

The Problems of 1932 Have Prepared Us For Victory in the New Year of 1933

Greetings! The New Year is near. Nineteen thirty-two with its tribulations, its blasted hopes and series of disappointments will soon be history...

As we review the distressing events of the past twelve months, the thought comes to us that every person who is privileged to call Plymouth home should express gratitude...

turing company by keeping up a twenty-four hour fight every day of the year for business have as a result of their determination to keep things going brought to Plymouth a steady payroll...

alive and ready to give battle for everything we love and hold dear to us—ARMED with the spirit of good will and hope, we are READY and ANXIOUS to go over the top in the great FORWARD DRIVE that will start with the break of day on the first morn of 1933.

DUAL DEBATE JAN. 5 WITH RIVER ROUGE

Plymouth High Enters Into Contest for Public Speaking Honors

In order to win the silver statuette for debating to be given by the Twin Valley Activity Association, Plymouth high school will have as its guests to debate with one of the dual debates from River Rouge high school to be held January 5 at seven-thirty o'clock...

At that time, the affirmative debate team of Plymouth high school will have as its guests to debate on the question, "Resolved, That Michigan Should Adopt An Income Tax."

In River Rouge at the same time, another debate will be waged between Plymouth's negative team represented by Kenneth Greer, Ernest Archer, and Odene Hill against River Rouge's affirmative team composed of Besse Turrel, Mae Dawson, Robert Delaine, and Robert Rosa.

At present, the question of taxation is an important one now confronting the Michigan legislature. If you are at all interested whether or not you should pay an income tax, do not fail to attend one of the two debates as you will meet both sides and will be able to draw your own conclusion as to whether or not Michigan should adopt an income tax.

So far, the Plymouth debate teams have not lost a debate. This dual debate with River Rouge is of special importance because if Plymouth can win one of the two debates, Plymouth will be the winner of the league and will also be eligible to enter the state elimination series which leads to the state championship. Below are the league standings:

Table with 2 columns: Team and W L. Plymouth 4 0, River Rouge 2 2, Dearborn 2 2, Leomin Park 1 3, Escot 1 3, Ypsilanti 0 4.

Mr. Latture, the debate coach for Plymouth high school, and both teams are practicing and working through the Christmas vacation in order that they will be prepared to combat an argument presented by the opposition and to win the league championship.

If you, the public, will turn out and attend either debate, letting the Plymouth team know you are behind them, it is probable that another trophy will be added to our present collection.

Did You Know That

Window shades can be repaired and cleaned and done right in Plymouth at the National Window Shade factory. Also that we sell fine linoleum for any room in your home at ridiculously low prices.

That the Plymouth hotel has postponed the dance announced for New Year's eve because of the conflict with other dances but that meals and lunches can be secured at any hour during the night at the hotel's dining room.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Greenman of Bellaire arrived last Friday for a visit with their daughters, Mrs. Lewis Westfall, Mrs. Norman Schoof and Miss Rachel Greenman.

Rotarians Conduct Christmas Party

Plymouth Rotarians did their bit towards bringing Christmas cheer into the hearts of thirty boys and girls of Plymouth last Friday noon. These youngsters were the guests of the Rotarians at a turkey dinner served at the Mayflower hotel, one of those delicious dinners that Clara Malen is becoming famous for.

Not only did the youngsters cut turkey with all the fixings, then ice cream and a lot of other good things, but Santa Claus in some mysterious way arrived at the hotel just after the youngsters had finished their dinner.

When President Charles Bennett announced the arrival of Santa it was surely a happy moment for the boys and girls. Old Santa found presents on the tree for every boy and girl who had come to the hotel and didn't Harry Robinson make a fine old Santa? Just ask any of the boys and girls who were there.

It was a great day for them and when they left the hotel every Rotarian had a perfect right to feel happy over having helped to bring the Christmas cheer into the lives of a fine group of young boys and girls.

New Year's Eve Party Planned By Legion Everyone Invited

A New Year's Eve party sponsored by the Myron H. Heals post No. 4 of the Oddfellows will be held in the Oddfellows Hall at Plymouth. The local legion post has long realized the necessity of providing dances for Plymouth of a quality comparable with the best dances in this section of the state.

Considerable time was spent in selecting the orchestra and the dance committee believes that the music to be provided for this dance will be as good, if not better than any that has been heard in Plymouth.

A free lunch will be served and nonmembers furnished at no extra cost. The Legion asks your cooperation in supporting this dance and with the promise that if successful, a series of high class dances will be given during the dancing season.

The party will start at 9:30 p. m. and dancing will last until 2:00 a. m. or later if the crowd warrants continuation.

Come and bring your friends. Everyone invited.

EUCRE CLUB LEADERS GO DOWN IN DEFEAT

Matt Everett and Elmer Birch upset Matt Waldecker and C. Finnegan, 8 games to 6. Mr. Birch substituted for John Mulvey and proved a very capable substitute. Jack Waldecker and Wm. Theisen lost a hard fought contest with Courade and Jagenschutz 8 games to 6.

Both sides suffered one whitewash. Korte and Shotka had an excellent opportunity of handing Graham and Parry their first defeat in the tournament, but, on account of a very poor ending, got no better than a draw. Blackmore and Gotts have apparently fallen back into their slump as they were overwhelmed by R. Waldecker and Matt Theisen, 12 games to 2. The losers received one whitewash.

The standing: J. Walker-W. Theisen 38 20 643, M. Walker-Finnegan 36 20 643, R. Walker-W. Theisen 31 25 554, Graham-Jardy 31 25 554, Everett-Mulvey 26 30 464, Korte-Shotka 26 30 464, Courade-Jagenschutz 25 31 446, Blackmore-Gotts 13 43 232.

Mr. and Mrs. Wyman Bartlett were hosts at a family gathering and dinner Christmas Day at their home on Blank avenue. Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Bartlett of Syracuse, New York, Miss Winifred Bartlett of Grand Rapids and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bartlett of Plymouth.

Mrs. Sarah Wheelock continues very seriously ill at her home on Holbrook avenue.

SCHOOL BRINGS JOY TO MANY

Sanatorium Patients Are Not Forgotten By Plymouth Public Schools

Supt. George Smith, instructors and pupils of the Plymouth public schools brought happiness to the unfortunate children who are fighting their way back to health at the William H. Maybury Sanatorium Christmas day when they saw to it that every one from Plymouth as well as the one hundred and forty-nine other kiddies in that institution were provided with Christmas remembrances.

The following Plymouth people are in the sanatorium: Harold Micol, Adam Bush, Hazel Parmeter, Vaughn Ford, Kathleen Ford, August Wittrick, Wilbur Kirk, Warren Kirk.

Through the kindness of the Plymouth Welfare Committee, Needlework Guild, and the Plymouth Branch of the American Red Cross, each received three gifts and the Plymouth Mail again kindly presented three copies of the home newspaper for these in the sanatorium.

The public schools, as usual, made toys, hand-painted cards, and filled stockings for each of the one hundred forty-nine kiddies in the children's ward.

No doubt, these Christmas remembrances will be enjoyed by those less fortunate, from the standpoint of health, and it is surely the wish of the boys and girls in the school and the residents of Plymouth that the little tokens of Christmas cheer which were delivered at the sanatorium will give those who receive them a little more enjoyment with which to recover and enjoy their homes again.

Democrats Plan New Organization

A new Democratic county organization, county patronage, and economy in the new administration of the county government were subjects discussed at a meeting of county officers-elect held in Detroit Wednesday.

Brastic cuts in wage and salary scales and a reduction in personnel are contemplated as a means of helping to keep the pledge of the new county officers to cut expenses by 25 per cent.

The meeting was held in the central offices of the new county officers in First National Bank Building. The county officers-elect, with the exception of Thomas C. Wilcox, new sheriff, are acting in concert on major policies and on patronage. Elmer B. O'Hara, new county clerk, is chairman.

At present the Democrats have only a skeleton county organization. Roscoe B. Huston is chairman and A. J. Wilkowski secretary. No new county committee has been organized. All organization matters have rested primarily with congressional district leaders. The list of the officers-elect is to name a new county committee, and to elect one congressional district, to have from 30 to 35 districts, each with its own leader.

Huston, county chairman for many years, is slated to be postmaster as soon as the new federal administration is sworn in. He has adopted a hands-off policy on patronage.

Most of the county officers-elect make no appointments until after they have taken office. The reason is that they want to study the requirements of the jobs to be filled and to study how many jobs are dispensable. O'Hara said he will have no appointments to make until he is inducted.

Democrats Refused To Assist Mitchell

Plymouth Democrats who refused to have anything to do with the candidacy of Mayor Harry Mitchell of Pontiac either in the primary or final election, are greatly interested in the indictment of the Pontiac mayor by a grand jury that has been investigating his office during the past week or so.

When Mayor Mitchell announced himself as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for congress he sent one of his workers to Plymouth and in fact later visited this place, but he could not find a single Democrat here who would take any interest in his candidacy.

After he got the nomination he made another visit to Plymouth to consult with some of the Democratic leaders here. But still they refused to have anything to do with his candidacy and when the final vote was counted, Mitchell was defeated by his own party in Plymouth.

His hectic career as a public official of Pontiac did not appeal to the leading Democrats of Plymouth and he found little aid here in his effort to land within the halls of Congress.

DIVIDEND PAID BY LOAN ASS'N

The Board of Directors of the Plymouth Savings and Loan Association have declared the regular semi-annual dividend, payable January 1, on the basis of 5 per cent per annum.

The local association has definitely established its usefulness to the community. During the last three years the total resources of the association have increased and the reserve fund has increased over 300% in addition to paying the regular 5% dividends.

The Plymouth Savings and Loan Association was sponsored by a group of local citizens in 1919, and since that date one hundred thirty-one home-owners have been assisted financially in the City and Township of Plymouth.

The stability of the association has been greatly assisted by the fact that it is entirely a local organization. Most of its investors are present or former residents of this vicinity and the association has attempted in its loans to encourage local home owners.

The annual statement of the association will appear in next week's edition of the Plymouth Mail.

Business Prospects For 1933 Better Than They Were in 1932 at This Time, Survey Of Various Industrial Plants Reveal

What are the prospects for 1933? Statistics tell the story—and in these facts every one has reason to believe that business has already turned on the up-grade.

In Plymouth it is known that the Daisy Manufacturing company has a most promising lot of orders in view. The Lee Foundry & Machine Co. without the slightest pushing of sales of spraying machines has on hand a number of orders, many more than a year ago at this time.

RAISE $149.22 IN PAPER SALE

Plymouth Goodfellows Are Delighted Over Their Sale Success

One hundred, forty-nine dollars and twenty-two cents was the total amount of cash raised Saturday by Plymouth Goodfellows in the sale of Plymouth Mills, the Detroit News and the Free Press. Members of the Plymouth American Legion, who sponsored the sale, are delighted to know that they will be able to turn over to the Plymouth welfare fund $149.22 in cash to be used during the year for the unemployed of Plymouth.

The American Legion members are also exceedingly grateful to Plymouth Goodfellows who put on the newsboy sacks and aided them in the sale of papers. The day, a disagreeable one, would doubtless have brought forth a bigger return if weather conditions had been more favorable.

Not only do Legion members wish to thank those who helped them sell papers, but they have requested the mail to express their appreciation to every one who bought papers.

Because of the illness of Harry Mumby, newly elected commander of the Legion and due to the absence of Perry Cookinham, who was chairman of the committee, Floyd Eckles is seeing to it that every one knows of the gratefulness of the Legion for the assistance given in this sale, conducted solely for charity.

The Plymouth Mail donated 500 papers for the sale and the Detroit News and Free Press gladly consented to give the committee copies of their paper for a low rate.

Legion members are delighted at the hearty reception the people of Plymouth gave their first Goodfellows newspaper effort. Already they are planning on making next year's effort a far greater success than this one. It is interesting to note that Plymouth came within $18 of raising as much money as did the Goodfellows of Ypsilanti who conducted a newspaper sale the same day. Ypsilanti's over three times as large as Plymouth.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred D. Schrader, daughter, Evelyn, and son, Edwin, Dr. and Mrs. A. E. Patterson and house guests Mrs. Eva Sutherland and Miss Betty Sutherland of Chicago, Illinois, and Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Prescott of Dixon, Illinois, were among the many guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Schrader and family at Northville Monday.

Only the blackened walls are left standing. No part of the old structure can be used in the new edifice to be erected. The church was built a little over four years ago at a cost of over $60,000. The loss is partially covered by insurance.

Servants, announces Father Lefevre, will be held Sunday in the Schrader funeral chapel and after that the former Walk-Over shoe store in the Schrader building will be used until the new church is completed.

Plymouth Hospital News Briefs

Ronald Bayliss of 2520 Williams street, Dearborn, who is employed by the Detroit Edison company, was severely injured Tuesday morning when he fell from a thirty-five foot pole while at work in Plymouth.

George Ballinger of Fort Wayne, Indiana, who has been critically ill at the hospital, left Monday afternoon for his home.

DAISY MANUFACTURING CO. GIVES BONUS TO EMPLOYEES

START WORK ON NEW CHURCH IN EARLY SPRING

Father Lefevre To Build Larger Edifice On Ruins Of One Destroyed

Just as soon as weather conditions in the spring will permit, workmen will start the erection of a beautiful new Catholic church on the site of Our Lady of Good Counsel church destroyed by fire early last Friday morning.

Father Frank A. Lefevre, through whose efforts the church that burned last Friday was built, is already taking steps to have plans prepared and will not long be able to start the new church.

How the fire started that so completely wiped out the church is proving a mystery to Fire Chief Wagnonschutz and other officers who have been investigating it. Father Lefevre has requested the officials to make a most careful inquiry into the way the fire started and this they are doing.

One of the reasons that Father Lefevre asked for the investigation was the fact that his big police dog was found dead. Because of the way the door swings it would have been impossible for the dog to have entered the room without some one having opened the door for it. It had apparently been smothered to death by smoke. Another reason for the inquiry is due to the fact that there had been no fire in the church for two or three days and the plug connecting the electric wiring to the Christmas tree was not connected, so the fire could not have started from the Christmas tree. No candles were burning in the church and there was as far as any one knows no way for the fire to have started from any one of the usual causes.

The fire was discovered by two Detroiters shortly after 2 o'clock who called the department. Flames were shooting high above the roof at the time. The department when it arrived a few minutes later found the fire so far advanced that little could be done to check the progress of the flames, although at one time Chief Wagnonschutz thought he had the fire nearly out.

Only the blackened walls are left standing. No part of the old structure can be used in the new edifice to be erected. The church was built a little over four years ago at a cost of over $60,000. The loss is partially covered by insurance.

Servants, announces Father Lefevre, will be held Sunday in the Schrader funeral chapel and after that the former Walk-Over shoe store in the Schrader building will be used until the new church is completed.

Former Service Men Honor Mumby

At the last meeting of the Ex-Servicemen's Club, Harry Mumby was elected Commander and John Jacobs vice commander for 1933.

Carl Blatch, treasurer; George Whitmore, secretary and Howard Eckles, officer of the Day were re-elected for another year of service. Commander Mumby, 1932 Welfare Officer reports as follows on the disposition of toys and other material donated at the Cheerbringers Dance to Salvation Army for Christmas baskets 142 toys. Distributed by Ex-Servicemen's Club, 127 toys. Turned over to Central Welfare Committee, 38 prizes, stockings, 7 undergarments, 1 pair boys overalls and 12 cans canned goods.

The Committee will make a more complete report on the dance in the near future.

TWO ARRESTED IN FIRE CASE

As the result of suspicions of Father Frank A. Lefevre and insurance company investigators that circumstances indicated arson in connection with the Catholic church fire here early last Friday morning, two arrests were made in Detroit Wednesday night. The men who were taken into custody being Sherwood Waters, 21 years old, 5600 Oregon Ave., and Harry Chapman, 25, of 7705 John R. St.

The two who discovered the fire, the arrests were made at the request of Deputy State Fire Marshal Peter R. Karns, who stated that the men would be questioned by a member of the Prosecuting Attorney's staff and by the Police and Fire Chiefs of Plymouth.

Waters and Chapman, employees of a Detroit finance company, were in Plymouth on Friday to repossess a car and noticed the fire, they said. They turned in the alarm and carried several articles from the church.

Chief of Police Vaughn Smith and Chief Wagnonschutz of Plymouth said they did not request the arrests. They said that there was no evidence which placed the responsibility for the fire on the two men.

Daisy Takes Fast Overtime Contest

Daisy scores upset and trips M. E. Church in 3 minute overtime thriller. Due to lack of men M. E. found themselves with only 4 men when one of their men received a personal foul. To make the game interesting Daisy big heartedly consented to let him play. At the final whistle he found himself with 5 personal. Plymouth Mail fell short and were set back by the Walk-Over team. Cities Service lauged away and set Schraders down a peg by defeating them. Schrader's ended the game using only 4 men. Ball Studio set the Highway back by a long score. Final scores were as follows:

Table with 2 columns: Team and Score. Ball Studio 0 1,000, Walk-Over 5 1,823, Plymouth Mail 4 2,967, Schrader's 3 3,500, M. E. Church 2 4,333, Cities Service 2 4,333, Merchants 1 5,167, Highway 3 5,167.

Games next week: Tuesday Wednesday January 3rd and 4th are: Plymouth Mail vs. Schraders, Ball Studio vs. Walk-Over, Merchants vs. Cities Service, M. E. Church vs. Highway.

ANNUAL DAISY PARTY HELD IN MAYFLOWER

Plymouth Company One Of Few In Country Able To Pay Workers a Bonus

Happiness reigned supreme at the annual party of the Daisy family last Thursday evening in the crystal room of the Mayflower hotel. For nearly five hours the cares and worries of the world were forgotten. And for five hours every one employed by the Daisy Manufacturing company enjoyed as happily a time as the officials could provide.

These annual parties of the Daisy manufacturing company, when officials act as hosts and assume all the duties on such an event, have been one of the outstanding yearly events in the Daisy organization. They have helped to weld together one of the most manufacturing organizations in the country.

The event was made more delightful because of the fact that the Daisy was able to present each employee a bonus check, a practice long ago established by the company. This big Plymouth manufacturing plant is one of the few companies in the country that has been able to pay a bonus to employees this year.

Items were the featured game of the evening and nearly everyone was a winner. Large baskets of groceries, canned fruits and poultry were the prizes awarded.

Time was taken off from the game long enough for a luncheon of cheer and doughnuts that the officials of the company assisted in serving the employees.

It is customary in the Daisy organization to bestow a present upon one who has been associated with the company for twenty-five years or more. This year it fell to the good fortune of Warren Lombard, assistant treasurer and purchasing agent of the Daisy company, to present the prize given in recognition of a quarter of a century of diligent and efficient service.

President Charles Bennett of the Daisy company made a brief and interesting address to the employees and officers of the company. He presented a watch and chain to Mr. Lombard. His remarks follow:

"Daisy Employees: There are too many delightful anticipations in the air tonight for me to use up your time in making a long-winded speech. And I assure you such is not my intention, but I know you will bear with me just a few minutes while I give you the annual message from the Daisy Company.

"First, and again, it falls to my lot as Santa Claus pro tem for the directors of the Daisy Manufacturing Company to have the always happy task of presenting to a Daisy employee another gold watch and chain, and this time the lot falls to a man who has climbed high both in his position and in the respect and esteem of the Daisy management. Warren Lombard presented to me as a small boy on March 1, 1907, and just gave in his own now. Warren has served in nearly every capacity except janitor, and he served well and loyally until today, as you know, he is acting as assistant treasurer in the Daisy plant. As Warren, if it watch serves you as well and faithfully as you have served the Daisy Manufacturing Company, you will have one of the best watches in the State of Michigan.

"Now I have a word about our bonuses and your and I'm through. First, bonuses this year are necessarily less than in former years. Why? Well, less work, less hours, less Daisy production. Why? Less sales (Continued on Page Ten)

NATIONAL RENOVATION

Coming up for air in the breathing space between the outgoing of a repudiated National government and the incoming of a newly elected one, the American people find that some parts of the superstructure of our democracy is badly in need of alteration and repair.

The foundations, constantly threatened during the last decade and more, are found to be as solid as when they were laid a century and a half ago. Washington, Jefferson and Madison were good architects.

The imposing and beautifying decorated annex to American democracy, built on the idea that the prosperity of the people trickles down to them from the strong-rooms of overfed money lenders, is seen to have been reared by dishonest workmen. Even before the old order passes, the work of tearing it down and hauling it away has begun, declares a prominent eastern editor.

When, by order of the people, the President tells European borrowers they must pay what they owe, citizens now understand when they see the New York stock market go into a tailspin. They know that it is only part of the renovation that is already under way.

They know now that under government encouragement private finance lent tens of billions of dollars to European borrowers after the war. The eleven billions that President Hoover now says must be paid were lent by the Government, which means the people of the United States. Naturally, when the American Government served notice that those debts must be paid, the private money-lenders had a cold sweat. They had hoped that through cancellation of war debts European borrowers would be able to pay the private debts, with interest.

It is astonishing what can happen at the polls. The whole idea that governments are set up to be directed by international bankers almost over night is as obsolete as the dodo. It may be revived some day, but not in this generation.

Another thing that quite clearly is about to be removed as part of the superstructure of our government is the hocus pocus of secret diplomacy. The now-you-see-it-and-now-you-don't act of the nations has become tiresome. We have already sat in too long at the international shell-game. Roosevelt tells us that we are to call in these European big boys, one at a time, hear what they have to say, and act accordingly.

In the days before election we observed that some of the machinery of government was worn out and should be removed. We are about to rid ourselves of lame duck Congresses.

While we are at it, we are considering whether it isn't about time to put an end to the electoral college and the convention system. We can see no good reason why we should not nominate and elect our Presidents by direct vote.

Before we can get to some of these things we have to solve the problem of food, clothing and shelter for millions of our fellow citizens.

The great fact is that we are back on the main line and are on our way. Our democracy stands unshaken.

DEBTS OUR PROBLEM

Not overproduction but the burden of national, state, local, and individual debts is the obstacle which must be removed before the industrial and agricultural machines can be thrown into high gear, according to Dr. G. F. Warren, Cornell University, who has achieved a reputation for correct predictions in the past few years.

One way of reducing the total indebtedness in this country as pointed out by Dr. Warren, is to complete the deflation which has been going on more or less rapidly since 1929. Complete deflation will necessitate the sale at sacrifice prices of properties whose owners are not able to meet their obligations.

The Cornell economist states that, if the price of such debt burdened properties is reduced enough, investors will come into the market and buy the properties. The removing of such property from the market, where it now creates an atmosphere of uncertainty, will stimulate further sales and construction activities.

Another way to work out of the present economic period, suggested by Dr. Warren, would be to increase the value of gold, but this would involve international cooperation. Reducing the weight of gold in the dollar would permit the setting of any desired price level.

The real remedy to prevent economic conditions such as prevail now is a managed currency, according to Dr. Warren. With such a currency, its buying power would fluctuate as the average price level of commodities fluctuated. When commodities increased in price, the owner of a dollar would be able to get a proportionately larger amount of gold for his dollar.

FALLING FOR FAKE SCHEMES

Never within the recollection of the present generation have as many fake schemes come to light as within the last two years. Almost every day papers in some part of the country are called upon to expose a new scheme. But, as a rule, the expose, comes after the faker has gathered in the money and hid himself to other territory, where his game is still unknown. He manages to keep one jump ahead of the denouncers.

This section has come in for its share of schemes and fakers, and its citizens have contributed their share of coin to the schemers. It has never been plain why local citizens will bite at something a home-town citizen couldn't sell them in a hundred years.

Along comes a perfect stranger selling advertising space on a time-card, calendar, cook book or some other fake scheme. He sells his space readily, in a form of advertising that usually isn't worth the paper it is printed on, pockets the money and is on his way. And then, when the advertiser fails to get results—as he does ninety-nine times out of a hundred—he goes around declaring that "advertising doesn't pay." The fact of the matter is such schemes are not legitimate advertising, and that is the only kind that ever did or ever will pay.

There is something funny about human nature when it comes to these fake schemes. Nobody can understand why merchants and professional men will "fall for them" when they wouldn't buy a nickel's worth of space if a home-town man was doing the soliciting. But a perfect stranger comes along and they bite—hook, line and sinker. It's a problem no one has so far been able to figure out.—Slaton, Texas Slatonite.

AN INDIRECT TAX

News comes out from Lansing about the amount of licenses, or taxes, that are paid by the sportsmen of Michigan and other states into the state treasury. It says that notwithstanding the drop from the previous year that Michigan received from the sale of hunting licenses during 1931 more than all the other states in the nation except two.

New York, which has led the list of states for several years showed an income from the sale of licenses of $1,108,604. This includes income from both hunting and fishing license sales, since the state has a combined license. Pennsylvania ranked second with $1,095,025, although the compilation for this state includes a period of 16 months rather than a year. Michigan's income from hunting licenses was $646,476.

While ranking third in its income from hunting licenses, Michigan dropped to sixth place in the number of hunting licenses sold. New York was first with 576,518 licenses; Pennsylvania second with 530,392; Ohio third with 455,518; Indiana fourth with 304,444; and Illinois was fifth with 302,458. Michigan sold 302,058 licenses.

Pennsylvania is the favorite state for non-resident hunters, the state reporting 6,009 non-resident hunting licenses sold during the 16 months period. Maine was second with 4,050. Michigan sold 1,253 non-resident hunting licenses in 1931.

Through the United States a half million fewer hunting licenses were issued in 1931 as compared with 1930, the Department of Agriculture's bulletin shows. Hunters in all states purchased 6,342,626 licenses last year bringing the states an income of $9,867,352.

In only seven states were more hunting licenses reported sold than in 1930.

There is not much out of the ordinary about this information handed out from the state department of conservation, except that it represents a tax, one of those indirect taxes paid by citizens of the state.

We are not opposed to the collection of a fee from the man who hunts, but the state is charging too much for it and it is one of those taxes that must be cut down. Collectively the tax demanded from the people of Michigan from real estate, personal property, licenses and fees of all sorts represents a tremendous amount and if it is not reduced, soon no one will pay any tax until the condition is remedied.

THE MAN WHO WINS

The man who wins is the man who works,
 The man who toils while the next man shirks;
 The man who stands in his deep distress
 With his head held high in the deadly press—
 Yes, he is the man who wins.

The man who wins is the man who knows
 The value of pain and the worth of woes.
 Who a lesson learns from the man who fails,
 And a moral finds in his mournful wails—
 Yes, he is the man who wins.

The man who wins is the man who stays
 In the unthought paths and the rocky ways;
 And perhaps, who lingers now and then
 To help some failure to rise again—
 Ah, he is the man who wins.

FEATURELAND

A PRAYER

Grant us, O Lord, the grace to bear
 The little, prickling thorn;
 The busy world that seems unfair;
 The twang of truths well worn;
 The jest that makes our weakness plain.

The darling plan overturned;
 The careless touch upon our pain;
 The slight we have not earned;
 The rasp of care, Dear Lord, to-day.
 Let all these fretting things
 Make needless grief, O give, we pray,
 The heart that trusts and sings.

WINTER COLDS

Out of every 1000 persons, 926 will catch at least one cold a year: October, December, January and March will be the danger months; and men will have 23 per cent more than women.

Why women should escape more colds than men, despite silk stockings and lighter clothing, is still a mystery, but University physicians found their conclusions reinforced when of 10,229 history blanks filled out by entering students since 1919, "frequent colds" were listed by 18 per cent of the women and 22 per cent of the men. Averages of total cases treated give the women an even higher advantage.

Out of a group of 5,965 students treated for respiratory disease from 1928 to 1931, it was found that 57 per cent needed such attention once during the year, 25 per cent twice, 11 per cent three times, 4 per cent four times, and 3 per cent five times or more. October, December, January and March are peak months for colds and related diseases, and except in 1918, have corresponded to the influenza epidemic peaks for the country as a whole.

HOME ADVICE

Stale bread is just as nutritious as fresh and can usually be purchased for half price.
 Make shallow loops for hooked rugs, not more than one-fourth inch deep. They should be packed close together. The rug looks less ragged when the loops are not out. The uncut loops save material and make rugs that wear longer.
 The age of the child host is a good general rule for the number of guests at a children's party. That is, three guests for a three year old, five guests for a five year old, etc. This prevents over-excitement.
 A quart of milk contains as much calcium as four pounds of green leafy vegetables, so use it generously in the day's meals. Skimmed milk and buttermilk are good sources of calcium.

THE COUNTRY PAPER SPEAKS

I am the oldest business in this town:
 Old mills have been abandoned;
 I persist,
 Old houses, old hotels of great renown
 Have gone their ways, but I, I still exist;
 Upon my ink pages there appears
 The story of this place through-out the years.

I told of youth and war, of girls who weel
 Of rich and poor alike, of thief and sage,
 And how they lived—though most of them are dead
 While ageless I am of the present age;
 Man's varied acts have always been my text—
 What happened long ago, and what comes next.

Though I am old, in truth I still can say
 Nothing can be so nearly up-to-date:
 Both yesterdays and morrows I survey—
 Of ne'er-do-wells and those of high estate.
 I lived because I served, and still shall live
 Because, of all I have, to all I give!

—Bristow Adams.

25 YEARS AGO

Miss Othe Lucas of West Town Line road is ill at her home as the result of poisoning from burning juniper wood. This is very dangerous and every one should take warning.

Charles Bennett of Detroit spent Sunday in Plymouth.
 A daughter was welcomed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sam W. Spicer of Canton Sunday.

The quietude of the Christmas afternoon downtown was relieved somewhat with a little excitement in the way of a brush between the steppers owned by George VanVleet and George Taylor, the latter having the best of the contest.

Auctioneers John Bennett and Frank J. Boyle conducted one of the largest sales of farm tools and property ever held in Wayne county for the estate of Sylvester Losey. The sale amounted to $5,000.

George _____ was put out of Dan Adams' saloon Tuesday afternoon and in revenge shoved his arm through the glass in the door, cutting his hand quite badly.

The merchants report a very good Christmas business. One gratifying thing about it, not nearly so many Plymouth people did their Christmas shopping in Detroit as in previous years.

Dr. Polham received a nice box of fruit from his sister in California.

Rambling Around with Michigan Editors

BEGAN AT WRONG END

Defense lawyers for an Ann Arbor youth advanced the unique plea that a common head cold had caused him to stage a gas station robbery. If the opposite end of the young man had been thoroughly warmed from time to time with a birch gad during boyhood he probably wouldn't be suffering from such complexes in his adolescent years.—H. J. Richardson in The Augusta Beacon.

WALKING

The depression hasn't as yet prevented the indulgent parents, who won't allow Sonny to walk two blocks to school, from driving there in his own automobile. As a matter of fact, he would be better off if he had to walk, so would the whole family.—George Neal in The Orion Review.

BACK AGAIN

From "shirtsleeves to shirtsleeves" was an old axiom, but it took the stock exchange to leave a lot of the boys without even a shirt.—Senator Chester Howell in The Chesaning Argus.

SENATORS NOT RADICAL

Paul Y. Anderson, Washington correspondent for the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, told members of the University Press Club at Ann Arbor recently that the propaganda built up in this country against the so called senate radicals, by the privileged controlled press, is unfair to a point of being vicious. Anderson declared that the majority of these so-called radicals are patriots of high order and compare in character and culture with any similar number of senators.

Criticism of the Senate on the ground that it spends too much time on discussion and investigation is short sighted, declared Anderson, because only by such means fair laws affecting the whole national welfare may be decided upon. The Senate through its investigating committees which have uncovered graft and abuse of privilege during the last decade, has rendered exceptional service to American traditions of popular government, he said.—Muri DePoe in The Charlotte Republican Tribune.

GOING MILITANT

If one wishes to learn the power of the press just pick up the Bellevue Gazette and learn how the editor of that paper is taking the hide completely off the board of education, superintendent of schools and all others connected with the school system of that village. Mr. Brown calls a spade a spade, and when he gets through with the superintendent of schools there he will be very lucky if he secures a job in the kindergarten department. We must stop this sort of the people seem to cater to this kind of publicity many of the newspapers are giving it to them, so watch your step. As long as the people have signified that the return of beer is more important than giving man employment, more important than feeding the starving multitude, more important than working for a square deal for the farmer, we might just as well raise hell all around and see if we cannot make a landing somewhere, even though it is on the rocks. The sooner it is over with and people wake up the better.—Robert Gifford in The Eaton Rapids Journal.

SWATTING COAL PEDDLERS

A new ordinance, designed to prohibit the peddling of coal and other fuels of like nature unless a license is first obtained from the village clerk, was passed Tuesday night by members of the Wayne village commission meeting in regular session. Certain requirements must be fulfilled before such license is granted.

The license fee to sell coal within the village, under the new ordinance, has been set at $35, with a $1.00 fee for each and every delivery truck. A delivery ticket, showing the printed matter used in connection with the delivery of the fuel, which includes the name and address of the seller, the name of the purchaser, a description of the coal, the weight of the commodity and the vehicle, and the name of the driver is necessary under the ordinance.

A fine of not more than $100 or not more than 90 days in jail is the penalty for violation of the ordinance.—Mrs. Lois Hisey in The Wayne Dispatch.

Test sudan grass by letting one or two less valuable head graze before the herd is turned in.

A conservative estimate for the United States places crop reduction due to weeds at about 20 per cent.

Trees and shrubs may be moved either in the fall or spring. Fall planting may give good results, but the chances are better for moving in the early spring.

A Marinette (Wis.) county farmer builds a sheep shed, 26 by 40 feet, 6 feet high at the eaves, with poplar and pine logs cut from his woodland for a cash outlay of $7.40.

More than 2,300,000 bushels of the common barley have been destroyed in Ohio since 1918, because they scatter black stem rust to wheat. Some have been found in every county in the state.

More bushels per acre mean lower cost per bushel, and low cost wheat is the only wheat worth growing.

Old New Year's and the New New Year's

MASSACHUSETTS made New Year's a holiday long after the American custom of New Year's calls, which justified its observance, had gone the way of the polka and the hoop skirt. There is nothing American about the carnival-like merry-making which nowadays welcomes the new year. Or can it be that even this is a metamorphosis of the watchnight meeting of 40 years or more ago? To deacons and elders, to all anxious heads of families, it used to seem fitting to spend at least three hours of the year in singing lugubrious hymns and giving thanks that they had been singled out for preservation when so many of kin and friends had been removed by an equally discerning Providence.

But to the young the watchnight meeting was always a dreary service, only to be endured in view of the joy of the tomorrow. And when the life and color were taken out of the observance of New Year's itself, there seemed little sense in ushering in a day of gloom with a still gloomier New Year's eve. So they left the watchnight meeting to those who found no more pleasure in their days, and for themselves introduced the practice now generally prevalent of indulging in a last fling in preparation for the morrow's disagreeable business of turning over a new leaf. They have revived the old pagan ceremony, except that no miniature skeletons are passed around at the feast to remind them that they are mortal. Nothing in this modern New Year's eve abandon, however, commends it as a substitute for the old and gracious custom of paying and receiving calls, a custom whose desuetude was hastened by the prodigious growth of the large cities of our country in the years that have followed the Civil war.

As people's acquaintances increased numerically their circle widened geographically. Horse-drawn vehicles were still the indispensable ways of getting about. A gentleman who in 1880 could call upon 100 or more ladies and find room in himself for an equal number of cups of coffee or glasses of sherry, was compelled, in 1870, to reduce his calling list by half; he could not get all the way round, even if his brains and his legs held out. As it became apparent that either the custom or its observers must shortly perish from the earth, the custom languished and died. Such of the old observers as survive spend the day sadly. There is nothing they can do to make them repentant. There is no pleasure in making good resolutions which you can't break if you try.—Boston Herald.

A NEW YEAR—a new opportunity to achieve great things—that's what 1933 means. Our hope is that all its finest possibilities may be realized.

A MESSAGE OF THANKS AND ENCOURAGEMENT

Today we stand at the dawning of a new year and also, we believe, at the beginning of a new and brighter business day for America. Smoke is pouring from factory chimneys long idle. Pay rolls are expanding. Idle money is flowing back into the banks, people are taking new courage.

May we add to this message of encouragement our sincere thanks to our depositors for their patronage during 1932. No bank is more fortunate in the character of its customers than this one. And no bank could be more truly appreciative of your loyalty and cooperation.

There is only one true value in work and in endeavor and the real Gold Standard is the actual practice of the expression—"Do unto others as you would have them do unto you."

Here's wishing you health, happiness and real progress during 1933.

CHRISTIAN SCIENTIST

"Christian Science" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Christian Science Churches throughout the world on Sunday, December 25.

Among the Bible citations was this passage (1 cor. 2:3-5): "And my speech and my preaching was not with enticing words of man's wisdom, but in demonstration of the Spirit and of power: That your faith should not stand in the wisdom of men, but in the power of God."

Correlative passages read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, included the following (p. 127): "Science is an emanation of divine Mind, and is alone able to interpret God aright. It has a spiritual, and not a material origin. It is a divine utterance, the Comforter which leadeth into all truth."

ODD BELIEFS ABOUT FIRST DAY OF YEAR

TO OPEN a bank account at New Year's was considered lucky in Old England, the custom growing probably from the belief of many centuries that whatever you do on the first day of the year will be an indication of what will happen during the months to follow. So deep seated was this superstition in the minds of men that even after the festival was declared a general holiday, many clung to the old-time belief, and to insure work for the coming year would set the pace by spending at least an hour or two in some useful pursuit.

The first day of the year has been more generally observed than any other holiday, and over a longer period, as well, its observance dating back to the Druids in England and to ancient Babylon when it was made an occasion for a celebration lasting from ten to twelve days. With every nation this holiday has been considered a time for the expression of good will and the renewing of old friendships. The effort to demonstrate the kindly spirit led to the custom of making gifts, often very expensive jewelry and large sums of money. But it was not necessary to remember one's friends in that lavish way for custom made it possible also to express good wishes in a fitting and very humble manner.

Almost every nation has welcomed the New Year with some form of ceremony, not, however, on the same date or in the same way. The Druids celebrate the New Year on the shortest day of the year, the time, in their belief, when the sun, which journeyed away from earth during the cold months, turned homeward bringing with it sunshine, light, warmth and good cheer. The superstitions that cluster around the day began away back in the time of these sun worshippers when the priests led the people to the forests of the gods for small spirits of mistletoe which would bring them health and prosperity for the year. So important was the event the people marched in processions to the groves, led by the priests, selected for the sacred duty of cutting the mistletoe, being armed with sickles of gold. And just as primitive man made his plans for the beginning of a New Year the Mexican, Japanese, Chinese, Persian, Turk, in fact, every nation on the globe followed in his footsteps, each celebrating according to his own ideas and customs.

Omens of good and bad luck have always been associated with the New Year, all founded more or less upon the belief that supreme power was vested in an unseen deity, who could bring good luck if properly appeased or mete out punishments. The Romans named their New Year in honor of Janus the two-faced god, who had the power to look back over the past, and also in a prophetic way could look into the future. He was represented with a key in his hand symbolizing his power to open doors, and gateways, and this holiday was one of great gaiety lasting several days. The festival was not observed in midwinter, but in the spring, when the Roman year began, and had only ten months. Later when two months were added to the calendar, January and February were placed at the beginning of the year, the New Year was celebrated on the first of January.

Among the old superstitions are many quaint customs that have been observed for centuries and have come down almost to this day and age. Among them are the following:

To bring good luck one must wear something new on the first day of the year, according to old English custom.

In some parts of England and Scotland it is supposed to be unlucky to leave a house until some outsider has first entered.

There is also an old superstition concerning the weather told in an old legend as follows:

"If New Year night wind bloweth south, It betokeneth warmth and growth; If west, much milk, and fish in the sea; If north, much cold and storms there'll be; If east, the trees will bear much fruit. If northeast, flee it, man and brute."

How Times Have Changed—

THE custom of celebrating the advent of the New Year is sunk in antiquity. Let us glance down the centuries toward some of the first stunts in which the populace indulged and see if we aren't inclined to draw a breath of relief as we exclaim, "How times have changed!"

Long, long ago, before the dawn of civilized stomachs, it was a good old pagan custom for our people to celebrate the New Year by gathering in the open where they could circle around two wild boars that tore each other to bits. The meat of the dead animals was then divided between the people to feast upon, the best pieces being reserved for those higher in authority. It's a far cry from the midnight supper of today with its carefully chosen hors d'oeuvres to stimulate the flagging appetites of guests whose stomachs revolt at the sight of spilled blood.

In old Scotland a more savory diet was enjoyed on New Year's eve when people thronged through the streets between twelve and one o'clock at night bearing steaming kettles of spiced ale, brewed in that day as the wassail bowl. As they passed each other on the way to visit neighbors, they stopped to give and take sips, so that their spirits were mounting high when they arrived, to be generously fed on buns and cheese. This pleasant custom persisted for many years.

At one time the New Year was celebrated by the giving of presents just as Christmas is today. Gloves were a popular contribution to a lady's wardrobe because of their rarity.

When pins were first invented, about the beginning of the sixteenth century, they were an even more acceptable gift in feminine circles. They were rough hand-made pins, but were considered rare pieces of workmanship compared with the skewers of bone and wood then in use. If money was given for their purchase, it was known as "pin-money," a phrase which has clung to the language, and connotes money used for any extras, pins or other.

A Toast to the New Year

Rosedale Gardens

Christmas Day

was ushered in by wonderful music and singing by the new St. Michael's choir at midnight High Mass celebrated by the Pastor Rev. Fr. John E. Conway.

The church was crowded to capacity, every seat taken, and a number of later comers were standing at sides and rear.

The damp and muddy under tire and foot, Christmas Sunday was like a day in May, beautiful clear skies, both Sunday and Monday, as if the weather man had ordered the day for poor folk, with out fuel or winter clothing. The it was a disappointment to R kiddies with new skates (and sleds) as the skating ponds became just lakes, in the new deal of Lake to the Sea Waterways.

Enough Water

went thru R sanitary and storm drainage system to make Supt. Al Honke and the Land Company boys work all days and nights of last Thursday, Friday and Saturday, using up dish pan after dish pan of em' grease on the pumps. Well anyway, Santa Claus rewarded them and we all are thankful for it that R roads, as well as basements, were kept free of water and dry. For it rained as never before, making it seem as the winter had really broke up, lakes all about us until the snow froze in apt out.

Kiddies Party

at R School on Friday Nite brought the usual crowds and really more than ever before, to R School House. Each and every child had a part on the program, and with costumes, scenery, play acting, and music certainly reflect naught but the highest praise for the work of the children and the trying and untiring efforts of R teachers in the coaching and preparations. It was perfect, inspiring, and beautiful in all its phases, not forgetting the community Song Fest led by R Bro. Shoesmith.

Gone

are Mr. and Mrs. Walter G. Brown, daughter, Miss Alice, and granddaughters, Miss Alice and granddaughters, Miss Alice and granddaughters. They have moved big city side and are sadly miss by all.

Sorry

is no word to express our sincere sympathy for Rev. Fr. P. C. Lefevre, his parishioners, for their loss, by the of the beautiful little church of Our Lady of Good Counsel on Union street, Plymouth, coming just two days before the Feast of the Nativity, it was a heartbreaking shock to all Rosedale Gardens who will always remember the good times and particularly to many of the Gardendale children who received their first religious instructions and their first communion there.

Let us all now try and help Father Lefevre rebuild and render every assistance within our power. Colored Tree Lites not only twinkle from the myriad of Christmas tree, within R homes, but many from without the doors on lawn and shrub evergreens here, there and everywhere within R gates, and with the huge evergreens at either end of the fence, all be- speaking peace and good will to the stranger passing R gates as well as R neighbors within.

Trials of Mother

the past week seem to be most everything at this time, and are continuing for another ten days. The weather not altogether to their liking for kiddies play without and a lot of noise within the house over electric trains and whatnots, it is no wonder that mother has a headache and sister's dolls fail to sleep the way they should. Well it was a Merry Xmas after all was ed and done.

Artisans

have been working feverously on the new vestibule on the "Rech" house and Cousin Charles is doing some outdoor painting, taking advantage of the unusual Xmas Sun- shine the past ten days. Much in contrast with the zero spell of a couple weeks ago, when bricklayers had to stay home and the carpenters and painters kept fires burning whilst finding indoor work at remodeling, and the Land Co. boys snowplowing and fire building.

Fog Frost

covered everything above and below the past several morales. For so heavy that traffic on 1. S. 12 was delayed as never before, the damp air freezing on

MR. JUDSON went down to breakfast New Year's morning with his shirt cuffs dangling. He had watched the old year out and the new year in at his young sister's party, and had promised to go skating with the "crowd" by nine in the morning. What is thunder do you mean by swiping my cuff buttons, Peggy?" he said to his sister. "Only this," cooed Peggy, who was eighteen and uncommonly pretty. She held up her hands, showing the cuffs of a blouse of masculine cut. "I needed them, dearie, so before you were awake I came in and got them. I don't be huffy, sweetheart. It's New Year's day."

Tom and Midge at No. 28 Bedford Street. some resolutions. One's to be very good-natured. And I'm beginning on you. I have made out some for you, too," she added. Tom read in small rather childish writing, these resolutions for him: Not to flirt. Not to be scrappy. Not to be late for dinner—"It ain't no cook so." Not to be hoggish—This had special reference to neckties, fountain pens, cuff buttons, etc. Not to get engaged before the next New Year's day. "Because unattached men are scarce and we need you in the bunch to piece out with."

RING OUT, WILD BELLS

RING out, wild bells, to the wild sky, The flying, cloud, the frosty light: The year is dying in the night; Ring out, wild bells, and let him die. Ring out the old, ring in the new; Ring, happy bells, across the snow: The year is going, let him go, Ring out the false, ring in the true. Ring out the grief that saps the mind, For those that here we see no more; Ring out the feud or rich and poor, Ring in redress to all mankind. Ring out a slowly dying cause, And ancient forms of party strife; Ring in nobler modes of life, With sweeter manners, purer law. Ring out false pride in place and blood, The civic slander and the spite; Ring in the love of truth and right, Ring in the common law of good. Ring out old shapes of foul disease; Ring out the narrowing lust of gold; Ring out the thousand wars of old, Ring in the thousand years of peace. Ring in the valiant man and free, The larger heart, the kinder hand; Ring out the darkness of the land, Ring in the Christ that is to be. —LORD TENNYSON.

in this evening to practice a new dance step. We're a man short. That is we are a girl extra. Sally's bringing her cousin," she continued. Bob's social engagements in his own and his sister's set kept him until darkness had begun to settle. But, as he reflected, it was only half past five, and with half an hour to go home and dinner at half past six, he would be in good time. He was aware of the fact that there was a young woman walking hurriedly beside a man on the opposite side of the street. Then he saw the young woman quickly cross the street. She waved her hand and fairly pounced upon him with a "Why, Marmaduke, dear, how glad I am to see you!" Tom remembered the first resolution given by Peggy, "Not to flirt." "I thought it was you, Marmaduke," said the girl, walking beside him and laughing gaily. "Of course you were on your way to our house. We half expected you, but I didn't know you would come this way." It seemed to Tom that she was talking very loudly. "Bobby, dear," resumed Peggy. "I've asked some of the girls to come

"Marmaduke Butler's your name." Then Tom realized that the man who had been talking to the girl had caught up with them. "Say, who are you?" said the young man, well dressed, but with his hat drawn over his eyes. "Why, I'm Marmaduke Butler," stammered Tom. "I don't believe it," snarled the stranger. "We don't neither of us know her. And I came along first." Tom did not wait to know what was coming next. He shook off the girl's hold, his fists clenched and his muscles tightened without volition. The next minute he had struck out toward the annoying stranger, and with the third blow the stranger was prone on the path. "Take me home," whispered the girl, hoarsely. "It's 28 Bedford street. Can you find it?" They hurried on. Tom stood with her on the porch of the house marked 26 until a servant came to the door. "May I see you again?" "Oh, no," said the girl. "It would seem as if I had been very impertinent if I ever met again. But I shall always be grateful." Then the door closed and Tom in much confusion traced his steps homeward. It was a quarter to seven when he reached home. "Tom, you have broken one of your resolutions the first thing," chirped Peggy. "I've broken more than one," said Tom dimly. "I've flirted with a girl, knocked a man over, I've felt as if I wanted something all to myself, and if I get half a chance I'll be engaged before next year. Say, Peggy, Sally lives somewhere in Bedford street, doesn't she?" "Twenty-six," said Peggy. "And I shouldn't wonder if you'd better remember that, because you'll have to see Sally's cousin home. You see, she's the extra girl tonight." Then the telephone bell rang and Peggy was absorbed for many minutes. She burst in upon Tom in the dining room, where he was finishing dinner alone. "Tom, hurry. I am afraid you'll have to get Sally and her cousin. Burton James was going to meet them here, and they were coming alone, but the cousin—Midge is her name—had the most awful experience, perfectly awful. A man followed her. They walked along and then he took her arm, wanted to make a date with her and everything. Midge didn't know what to do. It was so dark and lonely. But she says the nicest man came along and saw her difficulty and knocked the man down and took her home, then left without letting her know who he was. Wasn't that splendid? Now the girls are afraid to come alone for fear that other men will meet them." Of course, Tom hastened to 28 Bedford street, and of course the affair ripened into a romance, and long before the year was out announcements were made of the engagement of Midge and Tom. Business Prospects For 1933 Better Than They Were in 1932 At This Time, Survey Of Industrial Plants Reveal al automobile show in New York beginning Jan. 7. It is believed, on the representation of dealers and the fixed law of supply and demand, that there exists a market for at least two or three million motor cars in 1933. Already dealers have booked orders for 1933 models aggregating in excess of 200,000 cars.

How far beyond the early months of the new year the existing expansion of pay-rolls will last depends, of course, on the reception accorded the new models after the formal showing at the national and local motor car shows in January. Not a few of the motor car manufacturing executives, profess to believe that so extraordinary are values for the coming year, together with the fact that tens of thousands of cars now in operation must be replaced, that a rapid production, even better than in early 1932, can be looked for next year. One of the major reasons for this is that the thousands of workers that they will be well employed throughout the remainder of the winter, at least.

Executives of the various companies stress the fact that only former employees are being taken back to work. Outsiders are not being considered.

Presentation on December 17 of the new 1933 Chevrolet models to the public will reflect the return to work by that organization of approximately 85,000 persons, according to W. S. Knudsen, president of the Chevrolet company. This figure represents a complete normal working force, dependent directly upon Chevrolet operations for their livelihood. Employment for these people, said Mr. Knudsen is assured through the winter and spring, the hours per week depending upon the extent of the demand for the new cars.

of Daisy and King products. Why? A world-wide depression in which all business and all countries in the world have suffered as never before in the world's history. Why? I do not know. I wish I did—I would immediately call Mr. Roosevelt and Frank Drouhard and we would soon return to normal. However, I believe every employee will be agreeably surprised at the size of the 1932 bonus, as we have kept faith with each and every one of you, and what is more gratifying to me and management, we believe that in nearly every case our faith has been reciprocated.

"No man knows what the coming year holds in store. Just now it looks as if it might be a most trying one for all of us, even a worse year for manufacturers than the present one, but I want you to know that we have tried to trim our sails to weather any storm. We first intend to produce a line of Air Rifles and Pop Guns that will give the maximum amount of employment to you, our employees. Having also in mind the scarceness and consequent rise of the dollar, we have for 1933 cut our prices to the bone, and, in fact, put them back to the old pre-war prices. We believe these lowered prices are absolutely necessary if we are to continue in business, and you all know that in order to live and let live we must produce our Daisy goods at a cost that will show a fair profit. Whether or not this can be done without a further cut in wages and salaries depends on each and everyone of you here tonight: If you each produce so we can make a profit at our present wages, then there will be no change. Once more I say to you that you will in 1933, as in former years, write your own ticket, and nothing more need be said about it.

"Wishing you all a Merry Christmas and a More Prosperous New Year, we will commence the real fun of the occasion."

ate figure on the total retail orders on hand for the new models, reports from the field indicate that dealers are holding more advance orders for retail delivery than the company has yet experienced.

Of the total number returned to work, approximately 30,000 are directly upon the Chevrolet payrolls. These include workers in the concern's 20 domestic plants, the central office group and the factory sales forces. Another 21,000 are employed by the Fisher Body Corporation in its eight body plants, which stand adjacent to Chevrolet assembly plants and work on Chevrolet bodies exclusively. Added to these groups are the approximately 36,000 persons employed in the selling of Chevrolet cars, 10,100 of whom are dealers.

Ford Motor, normally the largest employer in the Detroit area, now has 32,000 on its payrolls at the River Rouge plant. There is a prospect that this will be considerably increased, after the first of the year, on the assumption that Ford will offer in the 1933 market "something new in automobiles," as recently hinted by Henry Ford. Nothing has as yet been revealed as to what the company will offer. It is generally believed it will be a larger eight.

Several departments were speeded up this week and others will be made more active next week in production of preliminary parts such as bodies, fenders and frames. Lincoln division has also started production on its new models.

A Detroit mill is the beneficiary of the first Ford commitment for steel for its new line, and there are indications that Ford shortly will be more heavily in the market, says the magazine Steel. "Some parts business has been distributed, and in late December and early January increased activity at Ford may temper a seasonal decline by other manufacturers, excepting Chevrolet."

Retail sales of Lincoln motor cars in November were 37.04 per cent greater than in the corresponding month a year ago, November was the third consecutive month in which Lincoln retail sales exceeded those for the same month last year.

Chrysler Corporation's contribution to the revival of employment in the automobile industry in Michigan will reach approximately 28,000 persons by the turn of the year, K. T. Keller, vice-president of the corporation, stated recently that approximately 22,000 men were working in the company's Detroit plants, turning out the new Chrysler, Plymouth, Dodge and De Soto cars. About 6,000 additional workers were to be added to the various companies' payrolls before the end of the year, he added.

At the Plymouth-De Soto plant, approximately 7,500 men are now employed. It is estimated that an equal number are employed in other factories in the Detroit area supplying parts to the manufacturing plants themselves. These employments levels, it is pointed out, have been reached only once before in the plant's history. Plymouth went into production on its current models late in October, while De Soto started its production about a week ago.

Murray Corporation of America with 3,200 now at work, expects to add several thousand in the course of the winter months. Briggs Manufacturing will add more than 4,000 men in the next couple of months. Motor Products Corporation has been gradually increasing its payroll for the past month. Some departments are working seven days a week, with the main plant working five to five and a half days a week.

It was said at Briggs Manufacturing that the company probably will recall about 4,000 more men between now and March. About 3,500 old employees were recalled to work last October and November for a full six-day working week schedule.

Oldsmobile factories started production Dec. 12. It is announced by E. J. Reuter, president and general manager, of Old Motor Works, A full production schedule will be in effect within the next week. The same condition will apply to the Fisher Body plant, which adjoins the Oldsmobile factories and is devoted wholly to the manufacture of Oldsmobile bodies. This will mean employment for 4,000 persons. A production schedule of 2,300 automobiles will be maintained for the rest of December. Reuter said "the projected January schedule is for 3,800 cars."

In order to afford work for the maximum number of employees, production schedules are so arranged that next spring the factory should be working on a five-day basis so as to spread the available employment to as great a number as possible.

Production on the 1933 model Hudson and Essex Terraplane cars started Monday. To meet manufacturing requirements 4,200 men have been recalled to their jobs. Only former employees are being put to work on the new program. The initial manufacturing schedule calls for the purchase of $12,000,000 worth of materials.

Shipments on the new models to remote dealer points will begin early next week but no announcement of the new line will be made until the opening of the New York Show.

Hupp Motor started production on its new line this week. The company now has 3,100 men on its payroll and is recalling 500 former employees. Shipment to dealers will get under way the first of the year. The new cars will be shown at the New York Auto Show.

Graham-Paige is working approximately 1,550 men, 1,100 in the Warren avenue plant and 450 in the body factory at Wayne. It expects to add about 500 more men, all old employees.

Buick, which is already in production, is now employing approximately 10,000 men in the combined chassis and body plant.

More than 1,000,000 persons have visited Buick showrooms to inspect the new line of cars Buick officials report. Detroit, which is considered the most critical automobile city of the world, is representative of the reports received from all sections. In that city for example 10,386 persons visited the showroom in the General Motors Building the first day of the display.

Oakland Motor is employing 2,

400 men, which is a little more than half of its normal force, and it hopes to rehire the remainder "in coming weeks."

Cadillac is in full production on 1933 models. According to Lawrence P. Fisher, president, 3,250 men are being rehired in the chassis and body plants, bringing the total up to 3,750. Mr. Fisher said enough orders are on hand to assure the men eight hours a day, five days a week until the end of March.

De Soto Motor Corporation is in production on a new and radically advanced De Soto Six for 1933, said by those who have seen it to mark a striking gain in style and smartness. Rivaling its beauty are many performance, comfort and safety features new to its field, reports said.

Pontiac has announced a new big straight eight in the low price field. Concentrating upon a single type of motor and chassis for 1933, the Pontiac organization has effected a close-coupled fire-passenger, two-door model carrying a trunk which is known as the touring sedan. The new Fisher four-draft ventilation system is built into each of the body models and super-safety glass windshields are standard. The 1933 Pontiac is the product of more than 750,000 miles of experimental road and development conducted during the last two years by the Pontiac engineering corps under the direction of Chief Engineer B. H. Anibal.

The first of the new line of Continental Automobile Company cars, motors for which will be manufactured in the Muskegon plant of the Continental Motors Corporation, rolled off the assembly line at Grand Rapids early this week.

Days of Exchange

These are days of barter and trade—you trade something you don't want for something the other fellow does not want—and both of you get something you want for something you didn't want.

The idea is simply this—tell your neighbors and friends through a Plymouth Mail want ad that your boy or girl has outgrown a pair of skates and you would like to exchange the pair for something they have got.

Maybe you would like to trade half of a hog you have just butchered for a good used automobile tire and tube.

Try an exchange ad in the MAIL and see what the result will be.
