Longest Session Of Legislature In History Of State To End Sometime Saturday

Did Governor Play Dual Role In Connection With Proposed Civil Service Measure?

(By ELTON R. EATON)

The longest session of the state legislature will come to an end sometime Saturday. While the final adjournment date is set for today, Friday, June 25th, and the records will show that that was the date of adjournment, the work will not be finished until sometime Saturday. The clocks in legislative halls will be stopped before midnight Friday so that as far as the legislature knows, the midnight hour will not have been reached until sometime Saturday.

There is much that can be said about the legislative "jam" of the last few days. But it will be better to tell about it at a later date and after final action has been taken on all pending legislation by both the legislature and the governor.

What happened to the civil service bill is now generally pretty well known. Lansing newspaper correspondents have kept the public fairly well advised as to all the chicanery that has been played around this proposed piece of legislation.

It will be recalled that it was sponsored by the late Republican governor who was a product of the so-called "spoils" system of politics and who upon becoming governor, became annoyed at the practices of the system that proved his stepping stone to high places in political life.

Because of the public demand that had been created by newspapers and others who believe that adoption of civil service would be a good thing for the state, Governor Frank Murphy thought it necessary.

Coach Matheson Leaves Saturday For Detroit Post

Director of Athletics Resigns After Nine Years Here

Kenneth Matheson, athletic director at Plymouth high school for the past nine years, leaves Saturday to take a new post with the Detroit school system.

Coach Matheson's athletic teams during his period here have made a good record and Plymouth will miss him. He will act as assistant freshman football coach at Wayne University this fall where he plans to complete work on a master's degree. After his study is complete he will be assigned to one of the Detroit high schools.

Matheson graduated from a Detroit high school and then received a diploma from Michigan State Normal college where he won his letter in football, his wide experience in baseball, basketball, football and track helped him in coaching the schools to several championships in the last nine years.

Mr. and Mrs. Matheson and their daughter, Marian, and son, Robert, will move to Detroit Saturday.

Milton Jacobi a Michigan State Normal graduate who coached this last year at Marine City, will succeed Matheson as athletic director here.

Morgan-Russell Vows Are Spoken At Pretty Home Wedding

The home of Mrs. Ida Morgan at 448 Starkweather avenue, was the scene of a very pretty wedding when her only daughter, Velda M. became the bride of Hugo T. Russell of Plymouth, Saturday, June 19.

The wedding vows were spoken at 1 p. m. in the large living room which was banked with roses, snapdragons, and peonies. The house was decorated throughout with spring flowers, carrying out the color scheme of white, pink and blue. Rev. Walter Nichol of the Presbyterian church, read the marriage service, witnessed by relatives and friends.

The bride was beautiful as she descended the stairs alone in a gown of white satin to join the bride party which was waiting for her. Her gown was semi-princess with long sleeves and train and trimmed with imitation pearls. In her hair she wore a wreath of orange blossoms and she carried an arm bouquet of white roses.

Mabel Fleischman, of Northville, the maid of honor, wore a gown of pink net over pink satin with a halo of pink roses, and a corsage of mixed flowers. Mrs. Frederick Thompson, of Northville, the bridesmaid, wore a gown of aqua blue with a halo of roses in the same color and a corsage of mixed flowers.

Frederick Thompson, of Northville, and Harold Schmidt, of Plymouth, assisted the bridegroom.

The bride's mother wore a gown of Copenhagen blue crepe, trimmed with white and silver, and a corsage of roses.

The bride's table was covered with a lace cloth and centered

SALVATION ARMY TAG DAY NETS $136

Capt. Harold Conlin reports that the Salvation Army tag day held last Saturday in Plymouth netted $136 in funds to help the organization's work here.

"The Army appreciates the fine response from the townspeople," Capt. Conlin said. "The money obtained was much needed and will enable us to carry out our program."

Two musicians of the Plymouth organization, Virginia Laskey, 14 years old, a cornetist, and Florence Russell, 16, a baritone player, left Monday for Camp Lake, Wisconsin, to receive two weeks of special instruction at the Army camp. Students from 15 central states will attend the classes in music theory, instrumentation and band direction.

Summer Program For Recreation Starts Monday

Two Playgrounds To Be Open Eight Weeks

The eight weeks summer recreation program will open Monday at Central school and Starkweather school playgrounds.

The recreational project, jointly sponsored by the city, the board of education and the federal government, is designed to interest not only boys and girls of all ages but also adults. The program is planned for Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday from 9 to 12 a. m., 1:30 to 5 p. m. and from 7 to 8 p. m.

Miss Luella Kees, assisted by Miss Jean Dunham, will be in charge of the handicraft work. Twenty-four Plymouth high school girls will also help direct the classes.

Milton Jacobi who will succeed Kenneth Matheson as director of athletics at Plymouth high school this fall, will be in charge of the boys' committee and will be assisted by Leo VanBonn, Charles Stitt, Wesley Dunn and Asa Rowe.

The handicraft classes for both girls and boys will be held from 1:30 p. m. to 3 p. m. and a story hour is scheduled each afternoon from 3 p. m. to 4 p. m. The rest of the day's program will include contests, sports, games and other activities for children while adult recreation is scheduled each evening.

This is the third year of the summer recreational program. Last year over 14,000 children and adults participated and an even larger attendance is expected this summer.

The city plans to dig the basement and build the foundation for the new location of the Presbyterian manse early next week.

Removal of the manse from its present site on South Main street to the park behind the new church will probably be completed in two weeks. This project was voted by a large majority at the annual spring election and will permit landscaping the area from the new church to South Main street.

Mrs. Charles Root, Jr., and little son, Richard Bruce, arrived at Maple Lane farm last Monday after spending a month with her parents near Benton Harbor.

Plymouth High School Class of 1937 Has Two Valedictorians

Miss Phyllis Stewart Wins Honor of Delivering Salutation—Jewell Starkweather And Jeannette Brown, Valedictorians

Following the usual practice of the Plymouth Mail in publishing in full each year the salutatory address of the valedictorian of the Plymouth high school graduating class, it will be necessary this year to publish three of these addresses in view of the fact that because of exceptional class records of two students, both Jewell Starkweather and Jeannette Brown, are entitled to the distinction of delivering the closing addresses.

Miss Phyllis Stewart has the honor of being the class salutatorian and her address to the class and the commencement guests follows in full, the subject being "In Praise of Education."

"This is the fifty-seventh time the citizens of Plymouth have assembled here for the commencement exercises of Plymouth high school. We who are graduating, have looked forward to this occasion as a student during the past twelve years. You, who are witnessing the exercise, have made it possible. You have provided the means for an education; we have subjected ourselves to the process of being educated. During this time I have often wondered if the many tributes in praise of education are really true. I certainly hope they are. I should like to believe that for the twelve years I have spent in school have not been in vain; and now, as my high school days are ended, I have tried seriously to evaluate and classify the knowledge which has been at my disposal. To the many questions which arise, I will try to state the answers as my experience, limited as it is, dictates.

"To the first one, 'What is the value of an education?' I will say that the answer is obvious at once to most of us. Education aids first and foremost, probably in the rather selfish but altogether necessary and justifiable purpose of earning one's daily bread. Despite the fact that most of the higher paid positions call for skilled college graduates, one who has thoroughly mastered his high school subjects is in a position to take up various types of work directly upon his graduation from high school. For example, a girl who has taken a complete commercial course in school starts out as just one of many stenographers and typists in a large office. By applying her knowledge successfully, she is made assistant secretary and finally, by watching carefully the mistakes of the senior secretary, and profiting by the criticisms of her employer, she is soon raised to the pinnacle of perfection, the aim of every stenographer—the position of private secretary to the president of the firm.

"The boy who has taken the agricultural course offered by the school has the knowledge and should be capable enough to undertake the partial management of a small farm, or at least a farm project, which really can be made to pay if one is in earnest and willing to work.

"The girl who is inclined to take the home economics course is provided with an experience which, in later years, will enable her to be a good homemaker and the wife her husband would wish for.

"The college course, as the name implies, gives the background and learning necessary to those who are desirous of seeking the further knowledge and culture which college supplies.

"The secondary purpose of education, besides the help in earning a living, is to present situations to the student so that he consciously or unconsciously becomes a better citizen by the contacts he makes in school. Perhaps it was this phase of education to which Pope referred when he wrote 'The education forms the common bond, just as the twig is bent, so is the tree inclined.' Certainly it is our school citizenship training which bends our life twig. It would seem incomprehensible that one could finish high school with A, B, and C averages, and yet be a common thief, or lower. Good marks and good citizenship go hand in hand to make a perfect school bawler.

Every year in our school two seniors are honored for citizenship as far as the school life is concerned, and invariably those chosen are A and B students. However, this does not mean that those in the upper 10 percent are the only good citizens—those on the lower levels, who perhaps find it hard to understand all the textbook material, readily absorb the fundamental principles of after-school life from the accepted give-and-take of the modern school life. In our classes we receive citizenship training by learning to analyze and understand the problems of the world, the nation, the state and the community. It was our good fortune as seniors to take charge of the mock election held here in school last November 3, and I can truthfully say that that experience taught me much about the intricate workings of our great government.

"Another question which arises—'In what ways does Plymouth high school aid and develop the abilities latent in many of us?' It is here the opportunity is given to gain through the pain of personal experience, the knowledge that the great of the world have taken centuries to discover and evaluate. Four years of English acquaint us with outstanding American and English writers, the correct grammar and when and where to use it. Three years of mathematics train the memory by presenting established rules and formulas which can be applied to many different mathematical situations. Two years of Latin also train the memory and gives one an insight into ancient cultures. Speed and accuracy are

Thomas Brock Awarded $1,000 Scholarship

Plans To Start Law Course At Albion

Thomas Brock, president of the 1937 senior class of Plymouth high school, was notified this week that he has been awarded a $1,000 scholarship by the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity which has chapters in 89 American colleges.

Tom, son of Mrs. Harry Irwin, 2000 Canton road, was one of four boys honored in the Detroit area. He ranked near the top of the 49 boys who took the special scholastic aptitude tests given at Cranbrook school late in May.

The scholarship, in the form of $250 in cash each year for four years, can be used at any one of the 89 colleges. Tom plans to enter Albion college this fall to take three years of pre-law studies and then transfer to the University of Michigan to finish his law course.

Detroit alumni of the fraternity tendered Tom and the other three scholarship winners a banquet at Dearborn Inn Thursday night.

Albion college may match the scholarship with the same amount of funds for the Plymouth youth.

The scholarship comes as a well deserved award to Tom, who besides heading his class, was active in many other activities in Plymouth high school. He was a star debater for four years, acting as captain for three years; was editor of the Pilgrim Prints; and obtained a scholastic average of 95.6 out of a possible 97 for the four years.

Wrecking Crews Start Work On Plymouth Hotel

Will Take Month To Complete Job

Work was started this week on wrecking the old Plymouth hotel to make way for the new, modern Lorenz business block to be constructed on the northwest corner of South Main street and Ann Arbor Trail.

A crew of 15 men employed by the Joyce Wrecking company of Detroit, started tearing down the old building which was built before the Civil War. The job is expected to take about 30 days.

Ralph Lorenz is completing plans for starting construction on the new building late in July. Cunningham Drug and the Atlantic and Pacific Food store have leased the first floor space in the new structure and offices will fill the second floor.

The wrecking crew discovered that the old hotel, one of Plymouth's last pre-Civil War structures, was well built. Several roofs have been ripped off and traces of many fires which swept the building were found.

The wrecking company has purchased the old building and will salvage the lumber in it.

City Will Build New Storm Sewer

The city commission Monday night authorized City Manager Clarence Elliott to proceed immediately with the construction of a 12-inch storm sewer and a 6-inch water main from the end of the present facilities on Beech street west to the boundary of the William Eckman subdivision.

City employees were busy this week making new connections to the sanitary sewers and cleaning out storm sewers after Sunday's heavy rainstorm.

Another crew of men were at work on Farmer street. An excavator was used to lower the street almost a foot and the dangerous Pere Marquette railroad crossing on that street is being widened and leveled out to make safer approaches.

Diplomas Presented 101 Seniors Thursday To Climax Plymouth High School Commencement Week Program

Good Attendance At Traditional Exercises

One hundred and one seniors in caps and gowns marched across the platform Thursday night to receive their diplomas to climax their four years in Plymouth high school.

Supt. G. A. Smith awarded the diplomas to the class, one of the largest ever graduated here, and the seniors were presented by Principal C. J. Dykhouse.

Dr. E. L. Austin, head of the department of education, Michigan State college, delivered a stirring commencement address.

In part he said: "The public school has a definite responsibility as well as an opportunity to assist young people in a solution of the rigorous, complicated social problems which face us on every hand. Progress in such material things as transportation, communication, and engineering has run far ahead of progress in the art of living together as citizens and neighbors.

"These young people have had a unique experience in living thus far. Born in the aftermath of the World War, whirled through the prosperity of the roaring 20's, submerged by the depression of the early 30's they have come up smiling and are asking, 'Where do we go from here?'

"What tasks are ahead of them? Chiefly two: making a living and living a life that is full and rich and wholesome. Good health, some training in straight hard thinking and a will to work will probably pull them through. It always has done so. Their biggest asset is youth or time. It is much easier to live effectively and well now than it ever has been. It is also much easier to fail than it ever has been. The ability and will power to say 'yes' when 'yes' should be said, and 'no' when 'no' is proper, are very valuable assets.

Rev. L. Sutherland, pastor of the Baptist church, pronounced invocation at the commencement. Then Phyllis Stewart delivered the salutatory. Edith Mettetal sang a solo and then the joint valedictorians, Jeannette Brown and Jewell Starkweather, made their addresses.

The class of 1937 presented an interesting class day program at the high school auditorium Tuesday night. The class presented the high school with a new trophy case to be installed in the hallway on the first floor and donated $50 to the alumni association. The gift was presented by Elizabeth Hege, Robert Edge, Irene Ciesielski and Dorothy Cates. Supt. George A. Smith accepted the gift in behalf of the school.

The class history was given by Dorothy Hearn, Florence Norton, John Moore and Francis Trombley. Patsy McKinnon, Mary Holdsworth, Phyllis Dickerson and George Kenyon collaborated on the class will.

The prophecy was presented by Barbara Hubbell, Kenneth Klein-schmidt, Marian Corion, and Ellen Mulry. Thomas Brock delivered the president's address.

Jack Birchall, Alexis Skoglund, Hal Horton and Henry Worden sang "Give a Man a Horse He Can Ride" and a double quartet composed of Norma Jean Roe, Madolyn Weller, Patricia Cassidy, Edith Mettetal, Jewell Starkweather and Jeannette Brown, rendered "Within a Dreaming Harbor" and "A Song Remembered."

The program was closed with the class song by the words were written by Norma Jean Roe, Madolyn Weller and Patricia Cassidy.

Over 600 persons attended the baccalaureate services at the high school auditorium on Sunday night.

The Rev. P. Ray Norton addressed the class on "The Things that I Know."

In part, he said: "Knowledge is obtained through investigation and experience. Investigation is represented in the sciences and experience by religion. Each should be checked by facts otherwise the individual becomes either materialistic or fanatic. A proper balance between the two makes life happy and useful."

The Methodist church choir furnished the music with Miss Barbara Horton as soloist.

Carol Campbell, who was a sophomore at the high school this year, was official pianist for baccalaureate, class day and commencement.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Beaver, of Lincoln Park, were in the city, Friday, to attend the funeral of Mrs. Ella Piagg.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Noll, of Detroit, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. I. N. Dickerson.

Install Signs To Limit Downtown Parking Here

Plan To Curb All-Day Parking On Streets

The city has started installation of signs to place limited parking into effect on several streets in the downtown section.

Two-hour parking will be permitted on both sides of South Main street from Ann Arbor Trail to Frank street. Parking will be limited to two hours also on the north side of Penniman avenue from Norton's Meat market to the postoffice and on the south side from the west end of the Penniman-Allen theater to South Main.

Special signs are being installed to limit parking to 20 minutes on an area of 70 feet on Maple street in front of the Oakland Dairy.

The signs were ordered a few weeks ago after the city commission adopted an amendment to the traffic ordinance to provide for limited parking.

Daisy Exhibit Sent To Scout Jamboree

The Daisy Manufacturing company shipped an interesting exhibit to Washington this week to be viewed by the thousands of visitors at the National Boy Scout Jamboree scheduled June 30 to July 9.

The exhibit, the first taken to the Boy Scout affair by the Plymouth concern, will be set up in the Boys' Life tent, headquarters of the Scout publication. The exhibit will feature a panel bearing cutaway models of two famous Daisy Air Rifles, the pump gun and the Buzz Barton 1,000-shot repeating rifle. The cutaway models will show the scouts how the guns work.

Another part of the exhibit will be a rack of new model guns including the pump gun; the Golden Eagle, the newest rifle developed by the Daisy; the single-shot rifle, the most popular model; and the newly developed Targeteer, a pistol.

RAMBLING with Editors AROUND of Michigan

ABOUT HABER!

Sizzling rebuke was administered this week to William Haber, former state emergency relief administrator, now professor of economics in University of Michigan, when the house of representatives considering the senate bill to consolidate state relief agencies made provision to eliminate Haber from connection with such work.

Amendment to effect expulsion of Haber was offered by Rep. Elton R. Eaton (R), of Plymouth. The amendment was adopted without a dissenting vote.

Haber is a typical half-hot, youthful, professorish, cocky. He pretends to run a private stronghold of Puritanism, yet has uncontrollable penchant for raising his own salary while the unemployed starves. He is obsessed of orchid ideas, yet with dandelion results. Choked with books, but speaking without Harvard accent, a perfect carbon copy of not much. Seemingly he is destined to embarrass the University of Michigan in financial relations with the legislature sooner or later but not real late. The legislative squelch was nothing less than administrative reputational annihilation.—The Michigan State Digest, Lansing.

FOLLOWING THEIR LEADER.

In view of the many inflammatory speeches which Homer Martin, president of the U. A. W., has made during the past months, it is not surprising that his followers get out of control. It is easy to arouse a feeling of animosity in matters which pertain to adjustment of differences between employer and employe. Martin, at one time or another, has belittled and ridiculed almost every institution in the United States. No wonder that his followers have so little respect for the law; that they see everything in terms of mob control.—Dick Cook in The Hastings Banner.

TAX THE TAX EATERS.

Is there any good reason why a man who draws his income from the public funds should not contribute his due share to the support of the government which supports him? We know of none; yet Congress has exempted from the Federal income tax not only most employes of the Federal government but all who draw their pay from state and municipal governments, while the state governments exempt Federal salaries from tax.

Is there something so sacred about a public office that the person who holds it is not like other men, but entitled to special consideration because of his position? It has never until lately been so considered in America. The people who are supported by taxes are, or should be, the servants of the taxpayers, not their rulers, set apart from the common herd.

The number of government employes is steadily and rapidly increasing. Federal, state and local. There are at least three million tax eaters. Not all receive large enough salaries to bring them under the present income-tax provisions; but the time is inevitably coming when the income tax exemption will have to be lowered if funds enough are to be found to keep the machinery of government running.

Why should not the tax eaters take the same medicine as the rest of us?—George O. St. Charles in The Dearborn Independent.

sary politically to endorse the proposal that had been advanced by Governor Fitzgerald. In fact, he endorsed it just as strongly as did his predecessor.

The bill that had been drafted by former Governor Fitzgerald's so-called study commission and that was extensively circulated about the state previous to and during last fall's campaign, was introduced in the first few days of the present legislative session. In fact, it was senate bill No. 1.

It passed the senate soon after its introduction and then went on to the house where it was referred to the committee on state affairs. The chairman of the state affairs committee in the house is Chester Fitzgerald, a Detroit Democrat who hews close to the line when it comes to party matters. In fact, a check of his voting record shows that he regards of very little value, anything that originates from Republican sources.

For nearly four months his committee, composed almost entirely of Democrats, held the civil service bill from the legislature. Finally the "pressure" became so great that something had to be done about it.

"Something" had to be done, the Democrats concluded, to save Governor Murphy in the position he had taken on the issue. So the bill, with 70 or 75 changes made by the committee, was reported out to the floor of the house a few days ago.

Was the bill held in the committee upon the orders of Governor Murphy?

Of course he would deny it and the committee members would probably do likewise.

It has been said that the Governor probably did not have control over the actions of the state affairs' committee. Therefore, his supporters say the Governor is in no way responsible for what happened to the civil service bill in the state affairs committee.

But is this true?

Prof. R. C. Buley of Indiana University's history department each spring gives a 5 cent reward to the student who sees the first robin.

David G. Weems designed the first streamlined locomotive in 1889. It was powered with three electric motors, and the power was supplied by an overhead rail. It reached a speed of 100 miles an hour on a circular two-mile track at Laurel, Maryland.

Chester Fitzgerald, who is the chairman of the state affairs committee is also chairman of the social aid and welfare committee.

There was one welfare bill that had been held in the welfare committee for some two or three months because Chairman Fitzgerald did not want to consider it for some reason.

What happened to this bill? Last week Chairman Fitzgerald was called to the Governor's office and he was advised that the Governor wanted this one welfare bill reported out of the committee without additional amendments made by the committee—except one—that amendment was proposed by Chairman Fitzgerald and it struck out of the bill any reference to civil service in connection with the welfare administration.

Now, if the Governor could tell the chairman of the social aid and welfare committee to report out a bill that he wanted acted upon without additional amendments, is it not rather an unexplainable thing to say that the same governor could not tell the same chairman to report the civil service bill out of the state affairs committee without amendment, if he had desired it to come to the floor of the house in that way?

The Plymouth Mail has contended since the early days of the session that the Governor did not care about the civil service bill and that if he had wanted it considered in the house, it would have been reported out months ago.

The speedy compliance taken by Chairman Chester Fitzgerald of the social aid and welfare committee on a bill that the governor wanted out is plenty of proof of the fact that the Governor could have told Chairman Chester Fitzgerald of the state affairs committee to take similar speedy action on the civil service bill if he had had a real desire to have the bill come before the house earlier in the session.

Possibly there is some merit to some of the arguments used against civil service—but that is not the point of contention raised in this article—the point is the apparent dual role that has been played by the governor on this legislative question.

Indian Totem Pole
This Indian totem pole at Vancouver Island is typical of those found on the northwest coast of America. Each tribe possessed one of these totems—supposed to be a protecting spirit. The symbols on the poles represented the sign of an imaginary ancestor common to the clan, such as a wolf, bear or eagle.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN church.—Walter Nichol, pastor. Services at Masonic temple, 10 a.m. worship, 11:30 a.m. Sunday school. Communion service will mark the morning worship hour next Sunday. The session will meet at 9:45 a.m. The annual picnic of the Sunday school will be held at Riverside park on Wednesday, June 30, afternoon and evening. There will be the usual program of games and the whole group will sit together for the picnic supper. The Mission Study class will not hold a separate meeting this month; instead, they will unite in the picnic on Wednesday. Union services will be held during July and August. For the first three weeks of July these services will be held at the Masonic temple. Rev. Loya Sutherland of First Baptist church will be the preacher. He will be supported by the choir of First Baptist church.

ST. PAUL'S EV. LUTHERAN church. Livonia Center. O. J. Peters, pastor. No services on June 27.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH.—Loya Sutherland, minister. Victory Sunday and Children's Day all day. This day will be one of the most memorable days in the history of this church. For a long period of years we have labored under the pressure of an indebtedness, and we conclude the last installment on this debt on this Sunday. The pastor speaks on "Taking up Our Tasks Again". Every member of the church with our many friends are asked to be present at 10 o'clock. Bible school at 11:15. At 7:30 in the evening our young people and juniors will present a pageant and cantata entitled "The Pathway of Service". This is our Children's Day service and all parents of our Sunday school pupils and our entire membership will want to be on hand. This will be a most beautiful presentation, so do not miss it. Our day will close with a beautiful service of baptism. Except for the Sunday school which will meet each Sunday, we begin the union services of the three churches on July 4, when the pastor of this church with the church choir will lead the worship for three Sundays at the Masonic temple. Remember next Sunday is Victory Sunday and every member is expected to be in his place. The church may go on without you, but you cannot go on in your spiritual life without the church. Join us on this great day. Because of sickness and circumstances over which we have no control, we are forced to give up our vacation Bible school for this season.

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST Scientist.—Sunday morning service, 10:30. Sunday school at 10:30. Pupils received up to the age of twenty years. Wednesday evening testimony service, 8:00.

"Christian Science" will be the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday, June 27. Among the Bible citations is this passage (Matt. 4:23): "And Jesus went about all Galilee, teaching in their synagogues, and preaching the gospel of the kingdom, and healing all manner of sickness and all manner of disease among the people." Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 26): "Divine Truth, Life, and Love gave Jesus authority over sin, sickness, and death. His mission was to reveal the science of celestial being, to prove what God is and what He does for man."

CALVARY BAPTIST CHURCH.—Hardenburg and North Holbrook avenue. "Preach the word; be instant in season, out of season." Such was the timely command of the Apostle Paul, to his fellow-laborer and son in the faith, named Timothy. (I Timothy 4:2). Though written many years ago, this message is needed today as never before. Surely Paul must have seen this day when he further warned Timothy, that man would be "lovers of pleasures more than lovers of God" (I Timothy 3:4) continuing to "wax worse and worse, deceiving, and being deceived." (I Timothy 3:13). Deacon David Columbus, God permitting, will have charge of both preaching services Sunday Morning worship convening at 10 o'clock; evangelistic message at 7:30 in the evening. Bible school immediately following the morning service. Any one wishing transportation to and from any service, feel free to call upon us. Wednesday evening at 7:30 is the time for all lovers of prayer and God's Word to gather for worship and fellowship. Each member is especially urged to be present this week, as an important matter of business is to be cared for. If unable to attend, please let us know. Remember Calvary! (A.E.B.)

SALEM CONGREGATIONAL church. Lucia M. Stroh, minister. Divine worship, 10:30 a.m. The pastor wishes to see every member present to honor our fathers next Sunday. The Sunday school session 11:45 a.m. The Light bearers Sunday school class will have a party Friday evening, June 25 in the home of Marion Jane Lockwood. Joy and his road. All Crusaders and young people come to the wiener feast, Saturday, 7 p.m. at the Willows, foot of Six Mile road next Thursday, July 1. The Ladies' Auxiliary society will give a hot roast beef supper with home made strawberry shortcake, 6 p.m., Salem town hall. The memorial service held last Sunday was a very blessed service. The graves were touched by the beautiful music and the comforting message of the Word of God.

Plymouth High School Class Of 1937 Has Two Valedictorians

Miss Phyllis Stewart Wins Honor Of Delivering Salutation—Jewell Starkweather And Jeannette Brown, Valedictorians

gained from shorthand and typing. Home economics sends out able homemakers; civics presents the social problem with which we shall soon be faced; bookkeeping establishes the habit of orderliness; science and chemistry attempt to explain the wonders of the universe; commercial law teaches one the rules of the game of business; public speaking enables one to talk before a crowd.
And last, but very important, is history, which, by telling of the past, empowers one to visualize the future.

"And now in closing, I would say that, since we are privileged to attend a modern up-to-date institution which teaches much more of lasting benefit than the "3 R's" of the early schools, and since our education fulfills a twofold purpose—that of fitting us for our life work, and of making better citizens of all of us, we feel as Addison surely must have when he wrote that "What sculpture is to a block of marble, education is to the human soul. The philosopher, the saint, the hero, the wise, and the good, or the great, very often lie hid and concealed in a pebble, which a proper education might have discovered and brought to light."

"Again we would like to express our appreciation to those who have made all this possible.
To thank you, the taxpayers of Plymouth, for it is your money which secures for us all the extra opportunities which until a short time ago were unheard of. In reality, instead of gaily welcoming you to our program, we should be gratefully thanking you as our benefactors and sponsors who have made a tremendous investment in our education. And we hope that, although the prospects may not be so hopeful now, with your help and cooperation we may bring good returns, and with interest."

"The Dilemma of Youth" was the subject of the address delivered by Miss Jewell Starkweather. It follows:
"This year approximately one million seniors are graduating from the high schools of the nation. These seniors for the most part are about to assume for the first time in their lives a definite responsibility in establishing a place for themselves in this great and complicated world of ours.
But precisely now, what is the nature of the world in which we are about to enter? Is it a peace-loving, a cooperative, an economically sound world? The answer to this is common knowledge when we consider the near chaotic conditions that exist. Our daily newspapers are constantly filled with hostile situations pre-valing throughout the entire world. Mussolini and his Fascists in Italy are correlated to Ethiopia and world power—by force if necessary. Hitler and his Nazi party correlate themselves with political and religious intolerance Japan and her conquests in China. Spain and her annihilating revolution have long since proved the futility of the League of Nations and other arbitrary methods. The intellect of the world is not able to adjust the peoples of the various nations to a sound and satisfactory economic standard, for we have today in the United States production at a 90 percent peak, and at the same time we have five million people unemployed. Thus while the problem of production may be solved, a solution to the problem of adequate distribution is still far distant. Sit-down strikes are but a natural consequence of this dissatisfaction. Both politically and economically the entire world is in a turmoil. Certainly, this is a most discouraging world to face. But why do they exist?
What seems to be the underlying cause of these discouraging situations? These conditions are the results of the maladjustments of the attitudes of world leaders who may have possessed intellect but who have utilized it only for personal gain.

"I cannot refrain from conjecturing in my own mind as to what practical use we seniors of 1937 shall put the knowledge which we are supposed to have acquired during the last four years. For the solution to these problems rests entirely with the philosophy we adopt—whether we be leaders or followers. And thus we are faced with a consequential dilemma.

Should we consider personal gain our foremost desire? Or shall we utilize our intellect for benefiting society? Inasmuch as the destiny of the world will be determined by the youth of today there is indeed righteous cause for concern.

"Throughout history we have had characters who have confronted the world with just such problems by utilizing their intellect for personal gain. As far back as the Old Testament we have the story of Solomon who unfairly taxed the people of Israel so that he might build more magnificent palaces for himself and his many wives. And what was the result?
Revolution! and finally division of the kingdom itself.

"There is Alexander the Great, great only in that he possessed the intellect to conquer nations—his only interest being fame and power. It has been said that "he bitterly wept when there were no more worlds to conquer." Napoleon was interested only in personal gain—not with the general welfare of the people. James Russell Lowell suitably expressed it when he said, "If Napoleon's heart had borne any proportion to his brain, he would have been one of the greatest men in history." William H. Tweed, head of Tammany Hall in 1871, tapped every possible source of graft—city contracts, selling offices, dispensing favors, and franchises—thus literally stealing from the city of New York a sum aggregating close to 50 million dollars. His motives? Greed and lust for power.
Hundreds of men are constantly gambling for selfish gain having no regard for the 30 million people in India who do not have enough to eat, the 100 million in China who are starving, and the five million out of work in the United States.

"And thus we have such characters through the pages of history as well as at the present time who have chosen the path of personal gain. Consequently we are faced with our constantly growing serious problems proving Chamfort's point when he said "A man of intellect is lost unless he unites to it energy of character."

"And so we seniors are faced with the dilemma. Shall we continue in this manner? Or shall we accept a more idealistic and yet a most logical attitude by pledging ourselves to be of benefit to society? Washington, it cannot be denied used his intellect not for acquiring wealth but to make freedom and peace more possible for everyone. Jefferson, another true American, was interested not in himself, money or power, but in establishing justice and in promoting the general welfare of the people. Lincoln's ambition was primarily to preserve the union in the interest of the people. The man whom we revere as the perfect model of all time was offered a temporal kingdom at thirty-three. Did he take it? No, because he desired to be the servant of all people. He sacrificed his life so that we might live.
Jane Addams possessed a strong sense of morality and eagerness to help others. To this end she established Hull House to serve mankind. Walter Reed, Dr. Carroll, and Dr. Lazear risked their lives to serve their fellowmen by fighting yellow fever in Cuba during the Spanish American War.
Dr. Lazear who first submitted himself to Reed's experiment was stricken with the fever and died —for humanity.

"One however, need not be exceptionally brilliant or wealthy, nor need he be a leader to elevate these ideals. The mass of youth will not be of this caliber. Just as important, indeed, are the great silent people or as Carlyle once said "The salt of the earth" —those who quietly accomplish their daily tasks, constantly thinking of the eternal values—not of materialism. The material reward will inevitably come as a matter of course. These are the types of characters which youth should be taught to emulate. Let us elevate these ideals. Let us forget personal glory. Our aim of living must be something higher than the mere acquisition of money. Let us substitute honesty, unselfishness, and morality for the corruption in politics.

"As one million seniors who are graduating this June let us remember that regardless of where we go, our world is a social unit. We must learn how to cooperate—not on an individual, competitive basis where each man fights every one else to persuade or compel the rest to accept his purpose which might benefit him, but on the basis of social unity where each man considers not only his own good, but also the good of others. H. W.
Beecher confirmed this idea when he once said "Every person should use his intellect not as he uses his lamp in the study, only for his own personal seeing, but as the lighthouse uses its lamps, so that those far off may see the shining and learn the way."

"The high school graduate of today will mold the public sentiment of tomorrow through individual example. We are confronted with the important ad-emma. On the one hand shall we follow the path of personal glory —vigorous in making money, seeking pleasures, and winning temporary victories over one another or on the other hand shall we follow the path chosen by Christ, Washington, Lincoln, Jane Addams and others, thus making for a social betterment. The destiny of the nation is dependent upon our choice. Which philosophy shall we adopt?"

Miss Jeannette Brown selected as the subject of her address to the class, "Education." Her address follows:

"Fellow Graduates and Friends: Another school year has come to a close. As seniors, we find ourselves pausing for a moment to experience the same thrill felt by thousands of others before us on their graduation day. There is little we can say that has not been said before. On every commencement day one hears an expression of the same thoughts, of that idealism of youth that so often may be utterly inapplicable to situations in later life.
But it is true that to us this event is one of the greatest in our lives, and so it should be, for it is the culmination of four years of formal study.

"We realize and acknowledge with gratitude the guidance of our parents and teachers during these years. It is their interest that has made possible the opportunities of which we may have taken advantage, but just how much we have derived from our high school education depends upon us alone. Just how much of value we have obtained depends upon the amount of time and effort we have been willing to expand. The more earnestly we have applied our energies, the more high school will have meant to us.

"On this day of achievement it seems appropriate to look back, to view in retrospect, our high school career, so that we may determine what school has meant to us as individuals, and what it is we have really achieved.

"Let us consider the reasons for which we have sought an education. Why have we attended school? So that we may be better fit to select and to undertake our vocations, we say; so that we may be better prepared to earn our living. That is true, but it involves much more than that.
It has been said that education is the apprenticeship of life itself.

"Let us first ask ourselves: Have we learned to think? Have we learned to utilize our powers of logic so that we can reason soundly and accurately? In doing so, we shall have been developing one of the first characteristics of a leader, the ability to contend.
Then too, a good follower is one who has learned to reason well in selecting his leader.

"Have we learned to be alive, to be acutely-conscious of life all around us, in the world of nature as well as in that of man.
If so, we need not ever fear of becoming bored or dissatisfied, for each day will unfold something of new interest and of new excitement.

"To solve the problem of the proper use of leisure time has long been recognized as one of the chief aims of education. Have we learned to utilize our time so that every moment is spent profitably?
Through study one can learn to appreciate in his leisure moments the truly great literature, music, and art that the world prizes.
Horace Mann, the most prominent advocate of education this country has ever known, expressed his belief in this fact when he said, "Education alone can conduct us to that enjoyment which is at once best in quality and infinite in quantity."

"Closely related to this thought is another question: Have we developed a sense of true values?
Do we show discrimination in our choice of books to read, in the type of pleasures we seek, so that we can shun all things common and sordid? If we have developed a discerning taste, we shall feel a desire to strive for finer things and to aspire toward a higher, noble goal.

"Another question of equal importance is this: Has there been awakened within us the capacity and the desire to learn? Having reached graduation, will we be content to stop, knowing only meager achievement, or eager for knowledge, will we enrich our lives by continually endeavoring to acquire new learning, and to extend our interests in an ever-widening circle?

"There is still another point to be considered. Have we learned to get along with others, and to cooperate with our friends in both work and play? We may possess the ability to think deeply and clearly, to spend our leisure time in appreciating the finest works of man, and to continue our quest for knowledge, but if of what worth are these attributes if we do not also possess that quality of living in harmony with our associates?

"Finally we can ask ourselves: Have we learned to accept gracefully and courageously anything that may come? Can we adapt ourselves to new and changing conditions without losing poise and self-assurance? This characteristic also should be listed among those desirable to acquire.

"We know that so far we do not possess all or any of these characteristics to a great degree; only a well-educated person can claim them for his own. But we do realize their value, and the necessity of striving to attain them. Thus, the word "commencement" signifies to us not the end of study, but rather the beginning of a life that will be rich and full if we earnestly endeavor to develop and to utilize, among other things, the power to think profitably, and the desire to learn."

Cass Benton Defeats
Garden City, 6 to 4

Cass Benton, Michigan Inter-County League leaders, trounced Garden City, 6 to 4, in a contest which was hailed as the eighth inning by rain Sunday. It was Garden City's second loss of the season.

Garden City scored first with one run in the opening inning but Cass Benton came back with three in the third and two more in the fifth. Then Garden City drew up within one run by bunching hits to collect three runs in the sixth. The winners added another run to their total in the seventh.

Enjoyable Picnic Held By D.A.R.

The pleasant home of Mr. and Mrs. Carmen Root, on West Ann Arbor road, was the scene of a very enjoyable occasion on Monday afternoon when the Sarah Ann Cochran chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution held their last meeting of the year and their annual picnic.

At 12:30 a delicious picnic luncheon was served to about 50 members and special guests of the chapter. The food was served from a beautifully decorated buffet table, the guests there finding their places at smaller tables scattered through the spacious rooms.

The luncheon was planned by a committee made up of the following members: Mrs. Larkins, Mrs. Robinson, Mrs. John Root, Mrs. Rose, Mrs. Nichol, Mrs. C. E. Baker, Mrs. Blackburn, Miss Gilles, and Mrs. Dubuar.

Following the luncheon and a short visiting period, the regular business meeting was held, during which plans for next year's program were discussed and a very fine report of the third annual state conference of the C. A. R. of Michigan, held recently at the Colony club in Detroit, was given by Mrs. Charles W. Horr, Jr., senior president of the newly organized chapter of the Children of the American Revolution.

Mrs. Tracy McMurtry gave a most interesting report of the work done by the Sarah Ann Cochran chapter in the CCC camp near Wayne for the past two years, during which time hundreds of magazines, books, games, etc., have been given to the boys; curtains and furnishings for their camp and a Christmas treat of jellies, jam and candy sent them.

In appreciation of this work, the officers of the camp have invited the members of the chapter to visit the camp and a picnic to be held there was planned for July 15.

Mrs. J. M. Bennett, program chairman, then presented Mrs. Levi F. Eaton, who gave a splendid paper on the "History of Our Flag" and Mrs. John F. Root, whose very interesting talk on "National Defense" was concluded with part of the valedictory given by W. J. Cameron at the closing program of the Ford Sunday evening hour.

On June 9, Mrs. Sidney Strong, regent of Sarah Ann Cochran chapter, presented the prizes given Miss Jeanette Brown and Miss Jewell Starkweather of the Plymouth high school in the essay contest on "The Natural Resources of Michigan" which was sponsored by the chapter.

Court of Honor

The Boy Scouts of the Plymouth district held their last Court of Honor for the present year last Thursday in the Northville play field. Some 200 boys and parents sat on the bleachers and applauded the awarding of 70 badges. Dr. A. H. Steele of the Training school acted as chairman of the court and the Detroit council was represented by James Christenson, a new field executive in charge of the down river districts.

The awards as listed below were presented to the boys by the members of the court as called on by the chairman. This was the first outdoor court to be held by the Plymouth district since the one held in Newburg some five years ago. Troop N-2 again won the Charles Murphy cup for advancement. P-1 also again won the Loomis attendance banner. Ten boys from three different troops were given pins indicating a record for regular attendance well above the average, having attended at least 90 percent of the troop meetings for the past year. Two of these boys, Robert Daniel and Richard Strong, P-1, each getting this pin for the second successive year, had records showing no unexcused absences.

It might be hoped that at some future court the troops from the Plymouth district could come nearer the ideal condition which would be if every scout attended at least 90 percent of the troop scheduled meetings. The scouts advanced to second class were: Louis Babbitt, N-1; Harold Schultz, N-1; Henry Bean, N-2; Valbert Groth, P-1; Harold Vinson, N-2; Robert Dailey, P-1; and Richard Coward, P-1. Those advanced to first class were: Roger McClain, P-4; and William Elliott, P-1. Those receiving merit badges included: Paul Thams, P-1; William Elliott, P-1; Don Moore, A.S.M., P-3; Robert Brown, P-4; Roger McClain, P-4; Roland H. Morris, N-1; Henry Brozowich, N-2; George Mathiak, N-2; James Tubbert, N-2; Freeman Alexander, N-2; Leroy Sheeley, N-2; Charles Orrand, N-3. Star awards were made to Lloyd Clark, P-1; George Mathiak, N-2; James Tubbert, N-2; Freeman Alexander, N-2; Melvin Hytman, N-2; Charles Orrand, N-3. A life award was made to Henry Brozowich, N-2.

Annual Boat Hike

The tenth annual "Boat Hike" excursion to Put-in-Bay, sponsored by the Detroit Area Council of Boy Scouts, was held Saturday with 2,772 scouts boarding the boat for the trip.

Nearly 100 Plymouth scouts were in the group and all reported an enjoyable time.

THE TONQUISH CREEK BREEZE

Vol. No. 1 Tonquish Creek, Michigan U. S. A.

The Breeze is blowing again.

The balloon ascension is a sure thing and Shear is going to talk on the Fourth. The auxiliary isn't invited but those of that group who wish to witness the events may picnic on the east bank of the creek.

Paul Weidman of the Tonquish excursion boat is now selling tickets and booking private parties for the cruise up and down the creek on the Fourth.

Exploding matches and popping cigars will feature one special act of the fireworks. Pin wheels, cannons, and Roman candles will furnish the rest of the display. Firing will be done at Great Bend north of Ann Arbor street on the creek.

Doc Butz started the ball rolling at the last meeting when he suggested a creek excursion on the Fourth. Much confusion has resulted from the appointment of Paul Weidman as commodore. Glenn Smith, who was awarded the freshet concession, says that the commodore refuses to let him on the boat and that he was told to run along the banks and peddle his peanuts.

Chief Mate of the boat will be Stan Corbett, who claims he knows everything about marine motors. It looks like a little funny business.

Names for the boat while plying on local waters are, "Lily of the Steam", "Tonquish Maiden", "Puritan", and "The Sun Flower". Probably a contest will be conducted to find one that is suitable.

Testimony was taken from Leonard Murphy on activities at the Cleveland Aquacade. Nothing of importance could be decided from the information he brought back. General observations he made were, a big lake; hundreds of people, some in bathing suits; bands playing; not much worthwhile. With this data to work on, the committee feels sure something can be accomplished.

To the Wind—No Hurricane.

Last Monday's meeting was well attended and several paid their dues, the only thing that marred a perfect session was that the boys who brought their own sandwiches got their lunches mixed and general confusion followed.

Flood Control Director Harold Finlan is sort of up on his ear. It seems that Russ Powell thinks a little better work on the part of the flood controllers would have prevented some wash-outs back of the Powell transportation building in last Monday's flood. That's what Controller Finlan doesn't like.

So he can catch from his office window and see what Tonquish floods are doing, Controller Finlan is going to have a flood gauge erected just north of the bridge. He says he saw one down at Cincinnati one time. That's going to be public improvement No. 1 for the Creekers.

Doc Butz is now talking about having no excursion on the Fourth. He is afraid the boats can't get under the bridges.

Wheeler & Conner have issued special invitations to a picnic on the banks of the Tonquish back on their forty. The only trouble of it is that they want the picnickers to bring everything. Editor Champe thinks there's a raspberry somewhere in this invitation.

Stream Pollution Editor Bakhaus reports several entries are in for the diving events at the picnic. Creekers, Maben and Schrader are going to furnish a buffet lunch at noon prepared at the Tonquish Tavern, providing the Wheeler-Conner picnic blows up.

Watch The Breeze as it watches for you. Always on the lookout for the creek and its neighbors.

There is a new world's champion... The fight is over and once more the world is satisfied. They are satisfied first, because they know now which of the two is the better fighter and, secondly, and equally important, they are satisfied, and rightly so, because it was one of the cleanest fights of its kind ever held... There are various kinds of contests and all can be compared to the running of a business. Business can fight but the public likes the one that fights clean and a clean fight shows no traces of misrepresentation. To conduct a business for the purpose of eliminating the other fellow is like running below the belt. We believe in live and let live and we are convinced that our constant growth in Plymouth has been because the public agrees with us. We give you our word the Purity will continue to fight clean and we know we will keep on winning.

with a bowl of roses, peonies and other mixed flowers. At one end a two tiered bride's cake was placed and at the other end a fruit cake for the bridegroom, both on high standard cake plates. After the bride's cake was cut the groom wrapped the fruit cake into several sheets of waxed paper and placed it in the tin box and each person eating a piece of the bride's cake or attended any of the showers given the bride, wrote a note and folded and dropped it into the box with the cake. These notes are to be read on their first anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell are planning a wedding trip some time in August through the western states with Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Thompson, a couple married a few months ago.
