

Business Better In Europe Says Charles Bennett

Daisy Executive Is Back From Trip To Old Continent

Back from a business trip to England and Central Europe for the Daisy Manufacturing company, President Charles H. Bennett, who has been bringing the good news to this city that the export business of the local company, he believes, will be larger during the next year than it has been at any time since the war.

Mr. Bennett, who was accompanied by Mrs. Bennett on the trip, states that this is the first business tour he has made of the European continent since the World War. Besides returning with the interesting news that he believes he has found additional markets for some of the toys produced in Plymouth's big Daisy plant, he has returned with an entirely different idea about Chancellor Adolph Hitler of Germany and what he is doing for that country than generally prevails on this side of the Atlantic.

He declares that Hitler has accomplished a tremendous amount of good for his people.

"In fact Germany is the only country I visited that seems to have progressed at all since my last visit to that part of the world just previous to 1914. There seems to have been a general effort to keep the buildings, the streets, the railway cars, bridges and highways in perfect condition," said Mr. Bennett.

"I did not find it so in other countries I visited. Germany seems to have out-distanced all the rest of Europe in modern development.

"One could travel at perfect ease in Germany and go anywhere. The people seemed more than anxious to assist me from this part of the world. If we asked the directions to some place we wanted to visit, most always the person asked would accompany us directly to the place we wanted to go, so there would be no chance of being lost on the way to reach our destination," he said.

"But the tax burden of Germany as well as in all the other countries of Europe seems to be the one thing holding people back. Beer used to sell in Germany for 2 or 3 cents a glass. Now it is 15 cents a glass because of the tax. Of course Hitler probably has had something to do with this as he wants the people of his country to drink milk instead of beer.

"He is compelling every boy and girl in Germany to learn to work on farms and till the soil. In some one out of every two ages of 12 and 22 every boy and girl is placed on a farm for one full year. An officer comes to the home and takes them away. Hitler wants every acre of ground in Germany cultivated. He wants every child to know how to grow things.

"I never saw such wonderful farm lands anywhere in my life. In parts of Germany where I visited the spring season was well advanced and one could easily see growing crops, but not a weed could be seen anywhere.

"He has killed off Communism." (Continued on page seven)

As they approached the intersection of the road, they suddenly swung across the road and although Nielson slammed on his brakes he was unable to avoid a collision. A third car, driven by Hazen Scholtz, of Detroit, crashed into the Nielson car from behind.

The three Plymouth men received minor cuts and bruises which were treated at Beyer Memorial hospital in Ypsilanti. Nielson's car was badly wrecked. Blizzard Raged, Fifty Years Ago

If you think you have waded through deep snow banks during the past winter, let Ernest Roe or Otto Beyer or some of the other "pioneers" tell you something about the snow storm that swept Plymouth and vicinity just 50 years ago Monday.

"There was for three days we couldn't get in or out of town," said Mr. Roe. "Well do I remember it. I had just quit school to go to work in one of the local factories. They said the snow was three and four feet deep. Well it was at least two feet deep anywhere you walked in the streets. We've never had a real snow storm since that day."

Otto Beyer was at that time a youngster out in the country and was at least two feet deep where you walked in the streets. We've never had a real snow storm since that day.

"The sun was shining that April morning 50 years ago when the snow storm started. It snowed all day, all night and the next day. When it was through snowing, a high wind piled it up eight and ten feet high. No one ever saw such snowbanks. But it didn't last very long. When the skies cleared, the sun came out and quickly melted the snow. No one lives about here in those days will ever forget that snow storm," said Mr. Beyer.

Union Services Planned This Afternoon

Children's Programs Scheduled by Several Congregations.

For the most solemn, yet joyous of the holy days on the Christian church calendar, Easter, Plymouth churches, by wearing special services. Ministers will tell the story of the risen Christ, old as the Christian era itself, yet bringing new hope and faith each year, and Easter music will add to the beauty of the services. Special programs by the children also are being planned in many of the churches.

Union Good Friday services will be held at 2 o'clock today at the Methodist church, with the Baptist, Methodist, Presbyterian, Nazarene churches and the Salvation Army participating. Following the annual custom, business places of Plymouth will be closed from 1 to 3 o'clock this afternoon.

The pastors of the churches taking part in the service this afternoon will speak on the general theme, "The Cross and Modern Life." The Methodist choir will sing "So Low, O World," by Stainer, and "O Sacred Head," a chorale. Mrs. James Sessions will offer "At the Cry of the First Bird," and Miss Barbara Horton will sing "He Was Despised," from Handel's "Messiah."

On Sunday at the 10 o'clock service at the Masonic Temple, the choir of the Presbyterian church will present a special musical program, under the direction of Miss Hannah Strassen. The prelude will be "Unfold Thy Portals," by Charles Gounod, and the four anthems, "The Street of Victory," by E. L. Ashford; "Christ Is Risen," by John Prindle Scott; "Alleluia! Christ Is Risen," by Andre Kopolyoff; and "O Morn of cooperation," by states from the entire board. The members of the board who have so successfully aided in steering the business organization through a year that started out to be none too promising is composed of Gen. Lewis Carl Shear, Herbert Swanson, Stewart Dodge and the officers.

For the annual banquet Mr. Murphy brought to Plymouth two speakers to discuss with the business men the important problems that this city has been working on. One is the elimination of rackets and racketeers. The other is the more detailed organization of the Chamber of Commerce, with each line of business working to solve its own problems to its best advantage.

Louis Flint, secretary of the Citizen's League of Detroit and an officer of the Chamber of Commerce of that city, struck hard at all kinds of rackets that seek to take money from the pockets of the merchants without giving anything in return.

He pointed out how the churches, schools, lodges and other civic organizations are frequently made the innocent victims in the development of rackets. Quick advertising stunts, color schemes and scores of other systems have been used and are being used to get good dollars from business men, but never return a penny.

He displayed a series of checks that had been given from the donors' support was for church purposes. But they had been cashed by bootleggers in blind pigs.

Joseph Hooper, prominent Ann Arbor attorney and former president of the Chamber of Commerce of this city, briefly and interestingly pointed out how the various business groups of that city had through cooperation within the Chamber of Commerce and through the organization of separate units, ended disastrous trade wars and brought harmony to the various trades. Mr. Hooper strongly urged support by all professional men, declaring that it is just as important for lawyers and doctors to belong to the business organization as it is the merchants and manufacturers.

Annual Banquet Of Business Men Brings Good News

Organization Now Out Of Debt - Warned Of Rackets

Finishing its fiscal year with the largest cash balance it has had in many years in its treasury and with the largest attendance it ever had at its annual banquet, the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce last Friday night ended the old year and began upon its new one under most favorable circumstances.

Due to the efforts to Secretary Leonard T. Murphy and the board of directors, the organization which started out last year with a deficit of several hundred dollars, is now entirely out of debt and has nearly $450 with which to start the work of the new year.

All of the Christmas decorations purchased for the streets at holiday time have been paid for and there is not an outstanding bill, according to the excellent report made by Stewart Dodge, treasurer of the Chamber of Commerce at the banquet.

Mr. Murphy has had the finest record of cooperation by states from the entire board. The members of the board who have so successfully aided in steering the business organization through a year that started out to be none too promising is composed of Gen. Lewis Carl Shear, Herbert Swanson, Stewart Dodge and the officers.

TAX-TOLL CRAZY

There has been received at the office of The Plymouth Mail some interesting information in support of the plan to build a bridge across the Straits of Mackinaw to connect the Lower and the Upper Peninsulas of Michigan. Some of the communities of the northern part of the state have started a sort of educational campaign so the people of Michigan might be advised as to the necessity of the building of the bridge. That part of the plan is probably advisable, and there can be no objection on the part of any one to the proper enlightenment of the taxpayers of the state on such an important project.

The Straits of Mackinaw over a long period of years served as a sort of barrier to the close operation of the two peninsulas.

First steps to bring these two parts of the state closer together were taken by former Gov. Groesbeck. He inaugurated the highway ferry system across these eight miles of water and proposed that after the boats had been paid for, that there be no charge to the travelling public to cross the Straits. He stated at that time that the ferries were a part of the highway system, that the people were supporting the highway system by high taxation and that they should not be required to pay more just simply to go from one part of the state to the other.

But seemingly the officials who have been in control of the various state administrations since that time have firmly clung to the idea that it is just and proper to take from the pockets of the taxpayers every cent that the taxpayers can raise in one way or another. The ferries and docks were paid for in an exceedingly brief time, but still one who is required or desires to travel from one Peninsula to the other, must pay a tax to travel on boats that their tax money bought and paid for. In other words we are TAXED an additional sum to go from the Upper Peninsula to the Lower Peninsula or the Lower Peninsula to the Upper Peninsula.

Public officials for some reason hate the idea of revoking a tax of any kind, although there is no longer a real need for that tax.

The construction of a bridge across the Straits would without question bring closer together the Lower and Upper Peninsulas. We are quite in favor of it, providing COMPETENT engineers say the plan is feasible and that the bridge can be constructed to last throughout the years and withstand the terrific poundings of ice jams.

But we are utterly opposed to any scheme to make the bridge a toll bridge.

What an asinine proposal!

These promoters of the bridge say that the bridge could probably pay back its costs in twenty years by the collection of a toll from the people who desire to travel from one part of their own state to the other.

Who will pay for the bridge in the first place if it is constructed?

No one except the TAXPAYERS of this state and nation. Every dollar that will go into the construction of the proposed bridge will come direct from the pockets of the people.

Now comes along the fool suggestion that after the proposed bridge is constructed and opened for traffic that the very people who paid for its construction in the first place, must pay an additional tax in order to cross over the bridge.

Please tell us what can be done, what can be said to make the people of this state and country TAX CONSCIOUS?

Will the men and women—yes, the children—who toil long and discouraging hours to make enough money to keep body and soul together, ever wake up to the fact that it is the tax burden a lot of blatant public officials are forcing them to carry that is to a very great extent the cause of their hardships and poverty?

Probably without a thought as to the double tax scheme they are advocating, these good people of northern Michigan who are alert to the needs of that part of the state, would impose another never-ending tax burden upon a very large portion of our population who could ill afford to pay a tax just to cross the bridge.

Probably in no other place in all of these United States have property owners felt the crushing blows of taxes more than have the people of northern Michigan and the Upper Peninsula! They have seen their possessions wiped out away because of their inability to pay HIGH TAXES!

Why, WHY, should any one now advocate a plan to tax people who might desire to cross a bridge that some day may be built across the Straits?

And will you further tell us WHY the state government insists on making a "profit" from the operation of the state ferry system, the proposed bridge may supplant?

Why should not we the people of Michigan be able to drive to the Upper Peninsula or the Lower Peninsula over the tax-paid highways and bridges just as we might drive to Kalamazoo or Grand Rapids without paying an additional tax to cross a river bridge or ferry somewhere?

Instead of the same three ferry boats placed in operation at the beginning of the service across the Straits, there should be at least a half dozen boats operating, paid for OUT OF GAS TAX funds and without a cent of additional tax to the highway travelers of our state.

We ask again, what can be said or what can be done to make the people of Michigan and the rest of the country conscious as to the tremendous TAX burden they are carrying and awaken them to the plight it has brought about?

Good Intentions

Rambling Around With Michigan Editors

NO POLITICS IN P.W.A.—OF COURSE NOT!

Two local carpenters were given work on Decatur's new city hall and fire engine house. Both are good workmen and men of high character, but it was charged against them that they are on record in the office of the County Clerk in Paw Paw as having at the Primary Election in the township of Decatur in September, 1934, committed the crime of voting the Republican ticket.

This being a Government project, the money for the labor being furnished by the Government of the United States, and the men being convicted beyond reasonable doubt of being Republicans, they were relieved of their jobs and others selected to take their places.

Several weeks ago a Decatur truckman applied for temporary work on a road repairing gang. He was handed a blank to fill out. The blank was headed, "Application for Endorsement by VanBuren County Democratic Committee."

It contains 52 questions, among them being the following—Did you vote in the Primary of September, 1934? ... Democratic ... Republican? ... Have you ever run for elective office? ... On what ticket? ... Ever held a political appointive position? ... By whom appointed? ... Are you a graduate of a grammar school? ... High school? ... College? ... Have you a college degree? ... Did you vote in election of November, 1934? ... Have you contributed to any Democratic organization in country? ... To whom? ... How much since August 1, 1932? ... Have you any military service? ... Were you ever convicted of felony? ... What special knowledge or training do you possess which in your opinion would aid in performing the duties of the position for which you apply? ... Can it be possible that politics enters into the selection of men hired for the Public Works Projects?—Arba Moulton in The Decatur Republican.

JUSTICE BY NECESSITY

While the shift from direct relief to WPA jobs is under way many complaints will be heard. Mostly these will come from persons now receiving government aid who are not entitled to it. But little attention should be paid to their moaning. Previous efforts to stop this condition have not been successful. The time has arrived when the intruder upon relief must of necessity be thrown out. When the amount of money that is on hand dwindles, those who are rightly entitled to help by unfortunate circumstances will get what they need. One of the reasons why money has been thrown around is that there has been money to throw. The government must cut its expenses. People are having trouble to pay their taxes. No matter the political complexion of the administration, there must and will be a higher regard for the People's money. What some one may get, some other person pays. There is increasing respect for the payer of public money.—Don Vanderwerp in The Fremont Times-Indicator.

CONGRESS VS. TOWNSEND

Well, we see where Congress has decided to investigate the Townsend Plan folks, and learn how much and where their money all goes. We hope the Congressmen are able to "press the middle valve down" and see how the Plan goes "round and round, and just where it all comes out. Personally, we feel that Dr. Townsend is decent, personally honest, and doesn't know what is going on in every phase of his great movement. When Congress gets through investigating Dr. Townsend and the Plan, we suggest that Dr. Townsend and his followers investigate Congress.—George Averill in The Birmingham Eccentric.

COMMENTS BY A REAL AMERICAN

We observe the American Legion and school organization throughout the state are carrying on Americanism programs in schools. We suggest they invade Detroit and apply that program on a Methodist Bishop that objects to school teachers being obliged to swear allegiance to our Constitution. And while they are so engaged, they might invest the Grayling American Legion and the school authorities there to apply something hot to a preacher there that talks Communism or something just as bad.—Al H. Weber in The Cheboygan Observer.

Rotarians Aid Crippled Tots

Hugh Vandewalker, of Ypsilanti, over a long period of years one of Michigan's outstanding workers in behalf of the crippled children of the state, last Friday appealed to members of the Plymouth Rotary club to do their part again in support of this important work.

Your club last year under the able direction of Charles Bennett made an outstanding success of the campaign. When the final count was taken, there stood Plymouth at the top of the entire list of communities in all of Michigan in the sale of seals for the benefit of crippled tots. We look to you to do as well again this year," he said.

The work of the Rotary club in behalf of crippled children is supported by the annual Easter sale of seals. Plymouth Rotarians do not expect to complete their work before Easter this year, but they have decided to put forth a determined effort to try and equal last year's outstanding record.

Style Silhouettes

We have grown so accustomed to the wonders that science performs in this modern age that we really take them too much for granted. Without thinking, we call our grocer and order Russian caviare, Hawaiian pineapple, tea from China—all of it in perfect condition, none the worse for long journeys.

By the same token, we are equally unthinking when we go to a department store where it is possible to buy a complete wardrobe and furnish a house without any labor other than the tiring business of "shopping," always provided, of course, that one has the necessary wherewithal to make the purchases. The pioneer days when a woman canned and cooked what came from her own garden, and spun the wool and wove the cloth for her clothes and those of her family, while her husband, with the help of the neighbors, built his own house and barn, not to mention most of the furniture, are so far behind us that very few people alive today can remember those conditions.

But it is only comparatively recently that some of the most astounding advances in practical science have made it possible for us to have, very inexpensively, things which were once luxuries, and others which were unheard of a few decades ago. Take, for example, this matter of synthetic materials which look like silks, and often wear much longer. And in this same category are treatment processes which give materials new surfaces and other qualities which were once unheard of.

Rayon was once sniffed at by most women, with that customary disdain which most Americans have for anything not the genuine article, and, to tell the truth, it was at first a sleazy, cheap-looking material, too tawdry for the well-dressed woman to tolerate. But now the skilled research technicians have perfected their processes so that the material is attractive, durable and inexpensive.

It is a synthetic product with which man competes against the silkworm, and is made of wood pulp or cotton linters, both of which have a high cellulose content—cellulose being the substance which the silkworm extracts from the mulberry leaves. This raw material is made first into a liquid, then into fine textile threads which are subsequently woven into materials which resemble the finest silks and satins, but which are far more lasting.

Celacene and acetates are other synthetic textile fabrics. They are made by special chemical processes, and the acetates particularly are soft, drape artistically, and can be dyed in lovely tones which are not obtainable in silks. Charonize fabric is a fabric that is made from pure raw cotton dissolved by chemicals and spun into a very fine thread with a permanent dull luster.

Among the chemical processes which have done a great deal to improve materials is one with the trade name "durene," which means really that cotton has been very finely mercerized. Raw cotton is treated so that the yarn is stronger, more absorbent and lustrous. This is especially nice for gloves, hosiery and underwear.

Cire is that new glossy finish which can be put on one side of the material to give the effect of transparent lacquer having been applied, while "ingrain" applies to those stunning hose which look so clear and clean because the silk yarn from which they are made has all the gum removed and is dyed before being knit.

Gone are the days when one had to worry about cotton and linen materials shrinking, for textile manufacturers can now pre-shrink them. Each piece of goods is tested to determine how much it will shrink each way, and then the whole piece is shrunk exactly to these measurements. "Aqua-sec" means just what it says—waterproof. Materials which have been treated with this process won't water-spot and, what's more, fruit juice and coffee stains can be simply removed with plain soap and water. All cottons, silks, wools, rayons and lightweight furs may be taken care of in this way.

For the woman who travels a great deal, and bewails the creases and wrinkles which make a rag of her favorite formal or morning frock, there is a new anti-crease process which will delight her heart. The yarns are made more resilient with the result that when a garment has been packed, it can be taken out, hung up, and the wrinkles will disappear in a short time.

BOOK SHELF

"The LAST PURITAN," by George Santayana.

When a student and philosopher goes into the business of writing a novel, the result is bound to be something different—something which is rather difficult to measure against the usual accepted standards of a successful novel and classify arbitrarily.

Such is "The Last Puritan," by George Santayana, and the author rather humorously admits, as much in his unusual, extremely fascinating prologue and epilogue. The publishers have gotten around the difficulty by putting a sub-title under the title: "A memoir in the form of a novel."

At any rate Santayana, for many years the beloved and revered professor of philosophy at Harvard university, tells the story of one of his students, Oliver Alden, who he calls the last of the American puritan type. Because Mr. Santayana does not always seem to know whether he is laughing at his hero, admiring him or sympathizing with him, it is difficult for the reader to know just how to feel.

Without a doubt Oliver is a prig and an egoist, thinking too much of himself and too little of others. He is always trying to do what is right, attempting to evolve for himself a satisfactory explanation of existence which he can use as a solid basis for his life and, of course, he fails to do so. His life, therefore, while apparently normal on the surface, is always unfulfilled because he cannot find the exact answer to all his questions, nor is he justified in feeling satisfied with all his actions, a state of mind which seems to be necessary to his happiness.

Because of his intense egoism, he is unable to feel the emotions which most humans have. Even his love affairs are flat and uninspired, his relationships with his parents are blurred, and his affection for his rather splendid little German governess is shallow. He starts at football for his high school and Williams college and rows for Harvard, but without enthusiasm—doing it merely because he thinks it is the thing to do. In just the same way he proposes to a rich and beautiful girl because he reasons that a personable wife is the thing to have, and later wants to marry the English girl who was his childhood sweetheart for purely rational reasons. He cannot understand why both girls refuse him.

His death, like his life, is inglorious where it might have been splendid. Fear and disgust ruin him for service in the army during the war, so that all he is able to contribute is a home for convalescent soldiers in England. As always, he would be an entirely futile person if it were not for the money his father had left. He dies, still a young man, from injuries sustained when he is hit by a motorcyclist coming down the wrong side of the road.

While one cannot truthfully say that Mr. Santayana is as great a novelist as he is a philosopher and scholar—his plot devices are often obvious, and the action sometimes stilted—he is adept at portraying the confusions of a self-conscious young mind, and the influences upon this mind of many varied people—his brilliant, cynical father, who is addicted to drugs; his cold, selfish, D.A.R. mother; his clever, though overly-sentimental German governess; the virile, but entirely material Lord Jim, captain of his father's yacht; and the worldly-wise, thoroughly lovable young will-o-the-wisp, Mario VanderWeyer, his cousin. If, then, one reads this book for form and style, it is far from perfect, but if it is viewed as a study in character, and in certain phases of the American and English scene before and during the war, then it is truly a masterpiece of its kind.

Dondero in Group Pushing Sea-Way

George A. Dondero, congressman from this district, is one of the members of Congress representing districts in the Great Lakes region who have organized a committee for the purpose of focusing attention on the need for the early completion of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence deep waterway. Congressman Francis D. Cullin, of New York, is chairman of the group; Merin Hull of Wisconsin, vice-chairman; and William A. Pittenger, of Minnesota, secretary.

The executive committee consists of the following congressmen: Merin Hull, of Wisconsin; Bertrand H. Snell, of New York; George A. Dondero, of Michigan; John D. Dingell, of Michigan; John Lesinski, of Michigan; and Theodore Christman, of Minnesota. This executive committee is charged with preparing agenda and perfecting the organization.

Whereas there is pending in the United States Senate a treaty with Canada providing for the construction of the St. Lawrence Seaway for the economic benefit of both countries, and

Whereas the ratification of a treaty is essential to the commencement of this project which will provide a 27-foot waterway from the sea to all ports on the Great Lakes and will result in developing for the benefit of America more than 1,250,000 horsepower of electrical energy, and

Whereas the ratification of such a treaty will result in the cheapening of transportation for export crops and will have a profoundly favorable effect on the development of agriculture and industry throughout the Great Lakes and mid-western states, now, therefore, be it

Resolved that we, the Members of Congress from the lake states, do hereby pledge our vigorous and active support to a program which will bring about the adoption of a treaty and the commencement of said project so necessary to sound national development, the benefits of which will be enjoyed by more than 40 million people in the United States who gain their livelihood from agricultural production and manufacturing; and, be it further

Resolved that we bind ourselves to use every legitimate effort to bring about the adoption of a treaty and the construction of said seaway.

Science Church Sponsors Address At High School

Detroit Man Speaks On Christian Science and Government

Under the auspices of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, of Plymouth, Francis Lyster Jandron, of Detroit, a member of the board of trustees of the Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, delivered a lecture on "Christian Science: The Science of Good Government," Thursday night of last week in the auditorium of Plymouth high school.

The lecturer spoke in part as follows:

Christian Science teaches that God, Spirit, the supreme cause and creator, self-existent Being, cannot be finite or personal. Wherever thought can reach, there at that moment God can be found. God's government is instantly available to redress wrong, no matter how long established a wrong may have seemed to be. It is instantly available to avert danger, no matter how formidable a danger may seem. Because God is self-existent, His creation must be mental or spiritual, to be perceived only through spiritual sense. Christian Science teaches that if you will allow thoughts which are Godlike, that is, selfish and spiritual, to take possession of your consciousness, they will govern your experience. Because they partake of the immutable quality of the infinite self-enforcing Principle which they reflect, it makes clear that you have but to entertain mentally, to reason with, these Godlike thoughts, and they will give you employment; they will heal you of sickness and sin; they will supply your needs abundantly; they will enrich and beautify your life; they will lift you above fear. They will prove to you that to acknowledge and conform to the government of God, the divine Principle of all real being, is to place yourself where nothing unlike God can thwart or reverse the good which you have made your own. The Psalmist discerned this possibility when he sang, "He that dwelleth in the secret place of the most High shall abide under the shadow of the Almighty."

Now since this is true, and Christian Science teaches that it can be proved, then all which appears to contradict or oppose God's government in national, collective, or individual affairs must be the result of a mistaken view of God's nature and power. Proportionately as God's spiritual government is understood and conformed to, human governments are improved. Good and evil which flow from obedience to God's government are really the only sure foundations of progress. Hatred never made a nation or an individual strong or happy, and genuine peace and prosperity cannot result from war and destruction. In our endeavors to assure peace among the nations we must acknowledge that God's government is supreme, and practice peace and good will in our own daily experiences. In God's hands alone is the kingdom, and the power, and the glory, for ever.

Mrs. Eddy's discovery came to a generation unprepared to receive it. It came because there was one who could understand it, because there were some who were conscious of their need of it. Divine Principle operates in the same way for all people and in all ages. It reveals itself to the seeing eye and the hearing ear. There had been spiritual seers and humble listeners long before our century who were able to gain an insight into God's ways and government. Through them the thought of the world was gradually lifted to the point of preparation for and receptivity of the final and scientific explanation of God and man. Abraham, for example, became convinced of God's oneness, without an equal. In the strength of this deep, spiritual conviction he turned away from the idolatrous beliefs of his day, and founded a new nation dedicated to the worship of God in His oneness.

A personal view is something entirely different from conviction based on an understanding of divine Principle. One may be honest because he thinks honesty is a good policy to follow and that of course is good as far as it goes, but until he has become honest from conviction, through obedience to divine Principle, his honesty is something which under sufficient pressure may be perverted and even lost. Honesty based upon Principle is not a personal possession; it operates in the same way at all times. It is not put on or taken off as expediency directs; it governs the honest man.

What is true of honesty is equally true of health. To consider health as a personal possession is no guarantee of retaining it, while to understand, in some degree at least, the teachings of Christian Science that divine Principle, God, produces health and harmony in man, will do vastly more to improve and maintain health for you than you can ever do by believing that sickness is brought about by weather, by diet, or by heredity.

Perhaps this may make it clear to you how important is the teaching of Christian Science that God is Principle. The Godlike thoughts or ideas which have Principle for their foundation cannot be lost, mislaid, forgotten, perverted, not reversed. They are not the private or personal possession of anyone. They are available to all, at all times, everywhere. Everyone may use these divine thoughts or ideas freely, without impoverishing or harming himself or anyone else. That which is based on Principle can be shared without loss; it can be taught to others, repeated, proved, and multiplied infinitely. Under the government of divine Principle, promise and fulfillment, plan and execution, cause and effect are one and inseparable.

If Jesus had been merely a wonder-worker, the possessor of a miraculous gift of healing and fortitude, this alone would not have enabled him to teach his disciples how to heal. He could not have made them understand what he himself did not understand. But Jesus the Christ understood and obeyed divine government, and through his teachings his disciples came to share their Master's spiritual understanding of God's government to some degree, in turn, they became able to heal and to teach others. For more than two centuries the early Christian-practiced spiritual healing. It was only when spiritual understanding became more and more veiled by personal, material views of God that healing ceased to be a spontaneous characteristic of Christian activity.

In our age, under divine inspiration, Mrs. Eddy perceived the truth that God is divine Principle. She proved this truth, and in her textbook gave her discovery to mankind. She did not depart from the method by which Jesus taught, and proved his understanding of it. She gave to mankind an elucidation of the Science of being, for the age had come when it could be understood.

Spring Carnival Is Held In South Lyon

A most successful spring carnival was held March 27 at Quick hall in South Lyon, by the Methodist church of that village. Several merchants in town had booths, the school children made project displays, the handicraft group had an exhibit and there was a fortune telling booth and a doll house. A motion picture was shown during the evening. Don Hollis and Miles Underhill presented a guitar and accordion duet, and the orchestra under the direction of L. W. Stanbro, played several selections.

Care Of Aged Is Nation's Problem

(By Charles C. Lockwood)
In America today every large industry is spending thousands and hundreds of thousands of dollars annually to perfect new labor-saving devices in order to throw more and more of their employees out of work. Under our industrial system millions of employees are all through as far as securing employment is concerned, at the age of 45 or 50 or even younger. Now what is going to happen to these people?

I believe that labor-saving machinery has made it not only impossible but unnecessary for millions to work in this country. I believe that it is entirely possible and necessary that we pension our aged men and women, and that that pension be sufficient to maintain them on a decent and Christian scale of living. But in order to obtain this sort of pension, a united and massed campaign must be waged.

You and I know the enormous difficulty that lies in the way of securing adequate social legislation. We know the power that privileged groups exercise in our government. It is seldom that the masses of the people can unite and exert sufficient pressure to secure beneficial legislation. But I feel that through the power and strength of the Townsend movement we are going to secure adequate old age pensions many years sooner than we would be otherwise able to do.

There is one thing we can be certain of and that is that the masses of our people will get little relief or aid from either a Democratic or Republican administration until, through organized voting strength, they are powerful enough to compel that relief. It is going to be necessary to largely clean out the old type of politician and to take the control of both political parties out of the hands of the predatory groups who have largely controlled them in the past.

If the Townsend Old Age Pension Plan has done nothing else it has made this country old age pension conscious and it has aroused the people everywhere to insist on adequate old age protection, and it has pointed out definitely that this depression is not the result of over production, but rather of under consumption and lack of purchasing power.

Whitmore Lake Level Is Raised 10 Inches

Residents of Plymouth and vicinity who are accustomed to swimming and picnicking at Whitmore lake will be interested in a report that the lake level has already risen 10 inches as the result of the drainage project which has diverted water from Horseshoe creek into the lake.

Carl W. Sanzi, of Ann Arbor, the engineer in charge, states that the water eventually will be 30 inches higher than it has previously. WPA funds amounting to $135,850 have been used for the work, the balance to be paid by residents and cottagers. The drainage area of the Horseshoe lake district is about 27 square miles, while that of Whitmore is only about one square mile, engineers state.

Making Sugar From Dahlia Bulbs

PROLIFIC flower gardens of the South may soon provide a new industry, with the extraction of sugar, twice as sweet as cane or beet sugar, from dahlia bulbs. It is being produced experimentally by Dr. LeRoy S. Weatherly, chemistry professor in the University of Southern California, who believes it may serve as another aid in the war against diabetes, as the new sugar is more easily oxidizable. The production is similar to that of beet sugar production, the dahlia bulbs being sliced, crushed, converted into starch, then into syrup, from which the fine sugar is precipitated. The photograph shows Miss Florence Shelly, assistant, and Doctor Weatherly inspecting syrup in a retort.

Yearly Test Of Herd Completed

The herd of registered Holsteins owned by the Wayne County Training School at Northville, recently completed a year's work in the Herd Improvement Registry test making a very good showing, according to reports from the Holstein-Friesian Association of America at Madison, Wisconsin. The herd of thirty-four cows, thirty-three in Class B and one in Class C, averaged 392.2 lbs. fat and 11732 lbs. milk. High cow for the year was Ionia Aagie Sturtevant with a credit of 626.2 lbs. fat and 16717 lbs. milk. Wacots Marathon Ormsby Maid ranked second with 512.5 lbs. fat and 15175 lbs. milk. Two other cows completed the year with records above the 500 lb. mark and several others finished with records close to the 500 lb. fat mark.

The Holstein-Friesian Herd Test is a test of the entire herd and records the production of milk and butterfat for each cow during the year. For the past year 258 Holstein herds from all parts of the United States averaged 11,338 lbs. milk and 391 lbs. butterfat per cow in the Herd Test. This is just about two and one-half times the average production per cow for the United States, which is 158 lbs. fat per cow, according to government figures.

Stone Tower at Newport, Rhode Island

This tower of unhewn stone is regarded by some historians as a Scandinavian structure of great antiquity. Others say it was built by the early colonists of Rhode Island for a windmill. When and by whom it was built is a question that has remained and will remain unanswered, perhaps forever.

"After Two Years--- I Have My First Job!"

"I was one of those 'Depression Boys.' Graduated in '34, got my first job today—a real one! Sure, I pounded payments for nearly two years. I don't look it? Well, you see I kept a savings account—place where I stuck my gifts and school-year savings. And boy, how that account has helped! I'm not making much—but a couple of dollars every week are going back to sweeten up my savings account again in the Plymouth United Savings Bank. I wouldn't be without a cash reserve! I know from experience!"

in that country. For one to say anything in favor of the Russianized form of government in Germany is a crime, and a serious one. German officials will have none of it and they have stamped it out by dealing most severely with its advocates. It seems that every person is a spy against Communism for just as soon as any person is known to have spoken in favor of it, he is immediately disposed of in some way. Germany is mighty severe in its law enforcement.

"But there didn't seem much for the young people in that country to do. We saw lots of young men parading in uniform, but no arms anywhere. We were in Cologne when the German troops crossed the Rhine and they were the only armed men we saw in Germany.

"We traveled all over that country and Hitler must be given a lot of credit for what he has done. The German people apparently need a strong leader of his type, but of course the things government officials do there would never be tolerated in this country. Our ideas of liberty are entirely different than they have.

"We spent some time in England, Holland and some of the other countries. Business is better over there than at any time since the war they say. But people do not look happy. They are content with the tax they pay. They say no one can make money or save money. It takes everything they get to support their governments.

"It seemed that everywhere we went they all had long faces. They seemed to be just living, and that was all, with no pep in what they were doing and no desire to do anything. In fact the attitude of the masses of the people in most places seemed rather depressing. It was in Holland where people seemed to be happy and without troubles.

"The papers are filled with war talk, but most people seem to regard war as something that can't take place because no nation has any money to fight a war with, and it takes a lot of money to run a war.

"There was much interest everywhere in our own country and it is taking place over here. When asked about their debt situation, they ask about our own broken promise to pay government bond holders in gold. Our own government is guilty of the very thing, they say, that we are condemning them for.

"But notwithstanding the general depressed attitude of most people across the Atlantic, business seems to be better and apparently is better. They all say so, at least. There is lots and lots of idleness wherever you go.

Where Motors Are Banned
Bermuda is the only place of any importance in all the world where motors are banned. The islands keep much of their Seventeenth century charm because of the virtual absence of such vehicles. The longest road is less than a score of miles in length, and all of the roads are narrow and winding, so that motors would be unsafe. It is said nothing of marring the peace and quiet.

Arthur Stevens Is Laid To Rest

With solemn reverence Plymouth paid tribute to her last remaining veteran of the Civil War Friday afternoon when Arthur D. Stevens, 95-year-old member of the G. A. R., was laid to rest following impressive military rites.

Faithful friends and neighbors crowded into Schrader Brothers Funeral home to hear the Rev. Walter Nichol, pastor of the First Presbyterian church in which Mr. Stevens was an active worker for 89 years, speak a few fitting words. Outside people lined both sides of Main street. In front of stores and shops closed in memory of the aged soldier, to watch the slow measured progress of the funeral procession, making its way to Ann Arbor where interment was made in Arbor Crest cemetery. It was one of the largest military funerals ever to be held in this part of the state.

In the procession were six squads of soldiers from Fort Wayne in Detroit, who fired the salute over the grave, drummers with colors cased, and buglers who sent out the notes of the funeral of the aged soldier, to watch the slow measured progress of the funeral procession, making its way to Ann Arbor where interment was made in Arbor Crest cemetery. It was one of the largest military funerals ever to be held in this part of the state.

A sunrise service is also being planned at the First Baptist church, with a processional, "Christ the Lord Is Risen Today," sung by the four choirs of the church. The Novi Baptist church is expected to join in this service, at which Phyllis Campbell will tell the Easter story, and Rev. McRae will have charge of baptismal services. An Easter breakfast will be served at 8 o'clock, with those attending furnishing their own food and table service.

At 10 o'clock the Rev. Loya Sutherland will preach an Easter sermon on "The Place Where the Lord Lay," and new members will be received into the church. Miss Doris Hamill will play a violin solo in the evening.

St. John's Episcopal church will hold its regular morning service at 10:30 o'clock, with holy communion and sermon by the Rev. W. R. Blachford. The choir will offer appropriate Easter music. At St. Peter's Evangelical Lutheran church, a Tre Ore service will be held at 2 o'clock today and a German communion service is scheduled for 10 o'clock this morning. The Easter communion service will be held at 10:30 o'clock Sunday morning, with a sermon by the Rev. Edgar Hoenecke and special Easter music.

Calvary Baptist church will hold a special Good Friday service at 2 o'clock this afternoon, with the Rev. Richard Neale speaking on "Why Christ Died." Easter services will be at 10 a.m. and 7:30 p.m., and the pastor will speak on the meaning of the resurrection of Christ.

Derivation of Word "Puny"
The word "puny" is a phonetic spelling of the old French "pulsne," which entered the English language in legal phraseology. "Pulsne" meant junco, lower in rank "Puny" has acquired the meaning of small in strength or size, weak feeble.

CALVARY BAPTIST CHURCH
Richard W. Neale, pastor
We welcome you this Friday afternoon to the "Good Friday" service to be held at Calvary church, 455 South Main street, at 2 o'clock. "Why Christ Died," is the topic of the scripture message to be given by our pastor.

George McGill, the Christian contractor, and Nelson Reid, the preaching fireman, are speaking at our special pre-Easter services. Visit us tonight. If you enjoy the fellowship of a friendly Bible church, come to Calvary!

Our Easter services are at 10 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. Our pastor will preach on the truth and meaning of the resurrection of our Lord Jesus Christ. Are you discouraged, and troubled about your future? Trust the risen Christ with us, and enjoy at once the path of victory over sin. Sunday school is at 11:15. A new comer gave us this testimony: "I am a Christian because the only way to be truly happy is in the Lord Jesus Christ. I like the fellowship here because God's truth only is proclaimed."

Miss Edna Wood and Charles Meach, of Detroit, were Friday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wiseman.

Easter and eggs have grown so together in our minds that they are practically inseparable. This combination reaches so far into the past that it is pretty hard to trace its beginnings.

CHURCH NEWS

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH
Loyla Sutherland, Minister.
I know not how that Calvary's cross, a word from sin could free.
I only know its matchless love, has brought God's love to me.
I know not how that Joseph's tomb, could solve death's mystery—
I only know the Living Christ, our Immortality!"

7:00—Sunrise service. Processional, "Christ The Lord Is Risen Today," by the four choirs. It is expected that the Novi Baptist church will unite with us in this service. The Easter story will be given by Phyllis Campbell. Rev. Mac Rae will give the charge to those coming for baptism. This service will be followed at 8 o'clock by the Easter breakfast—please bring your own food and table service. More than 50 joined in this breakfast last year. We want to swell this number this year. Tea and hot cocoa will be provided.

10:00—The pastor's Easter message, subject—"The Place Where The Lord Lay." The right hand of fellowship will be extended to those uniting with the church, either by certificate or by baptism.

7:30—We know of no pageant that has ever been given that has had a greater challenge in it than the pageant entitled "The Challenge of The Cross." Mrs. George Collins, supported by a group of young ladies will present this beautiful and never-to-be forgotten lesson.

As a courtesy to the Plymouth Mail, who are so generous in their space for church notices, we do not publish our full programs of music. Our choirs have been working for weeks on the Easter music and they will be heard at all three of the services. At this hour Miss Doris Hamill will play a violin solo.

Our mid-week service on Wednesday night of next week will be of special importance, following immediately on our special services. Words can never tell our appreciation of the splendid help brought to us by our Brother Kehrl. Eternity alone can measure and tell the value of his messages and his influence among us. Many lives have been greatly uplifted and we can never be the same again in future years.
