 "Soul and Body" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Christian Science Churches on Sunday, November 22.

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "O bless our God, ye people, and make the voice of his praise to be heard: Which holdeth our soul in life, and suffereth not our feet to be moved" (Ps. 66:8,9).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Man's individual being can no more die nor disappear in inconscientness than can Soul, for both are immortal" (p. 427).

Catholic Notes
 Sunday is the first Sunday of Advent. This season—Advent—consists of four Sundays preceding Christmas, commemorating the four thousand years spent in waiting by the Jews for the coming of the Messiah. All Christians today are urged to spend this time in recollection and prayer so as to obtain the blessings from the Christ Child on Christmas Day. The most practical way of doing things, is to do them. Attend church. Go to Mass.

 St. John sounds the keynote of this season. "I am the voice of one crying in the wilderness: make straight the way of the Lord."
 During these trying times, to whom shall man go for refuge and hope but to the God of Justice. Hence make yourself susceptible to many graces and blessings showered upon you poor mortals on Christmas day. Give and you shall receive.

The officers elected for the Altar Society are: Mrs. J. C. Rutherford, president; Mrs. A. Yuchs, vice-president; Mrs. T. Moore, secretary; Miss M. Mertens, treasurer.

Tuesday, Dec. 2, the ladies will sponsor a wholesome dinner to be given in the auditorium from 5:30 p. m. till all are served. Come yourself and bring your friends. Admission 50 cents.

 Prepare well for Christmas, enter into the season of Advent.

Presbyterian Notes
 The women of the Presbyterian congregation are very happy over the outcome of the bazaar and supper held last week. The leaders report the finest cooperation on the part of everybody. The supper was a real success both as to quality of the meal and as to the number of people. The home was beautifully supplied with materials for sale and practically everything was sold.
 The Sunday-school continues to make new records in attendance. Last Sunday the attendance reached an all time high point for the previous Christmas month.
 Several of our boys will attend the Older Boys' Work Conference at Ann Arbor this week-end. The Men's Class again have the privilege of helping to make this possible.

There will be cooperative dinner at noon and the usual business meeting and program. And don't forget the Christmas pie with its interesting surprises.
 The Mission Study Class will meet at the church on Tuesday evening of next week. There will be cooperative supper at 6:30 p. m. The program for the evening is in charge of Mrs. W. R. Shaw. Another excellent meeting is assured.
 The mission boxes and boxes will be packed at the church Tuesday afternoon, December 1st. Articles for these should be at the church by noon on Tuesday next. The need is very acute in the copper mining district of northern Michigan, to which boxes from Plymouth are sent. Think again as to how you may help.

The Board of Trustees will meet at the church on Wednesday, Dec. 2nd, at 7:30 p. m.

Life today is infinitely more complex than during your grandmother's time. It is increasingly difficult to distinguish relative values... hair-splitting by divergent schools of thought have made the great moral and spiritual truths the harder to find.

Constant church attendance helps mightily in orientating a perplexed state of mind. The worthwhile fundamentals of life assume a new importance, and living itself, finds a goal. As citizens about to assume the tasks of moulding tomorrow's citizens, you, especially need the guidance of the church.

Highway Officials To Give Portion Of Salaries To Welfare
 Employees of the Wayne County Road Commission have voted unanimously to donate a certain percentage of their pay for the next five months to the relief of needy families which have been unable to qualify for aid from the Welfare Department.
 The scheme, as outlined by Leroy C. Smith, engineer-manager of the Road Commission, is not to take in those men who are working only on their own works, but all those employed on full time.
 The percentage voted varies from one to two per cent, according to the amount of the salary, and the county treasurer will deduct this from the pay checks and distribute it among the various relief organizations of the county, the distribution being made according to population or assessed valuation.
 In Detroit the money thus raised is to be spent by the Feed a Family Fund, headed by William J. Norton, in the purchase of food, clothing and fuel, in cooperation with the general plan of the Wayne County employees headed by the auditors' office.
 The Road Commission has further relieved the pressure on the benevolent funds by employing nearly 2,000 men who would otherwise have been depending on charity.

IN Old Algeria

IN PLYMOUTH
 IN far off Algeria ceremonies affecting people of wealth and prominence are made just as impressive as possible. Yet, because of the antiquated equipment used, their processions lack much of the dignity and reverence that are characteristic of even modest services conducted right here in Plymouth.
 The Nu-3-Way, side servicing hearse equipment which we place at the disposal of our clients is unsurpassed anywhere in the world. Its modern method of receiving or delivering the casket from whichever side traffic or weather conditions make most safe and convenient constitutes the most important improvement in funeral services of our time.

The season of Advent, commemorating the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ, the Son of God is upon us. With childlike joy and happy anticipation we impatiently await and look forward to the well-known, blessed happenings of Christmas when "The Lord was Made Flesh and dwelt among us." This coming of our Lord in Grace admonishes us, however, that the Son of God will come again, for Judgment. Let us then employ well our allotted time on earth, preparing our hearts so that He may enter in.

Many Honors Given Miss Marguerite Wood

Miss Marguerite Wood was the guest of honor last week at two lovely "miscellaneous" showers given on Friday afternoon and Saturday evening. On Friday more than thirty guests attended the one given by Mrs. Albert Drews at her home on Liberty street. The afternoon was passed very pleasantly in guessing games provided by the hostess, after which Marguerite was showered with many lovely and useful gifts. Following this the hostess served a very delightful lunch at small tables placed around the rooms. Mrs. Drews had made her dining room most attractive with colors blue and pink, having ribbons on which kerpie dolls were fastened, suspended from the chandelier and blue and pink color scheme carried out in the table decorations. Little Arlene Drews was the bearer of the gifts to the bride-to-be, and she was dressed as a kerpie.

Saturday evening another "miscellaneous" shower was given by Miss Hazel Rathburn at her home on Penniman avenue. In Miss Woods' honor, at which ten of her former classmates of Plymouth High were present. The evening was passed playing bridge after which the guest of honor was made most happy with several beautiful gifts. Dainty refreshments were served, after which the guests departed for their homes with many wishes to the honored guest for a happy wedded life.

Miss Woods was also honored on Thursday, October 15th, with a miscellaneous shower given by the members of the Pythian Sister lodge.

Plymouth Enjoys Warmest Fall Ever Known In The State

Monday, November 23, the hottest Michigan November day ever recorded—that is what both the United States weather office in Detroit and Lansing say. The mercury stood at 69 degrees, nine degrees warmer than in California on the same day.

To Plymouth residents and other Michigan folk the delightful November weather has been most welcome.

While portions of the west have been experiencing blizzards with sub-zero weather, Denver being snow bound early in the present week, Michigan has had bright, sunshiny days.

That the good weather is a thing of the past was indicated Tuesday with a change to rain and wind and the weather department predicting plenty of it for the last of this week and the first of next.

Everything Routine in Life of Modern "Bossy"

Golf has crowded the cattle out of the pastures and the cow of tomorrow will be lucky if she ever gets a look at the green fields. The production of milk has been reduced to a very mechanical operation and the cow's life now consists of a rumble three times a day from her stall to a revolving milking platform and then back to her stall. The animal is kept so immediately clean that her sisters of the fields would not be able to recognize her. It is the latest method of producing milk and is based on the observations of a group of scientific gentlemen who have given thought to the subject and the new method has been in operation for a time at one of the plants of a well-known company specializing on super-clean milk for baby's use. It represents a complete revolution of the life of the cow, but the animals soon get used to the routine and are said to like it. The cow is released from her stall and she walks along a tiled-out corridor to a revolving platform which accommodates 50 animals. As the platform revolves the animal is washed and then dried in a current of warm air and given other attentions to secure her perfect sanitary cleanliness and after this she is milked by machinery. By the time the great turntable makes a complete revolution the operation has been completed and the cow is automatically released and she steps from the moving platform and back to her stall. Her drinking water is sterilized and her food is analyzed and electrically supplies a substitute for the deficient sunlight.

This generation is distinguished for believing everything it is told.—H. C. Bailey.

Strawberries Ripen In November, Added To Bank Exhibition

Another exhibit of more than ordinary merit has been added during the past week to the "big county fair" that is being held in the north window of the Plymouth United Savings bank.

In addition to the peanuts, sweet potatoes, corn and a dozen and one other things, Irvine Ray, Monday, brought to the bank's "county fair" a display of strawberries that he picked from his everbearing plants in Plymouth.

Strawberries ripening in Plymouth in November?

That's right. They look just like the first berries that are usually picked about here early in June and are of excellent color and size. Maybe if the "fair" keeps growing in size the bank will have to add a special exhibition room for unusual products grown in and about Plymouth.

How-ble Egg Hailed as Foundation of Cookery
 The French chef says: "All cookery rests on an egg. The egg is the Atlas that supports the world of gastronomy; the chef is the slave of the fresh egg. What is the masterpiece of French cookery, the dish that outlines all other dishes, the thing that is found on his majesty's table no less than upon the table of the bourgeoisie, the thing that is as French as the Frenchman, and which expresses the spirit of our people as no other food can express it?—the omelette. Could you make an omelette without breaking eggs? Then cast your mind's eye over this extraordinary Monsieur Egg and all his antics and evolutions. Now he permits himself to be boiled, fried, and even like that, without fail, he is excellent. Now he consents to appear in all ways from poached to perloo, now he is the soul of a velouté, now of a sauce, now a pie-crust fit to eat but stands by virtue of my lord the egg, and should all the hens in the world commit suicide tomorrow, every chef in France worthy of the name would fall on his spit, for fish is but a course in a dinner, whereas the egg is the element that holds all the castles of cookery together."—Kansas City Times.

Good Blacksmith, but Not "Long" on Spelling
 A few days ago a friend and I were talking about it was too bad that most of the men well-skilled in the old hand trades were disappearing from rural communities. The friend spoke of a local shoe-cobbler whose trade had been handed down two or three generations, and who could make shoes that would outwear any machine-made shoe that could be purchased. Another trade that is fast disappearing is the old-fashioned blacksmith. Some one from Connecticut wrote me recently of a Yankee blacksmith, long on horseshoeing but short on book learning. This blacksmith had a sign posted up about which our friend writes as follows: "I wanted a copy of that sign very much so I took a child's sled as an excuse and went to the blacksmith shop. While the sled was being repaired, I asked the blacksmith, with some misgiving, if I might copy his sign. 'Why sure,' he said, 'so ahead and copy. I cannot see why, but folks have been coming here to copy it, from all over, ever since I hung it up.' And here is what the sign said. Work did hear with latin speak. Satisfaction guaranteed. Horseshoeing in my line. That will stand the wear and tare of time."—American Agriculturist.

Robert Webber
 Robert Webber was born in Leamington, Ontario, May 22, 1856, was married to Elizabeth Kelley on May 22, 1880, and soon after came to Michigan, where they spent the most of their married life near Plymouth, and enjoyed together their golden wedding anniversary last year. After being in poor health for a number of years he passed away on Friday, November 20, at the home of a daughter near Plymouth, at the age of seventy-five years. To them were born eight children, three of whom died early in life. He leaves to mourn his death, besides his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Webber, two sons, Ivan of Pontiac, and Clarence of Flint; three daughters, Mrs. Budd Sheple, Mrs. Nina Fisher of Plymouth, and Mrs. Edith Green of Farmington; also two brothers, Edward of Pontiac, and Benjamin of Berrien Springs, and one sister, Mrs. Jennie Stockwell of Leamington, Ontario; fourteen grandchildren, three great-grandchildren, several nieces and nephews and many friends. As we start the road of life, We are full of great ambition And enjoy the work and strife. But soon the way seems steeper, The road not quite so bright.

Coming Attractions At Penniman-Allen
"TOUCHDOWN"
 Regis Toomey was once a football player. He dons the uniform again as a captain of one of the grid teams whose play figures in the plot of "Touchdown," at the Penniman-Allen Theatre, Sunday and Monday, November 29 and 30.
 Toomey, an alumnus of the University of Pittsburgh, played football only in his freshman year. Injuries sustained while a member of the first-year squad prohibiting his later participation in the gridiron sport. He started in track, however, throughout his four years at Pitt, and was student football manager.
 Richard Arlen, who heads the cast of "Touchdown," was at first string quarterback at St. Thomas, and Charles Starrett, another of the principals a Dartmouth graduate, played half on the "Big Green" team during 1924 and 1925. Further assuring an authentic background for "Touchdown" is the presence on the picture's technical staff of "Bachelors" Russ Saunders, University of Southern California quarterback, and named significant roles of Jack Oakie.

Diary Shows Washington as Successful Hunter

Many people are under the impression that George Washington's hunting experiences were confined to foxes in the vicinity of his home in Virginia. Such is not the case. In the autumn of 1770 he hunted buffalo while on his trip to the Ohio with his friend, Doctor Crank, according to the division of information and publication of the George Washington bicentennial commission. In his diary of November 2 of that year is found this interesting item on buffalo hunting: "We proceeded up the river (Kanawha) with the canoe about four miles more, and then incamped and went a hunting; killed five buffaloes and wounded some others, three deer, etc. This country abounds in buffalo and wild game of all kinds as also in all kinds of wild fowl, there being in the bottoms a great many small grassy ponds or lakes which are full of swans, geese and ducks of different kinds. It will be observed that Washington modestly refrains from stating how many of the five buffaloes fell from bullets from his rifle. On New Year's day, 1772, some friends called on Washington at Mount Vernon. Several days later he entertained them with a little hunting trip in the nearby forests which he tells about in his diary in this brief way: "Went a-hunting with the above gentlemen. Found both a bear and a fox, but not either."

Explorers Too Ready to "Pass Up" Australia

The continent of Australia was not discovered until just before the American Revolution. Louis de Torres, sailing from Peru in 1606 thought the northern Queensland coast was a portion of those island groups—the Marquesas, Solomon, New Hebrides—through which he had passed. The Dutch proceeding from Java several times met the west and north of Australia, but reported a barren and empty island inhabited by barbarous, cruel, black people. Abel Tasman, in 1642 found Van Diemen's Land, Tasmania, and left in disgust. In 1688 William Dampier, an English buccannier, landed in Australia, and the following year mapped the coast. In his report to King William he described the land as "sandy and waterless," with stunted trees, inhabited by the miserable people in the woods. A hundred years later the English scientific expedition under Captain Cook revealed the presence of wide belts of fertile land, and his landing at Botany Bay, Sydney, April 28, 1770, resulted in another continent for the British crown.

Charms of Mexico City

All visitors to Mexico, of course, desire to see the nation's capital. Here is a city of almost a million population, nestled in a mountain valley. Its climate is said to be unequalled in any place on earth, with the warmest days of summer never reaching 70 degrees. In Mexico City one may see a most cosmopolitan city with brilliant cafes and theaters, a sublime architecture, elegant stores—to say nothing of such picturesque staples as the flower market and the thieves market. Close at hand is Xochimilco, the "floating gardens," and the pyramid at San Juan de Teotihuacan. In another direction is Cuernavaca, a resort even in the days of the Emperor Maximilian and now connected with Mexico City by a paved highway. And over all brood the twin volcanoes—Popocatepetl and Ixtaccihuatl.

Miniature

A news item states that the largest shipment of golf clubs has just been made to Japan which but recently caught the craze for miniature golf. Owing to the lack of wide open spaces in Japan, and the national liking for decorated things, whether golf or plants, it is believed that the game will win permanent popularity there.

On the same vessel was another huge shipment of clubs for China, and the custom was asked if, in his country also, indeed golf was the rage. He turned up his nose in scorn. "No play in back yard, China big place. We hittee balltee like hell—next week, maybe find him. No find him—buy new ball and hittee again."

The Woebegoners

Dr. R. C. currently of the Royal Ontario museum estimates that millions of lives were saved in Europe since the medieval period when china plates took the place of the old germ-soaked boards from which everybody once ate. Up to a century ago these still bitterly opposed because they dulled the knives. Every advance toward sanity and sanitation has been fought by the army of prejudice. Let the Woebegoners who deplore our modern civilization go back to the germ-laden wooden dinner dishes. If they wish to be logical.

Trick Photography

The photographer was engaged to take a group picture of the school. Bobby forgot to dress up on the day appointed and told his teacher he was worried about the hole in the knee of his trousers. When he was assured that it would not be likely to show in the picture, Bobby faced the camera. After the picture was taken he ran to his teacher and said: "Say, but I'm shot, I didn't dress up. You know that man let me kneel in this front row, and the hole was all covered up just as good as my new pants would have done it."

Yankee Sailors Opened Hawaii to Civilization

The United States may well thank Boston and its daring men of the sea for the fact that Hawaii rather than the Tri-color or the Union Jack. A Spanish navigator discovered the islands in 1555, but his country laid no claim on them and they were virtually forgotten. The British Captain Cook visited the islands in 1778 and named them the Sandwich Islands. Still the islands were practically unknown. Then, following the close of the American Revolution, American ships began to sail the seven seas in growing numbers, and in 1791 the first ship flying the American flag—from Boston—visited the Hawaiians. It was the first of many from the same port, carrying traders, whalers and adventurers, and soon the natives learned of the Republic on the continent to the east and to acquire the ways of the white men. The Boston traders found each of the islands under a separate king, with two rival rulers on Hawaii, the largest of the islands. One of the latter obtained firearms and ammunition from the traders and got their assistance in building a "navy." With this American help the British Captain Cook, the Pacific, conquered the other islands, and as Kamehameha I ruled over the consolidated kingdom. His line died out with Queen Liliuokalani, and the United States came into control.

Need Not Visit Europe for Literary Research

Two professors of English at Southern Methodist university published a book, "Famous Editions of English Poets," in which 18 volumes of verse are reproduced in full, just as they appeared in the originals, with numerous copies of the old title pages. This involved a vast amount of labor and research, and was done at Oxford university and the British museum, where original copies of such works as Shakespeare's sonnets, Pope's "Essay on Criticism," Byron's "The Prisoner of Chillon" and Tennyson's poems were available for copying. On returning to this country, the Texas-Wreck relates, the scholars were surprised to learn that all the rare volumes they had consulted overseas could have been found in libraries of their own state. This is an amusing incident, but it is more. It indicates how our country has made tremendous progress while its expanded economically, and that it has libraries as well as skyscrapers to be proud of. It is not always necessary to rush to Europe for a draught from the Plerian spring.

National Parks Lure Millions

The national forests are not only national in ownership, but are becoming more and more national in enjoyment. It is estimated that there were nearly 32,000,000 visitors to the various federal reservations in the past year, many of whom were really intent upon getting back to nature. Nearly 2,000,000 of the visitors went to the camps, while hundreds of thousands were hikers walking their way through the forests and over the mountains. The conveniently placed and well-equipped camp sites developed by the Forest Service, together with the well laid out trails, have proved a lure which have brought many a vacationist to the forests. The automobile was largely responsible for the tremendous number of visitors, carrying nearly 30,000,000 to the reservations.

Baths of Diocletian

Near the Termini railway station the visitor to Rome will find the famous and immense ruins of the baths of Diocletian. They were constructed by the Emperor Maximianus, A. D. 302, in honor of his colleague, Diocletian, and were the largest baths in Rome. They were frequented by the citizens until the sixth century, and then neglected until they fell into decay, some parts being put to other uses, and others buried under constructions. Twenty years ago the hidden ruins were brought to light and the ancient halls and pavements were seen again. It was recorded that the monks of Certosa received the ruins in 1561 for their monastery and Michelangelo had the task of changing the Tepidarium into the S. Maria degli Angeli.

Memory Cultivation

"Mr. Dates" is an English entertainer who answers any question put to him. He has been on the stage doing this stunt with great success for many years. He is fifty-six now, but he hasn't forgotten much. "Anyone can remember anything he likes," he said, "only most people are too lazy. Once when I was going in Australia I read 200 pages of Whitaker's almanac every day for six weeks. That's the way to learn facts." He can recite 20,000 dates, knows all sorts of reference books by heart, and can tell you the winners of all the horse races for the last 50 years.

Archery Record

The National Archery association of the United States says that the best flight shot record made by shooting an arrow with a longbow (wooden bow) is 424 yards 2 feet 8 inches. This was made by L. L. Dailey of Monmouth, Ore., at the annual tournament of the National Archery association held in Chicago, Ill., August 12 to 15, 1930. There is a report that in 1914 one Ingo Simon made a flight shoot in England of 462 yards 9 inches. In making this shot, however, he used a Turkish composite bow instead of the longbow, and so far as we know, Mr. Dailey's shot, as given above, is a world record for a wooden bow.—Washington Star.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Reel, with their little daughters, Nancy Jean, Mary Ann, and Catherine, left Friday morning, November 20th, and are driving to Florida to stay for the winter months. They have rented their home on Blackburn Ave. On November 14th, their friends in Detroit gave a farewell party in their honor.

Wealth of Historical Interest in Old Boston

Boston is one of the oldest cities in the United States and few are possessed of greater historical traditions than this, "The Hub." Founded in 1630 under the lead of Gov. John Winthrop, it is a city in which landmarks, known to every schoolboy, abound.

To mention a few, there is Faneuil hall, "The Cradle of Liberty," the Old South Meeting house, the Old State house, the house of Paul Revere, the site of Griffin's wharf, where the Boston tea party was held, and the old North church, where the lanterns were hung out for Paul Revere.

Boston common, with its famous fag pond, remains intact, and the "Sacred Cod" still hangs in the hall of the house of representatives in the State house on Beacon hill. On School street is the site of the first public school in America, established in 1635.

The tourist will also wish to visit Charleston and see Bunker hill monument, dedicated in 1843. At the Charlestown navy yard may be seen the United States frigate Constitution, "Old Ironsides." And, of course the visitor will wish to see Cambridge across the river, where Harvard university is located.

Lexington and Concord, famous sites of Revolutionary War battles, lie within easy ride of Boston—Boston Herald.

Story of Samson Found in Oriental Literature

Discoveries on the site of the ancient city of Beth-Shehem, in Palestine, by the Haverford college and archeological expedition, confirm the scientific supposition that this gray mound on the border between Dan and Judah was once a part of Egypt's domain, once Philistine, once Hebrew, once Roman, once Byzantine; but it would have been more interesting if the American archeologists had found something like a visiting card of the giant Samson, or a bit of jewelry with the monogram of a lady named Delilah—in the ruins. For it is supposed that it was here, at Beth-Shehem, that the famous betrayal of Samson—the shaming of the licentious Jocks, which resulted in the loss of his Herculean powers—took place. Modern criticism is inclined to make rather faint of the feats of Samson, as recorded in the Scriptures. Similar tales of a gigantic hero—even of his temptation and fall—are found in oriental literature that go before the Hebrews.

Apatite in the Teeth

Apatite, appropriately enough, is one of the constituents of teeth. It appears from a report of the superintendent of the physics department of the National Physics Laboratory, London, England, in normal teeth the enamel consists of apatite crystals together with a second crystalline substance, at present unidentified, the report states. The National Physics laboratory has been making a preliminary study of the crystal structure of teeth at the request of dental research board.

Insects as Tailors

While many insects and spiders are content to go about in the clothes that nature gave them, others construct robes of their own. The oak tortrix, for example, is an accomplished tailor, and builds its overcoat out of a leaf. Using one that is slightly curled at the edge, he runs a silken thread from this edge to a point on the opposite edge, drawing the line taut. Then he constructs numerous parallel threads. By weighing down one or more of these cross threads, he causes the remaining ones to hang slack. These he tightens, then takes up the slack in the ones with the weight. The leaf, as a consequence, is rolled up a little. This operation is repeated until the leaf has been curled into a portable shelter in which the insect can hide.—Popular Science.

Surprising Answer

"Mrs. Wilson is so angry she won't speak to me," confided Mabel. "Really?" said Ethel. "What is she angry about?" "I haven't the slightest idea. We met a couple of days ago, and we were talking as friendly as possible, when suddenly she fared up and hadn't noticed me since." "What were you talking about?" "Nothing in particular. I remember she said: 'I kiss my husband three or four times a day.'" "And what did you say?" "I said: 'Why I kiss at least a dozen women who do the same, and then she nearly had a fit.'"—London Tit-Bits.

Cotton in History

Cotton has been used for clothing by some of this world's inhabitants from a very early time. But it was first introduced to Europe from India, and the Arab traders who were the middle men in this transaction passed along their own name for it—quntun or qunt. This Arab word, in various forms, has entered into most of the European languages. Thus there have been derived not only the English "cotton," but the French "coton," German "kattun," Italian "cotone," Portuguese "cotao," and so on. The original word was probably a name applied to a people who employed cotton or to a place where it was grown.

Mrs. E. Moyer Heads Canton Center Better Homes Committee

Mrs. E. W. Moyer has been appointed as chairman of the Better Homes committee for Canton township.

This is the eleventh nation-wide campaign of Better Homes in America, an educational organization established for public service in the interest of home improvement. President Hoover is Honorary Chairman of the organization and Secretary Wilbur is President. The headquarters office is in Washington, D. C., with Dr. James Ford in charge as Executive Director.

The Better Homes campaign is designed to stimulate the improvement of housing conditions and bring about a more wholesome type of home and family life. The programs carried out by local committees are determined by the needs and conditions in the community. Features include lectures and discussions, exhibits, contests, and where possible the demonstration of one or more new or remodelled homes to show how the better type of homes can be provided for families of modest incomes at a cost within their reach. Care and repair programs as a means of relieving unemployment during the winter are being emphasized again this year. These programs culminate in a Better Homes Week which in 1932 will be from April 24 to May 1.

The findings of the President's Conference on Home Building and Home Ownership, which will take place in the first week of December, will give added stimulus to the Better Homes campaign this year. The studies of the various Conference committees include such subjects as the design of homes, home construction, financing of homes, household management, homemaking, landscape planning and planning for homes, the elimination of slums and blighted areas, farm and village housing, home information centers, home furnishing and decoration, and standards and objectives.

More than eight thousand communities took part in the 1931 campaign and Better Homes in America is looking forward to even greater cooperation in the coming year.

HONKER SENDS HIS THANKS TO PETER

THE slap of Paddy the Beaver's tail on the water, especially in the stillness of the night, is a very startling sound. It is no wonder that Honker the Goose awoke with a start. The other geese did the same thing. "Honk, honk" said Honker in a low voice, which was the way of asking Paddy the Beaver what the trouble was.

"I don't know," replied Paddy. "But Peter Rabbit thumped his danger signal and I passed it along by slapping the water with my tail. It seemed to me that some of your followers were drifting pretty close to the shore and if there is any danger about, that is where it is, and there's danger or Peter Rabbit wouldn't have thumped."

Meanwhile the geese who had drifted so near shore were swimming out and all gathered around Honker in the middle of the pond to find out what the scare was, their long necks stretched as high as they could stretch them as they looked and listened suspiciously. Now Honker has the keenest of ears. You wouldn't think so to look at him, but he has. They caught the sound of the tindest rustle on the shore. You or I wouldn't have heard it. Oh, my no! But Honker did. It was the rustle made by Reddy Fox as he changed his position. "There is some one over there," said Honker, in a low voice. "I thought you said that there would be no danger here tonight, Paddy." "I didn't think there would be," replied Paddy. "It must be that some one saw you come here. Probably it is Reddy Fox or Old Man Coyote. You want an eye out." Paddy dived and when he came up he put only his nose out of water. He was very close to the shore

PLYMOUTH RD. CRASH KILLS ONE INJURES 7

Another one of a series of fatal automobile accidents that have in the past two or three years taken place on the Plymouth-Detroit highway occurred last Saturday afternoon near the Telegraph road, one being killed and seven injured as a result.

The accident was a head-on collision between an automobile that was being driven to Detroit with a group of Jackson residents who were on their way to see the game between the Michigan State College and the University of Detroit, and a car that was carrying a number of Detroit residents to the game at Ann Arbor.

The dead man is: HARRY E. OSIER, 39 years old, 105 South Milwaukee avenue, Jackson, Mich. The injured:

Mrs. FLORENCE OSIER, 40, his wife. Skull fractured. BILLY OSIER, 5 years old. Arm broken. MRS. MYRTLE WILLIAMS, 50, of 205 Damon street, Jackson. Severe head injuries. PAUL M. CHAPMAN, 30, of 1320 Elmwood avenue, Detroit. Cut and bruised.

MARGARET A. CHAPMAN, his wife. Skull fractured. VIRGINIA COSGROVE, 29. Skull fractured. KATHLEEN COSGROVE, 25. Arm broken.

The Misses Cosgrove are sisters of Mrs. Chapman and live at the Elmwood avenue address. Kathleen is a teacher in the Custer School. Osier was foreman of the composing room of the Jackson Tribune, where he had been employed for many years.

All of the injured were taken to Redford Branch of Receiving Hospital for treatment. Chapman made a statement to Deputy Sheriff Tony Rodan in which he said that the Osier car, traveling east, turned past the middle of the pavement to pass another car, which was turning off the road. The driver of this car was John Johnson, a farmer, who was turning into his own home. Mrs. Williams is a neighbor of the Osier family in Jackson.

Scientists Baffled by Sound of Singing Sands

There are many points in this country and abroad where the sand of the seashore are said to make a sound, and this is attributed to the disturbance of the particles by the wind, but the singing sands of the Arabian desert is a phenomenon which has attracted attention for thousands of years, and without any really satisfactory explanation. Here there is no disturbance by the wind and yet there is plainly a noise at times which is variously described. It is a cross between a low moan and the reverberation of a deep-toned bell after the hammer's blow. The natives regard it as something supernatural. Dunes in many parts of the world have become known less for the legends connected with them than for the peculiar characteristic sounds. Sonorous dunes at the extreme end of Lower California have been responsible for a Mexican legend of a monastery buried under the shifting sands. Daily at Angelus time, the natives listen for the faint resonance of its bells. In South Africa there are laughing sands, and near the end of the last century an American engineer discovered rumbling sands in Chile, South America. Moaning sands have been found in the western Sahara, between Tanbuctoo and Morocco, and musical dunes in the Libyan desert of Africa. Kauai, one of the group of the Hawaiian islands, is famed for its barking sands.

Shakespeare had the vocabulary in history. It was remarkably rich and exhibited most of the language resources of his time. Prof. Albert Cook in his "Study of English," says that Shakespeare employed about 21,000 words; others say 15,000 or 24,000. But the number of words in the rapidly expanding vocabulary of modern times greatly exceeds that of Shakespeare's day. Dr. Joseph Jacobs in the New York Times "Saturday Review of Books," for November 16, 1913, states that the average well-educated American or Englishman today can control from 30,000 to 35,000 words.

No estimate has been made of the number of words used by Huxley. His was a scientific mind, while Shakespeare's was entirely literary. Huxley had an unusually large fund of words at his disposal, and of necessity, had the wide and varied vocabulary of natural and technical sciences at his command. From these sources he had a fund of words much greater and more varied than that in the possession of most writers. His writings abound with evidence of the enormous wealth of verbal material ready for ideas he wished to set forth.

Keeping Business Accounts

Business records of some form or other were probably employed in the earliest times in the history of trade and credit. Practically nothing is known, however, of the earliest form of bookkeeping. From the works of Leonardo da Pisa it appears certain that the merchants of Italy, France, and Spain practiced systematic bookkeeping for some time prior to the thirteenth century. We know the present system of bookkeeping, however, to the Italian traders of the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries, particularly the merchants of Genoa, Florence and Venice. In 1484 Luca Pacioli, or Luca di Borgo, a Tuscan friar, published a work which contained a treatise on double-entry bookkeeping. From Italy the system spread to the Netherlands, thence to England, and from there to all parts of the world.

Tree Straddles Creek

A tree with a stream running almost directly under its base and a network of a spring, bubbling up from the center of its roots are two of the freaks which have developed in the sequoia groves in Yosemite National park.

A recent survey was carried on by the National park service to measure the huge giants which grow in these groves. The tallest is 300 feet high and towers toward the clouds in Mariposa grove. This tree, known to be the Grizzly Giant, is reported to be the third largest tree in the world. It is 38 feet in diameter at the base. The Chespin, in Merced grove, is 293 feet high.

The tree that bridges the stream is also in Merced grove, and probably started centuries ago as a seedling along the edge of Moss creek, which now flows under its base.

Excitement

The two hikers sat down outside the old country inn and surveyed their surroundings. "Well, here we are right off the beaten track," said one. "No sign of any traffic or traffic congestion." The village constable emerged from the inn door at that moment and overheard the conversation.

"Oh, I dunno," he chimed in, "only last week we had a bit of a collision." "Oh, and what was that?" asked one of the hikers. "It was between old Parker's wheelchair and the postmistress' tricycle," the constable proudly informed them.—London Answers.

JOINT MEETING OF TORCH AND HILY

A joint meeting of the Torch Club and Hily was held last Friday afternoon in Room 33. The meeting was opened by Harlow Wagenschultz leading the boys in singing "Follow the Glean." The program was made up entirely of the following songs: "Old Folks at Home," "I Don't Know Why," "I Wanna Slink About You," and "Keep the Home Fires Burning." Donald Plozier surprised the boys by playing "Varsity Drag," "Peggy O'Neil" and "Let Me Call You Sweetheart" on his accordion. The boys were accompanied at the piano by Ethel Wendt and Delight Taylor. The meeting was brought to a close by Mr. Cobb leading the boys in singing "Follow the Glean."

THANKSGIVING—THE SPIRIT OF HOSPITALITY

Hospitality is "the spirit, practice or act of receiving and entertaining guests without reward, and with kindness and consideration." Although it has nothing to do in its essence with the spending of money, "entertaining" has become closely associated with more than normal expenditures. The girls in the home economics department have found that often the "kindness and consideration" side of hospitality has been driven to the background, and rather elaborate entertaining has been emphasized. So in order that each girl might conscientiously feel her responsibility in contributing her share to the family hospitality, both the foods class and the commercial home economics class have emphasized hospitality in their work.

The advanced foods class planned two simple and inexpensive table decorations for the Thanksgiving dinner. In order to have fruits and vegetables form a centerpiece, a large pumpkin was used as a bowl for the fruits, and on either side were small pumpkins, autumn leaves, and black candles tied with orange tulle. The second decoration consisted of a turkey made wholly from fall fruits and vegetables, the turkey's body being made from a cocoon. A banana, potato and red pepper were used for the neck and head, while leaves from the carrot plant were used for the turkey's wings. When completed, the turkey was proudly placed on a mirror where he might strut and admire himself during the Thanksgiving festivities. Green candles tied with black tulle, were placed as either end of the mirror.

The girls in the commercial home economics class were given formal and informal invitations for the Thanksgiving dinner. They also discussed correct introductions and salutations.

The S-B foods class expressed hospitality at a Thanksgiving breakfast at a Thanksgiving place, scrambled eggs, apple sauce, rolls and butter. Thanksgiving place cards and napkins added to the table decoration.

The spirit of kind thoughtfulness and consideration of others at all times was always a class objective which is placed above knowledge and skill. In carrying out these projects, the girls truly experienced a "genuine hospitality which cannot be described but must be felt."

WHAT DID YOU SAY, GEN. WASHINGTON?

A reporter interviewed George Washington, in costume, asking the questions anyone would like to ask, and the replies being entirely in Washington's own words, form a dramatic and interesting scene. The two hundredth anniversary of the birth of George Washington will be celebrated throughout this school year, and until Thanksgiving 1932, wherever in the world loyal Americans are gathered.

The Michigan State Commission appointed by our governor, believes that the best way to observe this important occasion is to encourage the holding of exercises in each community at intervals throughout the year. They have therefore, designated Laurence H. Hart of Pontiac, to speak before school assemblies, clubs and other groups. Mr. Hart is well known in Michigan, because of his many lectures on "How to be Happy."

TRAVEL CLUB HEARS LECTURE ON BOLIVIA

The Travel Club was very fortunate in having Mr. Purdy as the speaker in last Thursday's meeting. He brought some slides and gave an exceedingly interesting talk on the country of Bolivia in South America, where he lived for several years. The Inca Indians many hundreds of years ago had attained a degree of civilization and culture unbelievable to us today. They were skilled in agriculture, in mechanics, in engineering, and in surgery. As an example of their engineering skill, Mr. Purdy told us they took a piece of solid stone ten feet by fifteen feet by three feet, lowered it three thousand feet, carried it across a valley, and then raised it five thousand feet. In how they did it no one knows. But they did it. They had built beautiful palaces and large aqueducts. Then, upon the coming of Pizarro, a heartless Spanish explorer in the early part of the sixteenth century, the Inca empires, once so powerful and the riches of the continent, became slaves and are now almost lost. It is said that Pizarro, the Spaniard, came to South America looking for gold. He saw the Inca, and saw that his men captured the people and promised to give them gold. They would not let one room with gold. The Inca, and then Pizarro, instead of letting them alone as he had promised, murdered them all. His name to-day is held in great esteem by the people there.

There is a silver mine in Bolivia which has mined for three centuries and still has a few veins of silver in it. The Spanish crown received $10,000,000 a year royalty on this one mine for three hundred years. Around 20,000 tons have been mined from it. It was carried on the backs of Inca, very safe little animals which can carry up to one hundred pounds. He said he had been told that if one hundred and one or two pounds were put on its back, the Inca would lay down and stay there. He absolutely refuses to carry more than one hundred pounds.

One farm which we saw a slide of was six miles long and six miles wide. Oxen were used mostly to do the plowing and other work done by horses and tractors up here. Machines down there is not very up to date.

One slide showed a man carrying a large box, full, on his back. The same size box would require two or three men's assistance up here, but in Bolivia the men are trained to carry almost unbelievably heavy weights on their backs.

The Inca now are practically slaves. They are called ponos, and work all day long every day in the fields, receiving in return nothing but their room and board. One-half of the babies die before they reach the age of one year. Each year there is one week of festivity called carnival week. During this time young men and young women are often seen together, which is unusual during the rest of the year. There are separate schools for boys and girls. There are five towns down there too.

Mr. Purdy brought a turkey with him. It is made of a gourd pointed on the outside. When you go visiting down there, you take your own turkey along with you. He also showed us a pair of shoes made of rope which cost about fifty cents. Most things down there are high priced, but these shoes are not. Neither is meat. The best cuts can be bought for ten cents a pound. We saw one of the Bolivian dollar bills, which is about the size of one dollar bill, and is worth $1.06 of our money. A ten dollar gold piece of ours is worth only $2.00 down there. He also showed us a room here.

This talk was very interesting as well as very educational, and the Travel Club was indeed glad to have Mr. Purdy as speaker.

TRAGEDY THE PLAY IN ASSEMBLY

At the opening of the Senior High assembly last week, Mr. Dykhouse announced first that one-half of the seniors of our school, Friday, Report cards were given out Wednesday, November 25, fourth hour, so that students living in town could return them in the afternoon. The senior records are posted on the bulletin board. All seniors should be sure that their credits are correct.

P. H. S. TO DEBATE EAST DETROIT

The Plymouth High School debating team, upholding the affirmative, will meet East Detroit, defending the negative, on the Unemployment Insurance question at East Detroit, December third. There has been a change in the type of speaking for the second debate. Instead of ten minute constructive speeches, there will be three eight minute speeches. Only the first speaker will give rebuttal, and it will be six minutes long instead of the customary five.

Plymouth will be represented by the same team as in the first league debate. They are Evelyn Rorabacher, Irene Humphries and Odene Hill. Plymouth is particularly anxious to meet East Detroit, as they eliminated P. H. S. in the 1930 Debate Elimination Series.

IS BEAUTY EXPENSIVE?

(An girl keep herself beautiful on thirty dollars a year? Basing their study on their own personal experience, the girls of the home economics class discussed necessary cosmetics for the business girl. Coming to the conclusion that thirty dollars was needed for each girl for a period of a year, the class made booklets portraying the various cosmetics required and the costs of each.

SCHOOL SPIRIT AND LOYALTY

Some students feel that loyalty and school spirit consists only of what they say about their school, and so they never feel it necessary to actually do something for the school. Spirit and loyalty are two closely related words, but they are different meanings if they are closely examined. Spirit pertains to a mental or intellectual state, while loyalty designates physical deeds or acts. Students often mistake school spirit for loyalty and vice versa. To me school spirit is something that cannot be seen but can only be felt by the individual. One would think that deeds to help the school, for example, would be school spirit, but these are school spirit developed into loyalty. School spirit changes to loyalty when physical actions take place. Any good student has school spirit or feeling among his mental possessions.

Loyalty is shown by the students' reactions to teachers' instructions and commands. By their buying from their own schoolmates at athletic games and their help and effort put forth to place their school at the top of its activities.

JUNIOR DANCE A SUCCESS

The Junior class made $16.87 on their dance given November 22. The chaperones were Mr. and Mrs. Tuck, Mr. and Mrs. Manna Blunk and Mr. and Mrs. Greer. Mr. and Mrs. Dykhouse represented the school board. There were approximately one hundred seventy-five guests dancing to the music of the Blue Serenaders, a six-piece orchestra. Everyone seemed to have a good time.

In order to realize fully how far more than a century the United States has offered refuge and opportunity to the ambitious people of Europe, Miss Gray's S-A history class has made a chart of the immigrant background of the class. Tracing back to grandparents and great grandparents, the chart shows nearly a dozen different languages and represented half a dozen different faiths. The largest numbers were from Germany (3% of the class), while England came next. Scotland and France contributed two each, while Sweden, and Ireland gave one apiece.

SEVENTH GRADE CLASS ELECTIONS

Since the seventh grade social activities are so limited, they at their class meeting last, their officers were elected: Pres., Thomas Brock; vice-pres., Virginia Cline; secretary, Student Council representative Paul Schmidt. Their advisers are Mr. Hartley, Miss Van Wagener and Miss Perkins.

FOOTBALL SEASON FINALLY ENDS

The current football season for the Suburban League ended last Friday with Dearborn defeating Lincoln Park, 20 to 0. This result makes Dearborn and Wayne tied for first place as they fought for a berth in the 1932 season. Plymouth and Lincoln Park tied, 14 to 14. The 1931 season showed Plymouth and Lincoln Park tied, 14 to 14. The chances for a playoff are rather slim as one last year was not permitted. A game for charity on Thanksgiving would draw a capacity crowd.

STARKWEATHER SCHOOL NOTES

The first grade pupils who have perfect teeth are Dorothy Marie Fisher, Frank Hines, Carolyn Kirk, Gerald Olson, Evelyn Phillips, Virginia Skelton, Sylvester Trux and William Upton. Miss Steiner's room has had the third bumper for six consecutive weeks. Betty Kaiser, Jarrod Jarosky, Leslie Jane Elvert and Jean Engelson have had an A average in all their subjects for the past six weeks. The second grade pupils have completed their clothing booklets, and are working on food booklets.

The children in Mrs. Moles' room took ten minutes to make a list of the things they should be thankful for. The highest number was forty. Twenty-five fourth grade pupils wrote perfect spelling papers last Friday.

CENTRAL GRADE SCHOOL NOTES

The Junior kindergartners in Mrs. Carpenter's room won a blue star on the Thrift Chart Banner, November 17th, for having 77 per cent of them making Thrift Charts. Donald Norry, Charles Stringham and Herbert Stuart have not had a cold from October 19th to November 17th. Last Friday all of the children in this group had a handkerchief. In the Senior kindergarten group, Billy Baker, Elizabeth Horvath, Norvada Nyeste and Kathryn Scruggs have not had a cold from October 12th to November 17th. Last Thursday, all of the children had a handkerchief. Billy Baker and Jean Crandal can count to fifty. The Bunnys Club was organized in three groups last week, and they are hoping that all will obey the rules and then receive a pin to show that they are a member.

Explaining Origin of American Dollar Sign

In Panimiteur des Temps Nouveaux, Charles Price explains for French readers the origin of the American dollar sign. He relates that Spain, in the Fifteenth century, when practically all the world's gold was carried to the Iberian peninsula from the mines of South America, designed a coin of eight reals' value which bore on one of its faces a representation of two columns (the columns of Hercules) intertwined by a bearing in the form of a letter S which the inscription, "Pio Ultramar" Englishmen called these coins "pillar dollars," taking the word dollar from the German coin known as a "thaler." When the United States congress in 1787 decided to strike a coin known as a dollar, with the same value as the Spanish "pillar dollar," accountants naturally used as the sign for this new coin the old device of pillars intertwined with a carland which is so well known today in the form of an S with a double bar—Exchange.

Ancient British Clock

One of the oldest clocks in England was recently salvaged and placed in the north transept of Salisbury cathedral. It dates back to 1386, and was originally in a bell tower in the close, built around 1258. This ancient timepiece, made of handwrought iron without a dial, proclaimed only the hours. In 1790 the clock was removed to the central tower of the cathedral, where it lay hidden, neglected and forgotten, its days of usefulness apparently at an end. In 1884 a new clock took its place. The recent discovery of the old clock and its reconstruction, however, has given it a proud place once more.
