

Approve Grade Crossing On East Ann Arbor Road

Project Will Give Work To 180 Men and Cost About $128,000

State Highway Commissioner Murray D. Van Wagener has advised the Plymouth Mail that his department as well as the federal government has definitely approved the construction of a grade separation on the Ann Arbor road southeast of Plymouth...

The grade separation will be about a half mile east of South Main street intersection with the Ann Arbor cut-off and when completed will remove a dangerous traffic hazard.

Commissioner Van Wagener has estimated that after the work starts on the Ann Arbor cut-off separation that it will provide employment for about 180 men during the approaching fall.

No information has been available as to whether one or both of the road projects will be added to the work to be done under the relief program that has been approved by President Roosevelt.

A total of 28 highway projects costing $4,361,800 in the metropolitan district of Wayne, Macomb, Monroe, Oakland, and Washtenaw counties were announced today by Murray D. Van Wagener, state highway commissioner.

Road projects in the five counties will amount to $962,000. Fourteen such projects will provide improvements on 52.2 miles of highway.

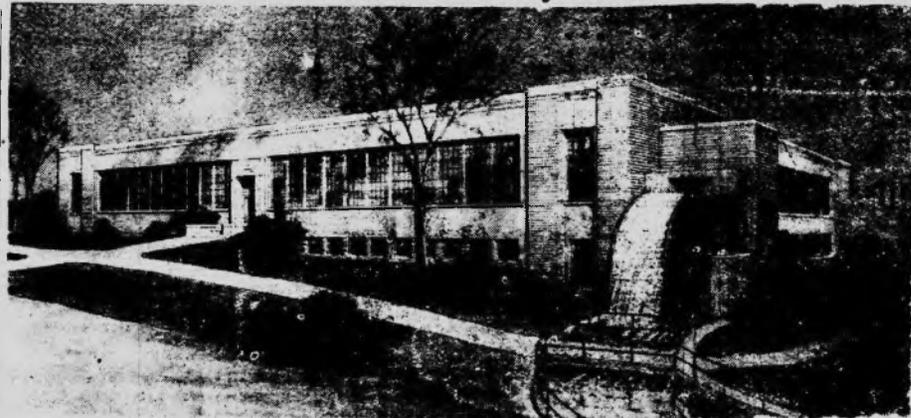

Commissioner Van Wagener estimates that the average number of persons to be directly employed on these projects daily will be 3,260.

WHAT ARE YOUR WISHES?

Readers of The Plymouth Mail during the past five months have each week had the opportunity to read political reviews written by Walter Lippman and Mark Sullivan, two of America's foremost political authorities and writers. These articles are purchased from one of the great New York newspapers and as our contract for their use is about to expire we would like to know before re-newing it if our readers have been sufficiently interested in the Lippman-Sullivan articles to continue their use during the remainder of the year. Probably no two men in America have a greater knowledge of all that is going on in Washington than Walter Lippman and Mark Sullivan. They are not partisan and they give facts just as they are. Probably nothing had more to do with the downfall of the Hoover administration than the articles written by Walter Lippman. Neither Sullivan or Lippman are "for" or "against" any administration. They write the facts about government as they are, whether favorable or unfavorable. The Plymouth Mail purchased this series of articles on a trial basis. We are now asking our readers for their judgement. If you would like to have them continued, just drop The Mail a postcard or in some way let us know whether you are interested in the continued publication of the series. We would appreciate it, if you would do so within the next week.

NORTHVILLE'S GOOD FORTUNE

There appears in this issue of The Plymouth Mail a sketch of the new Ford factory that has just been started in the village of Northville. The plant, upon completion, will take the place of the present Ford factory in that community. Its increased size will enable the employment of many hundreds of more men. The old factory running at capacity on three shifts can utilize only between three and four hundred men and then they do not work conveniently. The new plant will do away with all this congestion and will make possible a much larger payroll for the village. This fact will be of material value to Northville as well as Plymouth, as we too expect to benefit by what Mr. Ford is doing in Northville.

But in addition to the increased employment the factory will provide, the new plant, is going to be a structure worth going across the state to see.

Who but Mr. Ford would have seen the possibilities of a big over-head water wheel at the east end of the plant to provide power for the machinery? Situated as it will be so that everyone traveling the Plymouth-Northville road cannot help but see it, the power plant will in itself be an object of beauty and attraction. The north branch of the Rouge river will be utilized for the power.

As one enters the village from the south, first there is the parkway created between the Seven mile road and East Main street as the direct result of the activities of the Northville Rotary club. As one approaches nearer the Ford properties there is the "old oaken bucket" with its old fashioned wheel of stone and the old fashioned timbered covering, with a beautiful stream of cold spring water flowing from the side of the well, so that all who are thirsty, may drink some of the finest water there is in the world. This too is another creation of the Northville Rotary club, the Rotarians doing the actual construction.

Directly across the street to the west from the spring from which comes sparkling water night and day and winter and summer, lies a sunken garden, another suggestion of the Northville Rotary club that was carried out by the Wayne County road commission in its creation of little beauty spots here and there along Wayne county highways. The well is to the southeast of where the new Ford plant will be located. The sunken garden lies directly south of it, with the paved highway separating the two.

There is one man who saw the possibilities of adding to all of this natural and community-created beauty, and that man is Mr. Ford. When he was making his frequent trips to Northville weeks ago looking over the grounds that he owns in that community, no one except Mr. Ford knew what was in his mind. He said he was going to build a new factory and that it would employ many more men than the present one, but even those who were with him on these trips probably had not the slightest idea that in his mind there was being formed a picture of a beautiful factory building, with a newly created small lake at the back of it and with a great over-head waterwheel splashing in the stream that creates the power for so many of his small factories as it find its way down towards lake Erie.

PRESS FREEDOM

It is interesting to know that the only countries in Europe not living under a press censorship are Great Britain, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, the Netherlands and Switzerland. These are the only countries in Europe where the people have a right to be informed of what is going on in the world, and live under the same sort of freedom that we enjoy in this country. However there are some greedy, grasping and CROOKED politicians who would have America placed under the same sort of censorship that keeps the people of Italy, Russia and Germany in ignorance of what is going on not only throughout the world but in their own countries.

Rambling Around With Michigan Editors

REASON FOR BARRAGE

Michigan farmers who signed up not to grow wheat are to receive 35c a bushel for wheat they have not raised in this year of 1935. What a farce comedy. Is it any wonder that Huey Long and others open up their mud batteries against Roosevelt and those in collusion with him?—J. E. McMullen in The Linden Leader.

THE NEW DEAL HUMPTY DUMPTY IS NOT FUNNY

There are those who get a deal of satisfaction out of the upsets that the New Deal has experienced in the past two months. There is nothing funny about it. At least, it is serious if not tragic. While we are wholly in accord with the supreme court decisions and do not believe that the law or the land can be ignored by either the President or Congress, we still remember that billions of debts have been contracted and the money spent to set up this new order. All the king's horses and men cannot wipe out the big debt contracted. The money will have to be paid back. There is nothing funny about that. — Schuyler Marshall, Clinton County Republican-News.

INDIFFERENCE

The greatest enemy of our democratic institutions is no longer crooked politics and corruption but indifference. This new peril, a product of our highly supervised era which includes most all of our activities from play to politics, is a more deadly public enemy than the gunman because it is responsible for the increasing civil, religious, fraternal and political inertia from which all this type agencies are suffering at the present time. The small town, strange to say, is a greater victim proportionately than the larger cities where town meeting habits are not practicable and have more or less gone out of vogue entirely.—Muri DeFoe in The Charlotte Republican-Tribune.

SOCIAL SECURITY

A large newspaper, referring to the Social Security Bill now pending before the United States Senate, said, editorially: "The United States is 50 years behind some European countries in establishing a social-security system. This reform should be passed quickly." Which reminds us of the dialogue when the mother was trying to get her small daughter to eat spinach. "There are thousands of little girls who would like to have your spinach," said the mother. "Name just one," replied the daughter, ending the dialogue. So, we request: Name just one European country that has social security that works better than the American system.—William Cansfield in the Livingston County Republican-Press.

WHY PAY MOST OF THE TAXES

Who pays most of the taxes? Editorial apologists for Big Business would have you believe that by far the greatest share of the tax burden is borne by the well-to-do or rich class already, and that hence any effort to "soak the rich," or as Senator Borah more truthfully put it, any attempt to get the rich to share the burden more fully, is doomed to failure. This is bunk. About seventy per cent of all taxes are paid, in the form of indirect taxes, sales taxes, gasoline taxes and other more or less well-concealed levies, by the working class, the small manufacturer, the storekeeper; in other words, by the average citizen. A little reflection will convince anyone that this is so. Federal income taxes, for instance, hit only a small part of the population. A sales tax hits everyone. A rich man eats only a little more, if any more food than a poor man, although that food may be of better quality. The same is true of clothes; as Henry Ford once remarked, no matter how rich a man is, he can wear only one suit at a time. The result is that the sales taxes, the gas tax, and dozens of other even more indirect levies, hit the small pocketbook with much more of an impact, proportionately, than is felt by the rich man's wallet.

If you are a corporation you can generally figure out some way to pass on to the consumer almost any tax that can be levied on your institution. But you, as a consumer—whom can you pass that tax on to? The answer to that one is simple—you can't pass it on, you have to dig down and pay it. Rich men with vision—men of the type of Senator James Couzens—realize that it is inevitable that men with more than the average share of the nation's wealth in their possession must expect to pay more than the average share of the cost of supporting the nation that has made their wealth possible and has protected them in their use of the power that such wealth brings. Senator Couzens, in an interview before his recent illness, gave expression to this same thought. If the Roosevelt administration can devise a plan for more equitably spreading the burden of supporting the government, so that the man who is strong, financially, can bear a share of the burden proportioned to his ability to pay, then the result will be applauded by all those able to discern the clear fact that today most of the tax burden is borne by those least able to bear it.

And no amount of sophistry by politicians and newspapers interested in protecting corporations and rich men who are amply able to protect themselves, at the expense of John Citizen, will avail to prevent the fulfillment of this plan.—George Welsh in The Grand Rapids Chronicle

These Verses May Clean Out Creek

Poetry has caused wars. It has brought peace to many people. It has inspired young men and women to success. Now maybe six short verses may clean up the foul smelling Toniqu creek. Jeanette Schwartz, residing at 8207 Lilley road, has taken pen in hand and written the following poem, entitled "The Little Creek". There's been running through our farm. And I know it's not much wider Than the length and width of your arm. When I was a very tiny girl, I used to love to go there. And I always spent such happy hours Which now seem to be so rare. We always had so very much fun When we played there, my brothers and I. That I very much dislike to think That those happy days have gone by. We'd sit on the banks and make mud pies. Oh, we'd wiggle our toes in the creek. But we used to love to make small dams. But it seems they would always leak. Right where our bridge goes over the stream There is a huge willow tree And when you sit there on a summer day The breezes are cool as can be. But now we don't play there any more For the water is dirty and gray And I can't help but think what it used to be. And what it is today.

The De-Ho-Co News Briefs and Gossip

Ben Hanley, who was so instrumental in the installation of the steam piping in the new boiler room, has left via the parable route. Best of luck and please do not return. Here another month has rolled around and had it not been that good old George prodded me on, I fear I should have put off writing this column for another week or so. You know weather and etc; sort of gets one, especially when you are normally lazy. However George is so dynamic and full of pep that he just makes you feel that way yourself. I often wonder if his executive position has anything to do with it. In any event he has been snooping around the various wards of the cell-block and unearthed a load of inside information. Walter Winchell is just an amateur compared to him. The latest news from the Hall-master's office is that one of the industrious young men is about to inherit that beautiful blue bathrobe which has caused so much comment in "F" ward. The same handsome fellow is often seen smoking a fine imported cigar and in general creating an air of dignity. I'll leave the rest to your imagination. The receiving room has just been fortunate in signing up new recruit who has a long time interest in the institution. Congratulations Bill Gordon, glad to have you with us. We have all heard many stories of the Irish, and we all know they have a reputation for being hard workers—well one curly headed young individual by the name of Sullivan has worked up from the job of pants presser to first assistant to the chief clerk of Mr. Hartling's staff. His former position has been filled by that sea faring gob Terrov Faulkner who says if an Irishman can do it so can a sailor. There are more ways than one to earn a dollar, but earn it you must, if you are to stay a member in good standing in the H.O.S.S. I believe that Captain Edward Denniston and Mr. A. B. Gillies are members in good standing in the Honorable Order of Shoe Shiners. The institution was honored by a recent visit paid by the Honorable Mayor of Detroit, Mr. Frank Couzens. The mayor was conducted on a tour of inspection of the various Departments by Mr. Denniston and Mr. A. B. Gillies. Mr. Couzens left displaying a broad smile which read all its well.

COTTAGE "D"

The Pacific Commissioner is fast breaking up this old gang of ours, but the long arm of the mighty law of order and peace doesn't forget to send us new guests to replace the old ones. Our holiday dinner was a grand success. Three tables were placed together in banquet style in the center of the room and beautifully decorated. The food was simple, but delicious, thanks to our good cooks, Rose B; Mildred J; Pauline W; and Lela E. We deeply regret that our invited guests were unable to be with us, but duty before pleasure you know. Opportunity knocked at the door of our beloved matron, Mrs. McCredie and she stepped right out on us. We are glad to see her promoted, but hate to lose one so dear. We wish her much success and loads of happiness in her new work. Mary our second cook has been promoted to the laundry as a check girl and we hope that she will like it. Susie T. will soon be homeward bound and we wish her lots of luck. In other words the administration is going to see to it that there are no pockets in the shroud that covers the rich. About the hardest thing for the average gentleman to do is to remain a gentleman. Not to fall out with the friend who disagrees with you—that's culture.

ANNUAL SCHOOL MEETING OF THE SALEM UNION SCHOOL

The Annual Meeting of the Salem Union School was held at the school house, July 8, 1935. Meeting called to order by Moderator Bauman. Minutes of last year's annual meeting read and accepted. Secretary's financial report read and accepted. Moved by Bert Ryder that Frank Hugg and Fred Bueers act as tellers. Motion Carried. Harmon F. Gale was nominated for trustee by Grant Currie, supported by F. W. Roberts. He received 16 votes and was declared elected for three years. Edward Bauman was nominated for trustee by F. W. Roberts, supported by Grant Currie. He received 16 votes and was declared elected for three years. Grant Currie was nominated for trustee by Bert Ryder, supported by F. W. Roberts. He received 15 votes and was declared elected for two years. A motion was made to change the number on the school board from six to five or three. A vote was taken and resulted in leaving the number six as usual. Motion to adjourn. Carried.

Understanding World Affairs

AMERICAN IDEALS IN THE OUTER WORLD

By Walter Lippmann

Events in several parts of the world have raised in acute form the question of what a nation like the United States is to do in defense of its ideals and intangible interests abroad. Looked at through American eyes, Russia, Germany and Mexico are engaged in religious persecution. Paralleled with these denials of religious freedom, there are the breaches of international treaties all of them promoted by the United States, some of them ratified and signed by the United States.

Though it cannot be shown that any important material interest is jeopardized, the feeling exists that somehow or other the United States ought to be able to exercise some moral authority in defense of elementary human rights and of the sanctity of treaties.

The simplest of these questions is that presented by the demand that the government give moral support to the Kellogg Pact by condemning Italian policy in Ethiopia. The action demanded would have to rest entirely on the Kellogg Pact since the United States is not a party to any of the treaties affecting Ethiopia and is not a member of the League of Nations. But on what ground can the United States government argue that Italy has violated the Kellogg Pact or is about to violate it? The pact provides no machinery whatever for any judicial determination as to whether the pact has been violated or not. An official denunciation of Italy would rest, therefore on no firmer basis than that American officials in Washington, after reading the newspapers and the reports of their diplomats abroad, had set themselves up as judges of Italian policy.

This may be unfortunate. But the misfortune is in the pact itself which is merely a pious resolution that each signer may interpret as he sees fit. It must not be confused with genuine treaties like the Washington treaties concerning navies and China or with the Covenant of the League. In the Far East the United States had ground on which to protest because it had made a bargain with Japan in which it made real concessions in return for real concessions. Under the Covenant, the members of the League have ground for action if under the procedure set up in the Covenant it is determined that the Covenant is violated. But the Kellogg Pact is a wholly different thing. Since each nation may interpret it for itself, it has no sanction except the conscience of each nation. There is nothing in the pact which entitles us to say that our official conscience is a better conscience than Italy's.

It is clear, I think, that the American government cannot appoint itself to be the judge of the Ethiopian dispute. If we had ratified the Covenant, the position would have been utterly different. We should then have accepted the rule that our own action, as well as the actions of others, may be judged by the members of the League and we would have the moral obligation to support the Covenant. But having deliberately rejected all this, Italy would properly resent a policy which amounted to saying that we were assuming the rights of a member of the League without any of the obligations.

In regard to the religious persecutions, there are, of course, ample precedents for official protests. During the Nineteenth Century many protests were made by the American government and by the British, possibly also by others, and on the whole they probably had a salutary effect. The civilized world was then not spiritually divided as it is today and the universal assumption was that civilization and the rights of man were synonymous. No highly educated people officially declared its disbelief in liberty and the outbreaks of persecution occurred on the frontiers of the western world. International opinion counted not only because there were common moral assumptions but because opinion was not imprisoned by government censorship and manufactured by propaganda.

Under the conditions prevailing today the only question involved in official protest is whether it does good or harm. The most seasoned observers think that in the present state of nationalist feeling, the chief effect of official protest of any kind from abroad is to undermine fatally the position of the liberal opposition in the persecuting countries. The very fact that they are liberal at all makes them suspect to the dominant mob, and when foreign governments support their opposition, they are not strengthened but weakened. The foreign governments can do nothing to back up the protests. But the foreign official protests are an easy pretext for denouncing the liberal opposition as unpatriotic and in alliance with the enemies of their country.

It may be said, of course, that in countries like Germany and Russia the liberal opposition has already been destroyed. This is rhetoric rather than truth. The opposition must exist potentially. If it did not, the governments in power would not break out so violently at frequent intervals. If the opposition were utterly crushed beyond hope of resurrection, it would not be necessary to resume the business of crushing it every few months.

Unofficial protest, if it is made with dignity and restraint, is a different thing. It is not likely to be effective immediately. The censorship is too impregnable for that. But it is important none the less, in order to prevent the moral outlook of the free nations from becoming insensitive to evil and confused about what is fundamentally right and wrong in human relations. It is only one of the latest achievements of civilized man and it is not inevitably established in their minds and hearts. A pleasant evening with an apologist for tyranny, a good hotel, clean streets, courteous and efficient military service can easily, as so many returning tourists testify, completely confuse the naive. To guard against the corruption of the ideals of free men, it is necessary to keep continually alive a sense of what tyranny means.

In the last analysis, however, the defense of civilized ideals today must depend not on protests, but on far-sighted policy. For those nations which are threatened with aggressive violence, the only defense is diplomatic combination backed by military force and a willingness when deeply challenged, to use it. It is the old-fashioned remedy, expensive, dangerous, and unsatisfactory, but there is no cheaper or easier one.

For the other nations, of which the United States is the most conspicuous, the only lasting and effective contribution they can make is to help lead the world back to prosperity. After all, the violence and intolerance in the world today are the unmistakable consequences of an interlocking and violent pressure on the afflicted peoples. In their ultimate desperation, men fighting for their existence revert to their most primitive instincts of survival. There is little hope of the revival of freedom in eastern and central Europe until the opportunity of men to live a decent and secure existence returns.

A free civilization is one in which the mass of people can live without destroying their neighbors to make room for themselves. It is only in a reasonably prosperous world that freedom and reason will again flourish.

The direction in which America is being taken is vividly brought out by the A. A. amendments which the Senate discussed and passed recently. This is the most important thing now going on in America. I think Secretary of Agriculture Wallace would agree with me on that statement—though he probably would not share the spirit in which I make it.

It is the most important thing going on in America, and hardly a handful of people understand it. It is difficult to understand, but clarity may be achieved by a brief chronological statement.

Mr. Wallace and his associates started out to limit and control a small number of crops which he defined in the original AAA statute as "basic agricultural commodities." The crops enumerated in the original proposal, put out by Mr. Roosevelt when he was a candidate, September 14, 1932, were to be four: "wheat, cotton, corn (in the form of hogs) and tobacco."

While these four were named, I think it is accurate to say the expectation was that the control would be put upon only two crops the ones that are largely exported, cotton and wheat. Certainly the expectation did not go beyond the four crops named by Mr. Roosevelt.

If now I were merely attempting to show the extent to which control has spread, I should merely print a list of the farm products...

were limited as to both cotton and peanuts. Thereupon they turned their idle land into potatoes. Now comes the third step. It is being taken in Washington right now. This step is described by Senator Bailey, of North Carolina:

"Under the operation of the crop control act farmers have been driven from cotton, tobacco and peanut production as well as other crops and have gone into the production of potatoes."

Senator Bailey is right. So many potatoes were grown that in Maine last season tens of thousands of bushels were destroyed. And so Senator Bailey says "it is an act of simple justice to give the producer of potatoes some sort of protection against the operations of the other control acts."

The senate agreed. By an amendment potatoes are to be limited and controlled. Every farmer is to be given a quota by the Secretary of Agriculture, telling him how many potatoes he can grow. If he miscalculates, or if nature proves over-generous, the farmer will be penalized by a tax of three-quarters of a cent a pound on the excess he raises.

But the process does not stop with farmers and farm crops. By the same natural law mentioned, control of the raising of a crop compels control of dealing in it and of manufacturing it. And so the pending AAA amendments as passed by the House contain provisions for price fixing. Again, by the same natural law, control of a farm crop compels control over commodities that come into competition with it. In order to make the control over cotton effective, Secretary Wallace has put control upon jute bags and paper bags and paper towels, which compete with cotton products. Recently in the Senate it was proposed to put control over the rayon and silk industries. This, however, was defeated.

The end toward which America is being led means much more than has so far been done. It means ultimately complete control over every farm, every farmer and every farm crop. It means ultimately more than that. I quote an English economist, Professor Lionel Robbins:

"There is a sort of snowball tendency about this kind of interventionism which has no limit but complete control of all trade and industry... Once governments start to control important branches of industry, if they are not willing at some point definitely to reverse their whole line of policy, there is no stop to this process short of complete socialism."

Colorful Old Mexico Setting Provided For Rotary Meeting

Plymouth Rotarians and Guests Hear of International Convention in Beautiful Bennett Gardens.

Mexico is an interesting and a colorful country. Travelers who have visited it are always tempted to go back and see again some of the amazing sights that only Mexico can offer and mingle with the courteous and happy people of that country.

Members of the Plymouth Rotary club, their wives and guests last Friday night had a little of the old Mexico and its famed hospitality brought directly home to them.

The occasion was the formal report of Charles H. Bennett, the official delegate of the Plymouth Rotary club to the annual international convention of the organization that was held some weeks ago in Mexico City. Mrs. Bennett accompanied him to the convention.

Probably no Rotary club in the United States or in any other of the many countries where Rotary organizations exist, heard of an international Mexican convention under such delightful conditions as did the Plymouth Rotarians.

Some two or three weeks ago when the time was drawing near for this regular procedure of the Rotary club, Mr. Bennett decided that it would be a pleasure to them to have the meeting of the organization held in the beautiful gardens back of their home on Main street.

Then too as long as the meeting was going to be an outdoor affair like most events of this kind are in Mexico, they said they would like to have it almost as colorful as though it was really being held in some of the beautiful courts and gardens of Mexico City. So Rotarians and guests were requested to dress in the colorful styles of Mexico. It was not a difficult task because it only requires a few brightly colored garments, with broad-rimmed straw hats, flowing sashes, or ornamental hair-combs and the like to make one appear as though he or she had just emerged from a style shop of Mexico City.

It would be difficult to picture a more beautiful scene than the one in the Bennett gardens last Friday evening as the Rotarians and guests, wearing the garb of the neighboring Republic gathered for what proved to be without doubt the most interesting event in the history of Plymouth Rotary and probably the most colorful occasion ever held in this community.

Mr. and Mrs. Bennett, both wearing native Mexican costumes, engaged for the occasion three well known Mexican musicians of Detroit who had recently sung before the Rotary club of Detroit. They provided numerous excellent musical selections, a number of them being Mexican airs.

For the men Mr. Bennett brought from Mexico a leather bill fold and for the ladies, there were tambourines and fans. Long tables were laden with food for the buffet dinner that preceded the evening's program. As darkness approached, lanterns and flood lights placed among the trees provided illumination for the evening's program.

Then it was that President Frank A. Lefevre in behalf of the Rotary club expressed to Mr. and Mrs. Bennett the appreciation of the organization for the happy and colorful occasion they had provided the club and guests.

But the most important part of this evening's affair is yet to come. We are to hear the report of our past president and official delegate to the International Rotary convention. What he will have to say will be of interest to everyone present," said President Lefevre in presenting Mr. Bennett.

Naturally it was only in keeping with the perfection of all of the arrangements of the evening that Mr. Bennett's report should be one of the outstanding and most interesting talks ever made before the local organization.

Because of its general interest to all readers of The Mail, it is published in full as follows:

Before I make my report as your delegate to the International meeting of Rotary in Mexico City last month I wish to thank all of you for the fine attendance at tonight's meeting and to assure you that we, house of Bennett, never had guests that were more welcome and while I realize you are a long way from Mexico, I sincerely hope we can at least catch the spirit of Mexico. A word very much in use in that country and a Spanish word much in evidence throughout all our Rotary meetings was the word Sympatico, meaning both sympathy and goodwill and understanding, a mutual feeling of real fellowship that seemed to permeate the very atmosphere of all our meetings and fun from the day we landed until the hour of our departure, and if those Mexicans can feel sympathetic, we Plymouth Rotarians should have no trouble in beating them at their own word.

I left here in company with my good wife and niece, Pauline, on Saturday, June 8th, and we sailed from New York City the next evening, Sunday, June 9th, on the good ship RESOLUTE. The RESOLUTE is a fine cruise steamer of 32,000 tons belonging to the Hamburg-American Line. We found the ocean and the drinks smooth and the food so good that often it was simply impossible for me to keep my girlish figure. The captain of our ship was very German, very courteous, and very famous.

The 400 or more Rotarians on board held a regular Rotary meeting on board ship. The Commodore, who is a past president of the Bremen, Germany, Rotary Club, acted as president of our meeting, and we also carried a past president of Rotary International and a few of the other high officials of Rotary International, you can imagine we had a rousing and instructive meeting.

We stopped at Nassau on Wednesday and found it quiet and hot. On Friday we landed in Havana, Cuba, and while the ladies went shopping, the Rotarians on our ship, in company with about 250 Rotarians from another ship, the VOLLANDAM, en route from Philadelphia to Vera Cruz, attended the regular Rotary meeting of the Havana Rotary club held in the new Hotel Nationale, a magnificent hotel and a grand meeting of around 650 Rotarians. The afternoon was spent looking the city over from taxiab windows. We sailed at four a.m. in the morning, some hours before I was up. Our ship landed in Vera Cruz at six o'clock on Sunday morning, just a week from the day we sailed from New York. A special train was waiting at the gangway ready to climb the mountain range to Mexico City. It took those Mexican R. R. officials until nine-thirty a. m. to unload the baggage from the ship and put it in baggage cars on our train. The delay seemed quite unnecessary until I stopped to multiply 300 by 19—we had about nineteen pieces of baggage as I remember it. We had a delightful climb over green mountains till we reached a height of 10,000 feet. As usual, those Germans put up a fine lunch which we did full justice to while en route to Mexico. We were scheduled to arrive in Mexico City at six p.m., but owing to a late start and very heavy train were three hours late and arrived around nine p. m. in a rather dark station, but with plenty of cheering and band music to make us feel like visiting Rotarians.

And now a few words about Mexico City and the International meeting. Just think what a job the Mexico City club took on in entertaining 5303 visiting Rotarians. There are 110 members of the Mexico City Rotary Club and they were on the job and jump every minute night and day. I speak of night duty because I understood a vast number of the U. S. Rotarians had birthdays falling between June 17th and 21st, and in order to celebrate properly it needed a Mexican Rotarian who could order fancy drink in Spanish to accompany the celebrants, and I don't mean maybe. I often wonder how many of those Mexico City Rotarians are still alive.

Take the housing committee: This committee found by careful survey that there were 1800 beds available in all the hotels and apartment houses in the city, and yet they cared for 5303 Rotarians. The man who was the answer to most of it and it may be possible those Rotarians who celebrated did not need their beds, anyway everybody was taken care of sympathically.

The Palace of Fine Arts, where all the plenary meetings were held, was in the opinion of those in a position to judge such things the finest building in which a meeting of Rotary International has ever been held. This building was started as the Grand Opera House of Mexico in 1901 and was finished last January, being 34 years in building. Its auditorium holds about 4800 people and was filled at every session. Flowers banked in front and at sides of the immense stage were changed in color daily (some big job for a decorating committee). The outside of this Palace of Fine Arts is of white Carara marble, and each room and corridor inside is of different colored granite from the different states of Mexico. The large drop curtain is said to be the finest curtain ever built. It is made of small pieces of colored glass, and made by Tiffany of New York at a cost of $60,000 and it depicts those celebrated snow-capped mountains always in view from the streets of Mexico City known as Popocatepetl and Ixtaccihuatl. These two mountains rise high above the surrounding range and are always covered with snow, and as Popocatepetl is a smouldering volcano, it is smoking much of the time. We were given trips to the foot of these beautiful mountains and to many other points of interest, including the pyramids and ruins of an ancient civilization older than that of Egypt. We were given entertainments nightly, some of them being of a kind and nature different from anything you could see in our own country. You can understand why all Rotarians were so welcome in the stores and shops of Mexico, for from my own observation the visiting Rotarians came to spend as well as to look and listen, and I venture the guess that even the dining cars were packed with bundles enroute back to the U.S.A. While there was little sign of political unrest or trouble to the naked eye it was evident that the nation's guests were being well guarded and constantly watched, for no matter where we wandered or how far we drove, at our elbow were always plenty of soldiers and well armed police.

Two particular events stand out in my memory of this Mexican pilgrimage. First, the drive along Paseo de la Reforma lined with columns and statues of Mexican heroes and statesmen to the heights of Chapultepec. Chapultepec is located on a hill about four miles from the downtown section of the city and was once the palace and dwelling place of Emperor Maximilian and Empress Charlotte. After the execution of Maximilian and the liberation of Mexico, Chapultepec was used as a residence by most of its presidents. It is now a sort of museum containing some very old and valuable paintings and many relics of Maximilian's reign, and while these things are well worth seeing, to my mind the views of mountains and the surrounding country, and the panorama of view of Mexico City lying at its feet is one of the most glorious and glamorous in all Mexico, if not in all the world. I spent hours on these heights of Chapultepec and never grew tired of its vast and ever changing panorama.

The other event which is indelibly impressed upon my memory is an affair that was put on by the Government of Mexico for our enlightenment and entertainment. Picture for a moment the football stadium in Ann Arbor, only a bit larger in size, as I was told the stadium of Mexico City seats 90,000. This large arena is open at one end, giving the impression of an enormous horse shoe. On the night this pageant was given the open end of the horse shoe was filled by an enormous stage, the scenery depicted the Valley of Mexico and the pageant or play was called "Liberation," a historical sketch showing the founding of Mexico and its history dating back to legendary days before the days of the Pharaohs of Egypt. The costumes were gorgeous, the acting fine and you can imagine something of its size and color when I tell you that there were 1400 people, men, women and children who took part in this performance. As the laws of Mexico do not allow of a free entertainment to be given a select few, this great pageant was therefore open to the public and they filled this vast amphitheatre to the limit, sitting tier upon tier on the side seats while we Rotarians and our friends and guests who wore Rotary badges sat on seats placed on the grass, in the center of the arena. Around 100,000 people most of them in their native costumes as an outdoor audience, the most unique and picturesque assemblage one can imagine, a sight well worth going clear to Mexico to see, to say nothing of the performance that carried us along until well toward morning.

And now a few words regarding the plenary meetings of Rotary International within the Palace of Fine Arts and I am through. All of our meetings occurred between 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. These meetings were well attended and the capacity of the Palace was pretty well taxed at each session.

At the opening session on Monday morning, July 21st, at 10 a. m. we had the pleasure of welcoming the President of Mexico, who delivered an address of welcome to all Rotarians. He made a fine address and appeared to very good advantage and with his suits and generals in uniform it all made for a most interesting and colorful grand opening.

There were then the usual enthusiastic speeches and such music as only the Mexicans can produce, all sympatico, all colorful, all harmonious, nothing just like it anywhere else but in Old Mexico. The usual meetings of delegates and voting for Rotary International officers and all went smoothly and harmoniously but few changes in the rules or regulations. One, however, was outstanding in a sense. I refer to the changing of the Six Objects of Rotary to Four, and what had to some seemed ambiguous wording of the Six Objects of Rotary, which read:

Section 1. The objects of Rotary are to encourage and foster: (1) The ideal of SERVICE as the basis of all worthy enterprise. (2) High ethical standards in business and professions. (3) The application of the ideal of service by every Rotarian to his personal business and com-community life. (4) The development of acquaintance as an opportunity for service. (5) The recognition of the worthiness of all useful occupations and the dignifying by each Rotarian of his occupation as an opportunity to serve society. (6) The advancement of understanding, good-will, and international peace through a world fellowship of business and professional men united in the ideal of service."

Now the Four Objects read as follows:

The objects of Rotary are to encourage and foster the ideal of service as a basis of worthy enterprise and, in particular, to encourage and foster:

(1) The development of acquaintance as an opportunity for service. (2) High ethical standards in business and professions; the recognition of the worthiness of all useful occupations; and the dignifying by each Rotarian of his occupation as an opportunity to serve society. (3) The application of the ideal of service by every Rotarian to his personal business and community life. (4) The advancement of international understanding, good will and peace through a world fellowship of business and professional men united in the ideal of service. And so with swift gliding came to its end. Hasta la Vista, instead of Adios, seemed to be the parting theme.

And now the 25 meeting of Rotary International is an event of the past. I ask myself what did we really accomplish of good in the world, what could come of busy men making long journeys at great expense just to meet together for a few brief hours away down yonder in a foreign city? Why all this fuss and clamor. is it after all just another dramatic episode in the lives of a few good fellows? Is our Rotary really worth while? Are we really accomplishing anything of real value in the world with Rotary? Then in my mind's eye I saw that group of earnest, enthusiastic Rotarians, ten of them sitting around a table in Cuernavaca, some sixty miles from Mexico City, for three whole days discussing important events and happenings in the various capitals of the world as it affected Rotary; these brainy men of affairs from the far corners of the world, from Japan, from Africa, England, France, India, Brazil, Paraguay and the United States; men high in councils of their respective nations; men not only of different nationalities and creeds, but men who could not possibly agree along political lines or economical lines; men of affairs who could not agree for one hour along religious lines; yet these very men had given of their valuable time and spent considerable sums of money to meet in a far country. For what reason? I could find but one answer to their sacrifice, a spiritual grain of kindness and friendship implanted in the heart and soul of every decent human being, no matter what their creed, their color, or their nationality; a spirit of friendliness toward a fellow traveler along life's hard way. That sort of feeling to every man of that distinguished group meant that they were gladly and unselfishly giving of themselves and their talents and their means, that our Sixth Object of Rotary might some day become a reality in this much distressed old world. The advancement of international understanding, goodwill, and peace through a world fellowship of business and professional men united in the ideal of service." And so I no longer wonder or question Rotary's accomplishment for great and lasting good in the affairs of men, and I earnestly hope and pray that I may live long enough to become a Rotarian in spirit as well as in name.

... of a lady cooking her DINNER!

No staying in the kitchen today! There are so many other things one wants to do on a pleasant afternoon . . . and this charming lady has a capable electric servant—Dutch Oven Susan—who will see that dinner is ready when she returns home. Dutch Oven Susan is an Electric Cook: She cooks a complete meal for a family of six—two vegetables, a roast, potatoes and gravy—all at one time. You simply plug this handy electric appliance into any convenience outlet, and then go out for the afternoon. When you come home your dinner is waiting, perfectly cooked—piping hot and ready for the table.

Dutch Oven Susan will roast all cuts of meat to perfection; it will fry eggs, steaks, chops, etc.; it will bake cakes, pies, cookies, biscuits and muffins; and it will hold half-a-dozen pint jars when canning by the cold pack, hot water bath method. Yet it uses only about as much electricity per hour as an electric toaster.

Dutch Oven Susan is available in several styles and sizes—one to fit your needs exactly. The medium size model will roast a 10-pound ham, a 6-pound chicken, or a large leg of lamb. The large size will easily accommodate a 15½-pound turkey. And there is "Small Sister" Susan, an electric casserole, with a two quart capacity. See this modern appliance on display at all Detroit Edison offices, Department Stores and Electrical Dealers.

Benefit Game Is A Real Thriller

The two teams of players selected from the league demonstrated why they were called "All Stars" in a ball game played for the benefit of Joe Finnigan, a few nights ago.

The Reds opened the scoring in their first turn at bat when K. Gates swung on one of Gilder's fast balls and hit a home run into the swings. Not to be outdone the Blues came to bat in their half of the first and went one run ahead. W. Bassett singled and Ike Hobbins hit one of the longest home runs of the season to score two runs. The Reds tied up the score in the second when N. Atchinson walked and Rattenbury doubled.

From the second inning on to the ninth there was no scoring but there was plenty of action produced to keep the fans on edge. The Reds produced two very fast double plays when it looked like the Blues were sure to score. They just missed on a third one. W. Bassett of the Blues made three nice running catches to cut off what looked like his in the ninth D. Sutherland singled and H. Williams walked. C. Lee, batting for N. Atchinson singled, scoring Sutherland. Williams was thrown out at third. This one run looked big at this stage of the game, but Ike Hobbins tied the score at 3 all by blasting out his second home run of the game.

The game went into extra innings and in the 12th the Reds again set the pace by getting two runs on four hits, and some mental errors on the part of the Blues. The Blues came to bat in their half of the 12th with Gilder the pitcher leading off, he singled and Eddie Dobbs walked. David Gates who replaced Houghton in the 8th tripled to again tie the score. Jack Taylor singled for his second hit of the game, driving in D. Gates with the winning run. K. Gates with his dazzling play at short again getting three hits out of six trips to bat with one being a home run was the star of the Red All-Stars, while Ike Hobbins with his two lusty home runs and stinging catches of wide and high throws at first base was the star of the Blue All-Stars.

Mrs. Phyllis Miller Weds A Detroit

The marriage is announced of Mrs. Phyllis Larkins Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Larkins of West Ann Arbor Trail, to Wintfield Byron Brown of Detroit. The ceremony was performed in Detroit, Friday, July 26th, by Dr. A. McKenzie of the Brewster Pilgrim Congregational church. The bride was attended by her cousin Miss Mildred Ringe of Detroit and the best man was Maynard J. Larkins, brother of the bride. Only members of the immediate families attended. Mr. and Mrs. Brown left for a two week's trip in Northern Michigan and Canada and will make their future home in Detroit.

No Stopping Fast Garden City Team

A two base hit into the garden in left-center field by Roy Wolfram gave the Garden City club a victory over the Oakwood YMCC Saturday afternoon at Garden City. The hit came in the ninth inning with the bases loaded and Garden City trailing by a score of 3 to 2. The ball cleared the fence by 75 feet and would have been a home run except for the ground rule. Sunday afternoon Garden City defeated the Motor Coach Operators of Detroit in a ten inning battle by a score of 9 to 6. Johnny O'Brien broke up the ball game with a line single to left to score the winning run in the tenth after the bases were loaded with one out.

Plymouth Park Drops Fast Game

Witucki's single in the ninth inning in Sunday's game scored Spagnoli from second stopped the Plymouth Park's winning streak and brought Gray A. C. a 5 to 4 victory.

W. Jerome of Gray A. C. was in rare form in holding the heavy hitting Plymouth Park team to four hits. Two of the hour hits came in the first inning. J. Schomberger banged out his first home run in twelve years in the first inning which accounted for the three runs. W. Jerome held the local boys hitless from the first inning until one was out in the seventh inning when K. Gates hit a home run to increase the local team's lead to 3. But the lead was short lived as Gray A. C. scored three runs in their turn at bat to tie the score at 4 all. Weber held the Gray's team to four hits until the big seventh inning.

Joe Urbanak the local team's star second baseman was hit on the knee in the sixth inning of the first game and had to be removed from the game and sent to Detroit. The injury will keep the team's second baseman out of the line up for the next two games at least.

P. Schomberger was the leading hitter for the local boys in the first game when he got one in three trips to the plate. Plymouth Park's one run rally in the seventh and two run rally in the eighth inning brought a well earned victory to H. Pisarek who ran his winning streak to four straight without a loss for the season.

| Next Sunday the fast stepping Hazel Park team will meet the local team in a double header. The first game starting at 1 p.m. at Riverside Park. The second game starting at four o'clock at Cass Benton Park. | | | | | |

THIS WEEK'S BEST FISHING STORY

"We had gone way up in Canada, up near the Whitefish Bay country after some good fishing," Dr. E. E. Champe was telling friends over in the Mayflower a few days ago.

"Well the big ones had been biting pretty good, but we always liked to have a few bluegills around for our dinner. One forenoon we discovered that our supply of pan fish was rather low so we went out on the lake to get enough for dinner."

"I hooked a nice big worm on my line and let sink down into the lake. Almost immediately it looked like a regular army of fish was after it."

"Then came along a couple of big bluegills and they began sparring to see which one would get the bait first. Maybe you won't believe it, but those two bluegills got into a fight over which one was going to bite my hook. It's the only time I ever saw fish fight, but how they did battle."

"First one would take a nose dive for his opponent, then the other one would come to bat with another punch in the side. While these two big ones were fighting to see which one would get the bait, my finger got down on the line under water and would you believe it a bunch of bluegills took a dive for my finger and began biting that. That's just how good the bluegill fishing was up where we were a number of years ago. You can bet I had a rather sore finger for almost a week after that experience. I didn't know blue gills could bite so hard," concluded Dr. Champe.

Alexander New Board President

Milton M. Alexander and Mrs. Robert Beattie were elected president and vice president, respectively, at the annual meeting of the Administrative Board of the Wayne County training school, it was announced Saturday. Both have previously occupied the chairmanship.

According to the report made by Dr. Robert Haskell, there were 1,095 children in residence at the school during the school year ended in June, and there are 709 at the present time. The school maintains also a supervisory control over former residents, now totaling nearly 1,100.

Other members of the board include Edward Command, Fred C. Fischer, Frank Cody, Edward J. Jeffries, Jr., John C. Cowan, Tracy W. McGregor, James Fitzgerald, Dr. Robert H. Haskell and C. E. Elliott. Dr. Haskell is the medical superintendent, having held the position since the founding of the school, and Elliott is the secretary of the board.

Church and Sunday School

CALVARY BAPTIST CHURCH

Richard W. Neale, Pastor
You are always welcome at Calvary. Our aim and prayer is to be a friendly, Bible church where Christ is preached. "Come and See."

On the Lord's Day the church meets for morning worship at 10 o'clock. Sunday school follows at 11:15. There is a class for you. The evening service is at 7:30. Bring your Bible and your friends. Each Wednesday evening, at 7:30 the church meets for prayer and Bible study. A church is as strong or as weak as its prayer meeting. A praying Christian is an asset to his church. Shall we not frankly ask ourselves this question: "Am I an asset or a liability to my church?" Go somewhere to prayer meeting, believer. If you have no church home, come to Calvary. We meet at 455 South Main street.

Our pastor and his wife have been attending the Eclectic Bible Conference, near Cleveland. They expect to return, D. V. for this Sunday's services. They have an interesting report of their trip. We continue our studies in Acts and Luke.

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST SCIENTIST

Cor. Main and Dodge Sts. Sunday morning service, 10:30. Sunday school at 10:30. Pupils received up to the age of twenty years.
Wednesday evening testimony service, 8:00.

"Love" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Christian Science Churches throughout the world on Sunday, August 4.

Among the Bible citations is this passage (Acts 28: 3, 5): "And when Paul had gathered a bundle of sticks, and laid them on the fire, there came a viper out of the heat, and fastened on his hand. And he shook off the beast into the fire, and felt no harm." Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 243): "The divine Love, which made harmless the poisonous viper, which delivered men from the boiling oil, from the fiery furnace, from the jaws of the lion, can heal the sick in every age and triumph over sin and death."

SALEM FEDERATED CHURCH

On Sunday morning, August 4, in the regular worship service at 10:30 o'clock, Rev. Fred Kendall, superintendent of the Detroit Hebrew Christian Mission will speak on prophecy. An offering of farm produce will help in the work of the Detroit mission. The Bible school lesson will be found in the twenty-third chapter of II Kings. Memory verse: "Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and Him only shalt thou serve." Matt. 23: 10.

Because of the death of Mr. Pennell's mother, Catherine Pennell of Berrien Springs, Daily Vacation Bible school has been postponed a week. It will open on Monday morning, August 5, at 9 o'clock. The curriculum this year is based on the life of Christ and includes singing, Bible memory work, Bible stories, supervised play, expressional work and dramatization. Kathryn Pennell, a graduate in the National Education of the Moody Bible Institute, will direct the school. Visitors are welcome at any session.

Reserve August 11 for the outdoor service to be held on the Dexter-Huron River drive. The service will be held at 10:30 and free transportation from the church will be furnished for all who can not drive. Bring a basket lunch for your family. This will be the opening feature of Young's People's Week.

ST. PAUL'S EVANGELICAL CHURCH

Services in English on Sunday, August 4. Everyone is welcome.

SALEM CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

Lucia M. Stroh, Minister
Mrs. L. J. Vici, sister of the pastor, delivered a very helpful and inspiring sermon last Sunday. Rev. Waggoner and Rev. Alma Waggoner, just returned from an Evangelical tour in California, attended the services last Sunday. They are old friends of the parsonage. The pastor, the Lord willing, the pastor will again fill her own pulpit and will rejoice to see all her congregation present.

Sunday school follows at 11:45 a.m. We want all our Sunday school scholars to be present.
Thursday, August 8th, Mrs. R. W. Kehrl will be hostess to the Ladies' Auxiliary Society in Cass Benton Park at foot of Six Mile and Phoenix Roads. This will be a potluck picnic dinner in the evening, 6 p.m.
Everybody come to the meeting in the afternoon and stay for supper. All are welcome.

The Story of the Bible Told in Pictures

David Kills Goliath.—The armies of the Philistines were gathered together, and Saul and his men prepared to battle against them. The two armies were camped opposite one another. "And there went out a champion out of the camp of the Philistines named Goliath, whose height was six cubits and a span."—I Sam. 17: 4. "And he stood and cried unto the armies of Israel, 'Choose you a man for you, and let him come down to me. If he be able to fight with me, and to kill me, then will we be your servants; but if I prevail against him, and kill him, then shall ye be our servants and serve us.'"—I Sam. 17: 8-9. David accepted the challenge of Goliath. "And David put his hand in his bag, and took thence a stone, and slung it, and smote the Philistine in his forehead, that the stone sunk into his forehead; and he fell upon his face to the earth."—I Sam. 17: 49. This illustration by Merian was engraved in 1625.

METHODIST CHURCH

10:00 a. m. Morning worship. 11:30 a. m. Sunday school.
The morning worship will again be a union service with the Baptist and Presbyterian churches. Rev. Sutherland and the Baptist choir will officiate.

On Thursday night the Methodist church will have its next regular church family night potluck supper at the Riverside Park at six-thirty. After the supper is over the Sunday School Board will have its election of officers. There will be games and the usual good time. The young people are invited to attend.

BAPTIST CHURCH

Our church will join in the union services to be held Sunday morning at the Methodist church. The pastor, Rev. Sutherland, will preach on the subject "Is God Discouraged." Services will begin at 10 o'clock. The Baptist church choir will sing.

The regular evening service will take place in our church at 7:30. The sermon topic will be "Courage For the Lord's Work."
There will be no mid-week service next week.

Last Wednesday evening members of the Baptist church enjoyed a potluck supper in Plymouth Riverside park. The occasion was an exceedingly pleasant affair, in view of the fact that it was on the date of the wedding anniversary of Rev. and Mrs. Sutherland as well as the quarterly meeting time of the church.

ST. PETER'S EV. LUTHERAN CHURCH

Edgar Hoenecke, Pastor
45 minute Sunday Services at 10:30.
"Blessed are they that hear the Word of God and keep it."

The Cotton Blossom Negro Quartette from Piney Woods, Mississippi, who performed a difficult program on Monday, will sing at the Lutheran Church, Elizabeth St., Wayne, Sunday at 7:45.

The Ladies' Aid Society will meet at Mrs. Chas. Rengett's Wednesday, August 7th, 2:30.

How Farmers Can Get Federal Aid

Michigan farmers already have received approximately $55,000,000 in credit through the Farm Credit Administration. Abner E. Larned, The State Director for Michigan of the National Emergency Council, announced today. This amount of credit, Larned said, has been spread among close to 19,000 Michigan farmers who have obtained funds through the Land Bank and the Land Bank Commissioner for the reduction of their principal debts, and among close to 5,000 farmer members of Production Credit Associations who have obtained short term loans for such purposes as putting in crops, providing farm supplies equipment and livestock.

The long term land mortgage loans totaled approximately $52,000,000, and the short term obligations approximately $1,750,000. In addition close to a score of farmer cooperatives in Michigan have obtained close to $1,000,000 to carry on their varied operations or to provide facilities.
Another service of a Farm Credit Administration unit, has been in the discounting of agricultural paper for agricultural credit corporations, by the Intermediate Credit Bank of St. Paul. This has amounted to a considerable volume in Michigan. Larned said.

One of the interesting factors in the Michigan situation, the farmer has not as yet. Michigan farmers are meeting their obligations under these loans. An increased volume of payments has been noticeable this year, over the payment of a year ago.

In order to assist the farmer who has not as yet secured services of the Farm Credit Administration, Mr. Larned has submitted a list of five questions and answers designed to give Michigan farmers information on the functioning of this government unit. The questions and answers are as follows:

1. How can I, a farmer, secure a loan on my farm, and to whom should I apply?
Answer: The Federal Land Bank of St. Paul, Minnesota, secures loans for farmers on the farm security. Application should be made to the Secretary-Treasurer of the National Farm Loan Association of that territory in which the farm is located.
2. I have a farm but need money for tools and other implements. To whom should I apply?
Answer: The Federal Land Bank may make loan on the security of the land for the money needed to purchase tools and other implements, provided the security offered is adequate. The Federal Land Bank may make loans on land for any agricultural purpose.
3. Can I borrow money for seed? If so, to whom should I apply?
Answer: Money for farm operating purposes may be procured from the Production Credit Corporation upon the security of the farmer's personal property. Application should be made to the Production Credit Association in that territory in which the farm is located. Congress has by enactment made it possible for the last three or four years for farmers to borrow money for seed through the Emergency Crop and Feed Loan Office on the security of the crop to be produced with this seed.
4. How much time will I be given to repay these loans, and what rate of interest must I pay?
Answer: The Federal Land Bank Loans run for thirty-six years. The loans made by the Land Bank Commissioner may run for the same length of time if necessary, but are usually made for a much shorter term. Ten years has been quite a common term for Commissioner's loans. The Federal Land Bank loans will bear interest up to July 1, 1936, at a rate of 3 1/2 per cent. From 1936 on, the present rate of the Federal Land Bank Loans is 4 per cent. Land Bank Commissioner's loans bear interest at the rate of 5 per cent. Production Credit Corporation loans at present are 5 per cent. The loans generally are made for one year, with, of course, the possibility of renewal if the applicant cannot pay at the end of the year and the security is adequate. The loans of the Emergency Crop and Feed Loan Office are generally rated as being due at the time the crop is harvested. The collection would vary in different territories, but is always within a year.

Another Lake in Park System

Wayne county will have another lake in the vicinity of Northville when present plans are carried out stated Road Commissioner, Edward N. Hines today.

Plans are prepared for the construction of a dam on the middle branch of the Rouge River in the northeast corner of a parcel of county park property bounded by the 7 Mile Road, the stream and the Ford Motor Company property at Northville. The dam when finished will furnish power to the Ford Company's small plant located north and west of the park property. The lake created by the dam will add to the chain of lakes, comprising Phoenix, Newburg, and Wilcox lakes all of which have been constructed by impounding the waters of the Rouge river.

These lakes are being stocked with blue pills, perch and bass, and in time will add good fishing to the recreational possibilities of the county's park system.

On Wednesday evening, Mrs. John Jordan and daughter, Ellen, were hosts at a beautiful "shower" at their home on Adams street honoring Mrs. Helyn Tyler Caplin. The evening passed most pleasantly in sewing and visiting and later the guest of honor was made most happy by the presentation of several beautiful gifts which had been placed in a basket trimmed in pink with a stork on the handle. The guests then retired to the dining room where the table was resplendent with decorations of pink and blue, an umbrella of those colors centering the table with storks underneath and pink and blue ribbons hanging from points of the umbrella with a tiny baby doll at the end of each. Pink tapets were placed at either end and little pink baskets were used as favors and place cards. The invited guests were Mrs. Caplin, her mother, Mrs. Jesse Tyler, the Misses Clara and Betty Tyler, Mrs. Wave Hearst, Mrs. Mildred Hamill, Mrs. Goodwin Crumbe, Mrs. Leon Terry, Miss Elva Hill, Miss Marion Gust, Mrs. Mildred Barnes, Mrs. David Taylor, Miss Jean Goering, Miss Hildur Carlson, Miss Luella Meyers and Mrs. Edward Dobbs.

Mr. and Mrs. George Gorton entertained at dinner Sunday honoring the birthday of her father, George White. It was a complete surprise to Mr. White nevertheless he enjoyed it greatly. The other guests were members of the family, Mrs. White, Mr. and Mrs. William Wescott and two children, Walter White of Plymouth and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Freshney of Detroit.

The Ladies Aid of the Lutheran church will meet on Wednesday afternoon, August 7, at three o'clock at the home of Mrs. Chas. Rengert on the Joy Road, southwest of Plymouth. At six-thirty a potluck supper will be served to the members and their families and all others interested in the church. Mrs. Carl Schmidt will assist Mrs. Rengert at this time as hostess.

Mrs. H. A. Mason and sister, Miss Carrie Brooks of North Territorial Road entertained last Thursday at a delightful luncheon Mrs. May Wescott and two children, Walter White of Plymouth and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Freshney of Detroit.

Qualifying Ends For Tournament

Qualifying rounds for the club championship tournament at Plymouth Country club were brought to a close Sunday. Several golfers from Plymouth turned out to swell the entry list to a total of 36, a record entry for a tournament of this nature around these parts.

The first round of match play is scheduled to be run off during the week-ends of August 3rd and 4th and August 10th and 11th. All first round matches must be completed not later than August 11th. Second round matches must be completed by August 18th. The time limit for the third and fourth round matches will be announced later. It is planned to hold the championship finals on Labor Day.

Louis Campbell of Northville was the medalist with a 69. He will meet Norm Copland in the first round. Copland qualified with a 76. Runner-up to Campbell for medalist honors was Harry Fitzpatrick of Redford, a newcomer to the ranks at Plymouth Country club. Fitzpatrick's score was a beautiful 70 which was low score until Campbell turned in his 69 last week. Fitzpatrick is one of three players at Plymouth this year who are considered excellent prospects for the club's MGA team. The other two are Jimmie Williams, Plymouth home town boy who qualified in the tournament with a 75 and Dan McGrew, Bell Telephone champion, whose 76 also landed him in the championship flight. These players have been invited to play a practice round with the team next Saturday at Redford at 1 p.m. when the players will be chosen who will play against Redford Sunday.

Along with Harry Fitzpatrick in the championship flight are his two brothers, Leo and Ed, who qualified with 78 and 79, respectively.

In addition to Jimmie Williams four other young golfers from Plymouth qualified for the championship flight. They are Dick Gray, Norm Wagner, Herb Burley and Harold Burley. Norm Wagner's 72 was third low and Dick Gray's 75 was tied with Williams, Harold and Herb Burley had 78 each.

Scores from 82 to 90 qualified for the first flight. Four players of the 12 who are in this flight are from Plymouth. Leading the Plymouth quartet is Herman Dworman with an 84. Then on the list are Fred Hern with an 85 and Dutch Jewel is tied at 87 with Bill Choffin, manager of the club house at Plymouth country club.

Of the eight players in the second flight, seven of them are from Plymouth. Leading the seven are officials of the club. In this flight, Austin Whipple was low with 91 and Dr. F. B. Hoyer and Irwin T. Pierce are tied at 97. This flight promises some real battles as there is little rivalry between some of the players in the flight and there being only six points difference between the high and low qualifying scores.

With five in the championship flight, four in the first flight and seven in the second flight, the City of Plymouth certainly is well represented, and some of the winners are certain to be Plymouth men.

Following are the pairings for the first round matches. Players are requested to get in touch with their opponents and arrange for their matches to be played not later than August 11th. Telephone numbers of most of the entrants are available at the club house.

Championship Flight: Louis Campbell, 69 vs. Norm Copland, 76. Ed Fitzpatrick, 79 vs. Dick Gray, 75. John Lock, 75 vs. Glen Hook, 81. Herb Burley, 78 vs. Norm Wagner, 73. Les Ash, 74 vs. Leo Fitzpatrick, 78. Larry Anderson, 82 vs. Dan McGrew, 76. Jim Williams, 75 vs. Ed Schwimmer, 81. Harold Burley, 78 vs. Harry Fitzpatrick, 70.

First Flight: Minor Sweet, 82 vs. Herb Cushing, 86. Herman Dworman, 84. by. Bill Wein, 85. by. Dutch Jewel, 87 vs. Foster Piazza, 84. Ernest Burroughs, 84.

Right From Mine to His Furnace

WILLIAM LEAVER of Shawnee, Ohio, found that, adjoining the cellar of his home, his permanent supply of winter fuel had been stored for him by nature many centuries ago. He has his own private mine opening into the basement. When the coal bin is empty he simply goes in with a pickaxe and lamp and comes back with all that is necessary to keep the furnace going.

Start Paving Of Big Phoenix Fill

Employees of the Wayne county road commission Monday started the paving of the few hundred feet of fill that was necessary just this side of the Phoenix grade separation and along side of Phoenix lake. The fill, an exceptionally large one, was made about a year ago, but officials of the road commission decided that it could not be paved without endangering the concrete until after it had settled for months. The east side of the road is being paved first and as soon as it is completed, the west side will be paved.

All of the sodding of the newly created banks at the Phoenix crossing has been completed, adding much to the general appearance of the locality.

For men to get work here. All the people who are staying seem to enjoy themselves and they are working very hard. Only a few families went back.

"We are only 100 feet from the railroad in our temporary homes and when we move onto our forty we will be only a mile and a half from the town of Palmer."

Governor Chase Osborn is up here and we are expecting to see him. Ask him when he gets back how nice it is up here."

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Sage and children arrived Friday from Louisville, Kentucky. Mr. Sage returned home Monday accompanied by his father, H. A. Sage, but Mrs. Sage and children plan to spend two week's visiting in Plymouth and St. Charles.

Former Residents Call On Old Friends

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Campbell former residents of this locality who now reside at 757 Cedar avenue in Long Beach, California, have been spending a few days among their old friends of many years ago. Mr. Campbell farmed at the northwest corner of Plymouth and Evergreen roads for over 50 years. It was something like 16 years ago when he sold out and moved to California. James Ford of Plymouth and Henry Ford are old school mates of Mr. Campbell. During his stay in Plymouth he stopped at the Mayflower hotel. He says that business is fairly good in California and that there is some building going on out on the coast.

A very enjoyable Sunday was spent at Riverside Park by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Reddeman, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Kincaid, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Cook, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Evans, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Detloff and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Shiple when they gathered there to celebrate the birthday of Mrs. Reddeman as a surprise to her. A potluck dinner and supper was served and all felt that they had a full day of pleasure. Mrs. Reddeman was the recipient of several pretty gifts in remembrance of the occasion.

He Administers Law He Drafted

When the 83 counties of the state recently received their second quarterly installment of weight tax refunds, few people stopped to realize that the official second in charge of the Department of State which collects all automobile taxes, was the personal sponsor of the law under which the refunds are made. Few people evolve proposed vital legislation and later have the opportunity to aid in its administration after it is placed on the statute books by the legislature.

Possibly unique in this respect is Dr. Louis Webber, deputy to Orville E. Atwood, Secretary of State. While those familiar with actions of legislatures of the past few years recall it, most others have lost sight of the fact that counties have returned to them the entire weight (or license plate) tax, because the 1931-32 legislature enacted the then widely publicized "Webber plan" into law.

Dr. Webber, then executive secretary of the Michigan Real Estate Association, evolved the plan as a means of lowering excessive local property taxes levied for highway purposes by action of local voters themselves. Prior to the present law, the counties received an amount equal to half the weight tax collected. The weight tax refund is earmarked for the meeting of local highway bonds and the cost of road maintenance not met by the state. The refund is distributed by the State Highway Department.

Of the four alternate plans submitted to former Gov. Wilber M. Brucker by a group appointed by him late in 1931, it was the "Webber plan" around which the governor's message to the first special session of 1932, was built. The measure, remembered now as the "Horton act" was introduced by the late Senator Norman B. Horton of Fruit Ridge, then administration spokesman in the senate. The special session had been called to frame additional aid to counties facing bankruptcy because of local highway tax burdens.

Interesting in this same connection is the fact that Philemon J. Miller, member of the legislature which passed the Horton act, is now chief of inspectors of the Department of State, and thus in charge of men who check observance of the act which he had a voice in passing.

The other day Mr. Rotnour had a letter from the young man in which he declares that he thoroughly likes the new country and has no desire to return to his old home in Michigan.

The letter was written at 7 o'clock in the evening, on July 6— and the sun is shining as brightly as it was at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. It is real warm here. I know if you come up here you would like it and would not care about going back. We have a much better climate here than we had in Michigan. Some of the women golfers at Plymouth Country club have been expressing a desire for a ladies club championship. Officials of the club would be pleased to organize such a tournament provided a large enough entry list could be assured. If any of the women golfers from Plymouth would be interested in such a tournament, they are asked to notify Mr. Hunt at the ticket office.

Several very fine scores have been reported by women golfers this year and a ladies club championship should see some very fine golfing ability demonstrated in this field, in addition to some fun for the ladies.

Just one example of the brand of golf played by the ladies of Plymouth Country club was a very fine 89 turned in by Mrs. White of Detroit. At least a dozen others in the nineties have been reported.

31,000 of your neighbors now enjoy Electric Cooking on Detroit Edison Lines...

use one of these TRIAL ELECTRIC RANGES in your own kitchen!

MORE and more people are discovering the superiority of electric cooking... more and more people are enjoying the healthfulness and better flavor of electrically cooked meals. Here is your opportunity to try a range in your own kitchen and learn its advantages for yourself. Here is your chance to become acquainted at first hand with the cleanliness, convenience, and economy of a modern electric range, and compare it with the cooking method you are now using. And you need not buy a range or make a penny's investment to do this—our Trial Plan puts you under no obligation whatever.

The plan briefly is this: We will install an electric range in your kitchen without initial charge, so that you may give it a thorough trial. During this trial period you simply pay for the service as registered by your meter, plus a monthly charge of $1 for the range. If you decide to keep the range, your monthly payments will be applied toward the purchase price. If you decide that you do not want it, the range will be removed at our expense. Send in your application for a trial range today!

Nation Should Set The Example

Congressman George A. Dondero of this district, in speaking on the floor of the House, said that he, like other members of the House, had been flooded with letters, telegrams and petitions relative to the bill and its provision providing for the destruction of holding companies and that he wanted to inform the people of his district of his stand on the question.

In vigorously condemning the death sentence for the holding companies, he declared that if this Congress was really interested in doing something for the American people a bill should be passed which would provide the death sentence, not for private business of our nation, but for excessive governmental costs.

In this connection he pointed out that since 1913 the price of electrical current has been reduced 38 per cent, while the cost of government has gone up 830 per cent.

Calling attention to the tax increase from $48.00 per family in 1913 to $455 per family in 1934, the Michigan Congressman maintained that the government of the United States ought to at once take steps to put its own house in order by bringing in a bill that would result in immediate death to every unnecessary bureau, commission and board in our national government with their top heavy personnel, that onerously taxes the people of the nation and contributes to their impoverishment.

It had been contended on the floor of the House that public utility holding companies could not be successfully regulated, and to this argument Congressman Dondero replied that the government already accomplished the regulation of the railroads and there appeared to be no valid reason why the same could not be accomplished in the holding company field. "In my judgment," he said, "to say in the House that utilities cannot be regulated, means to say to the American people the government of the United States is unable to cope with the situation."

Congressman Dondero struck at bureaucratic control, declaring that he was not willing to place in the hands of any bureau right to destroy the investment and savings of millions of our people whose only offense seems to have been that they invested their money in the public utility field.

Destruction of the holding companies instead of their regulation by the federal government was held up as an unwise way of taking care of the situation. He queried, "Is it necessary because the steering gear might be loose on an automobile that you should abandon the entire car? Is it necessary to tear down a whole house simply because the porch needs repairing?" The same question, he continued, was before the House in the Public Utility Bill.

Careful study of the bill brought the Congressman to the conclusion that it would destroy private business and set up the federal government as big business.

Congressman Dondero thereupon queried: "Who is best trained to carry on this service to the public? The people who have conducted the work and service for nearly three-quarters of a century, or a bureaucratic commission or board here in Washington, which may or may not have had any experience whatsoever?"

In closing the Michigan Congressman said, "I am not opposed to regulation, but I am not willing they should be destroyed. There is nothing before the House to justify it. I am not willing that we should go backward, but I am willing that we should go forward."

Cotton Blossom Singers Make Hit

Those who are accustomed to the quartettes of the concert stage, that so often sacrifice the real artistic effect by emphasizing too strongly the polish and finesse of their members, were completely taken by surprise, when they listened to the concert rendered by the Cotton Blossom Male Quartette last Monday evening before a small, but highly appreciative and enthusiastic audience in the Lutheran church.

It is one thing to pick up the music of a negro spiritual and to pound away the hours in enervating drilling of harmony, enunciation, well-balanced fortissimos, and quite another, never to have heard the score or words of the song you sing, nor ever to have heard a finicky director's exposition of the fine points of a number that you are to render in concert. Yet the latter is exactly the method by which the four artists who rendered their program a capella with such a treasure of spontaneity and vivacity and feeling, acquired their proficiency in singing their numbers.

Two of their number had worked in the cotton fields, had tightened down the balls of cotton about which they sang so understandingly. "Water Boy" was no meaningless negro song to an- other, he had labored on the levees and railroads and knew the agony of the work under Southern sun. All, without exception, had learned the spirituals they rendered in their rickety, old meetin' places, had copied the very gestures that accompanied these songs from the Black Man from the negro preachers and his flock of faithful. Thus it was with reference to the secular part of the program also. "Gimme that watermelon smilin' on de vine," "Liza Jane," "The Cotton Pickin'," "Kentucky Babe" and the many other negro songs of their copious repertoire were done with inimitable good humor and ras- cality, or again, with deep senti- mental and high passion, just as they laughed with them and we all the tugs at our heartstrings, when their wistfulness took shape and expression in swaying arms and torsos together with incompar- ably perfect harmony in singing these songs of their race.

Another opportunity will be af- forded the people of this com- munity, Sunday evening, at 8:00 o'clock, when the Cotton Blossom Singers will be heard at the Lutheran church on Elizabeth street, just south of Michigan Avenue in Wayne.

The birthday club consisting of Mrs. Paul Wiedman, Mrs. Arthur White, Mrs. Christine Van Pop- pelen, Mrs. Harold Brisbois, Mrs. George Cramer, Mrs. Raymond Bacheider, Mrs. Josephine Fish and Mrs. John A. Miller were guests of the latter Tuesday evening at her home on Irving street the occasion being in hon- or of Mrs. Wiedman, Mrs. E. J. Allison replaced Mrs. Fish, who is visiting in the east.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Burley en- tertained at a lawn supper Sun- day evening at their home on Blunk avenue honoring the birth- day of her father, George Knapp, of this city. The guests included Mr. and Mrs. Knapp and son, San- ford, Miss Mary Urban and Miss Elvora Sackett of Plymouth, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Hannigan and Mr. and Mrs. Milton Knapp of Detroit.

Church Wedding For Miss Margaret Turner And Horace R. Nelson

Wednesday morning, July 31, at 10:30 o'clock, Our Lady of Victory church in Northville, was the scene of one of the loveliest of summer weddings, when Margare- et L. Turner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Turner of Farmington, were united in marriage by Rev. Fr. Jos. G. Schuler, to Horace R. Nelson, son of Mr. and Mrs. John K. Nelson of Northville before an assembly of over 300 guests. The main altar, before which the vows were spoken, was beautifully de- corated with cut flowers in golden Egyptian vases, while huge bas- kets of garden flowers stood at the entrance to the sanctuary. The girls choir sang the high Mass, while Miss Norma Moller rendered the ever beautiful "Ave Maria." The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was youthfully charming, in a trailing gown of white satin, made with a deep yoke of lace, ending in a high neck line. Long, light sleeves, were finished at the wrist with points of lace. The bridal veil was confined beneath a tulle cap, which was finished with a coronet of pleated tulle, and caught in the hair were tiny clusters of forget-me-nots. The bride's or- nament was a gold cross and chain, the gift of the groom. She carried a show bouquet of gardenias, centered with lilies of the valley, and baby's breath in the form of tiny clusters of forget-me-nots. Fast Detroiters Given Trimming

Harold Pankow, Plymouth southpaw, made it very uncom- fortable for the Indian Oil Com- pany last Sunday by striking out ten and holding the Detroiters to eight hits as the Plymouth Schradler-Haggertys beat them 9 to 2, at Cass Benton park.

Last Saturday afternoon at Plymouth-Riverside Park the Knights of Dearborn nosed out the Plymouth club in a slugging contest, 14 to 12.

George Bowers, Anthony Kree- ger and Norman Atchinson went in turn to the box for Plymouth, al- lowing fourteen hits.

There will be two big games at Plymouth-Riverside Park this week-end. On Saturday the Belle Isle Old Timers will oppose Ply- mouth at 3:30 p.m. and on Sunday the Pinckney club will move in for a single game at 3:30 p.m.

Don't forget that big game at Cass Benton Park on Saturday, Aug. 10th.

LOCAL NEWS

Mrs. J. Rusing Cutler (Eliza- beth Strong) was honored Tues- day evening with a lovely "mis- cellaneous" shower given by Miss Dora Gallimore at her home on Spring street. Ping-pong and bridge were enjoyed by the guests for a time after which they were invited to the porch where the guest of honor received many beautiful gifts which had been placed around an imitation of a person holding an umbrella and wearing a raincoat. Later a dainty luncheon was served at a table with decoration of rainbow hues carried out in a very artistic manner. The guests included Mrs. Cutler, her mother, Mrs. Sidney D. Strong, Miss Jean Strong, Miss Hazel Rathburn, Miss Catherine Nichol, Miss Yvonne Campbell, Miss Clarice Hamilton, Mrs. Helen Bridge Stalter of Pon- tiac, Mrs. Marguerite Wood Fore- man and Mrs. Madelyn Shingle- ton Rathburn of Northville and Mrs. Lois Caldwell Dicks of Plym- outh.

Mr. and Mrs. William McCul- lough and daughter Dorothy, have returned from a two week's out- going spent at Otsego lake near Gaylord.

FAMISE

A superbly feminine creation is a skillfully designed figure. Moulding foundation with new and exclusive features reflecting the smartest style trends in silhouette and fabric. Easy to put on and remove, no laces to open or close, will not ride up on the figure. Famise in the new stream- line back and special Famoflex underarm and adjustable waist- line emphasizes the dash and spirit of modern youth with per- fect ease and control. Prices moderate. Our special Figure Analyst, Mrs. Hazel Riddle, will demonstrate the Famise garments at the Hotel Mayflower on Mon- day, August 5th between the hours of 10 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank all our friends and neighbors who were so kind to us during our recent bereave- ment of our beloved mother and wife Marie Amelia Ginrich.

Especially are we grateful to Rev. Edgar Hoenecke for his com- forting words and to Mr. Schrad- er and son for the many cour- tesies shown us.

August Genrich and family.

Get a light colored felt hat for early fall. I have them in white, yellow, light blue, tan, gray, blue, and chamouis at $1.25. Mrs. C. O. Dickerson, 842 Penniman.
