BANDS

The ceremonial of giving arm bands was carried out in the Intermediate Girl Reserve group last week, March 27, when nineteen girls received their first award of merit. Miss Stille, outerbelt secretary of the Girl Reserves, gave the awards calling each girl in turn and pinning on the bands.

The program began by the girls repeating the code, slogan and purpose and singing some songs. After a short business meeting, Miss Berg read a story, "Growing Toward God," the theme of which is expressed in the lines:
 Our height depends on what we measure by:
 If up from earth or downward from the sky.

Miss Stille then gave out the arm bands, after which the club sang the well-known Girl Reserve song, "In One Fellowship."

JUNIORS WIN BANNER AGAIN

The thrift luncheon seems to waver between Mr. Bentley's group of seniors and Mrs. Dykehouse's group of juniors. Mrs. Dykehouse however gained it again with an average of 91 per cent.

CLUBS VISIT NEWS AND MUSEUM

A trip through the News Building and later one through the Detroit Museum of Arts was the treat afforded various members of the Travel Club, the Pilgrim Prints Staff, and the Plythean Staff last Saturday, March 28. This trip was very interesting and instructive to all who went.

The group left the high school at about eight thirty o'clock and reached the News Building about ten. A guide took them through the different departments. One of the most interesting places was in the printing room. Several of the big presses were in operation, showing the rolls of paper going through the rollers at twenty-five miles an hour to come out all cut and folded. The folded newspapers were carried by belts to the distributing room.

Another equally interesting place was the reference department of the "morning" as it is popularly termed. Here are many clippings and photographs for the use of the reporters. In the next room are filed copies of the News ever since it has been published.

Detroit has one of the best arranged museums in the country. The periods of art in years are arranged in a series of rooms. For instance, it starts with the old art of the Indians and of the South Sea Islanders and takes it through to modern times. To the writer's point of view the best exhibit was that of Egyptian art. Several mummies were in glass cases and in the center of the room was a glass covered table with necklaces and jewelry. There were several scarabs in a case which reminded one of the popular novel "The Scarab Murder Case" by S. S. Van Dine.

SENIOR BIOGRAPHIES

Olive Bowers was born in Ann Arbor. She attended Northville High for her first year and is finishing her last three in Plymouth. She belonged for one year to the Girl Reserves, and is now a member of the Commercial Club and Travel Club. She has a sunny disposition and a smile for every one; her ambition is to become a nurse.

William Bronson, "Bill," Plymouth's city shaker rocking the red lion tie, was born in Detroit. Since the fifth grade he has attended Plymouth schools. Bill is a member of the Hi Y Club and Plythean Staff, and plays basket ball and tennis. He was in the junior and senior plays. Bill's ambition is to become a commercial artist with a Van Dyke beard.

Mildred Burch was born near Plymouth and has gone to school here since the eighth grade. Mildred belongs to the Girl's Glee Club and the Senior Drama Club. Her ambition is to go to college and take up music.

Arvid Burden was born in Plymouth. He has always gone to school here. Arvid is a worthy member of our high school band and is noted for his dependability.

Robert Burley, "Bob," was born in Flint Michigan. He has gone to high school here. Bob is a member of the Varsity Club and plays on the football and base-ball teams.

Winifred Carl, "Winnie," was born in Hoople, North Dakota. She has always gone to school here. Winnie belongs to the Commercial Club and the Plythean staff. Her ambition is to become a dietitian but she should really be a marathon dancer.

No credit? ... or no brains?

"A brilliant man... yet a failure! As he gloomily stared into space, the words of his father returned to his mind..."

"Guard your credit as a sacred trust. Buy only what you can pay for and pay your bills when due. Lack of credit causes more failures than lack of brains!"

Many so-called "brainless" men live in poverty, haunted by the success they could have had if and if and if... Yet the plodding man, careful of his credit standing, becomes the successful man.

You know yourself that nothing gives you quite so much confidence and self-respect as the prompt payment of your bills. And in time of need you do not have to beg for credit... it is always given to you promptly and generously!

After all, it's only a question of fair play. You promise to pay within a certain time. It's up to you to keep that promise or lose the help and confidence of your creditor.

A new helpful booklet relieves fretting about bills and adds to the pleasure of using credit. Send for it... "How to Use Credit to Your Best Advantage."
