Arrest Two Auto Thieves Here Early Sunday

Detroit Police Laud Good Work Of Plymouth Officers

"As good a piece of police work as could be done in a city a hundred times as big as Plymouth" commented two officers from the Detroit police department's auto squad when they came to Plymouth Sunday afternoon to take back to that city two automobile thieves who were captured by members of the Plymouth police department here early Sunday morning.

Not only were the two thieves captured, but two trucks they had stolen from the Hare Cartage company, Inc., of Detroit were recovered and the possibility of additional thefts from this city or surrounding country were frustrated.

The two youthful auto thieves, who freely admitted the trucks were stolen from Leslie Parks and Robert Kuhlman, both of Detroit.

When the trucks were recovered and the Plymouth police notified the Detroit department, the owner of the trucks did not know at the time that they had been stolen from his truck yard. The concern was more than appreciative of the good work of the Plymouth police department.

Detective Sergeant Roth and Officer Goudy of the Detroit police force came out with representatives of the company to reclaim the trucks and take the two young auto thieves back to Detroit. One of the boys admitted that this was the third time he had been arrested for automobile stealing.

They were caught when they brought the trucks to a stop about 5 o'clock Sunday morning on Penniman avenue, across from the Penniman-Allen theatre. One of the lights had burned out from one of the trucks and members of the Plymouth police force became suspicious of the way the boys were acting and his question caused him to arrest them. Their confessions soon followed.

Historic Box Found In Wall

A tightly sealed copper box some 14 inches long, four inches wide and a bit more than two inches deep has been unearthed in the ruins of the old Presbyterian church by workmen and turned over to Rev. Walter Nichol, pastor of the church.

In view of the fact that it was discovered in the wall of the oldest part of the church erected something like 100 years ago, Rev. Nichol believes that the box may contain priceless records pertaining to the church and the early beginning of Plymouth.

Some time ago when workmen started removing the old walls, Rev. Nichol cautioned the men to watch carefully for something that might look like a cornerstone box. This watchfulness resulted in the discovery of the copper container this week.

It has not yet been opened and Rev. Nichol states that the contents of the box will probably be revealed at some church service to be announced in the near future.

A strange coincidence, a slight break was made in the box by one of the wrecking tools and the one and only word which can be read through the slight opening is "Awakening".

New Dentist Opens Office In Plymouth—Parents Reside Here

Announcement has just been made of the opening of a new dental office in Plymouth. Dr. John M. Robison, a graduate of the University of Michigan dental school and a member of the faculty of the school of dentistry has decided to start practice at 284 Penniman avenue. He will be in his offices each evening from 7 to 9 o'clock and Saturdays during the afternoon. Dr. Robison will continue his association with the faculty of the University for the present, but will spend as much of his time as possible in Plymouth. Dr. Robison is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel C. Robison, of this city. The father has been for many years connected with the Detroit House of Correction.

Urges Other Clubs To Follow Example Of Plymouth Rotary

GEORGE AVERILL
Governor of 23rd Rotary District.

In a bulletin that has gone to all of the Rotary clubs of the world, Governor George Averill of the 23rd Rotary district, comprising the entire eastern half of Michigan and the province of Ontario as far east as London, Canada, has strongly urged that all Rotary clubs follow the example set by Plymouth Rotarians and have as guests of the clubs a different high school student for each month. The idea established during the time that Father Frank A. Lefevre was president of the club has proven not only popular with the students of the schools who have been fortunate to be invited to attend the regular sessions of the club, but Rotarians look upon the plan as an excellent way to give representatives of the coming generation an exact knowledge of what Rotary clubs are and what they seek to accomplish. District Governor Averill, who is publisher of The Birmingham Eclectic, has just recently been elected president of The University of Michigan Press club. The duties of his new office will not conflict with his Rotary club work, as his term as district governor will end before his greatest activities come in connection with the Press club. He will make his annual visit to the Northville Rotary club on Tuesday, December 15. That will complete his club visitation program, which has included a talk before 53 Rotary organizations in this district since August.

Tonight Last Presentation of Junior Play, "The Patsy"

The Junior class will present its play, "The Patsy", a fresh comedy in three acts by Barry Connors, for the last time tonight in the high school auditorium. The price of the tickets is so low that anyone who wishes to encourage amateur dramatics should be able to attend. The ticket sales for the first night were large, and it is hoped that the usual Friday night play goes will turn out to see this new play.

Mrs. Landon Sends Letter of Thanks

Appreciates Gift Made by Mrs. Louis Holloway of Plymouth

Some few weeks ago The Plymouth Mail carried a news article pertaining to a quilt made by Mrs. Louis H. Holloway, 218 North Harvey street, being sent by Mrs. Holloway as a gift to Mrs. Alfred M. Landon. The quilt, a most attractive one, had been made entirely by the well known Mrs. Landon, all of its pieces being sewed and put together by her.

Early this week Mrs. Holloway received the following letter from the Executive Mansion in Kansas: "My dear Mrs. Holloway: "You are a most thoughtful person to remember the Landon family in such a lovely way, and I want you to know that we sincerely appreciate the kind thought which prompted you to send the beautiful quilt.

"The splendid loyalty of our friends, throughout the past few months, has meant much to us, and we are most grateful for your friendly interest in our family.

"Our thanks to you, and with all good wishes for yourself, I am most sincerely,
THEO. LANDON

Send Christmas Mail Now, Says Postmaster

Big Rush Starts At Postoffice—Expect Record Season

Postmaster Frank Learned has issued a general request to Plymouth residents to do their Christmas shopping and MAILING early. He is especially anxious to have this done as quickly as possible as there is every indication that the business of the postoffice this year will be the greatest in its history.

"And be sure and state that there will be no delivery of mail in Plymouth or any other city of the country on Christmas day, so for this reason all Christmas mail should be put into the postoffice as early as possible," stated Postmaster Learned.

During the past few days there has been a very noticeable increase in the business at the postoffice, all due to Christmas mailing, states postmaster.

He further urges that care be used in preparing packages for mailing and in addressing them. Use strong cord to tie up bundles always place your return address up in the left hand corner of the package and put the address only upon one side. Use heavy paper, tissue and other light papers easily tear and the address might become lost.

It is always a safe rule to insure packages so if they should become lost in the mail, the sender can collect for the loss. Parcels for foreign countries should be in the mail not later than this weekend. There is no assurance of delivery before Christmas if sent later than this week.

Attorney Cutler Moves Offices

Now Located At 280 South Main Street In Plymouth

Attorney J. Rusling Cutler has moved his law office to 280 South Main street and will from now on, occupy a part of the big office space with the William Wood Insurance agency, across from The Plymouth Mail office.

Attorney Cutler has for the past two years been associated with Attorney Perry W. Richwine out South Main street, but for some time, he states, he has had a desire to be in legal practice with downtown offices and he has been fortunate in being able to secure an excellent location in the Wood insurance office.

Attorney Cutler is a graduate of the Plymouth high school, and for a time after graduating in Plymouth he was a student at Heidelberg college at Tiffin, Ohio. Later he entered the Detroit College of Law and was graduated from that school in 1932 and was immediately admitted to practice after having passed the state bar examination.

He is Scout Master of Plymouth Troop No. 1 and his new office will also be the headquarters of this active group of young Scouts.

Carrington Talks Of Re-Appointment In Wayne County

Thomas Carrington, former postmaster of Northville and one of the hardest working Republican leaders in this locality, while a visitor in Plymouth last Saturday, declared that he believed there is but one way to secure the right kind of re-appointment for Wayne county, and that is to have the newly created representative lines established within congressional districts.

"Detroit could overcome much of its present troubles by creating state representative and senatorial districts within congressional boundaries and not electing its representatives at large as it does now," stated Mr. Carrington.

Mr. Carrington is one of the most active members of the various Masonic lodges of Northville. His suggestions relative to re-appointment are worthy of more than ordinary consideration, say those who have also looked into the problem.

Mrs. J. Merie Bennett attended a luncheon and bridge Wednesday the guest of Mrs. Doris Minsart of Rosedale Park, at the Women's City club in Detroit.

Treasure Hunt Date Is Fixed For Wednesday Eve, Dec. 16

At a meeting of the merchants' committee of the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce held Monday noon, it was decided to hold the annual merchants' treasure hunt in Plymouth on Wednesday evening, December 16.

This is two days earlier than it was held last year. Secretary Leonard T. Murphy of the Chamber of Commerce stated that he had canvassed the business men of the city and that practically all were enthusiastic over its continuance.

In fact, he stated that he believed he would have a greater number of entries this year than last. It was also decided that an effort would be made to somewhat raise the standard of prizes to be offered by the business men. While some of the stores have offered prizes of exceptional merit, and all cannot be expected to do what these places have done, still it is hoped there will be a general increase in the standard of prizes to be offered.

The usual procedure will be followed in issuing the bulletin dealing with the details of the hunt. This will be distributed a day or two previous to the event that has brought thousands and thousands of people to Plymouth each year.

What Have You To Offer?

If your little boys and girls have outgrown some of their toys or if they have more than they can play with, if you have some tucked away in a box in the basement or the attic, discarded but good playthings, would it be asking too much to request that you have them sent down to the office of The Plymouth Mail within the next few days?

The Mail has been requested by Mrs. Clara Sharp, supervisor of the children's unit of the William H. Maybury Sanatorium, to make an appeal to Plymouth families for a few playthings for something like 100 boys and girls who are confined in the Sanatorium making a gallant fight against tuberculosis.

These boys and girls haven't many things with which to amuse themselves. Day after day, week after week and month after month they must lay on cots a part of each day and in some cases all day to overcome the effects of a burning fever. They are making a determined battle so that once again they can run, jump and slide about in the crisp, fresh air OUTDOORS.

And how these boys and girls long for the day when they can run and play all day, just as do your children!

While they are making this uphill, and sometimes terribly discouraging battle to regain good health, a few playthings would do wonders in helping to while away the long hours of the weeks and the months that they must be so careful and so quiet.

The story books, picture books, dolls, with nice clean dresses, may be an extra treat or two that will enable the little girls to change the wearing apparel of the dolls, playthings of any kind that might amuse children who are ill, will prove most acceptable.

Remember that these children are of varying age. Keep in mind the fact too that the playthings should be CLEAN and in good repair.

If you will bring them to the office of The Plymouth Mail at any time during the day, The Mail will see to it that they are delivered directly to the children's unit of the Sanatorium.

Maybe a discarded plaything in your home will bring a world of sunlight into the life of some little boy or girl struggling hard to live so that they might again some day enjoy the very things that your healthy little boys and girls do.

Local "Fur" Crop Expected To Be Largest In Years Says Vreeland

Busiest Industrial Center of United States Is Also One of The Best Producers Of High Class Furs—Trappers Now Busy

Although located in the heart of the busiest industrial center of the world, the Vreeland Fur company of Walled Lake expects during the present trapping season to do a fur business in this locality that will far exceed a half million dollars.

True, all the furs purchased by the company do not come from this section, but a good share of the business originates in this part of Michigan.

"In fact," William Vreeland, founder of the company that bears his name, stated yesterday while at the office of The Plymouth Mail, "there are hundreds of trappers within 50 miles of Detroit. I presume that in the vicinity of Plymouth, Walled Lake, Salem and other places near here, there are more than 200 men who trap during the open season. In Michigan there are over 5,000 trappers.

"You will be interested in knowing, too, that the very best muskrat, raccoon and skunk pelts we can buy are caught in this part of Michigan. Only the minks we get from the Lake Superior vicinity are better than the mink pelts we get around here.

"It may seem funny to some, but there is good trapping right around here. One trapper came over to Walled Lake the other day and brought in furs that we paid him $22.50 for. He had caught the skunks and mink in one day not so very far from here.

"Prices are exceedingly good this year too," said Mr. Vreeland. "We are paying from $2.25 to $2.50 for No. 1 skunk hides. Raccoons vary from $1 to $10. Frequently we pay as high as $10 for a good coon pelt. Muskrats bring from a dollar to a $1.50 each and mink anywhere from $7 to $10 each.

"While the season is not long, there are some trappers about here who make good money. One man who lives not so far from this locality earned over $800 during the trapping season last year. Of course all of these do not do so well, but one would be surprised to know how many thousands of dollars we pay out to men around here who take a little time late in the fall and early winter to do some trapping.

"I presume there is more trapping around here than there is in some other places in the state, because trappers only have to send their furs over to Walled Lake or bring them to us and get their money. But we get a lot of them through the postoffice and by express. We get from 150 to 500 packages of furs every day.

"Of course, we do not confine our entire business to this locality. My sons, Clinton and Harry, who now run the business, buy furs from all over Michigan, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Wisconsin.

Charity Show To Be Staged By Penniman-Allen

Manager Harry Lush Plans Aid To Poor Children of City

Ever anxious to do something for the kiddies of Plymouth, Harry Lush, manager of the Penniman-Allen theater, announced today that a special show would be held Wednesday, December 16, the proceeds of which would be used to purchase clothing for Plymouth's needy children.

For the date set as Christmas Charity day, Mr. Lush has obtained two outstanding brand new features. Both would be well worth seeing if shown alone and the management hopes for capacity crowds at both performances to help swell the amount of money that can be used in the purchasing of the clothing articles.

A committee composed of Sup't. George A. Smith of the high school, Captain of Police Charles A. Thumme, Claude Dykhouse and the school nurse are now busy compiling a list of names of children to receive these much needed articles at Christmas time.

Mr. Lush stated that if possible to arrange, he would invite all the children to a performance at the theatre as his guest a day or so before Christmas at the time the distribution of the clothing would be made.

Marian Marsh and James Dunn are starred in the first picture offered on Wednesday evening in "Come Closer, Folks," and Bruce Cabot and Marguerite Churchill are co-starred in the second in the "Legion of Terror," a new picture just released within the last few weeks.

Remember the date, Wednesday, December 16, plan now to attend either the first or second show on that day.

W. A. Rose Buys Wilson Hardware

Ill Health Forces The Retirement of North Side Merchant

Final details having been completed, formal announcement was made Tuesday of the sale of the Wilson Hardware company located on the corner of Liberty and Starkweather streets, to W. A. Rose of Detroit.

The sale was brought about as the result of the long illness of Mr. Wilson. He stated, however, that he would be in the store as much as possible during many months to come to assist Mr. Rose in carrying on the business.

Mr. Rose, for the last 15 years, has been in the automotive business in Detroit and during the last few years has been superintendent of accessories at the Cadillac Motor Car company. His experience in the hardware line has been varied and he is well versed in the technicalities of the business.

The new proprietor, his wife and daughter, Doris Arline, have taken residence at 1725 Northville road in the home known as Ray Vale. Mr. Rose has been an active worker in Masonic lodges and is a World War veteran.

Few immediate changes will be made according to the new owner but much new stock has already been added and many more articles are ordered. The sporting goods department will be greatly enlarged and a complete line of farm implements will be added. The Truscon Laboratories of Detroit have appointed the Plymouth Hardware, as it will now be called, exclusive dealer for their paint products in Plymouth and vicinity.

Edward Lockman, chief engineer of the William H. Maybury Sanatorium, had both legs fractured Tuesday forenoon when he was struck by an automobile as he was helping to start a car that was parked back of the Sanatorium.

An automobile belonging to one of the nurses was stalled and Mr. Lockman had started the car and stood beside his own machine when he was caught between his own car and another one that had just been driven into the parking lot.

It was necessary to lift one of the cars away in order to release him. He was rushed into one of the hospitals where immediate care was given him. Doctors say it will probably be some months before he will be able to resume his duties.

Merchants! Fix Up That Window! Trophy Day Near

Committee Selects Sat., Dec. 19, As Time For Inspection

Saturday, December 19 has been fixed by the officials of the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce as the date when the special committee will make an inspection of Plymouth store windows for the best decorated window during the holiday season of 1936.

Two years ago when the trophy was first awarded, the Wild Men's clothing store won the cup for that year and last year it was won by the Cassidy dress shop.

The committee that will make the annual visitation and announce the award has not yet been named and it is possible that the names will not be made public, although this point has not been fully decided.

Each year the competition for the trophy has become more keen and it has not been an easy matter for the committee to decide the winner. There are already some most attractive window displays in Plymouth.

Hit By Car, Both Legs Fractured

Edward Lockman, chief engineer of the William H. Maybury Sanatorium, had both legs fractured Tuesday forenoon when he was struck by an automobile as he was helping to start a car that was parked back of the Sanatorium.

An automobile belonging to one of the nurses was stalled and Mr. Lockman had started the car and stood beside his own machine when he was caught between his own car and another one that had just been driven into the parking lot.

New Cadillac Car About "Last Word"

Charles H. Bennett, who finds his greatest recreation in automobile driving, has just purchased a new Cadillac coupe and finds it about as complete an automobile as he has ever possessed. The car is arranged so that four passengers can be carried with ease if desired. There is an immense amount of baggage space. In fact, there isn't much about an automobile one could name that is not on this 1937 Cadillac.

Church and City Propose Exchange Of Property

Plan Would Vastly Benefit Civic Center of Plymouth

Mayor Henry Hondorp and members of the city commission in cooperation with the Presbyterian church board have about completed arrangements for one of the most advanced steps taken in years towards the general improvement of property surrounded by the high school, Presbyterian and Methodist churches, and the city hall.

The proposed plan provides for the exchange of property between the Presbyterian church and the city which will give to the city the site now occupied by the Presbyterian manse on Main street almost directly across from the city hall as well as property controlled by the Presbyterian organization along Church street and Park Drive, the short street leading along the south side of the park across from the high school.

The city in return plans to move the Presbyterian manse to a new site on Church street and west of the site selected for the new church, and put it in as good a condition as it was previous to the removal.

While it has not been generally known by the public, that portion of Church street and Park drive lying between the site of the old Presbyterian church and the Methodist church, except for 80 feet occupied by Church street, is property of the Presbyterian church. This large triangle (which does not include the park) has long been used for street purposes and it has even been hard surfaced by the city, even though the land has not been the property of the city.

The proposed transaction will give to the city a clear title to this triangle located just to the west of the present wall along the park and will enable the city to construct a parkway drive from Main street to the proposed connection with Church street just north of where the new church building will be erected.

The Presbyterian board has also offered to move the church building line back a considerable distance from where the old church stood.

In fact, the south drive of the proposed street improvement would be partly built over a portion of the site occupied by the old church.

The plan as it has been laid out, will save every tree that stands in that section. The row of young trees planted a few years ago running along the south side of Park drive would be located in the parkway area of the proposed street improvement.

Not only that, but it is proposed to divert as much traffic as possible from Church street in order to eliminate traffic hazards for school children. Numerous accidents have happened directly in front of the school house notwithstanding the fact that every effort has been put forth to educate the children to carelessness. The difficulty lies chiefly with some motorists who are not as careful as are the children.

There is only one question to be solved in connection with the completion of this transfer and that is a legal one, as to whether a vote of the people is necessary in order to carry it through. City Attorney Arlo Emery is now looking into the law in the question and as soon as he rules, final action will be taken.

Supervisor Dingledie Home

The many friends of Supervisor Phil Dingledie of Canton township will be glad to know that he has recovered sufficiently from a recent serious operation performed at Harper hospital in Detroit, to permit his removal to his home out on Lilley road. Mr. Dingledie was in Harper hospital for more than three weeks. He was brought to his home Sunday evening and is now able to sit up part of the time. It will probably be several weeks before he will be sufficiently recovered to be as active as he was before the operation.

Thumme Talks To Hanford Parent Teachers

Fingerprinting Is Topic of Interesting Discussion

The Hanford P. T. A. met last Monday evening in a brief business session followed by a most interesting program in which Captain Charles A. Thumme of the Plymouth police department was the principal speaker.

Marlyn McClumpha preceded the speaker with two delightful piano solos and Mrs. Moyer gave a reading about the homing instincts of animals and insects. Captain Thumme explained to the members present, the value and urgent need for every American citizen to be fingerprinted. At the conclusion of his talk the P. T. A. voted unanimously to encourage universal fingerprinting and several children and adults had their prints taken and placed in the local police department's citizen file from where they are sent to Washington and Lansing to be recorded.

The meeting ended with Mrs. Hurd McClumpha telling a very clever fairy tale. The next meeting of the group will be a children's Christmas program, Friday evening, December 18. Miss Elsie Smith, teacher of the school, will be the sponsor of the affair.

Busy Days For Finny Scribe

Deer Hunters And Coon Catchers Prove "Heap Bio Trouble"

(By Editor Fish Column)

It seems that there is one question right after another bothering the nimrods of Plymouth. A while back the mystery concerned the reason why Matt Powell and Bert McKinney fell so flat on their moose hunting trip to Canada. Then came the mystery of why Matt didn't get a deer on his return hunting engagement to northern Michigan.

The boys finally dropped these matters after having placed Matt in the "dog house" because he didn't bring back the hunk of moose he had promised the stay-at-homes down at the Mayflower family table. In fact, they were so disappointed that Matt more than once had to hunt up a table under the drooping ears of the moose head he brought back a year ago and eat alone.

Recently they have somewhat relented and Matt has been permitted to rejoin the family group. Now comes something more to bother the boys. The other noon Russell Powell who went up north and hunted for the brief period of one hour and two minutes and shot as nice a deer as roamed the north woods, had the chef of the Mayflower fix up a nice piece of his venison for the family table. It was cooked to a queen's taste and the boys thoroughly appreciated it. They told Russell so in a most emphatic way.

But what do you suppose happened to mar this feast? Stanley Corbett said he had heard some one say that some one else had said they had heard that the deer that Russ Powell said he shot and brought home, was filled with No. 6 shot. In other words, Stanley didn't say so in so many words, but the fellows gained the impression that some one had shot the deer previous to the time that a bullet from Russell's rifle whizzed through the air and laid the deer low.

Then Walter Harms suggested that possibly the deer that Russell brought home with him had been killed by the shot and stood petrified when hit by the bullet from Russell's rifle.

That "crack" didn't go so good. Everybody knows that Russ Powell is a sure-dead shot and if he says he shot a live deer he really did shoot it.

Russ explained that the shot in the hide of the deer had apparently been there for some time, as the wounds had healed over.

That explanation satisfied a little bit, but the worst of it was that the doubting Thomases carried the argument on up to Smitty's house of good and quick eats.

Now it seems that Smitty goes up fishing every summer in the country around where Russ got his deer. He knows all the natives by their first names and even goes out sometimes to help them split a few sticks of stove wood from the pine stumps that are numerous about there.

Smitty heard some one say that

Russ's deer had some shot in it. He sort of boiled over like his stew does sometimes and he said he didn't like to have any one insinuate that any of the natives up north would try to shoot a deer before the season opened.

"Probably that deer got in some one's cabbage patch and they shot it to scare it away. I don't want any more talk around here about my friends up there shootin' at deer before the season opens," declared Smitty.

Everybody sort of thought Smitty was sore and there hasn't been any more talk about Russ's deer having been shot twice, even though its hide was filled with shot plus the big bullet wound that nobody denies was inflicted by Russell's rifle.

Now the question is, why is Smitty so interested in the welfare of the natives where he goes fishing? Will some of the Ike Waltonians answer that one.

Here's another riddle that has come to the desk of the fish editor. Sometime ago something was published about Matt Everett's dog catching the biggest coon discovered in these parts in many a moon. Matt laid no claim to the fact that he shot the coon or that he had anything to do with it, except follow his dog as it trailed the coon down along a fence into some woods out two or three miles west of Canton center road. Pete Smith strolled into the office of the fish column editor the other day and wanted to know why he didn't get into that coon story. That's something that couldn't be answered, Pete was told, as all information at hand didn't show Pete anywhere in the coon hunt picture. Pete contended that it was he who climbed the tree and chased the coon out of the hole in the tree so that it had to jump to the ground, where it met its fate in combat with Matt's dog. Anyway Matt had the pelt of the coon and he displayed it to the fish column editor as evidence of his part in the capture of a 27 and a half pound coon. What's next?

Old time deer hunters have been honeying around young Clifford Smith to find out just how it happened that the youngest deer hunter from Plymouth on his first deer hunting trip, to the north should be one of the very few from these parts to get a nice big deer, when most of the Plymouth hunters didn't even get a shot at one. Clifford went up to stay a few days with Myron Mawhorter at the lodge where Myron goes every summer to get away from the business activities of a busy life in the busy city of Plymouth. Myron likes to relax out in the open under a big pine tree, with his pipe going and his fish line dangling in a good trout hole up on the Pere Marquette. That's what he does most of the time from early spring until the trout season closes in the fall. Then he waits for the deer season to open.

The other day Clifford hied off with his dad's big rifle to hunt deer up near where Myron relaxes each summer. It wasn't two hours after the young man had landed his buck before the news reached Plymouth as to what had happened. Now the buck hunters who have been running back and forth to northern Michigan for twenty odd years or more trying to get a buck, would like to know just how the young man should happen to be so lucky on his first trip north. Sometimes bucks talk, but the kind that Clifford brought home isn't that kind.

WE'RE NOT FOR IT.

There's been some talk of a general shake-up in the conservation department of the state government over at Lansing. While the editor of The Plymouth Mail has disagreed violently with some of the things that the department has done, there is such a thing as the department officials might be right and our views not entirely symmetrical. We have also objected to some of the selections made to the commission, even though they have been Republicans. But there is one thing about it, even though we have disagreed with some of the policies of the department and have not been enthusiastic over some of the selections made for the commission, it is only fair and honest to admit that the commission and department heads have served the state's conservation interests faithfully and well.

There is Harry Whiteley, of Dowagiac, for instance. He is publisher of one of the best small city daily newspapers in the country. A city five times as big as Dowagiac could well be proud of the kind of daily newspaper that Mr. Whiteley gets out for his city. Mr. Whiteley is a member of the state conservation commission. We have strongly opposed some of his ideas about conservation. Our opposition to some of his policies is based upon his primary desire to see to it that Cass county and that part of the state comes FIRST in matters of conservation. In fact, he first won recognition in conservation matters because of a battle he put up for Cass county farmers when no one else would go to the front for them. Loyalty to his home county and community is always first with Editor Whiteley and that strongly imbedded idea probably accounts in a way, for the Dowagiac editor's somewhat constricted conservation views. On some matters, he does possess a healthy, statewide outlook relative to conservation problems. But, because we do not agree with him on some things, is no reason why he or any one else from the commission should be fired. It is this variance of opinion which helps to build up a strong, progressive, conservation department.

We have long battled in an effort to induce the state conservation commission to create state parks at trunk line highway crossings of our streams, so that the beautiful waterways of Michigan might be opened to canoe trips. Michigan abounds with some of the most delightful river trips to be found anywhere in all the world. Up to date, we haven't been able to make the commission see our viewpoint on this matter, but we believe the idea has gained some ground. Why should the entire commission be fired because it hasn't seen eye to eye with us on this development? Maybe there is some reason why the plan cannot be readily carried out.

The editor of The Mail has long advocated the creation of a vast state park around the Tahquamenon river and falls, with a medium priced hard surface trail road, leading along the river to the falls, with public conveniences at or near the falls similar to those maintained in the Rouge parkway of Wayne county. We have declared that such a development would cause the flow of millions of additional tourist dollars into Michigan.

The commission is finally doing something along this line, but not in just the way we have advocated. Why fire the commission because it has been slow in this development and is working it out somewhat different than we have proposed?

We believe that all winter spearing through the ice in Michigan should be terminated and we have long advocated the outlawing of all forms of winter spearing within this state. The commission hasn't seen fit to close all lakes to winter spearing. But we do not believe the commission should be fired because it hasn't done just what we have advocated in this matter.

We believe that all fishing should be stopped within 1000 feet of all inlets into inland lakes, but why fire the commission because the importance of this conservation idea has not yet been thoroughly sold to the members? Maybe there is some good reason why fishing should not be prohibited near inlets

The Songs I'd Like to Sing

I'd like to write of humble things—
The common joys and cares of every-day.
I'd like to tell a tale that brings
A brighter smile, or drives a tear away.
I'd like to paint a little scene
Of good old-fashioned comradeship and fun,
Where life is wholesome and serene,
And restful sleep is found when day is done.

I'd like to sing the simple songs,
That children often stop their play to hear.
I'd like to talk to artless throngs
And have them understand my words of cheer.
I'd like to voice the happiness
That only humble folks can truly know;
And search for language to express
The beauty of contentment's kindly glow.

I'd like to chant love's tender lays;
And laud the charm of nature everywhere.
I'd like to sing of childhood days,
Of home, and of a mother's faithful care.
I'd like to touch the wistful chords
Of memory, and somehow play again
That gentle music which affords
Unending pleasure to the hearts of men.

MY COTTAGE.

Only a cottage in the mountains,
On a high, high hill,
Where every thing is contentment,
So peaceful and so still.

Flowers—Oh! there are so many
From the steps down to the gate,
It's a mass of endless colors;
Every bud, a seed, can make.

Birds of all kinds for companions
Including Oriole, and Bobolink,
What a paradise this world is,
If we only stop to think.

Yes, it is a little cottage,
Just as plain as it can be,
You would know it as a dwelling,
But it's heaven on earth to me.

—Charles E. Allen

into certain lakes, even though we know of no such reason.

Michigan is a young state in conservation work. In fact, Michigan didn't have a conservation department until it was organized during the administration of Governor Groesbeck some 15 or 16 years ago. But during these few brief years, Michigan has climbed from the bottom of the ladder almost to the top. It has reached a point where other states look to us as a leader in conservation development.

We do not believe that any governor, no matter how earnest may be his desire to serve the public, can replace an entire commission such as the present conservation commission, and carry out a worthwhile conservation program. We believe, and believe sincerely that the conservation commission should be strictly a non-political body. We do know that the department has to a very great extent been non-political. In fact, the only sour appointment made in the past few years was the last one by the present Republican governor, who replaced an honest-to-God conservation leader by a northern Michigan good-hearted and friendly Republican politician, but not a conservation leader, by any means.

There are possibly some replacements on the commission that can be made that would help the conservation program in Michigan. We do not contend that all of the outstanding conservation leaders now constitute the commission membership. There is a lot of valuable timber around the state, and it is not all confined to one party either.

Thousands and thousands of people in Michigan are vitally interested in the conservation development of this state. They are not at all interested in political spoils and they are going to watch the conservation department carefully, with the hope that Michigan will continue to expand and develop its amazing conservation possibilities.

THE PRICE WE PAY.

Each time a first line battle ship is constructed it means the equivalent of from two to four hundred first rate schools; four thousand deluxe swimming pools; eight thousand recreation parks; eighty thousand tennis courts; one thousand medium-sized country clubs; four hundred fifty miles of excellent residences would lift the average mortgage debt from more than ten thousand farms; would furnish comfortable old-age incomes for more than two thousand people from interest charges on investment alone; would build more than thirteen hundred miles of paved highway; would pay for more than fifty thousand medium priced automobiles.

Measured in such values as this, even the necessity for peace time preparedness is costly beyond comprehension. If even a half of the effort devoted to warfare could be turned to improvement of life and living conditions, what a different world this would be.—Dick Cook in The Hastings Banner.

CHAINS OLD AS THE HILLS

Most of us think of the chain store as a modern American institution, but the chain store idea was the basis for the Hudson Bay Company, which existed in America long before we won our independence, and which still continues in business. But the Hudson Bay Co. is a mere infant compared to the Mitsui drug chain in Japan which started in 1643 and is still in business. The earliest chain store system of which we have record was started by a Chinese merchant in 200 B. C. and included a large number of retail stores throughout what was then the greatest empire in the world.—William Berkey in The Cassopolis Vigilant.

NOT A NEW DISCOVERY.

Maybe the fellow who boasts that he is just as good as he used to be didn't used to be as good as he thinks he was.—George Neal in The Orion Review.

A PARABLE

Once upon a time a farmer subscribed for the Old Home Paper for one year. At the end of the year he did not advise the editor as to whether or not the paper should be stopped, and the editor kept sending it trusting the farmer's honor. Every little while the editor sent a polite note asking for his pay and got no reaction. The farmer kept on taking the paper. At last the editor told an agency to collect $3.25.

Whereupon the farmer was very indignant. One day the farmer went into the dairy business. The editor told him to leave milk for a month on trial, and paid him in advance. At the end of the month, having no other orders, the farmer kept on leaving milk, which the editor's family used. The farmer finally presented a bill for $3.25, which the editor refused to pay because he hadn't ordered it.

Whereupon the farmer was very indignant.—Emerson Gildart in The Utica Sentinel.

STAY AWAY FROM POLITICAL JOBS

We would rather face a jungle full of tigers than to face the 1937 patronage problem. To those who want political jobs we would most earnestly advise them to spend three times the effort in trying to obtain private employment. A political job is no good to anyone. Those who live by political jobs always have the fear of an election turning them out of office. Young people who seek political jobs are making the mistake of their lives.—Frank Moses 'D' in The Marshall Chronicle.

Mr. Blake is also known to have an extensive knowledge of the fur business.

The Vreeland Fur company is made up of the father and two sons, but the active management of the company is in charge of the two younger men. However, the father takes a keen interest in the business and helps with much of its detail work.

The tremendous success this company has enjoyed is due entirely to the remarkable knowledge that the father and two sons have, of furs and their value, and by their strict attention to business, no matter how trifling might be the account of the seller or the buyer.

Obituary

MRS. ROBERT T. WILLOUGHBY
Following a long illness, Mrs. Robert T. Willoughby, a well known resident of Plymouth for the past ten years, died at her home on Hartsoog avenue, November 24.

Mrs. Willoughby, who was Miss Elizabeth Earls, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Earls, was born March 3, 1863 on a farm in Maple Valley township in Sanilac county. Her father was one of the early pioneers in that part of Michigan and was long regarded as an expert in locating and estimating the value of pine lands in northern Michigan. He was also well known as an outstanding veterinary surgeon and practiced this profession for years before his death. He was over 90 years of age at the time of his death.

Elizabeth attended the Valley Center school, and after completing her school work at this place, she entered the state normal from which she later graduated. It was while she was a student in the Valley Center school that Robert T. Willoughby became one of her instructors. Mrs. Earls married her former instructor.

Following graduation from the normal, she taught school for a number of years in Cheboygan and Sanilac counties. On November 23, 1887, the day before Thanksgiving, she and Mr. Willoughby were married at Mr. Willoughby at Yale, Michigan by the Rev. Jesse Crandell of the Methodist Protestant church. Soon after the wedding day they went to their new home in Greenwood township, St. Clair county, where Mr. Willoughby was teaching school. For many years they were active members of the Methodist Protestant church at West Lynn and after moving to Capac they became members of the Federated church at that place.

Having two sons in the World War, Mrs. Willoughby became a member of the American Legion Auxiliary and remained active in its work until illness prevented.

Surviving are the husband, Robert T. Willoughby of Plymouth, three sons, Earl and Jack of Ypsilanti and Robert D. Willoughby of Plymouth, and one daughter, Mrs. Lyle Runciman of Detroit. There are also six grandchildren and one sister, Mrs. Carman Dean of Valley Center, left to mourn her passing.

The body was brought to the Schrader Funeral Home, and later taken to her home, from which place funeral services were held Friday, November 27, at 1 p.m. Interment in Riverside cemetery, Rev. Loya Sutherland officiating.

KARL WILLIAM HILLMER
Karl William Hillmer, life long resident of Plymouth, died November 25 in the University of Michigan hospital after an illness of several weeks. His death proved to be a surprise to a large number of residents of Plymouth who had not known of his serious illness.

Probably one of the best known of the older residents of this locality, Mr. Hillmer was born August 17, 1862 in a log house on the old Bethuel Noyes farm at the edge of Plymouth village out South Main street. The village at that time was not incorporated. The Noyes farm has since become a sub-division, and comes well within the present limits of the city of Plymouth. He was the fifth and last surviving son of John William and Sophia (Wittig) Hillmer. These parents had emigrated from the then Kingdom of Hanover, now a province in Germany, in the summer of 1855.

His father had been a weaver and a forest worker in and near the town of Epstorf, in Hanover, but the mother had finally convinced the husband and father that there would be increased opportunities for them and their boys in America. To America they came. The family had effected a previous understanding with an also emigrating fellow countryman to see them safely and financially through to Chicago but in New York this friend suddenly disappeared and was heard from no more.

John William and his frau understood no English, they had but little or no funds and no equipment, they did have three small sons, and they were in a strange land, but the westward movement continued. After varied harrowing experiences, including weeks separation of the father from the rest of the family, serious illness of the father, and death of the baby August, the family finally arrived in Plymouth.

In Plymouth, one Bethuel Noyes, a well-to-do farmer, and the man who became the first village president, gave them succor. He established them, in fact, on his own farm, and here they remained for several years. During this time, when John William Hillmer was a hard working and faithful employee of Mrs. Noyes, two more sons were born. These were the late Louis Hillmer, who himself served as president of Plymouth for many successive terms, and then Karl William, who now and also has left this earthly scene to greet again his brothers.

Before the end of the Civil war the father of Karl had taken steps to own his own farm. He bargained for a piece of land on what is now Joy road, and just west of the present Hagerty Highway. The older brothers had gradually left home and eventually became married, but Karl except for one winter when employed in a Detroit carriage factory, remained under the parental roof.

It was on March 23, 1892 when the father died, leaving Karl alone with his mother. He continued working the farm for 17 years until his mother's death in October, 1907.

The following year he married Miss Carrie Brown, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Brown of Plymouth. It was about this time when he purchased the local laundry business in Plymouth and continued its operation for more than 18 years. He finally sold it, expecting to take life easier when he was offered the superintendency of the new laundry of the Wayne County Training school, a position he held until his death.

In 1912 he became a member of the Blue Lodge of local Masonry, and in this he continued active throughout all the years that followed. He had been elected to all the chairs, and in 1916, and again in 1920, was chosen Worshipful Master. He also entered the Plymouth Eastern Star lodge and in 1925 was Worthy Patron. He was also a member of Northville Chapter No. 55, Royal Arch Masons, and at the time of his death, and for ten years previously, had been Captain of the Hosts in this Chapter. Before that time, and for four years, he had been Excellent High Priest. Still another branch of the Masonic order in which he was active was the White Shrine of Jerusalem, in Farmington.

For four years, from March 27, 1922, to April, 1926, he served on the old village council. This was during the period when Plymouth was beginning to grow from a small village into a larger town. It was a period of construction.

The city made extensive improvements in its water system during this time, and added to its fire fighting equipment. One of the outstanding construction jobs was the building of the sewage disposal plant. Sewers, both sanitary and storm, were rapidly improved. Many Village Ordinances were passed, and many of these are still in force. Mr. Hillmer always attended the sessions faithfully, even religiously, and he was always on the affirmative side of every discussion for public improvement. He sponsored and most actively supported a movement to construct a swimming pool for boys in the new Plymouth Riverside Park, but support was not sufficient to carry the project.

Although Mr. and Mrs. Hillmer had no children, he was especially interested in youthful activities and was one of the chief supporters of the Scout movement in its early days. The body was brought to the Schrader Funeral Home, from which place the funeral services were held Saturday, November 28, at 2 p.m. under the auspices of the Plymouth Masonic Lodge No. 47 F. & A. M. Interment in Riverside cemetery, Rev. P. Ray Norton officiating.

MRS. NANCY A. BRADNER
Mrs. Nancy A. Bradner, who resided at 1023 Penniman avenue, passed away Thursday evening, November 26, at the University hospital, Ann Arbor, at the age of 91 years. She was the widow of the late William Bradner. The body was brought to the Schrader Funeral Home, and later taken to her home, from which place funeral services were held Sunday, November 29, at 3 p.m. Interment was made in Riverside cemetery, Rev. Walter Nichol officiating.

ARTHUR C. VAN SICKLE
Arthur Charles Van Sickle, who resided at 4335 Six Mile road, Salem township, passed away early Saturday morning, November 28. He was the husband of the late Mary Burns Van Sickle, and uncle of Jay V. Van Sickle of Ionia; and Charles H. Van Sickle of Detroit. The body was brought to the Schrader Funeral Home, Plymouth, from which place funeral services were held Monday, November 30 at 2 p.m. Interment was made in Thayer cemetery, Northville, Rev. Cora Pennell of Salem officiating.

SHERMAN SCHWALM
Sherman Schwalm who resided at 4111 West Lafayette, Detroit, passed away at Ford hospital, Tuesday evening, December 1st, at the age of 26 years. He was the husband of Margaret Earns Schwalm, and father of Lawrence. Son of Mrs. Lavina Schwalm of Flint, brother of Mrs. Bernice Bickell, of Flint; Samuel of Palm Beach, Florida; Dorothy Schwalm of Bay City; Fred, Royal and Oscar Schwalm, all of Flint. The body was brought to the Schrader Funeral Home, Plymouth, from which place funeral services will be held Friday, December 4th at 2 p.m. Interment in Riverside cemetery.

Rocks To Meet Redford Union

The Rock Cagers of Plymouth high school will meet the Redford Union five in the first home game of the '36-'37 basketball season on Tuesday, December 8, for the second game before the opening of their League season.

The Plymouth team will be made up of mainly new material with the backbone of the team being composed of those players who had a very good season when they played on the Reserve team in the '35-'36 season. This game will also show how the Plymouth team will fare in the first of the League encounters, although radical changes may always be made in the lineup.

Two Northville Hunters Get Moose Up In Canada

Adolph Balden, former well known Northville meat market dealer who has many friends in Plymouth, and Dr. A. A. Holcomb have returned from a moose hunting trip up in Canada, bringing back with them a big moose. Dr. Holcomb has a hunting lodge in north of Sault Ste. Marie, Canada and spends a portion of each fall in the wilds some 50 miles from Lake Superior.

Mr. Balden went up to Dr. Holcomb's lodge late in the summer on a fishing trip and remained there until Dr. Holcomb returned for the moose hunting season. Following a few days spent in hunting they closed up camp and returned to Northville. The camp is reached by train over the Algoma Central and then trailing several miles through the dense forests. Below zero weather was experienced before they left the northlands, states Mr. Balden in a letter to The Plymouth Mail.

Ladies Invited To Consult Beauty Specialist at Beyer's

The visit of Miss Dorothy Patterson to Beyer's Pharmacy in Plymouth from December 7 to 12, inclusive, is an event of keen interest to women here who are always interested in attaining the smart appearance so typical of the women of our community.

She comes through the courtesy of Beyer's Pharmacy, the Rexall drug store, straight from the laboratories of M. Langlois, world-renowned authority on beauty and charm. She has been trained by M. Langlois himself in the art of teaching new methods of cultivating loveliness right in one's own home.

Miss Patterson, in talking about her mission here, says, "We believe that every woman has loveliest self. The self that looks out from her mirror when she is happy, thrilled, enthusiastic about life, and confident that the impression she is making is a charming one."

"Sometimes this 'loveliest self' is uppermost in a woman's appearance; sometimes it is neglected and she is far less lovely than she need be. It is my keenest desire to help the ladies of Plymouth to bring out and develop this perhaps latent loveliness. Not through a miracle but through sound, common sense principles underlying daily skin care!

"I want to devote 45 minutes to discussing with each woman who comes to me her own skin condition and problems... to giving her a restful facial followed by an individualized make-up that will minimize any imperfections of feature or complexion and accent every beauty."

"I use only M. Langlois' famous Cara Nome beauty creations because I have found them the purest, finest and most effective obtainable. There is no charge for this consultation. The Beyer Pharmacy personally engaged me to give this free service as a courtesy to their customers and friends."

Miss Patterson will really help women to attain the new beauty demanded today. She is available all next week only, for appointments between 9 a.m. and 9:00 p.m.

The telephone at the Rexall drug store is being kept busy every minute, as only tea appointments a day can be made and no one wants to be disappointed! Phone 633 for an appointment.

Fighting Woman Pays $10 Fine

A "battling tigeress" from Northville found out the other day that it doesn't pay to start trouble in a well regulated beer garden. As a result of her trouble making, she paid a fine of $10 and was placed on probation for six months and must make restitution for damages that resulted from her escapade.

For sometime past Mrs. Jean Phelps has conducted the Calvacade Inn at Phoenix lake. During the time she has conducted the place she has brought about many improvements and created a much higher class of business than the place at one time enjoyed. It is because of her desire to conduct a good, clean place where everything is orderly and quiet that led to the trouble a few nights ago.

In an effort to stop a dispute that had started, Mrs. Phelps was attacked by a woman from the neighboring city to the north and was badly bruised and scratched about the face.

The sheriff's office was called and after a careful investigation, had a warrant issued for the Northville woman who made the assault. She was taken before Judge McKerskey of Dearborn township, who found her guilty and not only assessed the fine but issued an order placing her on probation for six months and prohibiting her from again visiting the Calvacade Inn.
