Labor Day celebrations, like all other celebrations, bring pleasure to many, troubles to others and as a result Justice Ford Brooks had plenty to do over the week end.

HORSE FALLS, BOY INJURED

Joseph Charipar, 18 years old son of Mrs. Gladys Charipar of Detroit, was frightfully injured late Tuesday afternoon when riding a horse he was riding on the Horton farm west of Plymouth.

He was riding along the road with Hugh Horton when his horse, which was slightly back of Hugh's, apparently stepped on a stone and slipped. The horse fell and Joseph, caught in his saddle, was dragged in considerable distance on his face as the horse rolled along the ground.

Kiwanians Are Told How Finger Prints Help Solve Crimes

The Wednesday noon meeting of the Kiwanis club, under the direction of Steve Wald proved one of the most interesting that the club has had in a long time. Mr. Wald had as his guest, Sgt. J. Dwyer of the Detroit Police Department.

In his interesting talk to the club Sgt. Dwyer traced the history of finger printing and told of many criminal cases that had been solved by the print method. He also had pictures of some of the most important cases in Detroit that had been given to him to solve in the last three or four years that he passed around for club members to view.

He equated his talk by taking fingerprints of several club members and then having the same group place their prints on a blank card and mark them so they would recognize them after he had identified them. Out of three trials he was able to make three identifications within a minute each.

FIRST PRIZES ARE AWARDED THE BARTELS

Plymouth Grown Flowers Win Honors At Michigan State Fair

Products from one of Plymouth's vast commercial floral gardens have for the second time in two years been awarded first prizes for the largest and best displays of dahlias and gladioli at the Michigan State Fair, Judges Monday morning placed on the exhibits of William Bartel and Sons the blue ribbons denoting their supremacy of the display at the fair.

Last year was the first time these growers of dahlias and gladioli had ever entered an exhibit at the state fair. It was somewhat of a surprise to them when their entry was awarded first honors, although they felt that their flowers were as good as any displayed at the show.

This year these well known growers followed the same practice of last year, and took from their gardens some of their regular stock. Although there were a large number of contestants and the quality of the display shows was of an exceedingly high average, their display for the fair was by far the best and it did not take the judges long to make their decision.

Mr. Bartel and Sons are especially proud of their floral gardens located two miles east of Plymouth on the Plymouth road. They are pleased to show visitors their hundreds of varieties of dahlias and gladioli, two flowers in which they have specialized for a number of years. Just at present there are several hundreds of different varieties in bloom, presenting a most beautiful sight.

Plymouth School Enrollment Jumps to Over 1300

Indicating a consistent and steady growth of Plymouth as well as the high standing that the public schools of this place are held in, figures released by school officials yesterday show that for the first time since the beginning of Plymouth, the school enrollment has gone over the 1300 mark.

The total enrollment for the past three years for the Plymouth schools follows: 1929-1930: 1234; 1930-1931: 1324.

All teachers are present and the school is organized and running as though it had been going for a month.

Prospects for athletics, debate, oratory, music and dramatics as well as regular scholastic work never looked brighter. If it is not a banner year for Plymouth High School, it will be a case of all early signs failing.

Get Ready For Great Kiwanis Carnival On October 7 to 10

October 7th, 8th, 9th, 10th, are the four days set aside for the Kiwanis Club Carnival and Rifle Shoot. Remember the dates—make your plans now.

Plans for the Kiwanis Shoot and Carnival, are fast coming to a head under the direction of general chairman E. O. Huston. Interest in the affair indicates that it will be the biggest event of its kind ever held in Plymouth, and the splendid program that is being planned will attract many hundreds of people to the big Power garage on S. Main street, while the shoot is under way.

Proceeds of the undertaking will go into the Christmas fund for underprivileged children in the Kiwanis club treasury, and it is hoped that everyone will take a part to make the show a success.

Although the important feature of the whole show will be the rifle shoot which will take place nightly for ten or individual contestants many other entertaining features are also booked for the occasion.

The program, sponsored by the Kiwanis Club, will include dancing every night, early in the evening a band will give a concert, and minstrel shows, dancing acts, magicians, musical acts and several specialties will all go to complete the nightly programs. There will be a complete change of program every night and something of interest will be provided for the entire family.

For those entering the shoot competition the committee makes known the fact that there will be well over 75 prizes for those who have good scores. A large cup will be presented to the individual making the best score on rifle competition and other prizes equally as inviting will be awarded for other accomplishments.

Hit In Face By Golf Ball, J. M. Campbell Loses His Left Eye

The relatives and friends of J. Maurice Campbell, 1540 Cortland Ave., Detroit, will be grieved to know of the serious misfortune he had last month on his vacation near Mackinac City, in that he suffered the loss of sight in one eye.

A golf ball driven at close range struck him squarely in the face as he stepped back on the fairway from behind some small trees on the Mackinac City Golf course.

For three weeks he has been in Huron Ford hospital, Detroit, possibly keeping his brother, Fletcher, in ignorance of his condition, thereby hoping to shield Mrs. E. F. Campbell, who recently gave birth to a son from knowing of the matter and causing her grief until her days had been fulfilled.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Keller of Plymouth, have purchased a two acre homestead on the Five Mile road from Frank Rock of Detroit. G. A. Bakewell, realtor, negotiated the deal.

The Esther Shoppe has ensembles in coats, dresses, hats, purses, gloves and costume jewelry in the new colors and styles—dresses $2.75 to $18.50.

John W. Adams, well known Plymouth resident, whose residence is at 187 Adams street, has so far recovered from his recent long illness that he was able to make a few calls on friends in the business section of town. It will be some time before he will be fully recovered, although he has made excellent progress during the past week or so.

St. John's Guild will have a delicious fish supper Friday evening September 18. Remember the date Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thummi and son, Kenneth, and Mrs. Mary E. Brown have returned from a brief vacation spent in northern Michigan. They visited several of the northern lakes during the time they were away.

TO CELEBRATE WASHINGTON'S BICENTENNIAL

Plymouth Officially Enters Into Nation-wide Observance

At the request of the United States Commission for the celebration of the Two-Hundredth Anniversary of the Birth of George Washington, Village President Robert O. Minnaker has appointed a committee of citizens to formulate plans for local observance of this occasion.

The following citizens have been appointed: E. C. Hough, Dr. Luther Peck, C. H. Bennett, Robert Joffe, F. W. Hamill, Miss Lina Durfee, Charles Philbin, Mrs. George Wilcox, Oscar Alsbro, Russell Roe, L. E. Bell, Mrs. Thompson, Harry Barnes, George A. Smith, Fred Bekles, Sidney Strong, Mrs. Maude Cooper, Mrs. Flora Rathburn, L. P. Cookingham, A. C. Dunn, A. A. Emery, Elton R. Eaton, Mrs. Kate E. Allen, Miss Alice Stafford, Harry Robinson, Mrs. Maudie Schrader, Mrs. Boyer and Ruth E. Huston-Whipple.

The names of the members of this committee will be sent to the Washington headquarters of the commission, and from time to time information will be sent out relative to the celebration.

The key theme of the celebration is: "We cannot all be Washingtons, but our country will be immeasurably elevated and improved by having its citizens carry in their minds and hearts such a knowledge and appreciation of him that their daily lives will be actuated by his example."

The federal commission in additional information sent out about the celebration says: "These points should be emphasized with respect to the Celebration of the Two Hundredth Anniversary of the Birth of George Washington next year."

Old Timers Going To Play Ball Sun. Out At West Point

The Rosedale Gardens Country Club, Sunday, the thirteenth instanter, post meridian, will certainly be too hot for some teams not because it's the thirteenth of the first of the month, but because the old timers are going to settle their ancient grudges and disputes by the way of a baseball game, to-wit—viz., Rough and Ready—versus—Lyonia Center, at the West Point grounds. Proceeds of this game will be turned over to local welfare work.

A TIP FOR DETROIT

There is no use in disputing the fact that Detroit residents probably face the hardest winter that great city ever experienced. It has not thousands, but hundreds of thousands of people out of employment. There is not the slightest prospect for any more of them to be employed this winter than at the present time.

Detroit has got to take care of these people—a vast majority of whom never before received public aid.

Why shouldn't Detroit prepare right now for this tremendous task?

Why shouldn't Mayor Murphy and his welfare organization come into the great gardens around Plymouth and buy up the thousands and thousands of bushels of tomatoes and other garden products that are sure to go to waste, and can them up for distribution among the needy in Detroit this winter?

Detroit is equipped to do it. Capt. Edward Denniston out at the Detroit city prison has one of the finest canning plants in the country. By working it night and day, he can utilize practically all of the surplus crops in and around Plymouth. Not only is he equipped to can up for Detroit's hungry the abundant vegetable crop, but the orchards in this vicinity are laden with fruits that are not finding a market. Detroit doubtless could buy these fruits and vegetables direct from the fields at a tremendous saving. If it desired, it could put its dolers to work picking these vegetables and fruits, thereby saving the costs of picking.

This is but an idea, but with thousands and thousands of bushels of vegetables and fruits bound to go to waste at Detroit's very door, and a great, modern canning plant owned by Detroit right in the heart of these vegetable and fruit laden fields, it would seem reasonable that Detroit might profit greatly by purchasing these surplus crops and canning them for Detroit's unfortunates this winter.

WINTER IS COMING

Shortening days, cool evenings and leaves turned brown forcibly remind us that winter is just around the corner and that it will not be long before we will be shoveling coal and hurrying around to keep warm. There has been much said about a hard winter, suffering for many and close times for a vast number. Just how bad the coming winter will be remains to a very great extent upon the preparation we are making for it right now.

Not only are the farms offering unlimited amounts of products, but mercantile stores and fuel dealers have announced reductions in prices that have been amazing. A bit of attention to the future will do much towards real relief during the winter months when it is almost impossible to get fuel and fuel that is now being almost given away or can be secured so reasonable. Prepare now—and enjoy the winter.

WHAT WILL THE END BE?

The Detroit Press a few days ago published a Lansing dispatch from one of its correspondents in which the statement was made that the present cash deposit of the state is the lowest it has been in over two decades. The same writer also declared that Auditor General Fuller had prepared figures showing that the present deficit of the state's general fund runs close to $11,000,000. The highway department is unable to pay its bills because gas tax moneys and other funds that belong to the department have been diverted by state authorities for other purposes. The department owes current bills of over $9,000,000 with nothing to pay them with. It certainly is not a pretty picture for tax payers of the state to look at and all we can ask, is—what will the end be?

WILL RUN AGAIN

Former Congressman Grant Hudson, defeated on a strictly wet and dry issue two years ago in the old Sixth Congressional District, has announced that he will be a candidate for nomination in the newly created district next year. Because a portion of Wayne county and Oakland county have been taken from the Sixth, he believes that he can win. The former congressman will find that in the next campaign the wet and dry issue will not be of paramount importance. He will find that the farmers will want to know why congress has not taken better care of the farming industry of this country. He will find the working men wanting to know why as a congressman a few years back he didn't do something to help stabilize American business so that there would be work most of the time for the man who wants to work. He will find, too, that the manufacturer and business man will have more interest in the coming congressional contest than ever before and that a candidate for congress who thinks that he is elected for the one purpose of serving a whim, will find a lot of voters thinking differently than they did a half dozen years ago.

I AM STILL RICH

We have passed through a panic, suffered from a crash on the stock market and are now more than half way through the depression and I AM STILL RICH. It may be true that I have much less to live ON than I had a year ago, but it is certainly true that I have just as much as ever to live FOR. The real values of life are unshaken and solid.

The stock crash cost us much that we never had—paper profits which never got nearer our pockets than the financial pages of the daily papers. The market failed but nothing else did. Prices went down but not one acre lost its fertility and all the electrons, protons, and ether waves went on working in their accustomed ways.

When the depression came I was compelled to take an invoice and soon discovered that I was still rich. All my capacity for the enjoyment of life was intact.

The depression has not lowered the value of a single friendship. Neighbors still greet us in the same old cordial way, business associates believe in us, and our sons hold us in high respect. The wife's welcome at the close of the day has not depreciated in the least and our daughters continue to lavish their affection upon us with the same old extravagance.

My faith in the goodness of the universe is unimpaired. By that faith I am emboldened as I face defeat and despair. The prayers my mother taught me and the faith in God instilled in me by a devout father remain as priceless treasures no depression can touch.

No nation becomes great by becoming rich. Neither does a man find enduring satisfaction in life by OWNING something—only by BECOMING something. The most degrading poverty is that which results from killing the spirit that the body may be served.

This depression has cost us some of the things we created but it has robbed us of none of our power to create. We may lose some beautiful things but we have lost no love of the beautiful.

It is a CHALLENGE, not a catastrophe. A generation that has conquered the air and sent giant planes circling the globe, which has plunged into the deeps and disported on the ocean's floor, which has climbed above the clouds and lived in the stratosphere, is now faced with the challenge to rise above its dependence on mere things and seek an emancipation of the spirit of man.

The last six months have been for many men a thrilling spiritual adventure through which they have discovered their real wealth. Bereft of dividends and profits they are discovering the sustaining powers of a strong religious faith, the abiding values of courage, heroism, honor, charity, and trustworthiness.

A financial crisis can wipe out profits and bring business to a standstill, but character is beyond its reach. It can rob us of all we HAVE but it cannot affect what we ARE.

The investments we made in ambitious youth, hospitals, crippled-children's camps, colleges, and service institutions go on paying dividends. The deepest satisfactions of life—those which come from sharing and serving—remain secure.

I am still rich because I am independently rich—none of my wealth depends upon business conditions or market reports.—The Rotarian.

NEW LEGION COLORS

The gift of the Dajsy Manufacturing Co. to the Plymouth American Legion post of a new set of beautiful colors is an especially thoughtful one. The presentation comes at a time when the Legion will have an opportunity to display to one of the greatest crowds that ever visited Detroit, colors that will not be outranked by that of any other visiting Legion delegation from the United States. The sacrifice of one of its valued employes on the battlefield doubtless was one of the reasons which inspired the gift, as well as a consistent interest this company has in every worthy Plymouth effort.

BRUCKER'S TAX CUT

To one on the outside looking in, the difference between members of the administrative board at Lansing, relative to the state tax for the present year has been rather confusing. Governor Brucker has declared that he believes the state tax should be $29,000,000 and that that amount will take care of all the obligations his administration has assumed. Newspaper correspondents in Lansing last week said that Governor Brucker had berated State Treasurer Howard Lawrence, branding him as a "sullen" antagonist because the state treasurer had declared the $29,000,000 tax levy asked by the governor would not cover the obligations that have been contracted by the governor for the present year. The state treasurer cannot see it the governor's way, especially in view of the fact that the governor must run for office again next year on his record as a money saver for the taxpayers. Mr. Lawrence, to anyone knowing him, is anything but a "sullen" individual. Mr. Lawrence has proven himself one of Michigan's most courteous and efficient officials and he does not believe in trying to mislead the taxpayers through a deterred tax levy. The obligations of Governor Brucker's administration have got to be paid and Mr. Lawrence believes they should be paid now and not after next year's primary election.

Rambling Around with Michigan Editors

NO WONDER THE TAXPAYERS ARE MAD—HERE IS ONE OF THE REASONS

Representative James G. Frey of Battle Creek, who was named secretary of the Republican State Central Committee by Gov. Wilber M. Brucker's forces last spring, believes in economy to the last syllable. Recently when Mr. Frey took a pleasure jaunt down to Pennsylvania he made the trip in a state owned automobile and with a driver furnished by the state who was carried on the payroll while he was "working" for Mr. Frey. That is "kitchen" economy, as Gov. Brucker preaches it, but for whom?

Mr. Frey is drawing about $3 a day from the taxpayers for his salary as state representative whether the legislature is in session or whether it is not in session. He publishes the Masonic News. For that he probably draws a stipend. Then he is busily engaged in automotive efforts which probably pays him a little, too.

Just why Mr. Frey should be given the use of a state owned automobile, manned by a state driver, and given a pleasure jaunt into the state of Pennsylvania, is somewhat of a mystery. The Digest is anxious to learn why such an expense was created. It believes that if no valid reason for the trip existed Rep. James G. Frey should reimburse the taxpayers for the money they invested in his vacation trip east. If there is no legitimate reason for the expenditures incurred and if he refuses then it should be up to the Attorney General's office to request Rep. James G. Frey to pay back to the public treasury all the money his vacation trip forced the taxpayers to spend.

The use of the state owned automobile and the use of a state paid chauffeur for Mr. Frey was authorized by Gov. Brucker's office. The car Mr. Frey used on his pleasure trip was one owned by the Department of Public Safety, the investigation so far discloses. It was manned by a driver from that department. It isn't the first time the governor's office has commandeered a state owned car and manned it with state paid drivers. But it ought to be the last. Politicians like Mr. Frey—and The Digest has the greatest respect and liking personally for the chubby Battle Creek representative—who are on one, two or three different payrolls, as the case may be, should pay their own expenses and drive their own automobiles. If Mr. Frey wants to impress the folks down in Pennsylvania that he is a big shot in Michigan politics, he ought to polly fox around and do it in ways other than stinging the downtrodden taxpayers in Michigan.

The example set by Mr. Frey, and the fact that it was arranged for and permitted by the governor's office is a poor piece of public business. While Mr. Frey's chauffeur was piloting Mr. Frey through the hills and dales of the eastern country, the driver might have been engaged in doing what he was supposed to be doing—patrolling the highways of Michigan or helping the governor chase the white mule nuisance out of the commonwealth.

Persons may be inclined to immediately criticize the State Police because Frey used a state owned car and a state paid police officer to drive him about the country. But the criticism does not belong there. It belongs in the governor's office for that office has been making it a practice to commandeer autos and drivers for the politicians like Mr. Frey who have come to feel they are such a much that the taxpayers' cars, men and money is to be spent as they direct.

The practice as evidenced in Frey's case, is a lousy one. It should be stopped. The governor's office has no more right spending the taxpayers' funds as they were spent in Frey's behalf, than it has of picking pockets.

Gov. Brucker is preaching economy in the open. Secretly his office practices the petty kind of favoritism evidenced in the Frey escapade. He should halt the practice. —Edward Nowack in the Michigan State Digest.

AUTOMOBILE DOES NOT INDICATE HOW MUCH MAN IS REALLY WORTH

For the first time in its history the automobile is no longer an indication of the circumstances of its owner. We have been approaching this situation for some time but now it is an official fact—officially in this way. Many communities have already announced that households supporting automobiles will not receive official aid during the coming winter. A flat rule to this effect is not fair. There must be many cases where car ownership contributes to the possibilities for employment. Communities of our size permit of close investigation along these lines and circumstances will no doubt govern. But for the first time country wide the motor car is no longer a guarantee of financial independence. In many households this winter its presence in the yard is going to represent the exact difference between comfort and despair.—Muriel E. DeFoe in The Charlotte Republican.

MAIL LINES—FOR RESULTS

THIS EDITOR DOES NOT LIKE DOLE SYSTEM OF THE FOREIGN COUNTRIES

The United States has certainly been mighty indifferent to fundamental rules the past year in the handling of charity or the dole. Beware the fact that nearly everybody knew it to be entirely wrong, nevertheless it served as temporary means to the end, and, of course, it was thought that the unemployment problem was only a transient one. On the contrary, it is still with us if not quite so keen as at first. If we will but cast our eyes across the sea and look at what is happening in England, we will take steps to rectify the evil without letting it get to a crisis as England is now experiencing. The American government is not a nose-blind proposition. It inquires itself and those it helps under the dole system.—Frank Bryce in The Grand Lodge Independent.

EDITOR GIFFORD PAINTS GLOOMY PICTURE OF OUR MORAL STANDARDS

While we cannot believe that the world, morally, is going to the devil, yet the drift of the times toward destruction, or at any rate, a decided lowering of moral standards, is "settling no better fast." While the younger people may not be any more immoral today than when their parents were youngsters, yet morally it is hard to believe that the modes of today would have been tolerated yesterday. While at all times, more or less, people side-step the code of moral ethics, yet many of our youngsters today sidestep in all directions, and usually, sooner or later, with disastrous results. Some 35 or 40 years ago the writer was a youngster. People said he was a "bad egg." He used to travel some, as they say, but all the traveling the youngsters did those days was to ice cream parties, church pound socials for the minister, croquet contests and occasionally we indulged in the thrilling game of bubble-de-winks, and that we were stepping some, but during those days were stealing the ice cream, putting salt in it, or placing "travels" on the windows.

But what is it today? Bathing in the (almost) nude, pajama parties, dances with many of the young fellows with flasks in their hip pockets, visit to blind pigs, suggestive and "rotten" songs, salacious pictures, rotten vaudeville, familiarity in conversation, dirty stories, and so on. Understand, we do not say all young people are that way. Many of our young people are just as moral as our fathers and mothers. However, the number that are subjects for improvement is much greater than is desired, and unless the parents, the churches, the schools, and society in general takes a hand, and assist in turning the moral tide, many of our youngsters are heading for a fall, and a bad one.—Editor Gifford in The Eaton Rapids Journal.

DATES FIXED FOR HUNTERS TO TRAIN DOGS IN THE FIELD

The Department of Conservation today issued a schedule for the use of persons training dogs on game this fall.

The dates mentioned in the schedule are the first days on which dogs may be trained in the woods or fields on the various species of animals and birds:

- Partridge—September 15.
Prairie Chickens—September 15.
Rabbits—September 1 (upper peninsula); September 15 (lower peninsula).
Opussum—October 1.
Raccoon—October 1.
Fox Squirrel—September 1 (upper peninsula); September 15 (lower peninsula).
The 1931 legislature provided that dogs might not be trained on game birds, rabbits, squirrels and other animals during a period of more than thirty days immediately preceeding the opening of the hunting seasons on the particular animals or birds.

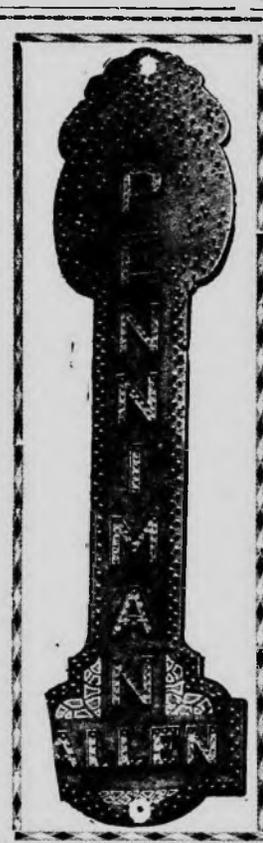

Under the old law it was possible to train dogs for 60 days before the opening of the season. It is unlawful to carry firearms while training dogs.

Field trails using trained raccoons or some other method of attracting dogs is illegal, in the opinion of the Department and all conservation officers have been instructed to arrest all persons running raccoon hounds in game areas prior to October 1. It is the opinion of the Department it is unfair to permit training of raccoon dogs while bird and rabbit hunters have to wait for the 30 days training period. Recently the Department encountered several cases in which trained raccoons were used to train dogs. Arrests followed.

GAME LICENSES READY ON SEPT. 15

Distribution of 1931-32 small game licenses to all license agents of the Department of Conservation will begin September 15, it was announced recently. More than 400,000 resident and non-resident licenses will be offered for sale. The license buttons for resident small game licenses this year will be tinted pink with a black border. The non-resident license button will be white with a black border. New and improved slots for inserting the license in the button are provided.

A 3-year-old child can be taught to carry a plate of food or a glass of milk safely, and takes great delight in doing so. He learns self-reliance and independence. He can carry a tray of lunch if it is not too heavy, and play at "cafeteria."

A Sound Policy

While business was booming we never felt that it was the province of the Plymouth United Savings Bank to back any of the many extensive real estate developments of the state. Time has proven that our stand in reference to this question was correct.

Today we are satisfied that the loans of this bank are in small amounts to people we know. These borrowers may never have figured their assets in the millions, on the other hand, they have not been wiped out by the present depression and are paying their notes as they fall due.

The same careful conservative policies of management which have made a success of this bank will be continued in the conduct of its affairs.

Coming Attractions At Penniman-Allen

"HELL BENT FOR FRISCO"

The latest Sono Art-World Wide Thrill-O-Drama, "Hell Bent For Frisco" which comes to the Penniman-Allen Theatre, Sunday, September 13th, is filled with thrills from start to finish with never a let-up. Some of the most exciting sequences are those in which racing automobiles play a major part.

In the first place, there are some truly remarkable shots of an automobile race around a board track during the course of which one of the cars turns over. Nothing as exciting as this has ever been filmed even in the newsreels. Another sequence which will make audiences hold their breath is one in which an armored car chases another automobile containing two bandits down the winding road of a mountain side.

Among his many other accomplishments, Delaney is an expert swimmer and a better than fair amateur boxer. His opponent in this film was Edmund Burns, who is no slouch as far as athletes are concerned himself. After it was all over Burns remarked that it was perhaps just as well that the fight was a part in a film and not a real life "grudge" fight. "Charlie," he said, "sure knows how to throw his punches."

"TRAVELING HUSBANDS"

Meet Mr. Traveling Salesman. He's the parlor car Bedouin, the glib-tongued knight of the rails who carries novelties in his grip and love in his heart wherever he goes. He's the champion story-teller of the world. Everywhere he goes he tells the Don Juan-like adventures of these smooth-tongued romancers are humorously told in Radio Pictures' unusual comedy-drama "Traveling Husbands," showing at the Penniman-Allen Theatre, on Saturday, September 10.

These modern troubadours of love as they flit from one amorous adventure to another, are presented in an interesting light in this rollicking film.

The salesman's life is a mixture of sales argument, flirtation, confidence and romance. He is irresistible in love, never takes "no" for a final answer and usually gets what he goes after. Breach of promise suits are his meat. He escapes them by the simple procedure of moving out of town. He's the fastest-moving man in creation.

"Traveling Husbands" concerns the playful moods of these boys on their frequent trips away from the home hearth. The picture features a great comedy cast which includes Evelyn Brent, Frank Albertson, Constant Cummings, Carl Millson, Spencer Charters, Hugh Herbert, Frank McHugh, Burnell Pratt, Dorothy Peterson, Rita LaRoy and Gwen Lee.

EVEN SPLIT FOR NETHEMS DURING HOLIDAY GAMES

Wolverines from Detroit, defeated Nethem, 8 to 5, last Sunday, at Rousseau park.

The Detroit Police couldn't appear on the diamond, because Wilcox, a regular, broke his leg in a recent game, and the players were not granted a leave of duty.

Monday, Labor Day, Nethem defeated Ann Arbor, 4 to 2, when Gale allowed but seven hits and three of them came in the ninth inning. He ate two of the two of the eight hits Nethem got.

Hill battled on even terms with Gale, except that Nethem lunched their hits to score in the early innings of the game.

Joe Schomberger had a perfect day at bat, getting three out of three.

Nethem committed but one error to play air tight ball.

Next Saturday, at 3:00 p. m., Nethem will take on the strong triple "A" West Point Park team on Farmington and Seven-Mile road. Don't forget next Saturday at 3:00 p. m.

Next Sunday, Crowley Milner Co. will be the local attraction at Rousseau Park at Newburg. Don't forget the time of the game. Everybody welcome.

WAYNE CLEANS RESERVOIR FIRST TIME IN 16 YEARS

The water situation in Wayne, which for a time caused much concentration among residents and business houses using village water, has again become normal. The quantity of water received from Detroit through the new pipe laid during the emergency last week is more than sufficient to supply local consumers, it is reported.

The raw water reservoir which was practically dry when the connection from Detroit was made, has been pumped free of water and preparations are being made to clear the debris and other foreign matter from the basin that has collected in it in the past 16 years. This is the first time since the water works department was built that the reservoir has been entirely dry.

Several hundreds of fish were gathered from the reservoir by a crew of welfare workers under the direction of Charles Gouly, last week. The majority of the fish were transferred to Carpenter's lake until the basin is cleaned and refilled.—Wayne Dispatch.

Christian Science Churches

"Man" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Christian Science Churches on Sunday, September 6.

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "Let Israel rejoice in him that made him; let the children of Zion be joyful in their king" (Is. 49:24). The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "For true happiness, man must harmonize with his Principle, divine Love; the Son must be in accord with the Father in conformity with Christ. According to divine Science, man is in a degree as perfect as the Mind that forms him" (p. 337).

Mrs. Lewis Jeffers and daughter, Anita, of Newark, Ohio, were Labor Day guests of Mrs. Eugene Grandoff at her home on Northville road. Mrs. Grandoff's mother, Mrs. A. Marcove, returned with them to Newark for a visit of several weeks.

GYPSY ARRESTED FOLLOWING FATAL AUTO COLLISION

Joe Frank, a gypsy, was arrested this week by state police, charged with negligent homicide after an investigation was made into the accident two weeks ago at the corner of Telegraph and Ecorse roads when Mrs. Thomas Gubhart of Saline were instantly killed.

Frank was said to have run through a red light causing a three-way collision in which the two people were killed. He was bound over to circuit court Wednesday and was remanded to jail in default of bond. The bond was placed at $20,000.

Other arrests made during the week by the state police were Chas. Hall, charged with driving while intoxicated. Hall was arraigned in the justice court of E. H. Davidson of Calumet and fined $25 and costs.

Steve Bogowski was also arraigned before Judge Davidson's court on a charge of disorderly conduct after he was taken into custody by the local authorities. He was fined $20 and cost of $3.

Two motorists were also fined for violation of the traffic code. A trolley paid $5 for running through a red light, and Berdette Van Tassel, who was charged with having an overloaded truck, paid $10 and costs.

Grandniece of Buffalo Bill Fights To Keep Her Ten Children

Old Buffalo Bill, the Indian fighter and showman, if you remember your juvenile light reading, always came out on top with two girls smoking.

Mrs. Mary Scholl, a great niece of the plainsman, has not been so invincible. About all she can show of the family character is that she took a great deal of punishment before she let out any cry for help.

But then, at close range today, an answer might be permitted to wonder if it is not a case of the young Colonel William F. Cody, even in his life was in such close quarters as his kinswoman endured.

Sheltered in a kind of eddy from the storm, under the first secure roof she has known in at least a month, she revealed these items of her experience—She has borne ten children in the last sixteen years and kept the whole family alive and together. She has seen her husband's small earnings cut to nothing by accident, illness and unemployment. Now she is a widow, without a cent ahead, and her oldest child fifteen.

The flimsy home-built wooden shack in a scrub pine and oak clearing just outside Brentwood, Long Island, near New York City, where the Scholl family lived until the husband died last week, is not much less luxurious than an Indian tepee. And the wretched door, threatening the ten children, has been as acute a menace as any redskins on the warpath.

Mrs. Scholl, after the funeral, was taken under the helpful wing of Mrs. Ed. Badelt of Bayshore, Suffolk County, Deputy Welfare Commissioner. The family was moved to a comfortable cottage on Smith Ave., Islip, where they don't have to bother about the rent. And trusting to the generosity of the community, a relief fund of money is being raised for them.

"I think we are going to be all right now, without any more fuss over us," said Mrs. Scholl. "I'll get a widow's pension, and Frank, he's my oldest, already has his working papers and hopes to get a job soon."

The one room house they built has walls of only one thickness of boards, a dirt floor and there were two leaky tents for overflow children.

"We were so happy there," Mrs. Scholl said. "My heart is in Brentwood and I want to go back there to live."

Mrs. Scholl's late husband was a laborer in Brooklyn, an oiler on a steam shovel gang. They lived over in Williamsburg, and two years ago when times were good they put down $200 on the $500 price of a half-acre of sandy ground.

But hard times came. The husband hurt his foot. Then he crushed his finger. He lost his job. About the only money was an occasional dollar which Frank and his brothers, Robert 12, and Edward 9, picked up as caddies at the nearby Brentwood Golf Club. Recently the husband's foot became infected and, delaying medical treatment, he died.

INTERESTING LECTURE ON CHRISTIAN SCIENCE DELIVERED HERE BY CHARLES WINN, RESIDENT OF PASADENA, CALIF.

The following lecture on Christian Science entitled "Christian Science: The Revelation of Reality" by Charles V. Winn, C. S., of Pasadena, California, member of the Board of Lectureship of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts, was delivered in Plymouth this week.

A subject that is engaging the most earnest thought and attention of men today is that of reality. So rapid have been the changes in the affairs of mortals that former theories about reality have been overturned with startling suddenness. In the light of modern discoveries many theories about what is true and real are no longer tenable. When one can send a message from Schenectady, New York, to Australia and back, a distance of about twenty thousand miles, in a few seconds, then the theory of a material universe separated by time and space is seen as an absurdity. With former beliefs concerning reality being thus overturned, it is small wonder that the world is in a constant state of flux and change. However, it is not a time of despair but of great hopefulness, for in the midst of all the turmoil and confusion Christian Science has come to the world to satisfy the deepest human need and to reveal an understanding of divine reality that will plant our feet firmly on the rock of eternal and unchanging Truth. Nothing less can ever suffice, for Truth alone is real, and reality is always true.

NATURE OF GOD

"Since that alone possesses reality which reflects God, then a true knowledge of God is essential in order to understand that which is real. At this point it may be stated that Christian Science is founded entirely on the Scriptures. Mrs. Eddy declared, as shown in "Miscellaneous Writings" (p. 189), that within Bible pages she had found all the divine Science she preached. And so in defining Deity she adheres strictly to Scriptural definitions. Of Him she says, "God is what the Scriptures declare Him to be—Life, Truth, Love" (Science and Health, p. 330). Here is a definition of Deity which may well engage our most earnest thought and which will so enlighten us as to the eternal verities of being that untold blessings will follow.

"God in the very nature of His being must be infinite. That God could be limited in any way is unthinkable. God being infinite and Life, there must be one infinite Life. All forms of life must proceed from and be the expression of this one infinite Life. All creation must have its being in and be sustained by this one creative Life. This infinite Life must be "one Father-Mother God, all-harmonious" (Science and Health, p. 16), and must be perfect and eternal. It must be everywhere manifesting its life-giving qualities and upholding in perfect harmony all its ideas or creation. If there were an element of friction or discord in Life, then Life would eventually be self-destructed. Everything that truly exists must express this one infinite Life, which always manifests itself in vitality, strength, health, vigor, and perfect action.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE IS PROVABLE

"What I have said is not only sound logic, but it can be proved in a most practical way. When the great truths of Christian Science were revealed to Mrs. Eddy, she did not at once give them to the world. She waited three years before she began to teach them, and then only after nine years did she present them in her textbook. She saw that they must be put to the test through demonstration. She has well said that "demonstration and spiritual understanding are God's immortal keynotes, proved to be such by our Master and evidenced by the sick who are cured and by the sinners who are reformed" (Science and Health, p. 375).

"Let us see how this great truth can be utilized in a most helpful way. There is nothing, perhaps, in which mortals are more interested than the subject of health. The vast amount of time and money spent in trying to gain it and maintain it shows how highly it is prized. That health is sometimes thought to be the exception rather than the rule is self-evident from the fact that a very large percentage of diseases, according to human theories, are said to be incurable. In these cases material systems claim that health cannot be had under any conditions. Now, it is coming to be conceded more and more that back of every case of ill-health is a certain amount of fear. And in every instance you will find that at the bottom of one's fear is a belief that something can destroy, impair, or take away life. Christian Science, however, shows that God is man's life, that man's life is one with the Father, "hid with Christ in God," that this life is not material, not subject to material laws, or material conditions, but is protected, upheld, and maintained by God and therefore can never be lost or extinguished. When these great facts are scientifically understood and declared, the poison of fear begins to relax, faith in God increases, and disease is perfectly and permanently healed. There are innumerable cases on record where the so-called incurable and dying have been called to life and health through this demonstrative system of practical Christianity.

TRUTH IS POSITIVE

"The practical application of this divine reality is indeed the "pearl of great price." Whatever one believes to be real will govern his thinking and acting; and because mortals have believed in the reality of both truth and error, human thinking has been largely negative thinking. The medical systems have concerned themselves for the most part with disease and its symptoms, or the opposite of health; scholastic theology has dealt almost altogether with sin and its dire consequences, or the suppositional opposite of good; human law has given its attention very largely to providing penalties for the infraction of its laws; education has given its attention chiefly to material so-called science rather than to spiritual Science.

"Now Christian Science, through its cognition of positive truth and divine reality, puts us on the constructive side. It shows us how to dwell on the positive, not the negative; the right, not the wrong; the real, not the unreal or the shadow. If you were going to paint a picture of a beautiful lake, you would not choose a stagnant pool for a model. If you were going to build an automobile, you would not take an oxcart for a model, nor would you attempt to carve a beautiful statue while looking at an imperfect form.

JESUS' HEALING METHOD

"Why was our great Master, Christ Jesus, the most successful

healer, teacher, and reformer that the world has ever known? Because he always thought, taught, and saw the positive, constructive fact and not the negative opposite. If a sinner came to him, he did not constantly see and talk about a sinner. He saw God's child and the positive fact about him—his goodness, purity, and perfection—and the sinner was reformed. He always condemned the sin, but he loved mankind whom he came to save from sin. Referring to a man blind from his birth, the disciples asked Jesus who had sinned, this man or his parents. In other words, What has brought about this seemingly real condition, they said, for here it is. Jesus answered substantially, Neither has this man sinned, nor his parents; but he exists that the works of God should be made manifest in him—that he should manifest good, spiritual, sight and all other Godlike faculties. And as a result the man was healed. At another time Jesus was called to heal Jairus' daughter. When he arrived the child had apparently passed on, but this did not deter the Master from completing his work. He put out all those that were entertaining any negative doubts or faithless thoughts, and through his positive, constructive thoughts of life, the girl was restored.

"Mrs. Eddy declares (Science and Health, p. 332) that "Christ is the true idea of good, the divine message from God to men speaking to the human consciousness." This true idea came from God and always expressed His love, His goodness, power, and love, and reveals to us a clearer vision of eternal and abiding reality. This vision of the Christ necessarily dispels the illusions of mortal belief and brings to human view that which in reality is always at hand—God and His perfect creation.

ROSEDALE GARDENS

Spinach jokers, also calomel, have been keeping quiet of late, as with the unprecedented supply of melons of all kinds, peaches large and small, and red tomatoes, green corn, etc., at all, they have put the first two aforementioned back in the dictionaries again. Tablets (writing) and the brothers in trade have been much in demand at E Emporium's week. Also Daddy's jack-knives have been busy pointing pencils and crayons. We are recommending someone to invent an electric pencil sharpener for R School.

Welcome to the community. Welcome to the community. Mr. and Mrs. Edgar H. Lutterbros and family, who have leased Miss Nina von Tippin's home at 1100 Berwick avenue, Miss von Tippin moved to the city last Saturday.

Catholic chapel and auditorium is shaping along very fast, roof is on, that is "temporary roof" as after the next floor will be of tile. It having been decided that the classrooms on the second floor up will not be completed until enough school children are here to warrant the additional expenditure. However, when this comes to pass, this structure will be more than double present height.

Rugs from Rosedale are on exhibit ("A") at the State Fair, under charge and supervision of our Arthur G. Baker, Esq. The hand loom is also there with Arthur demonstrating how hand woven rugs are manufactured.

School days are here with us again. The first week over today. No need of introducing all the good looking teachers, as they all have been with us before, or should we say, they are all still with us, though some seven or eight pupils go to Plymouth for to High, and many of the little folks go High (from Miss Smith high upstairs to Mrs. Becker and others higher, but in grade over to Miss Rowe.

School news and P. T. A news will be reported better this year, as all promised to have something of interest every week. Hope so—and also—well Santa Claus is coming, so watch out everyone.

Labor Day was celebrated by everybody in some way. Al N. Henige's men on the school building by laboring, they holded long enough. Some celebrated by lakeing or anting or seeing the boat races, or entertaining or canning peaches and red ripe tomatoes and yellow ripe pears. Of course our usual holiday visitors came out for the usual banquet and to enjoy the perfect days and a couple cool nites. No more holidays, now 'till Nov. 26, 1931.

Reception to Rev. Fr. E. Conway, by the ladies of the St. Michael Parish will be some place, sometime, next Sunday post meridian. That is, the "Secret Is Out"—the members of the Butternik Clubbe are not supposed to be in on it, in fact they are not on the invitation mailing list, and will receive orders to remain at home in charge of the kiddies and to prepare forth with the oceanic meal, etc., etc.

"We are not worrying over it, as our men folks will have our time sooner or later," says according to Mr. Ben Bogazzi, "and may be both sooner and later too."

PRIZE BOOK LIST OF 100 RECEIVED AT THE LIBRARY

The new list of one hundred books chosen by prominent Americans is at the Plymouth library for distribution. It is designed to meet the needs of many who are seeking a guide to enjoyable and satisfying reading. It makes no pretensions to the fact that the one hundred books included are the "best" books; they are distinguished books, varied in appeal, and well worth reading. This list was compiled with the cooperation of American men and women, listed in Who's Who, of recognized ability in their particular lines of work. If the list is well-rounded, it is because suggestions were made by engineers, business leaders, authors, artists, editors, government officials, lawyers, scientists, clergymen, physicians, bankers, social workers, and teachers.

Head the label on the spice box, says W. R. M. Wharton of the Federal Food and Drug Administration. Spices are put up in a larger variety of sizes of packages than any other food product. Some manufacturers put out a large size package purposely to fool you, and such packages are often slack filled. If you judge by the size of the package when you buy spices, you may think you are getting more than is actual contains. But the pure food law requires a quantity-of-contents statement on spice packages as well as on the containers of many foods.

So much attention has been given to the European financial crisis of the last two months that certain definite signs of recuperation in the United States have passed almost unnoticed, says the American Bankers Association Journal in a review of current business conditions.

A number of the major industries have apparently emerged from their cycles of deep depression and are currently operating on larger volume than a year ago, among which might be mentioned the cotton, woolen, silk, shoe and rubber industries, also chain stores and department store trade in some sections of the country. The seasonal slowing down that occurs during midsummer has further increased the slack in employment and plant capacity, but the autumn months have never failed to bring a material expansion, save in the exceptional instances when the trend was sharply downward, as in the years 1930, 1923, 1914 and 1903.

Adverse conditions have spurred drastic reduction in manufacturing, selling and overhead costs in almost every line. Published statements for the second quarter show that greater economy and efficiency are now being turned into increased earnings.

Some of the more progressive corporations that weathered the red during the first quarter have decided to take business as they find it, rather than to mark time and possibly go bankrupt waiting for the rest of the world to recover, and achieved a net profit after all charges during the second quarter. Possibly the same policy will take the hint to lower their own costs likewise so as to be in a position to move their product and, incidentally, disburse larger pay rolls.

So far there has been no concerted effort toward reduction in wages, although in the first six months of this year 1,436 individual establishments reported a lowering of wage rates, and in 1930 there were 900 so reporting. Since November, 1929, there has been a total of 2,364 wage cuts reported in the monthly reviews of the Bureau of Labor, which almost coincides with the number of dividend reductions and omissions totaling 2,300 during the same period. Wage rates are ultimately determined, as are commodity prices and interest rates, by economic conditions, and they are constantly changing so as to maintain a natural equilibrium. Wage rates are not made by employers or workers, by labor unions, politicians, or any other individuals—they but discover and conform to them.

PUBLIC WORK IS BEING DELAYED

Legion Official Pleads For Action As Aid To Unemployed

"While it is true that the Federal government and most of the states have expanded their highway building activities and many municipalities have speeded up the building of public works, all this has been greatly nullified by the countless cities and towns that are doing little or nothing to take advantage of current low construction prices and the relief of unemployment through the medium of public improvements."

This statement was made here by Howard P. Savage, chairman of the American Legion Unemployment Commission, in addressing the members of the Chicago Advertising Men's Post of the Legion.

Mr. Savage pointed out that the public improvement field is assuming a more hopeful appearance. "Since the entrance of the Legion into the task of creating jobs, many of the 10,000 Legion posts have reported a growing desire on the part of cities and towns to proceed with public works immediately," reported Mr. Savage. He said: "The response the Legion has met in co-operating with other agencies and individuals in many communities in the furtherance of public improvements indicates that the line work being done by energetic cities and towns here and there can be duplicated the country over."

"If every community had done what it said it would do a year ago conditions today would be remarkably improved. The President's Emergency Committee for Unemployment had reported to it by last November over $6,000,000,000 in public works which would go ahead normally. Out of this total $4,000,000,000 has not yet reached the actual construction stage. Not long ago a survey was conducted which looked into the causes of delay. That survey indicates that approximately 65 per cent of the $4,000,000,000 worth of public improvements is being held back from the construction stage for no good reason. Red tape and indecision are still very important parts of our governmental makeup. Time passes quickly, and to many of those in charge of public affairs, a year, two years, five years doesn't mean a great deal."

"The only care for unemployment is employment. By creating jobs, the Legion hopes that thousands, even hundreds of thousands, of men may secure employment for long periods."

"All citizens will be benefited by needed improvement in partial return for money that must otherwise be given as charity. Maintain the self-respect of men and their families by giving work, not doles, and provide the strongest defense against the inroads of communism."

"Such programs, large and small, carried on simultaneously in thousands of cities, will furnish local employment and give added work to those who manufacture materials and transport them to their markets."

"Such a nation-wide civic program might easily inspire industry, and individuals, to make improvements of their own until the wheels of business are speeded up and the so-called 'depression' is over."

"There is no industry that requires more man-power than that of building. Studies have revealed that between 75 and 80 per cent of all money spent for construction directly or indirectly finds its way into the pockets of workmen. I firmly believe that through concerted effort at least half of the $4,000,000,000 in public improvements mentioned above can be brought into the construction stage. The unemployment relief of this is overwhelming. If this $2,000,000,000 could be placed under construction, labor would benefit by $1,500,000,000—which would place hundreds and hundreds of thousands of men at work directly at construction and other hundreds and hundreds of thousands of men at work in other industries."

"Let us throw our fullest force towards putting through that program of jobs—Saturday night pay-days are what this country needs—so that the spending of the people can begin and when this spending begins, industry will run, transportation will thrive, and we will be merrier on our way to normalcy."

IF YOU'RE LUCKY YOU CAN SHOOT 15 DUCKS IN DAY

Except for the shortening of the hunting season on ducks, geese, brant and coots to one month, no other changes have been made in the game bird seasons or regulations in Michigan than as are indicated in the 1932 Game Law Digest recently issued by the Department of Conservation.

While formal action of the Conservation Commission is necessary to give Michigan conservation officers authority to enforce the shortened waterfowl season, such action is expected at the Commission's regular monthly meeting to be held this week. The Department recently received a copy of President Hoover's order shortening the waterfowl season from October 1 to October 31, inclusive. Michigan hunters must conform with the season laid down by the Federal Government.

The new game law digest listing the waterfowl hunting season from October 1 to December 15 was published before the shortened season was decided upon by the federal government. A slip of paper correcting the digest to conform with the 1932 Game Law will be attached to all digests issued by the department for the rest of the season.

The season for ducks, geese, brant and coots will open at 12:00 o'clock noon, October 1. The daily bag limit for ducks is 15, with 30 in possession at one time and 100 in a season. The daily limit for geese and brant is four in one day, and eight in a season. Ten coots and ten wilson snipe may be taken in one day. Twenty may be in possession at one time and 50 may be taken during the season.

Wheat Acreage For 1932 Is Less

Michigan wheat growers intend to reduce their acreage for next year, according to the intentions to plant reports collected during August by the Michigan Co-operative Crop Reporting Service at Lansing. The intended acreage is reported at 675,000 or 2 per cent less than the 688,000 sown last fall, but crop reporting officials in commenting upon the report point out that weather conditions and other causes often prevent the seeding of the entire acreage intended. Discouragement over present prices and the drought are causing some growers to retreat. On the other hand, the increased acreage of corn and bean ground which will be available for wheat this fall offsets to some extent the handicap of difficult planting reported in quite a few sections.

Seedings of winter wheat in the United States this fall will be reduced 12 per cent if present intentions are carried out. Such an acreage, which would be the smallest since 1914, appears reasonable in view of present low prices and large world supply. This, together with the fact that the world production of wheat this year is below consumption requirements, offers encouragement to the Michigan grower. Argentina cut this year's acreage 15 per cent, while a 26 per cent reduction was reported in Australia. This, together with the near failure of the Canadian crop, indicates that the crop will likely be 250 to 300 million bushels short of last year's production. While the Russian acreage is larger than a year ago, present reports indicate that the yield will be below average. The European crop is 6 per cent smaller than the 1930 production which should cause an improved demand for foreign wheat. The outstanding bearish factor at the present time is the large carryover from last year, but with the movement of the heavy United States winter wheat crop past the peak, and with the Canadian and Southern Hemisphere crops reduced, the outgo into consumption within a few months will likely exceed the inflow from the farms. Any upturn in the general business situation would also reduce the present pressure on the market. While no pronounced recovery in prices is anticipated, the factors favoring some advance next year are in the majority.

A convenient arrangement of the kitchen with work centers in a logical sequence reduces the time spent in it.

session at one time and 50 may be taken during the season.

KEEPING CHILD HAPPY, SUBJECT

Meeting of County Group in Plymouth Wednesday, Sept. 16

The new child training project in the Michigan State College Extension program is to be a study of the psychology of happiness. Miss Emma DuBord, County Home Demonstration Agent has announced the title "Keeping Your Child Happy in His Home." This is the third project of the kind carried in Wayne County, and is a part of the regular home economics extension service.

As before this project is under the direction of Mrs. Lydia Ann Lynde, specialist in child training. She is already well known in the county having led study groups at Dearborn, Plymouth and Belleville. Mrs. Lynde is especially fitted for this work through her training and experience. She is a graduate and has the Master of Science degree from Purdue University and has studied in the graduate schools of Indiana University and the Universities of Minnesota and California. In 1927-28 as National Fellow in Child Development under the Laura Spellman Rockefeller Memorial Fund she spent eleven months studying the problems of childhood. She has had many years as a homemaker and mother of two sons who are now eleven and fourteen years old. As a teacher of home economics in Indianapolis schools she worked with underprivileged, under-nourished and problem children and helped many children and their parents happily work out their difficulties. When asked how she happened to go into this work she replied, "I need all the knowledge I can get to help my boys along. I found other mothers wanting help so I am studying and passing along."

For two and a half years Mrs. Lynde has been meeting with parents in this state and helping them understand and work out the little difficulties in their homes. It is so often the little everyday troubles that come into the lives of our children that mar and warp their personalities and make the home life harder. If parents know and understand how these come about and just what to do much unhappiness could be avoided.

The topic for the first meeting is "How We Achieve Happiness." This meeting will be open to any interested in children and family life and will be held in the following towns:

Wednesday, Sept. 16, Plymouth High School, 2:00 P. M.
Thursday, Sept. 17, Belleville High School, 8:00 P. M.
Friday, Sept. 18, Dearborn Public Library, 2:00 P. M.

PHONE MANAGER ON FISHING TRIP

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Crowe left last Saturday for a brief fishing trip in the Upper Peninsula. They expect to return the last of the present week. Mr. Crowe, two or three years ago, discovered a lake hole in the place somewhere between St. Ignace and Soo City, where he says he can simply whistle and the fish will hop into the boat.

At any rate the congenious and efficient manager of the Michigan Bell Telephone company for this district and Mrs. Crowe are entitled to catch all the fish they can under the laws and waters of Michigan.

When introducing new foods into a child's diet, give only one food at a time, and that in small quantity, well cooked and nicely served.

Full flavor and melting tenderness—that's the only way to describe this delicious Electrochef treat! Crisp and uniformly brown outside—tender and full-flavored within. This roast chicken owes its appetizing perfection to Electrochef's semi-sealed oven. Little water is used with Electrochef cooking, and the concentrated liquor for the gravy consists entirely of the natural juices of the meat. Mild electric heat penetrates evenly to all parts of the fowl, and the dressing is fluffy-textured and fragrant, thoroughly seasoning the meat. Because the Electrochef oven is practically self-basting, like a pressure cooker, roast chicken shows little shrinkage or weight loss.

CHAPTER VIII.

When Elmer Clarke returned to his humble home after seeing Doris Gatewood off at the railroad station, he was sensible of having passed one of the most delightful evenings in years. Of course he had spent many delightful hours in Nellie Catheart's company—Nellie was always delightful; but about this other girl there had been a charm so utterly different from Nellie's that Elmer, after the fashion of his sex, yielded to the delight of it without bothering to analyze it.

She dazzled him. She had, in effect, dared him to like her—and he had. He wished he might see her again. Elmer lunched with Nellie the following day and discussed with her his coming campaign for election to the board of trustees of the Union high school—a subject in which Nellie displayed the most ardent interest. For a reason so vague he did not pause to define it, he refrained from telling Nellie of the visit of the young lady reporter the evening previous. Nellie wondered why he did not. She had seen him walking down to the station with this stranger and had marked her thoroughly, from the tips of her smart boots to the tip of her saucy hat. In particular, Nellie had been struck by a note of spurious merriment in her grinning laugh as the pair passed, interested in themselves to see her. That laugh had been just a trifle too loud.

On Tuesday Elmer received a long letter from Absolom McPeake, conveying very definite information regarding the estate. It consisted largely of very valuable business real estate in the city of Muskegon, a plot of ground of 200 acres in the poorer section of the city, from which Uncle Hiram had drawn rentals entirely disproportionate to the value of the property, stocks, bonds, farm mortgages and a little private banking business—a usurper's shop, in reality.

Mr. McPeake felt confident that the little banking business could readily be disposed of to form a branch bank of a large local institution. Of course, in view of Uncle Hiram's death, this bank, so dependent upon his presence, would not move so much of a profit. But it could be disposed of without loss, and McPeake advised this course.

After reading that letter, Elmer felt more than ever inclined to follow the dictates of his humble ambition and purchase a fine car. He carried the letter over to the Pilgrimage bank and showed it to the charming trust officer of that institution. Nellie was much interested and proffered some advice when Elmer declared he was going down to Los Angeles the following day to place an order for the new car. He promised Nellie the first ride in it.

Before he could drive away from the agency with his new possession the next day, a smart uniformed chauffeur appeared and reminded him that a gentleman able to afford a first-class car could not possibly descend to driving it himself. Elmer was struck by the force of this argument and engaged the man at a salary of fifty dollars a week.

While waiting for the license plates to arrive, he telephoned Doris Gatewood and was rewarded with shrill feminine cries of delight from the lady in question. Could he not come out to the house for luncheon? She had just finished her story and was about to mail it east—perhaps he would care to read it first?

Elmer would. He said he would be delighted to; and at one o'clock he slid noiselessly up to Colorado Charley's dainty bungalow and discovered the girl and her alleged brother waiting for him on the lawn.

The famed prodigal, returning from his unwholesome adventure with the husks and the swine, could not have been received with more enthusiasm. The luncheon was exquisite and served by Doris Gatewood herself. She flushed prettily when Colorado Charley reminded Elmer that she had cooked it herself. Charley ate little, however, and appeared languid and disinterested, as became a semi-invalid. Having been informed that he was a veteran of the World War, Elmer at once had for Colorado Charley a distinct feeling of fraternity, and the conversation was almost entirely of soldiering. In preparation for this, the luncheon had "bomed up" on the A. E. F. from an inveterate soldier at Arrowhead hospital and another at the Veterans' home at Sawtelle. When it seemed that he might be getting into deep water, Doris saved him by suggesting that it was time for him to take his after-luncheon nap.

Brother went out excited and nervous when he raps of those terrible scenes," she explained to Elmer. "It wears him out even to think about them."

Elmer suggested that Doris and he go for a ride. Doris replied that she would do it—so these two, in calm defiance of Elmer's voluntary promise to Nellie Catheart that she should be the very first person to ride in his new car. In justice to Elmer it must be added, however, that he had completely forgotten that promise.

Having been firmly made, it had been as lightly forgotten. While in France Elmer, in common with thousands of other young Americans, had visited Paris after the Armistice and had there listened to the old story that if one should go long enough on the sidewalk in front of the Cafe de la Paix, everybody he had ever known would eventually pass by. Elmer had sat there half a day and been accosted by nobody more important than a military policeman, who had made him exist in writing his right to sit there.

It occurred to Elmer upon his return to Pilgrimage three days later that this is indeed a very small world. An exile from Pilgrimage had seen him driving along Santa Monica boulevard with Doris Gatewood, and a former Pilgrimage boy who had emigrated to Los Angeles and was eking out a precarious existence as an extra in the movies, wrote him to Alice Goodfellow that she had seen Elmer Clarke fox-trotting in a Hollywood cafe with a girl who had everything on her except the kitchen stove.

This gossip so interested Alice that she felt it her Christian duty to mention it to Nellie Catheart, who said nothing, but wondered a little.

Elmer arrived home to a singularly happy frame of mind. He had had a perfectly delightful time in Los Angeles. At parting Doris had, in her brother's presence and with that candor and charm which so fascinated Elmer, insisted upon kissing him good-by. Then she had walked out to the car with him and shaken his hand in farewell. She said she wouldn't sleep a wink until she knew he had arrived home safely—and wouldn't he telegraph her the instant that happy end had been accomplished. Elmer would. He promised her solemnly to that effect—and he kept his promise.

He should have known better. Old Lady Bray handled that telegram, made a note of the lady's name and address and promptly circulated a report that Nellie Catheart had better look out—that a girl in Los Angeles was after Elmer Clarke and was in a fair way of handling him.

The theft of the queen bee from a hive could not possibly have upset a community of bees one-half so much as the three reports on Elmer's Los Angeles activities upset Pilgrimage. The town buzzed with gossip and the speculation that it had been pro-Elmer and anti-Elmer prior to that fatal trip to Los Angeles. It was now pro-Nellie to the last man and woman. Elmer had been regarded, the moment news of his inheritance had become known, as first prize, won by Miss Nellie Catheart. Now, to have a stranger beat Nellie out by a whisker in the last jump, as it were—to employ racing parlance—set the town agog with excitement.

Elmer arrived in Pilgrimage too late in the afternoon to take Nellie to luncheon, and he spent the night to conduct an initiation of a class of thirty neophytes into the local lodge of the Woodmen of the World, he had no opportunity of seeing her until noon of the following day. By that time, however, he had listened to enough lullaby badinage and impish queries regarding his gallantry in Los Angeles to realize that Nellie Catheart must have listened to twice as much.

Consequently he was somewhat troubled of soul as he drew up in front of the bank and waited for Nellie to emerge.

She came, flushing him a radiant smile of welcome from the top step, where she paused to make deliberate appraisal of the new millionaire, his chauffeur, and his new car. Elmer stepped out, opened the tumbled door and waved her in.

"Oh, boy!" Nellie murmured breathlessly and pipped in. "Elmer darling, it's gorgeous—so gorgeous that I'm grateful to be the second girl to ride in it first."

Nellie couldn't help thrusting that one finger and went home, too. Elmer flushed and looked as gaily as a sheep-like dog as he climbed in beside her. Well, there was but one thing to do, and that was to tell the truth, shame the devil and let the chips fall where they might.

"Well, I'll tell you all about her," he began, but Nellie raised a menacing finger.

"Don't, Elmer! It isn't necessary. You do not have to. I know you just happened to be riding along you met her, she was walking, she recognized you and you just had to be decent and give her a lift."

"Well, have it your own way," he replied gloomily but bravely. "Only that wasn't the way. You see, I'd met her before. She's a newspaper correspondent and she came up here to get a story from me on how it feels to be a poor man one day and a millionaire the next. She's a very charming girl and her name is Doris Gatewood. She's a correspondent for the American Weekly of New York. I happened to tell her I was going to Los Angeles to buy this car and she suggested that if I would telephone her she'd let me read her story before she mailed it east. I suppose she didn't want to write anything to which I might object."

"Oh!" said Nellie. "Did she write a nice, interesting story about you, Elmer?"

"I'll be hanged if I know," he confessed. "We forgot to look at it."

"Just as well you forgot, Elmer."

She couldn't write a snappy, interesting story anyhow. She's as spurious as a lead dollar."

"Now, how can you say such a thing about a girl you have never met?" Elmer challenged.

"Saw you walking down to the depot with her the night she was in Pilgrimage. Heard a fragment of her conversation. Heard her laugh. Noted her general make-up. That's all, but that's enough for little Nellie Catheart."

"Well, I'll admit she isn't in your class, Nellie, but nevertheless I think she's charming. She's bully company—so nice that I double-crossed you and gave her the first ride after I'd promised you."

Nellie's gay, gurgling little laugh set him at ease. "Now that I've made you suffer, dear, you may pick yourself up and dust yourself off. I'm not miffed at you, but I could kill a number of people in this town today."

"This could I. I wish I hadn't jumped into that campaign for high school trustee. You're all that keeps me from leaving this town and never coming back. I hope I get whipped to a frazzle in that trustee fight, honestly, I do."

"Nellie's hand came over and rested on his. "You go in and win, she commanded. "The day I catch you dragging your tail in this community is the day you and I are going to have our first real disagreement. Leave Pilgrimage as you like and have a good time while you are away, but—come back to Pilgrimage! When I begin to demand a detailed report on your doing it will be time for you to commence worrying."

"I don't think I could stand that," he confessed soberly.

"Nellie laughed. "No man of spirit would. Where are you taking me for luncheon?"

"Out to the Angelotts'."

"Well, Elmer, Nellie announced when they found themselves seated. "I've sold your house and lot on the terms you named. If you drop in at the bank after luncheon and sign the deed, I'll attest it, and the deed will be closed in twenty-four hours."

"Three cheers!" said Elmer. "Nellie, you're a smart girl. When does the new owner desire to take possession of my house?"

"Immediately."

"O. K. I'll make a suite at the hotel."

"Atta boy!" said Nellie. "Now let's talk about your campaign for high school trustee and organize that. I've been checking off votes, trying to estimate your strength, and it seems to me you have a fight on your hands."

"Watch my smoke," said Elmer Clarke.

Because he was so easy to handle Nellie favored him with a loving look and with diffidently repressed an impulse to lean across the table and kiss him. Dear, blind, straight-forward, straight-thinking Elmer! All she had to do to hold him in the was to show him a fight and then send him into it. He had been fighting and winning since his twelfth birthday—and it had never been on an easy fight. His path had always been beset with obstacles, which he had successfully hurdled, but far down that path Nellie could discern one obstacle that must send him crashing to the ground.

Yes, nothing but death before he should reach that obstacle could save Elmer Clarke from having his nose rubbed in the dirt and Nellie

CHANGES MADE IN GAME LAWS NOT OF IMPORTANCE

Fourteen laws adopted by the 1931 legislature and affecting conservation in Michigan will go into effect September 15.

Many conservation laws adopted by the last legislature, including amendments to the inland fishing laws, were given immediate effect and have been in force during the summer.

The new conservation laws, in effect Friday, September 15, are briefly:

Posting of hunting land without the authority of the owner or the lessee is prohibited.

Additional powers are given the Geological Survey Division of the Conservation Department in regulating the drilling of oil wells.

Amendments make radical changes in the commercial forest reserve act.

All general laws relative to inland fishing are applicable to the Union City Pond on the St. Joseph River.

Protection of wild predators in the Gull Lake Sanctuary is removed.

Sunday hunting in Hillsdale and Clinton Counties is prohibited. Sunday hunting in Leavenworth County as provided by the legislature went into effect last spring.

Establishment and maintenance of county, township, city, village and school district forests is provided.

The Department of Conservation must now pay a 10c tax on tax homestead and swamp lands held by the Department.

Killing of deer in the following counties is now prohibited: Manistee, Missaukee, Wexford, Lake, Newaygo, Mason and Clare.

The amendments to the general game laws including the open and closed seasons are now effective.

had a vast curiosity to see how this man, who had tasted victory, would assimilate defeat, chagrin, sneers, gibes and the varied crucifixions of a world which tramples joyously over the fellow who goes down in the fight. Standing alone, in a stricken field, would Elmer, defeated, acknowledge defeat?

"Why, Nellie, what are you crying about?" he demanded suddenly.

Nellie's sweet mouth trembled pitifully. "I—I can't tell you, Elmer. I'm just—ess-silly, that's all. I—I haven't any sympathy. Please forgive me—darling."

Elmer was delighted. Most men are when they think they have observed infallible evidence that the girl they love, but aren't quite certain of, evinces signs of jealousy. Poor Elmer thought she was jealous of Doris.

Possessing the basic goodness of sound design and fine manufacture

CHEVROLET From the selection of raw materials to the completion of the finished Chevrolet product, each process of building, assembling and checking the Chevrolet Six is marked by extreme care and precision. An exhaustive system of test and inspection makes certain that every part meets specified dimensions exactly. Many of these parts are held to limits of one ten-thousandth of an inch. No manufacturer in the industry uses more care or precision in building and testing than Chevrolet.

In planning the motor, Chevrolet engineers were not content to offer the public anything less than tried and proved design. They knew that the only satisfactory way to get smooth, flexible power in a car is to use at least six cylinders. So they adopted the six-cylinder engine without compromise. And this is what you get in today's Chevrolet Six.

As a result of this sound designing and sound manufacturing, you can buy a Chevrolet and know you are getting a genuinely good automobile—soundly designed, soundly built, basically and technically right.

Thanksgiving Day, November 24, 1932, with special local and national celebrations everywhere on all holidays, anniversaries, or other days which can be connected with the life of George Washington.

5—While the ceremonies on February 22 should be especially elaborate and impressive, as marking the actual Two Hundredth Anniversary of George Washington's Birth, arrangements should also be made for public gatherings, banquets, plays, processions, musical festivals, tableaux and other events at various times during the entire period of more than nine months. Every program should relate to the great life and work of the first President and founder of the Republic. On Memorial Day, Independence Day, Labor Day, Thanksgiving Day and other national and local holidays or anniversaries there should be special programs, but the celebration should not be confined to these days.

6—It will take time to prepare the local programs and arrange for the local celebrations. The United States Commission urges mayors and other officials of every city and town in the country to appoint George Washington Bicentennial Commissions or Committees, in order to prepare for the events of the Bicentennial Year.

7—All organizations and institutions of whatever character—clubs, business, labor, educational, religious, fraternal, literary, social and others—are urged to plan for a "George Washington Year" in 1932. The officials of the village as well as many others are anxious to have any part that Plymouth may take in the celebration an outstanding feature of Michigan's part in the country wide observance and it is for that reason that President Minnick selected his committee at an early date as suggested by the Washington commission.

FAST DETROIT TEAM WILL PLAY SUNDAY

The Detroit Independents, a semi-professional team with a high rating, will be the opponents of the Plymouth-Hazerty club, in a game at Burrongs Park, Sunday September 13.

This club is coming to Plymouth with the reputation as being the only team in the Motor City to have been matched with the Detroit Stars, an entry in the Negro National League, and to have won.

Frank Okie, former Detroit Tiger pitcher, will be on the mound for the Independents. This alone should prove an interesting feature. They also boast of having other former major league players on their team. The local club can be considered very fortunate in getting this baseball club to come to Plymouth, and can promise those who attend an interesting afternoon. Game starts at 3 o'clock.

Jay & Jay, runner-up for the title in the A division of the Detroit Federation League, won a hard fought contest from the strong Plymouth-Hazerty club, last Sunday at Burrongs Park, 6 to 1.

OFFICIALS IN FULL CONTROL OF ZONE WORK

The commission should recommend the order in which public improvements ought to be made, and may well suggest ways of financing them, with a fair distribution of cost between the government and owners of specially benefited private property. The widening of a street or the creation of a public square, for example, may increase the value of abutting property; part of the enhanced value of such property, therefore, should justly be levied upon to help pay for the improvement.

CONTROL OF NEW SUBDIVISIONS

The control of the layout of new subdivisions is a vital part of the day to day administration of planning. Without adequate control, worse mistakes are apt to be made in new subdivisions than were made in the center of a city, for new streets in outlying districts are usually not a matter of public attention until some time after the mistake has been made and when changes are difficult to make. Developers of new subdivisions usually are glad to conform to a good plan, but in some instances both fact and resourcefulness may be required on the part of the city authorities to make sure that the street layout does not interfere with the major thoroughfare plan and that enough and proper land for parks and playgrounds is set aside. Supporting citizens' organizations are frequently most helpful in securing voluntary adherence to the plan. The main trouble in most cases in the past has been the lack of a comprehensive plan and the consequent handicap upon both city authorities and citizens' organizations in connection with opening up new subdivisions.

FORD CALLING MEN BACK—NEW MODEL WILL SOON BE OUT

Henry Ford's automobile plants, some of them being partly closed down since August while engineers worked out details for the new models, have started humming again. Over 30,000 men have been returned to work during the present week and it is expected that by the end of another week there will be over 50,000 men busy in turning out the new cars.

Just how soon the new models will go on the market no one knows. It has been stated that they might be out by the first of October, but more recent advices are to the effect that it will be nearer November first before the public will be able to purchase the new models.

What the changes will be are just as much in doubt as ever. It seems to be the general impression that the new Ford will have a larger body, that the engine will be speedier, that there will be free wheeling, silent transmission, more braking power than on any other machine, and greater speed. But no one will know definitely until the car is out just what improvements have been made.

The Jewish New Year observance falls on Friday and Saturday of this week. This event is being observed throughout the world.

To protect the top of blankets and quilts from being soiled, bind the edge with a piece of cheesecloth or other inexpensive material about 16 inches wide, matching the blanket in color. When this is soiled it can be easily removed and laundered.

GOV. WARNER'S SON DIES AS RESULT OF AN AUTO ACCIDENT

Harley D. Warner, 37 years old, son of former Governor Fred M. Warner and bank director, who had many friends in Plymouth, died at his home in Farmington, Wednesday morning as the result of a fatal injury suffered in an automobile accident Aug. 28.

Mr. Warner was a director of the First National Bank & Trust Co. of Pontiac; the Birmingham Savings Bank, and the Farmington State Bank. He also was secretary of the Farmington Improvement Corp. He was a member of the Pine Lake and the Meadowbrook Country Clubs. He was vice president of the Warner Dairy Co.

He was injured when the automobile he was driving went into a ditch in the Middle Belt Road. The gear shift lever struck his side. Despite the accident, he drove his machine home.

The widow, two children, Dorothy Susan and Frederick; a brother, Howard W. Warner; two sisters, Mrs. William Sloan, of Farmington, and Mrs. Claire Gaukler, of Pontiac, and his mother, Mrs. Martha Warner, survive. Funeral services will be Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the home.

LOCAL NEWS

Miss Dorothea Lombard was the recipient of many useful and lovely gifts at a shower given recently by Miss Ino Campbell and Miss Hazel Rayner at the Richwine residence. Bridge was the entertainment of the evening, guest of honor being awarded the first prize while Mrs. McNabb was given the consolation prize. Delicious refreshments followed later in the evening. Besides the guests of honor and her mother, the guests included Mrs. Irvie Hiss of Wayne, Miss Jay McNabb, Mrs. Edwin Campbell, Miss Lorraine Corbett, Miss Eileen Lester of Greenville, Mrs. Basil Carney, Miss Anne Voskull of Sheboygan, Wis., Mrs. Perry Richwine and Mrs. Roy Parrott.

A convenient arrangement of the kitchen with work centers in a logical sequence reduces the time spent in it.
