

HOT FIGHT IN PROSPECT FOR GOVERNORSHIP

Governor Brucker And George Welsh Begin Active Campaigns

Interest in the forthcoming primary election to be held September 13 has been considerably increased during the past few days by the prospects of a lively fight for the gubernatorial nomination for governor. For a time indications were that Governor Wilbur Brucker would be without serious opposition, but the filing of petitions on Tuesday in behalf of City Manager George Welsh of Grand Rapids who has won national attention by the way he has handled the welfare situation in Michigan's second largest city, has considerably turned the tide of events and Governor Brucker now faces a real campaign.

Governor Brucker who has almost himself strongly with the days is pointing to his administration for the past two years as a reason why he should be re-elected. City manager Welsh, former lieutenant governor who believes that the handling of the liquor question has been a complete failure and favors immediate repeal, points to his record of public service as proof of his ability to handle the affairs of the state.

In his announcement he says: "The Constitution of the State of Michigan provides that every two years the voters of the state shall by their votes designate to whom they shall entrust the management of our state affairs.

Occasionally the selection of officials for high administrative positions has been based on considerations other than experience, ability or fitness for public service. In normal times, with no extraordinary demands upon any particular office it is sometimes possible to honor worthy citizens with the badge of high office without serious detriment to the public interest.

But these are by no means normal times. The economic crisis now passing furnishes the severest test of our citizenship and the ability of our public servants effectively to use the great agency of government for the alleviation of our political and economic ills that has occurred since the birth of the republic.

That in a large degree the present difficulty can be laid at the door of inefficient, inexperienced, and unwise public administration is apparent to anyone familiar with the public service and the proper functions of government.

We live under a representative republic; whatever plan may be said of it, we are forced to admit that it does truly represent and reflect the public will. In the final analysis the people must assume the responsibility for the selection of those who eventually shape and direct the public affairs. An intelligent use of the ballot is the first step toward an intelligent administration of governmental affairs.

In addition to the great natural resources and the diversity of our agricultural products Michigan is one of the leading industrial states of the nation. The economic depression that has spread its pall over the land has left its mark heavily upon our state. Individual descriptions of property returned to the Auditor General's office show a delinquency, now increasing around one million pieces, tell all too graphically the financial havoc that is being wrought among our people.

With the farm owner, home owner and business man taxed to the utmost to bring their individual business costs down, the public is being asked to contribute to the relief of the state treasury. The funds of private charitable agencies exhausted; with the treasuries of our municipalities being drained and the financial structure of the state and county governments being undermined by the indifference of attitude assumed by our present state government. We cannot substitute rhetoric for relief. We cannot accept the timid trimming of governmental waste and expense for the drastic reduction and elimination that our plight requires. We cannot evade the personal political fortunes of individuals at the expense of the public good.

In the present crisis the state administration apparently does not sense the seriousness of the situation. There has been a failure to regard the condition into which the townships, counties, villages and cities have been plunged. Yet if these local units of government are to be permitted to fall under the crushing load now imposed upon them, what then becomes of the state? And if the individual citizen cannot be expected to shoulder the burden of the state's financial footing can expect no relief from

COMMITTEE IS WELFARE JOBS APPOINTED TO HELPING MANY STUDY GAS RATE LOCAL FAMILIES

Wayne And Northville Appeal In Plymouth Mail Brings Desired Results

On July 14th a joint meeting of officials from Wayne, Northville, Plymouth and the townships of Plymouth, Livonia and Northville was held in the City Hall at Plymouth for the purpose of discussing the matter of gas rates charged by the Michigan Federated Utilities. This meeting was called with the idea of taking joint action in this matter in order that a lower rate for gas service could be obtained, if possible.

The joint meeting of officials agreed that cooperative action by the several municipalities would be more effective and accordingly have appointed a smaller committee to deal with the situation. This committee consists of Frank K. Learned of Plymouth, Dr. Linwood W. Snow of Northville and M. E. Tinkham, village attorney of Wayne. L. P. Cookingham of Plymouth is secretary of the committee. A communication has been directed to the Gas Company demanding a reduction in the domestic rates of a maximum of $1.25 per thousand feet of gas with a minimum monthly charge of $1.00 for which charge at least six hundred cubic feet of gas will be included.

A meeting with the officials of the Gas Company was arranged with the committee for Tuesday afternoon, July 26th, at the City Hall in Plymouth at which time this matter was thoroughly discussed with the executives of the Gas Company.

The committee believes that a reduction in rates is due at this time inasmuch as increases were allowed during the periods of high prices with the promise from the Company that a reduction would be allowed when prices were at a lower level.

From the investigation of the later Municipal Committee it has developed that the gas rates charged in Plymouth are higher than in any of the towns in this vicinity, and it is believed that the price charged by this Company is greater than is justifiable. The residents of these communities can be assured that the committee will do everything within its power to obtain a lower rate schedule.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Jackson, sons, Bobbie and Jackie and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Jackson of Rochester were Sunday dinner guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Herlick on Brunner road. Mr. and Mrs. William Jackson returned home with them.

DEMONSTRATE NEW PORTABLE IRRIGATION PLAN

New Irrigation Device Operated On Farm By State

The William Bartel and Son farm located on Plymouth road was last Friday the scene of a demonstration of "portable irrigation" to hundreds of farmers in this section. This demonstration was given by George Amundson, engineer of the Michigan State College illustrated to farmers how an inexpensive canvas hose, a pump and a steady flow of water could be made to produce the same results as a good hard rain that many times they are so far.

The hose, obtainable at a cost of about 14 cents a foot was connected with a gas-driven pump and strung in the field. In a short period a steady seepage was soaking into the dry earth and parched plants were drinking of the pools of water standing between the rows.

In Michigan, where climate is variable and soils are generally light, irrigation of this type shows a great promise of immense benefit," said Amundson. "We have found that an inch of artificial rainfall per acre can be produced by 30,000 gallons of water pumped at a fuel cost of 40 or 50 cents."

"About 500 feet of hose is the limit," Amundson continued. "It should be strung in lengths of 12, 10 and 8 inch canvas to perform in the most satisfactory manner. Pressure governs the length. When one section of the field is soaked, the hose is moved to another, with the pump in continued operation."

Mr. Bartel stated that the spectators were well impressed with the demonstration and many of them felt that within the next year new developments would make this a practical way of watering their fields. He stated that any farmer with a good supply of water could use the present equipment without much cost or trouble.

Daughter Of Arlo Soth Married To Needham Lockwood

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Arlo A. Soth on Sunset avenue, Virginia Park, was the scene of a quiet but in a room made a light wedding Saturday morning when their only daughter, Ruth Alice, was united in marriage to Needham Lockwood, son of William D. Lockwood, by Rev. P. Ray Norton, pastor of the local Methodist Episcopal church. The bride and groom were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Burger of this city. The bride was becomingly gowned in white silk crepe and carried a bouquet of yellow roses while Mrs. Burger wore blue organdie and carried pink roses.

Only the immediate relatives of the young couple were present. A breakfast immediately followed the ceremony after which, amid showers of rice, the happy couple left for a week's stay at Manistee Lake near Kalkaska. For her going away costume Mrs. Lockwood chose blue wool with matching accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Lockwood will reside at 311 North Hursey street, where they have a furnished apartment.

The wedding guests included Mrs. William Lockwood, Miss Doris Lockwood, Miss Ellen Nyström and Mrs. P. Ray Norton of Plymouth, Mrs. Mary Needham, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Shiff, Charles Lockwood and children, Mary Ellen and Arthur of Highland Park, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Romine of Center Point, Iowa and Miss Laura Reimer of Ypsilanti, Iowa.

Cut Auto License Cost in Half on the First of August

What so many car owners have been waiting for is a fact. The Plymouth Branch Office of the Department of State received the following official notification from Lansing this week:

"This will authorize you beginning August 1, 1932, and continuing to December 31, 1932, to collect one-half the regular fee on all 1932 motor vehicle licenses which you sell out of your office. This reduction, of course, does not refer to transfer of titles and license plates, operator licenses, duplicate plates, nor to any kind of duplicate license."

Beginning next Monday, therefore, 1932 passenger plates, 1932 commercial plates, and 1932 trailer plates can be purchased for one-half price. The Plymouth branch office located in the Mayflower Hotel Building is open every day with the exception of Sunday from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m.

LASALLE ENTERING THE NORTHWEST TERRITORY

Water Power Development In This Part Of State By Henry Ford Reviewed In Recent Article in Business Magazine

The following article taken from a recent issue of the Michigan Manufacturer will be of considerable interest to readers of the Plymouth Mail because of its description of some of the water powers in this locality that have been developed by Henry Ford. The article is a review of the work that Mr. Ford has done in developing water power in southeastern Michigan. It follows:

More than 10 years ago Henry Ford, interested in many things, began to play with water-power in a small way. The Rouge river runs through his home estate at Dearborn. One of the small buildings erected in the estate group was a home laboratory for Mr. Ford's personal use, into which he had assembled the scientific and technical books which he had studied as he came along, some testing machines and a simple lot of stuff.

Partly as a training for this kind of work, Mr. Ford had been utilizing a small water-fall which was located at this point on the Rouge, building a dam which held back the flowing water and sending it over a turbine of about 75 horsepower capacity, from which he drew energy to light his home and the immediate grounds and to give himself a bit of power to play with. The incident of this building was the beginning of his interest in water power, for hydro-electric purposes, which is now very extensive.

Some Old Mill Powers

For time out of mind Shakerford's mill pond, between Plymouth and Northville, on the same river, had been turning the wheels of an old flouring mill at Phoenix, a village of the 1830 period. He acquired this, built a dam, developed 45 horsepower and set it at work in a small factory at the dam site where some scores of the village folk were employed at making springs for motor car seats.

Then he gathered in the old Nankin Mill site, on the territorial road between Detroit and Ann Arbor and produced 52 horsepower there. Another bit of water-fall was near Plymouth where about 30 horsepower was available. Each of these operations was part of a plan to make little industries, separated from his main factories, where groups of people might be employed near enough to their homes to work and at the same time carry on their agricultural operations on their farms.

Then Mr. Ford acquired a deposit of glass sand near Flat Rock and conceived the idea of making electric bulbs for his motor cars. This was on the Huron River, which Alex Dow, of Detroit Edison Company, was developing as a water-power stream, and which had turned mill wheels since the state was settled. Mr. Ford acquired the fluvage rights and dammed the stream anew at Flat Rock, producing 140 horsepower and applying it to the local glass factory which he established.

The Iron Mountain Power

In course of time the Ford interests conceived and founded the Iron Mountain operations in the Upper Peninsula for the purpose of ensuring a timber and wood supply for the business. Here a very elaborate steam plant was built into the project, in which the power plant was fed with cheap waste wood fuel, a by-product of the timber operation. There isn't a heap of waste at that, for by the time the wood went to the distilling plant and had the wood alcohol, the acetates and the chemically pure chemicals taken out of it there wasn't much left to burn. But the Menominee River flowed by Iron Mountain and the Penn Iron Company and some others had established powers on it to produce compressed air. The Ford folks acquired one of the unused power sites on the river and proceeded to develop a little more than 9,000 horsepower, applicable to the Iron Mountain flabber mill operations. That got them into hydro-electric power production in quite a sizeable way.

Elmer Harland Daniels

RELATIVE OF MRS. E. CHAFFEE GAINS HONORS

Young Sculptor Making Much Progress On Way To Fame

Elmer Harland Daniels, Michigan sculptor, nephew of Mrs. E. W. Chaffee of Plymouth and well known to many Plymouthites, 43, has carved a niche for himself in the hall of fame, according to reports from Indianapolis, Ind., where he has a studio of sculpture.

Mrs. Chaffee's nephew is carving his way to fame both literally and figuratively for he has become one of the country's foremost young sculptors and is rapidly advancing to a stage where his work is recognized wherever critics and connoisseurs gather to appraise contemporary art.

Young Daniels has received numerous prizes and awards for his work. Some of the pieces he has executed include: "Lasalle Entering the Northwest Territory," an architectural frieze for submission to the fine arts committee of the 1932 Century of Progress; "St. Francis of Assisi," founder of the Franciscan order and winner of leading central states sculpture prize; "The Birth of the Indiana Limestone Industry," an imaginative study which has won wide renown; portraits of Commander Edward Ellsberg, salvager of the 8571 of Lake St. Clair, and captain of the guards for Mussolini, of the daughter of the Princess Skishnow and others. The last two were done while Daniels was in Europe.

Daniels is now completing a commission of a personage of national note, the announcement of which will not be made for at least 30 days. He is associated with Joseph M. Henninger, painter at Indianapolis.

Garages Will Do Free Brake Testing

Chief Vaughn R. Smith designated 7 of Plymouth's garages as official brake testing stations today, in order to cooperate with the state-wide campaign sponsored by the Department of Public Safety. These garages will test all brakes and head lights on Plymouth cars during the month of August free of charge.

Every auto owner is urged to avail themselves of this free service and to have this check made as soon as possible. Garages making the tests are: The Plymouth Motor Sales, The Plymouth Super Service Station, The Plymouth Buick Sales, The Baker Garage, The Chevrolet Garage, Larkin Service Station and the Plymouth Auto Supply.

Judge Brooks To Try Election Case

An interesting trial, the outgrowth of an election row in Stump township since before the Municipal Judge Ford Brooks on August 9 when Bert Merritt, clerk of that township will stand examination on a charge of violating the election laws. He is charged with two offenses, one of destroying ballots and the other with changing the registration books. The case promises to bring a large number from Stump township to Plymouth who are interested in the outcome of it.

Mrs. Chas. Holloway has in her possession a Plymouth paper which is 53 years old. It was called the Plymouth Review at that time.

TAX PENALTY DUE ON TAXES AFTER AUG. 10

New Charter Demands That Penalty Be Collected

August 10th is the last day on which to pay the 1932 City Taxes without penalty. After that date a penalty of 2% will be collected on all taxes paid until September 10th, and after September 10th an additional penalty of 1% per month will be collected on all taxes until the roll is returned to the County Treasurer. At that time the roll is returned the penalty will also be attached to the taxes sent to the County Treasurer for collection.

The new City Charter adopted in May makes it mandatory that these penalties be collected with the taxes. The Charter Commission discussed this matter at considerable length and it was agreed that a provision should be written into the Charter so that there would be some inducement offered for taxpayers to meet their tax obligations promptly and to inflict a small penalty on the delinquent taxpayer.

The old Charter made no mention of the penalties to be placed on delinquents. The penalty being authorized by the Village Commission only and this penalty could be eliminated by action of the Commission. Under the present Charter, Section 28 of Chapter 10, provides that "A collection fee of 2% collected after August 10th, and after the 10th day of September an additional penalty of 1% a month shall be collected on all municipal taxes which shall be delinquent until the tax roll is returned to the County Treasurer, as provided by State Law. All collection fees and penalties will be collected by the City Treasurer in the general fund of the City." This provision of the Charter makes it necessary to add the penalties after August 10th.

Due to the fact that the collection of State, County and School taxes in December it will be necessary to stop collections on the City Tax roll at an earlier date than in previous years in order to have the City roll out of the office by the time the winter tax collections start. This notice is given to taxpayers in order that they may meet their obligations as promptly as possible and without paying any additional penalties.

Towle and Roe Team Wins Playground Ball Championship

Last Tuesday evening the Towle and Roe playground ball team defeated the Norge nine 8 to 7 in a thrilling contest in which neither team scored until the fifth inning when Schaff and Rowland got on by well placed hits. Williams and Pace each singled to bring home the first two runs. Norge scored one run in their half of the sixth, but the Towle and Roe team accounted for two more for Towle and Roe. Norge went to bat in the ninth with the score 8 to 2. Five runs were scored by Norge before Towle and Roe settled down, and put out the three last men to bat.

In winning Tuesday night's game, the Towle and Roe team clinched the championship of the playground winning eleven games and losing one. Pitcher Elford won the eleven games and holds the record for strikeouts. He struck out 15 men in one game. Bill Schaff pitched one game in which he was lost to the Mills. However, he was not the fault of the pitching.

Schaff has been a valuable man on the team with his heavy hitting and his work in right field. Rowland is probably the heaviest hitter in the league and takes care of water field in a very efficient manner. Levdawski is short, Pace and Pomy at first makes an infield second to none. Joe Schomberger made a record in left field, taking fifteen fly balls in one game.

LOCAL JOTTINGS

Mr. and Mrs. John Kirk and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Stanley spent the week-end at Patterson Lake.

Ted Jenkeny of Detroit was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Mac Estep on Starkweather avenue from Saturday until Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Wilson and children and Mrs. E. Carr left Thursday for a short stay at Hubbard Lake, near Alpena.

New Hospital To Be Opened Here Soon

Miss Loua West, graduate nurse of the University of Michigan, has leased the residence at 218 South Main street and will open a hospital in Plymouth within the immediate future. Her sister, Miss Alma West, will be associated with her in the venture. The house will be entirely remodeled and all new hospital equipment purchased. It will be known as the Plymouth Hospital, the first one this city has ever had. The equipment will include everything that physicians will need in their work.

TIME TO CLEAN HOUSE

The new Federal tax bill is in effect and the public is beginning to pay on every hand to maintain a wartime cost of government in sorely depressed peace times.

Various states are in the same position as the Federal government.

Within the last five years, according to a list recently issued, 122 cities in the United States, along with 104 counties and improvement districts, have defaulted on principal or interest of their bonded debts. Since that list was issued, Chicago has announced default on $900,000 of bonds and interest, along with statement that there is a delinquency of $99,000,000 in 1930 taxes for Chicago and Cook County.

The people begin to realize that public indebtedness which they pay by taxing themselves, is due largely to burdens which they themselves demanded or encouraged.

Cities have been loaded down with innumerable "services to the public." A study of these innovations has been made to Detroit by William Anderson, and his findings are equally applicable to practically every larger city in the country.

Detroit was chartered in 1824 and from then to 1861 established 17 city activities which were fundamental functions of government for all the people.

From 1862 to 1880, it added 14 other functions, largely indispensable.

From 1881 to 1900, it added 34 functions, many of which began to branch away from governmental functions into special services for special classes.

From 1900 on, more than 100 functions have been added, covering almost every conceivable activity from operating industries in competition with private citizens and taxpayers, to furnishing social services of all descriptions.

Most of the activities were worthy in purpose, but a pyramiding of governmental luxuries does not answer the question as to what happens when extravagant tax expenditures and a multiplicity of public servants and bureaucratic activities become impossible for property and income to bear.

Many families are now doing without luxuries which they enjoyed during the abnormal prosperity of a few years ago. They are eating simpler food, buying plainer clothes and using their automobiles longer. Government must do the same thing. Public officials should realize that they no longer have the same tax resources to draw on, any more than the private citizen has the same income he had a few years ago.

Taxation budgets have been balanced by increased taxation, rather than by increased economies and reduced governmental overhead. This process must be reversed and budgets balanced by bringing government expenses and taxation within the ability of the people and industry to pay, without hardship, out of normal peace time income.

AGE DOESN'T COUNT

Some people pooh-poo the claim of psychologists that mental attitude toward one's age and physical condition affects health, well-being and length of life. But there must be something in the claim after all, though, of course, there are plenty of other factors entering into the consideration of life and the conditions of survival as well as of comfort and happiness.

Take the case of Dr. Lillian J. Martin, professor emerita of Stanford University, who at 76 learned to drive an automobile and at 79 toured Russia in an airplane. This learned woman, now 82, recently returned to her home in San Francisco after a long lecture tour in the East, and is now about to start on another, this time to Mexico. For years Dr. Martin has contended that men and women can extend the period of their activities well into old age if they keep abreast of the times and entertain progressive ideas instead of dreaming about the past, as old people are prone to do.

Since she left the university, where her psychological teaching were recognized all over the country as of peculiar value, Dr. Martin says she has done her best work, which has been in helping business men and others to apply their faculties in a way to conserve and make the most of their energies and their time. She is of the opinion that in the case of old people it is better for them to keep active than to relapse into the condition where resting is rusting. There are many latter-day examples of the truth of her teaching, as seen in the cases of VonHindenburg, ex-Justice Homes, Edwin Markham and Robert Dollar.

"We do not count a man's years," says Emerson, "until he has nothing left to count." The friends of Dr. Martin and of the others mentioned do not so much consider the years they have lived as they do their achievements.

ADVERTISING ADVERTISING

Newspapers are using brief statements in various ways for promotion of advertising. One publisher furnished a compilation which can be used as streamers or in boxes, as follows: Whatever you buy—let the advertisements be your guide. Advertising has established values and confidence. THE FOUNDATION OF PROSPERITY

When national publications are appearing at from one-half to one-third of their inflated, post-war size, the Byron Times, published by Harry Hammond, at Byron, California, comes out with its 166-page 1932-33 deluxe development edition showing the record of progress that is being made in Central California.

It would pay anyone to read this edition just to see that the future of the United States does not depend on the stock market or the politicians—its destiny lies in the hands of the producers of the products which provide necessities for our 125,000,000 population as well as a large part of the rest of the world.

This special edition pictures in minutest detail the activities that maintain the payrolls, provide the food and clothing and furnish the taxes to maintain government. Anyone reading it can see what a wonderful work a live publisher in a farming and manufacturing community can do to build public pride in local institutions and industries.

California owes a debt of gratitude to Editor Hammond and his able co-workers who have brought to the front such a record of assets upon which the future and prosperity of this nation rest and will go forward.

HELP TO MAKE HOME TOWN BEST TOWN ON EARTH

Fair competition is the life of trade. Home business institutions that are helping to pay for the maintenance and improvements of a city, are entitled to the trade of the citizens of the home city.

Outside business concerns do nothing toward the building of the home city and local merchants should not be forced to compete with them.

Buying away from home should be stamped out forever. Every dollar and every activity should be united to make business of the home city better. Now is the time to get busy and make local business better.

Every citizen should take an active and positive stand on all things that go to make local business better.

All should take a mental inventory and find out how they stand in ability and honesty of purpose and willingness to make the home city bigger and better.

No man is a success who only enriches himself. The man is a success whose success enriches the community.

There is only one city in the world in which to live and prosper and that is the city in which you live.

A good way to boost the home city is to buy from the local business concerns who advertise in local papers.

Local advertisers are the people who lead in the things that keep a city moving forward in the march of progress.—Press, Guttenberg, Iowa.

YOUR NEWSPAPER

The following was taken from a circular sent to retail merchants by a large wholesale house. The value of your local newspaper to the success of your business cannot be over-estimated. It's worth all the support and cooperation you can give it. For the newspaper is a mirror reflecting the life of the community in which you and your store have an important part. Your advertisement is the reflection of your store in this mirror. Everybody sees it there. If it is not there, the mirror is dark where your store should be. You are there but you cannot be seen. Your store is open for business as usual, but "Out of sight; out of mind!" To keep in step with the progress of your community; to get your share of business, you must advertise regularly. Take your newspaper publisher into your confidence; he can give you invaluable assistance. Establish an advertising budget. Plan a regular schedule for your advertisements. It's a policy that is followed by the most successful stores; it's an idea that will be profitable for you.—Stillwater, Minnesota, Gazette.

THE DODO BIRD

The Dodo bird of the Munising News says the political "make up" of Green and Groesbeck is the beginning of an effort to save John Haggerty any annoyance in the approaching Standard Oil suit. It appears when Mr. Haggerty was secretary of state, a deputy in his office settled a dispute then pending against the Standard Oil Co. The present litigation may or may not bring up the Haggerty settlement, all this understand, according to Herb Case's editorial Dodo bird. It made a good yarn anyway.—Muri DeFoe in The Charlotte Republican-Tribune.

The Dodo bird should be careful. This thing may lead to high and unexpected places.

Rambling Around with Michigan Editors

A DIFFERENT BREED

In discussing the relationship between Gov. Roosevelt, the nominee for president on the Democratic ticket and the late Theodore Roosevelt, statesman and president of the United States, someone brought out the statement that Theodore Roosevelt claimed Franklin Roosevelt was of a different clan and that in speaking of that clan as connected with his own he used the word maverick. The word was new to me so I looked it up and found that Webster says it means a cow or steer outside of the herd, one not branded and is unclaimed or wild. A note says that the word is derived from a cattleowner in the south west who neglected to brand his cattle. Later on I ran across the story of this man Maverick which lends me to believe that more people than myself failed to understand what the word meant. The explanation says that Samuel Augustus Maverick lived around 1845 at Deerwax Point, Texas. A neighbor owed him $1,200 and paid him in cattle at $3 a head. Maverick did not want the cattle for he was interrupted chiefly in real estate, but it was cattle or nothing. He accepted the herd and moved to San Antonio, leaving the cattle at Deerwax Point in charge of a slave family. The herd did not increase because only about a third of the calves were branded each year. The rest were allowed to wander until they grew independent and country, after which time, by law of the open range, they belonged to anyone who could get his brand on them. Settlers began calling this type of roaming, stray calves by the name of mavericks, because they might be one of Maverick's unbranded herd. But though they used the name, they did not hesitate to claim the calves if they got their brands on them first. The name spread. Today it means "nobody's calf."—Thomas Conlin in The Crystal Falls Diamond Drill.

ON OUT-STATE VIEWS

The Free Press carries a story Wednesday that certain Wayne county officials drove down the market on drain bonds and were then able to get the Wayne county board of supervisors to guarantee the bonds which made it possible to get par for their purchases. Detroit and Wayne county are economically desperate but no condition is too tragic to halt art in high places. No wonder the average man feels his helplessness in these times.—Muri DeFoe in The Charlotte Republican-Tribune.

Hitch-hiking his way to the governorship, Orin A. Bailey came through Gladstone last Saturday. The candidate has received, but passing notice thus far, and mostly from the towns he has visited. Coming into a town, Mr. Bailey visits with a few citizens, fluds out what the sentiment is politically and proceeds to outline the platform upon which he seeks the governorship. As usual, there is a promise of stringent economy, and a cleaning house of all job holders not actually producing something of benefit to the taxpayers.—Joseph Sturgeon in The Delta County Reporter.

Buy Now!

Not in many years have prices been so low on a vast number of merchandise items as at present.

Not in many years has there been such an opportunity to get so much for so little money.

The thrifty are seeing the advantage of buying now while prices are low, knowing that these prices cannot remain at the present level very long.

Buyers are eager to buy when they find bargains or hear of them. The merchant who has bargains and advertises them captures the buyers' dollars.

WATER POWER DEVELOPMENT IN THIS PART OF STATE BY HENRY FORD REVIEWED IN RECENT ARTICLE IN BUSINESS MAGAZINE

(Continued from page one) About the same time Mr. Ford became interested in the old Rawsonville power, again on the Huron River, downstream from Ypsilanti. Henry Von Schon, the authority of that time on water-power in Michigan had measured the possibilities of this power up 25 years ago and found 33 feet of fall developable at that point. Nobody paid much attention to him, but in time Henry Ford saw possibilities, acquired the power and had to get the present legislation passed, providing for condemnation of the rest of the flowage, when any single developer of a power had acquired 75 per cent of the rights. Another typical Henry Ford economy was that, for the agricultural season of 1931, all the flowage ground, which has not yet been flooded, was cultivated and put into the growing of potato and root crops for food, the thousands of bushels of which have been distributed among the people whom they would do the most good. In addition Mr. Ford has carried on some of his characteristic activities at this power site. The old stone school house, transformed into a century store, has been reconditioned and put back into its old form Ford got the idea of establishing a textile mill near Ypsilanti, which would furnish his factory upholstery cloth. The project lapsed for a few years until 1931 when the Ford interests began construction of a 35-foot dam at Rawsonville, which has been followed up by beginning of construction of factory for the manufacture of all the upholstery cloth and head lining used in the manufacture of Ford cars, which amounted to a total of 3,947,855 square yards of both materials of that amount, 2,225,500 yards were upholstering. These were 1030 figures. Whether the textile factory project will be carried out in the future or not is news which is not at the public disposal at this time. A new factory building at the southern limits of Ypsilanti is in actual construction, the building being 100 by 300 feet. This structure, the Ypsilanti Board of Commerce is advised, will be devoted to the production of electrical motors and other electrical appliances used in the Ford car assembly. For this entire project the company bought 1,705 acres of land for $800,000. In preparation 1,000,000 feet of lumber were cut from the Huron River valley, including 150,000 feet of black walnut. The dam and hydro-electric power plant, said to be costing $1,200,000, will create 2,700 horsepower for eight hours a day. The dam, 33 feet high, will be the largest on the Huron River. The lake will be from a half to three-fourths of a mile wide. About $60,000 was spent in grading a 100-foot right-of-way for a siding to the factory and power plant. Permission to cross the old Turley Hill road, one of the historic roads of the region, from the North River road to the Huron River road, was granted with the provision that the Ward road cross the river on the dam. Henry Ford obtained a valuable antique in the preliminary negotiations with the City of Ypsilanti for the old city water works and lighting plant, formerly the plant of the Corwall Paper Company. He is now owner of an original Corless steam engine, with a fly-wheel about 25 feet in diameter, by which Ypsilanti's water pumps and generators have been operated for about 40 years. The engine when new was exhibited at the Philadelphia Centennial in 1876 and was purchased by the Corwall Paper Co. from a southern cotton mill shortly afterward. The paper company went out of business about 1885 and sold the property to the city. The engine has been in constant operation since and was sold by Mr. Ford to be in perfect condition. In the "Seventies" the engines was considered the last word in its class. In its original form the penny was not a coin, but a token or pledge—and its derivation comes from the same source as that from which we get the word "pawpaw."

Japanese Keep Dry With Dried Rice

THESE three figures are not Japanese scarecrows, but are real, live peasants keeping themselves dry as they work in the rice fields. The jaunty raincoats are made of dried rice and are worn with hats that look very much like radio amplifiers. Despite the encroachments of modern science into the daily life of the Japanese, this style of raincoat has persisted for seven centuries.

Will Exhibit 1500 Sheep at State Fair

Preparations for the exhibiting of 1,500 sheep at the Michigan State Fair and Exposition Sept. 4 to 10 are being made by Fair officials. Should this number be reached, as is confidentially expected, it will mark the greatest sheep showing in the institution's 83 years of existence. Admission to the Fair Grounds this year has been reduced to 25 cents. Based on the fashion in which entries are coming in Fair officials predict a 33 percent increase in exhibits in the sheep department over the 1,022 animals exhibited there by 31 individuals at the 1931 Exposition. This was a 10% increase in animals and 11% increase in number of exhibitors, over 1930. Total premiums to be awarded in this department this year is $4,765 for sheep and $304 for wool exhibits. The 1932 entry fee has been set at $2. Closing date for entries is August 15. Premiums ranging from $0 to $1 with from 3 to 7 awards in each class have been set up for this year's competition. Eleven classes have been established in each of these breeds—American Merino B. Type; Delaine Merino; Black Ton Delaine Merino; Rambouillet C. Type; Shropshire; Hampshire; Oxford; Southdown; Dorset; Cheviots; Cotswold; Lincoln and Suffolk. The classes are for rams and ewes 2 years old or over; ram and ewe one year old; ram and ewe lambs; champion rams and ewes; flocks; breeder's young flock and pens of lambs. In addition, and reflecting the State Fair's several-year-old campaign to foster sheep raising in Michigan, a series of Michigan Breeders' premiums has been established in each of the mentioned breeds. These awards, three in each class, range from $10 to $2, and are for flocks, breeder's young flocks, pens of lambs, champion rams and ewes and $5 and banner for Premier Michigan Breeder in each breed. Special prizes are being offered by breeders' Associations in several of the groups. The American Shropshire Registry Association is offering $107 in awards in that group to Michigan exhibitors only. American Hampshire Association $100; American Oxford Down Record Association, $14. Wool exhibit premiums total $304 with $216 set aside for awards for ram and ewe fleeces in each of the 12 above mentioned purebred classes and $88 for market class exhibit winners.

STUDY DELAYS TO MOTORISTS—HOPE TO AID TRAFFIC

Delays, the motorist's most aggravating bug-bear, are undergoing some scientific study. Analysis of delays particularly experienced by city-dwellers—those at intersections—are being made by the Bureau of Public Roads to determine, if possible what remedies may be applied. The analysis takes the form of determining the amount of time lost by traffic in passing the various kinds of intersections from the moment a driver begins to slow up at the approach until he has again reached normal speed when past. All types of intersections are being studied, including those with right angle turns, oblique angles and circles, and various kinds of control, from the free intersection to ones regulated by police officers, automatic lights, or lights mechanically operated by the approach of an automobile. Comparison of the results will show which intersections are the most efficient, which types of control give the least delay and how various traffic conditions lead to loss of time for the motorist. Field work is being carried on in the District of Columbia and vicinity, so that not only will delays in city travel be analyzed but those experienced under the different conditions of suburban traffic. A special method is used in the field work, which will be extended for possibly six months and later may take up variations from the general run of intersections. Observers are equipped with instruments which have 20 pens. These record results on a roll of paper moving to a constant speed, when keys are pressed by the field workers. Sixteen pens are used in taking data on the intersection, observers being mounted at four posts with four keys each to register each car entering and leaving the intersection. Each key had a purpose, one recording the incoming cars on the street, one from the other street, one of the cars coming from a right turn, and one the through traffic. When studies of simpler types of intersections have been completed the bureau contemplates registering delays of various types of traffic circles, multiple intersections at the same grade, grade separations, and possibly the spacing of vehicles and lane capacity on the open highway. While the bureau has found its method affording complete and accurate data on the movement of traffic, it is believed that the expense of the equipment is not adapted to widespread use. As a result, comparison of the studies will be made with data collected by simpler, though less accurate, means in an effort to adapt the survey to studies made by other agencies in the past.

"Little Stories for Bedtime" by Thornton W. Burgess

BUSTER BEAR AND FARMER BROWN'S BOY following him, and then he began to think of other things. In the first place he ached from the bumps he had received when he dropped out of that tree. He had been too frightened to feel them at the time, but he felt them now. But worse than that there were the stings from the bees. He hadn't minded these while he was filling his stomach with that delicious honey, but he did now. It seemed to him that those bees had found every tender place on his whole body. He ached and he smarted all over, but the smarters were worse than the aches, a great deal worse. It seemed to him that he felt one in a new place every other second. "Oh, dear! Oh, dear! I almost wish I had never found that honey," groaned Buster. "It wouldn't be so bad if I had got all of it (Buster is very greedy), but he cheated out of half of it, and then have to aches and smart the way I do is dreadful. I can't stand this much longer. I've got to do something. I've got to find some mud, and I've got to find it soon. I'll go crazy if I don't. There's nothing like good cool mud to take the smart out of bee stings. And I guess I need a bath. I'm a mess. There isn't water enough in the Laughing Brook for a bath. There's just one place for me, and that is the pond of Paddy the Beaver. Oh, dear! Oh, dear! I wish I was there this minute." So Buster set out for the pond of Paddy the Beaver. Now Farmer Brown's Boy's one thought when he yelled and ran was to get away from those bees as soon as possible. At the moment he quite forgot Buster Bear. He heard the crash of breaking branches as Buster dropped out of the tree, and then he heard Buster crashing his way through the Green Forest as he ran away, but he was too busy fighting angry bees to realize what it all meant. Later he did, and chuckled as he thought of what a fright Buster must have had. The bees did not follow him far, and pretty soon, quite out of breath, Farmer Brown's Boy stopped to rest. But it wasn't for long. The stings from the bees smarted too much. "My, how they did smart!" "Mud," said Farmer Brown's Boy. "I've simply got to get to some mud. My face will be swelled up like a balloon if I don't. Let me see, this isn't far from the pond of Paddy the Beaver. There will be plenty of mud there. I was going there anyway." So Farmer Brown's Boy set out for the pond of Paddy the Beaver. (© 1932, by T. W. Burgess.)—WNU Service.

BUSTER BEAR WAITS IN VAIN PATIENCE, be you young or old. Brings its own reward, we're told. Buster Bear doesn't believe it. He doesn't see it that way at all. He is willing to admit that it does sometimes, but not always. No, indeed, not always! Perhaps that is because the reward isn't always what Buster wants it to be. You know how it is when we set our hearts on a thing and then don't get it. The disappointment makes us overlook some of the good things we do get. Buster that day when he discovered Busy Bee in the Green Forest.

Buster had heard the hum of Busy Bee and then had discovered her at work among some flowers in a little opening among the trees right back of where he was sitting. Then she flew away. Now the sight and the sound of Busy Bee had awakened pleasant thoughts in Buster Bear—thoughts of honey. Can you imagine any sweeter thoughts? Buster knows a great deal about Busy too, that she isn't a safe person to interfere with, that she carries the sharpest little lances with her all the time, and little as she isn't the least bit afraid to use it on even such a big fellow as he is. Yes, indeed, Buster Bear knows a great deal about Busy Bee.

When she flew away from those flowers in the little opening among the trees in the Green Forest, she went so suddenly that Buster didn't see in which direction she flew. "Never mind," said Buster to himself, "she'll come back; and next time I'll be sharper and see which way she goes. This is a very pleasant and comfortable place, so I'll just wait until she returns."

So Buster sat down where he could watch those flowers, made himself comfortable and waited for Busy Bee to come back. And while he waited he dreamed—day dreams, you know—and they were very pleasant dreams. They were sweet dreams, the very sweetest of dreams, for they were all of honey. He dreamed of a great hollow tree, and that he had climbed it and with his great strong claws had torn it open and found more honey than he could eat all at once, and Buster can eat a great deal. He smacked his lips quite as if that honey were real, and not just dream honey.

So Buster sat and dreamed and watched the flowers and waited for Busy Bee to return. He waited and waited. He was very patient. With such pleasant dreams it wasn't hard to be patient. You see, he felt that patience might make those dreams come true. When Busy Bee should come back for more sweets he would follow her straight to her secret storehouse. So he waited and waited.

The Jolly Little Sunbeams were very comforting and pleasant. It was very, very still and beautiful there. His stomach was reasonably full. Altogether Buster Bear was very comfortable. He blinked at the flowers. He nodded. Presently they lay down, and then—well, then those sweet day dreams became still sweeter sleep dreams. Yes, sir, Buster Bear fell asleep. And while he slept, Busy Bee returned and went away again, not once but several times. The Black Shadows had begun to creep throughout the Green Forest, when at last Buster opened his eyes. He scrambled to his feet and shook himself. Then he growled a rumbling-grumbly growl of disappointment. He knew that Busy Bee would not return that day, but had gone to bed for the night. His patience had brought no reward, he thought. You see, he quite overlooked the nice long rest and the beautiful sweet dreams. He had wanted a different reward, and so he hadn't had any. So Buster Sat and Dreamed and Watched the Flowers and Waited for Busy Bee to Return.

See. Ever since he was a little cub he has been interested in Busy Bee. I am afraid it has been a selfish interest, but none the less it has been a real interest. It has led him to find out a great deal about Busy Bee. He knows that Busy Bee makes honey. He knows that she gathers the sweets from the flowers of the Green Meadows and the Green Forest and that in a secret storehouse she packs these sweets away in the form of honey. He knows that sometimes this secret storehouse is in a hollow tree, sometimes in a hollow log, and sometimes even in a cave among the rocks. He knows that Busy Bee never wastes any time, not a single minute, but from morning till night is at work gathering the sweets of the flowers and making them into honey. He knows too, that she isn't a safe person to interfere with, that she carries the sharpest little lances with her all the time, and little as she isn't the least bit afraid to use it on even such a big fellow as he is. Yes, indeed, Buster Bear knows a great deal about Busy Bee.

This is a very pleasant and comfortable place, so I'll just wait until she returns."

So Buster sat down where he could watch those flowers, made himself comfortable and waited for Busy Bee to come back. And while he waited he dreamed—day dreams, you know—and they were very pleasant dreams. They were sweet dreams, the very sweetest of dreams, for they were all of honey. He dreamed of a great hollow tree, and that he had climbed it and with his great strong claws had torn it open and found more honey than he could eat all at once, and Buster can eat a great deal. He smacked his lips quite as if that honey were real, and not just dream honey.

So Buster sat and dreamed and watched the flowers and waited for Busy Bee to return. He waited and waited. He was very patient. With such pleasant dreams it wasn't hard to be patient. You see, he felt that patience might make those dreams come true. When Busy Bee should come back for more sweets he would follow her straight to her secret storehouse. So he waited and waited.

The Jolly Little Sunbeams were very comforting and pleasant. It was very, very still and beautiful there. His stomach was reasonably full. Altogether Buster Bear was very comfortable. He blinked at the flowers. He nodded. Presently they lay down, and then—well, then those sweet day dreams became still sweeter sleep dreams. Yes, sir, Buster Bear fell asleep. And while he slept, Busy Bee returned and went away again, not once but several times. The Black Shadows had begun to creep throughout the Green Forest, when at last Buster opened his eyes. He scrambled to his feet and shook himself. Then he growled a rumbling-grumbly growl of disappointment. He knew that Busy Bee would not return that day, but had gone to bed for the night. His patience had brought no reward, he thought. You see, he quite overlooked the nice long rest and the beautiful sweet dreams. He had wanted a different reward, and so he hadn't had any. (© 1932, by T. W. Burgess)—WNU Service

So Buster Sat and Dreamed and Watched the Flowers and Waited for Busy Bee to Return.

See. Ever since he was a little cub he has been interested in Busy Bee. I am afraid it has been a selfish interest, but none the less it has been a real interest. It has led him to find out a great deal about Busy Bee. He knows that Busy Bee makes honey. He knows that she gathers the sweets from the flowers of the Green Meadows and the Green Forest and that in a secret storehouse she packs these sweets away in the form of honey. He knows that sometimes this secret storehouse is in a hollow tree, sometimes in a hollow log, and sometimes even in a cave among the rocks. He knows that Busy Bee never wastes any time, not a single minute, but from morning till night is at work gathering the sweets of the flowers and making them into honey. He knows too, that she isn't a safe person to interfere with, that she carries the sharpest little lances with her all the time, and little as she isn't the least bit afraid to use it on even such a big fellow as he is. Yes, indeed, Buster Bear knows a great deal about Busy Bee.

When she flew away from those flowers in the little opening among the trees in the Green Forest, she went so suddenly that Buster didn't see in which direction she flew. "Never mind," said Buster to himself, "she'll come back; and next time I'll be sharper and see which way she goes. This is a very pleasant and comfortable place, so I'll just wait until she returns."

Value of telephone service to the law enforcement authorities of the community and state is increased by the publication of a special telephone directory of Michigan police officers and sheriffs. Just issued by the Michigan Bell Telephone company. Copies of the directory were delivered this week by Roy E. Crowe, manager for the Michigan Bell company in this area, to Vaughn Smith, chief of police, George Springer, Deputy Sheriff and L. P. Coochingham, city manager.

Manager Crowe states that publication of the directory is in line with the telephone company's cooperation with the law enforcement officials in their work. He adds that it is the company's policy to give telephone users fullest cooperation in handling police and other emergency calls, as in case of fire, sickness or accident. Telephone operators are instructed to give special attention to emergency calls.

Designed primarily as a telephone reference book for use of the authorities in getting in touch with each other, the new Michigan police directory contains the office and home telephone numbers, and the name of law enforcement officials in the state, as of June 1, listed alphabetically according to cities and communities. That makes it possible to reach any officer in the state quickly, at any time, day or night. One section of the book lists the sheriffs separately, in alphabetical order by counties.

The first edition of the police telephone directory was issued by the Michigan Bell Company a year ago, and proved of such value to the authorities in general that it was decided to bring the lists of names and telephone numbers up-to-date at this time, because of the many changes in names and numbers. Manager Crowe urges that copies of the old issue be destroyed.

Law enforcement officials depend greatly upon local and long distance telephone facilities, and there have been many instances in which the immediate use of the telephone has resulted in preventing crime or has brought about the capture of the criminals.

Some folks move from small towns to large cities so they can starve without everybody knowing it.

As to summer headgear, the straw vote has it.

Salem is justly proud of the Vacation Bible School which draws to a close this week. We have been very fortunate in having as director of the course, Miss Kathryn Pennell, a student of the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago. She was most ably assisted by Mrs. Ward Curtis and a corps of willing workers from the F. O. M. class. The Misses Doris Lyke, Marion Gale, Elvora Curtis and Olive Ann Sopher were happy hours to the work.

A special service is to be held Sunday morning at 10:30. This service is in celebration of the completion of the decorating of our church, made possible by the generous gift of the Ladies Aid Society and a liberal bequest from the late Mrs. Johanna Beyer. Everyone is welcome to come and celebrate with us.

Sunday school Sunday at 9:30 for the last time during this season. August is vacation month, and we begin the new seasons on the first Sunday in September at 9:30 a. m.

Sunday School Picnic, Ladies' Aid monthly meeting and potluck supper for the entire congregation and the parents of our Sunday school scholars will be held on the first Wednesday in August. August 3rd. The children will assemble at the church at 2:45 to redeem their exchange tickets for the picnic tickets and to go in a group to the park, Riverside Park, of course.

PLEASE, get your children to the church by 2:45 sharp. Bring something towards the Potluck and YOUR OWN DISHES.

The decoration of St. Peter's Lutheran Church, made possible by the financial support of the Ladies' Aid Society and the bequest of the late Mrs. Johanna Beyer, is now almost completely finished. Mr. Chas. Humphries of our city was chosen to do the work, and he has executed the same to the great satisfaction of the members of the congregation. A brief description of the work appears in this issue.

The girls that had been camping at Island Lake, arrived home with a good coat of tan Sunday afternoon.

The L. A. S. will hold their regular meeting next week Wednesday afternoon, at Riverside Park. Picnic lunch. All cordially invited.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Truth" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Christian Science Churches throughout the world on Sunday, July 24.

Among the Bible citations was this passage (John 4:24): "God is a Spirit; and they that worship him must worship him in spirit and in truth."

Correlative passages read from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, included the following (p. 322): "When understanding changes the standpoints of life and intelligence from a material to a spiritual basis, we shall gain the reality of life, the control of soul over sense, and we shall perceive Christianity, or Truth, in its divine Principle."

Rosedale Gardens

Flowers of many rare and beautiful varieties and color were received by the Ladies of St. Michael's Altar Society this last week. So many in fact that Mrs. Eglston and Mrs. Burger had quite a time in finding enough clear glass vases in which to place them. Therefore if you happen to have any clear glass vases, in pairs, the ladies would be very much pleased to have them for the purpose of placing the flowers about the Altars. Rev. Fr. J. E. Cantway, and all wish to thank those who so generously gave flowers for the past Sundays, and will appreciate any or all flowers sent over at any time, for purpose of decorating the Altars.

We don't believe that any church anywhere could have been so wonderfully supplied as was St. Michael's in Rosedale Gardens last Sunday, and it seems we all have so many of these flowers now that it is only right we should offer to Him who gave.

is doing an extra fine job of prospecting the arid temperatures and dews. The Garden City Baldeck over on Wayne Rd., claims he had no rain on his spatulates for seven weeks, and is afraid all he will have will be a slight resemblance of peanuts, so please, Mister Weatherman, send Leo some rain.

Penic Encore

has been demanded by the many who attended the one three weeks ago by friends of Rev. John E. Cantway. So it has almost been decided to hold another at some place, probably on Sunday, August 14, 1932. This date may be changed, however, so watch closely for sed same the date, the time and place. Last week there happened to be a number of penicis, herobant, and some folks got mist uppe with rants of and from the holoes convention, the Veterans, or something before they discovered it was not the St. Michael's Church penic, which was sad indeed.

have been shown herobants lately, and who do you think? No—you're wrong, none other it is than R. friend R. Roch of Blackburn Ave., who is now associated with the well known Fiver Co. Inc. and in competition with it friend, same street, but of the G. M. family party as heretofore.

Vacations

It is season, not only for kiddledom but for some Gardenite Daddies, but not for the mothers, who now have Daddy to bother her for the three squares beside the insistent demand for more cherry pie.

When you vote next time, vote for vacations for mothers, not that it will count but it will be strictly "Literary Digest" and most likely show the sentiment of the country.

Society Affairs

Miss Dorothy Girdwood of Owasco, who is to become the bride of John Schroeder, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Schroeder of Plymouth, in early August was the guest of honor at a bridge and "reception" shower at the home of Mrs. Herbert Meredith at Flat Rock on Monday of this week. The color scheme of yellow, white and red was carried out for both the dining room and bridge accessories. Miss Girdwood was presented with many unusual recipes and a yellow and black cabinet in which to keep them as well as all the utensils necessary for baking cakes, from mixing bowls to a dower beater. First honors in bridge were won by Miss Ruth Melow and Mrs. Kathryn Rohde.

Mrs. Sophia Ashton, Mr. and Mrs. E. Murphy and Mrs. Miss Rena Blackburn of Bedford moved to Pleasant Lake near Jackson Sunday where they enjoyed a picnic dinner with their sons, Elton and Wilbur. Mrs. Ashton and Mrs. Schradler spent a few days with the boys last week returning home Friday.

The "500" club which consists of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Stever, Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Draper, Mr. and Mrs. Wymen Bartlett, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Rock, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Parrott and Dr. and Mrs. S. N. Thams held an enjoyable picnic in Riverside Park Friday evening in honor of Dr. Thams' birthday anniversary.

Wednesday being the birthday anniversary of Charles Bieby, Mrs. Bieby invited the families of Charles Mox, Carl Blake and William Bieby and sisters, Miss Anna, Miss Lonie, Miss May and Miss Ethel of Plymouth Road to their home on Plymouth avenue for a lawn picnic supper that evening.

The monthly meeting of the Ladies' Aid of the Lutheran church will be held at three o'clock Wednesday afternoon August 3, in Riverside Park. At six o'clock the ladies will join the Sunday school for a potluck supper. Anyone interested in the church is welcome. Ladies please bring dishes.

Mrs. P. L. Shawley, Mrs. P. B. Gallagher, Mrs. Austin Whipple, Mrs. Charles Garbutt and Miss Pauline Peck attended a bridge tea in Detroit Thursday afternoon given by Mrs. H. C. Smith in honor of Mrs. Shawley and Mrs. Gallagher.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Lorenz, Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Felton, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Kenyon and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Mumby and families enjoyed a duck supper at Riverside Park Thursday evening.

Last week Wednesday, Mr. and Mrs. Harry H. Nowell joined a group of relatives at a picnic given on the island at Ann Arbor by Mrs. Fred Fisher in honor of her house guests, Mrs. Emma Wills and daughters of South Bend, Indiana.

Mrs. Arthur Griffith entertained a few friends at bridge Tuesday evening at her home on Ann Arbor street in honor of her house-guest, Mrs. W. F. Boehm of Detroit who with her daughter, Jean are spending the week at the Griffith home.

Mr. and Mrs. Hershel West and three children, Donna Lou, Duane and Darlene, and Mrs. Frank West of Detroit joined Mr. and Mrs. Ralph West and two sons, Robert and James, for a picnic Sunday in Riverside Park.

Robert Minnack accompanied his cousins, Miss Mary Hoy of Windsor, Canada, Miss Della Hoy and Mrs. Ann Runyan of Detroit, to Gladwin Thursday where they visited friends until Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Bachelder and three sons, Robert, Ralph and John C., returned Friday from a few week's stay with Mrs. Bachelder's parents and sister at Charlam, Ontario.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Schroeder entertained at dinner Sunday at their home on the Six Mile Road in honor of the birthday of their son, John. Guests were present from Detroit, Flat Rock and Henderson.

Mr. and Mrs. Verna W. Tucker of Sherwood Forest, Detroit, were dinner guests Sunday of his mother, Mrs. Louise Tucker, on Blunk avenue.

Mrs. Bessie Dunning, Miss Margaret Dunning and Mr. and Mrs. Harmon Smith are at Houghton this week where they were called Sunday by the death of their brother-in-law, Mr. McCurdy.

Mrs. Helen Stevens entertained Mr. and Mrs. Russell Robinson of Lake Worth, Florida, at Luncheon Monday at her home on Deer street.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Chambers, Norman and Ira, were Sunday evening visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Sherman in Roseville.

Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Chambers called on Mr. and Mrs. Ransom Lewis at Chelsea on Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Edgar Steverson and daughter, Elizabeth of Newburg, will spend the week with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ransom Lewis in Chelsea.

Conservation Dept. Holds Fish Inquest

Inquests held over the bodies of 119 trout found dead in several of Michigan's streams blame predatory birds for 26 percent of the deaths and point to 17 percent as having been killed as the result of injuries made by fish hooks.

From time to time dead fish float down streams and lodge against the head screens of trout feeding stations. Occasionally dead fish are picked up along the streams. The Institute for Fisheries Research in cooperation with the Department of Conservation studied the bodies of 119 trout submitted and has reported the cause of death in each case.

Some crayfish move from a stream within 24 hours most dead fish touching the bottom or lodged in a log. Most of the specimens examined had been dead for but a short time.

The conclusions made by the Institute showed 14 percent killed by bird-fishers, nine percent by great blue herons and three percent by bitterns. Snakes accounted for three percent of the deaths and turtles five percent.

Human agencies were blamed for 21 percent, including 17 percent by hooking and four percent by dynamite. Twenty-five percent died from unknown causes, presumably high water temperatures.

Identification of the causes of death were relatively easy, according to the Institute's report to the Fish Division of the Conservation Department. Predators leave characteristic marks on the fish. Snakes leave a series of punctures grouped in definite vertical lines, at right angles to the long axis of the fish's body. Turtles make large triangular gashes and a turtle bite is generally fatal, the report says.

Bird marks are most characteristic. The Great Blue heron can deliver a death thrust with its pointed closed bill, or slightly opening the bill can pick up a fish as with a pair of forceps. Fish that escape the heron fall certain prey to fungus from their wounds.

The bittern or "shikpoke" often makes neat rounded punctures deep into the fish's body. The kingfisher, however rarely spears its fish. The frog is captured by a forceps-like action of the serrated bill, the force of the down-plunging bird wedging the fish securely in the slightly opened mandibles.

Badly torn mouths of 20 trout examined showed the effects of having been hooked since no natural predator would leave similar lacerations.

"It is significant that many of the hook-torn trout were just under legal size," the report says. "From the mutilation of some, it is apparent that they were flipped off the hook by the lazy fisherman without resorting to the use of the hands, or that the hook was otherwise forcibly jerked out."

Warm water temperatures and unfavorable environmental conditions are probably the cause of death for 28 percent of the examined fish, the Institute believes. Thousands of small fingerling trout washed against the head screen of the Sturgeon River feeding station in 1931 were presumably killed by high temperature. Deaths of trout and other fish in the headwaters of the new Hardy Dam on the Muskegon River was probably rightly attributed to the fouling of the water by decomposing vegetable matter.

The 20 trout examined by the Institute were taken in 1931. Because of possibility of identifying the cause of death of all fish submitted more specimens will be examined this year to check results.

Nethem Defeats Fast Detroit Team In Rally

Nethem sent the crowd home with high blood pressure after pulling one of Detroit Tigers last inning rallies last Sunday at Rouse's Park to defeat the North End Merchants six to five.

A week ago Gale allowed but two hits in a game to win nine to nothing, but Sunday he showed the fans that he could pitch in the pinches when he gave up sixteen. With bases loaded he would tighten up and get the batters on strikes just like Grove does for Philadelphia. Gale broke the record for strike-outs in one game for a pitcher when he struck out fifteen last Sunday. The Nethem Club has been organized since 1925 and no pitcher has ever equaled this record. Lutz for Nethem led both teams in hitting when he got two out of three.

Nethem had but four hits up to the eighth inning when the rally started. Zielasko opened with a two base blow. Tonkovich struck out. K. Tomkowski got his first hit of the season to score Zielasko, then Tonkovich ran for Lovrenko, and Lutz poked out a single, and when John Schomberger laid down a bunt that rolled fair Tonkovich scored the third run of the game. Then the squeeze play was put on with Pace at bat which tied the score but when Shilair threw the ball away at first, John Schomberger came home with the last run of the inning.

With Nethem leading by one run going into the ninth inning it looked like a victory, but Tyler and R. Malone lead off with singles, and when Sorantino got his second hit of the game, the score was tied. But Gale got Shilair on strikes to end the rally.

The ball game was won by Nethem in the ninth inning with nobody out. Pizarek led off with a walk and Joe Schomberger laid down a bunt sending Pizarek to second and he was safe at first when Tyler fumbled the ball. Pizarek stole third and came home when the catcher threw the ball away.

Next Sunday at three p. m. Spidellers Cleaners of Gross Pointe will try to stop Nethem's winning streak.

DOLLAR WORTH $1.79 AT PRESENT

The hidden dollar is worth only 36 cents, but the dollar put to work is worth $1.79. Dr. A. H. Giannini, chairman of the general executive committee of the Bank of America, says in a statement to the people of Southern California.

Advising people that "this is the time to buy a lot and build a house" because the dollar has greater purchasing power than it has had for many years, the bankers said:

Two base hits, Zielasko. Three base hits, Shilair, Walks of Gale. Off Tyler, 1. Umpires, F. Schultz and Gawne, Scorer, A. Schultz.

Sportsman - Author Uses Chevrolet For Ocean To Ocean Trips

John Keer (Baron) Jan Feith, sportsman, author, playwright and world-traveler, accompanied by his wife is now en route to California where for the fifth time he will represent his country and the Netherlands Olympic committee at the Olympic sports events, to be held at Los Angeles this summer.

The titled visitors are making the trip to the Coast in a new Chevrolet Convertible Cabriolet, easily identified with official insignia on the doors and pennants of the continental motor clubs flying from the headlamps. After stopping in Detroit the first week of the month, they proceeded to Chicago and from there will touch St. Louis, Kansas City, Denver and Santa Fe, arriving at Los Angeles July 28.

25 YEARS AGO Interesting bits of news Taken from Plymouth Mail

An appalling disaster took place Saturday morning in a road daylight when two P. M. trains collided near Salem and 32 lives were lost. It happened in broad daylight shortly after 9 o'clock at Rathburn's crossing about three miles west of Plymouth. In a deep cut on a curve where neither engineer could see the other, both engineers reversed their engines and with their firemen jumped all escaping except one fireman. The freight train crew misread the orders with the result that it ran head-on into the excursion train. Dr. Patterson, Dr. Peck and Dr. Cooper, Mrs. Harpison, Miss Stewart, nurses, and other ladies were called to assist in caring for the injured. Plymouth people gave all possible aid to the injured. Manager Ravlier of the Michigan State Telephone Co. put up a temporary line, giving every one who wished to use it free use of the line. (The account of the accident covers nearly a page.)

John Wilcox returned last Sunday from Longmont, Colorado where he has been for the past two months with Mrs. Wilcox who is there because of her health. He reports that she is greatly improved.

A terrific electric storm passed over this section Wednesday, putting a lot of telephones out of commission.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Cal Whipple a girl, Tuesday, July 23. Pove Marquette excursion Sunday, August 4—Island Lake 35 cents, round trip; Lansing $1, round trip; Flint $1, round trip; Grand Rapids $2.25, round trip.

Mrs. H. C. Robinson and Miss Rose Hawthorne will visit at St. Clair Falls over Sunday. George Taylor, Plymouth's baker, had a narrow escape from death yesterday just before noon. He was driving his lake wagon across the P. M. tracks when the excursion train from Saginaw struck his wagon. Mr. Taylor jumped in time, but one hand was injured. A string of freight cars prevented him from seeing the approaching train. The horse was not hurt.

the burden of taxes, what then becomes of these local units of government that he in turn supports? Out of this welter of confusion regarding governmental affairs, one fact emerges crystal clear—the thing most needed in public life in our state is an effective administration. Courageous attack on the problems that bear down with such crushing force upon every citizen and every taxpayer; leadership that will not only cut to the root every unnecessary state expense and eliminate every non-essential state service but direction that knows and can point the way to a solution of the financial problems and the tax burdens of the local governmental units, be they townships, counties, or cities.

That the above statements are a reflection of what is in the minds of many of our citizens has been strongly emphasized to me by the response that has been received to the suggestion that I permit my name to be placed on the ballot at the September primaries for the office of Governor.

At this time, when there are those enjoying the blessings of this great land who are attempting to undermine the confidence of our people in our free institutions of government, it should not be amiss to remind our citizens that I am a fair example of the great opportunities that are open to all who are so fortunate as to live under our flag.

Beginning with only the same opportunities before me that beckon the humblest or poorest in our land, opportunities that cannot be matched under any other than the American form of government, I now find myself with nearly 20 years of training and experience in the field of municipal and state public service furnished me through the suffrage of my fellow citizens in Grand Rapids, and later by the voters of Michigan. It was through a feeling of gratitude for those opportunities that I offered my services to my fellow citizens of Grand Rapids in 1929, when our city was in difficulties. It is with this same sense of obligation during this crisis in the State's affairs that I offer to the people of Michigan an opportunity to realize on the investment that has been made in my training and experience.

As a member of a Common Council, Legislator, Speaker of the House, Lieutenant Governor, and City Manager, I am now prepared through experience, and such abilities as I may possess, to return to the people of Michigan some portion of the obligation I acknowledge. My record in public office is readily obtainable. My attitude on public questions in the past is a matter of public record. My stand on present problems will be clearly defined.

While the question of Prohibition has received a preferred position in the public mind it is by no means the sole problem, or even the most important problem at present confronting us. My own attitude on this question has been a matter of common knowledge for years, and has frequently been publicly stated. I repeat that in my opinion Prohibition is both a governmental and an economic blunder that must be corrected by repeal at the earliest possible moment. Regulation of personal habits is a proper function for the home, the church and the school; it is not a proper function of government.

The major problem today, in my opinion, is the problem of maintaining and continuing the institution of orderly government. The power to tax is the power to destroy. The bankruptcy of the taxpayer means the inevitable bankruptcy of the commonwealth. If Michigan is to avert a total collapse of its public financial structure in state, county, township, city and village; if the keystone of the arch—the taxpayer—is to be saved from loss of home or farm, there must be ruthless reduction in the tax load. Every non-essential service in every branch of government must be abolished; no altered or curtailed. Political expediency has no place in this economic war. Government must follow the same course that the private citizen and private business has been forced to follow—the course of liquidation. There can be no healthy start toward normalcy until this has been done.

No individual should place his personal or political ambitions above the common good at a time such as this. The honor of holding high public office is one to which any citizen may justly aspire, but the honor of performing a needed public service in times of stress is an infinitely greater honor. It is to the latter opportunity that I aspire. I seek only to be of service to the people of Michigan. If the voters by their ballots of November 7th shall designate me to manage our state affairs I shall start to work on November 8th, and for each day of the year my time, my energy and such ability and courage as I may possess will be devoted singly to the interests of the citizens of our great commonwealth.

Await Tax Ruling By Attorney General

A reduction in the assessment of the Ford Motor Company in Dearborn, made by a legal ruling three years ago, may be added to the future taxes of the Dearborn automobile concern, according to steps taken this week by the equalization committee of the Wayne County Board of Supervisors. The decision resulted in tax exemption of properties valued at approximately $15,000,000—a reduction that resulted in $150,000 being taken from the annual tax collections of the City of Dearborn.

The ruling, made by Governor William M. Bunker when he was attorney general of Michigan in 1929, declared that intangible property of corporations in Michigan which had been incorporated in other states was exempt from assessment.

The question has again been placed before the attorney general (now Paul W. Voorhies) for a decision, according to an official announcement made Thursday. So confident are county officials the ruling will be changed, the equalization committee of the Wayne County Board of Supervisors Thursday directed all assessors of Wayne County to no longer exempt from assessment rolls the intangible property of those corporations.

The action of the committee, which placed its plans before the county supervisors requests the Board of Supervisors to ask the attorney general for a new ruling on whether foreign corporations are legally entitled to exemption of their intangibles from taxation in Michigan. Many of the largest corporations in Michigan will be affected by the ruling.—Dearborn Independent.

He who spends all his time looking for an opening will find himself in a hole.

She Reduced 38 Lbs. The Safe Way

"I have been taking Kruschen Salts for 4 months and I think they are wonderful. I am 32 years old and 5 ft. 2 in. tall. I was very fat I weighed 167 lbs. and now I weigh 127 lbs. and feel fine. If I let up taking the Salts one morning I feel lazy and heavy." Mrs. Florence Loftus, Boston.

This is just one of hundreds of letters we get every month—Kruschen not only causes you to lose fat but while you are losing it you gain in health—in vivaciousness—you lose fat where fat is most prominent and at the same time keep stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels functioning naturally. Mayflower Drug Co. or any drug store in the world will sell you a jar of Kruschen for a trifling sum—take one-half teaspoonful in a glass of hot water every morning—go light on fatty meats, potatoes and sweets. But for your health's sake demand and get Kruschen Salts—imitations are numerous. It's the little daily dose that does it.

Dearborn Slashes Expenses in Effort To Keep Out of Red

The following article taken from the Dearborn Press will be of interest to Plymouth: The Fordson Board of Education pushed toward their new goal of a $150,000 slice in the $1,500,000 budget on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings when they concurred in all the specific recommendations of the Business Manager Herbert S. Mitchell and Superintendent Harvey H. Lowrey, and ordered both these men to prepare a list of employees whose services may be dispensed with for at least the coming year. The economy steps taken by the board were as follows: 1. Cutting salaries of all teachers, whose yearly receipts are above $1,494, from five to 25 percent, the higher salaried members of the staff receiving the largest reductions. A reduction of $25,000 was seen here.

2. Closing all school buildings promptly at 5 p. m. and after this hour to charge for use of rooms for all extra-curricular activities in the schools at the same rate which has been established for outside organizations seeking use of school buildings. It is estimated that a savings of $15,500, resulting from a decrease in the use of light, fuel and janitor services, can be made by this step.

3. Closing all swimming pools during the school year. The savings incurred by decreasing the amount of water, fuel and help needed is estimated at $8,300.

4. Placing night school programs on a self-sustaining program by charging tuition to all enrolled students.

5. Eliminating the proposed open air and speech classes, the appropriation for which had been placed in this year's budget but as yet have never been put into practice. It is estimated that $2,700 will be saved here.

6. Cutting the maintenance appropriations and eliminating 23 employees in the business department. The savings here is estimated at from $25,000 to $30,000.

7. Placing all members of the maintenance staff on an 11-month schedule, which calls for the eliminating of all vacations in this department. A savings of $10,000 is estimated here.

8. Eliminating the cost of legal services which had heretofore amounted to $3,600.

9. Discontinuing the employment of persons for Americanization work, thus effecting a savings of approximately $1,805.

10. Reducing the supervisors' salaries in the department of business administration to a total of $6,400. The saving here estimated is $4,500.

No action was taken on the elimination of 11 married teachers whose husbands are employed in the system but Trustee Fred Board stated that he was of the opinion that if the teaching load of

To Widen Michigan Avenue and Ford Roads in Dearborn

An agreement between the Wayne County Good Roads Commission and the city of Dearborn for the widening of sections of Michigan Avenue and Ford Road will probably be passed on Tuesday evening at the regular meeting of the council. It was stated today by Mayor Clyde M. Ford, who has been working on the proposition for several months. The proposed widening on Michigan Avenue includes the north lane from Schaefer road to Brady Avenue and the construction of a bridge over the Rouge River just west of Southfield road. If this project goes through it will mean that the street car tracks and poles will have to be moved. The Ford road widening calls for a 30-foot addition from Chase road to Outer Drive and 40-foot extension from the River Rouge east to Outer Drive.

In the opinion of Mayor Ford that the whole Michigan Avenue project should not be undertaken in 1932 but that the section between Schaefer and Greenfield roads should be paved this year and the remainder done in 1933.

The paving plan was made possible through the abandonment by the county road commission of the Haggerty Highway extension and other projects which were deemed not as important as the two local paving jobs, officials stated.

The entire cost of these projects is to be borne by the county and state of money coming from the gasoline tax which is allotted through the new Horton Act to pay its share of the costs. Thus, this work will not mean any outlay of money to the taxpayers of the city, Mayor Ford explained.

In conjunction with the road widening work it was the opinion of officials that the city would be unable to construct an underpass or viaduct at the Michigan Central railroad crossing on Nowlin road. An underpass was suggested by Comptroller R. V. Bovill, who stated that many children are required to use this crossing while on their way to and from school.

The matter of the purchase of additional land for the Telegraph road yards of the department of public works was held up for further investigation by the committee on finance and city affairs.

State Plans To Grade Gasoline

Recommendations are to be made by the department of state to the 1933 legislature that it enact laws setting up standards for the various grades of gasoline, being offered to motorists. The only regulation which Michigan now has, is the law prohibiting "fraud and deceit in the sale of liquid fuels, lubricating oils and similar products." But this law does not give the motorist any knowledge of the type of gasoline he purchases, and it is possible for any number of different blends of liquid fuels to be offered to Michigan now, is the law prohibiting standards for gasoline. These are high test, standard and competitive. At present it is possible for gasoline of exactly the same automotive energy to be sold by one company as high test and by another company as regular grade gasoline. Each company now sets its own standards.

With standard gasoline specifications set up by the state, motorists would be certain to receive the type of gasoline paid for. State standards and specifications would make it difficult to sell blends of kerosene and other liquid fuels as motor gasoline. Any mixture of liquid fuels can be colored so that it is deceptive to the motorist.

It is believed that glass was first "worked" in Egypt about 1500 B. C.

the teachers was stepped up that a large savings would result. The cutting of all salaries of teachers in accordance with the scale adopted last week will mean the rescinding of all contracts and the issuing of new contracts, it was stated. Superintendent Harvey H. Lowrey consented to take a $1,000 cut in his salary providing that his present contract calling for the annual payment of $8,700 was rescinded and a new contract issued for a period of three years at the new figure. A resolution to this effect, made by Trustee Walter Iams failed to pass. The board stated that a conference would be held between Superintendent Lowrey and the committee on finance and that an effort would be made to come to some agreement before tomorrow night's meeting.

The closing of all school buildings at 5 p. m. will probably curtail much of the extra-curricular activities of the school which have not been self-supporting. Supt. Lowrey said.

Superintendent Lowrey also stated that the effort to place the night school program on a paying basis will probably mean the discontinuation of much of this program inasmuch as many of the pupils would be unable to pay the specified tuition.

In the elimination of employees Trustee Beadle raised the question of politics in the system and stated that he would insist upon the weeding out of board employees who took active part in political issues of the district.

SONG BIRD KILLERS FACE PROSECUTION

An attempt to halt an apparent increase in the killing of song birds will be made by the Department of Conservation according to instructions given all conservation officers. Officers are being asked to give as much attention as possible to stopping the destruction of song birds, and the public is being urged by the Department to assist in the campaign by reporting to the nearest officer all violations. Most of the depredations against song birds, the destruction of nests and eggs and the killing of the birds, are done by small boys and better results can probably be obtained by the parents than by the officers, according to the Department. However, officers are being instructed that when necessary, to take the boys into juvenile court and to confiscate the weapons used. Numerous complaints of violations of the law protecting song birds have been received recently by the Department and in each instance the Department has requested that the information be given to the local conservation officer. Michigan law protects song birds at all times of the year and fixes a minimum penalty of a $100 fine and 90 days in jail. The only birds which may be killed at any time of the year are sparrows which may be killed at any time of year are sparrows, starlings, blackbirds, crows, jays and owls.

URGENT, MR. WEATHERMAN!

What's Today's Tempidity? WHEN the thermometer shows only 80 degrees and the day is collar-wicking and energy-sapping, don't blame the heat. What causes all the discomfort is TEMPIDITY... temperature plus the humidity. And now there is an easy way to enjoy delightfully cooled and dehumidified air—in your store, your office, or a single room of your home. Comfort cooling has been proved to be a profitable investment that no business man can overlook.

Equipment is available in two types: one in which ice is used for cooling and the other in which the cooling is done mechanically. Room coolers of cabinet size may be placed anywhere in the room. (A cooling unit of the ice-cabinet type is shown below.) The equipment refrigerates the air, removes the excess moisture, and makes the atmosphere cool and comfortable. Detroit Edison engineers will gladly give you information regarding different types of cooling equipment available for your store, office or home, their method of operation, and some idea of cost. We do not sell nor rent this equipment, and there is no obligation on your part. Simply call the nearest Detroit Edison office.

Coming Attractions At Penniman Allen

"HOLLYWOOD SPEAKS"
A powerful dramatic picture which gives you a glimpse of life behind the scenes in the movie colony is "Hollywood Speaks," a Columbia picture, which is the feature at the Penniman Allen Theatre Sunday and Monday, July 31 and August 1. This is no flimsy plot serving only as a vehicle for a group of Hollywood scenes. It is heavy drama set against the ever interesting tapestry of movie studios, Hollywood parties, big movie directors, the parasites of the colony and beautiful girls.

Genevieve Tobin, tops it in "Hollywood Speaks" with a brilliant acting characterization of a screen struck girl who rises from obscurity to fame on the screen, and then sacrifices all her glory for the sake of the young man she loves.

This young man, incidentally, is played by Pat O'Brien, the first talking young Irishman, and he gives a finely shaded enactment of a movie columnist who undertakes the novel role of star maker and ends by falling in love with the girl he has helped to reach stellar ranks.

Others in the cast are Rita La Roy, Lucien Prival, Ralf Haroldo and Lem Stengel, Eddie Buzzell directed.

"NIGHT COURT"
A powerful drama of circumstantial evidence which turned the home of a happily married young couple into a hell of tragedy is told in "Night Court," at the Penniman Allen Theatre, Wednesday, July 3.

The story, which is based on recent disclosures of political corruption in courts of law, depicts the web of intrigue and injustice which envelopes a young taxi driver and his wife when they unwittingly become involved in the "private life" of a well-known night court magistrate.

Phillips Holmes is featured in the cast as the taxi driver; Walter Huston plays the crooked judge, and Anita Page has the most dramatic role of her career as the frame-up victim. Other prominent players include Lewis Stone, Mary Carlisle, John Miljan, Jean Harlow, Tully Marshall and Noel Francis.

"MILLION DOLLAR LEGS"
Stellar comedians and pretty girls constitute the cast in Paramount's hilarious Olympic James farce, "Million Dollar Legs," which appears at the Penniman Allen Theatre Saturday, August 6.

The comedians include Jack Oakie, W. C. Fields, Andy Clyde, Ben Turpin, Hank Mann, George Barbier, Hugh Herbert and little Dickie Moore. Never before has such a cast of comedy stars appeared in one picture. Reports say that they play their respective roles to the hilt, and that each in turn "steals" the picture.

The girls are Lyda Roberti, blonde stage star who first achieved screen honors in "Dancers in the Dark"; Susan Fleming and Geneva Mitchell, former Ziegfeld Follies charmers.

Plymouth-Haggerty Looses To Travelers

Although the Negro Travelers kicked the ball around like a group of soccer players, Plymouth's baseball club was beaten, 3 to 0, at Burroughs Park last Sunday in their first game of their long home schedule.

Unable to beat the Colored Stars despite the fact that their opponents made five errors, the fighting men of the local team did not submit without a struggle.

Harry German, Jr. for Plymouth and William Kennedy for the Travelers, were the opposing pitchers. German was nicked for seven hits, but kept them well scattered. The Haggerty boys played an errorless baseball, along with two double-plays, Plymouth collected only three safeties off Kennedy's offerings.

The Stars scored their first run in the sixth inning. Hass singled over second, stole second, went to third on Bender's slow roller to Bender, and scored on Ozen's long fly to G. Simmons in left field. In the seventh after two were on; Biddles singled to left and took third on Humphrey's single to right. Humphrey stole second, and both runners scored on Kennedy's double to left center.

The two outstanding features of the contest were—William Kennedy's fine pitching, and the errorless fielding by the Plymouth team.

Earl Gray, of the Detroit Umpire's Association, and Arthur Downs did the officiating.

Sunday, July 31st, Plymouth will play their second home game at Burroughs Park, Plymouth. Due to some misunderstanding in the schedule, the team has not been decided upon as yet. Manager Leroy Simmons, promises the local fans a real contest with a triple-A team as their opponents. There will be no general admission charge for the remainder of the season, only a collection will be taken to cover the team's expenses. Drive out to the local baseball park Sunday and get acquainted with the team that will represent Plymouth in the Northville Fair Tournament late in August.

Mrs. Rorabacker Is Dead At Age Of 73

Ella T. Rorabacker passed away at her home on Holbrook Ave., July 23, at the age of 74 years, 10 months and 14 days.

She was born in Wheatfield, Ingham County, Michigan, September 9th, 1857, the only child of Joseph and Rachel Herrick and was married November 8, 1876 to Cyrus A. Rorabacker, who preceded her in death fifteen months ago.

She is survived by four sons, Claude of Detroit and Merle, Ray and Dale of Plymouth and two daughters, Mrs. Roy Mideley of Detroit and Mrs. Jack Reamer of Plymouth. Two sons, Clayton and Harold preceded her in death.

Funeral services were held at the home Monday, July 25 at 2 p. m. with Rev. P. Ray Norton officiating. Interment in South Lyon cemetery.

GEORGE E. MEDDAUGH George E. Meddaugh born May 11, 1871 at Melvin, Mich., died at his home on Blunk Ave., Thursday, July 23rd.

He has been a Pere Marquette employee for more than thirty years and was in the thirty year veteran jewel a year ago.

The funeral was held Saturday afternoon from the Wilkie Funeral Home, Dr. Ray Norton of the Plymouth Methodist Church very impressively gave the concluding message.

Funeral services were held at the home Monday, July 25 at 2 p. m. with Rev. P. Ray Norton officiating. Interment in South Lyon cemetery.

Seventy-eight officers and chevrons slowly led the way to the beautiful spot, near the back of Riverside Cemetery. Acting as special guard and pallbearers were Captain J. H. Anderson, St. Belshoff, Ensign Perry of Ann Arbor, Capt. Bell, St. Yookmovich of Detroit and Ensign Langendian of Plymouth, followed by twenty-one ladies in uniform from Auxiliary to Canton Enterprise No. 5, Detroit, of which Mrs. Meddaugh is a past president, also in line were ten ladies from other auxiliaries in Michigan.

General Arthur E. Clark, Brigade Commander of the 1st brigade of Michigan was acting captain. Major Andrew J. Brodie, grand conductor of the grand lodge of Michigan was acting chaplain. As all officers, chevrons and ladies placed their last green upon the grave, they were joined by the Tompkins Lodge No. 32, Plymouth, and the Plymouth Rebekahs stood at attention as the first call was given.

Those left to mourn his loss are his wife Minnie Meddaugh, son Archie of Plymouth; daughter, Nellie Spielman, Toledo; mother, Mrs. Stephen Peter, Flint; stepson Harlan E. Lake, France; three brothers, three sisters and a host of friends.

CHARLES OLIVER DICKERSON

Charles Oliver Dickerson was born on a farm in Bridgewater township, Washtenaw county, on January 24, 1864 and died on July 13, 1932 at his home on North Harvey street, Plymouth, from a stroke of apoplexy. He was the son of Charles E. and Helen Dickerson and was united in marriage to Marion E. Robinson of Plymouth on September 25, 1889 and to them one child, a daughter, Lucille, was born. They resided on the parents' farm for about a year and a half before coming to a Plymouth where they have since resided, excepting six years that they lived in Northville. At the time of his death he was employed at the Hamilton Rifle Co. and only lived a short time after being taken to his home.

He was well known as a kind husband and father and a good neighbor, always willing to do what he could to help others. The funeral was held on Saturday afternoon, July 16, from the Masonic Temple with Ernest Pleische, a member of the First Church of Christ Scientist, a reader, having charge of the services with burial at Riverside cemetery. He leaves to mourn their loss his wife and daughter, three sisters, Mrs. Alta Hoard of Traverse City, Mrs. Grace Gehring of Detroit, Mrs. Carrie Masales of Canton, China, and a brother, E. A. Dickerson of Denver, Colorado, besides many other relatives and a host of friends.

YOUR HOME and YOU. By BETSY CALLISTER BOSSING YOURSELF

MOST young men starting out in business look forward eagerly to the time when they can be their own boss, and there are, I suppose, business girls who envy their married friends because so far as their daily work is concerned they are free from supervision.

But it is one thing to be your own boss and quite another to have no boss at all, and women who let housewife work and responsibilities get the better of them are the ones who have worked without a boss.

And they never will succeed at a rather complicated business until they realize that the housewife's task is twofold. It consists of planning and strict supervision, and willing, careful carrying out of plans and directions. And they have to do it all themselves.

The girl who doesn't know how to boss herself begins about her work, doing the first things that present themselves. She has no one there to tell her what to do next and her only hope is that before the day is over it will have occurred to her to do the things that need to be done.

The girl who bosses herself starts out every day with the bossing. She thinks of what has to be done and she thinks of the most convenient ways of doing it. Often she thinks of herself, the worker, quite as impersonally as she would an employee. And before she resigns her post as boss she wisely makes out a list of precisely what must be ordered and done and may even estimate about how long should be spent in accomplishing each task.
