Hulburt Points Out Injustice Of Prison Decision

Says Commissary Profits Spent For Good Purposes

Harry Hulburt, recent Kiwanis club speaker in Plymouth, in an interview yesterday with The Plymouth Mail, branded as asinine the action recently taken by the state prison commission in abolishing the inmate prison store at Jackson.

"It is one of the many backward steps that have been taken in recent years in the conduct of our state prisons," declared Mr. Hulburt, who won for himself the reputation of being one of the best prison wardens Michigan ever had as well as one of the strictest in handling inmates during the many years he had charge of the biggest prison in Michigan.

"In 1918 when I took over the operation of Jackson prison at the urgent request of Governor Sleeper, I found that Warden Simpson had used a thousand dollars of his own money to start a little inmate store where prisoners could buy cigarettes and similar articles that we permitted them to have.

"In 1919 the scope of the commissary department was broadened somewhat and officers and guards at the prison who were somewhat pressed financially were allowed to make some purchases at the store. They were extended credit they couldn't get elsewhere. Everyone knows that the state has never paid prison guards and officers even a fair wage and naturally they couldn't get credit for some of the things they wanted to buy outside so they were given this opportunity at the prison.

"We fixed the prices on the few articles we sold so that there would be a ten percent profit. Where did this profit go, you ask? Well, we took the money and used it to bury the bodies of the men who died in prison instead of sending their bodies down to the University for student uses.

"We ran this store at no cost to the state and the store funds paid for its own help, so it was legal in every way. The attorney general's office was asked to carefully go over the matter, and they said it was right and proper under the law of this state.

"At that time the guards had no uniforms. The band had no uniforms and only a few old instruments. Well, by handling this little prison store, we did, we made enough profit to buy uniforms for the guards, buy instruments and uniforms for the band, pay the expenses of bringing baseball teams to the prison, paid for such extra things as we thought they should have, paid for five motion picture machines and the films as well as many other things.

"Mind you, not a cent of this money came out of the pockets of the taxpayers. It was what we made by selling little stuff at the prison store.

"Rev. Hopp, who was prison chaplain at that time, used some of the profits to help the families of the inmates. He bought coal for them. He bought for them and he clothed their little boys and girls who were cold. No one will ever know the vast amount of good this man did among the innocent sufferers from the wrong doing of others. We know that his work with money he used from the profits of this little prison store had much to do with the complete reformation of many men who left the prison to go home to their families and find out the good that the prison had done for them out of the little profits from this store.

"This store interfered with no one. It didn't take any business away from any one and it did a world of good. Every dollar of its profit went to the aid of worthy inmates and their families. Of course what an enormous job is during the time I knew how the store was run and the good it was doing. Certainly citizens and business men who kick on the operations of a place like the prison store, would oppose anything. I'm surprised to find even some of the state officials agreeing that the place should be closed.

"Well its money that will have to come from the taxpayers, but I doubt if the good work that has been done in former years will be, or even has been carried on," said Mr. Hulburt.

The former prison warden, who resigned his position to go into business in Detroit has long been regarded as one of the most efficient prison officials in Michigan ever had. He didn't believe in coddling prisoners and the inmates had respected him more because of the good he did in just such ways as indicated by his interview pertaining to the prison commissary.

Japan's Homage to T. A. Edison

RENZO SAWADA, consul general of Japan, is pictured with the two huge stone lanterns of oriental design which he presented as a memorial from Japan to Thomas Alva Edison, America's greatest electrical wizard, at the Edison library and laboratory in West Orange, N. J., where the famous inventor spent the major part of his life. More than 70 years ago Edison utilized Japanese bamboo for filaments in his early experiments with the incandescent lamp. The lanterns, each more than six feet high and weighing more than 4,200 pounds, express the Japanese equivalent of the western conception of an "eternal light."

All arrangements have been completed for the Townsend mass meeting to be held Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the First Baptist church when Judge Jefferies of Detroit will come to Plymouth to speak. Chairman William Simpson says he believes the value will be an unusually large crowd because of interest that has been manifested in the movement since the announcement was made in The Mail that Judge Jefferies will be the speaker at their first big meeting here. Mr. Herbert Pinton, 986 Church street, a former resident of Ypsilanti, is greatly interested in the Townsend movement and he states that the local supporters of the plan hope to have the church filled Monday evening.

Frank Barrows Wins Promotion

The many friends of Frank L. Barrows will be pleased to know of the well merited promotion he has received at the hands of his employer, the Kelvinator Corporation of Detroit. Mr. Barrows has been appointed assistant to the general manager of the Leonard Refrigerator Company of Grand Rapids. This company is an important subsidiary of the Kelvinator Corporation, and Mr. Barrows is very familiar with all Leonard activities.

Mr. Barrows was brought to Plymouth in 1919 as production manager of the Marmon Air Rifle Company, in which capacity he has served for eight years. In 1927 he accepted a position as one of the engineers at Kelvinator, and has steadily advanced in his ability and usefulness there. He has earned the recognition that has come to him and his Plymouth friends rejoice with him in his success. He has already entered upon his duties in Grand Rapids. It is expected that Mrs. Barrows and Phyllis will be leaving in the near future and the family will be located in a new home in Grand Rapids. They will be very greatly missed by the many who have come to know them during the years they have lived in Plymouth.

Veterans State Commander Will Be City's Guest

R. J. VandenBerghe To Speak Monday Night. All Are Welcome

Monday evening, January 13, at 7:30 o'clock Plymouth will have the honor of welcoming Roland J. VandenBerghe, state commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars who is coming to Plymouth to give an address upon "Americanization from the Stand Point of War Veterans."

He is coming to Plymouth as the result of an urgent request of members of the Ex-Service Men's club of this city.

They have made arrangements to have the address delivered in the large Jewell & Blach hall and a general invitation is extended to the public to come and hear his talk.

Members of the American Legion and the Auxiliary as well as the posts of all Veterans of Foreign Wars in this part of the state are invited.

Harry Hunter, the newly elected commander of the Ex-Service Men's club will preside at the meeting. The other new officers of the club are Michael McMahon, vice commander; Arno Thompson, secretary, and Carl Blach, treasurer.

State Commander VandenBerghe went overseas in the beginning of the World war and was one of the last to be returned from northern Russia where he was stationed with the Polar Bears. He has been one of the most active workers in Michigan in connection with the veterans and it is assumed that he will have some direct word about the present standing of this legislation in Washington. Mr. VandenBerghe, a former resident of Kalamazoo and Battle Creek, is now located in Detroit and is giving all of his time to veteran affairs.

For the members of the Ex-Service Men and the Auxiliary members, a dinner at 6:30 will precede the public meeting, which starts at 7:30 o'clock.

Silver Wedding Is Celebrated

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Horvath were delightfully surprised at a party given in honor of their silver wedding anniversary, which occurred on December 19. The party given the following Saturday so as not to arouse any suspicion, was planned by their children and many friends in Detroit and Plymouth. It was held in a hall in Detroit, rented for that purpose.

They had been asked to attend a party given for some other friends but it was not long before they discovered it was for them. Mr. and Mrs. Horvath were taken by complete surprise. Neither were able to say a word when they entered the hall and were greeted by a Hungarian Gypsy orchestra playing a wedding song. It took them some time to realize the occasion, but nevertheless they enjoyed the entire evening.

The attendance was a very large one consisting of two hundred people, several from Plymouth but most of them from Detroit.

Mr. and Mrs. Horvath were served with a beautiful carved silver tray and an equally beautiful new stove, the joint offering of their children and many friends.

The fore part of the evening was spent enjoying some very delicious Hungarian refreshments and music of the couple and the latter part was spent dancing to the tunes of the Gypsy orchestra.

It all ended in the wee hours of the morning with the best wishes of their many friends, wishing for them many more prosperous years of happy married life together.

Mr. and Mrs. Horvath have resided in Plymouth for the past fifteen years and their many local friends join in wishing them continued prosperity.

Motorists Are Given A Warning

Chief of Police Vaughn Smith has issued a special warning to motorists to drive carefully, as the streets and highways are in the most dangerous condition due to the fact that they have been in so far this year. A few minor accidents have been reported to the police department, but fortunately there have been no serious crack-ups. One car skidded into another that had stopped for a stop street sign and knocked it across the highway. Chief Smith urges the greatest of caution in driving and suggests that the speed be reduced to 20 miles or less as long as the ice remains.

Cass Hough Made Bank Director

Cass S. Hough was Tuesday night elected a member of the board of directors of the Plymouth United Savings bank, taking the place of George W. Hunter, who has felt it necessary to resign because of ill health. Mr. Hough has not been feeling the best for sometime past and it is his desire to relieve himself of all unnecessary duties.

The election of Mr. Hough Jr. to this place is of more than ordinary interest because of the fact that while he was elected to take the place of Mr. Hunter on the board, he will fill a position held for over a quarter of a century by his father, Edward C. Hough, who retired from the board during the past year.

The annual meeting of the bank will take place Tuesday evening, January 14.

Miss Velda Larkins, who was painfully injured in an automobile accident early last week, has been discharged from the Plymouth hospital where her injuries were attended. Miss Larkins, who resides at 543 Deer street, was returning home from an errand when her car skidded on the ice, and she was badly cut and bruised as she crashed into a telephone pole. The accident was a most unfortunate one for Miss Larkins as her mother died just a few days previous.

Northville Has A Serious Fire

Fire early Thursday morning practically destroyed the entire interior of one of the large brick houses owned by the Ford Motor company on East Main street in Northville and occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Flaherty and their four children.

It was shortly after 5 o'clock when Mr. Flaherty was awakened by the smell of smoke. He hurried to the basement and tried to put out a fire that was burning back of the boiler. Apparently the flames had spread between the walls to the upper part of the house.

Both Northville and Plymouth fire departments were called in an effort to save the structure, but the fire had made such progress that little could be done to prevent the destruction of the upper part of the structure as well as the interior. Mr. Flaherty and his family were rescued by the fire department and are now in the Northville hospital.

THE DIFFERENCE

A few years back when the state highway department was constructing the new bridge over the Huron river on Grand River, The Plymouth Mail strongly urged Grover Dillman, who was then state highway commissioner, to build down from the roadway to the water's edge some sort of a driveway so that fishermen and tourists who carry with them their own boats might find a way to get their own boats in some convenience down to the water. We especially urged this thing at the crossing of Highway 16 over the Huron because it is quite a common practice for people in this part of the state to place boats in the Huron river and then float down to Ann Arbor, a beautiful river trip that can be easily made in a day. But due to the desire of boat liverymen and others to get all the dollars they can, it is now practically impossible to get a boat onto the river at this point.

Mr. Dillman told The Mail that he thought the idea was alright, that he would look into it and that he would give it "consideration."

As the work on the bridge progressed and the editor of The Mail saw nothing was being done to keep open one of the state's beautiful waterways to public use, another appeal was made to Mr. Dillman for action.

On the final request, he somewhat sharply retorted that it would require the purchase of additional land alongside the bridge to accomplish this purpose and the state had no funds for such a purpose. This fact we disputed at the time and we again contend that it isn't necessary to buy land to open up this river to tourists and others who enjoy using their own boats.

The final result of all this letter writing and numerous personal trips to Lansing by the editor of The Mail was nothing. As far as tourists are concerned, the Huron river is absolutely closed to the public at M-16, unless you hire a boat.

The other day when the new state highway commissioner, Murray D. Van Wagoner, was in Plymouth, The Plymouth Mail re-opened this old subject with some hesitation. It was pointed out to Mr. Van Wagoner the many advantages to the tourists who come to Michigan from the south if at points where state highways cross rivers, the state could build roadways down to the edge of the streams and mark the places in such a way that tourists would know they are welcome to put their boats on the streams. The Mail mentioned two or three places in the state, the crossing of the Huron, the highway crossing of Indian river between Burt and Mullett lakes, as places where tourists cannot place their own boats on the rivers due to the fact that boat liverymen have it so arranged that the streams are inaccessible.

But did Mr. Van Wagoner stall? Did he offer a dozen reasons as to why this couldn't be done?

Not for a second. The highway commissioner, who has already done much to add beauty and convenience to state highways, was quick to grasp the general idea of the suggestion.

Mr. Van Wagoner didn't say, and he wasn't asked to say what he might do about the suggestion of The Plymouth Mail in making available to tourists and boatmen wherever possible the streams of Michigan at highway crossings, but if he follows out this idea as he has others, there will be action.

Wouldn't it bring thousands of more tourists to Michigan if they knew they could put a boat on the Huron river at M-16 and spend a day floating down to Ann Arbor, if they could put a boat on the river at Grayling at a public river landing and float down the stream to some other public river landing, if they could do the same thing on the Marquette, the Muskegon, the Kalamazoo?

The Plymouth Mail firmly believes that if the state highway department will open up at highway crossings the beautiful riverways of Michigan to tourists, making accessible river trips, with places at various highway crossings where boats can be put on the river and taken off the river at little inconvenience, possibly with suitable camps nearby, as there are in many places, a vast new field of attractions for summer visitors will be opened in Michigan.

Maybe The Plymouth Mail is wrong on this idea, maybe Mr. Dillman was right—but at any rate the present Democratic state highway commissioner seems to think there is merit in the suggestion. We do know, from his record of the past two or three years, that he WILL give the matter consideration and that if he thinks it is advisable, he WILL do something about it. Happily for Michigan, Mr. Van Wagoner possesses some of the characteristics of Alex Groesbeck, the best governor Michigan ever had. He can say NO and he can say YES—that's something that Mr. Dillman didn't do on this question. The Plymouth Mail would have felt a whole lot better about the Huron river idea if Mr. Dillman had done one or the other. Instead he let the matter drift along, and finally ending it all with a statement that can be challenged as to its correctness.

THE CORRECT VISION

It is with pleasure that The Plymouth Mail in behalf of the entire community, expresses its appreciation to the school board for its ability to see a public need, and after finding it, taking the proper steps to fill that need. Not only should the board be commended for doing something of real benefit for the entire public, but it should be commended because of its ability to vision into the future. The construction of this public amphitheatre on the north side of the city where outdoor events of all kinds can be held during suitable weather, on land that practically adjoins the big county parkway system, the cost of the work to be paid out of federal funds, is but the first step that should be taken by Plymouth to make as one big unit the city and the county park. Workmen for the county are today building a big wading pool for children—Plymouth children—in the Plymouth-Riverside park, just a few hundred feet south of the location of the new amphitheatre. All that is required to accomplish this ideal of the future is just a little more vision such as has been displayed by the school board—and then after getting that view, DOING THE THINGS THAT WILL BRING RESULTS.

CO-OPERATION

Mr. Clarence Elliott, who has been welfare director of Washtenaw county, has been selected by the city commission as the new city manager. Mr. Elliott has already assumed his new duties. The Plymouth Mail wishes to him success in his new position. It is the duty of every city official and all city employees, as well as the community, to cooperate with him and help him make the job a success. Maybe some had other candidates they would like to have had on the position, but Mr. Elliott seemed to have won the greatest amount of support from commission members and in view of this fact it is the duty of all to work with him and cooperate in seeing to it that the affairs of the city are rightly handled.

Rambling Around With Michigan Editors

FINGERPRINTING EVERYBODY

The movement for the recording of everybody's fingerprints seems to be gaining momentum. In several communities voluntary organizations have been formed to encourage parents to have their children's fingerprints recorded—and, incidentally, their own. Many municipalities now require the fingerprinting of every applicant for a public job. Sometimes when these fingerprints are sent to Washington for comparison with those of persons of known criminal records, strange discoveries are made. Crooks of varying degrees have thus been detected in their efforts to get on the public payroll in positions of trust.

The largest collection of fingerprints anywhere in the world is in the Department of Justice in Washington. An even larger file may soon have to be established, to identify persons claiming benefits under the new Social Security Act. There does not seem to be any good argument against keeping a fingerprint record for identification purposes. Criminals and their lawyers are about the only serious objectors.

Recently several "missing" men were located by means of their fingerprint records, and the identity of several persons killed in accidents was established by the same means. The Department of Justice has opened its files to those who wish to place their own fingerprints on records, and the number availing themselves of this privilege is steadily growing.—Wm. St. Charles in The Dearborn Independent.

GRASSHOPPERS AND BALONEY

No matter how you spell it, it's still baloney. No matter how you slice it, it's still baloney. We should keep this in mind as we enter 1936 which may go down in history as the great baloney year. There have been the year of the big wind, the grasshopper year, the year of drought and the winter of the blue snow. Right ahead of us is what may go down in history as the great baloney year. The new year is an election year and the baloney makers are already rehearsing their vats preparatory to a record run. The gut casings are on hand and baloney bulls are on their one-way trip to the backing plants. The boll weevil may work on cotton, the borer may once again help curtail the corn crop, late freezes may nip the peaches and cherries, rust may get the wheat, but there is nothing in sight to prevent a baloney year.—Vernon J. Brown in The Ingham County News.

CALLS IT FANTASTIC

No more fantastic and unfair scheme was ever offered to any people than the Townsend pension plan is the opinion of one of Michigan's leading Republican representatives.

The Representative favors a "deserved pension" for the aged but when any man or group of men announce that every person, regardless of his needs, who may have worked or who may have loafed all his life, who has reached the age of 60, shall go pensioned at $200 a month—then that man or group is advocating something which everyone knows to be unjust and unfair, merely a scheme to create discontent, knowing that the plan will never be adopted, that it cannot work, and that it is but an attempt to purchase votes, a promise of something which will never materialize.—Charles Seed in The Rochester Clarion.

GREATLY GOOD

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

THIS is the greatness of great deeds, By which the humble man succeeds Where oftentimes the mighty fails; That greatness is not measured in the name we wear or wealth we win, Where often littleness prevails; For any can be great who would, Since all men can be greatly good.

This is the greatness of this earth, That greatness counts not wealth as worth Nor title the important thing; For men, what task they may pursue, Are measured by the good they do, Not by the profit it may bring; The measure of man's brotherhood Is merely being greatly good.

This is the greatness of the great, Whether they nobly lead the state Or nobly teach a village school; That they more happiness have brought, By noble principles they taught Than those who poorly teach or rule; Both shall be judged, as heaven would, By whether they are greatly good.

White-Breasted Nuthatch The White-Breasted Nuthatch is a small bird. With his wings closed he appears to be bluish gray above and white beneath, with the top of the head and neck black. The tail is blue-gray above with white border and black markings. There is a white line of markings across each wing. The sharp beak is dull gray in color.

The large-mouth black bass, which is called a "trout" in southern states, attains a weight of close to 20 pounds in Florida waters.

Earthworms multiply by producing eggs which are laid in capsules in the ground. The young become fully grown in four or five months.

To Tell of America And Its Foreign Born Citizens on Jan. 15th

"America and its Foreign Born," will be the pertinent subject discussed by Edward Corsi, former Commissioner of Immigration at Ellis Island, when he speaks before the Detroit Town Hall in the Fisher Theatre, Wednesday morning, Jan. 15, at 11 o'clock. Corsi's book, "In the Shadow of Liberty," a fascinating chronicle of the island's history, brought him into the national limelight last year. His extraordinary career and valuable services in helping the foreign born were recounted recently in the "New Yorker" which published a series of two "Profiles" on Corsi.

Himself an immigrant, Edward Corsi passed through the portals of Ellis Island, in 1907, when he was ten. After many years of poverty and struggle, he first came into public notice as Director of Harlem House, New York. There he found an organized opposition to his program of Americanization; the powerful Italian language newspapers did not want their subscribers to learn to read English. But Corsi persisted, and after a time Harlem House became the center of neighborhood life. Hundreds of bewildered immigrants, fresh from Sicily or Piedmont, brought their problems to Corsi.

In New York, Corsi is considered the First Citizen of the Italian racial groups, and his hold upon their affections is even greater than that of Mayor LaGuardia. His labors among the foreign born brought him increasing recognition, and in 1931 he was called to Washington. Herbert Hoover said, "I want you to go down to Ellis Island and clear up the mess there." Edward Corsi did. At 34, the youngest Commissioner of Immigration in the country, Corsi's sympathetic understanding and competent direction brought many improvements on Ellis Island. He resigned to become director, Home Relief Bureau, New York. He is now Assistant Deputy Welfare Commissioner of New York. His lecture will avoid international politics and deal specifically with the problems of foreign born in this country. Tickets are on sale now at Grinnell's and Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at the Fisher Theatre.

He has already assumed his new position and has moved his family from Detroit to Plymouth. Mr. Smith is regarded as one of the most proficient men in electrical appliance service in this part of the state and Blunk Bros. feel that they have been fortunate in securing him as a member of their staff. This department, started within the past year or so, has grown by leaps and bounds and the necessity of having some one to take charge of the service work has been felt for some time. Mr. and Mrs. Smith and their two children have taken a residence on Burroughs avenue.

How Plymouth Mail Lost and Found Dept. Reunites Lost Ones

Lost—a husband. Lost—a wife. Quite naturally when anything or any one is lost, the first place to go is to the lost and found columns of the want ad page of The Plymouth Mail.

So when a husband loses his wife or a wife loses her husband, the first thing they think of is The Plymouth Mail.

Frequently wives and husbands make appointments, to meet at a certain time at a certain place. Sometimes these arrangements through one reason or another go wrong. Then consternation prevails.

The other night Wendell Lent was supposed to meet Mrs. Lent in Ann Arbor at a certain time and a certain place.

That is, he thought he knew the time and the place. But, as very, very frequently happens, plans didn't work out just as expected. It wasn't long before the phone in The Mail office rang. It was Mrs. Lent, wanting to know about her husband. The "service department" of The Mail got busy. Soon Mr. Lent was calling The Mail from Ann Arbor wanting to know about Mrs. Lent. The service department of The Plymouth Mail quickly had the lost husband and the lost wife returned to their rightful owners—just like the lost ads in The Mail always return lost articles to their rightful owners.

Coyote or wolf hunting—take your choice—is likely to be a popular pastime again this winter in the region west of Milford. J. L. Buxton and Floyd Beagle were out Monday in company with thirty or so farmers of the vicinity says The Milford Times. With the aid of a pair of hounds two animals were put up and ran over a large territory, with the quarry eventually escaping when darkness caused abandonment of the hunt. Remains of a half eaten bird and rabbit were found, as well as evidence of deer. There are said to be quite a number of the coyotes preying on farmers' flocks and small game in that region.

Plymouth residents will be interested in the following newspaper mention taken from the Cassopolis Vigilant, as it has reference to a brother of Mrs. Mark Chaffee of this city. We are pleased to note the selection of John Woodman to the post of county agricultural agent for Van Buren county—pleased because we know Mr. Woodman and know he will be of real service to his county. He comes from a family of real farmers—men who have made a thorough study of agriculture. His grandfather was a VanBuren pioneer, his father, the late Jason Woodman, successfully farmed some of the same land and was the first agricultural agent of Kalamazoo county and for a number of years a member of the State Board of Agriculture, a post in which we hope some day to see his son, John. He frequently spoke at farm institutes in Cass county. John's brother, David Woodman, was Cass county's first agricultural agent and did a splendid work here. John remained on the home farm and has demonstrated his ability for the job of county agent by the work he has done there. One of the most successful potato growers in Michigan, he is also an orchardist, a grape grower, and a producer of beef cattle. He is a practical man who can be of real service to his fellow farmers.

TAUGHT TO READ

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

THEY put it first of our three R's. The fathers of our stripes and stars. Yes, when they gave the land a tool Of liberty, the public school. They placed it in the teacher's hand. With this requirement, this command: Whatever else the land may need, The children must be taught to read.

But there is not a nation known To earth but may be overthrown And books, since books are made by men, May teach us error now and then. For fools may write, or treason print. And one thing say, another hint. And children must be taught, indeed, Much more than merely how to read.

And so I say, to those who teach, Who shape our morals and our speech, Who would not let the children drink Polluted water, there is ink. And we who would the children lead, Must teach the children what to read.

Find Icy Roads Way Down South

Plymouth friends of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Mastick, who took Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Rowe of Milford, parents of Mrs. Mastick, to Florida recently where the Rowes will spend the winter, will be interested in a letter Mrs. Rowe sent back to her son's paper, The Milford Times.

Mr. Rowe has not been in the best of health for the past year or so and the family believed that the winter spent at St. Petersburg, Florida, would be of benefit to him. Mr. and Mrs. Mastick plan to stay only for a brief time and are expected home at the end of the present week or the first of next.

Mrs. Rowe's interesting letter in the paper she worked on so many years, follows in full:

Sunday, Dec. 29.
"Little did I think when we left Milford Friday morning headed for the south, that we were to encounter sub-zero weather in Kentucky or an ice storm in Georgia that would do anything I remember in Michigan, save that memorable one back in the early twenties."

When we stopped at Lima for lunch it was much colder than when we started, and when we stopped at a gas station at Erlanger, Ky., the attendant said it was 9 below that morning. When we stopped at Williamsport, the readings there that morning were 10 to 12 below. We did not mind, however, in our heated car, and Saturday brought milder weather and the roads were rather slippery.

As we neared Chattanooga that night it began to rain and freeze and we got into the city with chains seeing a good many cars stalled and occasionally one in the ditch. By 11 this morning Earl thought we could proceed, and by keeping down to a 25 mile per hour speed we arrived at Atlanta. Not much traffic on the highway and believe me, all seemed to be traveling with what Judge Maher calls "dire care and caution." We did not see any signs of accidents. But what we did see was ice-coated trees as well as every bit of vegetation.

It was all indescribably beautiful, the evergreens with their cover of silver, and many of them bent low with their weight. The wires were heavy with many strands as big as ropes, and occasionally the poles were down, and the wires broken.

In the towns the shade trees were a sight, many of their branches having fallen off. Some sections of Atlanta had no current tonight. We hope to be able to proceed tomorrow. Earl kept wishing the sun would come out, and in that case a scene of indescrib-

What To Feed Birds That Spend Winters In Michigan Climate

Of all the things we can do for birds in winter the most important is to feed them. Especially when the snow is deep or there is an icy glaze on the snow and weeds, they are in danger of starvation. It cannot be repeated too often that it is hunger that kills the birds, not the cold.

One of the cheapest ways to feed birds, if one has a farm or a little garden, is to leave standing a few rows of wheat, corn, or even a good crop of weeds.

For permanent feeding, berry-bearing shrubs can be planted, or millet or maize can be grown each year and either left where it grew or tied with other grain about a tree.

Seeds are the food of a large proportion of the birds. Wheat, oats, sunflower, corn, or any prepared bird seed are very welcome. Other birds eat insects, and any meat product such as suet and lard scraps will attract these birds. Suet rubbed into the bark of trees will be dug out by the Brown Creeper.

Other foods which can be put out are: meal-worms, cut-up apples (Cedar Waxwings like rotten apples) buckwheat, crackers, crumbs, coconut, meat, broken dog biscuits, hemp seed, nut meats of all kinds, especially native nuts or peanuts, rolled oats, popcorn, pumpkin or squash seeds, raw or boiled rice. Suet has been proved to be most popular to most birds.

Common birds which come for suet are: the Nuthatches, both White and Red-breasted, Chickadees and their relatives the Titmice, Brown Creepers, Hairy and Downy woodpeckers, etc.

Bluejays will eat almost anything. Cardinals are partial to sunflower seeds. Juncos ask only hay chaff, an inexpensive food which will gladden their little hearts. These snowy days. They remember where it is and will dig down through a fresh light fall of snow. They will also eat other small seeds.

Water is very scarce in the winter, and although it will always draw birds, in the winter it is even more appreciated. Do not abandon your station in the spring. Keep it supplied and watch the summer procession of birds. In late summer the parent Chickadees and Titmice will bring their young to the station.

able beauty would have been presented. For miles there was just one picture after another, and I was tired with the effort of trying to see both sides of the road at once. But Old Sol discreetly hid his face and we are hoping that he will be coming into the open by the time we get into Florida. Hope you, all and everything is all right at home."

Club Program Is Interesting One

January third, before a small but appreciative audience of members of the Woman's Club, Mrs. Russell A. Roe presented a most interesting program. The musical portion of the program came first, being a violin recital by Miss Doris Hamill. Miss Hamill was accompanied by her sister, Mrs. Maurice Woodworth. Their first number was "Havaneise," by Saint Saens which was followed by the more familiar "Gypsy Airs," by Sarasate. Plymouth may take just pride in having two such talented musicians in their midst.

Mrs. R. E. Cooper then gave a review of a novel of American life entitled "Edna," his wife, by Margaret Ayres Barnes. The story was that of an educationally unimpressive and unimpressive young woman wedded to a dynamic, forward moving young man. It carries them from their romance in 1900 in a small town in Illinois to their ripe maturity in the 1930's in their pent house in New York City. The story was exceptionally well written, entertaining and worth while to judge from Mrs. Cooper's able and comprehensive review.

Miss Edna M. Allen spoke briefly on the history of character clubs for girls in the Plymouth high schools, describing the type of appeal the Campfire, Girl Scout and Girl Reserve clubs had for the younger and older girls. The Girl Reserve movement was especially suited she felt to the senior high girls and the benefits that Plymouth girls receive being included in the Outer Circle group of the Detroit organization were clearly stressed.

Since the next meeting, January 17th is one that should interest everyone and the speaker Dr. Luthi M. Sade is of such outstanding merit the Woman's Club has changed the hour of the meeting to 8 o'clock in the evening. It will be an open meeting. Everyone interested in hearing Dr. Sade's subject, "Our New Knowledge of Glandular Treatment," is urged to attend this meeting at 8 p.m., January 17th in the Crystal Dining Room of the Mayflower hotel. Mrs. Albert E. Curry is chairman for the evening assisted by Mrs. Charles Humphreys, Mrs. James Derridy, Mrs. George Robinson, Mrs. John F. Root, Mrs. William R. Shaw, Mrs. Paul Wiedman and Mrs. L. E. Wilson.

CANDY TIME

CANDY time is any time, for every one loves candy or there is something wrong with the department of interior. With the time and materials for making candy, there is no sport that can be more entertaining. For those who have no taste for the making of it, candy can be supplied in countless varieties even in small cities, at prices which are not unreasonable.

Peanut Brittle

Take a pound of peanuts, shell, remove the brown husks and roll with a rolling pin until the nuts are like coarse crumbs. Take one pound of sugar, place in a thick iron or heavy aluminum pan over heat and stir until the sugar is well melted, stirring well from the sides of the pan. Add the nut meats with one-fourth of a teaspoonful of salt, mix well and pour onto a buttered baking sheet.

English Toffee

Put two cupfuls of sugar, one and one-half cupfuls of sirup, one-fourth teaspoonful of salt, two tablespoonfuls of vegetable oil or to cook until firm ball is made when dropped into cold water, or 250 degrees F. Stir often, as it scorchers easily. Do not add the oil until the very last of the cooking. When a hard ball is formed add one teaspoonful of vanilla and pour in a thin layer on an oiled slab or baking sheet. When cold break into pieces. This makes about two pounds.

To avoid the sugaring which spoils so many amateur's candy, use a few tablespoonfuls of any corn sirup—this will keep fudge smooth without graining.

Men of achievement apparently enjoyed just about the same average length of life two or three thousand years ago as they do today. The average age at death of fifty-two eminent men of antiquity such as Aristotle, Plutarch, Seneca and Euripides, was sixty-six years. Of eighty mathematicians and seventy-five poets of modern times are average age was sixty-four years. Average length of life of United States Presidents was found by the life insurance company making this study to be sixty-eight years.

Word was received from Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Matevia of their safe arrival at Pasadena, California. Mr. Matevia started his new job the third day after arriving there, also was expecting to attend the Rose Bowl game on New Year's day.

The Plymouth Mail has received a card from Ben Gilbert, who with Mrs. Gilbert and their daughter, are spending the winter in Florida, telling of their safe arrival in that state. He adds that they are enjoying some of the fine winter weather the east coast of Florida is noted for. They do not expect to return until early spring.

Glenn Smith and his son Clifford, and Myron Mawhorter, who spent a few days up near Baldwin fishing last week, have returned home. He is 69 years old and is living alone since his wife died last May. The neighbors have been kind enough to do his chores for him. All sincerely hope he will soon recover.

Traveling has been exceedingly difficult during the past few days owing to the icy condition of the highways. While most of the ice was worn off the main thoroughfares early in the week, the roads where travel has not been so great have been almost unsafe for travel. Numerous cars have skidded into ditches, resulting in jammed fenders, but few about here suffered serious injuries.

William Conner who is not often confined to his home by illness, has been suffering for more than a week from a severe cold. He missed a meeting of the Rotary club last Friday, thereby ending a perfect attendance record of many years. However he hopes to make up the meeting at some of the nearby places before the week is over if his health permits.

Alfred Morton, local insurance writer, was over at the home of his parents north of Wayne over Sunday. Piled up on the Pere Marquette tracks that cross the back end of the Morton farm were four railroad coal cars that had been tipped over, spilling over 300 tons of coal onto the ground. A part of one of the breaks on one of the cars had apparently become loosened and dropped upon the wheels of one of the cars, causing four of them to tip over.

Delbert Cummings, well known Plymouth world war veteran who was one of the bonus marchers to Washington four years ago, has been released from one of the state CCC camps and has entered the Michigan State college where he will take the winter short course in poultry raising. He expects to complete the work sometime in March. During the past two years he has been a member of the veterans' camp near Bay City. This camp was made up largely of veterans who were in the bonus army.

State Highway Commissioner Murray D. Van Wagoner has advised Fred D. Schrader, who has charge of the Rotary club meeting for Friday, January 17, that he will come to Plymouth on that date and give the club an address upon the work of the state highway department. Mr. VanWagoner, when here the other day making up a Rotary meeting, was asked the other day if he could arrange to visit the club soon and make a talk to the members. He has advised the club that he will be here next week.

Having lost their battle to keep alive the seven young barn owls hatched late in the season, the two old owls have left their roost and apparently gone south, states Samuel Spicer who has watched with more than usual interest the efforts of the owls to keep alive their young brood. Only one of the young owls was able to survive, and that is now able to take care of itself and is still here. Mr. Spicer states that the owls generally leave for the south in October.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Wilson of Detroit are leaving for West Palm Beach, Florida this week where they will spend the remainder of the winter. The former popular sheriff of Wayne county, who is now one of the biggest milk distributors in the country, left the Plymouth Mail office before leaving to be sure and have the address of the paper changed, stating that they wanted to be sure and get every copy. "We keep track of our many old friends through The Mail," he stated. Mr. Wilson is one of the original subscribers to the paper, having taken it ever since Editor Steers started the publication on its successful career nearly half a century ago.

No Ice Fishing On Lakes in Park

Fishermen take warning! Don't waste your time to go out to Phoenix lake or Newburg lake to fish through the ice. You can't do it.

The Wayne county road commission has decided that to cut holes through the ice creates a possible hazard for the hundreds of skaters who are now using these places for skating purposes. It is for this reason they have issued strict orders against ice fishing in either Phoenix or Newburg lakes.

A number of local fishermen have gone to the lakes, only to be told that they cannot be permitted to cut holes through the ice. Plymouth parents have been well pleased to know that there are three safe places for their children to skate about here, the new Ford lake on the north side of the city, Phoenix and Newburg. At all of the places, there are guards to watch out for the safety of the youngsters, who also keep the ice cleared of snow.

son. Only the immediate family was present.

The happy couple left immediately on a few days' wedding trip to the western part of the state. They will make their home this winter with his parents at 251 Auburn avenue.

The groom is very well and favorably known in Plymouth and his many friends extend to him and his bride the very best wishes for a long, happy wedded life. The bride is a popular resident of her home city.

Tells of Christmas Observance Held in Mid-Atlantic Ocean

An interesting letter has been received by The Plymouth Mail from Thomas E. Hoakley, who resides on the Sheldon road just north of Plymouth, but is now on a visit to relatives in England. Mr. Hoakley wrote the letter just before landing at Plymouth, England. He added a postscript in which he stated that an interesting coincidence happened on the dock in New York just as he was embarking on his voyage when a representative of the shipping company who met him at the dock proved to be an ex-service man who served with him in France.

The interesting communication which tells of Christmas on shipboard follows:

Of all the happy seasons of the year Christmas is usually the one when we wish to be in our own home and about our own table. For thousands however this is impossible. This United States liner is only one of scores of American vessels which will be tied up at foreign ports this Christmas Tide.

At the time I am writing this we are several hundred miles off the coast of Ireland hastening toward our journey end at a good clip, so that the captain believes we will reach Plymouth Harbor about midnight tomorrow.

We have had a very unusual voyage, warm weather and smooth water for the most part all the way some days we have been able to play our deck games without our coats.

For various reasons the captain decided we should celebrate Christmas today. Last night the first preparations were made. I was sitting in the social hall when things began to happen. First one of the room stewards came in and put down a box, then another did the same, others followed with packages and bundles and after a while the chief steward entered and locking one of the doors pointed to the spot in front of it and said "Right There." Paper sacks and packages continued to arrive and pretty soon my own room steward came in hauling one end of a Christmas tree!

From this time on it was interesting to watch about six men setting up the evergreen on the stand with each contributing his own ideas of how it should be trimmed. The electrician appeared to supply an extension cord and to test the bulbs and presently the lady steward came in and proceeded to open packages of cotton wool, tinsel and trinkets.

After the many colored lights had been arranged and lit it was amusing to watch one of the white coated stewards as he took bunches of tinsel and threw them from quite a distance at the tree so that they would fall on the limbs and hang as much as possible like nature's icicles. You could tell by the whimsical smile on his face that he knew he was getting it on just right.

When the tree was finished the chief steward appeared again with large stockings of the special Christmas kind for the two children aboard and gave them to the parents to put the children's names on. Today the children have their toys and I have seen not only many of the passengers but the captain himself on the floor playing with them.

This evening we had our Christmas dinner of nine courses the high spots for me being the American roast turkey and the English plum pudding. We each had as favors a paper hat and toy and what a hubbub we made with our rattles and whistles! Although it was not actually Christmas day we certainly had the Christmas spirit as we steamed across the ocean to Merrie England.

Obituary

MRS. ESTELLE INGLE
Requiem high mass was sung in the Church of the Madonna Twelfth St. and Oakman Blvd., Detroit, at 10 a.m. Saturday for Mrs. Estelle Ingle, of 2510 W. Davison Ave., preceded by prayers at 9:15 in the Henry J. Hastings Funeral Home, 4821 Second Blvd. Mrs. Ingle, who died Wednesday, January 1st, at her home, retired from The Michigan Bell Telephone Co. two and one-half years ago, after having worked there 45 years and 10 months, the longest service record of any of the company's women employees. She was the only aunt of Stanley Corbett of Plymouth and was well known in Plymouth where she had frequently visited. Mr. Corbett and his daughter Lorraine attended the services. She was born in Detroit, Dec. 9, 1872, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Mark F. McGraw. Her father at one time was a City alderman. She started work with the telephone company July 5, 1887, when there were only 1,700 telephones in Detroit. She was the City's youngest operator at the time. Four months later she became one of Detroit's four long distance operators and next was promoted to the manager's office where she handled public relations.

For 30 years she was in the directory department. The last 10 years of her service she had charge of the compilation of all the company's directories for the territory outside Detroit. She retired May 1, 1933, and married William R. Ingle, April 14, 1934. Mrs. Ingle was a charter member of the Wolverine Chapter No. 10, Telephone Pioneers of America, and served two years as chapter vice president. She was a member of the national organization before the local chapter was organized and was a Michigan delegate to three national meetings. She was a sister of the late Mrs. Josephine Corbett.

Surviving, in addition to her husband, are two nephews, Mark F. and Stanley R. Corbett.

WARREN D. KIRK

Warren D. Kirk was born on March the 18th, 1911, in Northville Township, just outside the town of Northville, and passed from this life on the morning of January the 7th, 1936.

Warren was the youngest of eight children born to John and Maude Kirk. A sister and a brother preceded Warren into the great Beyond, and there remain to mourn his loss, the father and mother, two brothers, Russell A. Kirk of Plymouth, Howard Kirk of Detroit and three sisters, Mrs. Muriel Simmons of South Lyon, Mrs. Leah Winford of Detroit and Mrs. Edna Armstrong of Detroit.

Another youth has succumbed to the ravages of the Great White Plague, as have two other members of the family. For four and a half years Warren has battled against this disease, and in the early morning of January the seventh he was released from his suffering, which suffering could scarcely be told. He was but six months old when the family became resident of Plymouth, so his entire life has been spent in Plymouth, and what schooling he was privileged to secure was in the Plymouth high school. Warren met his fate in life with no small courage, and even to the last days of his life maintained an interest in those of his own, and his friends and to life's doings about him. We commend a father and mother and those of his family who not alone through his sickness, but also the others of the family who were likewise stricken for a peace and devotion that is born only of a power beyond the human. It is here God has manifested His grace and keeping power, and Warren gave beautiful evidence of his faith and

Benjamin F. Fairless, who recently ascended the figurative throne once held by such men as Andrew Carnegie and Charles M. Schwab, when he was named, officially, as president of the $450,000,000 Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation. In his first interview after becoming the "steel king" of America, Mr. Fairless said, "There is more reason to be enthusiastic for its (steel's) future today, than at any time in the past four years."

P.H.S. SQUAD LEADS IN DEBATE STANDINGS

Having won ten consecutive debates, five affirmative and five negative, Plymouth high's debate squad leads its nearest opponent, River Rouge, by three victories in the final ranking of schools belonging to the Twin Valley Association. Dearborn received third place.

Plymouth defeated each member school of the league twice this season, and will be awarded the Twin Valley debate trophy as the result. Dearborn won seven debates, Dearborn five, Lincoln Park five, Ypsilanti four, and Ecorse none. As Dearborn had one 3-0 decision, that school won third place from Lincoln Park. For several years Plymouth, and River Rouge have been rivals for the league championship. River Rouge being victorious for the past two seasons.

Victorious Debaters

Having always held a prominent place in debate competitions throughout this section of Michigan, it was to be expected that Plymouth high's teams would be reasonably successful this season. But the squad has done more than this; Plymouth has won the championship of the Twin Valley Activity Association without a single defeat—a record unparalleled in the history of this League. Such success was due to considerable extent to the coaching of Mr. James Latture, debate instructor at Plymouth High for the past five years, whose constant exertions in behalf of the squad made possible the well-organized cases and arguments of Plymouth speakers, and whose example urged on the members of the squad. It was also due to the debaters themselves, two of whom took part in interscholastic competition for the first time.

It cannot be said that the teams received unusual support from the student body, although much interest was manifested in the outcome of each debate. Audiences at the contests were no larger than usual, and it is to be desired that next season student attendance increase, for the squad gained only passive encouragement from the sincerely interested students. But in spite of this minor discouragement, debaters worked long hours during and after school on their research in to the question of government, munition nationalization. The value of debating to the debater cannot be doubted. Not only did Plymouth speakers gain for themselves valuable experience, but they afforded intelligent discussions of a pertinent question to the high school and Plymouth. They gained the League championship for this school for the first time since 1932. They won Plymouth high an outstanding forensic position among schools throughout the state. Mr. Latture and the debaters have well upheld Plymouth High.

THE SEVEN HUNDRED

In one of their characteristic attacks of chronic dyspepsia Lit-bell, Bo Peep and Peep-a-Boo of the Keyhole Column slandered my good name with a statement to the effect that I consider no column good unless my name appears in it. And they suggest that you read this column if you do not believe that this may or may not be true, but this much I can say with reasonable certainty. The mere mention of my name does not make a good column. And if you don't believe that, try reading the Keyhole Column some time for a change.

In that this is the first column of 1936 I had some stuff which I was going to write on New Year's Resolutions and on Leap Year, but I have received so momentous a news item that I am going to change the subject. Late last week Governor Tom D. Brock sentenced his pig Bessie to the most bitter punishment which a pig can bear, death at the firing squad. Bessie, the pig which has endeared herself to the scores of high school students and which has served as unofficial mascot of the school, sacrificed her pork to the cause of anti-Semitism and did so in the most anti-Semitic manner. Anybody knows that the correct way to kill a pig is to slice its throat and not to blow its brains out. Governor Brock expressed a desire to start the new year with a clean slate and to prepare himself for the next class elections when he feared that those lousy conservatives will try to unseat him because of his P.P.P.P. (Progressive Pig Producers' Project). Governor Brock also stated in refusing to grant a pardon that Bessie eats too much for a pig of her size. The execution took place as soon as Bessie had signed a few last papers endorsing her favorite brands of pig food and dieticians had examined her in their efforts to account for her miraculous weight of 150 pounds. Her last words were "Oink, oink," and something else unprintable. Among the mourners are Tom, the pig next door, and George Kenyon.

Use the liquor from pickled peaches, cherries, plums, or other tart fruits in your mince-meat. It will take the place of boiled cider usually called for and sometimes hard to get.

Nothing can make your iron smoother, if rough, than running it over a fresh spray of cedar. The oil in the cedar keeps it smooth for a long time and makes your linens shine.

SENIOR'S WHO'S WHO

Lionel Jay Coffin was born in 1917, a subject of King George in Calgary, Canada. Calgary, as you may know, is the land of good steers which may account for the way in which Lionel has steered so clear a course in school. As a little boy he steered his way to Toronto where he received his first schooling. Then he steered his way out of the Land of the Mapleleaf forever and went to a little school near Salem for a short time. He came here in the ninth grade and became the blood of many organizations. He has actively participated in every school sport with the exception of baseball and tennis. He is the vice-president of H-Y and also the Student Council and is a member of Drama Club, Latin Club, and Varsity Club. Lionel will hope to go to college if he can get a job between now and then.

"Sacrament" will be the subject of the sermon in all Christian Science Churches throughout the world on Sunday, January 12.

Among the Bible citations in this passage (Rev. 10: 1, 2): "And I saw another. And he came down from heaven, clothed with a cloud; and a rainbow was on his head, and his face was as it were the sun, and his feet as pillars of fire. And he had in his hand a little book open."
Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 558): "This angel of message which comes from God, clothed with a cloud, prefigures divine Science. To mortal sense Science seems at first obscure, abstract, and dark; but a bright promise crowns its path. When understood, it is Truth's prism and praise."

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

Loyd Sutherland, Minister.
This Sunday, January 12th is Forward Movement Sunday in all Northern Baptist Convention Churches. We are but one of the 7,500 Baptist churches composing the Convention. And this Convention, great as it is, represents only one eighth of the Baptists of the world. I am one of 12,000,000 members of the Baptist World Alliance, the largest body of evangelical Christians on the face of the earth.

The pastor's subject will be "Going Forward."

11:15—Bible school.
8:00—Meeting of the B.Y.P.U. Raymond Lefevre leader.
7:00—We are bringing another Stereoscopic lecture depicting the fields and work of our denomination. This because of the mission of the Sunday, to enlighten our membership and friends as to the work being carried on by this great denomination.

The pastor will begin a series of studies at the mid-week service on Wednesday evenings on the subject "How to Win to Christ." By the fine effort of the membership and the cooperation of many outside friends we shall be able from now on to give less emphasis to the matters of finance, and shall now give ourselves to the study of how Christ propagated His church. To win others to Christ is the ultimate end of all church work, else it is in vain; so we urge you to begin with us this all important subject.

The Story of the Bible Told in Pictures

The Crucifixion.—"And they crucified Him, and parted His garments, casting lots: that it might be fulfilled which was spoken by the prophet, they parted my garments among them, and upon my vesture did they cast lots. And sitting down they watched Him there: And set up over His head His accusation written, THIS IS JESUS THE KING OF THE JEWS. Then were there two thieves crucified with Him: one on the right hand, and another on the left. And they that passed by reviled Him, wagging their heads, and saying, Thou that destroyest the temple, and buildest it in three days, save Thyself. If Thou be the Son of God, come down from the cross. Likewise also the chief priests mocking Him, with the scribes and elders, said, He saved others; Himself He cannot save. If He be the King of Israel, let Him now come down from the cross, and we will believe Him. The first three Gospels record, that following the crucifixion there was darkness over all the land and the veil of the temple was rent. "And about the ninth hour, Jesus cried with a loud voice, saying, Eli, Eli, lama sabachthani? that is to say, My God, My God, why hast Thou forsaken me?"—Matt. 27: 46. This illustration is from Merian's story of the Bible in pictures, engraved in 1635-1650.

CALVARY BAPTIST CHURCH

Richard W. Neale, Pastor
If you are searching for a church home, or the Bible's thrilling news of the heavenly home, your search is ended. Come to Calvary and fellowship in a friendly church with the scripture message.

At 10 a.m. on Sunday the pastor plans to preach on the topic, "Dusty Feet In the Master's Hands." Why did Jesus wash His disciples feet? Read John, Chapter 13. There are "two marks of a Christian: giving and forgiving." Other signs are doubtful if these are missing. God's good news will not always be within your reach. Hear it now.

At 7:30 p.m. our pastor plans to take up the theme: "Why Salvation is Safe." If the outlook is doubtful, try the up-look! Jesus says, "My sheep hear my voice, and I know them, and they follow me; and I give unto them eternal life; and they shall never perish, neither shall any man pluck them out of my hand." John 10:27, 28.

You are welcomed to the Community Bible Class on Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. and to our prayer and praise service on Wednesday at 7:30. The Young People's Fellowship meets each Friday at 7:30. Our Sunday Bible School is at 11:15. Take God at His word and you'll leave Calvary with a song in your heart! Come and see 455 South Main street.

ST. JOHN'S EPISCOPAL CHURCH

There will be holy communion services at 10 a.m. Regular church school at 11:15.

That's New Leaf

Most of us spend hours and hours and reams of paper, not to mention brain power thinking up and writing down our New Year's resolutions. Then, most of us promptly forget all about them, and one by one each resolution is broken before the new year has a chance to grow very old. Instead of turning a new leaf, most of us go back to the same old page. Let's make sure that the leaf is turned this year. It's really fairly easy if we don't try to change our temperaments or reform our characters in one full swoop. And here's a splendid resolution to make—Resolved—To so arrange my time that I have more leisure to do all those things I envy others doing, like doing more club work, playing more, seeing more of my friends.

Once that resolve is made, you'd be surprised to see how easy it is to keep it. If just a little thought is used and a little careful planning. First of all, what do you do after breakfast? Scour around washing dishes, making beds and straightening up, with side trips from the bedroom to empty that ash tray in the living room and then back to scouring the bath tub?

The old nursery rhyme about the days of the week presents the right idea. Divide the regular, unavoidable household duties up by days with one morning for a thorough cleaning of the sleeping rooms, another for the living rooms, one morning for mixing cake and cookie dough that can be wrapped in waxed paper and stored in your refrigerator and baked along with the rest of the meal, and so on. Make your plans flexible enough so that a hurried trip to the dentist the morning you had planned to clean the living rooms won't keep you from a bridge tea that afternoon.

When you have your work divided by days just try timing yourself on the various duties for a few days and then sit down and make another schedule for yourself. All this sounds like a lot of trouble and bother and as if it would use up all the leisure you are supposedly struggling so hard to achieve. It really won't though, for once you have a time schedule worked out you'll be surprised at the amount of time you will save doing your work systematically.

It's hard to squeeze such things as mending into the morning hours, but you can generally get all other work done in the morning. The vegetables for dinner can be prepared at the same time you are preparing the baby's vegetables—most people on a schedule find that the best time is right after breakfast—and if the ash trays have been emptied and the pillows in the living room given a shake just before you go to bed, a minute or two in the morning will keep it in spotless order you desire.

And another thing that saves time is to plan the family's meals for a week in advance. Make the plan elastic enough to take into consideration the fact that there may not be enough chicken left over from Sunday to cream for Tuesday's luncheon. Then go out and do your marketing. If you've an electric refrigerator you can purchase all your food at week-end prices. But whether your refrigerator is electric or not, you will save time when marketing, by planning your meals in advance.

If your time schedule is carefully worked out I'm almost willing to guarantee that you'll have all the leisure you've wanted so long to attend meetings, go to parties, romp with the children or just sit and read. And it'll be one New Year's resolution you've kept.

Origination of Word "Tram"

The word "tram" is sometimes said to be derived from Outram, a man who ran vehicles on stone rails in 1800. But another and just as feasible suggestion is that it is connected with a German word, "traum," meaning a talk or dream. This was applied as long ago as the sixteenth century to trucks used in coal mines, which ran on long wooden beams as rails.

Once that resolve is made, you'd be surprised to see how easy it is to keep it. If just a little thought is used and a little careful planning. First of all, what do you do after breakfast?
