

Fun And Education Are Themes For Extensive Program Of Recreation Planned In Plymouth This Summer

Two Organizations Sponsor Activities For Young And Old

The Department of Recreation under the direction of Milton Jacobi, again will offer a widely varied program of sports, music, handicrafts, arts, social activities and other recreational projects for the summer.

In addition, the Woman's Club will sponsor a four-section recreational program in charge of Miss Ruth Hadley.

The Recreation Department program will be larger and more diversified than that of last summer and it is hoped that the number of participants will exceed last year's.

The staff will include Mr. Jacobi, Leo Van Bonn, Lester Daly, Asa Rowe, Charles Stitt, Lester Welch and William Laskey. The girls will be under the direction of Miss Dorothy Roe. Mr. Evans and Mr. Brown will have charge of the musical program.

The activities will be more or less divided into groups for men, women, boys and girls. For men there is the municipal softball league which has been under way for seven weeks and has a similar period to run; the all-star game, the exact date of which will be announced later; the Detroit News novice tennis tournament to be followed by the Plymouth doubles championship, and two tournaments in horseshoes, badminton, shuffleboard and other games.

For boys and girls there will be swimming on Tuesdays and Fridays at Whitmore Lake, Portage Lake, Rouge Park pools or the Training school pool; street shows one or two days a week; a trip to a Detroit Tigers ball game, story telling in the evenings and art and handicraft exhibits.

There also will be organized athletic programs at the various playgrounds. This year, besides the playgrounds at the Central and Starkweather schools, neighborhood playgrounds will be opened at the following locations: at the intersection of Forest and Sutherland avenues; Sheridan avenue at the junction of Starkweather street and Mill street; Blunk street near Farmer, Penniman street near Ann Arbor Trail, and in Robinson Subdivision.

These playgrounds will be in (Continued on Page Six)

Mary Ann Lorenz Weds Jack Gilles

The marriage of Mary Ann Lorenz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lorenz, and John J. Gilles, son of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Gilles, of Plymouth, took place Saturday morning, June 18, at 10 o'clock, in the Our Lady of Good Counsel church, the Rev. F. C. Lefevre performing the ceremony. Arrangements of palms and white pennies formed the background for the wedding party.

The bride wore a white satin wedding gown with inserts of lace in sleeve and waistline, with train. Her veil was fingertip length with a cluster of orange blossoms forming the headdress. She carried a colonial bouquet of gardenias and gypsophila.

Lillian Keizer, of Plymouth, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor, wearing a peach chiffon gown with lace jacket and hat of matching net. She carried a bouquet of contrasting colors. Marjorie Keizer, also a cousin, and Carmen Glenn, were bridesmaids and wore similar gowns in aqua-marine chiffon and hats of net. They also carried colonial bouquets of contrasting colors.

Members of the Auxiliary of the Myron H. Beals Post of the American Legion planted an elm tree last Friday on the grounds of the Legion Hall in memory of their first president and mother of the boy for whom the post is named, Mrs. Miriam E. Beals.

Mrs. Vera Guthrie, president of the Auxiliary, read the memorial service while the members threw live poppies around the root of the tree. Mrs. Gladys Ryder read Joyce Kilmer's famous poem, "Trees," and the Auxiliary chaplain, Mrs. Ida Thomas, offered a prayer.

An honored guest at the ceremony was Mrs. Edith Eklund, a charter member of the Auxiliary.

The address of the evening will be presented by David M. Nichol, '28, a member of the staff of the Chicago Daily News.

Violin solos will be played by Doris Hamill, '32, accompanied by Catarina Penny, '33, Alta Hamill-Woodworth, '24, will play the accompaniment for the group singing.

Plymouth Retires 35 Pct. Of Debts In 30 Months

Every dollar the city has borrowed is being paid off as quickly as possible.

The total present bonded indebtedness of the city is $197,000. This includes $77,000 for water fund, $85,000 for general obligation and $35,000 for special assessments.

"The next three years will be the 'difficult' ones," Mr. Elliott commented. There are more bonds to be retired in that period. However, after that time the size of the payments will go down tremendously.

This year $30,177.50 in special assessment indebtedness was retired, of which $28,000 was principal. For the next fiscal year the amount to be retired will be $17,237.50. The amount then drops to the neighborhood of $5,000.

In the other two divisions, $14,112.50 in general obligation debt was paid off last year and $13,675 will be paid next year. In the water fund, $13,250.50 was paid up last year and the amount to be paid this year comes to $12,825, with $9,000 in principal being included for each payment.

"It has been the experience of Plymouth," Mr. Elliott said, "that every dollar the city has borrowed it must pay back $1.85." This added expense in interest is too much of a burden for the city commission to seek to increase it, he said.

Two New Projects Of WPA Approved

WPA workers will finish the job on which they are working on Main street this week. City Manager Clarence Elliott said Tuesday, and will not resume work on the project until after the Fourth of July.

He also announced that two of three contemplated new WPA projects for Plymouth had been approved. The two approved are: Construction and repair of sidewalks, grading and curb and gutter construction.

Sewer construction which calls for placing sanitary sewer pipes along Mill street between Plymouth road and Ann Arbor Trail and a sanitary sewer on Irving street between William street and the Pere Marquette Railroad tracks.

The project which is awaiting approval will involve construction of water mains. This includes building a twelve-inch main on Mill street, between Plymouth road and Ann Arbor Trail and a six-inch drain on Easter street. There also is a possibility that a six-inch main will be placed along a portion of Sutherland avenue.

'38 City Expenses Are No Higher, Manager Says

Transfer Of Costs Explain Larger Estimate For Budget

Plymouth's budget allotments for 1938 which apparently show an increase in expenses to the city of $3,631.63 over the amount expended for the last year, actually will not comprise an increase in costs. City Manager Clarence Elliott explained this week.

Approximately the same amount was spent last year, he said, but the higher figure for 1937 does not appear because the additional expenses were taken from the general fund to eke out the insufficient budget allotments.

"For instance, the new budget shows an increase in the expenses for the police department," he pointed out. "The increase is largely to pay the salary of an additional policeman hired last year.

"This man's salary was paid last year out of the general fund. The police department budget for last year appears to be smaller than for 1937 because the transferred expense is added to the 1937 figure the difference in actual costs is negligible."

In addition, the salary of the officer, who was needed badly by (Continued on Page Six)

Business Men Aid U. S. Sales Crusade

A committee of local business men consisting of Irving Blunk, John Blickestaff, Stanley Corbett, George Burr, Clarence Elliott and Sterling Eaton attended the meeting held at the Masonic Temple in Detroit Tuesday noon to promote the National Salesmen's Crusade.

The campaign, originated by George Mason, president of the Nash-Kelvinator Corporation, is based on the principal that salesmen jobs and an effort is being made to promote the plan throughout the nation.

Prominent speakers endorsing the plan were heard on a national telephone hook-up with Chicago.

T. Corbett, president of the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce, appointed Irving Blunk, John Blickestaff and George Burr as a committee to promote the idea in Plymouth.

Window cards and buttons are available at the Chamber of Commerce office and announcements concerning the plan are being made in local service clubs this week. Merchants are urged to display the sales emblem in their windows and in their advertising.

Winners Of Essay Contest Receive Surprise Awards

Sixth Grade Writers On Safety Get Cash; Best Essay Printed

Five sixth grade pupils at Central school were surprised to win cash prizes as well as honor when they were announced as leaders in an essay contest on safety.

Participants in the contest were not aware until the prizes were awarded that a sum of money had been offered by Hal P. Wilson, of Ann Arbor Trail, for the winners.

First place was won by Norma Elsworth, 11 years old, for her essay, "Safety, Our King." She was awarded a cash prize of $4. Margaret Brown and Dora Grucbner tied for second place and received $2 each. Third place also was tied, between Thelma Stevens and Stanford Besse, who were awarded $1 each.

All the prizes were provided by Mr. Wilson who also donated a splendid set of history volumes to Starkweather school in the last year.

The contest was judged by the teachers, Nancy Holiday and Winnifred Douglas, and high school seniors. The contest climaxed a sixth-grade study of safety. The judges said that there were some especially fine thoughts on safety expressed by the participants.

The winning essay follows: "The average of the American motorist, according to Mr. Todd Stoops, secretary manager of the Hoosier Motor Club of Indiana, is far above the average of drivers of other countries. In a recent speech, Mr. Stoops expressed a desire to make roads and highways safer in three ways. 1.—Build better roads. 2.—Teach the children safer methods of play. 3.—Obey all traffic rules and regulations.

"When children take to playing in the street, an accident is almost sure to occur. So, for safety's sake, the mayor of every city should make it his duty to block a street for the children's use. Country driving is quite dangerous especially at night. Driving after dark would be much easier if all sharp turns were carefully banked and flashers fastened up every few feet. If these precautions were taken and an accident occurred, the state would not be to blame.

"Our country is a democratic one. We have no kings or rulers. It would be a good idea, however, if we made safety our king. It would be a wise move and would be appreciated by young and old."

Boys' State Elects Two Plymouth Youths To Offices

Legion Opens Experiment In Citizenship For 837 At E. Lansing

Two young Plymouth high school graduates received signal honors this week when they were elected to administrative positions in the make-believe state government of the Wolverine Boys' State held on the campus of Michigan State college, East Lansing.

The two are Marvin Hauk son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hauk, and Robert Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Brown. They were among 837 young Michigan men who, registered for the American Legion's experiment in training youth in the machinery of democracy.

Hauk was elected to the position of justice of the Supreme Court in the mythical government and Brown was elected as a state representative.

The two youths were taken to East Lansing by Mr. and Mrs. Harold Anderson and Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Guthrie. Mr. Anderson was chairman of the Legion committee to obtain an opportunity for the two youths to take part in the Boys' State.

HEADS MUSICIANS

Guild Of Church Musicians Elects Plymouth Woman

Miss Nellie Beatrice Huger, formerly of Plymouth, this week became president of the Executive Board of the Guild of Church Musicians, which is affiliated with the Detroit Council of Churches.

Widely known in Michigan, Miss Huger has held important posts in church music circles for several years. She now is choir director of the East Grand Blvd. Methodist church.

She also is head of the department of sacred music of the Detroit Institute of Musical Art, director of the summer school of sacred music at Walden Woods, is in charge of the same department at Alma College, St. Thomas, Ontario, and has been state chairman of Church Musicians of the Michigan Federation of Music Clubs for the last eight years.

Miss Huger is the sister of Mrs. Earl Fluelling, of Plymouth.

Livonia Township Gets Separate Dial Exchange

Residents of the Livonia and Rosedale Gardens community along the Plymouth, Farmington and Five-Mile roads now are making telephone calls to one another and to points outside of the district through their own telephone exchange, known as "Livonia."

The new $70,000 Livonia dial telephone exchange of the Michigan Bell telephone company was placed in service June 14 with approximately 150 telephones connected with its central office switching equipment at 11400 Merriman road.

Customers of the company residing or doing business in the 22 square miles comprising the exchange area, formerly were served principally from the Plymouth and Farmington exchanges, with a few lines connected with the Redford central office of the Detroit exchange.

The change over to the new dial system was made without ceremony and took only a brief moment, following months of engineering, installation of equipment, and rebuilding of the out-dial telephone plant throughout the district. Telephone users in the exchange were instructed in the use of the dial telephone at the time the new instruments were installed.

Coincidental with the crossover to the dial system, the Bell company placed in use a new Livonia telephone directory, a copy being delivered to each customer. J. R. MacLachlan, of Plymouth, manager for the company in this area, suggests that, in the interests of the most accurate service possible, all old telephone lists be discarded and that only the new directory be referred to when making calls.

Calls to obtain information with respect to Livonia or Plymouth telephone numbers, and to the telephone business office or the telephone repair department, are made by dialing "7." Connections with time-of-day service, Detroit or Farmington information, and telephone at all points outside of the Livonia-Plymouth exchanges, are made by an operator, who can be reached by dialing "0." Bills for telephone service can be paid at the Watts' Drug store, 32101 Plymouth road, MacLachlan states.

Dramatic Sunrise Services Will Be Held In Plymouth On July 17 In Commemoration City's First Church

Perfect Weather Aids Annual G.A.R. Picnic

The annual picnic of Sarah Ann Cochrane chapter, D.A.R., took place on Monday at the home of Mrs. E. J. Cutler on Ridge road. Tables were arranged under the tall maples on the lawn and all enjoyed a delightful pot-luck dinner.

As the weather was perfect, the meeting and part of the program were held in the same place immediately after the dinner. Mrs. Eaton's flag program was very interesting and informative.

Mrs. Cutler read a short original poem entitled, "Our Home Among the Trees," and Mrs. Audrey DeWitt gave a very interesting and enlightening talk on the Michigan Department of Conservation, followed by a motion picture travogue of Michigan, which was presented in the recreation room.

Kicked By Horse, Farmhand Dies Of His Injuries

Unconscious Two Days After Accident At King Farm

Kicked by a horse last Sunday, John Capusta, 45 years old, of Plymouth, died of his injuries Tuesday night without regaining consciousness at St. Joseph's Mercy Hospital, Ann Arbor.

Mr. Capusta suffered a fractured skull and other head injuries. He was taken to Plymouth hospital about noon Sunday, but became so violent in spite of being unconscious that it was thought best to remove him to Ann Arbor.

Delbert King, of Beck Road, on whose farm Capusta was employed, said that he was planning to have the horse shod and that Capusta volunteered to trim the hoofs although he had been warned that the animal was very nervous.

Mr. Capusta, who had been working for him about a month and a half, Mr. King said, thought he could do the job and started to work. Apparently the horse sidled about, then reared, and Mr. Capusta fell under the animal in the stall.

He never regained consciousness, although he talked incoherently of Caro, Michigan, where the Wayne County sheriff believed that he had a sister, Anna.

Northville Plans July 4th Program

A big program is planned at the Northville fair grounds for the hundreds who are expected for a huge Fourth of July celebration.

Horse races, baseball, vaudeville and fireworks will make up the ambitious schedule, to which the whole family is invited. The program will open at 1:30 p.m. A baseball game will be staged between Northville and Hagerly which is expected to draw a large crowd of rooters for both teams. At the same time, horse races with $100 purses each in three events are scheduled.

The first race will be a 2:28 pace and 2:25 trot. The second race will be a 2:22 pace and 18 trot. The third race will be a tree-for-all trot or pace which is open to all classes. There will be no entrance fee for the races, officials said.

In the evening there will be a program of eight big vaudeville acts in addition to a big display of fireworks.

Northville And City Choirs To Take Part In Dawn Rites

Impressive sunrise services will mark the 15th anniversary of the founding of the first church in Plymouth and the celebration of the city's 110th birthday, Sunday, July 17.

The services will be the first of their kind to be held in the history of Plymouth. The rites nonsectarian will be sponsored by the Civic Committee, a group organized through the city's service clubs and the Chamber of Commerce.

The unusual celebration is expected to attract crowds of spectators from Plymouth, Northville, Detroit, Ann Arbor, Farmington, Roseville and other nearby communities. Invitations will be mailed to many.

James Latture, general chairman of the services, said that the joint choir of the Plymouth and Northville churches would participate, assuring at least 100 voices for the dramatic festival.

The services are tentatively scheduled to be held at 5 a.m. on the north end of the football field, on a hill facing to the east. There will be community singing of widely known and well loved old hymns.

An effort also is being made to obtain the services of the Salvation Army Band of Detroit for the program. Mr. Latture said that the program was expected to be completed next week.

Success is predicted for this venture of the Civic Committee in view of the response made by Plymouth to the Hobby Show, which also was a Civic Committee project.

Other members of the committee who are assisting Latture are Mrs. M. J. O'Connor, who is making arrangements for the choir and music; Sterling Eaton, in charge of publicity; Mrs. Vaughan Smith and Mrs. William E. Vanderveen.

Deadline Is Near For Dog Licenses

Only one week remains in which Plymouth dog owners can apply for licenses for their animals without paying a penalty, Chief of Police Vaughan Smith announced this week.

He also said that several dogs found roaming the streets in violation of the county quarantine had been shot. Several other animals had been sighted at large, he said, and would be shot soon unless they were confined to the owners' premises.

Chief Smith pointed out that dog license fees are only $1 for any animal now as compared to rates four times as high several years ago.

After July 1, however, a penalty fee of 50 cents will be added to the license cost. Residents are advised to get licenses this week and avoid a fine.

A total of 78 licenses have been applied for out of a total population of about 400 dogs in Plymouth.

After July 1, he said, a complete canvass of the town will be made to determine how many dogs there are in the city limits and how many have not been licensed.

In another week, also, the city dog quarantine will go into effect, with the same restrictions as under the county quarantine. This city ban will be in effect throughout July and August. Whether the county quarantine will still be in effect at the end of this period is not known.

Union Church Services Scheduled For Summer

Union church services will be held this year during July and August at 10:30 a.m. All who are interested are asked to notice the hour of the worship service.

The first of these union gatherings will be held in the Presbyterian church July 3. The Rev. S. S. Closson of the Methodist church, will preach and the choir of the Methodist church will lead the service of praise.

This arrangement will continue for at least three weeks. Announcement as to arrangements for the following weeks will be made later.

BELLE COVERT PUPILS ASSOCIATION

Members of the Belle Covert Pupils association will have a basket picnic and reunion on Saturday, June 25, in Cass Benton park, Northville. Meet at 1 p.m. Those who are unable to come for dinner are asked to come some time during the afternoon or send greetings to "Miss Covert." Many who have never attended before are planning to do so this year.

HOW YOU CAN HELP.

The Plymouth Mail believes that business is going to be better. There is no reason why it should drag along as it has, for many more months. There is too much at stake in the country for the nation to let the downward trend continue for long. It is our belief that we have reached the bottom of probably the worst depression the country has ever known, when more people have been placed in distress than ever before.

There are ways for all of us to help make things better. Might The Plymouth Mail suggest just one little thing that will help much more than any one realize.

Local business men have, for nearly a year, carried on their books, accounts of hundreds of good people of Plymouth. The business men know that the income from jobs, the farms and gardens hasn't been much. For that reason they have been willing to help carry the burden of the community.

But now the breaking point has about been reached. Their bills to the wholesale houses and the distributors must be paid. Some of the merchants have borrowed money to pay their debts.

Times are tough, there is no question about it—but if those who are indebted to some of our business men only realized how much even a small payment would help out, an immediate effort would be made to settle some of these hundreds of accounts.

Payments of debts would not only be of untold assistance to the merchants, but these are the things that all go to help in starting up idle factories and putting men and women back to work.

Let's try and see if all of us cannot do something this week and next week to help relieve the debt burden many of our good business men are finding it so difficult to carry on. It will help them, it will help you and it will help everybody.

WORDS OF WISDOM

Down through all the ages the old men of the tribes and nations that have inhabited the world have been regarded as the wise men, the leaders and the counsellors of the tribes and nations to which they belonged.

In the last three or four years there has been a lot of gabbling about the "old fossils" who have, down through the years, grown rich in knowledge and wisdom. A group of chattering ninnies has tried to create in the minds of the people that "nine old men", and all the other old men and women are senseless and brainless, and that their days of usefulness are over.

But the public has demonstrated that it has more sense than to believe these foolish assertions, and more than once it has been clearly proven that the vast majority of the good people of the nation is still thinking straight.

Hon. Chase S. Osborn is probably the oldest, active Republican in Michigan. He has gone many years beyond the three score and ten allotted to man.

The other day he wrote a letter to the Republican National committee. The committee, in recent months, has been asking for suggestions as to how its future course should be charted.

Of all the suggestions that have come to the attention of the public, Mr. Osborn's letter probably contains more good advice, more sound wisdom, than any other that has come to the attention of the public.

It contains an understanding knowledge of the needs and desires of the people—the most important of which is HONESTY, declares this great sage of the Republican party.

His letter follows in full: It is reported in daily papers that the Chicago office of the Republican party requests opinions from Republicans over the country who may be inclined to give them. These contributions are for the purpose of getting at some method of rescuing the party and replacing it where it ought to be as a great force for government. One of the things that is necessary at this time, if the Republican party is going to be restored is to find out what mistakes it has made and avoid them in the future.

When the Republican party was first organized it had for its purpose the abolishment of Negro slavery. It is a party of freedom. In the years that followed the War of '61-'65, the party grew to tremendous and powerful proportions. Naturally, it attracted not only good people but those who wished to use the party for selfish purposes. Finally it had come to be top-heavy with undesirables of every description, all of them bad and some worse. There was a psychological revision on the part of the country. People calling themselves Progressives sprang up everywhere. Theodore Roosevelt was regarded as a leader. He was tricked out of the nomination for President at a notorious Chicago convention by methods familiar only to political racketeers. Mr. Taft, as good a man as ever lived, won the nomination. He did not really know how it all happened. Especially he was not aware of those who were using him. Something in the air that causes people to vote mass-like if not mob-like defeated him.

In the latest campaign, as good a man as Mr. Taft or any person anywhere, in the person of Alf M. Landon, was named. It looked as if he could be elected. He had heart and human feeling and a good record in every way.

John Hamilton, who had been a political competitor of Mr. Landon, was made chairman of the National Republican committee. It was a great mistake. Mr. Hamilton knew nothing about the modern demands of the masses. Against the advice of many of Mr. Landon's warmest and sanest friends, Mr. Hamilton sold him out to the fat boys. Just about the only weakness that Mr. Landon manifested was his consent to the Hamilton policy.

During the campaign, when Mr. Landon arrived anywhere he was taken charge of by the unpopular element of his party. In Detroit he saw almost nobody except a few rich and powerful individuals. His meeting was held out in a cold ball park at night, remote from the center of things. In contrast to this, when Franklin Roosevelt visited Detroit he had his meetings in the heart of life and met the people.

The Republican party was born because of the demands of black freedom. If it is ever reborn it must address itself to the cause of human freedom, both white and black. In the first instance, there was a subtle principle and sentiment that motivated the people. The requirement today is for the reawakening of such a sense.

Negro slavery was really an economic question. There were only three million black people in the entire country at that time. There are now 12 or 14 millions. With that great growth, the whites have even increased more rapidly. Today there are more than 100 millions Caucasians. Fully half of these think they are in economic slavery. It does not make any difference whether they are or not. They think so. The task of the Republican party is to cause them to think differently. They must unthink their present thoughts and change them.

That cannot be done mechanically. There must be leadership on the part of men and women who are actually heartfully and soundly for justice to human beings. This requires a selection of candidates that the people can mass like and have confidence in. I do not know where to turn for such a man.

La Guardia has something that the masses desire, in addition to unusual political acumen.

In the old days when the Republican party had real political sense, it nominated heroes of the war for President. Maybe it shall have to search for a hero to lead at the present time. There are many who have the name of Thomas E. Dewey in mind. He is a war hero, because his dangerous conflict in New York assumed the character of a real war. He is not too young to be President. He has more ability than a good many Presidents we have had in the past. I am not especially advocating Tom Dewey, although I like him and regard him as a growing man of unusual possibilities.

William Allen White may be too old? His sentiments are exactly those that are needed. He tried to keep Alf Landon straight but John Hamilton rode him down. If I were managing the Republican party, I would seek the advice of William Allen White before that of the encyclopedic academician Glenn Frank. Dr. Frank is all right in his place but he knows almost as little about politics as a toddling infant. In fact, he is a toddler in the position he occupies in the Republican set-up today.

Kenneth F. Simpson, of New York City, who managed the La Guardia campaign, would be ideal for National chairman.

The search today should be for a strong, clean, human leader who will run upon a modern platform of justice to the underdog, and whose character is sufficient to invite confidence.

The Republican party must turn over a new leaf and become more sanely and honestly and heartfully a friend of the masses than the incompetent Democrats have ever thought of being. It must be so honest that the objective is not first for office but for the good that it can do.

I do not know whether the Chicago Republican bund want such suggestions as I have outlined or not.

RAMBLING with Editors AROUND of Michigan

BUSINESS MEN IN CONGRESS

Raymond Foley, one time White House brain-truster, thinks that the present congress is made up of "Charlie McCarthy" congressmen. He urges businessmen who represent one-third of the nation's population to elect a recovery congress. He also states that labor is slowly discovering that government can not destroy business without destroying labor. "Business deserves an honored place in the councils of both parties if those parties are really to represent the collective interests of democracy and not the political equivalent of class war," he said—William Cansfield in The Livingston County Press.

MICHIGAN NEEDS

More tax-money? No. More Lansing bureaus? No. More government jobs? No.

Michigan needs to control the tax money she already raises to take care of Michigan's wants. That means the money she raises for control in Lansing and ALSO the millions she raises for federal expenditures. Of these latter millions, only 37 cents on each dollar is returned to Michigan.

What happens to the rest? Well, how does our federal government pour millions into such rat-holes as Quoddy Dam or the Florida Ship Canal, or build model government villages (Too costly for the poor to afford)? They do it partly with Michigan money. They take millions and give little in return. In addition, they tax the profits out of business so that even business cannot employ men.

For Quoddy Dam—Michigan fathers go without jobs! For the Florida Ship Canal—Michigan mothers have scarcely enough money for food and shelter, little for clothes and other necessities.

For Greenbelt and Norrisstown (Model villages)—Michigan taxpayers furnish ideal homes for others, when many of these taxpayers cannot afford a home of their own.

Michigan needs to give the lie to the "great social-minded leaders" who rant and rave about helping the poor—but who care

ROOM FOR PLENTY OF IMPROVEMENT

There is so much that is fundamentally decent in human beings that we often wonder why the Hollywood producers fail to give movie goers better pictures, and more of them. Perhaps the answer lies in the supposition that those who write for the movies haven't enough ideas of decency to sustain an output of decency in pictures. The fact that, from time to time, a number of really decent films have been released suggests, perhaps, that some day Hollywood will live up to its social obligation to make the movies not only entertaining, but more uplifting.—George Averill in The Birmingham Eccentric.

WHY NOT NAME THEM?

Governor Frank Murphy in a talk at Kalamazoo berated those who are asking for government retrenchment and some move toward a balanced budget. He made the point that the people came first; that those asking for economy were unmindful of misery and wished to starve people into submission.

As a matter of fact those arguing that more attention be paid to sound government management believe that so long as mounting deficits are ignored, large and small will be discouraged from undertaking any expansion programs or increased activity which will help to relieve the present unemployment; that so long as a sound fiscal policy is ignored that thousands of persons can look forward to nothing but an unsatisfactory existence on the welfare rolls.

It would be perfectly safe to challenge the governor or anyone else to name twelve people in this state who are sufficiently inhuman to take pleasure in seeing the spirit of people broken through starvation.

If such people do exist, the governor would be doing the state a valuable service by turning the spotlight of publicity on them.—Dick Cook in The Hastings Banner.

"MURPHY TO THE RESCUE"

But weep no more, my brother. The governor is going to fix things up. I am confident brighter days are ahead he tells us, just as he told us last year that he had the industrial situation well in hand and the CIO's were going to behave.

Come to think about it, the governor was telling us two years ago that many blessings were going to descend upon us if those Republican rascals were driven out of the statehouse. And yet he admits at Saginaw that one out of five Michigan residents are now receiving relief of some kind and that the state's welfare fund has jumped up to 16 million dollars, twice what he planned on.

Never mind the deficits or the taxes; forget an eight-million increase in state payrolls; overlook that 16-million dollar welfare bill; let the sit-down slide off into the limbo of forgotten things; ignore the mobs and the anarchy that rolled over Michigan a year ago—pay no attention to these "insolvent" Republicans who were lools

Ford Show Will Tour State

The Ford Traveling show, a combination entertainment and motor-car salon on wheels, has begun a statewide tour which will take it to more than 40 important towns and cities in Michigan, according to a Ford Motor company announcement.

Opening at Mt. Clemens, the Ford entertainment cavalcade will visit Flint, Pontiac, Lapeer, Alma, Saginaw, Bay City, Port Huron, Bad Axe, Midland, Mt. Pleasant, Richmond, Sandusky, Caro, Owosso, St. Johns and 20 or more other cities before its tour ends late in August. Persons in all parts of the state will have a chance to inspect latest Lincoln-Zephyr models and new Ford V-8 passenger cars and trucks just off the Rouge plant assembly line. It will be the first extensive showing of the important new Ford cab-over-engine truck which has just been announced.

The Ford show's stop at each point on its itinerary will be featured by an entertainment by a group of singers and comedians and a special program of sound motion pictures. The display of new cars and trucks will be open to the public before and after the entertainment.

Besides the more than 35 display units in the Ford traveling show, there will be a large 24-foot truck, equipped to show motion pictures, which will also provide a stage for the entertainment acts. Another special truck will carry generating equipment to supply all electric power required for the show. Still other trucks will carry several tons of decorations and lighting effects which will be set up at the show site in each city.

During 1935, Canada spent $19,930,000 in the paving of streets and highways.

A London dispatch reports the Duke of Windsor has a fortune of 4 1/2 million, while the King, not the state, allows him $125,000 a year spending money.

Rear Admiral David Foote Sellers recently signed a number of Diplomas as head of the Annapolis Naval Academy. One proved to be a degree of Bachelor of Science for himself.

enough to pay their bills and leave something in the treasury—forget the whole thing, lads, for the governor won't let you down and, as Westbrook Pegler says, come hell, high water or halitosis, you're going to be saved.—Stanley Banyon in The Benton Harbor News-Palladium.

HOW IT HAS WORKED OUT.

Justice works in Eaton Rapids. According to the Charlotte Republican-Tribune, the man who pulled the switch to start the Horner Brothers woolen mills strike is now drawing $43.50 a month as a WPA worker. When he was on the Horner payroll he earned $50 a week. The last we heard, the Horner mill was still closed.—Al Weber in The Cheboygan Observer.

CIVIL SERVICE IS DONE

Civil service is done. Forced on the bourbon type democrats, the west coast director of the law, brought here to start the program, is having a rough sea with its unsympathetic sponsors. It is perfectly obvious, even now, that the republicans are not going to give their blessing to these bulging democratic departments. With the democrats indifferent and the republicans more so you know the answer. Personally we would like to see the theory of the law have a chance but it just isn't in the cards at this time.—Muri DeFoe in The Charlotte Republican-Tribune.

SHOES for the BABY

Man is born bare-foot! In many remote places, the entire population goes bare-foot all its life. In civilization, we put on shoes early. Why? It simplifies our getting around. It is doubtful if a boy or girl, living under modern circumstances could achieve anything like social or economic success without shoes. We have come to take shoes for granted, putting them on babies as soon as they begin to crawl. Shoes, then are an accepted accompaniment of civilized life. They are a requirement of the changed conditions in which we (in contrast to savages) live. Why then do we find such a hullabaloo about the putting of optical lenses on children? Are not the circumstances similar? Primitive man needed neither shoes nor lenses corrections. His seeing was done at far distant points. When it was dark he went to sleep. Man-kind has moved in ours! Our visual tasks are now close to us. Books, papers, machinery, tools; all the implements of making and enjoying a living are used at what we optometrists call the "near point" which means 12 to 18 inches from your eyes. The same rule holds for children—desk work, school books and laboratory experiments are close to them. If you don't bemoan putting shoes on the feet of your children, why should you not accept lenses for their eyes when such help may be an even greater blessing?

A budget plan of easy payments is available for those who desire to take advantage of it.

Consumers Power Wins National Award For Rural Electrification Progress

Leads Nation In Giving Farmers Electric Service

Consumers Power company of Michigan was honored today by the Thomas W. Martin Award of the Edison Electric Institute, won in competition with all other utility companies of the United States through the most outstanding contribution to rural electrification during 1937.

The award was presented last Wednesday night at a banquet at Atlantic City, forming the climax of the annual E.E.I. convention, attended by hundreds of utility officials from all parts of the country. H. J. Gallagher, farm service supervisor, accepted in behalf of the company. Dan E. Karn, vice president and general manager, also was present. The bronze plaque symbolizing the award will hang in the Consumers' general offices in Jackson, Michigan.

Working under a plan developed in cooperation with Michigan State college, the Michigan State Farm bureau, the Michigan State Grange and other agencies. Consumers for several years has been one of the leading companies of the United States in mileage of rural line constructed.

At the end of 1937, it had 10,700 miles of rural electric lines, distributed through 48 lower peninsula counties. Rural customers numbered more than 80,000, of whom 41,307 were farm customers.

The award was conferred, however, not for mere volume of construction but for the company's general contribution to the cause of rural electrification. Consideration was given by the judges to the advancement of agriculture within Consumers power territory effected through use of electricity for a wide range of household and productive purposes. The fact that the average farm customer in Consumers territory used 1,079 kilowatt-hours of electricity in 1937, as compared with only 440 in 1937, was taken into account, along with the sharp drop in average rate which accompanied this growth of use. In 1937, the average Consumers farm customer paid 9.34 cents per kilowatt-hour for his energy, but by the end of 1937, the figure had dropped to 1.27 cents—one of the lowest average rates in the country.

Also considered were the company's rural electrification plan, which provides free construction when customers along a proposed extension average five to the mile, and the development of a rural service organization which supplies free counsel on electrical problems of farm customers.

Judges in behalf of the Edison Electric Institute were George W. Kable, editor of "Electricity on the Farm," Dr. E. A. White, director of the National Committee on the Relation of Electricity to Agriculture, and Philip S. Rose, editor of "The Country Gentleman."

In accepting the award, Gallagher, who promoted establishment of the famed Mason-Dansville rural experimental line by Consumers and cooperating agencies 11 years ago, when he was a member of the Michigan State college faculty, said the company's accomplishments had been made possible by cooperation.

"No company working alone could have hoped to accomplish much," he said. "Michigan farmers wanted electricity, and through their Michigan State college, their farm organizations and their various representatives they have helped develop a plan under which it can be provided on a sound, dependable and inexpensive basis."

As of the end of April, 56.5 percent of the occupied farms in Consumers territory had been electrified. I doubt that any comparable area in America can match that record. But the job is not yet done. Consumers will continue to work with Michigan's farmers for new records of achievement.

Livonia Township Dial Exchange

Mr. Elliott also pointed out that although the budget allotments for garbage and refuse collections indicated an expense almost double that of last year, in reality the same amount was spent last year as is allowed for this year.

In this case, he said, the city found after budgeting for garbage collection that there was a demand for refuse collection and for increased service which necessitated a greater expenditure. This increased cost could not be entered in the budget which already had been completed, so it was met from the general fund.

He also cited the fact that although there was an apparent increase in budgeted city expenditures Plymouth had managed in the face of increased welfare and other emergency costs to lower the tax rate from $13.50 to $13.30 a thousand dollars of assessed valuation.

Mr. Elliott further pointed out that the actual increase in expenses by the city which are paid for by taxes amounted to only $864.13, and this was largely due to an increased sum required for welfare.

The city budget expenses which are paid with tax money assessed in the city totals $70,464.86 as compared with $69,800.73 budgeted on the same basis for last year, he said.

Program Of Recreation

Of great interest are the art and handicraft projects embracing pencil drawing, oil and water-color painting, clay modeling, leatherworking, woodworking, basket weaving and yarn weaving; hikes, sightseeing and nature study trips, the municipal band, open to anyone interested, and the soccer program.

The schedule this year is intended to provide a well-rounded program of recreation for all. In addition to offering the children safe supervised places to play during the summer vacation it provides an organized program for adults. Headquarters are at the Central school building.

The first section of the Women's Club program will be devoted to hiking, which will include nature study, hikes, campfire supper hikes, geological and historical jaunts.

One of the first of these hikes is planned for Monday when young people between 12 and 16 years old will meet at the City Hall at 3 p. m. Bring your supper and be prepared for a real hike, Miss Hadley said.

Wednesday there will be a nature study hike for anyone over 15 years old. This group will leave the City Hall at 3 p. m. and will take part in a picnic supper. Such hikes will be held throughout the summer.

The second activity is a girls' club for girls 11 to 14 years old who are organized under the name of "Jays." The girls meet each Tuesday night at the city hall and enjoy hiking, picnics, games and dancing. Instruction will be offered in swimming at splash parties planned for them.

As a third attraction during the summer it is planned that the recreation room will be open each Friday and Saturday night for pool, ping and dancing. These social sessions will be free to all young people, many of whom already have made the room their headquarters for gatherings. The room will be open from 7:30 to 10:30 p. m. and dance music will be provided by radio, piano and victrola.

The fourth section of the program will be the continuation of story hours at 9 a. m. Saturday mornings. Children from 8 to 10 years old will enjoy an hour of games and stories at this time and children from 5 to 7 years old will be entertained for an hour beginning at 10 a. m.

This period has proved very enjoyable to the children in the past and parents are urged to have their children attend this session.

'38 City Expenses Are No Higher

Transfer of credits and expenses from one fund to another is primarily responsible for the apparent increase in budget figures from $36,340.23 last year to $89,971.85 this year, the city manager said.

Mr. Elliott cited another example of a larger budget figure where costs have not been increased.

"The equipment fund budget allotment," he said, "shows an increase over last year which is misleading because all equipment expenses have been transferred into this one fund so that the city may keep a check on where the money goes in detail and keep and replacement of machinery.

These equipment expenses

Perfection Leads Second Section

Adam Panosonia pitched four-hit ball to gain his second victory of the season. He didn't allow a hit until the fifth inning. The victory broke a four game losing streak and lifted Perfection Laundry from sixth to fifth place in the Inter-County League.

C. Towshak showed the boys how to hit the old apple by collecting five for five. He had a home run and four singles for a perfect day. His home run came in the ninth inning with Taylor on first base.

E. Ellis and W. Hoppe who were released by Inkster had enough power in their bats to help defeat their old team mates. Ellis caught a very good game while Hoppe held down the hot corner.

Next Sunday at Plymouth Riverside the local laundry boys meet the Hamtramck team at 3 p. m.

This was the night set for the public hearing for a paved street, to be called aggregate on Church Street between Main and Harvey streets. Several interested parties were present and voiced their opinion in favor of a concrete pavement. It was decided to lay the matter on the table until a special meeting of the City Commission when more information could be secured.

This was the night set for the public hearing for the construction of a curb and gutter on Spring Street. The School Board voiced an opinion that it would be impossible for them to deed or lease the necessary land to the City.

It was decided to refer the matter back to the City Manager in order that a new plan could be prepared.

The following reports were read by the Clerk—Municipal Court City Ordinance Cases, February 1 to May 31, 1938 and Civil Cases from April 1 to May 31, 1938.

It was moved by Comm. Wilson and supported by Comm. Robinson that these reports be accepted and placed on file. Carried.

The City Manager reported that Mrs. Mildred Higgins had given the City a large flag. It was moved by Comm. Robinson and supported by Comm. Whipple that this gift be accepted with thanks. Carried.

A communication was received from Wilbur H. Johnston, Welfare Administrator, stating that the City of Plymouth now owed to the Welfare $4,633.68.

It was moved by Comm. Whipple and supported by Comm. Wilson that this report be received and placed on file. Carried.

The City Manager reported that the W.P.A. project for sewer taps on Mill St. had been approved.

The following resolution was offered by Comm. Whipple and supported by Comm. Blunk:

WHEREAS, the City Commission declares it a necessity to construct sewer taps on Mill Street between Plymouth Road and Ann Arbor Trail;

WHEREAS, the plans, profile and estimates covering the proposed improvement have been duly accepted and are now on

Commencement Addresses Of High School Senior Class Honor Students

Miss Doris Schmidt Presents The Salutatory and Miss Ruth Pennell The Valedictory

Following are the addresses given at the 1938 high school commencement exercises by the two high school senior class honor students.

we were unwilling to pay for the education of others. They failed to realize then that today's high school student is tomorrow's American citizen. Ignorance breeds despotism, but education will bring forth citizens who will benefit their community, their state, and their nation.

What subjects did you study in school? Many of you will recollect that your educational training was based almost entirely on the three "R's". You all remember that well-known song: "Readin', and writin', and rithin'."

Taught to the tune of the hick'ry stick."

These seemed to be the main teachings of our grandparents and even our parents' day. It has been only through a gradual change that our high schools in this state, where they cover large fields of various training. We Americans have recognized education to mean more than a composition of bare facts and elements of book-learning. Rather, a preparation of life itself has gained its well-earned place in American high schools. From "factories-of-facts", they have evolved into stepping-stones toward the goal of well-shaped characters.

Any one can learn to live, any one can learn to make a living, but how happy every one would be if he could learn to make life worth while! That is the purpose of the present high school—to teach pupils not only to make a living, but also to make living worth-while.

In this restless and ever-changing world we are all dependent on each other, disease and economic troubles, disease and crime show us that not mere book learning can solve our problems. We must learn to get along with one another, to live together, and to show the right attitude toward crises which arise. We have seen the need for broadening the school's teaching, and it covers a great scope. The building of strong characters, developing worthy members of society, and molding good American citizens.

I have been a member of the Girl Reserves during my four years of high school. In this club I was introduced to high Christian ideals—ideals which will stay with me the rest of my life. I learned, too, to get along with other girls—we worked together on many committees. We shared responsibilities, and we shared many good times, too. This was not merely a club to use up our leisure time. It gave us something to think about, something to do, and a firm framework around which we could mold our characters. Our other high school clubs have also worked toward personal development; we learned through art, music, and drama an appreciation and a keener understanding of the fine arts. It is true that during a nation's leisure time, its civilization is either developed or depleted, according to the preparation of society. We seniors have recognized the preparation because of our training in high school.

Did you ever see a thriving nation whose citizens were all physical weaklings? You never did, and you never shall, for a nation, in order to remain self-ruling must, as well as being mentally alert, be physically fit. Our physical training for this reason is strenuous, but health is not the only purpose in providing sports for the students. We learn cooperation through sports, and above this, we learn the correct attitude to take when we win, and when we lose. After a hard-fought game or problem in life, if we do lose, we should be able to say: "I tried my level best, but I'm glad if I had to lose, it was not because of my personal inefficiency, but because of the other person's superior ability."

Our training these four years has not been entirely social. We have struggled over geometry problems and history dates in an effort to gain scholastic attainment, too. Business training, vocational guidance, arts, and manual arts have recently been included in the school curriculum to provide practical knowledge for those interested in these fields. College preparatory courses are taught to students who will continue their schooling at universities or colleges. If after all this preparation in which we have participated, there is a deficiency in meeting life's problems, the blame rests entirely on us. But I know that all of us to show our appreciation will do our best to repay the investments you have made in providing us with this training.

Tonight, we bid farewell to our teachers, school mates, and school life. We have reached the commencement of our lives, and we are beginning. We are leaving school life tonight, and tomorrow we shall enter life's school. Bid us welcome you pupils of life—we, the Seniors of 1938 are joining you.

VALEDICTORY

By Ruth Pennell

We all consider for a little while as a race. When athletes are in training, they are subject to very strict rules. One must also conform to certain regulations in the race of life if he wishes to be successful. St. Paul says in his First Epistle to the Corinthian church, that everyone who is in a race runs, but only one receives the prize. We too should run in the race of life so that we may win. Everyone who tries to win is temperate in all things. The writer goes on to tell that the prizes for which these runners worked so hard were sometimes small, perishable articles, but that the rewards for which we strive in life's race are valuable and lasting and therefore worth our greatest effort. Sometimes a man puts all of his strength into a competition whose trophy was a mere branch of laurel. In the race of life, we strive for something really worthwhile, success in whatever line of work we choose. Surely all of us have some goal toward which we are working, some prize to win, some ambition to fulfill. For one it may be medicine, for another engineering, and for someone else home-making. Albert Edward Wiggin recently printed in his "Let's Explore Your Mind" column in the Detroit News a definition of success given him by S. W. Grafflin, revival song leader of the 1890's. He says, "What is Success? Success is the progressive achievement of a worthwhile objective, purpose, or goal that has in it no shame or regret for us or injury for another. The Apostle says that everyone in a race runs, but that only one receives the prize. Neither can each one fully accomplish what he has set out to do in life. But do you not think that one will be further ahead if, undaunted by all the odds against him, he will try to run so that he will win?"

We know how strict the Coach is with the boys on the football team. They must have a certain attitude toward sleep, conform to a strict diet, abstain entirely from alcohol and tobacco, do many other things that may seem a little hard or unpleasant in order to become successful football players. As it is with athletics, so it is with life. If one wishes to attain his goal, he must be temperate.

One sometimes links the idea of temperance with alcohol and other drugs, but it means more than this; it includes moderation in all things; in eating, in drinking, in playing, in working. The person who is careless of diet, who eats too much or too little, who overindulges in rich foods, who has irregular and unbalanced meals, is harming himself as surely as the one who takes other drugs, although not to such a marked degree. By so weakening his body and dulling his mind, he is lessening his chances for success.

Then, in order to be victorious in the race of life, one must be temperate in playing. Many a student has failed in school, because he has been too busy playing to study. When he should have been poring over a Latin book, he was out on the ball diamond. It takes much self-control to stay at one's work when others are having a good time, but excessive playing and late amusement hours impair a person's health so that he is unable to do the work necessary for success. About one hundred years ago there was a boy whose father gave him a thousand dollars when he started to college. This sum should have been enough to pay his expenses for the entire four years at that particular school, but by extravagant living and reckless companions the young man used up the whole thousand dollars before the first year was finished. At the end of this time he began to realize how foolish he had been, how little he had received from his year's training, and he decided that he would waste no more time about getting to work in earnest. It was not easy. Temptations were many, sometimes almost more than the boy's will-power could stand, but he set his goal and he succeeded in getting through and graduated with the highest honors in his class.

NEW RED CROSS CHAIRMAN

NORMAN H. DAVIS, newly appointed chairman of the American Red Cross, has assumed active direction of the nation-wide organization with headquarters in Washington, D. C.

He has represented the United States in this official capacity by appointment of Presidents Wilson, Hoover and Roosevelt. A native of Tennessee, he engaged in banking in Cuba as a young man and first came into active public service during the World War. He formerly made his home in New York but since assuming his new post with the Red Cross has bought an historic residence in Alexandria, Virginia, across the Potomac from the nation's capital.

Some years afterwards this boy became Governor of his state. A little later he was elected to the National House of Representatives, and then to the Senate. Finally he became Secretary of State in the President's Cabinet. The young man was William H. Seward who was responsible for the purchase in 1867 of Alaska, one of our most valuable possessions. There are some who, unlike Secretary of State Seward, never realize until too late that they are fiddling away their time. They play through life and never find time enough to work and be successful in any one type of work.

An exact opposite of the player is the grind who works and studies all of the time—day and night, Sundays and holidays. "No," he says, "I must do this book report for history" when someone asks him to play horse shoe or go to the show. He never takes time off for rest and recreation. Result? Strained eyes, shattered nerves, poor health because of lack of exercise. Do not mean that one should not work. He must labor hard and long to accomplish anything that is worthwhile; but we must remember that temperance is needed to win this race of life—temperance even in work.

It is not always easy to practice temperance and self-control in training for life's race. There are so many things along the way with which one would like to experiment. Wise is the person who learns early that it is easier to think oneself into right living than it is to live oneself into right thinking, that it is cheaper to profit by the experience of others than it is to try everything for oneself. Who has completed our training period in high school are almost ready to go out and run. Some of us are quite well prepared; others like Secretary of State Seward have made a bad start perhaps, but there should still be a little time to get into the right track. It is up to us now to strive with the best that is in us to win the prize of success which is our goal. Let us run that we may attain.

PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS

By Richard Gilles

Tonight in behalf of the Senior class, I want to bid you, our parents and teachers, farewell. Years which we have spent in Plymouth high school will never be forgotten. Mother and Dad we appreciate all you have done for us and we hope we prove worthy of your honor tonight. Some of us are doubtful of the future. None are sure of our destination. But before we set sail let us look ahead to the horizon where a new life awaits us. What stop for a moment and consider the sea into which we are plunging. Although the world looks dark and chances to succeed appear to be very slim—there is an opportunity for everyone who is ambitious—there is a chance for everyone to get ahead because our lives are what we make them. Many people, it is true, measure success in terms of money, but I believe that there are other ways to think of success because it has often been proved that the richest man in the world without friends is, indeed, very poor. I believe success can be measured by happiness, happiness which one gains from his family, from his friends, from being a good citizen and happiness one gains because he feels the joy of living. A person who feels these things in his own heart must certainly have gained some degree of success. As we are venturing forth into a new world, defeat seems to be staring us in the face—but classmates, these conditions can never be overcome by passive resistance; they can never be overcome by complaining or just standing by. Patrick Henry, in his famous oration, said "Why stand ye here idle?" a question which might well be applied to us—all many of us are complaining but few of us are doing anything about it. Allow me to illustrate.

Shortly after the Civil War, the negroes in the South were in a sad state of affairs. Freedom was something new to them, they were poorly informed and were not prepared for their new life. Economic, political and social conditions were depressing. But Booker T. Washington, the great negro leader, said to them in a speech: "Several years ago a ship was caught in a terrific storm off the coast of South America. The water supply was very low. So in distress they sent a message to the shore asking for aid for pure water to drink. Soon an answer to their message was received which read 'Cast down your buckets where you are'. Thinking the message was misunderstood they completely ignored it and again sent an S.O.S. ashore 'water, fresh water' and again the same answer was received: 'Cast down your buckets where you are'. Failing to find any significance in the report they stopped for a while. Meanwhile, aboard the boat, many people were dying of thirst; so in one last desperate effort they again sent a message to the shore. And again the same answer was received: 'Cast down your buckets where you are'. They again ignored this message and many people died of thirst—finally when the storm had subsided, the passengers of this small boat found themselves at the mouth of the Amazon river—where the coolest and purest water in the world is found. They had refused to cast down their buckets in a sea of pure water because they were blinded by the temporary storm." Tonight, we, as seniors, should take heed of this message and not ignore it as did those on the boat. Let us cast down our buckets where we are, even though we think the sea is rough, and the world holds no future for us. We should hold this state of unrest and dissatisfaction in the world today as a challenge—a challenge not to be ignored but one that we must meet! We students going out into the world hold the destiny of this nation in our hands. We, the class of 1938, are the economists of the future, the citizens, the voters. In short, we are the masters of our fate. Classmates, as your present leader I challenge you to cast down your buckets where you are. The world today is no worse than we believe it to be. It will be no better than we make it. Let us

Bright-Color Cannas Will Bloom In Kellogg Park In Middle Summer

Canna plants which will provide Plymouth with splashes of color this summer and early fall were transplanted into four beds in Kellogg park facing South Main street, this week. The flowers are being laid as part of a WPA project, and the work is being superintended by Harry Minthorn.

Two kinds of cannas were planted. One is the President variety, which is a bright red. The other, the King Hubert variety, is variegated red and yellow. The plants will bloom about the latter part of July and will continue in flower for about three months.

Minthorn, who has been a gardener for 30 years and formerly was employed on the Detroit Belle Isle gardens, said that the cannas originated in Africa. They are so common there, he added, that frequently they grow wild in such numbers that they interfere with farming.

When a field is heavy with the cannas, he said, the farmers turn pigs into the field so that they can root out the flowers and leave room for sowing of wheat or other grains.

In Africa the cannas grow so easily that the plant can be thrown away, yet produce its exotic bloom with a little encouragement as a little rain and the slight protection offered by even a piece of paper.

On the other hand, the flowers have to be given every care to insure their maturity in this country. Minthorn explained. They must be carefully nurtured before transplantation or they will die.

Minthorn, who believes that gardening is the world's greatest occupation, has made as extensive a study of the art as time and facilities allow. He has read every book on the subject, including profound technical works, that is available in the county library, he says, some of them many times, including one work on botany that he has perused 16 times. He has copied out nearly every word in several of the books that he has studied. When he had read every book on his profession that the county possessed, he said, he turned to the Detroit City Library and has made such strides there that there remain only about a dozen or so volumes on the subject that he has not read.

The diamond's supremacy in the gem world dates from the discovery of the so-called "brilliant" method of cutting, which reveals its full beauty.

According to a leading Vienna physician, who claims to have used it successfully in thousands of cases without a failure, honey is the best "cure" for wounds. Even burns and carbuncles succumb to a honey treatment, he says.

False Marijuana Leads To Scare Of Dope Peddling

Suspect Weed Found To Be Innocent In Detroit Analysis

Tons of marijuana, the weed that is used for narcotic cigarettes, were believed growing in and around Plymouth until a police investigation revealed that the weeds found, which bear a very close resemblance to marijuana, actually are "flowering roses."

Chief of Police Vaughan Smith enlisted the aid of Inspector Ed Kunath, of the Detroit police bureau of narcotics, last week when samples of the weed believed to be marijuana were brought to headquarters.

Inspector Kunath also believed that the weed actually was marijuana, but he had samples checked in the laboratories of the Parke, Davis Drug Co., Detroit. He said that the firm identified the weed as "flowering rose." A test to determine whether the Plymouth weed has narcotic properties has not been concluded.

Inspector Kunath and Chief Smith made an investigation of the countryside when they still believed that the weed was marijuana and estimated that tons of the "flowering rose" leaves, which in marijuana are dried and fashioned into cigars, are growing in and about Plymouth. Except for a minor detail in the point of growth of the leaf from the stem of the plant, the "flowering rose" answers exact descriptions and pictures of marijuana.

Marijuana, like the weed found in Plymouth also grows wild, although more frequently it is cultivated surreptitiously for harvest and sales as cigarettes, which drive the smokers temporarily insane.

The Michigan Association of Chiefs of Police this week issued a warning to all residents and police leaders in Michigan to be on the look-out for marijuana. The association described marijuana as growing wild to a height of about three to six feet. Cultivated, it will grow from 10 to 16 feet. The leaves, a dark green, taper with saw-tooth edge.

Oscar G. Olander, Michigan State Police commissioner, has promised co-operation of the State Police in all efforts to stamp out the deadly weed.

Although there have been no arrests of anyone who proved to have grown rich by selling marijuana cigarettes, the chances for profit are enormous and peddlers are cultivating the high school field throughout the nation in an effort to lead youngsters into cultivating the habit.

Kunath gives a few figures on the facts of marijuana cigarette sales. "A year ago hiking Boy Scouts uncovered a large field in Southern Michigan," he said. "These boys were responsible for confiscating about five tons of the stuff. Starting from the amount of marijuana in each cigarette sold on the open market, a little figuring shows some rather amazing results."

"The average cigarette contains four grains of marijuana. There are 480 grains to an ounce. That means that 120 cigarettes can be made from an ounce of weed, or 1,920 cigarettes from a pound.

"Continuing, we quickly arrive at the conclusion that 3,840,000 cigarettes can be produced from one ton of marijuana. The Scouts uncovered five tons and that meant a potential production of 19,200,000 cigarettes. At 15 cents each the profit would be $2,880,000."

Smoking marijuana causes varying reactions in individuals but it is generally conceded that it causes moral decay and character degeneration in everyone who uses them. Mixing drinking with the narcotic often develops a person into a cold-blooded killer, the police association says.

The evergreen forest of Siberia is the largest single mass of conifers in the world.

Marijuana - Nature's Curse

Plymouth And Other Small Cities Lauded By William Cameron

Ford Motor Official Points To Advantages Of Smaller American Cities Such As This One

In one of his recent radio addresses William J. Cameron of the Ford Motor company discussed "The Small Town." So accurate is his description of conditions today and so excellent is his portrayal of the advantages of smaller communities such as Plymouth, that The Mail is publishing the address in full for the benefit of its readers who may not have heard the address when delivered.

It follows: "The mayor of a certain city recently was making an address of welcome to a business convention. Said he: 'I hope your visit will be enjoyable, but don't stay too long—the longer you stay the harder it will be to leave, and we have enough people on the welfare now.'"

"It was all very charmingly said, but how different from the boasts of population and the pleas for more population that were common a few years ago. Do you remember the old rivalry between neighboring cities as to which could attract the greater number of citizens? Chambers of Commerce, far from campaigning for more residents now, send warning to other places. 'You are wiser to stay where you are. Ambitious smaller towns and cities are more cautious in inviting industries to settle amongst them: they don't encourage an influx of cheap labor, whom a shutdown will throw on public relief. Population as a liability rather than an asset, is a new phase of community opinion.

"Something has happened to our larger cities, also. Some of them have seen much of their last 25 years of population growth melt away; they view the loss with an equanimity that would astonish the town booster of other times. This is not entirely a depression phenomenon; it began when the automobile made suburban residence convenient to city employment. The depression, of course, added its quota, which was no small one. But probably the most powerful recent cause of people moving away is the rise and boldness of disorderly elements in commercial and industrial centers. These have preyed on peaceful life so ruthlessly that many who are not tied to the city by home ownership or steady occupation, have simply moved out. On the farms and in the towns from which they came, civilized and American conditions prevailed, and as these conditions still characterize the greater part of the United States, people are going where they exist. The swarming to the cities not only seems to have been checked, but actually reversed.

"As a matter of fact, 'we, the People of the United States,' since first we adopted that name for ourselves, have been a people of the farms and country towns. Even when it seemed that rural districts were being drained of people, that was where most of us lived, and most of us still live there. Only about 90 places in this country have 100,000 population, but more than 15,000 places have populations of 10,000 or less, and of these more than 13,000 places have populations of 2,500 or less. More than half our people live in the country, or in towns of less than 10,000. The big cities account for about 30 percent of our people. And, of course, in the changes that have recently occurred, the percentage of the national population on farms and in the smaller towns has risen, and that of the big cities has dropped.

"The small town is coming into its own—that is a bow of promise arching the sky of this nation's future. It always has been the source of the city's vitality. The majority of the best big city men were small town boys. A small town boy, imbued with small town principles, who doesn't succumb to the lie that all rules change on reaching the city, is a match for any situation to which his abilities present him. Now, days no one need go to the city for a career. Big things can be done in smaller places. Town and village are even coming to be preferred for many types of enterprise.

"The small town is still the custodian of undiluted American principles. It was the small town that today is bringing a recent threat to the American system. While yet the cities waited and debated, the small towns spoke, and what they said the nation soon affirmed. It is the small town manufacturer and business man who today are bringing a recent most to bear on that recurring comedy of errors—planned economy.

"As a place to live, the small town always had advantages, and now its disadvantages have largely passed away. Distance is made negligible by the motor car, isolation is abolished by the radio. The small town enjoys almost everything the city has except crowds, smoke and noise. You know your neighbor. Your children play in fresh air and safety. You have land to cultivate for family supply—a small town practice which people in large industrial centers are adopting; witness the thousands of private vegetable gardens around Dearborn. In the small town the consensus of responsibility determines the public tone. Excitements that sway the cities are dissipated before they touch the towns. Small town judgment may come slowly, but is worth waiting for, and it comes with weight and authority.

"If you would know the United States, look beyond the big cities. Most of our country is in the country. These 15,000 separate small communities adjoining the farms, each with its individuality, its centers of thought and opinion, are refreshing to think upon when the delusion rises that the booming tones of the cities are the voice of the United States."

The Hiram Walker distillery, Peoria, Ill., costing more than $9,000,000, is the largest distillery in the world.

Plymouth Athletes Set Impressive Record For Year

Two Championships Are Captured For District Honors

The Plymouth high school athletic season, recently passed into the books, will be remembered as one of the most impressive in the history of the institution. This conclusion was drawn after scanning the remarkably successful records of its various teams.

The tennis team, under the direction of Mr. Carvel Bentley, was almost invincible, winning 17 out of 18 matches. In doing this the boys became T.V.A.A. and Regional champions and went on to take runner-up position in the State Class B finals.

The football, basketball and baseball teams piled up a very handsome percentage with the meritorious aid of Coach Jacobi. The eleven won five, lost two, and tied one as Moe and DeLaurier won honorable mention on the All-State team.

The basketball team was victorious in 13 of 17 games played, and won the District and Regional championships before being stopped by Marshall in the state finals at Jackson.

The nine won 16 and lost five while Robert Hitt, ace pitcher, set a new record by fanning 101 in 13 games.

The track men had a tough season, winning only one of five meets, but Coach Ingram was consoled when this relay team placed second in the Wayne Relays.

The golfers, under the tutelage of Mr. Lynch, won four and lost five, but placed second in the T.V.A.A.

Such records as these are sure evidence that Plymouth high is keeping up its reputation for fine athletes and winning teams. Meanwhile a mark has been set which future years will find hard to beat.

Graduating Class Offers Projector

Commencement week at Plymouth high school has been marked by especially large crowds and beautiful weather.

Sunday night the auditorium was filled to enjoy the fine music by the Presbyterian choir and Edwin Campbell, soloist, and the timely message of the Rev. Walter Nichol, baccalaureate speaker.

Again, on Tuesday night, the auditorium was filled to listen to the Class Day program, which, by its very nature, consisting of the history, will, poem, prophecy and gittatory, contained many funny and intimate bits of facts and fiction about the class of 1938.

Outstanding was the singing of the Senior Glee Club and the president's address by Richard Gilles.

Mr. Gilles also presented from the Class of 1938, with the aid of money left by the Class of 1933, a fine motion picture machine for showing of educational pictures accompanied by sound. The making possible of such a fine machine through the co-operation of the two classes will be of inestimable benefit to the boys and girls in the succeeding high school classes.

Awarding of 101 diplomas and delivery of the commencement address by Dean W. W. Whitehouse, of Albion College, were scheduled Thursday night as the final program for Commencement Week.

Valley glaciers are streams of ice flowing from valleys and fed by catchbasins of snow at high altitudes. This type is the most numerous.

In the middle of the Nineteenth Century roads and bridges were built in Rockingham county, Virginia, with money derived from the sale of lottery tickets.

What's the Answer?

IN THE days when men fought with swords and had to be prepared to fight at any time they carried their swords with them constantly. When approaching a stranger a man had to extend his right hand in order to show that his approach was a friendly one. If the friendly feeling was reciprocated the other man grasped the hand of his acquaintance with his own right hand so that if he should change his mind he would be aware of it before the sword could be grasped. From this custom has come the meaning of our present day handshake, if one man refuses to shake hands with another it is interpreted to mean that there is enmity between them.

Why do people shake hands with the right hand?

To cut down the high cost of stop-and-go driving around town, Shell engineers have developed a way to "balance" gasoline.

By this balancing process the entire chemical structure of gasoline is rearranged. Actually it is made "digestible" for your motor, just as food is made digestible for you by cooking.

"Motor-digestible" is the best way to describe this gasoline.

Science Church Takes Stand for True American Freedom

Annual Meeting Held In Boston Recently

BOSTON—A warning to nations "whose governments have conceived largely in selfishness and brought forth a can force" was issued here at the annual meeting of The Christian Science Church of Boston, held in the St. Church of Christ, Scientist, Mother Church, by the Christian Science Board of Directors who declared the lessons of history show such governing bodies to be "of few days and full of trouble."

Reports disclosed continued with the Christian Science movement, increasingly higher standards for authorized period-

He succeeds Judge Clifford P. Smith of Newton, Massachusetts. Edward L. Ripley of Brookline and Ezra W. Palmer of Marshfield were re-elected as directors of the church respectively. The president is elected by the Christian Science board of directors to serve for one year. His duty is to be presiding officer at the annual meeting.

Mr. Knapp is a son of Ira O. Knapp and Flavia S. Knapp, two of the 12 called upon by Mrs. Eddy to reorganize the Christian Science church in September, 1892. When a young boy, Mr. Knapp and his mother were healed in Christian Science and through this healing the entire family became interested. He has served First Church of Christ, Scientist, Needham, Massachusetts, as reader, director and president. He is on the teaching faculty of Mechanic Arts (technical) High school in Boston.

Mr. Palmer, reading the statement from the directors, reported that The Mother Church has grown substantially in numbers during the past year; is united, harmonious, and without debt. Then continuing on the theme of world relations he read, in part:

"More important than all, however, is the marked success with which the healing ministry of Christian Science is being practiced throughout the world. It also indicates that the day is approaching when responsible heads of governments will see that undue reliance upon material means and methods to accomplish their ends inevitably results in failure and defeat. They will then realize that no nation is stronger than the moral fiber of its people, and that a nation can become truly great and permanently endure only to the extent that spiritual qualities are cultivated in the thoughts of its citizens and permitted freely to operate in the government of their lives."

The directors further called the attention of Christian Scientists to the responsibility they have in respect to upholding such fundamental issues of life as cultivation of good will and preservation of a system of government protecting the civil rights of its people and ensuring to them freedom of speech, of the press, and of religious worship.

"While we should not magnify error or become unduly alarmed by the present-day suggestions of war and disaster aggressively presented through many channels," it was declared, "we must be keenly alert not to allow a false sense of security to lull us to sleep and make us indifferent to situations of national and international character which, unless corrected, are destined to affect our interests as directly as if the scene of their action were within the bounds of our own community."

Mr. Palmer, delivering his own report as clerk, cited prayer as the practical means of stilling the tumult of the world. "The members of The Mother Church need to pray much," he said. "Prayer sanctifies thought and lifts one in conscious harmony with God."

The Hon. C. Augustus Norwood, manager of committees on publication, expressed the stand Christian Scientists should take on the question of medical regimentation.

"Medical regimentation," he declared, "appears well entrenched from the League of Nations down through national, state, county, and local health departments; and the public in general was never more apathetic with regard to it."

"This does not mean that the dominant school of medicine and Christian Science are lined up against each other, for many medical men are more ready than ever before to recognize the religion of Christian Science and its healing ministry."

"Our position as a strong one. We never interfere with the rights of others to enjoy whatever method of healing they may prefer; we ask simply that our right to rely on spiritual means for healing be not interfered with."

William W. Davis, executive supervisor of the charitable institutions, expressed gratitude for the many demonstrations of healing at the Christian Science sanatoriums.

The nursing staff at each of our sanatoriums," he informed the meeting, "includes well-trained, experienced executives. The nurses in training are supervised and taught to render valuable service both while at the sanatoriums and later in the field."

The report of The Christian Science Board of Lectureship, read by Richard J. Davis, chairman, told of 3211 lectures delivered during the past year. The lecture held at Baguio, in the Philippine Islands, was unique, he said, for in the audience there were about 60 native Igorots, one of whom introduced the lecturer, in Tasmania a lecture was broadcast for the first time.

Corollary passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 12): "In divine Science, where prayers are mental, all may avail themselves of God as a very present help in trouble. Takes New Post

George Ashley Tomlinson

George A. Tomlinson, Great Lakes vessel operator, of Cleveland, O., and onetime Michigan newspaper reporter and managing editor, has been elected Chairman of the Board of the Pere Marquette Railway, subsidiary of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway.

This marks the fourth railroad board chairmanship to which Tomlinson has been elected. He resigned recently as chairman of the Missouri Pacific, the New Orleans, Texas & Mexico and the International Great Northern railroads, in order to be able to give his attention and activities to the eastern railway field.

In addition to his Pere Marquette post, Mr. Tomlinson is President of the Albany Corporation, railroad holding company.

Born at Lapeer, Mich., Jan. 26, 1896, Tomlinson has lived a many-sided, adventurous career, starting as a cowhand on a Wyoming ranch after his expulsion from the Lapeer high school as the "Peck's bad boy" of the school.

After finishing a year's stint at cowpunching, Tomlinson covered the police beat for a Detroit newspaper. This newspaper was a competitor of the Detroit Journal, owned by Tomlinson's father. The son wanted to work out his newspaper career independently, without parental influence or favor.

Catching the circus fever during an appearance of "Buffalo Bill" and his troupe at Detroit, Tomlinson obtained a job with the show as a cowboy performer and stunt rider. But he soon tired of circus life and went to work under Dana on the New York Sun. Later, he became managing editor on the Detroit Times, a Scripps newspaper.

In 1922, Tomlinson went into business as a steel agent at Detroit, Mich. In 1921 he began operating a vessel of his own in the Lake service. This was the nucleus of the present Tomlinson Fleet, of which he is president. The Fleet comprises six-tween boats.

Fortright in speech and manner, Tomlinson is disarmingly frank regarding himself and his business activities. The door to his office in the Terminal Tower, Cleveland, is never closed to callers. His wife is the former Laura Davidson, daughter of the late Captain James Davidson, shipbuilder of Bay City, Mich.
