

JOIN THE RED CROSS TODAY

Plymouth Residents Urged to Aid in This Splendid Work of World Charity.

WHERE YOU CAN FIND MEMBERSHIP CARDS

One Half of Money Raised To Be Spent for Needs in This Place—Committee Anxious For Large Enrollment.

The Red Cross workers again urge everyone who can possibly do so to again renew their annual memberships in this international organization, the American Red Cross.

Remember that one-half of all membership collections made right here in Plymouth, together with all donations made to us, meaning that all amounts given us, over the sum of one dollar, remain here in our own bank balance for our own community needs. Also please remember that it is through our Red Cross that we have our community nurse and that through our Red Cross, in cooperation with the Detroit and Wayne County Tuberculosis Society, we have our health work throughout our schools. Also through our Red Cross we maintain the baby clinic in our schools each and every month. That through the Red Cross we have our Junior Red Cross in our schools, teaching our children the broad meaning of service, good will and helpfulness to all with whom they may come in contact. These and the many other humanitarian activities daily being carried on by our Red Cross one has only to inquire to know them.

Owing to illness in the committee, all three banks do not contain membership booths every day; however, a booth will be open each day hereafter until Saturday evening, October 31st, at the Plymouth United Savings Bank on the corner, and also a booth will be open in the Branch Bank in North Village, and this booth will be open Friday, Saturday and again on Monday, November 2nd.

As the Red Cross is operated and carried forward in this community by volunteer workers without compensation or pay of any kind whatsoever, the committee chairman would be much encouraged to hear from anyone who would help them in this time of much needed workers.

Phone Mrs. R. O. Mimmack, 173, or Mrs. C. H. Bennett, 175.

Anniversary Will Be Observed Sunday By Girl Reserves

The Girl Reserves and Campfire Girls will appear in a body at the Sunday morning services, November 1, in the Presbyterian church, at 10:00 o'clock, to commemorate the fifth anniversary of the founding of the Girl Reserve movement. This is a world wide character organization, and similar services are being held all over the world wherever the Young Women's Christian Association exists.

SHOT TO SCARE BUT HIT BOY

Plymouth's first reported Halloween prank has resulted seriously for two people, one Richard Hanna, a school lad residing on 77th Street, avenue, who is suffering from a number of small shot wounds in his leg, and the other, Sheldon Gale, residing at the corner of Farmer and Palmer streets, who, as a result of shooting to scare the boy, must face a felonious assault charge.

The shooting affair took place Wednesday evening shortly after 8:00 o'clock, when Gale thought Richard Hanna and a number of other boys were about to enter his place and turn over some bean lives. The boys contend that at the time of the shooting they were not on Gale's property. Mr. Gale explains that the shot simply frightened the boys.

Thirty-four shots from a small .22-caliber gun entered the boy's legs. A physician removed the shots and it is not believed there will be any serious effects from the wounds. Mr. Gale was taken before Justice Brooks Thursday forenoon for arraignment on the charge that had been placed against him. The boy makes his home with Mrs. Grace Weldon, his stepmother.

There was a large attendance at the tea held in the dining room of the Presbyterian church on Wednesday afternoon. The delightful program given was enjoyed by all present. The tea was in charge of Mrs. Roe, Mrs. Holcomb and Mrs. Kaiser.

Mrs. M. L. Thomas of 366 West Ann Arbor street, who recently tripped and broke her right arm is getting along fairly well.

Lansing Reports Better Business Throughout State

A decided change of mind regarding economic conditions is noticeable among men who transact business with the corporation division of the Department of state. During the past few weeks, it has been reported that "bright spots" of increased business activity are evident in various parts of the state. The corporation tax this year, while not as large as in 1930, exceeds by about $500,000 that amount that was estimated the state would receive. The total 1930 tax collected was $7,440,300. This year $6,622,869 has been paid by corporations thus far and is estimated that at least $130,000 more will be received before the end of the fiscal year June 30.

MAYOR NAMED ON COMMITTEE

To Represent This Place On County Unemployment Committee.

Village President Robert H. Mimmack has been appointed to represent Plymouth on the Wayne County Unemployment Committee which committee was formed at the request of the State Unemployment Committee. The organization which is made up of county, village and township officials of Wayne county, will coordinate the work of furnishing employment on public works for as many unemployed as possible.

There are available certain funds furnished by the state of Michigan to be distributed by the Board of County Road Commissioners in the employment of approximately 1500 men. The committee has decided that the distribution of the labor provided for under this arrangement should be allotted to the townships, villages and cities upon the basis of population of each.

Figures have been compiled showing the number of men allotted to each district. Naturally the City of Detroit will secure the greatest number of jobs. Plymouth, according to the report, will be entitled to jobs for three of its citizens if 100 men are employed, and for four if 1500 men are employed.

Charles Rathburn, supervisor of Plymouth township, has already assigned the men for Plymouth and Plymouth township to those openings and is looking for any available additional men will be assigned to the work.

Mrs. F. D. Schrader and Miss Evelyn Schrader extended hospitality Tuesday, to their Island Lake Club at a bridge-luncheon at their home on Main street. The following guests were present: Mrs. Williams, Mrs. McMillan, Mrs. Roop, Mrs. Fisher and Miss Louise Fisher of Detroit; Mrs. Barker of Wayne, Mrs. Leith, Mrs. Bailey and Mrs. Duncan of Brighton, and Mrs. Russell of Island Lake.

Pioneer Resident Taken By Death

Sarah Elizabeth Shaffer was born May 19, 1853, in Plymouth, Michigan, and was married March 12, 1875, to George Willis, also of Plymouth, which union resulted in their first child, July 17, 1909.

After an illness of sixteen months, Mrs. Willis was called to her heavenly home Thursday, October 22, 1931, leaving to mourn their loss, a devoted daughter, Vera Willis of Plymouth; one brother, Edward Lodge of Northville; two nephews, Claude Shaffer and Earl Lauffer of Detroit; several other relatives and a host of friends.

Mrs. Willis was of a genial disposition and during her long life had endeared herself to many. She loved beauty, being especially fond of flowers, and during her long sickness was very appreciative of the beautiful flowers sent her. Sleep, dear one, sleep. Life's conflicts are over. No more sickness or sorrow.

All of your troubles forever are over. God, in His mercy, gives to you rest.

BOAT SWAMPED, TWO DROWNED

George Whaley, Former Local Resident, and Flint Companion, Lost in Bay.

DUCK HUNTING TRIP ENDED BY DISASTER

Two Others on Trip With Them Spend Five Hours in Effort to Reach Shore in Small Duck Boat.

George Whaley, well known former Plymouth resident, who for a number of years past has resided near the corner of the Five Mile and Farmington roads, was drowned Sunday with Everett M. Hales of Flint, when a motor boat they were using on a hunting trip in Saginaw bay was swamped when it filled with water from a leak that is believed to have been caused by the high waves.

Hay W. Couch and George W. Davis, companions with them on the trip, were saved when they got into a duck boat they were towing, cut loose from the sinking motor boat, and paddled to shore.

Accurate details of the accident have been difficult to secure, but from what information E. B. Freatman, owner of the Blue Bird restaurant at 272 South Main street, and a friend of Whaley could secure on a trip to Saginaw, Tuesday, it is believed that Davis, who is a brother-in-law of Whaley, and Couch were able to get into the duck boat before it was pulled down with the motor boat. They cut the rope loose and as they drifted away from the motor boat, their companions had donned life preservers, but search made for them later resulted in failure. Not even a trace of the motor boat could be found. It required nearly five hours for the two survivors to paddle their boat to shore, where they immediately reported the accident.

Howes was ascertained that the two who had been left with the sinking motor boat might be found alive Monday by aviators, who flew over the bay where the accident happened, but the searchers reported no trace of the motor boat.

Mrs. Whaley, who had gone to Saginaw with her husband, returned home late Monday, but went back to Saginaw Tuesday night in the hopes that some favorable news might be found.

Officers Wednesday gave up all hope that the men would be found. Mr. Whaley at one time was a clothing salesman in Plymouth.

Brides Are Guests At Club Affair

Two recent brides, members of the Business and Professional Women's Club, were guests of honor at the annual Hallowe'en party of that organization, which was held at the home of Mrs. Frank Everett, on Tuesday evening, October 27th. A very clever program in keeping with the occasion, had been arranged by the committee, consisting of Mrs. Lila Teggan, chairman, Sarah Gayle, Josephine Everett and Florence Stader. The house was beautifully decorated in all the pomp of Hallowe'en ghoulishness. During the evening a treasure hunt rewarded the searchers with gifts of flowers, and other specialties, with the exception that the quest of the two brides brought them gifts from the club. Mrs. George Gunn, nee Irma Eckles, president of the club, discovered a set of silver knives and forks, and Mrs. Wm. S. Smith, nee Irene Brown, an electric iron.

After several hair-raising Hallowe'en games and stunts, spoons were banished, bridge tables brought forth and shattered nerves and shivery spines were calmed by several games of bridge and delicious refreshments.

Three new members were welcomed into the club on this occasion, indicating some very efficient work on the part of the new membership committee with Charina Penney as chairman.

PLYMOUTH BANKS JOIN BILLION DOLLAR FEDERAL CORP. — ACTION MAKES LIQUID UNLIMITED FUNDS

Engagement of Miss Athalie Hough, Prominent Plymouth Girl, to Dr. Francis Archibald, Is Announced

An engagement of much interest to a large circle of friends here and abroad is that of Miss Athalie Hough, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edith S. Hough, to Dr. Francis Archibald of Rosedale, N. J., son of Dr. and Mrs. William Laird Archibald of Wolfville, Nova Scotia.

The announcement was made at a luncheon of attractive appointments given by Mrs. Hough and Miss Athalie at the Meadowbrook Country Club on Wednesday, October 28, by a number of their most intimate friends. The guests were seated at a U-shaped table decorated in autumn leaves and yellow baby mums, and the engagement was made known by tiny engraved cards at each place, bearing the names of the couple.

Dr. Archibald is a graduate of Acadia University, Wolfville, Nova Scotia, and McGill University, and was given his doctor's degree by the University of Toronto. Boys And Girls, Look Out! Police Or The Goblins May Get You

The entire police department, together with extra men, will be on duty Hallowe'en for the purpose of guarding against the destruction of property.

The village officials want everyone, children and grown-ups, to enjoy the Hallowe'en activities, but the destruction of public or private property will not be tolerated. The idea of damaging someone's property is fast disappearing and it is believed that the children of Plymouth will not turn to this type of pastime on Hallowe'en.

There will be someone on duty at the village hall until a late hour to receive calls and transmit them to the patrolmen through the signal system of the police officers. They will cover the entire village and will keep in touch with the phones so they can receive any call which comes over the police lines.

The cooperation of all parents and children is required in order that no damage will be done to local property.

HUNDREDS AT DEDICATION

New St. Michael's Church At Rosedale Gardens Formally Opened to the Community.

MANY NOTED VISITORS PRESENT AT EVENT

Banquet Attended by Nearly 600 Ends Program of the Day—Judge Brennan of Detroit Is Chief Speaker.

With all the impressiveness that such an occasion demands, the beautiful new St. Michael's church-school of Rosedale Gardens was formally dedicated Sunday.

A tremendous throng of people, seemingly every one in Rosedale Gardens, with large numbers from Plymouth and Detroit, was present to take part in the event that means so much to Plymouth's fast growing little neighbor to the east.

When the doors were opened at ten o'clock, for the first Mass offered by Rev. John E. Conway, the youthful pastor who has been delegated the tremendous task of building up what promises to be one of the largest parishes in the metropolitan area, there was not a vacant seat in the whole church. In fact, it was necessary long before the service started to provide additional seating capacity for the accommodation of the hundreds who crowded into the church.

The altars were beautifully decorated with chrysanthemums, roses and ferns, all gifts from the florists of Plymouth and the ladies of the parish. Amid the floral display were some exceedingly rare flowers that had been saved especially for the occasion.

Among the hundreds of visitors who came to visit the church and attend some of the ceremonies of the day were countless friends of Father Conway from Ann Arbor, Mr. Clements, Detroit, Dearborn and several parishes to his assignment at the new St. Michael's parish by Bishop Gallagher.

The program of the day was concluded with a banquet served by ladies of the Altar Society and their daughters in the parish hall which had been arranged to seat nearly 600 guests.

Musical during the dinner and evening songs provided by the Schaffer orchestra, one of the well known musical organizations of this vicinity.

Members Of Baptist Church Enjoy Rally

At the First Baptist Church a large congregation composed of many visitors who have been listening in on the Good News Hour, and local friends were entertained last Sunday evening in the interest of continuing the Radio Broadcasting.

A quartet from the League of Nations of the Highland Park Baptist church rendered several selections, which were enthusiastically received.

Noel Burnham sang a very fine solo, and Mr. Fields gave a short history. Rev. Neale told of the many letters which he had received about the Good News Hour, and Mr. Burnham of the Temple Baptist church, told why he thought the broadcasting should be continued and asked for the cooperation of those interested.

Through the help of Mr. Ham, a fine Philco radio was installed, and through the generosity of station WJIB, Mrs. Neale, Miss Hamill and Miss Roe broadcasted for fifteen minutes, and then a short time later having arrived back in Plymouth rendered another beautiful selection.

Mrs. Neale gave a short sermon entitled "Rich But Ruined," at the close of which, through the invitation of Mr. Neale, several came forward.

Charity Peddlers Must Get License From State To Sell

Attention has been directed to a new law, Act No. 252, Public Act of 1931, which became effective September 18. It is of vital importance to every resident of Plymouth.

This law aims to put an end to the business of selling merchandise, books, advertising, etc., from door to door under the cloak of charity.

For years, the state has been infested with door-to-door salesmen, disposing of all sorts of merchandise, with the sales talk that some of the price went to a home for Crippled Children, an Aged Couples Home, etc. The institution was always located at a great distance to preclude any investigation.

After September 18th, all such sales must be made under a license from the State Welfare Department. We have been given to understand that licenses granted will be few and far between and anyone trying to sell such merchandise must have a license.

REAL WELCOME TO NEW PASTOR

Methodists Hold Reception For Rev. and Mrs. Norton Thursday Evening.

Beautiful in its simplicity was the reception held in honor of Rev. and Mrs. P. Ray Norton and daughter, Miss Florence, last Thursday evening at the Methodist Community Hall, which was transformed into a beautiful living room for the occasion.

Amidst the glow of many floor and table lamps, beautiful colored silk leaves and many bouquets and baskets of baby mums, and pretty leaves, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Sutherland, Mr. and Mrs. George Rieland, Rev. and Mrs. Norton and Miss Florence, and Mrs. Luther Pasagge received about two hundred guests.

Robert Joffe as master of ceremonies, announced the program. Mrs. Neale, in the absence of Rev. Neale, conveyed in songs the "Heartly Welcome" of the Baptist church, accompanied by Miss Melissa Roe. A greeting from the Sunday school by B. E. Cobb, superintendent. An address of welcome by Sgt. George Smith. Duets sung by Mrs. Wm. Baker and Mrs. J. Chapman, accompanied by Miss Barbara Baker. An address of welcome by Rev. Walter Nichol, pastor of the Presbyterian church, and in closing, George Hallowe responded in behalf of the church members.

Rev. and Mrs. Norton very graciously accepted and expressed their appreciation of the wonderful welcome they had received in coming to Plymouth. At the long serving table with its crystal punch bowls, tall lighted yellow tapers and low silver hold of yellow and orchid baby mums, the Mrs. Norton very graciously presided, assisted in serving punch and wafers by Jean Joffe, Katherine Schultz, Carol Hammond, Marion Jean Squires, Thelma Lunsford and Florence Gray, members of the Queen Esther Society.

FACTORY SOON READY TO RUN

Workmen Putting Old Iron Plant In Condition For New Industry.

Workmen are busy putting into condition the former plant of the Plymouth iron works for the use of the Peninsular Metal Products Corporation of Detroit that recently decided to operate the Plymouth plant if purchased a number of months ago.

A few days ago a contract was awarded by the Peninsular company to the Drying Systems, Inc. for the installation of an oil burning heat treating system and oil storage tanks. This equipment will be used in the manufacturing of its products.

There are a number of steam fitters, pipe fitters, brick layers and carpenters busy at the plant, and it is believed that the place will be ready for operation within the next week or two.

The company manufactures automobile body parts, such as window frames, moldings, instrument boards and interior trim for cars. It has an especially good business in Detroit.

Officials of the company do not make any prediction as to the number of men that will be employed here, but it is probable that the force to be used at the beginning will be considerably enlarged as business conditions require. Except for the executives, all labor will be Plymouth men.

Miss Leona Gale, who is a teacher in one of the schools at Adrian, with her brother, LaVern Gale, call on their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon Gale of Palmer avenue, last Saturday afternoon.

It is hoped that there will be a large attendance. There will also be a large Saturday afternoon.

HOOPER IDEA OF GREAT AID

Local Banks Represented At Meeting Held in Detroit To Form Plans for State.

VAST SUMS WILL BE AVAILABLE TO BANKS

Plymouth United and First National Will Become Part of Greatest Banking Credit System Ever Inaugurated.

Through the action of the Plymouth United Savings bank and the First National bank of Plymouth in joining the billion dollar National Credit Association proposed by President Herbert Hoover, there will be opened to the residents of this community the use of unlimited resources of the country.

Both Plymouth banks were represented at the meeting of four hundred Michigan bankers held in Detroit Monday. Officials of the Plymouth United Savings bank and the First National bank were present during the entire sessions.

These four hundred bankers will form the Michigan district comprising the majority of the banks of the Lower Peninsula. The federal government has proposed that the country be organized into districts as under this system it will be much easier to handle the affairs of such a tremendous financial organization.

While all the banks of the southern part of the state were not represented, a resolution was passed at the meeting in Detroit urging all the banks in the state to become a part of the greatest credit pool ever formed in the history of the United States.

It was brought out by representatives of the government and great banking interests at the meeting that the plan would liquidate funds that have been regarded as "frozen."

In fact, the decision of the two Plymouth banks to join with this great federal bank credit system as proposed by President Hoover, eliminates any possibility of such unfortunate bank closings as have taken place in some other communities.

The articles of agreement that the banks have gone into provide that each member shall have at their disposal any such amount of money as may be required to put their affairs in a liquid position in order that the plan puts at the disposal of the banks the greatest cash sum ever made available for business purposes.

The action of the two Plymouth banks in becoming a part of the National Credit Corporation places them in the same strong position as the People's Wayne County bank, the Guardian Detroit Bank, the First National bank of Detroit, and all the other great financial institutions of that city which have also become a part of the National Credit Association.

American bank leaders look upon the formation of this corporation as outlined by President Hoover as the one greatest aid the country could have devised to assist in bringing an end to the present business condition.

In places at the disposal of American manufacturers, retailers and farmers, for liquidation purposes, a billion dollars that has been lying in idleness in the great banks of New York and elsewhere.

THE MOTORIST PAYS

During recent weeks and since the state highway department has been considering the widening of Grand River road from Farmington to New Hudson, there has been considerable talk among motorists who use Grand River to a great extent about the straightening of M-10 so it will run to the north of Howell, thereby providing a short-cut off around that place just as the Ann Arbor road runs along the south limits of Plymouth.

Of course, if this plan should come before the state highway department for immediate consideration, there would be a storm of protest from the village of Howell, just as there was at the time the Plymouth-Ann Arbor cut-off was under consideration. But everyone in Plymouth is now perfectly satisfied and thinks that the state highway department did right in carrying the immense amount of traffic that travels the Ann Arbor road off the main streets of Plymouth.

Trunk line highways are built for the convenience of the traveling public, and not for the convenience of some certain town or city. That point seems to be pretty generally agreed upon.

It is to be assumed that the suggestion that a cut-off be built on M-10 north of Howell has resulted from the stop-light nuisance that has existed in Howell for the past year or so.

The village has arranged its lights in such a way that one to travel through the place must make at least two stops, most generally three, according to motorists.

Just how much gasoline and oil is wasted by these unnecessary stops would be a difficult thing to estimate, but in the course of a year there is no doubt but what it would run into the thousands of dollars. It is stated that at least at two of the stop lights there is exceeding little cross-traffic. Cut-off would be paid for by them within two or three years at least by the saving made in gasoline that is burned while waiting for the change of stop lights in Howell.

They say that the motorists pay for the building of all new roads, so why not build them to do away with traffic nuisances such as exists in the metropolis of Livingston county?

At any rate the suggestion is one worthy of consideration by the state highway department. It would relieve Howell of the traffic that apparently is so objectionable to the community and it would give the motorist a direct road around the place that would save mileage as well as traffic light annoyances.

The motorist pays the bill, and his complaint is worthy of a hearing.

TRIAL REAL TEST OF CHARACTER

They are not wanting signs to indicate that a deep sense of fear for the dissolution and strife which the approaching winter may bring is abroad in the nation and the world. The trend of a long train of depressing events has crystallized belief that next winter will witness the climax of the present unrest. Portents of brewing trouble are scattered among the news stories of the day—generally inconspicuously. President Green of the American Federation of Labor warns that the government must aid the jobless, or face rebellion. A flat tenant in Chicago is evicted, a riot results, three are killed, many wounded. A northern Wisconsin city, on the brink of bankruptcy, asks the attorney general how its poor are to be fed. Manning Collet Norman, governor of the powerful Bank of England, broadcasts the warning that unless drastic measures are taken the capitalist system of the world will be wrecked within a year.

We have at least passed the camouflage stage and begun to face facts. No one any longer denies that industry is in a bad way—not even the professional political optimists. At last we are facing realities divested of bunk, and that is progress. The people that sat in darkness have seen a great light. We know that in spite of the luminous vision and lofty designing of the mighty wizards of industry and finance things can go awry, show them up suddenly as mighty little wizards. We know that the politicians' cock sure formula for prosperity, die-cut stamped and trade-marked, can be turned by events into a withering irony. We know, in a word, that we still have a good deal to learn about industry, trade, commerce, economics, finance. Recognizing our ignorance, there is hope that in time we may learn.

It does seem that the people who sat in darkness have begun at least to see great light. Our next most urgent need is faith, faith in ourselves and, to be honest, faith in God. We need to remind ourselves that Providence will not suffer us to be tempted beyond that which we are able to meet, to limit equally our physical trials. We can catch glimpses of a rainbow of hope in the parable of the birds of the air that neither sow nor do they reap nor gather into barns, and yet they find food enough somehow, and time to exercise the blessed gift of song. We can find inspiration in the parable of the lilies of the field that labor not nor do they spin and yet Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed as one of them.

We are facing a time that may bring organized unrest. We can face it in the spirit of the timid and cowardly, ready to turn tail and flee at the sound of the first siren in the brush. Or we can face it bravely and confidentially. Trial is the real test of character. It is Waterbury and Valley Forge that fix names in history, not the eras of artificially stimulated prosperity about which there has been so much hallyho. There is nothing to be gained by taking a fearful prospect of what is ahead. Generally the anticipation is worse than the reality. Everything is to be gained by facing the situation squarely and resolutely and adapting our manner of life to meet it. The winter may not be so bad after all.—Times, Chilton, Wisconsin.

HE DID RIGHT

We approve wholeheartedly of the action of Governor Wilber Brucker in his decision not to call a special session of the state legislature for the purpose of considering additional tax burdens. The Governor has made it quite clear that he will not tolerate any diversion of highway funds for other purposes than for which they are collected. A very large portion of all money spent for highways is paid for labor. These are the days when laboring men are entitled to get every dollar they can and the state should see to it that the workers be given just as much employment as possible. Governor Brucker has made it emphatic that the gas tax and weight tax money shall be spent for the things the motorist pays it for—not to go into some sinking fund or be used in some other way that will give no immediate benefit to anyone. Again may we applaud the governor for his decision in this matter.

THANKS

Plymouth appreciates greatly the splendid write-up that appeared in Monday's issue of the Detroit Free Press. It was especially well written, and pointed out clearly the many advantages of this ideal community. The article was one of a series that the Free Press has been running on communities within the metropolitan district of Detroit. The article contained not only timely facts about Plymouth, but it briefly reviewed the early history of the community and told of its steady advancement during the years of its existence. Again we thank the Free Press for the excellent write-up it gave Plymouth.

VICIOUS LEGISLATION

Some people often wonder just what the expression "vicious legislation" means. During the past few days there has been received at the Plymouth Mail office a "news" item from one of the government departments which provides as perfect an explanation of "vicious legislation" as has ever come to the attention of a newspaper.

All civilized nations are governed by laws. The man who kills another is made a murderer and criminal, because the law says he shall not kill some one else. The man who steals your money or other property from you is made a thief by the fact that we have passed laws which says he shall not steal your money or your property. In fact any offense against society, against you, has been made an offense by the enactment of either federal, state or municipal laws. We pass laws just for one purpose, to protect ourselves and our property.

We ask you to read the following "news item" carefully.

"The District Director of Immigration at 300 Owen Building, Detroit, Michigan, advises that in March, 1923, Congress at Washington, D. C., enacted a law to enable aliens who had entered the United States prior to June 3, 1921, (illegally) or without proper registration by the United States Immigration authorities, or who cannot establish the date of their legal admission, to have their residence in the United States legalized, provided they can support their claim to continuous residence in the United States from prior to June 3, 1921, to the present time through the production of documentary evidence of employment or residence. The law also requires that the applicant for registry produce two witnesses preferably citizens of the United States, who can testify under oath that they have personal knowledge of the continuous residence of the applicant in the United States for the time claimed by him. These witnesses must not be related to the applicant or to each other. Any alien desiring to avail himself of registering under this Act should write to the United States Immigration authorities, 130 West Larned Street, Detroit, Michigan, requesting to be furnished with the necessary forms on which to file application for registry under this law. These forms to be filled out by the applicant in duplicate after which they are to be sworn to before a notary public with seal, then forwarded to the United States Immigration authorities, 130 West Larned Street, Detroit, Michigan, accompanied by a post-office money-order in amount $20.00 payable to the Commissioner General of Immigration, Washington, D. C., together with six photos on white background, the size as indicated in said form, each photo to be signed by the applicant with his present name in the left hand margin in such way as not to come in contact with his features. Upon receipt of this application form the Immigration authorities will advise the applicant for registry as to when and where he is to later appear for examination with his two witnesses and documentary evidence of residence and employment. The Immigration authorities advise that the documentary evidence should be in the form of letters in duplicate from the employers of the applicant, setting forth the exact periods of employment with each respective firm by whom he has been employed. If applicant has not been steadily employed, periods during which he was unemployed should be covered by affidavits from the people with whom he resided. If the applicant has acquired property in his own name the production by him of his land contract or deed with tax receipts showing payment of taxes by him in his own name on the property since date of purchase will also be accepted as proof of residence in the United States. Also if the applicant has been a member of any organization, benevolent or fraternal, which organization through a secretary keeps a record of the various members, the dates of payments or dues and residence, a letter from the secretary or recorder of said organization will be accepted. If the applicant has been a user in his own name and the records so show, of electric service, gas service, telephone service, or water service, at his various places of residence in the United States from prior to June 3, 1921, to the present time, a letter from each of these respective companies will be accepted as documentary proof of claimed continuous residence in the United States. The Immigration authorities further advise that the Certificate of Registry, if and when issued by the authorities at Washington, legalizes the residence in the United States of the applicant as of his claimed original entry prior to June 3, 1921, for immigration as well as NATURALIZATION purposes. If the applicant desires to take immediate steps to become a citizen of the United States, he should produce the said Certificate of Registry to the naturalization authorities who will lift same from the applicant and forward it to Washington to secure the necessary certificate of arrival for naturalization purposes after which the naturalization authorities will return the certificate to the applicant, and issue to him his first papers. This Registry Act is in no way identical with the Michigan State Alien Registration Act recently passed by the State Legislature and the information given under the Immigration registration act is not available for any other than the use of the Immigration authorities."

That is a fine piece of business, isn't it? By one single act, congress has raised to the exalted state of American citizenship, granted to him a right to win the same rights that you and every other American enjoys, the foreigner who BROKE our immigration laws and SNEAKED into this country under the cover of darkness.

The only requirement congress has imposed upon this foreign law breaker is the fact that he must have broken the law prior to June 3, 1921 in order to win the citizenship rights that every American regards as his highest possession.

Why not free every man who committed a murder before June 3, 1921? Why not turn the hordes of criminals that fill our prisons from one end of the country to the other, free and give them a standing they never before enjoyed?

They are just as much entitled to this freedom as are the foreigners who broke our laws by coming into this country in an illegal way are entitled to the rights of citizenship. Hereafter it has been the policy of the government to deport these immigration law violators. Now we are to bestow honors upon them for breaking the laws of the United States.

The law passed by congress says it will require the testimony of but two persons for the law-breaking alien to be granted citizenship. It says they must testify that they know the law-breaker broke the law previous to June 3, 1921. In these days of easy perjury, what does that amount to?

A fine law, isn't it? It is about as good an example of what is called "vicious legislation" as has ever been brought to light.

How it could have escaped considerable attention in the newspapers of the country at the time of its enactment, is something difficult to understand.

Every congressman who voted for it, should be relegated to the political dump-heap.

IN FAIREST HUE

She's not an artist—goodness, no!— This little girl of mine. No sketch of hers will ever show One touch of genius fine. But still she likes to show to me Each little thing she draws— And as her handwork I see, I point to her no flaws.

But best of all, Miss Goldie Locks, (Her hair shows golden glints), Delights to use the little box That's filled with colored tints! She likes to take the magazines We've read and thrown away, And color them with reds and greens, And all the colors gay.

She never paints with somber hues— The grays, the browns and such, But to the frocks, the hats, the shoes, She gives the brilliant touch! And as she grows to older age, As little folks must do, I pray she'll paint each single page Of life, in fairest hue!

What Other Michigan Editors Are Thinking About

Michigan's Glory

It will pay anyone to take a few days for a trip through Michigan, just to see God painting the woods and the hillsides in marvelous tints and colors. Dressed in glory, call out "good night." California has its romance, its sub-tropical charm of fruit and flowers, but it never has had and never can have, anything that will thrill the soul like the matchless panorama of a Michigan landscape, with its sublime coloring and far flung witchery. The fall painted trees and woods are here. Go out and see them now and come back, bathed in a new thrill of life.—James Haskins in The Howard City Record.

Churches Failed

The World War wrecked our economic and financial systems and the moral fabric of our 300 year old civilization has almost been stranded on the peaks of greed, avarice and appetite. Even the churches have not escaped. Our financial and economic systems will be revised and reorganized. What about the churches? They should be the sheet anchor of both the others. Roger Babson, the statistician and economist, has said that the most of our depression troubles are due to a lack of religion in business affairs. Maybe he is right.—George English in Huron County Tribune.

Will Help Everybody

James Sweinhart, Birmingham resident, tells the readers of the Detroit News that the Federal government can bring employment to over a million men, and add a large portion of the United States, by building huge food-prevention reservoirs along the Mississippi River. Mr. Sweinhart, recognized as one of the most astute and accurate reporters in the United States, presented the project in a manner that ought to command the respect of President Hoover and the national unemployment committee headed by Walter Gifford.—George Averill in The Birmingham Eccentric.

Engle For Governor

I notice that the name of Senator Albert J. Engle is being mentioned as a possible candidate for governor next year. I happen to know this senator and believe he knows what it's all about, isn't afraid to tell what he thinks and generally thinks conservatively. It is intimated that Sen. Engle is mentioned to split the Brucker vote. With that phase of the situation, I have no concern. What I do know of Senator Engle is that he would make a splendid governor in his own right.—Thomas Conlin in The Diamond Drill of Crystal Falls, Mich.

that hangs over every man with "expense worry," here's an easy plan: open a Savings Account here, regularly deposit a share of income first—and apportion the remainder among expenditures. It's surprising how quickly worries will disappear, and how a cash reserve will grow—a bulwark against emergencies, and a means of grasping opportunities.

Varsity Club Starts Work

Meeting for the first time this year, the Varsity Club had several things to discuss. The officers, elected last spring, are: Harlan Wagenschutz, president; Lester Bassett, secretary and treasurer; and Arthur Amrhein as bonicer or sergeant-at-arms. The Northville game was the chief topic of discussion. Kenneth Gates was appointed by the president to keep the parking space open and to keep the people off the field. He is to receive the aid of the remainder of the club and part of the H-Y.

The club also discussed making programs for the Northville game and giving them out.

Pins were discussed, but nothing was decided. The club has many a good court and without any doubt it will be of real service to the school.

Travel Club Visits Eloise

Helen Bridge, a graduate of Plymouth High was the speaker in last week's Travel Club meeting. She gave an interesting account of her trip to Europe, which was appreciated by the club.

Twenty-one members inspected some of the buildings at Eloise last Saturday, October 24. There are 57 buildings, housing 7,000 people, which is really a large place when one works from one end to the other. That was our opinion anyway. Everything, of course, is arranged very systematically. We went through the hospital part of some buildings where the patients do quite a bit of the work. We saw a kitchen, dining room, laundry, bath, shop, dental office, medical and surgical laboratories, and the industrial shop, where furniture, rugs, toys and other things are made by the patients. Some of the handwork was very beautiful. There were also pictures, drawn and painted by patients, on display.

The tour through this large institution for unfortunate people was certainly very educational to us all, and we were glad of the opportunity to go through it.

Central Grade School Notes

The Thrift Banner was again won by Miss Winmore's kindergarten last week.

The first-B's in charge of Mrs. Root say the children's "Salute to the Flag" each morning. They also know the meaning of the colors of the flag. In the vocabulary test, given to group one, Elizabeth Ann Hoehelisa, Katherine Vateck and Margaret Jean Nichol received one hundred per cent for knowing all the words. The language class have learned the poem, "Come Little Leaves," and are enjoying the stories from the "Book House" book which was brought to school by Elizabeth Ann Hoehelisa. Corinne Schille and Borji Anderson have come here from the Starkweather school making a membership of thirty-nine.

The children in the First-A class have studied the maple and the elm trees in nature study. They have various kinds of nuts and leaves arranged on their nature study table. They are planning to have a Halloween party, so in handwork they have made pumpkin baskets for popcorn and candy. Each child is striving to be polite as they have been talking about courtesy in class. The poem, "Golden Keys," was read to them for illustration.

The two-B group under Mrs. Alhan have made a nut chest. The nuts brought to school by different pupils, in nature study. They were greatly surprised with a horned owl brought by Owen Gorton. Mrs. Hall was a visitor in this room one day last week.

In Mrs. Wilcox's room, the pupils made Halloween costumes for silent reading. Robert Forten has moved to Detroit. There are seventeen pupils that have been neither absent or tardy this month.

Mrs. Frank Hall called in Miss Waterhead's third grade last Wednesday morning. E. F. Campbell also called one day last week. The children in hall have been studying Indians and made Indian posters.

In Miss Field's four-B class, the following people were on the honor roll for the last marking period: James Birchall, Carl Doherty, Margaret Erdelyi, Robert Moore, Virginia Stringer, Elouise Swartz and Billy Thomas. There were twenty-two people who had perfect attendance last month.

Phyllis Barrows received the highest score on the reading test in Mrs. Holiday's room. The B's made rainfall maps of South America last week.

The fourth graders in Miss Hall's room had a spelling down and Elaine Eifert stood up the longest. They also looked at some stereoscope pictures on the New England section of the United States. The fifth graders have been writing friendly letters in English class. Mrs. Selmondage visited this room one day last week.

The sixth graders in Miss Fenner's room received one hundred per cent in spelling last Friday. The teams are the new. They have been making maps of South America in Geography.

Commercial Club Pot-Luck

"When do we eat?" That was the popular call last Tuesday noon when twenty-seven Commercial Club members met for a pot-luck dinner at Riverside park. This is the second party held this semester. The first party called a week before was held at the Old Southern style Babcock. At this party twelve new members were initiated and the remainder of them were initiated last Tuesday. After a good heavy dinner, Don Boyd, Floyd Elshardt, Lein Wright and Kenzie Hansen were blindfolded and led around the park, uphill and downhill, climbing tables, stumbling over boards, and at last proposing to certain nice girls. After the initiation the rest of the club joined in going up the slides and swinging. Finally when it was time for school they realized that there was not more time for fun.

Local Stars Make Ypsi Frosh Team

Two of Plymouth High football stars of last year are playing on the Michigan State Normal College frosh team. Last week Stanley Lanier, captain and quarterback of last year's team, and Marvin Bannerman, one former big tackle, started against the Highland Park Junior College. Both fellows played the full game. Bannerman kicked off for Ypsi, and his work on the line was very noticeable. Both fellows are doing very good work, and Plymouth is proud of them.

Girls Earn School Letter

One thousand points, earned for scholarship, athletics, and social activities are not easy to get. Three girls so far this year have earned their letter by getting the required number of points. They are: Mary Urban, senior; Laura Kincaid, junior; Elizabeth Kusera, senior.

The girls' soccer tournament has started with the sophomores, so far, in the lead. The captains for the class teams are Mary Kincaid, freshman; Frances Cooper, sophomore; Christine Nichol, junior, and Elaine Hamilton, senior.

So far the standing is as follows:

Class	Won	Lost

Still Need Bankers

Slowly, very slowly, the number of students banking is increasing. Even though there is a depression there is still a large need for students who should bank. This week more were unit economy for bankers. This week Mr. Cobb's room snatched the banner away from Mrs. Van Wagoner's room. Will Mr. Cobb's room keep it next week or will some other room take it from him, that is the question.

Class Serves Breakfast

As a review over studies about the breakfast unit, the girls in the SA foods class have been discussing meals suitable for people their own age. After studying light, medium, and heavy breakfasts, the class concluded that a light morning meal is most suitable for school girls. Before starting on the luncheon unit, some of the girls served breakfast to the other girls in the class. This week, in working on main dishes for luncheons, the girls have made chop suey, Spanish rice, macaroni and cheese, and meat loaf. They have hung attractive posters on luncheons for students in school in the lunch room.

Basket Weaving Club Busy

In Miss Traut's Basket Weaving Club there are now twelve members, coming from grade seven, eight and nine. They are working fast to fill the baskets and raffia. Six of the members are constructing them with wooden bines and others are making them entirely of reed.

Scientists searching for the material that will absorb and retain the most heat might try sheeting.

State Official Rating of Plymouth High School

One of the most important things considered in athletics is the sportsmanship exhibited both on the part of the team and the spectators. There was a time when the only thing considered in a game was victory, regardless of how it was obtained. Times have changed and victory without sportsmanship is worthless. The Representative Council of the Department of Public Instruction has authorized a plan of procedure which it believes will help improve various phases of the athletic program. The officials of 1930 were given blanks which they filled out rating the school in different phases. According to the correspondence received from the Representative Council, Plymouth ranks high in both administration and sportsmanship. In the control of spectators Plymouth received the lowest rating. The student body of Plymouth should take it on themselves to improve in that phase this year.

The key to the ratings below is as follows: (1) excellent; (2) good; (3) fair; (4) below average; (5) very poor. The ratings listed below are those received from approved officials who have officiated in the games that Plymouth participated in during 1930-1931. This information is being sent Plymouth in accordance with instructions from the Representative Council of the State Association. The Council felt that Plymouth would be interested in knowing its rating as expressed by officials who have worked in its games.

Administration—Correspondence List: punctuality 1.5; Game preparation 1.7; and Control of Players 1.3. The average in administration is 1.5 or midway between excellent and good.

Sportsmanship—Coaches 1; other school officials 1.3; players 1.3; spectators 1.7. Average in sportsmanship is 1.3.

The standings of Plymouth High are very good, but there is room for improvement. It will be noted that the sportsmanship of spectators receives the lowest grade. This refers to undue whistling, boo-ing, noise tending to confuse opponents, and attitude of the crowd toward the officials and decisions.

The chief difference between character and reputation is that character doesn't peter out when you stop advertising.

Two Practice Debates Held

After reading all available material, preparing speech briefs, and outlining cases, the debate squad arranged for two practice debates which were held last Tuesday and Thursday nights. Ypsi Roosevelt upheld the affirmative and Plymouth defended the negative of the question. Resolved, that Michigan should enact legislation for Compulsory Unemployment Insurance, here at Plymouth, Thursday Ann Arbor High brought their affirmative team over for a practice debate with P. H. S. Negative team which was composed of Irene Humphries, Evelyn Torabacher and Odene Hitt. Neither of these debates were judged; however they served as excellent practice.

H-Y Boys Hear Interesting Talk

After a regular business meeting was held, the H-Y boys enjoyed a talk given by Edwin Ash, who was a delegate of the H-Y Club to Hays-Went-Ha. He told of the routine at the camp, which is located on the shores of Old Torch Lake. This was followed by a talk given by Mr. Dykhouse, concerning his trip through Canada and several states. While going through Massachusetts, he stopped at Salem and saw the House of Seven Gables, which is a house that has seven roofs. The back of the house faces the Atlantic ocean, and when the tide comes in, one can see waves that are fifteen feet high. He also showed him a door which is known to be secret staircase. Salem is known for its witchcraft. He then visited Marblehead, which is noted for its good bathing. Later he visited the home of Hawthorne and Thoreau, who built himself a house near Walden Pond. He lived in the woods for the purpose of being alone so he could write. Mr. Dykhouse found many interesting

School Pauses in Honor of Edison

During the time of the funeral of Thomas A. Edison, all school activity stopped in a moment of silence as tribute to him. The following announcement was sent to the teachers:

"In recognition of the wonderful service which Thomas Alva Edison rendered America and the world during his long active life, all the pupils in the high school will lay aside work for a period of two minutes at the beginning of the eighth hour, and then immediately resume work as usual."

In some classes the instructors pointed out two or three outstanding events during the long career of the inventor, while in others the pupils paused in attention for two minutes as a mark of respect for Mr. Edison.

Annual Farm Fire Loss of $100,000,000 Can Be Cut at Least in Half by Proper Safeguards

The annual farm fire loss of $100,000,000 can be cut at least in half by proper safeguards, the U. S. Department of Agriculture believes. The first of these is forethought in the construction, maintenance, and use of property with a view of eliminating needless fire danger. The second is home preparedness in the form of simple fire-fighting equipment. The third is community preparedness through a fire-fighting organization equipped to check larger fires or to prevent their spread. Farmers' Bulletin 1643-F, Fire Safeguards for the Farm, tells how to reduce fire hazards on the farm. It may be obtained from the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Plymouth G. R.'s Attend Fall Conference

Plymouth Girl Wins Inter-City Office

How proud our captain, Mrs. Crumble, was when she landed her troop of twenty-two girls at the Detroit Y. W. C. A. building last Saturday morning so that they might attend the fall Girl Reserve Conference. Every Senior Girl Reserve officer and committee chairman, every Junior and Intermediate Girl Reserve officer and one adviser attended the conference. It was later learned that Plymouth had the largest number present out of the twenty-one schools represented.

The program, which moved very smoothly and systematically, started promptly at nine forty-five, with group singing in the auditorium. Miss Frances Wood, a Camp Cavell acquaintance, led the morning worship. Next officers and advisers of the Y. W. C. A. were introduced. A Northwestern Girl Reserve gave a very convincing talk pointing the deplorable financial situation in Detroit, and urging the G. R. groups to contribute to the Community Fund. Then, according to each girl's position in her club, she spoke to the informal discussion groups where duties were discussed. Plymouth girls were outstanding in these groups as Christine Nichol led the secretary's discussion, and Alice Chambers led the Ways and Means discussion in the absence of another girl.

After lunch we were entertained by a harmonica band. The members were fellows from the age of fifteen to eighteen years old. It is a new experiment, and the director of the band urged the girls to try playing a harmonica too.

At two o'clock the girls went to interest lectures, either hobbies, world peace, religion or Y. W. C. A. work. Then came the business meeting when the inter-club council officers were elected. Leona Herick of Highland Park, was elected president at Camp Cavell last summer. Plymouth G. R.'s are very proud of Christine Nichol who was elected secretary of the Inter-Club Council.

At three o'clock we returned to the auditorium for the closing ceremonies. Again Miss Prasher told the girls about the Golden Anniversary of Girl Reserves and urged us to attend at least one of next week's events. The Conference closed with the girls repeating the purpose, slogan and code, and the singing of "Follow the Glean."

School Pauses in Honor of Edison

During the time of the funeral of Thomas A. Edison, all school activity stopped in a moment of silence as tribute to him. The following announcement was sent to the teachers:

"In recognition of the wonderful service which Thomas Alva Edison rendered America and the world during his long active life, all the pupils in the high school will lay aside work for a period of two minutes at the beginning of the eighth hour, and then immediately resume work as usual."

In some classes the instructors pointed out two or three outstanding events during the long career of the inventor, while in others the pupils paused in attention for two minutes as a mark of respect for Mr. Edison.

Annual Farm Fire Loss of $100,000,000 Can Be Cut at Least in Half by Proper Safeguards

The annual farm fire loss of $100,000,000 can be cut at least in half by proper safeguards, the U. S. Department of Agriculture believes. The first of these is forethought in the construction, maintenance, and use of property with a view of eliminating needless fire danger. The second is home preparedness in the form of simple fire-fighting equipment. The third is community preparedness through a fire-fighting organization equipped to check larger fires or to prevent their spread. Farmers' Bulletin 1643-F, Fire Safeguards for the Farm, tells how to reduce fire hazards on the farm. It may be obtained from the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Annual Meeting Of W.C.T.U. Held; Large Number Are Present

The annual meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union was held Thursday, October 22, at the home of Mrs. E. C. Vealey, on the Peninsula avenue. The attendance was unusually large. Some very interesting current events were read by the members.

Delegates chosen for the state convention at Jackson, November 7 to 11, were Mrs. E. C. Vealey, Mrs. Clemens, Mrs. Ross and Mrs. Hillmer. Reports were read by the treasurer, Mrs. Starkweather, the flower mission superintendent, Miss Cora Pelham; and the press superintendent, Miss Nettie Pelham. An interesting resume of the year's work was given by the president, Mrs. Vealey, after which Miss Nettie Pelham paid the following tribute to the two members who have been called home during the past year:

"Members of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, as we are gathered here today for our annual meeting, it seems to us most fitting that we should pay a loving tribute to the two dear sisters whose death has claimed within the past year: Mrs. Rhodie Patterson who served this union many years as secretary, and later as president, and who was ever untiring in her work for the temperance cause; and Mrs. Sarah Bartlett who, though holding no office, was for many years a faithful worker and a zealous temperance advocate. "One but a worker true. Yet neither failed in duty. Whatever the task to do, Each cherished the little ribbon. That told of the valiant struggle For God, and for Home, and for Right. "They are gone but not forgotten. And, now, as we meet today, We offer a loving tribute To the two who have passed away."

The program opened with an excellent paper, "How Can the W. C. T. U. Help the School?" by Mrs. Clemens. This was followed by a bright and interesting talk by Miss Edna Allen, whose position in the school brings her in close contact with the pupils and gives her an excellent idea of their views on life and its problems.

Next came the election of officers which resulted in the following being chosen for the coming year: President, Mrs. E. C. Vealey; recording secretary, Mrs. Clemens; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Mary Hillmer; treasurer, Mrs. E. C. Lauffer.

November and December meetings will be combined and will occur December 10, at the home of Mrs. Clara Patterson-Todd.

History Contest Of D.A.R. Sure To Prove Of Popular Interest

The Sarah Ann Cochran Chapter, D. A. R., is sponsoring the second essay contest in American History in the eighth and twelfth grades of our Plymouth High School. The contest is part of the patriotic education work of the chapter. The response to the first contest was gratifying, and the chapter feels that to some extent we accomplished our aim, to arouse interest in American History. It is hoped that this year the number of contestants participating may be much larger.

The subjects chosen this year are especially timely, as this is the bicentennial of Washington's birth. The three subjects for both grades are: "Washington, the Statesman," "Washington, in War," "Washington at Home."

The conditions of the contest are as follows:

1. Any student in either eighth or twelfth grade American history classes, who are doing B work at the end of the first semester and maintain that grade through the second semester, are eligible.

2. Those eligible are to do original research work on any of the subjects presented.

3. The essays in eighth grade are to be from 500 to 1000 words in length; in the twelfth grade, from 1200 to 2000 words and both must include a bibliography.

4. The essays are to be judged for historical material, originality, composition and neatness, historical material scoring 50 per cent, originality 25 per cent, composition and neatness 25 per cent.

5. The contest is to end May 15, but an acceptable and completed bibliography must be in by April 1, and complete outlines for the essays are to be submitted by May 1. Failure to comply with these two requirements will automatically disqualify contestants.

6. The three judges are not to be D. A. R. members nor teachers.

7. The prizes for the contest are as follows: In the twelfth grade, first $5.00, second $2.50; in the eighth grade, first $3.00, second $2.00.

The essays are to be typed and identified by number, not names. All papers must be copied exactly and contestants are responsible for errors.

Gullies ruin fertile land, interfere with farm operations, undermine buildings, encroach on public highways, endanger the life of livestock, and often mar the appearance and lower the market value of a farm. They are also largely responsible for filling up reservoirs, streams, and dredged channels, and for covering bottom lands with deposits of sand. To prevent gullies, say drainage engineers of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, increase the absorptive capacity of the soil, protect the surface from erosion, and make the surplus water run off slowly. To reclaim gullies, plow-in and seed to grass or timber, or build soil-saving dams that check erosion and cause the gully to fill with silt above the dams.

There were a number of attractively arranged booths, chief of which was that of the Altar Society, which was decorated with all the various articles donated to the church by various business houses and friends of the new church. Several oil paintings by artists of the community were also displayed. The background of this booth represented a golden rising sun with the cross of sacrifice above, a beautiful setting for the display that was made. The booth resulted from the untiring efforts of Mrs. John W. Walker, vice president of St. Michael's Altar Society.

Hon. John V. Brennan of the Recorder's court of Detroit, was the chief speaker at the dedication luncheon. He was introduced by Judge Leo R. Schaefer of Dearborn, who acted as toastmaster for the event. Judge Brennan gave an outline of the country's history, told of the efforts of the pioneer forefathers who first built churches and schools, then constructed houses of worship. Judge Brennan lauded the efforts and ability of Father Contway, the builders, Burnett-Honlez Co.; the Sheldens in their generosity, and particularly mentioned the slogan Rosedale Gardens has adapted as being the best of all—Where Rosy-Cheeked Children Blossom.

Father Contway, in his address, paid a glowing tribute to Bishop Gallagher and declared that it was due entirely to his zeal and his persistence which had made possible the dedication of the new Rosedale Gardens church. "It is his one passion to spread the faith, to care for the souls in the world, no matter how scattered they are. His dream, our dream has come true. In two months time we have here in Rosedale Gardens, one of the finest plants of its kind in Michigan, a church, a large hall, classrooms, a playground and rest room, all furnished at the very start of our existence," declared Father Contway. "All of this has been done for the one purpose of serving the community. The crowded church at the opening indicates well for the future. The look of happiness, the spirit of cooperation has been wonderful indeed.

"Religion is the science of salvation and to that end we are devoting our untiring efforts." Another speaker was Monsignor John J. Hunt of Detroit, who spoke of the wonderful work that had been done in such a brief time in Rosedale Gardens by the building of a church and school.

Miss Antonette Cassio, soprano, sang a number of Italian songs, and Messrs. James Long, baritone; Carl Sobie, tenor; Mark Piccolini, baritone, and Charles Wiggie, tenor, were accompanied by Rosedale's own Miss Angeline Rousseau, on the piano.

An observer counted three hundred nineteen cars parked and double parked along Pembroke road at six o'clock, and it is conservative to state that there were before and after that time more than double that number, and each car had brought two or more occupants to visit the new edifice to church. It was a perfect day all day, with clear warm skies and a just as perfect an evening with clear skies and a bright full moon, which almost dimmed the myriad of big flood lights and the long string of hundred watt bulbs along the new sidewalk on Pembroke Rd.

By far the greatest number of visitors at one time and on one day visited Rosedale Gardens. Souvenir books printed by the Plymouth Mail, all done up nicely in gold ink and cords contained pictures of the Rt. Rev. Michael J. Gallagher, D. D., Bishop of Detroit; the pastor, Rev. John E. Contway; the new building, the menu and program, then the master plan of the parish; last but not least, cards from local business houses and those contributing their services and wares to the completed building, one of beautiful design, permanent structure and a wonderful monument to the purpose to which erected.

Special tribute should be paid the ladies of St. Michael's Altar Society for this, their first affair. Days and nights of hard work made this event one to be long remembered. Mrs. Fred H. Winkler and Mrs. Arthur J. Boyd acted as hostesses; Mrs. John W. Walker and Miss Estelle M. Ludwig were the ladies at the ice cream and cake table; Mrs. Harry Eggleston, Mrs. Harold Brishols, Mrs. Joseph F. Bonassuti, Mrs. James B. Kinahan, Mrs. Walter Culler, Mrs. Ray Kalmbach, Mrs. Walter Brown, Mrs. McNulty, Mrs. Roy Mason, Miss Anthony Petoskey, Miss Margaret McDowell, Miss Edith Boyd, Miss Christine Boyd, Mrs. John Holman, Mrs. Joseph Shadler, Miss Lucille Holman, Mrs. Edwiga Burger, Mrs. John Glenn, Mrs. Stanley Glenn, Mrs. Gregor, Miss Alice Brown, sons and daughters and husbands of the above mesdames, were all busy bees in dining room and kitchen serving foods that they had prepared, and Mrs. James Duntlop of Dearborn, and Mrs. Carey had arranged, particularly the chicken vol-au-vents, which everyone claimed the best they had ever eaten.

Winners of big prizes were all out-of-towners. The Tudor sedan was won by Mr. O'Neill of Columbus, Ohio; the big arm chair won by Thomas Long of Detroit; the beautiful floor lamp won by Mrs. Anna Ryan of Saginaw. A London doctor says sweets will cure asthma. This will prove a new wheeze for little Willie.

Coming Attractions At Penniman-Allen

"24 HOURS"

Hailed as a startling innovation in unfolding a screen story, the "space shot" technique was used throughout as Paramount adapted Louis Bromfield's fascinating story of city people, "24 Hours" to the screen. This novel production will be on view at the Penniman-Allen theatre, Sunday and Monday, November 1 and 2.

There is only one fade-in, when the picture opens, and only one fade-out, at the end. The space shot device employed in shifting from scene to scene aims to give the audience the feeling of movement through New York, heightening the atmospheric and dramatic effect.

As the title implies, all the action of the story occurs within a period of twenty-four hours, and in the picture the action is continuous, without time lapses.

The unusually large number of scenes in "24 Hours," ranging from skyscraper pleasure haunts of the fashionable rich to hide-outs of the underworld element, are so connected by "space-shooting" to insure new standards in flow of action, according to studio executives.

Oliver Brook, Kay Francis, Miriam Hopkins and Regis Toomey play the featured roles in this mystery story of tangled lives laid in modern New York.

"MY SIN"

"My Sin" will be the feature attraction at the Penniman-Allen theatre, Wednesday and Thursday, November 4 and 5, with Tallulah Bankhead and Fredric March and a supporting cast of exceptional talent.

All the world knows of the astonishing success of Tallulah Bankhead on the open stage, particularly in London, where for eight years she became a veritable craze with English devotees of the theatre. And the Londoner knows his dramatics. They are all schooled in the art of "make believe." They spot talent instantly and never fail to award merit a generous acclaim. And when talent is buttressed by beauty, then all London becomes enslaved to the new queen of the drama. This was Tallulah's setting for eight years.

When Miss Bankhead returned to her native land, Paramount immediately secured her for the stellar role in "Tarnished Lady" in which she scored an unquestioned victory as a screen star of extraordinary brilliance.

In "My Sin," Fredric March plays opposite Miss Bankhead. The play is a thrilling story of the regeneration of two human derelicts through mutual sympathy and an understanding love.

Here is a story that demands an actor of strength, versatility, and inherent sympathy for its leading male characterization. Paramount made a wise selection when they cast March for the part. He has a likable personality and a reservoir of dramatic ability ample for the most strenuous demands, yet he can be delicate when subtleties are required in the part.

A chain letter is no stronger than the weakest superstition.

Faith is not very plentiful, but the supply equals the demand.

HOME MEETING HELD

Last Tuesday evening the members of the Torch Club gathered in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Taylor on Ann Arbor street, for the purpose of having a home meeting and to induct the following new members: Lawrence Moe, Robert Johnson, Robert Gillis and Harold Cline.

The induction took on serious atmosphere when the four boys were blindfolded, the lights were turned out, and three candles were left burning while the boys were told about certain things pertaining to the Torch Club and while they took their oaths. Afterwards Edward Taylor led a discussion on The Value of the Torch Club in a Boy's Life.

Through this discussion many interesting points were brought out, the chief point being how much the Torch Club helped the boys in solving their personal problems. The club was well supplied with older and doughnuts throughout the meeting. Later in the evening the club was entertained by a quartette consisting of the new members, who were made to sing several selections. The club wishes to extend their appreciation to Mr. and Mrs. Taylor for opening their home to them and making possible an enjoyable evening.

NOTED RADIO EXPERT COMING

Dr. Luther S. H. Gable, noted radiologist and lecturer, will give an illustrated talk before the high school assembly on Wednesday, November 4.

Dr. Gable, a Detroit, will tell of the wonders of radium and will illustrate his talk with radium in fully protected boxes. Radium is such an active metal that workmen preparing it for the market work behind six inch lead plates and also wear lead-lined gloves. Dr. Gable has what is thought to be the largest single display of radium ever shown. He is the only surviving one of the six scientists who first found radium in Colorado carolite.

The other five died as a result of their experiments with radium. One of the things he will show will be a siphon with which he made a radium highball. He claims that if this highball is taken in the right proportions life may be sustained indefinitely. He forecasts motors in airplanes that will be vibrationless and able to circle the earth six times without refueling, a mere 150,000 miles. Motors have already been run by radium, and when a practical catalyzer has been invented radium will be the means of transportation. This assembly will cost the students 10 cents.

STARKWEATHER SCHOOL NOTES

The first-B and first-A classes have had vocabulary tests in reading. They have made Halloween borders of black cats, pumpkins, owls and witches. Some of these they traced and then cut out, and others they drew free-hand. Miss Sturkey's class received a blue star in banking last week. Mrs. William Blunk and Mrs. Harry Durant were visitors in this room.

The children in Miss Stanley's room have decorated the walls and made black borders appropriate for Halloween. They have some new "Let's Grow" books with calendars for each school month. In this book there is a place to be colored black each morning if the child has a cold. This is the third week this class has kept the thrift banner, and last Tuesday they had 100 per cent banking. The children are proud of their thrift buttons, and of the gold star on the school banking chart. Mrs. Arizan and Mrs. Leonard Studer were visitors last week.

The four-A class had a score of nine in Arithmetic drill. The fourth grade has a new formery filled with beautiful ferns. The four-B geography class is studying manufacturing. The children in Mrs. Miles' room are enjoying the story "Huckleberry Finn" by Mark Twain.

Miss Hunt's five-B language class are learning how to write letters. They have written some very nice ones. They gave a citizenship program in which some very nice interesting talks were given about different heroes of our country. The five-B reading class are enjoying the poem, "Hawartha." Thirty-one children received stars in spelling last Friday.

Ellen Mstrom spelled down Miss Farrand's sixth grade class. The boys are going to lose the arithmetic contest if they don't study a little harder, for the girls are now in the lead. They also enjoyed some special reports that were given on Russia. Mrs. Durant visited Miss Farrand's room Wednesday.

COMPLAINTS: An old fighter's method of dropping on one knee to pick up a little spending money.

Humidity in houses should be from 30 to 50 per cent, but in most houses it is probably 20 per cent or lower—too dry for health. The drier the air, the more difficult it is to heat a house, as moisture in the air carries and retains heat. A rough practical test of humidity is to notice the inside of the windows on a cold day. If frost forms freely on the inside of the glass, there is probably enough humidity. If there is no sign of frost the air is too dry. Pans of water attached to the furnace or to radiators are ineffective in supplying moisture to the air. The better types of commercial humidifiers for spraying the heated air as it leaves the furnace are very satisfactory.

Remember Thoxine will relieve sore throat or coughs within 15 minutes or your money back. 35c, 60c, $1.00 bottles. Sold by Dodge Drug Co. and all other good drug stores.

Rosedale Gardens

P. T. A. Fifth annual masq-ball was held at the school house on Tuesday evening. Greater than ever before, the affair was the best yet, and from all accounts the countryside folks enjoyed themselves more than ever, and are planning now for next year's sixth annual masq-ball Halloween party.

Of course, the lady parents prepared the usual sandwiches and cookies for dunking, so all might dance and sip and dunk. Prize winners will be announced elsewhere.

Shrub beds are being dug about the cross roads, in double kidney designs, by Supr. A. Honcke and his shrubbers.

These beds will contain many beautiful pieces in the near future, so that all may be nice for blooms next spring.

A number of plants, bushes and trees that died from the heat last summer, are being replaced.

Climate has much to do with the quality of fur produced on a fox farm, says the Bureau of Biological Survey of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. A cool or cold climate with a moderate rainfall, principally in spring, helps to produce fur of high quality. A fairly deep snow throughout the winter aids in controlling most of the common parasites of ranch-raised foxes. Hot summers are not detrimental if they are short and followed by a period of frosty weather, when the animals can renew their coats.

WILL THE INSURANCE COMPANY PAY?

That is the question all automobile owners should satisfy themselves on when they buy automobile insurance.

—NOT—how much does it cost?

Because there are but 100 cents in a dollar and because losses must be paid fairly and equitably, is the reason why good, reliable insurance costs more than cheap insurance.

Cheap insurance generally means that you are expecting something which in reality you are not going to get.

You know enough about business to know why.

We have made thousands of lasting friendships through our fair and speedy settlement of claims.

MAGCABEES IN STATE RALLY

Plymouth Well Represented At Meeting Held In Lansing

The autumn rally of the Maccabee Hives of Central Michigan took place at the Prudden auditorium, Lansing, Saturday, October 24th, with a great many of the Supreme officers attending. Opening, as it did, in the morning, it provided a full day of Maccabee enthusiasm. The morning session was given over to the drills as exemplified by the juvenile courts of these counties, and no finer drill work was ever done by any team than some of the drills given by these youngsters in their striking costumes; they received much applause. Then the convention was honored by the presence of Governor and Mrs. Brucker, who came to pay their respects, both giving short but impressive addresses. The governor calling on all the loyal citizens of Michigan to lend this great state their finest support during this critical time, and assuring all that everything that could be done was being planned to relieve the unemployment situation and a plan which would mean the placing of 40,000 men in wage earning capacities during the coming winter was being completed at the present time, and more plans were under consideration. He spoke, too, commending the Maccabee organization on the splendid work it is doing to help its own members and the wonderful slogan it is adopting, "Not a Maccabee on the Welfare."

In the afternoon the various Hives in the district exemplified their drills, nineteen guard teams competing for the prizes. The Emerson Guards from Plymouth drew seventh place in the line-up. Their team proved to be the largest from any one Hive, having twenty-two members on the floor at one time, and would surely have received a prize if they had not exceeded the time limit. Their drill was exceedingly well done, more figures formed with less effort than other teams, but the auditorium being so much larger than the one they were used to practicing in, and the time limit being eight minutes, they were barred from a prize for marching a few seconds overtime which of course was very disappointing to all participating.

However, the very fact of appearing in such a wonderful event and the applause and commendation they received, as well as the five dollar prize given them for appearing in uniform, helped to ease their disappointment.

One of the outstanding events was the advertising drill put on by all the Hives of the district, displaying the advantages of Michigan, such as dairying, agriculture, fruit growing, the manufacture of automobiles, airplanes, toys, etc., and her chances for a higher education with such colleges as Albion, Michigan State and University of Michigan. Also her creameries, the raising of veal at Kalamazoo, and her many recreational features, golfing, swimming, boating, skating. There were more than three hundred on the floor at one time during this demonstration.

The Detroit Guards who are so widely known competed with the Williamson-Burns team for the prize for mixed teams, and were both exceptionally fine. However, the W-B's won over the Detroit Guards amid thunderous applause.

Twenty-six members of Plymouth Hive including the guard team attended the rally. The Emerson Guard team is composed of the following members of the local Hive, with Ethel Emerson as Captain, Edith Honey as pianist; Ladies: Venita Algair, Lucinda Archer, Elsie Campbell, Margaret Daly, Mabel Dicks, Elsie Dosenbeck, Edna Dews, Iliida Eckles, Mabel Fisher, Zaida Gorton, Ella Gould, Lolla Heller, Mildred Hower, Ethel Miel, Esther Minhorn, Mary Bengert, Edith Rowland, Mary Sackett, Maudie Schrader, Hattie White and Dora Wood. The Guards wish to thank Plymouth Hive for its loyal support and good wishes and hope to win a prize at their next appearance.

Correct this sentence: "Oh, that's all right," said the filling-station man; "I'll be glad to take your check."

A fish out of water suffers, but thing of an important citizen in a town that doesn't know he's important.

Farm woodlands should be made to pay their way from year to year, and good management and fire prevention will make the woodland produce regular crops of timber as well as firewood and fence posts, according to the Arkansas College of Agriculture Extension Service. Burning to "green up" the woods not only damages the trees and the seedlings, but kills out the better grasses.

Money to Burn
By Peter B. Kyne

Following Bunker's unceremonious departure Elmer Clarke sat down to do some solid thinking. He had to prove to himself that the threat should not prove to be an idle one, he was liable to find himself in a most unenviable position.

"Well, one thing is certain," he decided. "If the collector of internal revenue seized on by Bunker, should levy on the total residue of the estate, I'll be back financially where I was before Uncle Hiram died, but with this exception—I'll be out of a job. Well, I'll soon find another. My health is A-one again, so what the devil do I care for the slings and arrows of outrageous fortunes, provided I do not have to wait too long to marry Nellie?"

"Why, I almost forgot that I am mayor. I have got a job, after all, and it pays me one hundred dollars a month. Well, I've existed on less. Elmer, old settler, you're not licked at all, but oh boy, when you get back to Pliarretos your sense of humor is certainly going to be tested! They're going to tell this joke on you while anybody lives to remember it.

"Yes, indeed, Elmer Clarke, you're right! Pliarretos isn't going to be a pleasant place for you to live in hereafter, but—you're going to live there because Nellie lives there, because you're the mayor and also a high school teacher, and you can't resign from either job just because you're a public joke. That would be hauling down your flag, which is alien to your nature—besides which, it would be the very finest way of losing Nellie. Guess I'll sing the national anthem of Slam!"

He decided to await developments. It occurred to him that if Bunker really had such a club to swing he would have swung it most profitably on Uncle Hiram before the latter departed for that mysterious land where income taxes are not. He certainly would not swing it until he had collected his own legacy from the estate, for Bunker was too cunning to make such a madcap move. Perhaps his threat had been a monumental bluff.

"I think this is a matter I should take up with McPeake," he decided, and forthwith called upon the lawyer. McPeake listened to the incredible tale with a growing interest manifesting itself on his features.

"You're a shrewd judge of human nature, Mr. Clarke," he declared when Elmer had finished his recital. "Bunker is a rat. I am positive, however, that he is bluffing you. If he had had such a weapon to use on you, he would have used it long ago. Consequently, I think the best thing to do is to ignore him and proceed with the distribution of the estate."

"Well, I'll not accept any money that doesn't belong to me, Mr. McPeake."

"That's all very fine, but wait until you know for a certainty that it doesn't belong to you. A blank mailing charge is not sufficient grounds upon which to base an action of this kind; you cannot possibly be charged with being an accessory after the fact. I think this whole affair is a mare's nest and I advise you to run along to New York, enjoy yourself and return here in about six weeks. I'm certain that nothing will happen until the decree of final distribution is signed; if it doesn't happen then, it will never happen. I have no apprehensions on the matter, Mr. Clarke. Remember, Bunker is an ardent coward."

"Well, perhaps you're right, but I do not think he is bluffing. I don't think he has the courage to bluff. I confess I'm afraid of him."

"Well, I'm not, and the first day he comes in here I'll have him on the carpet and shake him down. I'll write you the results of my inquiries."

So Elmer went on to New York. Five weeks later McPeake wrote him that the real estate had been sold, that all of the debts of the estate had been paid and that a final decree of distribution had been granted by the judge of the probate court. McPeake added that Elmer's share of the estate would amount to approximately $218,000.

Immediately upon receipt of this information Elmer came on to Muscatine and the day after his arrival he was to meet McPeake in the latter's office. "Not a peep out of your friends, Bunker," he announced, coming at once to the subject closest to Elmer's heart. "I had him in my office and gave him a half hour, but could not get any admission from him. He talked vaguely of things he could do, but seemed disinclined to do them. I think he was bluffing."

"Has he received his legacy, Mr. McPeake?"

"I handed him his check ten minutes ago. Thought I might as well get rid of him before you arrived. McPeake reached into his desk and drew out a formal typewritten receipt with a check for $218,734.22 attached to it. "Sign here," he ordered—and Elmer signed and punched the check.

"You will now doubtless desire to look over my accounts," the lawyer continued, and spread before Elmer the final accounting he had prepared for the probate judge. "Here is the statement of the appraised valuation of the estate, with an inventory, and here are all of the vouchers that go with the final accounting. However, I have a client calling in ten minutes, so I suggest that you take all of these papers back to your hotel and study them at your leisure. You might drop in at the bank on your way out, and get that check certified."

Elmer gathered up all of the papers and took his departure. The check he had received was on the First National bank, downtown, so Elmer went into the bank first and approached the having teller's window. "I wish you'd have this check certified," he said and handed through the grill work.

The paying teller took it and departed. Five minutes later he returned and handed the check back to Elmer unceremoniously. "Sorry," he said, "but a distraint warrant has been served on the bank by the local collector of internal revenue, and we are delinquent from honoring any further checks on this account."

"I thank you," said Elmer politely and walked out. Up to McPeake's office he went. The client the latter had been expecting had not yet arrived, so Elmer went at once into the lawyer's private office.

"Well, Bunker has made good," he announced. "I told you I thought he wasn't bluffing. He planned his coup so cleverly that he got his own check, rushed downstairs and cashed it just before the collector of internal revenue seized the warrant on the bank. The funds of the estate are all tied up until the government experts have gone over the books."

"Holy jumped-up Jehosaphat!" yelled Absalom McPeake. "No!"

"But yes!"

"I don't believe it!"

"Go downstairs and ask the paying teller of the First National bank. He'll enlighten you. I went down there and he enlightened me."

"The dirty dog!" McPeake raved. "The dirty little snake in the grass to do a thing like this!"

Elmer shrugged. "All I'm hoping is that the collector of internal revenue leaves me enough to pay my few debts. I owe the Pliarretos Commercial Trust and Savings bank twenty thousand. If I get that much out of the wreck I'll be back where I started and in a month or two I'll be just as happy as if I had never been a millionaire."

"I haven't got terribly accustomed to being a millionaire," he added. "Spending money is a fine art and I have never learned it. Cheer up, Mac. If I'd collected all of this inheritance and had got accustomed to living on a million-dollar scale, Bunker's action would have broken my heart."

"You are game," McPeake declared admiringly, and called for his secretary. "Get the collector of internal revenue on the line for me," he ordered.

Thereafter for five minutes he listened on the line while the collector of internal revenue talked. Silently McPeake hung up.

"Licked," he croaked. "Licked to a frazzle!"

"All right, I'm licked," Elmer retorted calmly. "What interests me is to know how I was licked."

"Bunker went to the collector of internal revenue directly after you turned the real set of books and vouchers over to them, and for five weeks a corps of expert accountants have been experting them. The statute of limitations has run against the income tax returns for 1912, 1914, 1915, 1916 and 1917, but they have you nailed on the returns from these years. They have made up the tax returns for those years as they should have been made up had your uncle made an honest return, and the collector informs me that the estate owes the government two hundred and thirty-one thousand, nine hundred and four dollars and cents."

They looked at each other, and presently the slow, amused smile crept around Elmer's mouth. "Mac," he asked, "did you get your fee out of the estate before the crash?"

McPeake shook his head wearily. "Then the joke's on you, Elmer. Declared and stood up. "Well, now you get hold of that collector, run down his accounting and, when you are convinced he is right and you haven't a leg to stand on, you settle with him on the best basis you can."

"As for me, I'm out. I have neither the time nor the inclination to fight for anything except a living, and the longer I delay that assault the worse off I'll be. I'm about eight months behind the procession now and I'll have to hurry to catch up." He held out his hand. "Good-by, Mac. I'm on my way."

"Elmer, I'm terribly sorry," McPeake, friendliest of men, was calling him by his first name.

"Don't waste your sympathy, Mac. I'm one bird in this world who hates sympathy. I've never been able to use any. Uncle Hiram's money would have meant a great deal to me had it not been that girl I told you about, and for her sake I wish Bunker had never been born. But why reprove? When the collector of internal revenue proves his case, hand him this with my compliments," and Elmer laid on McPeake's desk the check the latter had so recently handed him. He held out his hand. "Good-by, Mac. Hope you get yours. You're worked for it—which is more than I did. You might write to me from time to time and tell me how you're coming along."

He shook hands and departed. Back at his hotel he packed his trunk and suitcase, telephoned downstairs for his bill and then lay down on his bed to wait for train time. At four o'clock he was homeward bound and three days later he dropped off the Del Monte Flyer at Pliarretos and made his way on foot up to his home.

He was greeted enthusiastically by Benny, his old hunting dog, and by Elmer and Estel, Jasper. To the latter he handed the wages due him to date. "I'll not need you any more, Jasper," he announced. "I'm sorry. You're a good servant and faithful, but I can't afford you. I'll dine uptown tonight."

He left the amazed and disappointed Jasper staring after him, and called up Nellie at the bank.

"Elmer speaking, Nellie. I'm home—back home and broke. I'd like to take you out to dinner to-night—probably for the last time—and tell you all about it. Uncle Hiram's estate has melted like a dish of ice cream on a hot stove. The funniest tale you'll ever listen to."

"Oh, Elmer dear! I'm so sorry!" Nellie's voice was pregnant with tears.

"Don't," he pleaded. "Please do not feel sorry for me, Nellie. Time enough for that when I begin feeling sorry for myself. I've assimilated the granest thrashing any man ever assimilated, and I can still stand and see and think clearly. Yes, I've taken a thrashing, but I'm not down and out for the count. I've got all kinds of fight left in me yet—you wait and see."

"Well," Nellie replied, "it's all terrible awful, of course, but for all that I'm happy. You have come back to me and nothing else matters."

"I've come back to you, but not for you," he answered bitterly. "I'm not dog enough to ask you to share my poverty with me. Nellie, you must forget that I was ever selfish enough to ask you to marry me."

"We'll talk that matter over before we decide," she retorted. "Pick me up at the house at seven o'clock."

At seven o'clock Elmer called for Nellie and drove her out to Joe Angelotti's roadhouse for dinner. And there, between the soup and nuts, he told her the tale of his vanishing million.

When the story was done Nellie poked the tablecloth with the tines of her fork and was silent for about a minute. Then:

"What are you going to do, Elmer?"

"Anything at all that I can find to do, Nellie."

"But you're the mayor of Pliarretos now—aren't you a trustee of the city high school. Are you going to resign and leave Pliarretos?"

"Not if I can make a decent living here. To resign and leave now would be equivalent to running away."

blackmail you. I knew all about them long before you did."

"Then in heaven's name, why did you keep me in ignorance and let me suffer?" he asked.

Nellie laughed softly. "Oh, I had a silly idea you'd think ever so much more of me if I permitted you to have some experience of her."

Elmer threw in his gears and the car glided down the highway. Presently he turned off into a lateral road and pulled up in the shadow of a line of eucalyptus trees. Very solemnly he switched off the ignition and lights and then turned to Nellie.

"Now," he said solemnly, "I'll kiss the most wonderful girl in all the world, and after that we're going to motor over to San Jose, get the county clerk out of bed, secure a license and get married. If I'm to stay in Pliarretos and pool my fortunes with yours, we might as well start now because—well, because—oh, Nellie darling, how can you love me so? What an ass I've been!"

Nellie's arms went around his neck. "Stop singing the national anthem of Slam!" she commanded. "You dear old body!"

you all the time! So Mr. McPeake fixed it with the bank to tell you that story and then he pretended to have a long conversation with the collector of internal revenue—and here's your two hundred and eighteen thousand dollars and some odd. Elmer—and oh, you're so brave and simple and unspoiled, and I love you so much more now that I know how truly fine you are—kiss me, booby, kiss me, I say! Take me in your arms and tell me you love me. I want to hear you say it—over and over again, darling—and say you forgive me. I've brought out old Anse Moody's controlling interest in the bank, and you're president and nobody is going to laugh at you. Oh, darling, I wouldn't let anybody do that!"

"Don't!" he pleaded. "You don't know anything about it. That Doris Gutwood will make a laughing stock of me yet. She can't prove a thing, but she'll give me a lot of publicity."

"She'll not. I have a dictograph record of her conversation with you the night she and Colorado Charley called to blackmail you. Why, I'm the one who put them in jail so they could think it over solemnly, and when they got out they'll leave the state on tickets furnished by me, or go to the penitentiary for conspiracy to blackmail you. I knew all about them long before you did."
