

Dead Body Lies in Hot Sun For Hours-Its Law

Auto Driver Meets Death When Car Hits Tree

As the result of the action of Wayne county coroners in killing at the last session of the state legislature a bill which would have permitted the immediate removal of a body from the scene of a fatal accident, the crushed remains of Melvin Linden, 28 years old, who had been residing at the Mayflower hotel, laid for nearly three hours Monday afternoon on the paving near the corner of East Ann Arbor Trail and the Hix road, where he had met death.

Linden, an engineer employed by a Toledo company, who was in charge of construction work at Edoise hospital, was not working Monday because of the heat. He told friends at the Mayflower shortly before noon that he thought he would drive to Toledo to see his mother.

It was but a few minutes after this when a call was received at the hotel telling of the crash that caused his instant death. The accident had happened a few minutes after 12 o'clock. Apparently in some way his car left the straight highway, crashed with terrific force into a big tree, tumbled backward and hurled the driver nearly 45 feet across the thoroughfare to the north side of the paving.

There his body remained in the blistering sun for nearly three hours, awaiting removal by some one from the coroner's office. The sun registered at 102 degrees. Someone thoughtfully threw his coat over his crushed face and head.

His body was removed late in the afternoon to Detroit, and from there to Toledo for burial. He had lived at the Mayflower for some months, and during his residence in this city had made many friends, who were indignant, condemning the politicians for killing the bill which would have permitted immediate and decent removal of his body.

Local police officials, Fred D. Schrader and a number of other well known Plymouth citizens and The Mail have for years been fighting to have the law changed in such a way that bodies whose death had been due to accidents or drownings, would not be required to lay for hours waiting for the coroner to come and remove them and turn them over to some undertaker friend in Detroit. Numerous times it has been necessary for bereaved families to threaten legal proceedings in order to have bodies that had been removed to Detroit, turned over to undertakers of their own selection.

At the last session of the legislature.

Scholarship Won By Russell Kirk

Through the generosity of the Alumni association of Michigan State college, one freshman from each of the 32 state senatorial districts is awarded a four-year scholarship each year. The award in this district this year went to Russell Kirk, of Plymouth.

The awards are based on scholarship and desirable characteristics suitable for college adaptation. There are three selected from each senatorial district to write a competitive examination, and the highest of the three is awarded the scholarship.

Last year it was recalled Robert Soth of Plymouth high school won the scholarship in this senatorial district. It is clearly a mark of distinction for the same high school to win the scholarship two years in succession.

Throughout this year Russell Kirk has brought a number of honors to himself and to the school by winning: (1) First place and fifty dollars in the "Scholarship" national essay contest; (2) first prize and three dollars in the Daughters of the American Revolution history essay contest; (3) representing Plymouth high school on its debating squad, and (4) representing Plymouth high school in the Twin Valley oratorical contest.

He was also a member of the Plymouth staff, and always a good citizen in the high school. The community has reason to be proud of the accomplishments of Russell Kirk, and will be happy in his achievement of future successes.

Many modern airports are equipped with a mobile air-conditioning unit which may be used for warming the cabins of planes in winter and for cooling them in summer.

North Pole Has Nothing On This Particular Spot

Your correspondent to the Arctic Circle begs to report that the state was all too short. But it was fun to slip on ice and see one's breath frost in cold air, even if for only a few minutes.

All of which has nothing to do with "January in June" or any natural or unnatural phenomenon of any kind. Rather it is a man-made phenomenon—the storehouse of the Plymouth Artificial Ice company, Roy Salow, manager, reported a tremendous increase in business during the extreme hot weather, about 25 tons of ice being sold every day as compared with an average of 10 tons on a normal summer day.

Mr. Salow stated that ice was being used in every imaginable way to make life more comfortable. In addition to its normal use of keeping foods and cooling drinks, it was set to work cooling off individuals. In stores and offices, ice was placed in tubs in front of blower systems or electric fans—the same air conditioning system used in the modern ice box, on a much larger scale. The ice not only cooled the temperature, but changed the humidity and purified the air as well. In homes ice was placed in tubs, either with or without electric fans, as men, women and children sought every available method to make life more livable.

Many salesmen who were forced to be on the roads in their cars, bought huge pieces of ice which they placed in their cars, closing the windows to the moisture and coolness would last as long as possible.

And, while everyone in town clamored for his services at the same time the ice man was forced to hurry his pace rather than slow it up in the unaccustomed heat. He was probably the most popular man in town.

To Give Biblical Play Here Sunday

Under the auspices of the First Baptist church, a group of young people from Novi will present a Biblical drama, "The Rock," by Mary P. Hamill, at 8 o'clock at the church.

The cast for the production is as follows: Simon a fisherman, Lynn Leavenworth; Adena, his wife, Mary Dutton; Deborah, her mother; Ellen Rice; Ucal, her brother; Ronald Burton; Mary of Magdala, Betty Rix; and other minor characters.

The play opens in the courtyard of the House of Andrew and Simon, in the great city of Capernaum, where four Roman roads cross and go out to the known world. Simon, a poor young fisherman, pours out his longing to be a great merchant to his young wife, Adena, but neither can see any way out of their poverty. Then Adena's uncle, Ucal, a great merchant arrives and offers to establish Simon in business.

Simon, in the meantime, has met the strange Teacher from Nazareth, who Jesus calls, Simon, or thrown aside ambition for low Jesus. He is opposed by his mother-in-law, Ucal and the brilliant but wicked Magdala, but his wife upholds his decision and he accepts the name of Peter, the Rock. When Jesus fails to take advantage of the opportunities offered him following the healing of Peter's mother-in-law and other miracles, Peter deserts him in anger. But Ucal's "I told you so" attitude swings him back to his Master.

The third act is laid on a house top in Bethany, on the evening of the crucifixion. To Peter it means not only the end of hope, but the discovery of himself as a traitor and a coward. At last, through the devotion of Adena and the understanding of Magdala, who has turned to the teachings of Jesus, he begins to view the true meaning of his name.

Theater Cooling System Working

No matter what the weather may be the remainder of the summer, Plymouth residents are assured of at least one cool place where they can rest and enjoy themselves. The cooling system in the Penniman-Allen theater has been installed and is now working.

Theater patrons have enjoyed the fine pictures Manager Harry Lush has brought to his theater despite the heat, but with the addition of the cooling system many more will undoubtedly combine pleasure with comfort.

The cooling system in the Penniman-Allen is the first to be installed in Plymouth.

Ankle Broken In Leap From Train

Adrian Evans, of Amarillo, Texas, was picked up Tuesday at the Main street crossing of the Pere Marquette railroad, with a broken ankle sustained, when he jumped from a moving freight train.

He was taken to Plymouth hospital by Leslie Fuller, of Plymouth, where Dr. Luther Peck rendered first aid treatment. The Plymouth police department was called, and took him to Seymour hospital at Edoise.

The Great State of Michigan Forces Residents Of This Locality To Look Upon Such Gruesome Sights As This Frequently Because of Politics

The Dead Body of Melvin Linden

The Plymouth Mail does not favor publication of distressing views but this picture of Melvin Linden and his wrecked automobile is being used to try and rouse some sense of decency on the part of state officials who have so far killed every effort made by residents of this locality to end the legalized racket of Wayne county coroners in requiring bodies to remain lying for hours and hours on highways until they can come and get them and remove them to Detroit. This locality has long tried to have the state law amended so that local officials might take charge of such cases and provide for the immediate removal of people who have been killed or drowned by accident.

Legion Commander Hamill, Smith Give Report On Rotary Meeting

Tell Local Club About Convention Held In Atlantic City

Harold Anderson was elected commander of the Myron H. Beals post of the American Legion at the annual meeting held July 6. He succeeds Melvin Guthrie.

In his message, Mr. Harris stated that man took a long time to develop the wheel in action, and that for thousands of years he skated around on a sledge, out of a log. He compared the status of international peace at the present time with the wheel when it was no more than a slice of a log, and predicted that some day man would develop international peace the same as he has the wheel in action. He advocated the Rotary method, suggesting that the same kindness, friendship, tolerance and good will be practiced among nations that has worked out so well between individuals.

Meetings were held Tuesday morning for the editors of club publications, in addition to the second plenary session at which addresses on various phases of Rotary were given. The afternoon session was devoted to vocational services. Mr. Hamill and Mr. Smith spoke particularly of a talk by Charles L. Pillsbury, of the Minneapolis Rotary club, on "Relations Between Competitors," and another by Sir Charles A. Mander, a paint manufacturer from Wolverhampton, England, on "Relations Between Buyers and Sellers."

Mr. Pillsbury, who was one of a committee of 122 which met with President Hoover to try to formulate some plan of government control of industry, brought out the point that he had found it was fairly easy for manufacturers to get together in times of adversity, but that when business is good they start their cut-throat competition. He stated it was his opinion that some sort of government regulation of industry is inevitable.

The Englishman declared that as soon as manufacturers start cutting prices, invariably the quality of their products fall and the public suffers from inferior products. In touching on the labor problem, he said that unions are all right if properly organized and managed, but that too many unions at the present time are rackets which do not wish to be recognized.

Wednesday morning was given over to international peace and the third plenary session. An international round table was held at which Rotarians from Holland, Japan, South America, China, Austria, Italy, the Malay States, Czechoslovakia, France, Norway and England, spoke.

Mr. Smith reported that the

Hamill, Smith Give Report On Rotary Meeting

Reports of the convention of Rotary International, held June 22 through 27 at the Municipal auditorium in Atlantic City, were given by Herald F. Hamill and George A. Smith at the meeting of the local club Friday, at the Mayflower hotel. Mr. Hamill went as delegate from Plymouth, with Mr. Smith as alternate.

According to their reports, about 12,000 Rotarians from 30 countries were in attendance at the convention. On Sunday there was registration, and the first plenary session was called to order Monday afternoon, July 22, by Alfred H. McKelown, of Detroit, chairman of the convention committee and later named a director of Rotary International. Addresses of welcome and appropriate responses were followed by Mr. McKelown, the founder and past president of Rotary, read by Silvester Schiele, of Chicago.

Tableaux, Pageantry Planned For G. A. R. Flag Presentation Ceremonies Thursday Evening

Judge Moynihan To Be Principal Speaker On Program

Arrangements have been completed for the ceremonies Thursday evening when the flag of the Eddy post of the Grand Army of the Republic will be presented to the city of Plymouth by the Ex-Service Men's club, to whom it was decided by the two surviving members of the post, Will Stewart and Arthur Stevens, both of whom died within the past year.

The principal speaker will be the Honorable Joseph A. Moynihan, and a colorful series of tableaux and a colorful series of tableaux has been arranged in connection with the presentation, which will take place in the Main street square opposite Kellogg park, beginning at 7 o'clock. A. E. Emery, lieutenant-colonel in the U. S. A. R., will act as master of ceremonies, with Spanish-American war veterans, World War veterans and Boy and Girl Scouts taking part, together with the V. F. W. drum and bugle corps, Spanish-American life and drum corps and the Plymouth high school band.

A special reception committee for the visiting groups has been appointed, consisting of Mayor Mrs. E. J. Hendrop, Mrs. E. J. Wilson, City Manager and Mrs. Clarence H. Elliott, Mrs. Lee Sackett, president of the women's auxiliary of the Ex-Service Men's club, Mrs. Melvin Algire and William Vanderveen. They will be stationed at the Mayflower hotel. A luncheon for the participants is planned for 5:30 o'clock.

Following the ceremonies in which the flag is turned over to the city, it will be taken, under guard, to city hall, where it will be placed in the permanent case which has been prepared for it. The parade will be led by the V. F. W. band, followed by the colors and color guard, the boys representing the Civil war soldiers, the Spanish-American war veterans and their life and drum corps Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, high school band and fraternal organizations.

All those taking part in the tableaux are requested to report to their guides at 6:30 o'clock. Eight Boy Scouts dressed in the uniforms of Civil war veterans will enter the Main street square in front of Kellogg park at 7 o'clock, and proceed to a position in the center of the square opposite the speakers' stand, light a camp fire and rest.

Eight men representing the Spanish-American war veterans will light their camp fire just across the street from the main entrance of the Mayflower hotel, and 10 World war veterans will light theirs in front of the Plymouth United Savings bank.

The drum and bugle corps of the Veterans of Foreign Wars will be in the park opposite the City hall until 6:45 o'clock when they will proceed down Main street to Penniman, and enter the square. The Spanish-American life and drum corps will be in the main entrance of the Mayflower hotel, and remain there until 6:55 before entering the square.

Following a talk on the history of the Eddy post and the flag at 7:30 p. m., the buglers, Rigola and Houghton, stationed on top of the Blunk building will sound "Taps." At this time being sounded, the eight representing the Civil war veterans will arise slowly, one by one, and walk slowly off the square, each in a different direction, until lost in salute position.

At 7:45 p. m. Commander Harry Hunter, of the Ex-Service Men's club, with color guard, will go to the center camp fire as the last Civil war veteran leaves, pick up the G. A. R. flag from its standard, and present it to Mayor Henry Hendrop with a few appropriate words. Following the mayor's speech of acceptance, and the Star Spangled Banner, the Commander Hunter will mount the speakers' stand while the color guard returns to its camp fire.

Also at 7:45 o'clock World war soldiers will leave their camp fire in formation, march straight forward, company front and right to position to right and center of the speakers' stand, turn left to face speakers' stand, and stand at attention during the presentation of the flag. They will then return to their own position. The Spanish-American war veterans will execute the same maneuvers from the south end of the square.

Following the acceptance of the flag, there will be selections by the V. F. W. drum and bugle corps, Spanish-American life and drum corps, and the Plymouth high school band. Mrs. Ruth Huston-Whipple will then introduce the notables present, after which Judge Moynihan will give his address, and the parade will conclude the ceremonies.

Northville Makes Most Advantageous Deal With County

Without a cent of cost to the village of Northville, its Main street through the business section and a part of Center street that runs through the downtown part of the village, is being widened and repaved by the Wayne county road commission.

New curbs along the full length of the improved section and portions of new sidewalks will also be built by the county.

This will give Northville a new paving in its downtown section, with street fifty feet wide, and raised above the old grade sufficiently to do away with the two steps from the paving to the walk that have existed along Main street. The improvement will provide an average height of curbing along the streets.

So that the street will be tied up as brief a time as possible, workmen are employed both night and day on the job, and the county hopes to have the street opened for traffic within two weeks. The improvement also takes out the old U. S. R. street car tracks.

The only requirement made of the village of Northville is that its portion of gas tax money received from the state for the next three years, be turned over to the county. This arrangement makes it possible for the village to get a greatly needed improvement and two wider business streets without a cent of cost to the taxpayers of the village.

Old Homestead Of Houghs Sold

Announcement has been made of the sale of the old Hough homestead on North Main street, just south of the Pere Marquette tracks, to George J. Haas, prominent Detroit architect, who has already started remodeling the house, and plans to occupy it with his family in the early fall. The house was for nearly half a century, one of the show places of Plymouth. Some years ago it passed out of the possession of the Hough family, and for some time past it has been unoccupied. There are several acres of ground surrounding the home, covered with giant trees and vines.

Thatcher Visits Furniture Show

Horace Thatcher of Blunk Brothers department store is attending the furniture show which opened July 6, at the American Furniture Mart in Chicago.

A marked improvement in the furniture business has resulted in a record attendance at the show, where some 700 dealers are introducing their most recent lines.

Mr. Thatcher expects to view the new styles and select some of the best for the local store. Advance word from Chicago, indicates that modern and eighteenth century patterns are the most popular. Many of the new styles will soon be on display at Blunk's store here.

Sees Washington During Hottest Spell

Dave Galin of the Plymouth Purity Market and members of his family, who recently took a trip to Washington, have returned home. Even though they happened to be away during the hottest weather that part of the country has even known, they enjoyed the trip greatly, especially in view of the fact that their children were so greatly interested in the many historic places they visited. However, Mr. Galin did state that there were too hot or three days when it was too hot to do much sight seeing.

People Are Asked To Reduce Use For Present

The fourth annual reunion of the Mott family was held Sunday, July 12, in Riverside park, with 100 in attendance, from Belleville, Romulus, Carlton, Wayne and Plymouth.

The business meeting was called to order by the president, Frank Mott, and a new officer elected as follows: Mrs. Sylvester Shear, president, and Wilford Bunyca, secretary-treasurer. The meeting was then turned over to the entertainment committee for the rest of the day. The reunion next year will be held at the same place.

Joseph Jackson Taken By Death

Joseph Jackson died suddenly Saturday July 11 at his farm home on the Ann Arbor road, where he had lived for 20 years. Funeral services were held Tuesday, July 14, at 2 p. m., from the Schrader Brothers Funeral home, with burial in Riverside cemetery.

Rev. Lucia M. Sloan, of the Salem Congregational church, officiated. He was born November 16, 1870, in Westmoreland, England, the son of the late Joseph and Elizabeth Jackson, and came with his parents to America at the age of 13. His first years in this country were lived in the vicinity of Detroit, until 20 years ago when he moved with his parents to the Ammon Brown farm, where he died.

Mr. Jackson was of a quiet, retiring disposition, beloved by all who knew him. The thought of his uncomplaining sympathetic service to others will always be cherished by his family and friends.

Surviving are one brother, Thomas Jackson, of Detroit, and four sisters, Mrs. George Wright, Mrs. John Harwood, both of Plymouth, Mrs. Robert Douglas, of Rosedale, and Mrs. Beatrice Becker, of Detroit, several nieces and nephews and a host of friends.

WHY NOT DO IT?

The Plymouth Mail is interested in the political address made a few days ago in the Upper Peninsula by Governor Frank D. Fitzgerald in which he said that he favored a free ferry service at the Straits of Mackinac. The Mail is interested because over a long period of years this paper has contended that it was wrong to make a charge to automobile travelers within this state to transport their cars from one peninsula to the other. The state ferries are a part of the state highways system and The Mail has long contended that there should be no charge for a right to travel from one part of the state to the other.

But! if memory serves correctly, there is no state law which says a ferry service charge should be made at the Straits. This is something entirely at the disposal of the state highway department and the state administrative board, the Governor being chairman of the administrative board.

Why can't the state administrative board take immediate action to end this unjust tax imposed upon one who desires to go to the Upper Peninsula, or to the Lower Peninsula from the Upper Peninsula?

About the only time you ever hear any public official talk of taking this unjust tax off the traveling public is during campaign time. There has been plenty of opportunity for action to have been taken in past years, but nothing is ever done. The subject does provide a lot of political talk during campaign years.

The Mail pointed out last week how the Upper Peninsula is being deprived of a tremendous tourist income because the state keeps many of the great natural wonders in that part of Michigan hidden from view. The excessive tax collected from tourists crossing the Straits is just another one of those things that helps to keep tourists away from one of the world's most delightful lands in which to visit during summer months—The Upper Peninsula.

Why not buy a dozen more ferries for the highway department if necessary to use at the Straits and then advertise to the nation that a vacation tour of Northern Michigan provides a FREE eight mile trip across the Straits of Mackinac with your car transported without charge from one peninsula to the other—and see what the immediate reaction will be?

There is no doubt but what millions of dollars would within two or three months be added to the income of the state through gas tax and monies spent by tourists within the state. However there isn't much use in talking about it at all. We as a state are dead from the heels up when it comes to doing a real job in making available our tourists attractions and in bringing the tourists to the nation's most favored state.

THE UNDER-DOG

Editor Murl H. DeFoe of the Charlotte Republican-Tribune declares that "Senator Couzens political philosophy is deep-seated and goes back to the days when as a boy of 18 he worked 12 hours per day, seven days in the week for 75 cents per day. He has an 'under-dog' complex about everything political" as a result of his boyhood experiences. Editor DeFoe adds in another paragraph in discussing the senate fight, "By innuendo Gov. Brucker likes to emphasize that Senator Couzens isn't a Republican; he might add that both Landon and Knox deserted the Republican national ticket in the Taft campaign and supported T. R. which action marked the beginning of the Republican party troubles in this country."

He further declares that historians will class as Republicans only those who were devoted to and voted for Herbert Hoover.

A BIG HA HA

If it were not for the serfousness of the situation and regret over the calamity that has come to Houghton lake property owners, The Plymouth Mail could easily get a big Ha Ha out of the expressions of lamentations now originating in that locality over the fact that good fishing in Houghton lake is a thing of the past. In fact many fishermen who have tried the lake this year, have returned with reports of no fishing luck of any kind. Houghton lake is not the only northern lake where fishing has "gone bad" in the last year or so. For many years The Plymouth Mail has pointed out that if the state conservation commission did not stop spearing through the ice in winter time, that there would soon be a time when there would be no summer fishing in Michigan. Some "conservationists" have poo-hoed what The Mail has said. But what can one expect when the conservation commission's every act is based upon politics and its appointments are strictly political appointments?

Governors and members of the commission will hold up their hands in horror and say "No, No" we are not here because of politics. We are here because of our great interest in conservation matters."

Maybe, but let us see.

Editor Harry Whiteley of the Dowagiac News is a good citizen of his home town. He conducts a good newspaper and as far as any one knows, has committed no sin that might cause St. Peter to look at him with questioning eye.

But Harry Whiteley is a member of the conservation commission because he FAVORED fish spearing through the ice and because of politics.

To be sure, there will be a denial of this. But let us turn back a few pages of the state's political history. Harry Whiteley at one time was a member of the state senate. During that time former Governor Groesbeck had requested the conservation department to give serious consideration to the question of stopping all winter spearing through the ice as one of the means of producing better fishing for summer visitors to the state.

What happened? Senator Whiteley was one of those to rise up and express great indignation because some one had suggested such a thing as prohibiting spearing fish through the ice!

It was outrageous to think that the farmers of Cass county, who can fish only in the winter time, should have a "divine right" taken from them, declared the Cass county senator.

Enough politics was brought to bear from farm elements and fish hogs to kill off the proposal at that time.

It was then and there that Senator Whiteley became one of the great "conservation" leaders of the state. He entered actively into the campaign to elect Fred Green as governor and for what he did in politics and because of his "great interest in conservation" he was appointed to Fred Green's non-political (?) conservation commission.

Enough of conservation department political history. We are now beginning to reap the results.

The Otsego County Chamber of Commerce is alarmed. It has realized the folly of political conservation and it is appealing to the state at this late day to end the very thing that one far-seeing Governor tried to stop some dozen years or more ago.

One might as well talk to a paving brick as to try and discuss REAL conservation problems with a lot of politicians, who were appointed because of POLITICS and hold their jobs because of POLITICS and run the department of conservation for politicians.

Meanwhile everybody who desires to do so will keep on harpooning fish as long as there is one left in the lakes of the state.

A POOR ISSUE

High Commissioner Frank Murphy who has been granted a leave of absence from his $18,000 a year job to run for Governor of Michigan as an aid to the Roosevelt ticket, has selected a one house legislature as his big campaign issue. He proposes to ask that the constitution of the state be changed so that there will be a smaller number of representatives in the legislature and that there be no senate.

The issue is indeed a poor one for any one who has at heart the best interests of Detroit and Wayne county. Even though Wayne county pays practically as much to support the state government and institutions as all the other counties of Michigan combined, it has gained only a fair representation in the state legislature as it is now constituted after the hardest kinds of battles.

High Commissioner Murphy's proposal would reduce Wayne county's strength to an exceedingly dangerous point if he were able to carry his scheme through. It would immediately place Wayne county at the mercy of the out-state politicians.

But our selfishness in safeguarding the interests of Wayne county is not the only reason why we cannot wax enthusiastic over his canned-up issue. The legislature as now constituted, like the congress of the United States when not dominated by strong-arm methods, is the final court of appeal for the average citizen. It not only provides him with direct access to a member of the house or senate who may be his neighbor and friend and one fully conversant with the problems "back home," but it gives him added protection against crooked legislation. It is far easier to put through some questionable legislation in a small group than in a body consisting of some 132 members divided into two branches, each branch serving as a watch dog for the people as to what the other branch might be doing.

In addition to the unfavorable public reaction in Michigan against permitting Washington politicians to force a candidate upon this state, the former Detroit mayor has seemingly picked up a mighty poor excuse for a campaign issue. Regardless of our personal admiration for Mr. Murphy we cannot in any way agree with him on the issues he has selected for his governorship campaign.

WHAT'S THE DIFFERENCE?

Some Republicans have had a lot to say about Jim Farley being postmaster general and chairman of the Democratic committee at the same time. In fact there has been so much said about it, that Jim has taken a leave of absence from his postoffice job until after the campaign is over. Well, what about Banking Commissioner Howard Lawrence of Michigan, who persists in hanging on to this job while acting as chairman of the Republican State Central Committee? Will some one tell a Republican what the difference is? If it is bad for a Democrat to do so, why is not the same practice just as bad for a Republican? There is such a thing as being at least half way fair in matters of this kind.

ONE MINUTE BIOGRAPHIES of MICHIGAN GOVERNORS and their ACCOMPLISHMENTS

By Elton R. Eaton

HENRY H. CRAPO

Too poor to buy a dictionary. Henry Crapo, governor of Michigan from 1865 to 1869, when a young man, compiled one for his own use. His father, a Massachusetts farmer, was unable to send his boy to school, but so anxious was the lad to gain an education that he would walk seven miles to New Bedford, after working all day, and gain what little knowledge he could from books in the library at that place. Destitution did not discourage him, and although unable to attend common schools except for a few months in his early life the young fellow obtained a fair knowledge of civil engineering. Without funds to buy a compass to use in his work, he went to a blacksmith shop and with such tools as he could borrow, he made one and started work as a land surveyor. A short time later, the state where he resided passed a law establishing high schools. To become principal of one of these schools, Crapo was obliged to pass a rigid examination. Crapo determined to become a principal. Although he had never been able to attend school he gained sufficient knowledge to pass the examination. Teaching school and acting as an auctioneer until he was 28 years old, he moved to New Bedford, Massachusetts, where he served in many village offices. The village organized the first free library in the United States, and Crapo had the honor of serving on the first board that had charge of the institution. Having gained a small fortune in his home state, he invested some of his money in Michigan pine lands, and came here in 1856, locating in Flint. He established lumber yards in Flint, Fenton and Holly. He aided in the construction of the old Flint-Holly Railroad. After living in Flint five or six years, he was elected mayor of that city, and in 1862 was elected to the state senate. He gained considerable distinction while in the state legislature and was made the Republican candidate in 1865, and was elected governor. He was re-elected for the second term. During the last few months of his term as governor, he was stricken with an illness which resulted in his death in 1869.

RAMBLING with Editors AROUND of Michigan

WHY FORCE MURPHY ON MICHIGAN

For some months we have heard rumors that Frank Murphy, former mayor of the City of Detroit, would be brought back from the Philippines to run for governor of Michigan. Why take Murphy away from the brown men in the Asiatic archipelago who want him away from the brown men in the Asiatic archipelago who want him.

Frank Murphy made fame as the "caw and sunshine" mayor of Michigan's biggest city. He ran that city into debt at a rapid rate. His lavish welfare expenditures attracted riff-raff by the thousands from other states—as any well informed Detroit can testify. He is a fantastic theorist of the first water—but along with it one of the most persuasive and finished orators this state has ever produced.

With such men as State Treasurer Fry, Frank Picard, Congressman Prentiss Brown and many others who are known to be sound, sane and sensible—we cannot understand why Big Boss Jim Farley should insist upon choking Frank Murphy down the throat of his party in this state. The Democratic leaders don't like it, and some of them have protested by an open letter to Farley.

The answer, of course, is that Farley cares less about bringing a Democratic state administration than he does about trying to give a red-hot advocate of the New Deal as candidate for governor. It is the national ticket, the state tickets, he is interested in. In this respect, however, we believe he is mistaken and defeating the very purpose he wishes to serve. We don't believe Michigan can or will stomach Frank Murphy, and instead of helping, it will hurt President Roosevelt's chances in this state.—Schuyler Marshall in the Clinton County Republican-News.

TELL THE TRUTH

It won't be long now until the radio and the newspapers start broadcasting plenty of the political ills of the country. When will politicians, like many manufacturers and retailers, adopt for their slogan, "truth in advertising?"—George Averill in The Birmingham Eclectic.

THE STEEL SITUATION

The Lewis aggregation of affiliated unions propose to unionize the steel industry. They have set aside one-half million dollars of their membership's money to be spent in trying to force unionism upon the steel employees. This attempt has been made on two or three previous occasions without success. The law pertaining to collective bargaining is the getting together of the company and the employees to discuss working conditions and what can be done to improve them. The affiliated unions' interpretation of collective bargaining is for unions, who are in no wise connected with the steel company, to meet and decide what shall be done by the company for their employees and to call strikes as they may please. The unions themselves have been unable to hold their membership until they succeed in getting what they call a "check-off" system in which the employer docks his employee his union dues. This is the only system in which the unions successfully can charge their members for the privilege of working.—Frank Bryce in The Grand Ledge Independent.

"DRY YOURSELVES!"

(with the aid of electric hot water)

Like a magic Aladdin, electricity brings you this new service!

"A wave of my wand, and your dishes dry themselves! Perhaps you think such a thing could only happen in the Arabian Nights. But in reality this magic is accomplished by rinsing dishes with very hot water and letting them stand until dry. It actually leaves them cleaner than wiping with an ordinary dish towel. And it is only one of the many ways in which plentiful hot water can lighten your household tasks.

"I bring you a constant supply of hot water that you can enjoy at any hour of the day or night—without lifting a finger to heat it. I end your hot water problems forever, bringing you freedom from worry and responsibility. When you want hot water, turn the faucet . . . and there is your hot water on tap. No longer need you run up and down stairs to light a manually operated heater. No longer need you wait for water to get hot, or put up with the inconvenience and delay caused by finding only lukewarm water in the pipes. I bring you the luxury of unlimited hot water for your home, heated automatically and without attention.

"My wages are but a few pennies a day . . . and I will save you time and effort, making your housework easier and pleasanter and more convenient. Ask about me at any Detroit Edison office."

THE DETROIT EDISON COMPANY

Dead Body Lays In Hot Sun For Hours—Its Law

lature. Plymouth residents were able to get the bill passed through the house that Dr. Fisher, representative from this district, had presented. He overcame the opposition of Detroit Democratic representatives who were solidly back of the corner's office in the effort to kill the bill. It went to the senate, where it was somewhat mutilated.

Plymouth residents who have long been tired of gazing upon gruesome sights due to the frequent automobile accidents and drownings in this locality, declare that their fight to have this law changed will not be ended until the present obnoxious and disgusting system is ended.

No one knows just how the accident happened. Linden had complained of the heat before leaving the hotel, and some believe that he may have been overcome while at the wheel of his car, as there had apparently been no effort made to turn the car back onto the paving after it hit the shoulder of the road. Some of his friends thought, possibly he might have fallen asleep at the wheel, as few have been able to secure sufficient sleep during recent nights due to the excessive heat. The tires of the car were in good shape and had not exploded in the crash. The cause of the crash will probably never be known definitely.

Deputy Sheriffs Harry Agge and R. W. Jamison who were patrolling the county highways near Inkster, received the emergency call and were soon at the scene, but they too were prevented from removing the body as the result of the same obnoxious law that has led to so many gruesome sights in this locality for hundreds and hundreds of witnesses.

As the body boiled in the sun, the two officers kept the big crowd that had gathered away from the body.

"Oh, this is just a common thing. We've waited sometimes as long as six hours and more for someone to come to pick up a body," said one of the officers.

City Is Without Water Reserve

the common sense, we can get our water supply up where it belongs in a short time," said City Manager Elliott, Tuesday.

He can't see much relief at this time until we have rain," he added, "then maybe people won't use so much water."

Asked if the water levels in the wells were holding up, he stated that there had been no change in the level of the supply wells. Elliott had some of the city employees call up a number of people by telephone, and asked them to use as little water as possible until the emergency is over.

But the water supply has not been the only work of a large number of Plymouth residents. The intense heat from last week Tuesday until Tuesday night of this week, made it practically impossible for residents of the city to find a cool place to sleep or work.

So intense was the heat that the Plymouth Felt Products company was forced to close down for a time.

Streets have been almost deserted during the day time. Retail business, as a result, has suffered.

Only one heat prostration was reported in Plymouth, Glenn Gerrard having been taken to Plymouth hospital for treatment.

Farmers and vegetable growers are the biggest sufferers. Berry crops were practically burned up on the bushes. Arthur Eckles had a number of farmers bring to his office, apples that had been burned on the trees. Only apples hanging on branches on the north side of trees escaped damage. Charles Rathbun and other berry growers report that they will have less than half a crop of red raspberries and black berries, as a result of the heat.

Vegetables and other crops have been damaged somewhat, but growers say if they have a heavy rain soon, the loss will not be excessive.

The thermometer averaged from 98 to 102 during most of the day time from last week Wednesday until Tuesday of this week. Monday night it never dropped below 80 at any time.

An all-time record was set just before the cool wave arrived Tuesday afternoon, when the mercury climbed to 104 officially. In the sun about town, the thermometer stood at 118 at times. Where thermometers stood in the shade, they registered from 108 to 110.

No one ever recalls such a long heat wave as this one has been.

CHILDREN ENJOY COOLING SPRAY FROM HYDRANTS

During the past week, the most popular activity of the summer recreation program was the cooling hydrant showers for the children. These were held at 2 o'clock at the Central school grounds and 2:30 at Starkweather. The photograph shows a group playing in the spray at Starkweather.

Attendance each day ranged from 40 to 100 children. Bathing suits were anything from old clothes to the more modern and expensive models. Under the direction of K. J. Matheson and his assistants, the children ran and skipped through games and relays in the cooling spray, while perspiring adults watched them with envious eyes.

All regular schedules calling for strenuous games were called off, quiet games and stories being substituted in an effort to keep the youngsters cooler and more comfortable. The sand box, under a big elm tree, proved to be a favorite spot.

A hop scotch tournament was held at each playground, with R. Wallman winning at Central and M. Dahmer at Starkweather. In the play-off for the championship, the latter was the victor.

The attendance for the week was 1753. Badminton equipment was available at the Central playground for those desiring to play, and a shuffleboard tournament for adults is being planned for the week of July 27. Those interested in taking part are requested to report at the Central grounds.

Chinese delegate gave one of the most interesting talks. A graduate of an American university, he said that there always has been good will among the various peoples of the earth, but that they have lacked the machinery for expressing this good will. He felt that Rotary might assist in providing that machinery. The South American brought out the fact that Rotarians have been responsible for the transfer of prisoners in times of war, particularly the recent conflict between Bolivia and Paraguay, while the Norwegian representative took pride in pointing out that Norway has not been involved in any war in 120 years.

The speaker from the Malay States explained that his club was made up of men of four different nationalities, and that Rotary has been the only medium to induce Jews, Gentiles, Arabs and Mohammedans to eat together.

Boys' work assemblies, international service assemblies and club service assemblies were held Wednesday afternoon. Mr. Hamill, who has been boys' work chairman for the Plymouth club during the past year, attended the assembly for clubs having 49 members or less, of which Daniel G. Aldrich, of Providence, Rhode Island, was chairman. He reported that among the ideas he brought back from this session was that stamp collecting proved an interesting and profitable hobby for boys and that many clubs have tried to interest them in this activity. Another club raised money to carry on its boys' work by having the Boy Scouts build and sell birdhouses. A number of communities the size of Plymouth, reported summer recreation projects similar to the one here.

Mr. Hamill gave a report at the assembly on the work which the Plymouth boys' work committee has done by inviting a different high school boy to be a "junior Rotarian" each month, and allowing each to tell his reactions at the end of his month. He told the delegates that not only did the boys enjoy this, but the Rotarians were given an excellent opportunity to see the qualities of the younger generation, and the products of the modern educational system.

The delegates were very interested in his report. Mr. Hamill told Plymouth Rotarians, stating that several came to him after the meeting for a more detailed explanation of the project.

Reports of officers and a memorial service were held Thursday morning, and community service and youth assemblies in the afternoon. Friday morning trophies were presented and the new officers, headed by William R. Manier, Jr., of Nashville, Tennessee, as president, were introduced. The convention adjourned, to meet next year somewhere on the European continent.

In concluding his report to the local club, Mr. Hamill said that among the general impressions

Style Silhouettes

With bated breath we this week essay to rush in where angels fear to tread—we are going to tell our masculine readers what's what, or at least some of it, in wearing apparel. The only thing which gives us courage to go ahead is—say it softly—that so many men delegate their shopping to their wives or mothers that the latter may appreciate a few facts on masculine styles.

By the time this appears in print it may quite possibly be much cooler—we fervently hope so. But at the moment, the prime thought in everyone's mind is to keep cool, and positively the most alluring words in the dictionary have to do with the old swimming hole showers, fans and long tall drinks in frosted glasses. In hot spells like this, all one wants with clothes is to have them as cool and comfortable as possible.

Like women's wear, summer clothes for men are becoming much more sensible. Washable suits are quite the thing, as it were. There are linens, lightweight and porous, in white, natural and navy, made both single and double breasted, with the all-important sports backs. Seersuckers, in new shades and styles, are cool and smart, while summer weave homespun, with strikingly colored oversquares and other patterns on pale backgrounds.

If it is necessary to be more formally dressed, for a business or luncheon engagement, wool can be strictly in the summer tradition in soft, lightweight weaves. Most of these wools are summer weave homespun, with strikingly colored oversquares and other patterns on pale backgrounds.

You've probably noticed that the younger boys (and some of their older brothers as well) are still in favor of the vogue for dark shirts with light trousers. Blues, browns and maroons look smart and cool, even though dark in color, when worn with he gained at the convention was that Plymouth had a good Rotary club—that he didn't hear of any other of similar size doing any more or better work. He also was impressed by the calibre of the men attending the convention, as well as the size of the organization with its 170,000 clubs and 4,000,000 members. The balance sheet of Rotary International, he said, shows assets of $720,000.

white, gray or tan trousers, and vivid ties.

For sports and vacation wear, informality and common sense rule the day, as comfort is held more important than any other style feature—yet slacks and open-necked polo shirts have a careless style all their own, and, (dare we say it?) are typically American. White shoes, or white and brown combinations seem to be the rule, with crepe or rubber soles for all around wear. There are lightweight models which are as proper for business and afternoon wear as for week-end trips.

As for hats—well here we'll have to admit the men must do their own selecting and buying. There are almost as many different styles as there are men—did you ever notice that all men's hats look alike, and yet when you begin to compare them no two are exactly the same? For summer there is everything from golf caps to regulation straw and Panama hats. The "old faithful" ice box straws are ventilated for cool air circulation, and, say the experts, have lower crowns, wider brims and gayer bands than ever before.

For evening affairs, white is the ruler. White washable dinner coats are absolutely the thing, we are told, having won and held popularity after the mess jacket became the uniform of waiters and orchestra players. Not only are Palm Beach and linen used, but also a synthetic acetate which is very cool, very smart, and tailors very well. White tropical worsted and white worsted gabardine are two other materials which one sees on well dressed dancers and diners. Trousers are of light-weight midnight blue or black, made high-waisted and pleated as are regular dinner jacket suits.

With this outfit, so they say, one wears a broad-pleated semi-soft shirt, a bow tie either black or midnight blue, double or single breasted waistcoat of white, and shoes either the plain toe type or patent leather pumps. The correct hat, messieurs, is a Panama or senit straw.

Byron Kepka Weds Union Lake Girl

In a ceremony performed at 6 o'clock Tuesday evening, by the Rev. Walter Nichol at the Presbyterian parsonage, Miss Jeanette Stanlake, of Union Lake, became the bride of Byron Kepka of this city. The attendants were Miss Maxine Stanlake, sister of the bride, and F. Arthur Kepka, brother of the groom. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Stanlake, of Union Lake, and Mr. Kepka, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kepka of Haggerty highway. He is employed by the Universal Engineering company of Detroit. The young couple will make their home in Plymouth.

Gospel Services Now Being Held At Berea Chapel

Evangelistic services at the Berea chapel, 281 Union street, began Sunday, July 12, and will continue each evening except Monday and Saturday.

Miss Irma E. Kleinfeld, who has been in the evangelistic field for over four years, will have charge of the preaching. She received her Bible training in Southern California Bible school. Her magnetic personality wins the immediate attention of her hearers. The topics of her sermons include "Is Jesus Coming Back Again?" "The Grim Reaper of Humanity," "Is There a Hell?" "The Way to Heaven," and "God's Way of Healing."

MISS MAURER

In addition to being an accomplished speaker, Miss Kleinfeld plays the piano, vibraphone and Hawaiian guitar, singing beautifully to her own accompaniment.

The musical part of the services is being conducted by Miss Verda Maurer, whose training was completed at the Moody Bible Institute, which is such an important part of all evangelistic work, and her audiences respond to her instantly.

She is a radio gospel singer who has been heard over radio stations in Chicago and Elkhart, Indiana. Her accomplishments include writing the words and music to several religious songs, and also skill on both the piano and guitar.

Miss Kleinfeld and Miss Maurer have worked together successfully in a number of evangelistic campaigns. They play and sing together and carry the gospel message to all listeners. Services here begin at 7:45 o'clock each evening, and everyone is invited to attend.

Arvid W. Jacobson, former member of the Northville high school faculty, who was sentenced to five years in a Finnish prison in 1934, on charges of being a Russian communistic spy, received a pardon July 1, and will return immediately to the United States. He was pardoned by the president of Finland.

Mr. Jacobson, who received his master's degree from the University of Michigan in 1927, taught mathematics in Northville until 1932. Then, with his wife, Sally, he went to Berlin where, according to his story, he was offered a position as statistician by the communist party, and later sent to Helsingfors. During his trial, he claimed that he did not realize he was a spy for the Russian Soviet until he had been in Finland for some time, but when he sought to withdraw, he was told he would have to wait a short time to be released. Before that time was up, he and his wife were arrested.

Mr. Jacobson was finally released and returned to the United States, where she immediately began efforts to free her husband. At the present time she is residing in Chicago.

Indicating qualities depend, to a large extent, on the age of the crudes. . . you find that Nature had already stated the making of Sinclair Motor Oil. The crude oils now used in refining these Sinclair lubricants had been given a lubricating film that is ten times tougher than your engine normally requires. Look for the dinosaur on the refinery-sealed, Tamper-Proof cans.

Sleepers Fill Parks

Stretched out on the green grass under the big elm trees in Kellogg park, right in the heart of Plymouth, dozens and dozens of people have, during the past week, endeavored to find a cool place at night time in which to gain a few hours of refreshing sleep.

But the numbers that rested as comfortably as they could in the downtown Plymouth park were nothing compared to the hundreds and thousands who slept wherever opportunity provided in Plymouth-Riverside park and along the big parkway system between here and Detroit and Northville.

Park officials threw to the winds the regulation that people must be out of the parks at 10 o'clock at night time, when they learned that so many were trying vainly to find a cool place to sleep.

Men, women and children could be seen most any way one cared to drive out of Plymouth through the parkway system.

Some rested dangerously near the edge of many of the small lakes. A few tried sleeping in their automobiles, but the biggest number had brought bedding with them and used it to cover the ground. Plymouth police did their part in trying to make it comfortable for downtown park sleepers. Auto drivers were warned to drive their cars as quietly as possible. Never before have Plymouth people been so distressed by hot weather as during the past ten days.

Three Teams Play In Girls' League

The women's softball league finished its second week of play with Team 2 in first place. The teams have as their captains, M. Kincaide for No. 1; E. Archer, No. 2; and H. Burger, No. 3.

The girls have played faithfully, right through the hottest days, even though the score sometimes was very much against one side or the other. Although the scores resemble those of a basketball game, the girls have had a great deal of fun, reports Director K. J. Matheson. Games are held every Monday and Thursday evenings.

Daisy Goes Into Tie With R. & W. For League Lead

Riflemen Down Leaders 8 to 6 In Hard Fought Game

By defeating the leading Red and White team last week, the Daisy nine went into a tie with them for first place in the Recreational Softball league. The Daisy batters pounded Bud Curtis for four runs on four hits and a walk in the first inning before a single batter was retired.

Ferguson replaced Curtis on the mound, and retired the next three in order. J. Gilles opened the second inning with a long home run, to make the score 5 to 0. In their second turn at bat, R. and W. players showed some of their old power, scoring four runs on five hits. They went ahead in the fourth by scoring two runs, but Daisy tied it up at 6-all in the fifth. Daisy batters pushed over two runs on four hits in the last inning, to put the game on ice.

The Plymouth made it two in a row by defeating K. of P. 6 to 2. It was a scoreless ball game until the sixth inning, when two errors and four hits produced six runs for the Mail. Pasco of the Mail, continued to pitch shut-out ball until the last inning, when K. of P. scored two runs on two hits and an error.

Wilson flashed some of their old-time power by turning in a 13 to 2 victory over the Varsity club. McClellan led the 15-hit attack by getting two home runs and two singles in four trips to the plate. Vaughn Smith followed with three singles out of four times at bat. Glider struck out nine.

In the fastest game of the season, Frigidaire beat Schraders, 6 to 3. The game required only 45 minutes to play. Both teams had their full line-ups on the field at starting time, something of a record. Going into the last inning with a 3-2 lead, Schraders committed four costly errors, to let Frigidaire score four runs. Both pitchers walked two batters and allowed six hits.

Rigola allowed only two runs after he started pitching, in the second inning. By winning the game, Wilson moved into fourth place in the team standings.

Perfection Holds Fourth Place Tie With Cass Benton

Will Meet Wyandotte In Game Here Next Sunday

Victory kept Perfection Laundry in a fourth place tie with Cass Benton Park in the Michigan Inter-County league. The local nine defeated Wayne 12 to 5, last Sunday, while Schrader-Haggerty lost a close one to Cass Benton 7 to 6.

Jimmy Williams got his first home run of the season, in the seventh inning, as his contribution, while Carol Lee made a beautiful catch of Regan's fly, to end Wayne's fifth inning rally. Clarence Levandowski, who returned Friday from Superior, Wisconsin, to take his old position at second base, turned in a good performance. He was at bat four times, scored three runs, got one hit, and stole five bases, including home twice, off DeBozy.

Lester Bassett and Thomas Levandowski led the local club with three hits in five trips to the plate. Bassett had two triples and a single, and Levandowski three singles.

At 3:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon, the Wyandotte Merchants will meet Perfection at Riverside park. Last year these same teams battled it out for the league championship, with Wyandotte victorious, so a good game is expected. Schrader-Haggerty will play at Wayne, at 3 o'clock.

Theater Program Full of Variety

What is promised as one of the most important of crime pictures will be shown Sunday, Monday and Tuesday at the Penniman-Allyn theater—"Bullets or Ballots," with Edward G. Robinson and Joan Blondell. Previews state that there are several new "twists" in this story of racketeers, gangsters and "cops," with Mr. Robinson turning in his usual fine performance, ably supported by the popular Miss Blondell.

On Wednesday and Thursday there will be a double feature program, Ann Harding, one of the screen's most dignified and sophisticated actresses, will appear with Walter Abel in "The Witness Chair," a drama of the court-rooms. As a decided contrast "Pride of the Marines," with Charles Bickford and Florence Rice, will form the other half of the program. Bickford appears as the chap of the corps, a two-fisted "he-man," who never missed a fight or a girl.

Hopalong Cassidy will ride again in "There on the Trail," which will show Friday and Saturday. William Boyd, as Hopalong, and Jimmy Ellison and Muriel Evans as his pals of the Bar 20, turn the tables on the west's most daring band of cut-throats.

Plan Reunion For Soldiers, Sailors

Plans have been completed for the Soldiers' and Sailors' reunion to be held at Helm and Lillies' park, Sunday, July 19, it was announced today by William Foster, chairman of the event. The committee has gone to much expense in regards to prizes and cash awards for the various races and contests, especially the drum and bugle corp competition, which all veterans' organizations have been asked to take part in. The Hazel Park Post No. 3140, Veterans of Foreign Wars, who are the sponsors of the reunion, have made arrangements with a bus company for transportation on that day. The bus service will start at Eight Mile road and John R. at 9 o'clock, and will continue until 12. This bus service is free to all children, but a very small charge will be made for adults.

There will be games and contests for the children held during the morning. The drum and bugle competition will take place immediately after noon. The Ford Dixie Eight will appear on the program also.

Those attending the reunion are to follow the arrows on that date to Helm and Lillies' park, 23 Mile road, just south of Packard proving ground, between Ryan road and Van Dyke.

People Slow In Buying Licenses

Although about 1,500 people in this area obtained half-year stickers for their cars from the Plymouth office of the department of state, only 100 or so have turned in their sticker certificates and purchased plates, according to Leonard Murphy, manager of the office.

The deadline for the use of stickers is August 1, with absolutely no extension possible, Mr. Murphy states. He is urging motorists to buy their plates at their earliest convenience in order to avoid a rush the last few days of the month.

Another of the difficulties experienced at the office here is in the transfer of titles on used cars. The law provides that within 10 days of the purchase of a used car, the purchaser must file the assigned title with the department of state, and shall transfer the license plate to himself as well. A fee of $1 is charged for each of these transfers.

Many used car purchasers neglect to conform to this law, while others defer filing of the re-assigned title until after the deadline for the use of the plates which accompanied the car, in the mistaken belief that the transfer fee will not have to be paid. However, when new plates are applied for the transfer fee is collected before the application can be received, so the only result is delay to the owner of the car.

Ruth Drews visited friends in Saginaw, two days last week.

Mrs. Matilda Alstro was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Scott, in Brighton, last week.

IN THE KITCHEN

Appetites seem to be much more "fussy" during hot weather. Everywhere you will hear people say that they "just don't feel like eating" when it is hot, and yet it stands to reason that if we do not eat we will feel much worse off than otherwise.

All of which means that the housewife must spend a little more time on planning her meals, although this may mean less time in the actual preparation of them. With the advent of insulated ovens, there is no longer the bug-aboo of hot kitchens every time there is baking to be done—which is a blessing, as baked things are about as appetizing as any type of food.

Salads and sandwiches are always first thought on hot days—and a happy thought, too, if you are careful to make them crisp and put on the little extra touches which may not add to the food value, but certainly do make them look better to the jaded and weary eyes of friend and husband home from a hectic day in the city, or the children, who have been playing almost as strenuously as if March winds were blowing.

Here is a summer salad dressing, which is easily made and can be kept on hand ready for use:

- Summer Salad Dressing
- 1 teaspoon salt
 - 1 teaspoon celery seed
 - 1 teaspoon paprika
 - 1 teaspoon dry mustard
 - 1 teaspoon onion juice
 - 4 tablespoons sugar
 - 1 tablespoon catsup
 - 2 tablespoons chili sauce
 - 1/4 cup vinegar
 - 1 cup salad oil
- Mix ingredients in a wide-mouthed bottle, adding oil slowly. Cork and shake for two minutes. Chill. When ready to serve, shake bottle and pour dressing over salads.

If you are giving a summer luncheon, serve some of these Luncheon Puffs, and watch the delighted reaction you will get from your guests:

- Luncheon Puffs
- 1 cake compressed yeast
 - 1-3 cup sugar
 - 1/4 cup fat, melted
 - 1 teaspoon salt
 - 2 eggs
 - 1 cup lukewarm milk
 - 4 cups flour
- Crumble yeast in a large bowl, add two tablespoons of sugar and one tablespoon of milk. Let stand five minutes, add rest of sugar, fat, salt, eggs, milk and two cups of flour. Beat three minutes. Add remaining flour. Cover and let rise until doubled in bulk. Cover with waxed paper and store in the coldest part of the refrigerator until four hours before serving time. Usually these rolls are made the afternoon prior to serving and the dough stored overnight. When you are ready to fix the rolls, break off bits of dough and shape into one-inch balls, arrange half one inch apart on greased baking sheet and cover with cloth. Let rise until doubled in size, or about three hours. Bake seven minutes in a moderate oven. Serve hot with butter.

As dessert you might serve a delicious pear conde:

- Pear Conde
- Wash one cup of rice and cook in two cups of boiling water and one cup of milk, with one teaspoon of salt, until tender and liquid is absorbed. A double boiler is advised, so that the rice will not be scorched. Turn rice into small molds and chill. Turn out and serve on a platter surrounded by halves of pears. Fill the cavity in each pear with crushed sweetened berries, pour a pint of the crushed and sweetened berries over the rice, and serve with whipped cream.

Parking Lot For Daisy Workers

By the time present alterations and a small addition are completed, the lacquering department of the Daisy Manufacturing company will be absolutely fire-proof, and the company will have an additional floor space of some 2,000 square feet to use for its business.

A second and third floor are being added to the lacquering and gluing department, which provides the additional floor space. This work will be completed within the next three or four weeks.

The Daisy has also started the grading of a parking lot for employees of the company. The city recently placed three hour parking restrictions along one side of the streets near the Daisy factory so that workmen could not leave their cars parked longer than three hours near the factory where they are employed.

This is the only place in Plymouth where the city has demanded restricted parking, and it made parking impossible anywhere near the factory for a large portion of the men and women employed in the place.

There is no restricted parking on downtown streets, where business and professional men can leave their cars for a month at a time, if desired, without the machines being molested. There is no congested traffic on Union street, like that which prevails on all downtown streets.

In order to provide additional parking facilities for the working men and women, a half acre piece of ground located north of the factory along the Pere Marquette tracks is being graded, and will be fenced to prevent transients along the railway from getting into the automobiles.

Will Make Tests Of Refrigerators

Whether or not a refrigerator is a safe place to keep food is something that an amazingly large number of people do not know. Especially is this true during the hot months of the summer season. Many people are surprised when they learn that a refrigerator can be cold and not cold enough for the proper keeping of food.

With the launching of the national food safety check-up, according to C. G. Shear of Plymouth Bulk Sales Co., local refrigerator dealers and specialists in food preservation, everyone who uses a refrigerator of any kind will be able to tell instantly whether or not its food compartment is in proper condition to preserve the foods that are entrusted to its care.

This will be done by the new cold gauge, a small, compact little instrument which hangs to one of the shelves of the refrigerator and instantly tells whether conditions are in the danger or safety zones. There are no complicated scales of figures which must be interpreted in the light of actual temperatures, which in turn must depend upon the user's knowledge of what temperatures are best for food.

This little instrument, shows at a glance, a user may know the condition prevailing in the refrigerator and many times may take the necessary steps to save much valuable food.

Often a perfectly good refrigerator can be taken out of the danger zone very quickly by a rearrangement of food to provide better air circulation, by defrosting the cooling unit, or by the addition of more ice in a refrigerator designed for ice cooling. Any adult person, owning some type of home refrigerator, regardless of whether it be an ice, electric or gas refrigerator, may have a cold gauge for the asking, by calling at the Plymouth Bulk Sales Co. store. There are absolutely no tricks or obligations attached to this offer, which is being done in the interest of wider public attention to the problem of better food preservation.
