

Dr. Lemon Gives Splendid Address For Class Of '36

Seniors and Friends Hear Talk By Ann Arbor Pastor

Addressing the 106 members of the Plymouth high school class of 1936, their parents and friends at the annual commencement exercises Thursday evening of last week, Dr. W. P. Lemon, pastor of the First Presbyterian church in Ann Arbor, advised the graduates that they are the controllers of their own destiny.

He explained that to him, the most satisfactory way to classify people is to put them under one of three headings—those who have no tomorrow, those whose tomorrows are merely yesterdays hashed over again, and those who have a vital living tomorrow to look forward to. He went on to say that fate and destiny have little to say about which of these classifications the individual falls under, but that the individual, by determination, ambition and will power, can decide for himself of what group he will be a part.

By preaching the doctrine of the power of the individual, Dr. Lemon warned the class against a feeling of super-importance, explaining that individually we represent but an insignificant fraction of the entire universe.

Diplomas were presented to members of the class by Superintendent George A. Smith. The valedictory was given by Gwendolyn Dunlop and the salutatory by Jean Rosdiger.

Commencement week activities came to a close with the annual alumni banquet Friday evening at the high school. It was one of the largest and most successful banquets ever to be given by the association. Members of the class of 1936 were guests of honor, and the principal speakers were Attorney Paul Voorhies, a member of the class of 1893, and Kenneth Bartlett, now a professor at Syracuse university, who was graduated in 1923.

Thirty-seven girls attended the first general practice of the summer baseball league Monday evening. After five innings had been played, the three captains, E. Archer, H. Burgett and M. Kin, elected the teams which will play Monday and Thursday evenings.

Local Masons Aid In St. John's Day

Ninety-three Masonic lodges are participating in the second annual festival of the St. John's day League June 27 and 28 at Edgewater park. Several roads and Grandstands will be used for the maintenance of the Masonic Employment association, the Outside Relief board and the Home for the Aged at Alma.

Fennett Hull, general chairman, has named James Gallimore, worshipful master, Charles L. Bowdler, senior warden, and Edwin Schrader, junior warden, all of Plymouth Rock lodge No. 47, to take charge of arrangements and the sale of tickets in this vicinity.

An elaborate program of field events has been arranged under the direction of Hubert Johnson of the department of recreation, who is worshipful master of the newly instituted Builders' lodge. This will include races and novelty contests for everyone from kindergarten age up—boys, girls and grown folks. Saturday afternoon, as well as Sunday, there will be baseball games between popular girls' softball teams of Detroit. Valuable prizes will be awarded to the winners of the contests.

An unusual feature that will attract great interest will be dancing competitions in which the famous folk dances of various nationalities will be demonstrated. Notable among these will be the Scotch entry which will include many of the most noted dancers in this part of the country and from Canada. All these dances will be in native costume.

Music will be provided by St. Andrew's Highlanders' Pipe band, led by Pipe Major John Carson. In addition, there will be a Scotch concert Sunday at 11 a. m. with Bud Grandall, tenor; Margaret Irons, soprano; Andrew Lang, baritone, and Betty McKay, dramatic soprano, as the artists.

Another concert will be offered by the Ukrainian chorus and the Ukrainian orchestra. The chorus will sing a variety of native folk and comedy songs, while the orchestra will present popular and classical music of the Ukraine.

Both evenings, there will be music for dancing in the Edgewater hall, by Floyd S. Snyder's famous Variety orchestra.

Over 100 guests attended the garden party given Sunday by Mrs. Melvin Guthrie, honoring the birthday of Mr. Guthrie, in their beautiful grounds on Newburg road. Games were played, and supper served.

Those of high school age will play at 3:30 o'clock Thursdays at Starkweather school, where they will make their home with their parents on the Penniman avenue.

Maxine Kingsley and Wesley Smith Marry

The marriage of Miss Maxine Kingsley, daughter of Luellin South Lyon, and Wesley Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Q. Smith of this city, was solemnized Saturday, June 20, by Walter S. Nichol, of the First Presbyterian church.

Miss Marion Brown of Detroit, and J. H. McGee of Dearborn, attended the bride and bridegroom. Following a few days' stay at Houghton lake, they will return to Plymouth where they will make their home with their parents on the Penniman avenue.

Detroit Man Buys Stever Meat Market

Albert F. Stever this week announced the sale of his meat market on Penniman avenue, to Stanley Norton, of Detroit, who will take possession next Wednesday. Mr. Stever has been in business here for 12 years, during which time he has built up a fine business and made many friends.

Mr. Norton comes to Plymouth with the reputation of being an experienced meat man. According to Mr. Stever, he will make his home in Plymouth.

Mrs. William Eckles, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Eckles, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Eckles and daughter, Gloria, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brown and two daughters, Annabell and Betty, and Mr. and Mrs. Arch Herick were at Woodland Beach on Lake Erie, Sunday, where they joined other relatives at the home of their cousin, Mr. and Mrs. William E. Campbell.

Surprise Stunt Presented For Rotary Friday

Plans Now Under Way For "Independence Night" Program

In a surprise stunt presented at the last meeting of the Rotary club, Friday noon, at the Mayflower hotel, five members of the group illustrated in an entertaining manner the lesson that membership in the Rotary should not be an advantage of their Rotary affiliation to further their business interests.

Father Frank LeFevre, retiring president, took part in the skit, together with E. C. Hough, George A. Smith, Elton R. Eaton and Roy Brown.

The last meeting at which Father LeFevre will preside, will be held this noon at the Mayflower. The session will be devoted to a resume of the year's work, with reports read by the president and secretary-treasurer.

The new president, Fred Sabom, will take over his duties on July 2, when an outdoor party will be held in the evening on the grounds of the Wayne County Training school through the courtesy of Dr. Robert Haskell, superintendent. This will be an "Independence Night" affair. The program to be headed by Prof. E. C. Goddard, of Ann Arbor, a past president of the Ann Arbor club and active in Rotary for many years.

There will also be a Fourth of July stunt and music by the Ford Mountaineers and the Dixie Eight. Further details of the program will be announced in the near future.

Bride - Elect Guest At Several Parties

On Friday evening, June 19, Mrs. Joseph Smith entertained about 60 guests at a bridal shower, in her home on Wayne road, honoring her sister, Doris Campbell, a bride-to-be. Dancing and visiting was the entertainment of the evening, with a shower of lovely gifts for Miss Campbell. The decorations were carried out in yellow and white.

On Saturday evening, a surprise shower was given Miss Campbell and her fiancé, Elton R. Eaton, by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Eaton, at their home in Ypsilanti. The guests numbered over 70, and the young couple received from them a shower of kitchen utensils.

Miss Campbell and Mr. Eaton will be married on Tuesday, June 30, at the Presbyterian manse by Rev. Walter S. Nichol, with only the parents present, and June McDonald of Ypsilanti, attending the ceremony.

Prizes Awarded High School Students for Historical Essays on Founding of Detroit

Russell Kirk Wins First Place in Competition

The Plymouth Mail takes great pleasure in publishing the two essays which won first and second prizes in the American history contest sponsored by the Sarah Ann Cochrane chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution for students of the Plymouth high school. The topic for the essays was "Cadillac and the Founding of Detroit." First prize went to Russell Kirk and second to Iola Curtis.

When two forces conflict, one must give. France knew it must be England; England knew it must be France. In America, the adventurers from New France were pushing into the region south of the Great Lakes, and the frontiersmen from the colonies of Britain were crossing the Alleghenies into the Ohio basin. Sullenly hostile, vaguely sensing the tragedy of their race, the Indians fought among themselves, fought the British, fought the French. They were pawns in the game played by Fate.

And in the land between the lakes rested the key to control of the Indians and of the New World. La Salle had foreseen this; now another perceived the fact. The gateway to the Great Lakes, the logical center of penetration into the territory of the Indians, and the site of a military post of the greatest importance was the shore of the strait connecting Lake St. Clair and Lake Erie, the place which the French called Detroit. Antoine Laumet de la Cadillac was the man to realize it.

Not the least of the brave sons of France was the Sieur Cadillac. Handsome, fearless, hot-blooded, he had come from Gascony. His ambitious heart had taken him across the Atlantic, had made him one of the greatest men of New France, had sent him back

Frances Bridge And James Williams Wed

The marriage of Miss Frances Bridge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Erland Bridge, and James Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Williams, took place Saturday evening, June 20, in Holland. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Sista of this city. They will reside on Holbrook avenue. Both Mr. and Mrs. Williams have many friends here who wish them every happiness.

Mother, Child Succumb To Gas

The community was shocked last Friday to hear of the tragic death of Mrs. Weiburn Dodge, of Brighton, formerly Miss Genevieve Bird, of Plymouth, and her infant son, Kenneth, who were overcome by carbon monoxide fumes from a gas water heater.

Mrs. Dodge was dead when her husband returned from work at 6:15 school evening and found her in the basement. The 18-month-old baby was unconscious in his high chair where his mother had placed him before going to the basement to start some laundry work. He was still in his night clothes, and his breakfast was burning on the stove.

The child was rushed to Mellus hospital where it was hoped for a time that his life might be saved, but he succumbed at three o'clock Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Dodge was the daughter of Mrs. John Burgett and the late Frederick Bird, of Plymouth. She was born March 31, 1909, in Salem township, but in early girlhood moved to Plymouth. She was graduated from Plymouth high school in 1926 and the University of Michigan in 1930. On December 24, 1933, she married Weiburn Dodge, of Whitmore Lake. Their son, Kenneth Frederick, was born November 30, 1934.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon privately at the home of Mrs. Bird, 217 Ann street, and later at the Schrader Brothers Funeral home. Dr. Fred A. Lendrum, who read the Dodes' wedding service, conducted the funeral, assisted by Rev. F. Ray Norton of the First Methodist church.

Surviving are the husband and father, Weiburn Dodge; Mrs. Bird; a sister, Mrs. Ione Faber of Davison; her grandmother, Mrs. Nellie Smith of Salem; and a niece, Doris Faber, of Davison.

Will Give Silver Tea for Missionary Group

Miss Elizabeth Sutherland and Mrs. William C. Smith will give a silver tea for the benefit of the Women's Missionary society of the Methodist church, at the home of the former at 974 Penniman avenue, Friday afternoon, June 26, at 2:30 o'clock. All the members and friends are urged to attend.

Prizes Awarded High School Students by D. A. R. for Historical Essays on Founding of Detroit

Iola Curtis Second In Plymouth Contest

Since Michigan is celebrating her one hundredth birthday as a state this year, it would be interesting to review the early history of her largest city and one-time capital, the city of Detroit.

The founder of Detroit was a Frenchman, Chevalier Antoine de La Mothe Cadillac. Cadillac was born in St. Nicolas de la Grave on March 5, 1658. He was the fourth child in a nobleman's family. It is said that an older brother squandered the family fortune so when the father died he left each of his children five hundred dollars. This would be only enough to give a nobleman's son an army education. Cadillac seemed to be educated by monks instead of priests, as was common in that day. He disliked the priests very much and was always quarreling with them. He was army trained where it must have been his skill which secured his promotions for he had neither influence nor money. He was personally known by all in the Court and the ladies there laughed at his hawk nose.

Cadillac had many Spanish characteristics, for example, a desire to do something, a fierce fighter, thriftness, the chivalry of Spanish knights. He always loved the land of his ancestors. He loved rivers, clear sparkling mountain streams, and birds. In his account to the King of the Almaté around Detroit, he is very enthused over the many birds here.

In his early youth, Cadillac came to New France which is now Northern United States and to Europe to become a military adviser to the king, had hurried him back to Canada to aid Frontenac against the British, had won him the friendship of Count Pontchartrain, Minister of Marine, had found him the position of commander at Mackinac, had urged him to oppose the mighty Jesuit order, and had helped him to dream of an empire with his center at Detroit. He saw the need in his beloved country, and he knew himself to be the man to fill it.

Accordingly, in 1701, he had returned for the third time to France, to seek from the king permission to establish a settlement at Detroit. He had pointed out the advantages to be reaped from the founding of such a post—securing Indian trade, cutting off the English from the upper Lakes, and providing a center for military operations. The dashingly adventurous had been successful in his plea. Granted a commission, a subsidy, and a tract of land, he had sailed back to New France.

Now the great moment had arrived: June 2, 1701. Cadillac had gathered his colonists, mustered his soldiers, fifty Canadian artisans, fifty French infantry, and

Veterans Cash $60,900 Worth Of Bonus Bonds Here

Learned Reports More Than 120 Men Have Certified

Something more than $60,900 is being received in cash by World war veterans in Plymouth and the surrounding rural area served by the Plymouth postoffice. Postmaster Frank Learned announced this week that up to and including Tuesday evening a total of 1,218 bonds, worth $50 each, had been certified by veterans for cashing.

These bonds had been turned in by some 121 veterans. Mr. Learned estimates that 250 men in this district have certified bonds, the average payment for each veteran being about $750, or 15 bonds. In most cases the number of bonds turned in to be cashed has been about 10 per individual.

Veterans are permitted to cash as many of their bonds as they wish. This is done by certifying them at the local postoffice, where positive identification must be made, from which place the bonds are sent to Detroit. Detroit authorities will forward checks to the owners of the bonds. All bonds which are not cashed will draw interest at three per cent per year.

Many At Livonia Center Gathering

About 1,000 spectators attended the Livonia Center picnic Sunday, held on the Harry Wolfe premises, and witnessed the two main features of the entertainment, the saddle horse show and the ball game.

Real show horses—tricksters and high jumpers—took part in the program, put through their paces by accomplished riders. The baseball game was played between a picked team of Oldtimers from this vicinity, and the Oakland Boulevard of Detroit. The 61-year-old veteran pitcher, Harry German, was in the box for the Oldtimers, and a 17-year-old catcher, George Westphal, aided him behind the bat.

This rather unique battery held the Detroit boys to four runs, while their teammates crossed the plate five times. It was German's first nine-inning game of the season, but he outlasted three opposing pitchers. With the score tied in the ninth, "Nig" Clement of the Oldtimers was sent in to pinch-hit, with a man on second base. Clement came through with a hit to score the winning run from second.

All motorists are urged to replace their "stickers" with 1936 plates as soon as possible, as an accommodation to themselves. It is physically possible to accommodate everyone in one day or in several days. Motorists are asked to have their "sticker" registration certificates with them when they apply for their 1936 plates.

Injured Young People Recover

The five young people injured in an automobile accident Wednesday evening of last week on Grand River near New Hudson, are reported safely on the road to recovery.

Evelyn Raymond, 16 and Betty Melow, 15, both of Northville, who were the most severely injured and were rushed immediately to Sessler's hospital in Northville, were released this week. Margaret Williams and Serslyn Preston, also of Northville, were less severely injured, as was Fred Thompson, 21, of 954 North Mill street, Plymouth, who was driving the car in which the four girls were riding.

According to reports, the accident occurred when Thompson's car went off the road while he was passing another car driven by Gordon Hartford, of 632 North Harvey street, Plymouth. Neither Hartford nor William Wolfe, also of Plymouth, who was riding with him, were injured. They stopped immediately after the crash to render aid to the injured occupants of the other car.

Will Burn Mortgage On Baptist Parsonage

Members of the congregation of the First Baptist church will take part in a special ceremony at the Sunday morning service which will mark the burning of the mortgage on the parsonage. The Brass Quartet of the First Baptist church in Pontiac, will participate in this and all other services Sunday at the local church.

Loan Association Declares Dividend

At the regular meeting of the board of directors of the Plymouth Federal Savings and Loan association a regular dividend annum was declared payable to shareholders of record June 30, 1936.

In making a report of the activities of the association during the last year, it was found that the association had completed the largest number of loans completed in any one year since the date of organization in 1919.

The local association has secured federal insurance up to $5,000 for all its investors on 100 per cent of their investment and the insurance has been very beneficial in securing new business. The association has completed its 162nd loan, thus approximately one home owner out of every eight in the city of Plymouth has at some time or other used the facilities of the local association to assist them financially.

The board of directors have continued their policy to loan to people in the local community and at the present time all the loans of the association are in the city and township of Plymouth.

Will Speak Here

Dr. H. H. Savage, pastor of the First Baptist church here at 7:30 o'clock (Friday) evening. As Dr. Savage considered one of the outstanding Baptist preachers of the day, a large crowd is expected to attend. He will bring with him some of the singers and instrumentalists which broadcast with him.

Matheson Tells Kiwanis Club Of Playground Work

Speaking on the summer recreation program, Kenneth J. Matheson, high school athletic director who is in charge, addressed the Kiwanis club at its meeting Tuesday evening at the Hotel Mayflower.

"The work your club, Kiwanis, helped sponsor last year is again being carried on through the cooperation of the city commission, school board and federal government," Mr. Matheson told the club. "This year there is a playground at the Starkweather station, as well as at Central, the Starkweather ground being open from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. and that at Central from 9 a. m. until dark, with an adult program featured during the evening. In addition to a men's softball league of eight teams and a women's league of three teams, there is shuffleboard, badminton, horseshoes and tennis."

Mr. Matheson went on to outline the daily program of activities at both centers, and pointed out that last year the playground attracted many boys, but no accidents or injuries of any kind.

Special events this summer, Mr. Matheson explained, will include a puppet show, pet parade, band concerts, picnic, dramatics and tournaments of all sorts—jacks, marbles, marbles, marbles, horseshoes, tennis, rope skipping, stunts, pushmovers, ball hopscotch, dart baseball and checkers.

In handicraft, he said, there will be soap carving, bead making, basket weaving, clay molding, feather work, stuffed pet, whittling, metal etching, raphia weaving and painting.

There has been some talk of taking the children out to some lake one day a week for swimming, although no definite plans for this have been made as yet, the speaker stated. There will also be some provision for children to see the Tigers play on "kid days" at Navin field, he said.

To carry out this program we have Miss Luella Kees in charge of the girls," he continued. "She has recruited 14 of her Leaders club girls to help run off many of the events. The four men furnished by the government are doing a fine piece of work and are very willing workers."

Mr. Matheson concluded his talk with the following poem:

GIVE THEM A PLACE TO PLAY
Plenty of room for dives and dens.
Glitter and glare and stut!
Plenty of room for prison pens and Caddie Eileen Cojens, who have been heading Army activities here.

Capt. Conlin, who resides with his family on Elizabeth street, is a graduate of the Salvation Army training college of Chicago, and a son of the late Major James Conlin, who was active in the Salvation Army in the Detroit area for 45 years.

Evelyn McMullen of Newburg, one of the younger members of the Army here, is attending the Salvation Army camp at Camp Lake, Wisconsin, for two weeks where she is receiving musical instruction in cornet with the Army band.

All motorists are urged to replace their "stickers" with 1936 plates as soon as possible, as an accommodation to themselves. It is physically possible to accommodate everyone in one day or in several days. Motorists are asked to have their "sticker" registration certificates with them when they apply for their 1936 plates.

Announce Marriage Of Miss Mary Ford

Mrs. J. B. Ford of Forest avenue, Plymouth, announces the marriage of her daughter, Mary Kathleen, to Harold Albert Micol, son of William A. Micol, of this city, on Saturday, October 26, 1935. The marriage took place in the St. John's Evangelical Lutheran church in Wayne, with the Rev. Oscar J. Peters officiating. The mother of the bride and the father of the bridegroom were the only witnesses.

The happy couple will leave today on a belated honeymoon, but will be at home to their friends at 599 Adams street, after July 6.

Tennis Players Are Invited To Enter Tourney

Plymouth tennis players are invited to participate in the fourth annual state novice tennis tournament to be sponsored by the Detroit News and supervised locally by the Plymouth Recreation department and the Plymouth Mail.

The tournament is open to all players who have not received a major tennis title, been ranked in the first 10 anywhere or received a collegiate letter in tennis. Winners and runners-up in district tournaments, starting July 25, will qualify for the state finals to begin August 8 at Gladwin (Waterworks) park in Detroit.

All matches will be best two out of three sets, except the last two rounds of the men's finals, which will be best three out of five. Prizes will be awarded winners and runners-up in both the district and state finals.

Entry blanks may be obtained from Coach K. J. Matheson, recreation director, at the Central Playground, or at the office of the Plymouth Mail.

In last year's tournament, the district winners were R. Van Atta, men's singles, and R. Adiska, women's singles. Runners-up were Robert Champe and Betty Housley.

New Salvation Army Head Here

Captain Harold Conlin has been named to take charge of the Salvation Army in Plymouth, succeeding Captain W. Waterworth and Caddie Eileen Cojens, who have been heading Army activities here.

Capt. Conlin, who resides with his family on Elizabeth street, is a graduate of the Salvation Army training college of Chicago, and a son of the late Major James Conlin, who was active in the Salvation Army in the Detroit area for 45 years.

Stores to Close On July Fourth

With a quiet Fourth of July planned for Plymouth, and no special celebrations or demonstrations arranged for the day, many people are planning special week-end trips for the two-day holiday, Sunday and Monday.

All stores will remain open Friday evening to enable shoppers to stock up on necessary provisions for the week-end, and most business places will be closed all day Saturday. Leonard J. Murphy, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, reports: A few of the grocery stores and meat markets will remain open until 10 o'clock Saturday morning.

Plenty of room for art; Plenty of room for teas and balls. Platform, stage and mart. Proud is the city—she finds a place.

For many a fad today, But she's more than blind if she fails to take it.

A place for the boys to play, Give them a chance for innocent sport.

Give them a chance for fun— Better a playground plot than a court. And a jail when the harm is done!

Give them a chance—if you stint them now, Tomorrow you'll have to pay A larger bill for a darker ill. So give them a place to play. —From the Journal of Education for March 4, 1909.

ABOUT GEORGE WELSH

George Welsh from the time he was able to vote until defeated a few years ago, for the Republican nomination for governor, was a most ardent Republican. When a youngster he was a newsboy in Grand Rapids and his struggle for existence was not an easy one. Possibly it was the environment that he lived under during those trying youthful years that created his intense interest in politics.

If one is looking for a success story—the story of a poor boy who slept at nights on the paper rolls in a press room and worked long hours to get the pennies that would help keep body and soul together, who had climbed to a position where he commands statewide attention, it is needless to go beyond the career of George Welsh. However his struggle against terrific odds to win for himself and those dependent upon him a worthy place in the world is somewhat beside the point of this editorial. It is only a few years ago that he played an important part in the affairs of the Republican party. He was honored by election as a member of the state legislature, then as speaker of the house of representatives and later as lieutenant governor of a great state—all under the banner of Republicanism.

To pick up a newspaper now and read his assaults upon the party that provided him the stepping stones to much of his political success, doesn't for some reason, just seem like an orderly trend of events. To use a rather slang expression, what he is doing, just doesn't "click."

We quite agree with Mr. Welsh that there has been a lot wrong with the Republican party machinery in the past. Some of its actions have been so outrageous that they have bordered on viciousness.

But the common, decent people within the Republican party are rapidly remedying the condition that has brought so much discredit to it in the past. The misfits, the plunder-bands and the grafters are on the way out. Wouldn't it be better Mr. Welsh, and wouldn't you have served a greater purpose and been more satisfied if you had remained within the Republican party and helped to clean it out from the inside rather than appear in the role of a deserter trying to dig the foundations from under one of the great political organizations that enabled you to climb to the heights of success?

NOT A FLOWER

Located in the very heart of Plymouth's business district is a park that could without much difficulty be made into one of the beauty spots of Michigan. No one traveling through Plymouth can fail to see the park, so-called. About the only thing that causes one to glance at the park today as he travels along the streets are the trees.

Plymouth is in the heart of the plant growing industry of Michigan. Within a radius of two or three miles of this city are grown each year millions and millions of plants that go to Detroit and other cities to help make beautiful gardens and parks.

Some two or three years ago, The Plymouth Mail called attention to the fact that it would be a splendid thing if the downtown park could be properly set to flowers so that from early spring until late fall there would be blossoms and pretty foliage prevailing all the time. It would not only help advertise the great florist and plant industry about here, but it would make a beauty spot thousands would come miles and miles to see—and it could be done at such little expense.

Possibly it is too late to take steps to properly develop the park this year, but here is an opportunity for the city commission and the newly formed garden club of Plymouth to do something that would materially add to the attractiveness of the city and at a cost so trifling that it wouldn't make a fraction of a mill of expense to individual taxpayers.

The winding walks could be lined with plants that bloom throughout the summer—flowering shrubs and annuals could be placed this fall.

A committee composed of women who love gardening and know the proper arrangements of flowers, if authorized to do so by the city commission, and provided with what few dollars might be needed, could without much trouble make Kellogg park into one of Michigan's beauty spots.

Except for a few sickly looking flowers around the monument, try and find a real blossom in the park—a place that should be a dazzling mass of beautiful flowers during the entire summer.

The Mail would like to suggest to the new garden club that here lies a golden opportunity for them to do something for the public and the city in which they reside.

ENTITLED TO IT

The Detroit Times a few nights ago published an editorial recalling its long fight in behalf of the soldiers' bonus. It pointed out the fact that way back in 1918 long before any one else, even most of the veterans, were interested in the payment of an additional reward for those who were called to war service, Hearst papers waged a fight for a bonus for the soldiers. In fact the bonus has been paid because of the insistent fight of the Hearst papers. Even those who do not approve of some of the editorial policies of Hearst must give him credit for carrying his soldier bonus fight to a success.

SOME GOOD ADVICE

It may sound a bit old-fashioned, but some suggestions to the young men of today by Judge Kelly S. Searl of Ithaca on the ways to be successful and get along in life, are worthy indeed of serious consideration. Judge Searl was talking before a group of business men in St. Johns. He chose to place in front of him an imaginary young man who was about to start upon his life work. To this mythical youth he directed his remarks—as he often does when they come to him and ask for advice.

In part he said: "Get the best education possible; high school and college if possible, but if you fail in this respect, do not be discouraged. Educate yourself. It can be done.

"Establish a library—the first book should be the Bible because it contains so much of fundamental law, of art, and of general educational interest you cannot afford to be without a knowledge of it.

"Marry and raise a family. It is your duty to your God, your parents, to your country and the white race.

"Join a church, or attend and support a church. It is the church which furnished the high ideals of the founders of this great free land of ours.

"Take sides on issues. Belong to a political party and believe in it. Take a positive stand on anything and everything that is of importance in your community. Don't be a straddler; don't constantly compromise. Be positive.

"Leave strong drink alone. If you must drink, let it be in moderation. Between each drink sit down and read the vital statistics regarding the debt, sorrow, misery and deaths caused by drink. If you will do this, you are not apt to become drunk.

"Pay your debts. Better yet, pay as you go. If for good reasons you cannot do this, go to a bank and borrow and pay interest in order to keep your debts paid."

Better words of counsel are hard to find and if the young men and women who are just now starting out to win a place in this old world for themselves will follow his success tips, there is no question as to the aid they will give.

ONE MINUTE BIOGRAPHIES of MICHIGAN GOVERNORS and their ACCOMPLISHMENTS

By Elton R. Eaton

No. 9
KINGSLEY S. BINGHAM
Michigan's Agricultural College is mainly due to the efforts put forth in its behalf by Kingsley S. Bingham. Free-Soil democrat who served the state as governor for two terms, being elected from 1855 to 1859. Born on a farm in New York in 1808 he moved to Livingston county a few months after his marriage. Clearing out some land near Green Oak, he soon became one of the best known agriculturalists in that part of the state.

In 1836, when Michigan became a state, he was elected a member of the first legislature, serving for four terms, and acting as speaker of the house for three terms. His first public office was justice of the peace in Livingston county. He was also the first to establish the State Industrial School for Boys which was one of the accomplishments of his term as governor.

It was in 1846 when he was elected to congress, being the only practical farmer in that body at that time. He fought the extension of slavery and also "Wood's Patent Cast Iron Plow."

When the Republican party was first organized in 1854, Bingham was elected as the Democratic candidate in opposition to the new party candidate. He served as governor until 1858, being elected United States senator the following year.

He took an active part in the campaign at the time Abraham Lincoln was first elected.

During his administration as governor he saw to it that the provisions in the state constitution of 1850 relative to an agricultural school, were carried out. The M. A. C. was inaugurated and opened during his administration. The creation of the State Industrial School for Boys was also one of the accomplishments of his term as governor.

Dealer Advises Care of Plugs

The spark plug may seem to be an insignificant bit of equipment, but it plays a mighty important part in making the car run smoothly and economically. As Clyde E. Smith of Smith Motor Sales, Hudson and Terraplane dealer here, says: "Spark plugs can make an 'old plug' out of your car, or keep it as fit as a race-horse."

"If the spark plugs are kept clean, with the points properly adjusted, a sweet-running motor will result, providing the rest of the car is in shape mechanically," said Mr. Smith, "but if they are neglected, then excessive gas consumption and even a 'bucking' motor may be looked for."

"Poor acceleration, misfiring, spark knock or pre-ignition, hard starting and engine overheating are a few of the conditions that may be attributed to neglect in the care of the plugs."

"Spark plugs should be cleaned periodically, for any plug will become at least partially fouled with long service. Fouling consists in coating the firing tip of the porcelain to an extent which makes it easier for the high tension ignition current to pass along the porcelain to the shell than it is to spark across the gap between the electrodes. It may be caused by excessive oil in the combustion chamber or by continuous operation at low speeds or long periods of idling the engine."

Mr. Smith emphasizes the importance of using as far as possible the same kind of plug as that used in the original equipment, pointing out that car manufacturers spend considerable time and money to determine the proper plug. "However," he stated, "no plug can suit all operating conditions of a given engine, and changes in driving conditions may occasionally demand a different kind of plug. The plug specified for a given engine will not cause pre-ignition under normal operating conditions, but if the carburetor mixture is lean or the ignition timing late, pre-ignition may occur. This may also happen if a slight leak has developed either between the central electrode and the porcelain or between the porcelain and the shell. What might appear to be only a very small leak will increase the temperature of the firing tip of the porcelain to a point where pre-ignition will result. In order to meet these conditions, however, spark plug manufacturers have provided plugs which, under given conditions, will operate with the lower end of the porcelain at different temperatures. Therefore, if continued difficulty is experienced, it is wise to consult an authorized service station to see if a change may be advisable."

Mr. Smith stressed the importance of spark plug maintenance from a standpoint of safety. "With safety being stressed more than ever," he said, "it is important that every motorist keep his car in the best of driving condition, and a car that is slow to accelerate, due to fouled plugs, cannot be termed a 'safe' car."

Elder Grow Finished Michigan Work at Farmington Pastorate

Baptist Pastor Went To Pennsylvania From Here

(Editor's Note: This chapter on "The Pastorate at Farmington" concludes that portion of "Eighty Five Years of Life and Labor" which deals with Elder William B. Grow's experiences in Michigan. This Baptist preacher and evangelist was the first pastor of the Plymouth Baptist church in 1845.)

The call to Farmington was a most inviting one. The church was a substantial, moderate-sized country church, with a delightful class of people. It was only ten miles from Milford, and hence I was still to labor within the circle of long-established acquaintances. The village lay in the midst of a beautiful farming country where all the conditions seemed to favor highgrade farming and to produce a most thrifty and prosperous group of farmers. The membership of the church embraced many of these most influential men, whose character and worth gave stability to the work.
Here had labored some of Michigan's best known Baptist ministers, into whose labors it was an honor to enter. Among these men were cousins of mine, the Lambs—father and son—whose combined labors in the field had covered nearly thirty years. The foundations laid by these men were deep and broad and strong. The people were accustomed to pure doctrine, faithfully preached, and it was delightful to serve such a congregation.
I began my work here March 1, 1884. More than twenty years had rolled by since the Dexter church had authorized me to preach, but somehow I began this pastorate with as much zeal and energy as I had first begun the work of the Christian ministry. The work was to be less by special events than the previous pastorates. The spiritual condition of the church had always been kept to a high point and nearly every family in the neighborhood were professors of religion. Hence there was less room for special revival effort than I had found elsewhere. Yet we had one delightful season of awakening when a goodly number confessed Christ and followed their Lord in baptism.
On the side of temporalities I found nothing to do, since efficient church officers and a liberal membership took good care of all these matters.
Thus relieved of the two lines of work which had usually occupied my energies to the full, the Farmington pastorate is always recalled with a feeling of restfulness. It came into my active life at a time when I needed just such a rest from the arduous duties of over twenty years. Most ministers feel the need of such a period after the free use of the fire of youth in the kindling of fires upon the altars of the church.
An event of more than passing interest in our family life occurred here. An agent from the "Home of the Friendless" in New York city came to Farmington, bringing with him twenty-eight boys and girls for whom he was seeking homes among the farmers. The agent and the children were at the hotel, and sharing the general interest and curiosity which their presence had awakened. I went over to see them in the early part of the day. While sitting there, one of the children, an engaging little girl, crawled up on my lap for a seat. I must confess that this simple act of the child touched my heart, and my natural sympathy for the home-

Julia Wilcox Is Wed on Tuesday

The wedding ceremony uniting Julia-Grace Wilcox, daughter of Mrs. George H. Wilcox and the late Mr. Wilcox, and Russell Malcolm Sanderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Jay Sanderson, of Detroit, was solemnized at four o'clock Tuesday afternoon in the home of the bride on Pennington avenue. Dr. James McGee of Flint officiating. The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, John C. Wilcox.

The wedding party took their places to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, played by Robert Thompson of Ann Arbor, brother-in-law of the bride, and the service was read in front of an embankment of white lilies and gypsophila. Mrs. Robert Thompson, of Ann Arbor, sister of the bride, wore embroidered organdie in yellow and carried talisman roses and gypsophila. Mr. Sanderson was attended by Earl Gremel of Detroit.
Mrs. Wilcox, mother of the bride wore a gown of black and white chiffon, while Mrs. Sanderson, mother of the bridegroom, chose flowered chiffon; both wore gardenias.
A reception followed with only the wedding guests present. Mr. and Mrs. Sanderson left immediately on a motor trip to Quebec and New England. They will reside in Detroit.

The bride, who is a graduate of Plymouth high, received her degree at Smith college, later attending the University of Michigan, where she was affiliated with Chi Omega sorority. The bridegroom, who is a graduate of the University of Michigan, is a member of Phi Kappa Alpha fraternity.
Those from out-of-town attending the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Sanderson and Mr. and the man who baptized me thirty-five years ago, and for thirty years I have been in the ministry, three years of which I have spent as pastor of your old church at Highland. Such testimonials mean much to a man who has passed his fourscore years, and especially when similar testimonials come from various parts of the land and even from faraway Japan, where Rev. Job Scott, one of my Plymouth boys, has done more than two decades of heroic Christian service.

During this pastorate we made a visit to the east, which was to have a most significant relation to all our after-life. Mr. E. L. Hendrick, to whom reference has already been made, as the husband of Mrs. Grow's sister, Caroline, had been carried by his business engagements to Carbondale, Pennsylvania, and with some other relative we visited the Hendrick home. The Rev. E. L. Bailey was the consecrated pastor of the Berean Baptist church of that city, and upon his invitation I engaged in a three weeks' meeting, which was a most successful effort.
Our return from Carbondale to Farmington was largely for the purpose of closing up our work and affairs in Michigan, to enter into plans formed during the visit for a reunion of the families, ourselves and the Hendricks, at Franklin, Pennsylvania. And so, in 1885, after twenty-eight years of residence in Michigan, we bade goodbye to the state which was never again to serve us as a home. The memories of Michigan are very delightful, and while I have a natural love for the Empire State that a man should have for his native state, and for the Keystone State the love that is born of nearly forty years' residence and intense interest in all that pertained to its growth and welfare, yet I must confess that memory reverts oftener and love seems to linger longer about the scenes and events of those twenty-eight years spent in Michigan. The End.

Mrs. Bennett Wilcox and two children of Detroit; Mrs. Schuyler D. Thompson, of Grand Rapids; Miss Isabel Reed of Columbus, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Harvey and daughter, Joanne, of Jackson.
The cruelest criticism is indifference.
There is a good deal of difference between a reason and an excuse.

NOW—THE New Firestone STANDARD TIRE

NEVER BEFORE SO MANY EXTRA VALUE FEATURES IN A TIRE AT SUCH A LOW PRICE

FIRST LINE QUALITY—The new Firestone Standard Tire has been designed and constructed by Firestone skilled tire engineers—it is a first quality tire, built of first grade materials, embodying exclusive Firestone patented construction features.

FIRESTONE NAME AND GUARANTEE—Every Standard Tire is backed by the Firestone name and guarantee—your assurance of safety, dependability and economy.

LONGER NON-SKID MILEAGE—The wider, flatter tread is scientifically designed with more and tougher rubber on the road for long, even wear, and thousands of extra miles.

GUM-DIPPED CORD BODY—Eight extra pounds of rubber are added to every one hundred pounds of cotton cords by the Firestone patented process of Gum-Dipping. This not only provides greater strength, but gives greater blowout protection.

TWO EXTRA LAYERS OF GUM-DIPPED CORDS UNDER THE THREAD—Cushions road shocks. Affords extra protection against punctures and binds the whole tire into one unit of great strength.

IT COSTS LESS TO BUY — VOLUME PRODUCTION SAVES YOU MONEY—The new Firestone Standard Tire is the greatest tire value ever offered car owners—volume production, efficient factories and the most economical distribution system make it possible to sell this new tire at a price remarkably low. This is why car owners everywhere call it the Thrift Tire for 1936.

Foreign Legion Picture To Open Here on Sunday

Four Stars in Screen Version of "Under Two Flags"

One of the year's outstanding pictures, "Under Two Flags," will open a three-day run Sunday at the Penman-Allen theater. This screen play, based on the famous novel of the same name by Ouida, has a cast headed by four of Hollywood's most famous stars, Ronald Colman, Claudette Colbert, Victor McLaglen and Rosalind Russell, and including 10,000 other principals and extras.

The story is dramatic, tense, full of the thrills and excitement which have become associated with the French Foreign Legion. Colman, who won fame in a similar role in "Beau Geste," appears as Sergeant Victor, with Miss Colbert as the fiery Cigarette, Miss Russell as Lady Venetia, the English noblewoman, and McLaglen in the role of the hard-boiled Major Doyle.

The supporting cast includes such competent performers as Gregory Ratoff, Nigel Bruce, C. Henry Gordon, Herbert Mundin and J. Edward Bromberg. Frank Lloyd was the director, assisted by Otto Brower, who was in charge of the battle sequences.

Gladys Swarthout, lovely lady of the Metropolitan opera company, appears in her second film role, "Give Us This Night," which will be shown here Wednesday and Thursday. She plays the part of a famous young opera singer, with Jan Klepura, Continental screen and opera favorite, cast opposite her in the role of a young fisherman, who also has a splendid voice.

The girl hears the young fisherman sing, is amazed at his voice, and with the aid of a middle-aged composer sees that he gets his "break." The two young people are cast in the leading roles of an opera the composer is writing, and working together day after day, they soon fall in love. But a climax arises when they discover that the composer, too, is in love with the girl. The solution of this triangle affair is neatly worked out.

Closing the week Friday and Saturday will be a double feature program, "Man Hunt," with Ricardo Cortez, William Gargan and Marguerite Churchill, and "The Widow from Monte Carlo," with Dolores Del Rio and Warren William.

The first is a story of how a young school teacher and a country weekly newspaper man succeed where federal agents and city reporters fail, in tracking down a notorious bank bandit. Cortez takes the part of Kingman, the bandit, with Miss Churchill and Gargan in the romantic leads.

The struggle for existence keeps a lot of us busy and out of trouble.

Expert Says Care of Chicks Avoids Disease

Warm days and cold nights and lack of attention in moving the brooder house around on the range are summer conditions that bring unnecessarily heavy flock losses from coccidiosis, warns Professor C. G. Card of the poultry husbandry department at Michigan State college.

Coccidiosis is considered one of the most infectious diseases attacking poultry. Its advance is rapid, but simple, preventive measures can be taken that will reduce many times the chance losses. Although it is fatal to chicks between the ages of four to eight weeks, coccidiosis is not limited to any age group.

Many poultrymen periodically during the summer substitute a mash containing 40 per cent dried milk for the regular growing mash. The excess protein induces diarrhea. After 24 to 48 hours of the dried milk mash the regular mash diet is again given the chicks.

"Three other practices help materially to curb the disease," suggests Professor Card. "Move the brooder house around on the range as soon as the flock has been in one place for some time. From 40 to 50 feet is sufficient distance at a time. Clean the brooder house at least once in every five days. As soon as the chicks are large enough, put in roosts to avoid huddling at night. Too close contact of the birds spreads the start of the disease."

Report Trout Fishing Is Better This Year

Trout fishing is coming back. After two seasons of mediocre fishing, due to causes not definitely determined, trout streams of northern Michigan seem to have returned to old "production standards" and are affording some of the best trout fishing in years, according to reports of fishermen.

Accounts received by the department of conservation indicate that this better fishing is not confined to one section, but is more or less general.

Supervisor H. L. Peterson of the Grayling hatchery, reported that fishing during all favorable weather days throughout May of the entire AuSable river system have been "beyond anything we have had in the past 10 years."

Heavy catches of brook and brown trout have been made on both the main AuSable and the north branch. The streams in Montmorency county are reported above last year's average in good fishing and those in Oscoda are said to be producing the best fishing in years.

Monica McKerring and Theodore Johnson Wed

The marriage of Miss Monica McKerring, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. T. McKerring, of Flushing, and Theodore A. Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur M. Johnson of Plymouth was quietly solemnized Thursday, June 18, in Portland, Indiana, by Rev. Hugh Ronald, a former pastor of the local Presbyterian church.

The bride and bridegroom were unattended. They will spend the summer at Horseshoe lake, but will later reside in Plymouth.

In history, as in nature, nothing happens in a day.

First Prize Essay

A hundred Algonquin Indians composed the little band destined to found a metropolis. His officers were Captain Alfonso de Marsac, and Sieur de l'Omnesprou; also in the company were two priests—father Francois Vallant, the Jesuit, and Father Bernard de L'Halle, the Franciscan.

The Sieur Cadillac chose a northern route to Le Detroit because of the hostility of the Iroquois tribes south of the Lakes. Like many another brave explorer before him—like Verrezeau and Cartier and Champlain and LaSalle—he plunged into the wilderness toward a perilous goal. Hail to the adventurers!

The red men on the shore must have peered sharply at the twenty-five canoes of French and Algonquin rovers—peered as they had at Columbus on San Salvador, as they peered at Cortez at Custer on the Little Big Horn. They must have seen lean men, the greater number clad in buckskin, the rest wearing uniform of blue faced with white. In the prow of the foremost canoe was a dark man of forty, red cloak across his shoulders, plumed hat upon his head, shining sword at his side: Cadillac, servant of France.

On and on, over thirty portages, for three hundred leagues, for forty-nine days, laughing and singing, paddling as they went, up the Ottawa, across Lake Nipissing, up the French river and the Pickereel, down Georgian Bay, Lake Huron, St. Clair River, and Lake St. Clair—and then Detroit!

It was the afternoon of July 23 when the men of Cadillac landed on a new isle; history was writing a new page in her book. Their leader was the first ashore. He had accomplished a part of his mission.

The next morning, after surveying the beautiful shores, the Sieur Cadillac determined to build his town upon a bluff facing the river at a point which is now the foot of Shelby Street. Experienced captain that he was, he soon set his men to work building a palisade of tree trunks, with a bastion at each corner of the enclosure. Within this space the village was to be situated, and he named it Fort Pontchartrain du Detroit.

It is needless to dwell upon the construction of this town. A warehouse, the Church of St. Anne, a barn, ice houses, and individual dwellings at this time were built of logs placed upright in the ground and intersticed with clay. Within a few weeks these rough reminders of civilization were finished, with earthen or brick floors, with fireplaces for the affluent or cold for the others, and with scraped down window panes. Unrefined indeed was life in these homes, but it was the life of courageous men. Cadillac, the willful Gascon, had founded a city.

The years passed swiftly in a frontier post. Indians and couriers came and went with their heavy packs. Rumors of the advance of the English on the Ohio drifted up to Michigan. Governors of New France were superseded. Within one year there were villages of six thousand and Indians outside the palisades of Detroit attracted from Mackinac by Cadillac's policies. The years did not pass eventless.

Detroit's history in the French period is well known. Governmental paternalism, lack of support by the authorities in Quebec, quarrels with the Algonquins, fear of the British, opposition by the Jesuits and by the commercial Canada Company—all hindered the development of the town. One man met and broke the obstacles—Cadillac.

From the first the Gascon was confronted with the opposition of powerful organizations. The Jesuits hated him because he drew their mission Indians from Mackinac to Detroit; the Canada Company hated him because he had resolved to found a large and populous town on the strait, and it was the belief of the Company that a small population aided their fur trade. Upon the day of landing, Cadillac had quarreled with the Jesuit Father, Vaillant, and the latter had left the settlement in anger. Within a few years the priests at Mackinac were forced to desert their missions because of lack of converts, and refusing Cadillac's invitation to remove to Detroit, returned to Canada, combining forces with the Company and jealous government officials in attempting to undermine his influence. In 1704, Cadillac was called to France to answer the charges of mismanagement brought by these enemies, and although he was exonerated, the town was virtually ruined in his two-year absence by incompetent commandants. With his return came greater prosperity than Detroit had previously known.

The Sieur de la Mothe Cadillac had indeed a vivid personality. We can see him striding vigorous-

Test Holstein Herd at Training School

The purebred herd of registered Holsteins owned by the Wayne County Training school, has completed 63 days of the current herd test year with a daily average of 1.1 pounds of butterfat per cow. High cow for the 63-day period is Ionia Aggie Pauline with 3,559.8 pounds of milk and 108.0 pounds of fat. Ionia also leads the herd for the last reported monthly test period with 1,740.0 pounds of milk and 52.2 pounds of fat.

Eight cows in the herd have completed lactation records with records ranging from 224.9 pounds to 643.5 pounds of fat. There were two cows with records over 500 pounds of fat, Ionia Aggie Sturtevant with 543.5 pounds of fat and 17.5 pounds of milk and Wacots Marathon Ormby Maid with 531.8 pounds of fat and 15.736 pounds of milk.

The Holstein-Friesian Herd Improvement test continues to gain in popularity with breeders throughout the country and over 500 herds including 14,500 purebred Holstein cows are now being tested in the United States. The herd test, which continues year after year, includes the entire herd and provides information for scientific selection and culling to increase production and improve the quality of the herd.

ly through the narrow streets of the village, his great cloak fluttering in the wind, his sword swinging at his side. His horse was rapidly grayed now, and there must have been a great bitterness in his heart, but he was still the same haughty, kindly nobleman, absolute lord of Detroit, dispenser of the high justice, the middle and the low. He was the friend of the savage Indians, the patron of the artisans, the idol of the soldiers, the aid of the traders, the support of the farmers, and the confidant of high officials. He was Detroit itself. He made a dying garrison post an important town. He fought against great odds, and for a time he won.

But the Jesuit order and the Company were strong. Repeatedly they intrigued against him, demanded his withdrawal, by these in authority, and placed stumbling-blocks in his path. He had his faults, to be sure, but they were as nothing compared to the benefit he did France. Pontchartrain, Minister of Marine, supported him staunchly, yet even he was unable to stand against the power of Cadillac's enemies. They procured the removal of the garrison, from Detroit, and finally forced Pontchartrain to transfer his friend to the government of Louisiana. In 1711, the Gascon was notified of his "promotion."

It is not difficult to realize the feeling that must have been Cadillac's. The labor of a lifetime snatched from him, his rights and property given to another, all his dreams shattered, there must have been a break in his heart. He was to live on, to struggle and conquer and lose and win again, but his life must have seemed in vain. We can picture him looking down the straits for life last time, at the town for which he had given all. Melancholy must have been gnawing at his heart; yet he was not crushed.

Leave him there, in what must have seemed to him the end of all things. Leave him in despair and disappointment and sorrow. Although he knew it not, his everlasting fame was established in the greatest of monuments. He had founded Detroit, metropolis and center of world trade. Leave him there, gazing at what once was his: in the minds of men it is forever his. He gave his gallant spirit to a great work, and he accomplished his task. Cadillac, the daring adventurer, great empire builder, daring commander, proud gentleman and kindly leader, lives eternally in the city on the strait.

State Maps Zones of Traffic Hazards

Completion of the maps on which the Michigan state police and the state highway department will chart their "selective" campaign against traffic hazards was announced this week.

These maps are of 35 areas in the state where highway accidents have been occurring with the greatest frequency. During the past few months the highway planning survey division of the state highway department has been spotting on these maps the exact location of all accidents reported to the state police during 1935.

Original copies of the maps were submitted to State Highway Commissioner Murray D. Van Wagener and State Police Commissioner Oscar G. Olander in determining the 14 most hazardous traffic areas which are to be the field for the "selective" safety campaign. Photostatic copies are being sent out to state police posts with accompanying orders from Commissioner Olander directing the activities of the troopers.

Monthly accident reports will be submitted to the highway department for analysis by the planning survey. As the facts contained in these reports are accumulated, valuable data regarding the design and construction of roads, and the control and routing of traffic will be available.

Commissioners Olander and Van Wagener both held important committees in the state safety council.

"AUTOMATIC"

but not as automatic as ELECTRIC HOT WATER!

Your electric refrigerator does its work quietly and efficiently, without attention—save for an occasional defrosting. It is "automatic" . . . but not as automatic as a new electric service for the home: ELECTRIC HOT WATER. Here is the last word in carefree, trouble-free water heating—and it is completely automatic. Once it is installed, you need not even press a button to enjoy constant hot water. You can forget about water heating problems permanently, assured that you will always have hot water when you want it. An electric water heater requires no attention whatever, and ends forever the annoyance of waiting for water to get hot, the bother of running up and down stairs to light a manually operated heater, and the inconvenience and delay caused by having only lukewarm water in the pipes.

Obituary

KENNETH FREDERICK DODGE
Kenneth Frederick, infant son of Weyburn M. and the late Genevieve Bird Dodge, was born Friday, November 30, 1934, at Ann Arbor. He passed away on Saturday, June 20, at the Mellus hospital in Brighton.

He is survived by his father, grandmothers, Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Dodge of Whitmore Lake; grandmother, Mrs. Nellie Bird of Plymouth; and great-grandmother, Mrs. Genevieve Smith of Salem. He was laid to rest at the side of his mother in Riverside cemetery.

MRS. GENEVIEVE BIRD DODGE
Mrs. Genevieve Bird Dodge, of Brighton, who died June 19, was born in Salem township March 31, 1899, the daughter of Nellie and the late Frederick Bird of Plymouth.

Since early girlhood she had lived in Plymouth, uniting with the Plymouth Methodist church at the age of 11.

She was graduated from the Plymouth high school in 1926 and from the University of Michigan in 1930. The next four years she taught mathematics in the Harrisville high school.

On December 24, 1933 she was married to Weyburn Dodge of Whitmore Lake by Dr. Fred A. Lendrum. A son, Kenneth, was born in November 1934, and followed his mother in death by a few hours.

She is survived by her husband; her mother, Mrs. Nellie Bird of Plymouth; one sister, Mrs. Ione Faber of Davison; her grandmother, Mrs. Genevieve Smith of Salem; and a niece, Doris Faber of Davison.

Funeral services were held Monday, June 22, at Schrader's Funeral home. Dr. Fred A. Lendrum and Rev. F. Ray Norton conducted the service. Burial was in Riverside cemetery, Plymouth.

Rosedale Gardens

Burglars entered the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Johnson on Ingram avenue Saturday evening, sometime between 9 and 11 p. m. while the owners were away, and ransacked the premises. Clothing, jewelry and silver, worth several hundreds of dollars, were taken as well as a radio.

The benefit bridge and bunco party sponsored by the Ladies Auxiliary of the Rosedale Gardens Presbyterian church, Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. George W. Schwarz on Cranston avenue was a very successful affair. Members of Mrs. Schwarz committee met Monday afternoon at her home to lay plans for the party.

Boys of the Rosedale Boosters club entertained their parents at their first annual banquet Thursday evening of last week, with Dr. Lau, of the North Woodward avenue Presbyterian church, as guest speaker. On Saturday 36 members of the club attended the baseball game at Navin field.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bowdler have left for a western trip which will take them to the state of Washington and Alaska.

Society News

Miss Carolyn Shaw, daughter of Mrs. Ella Shaw, left Thursday evening for New York city, where she will sail on Saturday, on the S. S. Aquitania, on a two months' tour of Germany. The tour is under the direction of the University of Michigan, conducted by Elmer D. Mitchell.

Mr. and Mrs. Allan Sumner, of Detroit, were dinner guests Wednesday evening of his aunt, Mrs. Ida Taft.

Mrs. Floyd Angvine and daughter, Jean of Norwalk, Connecticut, are the guests of their cousin, Mrs. Nelson Cole, on West Ann Arbor trail.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Schroder were given a pleasant surprise Sunday morning when their children arrived and requested them to go to Cass Benton park for a picnic dinner in honor of Father's day. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Roy Schroder and family of Farmington; Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Smith of Royal Oak and Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Schroder of Plymouth.

Mrs. Fred Melow entertained a group of friends Monday afternoon, at her home on the Five Mile road, in honor of the birthday anniversary of her mother, Mrs. Emma Johnson. Delicious refreshments were served. Guests were present from Salem, Northville and Livonia. All departed wishing Mrs. Johnson many more happy birthdays.

A lovely luncheon and miscellaneous shower was given Saturday, by Margery Van Amburg and Evelyn Stanible, at the home of the former on Union street, honoring Gladys Zietsch, a June bride-elect. The 16 guests were seated at small tables daintily set and centered with pink and white flowers in bud vases. Bridge and keno furnished the amusement for the afternoon, after which the guest of honor was showered with beautifully wrapped gifts, revealing many useful ones. The guests were Miss Zietsch, her mother, Mrs. George Zietsch, Mrs. Clarence Kent of Ann Arbor; Mrs. Floyd Gray of Dryden, Mrs. Deanna Keith of Highland Park; Mrs. E. J. Douglas, Mrs. Eddie Wood, Mrs. Belle Campbell of Northville; Mary Lorenz, Mary Urban Elaine and Mary Jane Hamilton, Deema Truesdell, Mrs. Cleo Curtis, Eleanor and Margaret Sackett of Plymouth.

Miss Ruty Latta of Jacksonville Florida; Raymond Latta of Cleveland, Ohio, and the Misses Glady and Harriett Schroder of Detroit, were visitors Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Schroder on the Six Mile road.

Mrs. Jack Taylor has been in Washington, D. C. the past week as one of the chaperons with the senior class of the Northville high school.

Miss Clara Tyler will leave on Monday, with friends from Windsor, Ontario, to spend the summer with relatives in Calgary, Canada.

House on Roe Street Burns

Fire Friday night did extensive damage to the house at 302 Roe street owned by Edward Pankow and occupied by the G. St. Louis and Eldon Oakes families. The Plymouth fire department was called out twice, once at 9:45 p. m. and again at 12:30 when the fire broke out for a second time near the chimney.

The blaze is believed to have started on the roof or in one of the upstairs rooms, although there was no electric wiring there which might be blamed for the fire. The roof and the back of the house were badly burned, although much of the furniture was removed to safety. There was no insurance to cover the damage.

Lodges Hold Joint Memorial Service

Joint memorial services were conducted by the Rebekahs and Oddfellows of Plymouth Sunday at the Salem Congregational church, with a large number attending.

The Rebekah choir sang two sacred numbers, "Pilot Me, O Blessed Savior" and "He Will Show Me" after which Mrs. Mildred Collins gave a reading, "The Master Is Coming." Mrs. Lynn Matis and Mrs. Hazel Roach then paid tribute to the deceased members, and Rev. Lucia M. Stroh preached an impressive memorial sermon.

Until you've tried to make money without working, you don't know how easy it is to lose money.

Northville News

The village tax rate was set at $16.22 last week by the village council on the recommendation of Charles L. Blackburn, city assessor. The rate in 1935 was $19.47 and in 1934 it was $19.70.

The council also adjusted a complaint filed by Attorney F. J. Cochran, acting for the owners of the property on which the new ale brewery is to be erected. It was found that the valuation of $15,400 should be increased to $50,000. Plans are to build a $600,000 building on the site, Mr. Cochran said, and the owners have placed a valuation of $78,000 on the land alone.

More than 100 World War veterans received their bonus payments through the Northville postoffice, and by the middle of the first week 76 had certified the bonds for cashing with the postmaster, Fred E. Van Atta, and his assistant, D. J. Stark. The first bond to be received in the village went to Edward Michael Behen, and the first certified was by Ray A. Altemeyer, commander of the Lloyd H. Green post of the American Legion.

Bids on construction work for the new grade school building will be received by board of education up to 7:30 p. m. of June 29, at which time the board will meet in room 33 of the high school building to publicly open and read the bids. Bids are asked on general work, heating, plumbing and ventilating and electrical systems. They must be based on the wage scale set up by the federal government, as the construction is being done under the WPA.

C. R. Ely was elected president of the Exchange club at the semi-annual meeting held last week. Other officers are: S. W. Wilkinson, Paul Thompson and Victor Lumley, vice-presidents; C. A. Dolph, secretary-treasurer; L. E. Stewart and E. L. Smith, members of the board; Harold Bloom, marshal; and Dr. H. I. Sparling, song leader.

Father Joseph G. Schuler, pastor of Our Lady of Victory church, was honored by Catholic men of the community Monday evening of last week on the anniversary of his twentieth year in the priesthood. He was born June 17, 1916, in Detroit, and served six years at St. Elizabeth's church in that city. For 13 years he has been in charge of the Northville parish. Jim Spagnolo, head of the men's group for the month of June, was in charge of arrangements for the anniversary celebration.

Word has been received of the death of Mrs. Ida Joslin, former Northville resident, June 12, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. E. R. Ball, in Redondo Beach, California. Besides Mrs. Ball, she is survived by a son, John, and two grandchildren of Atascadero, California. Members of the family in and near Northville held a service at the same hour the funeral was held in California. The Rev. H. G. Whitfield took charge.

A community vacation church school held its opening sessions Monday and will continue each morning, beginning at 9 o'clock, for two weeks. Miss Mabel Chamberlain is in charge of the junior work, Rev. Harold G. Whitfield of the intermediate, Mrs. Earl Montgomery, the primary, and Mrs. H. H. Wick, the beginners' department. The school is under the joint sponsorship of the Baptist, Presbyterian and Methodist churches of the village.

The June committee of the Methodist Ladies' Aid society sponsored a "health dinner" Tuesday evening at the church house. Rev. H. J. Lord and Mrs. John Litsenberger were in charge.

Miss Esther Marie Seelye, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Seelye of Novi, and John Frederick White of Jackson, were married June 11 at the Methodist parsonage in Farmington. They will make their home in Detroit.

The King's Daughters concluded their meetings for the summer with a picnic Tuesday of last week at the Phil Greenan ranch on Six Mile road. The hostesses assisting Mrs. Grennan, mother of the owner of the ranch, were Mrs. W. E. Forney, Mrs. H. Behrendt, Miss Ruth Gillis and Mrs. John Litsenberger.

Alumni of Northville high school held their annual banquet Friday evening in the school gymnasium. Dr. A. B. Wickham, of the Eastlawn sanatorium was the principal speaker, telling of his recent travels in South America.

Miss Ellen Ward, daughter of Mrs. Margaret Ward, and Joseph Modos, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Modos, were married June 13 at Our Lady of Victory church, by the Rev. Joseph G. Schuler. A reception followed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Modos are living at 1300 Garfield road, Northville.

Thirty-five years ago, Bell System telephones could be connected with only 36 per cent of the telephones in the world. Today, about 93 per cent of the world's 35,000,000 telephones are within reach of any Bell or Bell-connecting telephone.

Do you remember when a second mortgage yielding 18 per cent was considered a safe investment?

Windstorm Company Offers Protection

Nearly every year the Holly vicinity is visited by a disastrous windstorm. It usually arrives in the spring, but two years ago it was in the late summer. In each of these blows there is a big property loss, and the numerous recurrences has taught our thrifty people that it is little short of foolhardy to try to get along without adequate and dependable insurance against loss from windstorms and cyclones.

The Michigan Mutual Windstorm Insurance Co. of Hastings has paid many big claims in the Holly section, and we have yet to learn of a person who was not satisfied with the manner in which the loss was adjusted. They have a record of over 50 years of successful operation, and have nearly $400,000,000 of insurance in force in the state.

Conservative management has kept their rate among the lowest, the average for the entire life of the company being less than 75 per cent on each $100. Last year they paid out $261,000 to policy holders. This is the biggest insurance company of its kind in Michigan, and they have 800 agents, several of whom are in the Holly vicinity. Their monthly ads in the Herald vividly portray some of the devastation wrought by the wind.

Second Prize Essay

Canada. He was a captain in Acadia, now Nova Scotia, until he was recalled by Louis XIV for information about the French colonies here, their harbors, their occupations, and their defenses. Cadillac returned to New France and Governor Frontenac soon appointed him commander of Michilimackinac (Mackinac). Governor Frontenac and Cadillac were always the best of friends. Governor Frontenac often wrote excuses to the King because of the brevity of Cadillac's reports.

It was while Cadillac was commander of Michilimackinac that he saw the need for a commercial center further south. In fact he saw it so plainly that after taking the matter up with Frontenac he went back to France again and induced the King to see the necessity for such a post. When the King favored the plan, he promised Cadillac two hundred settlers and six companies of soldiers as well as money. As soon as Cadillac received his commission he wasted no time in making his plan a reality. He hurried as fast as then possible across the ocean and up the St. Lawrence River to Quebec. He picked fifty soldiers at Quebec, Three Rivers, and Montreal. Getting farmers to come was not quite so easy. No women were allowed on this trip. On June 5, 1701, one hundred white men in twenty-five large canoes left Montreal. The command was entrusted in Cadillac as first; Alphonse Tonty as second; Dugue, and Chacomaque, two cadet lieutenants as next, and a Jesuit priest, "Valiant" by name and a Recollet, Constantine to care for the souls of the group.

While enroute some of the men tried to start a mutiny. Rumors went through the crew, and reached Cadillac. Cadillac tried words which failed. Then he drew his sword and challenged them to come on. No one came for all knew that Cadillac was a master of fencing.

Their pace was twenty miles a day in bad weather, forty in fast up-stream and good water and they came by the way of Ottawa River, up the Mattawa, into Lake Nipissing, down the French River to Georgian Bay. Lake Huron was next to see the eager men. For feeling that he could not afford a rest at Georgian Bay he went on Mackinac to pick up supplies such as small cannons, muskets, and ammunition from the King's stores. It was now July and July being a warm, calm month made it possible for them to go across Saginaw Bay. They arrived at the place where Detroit is now located on July 23, 1701.

Cadillac spent the night where Grosse Isle now is. A more beautiful site for a fort could not in this way be made. A high bluff looking down onto a river, blue as the Mediterranean and bespotted with islands covered with tall birches, maples, and oaks. Behind the bluff laid rolling black land, now famous for its orchards.

After choosing the site, they proceeded in making a protection from the Indians by building a fort. The stockades of this fort were forty paces from the water's edge. The walls of the fort were made of wooden pickets or tree trunks six to eight inches in diameter and from ten to twelve feet long. These were sharpened at both ends and driven deep into the ground and as close together as could be. Clay was packed in the cracks to make a solid wall. This wall is supposed to have stood about where Jefferson Avenue and Shelby Street now run.

Cadillac named this stockade Fort Pontchartrain in honor of a French minister to the colonies. Inside this fort, a chapel and several log cabins were immediately started. The chapel was named St. Anne's Church because it was dedicated on July 26, the day of the Feast of St. Anne.

Men set to work clearing the land outside of the stockade for planting the wheat which Cadillac had brought. About twenty acres were planted by October in that first fall. The following summer, a good harvest was reaped.

The farms followed the French customs by being narrow and running back on the hills. Cabins with parchment windows were built. The roof was slabs covered with clay and moss overlaid by bark and more clay.

Inside the fort, warehouses covered the walls. Mills were built to grind the grain. Loops were made for the upper story for firing from in case of attack. Magazines for the ammunition were underneath.

Some report that Cadillac brought with him his oldest son but left his wife in Quebec for the next two years. Recent reports say that his wife came two months after he did and brought five of their children. Madame Cadillac as well as her husband knew the effect of pomp and power on the Indians. Their children were dressed in sturdy shoes of bright color, bright silk or woolen socks with many of garters, soft, mouse-colored leather and satins, and white ruffles up to their ears. Cadillac wore blue coats, white lacing, highly polished swords and gold lace. A picture of the arrival of Madame Cadillac and Madame Tonty at Detroit now hangs in the Detroit Public Library.

Evenings after vespers horns, fife, drums, and Indian tom-toms sounded together. Dancing was a favorite past-time. Even the Indians, who were encouraged to marry the white settlers, joined the white man's dance.

The Indians as a rule were very friendly. The Pottawatomie Indians had a village to the south and other Indians had two villages to the north. These Indians furnished the settlers with supplies once when their gave out.

Cadillac was the commander of Fort Pontchartrain for ten years before he was sent to Louisiana to form a new post. But while he was in Detroit he had called many councils of the Indians and had gained their friendship. He also had brought the Miami Indians into the settlement. Cadillac showed his great faith in the future of this venture by bringing one hundred fifty settlers, large amounts of supplies as well as tools, cattle, horses, and by settling with the Miami Indians on terms which he had brought. He even built a boat big enough to carry ten tons.

The chief characteristics of these settlers which Cadillac had brought were that they had to earn their own living by the work of their own hands. They clung to their home-land customs and did not isolate themselves as the New England backwoodsman. Although they did not live in hamlets, they made a continuous village along the river front. In their native land, a Frenchman must be so situated as for easy communication and in Detroit the banks of the river was their doorstep and the river their road. Because many of their homes were reachable only by canoe, they were called the "Muskrat Frenchmen" by the Yankees.

Cadillac accomplished his purpose of founding not only a military post at Detroit which would over-awe the Indians, check the advance of the English and Dutch, and secure Indian trade, but an agricultural community and obtain permanent foothold upon the soil.

Some of Cadillac's enemies had him imprisoned for counterfeiting. Others tried to keep him in trouble with the Court after the death of Governor Frontenac. But the number and faith of his friends over-balanced his enemies.

Cadillac was the governor of Louisiana for six years after commanding Detroit. He returned to France in 1716 where he died in 1720. Thus a great leader passed on leaving a thriving city to proclaim his leadership.

STARTING causes 3/4 of your engine's wear The result of today's "stop-and-go" driving ... but now a new oil that CHECKS THE WEAR You step on the starter 10 times a day ... 3500 times a year (business cars are started 15,000 times). Instantly over 100 metal parts rub together! If your engine is cold - and the oil is too thick (like molasses) - it cannot flow quickly enough to reach all these delicate moving parts. As a result, your engine often runs comparatively "dry" for a few seconds. This starting period, say automotive engineers, causes approximately 75% of engine wear. Is it any wonder that motors lose their quiet, new-car "purr" ... that hundreds of thousands of cars each year need new piston rings? Re-bored cylinders? New bearings? And other repairs that can cost from $10 to $100? This is why leading motor car manufacturers urge the use of faster-flowing lubricating oils. "But," they warn, "these oils must not break down under the heat of steady running." And so, at a cost of over $3,000,000, Shell has developed a new oil - an oil especially made for today's "stop-and-go" driving. The new Golden Shell Motor Oil is FAST-FLOWING and yet tough ... so that it lubricates quickly in starting, yet under high motor heat Golden Shell holds its body and resists breaking down into sludge and carbon. Automotive engineers ... leading oil technicians ... and professors in large American universities, assert that the process behind the new Golden Shell Oil is the most important advance in oil refining in the last 25 years. Start using the new Golden Shell Oil today. Now ready at over 30,000 neighborhood Shell stations from coast to coast.
