SACRED GROUND

Maybe we are treading on sacred ground by this brief discussion of an assertion reported to have been made a few days ago by Judge James E. Chenot, one of Wayne county's leading jurists. If we are, we plead our apology in advance.

The paragraph in question follows: "I would like to know what the state troopers have schools for if they do not know the sacredness of a writ of habeas corpus."

Our thought is entirely of the latter part of the sentence—"the sacredness of a writ of habeas corpus."

We believe we know just the thing that Judge Chenot had in mind when he made the assertion. We believe he meant that the state police and other officials should have a high respect for one of the oldest court laws in existence, the right of a judge to protect an accused person.

This law was originally created for the purpose of safeguarding individual liberty. The habeas corpus provides about the only way an accused person, before a charge is made, might gain freedom, temporary or otherwise, from the custody of officers—the judge having sole jurisdiction as to its application.

Possibly back in the early days of English tyranny the placing of such authority in the hands of a judge was a necessity and the public had reason to regard it as something sacred.

But the common and almost exclusive use of the writ of habeas corpus today by the criminal classes in order to gain freedom pending investigation of crimes by peace officers, in our opinion, takes the habeas corpus out of the "sacred" place it might have occupied in past centuries. In fact, it seemingly has become nothing more or less than a legal contraption adopted by the professional crook and gangster to "beat the law." Judges, schooled in the "holiness" of precedence, regard many of the old rights of a court as divine rights.

If our judges were beyond the reach of politics, if they occupied in our system of government the position they should, a position more exalted than any other, and not subject to change with every whim of the electorate, we would be inclined to agree with Judge Chenot as to the "sacredness" of some of the old time rights of a judge.

But the public as well as peace officers, under our present system of administering justice, have come to regard some of these "divine rights" of authority as mere loopholes through which some mighty tough crooks get away.

Judge, if we have said something we ought not to have said in this brief editorial, we beg your pardon. We know of your high regard for the judiciary branch of our government and we know, too, that if all judges endeavored to apply justice in the same unbiased way you do, there would be much less criticism of the courts.

But we are forced to say that because of the modern use of the habeas corpus we cannot agree with what is said as to the "sacredness" of it, and we believe that possibly members of the state police force have about the same idea of it as the general public.

WORRY

At a recent meeting of the American College of Surgeons the average span of life, which has now reached fifty-eight years, was shown to be choked off by hate, fear, worry and jealousy, as well as bad diet.

Dr. George H. Crile of Cleveland Clinic, told of the "ravages of emotion" on civilization. Dr. Charles H. Mayo of the Mayo Rochester Clinic went so far as to prescribe the newspaper as a remedy for ill health—"the greatest educating, thought-molding enterprise in the world."

Adult diseases are the products of infections and emotions, said one. Worry, fear, hate and jealousy disturb every cell in the body, was the dictum of more than one doctor.

Fear affects circulation. Worry produces congestion and congestion results in disease. "Bad collections and inability to meet a note will give cold feet," literally. A cold in the head follows. Other complications set in. Squabbles induce tonsillitis. "A threat will give granulated eyelids." Fear, jealousy, hate bring on Bright's disease.

Worry robs the stomach of blood and sends it to the head. Indigestion follows. "Worry—that is the evil of life," exclaimed Thomas A. Edison. Jealousy "is the green-eyed monster which doth mock the meat it feeds on," wrote Shakespeare.

Life is too short to hate. A dollar is not worth dying for. A wobbly political plank is not worth going to the hospital over. One of the greatest grave diggers is fear. You can't be happy and unhappy simultaneously. And emotions appear to mow down a larger crop than contagions for the undertaker. Fear is the emotion of a weakling. Americanitis is leaving us nervous wrecks. Meeting trouble on the chin keeps the pulses bounding. It becomes a game. Sunshine is death to bugs and slugs under the board. Worry even kills worship.

A SIGN OF THE TIMES

Within the past few weeks the University of Michigan Press Club held its annual session over in Ann Arbor. This organization is composed of weekly and daily newspaper publishers and editors of the state, but up until this year the club has always had for its president a representative of the daily newspaper field. Such a condition existed just because it seemed to be the natural thing to elect someone from one of the great papers of the state as the executive of this organization.

It has been a noticeable fact, however, in recent years that even within great newspaper organizations the weekly press is becoming more or less of a power. This is due largely to the changing times and the schools of journalism. Weekly newspapers have become an important force in American life. There have been tremendous advancements made in recent years due largely to special newspaper training offered by the great schools. It was not, therefore, at all surprising at the annual meeting of the press club that Schuyler H. Marshall, one of the outstanding weekly newspaper publishers of Michigan, was elected president. Not only does Editor Marshall, whose home is in St. John's, rank as one of the prominent weekly publishers of Michigan, but he would be a difficult thing to pick up a representative daily publisher of the state whose ability and success would exceed that of Editor Marshall. His election as president of the University Press Club is not alone a tribute to one of the outstanding citizen-editors of the country, but it is an acknowledgement that the weekly newspapers of America are now generally recognized of the same equal importance as are the great daily publications.

COACH FIELDING H. YOST

Much has been said by some sports writers about great football coaches. Some pick this one and that one as the outstanding coach of the country. Needless to say America has produced many great coaches in the last twenty-five or thirty years, but any one at all familiar with football and who is not biased in his opinion cannot take the glory away from Coach Fielding H. Yost as being by far the greatest of all great coaches this country ever produced. Season after season, back in the days when he devoted his entire time to affairs of the gridiron he produced teams that were famed for their ability to score an average of a point for every minute played. Do you know of any other coach during the past quarter of a century who was able to produce consistently year after year teams with such tremendous scoring ability—teams that electrified hundreds of thousands of fans by their amazing football skill? No, not one who can in any way rank with Fielding H. Yost. Michigan can well be proud of the fact that this state produced the football coach who will live through the history of the sport as the peer of his profession.

ADVERTISING ON THE AIR

Commercial broadcasters in Canada have entered into an agreement permitting no advertising over the radio other than the mention of the sponsor's name, address, and nature of his business or product." This decision, it is well to note here, was only reached after an investigating commission had recommended government ownership of all radio facilities.

The United States may have to follow Canada's example. Those who predicted a bright future for the radio as a medium of education and entertainment are beginning to entertain serious doubts. It is true that the Ohio School of the Air, and other educational projects have been successful, notwithstanding opposition on the part of those who saw in such agencies interference with the commercial advantages to be gained by using the time for expounding the advantages of So and So's toothpaste, interspersed with crooning lullabies.

The most desirable "listening hours" for the radio-owner are from 7 to 11 in the evening. Naturally this period is most sought after by advertising sponsors of programs. A few discriminating advertisers use good taste by confining their appeal to the name of the company and the product. Others, by far in the majority go to greater lengths, until an evening's twisting of the dial brings forth a devastating medley of jazz combined with a narrative of the merits of product or service.

The judicious advertiser is already beginning to wonder if his programs really are based on what his audience likes. He is also beginning to wonder if the regard for his product on the part of his audience is not often in inverse ratio to the number of times it is mentioned on the program.

Some far-sighted advertisers are even revising their methods with favorable results already apparent.

PRAYER FOR CONTENTMENT

Almighty One, I ask of thee
To keep my heart from envy free.
And give me open eyes that see
My blessings—I beseech.
And may I always be aware
Of every hour that's free from care—
And thankful be, for each!

And with the dawn of every sun,
Give me a task that needs be done—
And let me feel that I'm the one
For whom that task was meant!
With health, and love; with work and play,
A few good friends—let me, I pray!
Be happy and content!

What Other Michigan Editors Are Thinking About

Too Many Holidays

We're voting with "Alfalfa" Wm. Murray, Oklahoma governor, who worked on Thanksgiving Day and gave expression to the belief that there are too many holidays.—Harry Izor in The Durand Express.

Time To Settle Up

It is said that thirty-severe are required for the average person to become moderately educated and settle down to the business of living. The remainder of the time, we suppose, is required to learn how to make a living and to settle up.—George Avrill in The Birmingham Eclectic.

Gang Pictures

A bill in the New York state legislature would ban all motion pictures. The intent, undoubtedly, is to prevent children and retarded adults from seeing movies which might suggest a life of crime. The intent is good. This might be accomplished by other methods, perhaps by not allowing children to see gang pictures. The retarded and easily swayed adult would be another problem.

But the fact remains that there have been good gang pictures. Any person who sees the current film in which a gallant but tottering old civil war veteran goes to the stand, despite a threat of death, and testifies against gunmen, cannot help but be inspired to do the same thing if the emergency exists. And yet that is a gang picture. The problem demands the pressure of common sense, not ruthless and unthinking censorship.—William Klausner in The Dearborn Press.

Caution—Sharp Curve Ahead

Only the foolhardy motorist ignores the warning above. That very sign might well be posted upon the political highway of Michigan. Were it so posted, only foolhardy politicians would ignore it.

Nearly every editor in Michigan has tried his hand at some analysis of the political upheaval in the eighth congressional district of Michigan where a democrat won a decisive victory in a rockribbed republican stronghold. A few have approached the real facts of the case.

Those with wet sympathies see in the defeat of the republican candidate a distinct victory for anti-prohibition adherents. Drys are aroused but disclaim a defeat. Dyed-in-the-wool republicans blame the defeat of their candidate to the economic distress of the times, to unemployment and to off-season indifference on the part of the voter.

Democratic enthusiasts see in the election a reversion to democratic principles and hail a 1932 victory as more than a mere possibility. Certain it is that no intelligent scrutiny of the returns from the various sections of the district can be made without definite conclusion that the election of Mr. Hart is something more than a victory for liquor forces. It may and it may not point the way to continued growth of democratic support. Lack of interest in an off year and at a special election can scarcely be held responsible for so marked an upheaval among the voters of the district.

Leaders of the party will do well if they quit quarreling over the crumbs which fall from the patronage plates and devote themselves to the problems of the commonwealth, to seeking remedies for the ills which were so glibly promised before election.

Falling in this they will find themselves and their party well on the outside whining and cringing under the last of an offended electorate.

And if there is any single gesture which will make certain the retirement of the party next November it is the proposal for a preliminary convention to put the gag on popular selection of candidates, now so glibly falling from the tongues of self-styled republican leaders and party managers.—Verne J. Brown in The Ingham County News.

Friendship

Character is so largely affected by associations that we cannot afford to be indifferent as to who and what our friends are. They write their names in our albums, but they do more, they help make us what we are. Be therefore careful in selecting them and when wisely selected never sacrifice them.—M. Hubbard.

Day Unto Night

Let me live my life from day unto day
In a friendly, self-forgetful way.
With a handclasp warm and a friendly smile
For the folks I meet on the daily mile.
Let me dream my dreams in a garden fair
With a beauty-fragrance everywhere.
With a place to dip in crystal springs
The opening heart of lovely things.
Let me rightly live—from day unto day.

A Prayer

Almighty God, are by age shrouded in Thine eternal invisibility, in our darkest moods we find that faith in Thy personal presence is a terrible test. Have mercy upon us do more, they help make us what we are. Be therefore careful in selecting them and when wisely selected never sacrifice them.—M. Hubbard.

Bible Thought

"And they said, Let us rise up and build. So they strengthened their hands for this good work."—Nehemiah II, 18.

The only difference between stumbling blocks and stepping stones is in the way you use them. We don't amount to much if we stumble and stepping haven't fact, patience and sympathy.

AGED RESIDENT DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS

FRED SOCKOW, SR., BURIED FROM HOME ON JOY ROAD LAST MONDAY.

Fred Sockow, Sr., 84 years of age, and one of the best known of the older residents in this locality, died at his home on Joy road south of Plymouth last Friday, after an illness of two years.

It was 60 years ago when Mr. Sockow came to this country from Germany and he had lived in this locality practically all of the time since his arrival in America.

In 1859 he was married to Miss Mary Hinck. At that time the family resided in Livonia township, moving to the present location some 40 years ago.

Mr. Sockow, a tireless worker, was a most kindly neighbor, and he had the high respect of a large circle of friends, especially among those who knew him well during his more active years. He was always a great lover of his home.

Twelve children were born to Mr. and Mrs. Sockow, nine surviving. They are: William, John, Albert, Fred, Jr., Mrs. George Weed, Mrs. P. Sowles, Mrs. Earl Hummelger and Mrs. George Morgan of Plymouth, and Mrs. Charles Fleischman of Northville. There are also 11 grandchildren and two great grandchildren surviving.

Funeral services were conducted from the home Monday, Rev. Edgar Hoencke officiating. Burial took place in the Gear cemetery on the Ann Arbor road.

Cleveland Cans the Surplus for the Destitute

ONE entire section of Cleveland's mammoth convention hall has been converted into a municipal kitchen, where volunteer workers, representing social and civic organizations, are preserving thousands of cans of vegetables and fruits for distribution to the destitute this winter. A large fleet of trucks has been mobilized to obtain the surplus foodstuffs from farms throughout Cuyahoga county.

CUTTING WOOD? ASK STATE FOR BIT OF ADVICE ABOUT IT

Ralph Carr, Wayne county agricultural agent, has advised taxpayers in the vicinity of Plymouth that a plan has been devised by the Forestry Department of Michigan State College whereby farmers can secure expert aid in improving their woodlot, their winter's supply of fuel and still aid the unemployed. Expert foresters will examine the woodlot, the timber that ought to be cut to improve the stand and prepare a plan of management for it. The fuelwood marked for cutting will then be cut by the unemployed who will receive half of the material out for their labor.

"Cooperation between the unemployed and the owners of farm woodlots will be of benefit to both," states Professor Herbert of the Forestry Department. "Most woodlots contain many trees that will never return a profit to the farmer; they are only occupying space that could grow trees of better quality. We will be glad to mark the trees that should be cut and prepare a plan of management provided the farmer will agree to allow the unemployed to cut on shares and under proper instruction and fuel wood that we mark."

"Farmers interested in improving their woodlot and helping the unemployed should get in touch with their local relief committee who will make arrangements with the unemployed to cut the wood and with the Forestry Department at East Lansing to mark the wood to be cut."

SHEAR TELLS OF REFRIGERATION

Now that the electric refrigerator is in very common use, there has come a decided change in menus, the method of preparing meals and a lot of other routine work about the house, due in a large measure to its convenience, its dependable temperatures and its larger amount of storage capacity.

Even the old fashioned English plum pudding has gone modern since the advent of the electric refrigerator, says C. G. Shear, local Frigidaire dealer. It may now be served in the frozen state and when prepared makes both a surprising and delicious dessert for Christmas dinner. Complete directions for making it will be found in the Frigidaire recipe book which is given to all purchasers. Mr. Shear has arranged to send a copy of this booklet to any one who wants it to use in fashioning a frozen plum pudding for their Christmas dinner.

"Speaking of Christmas," says Mr. Shear, "a lot of people have been in our store looking over our new household models during the past week and it looks as though we will sell more for Christmas gifts this year than ever before. There is every reason why we should, because Frigidaire offers an ideal combination of utility and sentiment and there is in addition

GARDEN CITY YOUTH DIES FROM INJURIES

BANDITS FORCE BOY INTO TREE, CAR CATCHES FIRE, BURNS PROVE FATAL.

Clifford Gosney, 18, 29124 Bridge avenue, Garden City, died in Eloise hospital Sunday morning of serious burns caused when his car caught fire after it was believed to have been forced into a tree on the side of Warren road, in the vicinity of Hawthorne Valley golf club by bandits the evening previous.

According to motorists who attempted to drag him from the burning wreckage, the car had turned over and caught fire, pinning him behind the wheel. Gosney was the son of Charles E. Gosney, and a student at the Ford Trade school and Cass Technical high school in Detroit. He attended night classes at the latter institution.

Miss Ann Holmquist, a friend of the Gosney family, whom the youth had taken home previous to the accident, stated that Clifford was chased by men in an automobile on Thursday and Saturday evenings near the same place where the accident occurred. She said that a car drove out from a side road and attempted to block the path of the car in which Clifford was riding and that Clifford missed colliding with the alleged bandit car by increasing the speed of his auto on both occasions. "When he was driving me home later Saturday evening we had no trouble but the youths must have waited for his return," she said.

The elderly Gosney went to the scene of the accident on Sunday and examined the spot. He stated that marks around the spot indicated that there had been a second car just ahead of his son's machine and that his boy's car had apparently been forced into the tree.

The advantage of recent price reductions. Since almost every family which does not own an electric refrigerator expects to buy one some time, naturally a Frigidaire is always an object of interest around this time of the year."

Keeping Business Accounts

Business records of some form or other were probably employed in the earliest times in the history of trade and credit. Practically nothing is known, however, of the earliest form of bookkeeping. From the works of Leonardo da Vinci it appears certain that the merchants of Italy, France, and Spain practiced systematic bookkeeping for some time prior to the Thirteenth century. We owe the present system of bookkeeping, however, to the Italian traders of the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries, particularly the merchants of Genoa, Florence and Venice. In 1644 Luca Pacioli, or Luca di Borgo, a Tuscan friar, published a work which contained a treatise on double-entry bookkeeping. From Italy the system spread to the Netherlands, thence to England, and from there to all parts of the world.

Tree Straddles Creek

A tree with a stream running almost directly under its base and another with a spring bubbling up from the center of its roots are two of the freaks which have developed in the sequoia groves in Yosemite National park.

A recent survey was carried on by the National park service to measure the huge giants which grow in these groves. The tallest is 300 feet high and towers toward the clouds in Mariposa grove. This tree, known to be the Grizzly Giant, is reported to be the third largest tree in the world. It is 33 feet in circumference. The Clovepin, in Merced grove, is 283 feet high.

The tree that bridges the stream is also in Merced grove, and probably started centuries ago as a seedling along the edge of Moss creek, which now flows under its base.

Excitement

The two hikers sat down outside the old country inn and surveyed their surroundings.

"Well, here we are right off the beaten track," said one. "No sign of any traffic or traffic congestion."

The village constable emerged from the inn door at that moment and overheard the conversation.

"Oh, I dunno," he chimed in, "only last week we had a bit of a collision."

"Oh, and what was that?" asked one of the hikers.

"It was between old Parker's wheelbarrow and the postmistress' tricycle," the constable proudly informed them.—London Answers.

Scientists Baffled by Sound of Singing Sands

There are many points in this country and abroad where the sands of the seashore are said to make a sound, and this is attributed to the disturbance of the particles by the wind, but the singing sands of the Arabian desert is a phenomenon which has attracted attention for thousands of years, and without any really satisfactory explanation. Here there is no disturbance by the wind, and yet there is plainly a noise at times which is variously described. It is a cross between a low moan and the reverberation of a deep-toned bell after the hammer's blow. The natives regard it as something supernatural. Dunes in many parts of the world have become known less for the legends connected with them than for the peculiar characteristic sounds. Sonorous dunes at the extreme end of Lower California have been responsible for a Mexican legend of a monastery buried under the shifting sands. Daily at Angelus time, the natives listen for the faint resonance of its bells. In South Africa there are laughing sands, and near the end of the last century a mining engineer discovered rumbling sands in Chile, South America. Moaning sands have been found in the western Sahara, between Timbuctoo and Morocco, and musical dunes in the Libyan desert of Africa. Kaula, one of the group of the Hawaiian islands, is famed for its barking sands.

Seems to Be No Limit to English Vocabulary

Shakespeare had the greatest vocabulary in history. It was remarkably rich and exhibited most of the language resources of his time. Prof. Albert Cook in his "Study of English," says that Shakespeare employed about 21,000 words; others say 15,000 or 24,000. But the number of words in the rapidly expanding vocabulary of modern times greatly exceeds that of Shakespeare's day. Dr. Joseph Jacobs in the New York Times "Saturday Review of Books" for November 16, 1913, states that the average well-educated American or Englishman today can control from 30,000 to 35,000 words.

No estimate has been made of the number of words used by Huxley. His was a scientific mind, while Shakespeare's was entirely literary. Huxley had an unusually large fund of words at his disposal, and of necessity, had the wide and varied vocabulary of natural and technical sciences at his command. From these sources he had a fund of words much greater and more varied than that in the possession of most writers. His writings abound with evidence of the enormous wealth of verbal material ready for ideas he wished to set forth.

Millard B. "Curly" Nelson, one of Plymouth's "grads," who won the 165-lb. championship in the all-campus wrestling tournament at Ypsilanti last week, added further laurels to his crown when he defeated Glavelle of Michigan, in a match between M. S. N. C. and U. of M. "Curly" won the match by a fall in five minutes and twenty-seven seconds when, with his superior speed and strength, he maneuvered Glavelle into position for applying his half Nelson and bar arm. Since Glavelle was "runner-up" in the last Olympics, "Curly" can well be proud of his ability with which he obtained the only "fall" credited to Ypsi.

CONSIDER PLANS FOR NEW BANK

Whether Northville shall reorganize the two banks that closed their last summer or shall organize a new bank will depend upon a report to be made at a meeting to be called in the future of a special committee that is investigating what steps to take. The committee spent yesterday at Nashville making a study of the plan of reorganization under way in that place. There have been two groups active in Northville, one believing best to reorganize the two closed banks, and the other proposing a new bank. No definite action will be taken until the committee makes its report. The committee is composed of Edward L. Mills, district manager of the Detroit Edison company, Don Yerkes Sr., president of the former Northville Savings bank and Edward H. Lapham, cashier of the former Lapham State Savings bank.

Announcement!

In the interest of many Lutherans affiliated with the Missouri Lutheran Synod, who are living in and around Plymouth, a Service will be held this

Sunday afternoon, December 13th, at 2 o'clock at the Town Hall, Plymouth

A cordial invitation is extended to all who have no church home!

YOU CAN'T get in. BUT IF you do, the bank will open "slick as a whistle."

I WAS WONDERING why we shouldn't all have more capital? —McAlpine.

Correct this sentence: "When I take office," said the candidate, "I shall not waste time and energy doing nutty things to please morons."

Let's cut through this welter of words

SAFEST CAPITAL on earth. YOU DON'T have to protect it with safes or guns or anything. IT CAN'T be stolen. FOR YOU don't take it in your hand, but in your head. AND THE head is locked so tight THAT IF you don't know the combination of study and hard work

WHEN you set out to buy tires, don't you really want the most miles and the utmost in safety at the lowest possible price. That being your objective, which tire should you buy? If the experience of 20,000,000 motorists means anything, you should certainly buy Goodyears. But if you try to puzzle through the welter of statistics on thicknesses, weights and diameters you lose the main issue and are as much at sea as ever. The one and only reliable guide for you to follow is the seasoned preference of the public. And that preference is overwhelmingly for Goodyear.

This fact expressed year after year by Goodyear's great leadership is concretely told again in the findings of an impartial investigation made by an unbiased dependable institution that asked 205,000 car owners this simple question: QUESTION: "Regardless of price, convenience, etc., what make of tire do you consider the BEST tire made?"

Hoyer as a member of the Auditing Committee in the absence of Comm. Learned. It was moved by Comm. Robinson and seconded by Comm. Henderson that the communication be laid on the table for future consideration. The matter of the collection of the delinquent personal taxes was discussed by the Commission. It was moved by Comm. Henderson seconded by Comm. Robinson that the Village Treasurer be instructed to send out a letter to all those having unpaid personal taxes advising that the same be paid before legal action is taken to force collection. Carried. Mr. G. R. Smith and Mr. John Mastie appeared before the Commission and requested that authorization be granted to permit dancing after midnight on Saturdays. It was moved by Comm. Hoyer and seconded by Comm. Robinson that the Manager be instructed to investigate existing ordinances relative to dancing and notify the members of the Village Commission and Mr. G. R. Smith and Mr. John Mastie of his findings. Carried. The Manager brought to the attention of the Commissioners an application for a permit to build a garage on the southeast corner of Wing and Forest Avenue, which permit has been held up pending action on the same by the Village Commission. It was decided that no action could be taken by the Village Commission relative to preventing the construction of this building but that the property owners in this vicinity might wish to take steps to stop the work. The Village Attorney submitted an opinion to the effect that the road constructed in Plymouth Riverside Park on property owned by the Village of Plymouth and leased to the Wayne County Road Commission, said road being designated as Middle-Rouze Parkway cannot be a County Road for a longer period than the term of the lease and the rights of Wayne County to this property are no more than granted by the terms of the lease. MOTHERS TALK OF CHILD CARE

The Plymouth Child Care and Training Group met for the third lesson of the year at the home of Mrs. Bruce Woodbury, Sheridan Ave. Tuesday afternoon with thirteen ladies present. After a short business meeting, Mrs. Miller Ross presented the lesson for the day. The subject for the day's consideration was "Your Child's Home—Furnishing For His Comfort And Satisfaction." The child should be able to feel at home in his home, to bring his playmates there, to feel that he has a part ownership in the home. The home should be made convenient for the children to do things for themselves, and to do their share toward keeping the home neat and clean. All these are the goals to be striven toward in the ideal home.

Among other machines devised by man because of his aversion to work is the political machine. It was moved by Comm. Robinson seconded by Comm. Henderson that the Commission adjourn. Robert O. Mimmack, Pres. L. P. Cookingham, Clerk.

FOOD SUBJECT IS DISCUSSED

The second regular meeting of the Plymouth Nutrition Group was held Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Eugene Orndorff on Northville road, with seventeen ladies present. After a short business meeting, the leaders, Mrs. C. W. Ferguson and Mrs. Glenn Henwick, presented the lesson for the day. This was a lesson in physiology of the digestive tract. The members learned how food is digested and assimilated, and why some foods are more easily digested than others. After the lesson, the hostess served light refreshments.

BAD MANNERS ARE HIT BY RUTHVEN

Dr. Alexander G. Ruthven, president of the University of Michigan, in an address before the annual meeting of the American Society of University Unions Friday night, asserted bad manners are immoral. "So far have we gone in the nurture of manners in our training of youth," he said, "that we have even been in danger of placing a premium on bad manners, forgetting that they are a species of bad morals and that good manners are the shadows of virtues. If the nation cultivates the atmosphere of the bar-room it cannot contribute to the objectives of our schools and must remain apart from them. If it serves to encourage decent comportment and modes of civility, it will become an indispensable part of the University, since it will contribute to a well-rounded education."

HOW NOT TO TREAT THE AMERICAN FLAG

Members of the Daughters of the American Revolution in Plymouth have requested the Mail to publish some rules pertaining to some of the ways not to handle the American flag. Some of them follow: Do not place any flag or pennant above the American flag. Do not let the flag touch the ground, floor or wall in the water. Do not place any object or emblem of any kind on or above the flag of the United States. Do not drape the flag over the hood, top or sides of an automobile, train or boat. Do not put lettering of any kind on the flag. Do not display, use or store the flag in such a manner as will permit it to be easily soiled or damaged. Always see to it that the flag has the position of honor.

A lot of Presidential timber will be used for grape stakes after the next national conventions. Not only should gangsters be registered, but they should be compelled to take out licenses.

NUTTY NATURAL HISTORY THE FOOZLED GOLPH

During the hot summer afternoons hundreds of these golphs are seen flying around fairways and popping in and out of their banks in the bunkers. They prefer spinach, but are satisfied with eating putting greens, which they wash down at the nineteenth hole. After this they are completely fozzled and are easily captured with sand traps.

This golph is largely made up of a golph ball fastened to the ceiling with a string and bent pin. The head is a large-sized filbert with clove horns. The wings are half-peanut shells, and the feet are cloves, legs included. Chewing gum fastens everything together. (© Metropolitan Newspaper Service.) (WNU Service.)

THE Hippocampus or house-tamaryllis is one of the most brilliant of house plants, and can be made to flower indoors without much difficulty if given the proper care. The bulbs, which can be obtained at the seed stores now, are best started in moss, which should be kept somewhat moist, and preferably in a warm room or in a greenhouse. When growth starts, the bulbs can be transferred to six-inch pots, using any good garden or potting soil. It is important that about two-thirds of the bulbs should be above the soil, and the surface of the soil should be a half-inch below the sides of the pots, so that water can be applied without loss. Only a little water will be needed at first, but considerably more will be required as growth increases. After the bulb has begun to grow in the pot it should be placed as near a sunny window as possible, in a warm room.

The Menace of the Jaywalker

No, it wasn't the driver's fault. The fellow he hit was one of the species of jaywalkers—the sort of menace who regards himself as a one-man parade. But the pity of it is that the driver, having no liability insurance, stands the risk of losing several thousands of dollars if the jaywalker wins his case—and you know juries!

The only thing is to protect yourself in advance by adequate Liability Insurance.

OFFICERS FINDING IT HARD TO KEEP SOME OLD TIMERS OUT OF PRISON—MEN ENJOY GOOD FOOD, WARM QUARTERS, PURE AIR

No longer is it a question of men fighting to keep out of prison. It is now a case of officers trying to drive men away from prison. Such is the case at the Detroit House of Correction farm, just west of Plymouth. In fact when the officials of the institution get rid of some of the old-timers, they will go right down to Detroit and do something to get back in prison again. They thoroughly enjoy the pure, clean, fresh air of Plymouth and vicinity, but more especially do they enjoy the wholesome meals, the nice, warm quarters and the clean sleeping places the people of Detroit provide them with. A Detroit newspaper writer who made his first visit to the Detroit House of Correction a few days ago, had little to say about the reporters, but he did have an excellent article on Capt. Edward Denniston's well managed prison.

small scrap of bread is left the number of the culprit is reported to Capt. Denniston. Thus after 900 men are fed, there is little for the garbage can. "The new cell block in which are segregated the more hardened criminals, such as dope addicts, etc., is the only semblance of a prison about the institution, for Capt. Denniston insists that it is merely what its name implies, a corrective institution, and most of the inmates are housed in dormitories. They are fed from what is raised on the farm, for beef is the only food purchased on the outside, and the training they receive as agriculturists, gardeners, chair makers, etc. Capt. Denniston believes, can't help but make useful citizens of them when they are permitted to again take their regular places among their fellowmen. "What he describes as his 'kindergarten' in the department in which Capt. Denniston takes special pride, for here are housed the youths who have been committed to the institution and haven't had a chance to become hardened criminals. They are segregated thus in the belief that by the time they have finished their terms they will have seen the error of their ways and be ready to again take their places as useful members of society. "For recreation there's a base ball diamond and a ball where moving pictures and other forms of entertainment are provided. This hall also is used as a chapel for Sunday services, which all inmates are obliged to attend at least once each Sunday. "After watching these men working in the rich soil round about the administration building, either making lawns or working in the gardens, without any guards, it is readily understood why they seem to prefer this kind of employment to working in the chair factory, for instance. And there's plenty of this kind of work to be done, apparently, for while Capt. Denniston says there are no more buildings to be erected in the immediate future, there's plenty of leveling to be done on the grounds. "Great storehouses of canned fruits and vegetables, mostly in gallon size containers, are proudly exhibited by Capt. Denniston. All this comes from the women's division, where is canned not only what is raised on the House of Correction farm, but tons more sent in from the farms of other county institutions. "Besides the canning factory in the women's division there is what is called the O. T. (occupational therapy) department and the laundry. In the former rugs are woven for the market, the suits for the men inmates are kept in repair, and dolls and fancy goods are turned out by the wholesale. "In the laundry, besides all the wash for the entire institution, laundry work is done for the Detroit Fire Department and the D. S. R., and in a printing office nearby all forms used by the House of Correction are turned out by a force of girls in charge of a civilian foreman. "All the women are housed in cottages in charge of matrons, 30 or 40 to each cottage, and each individual has a room to herself, in which she is locked at night. "Refractory or defiant prisoners are handled by Capt. Denniston like unruly children, who used as an illustration the case of Kate Keller, recently committed to the institution. The Keller girl, who was an associate of one of the Ypsilanti torch killers, came to the institution thoroughly untaught, wearing an air of bravado and defiance. "But," said Capt. Denniston, "when she left my office, where we had a heart-to-heart talk, she was crying." "Capt. Denniston joined the staff of the Detroit House of Correction in 1920, coming from Kansas City, Mo., where he had been deputy superintendent when the latter resigned because of ill health. "Here is a tip for Plymouth motorists! Michigan 1931 automobile license plates may not be honored in neighboring states after Jan. 1, 1932, according to information reaching the Department of State. Motorists will not be allowed to tour Ohio after Jan. 1 with Michigan 1931 plates, even though the plates are legal here until March 1. New plates are mandatory in Ohio on January 1 of each year. Wisconsin, Illinois and Indiana officials have indicated that they may follow the example set by Ohio. It is possible that one or more of the states will change its plan before the first of next year, but Michigan motorists who plan to Miss Wellever visited the two upper rooms Wednesday. Our rooms are preparing Christmas programs, due to the large crowds we have, the program will be presented twice this year, once in the afternoon for those who find it difficult to be present at night, and again in the evening. This will do away with the over-crowded conditions we have experienced in past years. The P. T. A. will give a pre-school children's Christmas party. This is for the tiny pre-school children and their mothers. This will take the place of the grand march of former years. It will also insure a better time for our littlest ones. Invitations will be sent out soon. The seventh grade had a perfect attendance for the month of November. The sixth, seventh and eighth grades enjoyed a party last week. Our girls are busy making patterns for Christmas gifts. We have some lovely book-ends, vases and party jugs. Our picture study so far this month has been Raphael's 'Sistine Madonna' and Reynolds' 'Angels' Heads. The seventh graders are reading Washington Irving's accounts of early Dutch settlers. We like best 'Legend of Sleepy Hollow' and 'Rip Van Winkle.' The unit being worked out by leave the state, will avoid possible delay and embarrassment after January 1 by securing new license plates.

the eighth grade is "The Story of Michigan." It is proving most interesting. Pupils on the honor roll are: Helen Vincent, Vincent Bluge, Mary Ann Vincent, Morris Loyd. Our attendance for the past month was 97.5 per cent. We're trying very hard, and good weather is helping us. The sale of Christmas stamps is heavy in the second, third, fourth and fifth grades this year. Some people believe in law and order—if they can lay down the law and give the orders. You can buy as much now with a dollar as you could fifty years ago—if you have the dollar.

I AM STILL RICH

We have passed through a panic, suffered from a crash on the stock market, and are now more than half way through the depression, and I am still rich.

It may be true that I have much less to live on than I had a year ago, but it is certainly true that I have just as much as ever to live for.

The depression has not lowered the value of a single friendship. Neighbors still greet us in the same old cordial way, business associates believe in us, and our sons hold us in high respect.

My faith in the goodness of the universe is unimpaired. By that faith I am emboldened as I face defeat and despair. The prayers my mother taught me and the faith in God instilled in me by a devout father remain as priceless treasures no depression can touch.

No nation becomes greater by becoming richer. Neither does a man find enduring satisfaction in life by owning something—only by becoming something. The most degrading poverty is that which results from killing the spirit that the body may be served.

This depression is a challenge, not a catastrophe. A generation that has conquered the air and sent giant planes circling the globe, which has plunged into the depths and dispersed on the ocean's floor, which has climbed above the clouds and lived in the stratosphere, is now faced with the challenge to rise above its dependence on mere things and seek an emancipation of the spirit of man.

The last six months have been for many men a thrilling spiritual adventure through which they have discovered their real wealth. Bereft of dividends and profits, they are discovering the sustaining powers of a strong religious faith, the abiding values of courage, heroism, honor, charity, and trustworthiness.

A financial crisis can wipe out profits and bring business to a standstill, but character is beyond its reach. It can rob us of all we have, but it cannot affect what we are.

The deepest satisfactions of life—those which come from sharing and serving—remain secure.

I am still rich because I am independently rich—none of my wealth depends upon business conditions or market reports.—Roy B. Smith, in the Hub (Saskatoon, Sask.).

ALLISON PLEASD WITH BIG SHOWING

HUNDREDS COME TO SEE THE NEW CHEVROLET REPORTS SOME SALES.

One of the biggest crowds that ever witnessed a showing of new Chevrolet cars was present last Saturday when Ernest Allison, Plymouth distributor for the Chevrolet, opened his show rooms for the showing of the new 1932 models. Not only did they come to see the many improvements in the new cars but some came to buy and a number of sales have been reported.

The opening featured the most comprehensive announcement program ever used by the Chevrolet Motor Company, 5,355 leading daily and weekly newspapers in the United States introduced the new 1932 Chevrolet Six last week.

First news of the new Chevrolet was flashed in teaser manner by 25,000 posters in towns of 15,000 population and over. The posters, with a total length of 118 miles, comprised a showing 50 per cent larger than any manufacturer in any business has ever staged. The posters were panned on Nov. 28, and for one week their message was "Keep Your Eye on Chevrolet."

On Nov. 29, also, Chevrolet dealers decorated their windows with teaser displays. The material for these displays was a part of 76 tons of promotional matter mailed by the Chevrolet Motor Company. Included in this tonnage were eight square miles of 35-centette cardboard, 30 linear miles of canvas banners, and 1,100,000 lapel buttons.

On the morning of Dec. 2, teaser phonograph records, bearing nothing more than an address and a warning to play at once, were delivered by Uncle Sam to 1,280,000 Chevrolet owners in all parts of the country. The message on the record informed them that a new Chevrolet was on the way.

Then, on Dec. 5, the 5,355 newspapers printed the announcement of the new 1932 Chevrolet Six, the 25,000 posters were changed accordingly, and the public was thronging its way to dealers' showrooms.

The difference between opportunity and a confirmed grouch is that opportunity knocks only once.

Pretty Wedding For Plymouth Girl

A simple but impressive wedding ceremony, uniting in marriage Miss Marguerite Effie Wood granddaughter of Edwin D. Wood, of Plymouth, and William Addison Foreman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Foreman, of Northville, was performed at the home of the bride, 1165 West Ann Arbor street, by the Rev. Edgar H. Hoenecke, pastor of the local Lutheran church, Saturday evening, December 5, in the presence of about forty immediate relatives and intimate friends.

The bride was lovely in a gown of ivory satin, and carried a shower bouquet of peach rosebuds. She was attended by Miss Hazel Rathburn of Plymouth, who was attired in peach georgette, and carried white roses. The groom was attended by his brother, Ralph Foreman, of Northville.

Miss Catarina Penner, the much loved musical instructor of the bride, played the wedding march, the bride-to-be entering on the arm of her grandfather, the ceremony being performed under a bower of white chrysanthemums, palms and myrtle.

Mrs. Foreman is an alumna of the Plymouth High school, graduating with the class of 1930, and was very proficient in music and dramatics during her high school career. Mr. Foreman was a graduate with the 1928 class of the Northville High School, and is associated with his father in the fruit growing business.

After the serving of dainty refreshments the happy couple left for a month's motor trip to Florida and other southern points. On their return they will be at home to their many friends in Northville, where they will establish their future residence.

INFLATED PRICES DEPRESSION CAUSE

ROTARIANS HEAR AN EXCELLENT TALK ON ECONOMIC ILLS OF COUNTRY.

C. L. Nash of the extension department of the Michigan State College, last Friday gave the most outstanding and interesting talk on problems of the farm and farmer due to the present economic conditions that the Rotary Club has heard.

With charts he showed the levels in general prices between 1897 to 1931, and also, of farm prices using twenty-three commodities showing at times that the curve of farm prices went above that of the general price level but that in general, the curve of farm prices was below that of general commodity prices.

He spoke of specific problems such as transportation by truck and specific grading of agricultural products for market, and explained how the farmer was meeting these problems.

One especially interesting situation which he demonstrated by charting of general price revelations was the fact that, at the present time, we are practically at the normal price level over the period of one hundred and forty years, and the reason that we seem to be in such a sorry situation is that we had such an abnormal inflation of credit prior to 1929 that falling-back to normal has given us a severe jar and the suffering which we are now experiencing.

Mr. Nash contends that, if prices do not rise but become stabilized on our present price level, good times can and will gradually return and also, that if prices start inflating over a period of years, if history repeats itself, we can expect another crash and misery in getting back to normal again.

MERCURY DOWN TO EIGHT ABOVE SUNDAY NIGHT

Not quite down to zero, but down to eight above was the record of Sunday night, according to various weathermen of Plymouth. Some say it was ten and others report that their thermometers registered eleven above. Anyway it was cold, exceptionally so. The sudden change from warm, balmy weather that has prevailed most of the fall came Sunday night, with a high wind. There was no damage done by the wind and all the freeze did was to hustle up coal deliveries in Plymouth. It was the first touch of real winter weather that this part of the state has experienced this year.
