

Many Beautiful New Homes Going Up In Rosedale

Remarkable Development Under Way In Nearby Home Sector

If one is seeking an outward and visible proof of the upturn in the building trade, he has only to drive to Rosedale, five miles east of Plymouth, on the Plymouth Road to see the concrete evidence of the renewed faith of the people of Detroit as it is reflected by the large number of new homes now under construction there.

Rosedale Gardens is sponsored by Sheldon Sons, who, by the way, are the same people who developed and sold its companion development, Rosedale Park.

There are now, either in course of construction or nearing completion, eight or nine homes, being their white timbers skyward. They are of various styles and types of construction, ranging from the Cape Cod type, low and rambling with its air of coziness, to the tried and comfortable Colonial, with its ample room and usual utility.

There are interspersed among these types also the modern bungalows which have been in vogue in recent years and which seem assured of their place in the affection of many purchasers.

Some of these homes are being built directly for the occupation of the owner and of course reflect the individuality of the future home owner. Other homes are being built by the Sheldon firm for the approval of the buying public. There is the modern House of Tomorrow with its rich luxuriousness being built for Harold H. Schierk.

Outstanding in this type of home is the size of the living room with its large natural fireplace and high Cathedral windows. The rest of the house is built around and supports this master room.

Then there is the beautiful and graceful Colonial home being built on West Chicago Boulevard among the trees for Elmer A. Miller. This home combines efficiency and low cost to such a degree as to make it a favorite among those who desire sleeping quarters on the upper floor. It will be equipped with the usual modern specialties and should be a very comfortable home.

On Berwick Avenue, among the trees, is the home being built for Lyman G. Hedden of the Edison Company. The style of this home should commend itself to those who wish to combine durability and attractiveness and yet keep within reasonable bounds as to cost.

The Kelvinator Company has shown its interest in Rosedale Gardens by selecting it as a suitable spot to house its executives, and kept the idea of developing a development.

To Leave Sunday For Mexico City

Elected as the official delegate from the Plymouth Rotary club to the International convention of that organization to be held this month in Mexico City, Charles H. Bennett, a former Rotary president, accompanied by Mrs. Bennett and Miss Pauline Peck, will leave Sunday from New York City for the convention city in the neighboring republic.

The steamer upon which Mr. and Mrs. Bennett and Miss Peck will leave New York has been chartered by Rotarian delegates from all parts of the east and middle west, the entire passenger list being made up with delegates to the convention. It will land at Vera Cruz, Mexico and from there the passengers will go by train to Mexico City, a trip of something like four hours.

This is not the first time Mr. Bennett has visited Mexico City, but it is the first time he has ever had the honor of being a delegate to an International Rotary convention. The entire Republic of Mexico is planning a royal welcome to the convention visitors.

Pastor Becomes A College "Prof."

Rev. F. Ray Norton, pastor of the First Methodist church is one of several well known Michigan pastors who are preparing for next week donating their services as instructors at the summer school at Albion college for students who are preparing for the ministry. The Albion class this year is somewhat larger than usual.

Mrs. Alice B. Sweeney of Ann Arbor and son David, of Plymouth left today for a trip through the eastern states.

Miss Ann Johnson Appears In Piano Recital Recently

Plymouth friends of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Johnson who are now residents of Mt. Pleasant will be interested in an article in the Isabella County Times-News giving details of a piano recital by little Miss Ann Johnson, their twelve year old daughter. She was presented Sunday by Nell Field Riches, a well known instructor in piano music. The Times-News referred to the youthful player as a talented musician. The Johnsons left Plymouth some two years ago to reside in Mt. Pleasant where Mr. Johnson has a drug store.

No Increase In Tax Rate For The City Next Year

Commission Holds Budget To $66,000 To Keep Rate Down

After considering the 1935-36 budget for the past eight weeks, the city commission has adopted a budget in the total amount of $66,000. The non-tax revenues which are anticipated will decrease the amount to be spent on the general taxes to $58,351.00, which will make a tax rate of $12 per thousand the same as for the year 1934.

The new budget adopted will not allow for any new services or functions of the city, even though several items which would tend to increase the budget were considered by the commission. It was the unanimous opinion that the ability to pay taxes this year is much improved over last and a greater percentage of collections will be received, and that it would be unwise to add any new services until the taxpayers had an opportunity to catch up with current tax obligations.

The local taxpayers are urged to pay the 1935 city taxes as promptly as possible in order that a maximum collection can be received. If a greater amount of taxes are collected, then the budget can be expanded to allow for services to equal the amount of taxes paid.

It is interesting to know that the amount received in taxes during each year for the last three years has been only one-half the amount received in the last year, prior to the depression. This reduction is not equal in any other municipality in this area. In fact in a great many municipalities the tax rates have been increased during the depression years in order to compensate for delinquent taxes, which causes a hardship on both delinquent taxpayers as well as tax payers who meet their tax obligations promptly.

This has not been the case in the city of Plymouth as all valuations and tax rates have been uniformly reduced, and kept well below the ten year average prior to 1931.

Farm Unions Will Meet at South Lyons

The next regular meeting of the National Farmers Union will be held on Wednesday evening, June 12, at 9 o'clock at Veterans Hall, South Lyons. Mrs. Jones, president of the housewives league of Detroit, will be the speaker.

1935 Licenses For Dogs Now Due

The 1935 dog license were due June 1st. Dog owners will have until July 1st to secure the new licenses without penalty. After that date a 50c penalty is added to all licenses.

During the past year, after the dog ordinance was revised, the dog licenses collected from approximately 98 per cent of the dog owners. The 2 per cent of the owners who did not comply with the ordinance are being referred to the police department for action under the penalty provision of the ordinance. The city commission feels that excellent cooperation has been given by dog owners in the enforcement of the dog ordinance because of this high percentage of dog licenses issued.

During the past week another case of rabies was reported at the city hall and two local residents were bitten by the dog. They are required to make daily trips to the Pasteur Institute in Ann Arbor for twenty-one Pasteur treatments. Dog owners are again urged to watch the health of their dogs very closely in order to act quickly when signs of rabies are prevalent.

According to the dog ordinance all dogs are to be confined to the owner's premises during the months of July and August, unless they are held by a leash while on the public streets. It is the intent of the city to enforce this provision during these two months to the best of its ability.

Roy Parrott, For Years Active In Business is Dead

Prominent Local Resident Victim of Apoplexy

Roy R. Parrott, for over a score of years one of Plymouth's best known and prominent business men died suddenly at his home early last Saturday morning after an illness of but a few hours. He suffered a stroke of apoplexy and did not recover consciousness during the few hours that he survived after having been stricken. While it had not been generally known, Mr. Parrott had not been in the best of health for a number of years, although he had retained his active interest in his personal business as well as his community affairs.

Mr. Parrott was born in Hopeville, Indiana on September 17, 1877, where he lived until he became connected with one of the railway companies of that state as a traveling auditor. A few months later having been transferred to Pellston, Michigan, was then the northern headquarters of the railway, he went to Detroit where he became connected with the Pere Marquette railway in its tax department. He was still associated with the Pere Marquette when he moved to Plymouth on July 5, 1913.

After a brief residence in this community, he saw an opportunity for a general insurance agency and real estate business. It was but a short time after opening up his office that he had developed an excellent business and at the time of his death Mr. Parrott had one of the largest general insurance agency businesses in Wayne county outside the city of Detroit.

Because of his careful study and long experience in real estate values, he was regarded as one of the best authorities on real estate appraisals in this part of Michigan.

Becoming associated with the Masonic lodge early in life, he was most active in the affairs of the lodge during his entire residence in Plymouth. He had served in all its offices, passing through the Master's chair a number of years ago.

He was the first president and for many years one of the most active members of the Plymouth Real Estate Board. When the Plymouth Building and Loan Association was organized he was elected one of its original incorporators and retained this position until the time of his death. At one time he served as secretary of the association.

He was a former member of the Rotary club but at the time of his death was active in Kiwanis affairs, being vice president of the club during the past year.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Florence M. Parrott and one daughter, Mrs. Perry Richwine of this city and three grandchildren. It is Mrs. Parrott's plans to continue the business of the Parrott Insurance Agency in which she has been actively engaged with Mr. Parrott.

The funeral held from the Schrader Bros. funeral home Monday afternoon was one of the largest in Plymouth in many years. Rev. E. King officiated at the First Methodist church, assisted by Rev. Walter Nichol and Rev. Loyal Sutherland. Two beautiful songs were rendered by Mrs. James Sessions, accompanied by the organ by Mrs. M. J. O'Connor. The Masonic lodge was in charge of the services. Burial took place in Riverside cemetery.

Miss Vivian Smith And Estie Merillat Wed

A marriage of interest to many in Plymouth and surrounding territory is that of Miss Vivian June Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Smith of this city and Estie Merillat, son of Floyd Merillat of Traverse City, which took place on Saturday evening, June 1, in Highland Park with Rev. E. King pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church officiating. Rev. King married the bride's parents twenty-one years ago and also christened the bride when an infant.

The young couple were attended by their friends, Mr. and Mrs. James Deeg, (Irene Anderson) of Detroit.

Present at the wedding were the bride's parents of Plymouth, her brother, Clifford Smith of Lansing, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Smith of Newburg, Mrs. I. Burkinshaw of Detroit.

Mrs. Merillat had several showers given in her honor previous to her marriage. She was a graduate of the Plymouth high school and had lived here all her life and her many friends here extend heartiest congratulations to them.

The Happy Helper club was most pleasantly entertained Wednesday evening by Mrs. Wesley Sheere at her home on West street.

Sidewalk Bonds Not Available

Because of the fact that there is no bonding company which will now bond sidewalk builders, city officials of Plymouth find that it is necessary to make some changes in its sidewalk construction ordinance. At the meeting of the city commission Monday night, City Manager Perry Cookingham pointed out that probably just as good if not more satisfactory results could be obtained by proper inspection than under the old system of bonding the sidewalk builders.

NRA Dead, Labor Shortage Exists In This Section

The NRA is as dead as a doer. The blue eagle is flat on its back with not sufficient life left to make even a final thrust with it.

But try and find a man in Plymouth who wants to work and is not working! For the first time since the last presidential campaign when every one became alarmed over the political conditions developing at that time and business went flat as a result, there is very little unemployment in Plymouth.

People who have small repair jobs or a few days work find it difficult to secure any one to do the work.

One local business man has been waiting to have some repair work done at his store for over a month and he stated yesterday he was not sure when the work would be done.

A local carpenter contractor declared yesterday that he had never had so much work ahead to do as at present.

"There are no big jobs, but if the work keeps up I will be busy for months," he stated. "The work although there are some alterations and expansions that are taking place. If people do not change their minds and decide not to have the work done, I will be unable to get it done."

It is practically impossible to secure women to do housework, the Daisy company having absorbed nearly all of the unemployed women who desire to work.

If present conditions continue for some time, it is feared as far as Plymouth is concerned.

Streets Will Be Oiled Next Week

The city commission has authorized the city manager to purchase three tanks of road oil to be applied on the unpaved streets. The first tank of oil will be received either Monday or Tuesday of next week and the work will continue until all streets are oiled.

In order to secure the best possible job it will be necessary to barricade the streets against traffic for a period of at least five hours; therefore all residents, who will want to use their cars, are requested to take them out on a paved street before the oiling begins.

The work includes the application of the oil and the blotting of the surface with stone and sand and allowing a sufficient time for penetration before the streets are open to traffic.

The city will spend between two and three thousand dollars on this work and it is important that traffic remain off the streets until the barricades are removed, in order to make sure that no part of this expenditure is wasted. The oiled streets will not permit high speed traffic without doing some damage to the surface; therefore, motorists are requested to drive at a reasonable rate of speed on these streets in order to make the life of the treatment as long as possible.

Girl Scouts Now Have New Flags

Two flags, one the American flag, the other a flag of the Girl Scouts of Plymouth, are now in the possession of the first girl scout troop ever organized in this city. They were presented to the troop by the Plymouth Rotary club, Herald Hamill, long active in scout work in the club, making the presentation in behalf of the organization at a recent meeting of the club. The entire girl scout troop was present during the flag presentation by Mr. Hamill, an impressive affair, both for the youthful girl scouts as well as members of the club.

Nowicki Plans To Assist City In Sewer Problem

County Official Hopes To Cover Tonquish Creek Soon

It is the intention of County Drain Commissioner Leo Nowicki to make the covering of the Tonquish creek open sewer flowing through the heart of the city of Plymouth one of the major projects for this part of Wayne county under the new CWA program if such a thing is humanly possible he advised The Plymouth Mail while in Plymouth Tuesday checking over some of the data in connection with this big problem.

Mr. Nowicki who once or twice before has expressed a willingness as well as a desire to rid the community of this nuisance but who through various conflicting reasons was unable to carry out his plan, believes that he can work out the problem successfully for the city, with only a slight material cost to be born by the community.

"It will have to be done within the next year if it is ever done," he stated, "and the cost in the labor cost," stated Mr. Nowicki. Later he consulted with City Manager Cookingham about his plan to aid in removing this foul-smelling open sewer by diverting it through a closed concrete pipe of sufficient size to carry the entire water flow of the Tonquish creek valley.

"We will probably know within the immediate future just how soon we will be able to start on the new public works program that the government will undertake. Plymouth citizens may rest assured that I will do all within my power to assist in this needed public improvement," added the county official.

Ask For Refund Of Fees Paid City

A petition presented to the city commission Monday night signed by a number of people who have paid the transient merchant's fee as provided under the ordinance asking for her refund of the money was referred by the commission to the city attorney for a report.

The petition is the outgrowth of the recent case in which Caroline O. Dayton was involved. Mrs. O. Dayton's name appeared on a little eating place in the library building. When requested to pay the fee as required under the ordinance, she refused to do so. After considerable debate on the question, the city secured a warrant for her arrest.

Because of the desire of the city not to have the case tried before Judge John Dayton, it was taken before Justice Nichols of Northville. After hearing the evidence in the case, Judge Nichols found Mrs. Dayton not guilty and the city commission decided to take no action until the city attorney makes a report upon the case.

Based upon the declaration of the Northville justice who tried this case, the signers of the petition have asked for a refund. The city commission decided to take no action until the city attorney makes a report upon the case.

Governor Honors Fallen Veteran

So that the grave of a comrade he had served with in France might be forever marked with the bronze tablet that distinguishes the graves of all members of the famous Rainbow division of the United States army during the World war, former Governor Willbur Brucker searched the cemeteries and finally through the family located and marked the grave on Memorial day of Ronald M. Osborne, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Osborne of 1325 Park Place, Plymouth.

The widow and little son of the fallen veteran who died last winter from ailments directly due to his military service, as well as his parents, were witnesses of the distinction that had come to one from those he had served his country with.

The former Governor, accompanied by Sharon Cover and Harry Chevalier of Detroit, all members of the Rainbow division came to Plymouth thinking that their comrade had been buried in the cemetery at this place. When it was learned that his remains had been placed in Woodlawn cemetery near Detroit, ex-Governor Brucker and his associates went to that place where the presentation in behalf of the fallen Rainbow division veterans was made with this special bronze insignia.

Falls Off Train Body Cut in Two

Charles McKenna, a 16-year-old Northville high school boy, was found dead last Friday morning along the Pere Marquette railroad tracks near the Nine mile highway crossing in Novi township.

Young McKenna had been in the habit of going down to the railroad yards and jumping on freight trains when he went to his home, located about two miles out from Northville. Officers believe that in trying to get off the train on the night he was found, he fell between the cars and his body was cut in two by the train. The funeral was held Saturday, burial taking place in Metamora. The mother is employed at the Maybury Sanatorium. A sister and another brother also survive.

Local Travelers Just Escape Western Flood

Mrs. Peter A. Miller of East Ann Arbor Trail, her son, Peter R. and wife of Detroit, and two daughters, Mrs. Arthur Watters of Detroit and Mrs. George Treis of Detroit, returned into Michigan on Sunday morning, June 7, after a week-long trip through the Far West. The tour covered 8400 miles through 17 states. A week was spent visiting Mrs. Miller's daughter, Mrs. Harold Cook, at Riverside, California. The party crossed into Mexico at two points, Ciudad Juarez and Agua Caliente. Three national parks were included in the trip, the Grand Canyon in Arizona, Sequoia in California, and Yellowstone in Wyoming.

The return trip was made just as the flood waters were beginning to sweep away bridges and engulf cities in Nebraska. Several detours were necessary and two Nebraska towns already had water to a depth of 18 inches running through their streets as the Miller party passed through.

Hail Storm Does Little Damage

Rain, rain and more rain! Coupled with the heavy rainfall of the present week farmers and fruit growers just didn't like the hail storm that came along with it on Tuesday.

Farmers say now that they have had enough rain and they are asking the weather man for some good, warm growing weather for a time.

Not in years has the hay crop looked so good as at present and farmers are expecting a record crop.

The hail storm as far as can be found, did little if no damage. It continued only for a brief time.

Eight little friends of Emmy Lou Hough, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cass Hough, were invited to join her in celebrating her sixth birthday Sunday. The little tots played in the morning then were luncheon guests of Emmy Lou. The guests included Joyce Osborn, Shirley and Athalie Miller, Jack Olaver, Donna Mayhew and Sally Borr and Cass Hough, Jr.

W. C. T. U.

From the Union Signal—Thirty-nine men convicted of having used their relief payments to buy liquor and get intoxicated were recently sharply criticized by Municipal Judge J. L. Call of Los Angeles. The Judge sentenced all of the men to jail, twenty-three of them to serve a sentence of 180 days each and the rest varying periods from 15 to 60 days. He added to the sentence the expressed hope that the jailers would be able to find "some real hard work" for them to do.

Felician Sisters Are Ready For Gala Day

Sunday is the date of the first gala day at the new home of the Felician Sisters, corner of Schoolcraft and Newburg road. Many people from Plymouth are expecting to be present for the event, which starts at 10 o'clock in the morning and will continue until way late in the evening, besides the big dinner that is being planned, there is going to be auction sales, booths, dances and lots and lots of other interesting features. Everyone is welcome.

Rotarians Hear Of The Far East

For over three hours members of the Plymouth Rotary club, their wives and guests, at a meeting of nearly 90 last Friday evening listened to one of the most interesting illustrated travails. The speaker was Dr. Inge of Detroit, former police commissioner of that city and during recent years a world traveler.

This special Rotary occasion was the result of the reward offered by Chairman Charles H. Bennett to the twenty persons selling the highest number of seals in the recent crippled children's drive in this city. The twenty winners were Mr. Bennett's personal guests at the meeting and for the occasion he secured Dr. Inge, an old friend and who happened to be in town for the last fall with Mr. and Mrs. Bennett while they were on a visit to the Orient.

Dr. Inge has been remarkably successful in securing some excellent motion picture views of people and places he has visited. His Friday night talk was devoted entirely to the Orient and those present for the first time gained a knowledge of conditions in that country they had never before possessed.

Not only were the pictures Dr. Inge displayed exceptionally good, but they are entirely different than most views displayed of travel talks. Coupled with his excellent views, the former Detroit police official has a way of explaining the public interest in most entertaining. The meeting of the club was one of the most outstanding the club has ever had.

Cavalry Troop Thanks Plymouth

Commander Melvin Gutherie of the Plymouth American Legion post has received from E. P. O'Connor, captain of the 106th Cavalry of Detroit, a letter of appreciation for the fine reception and treatment given the members of the cavalry that came to Plymouth to take part in the Memorial day parade.

Captain O'Connor declared in his letter that every man in the troop was more than delighted with the visit to Plymouth and they have all expressed a desire to return here at some future time.

The Memorial day parade was one of the best and largest ever held in Plymouth.

Last Friday, Mrs. A. E. Patterson received word of the sudden death of her brother, G. C. Bruner of Ruthven, Ontario. His funeral was held there Monday. Dr. and Mrs. Patterson, her sister and niece, Mrs. Eva Sutherland and Betty Sutherland of Chicago, Mrs. P. D. Schrader and Miss Evelyn Schrader of Plymouth also Dr. P. C. Bruner of Calgary, Canada, another brother who flew to Detroit, attended the funeral.

All condiments except a little salt are habit-forming poisons.

Ask Paving Tax Refund For Work On Mill Street

Petitioners Ask City At Large To Pay For Improvement

A petition signed for thirty-nine tax payers on Mill street, between Main street and Starkweather avenue, was filed with the City Commission last Monday night by Attorney John Crandall asking that the tax payers at large receive then an alleged excess assessment for the paving of Mill street. Rumors concerning such a request have been heard for the past several months, but official attention to the problem has been lacking until the petition was filed last Monday night.

A few weeks ago a meeting of invited tax payers was held at a local church, where the question of special assessment refunds was discussed. Since that time many requests have been made to city officials for information on the matter.

In the case of the Mill street paving, a petition signed by practically all of those property owners who are now seeking a refund was filed with the village commission in 1928. This petition asked for a concrete pavement forty feet wide on the street. Seven years after the work was completed and after 55 per cent of the assessments had been paid, a request now comes in asking that all the tax payers be made to contribute to the refund of this improvement. The aggregate amount of the refunds as requested by the petition for this street is approximately $14,000.00, which if paid out of general funds of the city would require an increase in the tax rate of almost $3.00 per thousand of valuation. If similar requests were filed on other streets which were paved in 1928, an increase in tax rate many times greater than the above would be necessary state city officials. Not only the person owning property on these streets would pay this additional amount, but all other property owners in the city would have to contribute.

If these claims should be taken into court, the city will be called upon to spend a considerable sum in litigation as will also the persons filing the claim. The petitioners will also be called upon to bear a portion of this cost as well as the cost of the legal claims which might be allowed, as when claims are allowed against the city, the funds are available only from taxation, it is explained.

The bonds issued for the Mill street pavement have been repaid and are now available for a refund of 59 per cent. The balance will have to be paid as they mature, regardless of the claims for refunds.

The special assessment for the Mill street paving has only four more years to run, the final payment being due in 1938. In fact all paving assessments will be completed in 1938, only three years hence. Because one person whose name appeared on the claim for the refund asked to have his claim withdrawn, the commission is asked to consider the merits of a petition not executed and verified by the claimant personally.

The feeling has been expressed by some residents on Mill street that if Wayne County could be induced to take over the extent portion of Mill street that the road commission would finance the balance of the special assessment. According to Leroy C. Smith, Engineer-Manager of the Wayne County Road Commission, this would not be considered. He stated that considerable pressure had been brought to bear on the Road Commission to take over the unpaid balance of special assessments on Livernois Avenue in Detroit, after that street had been paved by a highway, but the Road Commission held firmly to their policy.

"This alone would be costly to the future of this city as large. To date the city has repaid $238,200.00 of a total special assessment debt of $302,200.00, or 77.4 percent. Of this total $191,000.00 was used for pavement construction, $122,000.00 of which, or 64 per cent has been repaid."

GLORIFYING LATIMER

Some weeks ago The Plymouth Mail expressed the opinion that a grave injustice had been done the state of Michigan and its law enforcing agencies when mother-killing Latimer was pardoned from prison. There is so much merit in an editorial written by Vernon J. Brown and published in The Ingham County News on the same subject that The Mail is publishing it in full, as follows:

It is to be hoped that this editorial may be written without extreme prejudice and without any degree of rancor. But there are certain phases of the recent pardon of Robert Irving Latimer which it seems should be pointed out. Latimer was convicted of the heinous crime of killing his own mother. He had served 46 years of a life term which the courts of this state imposed under the laws which then existed and which still are on the statute books.

The commissioner of paroles in his recommendation for release, referred to Latimer as a "political prisoner." The governor in handing the parole to Latimer stated, "You have certainly paid the full penalty that is required by the law. You have paid more than such a penalty. A pardon for you is not a special favor but simple justice."

It is not the purpose of this discussion to argue for more severe or more lenient terms for murderers nor to discuss the matter of capital punishment. That is for another time and another place. What is discussed here are statements made by the governor and his appointee, the commissioner of paroles and pardons, upon whose advice the governor naturally relies.

Convict Latimer was sentenced to imprisonment at hard labor for the term of his natural life. The commissioner says Latimer has been a "political prisoner." The governor says he has "paid the full penalty."

Latimer was convicted after a long court trial in which eminent counsel defended the young man accused of matricide. Of course, the testimony was largely of circumstantial character. Seldom are there eye witnesses to any murder. The fact that Latimer has never confessed his own guilt means nothing at all. The fact that an innocent prison guard was killed by Latimer in an attempted escape from prison, perhaps should not be used against him, nevertheless men have ended their days in prison and have died on the gallows for similar crimes.

But what was to be discussed here are the official statements, first of the governor's agent and second that of the governor.

Now as to the political side of the question. Long years ago Convict Latimer began to lay the foundation of a "political" pardon. He made the acquaintance of one Murl DeFoe, prominent in state political circles. That was back in the days of Governor Chase S. Osborn. Governor Osborn said "no" but that did not deter the astute inmate of Jackson prison. With full consent of the warden from that day to the day of his release, Convict Number 4578 kept up a continual campaign for release. He became the show inmate of the prison. He was given the job of salvaging old materials and thus was permitted to occupy an office in the old prison. In front of this office there was a plot of ground and Latimer was given space for a garden which with the assistance of warden was developed to a remarkable degree. In this garden he met hundreds of men and women prominent in public life and thus his mailing list grew. Meanwhile wise investments of his legacy grew to substantial sums, thus giving the prison inmate plenty of funds to carry on a letter writing campaign which widened as his acquaintance grew. Latimer was suave, affable, discreet but insistent.

Governors came and governors went and with the incoming of each his pleas were renewed. Ferris, Sleeper, Groesbeck, Green, Brucker, and Comstock turned deaf ears, expressing their sympathy with the patriarch of Michigan prisons and their interest in his scholarship, his business acumen, his acquired culture, and his fine philosophy—but all denied him clemency because he stood convicted of killing his mother.

He was never a political prisoner. On the contrary he finally won his pardon because he carried on a political campaign which extended from Osborn to Fitzgerald—a period of more than a quarter of a century.

As for the "full penalty" that is a matter of opinion. Left behind at Jackson prison when Mr. Latimer completes his task of writing his thanks to the hundreds of prominent people who helped him to win his "political" pardon, will remain behind prison walls poor old Francis Shivers who bears 4002 and who has been there since 1886, three years longer than Latimer. Shivers was convicted of killing a brother-in-law in a quarrel. The murder of Latimer's mother was deliberately planned. Shivers was accused of a murder growing out of a fight in which the convict has always maintained he struck in self defense. Shivers is not as agreeable as Latimer. Prison authorities say he has had few visitors in the 49 years he has been confined and has cultivated no friends.

Is Shivers a "political prisoner?" If 46 years is a "full penalty" for killing one's mother to secure her money what is a "full penalty" for killing one's brother-in-law in self defense?

SERVICE CLUBS

The Kiwanis, Lions, Rotary and similar organizations exert a powerful influence in erecting those standards of citizenship which guarantee to every man the opportunity to develop his God given talents in accordance with his ability and resourcefulness. Their creeds are simple and constructive, containing no platitudinous generalities, but embodying the plain objective of serving, building and spreading the gospel of the underlying principles of American independence—the pursuit of happiness. The materials with which they build are not limited to any particular line of endeavor, but are as varied as circumstance, place and time suggest opportunities for concrete and constructive effort for the common good.

A great cardinal principle of these clubs, in maintaining their service to humanity, is a belief in the fundamental fact that behind every finished product there must be the human heart, the human mind and the human hand, and that only in so far as these human agencies are trained and developed, given breadth of vision and courage, can any worth while building be accomplished. Their record of achievement is open for all the world to see, and it is abounding in the high purpose of up-building human character, relief of suffering humanity and a constructive attitude toward every worthy problem local, state and national. At the recent Florida District, Lions International convention in Miami a well merited tribute was paid to these service clubs for the beneficent work they have accomplished by Fred H. Davis, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Florida, who said: "Service clubs, such as the Lions, Kiwanis, and Rotary have prospered and grown great in America, because they have evidenced the scope of human relationships, fostered good will. We've left us no opportunity for the spread of hatred in this country and I feel the chief responsibility for this happy condition may be laid to the service clubs of the nation." —Topic, Mount Dora, Fla.

The NRA and After

By Walter Lippmann

In the annals of the Roosevelt Administration the month of July, 1933, will long be remembered as the time when it lost its bearings and took a course that almost wrecked it. It was in that month of July that the President sent the message to the London Conference in which he not only rejected stabilization of currencies at that moment and on the terms arranged—which was probably a sound decision—but insulted the conference and caused the world to believe that he was not interested in stabilization at any time and on any terms. It was in that same month of July that he started the proceedings to dismiss Commissioner Humphreys, a high-handed proceeding which the Supreme Court dealt with on Monday. And it was in the month of July, 1933, that the Blue Eagle was hatched and whole mischief of NRA inaugurated.

What midsummer madness possessed the New Dealers in July, 1933, will never be completely understood. But madness it was and ever since they have been paying the price for it. The NRA was their supreme folly. As they decided to administer the law in July, 1933, they violated the essential principles of the American constitutional system; they imposed upon industry an economic policy which virtually every economist in the world has denounced as a brake upon recovery—a policy which ran counter to the neutralized in greater or lesser degree their agriculture and their public works program, and their monetary policy. Finally, as politicians, they made the almost irreparable mistake of identifying an extremely dubious experiment in one field with the whole national recovery effort.

The legal monstrosity has been dealt with authoritatively by the Supreme Court. The economic fallacies of NRA have been dealt with conclusively by such independent enquirers as the Brookings Institute and the National Bureau of Economic Research. The political stupidity of it may be noted here. The agency set up to administer these codes was allowed to call itself by the grandiose and conceited and untruthful name of the National Recovery Administration. By the time General Johnson had occupied the front pages for a few months the people at large had it impressed on their minds that NRA was the whole recovery program and that the Blue Eagle was its insignia. The general stupidity has been destroyed. The Administration as a whole and the New Deal as a whole have suffered a terrific blow to their popular prestige.

It is not very chivalrous. I admit, to rejoice in the destruction of an effort which was sincere and well intended. But the truth is that if the NRA of July, 1933, had worked, it would have presented a very serious menace to free institutions. So much centralized and yet undefined power is utterly inconsistent with constitutional government. The situation was saved by the fact that the prohibition, NRA broke down administratively before it was legally abolished. The only reason that NRA has not been as dangerous as Mr. Hoover and others have recently thought, is that it collapsed through its own inner contradictions and its irreconcilability with the American economy. But to have the ending of it settled so cleanly, so decisively, and by such a considered judgment as that handed down Monday is a great moral advantage. We have in the past allowed unworkable laws to be killed by nullification without burying the corpse. It is a bad method of governing. It is far better to get rid of them by open proceedings, such as the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, or the unanimous verdict of the court in the NRA case.

What of the future? It has been said before that NRA went wrong through some frenzy of madness which came over the New Dealers in July, 1933. The original plan was that it was perverted administration of the act rather than the act itself which caused the obstacle. My own conviction, based on a newspaper man's reasonably intimate contact with the history of NRA in Congress and then under General Johnson's administration, is that what the NRA intended to do in May, 1933, and what it actually did in July, 1933, were two diametrically different things. The act of Congress was so loosely drawn that under it almost any policy might have been adopted.

The policy which was adopted was not the policy that informed observers were told to expect under the law. The original plan was to allow voluntary trade associations to combine for certain purposes to give them immunity from the anti-trust laws in return for an agreement to respect certain rights of labor and of the consumer. The theory was that industry would, in effect, buy the right to combine in return for a good labor and consumer policy. Industry was to obtain a privilege by accepting a social duty, and the method of enforcing the social duty was to withdraw the privilege. The government was to say to business men: "For two years you may get exemption from the anti-trust laws if you will have a good labor policy and will be fair to the consumer. If you violate the agreement, the exemption will be canceled." Except for a few very sick industries, a code was to represent a voluntary bargain.

Now it is interesting to note that the court refers to this plan with what is by implication a favorable view. In criticizing the codes as actually set up, the Chief Justice says of the plan adopted in July, 1933, "It does not seek merely to endow voluntary trade or industrial associations or groups with privileges and immunities. It involves the coercive exercises of the law-making power." This leads me to think that if the Administration had adhered to the original theory of the act, had endowed voluntary trade associations with privileges and immunities under the anti-trust laws in return for the acceptance of certain social duties, the whole experiment would have had a radically different reception in the Supreme Court. It was the July madness, when the New Dealers decided to impose codes on all industry, destroying the whole conception of a bargain, which wrecked the experiment.

If there is to be any salvage of the code system this would seem to be the line to take. Deal with the sick industries by specific laws for those industries. For the rest draw a statute permitting combinations, subject to clearly defined conditions, in which the privileges granted are balanced by social obligations assumed. Those who do not wish to assume the obligations should forego the privileges, and if nevertheless they combine, they should be confronted with a modernized administration of the anti-trust laws. Above all, proceed slowly. Approve no code until it has been publicly considered under a regular procedure. Force no one into a code. On the contrary, make the codes a high and desired privilege to be granted only after full examination to those who have earned the right by demonstrating that they do not intend to abuse the power of monopolistic combination.

Such a system would appear to be constitutional. For the right of a government to grant immunities in the public interest would hardly be challenged. It would not suit those who have a passion for settling all questions in a few months. But it might provide the beginning of a practical accommodation between the anti-trust laws of the past generation and the tendency to combination which is dominant throughout modern business.

The Supreme Court Decisions

By Mark Sullivan

The Supreme Court decisions have not only saved democracy for America; it may be they have saved it for the world. Had America gone on into the strange compound of Fascism and collectivism that the New Deal was, we would have confirmed and encouraged the nations in which new conceptions has already got a foothold, Italy, Russia, and Germany. But with America going back to democracy, it may be that those nations, too will ultimately turn back.

In the broadest terms, what has happened to America during some two years may be stated thus: A President took office who by accident of temperament and other fortuitous circumstances, happened to have, in his more intimate circle at the time, a group of men who had been infatuated and infected by the spectacle of the recent European innovation. They attempted a modification of the innovation in America.

What they attempted would have been, if successful, a revolution. To say this was their intention is not a charge, it is a simple statement of fact. It was so described in the early stages of the process, by the New Dealers themselves.

A revolution can be brought about in two ways. One is by force. This the New Dealers put from them.

With the use of force waived, the other way to bring about revolution is by guile, by indirection, by ruse. This the New Dealers, especially the lawyers among them, attempted by writing into statutes hidden meanings and powers which Congress did not recognize, by subtle phrases designed to "get around" the Constitution and by evasions before the courts. They attempted it by to use their own terminology, putting "reform before recovery." They tried to hold the country down in depression so that it would be willing to accept the innovations the New Dealers prescribed. They attempted it especially by the device of preventing test cases from arriving before the Supreme Court until such time as their new form of society should have acquired such momentum and created so many vested interests, that it would be difficult for the court to decide against the new conception. They hoped to forestall the Supreme Court by laying before it a thing done, a "fait accompli."

In part this tactic was prevented from succeeding by the loyalty of much of America to its tradition, its faith in democracy, which took expression in criticism of the new conception and resistance to it. The persons, mainly small business men who stood up for their rights have been in some degree martyrs in the salvation of democracy. In part the revolutionary tactic was frustrated by natural forces of business and industry, which began to recover in spite of the restrictions of the innovations. In part and mainly, the attempt at revolution is now defeated by the integrity and conscience and courage of the unanimous Supreme Court.

What has now eventuated may be stated roughly and very briefly and partially thus:

First, the United States is democracy dedicated to preserving maximum liberty for the individual.

Second, to preserve that concept, the government of the United States was made and remains one of balanced powers, in which the President cannot have dictatorial authority and in which Congress cannot surrender its power and responsibility, even with its own consent and by its own act.

Third, the United States is what its name implies, a union of forty-eight separate states, and for that reason, among others, cannot be made to conform to the European model of a centralized "totalitarian state" or authoritarian state.

Fourth, the government of the United States is based upon a written constitution.

If the New Dealers wish now to go on with their attempt, there is only one way. They should set in motion the mechanism for amending the Constitution and see if America is willing to adopt the innovations the New Dealers propose.

It is possible that had they started amendment of the Constitution when they first came into power, when the country was in a mood of panic, they might have succeeded.

While change of the Constitution is the direct way and the only way, it is not recommended. As a matter of fact the country would not now make the change into the kind of government the New Dealers planned. The better course for the New Dealers is to accept the fact that America is a democracy dedicated to individual liberty.

As she prepared to attend the funeral of her aunt, Mrs. Nannie Howard 60, was suddenly stricken and died in Coldwater.

Rambling Around With Michigan Editors

TAXPAYER'S DOLLAR

Judging from the number of investigations being made of the expenditures of state and national officials there is need for the development of an informed and intelligent citizenship.

The state law requires county clerks, city clerks and other official tax-spending bodies to publish a statement of all claims authorized and ordered paid. The purpose of the law is to acquaint interested citizens with the expenditures of the various units to advise them as to just how and for what the tax money is being spent.

It was one of the wisest laws ever enacted from the standpoint of safeguarding public funds and insuring them against waste, extravagance and misuse. When the controlling body knows it must account publicly for every cent it spends and that every citizen is to be given the opportunity of scrutinizing every item of expenditure, there is a natural tendency to be careful and cautious in the appropriation of funds.—Harry Myers in the Lapeer County Press.

KEEP PRICES DOWN

Rents are up 13 1/2 per cent, and clothing is 8 per cent higher than a year ago. Gasoline, a necessity to many people has increased another three-tenths of a cent per gallon, and the same story carries all the way down the lines. We are slowly drifting back to the same situation which was largely responsible for our present economic dilemma. Curtailment of consumer purchasing power can lead only to one thing—the curtailment of production and goods which in turn will lead to the curtailment of production and create additional unemployment. Prices must be kept down, not boosted.—William Klammer in the Dearborn Press.

WORLD RELIGIONS

Many people are surprised to learn that Christians are still a minority in relation to all other faiths of the world combined. Statisticians have estimated that if the world's population of two billion were classified according to religious faith there would be to each 100 persons; thirty-eight Christians, nineteen Confucianists and Taoists, twelve Hindus, eleven Mohammedans, ten Animists, eight Buddhists, one Shintoist and one Jew. Naturally these figures are not quantitatively accurate since a good deal of guesswork is involved because reliable census statistics for many nations of the world are not available. Among the Christians of the world, about 50 per cent are Roman Catholics, 20 per cent Orthodox Catholics and 30 per cent Protestants.—Dick Cook in The Hastings Banner.

ALL JOB SEEKERS

Everyone these days wants to get under the shelter of the public pay roll irrespective of what the return is. The upper peninsula needs a deputy superintendent of public instruction about as much as a pig needs tails. There is no necessity for the job, no work to keep a man busy and we hope that Mr. Keyworth will not be led into any of these extravagant diversions just because someone wants to get on the public payroll. What Michigan needs right now is less job holders; not more.—Thomas Conlin in The Crystal Falls Diamond Drill.

THE RIGHT INVESTMENT

The man who by kindly deeds draws dividends in satisfaction has no worry about his investments.—James Haskins in The Howard City Record.

THE WASHINGTON EXAMPLE

A western judge has refused to void the will of a man upon the ground that he was a "spendthrift." He probably reads the news from Washington and does not want to be accused of treason, or some greater crime, by an innuendo opinion of our national administration leaders.—Milton Carmichael in The Detroit Courier.

MONKEYS

The doctor that's looking for monkey glands should not fail to take a glimpse of Michigan's legislature when in session at Lansing.—J. E. McMillen in The Linden Leader.

The Story of the Bible Told in Pictures

Moses Talks With God on Mount Sinai.—At the beginning of their wanderings in the wilderness Moses was not only the leader of the Israelites but also their sole judge. But finding this burden too heavy, he appointed judges from among the people of Israel to judge the small matters, and he himself served as a final arbiter. Thus the Israelites were provided not only with a law—through the Ten Commandments and the comprehensive Mosaic code given to them shortly afterward—but with a judiciary as well. The Ten Commandments were given to the Israelites and the Mosaic covenant was ratified by God through Moses on Mount Sinai. The arrival of the children of Israel at Sinai and their preparations for receiving the Law are told in Exodus 19. "And the Lord came down upon Mount Sinai, on the top of the mountain; and the Lord called Moses up to the top of the mountain; and Moses went up."—Ex. 19: 20. This illustration is from Meran's story of the Bible in pictures, engraved in 1625.

Church and Sunday School

ST. PETER'S EV. LUTHERAN CHURCH

Edgar Hoenecke, Pastor
Every Sunday services at 10:30 a.m.

Next Sunday is Pentecost or Whitsunday. The congregation will celebrate the Lord's supper at 10:30, the children of this year's Catechumen Class partaking for the first time. The Outpouring of the Holy Spirit upon the hearts of the believers on Pentecost was not an event confined to the first disciples or to the city of Jews; wherever the Word of God is still taught in its Truth and Purity, the Holy Ghost accompanies that word with mighty power and the miracle of a newly-made life. This source of life and power, prevailing over death itself, is available to you who read this. Why do you hesitate, how long will you halt between two opinions? Come, hear, believe, and live!

We make no pretense of our preaching; you will find no cold enthusiasm or religious sentimentality. We preach the straight Gospel, Christ and Him Crucified! We believe that the church is founded to save souls, not to sell soup! We are not engaged in the current, abortive mania to make the world a better place to live in, but to direct weary wanderings hopes away from this earth's futility and instability to the eternity and bliss of the "new heaven and the new earth in which dwelleth righteousness." For the old-fashioned Bible Truth and its preservation for our growing generation, we invite you to come to our House of God next Sunday and every Sunday.

The regular meeting of the Church Council will be held Wednesday, June 13th, from 7:30 to 9:00 p.m.

The Ladies' Mission Society will meet Wednesday, June 19th.

The Men's Club will meet on the 14th, at 8 p.m.

Our congregation is warmly invited to attend the 26th anniversary celebration of the Michigan Lutheran Seminary at Saginaw on June 9th, a Sunday. Pastor John Bremer, president of the Lutheran Synod of Wisconsin and other states, will deliver the address. The hangings which our Mission Society donated to the institution will be in use for the first time on this occasion.

Science Churches throughout the world on Sunday, June 9

Among the Bible citations is this passage (Matt. 7:24,25): "Therefore whosoever heareth these sayings of mine, and doeth them, I will liken him unto a wise man, which built his house upon a rock: And the rain descended, and the floods came, and the winds blew, and beat upon that house; and it fell not: for it was founded upon a rock."

Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science text-book, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 289): "The testimony of the material senses is neither absolute nor divine. I therefore plant myself unreservedly on the teaching of Jesus, of his apostles, of the prophets, and on the testimony of the Science of Mind. Other foundations there are none."

CALVARY BAPTIST CHURCH

Richard W. Neale, Pastor
To those of this city without a church home and to those who may be visitors, we extend our invitation and welcome to attend any of our services.

Bible school at 11:15. We would like you to study with us.

Our Prayer and Praise service on Wednesday evening, at 7:30 is open to all. The Book of Ephesians, chapter three is the topic for discussion. As it is the business of the epistle to the Romans to explain the gospel, so is it the purpose of Ephesians to explain the mystery which was kept secret since the world began, but now is made manifest (Romans 16:25-26).

We were very happy to welcome Pastor and Mrs. Weiskopf, of Mendota, Illinois, at the Wednesday evening service last week.

This Friday evening, tonight, the young people will meet at Riverside Park for a time of Christian Fellowship and recreation. Come at 4 p.m. or as near that time as you can.

WHAT DOES IT COST TO COOK ON AN ELECTRIC RANGE?

FIND OUT Exactly BY MEANS OF THIS TRIAL PLAN!

Have you heard friends or neighbors talking about the advantages of an electric range, and wondered if you could afford one? In the question uppermost in your mind the subject of cooking cost? Have you deferred buying a range for this reason? Here is the answer to your problem!

You do not need to guess at the cost of cooking electrically. You do not need to take any one's word for it. You can find out definitely for yourself without buying a range or making a penny's investment. We will let you use a range in your own kitchen, and you are under no obligation whatever.

The plan briefly is this: We will install an electric range in your kitchen without initial charge, so that you may give it a thorough trial. During this trial period you simply pay for the service as registered by your meter, plus a monthly charge of $1 for the range. There is no other cost of any kind. If you decide to keep the range, your monthly payments will be applied toward the purchase price. If you decide that you do not want it, the range will be removed at our expense.

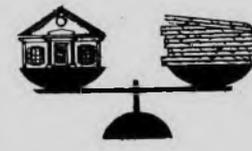

Since this trial plan was begun a short time ago, over four thousand of our customers have taken advantage of this offer. Send in your application for a trial range today!

A study of one thousand families using an electric range showed a cooking cost of less than 1 cent a meal per person.

Two Games Won By Speedy Team

The rampaging Plymouth Schrader-Haggerty kept intact their perfect home record last Thursday, Memorial Day, and Sunday when they turned back the Troy Laundry 9 to 8, and the Caravans 10 to 8, at Plymouth-Riverside Park.

Troy Laundry is a member of the Detroit Baseball Federation, and the Caravans a traveling team of Detroit. These two victories made it five successive triumphs at home for the Schrader-Haggerty. The only game the local club has lost so far this season was to Northville. In the Plymouth-Troy contest on Decoration Day, Plymouth collected a total of 11 hits off the offerings of Jerry DeSormier and Eddie Wittenberg, while the visitors were pounding the Plymouth pitchers of Anthony Kreeger and George Bowers for 13. In the ninth inning Bowers seemed to be a little unsteady and gave way to George Buers who held the Troy batters hitless. Six errors were committed by Troy and five by Plymouth.

On Sunday Harold Pankow was ready to do mound duty for Plymouth and went the route against the Caravans allowing 10 hits. The surprising Plymouth sluggers drove out 13 hits off Jim Mattson, who started and finished on the mound for the Detroiters.

The Caravans made four misplays and Plymouth three.

The General Motors of Pontiac will play both Saturday and Sunday afternoons at Plymouth-Riverside Park. To date the General Motors club is leading the Pontiac Recreation League, and is expected to give Plymouth the best opposition so far this season. Both games start at 3:30 p.m.

Phone Company Extends Hours

Minimum long distance telephone rates between most points, both within and outside of Michigan, were made effective one and a half hours earlier Saturday, June 1, when the effective hour for night station to station calls were advanced from 8:30 p.m. to 7 p.m. The change was made for the purpose of offering more time and more convenient hours for making calls at the night rate, according to R. E. Crowe, manager in this area for the Michigan Bell Telephone Company. The company applied to the Michigan Public Utilities Commission for and received from it authority to make the change in intrastate rates. The change in the night rate period on calls to points outside of Michigan is made effective under tariffs filed with the Federal Communications Commission by the American Telephone & Telegraph Company. Beginning June 1, also, night rates were offered from 5 p.m. to 5 a.m. on overseas calls to points in Europe, the rate for a three-minute call being $9 less than that for a day call. Under the proposed new tariffs station-to-station day rates for long distance calls, both intrastate and interstate, remain in effect from 5:30 a.m. to 7 p.m. as previously. Evening rates, which have been in effect from 7 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. and which were about 25 per cent lower than day rates on calls to points more than 50 miles distant, were eliminated, and night rates, which are about 40 per cent lower than day rates on calls to points more than 50 miles distant, are now in effect from 7 p.m. to 4:30 a.m.

Consternation gripped my soul. Fear pervaded the inner-most of my thoughts. I was aghast at the thought of singing. Tom Brock singing! For hours I had been haunted by the apprehensive foreboding of voice testing. It had all begun three days before this terrorizing episode when the music teacher had announced the eminent danger
of classifying voices in A, B, C, and D groups. This alone was enough to smite fear into my faint-hearted self. However, worse than this was the revelation that the test was to be conducted before the entire school.

My experience was over.
Tom Brock.

MOMENTS OF DISTRESS

At last the time of that greatly anticipated event, the Musicale,
had arrived. In the auditorium
there was a low hum of expectation as the growing audience slowly filled the seats, to which they were led by ushers gowned
in swishing skirts and glittering jewelry. As I watched the time pass by with an air of the most serene composure, it was with a great effort that I managed to attempted to shove from the back of my mind the annoying thoughts that were crowding in persistently. "Am I sure of my words?" "Oh, I wish we hadn't decided to sing this trip going on the stage?" "Such unpleasant—though ridiculous reminders as these forced their way through my whirling brain as I chafed
placidly with my fellow sufferers and smiled my way into the back of the now well-filled auditorium.

When the time came for us to assemble backstage, I arose reluctantly with rather unsteady knees and followed the others into the empty hall. Here we were thrown into a very upsetting panic; one of the girls could not be found. In a frenzy, we sought high and low, conscious of the relentless moments that were flying by. Returning in despair to the stage, we were swept into a moment of relief when we learned that the missing girl had been holding music for the pianist of the number preceding ours.

Hastily lining up behind the curtain, which fortunately concealed all motions of distraction from the eyes of the audience,
the signal to lead on was impatiently waited for. Then grimly setting my teeth, so that my heart would not jump out of my mouth with its suffocating thumps and thuds, I smile upon my lips by the promise that I could enjoy myself after struggling through the first song. I resigned myself to Fate and tripped daintily out before the curtain.

ARE WE EDUCATED?
How many times have you heard friends speak of the high intelligence standard of this school and pride themselves on this fact? Or how many times have you said it yourself? However much we pride ourselves on this, we should stop and take an inventory to see if there is basis for such thoughts. It is true, I admit, that the Plymouth students rank high in compulsory scholastic ability and deserve just praise. But with all this true, what do we do in extra work?
How do we demonstrate our ability?

On any windy Friday of early fall, the Plymouth football team
can be seen playing its opponents to the tune of band music and cheers of hundreds of high school fans. Little does it matter that this is not fodder for our intelligence. In the warm gymnasium during the winter, cheering happy throngs attempt to bring a victory to a losing team.
Little does it matter that our basketball team is a losing one.

Now, joined with me to the auditorium again. This time the halls are quiet; the auditorium is nearly empty; there are no enthusiastic listeners. Why? We are coming to listen to an intellectual project, to a speech contest in which the students are upholding the school's honor. We are in a place of learning, but our highly placed intellectual body is not present.
It does not matter that the school's representatives have brought honor, medals, plaques, and trophies, representing the
Our intelligent students care not for such affairs!
I am not condemning football
or sports because I enjoy them myself, but rather I ask you to take an appraisal of yourself. If our teams are good enough to win honor, they are good enough for your support. If they devote much time to such activities, you can devote a little to their support.

If we are educated and rank high in intelligence, then we are intelligent enough to listen to forensic activities.
Tom Brock.

COVER TONQUISH CREEK!

For many years Tonquish Creek
has been a menace to Plymouth.
Why is it left as it is, a dirty, sloopish creek, when so many other things have been done to beautify the city? It was here, ready to be destroyed or improved, long before our parks and homes were constructed and a new city hall built.

The creek is a veritable breeding place for mosquitoes and other annoying insects. Sewage has been allowed to drain into it, and oil from gas stations has been poured down its banks. It crosses under one of our main roads going out of Plymouth, and visitors passing through the city may see it. What must they think as they catch sight of this stain-ant, unsightly spot? What opinion of our civic pride must they have formed in their minds!

HI-Y SELECTS OFFICERS
FOR COMING YEAR

At the last regular meeting of Hi-Y club David Gates was elected president for the next school year. Lionel Coffin was elected vice president. These two boys will represent the Plymouth club at the Hi-Y summer camp during the summer vacation. The Hi-Y pays the registration fee for them, and they are expected to pay the rest of the expenses for the camp trip.
In case these two boys are unable to make the trip to camp, Jack Kinsey and Bill Petz were selected alternatives, and they will make the trip instead of the officers.

STARWEATHER
SCHOOL NOTES

The kindergarten children have made a circus project consisting of card board animals, wagons, and trucks. Last week they completed their Nursery Rhymes posters, which are very attractive. Miss Cavanaugh's first class is learning to count to ten.

Both classes in the second grade have completed their number pads and rapid number drills will be stressed for the remainder of the year. The number one class is enjoying the discarded Primary Books. They have been searching for new stories and when they find them they study them thoroughly to be able to tell these to the rest of the class. The number one group of the second grade is reading "Stories For Every Day." Masters David Stader of Caro and Junior Fessler of Wayne were visitors last week.

The fourth grade pupils have been learning to cut paper decisely. The third group is reading
"Children Own Readers." The class is ready to make a black board border of fruits and vegetables in connection with their health program.

GIRL RESERVES
ELECT OFFICERS

The members of the Senior Girl Reserves elected officers for next year at their meeting of Friday, May 31. The result of the election was as follows:
President, Gwendolyn Dunlop;
vice president, Elizabeth Whipple;
secretary, Jewell Starkweather;
treasurer, Barbara Hubbell.
Student council representative,
Florence Norton; Inter-club council representative, Fatsy McKinnon.

The club also voted to send the president and vice president elect to the officers training conference at Camp Cavell in June.
After the election of officers,
Elizabeth Whipple, Eleanor Straehle, Jean Jolliffe, and Lillian Blake gave a short play in which they violated many rules of etiquette. The members of the club then discussed the rules and another group of girls repeated the sketch correcting the errors of the first group.

CIVICS CLASSES MAKE
TAXATION SURVEY

The civics classes have recently made a survey of the Plymouth taxpayers in regard to why people dislike to pay taxes. It is estimated that between four and five hundred persons were questioned by the students. Among the most prevalent answers to the question are as follows:
1. The taxes are too high.
2. There are too many taxes.
3. There is too much tax waste.
4. The benefit derived are not equal to the amount of taxes.

Many Beautiful
New Homes Going
Up In Rosedale

rosdale market for its high quality product which now enjoys increasing favor with the Building public.
Rosedale Gardens as a site for this beautiful development was not an accident. It is the result of planning upon the part of the developers—held in the Sons. The site itself consists of a mile square section that was selected several years ago because of its natural beauty and adaptability for building. The land lies high, is dry and level with rich loam top, which accounts for its velvety lawns and luxuriant gardens.

The size of the development, of course, makes for protection. It is bounded by its own business frontage lots which serve as
"city walls" for this carefully restricted community.
Perhaps one of the leading factors making for rapid development of Rosedale Gardens is the presence of improvements of high character. They are there now.
No pioneering is necessary as is usually the case. A person may visit the usual conveniences found in the city without the high cost of installation.
Shelden Sons have been mindful also of the personal needs of the home owners. They have sponsored and assisted in many ways to minister to their needs
by the presence in such necessities as Schools, Churches, Stores and the usual services which are in universal and constant demand
in large projects such as Rosedale Gardens. Accessibility is of utmost importance in these days of intensive living and in this respect Rosedale Gardens is most fortunate. Accessibility is determined by avenues of approach and transportation. The Garden fronts on Plymouth Road which leads off Grand River Avenue, so that as soon as the motorist reaches Plymouth Road, he is rid of congested traffic and may proceed at a steady uninterrupted pace to his home.

Bus service seems to be about to replace the slower surface transportation and because of this there is a bus service already inaugurated which will expand to meet the growing demands of the community.
Then again Rosedale Gardens has another feature that has an special appeal in these times. It is a short distance beyond the present city limits and therefore enjoys the low tax rate which is so alluring to many who have home ownership in contemplation.
In speaking to many of the present residents of the Gardens, this one feature was perhaps the most intriguing of all arguments
for Rosedale Gardens.

Recently a great 900 acre Play Area has been announced which should add to the attractiveness of Rosedale Gardens. This is the great Middle Rouge Parkway System which, by the way, is the largest unit of the Wayne County Park System.

This Park System, which has been started and in certain phases has been completed, will utilize the area from Northville to the Rouge Park and will minister to the comfort and recreational demand of thousands of people.
This great Park System will pass quite near the Gardens. Near enough to be accessible and yet far enough removed so as not to be annoying. Shelden Sons, in conceiving Rosedale Gardens, had

QUARTET SINGS AT HONOR BANQUET

quartet sang before a large group of teachers, students, and parents last Friday evening, May 31,
at the annual Honor Banquet.
They selected a popular piece,
"The Night is Young," a Czech-Slovakian dance song, and "Allah's Holiday," by Frrnh. Last Tuesday evening these girls sang the same selections before members of the Kiwanis Club at the Hotel Mayflower.

GOLF MEETS END

The golf meets in which the Plymouth team participated ended
May 30, with a game with Howell. The team was not so successful this year, ending with a total percentage of .333. The Plymouth team did, however,
place second in the TVAA meet
and fourth in the Regionals.

ALL THIS FOOD . . . .
(INCLUDING THE 15 1/2-POUND TURKEY)
WAS COOKED IN "DUTCH OVEN SUSAN!"

It's hard to believe that all the food on the table really was cooked in that compact electric appliance, Dutch Oven Susan.
But it's true!
Dutch Oven Susan is the most complete cooking appliance of its kind on the market. You can put a complete meal for a family
of six—two vegetables, a roast, potatoes and gravy—in the cooker, and go out for the afternoon. When you come home, your dinner is waiting, perfectly cooked—piping hot and ready for the table. Yet Dutch Oven Susan is compact . . . it takes up so little space that it can be tucked away in a corner almost anywhere.
Dutch Oven Susan is easy to use.
You simply plug it into any convenience outlet, and it will do every cooking operation possible on a small stove. It will roast all cuts of meat to perfection; it will fry eggs, steaks, chops, etc.; it will bake cakes, pies, cookies, biscuits and muffins; and it will hold half-a-dozen pint jars when canning by the cold pack, hot water bath method. Yet it uses only about as much electricity
per-hour as an electric toaster.
Dutch Oven Susan is available in several styles and sizes—one to fit your needs exactly. The medium size model will roast a 10-pound ham, a 6-pound chicken, or a large leg of lamb. The large size will easily accommodate a 13 1/2-pound turkey. And there is "Small Sister" Susan, an electric casserole, with a two-quart capacity. See these modern cooking helps on display at all Detroit Edison offices, Department Stores, and Electrical Dealers.

Some Questions For The P. H. S. Alumni

This is graduating time at the high school. In less than three weeks the Alumni Association will be increased by 86 new members. How will the graduates of 1935 be welcomed into their new station in life? The following questions have been prepared with the object in view of securing sentiment on the matter. It is to be hoped that this year's president can answer them in the next issue of The Mail. First—Is there to be an Alumni banquet? If so, what is the date? What time in the evening will it start? Second—Who is going to extend the words of welcome? Third—Who can be selected to respond? Fourth—What sort of a menu can be secured and who will prepare it and serve it? Fifth—Are there to be any decorations? Sixth—Is anything going to be done about advertising. If so, what? Seventh—What will be the admission charge? Eighth—Who is going to handle the ticket sale? Ninth—What date is the deadline for making reservations? Tenth—Will there be musical numbers and if so who will present them? Eleventh—Is there going to be dancing after the banquet and what orchestra will be secured? Twelfth—Are any provisions being made for those who do not care to dance? Thirteenth—Do the present executives realize their responsibilities to the Alumni group and are they aware of the magnitude of the task in launching a reception for 86 people and making it pay? Signed, an ex-president of the Plymouth high school Alumni Association.

New Record By Pitcher Gilder Look at him! Ray Gilder, the no-hit, no-run star pitcher of Plymouth! As far as local baseball historians know, Ray Gilder is the only man to ever pitch a no-hit, no-run game in Plymouth. The big event happened the other night when the Wilson Hardware team met and defeated the speedy Daisy team in the Playground series of contests that are now taking place. He won the game 4 to 0. The week previous Gilder struck out 23 batters in the Hi-Speed-Wilson game breaking his previous strikeout record by five strikeouts. Flattery is sweet food for those who can swallow it. Better inquire twice than go wrong once.

PROTECT YOUR LIFE AND THE LIVES OF OTHERS!

THERE are three questions you should ask yourself about the tires you buy:

- 1—"Will the non-skid tread give me the greatest traction and protection against skidding?"
2—"Are they built to give me the greatest blowout protection?"
3—"Without sacrificing these two important safety features will they give me longer mileage, thus making them the most economical tires I can buy?"

soaks every cord and insulates every strand with pure liquid rubber. This is an additional process known as Gum-Dipping, by which every 100 pounds of cotton cords absorb eight pounds of rubber. This extra process costs more and is not used in any other make of tire.

ANSWER No. 1—Harvey S. Firestone early realized the value of tire traction and safety and was the first to design an All Rubber Non-Skid Tire. Through the years Firestone has led the way in the design and development of tires with most effective non-skid treads.

Leading race drivers investigate the inbuilt qualities of the tires they use, because their very lives depend upon their tires, and they always select Firestone Tires for their daring speed runs. In fact, Firestone Tires have been on the winning cars in the gruelling Indianapolis 500-mile race for fifteen consecutive years, and they were on the 5,000 pound car that Ab Jenkins drove 3,000 miles in 23 1/2 hours on the hot salt beds at Lake Bonneville, Utah, at an average speed of 127.2 miles per hour, without tire trouble of any kind. These amazing performance records are proof of the greatest blowout protection ever known.

Firestone does not depend solely on traction and non-skid tests made by its own engineers—it employs a leading University to make impartial tests for non-skid efficiency of its tires, and their most recent report shows that Firestone High Speed Tires stop the car 15% quicker than the best of all popular makes of tires.

ANSWER No. 3—Thousands of car owners reporting mileage records of 40,000 to 75,000 miles, is proof of the long mileage and greater economy by equipping with Firestone High Speed Tires. Let these unequalled performance records be your buying guide.

ANSWER No. 2—Blowout protection must be built into a tire. Friction and heat within the tire is the greatest cause of blowouts. Firestone protects its tires from friction and heat by a patented process which

Plymouth Park In First Place

Decorated Day Plymouth Park defeated Hazel Park and won undisputed first place in the Michigan Southern League with three victories and no defeats.

Clarence Levandowski was the hitting star of this game with a home run and two singles and three walks for a perfect day.

Clarence Levandowski who has played the last two games with the local nine left right after the game to join Duluth baseball club. Clarence who has been in the St. Louis Cardinal farm system has certainly traveled since leaving home this spring. After leaving Hot Springs he went to Huntington West Virginia and from there he was shipped to Lebanon, Penn. He played three games there and the club went broke. Two days later he was ordered to report to Bloomington, Indiana where he stayed for only a few games and then was sent to St. Louis. While in St. Louis he practiced along with the Cardinals and saw all the home games. Clarence refused to report to a Class E club in Arkansas because he had better offers. Begging for a release because they couldn't place him at the time and said release being granted Clarence returned home last Sunday, May 26th. And now he is gone again.

Sunday, June 2, the local Plymouth Park Baseball club lost its first game of the season and also first place to East Detroit Nomads by the tune of 16 to 7.

Sunday, June 9th will find Plymouth Park and Gray A.C. at Riverside, battling for third place in the league standing. Time of game is 3:30.

A Worthy Tribute

In memory of my beloved cousin, Miss Lucy Palmer, who died May 23rd, 1935.

It is difficult to write the memories of a person so many sided as was Miss Palmer, for every side that was presented seemed to excel all the others. With the weaknesses of the body which she inherited, came also the diverse intellectual and spiritual powers with which she was so liberally endowed.

Orphaned at an early age, she was treasured in the family of Aunt Thankful Hartsough in Plymouth, taught the right and wrong of things, and was encouraged in her desire for still higher knowledge.

When about sixteen years of age she entered the Normal school at Ypsilanti, finding a home in the family of a Methodist minister.

Ambitious to excel she overworked and had to give it up for a time. Regaining her strength in Bloomfield Hills, Michigan, and graduated with honors. She had the motherly instinct and for several years she cared for a motherless boy, grown man with family quite lately writing words of appreciation for the loving care she gave him in childhood. She was Matron for some years of the Methodist Deaconesses Home in Detroit. A capable administratrix, Lucy was a very earnest Christian and a happy one. Of a sympathetic nature she was always ready to help others in time of stress and storm. Equally ready to join in a frolic or bit of fun that would cheer downhearted people. Always ready with a comforting word.

As a Bible student she excelled in her classes in Sunday school either old or young can testify, for they were studied with a prayer in her lips that the words she spoke might reach their hearts. If her aspirations were not all realized here upon earth, we believe they will be as the Master calls "Come up higher."

Her picture appeared in a recent Sunday paper. In visiting her relatives in this vicinity she has made many friends who will be pleased that she has won this fine honor.

We quote an excerpt from a letter received recently from Miss Mary Power that perhaps will give a more vivid or at least a different picture than many of us have had about the Cape of Good Hope.

"We had mostly bad weather in Cape Town. The first one of our five days there we spent outside the breakwater riding at anchor. Three of them riding in a 70 mile gale—like the children of Israel looking at the Promised Land. Our next day was the best one and I had the good luck to have the best program that day—a hundred mile (return) drive to the end of Cape Peninsula—Cape of Good Hope—the most spectacular marine drive I have ever taken. Miles and miles of sheer drop to the sea on one side and sheer mountain wall on the other. To my thinking it far surpasses the famous Corniche Drive in France and the equally famous Amalfi drive along the Bay of Naples. The Cape of Good Hope is most disappointing insignificant. It does not seem worth giving a name to. It isn't even the end of the Cape, let alone not being the farthest south point of Africa; nevertheless, it fills a large place in history."

We better give up the things we can't keep for the things we can't lose.

Little Known Facts About Banking

Figures that Prove Banking Efficiency

Not many people realize how economically banks serve them.

According to figures recently published by the Post Office Department, it costs the Government an average of 14 cents for every money order issued.

Banks are nearly three times as efficient. The average cost to them for a check drawn and paid is only 5 cents.

Nothing could show more convincingly how banks serve their depositors with a minimum of waste and expense.
