

CITY PLANNERS PROVIDE DATA ON BENEFITS

Any Community Is Benefited By Proper Zoning Of Its Business.

As announced in last Friday's issue of the Plymouth Mail, the Citizens Planning and Zoning Committee have examined a City Planning Primer...

Is Your City Selling Its Birthright?

"Although every city is adjusted somewhat to the topography or natural features of the land on which it is built, and to the convenience and needs of its citizens, the inhabitants of most cities heedlessly get themselves into all sorts of unnecessary tangles in their use of land. This happens because to no one is assigned the responsibility of looking around or ahead when a street is extended or cut off, or when blocks are laid out one after another with no space left for parks and playgrounds.

What Is City Planning?

"Good city planning aims to bring about order in the physical development of a city, town or village. It brings the city government and its citizens together in preparing for their own future needs and for the probable requirements of their commerce and industry. A city or town is a place in which to live, to work, and to play, and should be planned systematically with these ends in mind, just as the location of buildings on a factory site is carefully determined.

AUGUST 27 IS PLYMOUTH DAY

Northville-Wayne County Fair Fixes Date In Honor Of Plymouth

Thursday, August 27, has been designated as Plymouth day at the Northville-Wayne County Fair by the fair association of Plymouth's neighboring little city to the north.

It is the intention of the association to make the day this year more of a special occasion than ever before. The Plymouth high school band, which has always been one of the big features of the afternoon program on Plymouth day, will be invited again to participate in the events.

President Nelson Schrader of the association announces that while the fine crop conditions existing present indications are that our displays will rank far ahead of any other year. We have started numerous improvements at the fair ground, some of them made necessary by the construction of the new road for the county park system. This will all be completed before the fair dates, which have been fixed for the last week in August. We want every one in Plymouth to feel that Plymouth day is Plymouth day and we want them to come and enjoy the fair more this year than they have ever before," said Mr. Schrader.

Two Women Cherry Pickers Hurt When Their Ladders Slip

Mrs. John Rattenbury, 336 West Ann Arbor, is slowly recovering at her home from a serious injury to her back received last Friday when she fell from the top of a 16-foot ladder while picking cherries. She was unable to move until Tuesday, when a slight improvement in her condition was noted. It was fortunate that the ladder slipped sideways, which broke the force of the fall to some extent. Attending physicians state that she will be able to be out in the near future.

STRENG HOME ROBBED-THUGS SEEKING CASH

Every Nook and Corner of House is Searched—Loss Goes Over $600.

Plymouth police officers are searching for the thieves who committed the first home robbery that has taken place here in many months when the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Streng on Park Place, was broken into sometime last Friday or Saturday and ransacked.

Apparently the thieves were looking for money because when Mr. and Mrs. Streng returned home they found that every nook and corner of the house had been searched. There was no place that one might hide money in that had not been searched by the robbers.

They did find something like $25 in cash, that had been left in the house. Apparently after deciding there was no big sums of money hidden in the house, the thieves devoted their time to hunting for other valuable articles.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Streng and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Taylor, who reside in the same house, had gone to Bruin lake for over the Fourth. They left Friday, and when they went away the house was carefully locked.

Upon their return home Sunday night shortly before midnight, they discovered that the glass in one of the front doors leading into the house from the porch had been broken. Immediate investigation showed that the house had been robbed, and that the thieves had taken plenty of time in doing their work. A run had been thrown over the broken glass that fell from the door. Drawers that had been removed and searched were carefully returned to their proper places.

Mr. Streng declares there was not a place in the house where money might have been hidden that was not searched.

As it was the thieves found every cent that had been left in the house. They took all the watches of various members of the family as well as the diamond rings belonging to Mrs. Streng and Mrs. Taylor.

Some wearing apparel was also removed. A suit of clothing belonging to Mr. Streng apparently fitted one of the thieves because that was taken. Underclothing that belonged to Mr. Taylor probably fitted another one of the robbers as that is missing. The total amount of the goods stolen will run considerably over $600, states Mr. Streng.

Chief of Police Vaughn Smith found some excellent finger prints and immediately had fingerprint experts of the Detroit police department make photographs of them. Officers hope that through these prints they will be able to trace down the thieves.

Officers are convinced that thieves are carefully watching the homes of people these days. There is every reason to believe that the thieves who robbed the Streng home know they had plenty of time to do the job, because they apparently spent hours in the house.

Postoffice Not To Be Open On Saturday Afternoons In Future

Happy days for Postmaster Bert Giles and his assistants! Kindhearted Uncle Sam wrote Bert a letter the other day and told him that beginning forthwith it would not be necessary to keep the old postoffice open any more on Saturday afternoons.

Uncle Sam said he had figured it out that it wasn't necessary and that Postmaster Giles and his assistants had kept pretty close to the grindstone for sometime, and that he thought it would be perfectly alright with everybody if the postoffice didn't do any business after 12:00 o'clock Saturday.

He did write the postmaster that he thought the lobby of the postoffice might be left open until 5:00 o'clock Saturday afternoons for the lock box patrons and others in case of rain. You can drop letters in the postoffice, too, Saturday afternoons if you desire.

Uncle added a postscript to the letter that he would like to have the Plymouth Mail tell local residents about this new ruling, but he didn't have any money to spend for advertising just now, and it would be perfectly O. K. with him if Postmaster Giles could get it on the first page as a free reader. In which matter Postmaster Giles has been successful.

GOVERNOR TO VISIT SALEM

Will Be Speaker at Church Night On Tuesday evening, July 28th

Governor Wilbur M. Brucker will be the speaker at the mid-summer church night event of the Salem Federated church at Salem according to an announcement just made by Rev. H. H. Halliday of the church.

The governor's visit to Salem on that date is due to the lasting friendship that sprung up between the pastor of the church and the governor while they were in service overseas. Rev. Halliday was the chaplain of the regiment in which Governor Brucker was an officer.

Since their return from the World War their friendship has been an exceedingly close one. Once while serving as attorney general of Michigan, the present governor was a speaker at a Salem church night for Rev. Halliday.

While the dinner will be served at 6:15, the program will not start until 8:15. Rev. Halliday has issued a cordial invitation to every one in Plymouth to be present and hear the Governor speak.

CROWDS WATCH AS BOY DROWNS

Another Detroitier Dies In Phoenix Lake—Calls For Aid Unheeded

As some half hundred bathers stood on the bank watching the paddling of Samuel Gracy and George Trussell, two Detroit boys were trying to swim to the shore when a 15-year-old companion from Detroit, at Phoenix lake Wednesday evening, went unheeded.

Taylor, in trying to swim across the lake at a point near the dam, became exhausted some 200 or 300 feet from shore. His cries for help attracted the attention of the two boys who had come out to swim with him. They reached his side just as he was sinking under the water.

Gracy grabbed his hand and started to swim to the shore with him. Trussell reached the two struggling swimmers and tried to aid. Both Taylor and Gracy sank under the water, and for a brief time it looked as though both of the boys might drown.

As they struggled in the water to save their companion, they called to the crowd on shore to come to their aid, but with only half a hundred good swimmers stood on the bank watching the two boys trying to save their companion, not a one went to their aid until they had swam with their unconscious victim almost to shore.

The boy was under water a part of the time when being brought to shore. Desperate efforts were made to revive him, and it was not until after three hours of efforts that they decided there was no use in trying to revive him. It was after midnight before the body was removed to Detroit.

GIVES PRAISE TO PLYMOUTH POLICE CHIEF

Secretary of State Also Lauds Loyle M. German For Special Work.

The drive instituted by Frank D. Fitzgerald, Michigan's energetic Secretary of State when he took office Jan. 1st, to force truck owners who obtained 1931 license plates on weight slips showing the weight of their trucks under the true weight, and forcing Michigan residents who purchased the cheaper auto tags in Ohio, Ontario, etc., to buy Michigan plates, has resulted in the recovery, for the benefit of the taxpayers of Michigan, of more than $100,000.00.

This splendid achievement of the Fitzgerald administration became known following a conference in Detroit between Mr. Fitzgerald, former state Senator Orville E. Atwood, chief of the Motor Vehicle Division in charge of the 117 branch offices in Michigan; Joseph J. Burman, Manager; Richard Elliott, Chief Investigator, and Roscoe Couling, Chief Assistant Manager of the Detroit Branch. Figures of collections made for the first six months of 1931 by the new Investigating Division of the Detroit Branch directed by Mr. Elliott, former Deputy Commissioner of Public Safety and Arthur Hitchens, now Assistant Chief Investigator and formerly Chief Deputy Sheriff of Wayne County were announced.

No such sum was ever recovered in other years and the results obtained is a fine tribute to the efficient functioning of Mr. Fitzgerald and his officials of the present administration of the Secretary of State's Office.

At the time of making public the report, Mr. Fitzgerald complimented Loyle German, son of Harry German, Mayor of Northville, on the fine work he has done as a member of the Investigating Division. According to Manager Burman, young German who has many friends in Plymouth, who will be pleased to learn of his success is one of the ablest investigators working out of the Detroit Office. Due to the splendid showing Mr. Fitzgerald placed enforcement of the motor vehicle laws in Oakland, Washtenaw, Monroe and St. Clair Counties under the jurisdiction of the Detroit Office.

Following a tour of inspection made by Investigator Loyle German in Plymouth and this vicinity, Mr. Burman congratulated Chief of Police V. M. Smith of Plymouth on his splendid cooperation with officials of the Secretary of State's office. Mr. Burman said the report of his investigators showed that practically all residents of this section are complying with the motor vehicle laws in every respect.

The multi tax law which went into force in the Detroit area on June 3rd has netted the state more than $110,000.00 in revenue from the Detroit area inclusive of June 30th. Fitzgerald announced. Total receipts for auto license plates for the first six months of 1931 for the Detroit area alone amounted to $6,013,248.90.

"Keep up the good work," was Fitzgerald's instructions to Mr. Burman and his staff.

Galin Back From The East, Praises Police Of Connecticut City

Dave Galin, who returned a few days ago from an automobile trip to the east, is enthusiastic about the conduct of police officers of Hartford, Conn.

"Never, in any place I have ever driven through, have I ever witnessed such general courtesy as prevails among the traffic officers of that city. They go out of their way to aid a driver seemingly from outside their state. Information is anxiously given me everything I need to make my way. I feel that they are glad you are visiting their city. This is so much different than you find in most cities where police make you feel that they would like to get a chance to pinch you," stated Mr. Galin.

Not only was he laud in his praise of Hartford police, but he said indications in that part of the country were for better business.

"Especially was this true in Connecticut city. You heard little talk in the east of bad business, and when I did talk with anyone they said everything pointed to a general improvement in conditions. In my own line I was impressed by the fact that prices were much higher than they are here. There were numerous travelers from all states on the highways, and if one is to judge from the license plates seen down there, Michigan provides the biggest number of travelers to that part of the country."

Two Big Barns Burn To Ground

Two large barns on the Albert Richardson farm in Commerce township burned to the ground last Thursday evening entailing a loss that is estimated to reach $12,000. Both Mr. and Mrs. Richardson were away, and their barn was on fire. The fire department of Walled Lake and West Bloomfield responded to the call but the fire was beyond control. As soon as they discovered the fire two sons of the owner and two of the neighbors, Harold Hoelt and Frank Casper, removed a thousand pounds of wool, 100 sheep, a horse and 150 chickens, to safety from one of the barns.

The new home of the Richardsons across the road was not endangered. The fire made a spectacular blaze and attracted large number of motorists to the scene—Milford Times.

Judge Brooks Tells 'Em What's What When Imposing Sentences

Drunken automobile drivers, individuals who become disorderly while drunk and reckless automobile drivers have found out that Justice Ford Brooks doesn't fool when it comes to telling 'em how much it costs when they plead guilty to various offenses in court.

The other evening Chief of Police Vaughn Smith paraded a week's catch before Justice Brooks.

One had his automobile driver's license revoked for six months and was placed on probation for that length of time. Others who merely stepped on the gas while driving through Plymouth business streets a bit harder than they should, paid into the village treasury fines of five dollars and costs of three dollars in each case.

One offender was sent out to the Plymouth work house for sixty days to help Capt. Edward Dennison get settled in his new home. Judge Brooks thought the offender might find a little time out at the farm to juggle cement blocks during his hours of recreation.

The justice reckoned that this gentleman might not have so much joy when he came back to his native haunts and that he might give a bit more thought to what's what in the future, after a vacation at the farm.

COLLECTOR OF RARE BIRDS DIES

Mrs. Nettie Moore Buried in Family Lot—Owned Fine Collection

When Mrs. Nettie Moore, 63 years of age, died last Saturday evening in Harper hospital in Detroit, the career of one of Michigan's best known naturalists came to an end. Mrs. Moore who had spent the greater part of her life in Plymouth, moved to Milford about two months ago to live with an aunt, Mrs. Johnson. From the old family homestead on Starbuck street, avenue just north of the Pere Marquette tracks at the time of Mrs. Moore's removal to Milford, was also taken one of the finest and largest collections of his kind in the country.

Not everyone in Plymouth knew of this rare collection.

Mrs. Moore was taken ill several weeks ago and removed to Detroit. Her condition became critical last week and death followed Saturday evening. The body was brought to the Schrader funeral home in Plymouth, where funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon, burial taking place in the family lot in Riverside. Rev. Walter Nichol officiated.

The collection consists of birds and moths, eggs, not by the hundred but by the thousand, sea shells, galore, Indian relics, animals, posed life-like on pedestals, and an array of curious objects from the far corners of the earth. Above all was the majestic American Bald Eagle, while near him standing like a feathered griffin was the Whooping Crane, one of the rarest birds in the world. There were a pair of Snowy Owls and over in that case were three of the tiniest bits of relics known to man, the hummingbird, so that if it didn't have feathers it would have to be classified with insects or bacteria.

Warblers, a whole mess of them in a case framed in a mass of sea shells. The Golden Plover, nearly extinct except in such museums as this grand one, and an array of curious objects from the far corners of the earth. Dr. Fisher Will Take Vacation

"Persons That Make Ends" will be the subject of Dr. Frederick B. Fisher's sermon at the First Methodist Episcopal Church, Ann Arbor, Sunday morning, July 12. This discussion will complete a series of three on creative personality which have emphasized the need for character in our modern era. The two previous presentations dealt with "Motives That Make Character" and "Minds That Make Greatness."

The man who creates an era is not only a man with an idea, as we have been taught to believe, but he is a man who practicalizes that idea and makes it usable and popularly acceptable. Dr. Fisher holds, Goethe, perhaps the most prodigious mind and personality the world has known with the possible exception of Francis Bacon, originally conceived the whole theory of evolution and even had a few facts to support it. He did not, however, develop his intuitional concept. Two centuries later Darwin took the idea and by painstaking study verified it, demonstrated it and really made an era.

Other great leaders and their contributions will be presented among them Francis Bacon, philosopher and statesman of the seventeenth century, Harriet Beecher Stowe, author and emancipator, David Livingston, missionary and explorer, and Count Leo Tolstoy.

The public is cordially invited to attend this series which begins at 10:45 o'clock Eastern Standard time. The church is located at the corner of State and Washington Streets. This will be Dr. Fisher's last Sunday in the Ann Arbor pulpit until his return from his vacation September 13.

Mrs. Jack Reamer entertained a few little friends at a birthday party Monday, July 6, in honor of her children, Shirley, 7, and Jack, 5, whose birthdays both came on that date.

COUPLE ROBBED AFTER TAKING CASH FROM BANK

Mr. and Mrs. Marian Power Held Up—Officers Find No Clues.

Officers have been working in this vicinity for several days in an effort to find the thieves who held up and robbed Mr. and Mrs. Marian Power on the Eight Mile road, near the Meadowbrook country club a few days ago.

Just how much money the thieves got is not known, but officers state it was a considerable amount. They had gone into Northville and withdrawn from the bank there their funds following the closing of the Lapham bank.

It is apparent that the thieves had watched Mr. and Mrs. Power and knew they had money.

As Mr. and Mrs. Power neared their home which is located at 1065 East Eight Mile road, they were crowded into the side of the highway by three men driving a Dodge coupe bearing an Indiana license plate.

Two of them drew guns and demanded that they turn over their money immediately. Mrs. Power, who had the money in her pocketbook gave it to them.

The robbery took place in broad daylight, shortly after the noon hour. After the thieves had taken the money from Mrs. Power, they speeded east on the Eight Mile road, warning Mr. and Mrs. Power not to follow them.

Mr. and Mrs. Power turned their car around and drove back to Northville, where they reported the robbery to chief of Police William Safford, who immediately called the sheriff's office at Detroit, and also notified the state police.

Bather Drowns At Waterford

Joseph Martin, 28 years of age, residing at 17480 E. Franklin St., Detroit, was the second pro-Fourth water victim in the swimming places around Plymouth. He was drowned late Friday afternoon in the pond at Waterford, just a short distance from the dam while floating about on the inner tube of an automobile.

In some way he slipped from the tube and went down in water that was about six feet deep. Some of his friends, who were in swimming with him, believed that he was taken with cramps as he never came to the top after going down.

His body was quickly recovered but in spite of all the efforts of those present and the work of physicians who were called, he could not be revived.

Mr. Reeder of the gas company, was called and he took the company's pull-motor to the lake, but it was of no assistance as Martin was apparently dead when taken from the water. The body was removed to Detroit.

GOOD JUDGMENT

For any one to try and minimize the seriousness of the economic condition that the country has been passing through during the past year or so would be rank foolishness. Times have been hard, hard for everyone, there is no question about that. But during recent weeks there have been many indications of an upward turn in affairs. Everyone seems to agree that the bottom has been reached. Isn't it true that in business as well as anything else, it is always darkest just before the light begins to break through? Michigan, like all other states, has been way down to the bottom and we believe that it is now on the upgrade with each day looking better and brighter for all of us.

Who can drive out through the country and see the tremendous crops that are now ripening, the fruit trees laden as they have not been before in years, and not believe that even the good Lord is not helping us over the rough spots that we have been traveling?

We can all rejoice at the favorable prospects and we can rejoice, too, that Plymouth has passed through the crisis without a blemish on its name—due entirely to the good judgment of the people who go to make up this community and surrounding country. By displaying this self composure and closing our ears to the wild stories of the excited we have gone over the top and our business has been carried on as usual.

It is indeed, unfortunate for the residents of some communities that have permitted rumors and hearsay to sway their judgment. It will take years to build again the business institutions that have been torn down almost in the twinkling of an eye. Such set-backs that usually follow the closing of a bank cannot be overcome in a few weeks or a few months. It requires years and years of tireless effort to restore conditions to what they were.

Thankful, indeed, can we be. We have gone through it all without loss of our faith in the future, and while others will be forced to spend their time in repairing the damage that has been done, rebuilding old bridges and renewing old hopes, we in Plymouth will be forging ahead, devoting all of our time, all of our energy, all of our thoughts to a success and prosperity that has not been interrupted or clouded by indiscretion in times of doubt and fear.

A BRAINLESS LAW

The other day a Detroit young man was drowned while bathing in Phoenix lake, just to the north of Plymouth. It was dark when the unfortunate accident happened, and as a result it required considerable time in locating his body in the water. Finally it was found and dragged to the shore on a rope tied to the back of a boat. In some way officers have gained the idea that a body cannot be removed from the place where death has taken place unless the county coroner is present and directs the removal of the body.

As a result of this obnoxious law, if such a one exists, the body of this young Detroit boy for considerably over four hours, tied to a rope at the back end of a boat, where hundreds of curious stopped to gaze, waiting for someone from the coroner's office to arrive. A few days later another young man was drowned at Waterford. The wait for the coroner was not quite so long, but it was much longer than decency should permit. We do not mean to criticize the coroner personally for this condition. His duties are many—but it is the system that is all wrong.

If memory serves correctly, at the time this act was passed, it was enacted for the purpose of aiding officers in the solution of crime. As the law has been interpreted by some coroners, it is a measure now used solely for the benefit of a few undertaker friends.

It is a brainless law, and when there exists such a fool statute, police officers have a right to use the police power delegated in them by the position they hold and see to it that no such spectacle is repeated as took place last week whether the county coroner likes it or not. If he kicks too hard, the officer should put him in the cooler for interfering with his work. Plymouth and Northville officers should not again permit bodies to lie in the open for hours awaiting some word from the county coroner for its removal. Do the decent thing, call some undertaker and have the remains taken care of temporarily as they should be.

MERELY A SUGGESTION

The Mail has been greatly surprised as well as pleased with the interest that has been indicated in the publication in last week's issue, of the details of the Fourth of July celebration that took part in this community eighty years ago. It really proved of more interest than had been expected. Possibly this is due to a very great extent to the fact that there are so many families living in and about Plymouth whose ancestors took part and helped arrange that celebration that must have been a famous one in its day.

Next year America is going to honor the memory of George Washington. The celebration will take place during the entire year, and congress has asked each state and each community to in some way commemorate the anniversary of Washington's birth year.

What do you think of the idea of staging in Plymouth on the Fourth of 1932 a celebration just as near like the one held here in 1851, as it is possible to arrange it?

We have the original program. It is easy to picture in our minds what the parade must have been like. It is easy, too, to see the kind of a program that took place down in the "grove" and the return to the "Bowers" after the exercises were over where "such fare as may be provided" would be part of the day's events long to be remembered. Would it not, too, be a most interesting feature to have all taking part in such an event dress just as near as possible as did the men and women who played such an important part in the building of our wonderful little city?

By arranging an event of this nature we could easily work into it such honors to George Washington as our government is asking. And it would be a Fourth celebration so much different than any place in Michigan has had in the last fifty years that it would bring to Plymouth unlimited favorable advertising.

What is your idea? The Mail would be pleased to have you express it—and if we all think that a re-production of the Plymouth Fourth of July celebration of 1851 would be an excellent way to do our part in the great national celebration in honor of The Father Of Our Country, it is not too early to start now on the details.

TRANSPORTATION

A large part of our urban population depends on some form of local transportation to get daily to and from business, schools, shopping centers, places of recreation.

Twenty-five years ago street cars supplied nearly all this transportation. Now the bus, the taxicab and the private automobile are important factors. There is competition for business and there are conflicting demands for space in streets inadequate for modern needs. The result is a widely prevailing condition of impaired service to the public, inability of the carriers to adjust themselves to public needs and even uncertainty as to continuance of service.

Merchants, property owners and the entire public are vitally interested in the adequacy of local transportation, which can be assured only by a sound public attitude and farseeing policies of public regulation.

GRAFT

Graft—The American scourge.

Such it has been called, but we should get some consolation from the knowledge of its geographical and historical extent.

After giving our politicians due credit for originating the pocket veto, the lame duck session, the organized lobby and other governmental institutions, we were nearly ready to bestow figurative laurels on them for accomplishments in the game of graft.

But in a chance historical rambling in the pre-biblical works of Hammurabi, we learned of a long dead Egyptian government agent, who, in collecting wheat taxes, sneaked out one sack for himself out of every six that passed through his hands.

And then we received a report about a governor in distant Korea who was trapped last winter in a similar rice racket.

Even American ingenuity, it appears, has only been able to exalt and add ramifications to this ancient custom in human civilization.

PUBLIC MONEY

What is today's situation in public finance? Public expenditures increasing more rapidly than wealth. Reduced income from which to pay higher taxes. Alarming increases in tax delinquencies. Tranquil taxpayers silent while new taxes further handicap them. Communities defaulting on their bonds. The projection of new public works that call for more bonds. Widespread introduction of new governmental functions and the extension of old.

What constructive force can business exert to cope with such conditions, now reaching a critical stage in many respects?

Business agencies are working earnestly to meet these problems as they command attention in the nation and in their respective states and communities. What are the elements of strength and weakness in their efforts? Upon what approach can reliance be placed? Contracting the scope of government? Shifting present taxes to other shoulders? Spending less, and spending more wisely? What?

SAVE THE CROW

We read the item in many of our state papers that there is no bounty paid on crows: We hope there never will be a bounty paid on those numerous black fellows but instead a law be passed that will protect them. There is a constant howl going up that they destroy crops and animal and bird life but take the crow away from our farms and we can imagine what worms and bugs they destroy and live mostly on, would do to wreck farm crops. Some day folks are going to understand just what value the crow is to our country and then we'll awake to the fact that every crow we killed robbed us of that much farm protection. All the corn that a crow pulls up after the farmer has planted it is not a drop in the bucket to the service they render in killing the cut worms and other worms and bugs and vermin that destroy crops, but still the folks don't see him picking up a living that way. If they see him in the fields he is of course eating something the farmer has planted or is growing.—Al Webber in The Cheboygan Observer.

BING!

Editor H. L. Izor of the Durand Express suggests two governors for Michigan: one to do the hard boiled role the other to attend to the social and oratorical side of the job. Izor suggests Groesbeck and Brucker for these respective roles and perhaps you can figure out how the Durand scribe cast these two personalities in suggested executive office chances from this concluding paragraph in Mr. Izor's comment:

There is one thing sure, and that is that the state of Michigan isn't going to talk itself out of existing conditions.

The Izor suggestion recalled a personal letter we received (April 28, to be exact) along the same line. The correspondent was wondering how public men can find time to do their best work and keep constantly on the move. But let the correspondent—and in passing he is a good friend of Governor Brucker—state his case:

Friday, April 17th, our idealistic young governor welcomed beauty queens at his office at 11:00 a. m., flew to Detroit to attend the air show; flew back to Howell to speak at the dedication of the new sanatorium wing; flew back to Detroit in the evening to attend a banquet; motored to Pontiac to another banquet—all after 11:00 a. m. and while the legislature was struggling with legislation to relieve Michigan's financial plight.

Good God, what are we electing in this day and age—a Grand and Glorious Exhibit A for the peons and the proletariat to gaze upon in wonder—that, or have we earnestly hoped for a capable, honest and efficient executive who will possess sufficient leadership to advise and guide those representative citizens known as the Legislature (and they are representative) in solving pressing problems?

In this criticism I make no claims to wisdom nor any suggestions of solutions—merely that men cannot, regardless of their ability, court the plaudits of the thousands and at the same time remain in their offices and give proper attention to the business at hand.—Muri DeFoe in The Charlotte Republican-Tribune.

In a recent address Myles F. Gray, clerk of the House of Representatives, advocated the abolishing of the state administrative board. When this act was passed it created a one-man government, notwithstanding the fact named seven state officers as members of this organization—but it gave the Governor an absolute power. This was changed at the commencement of the Green administration so that now a majority of the board acts instead of the Governor. Now, as we see it, the real danger is not in the board, but in the legislature, in passing bills, and then letting this board decide just what shall be done with them. That is, most of the appropriation bills are passed so that the administration board can control them. We believe that this has created an opportunity for the legislature to pass the buck, and put the responsibility for the amount of the state appropriations onto the Governor and this board, when the legislature should be held strictly accountable in this matter. We still believe in the Constitution, and that the most successful administration is the one in which each department, executive, legislative, and judicial, all function properly. This trying to shift responsibility is doing more harm and costing the taxpayers more money than any other one thing.—Hiram Johnson in The Saranac Advertiser.

Nethem Can't Be Stopped, Win Two

July Fourth, Nethem stopped Helms & Lilly of Royal Oak's winning streak of ten straight games, when Gale held the boys at his mercy by letting them down with five hits in seven innings.

Pete was the hitting star of the game when he got three hits out of three trips to the plate. Zielasko made the fielding feature catch of the game when he ran into center field and caught a fly in the fourth inning then doubled off Hochk off of second.

Sunday, July fifth, Nethem defeated Mack Cartage of Detroit, to win their tenth game of the season, while losing five, when Horvath got thirteen on strikes and most of them in the pinches.

Nethem jumped into the lead in the second inning, when Joe Schomberger was safe when Southerlander threw the ball poorly to first base, then H. Horvath walked and T. Levandowski singled to center filling the bases with no one out. Then Pete struck out, but Zielasko singled to center scoring Schomberger and H. Horvath, and T. Levandowski pulling up at third base, then W. Horvath tied to left, and when Langer threw past first base T. Levandowski scored.

Nethem scored the final run in the sixth inning when R. Levandowski led off with a single and went to second while Langer threw past first base. He went to third on a pass ball and scored on H. Horvath's hit to left center.

Mack Cartage failed to score until the eighth inning when T. Brooks led off with a base on balls and Vaughn singled, then Murray bled out but R. Langer and Hillinger singled to left center scoring Brooks and Vaughn, but were left when Brooks fanned out and L. Blanc hit out to first. And in the ninth Vaughn and Murray struck out with runners on third and second, when a hit would have tied the score.

John Schomberger and H. Horvath were the hitting stars of the game, each getting two hits out of three trips to the plate. One of the best catches ever made in center field was made in the fifth inning when T. Brooks hit a ball that looked like a sure triple, but Schmitz made the catch with his back to the infield and while running at a great speed he caught the ball over his head.

In this game Nethem had three sets of brothers playing the infield position, while the outfield was left brotherless for the first time in three years.

Next Sunday, July 12th, Northville will be the local attraction at Rossseau Park, Newburg. Don't forget the time of the game, 3:00 p. m.

America Once Invaded England

In the little parish of Kirkbean in Scotland, one of America's greatest heroes was born July 8, 1747. His family name was Paul and he was christened John. Later in life he was to add Jones to his name and become famous as a commander in the Continental navy whose brilliant achievements on the sea rivalled those of George Washington on the land.

The 184th anniversary of John Paul Jones' birthday is marked as a date of significance to all Americans by the Division of Information and Publication of the United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission. Every citizen of the United States has reason to be grateful for the services of the first great American sea fighter. Young John Paul went to sea when he was but 12 years old, and at the age of 21 he was captain of a trader.

In 1773 he came to America and settled on his brother's plantation in Virginia which he had inherited upon the death of the latter. It was here that he first used the name Jones.

When the break between England and her colonies widened into actual warfare, Jones applied to Congress for a naval commission which was granted in December 1775. That month, as a lieutenant in the new Continental Navy, he is said to have hoisted with his own hands the first naval flag of an American squadron. This was the well known yellow silk banner with the rattlesnake and the warning "Don't tread on me!"

The young officer soon was given an independent commission in command of the little ship "Providence." With a crew of but seventy men and a dozen four-pound guns, Jones became a terror to British shipping, destroying a million dollars' worth of enemy property. Later, in the "Alfred," he continued his work, capturing valuable munitions intended for Burgoyne.

He was commissioned captain October 10, 1776, and June 14, 1776 was ordered to the "Ranger." On this ship, July 4, he raised the first stars and stripes that ever flew from an American warship. In the "Ranger" he carried to France the news of Burgoyne's surrender and received the first salute ever given the United States flag by a foreign fleet.

From France Jones sailed to the north coast of England where he landed at Whitehaven, spiked the English guns, burned some shipping and thoroughly alarmed the country. This was the only invasion of British territory by an American force during the Revolutionary War.

The most famous battle in which he was engaged was that which took place September 23, 1779, with the British man of war "Serapis" off Flamborough Head. At that time Jones was in command of an ancient ship which he had refitted in France and named "Bon Homme Richard" in honor of Benjamin Franklin. Despite the great odds against him the intrepid American unhesitatingly engaged the far superior enemy in a battle which has gone down in history as one of the greatest sea fights of all time. The rotten sides of the American ship were almost completely shot away when the English commander called on Jones to surrender. In reply he received the terse statement, "I have not begun to fight." Utterly dismayed at such courage, the Englishman struck his colors. Jones transferred his crew to the "Serapis" and the "Bon Homme Richard," completely shattered, sank to her glorious grave. After the Revolution John Paul Jones entered the service of Catherine of Russia where he again revealed his remarkable courage and ability as a sea fighter. Being the victim of intrigues by jealous Russian officers, Jones left that country and went to France, where he died July 18, 1792. In 1903 his body was located and identified by the American ambassador to France. It was brought to this country and interred with full honors at the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis.

Rocks Take The Todds For Ride

The Rocks took Todd's down the line Tuesday night, when they defeated them by the score of 12 to 7.

The Rocks started in by scoring two runs in the first, three in the third, four in the fifth and three in the sixth. Todd's scored five runs in the second to take the lead for a short time, and failed to score again until the ninth, when they scored two more, which was five short of the Rocks' total.

Battenbury, the Rocks' pitcher, allowed only nine hits while his teammates were collecting twenty-one.

Walker, pitcher for Todd's, was knocked out of the box in the fifth inning, when the Rocks scored four runs. Bob Todd replaced him, but he also failed to stop the Rocks' hitting.

Hanson, Todd's left fielder, tried to catch a fly on the spot of his finger, and had to quit playing for the evening with a badly crippled finger.

Todd's moved down to third place by losing this game.

Next week Friday the Rocks play the Templers, who have only lost one game this season. This should be one of the best games of the season because the Rocks will be in their fighting every second.

Numerous complaints have been made of boys and others stealing cherries and vegetables from gardens about town. Some residents have really experienced severe losses. The thefts, most of them are regarded as more or less pranks of children who do not fully realize the seriousness of the thefts. It is urged by officials that children be warned not to take fruit or vegetables from gardens that do not belong to their parents.

Christian Science Notes

"God" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Christian Science Churches on Sunday, July 5. Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "Who shall not fear thee, O Lord, and glorify thy name? For thou only are holy: for all nations shall come and worship before thee, for thy judgments are made manifest" (Rev. 15:4).
The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "To grasp the reality and order of being in its Science, you must begin by reckoning God as the divine Principle of all that really is. Spirit, Life, Truth, Love, combine as one—and are the Spiritlike names for God. All substance, intelligence, wisdom, being, immortality, cause and effect belong to God" (p. 275).

CATHOLIC NOTES

Next Sunday being Holy Name Sunday, all the men of the parish are to receive Holy Communion. Confessions will be heard Saturday evening at 7:30 p. m., until all are heard. The boys will play ball next Sunday at Newburg, at 3:00 o'clock.
Don't forget to pray for your pastor, Father Lefevre.

EPISCOPAL NOTES

It was very gratifying last Sunday to see a good congregation at our morning service, in spite of the holiday spirit that was then prevailing. We do need worship and communion just as much as we need recreation and food. A regularly in prayer and church attendance is a spiritual asset to any man's life. Why not go to church every Sunday?
A number of young people from the church-school attended church last Sunday. Why not more? We especially urge parents to come with their children. Religion should be a family affair, and we cannot begin too early!

St. Peter's-Lutheran

A formal resolution of gratitude was unanimously adopted by the Michigan Pastoral Conference in its session on Thursday, expressing the heartfelt thanks of all the members of the conference to the congregation of St. Peter's, the committees who had the arrangements for the honoring, serving and entertaining of the pastors in bands, as well as to those local merchants who so liberally cooperated to make the meeting, in the opinion of the pastors, "the perfect conference" and that despite the very hot weather which held the city in its clutches during those three days, the picnic at Riverside, the program at the Starkweather school, and the tour out to the Maybury Sanatorium at Northville were features of the meeting that met with the heartiest approval of all our visitors. The beauty of the city in which we live was repeatedly commented upon. In general, the conference was all that we wanted it to be and we look back to the days with happy recollection.

As one car might have trouble and forced to lag.
Each auto was bedecked with flag. Had gone seven miles when ordered to halt.
Tho not one of the drivers were at fault.
For Emma's tire was as flat as a pancake.
And all felt sorry for her sake.
After an accumulation of grease (even with care)
Finally succeeded in putting on the "spare".
Would not be advisable an "extra" to be without.
As might easily have another "blow out".
So stopped at New Hudson, also Brighton.
But not permitted our burden to lighten.
As no one care to work at that early hour.
So listened on as threatened to shower.
And so jubilant we felt like dancing When found a willing workman on reaching Lansing.
As forced to wait, that it was but meet At this time, our breakfast to eat.
After plenty of coffee, felt fortified for the day.
And again ventured on our way.
The heat could not have been "intense".
Naturally the wax melted in condenser, Causing the gas to refuse to feed Therefore another car unable to take the lead.
To be pushed along was great fun And reached Garage after quite a run. Now hoped there would be no more delay.
But Mrs. Baker almost had a fine to pay.
Traffic Cop censured her for not beading.
And actually declared had been speeding.
After some diplomatic evasion.
With an added bit of persuasion.
He allowed us onward to proceed With the warning that in future must take heed.
Declared village traffic rules printed on side walk.
But easily missed by a lot of women, full of "talk".
"Old Man Trouble" seemed to be our falling.
But from here on, was clear sailing, And no one was gloomy or sad.
On reaching Fremont was especially glad.
Where were warmly greeted by Mrs. Brooks.
Washed, rested and hunted shady nooks.
For her beautiful spacious home With its flower gardens, was an ideal place to roam.
Next in order was to break our fast When spread before us a bountiful repast.
The hot day for cool drinks was auspicious.
And to us, surely tasted delicious.
For our business meeting was now time.
Then a visit to the stores was in line. After another chat with our friend Pound was time our homeward way to wind.
Some one said we must not back Until pictures were taken with kodak. Tendering to Mrs. B. and daughter thanks that were hearty, Made preparations to break up the party.
Again started on our ride of two hundred mile, Stopping enroute to rest a while. Good time, no mishaps on the way, And one and all, declared had a wonderful day.

history of the world. Not only in the food industry has this been true, but what is more important, in the home. The homemaker today fully realizes the vital necessity for properly safeguarding the family food supply. This was brought about mainly by the development of the electric refrigerator and the tremendous amount of food preservation educational activity that accompanied it. In this respect Frigidaire has been the leading pioneer. "Featuring our jubilee will be various types of demonstrations of the latest household electric refrigerators—the new Frigidaire with lifetime porcelain-on-steel finishes. GREEN, PRIVATE CITIZEN, IS HAPPIEST IN HIS GARDEN, NEWSWRITER DISCOVERS FOLLOWING VISIT TO HIS HOME IN IONIA

How Many columns have been written about Fred W. Green, the candidate? How many columns have appeared in print about his activities as mayor of Ionia and as governor of Michigan, and how little is known of Fred Green, the private citizen?

That brought out a vivid recollection. Given permission to shoot an elk on Grand Island, the governor smiled as he learned after the killing that he had selected the largest animal on the island.

State Hit Hard By Forest Fires

More than six times as many acres have been burned over by forest fires in Michigan so far this year as were reported for the same period in 1930, the Division of Field Operations of the Department of Conservation reported recently.

According to the report, 165,239 acres have been burned over since April 8 compared with 25,723 acres that had been burned over June 25, 1930.

The increase in the number of fires reported this year as compared with the same period for 1930 was not in proportion to the number of acres burned over, indicating a greater average of acres burned over per fire this season.

The Division reported recently 1,778 fires occurring since April 1. For the same period in 1930, the figure was 787 fires and the lower peninsula suffered 1,191 fires so far this year. Last season at this time it was 407 fires for the upper peninsula and 675 acres for the lower peninsula.

The Upper Peninsula has received the brunt of the dry weather. Of the 165,239 acres burned over this year, 104,537 were in the upper peninsula and 61,302 acres in the lower peninsula.

Due to heavy rains during the month of June the fire hazard situation is now about "normal." It was stated, "Most of the fires reported this season occurred from April 14 to May 10. Since that time the number of fires and the acres burned over has dropped materially."

Dickinson and Iron Counties, where early fires destroyed one village and did considerable damage to second growth timber, report the largest number of fires for the state. Dickinson had 103 fires and Iron 110. Lapeer County, which suffered heavy losses in 1930 had but 11 fires.

The wet weather during June gave forest fire wardens an opportunity to build miles of new fire lines and to clean out lines built in previous years, giving more protection against the outbreak of fires that are expected during July, August and September.

Forest fires, reported by counties so far this season are as follows:

UPPER PENINSULA—Alcona 17, Baraga 56, Chippewa 27, Delta 74, Dickinson 109, Gogebic 41, Houghton 47, Iron 110, Keweenaw 2, Lake 11, Mackinac 78, Marquette 74, Menominee 79, Ontonagon 27, Schoolcraft 34. Total for upper peninsula 787.

LOWER PENINSULA—Alcona 22, Alpena 32, Antrim 28, Arenac 71, Bay 32, Benzie 9, Charlevoix 7, Cheboygan 26, Clare 49, Crawford 10, Emmet 12, Gr. Traverse 13, Gladwin 3, Gladwin 81, Iosco 35, Isabella 34, Kalamazoo 10, Kent 5, Lake 74, Leelanau 5, Mason 10, Mecosta 18, Montcalm 6, Montmorency 32, Missaukee 6, Manistee 23, Midland 101, Muskegon 47, Newaygo 49, Oceana 14, Ogemaw 35, Ottawa 5, Oshtemo 6, Oscoda 17, Otsego 11, Presque Isle 17, Roscommon 19, Wexford 18, Saginaw 13. Total for lower peninsula, 991.

Total for state, 1,778.

Sprays Profit Potato Growers

The proper spraying or dusting of potatoes to combat insects and diseases will increase the yields of U. S. No. 1 tubers enough to pay a good profit on the cost of time and materials used in protecting the crop, according to the farm crops department of Michigan State College.

The basic spray used in Michigan potato fields is Bordeaux mixture which is made by combining copper sulphate, lime, and water. Either stone lime or chemical hydrated lime can be used. The lime commonly sold as agricultural hydrated lime is unsatisfactory for use in the spray.

Four pounds of stone lime or six pounds of hydrated lime, four pounds of copper sulphate, and 50 gallons of water are used to make the spray. Three or four pounds of calcium arsenate or five to six pounds of arsenate of lead are added to 100 gallons of the Bordeaux mixture which is used for the first two or three spray applications.

The Bordeaux mixture will control flea beetles, leaf hoppers, and early and late blight. The arsenicals kill any chewing insects, such as common potato bugs, which may be working on the vines.

The first spray should be applied when the vines are from four to six inches high and subsequent applications should be made as frequently as insect attacks and weather conditions require. Five applications made from 10 to 14 days apart are usually needed. The certified seed potato growers normally spray at least seven times.

Yield tests made at the College indicate that an increase of 10 bushels of No. 1 potatoes per acre is the average profit secured from the use of sprays. There is an added yield of potatoes secured even when insects and plant diseases are not prevalent. The Bordeaux protects the vines in periods of hot dry weather.

Farmers who grow only a few acres can secure adequate spraying equipment by cooperating with neighbors in the purchase of sprayers. A power sprayer which applies the spray so that it strikes both sides of the potato leaves is required. Either traction or motor driven sprayers are satisfactory.

Dusts instead of sprays also give satisfactory control of insects and diseases, but the College experiments indicate that the increase in yields is not as great with the dusts as with the sprays. The grower with only a few acres can secure hand dusters that do good work and less time is needed to apply the dusts.

The dusts can be purchased ready mixed or the grower can buy monohydrated copper and hydrated lime and mix them in the proportion of two pounds of copper to eight pounds of hydrated lime. From one to one and one-half pounds of calcium arsenate should be added to each 10 pounds of the copper-lime mixture. The arsenate can be left out of the later applications. An acre of potatoes will require 25 pounds of dust for each application.

Coming Attractions At Penniman-Allen

"SEED"
Peggy Carter, played by Lois Wilson, is the young mother in "SEED"—the picture that is a challenge to women in love. She finds her entire time occupied by her five children so that she has little leisure to sympathize with her husband's ambition to be a writer. Therefore, when Mildred Bronson (Genevieve Tobin) shows interest in her husband and his work, Peggy finds she cannot compete with the lure of this husband-stealer. (John Boles plays the husband.) Peggy believes that her husband will continue to be faithful to her but finds that the affair is getting to be more than an "infatuation." Mildred's youth and beauty seem irresistible to the husband, Bart. What should Peggy do? Leave the affair run its natural course? Widen the rift by nagging Bart? Confront the other woman and have a showdown?

"EVERYTHING'S ROSIE"
Romance, as it lives and flourishes in the grimy sawdust of side shows—in the patched, poverty ridden interior of a medicine man's home on wheels!

And laughs as they come in the supreme essence of humor—sublime laughs from sheer ridiculousness—booming laughs from hilarious situations!

That, in spirit, is Radio Pictures' "Everything's Rosie," the feature picture at the Penniman Allen Theatre, Saturday, July 18.

Woolsey joins to far higher comedy in this production even than he did with Bert Wheeler in their string of successes, "The Cuckoo," "Half Shot at Sunrise," "Hook, Line and Sinker," and "Cracked Nuts."

As the faker who sells "Dreko" which cures everything from love to rheumatism; as the petty crook with the great heart who adopts a helpless, abused waif and raises her to a creature of grace and beauty; as the auctioneer who sells "Big Bens" for "27 Jewel Swiss Movements," Woolsey spills wisecracks with more than his accustomed speed, yet finds opportunity to give some excellent sympathetic acting that leads a depth of pathos as effective as it is surprising.

Radio Pictures has found a new Robert Woolsey in this production, one whose fame should exceed that of the former Woolsey.

The excellent cast includes Anita Louise, Johnny Darrow, Florence Robert and Alfred P. James.

Rainfall Above Average in June

A summary of weather conditions for this part of Michigan during June was compiled a few days ago by Dewey A. Seeley, meteorologist at the U. S. weather bureau, East Lansing. His report follows:

"June was warm with slightly more rain than normal. Temperatures were especially high during the last ten days with reads of 90 degrees and higher on four dates, the highest being 93 degrees on the 25th. The weather was coolest during the first nine days, with the minimum for the month 41 degrees on the 9th. The month averaged 1.6 degrees per day above normal.

"Most of the month's rainfall fell during the first and last weeks, only light showers being recorded during the middle portion of the month. The total was 3.73 inches which is 0.22 inches above normal. The rainfall was nearly all in connection with thunderstorms which were quite local. Nearby sections reported much less rain on some days and much more on others than was registered at the weather bureau office. For example, on the 28th a rainfall of 0.58 inches was registered at East Lansing while 1.84 inches was reported in the city of Lansing and 2.80 inches at Dimondale, about five miles southwest of Lansing. The rainfall for the year 1931 to date is still deficient. The total amount which fell during the six months was 13.74 which is 1.84 less than normal. Since May 1, however, the rainfall has been one-half inch more than usually falls during the two months, May and June.

"The most unusual weather phenomena during the month occurred on the 26th when a "line squall" passed over this section. This was a heavy black cloud extending from west-southwest to east-northeast. From reports received this cloud swept southward over nearly the entire state and was so dense that it caused almost night time darkness for a few minutes from 9:00 to 9:15 a. m. High wind reaching 38 miles per hour from the northwest was registered at 9:06 a. m. Heavy rain fell for a few minutes in connection with the storm.

"The weather was very favorable for crops in general. At the close of the month all were in good to excellent condition and were making rapid growth due to the warm weather and abundant rainfall. Corn especially was thriving. Wheat, was nearly ready to harvest and oats and barley were beginning to turn. Fruit prospects were very promising."

Federal Government Aids In Fish Control

Michigan's black bass regulations have been given "teeth" through a Federal law regulating the interstate shipment of this species, the Fish Division of the Conservation Department has been notified.

Under the new federal regulation, large and small mouth black bass cannot be shipped out of the state if they have been caught, sold or transported contrary to the existing state law; thus a violation of the federal law is predicated on a violation of the state law. The federal law requires that any package or container containing such black bass transported interstate shall be clearly and conspicuously marked on the outside the name "black bass," and accurate statement of the number of bass contained, and the names and addresses of the shipper and consignee.

The United States Bureau of Fisheries, enforcing agency of the new law solicits the cooperation of the boat and line fishermen in upholding the law. Michigan statutes prohibit the shipment or transportation outside the state of black bass, except non-resident persons, under the provisions of his fishing license, may carry as open hand baggage, one day's legal catch of five large or small mouth black bass.

Postoffice To Have State Fair Exhibit

The great part that the parcel post plays in the commercial life of the nation, especially in the prompt and safe shipment of farm products, will be illustrated by interesting displays and educational talks planned by Postmaster Charles C. Kellogg of Detroit, as a feature of a postoffice exhibit at the Michigan State Fair and Exposition, Sept. 6 to 12.

Postal experts will emphasize the value of proper containers designed specially for the transportation of agricultural commodities. In conducting the public behind the scenes of the postoffice department fair visitors will see how stamps are canceled by machines of great rapidity and will obtain an insight into other modern methods of expediting the nation's mail.

An interesting collection of many odd pieces of mail which have finally found their way to the Dead Letter Office in Washington and which have never before been placed on public view also will be exhibited, provided that Kellogg prevails upon department authorities to consent to their display at the State Fair.

Preparations for the industrial exposition at the fair are taking shape in a most energetic manner, according to Harry A. McDonald, member of the board of managers and chairman of the advisory committee of 14 appointed by Gov. Wilber M. Brucker. In addition to presenting for the first time a picture of the state's leading industrial products in the making, other special events are expected to draw record crowds.

In anticipation of the increased attendance steps have been taken to obviate traffic congestion at this year's fair through the speeding of the Woodward Ave. widening in the vicinity of the fair grounds and greater parking facilities.

Rosedale Gardens.

Board, July 13, 8:00 p. m. meeting, that is School District No. 6, Livonia Township (not carpenters boards) for the annual affair of reports, etc., and the election of School District Officers. The latter most important, as it is understood several will seek nominations to fill two ex-officio seats, I. Melissa LeRoy Snell and Chas. A. (Bud) Schaffer, Esq., who, it is said will be renominated, and stand a "good show" to be succeeding themselves. Rose Gardentite told us that Dale told her that Shady Elm told him that a little bird whispered Mrs. Erie Burton is also among the "running," the 13th instant at 8:00 P. M., Rosedale Gardens standard time. It is pointed out by the observer that, despite "hard times" and the weather, that the District 6 is in strong financial shape, and the present Board has done many things that are commendable. Don't forget to come and vote.

Weeds
south of U. S.-12 have been controlled by the Land Company grasscutters, our vacant lots having a pleasing appearance. Whilst north side of Plymouth Road, the nice rains and nice warm (nearly hot) sunshine have given the weeds the thickest and tallest growth in over three years. The Wayne County Cutters have cut back a few feet on the shoulder of the north side, our boys have made almost a law for forty feet on the south side to the sidewalk and all vacant lots south to Chicago Blvd. where the farms and pastures begin.

Vacationing
away on "trips" are the Buells, Sheas and Dunlops of Blackburn Avenue, Jimmie Martin of York Ave. is out west. Mrs. Dunlop and two children up to almost northern Canada.

Brickteals
Cousin Don Parks, et al, have dropped down one on Blackburn and are doing up the Durfee-Vashold house. Other artisans, Uncle Robert Wilson, Cousin Leo and Brother Day are building garages over cement squares (18x21) that Cousin Silvio has laid out on the Russell, E. G. Brown lots. Then Cousin Silvio is returning to place driveway in several besides the above annumeration.

Roses
Climbing and rambler, are out in all their glory, about, here, there and everywhere. Those which have attained several years growth are all color and many have reached lengths of from ten to the ones on the Peters fence) to about fifty feet or more, and the Weinerts famous climbing rose is still climbing about the front of the house, the longest, or should we say tallest shoot is under the eaves, and "just loaded" with blooms. The observer also noticed some of the lady gardenites gathering vegetables from their very own patches. Aint that the nicest things, beans and greens all one's own.

Fourth-Fifth
for the double day holiday all Gardentites celebrated the Nation's Birthday. City folks also celebrated by passing us by east and west. Then Sundee Nite most all tried to return to the village in the few hours of early eve. Gardentites celebrated quietly and peacefully. None dead, none hurt, none kilt. Visiting many, entertaining—many also. The most glorious Fourth weather 'n' everything, and came the rain late Sundee post meridian.

Shrubs
recently planted, are being carefully cultivated by Supt. Alfred H. and the Land Co. boys. Net result is that many are now blooming, which is "unusual," it is said, for dormant plantings so to do.

Welcome
to the community are the Wm. J. Sturgis family, who have taken up abode in the Walter Palmer bungalow at 9623 Blackburn Avenue (midst the trees). Mr. Sturgis is an auto dealer in business at Plymouth.

Gene
but not forgotten, are the Lovales of Arden Avenue and the Bryants of Berwick Avenue. The Twiddys have decided to remain in D. C. where Brother Dan is working for our Uncle Sam of U. S. A. fame. Dan is hard at work preparing plans for big projects that the Departments are preparing to reevaluate the repression (pologies to Andrew Hog Brown) and thereby give many work.
