Finds Ticket To The Grand "Opening Ball" At Plymouth Hotel Under Ownership of John Kinyon

Event, Which Took Place In 1864, Was War Celebration As Well As Formal Hotel Opening Under Its New Owner

How old is Ann, was a short time ago a question that had them all guessing.

Now the question that is causing more guessing than Ann's age around Plymouth is—how old is the old hotel that is being torn down?

Some say 75 years, others say 90 and some even hint that it might be close to 100 years old. Substantial proof that the hotel was built several years before the Civil War and therefore must have been erected over 80 years ago was brought to the office of The Plymouth Mail this week by M. L. Kinyon, 87-year-old pioneer citizen of Plymouth, who probably knows more about the early days hereabouts than anyone else.

Mr. Kinyon has in his possession a ticket to the "Opening Ball" at the Plymouth hotel for the evening of Friday, September 2, 1864, when his father purchased the hotel and operated it for sometime.

Mr. Kinyon was a lad of 14 years at that time and remembers well the occasion.

The ticket, so dimmed with age that it can only be read with a strong glass, reads as follows:

"Opening Ball
"at the
"Plymouth Hotel
"On Friday evening, Sept. 2, 1864
"Yourself and lady are respectfully invited to attend.

"Good music in attendance
"John Kinyon, proprietor.
"Bill $2.00
"Plymouth, August 9, 1864."

The "youthful" Mr. Kinyon, who will soon reach the age of 88 years, declares that the event was one of the social functions of the closing days of the Civil War, when there wasn't much about the progressive little settlement to make folks happy. The war had taken a frightful toll from about here. He said it seemed that nearly every father and son, old enough to bear arms, had gone south to fight, many of them never to return.

The North knew at that time that it had about won the war so little Plymouth, then chiefly a trading place for settlers, seized upon the grand opening ball at the hotel as an occasion for a merry celebration.

All during the war period each forenoon when the stage coach arrived at Plymouth from Detroit, the driver would stop in front of the Plymouth hotel where the latest news from the southern battle fronts would be read.

It was on the very day of the ball at the Plymouth hotel when Sherman's army, that "marched to the sea," captured Atlanta, Georgia and General Phil Sheridan was making his successful raids.

So it was that on the night of the "opening ball" at the old Plymouth hotel when Mr. Kinyon took over its possession, that the event was more than just an ordinary social occasion that brought every one in these parts to the big hotel ballroom.

New Comfort Station In Park

Within the next week or two, Plymouth Riverside park will have another newly completed comfort station. This building which was started early in the spring will be of the general style of all of the other stations which the county erects.

It is of brick and steel construction, with the front and sides done in rustic fashion. It is located near the heart of the recreation grounds, across from the tennis courts and near the Whitbeck road.

Directly in back of the new building is a background of willow trees and the Rouge river. Only installation of the plumbing fixtures and interior finishing remain to be done before the station will be opened to the public. Probably another attendant will be hired to take care of the building the year round.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Snyder of Wayne road subdivision, are receiving congratulations on the arrival of a son, born Sunday morning, July 11.

Bather Drowns In Nankin Pond

While swimming at Nankin Mills, a few miles from Plymouth, John Queava, 41, of 4920 Junction avenue, Detroit was drowned Tuesday evening.

Police received a call from members of a swimming party saying that the body of a man was floating on the water. Officer Lee Sackett and Lew Price, manager of the Consumers Power company, immediately went to the scene with an in-halator, with which they worked over the man for more than an hour in an effort to revive him. Police believe Queava either suffered a heart attack or a cramp.

The man was drowned about 8 o'clock and it was nearly midnight before his body was taken to the morgue in Detroit. Nankin pond has become a general bathing place for hundreds, a similar condition existing there as did at Phoenix lake before that place was closed to bathing.

Furniture Show To Reveal New Styles

Blunk Bros. Buyer Goes To National Show In Chicago

The home furnishings industry's bid models of 1937 went on display at the American Furniture Mart, Chicago, on July 5 and among the thousands of buyers on hand for the event was Horace Thatcher, furniture buyer for Blunk Brothers store here.

"The Chicago market this summer was too important for us to miss," Mr. Thatcher declared. "Style trends change fairly rapidly, and a trip to market was necessary to keep up-to-date with the latest developments. Then, too, the price trend is still upward and by getting our orders in early we expect to effect substantial savings that we can pass along to our customers."

According to word from the furniture mart received here, more than 10,000 buyers from furniture and department stores in all 48 states and several foreign countries, are expected to attend the market between July 5 and July 17. It is considered possible that last January's record-breaking attendance of 20,000 square feet of space available for home furnishings displays, more than 800 manufacturers had their fall lines ready for the inspection of the visiting buyers. The show is a wholesale market only, strictly closed to the public.

"We expect to see modern furniture out in front again in the popular priced field next season," Mr. Thatcher commented. "Since modern turned conservative, it has held first place as the industry's favorite style. More than 50 percent of the new samples in many of the Mart displays were modern in inspiration."

A great deal of the 18th Century furniture was also shown. Mr. Thatcher said, and the local buyer selected a representative stock of Early American and French pieces. Less prominent styles that are expected to record substantial gains as the new season opens include Colonial American—reproductions of the furnishings in the great plantation homes of the Old South—Victorian—which is coming back into favor, especially in the higher priced lines, after a full generation of banishment from America's homes—and a newcomer to the group of furniture periods, based on the finer types in use in Latin America.

Plan Reception And Picnic For New Methodist Pastor

The Ladies Aid of the Methodist church is sponsoring a reception for its new minister, the Rev. Closson and his family. It is planning a potluck picnic supper to be held at Riverside park, at 8:30 p.m., Friday, July 23. In event of rain, the supper will take place in the church.

The following committee chairmen have been appointed: General reception, Miss Mabel Spicer; location, Mrs. Carl Martin; program Mrs. Fred Thomas; beverage, Mrs. Will McCullough and publicity, Mrs. Miller Ross.

The Aid hopes that all church members will endeavor to attend this reception, especially since the union services have delayed their becoming acquainted with the Rev. Closson and his family. In fact, the first sermon of Rev. Stanford S. Closson will not be preached until July 25 and that will be given at the Baptist church.

New Pitcher For Local Ball Team Is Drowned

Carl Burell Sinks To Death In Lake Erie When Boat Overturns

Arnold Jarsky, manager of the Schrader-Haggerty baseball team who signed Carl Burell, a Detroit pitcher for his team just a little over a week ago and who was delighted with the one game that Burell had pitched for him, was advised Monday that Burell had drowned when a boat he was in on Lake Erie overturned.

Burell had gone to his cottage with his 12-year-old daughter to spend two or three days and he had taken the girl out for a ride on the lake. He had taught his daughter how to swim and when the boat tipped over, he urged her to swim to shore. He clung to the overturned boat for a time and was apparently seized with cramps and sank to the bottom of the lake. His body was quickly recovered.

In the first and only game he pitched for the Schrader-Haggerty team, he gave the Farmington club a real trimming, allowing only two hits.

He was a member of the Detroit fire department. His death leaves the little 12-year-old girl an orphan, the mother having died a number of years ago.

"Homey" Went A Fishing But What A Fishing Trip It Was

From now on, Homer Jewell insists he will do his fishing in Tonquish creek, so he can be closer to home, and because it is much safer. On the Fourth, he and Glenn Jewell, left for a fishing trip on the Marquette river near Baldwin, and nearly met with disaster.

"Homey", who is quite a fisherman, seemed to have all the bad luck. First, he fell in the creek and received a good ducking.

Then, while walking through the woods, a deer spotted "Homey" and playfully gave chase and nearly ran over the barbering fisherman. A fishing rod, the pride and joy of "Homey" was also the object of misfortune. He got it tangled with no one knows what and broke the end off.

Then, there's nothing like a good night's sleep for a tired fisherman, so to bed for rest and mosquitoes! They were so big, said "Homey", that he could have harnessed them. By Wednesday, Glenn had decided that the best place for brother Homer was Plymouth, where the mosquitoes are capable of being swatted and the water only knee deep and free of quicksand, so on Thursday the two tired, mosquito-bitten fishermen returned to civilization for some time to come.

William Gayde Is On Vacation

While William Gayde, veteran Plymouth meat dealer, is taking his summer vacation from the Pennington market, his place is being filled by R. J. McDonald of Rosedale Gardens. Mr. McDonald, like Mr. Gayde, has spent a life time in the meat business and is familiar with every detail of it. For many years he was manager of the meat department of a big general grocery and meat market in Brighton.

Civic Exposition Proves Big Event Of Year

Sponsors Already Making Plans For Next Year's Exhibition

Plymouth's biggest and greatest three-day Industrial Exposition was brought to the acme of success Friday night of last week. The many days of preparation on the part of Stewart Dodge, president of the Chamber of Commerce, John Blyton, chairman of the exposition committee, and Leonard Murphy, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce and other members were rewarded with expressions of satisfaction by the hundreds who visited the exposition.

All who had exhibits cooperated to the last detail and those in charge of arrangements were greatly pleased with the results. Mr. Dodge said that the one next year would be bigger and better than ever before. Mr. Blyton, who was chairman, and one of the most active members of the committee, was highly pleased with the show, and said that it would be built on a bigger scale next year. He also said that much more space would be needed and that possibly a "big top" would be rented under which the show would be put on.

Attendance at the exposition is estimated at nearly 3200, with visitors from all nearby towns. Interest in the show was gradually increased with each new development. All who displayed goods will be rewarded in increased business and good will. Business contacts and sales leads will also be a part of the benefits. A number of business men have already asked about reserving space for the exposition next year.

Entertainment was a feature of the three-day exhibit. Tim Doolittle and his gang put on a great show, featured by a bottle band, a Hawaiian group, tap dancing and singing the world's largest mouth organ, eight feet long, on which every member of the organization played at the same time; the world's smallest mouth organ, one inch long; square dances and modern swing tunes completed Tim's part of the program.

The Ford Dixie Eight, colored singers, were warmly applauded by the audience, who enjoyed their spiritual and modern songs, as well as a number of solos and duets sung by various members of the octet. Alchemic, the magician, baffled the crowd with his uncanny tricks.

Those who displayed goods made extra efforts to have their booths exceptionally attractive; the majority of them putting up colored backgrounds and trimmings. Among the many displays a variety of the outstanding follow: Portraits, glasses, building materials, auto engines, typewriters, adding machines, lubricants, paints, cosmetics, shoes, a complete model kitchen, dresses, men's furnishings, guns, coal stokers, awnings, hair restoring machines, telephones, fuses, hardware, radios, flowers, drugs, plumbing and electrical fixtures to name but a few.

Congratulations and credit are extended to the entire Chamber of Commerce exposition committee and to those who aided the success of the program, in the success of the event.

Lightning Hits Barn, Causes Fire

Fire, caused by lightning, Monday evening destroyed one of the barns on the Jackson farm, located three miles from Plymouth on the Ann Arbor road. Firemen, called to the scene, were unable to be of much assistance as the fire truck became stalled in a muddy highway and considerable delay was experienced in nearing the place.

Another obstacle was the complete lack of water with which to fight the fire. It was necessary to draw water from a well and then pump it through the fire hose. The building was filled with hay which had been stored out a few days before the fire.

The barn was insured but the amount was not learned. The family occupying the farm had just moved in a week or two ago. A building standing next to the one which burned was saved, but the stanchions of a third building were burned.

Vocational School Program Attracts Many

Teachers Pleased With Public Interest In Trade Education

The high school vocational training program which began July 1, under the direction of Carvel Bentley, has made much progress. This plan is a new experiment for the local school authorities, but it has quickly met public approval.

The courses are designed for boys and girls who expect to enter industry or trades immediately after graduating from high school and does not prepare students to enter college. The plan is a co-operative arrangement between the school and business in the community. Students enrolled in the course are considered apprentices and will pursue a training program which will provide instruction in school as well as practice experience in a chosen occupation. While the apprentices are employed they will be under the supervision of the school as well as that of the employer.

The half day in school is mainly devoted to the study of related and technical subjects pertinent to the job in which the student is engaged during the remainder of the day. Conferences are held from time to time between Co-ordinator Bentley and those having apprenticeships.

At the present time six boys are employed in various trades in Plymouth. Two boys are learning meat cutting; one, the bakery trade; one, the dry cleaning trade; one, the auto mechanic trade; and one, the printing trade. There are two more vacancies to be filled; an auto mechanic and one to learn the care and maintenance of laundry machinery.

Four or five business and industrial men have agreed to take boys to learn their trade or business in the fall. Any boy over 15, interested in a trade or occupation, is requested to see Mr. Bentley at the high school or his home.

This vocational training program is a very worthy project, and as such, deserves the full cooperation of business and industrial leaders of the city. It will be of most benefit to those boys and girls who are, because of financial conditions, unable to continue their education after graduating from high school. It has been followed in larger cities for a number of years and has proved itself of great value. Those in charge of the program ask the cooperation of the whole city in making it another of the successes so much a part of a growing city.

Two New Homes Nearly Finished

Two of the three new homes which W. F. Speicher of Detroit is building in Maplecroft subdivision are rapidly nearing completion. A large crew of workmen have, for the past few weeks, pushed work on the interior trim.

Only the installation of the heating unit and plumbing fixtures remain to be completed along with the finishing touches on the wiring. These two homes, located on Roosevelt avenue, are of brick and contain six rooms.

The frame house on Burroughs street, which was started after the first two were well under construction, is also nearing the completion date. Building permits were issued to the Speicher company the latter part of May by the city.

Legislative Series Delayed Until After Session

Because of the fact that Governor Murphy has decided to try and call the legislature back to Lansing the last of this month to endeavor to build up his badly damaged political fences, the series of articles reviewing the work of the session will be discontinued until after his special session is ended.

Members of the legislature do not feel any too kindly about the special session, in view of the fact that the Governor spent practically a month during the early weeks of the regular session lolling around on the beaches in Florida and another vacation period at White Sulphur Springs in Virginia when matters he now says are essential could have been taken care of. Observers say that no matter what happens during the special session, it will in no way help to overcome public sentiment against the present state administration.

New Methodist Minister Assumes Charge

Educated In East Pastor In Upper Peninsula and Detroit

Plymouth's new Methodist minister, Rev. Stanford S. Closson, with Mrs. Closson and their three fine youngsters have moved during the past few days into the Methodist parsonage and he is busy preparing for his work in a ministerial field far different than any he has ever had before. Educated in the east, and for six years a pastor in the upper peninsula, followed by several years in the city of Detroit, the new Methodist minister has a background of exceptional experience that is bound to react to his benefit in Plymouth.

He is a graduate of Union college in Schenectady, New York and of Boston University.

For four years he was pastor of the Methodist church in Hancock, up in Michigan's copper country where the work of a minister carries with it problems of a much different nature than in this part of the state. Following two years at Crystal Falls, another upper peninsula city, he was transferred to the Fourteenth Avenue Methodist church in Detroit, coming to this city from the nearby metropolises.

"I have heard so many good things about Plymouth and its residents that I am glad to be here and associated with its fine churches and its good people. Of course a minister of the Methodist church goes where he is sent and it seems to be my good fortune to have been selected for this fine city," he stated yesterday.

"You asked me what church activity I am most interested in. That's a difficult question to answer because of the fact that a pastor just naturally has to be interested in all branches of his church work. But I must admit that the Sunday school, the children and the church affairs of the younger people hold a most fascinating interest for me," he added.

Fishing For Perch, He Lands Pike Weighing Over Eight Pounds

When a good fisherman goes fishing with a six-ounce, eight-foot rod, he is going to land his fish whether it's just a good sized perch or a great northern pike weighing more than eight pounds.

That's just what L. L. Ball did the other night up at Appleton lake. Mr. and Mrs. Ball were fishing for perch, both using light trout rods and lines and small sized perch hooks.

The tip of Mr. Ball's rod suddenly dipped below the surface of the water and he knew that he had a big one hooked. For the next 15 minutes there was as careful a fight put up as any fisherman ever waged in trying to land a big pike that had taken his bait.

Being an old time fisherman the Plymouth photographer knew there was just one thing to do, and that was to tire out the fish if he hoped to land it, as he had no landing net or gaff hook with him. That is what he proceeded to do and finally when he became about as tired as the fish, he pulled his prize catch in to the boat.

Police Chief Smith And Four Children Bitten By Dog, Receiving Treatment For Rabies

Stray Dog, Believed To Have Been Mad, Severely Injures One Child Before It Is Captured By Chief Smith

Dog Quarantine

"All dog owners are ordered to keep their dogs under leashes which will not permit them to reach within ten feet of the public sidewalk. It is recommended that all dogs be kept under leashes in the backyards of their owners. Several mad dogs have roamed the streets of Plymouth recently and it is not known how many other dogs have been bitten by mad ones. Nearly a dozen persons have been bitten by dogs during the past week.

"In order to protect the community from an epidemic of dog bites, the health officer has placed this immediate restriction upon dogs. If the people of Plymouth fail to carry out the suggestions offered, it will be necessary to order the death penalty for all dogs at large and who are not under leashes."

Dr. Luther Peck, Health Officer.

Markham Will Sustained By High Court

Beneficiaries Receive Funds As Provided In His Last Will

Older Plymouth residents will be greatly interested in the decision of Superior Judge Ruben S. Schmidt of Los Angeles a few days ago in which he sustained the Markham will, thereby assuring to its beneficiaries the funds intended by Mr. Markham, years ago, prominent Plymouth manufacturer.

Under the terms of the will, which have now been sustained by the California courts, Ernest Roe of Plymouth, secures $150 per month for the rest of his life. He was foreman in the old Markham factory before it was sold by Mr. Markham to the Daisy company.

Mr. Roe, who is now in California, writes to The Plymouth Mail that the weather there is ideal and the flowers beautiful. The following article pertaining to the Markham case is from the Hollywood, California, Citizen-News:

Superior Judge Ruben S. Schmidt late yesterday awarded judgment to the defendants in the Markham will case after holding that there had been a complete failure of proof of the charges brought by Maude Lillian O'Brien that the will of her father had been procured by fraud and undue influence and while he was mentally incompetent.

In the complaint, filed by the law office of McAdoo, Warner & Neblett, Mrs. O'Brien had charged among other things:

That Blanche C. Markham, widow of the testator, and Harlan G. Palmer, his attorney, had extracted five pages from a seven-page will signed by the testator and substituted other pages therefor.

Buy Drug Store In Webberville

H. H. Hamburger, who for a number of years has been a drugist employed at the Community store, has just purchased the R. L. Wade drug store in Webberville and will continue the business in its present location at that busy little community up on Grand River, near Lansing. Mr. and Mrs. Hamburger plan to move to Webberville as soon as they can find an available house to rent.

All-Star Game On Monday Evening

Because of rain the All-star game between the North side and the South side which was to have been played Wednesday evening, was postponed to Monday evening, July 19 at 8:30 o'clock.

Bernice Gregory, a five-year-old girl residing with her parents at 9115 Farmington road, was frightfully bitten by a big police dog Wednesday forenoon while playing near her home. The dog bit the girl's throat so badly that it was necessary for Dr. Brubaker to take several stitches in it. She will receive Pasteur treatment.

Police Chief Vaughn Smith, and four other persons, Anna Sambrone, 8 years old, of Mill street, Thomas Llewellyn, age 4 of Holbrook avenue, Floyd Bruno, age 9 of Durand, and Earl Smith of Starkweather avenue, are receiving Pasteur treatments at the University hospital in Ann Arbor as the result of being bitten by a dog believed to have been suffering from the rabies.

A call from the north end of town was received by police Saturday regarding a dog that had bitten several children. The dog, a white spitz, had apparently strayed from a neighboring town, and had attacked four children before it could be picked up by the police.

The Llewellyn child was severely bitten, suffering bites on the cheek, eye and near the mouth. He was taken to University hospital where he was kept for treatment. The other children suffered minor bites and scratches. All are taking serum treatment for rabies.

Chief Smith was bitten on the leg before he could capture the dog. It was kept in the pound for three days and died July 13. Its head was immediately taken to Ann Arbor for examination.

The local police have issued a warning that the city ordinance which makes it compulsory for all dogs to be confined during the months of July and August will be enforced. The police feel that necessary precautions should be taken to eliminate future occurrences such as happened last week.

New Beauty Shoppe Opens

Opening today, (Friday), in Room 207 in the Pennington-Allen theatre building, is Plymouth's newest and modern La Petite Beauty Shoppe. It will be under the direction of Mrs. Lucille Norcross of Ann Arbor, who also operates a beauty shop in the university city under the same name.

Mrs. Norcross, who has supervised the installation of the modern equipment for the new place, states that they have been watching the development of Plymouth for some time and decided that this would be an excellent place for another beauty shoppe similar to the one they have in Ann Arbor.

The place will be open each week day and appointments will be accepted for the evenings.

WHY NOT TELL THE TRUTH ABOUT IT?

In the last issue of The Tuscola County Advertiser appeared an article which told of the appearance of John A. MacLellan before the board of supervisors of Tuscola county.

The Advertiser said that he discussed with the supervisors the proposed new welfare organization for Michigan.

Who is John A. MacLellan and why should he find it necessary to travel about the state in an effort to "sell" the supervisors of the various counties on a new welfare set-up that will take out of the pockets of the taxpayers MORE cash than all of the other activities of the state combined—more money than it takes to run all the state departments, all of its prisons and all of its institutions? And where does the money come from to pay his expenses?

Mr. MacLellan was chief of the staff of highly paid lobbyists maintained by paid welfare workers to stay in Lansing during the entire winter to see to it that non-thinking legislators and others wrote into laws a welfare set-up that will break the backs of Michigan taxpayers to maintain.

Day after day, week after week, he sat in the legislative galleries watching over welfare legislation as closely and as intent as a hungry buzzard does over a hunk of old carrion.

Every time a suggestion was made which sought to take away from the state board the slightest control of any phase of the welfare set-up he hurried to his political buddies in the house to urge them to see to it that the counties were stripped of all power and that the state board was given complete authority in all welfare matters.

MacLellan will deny this statement—but he will deny it knowing that it IS TRUE! He knows that the county welfare boards will have to kow-tow to domineering Lansing politicians to get the cash they may need to run the welfare.

He knows that the new welfare set-up will create more jobs for welfare politicians than the state has ever known before.

For 30 years Michigan has operated a mothers' pension system under the direction of the probate judges of this state—and never has there ever been a charge made of graft in connection with the administration of mothers' pensions. True, it has been necessary at times for probate judges to curtail payment of pensions because of lack of funds, but never has one penny of this money ever been stolen or squandered.

But did this lobbyist tell the supervisors of Tuscola county that one of these welfare bills takes away from the probate judges of Michigan who have proven to be scrupulously honest in their administration of these funds, the mothers' pension system and dumps it all into the laps of a welfare system that smells to high heaven of graft, insipid administration, waste and padded expense accounts? Of course he did NOT!

True, Michigan's rotten welfare system needed a good house-cleaning. You know, and everyone else knows that for over three years this state has witnessed a welfare condition that has written into state's history one of its most shameful chapters.

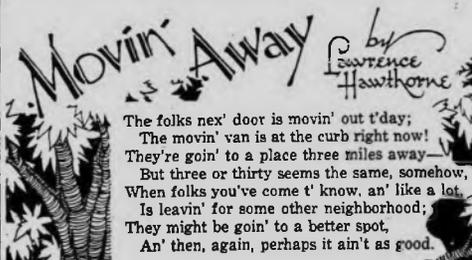

But did it get the house-cleaning it needed when we simply wrote into a new set of laws a continuation of the same thing we have had, only in a more elaborate way?

To the everlasting shame of the Michigan legislature, it did nothing to correct the errors of the past—it simply makes possible an elaboration of welfare squandering, and job creating that will dumb-found the people of the state when they become fully cognizant of what they have done.

There is but one HONEST way for the welfare problem to be handled and solved—and that way is to place ENTIRE control of the problem within the various counties of the state. Not only should this complete control be reduced to county units, but local responsibility should be compulsory.

Do you think for one minute that a welfare board under the complete control of the board of supervisors, with the supervisors holding a check over the welfare pocketbook, would provide support for some loafing bum who spends his time loitering about the street corners or in the beer gardens, lapping up beer that he buys with welfare funds and laughing at those who offer him work? Of course not!

"This means almost absolute local control of welfare,"

The folks nex' door is movin' out t'day;
The movin' van is at the curb right now!
They're goin' to a place three miles away—
But three or thirty seems the same, somehow,
When folks you've come t' know, an' like a lot,
Is leavin' for some other neighborhood;
They might be goin' to a better spot,
An' then, again, perhaps it ain't as good.

There's always somethin' mighty sad t' me
About the fac' that folks has got t' leave
A house where they was plenty glad t' be;
It's tough t' see 'em tryin' t' deceive
The neighbors into thinkin' all is well,
When tears is hidin' right behind their smiles;
It don't take any clever man t' tell
That heartache's goin' with 'em those three miles.

It's hard t' leave a home where joy an' care
Stored up a lot o' memories for you;
An' when you move your furniture somewhere,
You'd like t' take them tender keepsakes, too.
The folks nex' door is movin' out t'day;
An' when it's time t' say a last goodbye,
I'm hopin' that we let 'em get away
Without somebuddy startin' in t' cry.

Lobbyist MacLellan is reported to have told Tuscola county supervisors.

Well, this paid welfare lobbyist knows that that statement is anything but the truth.

If he wanted to correctly inform the Tuscola county board of supervisors about the new welfare set-up, why didn't he tell them that EVERY rule, every regulation, every requirement set up by the state board must be followed in EVERY single detail by the county board—in other words the county boards must do, in every particular, JUST as they are directed by the state welfare board?

Why didn't he tell the Tuscola county supervisors that the rules and regulations of the state department of welfare will CONTROL even the hiring of the office girl by the county board, that the standards of relief, the accounts, the records, the investigations, and all matters of public relations conducted by the county boards SHALL AND WILL be directly supervised by the state board?

In other words, why didn't he tell the supervisors that the county welfare boards will be nothing more than mere rubber stamps, to be used just how and when the state board shall direct?

What good will come from giving to the county officials such misleading information as that imparted to the Tuscola board by Lobbyist MacLellan when he says that county welfare board will "have almost absolute local control?"

He was honest enough to qualify his statement by the use of the word "almost" but even then his intent was to leave with the supervisors an absolutely WRONG impression of just what the new welfare laws will do.

If this new welfare set-up is a good thing for the state, why is it necessary for some paid lobbyist to be running around telling supervisors what a "good thing" the proposed re-organization is? Who is paying him for it?

A legislature that voted for bills without knowing the contents of many of them, passed these welfare bills and a spineless governor approves of them.

As a result Michigan taxpayers will support MORE paid welfare workers and will spend MORE for welfare in the next two years than at any time in the history of Michigan.

Do you call this thing progressive legislation?

Do you call it legislation in the interests of ALL the people of Michigan?

NO—a million times NO!

Some day, maybe the taxpayers of the state will wake up to what has been going on in Lansing—and when they do, God help the spineless, squandering, money-grabbing politicians, who are now doing such a good job in fooling the taxpayers.

A REAL JOB.

Plymouth merchants and manufacturers—and the residents of this entire locality—are highly elated over the success of the exhibition that came to a close in the high school auditorium Friday evening. The Chamber of Commerce organization and especially to John Blyton of the Blunk store who was named chairman of the exhibition committee by President Dodge, there is due a world of credit for making the event such an outstanding success. The exhibition was a credit to the community—thanks to every person who helped to make it so.

WHAT DID HE EVER DO TO HELP?

The Detroit News, the other day, in a news article lauding John T. Lindsey, a Washington politician, who was sent to Detroit to hear the details of the attempt of labor agitators to create a riot at the Ford plant some weeks ago, quotes Lindsey as having said, "I have always liked to see a poor man get along."

Maybe what he said is true—but nobody ever read anything in the newspapers about any payroll checks signed by him to help "the poor man along."

His conduct of the Ford hearing in Detroit would indicate very much as though his chief interest lies in an effort to ruin the Ford Motor company and thereby throw some 170,000 or 200,000 men out of jobs, the men he professes to be so much interested in.

If these political puppets in Washington knew or cared about the fear that exists in this section that possibly some day Mr. Ford, the man who pays the highest wage scale in all the world, will become tired of being hectorated by politicians and close his great industry down, maybe they would change their tactics. Our greatest concern is, however, that none of them have brains enough to realize anything. So far, all that the Washington administration has done, has had but one object in view, that is to throw the thousands and thousands of Ford workers out of jobs.

But what do they care as long as they can serve their party bosses as the bosses would like? And what do the bosses care as long as they can make more powerful their political machine and create more jobs for political whipper-snappers?

In the same paper a day or so later a head-line said that the politician sent up from Washington to Detroit to take testimony in the case had rebuked the Ford lawyer.

Well, what could Attorney Colombo expect? Doesn't he realize that the stage is all set against him, that the Ford company or any one associated with it can't possibly expect to get even decent treatment, say nothing about fair consideration of their side of the controversy?

Has Lindsey made any effort to try and find out WHY these fellows went out from Detroit to Dearborn, and started to invade private property, if it wasn't with the deliberate intent of creating a disturbance? Of course not.

He seems to be mightily concerned about the Ford "service men", so called.

Possibly if some of these four-flushing office holders would give to people and property the protection they are entitled to, Ford wouldn't have to hire service men or watchmen.

Hasn't this Wisconsin politician read newspaper accounts of the seizure in the name of "labor" of great Detroit stores, where, after the clerks and owners were driven out, the mobsters, UNDER THE PROTECTION of the law proceeded to systematically loot the stores—and hasn't he read where great industrial plants in this state have been seized and held by outsiders in defiance of law and order—and with high officials of the state doing NOTHING about it?

Why should not Ford take steps to prevent the same thing happening to his properties when outside mob leaders have been for months threatening to invade and seize his properties? No matter what the cheap politicians think, the PUBLIC thinks that Henry Ford has assumed the RIGHT course and that the fellows who illegally tried to invade his properties got just what they had coming.

All one has to do to realize fully how biased the hearing has been is to read the accounts appearing in the two Detroit evening papers that are apparently publishing the proceedings just as the Washington politicians want them written.

What can be done, and when will the vast majority of people, who are not at all in sympathy with the miserable conduct of public affairs, bring this governmental farce to an end?

Car Stickers End August 1st

Several thousand owners of motor vehicles will be barred from driving in the streets and highways of Michigan on Sunday, August 1, because they delayed too long to buy 1937 license plates to replace their half-year "stickers", it is estimated by Leon D. Case, secretary of state.

It has been computed that by July 16, with only 10 working days remaining before August 1—the "sticker deadline"—about 375,000 motor vehicles will still be equipped with stickers which their owners plan to replace with 1937 plates by August 1. This takes into consideration cars which will be junked when stickers expire, together with stickers already replaced with plates.

Case points out that it would tax the facilities of the department and its 150 branch offices throughout the state to issue an average of 37,000 sets of plates daily, in the time then remaining, even if applications were made at that rate. Inasmuch as a large part of the stickers are being used in congested Wayne county, it is believed that time will not permit service to all who seek it when August 1 approaches. The motor vehicle laws of the state do not permit the secretary of state to postpone this deadline.

THE TONQUISH CREEK BREEZE

Vol. No. 1 Tonquish Creek, Michigan U. S. A.

There's been some nasty, insinuating talk going around the Creek that the editor of The BREEZE does not like. Everybody else can get a new buzz wagon, even folks who owe The BREEZE some big dough, but when it comes to the BREEZE editor doing the same, then it's different. They start all kinds of gossip and even charge that the editor has sold out to the Purity League. Well, there is this about it, our mind is being changed about the Purity League. Just to stop these dastardly stories, the editor will say that he traded one share of BREEZE stock to Paul Weidman for what he got. Paul thought maybe he could control the policy of The BREEZE, but he got fooled. He found that out when he whizzed into The BREEZE office and tried to keep some hot news out of The BREEZE. It didn't work. Let's stop this gossiping about folks and get busy and save the creek!

covered his fine, intriguing hand-work associated with The WIND. The WIND keeled over and died after one issue.

The organization of the Tonquish Creek Home Guard is growing like rag weeds. Capt'n Fred Schrader has more in his mounted squad than he knows what to do with. Some are pretty raw yet from their first experience on top of those cavalry horses. Walt Harms was out training some recruits yesterday and says he saw what he thought was some military planes for the invasion of the creek valley from the east. The Creekers have got their eyes open all the time.

Schrader's buffalo ranch, which has been turned into a military camp for the trainin' of the Creek's Home Guards has taken on a lot of military looks. The boys will next week start campin' out nights to get used to the long campaign that's ahead fightin' for the Creek.

Harold Finlan is trying to work out a scheme whereby the military water wagons will have some beer vats in 'em somewhere. He says he finds out that some of the boys from down on the creek flats can fight better if they have beer to fight on.

Jack Taylor has been sort of squirming around to find out how he can get into the Home Guards somewhere where there won't be any fighting. The BREEZE will tell him now that the whole Home Guard army is one solid, fighting unit and if he joins, he's got to fight.

Vaughn Smith has recruited as head of the Home Guard military police. He thinks it's more necessary to have an intelligence department than it is to have heavy artillery. For his information he ought to know that the Creek is full of intelligence.

Creekers have found out that the reformed Purity League president, Clair Maben who is going to run the chuck wagon for the Creek guard, is experimenting with the family table down at the hotel on how short rations affect fightin' men. Stew Dodge and Brick Champe say it's about time for the experiment to end. Some folks are never satisfied.

This Purity League outfit has been making a lot of noise about Stan Corbett's lost wheelbarrow up on Farmer avenue. Clarence Elliott, who lives on the edge of the creek ridge and can't really be called a creeker, says some excavators digging in the street found some parts of some ruins which looked like a wheelbarrow. Now he charges that Purity Leaguer Corbett is interfering with horses along this thoroughfare that runs over north of the Creek. The BREEZE knowing Leaguer Corbett as it does, is willing to believe anything anybody says. This Leaguer once said the wheelbarrow dropped off the back end of his wagon into a hole down on Farmer and disappeared from sight so quick he didn't have a chance to grab it. That sounds just like some one who would start a newspaper called "The Wind" in opposition to The BREEZE. The BREEZE dis-

Henry Hondorp looks way ahead of the rest of the Creek tribe. It seems that Henry knows there's going to be need for a lot of ammunition during the approaching war over the rights of Tonquish creek and he's saving up all the tin cans in town to melt into bullets. Now who'd ever thought of that, except Fightin' Henry?

Doc Paul Butz, who is going to look after the livestock in the army as well as the fighters, says that if the Home Guards who have been training on horse back will use a little wagon axle grease on the raw spots, it will ease things off a bit. Doc has been looking up on war medicine and its uses.

Well what do you think a this bluff now? Aint the evidense plain as daylite? This gang has tried to bluff with a low inside pitch but the hole layout reeks a graff. Dont let em fool you with this stuff. The darn trickie is jest what I said it was a couple weeks ago and there high falutin pitchers a Maben posin as a fisher wont change it. (I dont think much a Maben changin back to the other side either.) But I dont hole a grudge. I am jest honest in my convictions.

What I want to make some comments on is that last idition of the BREEZE and the pitcher, they had the gall to print. Now fit this pitcher of the thing so as you will git my point when I spring it latter on. They call the creek, quote, "sparkling blue, babbling brook, rushing waters", unquote. Now whin you think of them kind

A Letter to the Editor.
To my Dear Phantom Fans and Fellow Voters:

I has explained to you before how I let down on my enemies, the Breeze outfit and was then called back into the battle to uphold certain things which is sacred to me; namely my honor and good ole "Tonquish Creek." an I wont go into that in detale agin. But I do want to thank all my cohorts who has contacted me in person and by mail and by phone and radio and by other methods which the newspapers wont print, to let me no that they is with me and urge me on to fight harder and harder for the cause. I just want to say to stick with me and lent me all the support you can and we cant loose. Can we?

Funny things are happening in the Creek. The other day Russ Fowler and Barister Ford Brooks had their heads together discussing matters in low breath. It wasn't long after that when The BREEZE was bothered by a telephone call from Judge Brooks wanting to know who was the author of some of the exclusive news in The BREEZE. He's pretty smooth when it comes to lawing, but he has go to be smoother than that when he gets any inside information out of The BREEZE.

Arrest Two On Suspicion

Deputy Sheriff L. D. Hunt, of Washtenaw county, who is stationed at the Plymouth Country club out on Ann Arbor road, last week arrested and took to the jail in Ann Arbor, Joe Troplano and Lewis Nader, two strangers, who had been loitering about the place during the day and evening. It was their suspicious actions which led to the arrest and when taken to jail at Ann Arbor it was found that both had several times previously been arrested. Nader, records showed, had been sentenced at one time from Shelby county, Ohio and served two years in the Ohio penitentiary. He was one time arrested at Mason, Michigan and in June, 1931, he was arrested in Ann Arbor for breaking into an automobile.

Troplano's record showed that he had at one time been picked up by the sheriff of Macomb county, that he had been arrested several other times for breaking and entering and that he was once arrested in connection with a kidnaping case. Deputy Sheriff Hunt was unable to learn what they were loitering about the club for, and he decided that it was best to try and check their records, and took them to Ann Arbor.

Notice is hereby given that a public hearing will be held in the Commission Chamber at the City Hall Monday evening, July 19, 1937 at 7:30 p.m. for the purpose of determining whether or not to construct an 8 inch sanitary sewer on Kellogg street between Tonquish Creek and Wing Street. All property owners whose property abuts the improvement will be given ample opportunity to participate in such hearing.

One of the best bets for deep-water wall-eyed pike fishing is the small spinner (June bug or other type) with either a minnow lure or with a job of worms—trolled slowly and deeply—and this is especially recommended for lake fishing.

Construction Speeded on Grand Coulee Dam

Work is being speeded on the Grand Coulee dam on the Columbia river in the state of Washington, which will eventually cost more than $113,000,000. The giant concrete mixer at left and the second on the opposite side of the river deliver concrete to cars which operate on a trestle. The rising blocks of concrete may be seen below the trestle on both sides.

Special Acts For Nearby Fair

A bevy of Hollywood beauties who daily defy death with a smile on their charming faces just to thrill moving picture audiences and to safeguard the names that are famous in the motion picture industry will appear at the Wayne county fair, Northville, Wednesday afternoon, and night only, August 25.

The troupe is headed by Mary Wiggins, the most sensational girl daredevil of her time and a girl who has doubled for practically every famous movie queen of the last five years.

When you see an automobile careening into a tree or over an embankment or crashing head on with another car in the movies, or a girl jumping from the top of a train to a ladder hung below an airplane, or swimming in shark infested waters or doing any of a hundred other death-defying stunts it is almost a sure bet that girl is Mary Wiggins.

Her services have become so much in demand that she has been forced to groom some other girls to accept the jobs she has to turn down and the girls who will appear with her at the fair are the ones she has trained for the movie roles.

The show that will be presented is rated as the foremost daredevil program in which girls take part every put together. Many of the stunts not even male daredevils will attempt. The girls go through their hair-raising and spine-tingling acts in automobiles and on motorcycles.

There are 14 individual acts to the program, with some of them almost unbelievable, especially when it is remembered they are performed by women.

The Bible has been translated in whole or in part, into 991 languages and dialects.

Says Chauncey Thomas: "In fact, these tests proved, or rather confirmed, what is well known to qualified gun experts, but is startling news to the ordinary man; namely, that an expert boxer has the advantage over any man armed with revolver or automatic pistol if in a room with him or if outdoors and not over 30 feet away. At ten feet, say, the boxer has the gunman at his mercy—that is, if the boxer knows it, which apparently he never does."

The Mission society of the Lutheran church will meet Wednesday, July 21, for a potluck luncheon at 1 o'clock, in Riverside party. Members are asked to bring one dish for the luncheon and silver and dishes for themselves. Mrs. Oscar Freihelt, Mrs. Gus Eschelt, Mrs. Oscar Lehman and Mrs. Phil Whitfire will be the hostesses. Anyone wishing transportation is asked to be at the church at 12:30 o'clock.

YOU'LL GET A BANG OUT OF THIS ONE!

Do you get a kick out of a golf ball's click when you really lean into one on the tee? Does your heart beat faster when the big fish strikes, and your singing reel almost smokes? Can a brisk breeze and a taut sail make you feel like a kid again, forgetting care in the sheer joy of action? Mister, if you're like that, what a bang you'll get out of this big Buick! You'll go for the way it goes for you. You'll like the quick, eager spurt of its get-away, the buoyant, swayless steadiness of its travel. You'll thrill to the businesslike manner in which it settles to the pull, its quiet, dogged competence in long, tough going.

You'll welcome the way it cradles you over the bumps, the neat, compact, handily mobile feel of it. You'll be proudly aware of its beauty, of the picture you make riding in its this-minute style. But don't forget this major thing—it's the buy of the season, price-wise as well as on performance! It's still selling at the lowest price in all Buick history—you can still get a big Buick eight for less than some sizes would cost you. So don't hold back. Good things, you know, can't last forever. Don't pass up a buy such as Buick is at its low prices now.

Furniture Show

Open stock ensembles: This is a break for the family that must buy a piece at a time. Manufacturers are bringing out large groupings, particularly for the bedroom and dining room, that are to be kept in the lines for several years. Customers who add to their suites later on can thereby obtain the same patterns and same finish on the new pieces.

Greater diversity of sizes: Those who live in old-fashioned homes with high ceilings and large rooms, and occupants of kitchenette apartments, will both be able to find furnishings scaled to their needs. Large and small persons will also be able to find chairs that "fit" for the new lines will include "Marquis" chairs, 40 inches wide, and the little numbers called "gossip" chairs, only 29 inches wide. The latter are frequently sold in pairs.

Finishes: Although the extreme bleached finishes have passed their peak of popularity, light finishes will continue to be widely shown.

Colors: The shades brought in to prominence by the coronation—rich reds, golds and blues, in particular—will be widely shown on upholstered furniture this fall.

Markham Will Sustained

(Continued From Page One) will, the testator was incompetent to understand or comprehend what he was doing or the meaning of any sort of business transaction, and that Blanche C. Markham, Harlan G. Palmer and Ethelyn H. Palmer had procured his signature to the will through fraud and misrepresentation.

That Blanche C. Markham, Harlan G. Palmer and Ethelyn H. Palmer had deceived the attorneys employed by the daughter to look into the will, Goodenough, Voorhies, Long & Ryan of Detroit and O'Melveny, Tuller & Myers of Los Angeles, and that as a result of that deceit they had failed to file a contest to the will in the time allowed by law.

That as a result of the charges made against Harlan G. Palmer in August of last year while he was a candidate for the office of district attorney of Los Angeles county, the daughter discovered that she and her attorneys had been deceived, the discovery having been made from newspaper stories and from a radio speech delivered by William H. Neblett on behalf of District Attorney Fitts, a copy of which speech she received two days after its delivery. The daughter testified that she received letters from Los Angeles at the same time she received a copy of the Neblett radio speech and left immediately for Los Angeles, going at once to the office of Mr. Neblett and through him filing the next day, the first of many actions.

Allegations of the daughter reflecting upon the memory and the character of her father were stricken from the pleadings. Her attempts to blacken his character by her testimony in court were stricken from the record by the court.

Mr. Markham died April 30, 1930. His will was admitted to probate May 22, 1930. Its provisions included the following: To the childless daughter who brought the action, now 59 years of age, $250 a month for life; To the childless son, now 50 years of age, $250 a month for life;

To his helper and companion of 40 years, Ben E. Sprague, formerly of Plymouth, $250 a month for life.

To his aged sister, Louise Markham, of Detroit, Michigan, $100 a month for life.

To his niece, Miss Isa Markham of Mayville, Michigan, $150 a month for life.

To his factory foreman, E. S. Roe, of Plymouth, Michigan, $150 a month for life.

To his gardener for 20 years, Ed Jenkins, $150 a month so long as he remained in the employ of his estate.

To his wife, Blanche C. Markham, the life use of the home property and any part of the remaining income that she might desire for her maintenance, pleasure and comfort.

Upon the death of Mrs. Markham the home property was to go to the children of Harlan G. Palmer and Ethelyn Hunkins Palmer.

Upon the deaths of all the beneficiaries, the body of the estate was to go to the Palmer children.

late was to go to the Palmer children. The probated will was prepared from a will in the handwriting of Mr. Markham. An effort was made by the attorneys for the daughter to show that a provision of this will reading "to the living children of the present Harlan G. Palmer and wife," was not in Mr. Markham's handwriting. This effort came to failure with the testimony of Clark Sellers, handwriting expert.

Efforts to show that the original will had been tampered with were met by the introduction of the office copy of the will and by the testimony of Mr. Sellers. No evidence of unsoundness of mind, undue influence or fraud was introduced.

The only evidence offered on behalf of the defendants consumed but an hour of the five-day trial in presenting. This consisted of the testimony of Mr. Sellers, of Miss Sara E. Pollard, notary public before whom the will was executed, and of Harlan G. Palmer, and of the introduction of letters from Mr. Markham revealing his wishes, his love of the Palmer children who had been his neighbors, and the manner in which he had studied his will, called in another attorney, and executed the same in Glendale during all of which time Harlan G. Palmer was in Hollywood.

In the first suit filed by the office of McAdoo, Neblett & Warner on behalf of Mrs. O'Brien, she asked for the removal of Mrs. Blanche Markham as executrix of the estate, alleging among other things that Harlan G. Palmer had borrowed $500,000 of estate funds.

After the loss of this action through complete failure of proof, an action was filed in federal court. This was thrown out on motion to dismiss. Then followed the action which resulted in yesterday's decision by Judge Schmidt.

Testimony was offered in the case just concluded that Mrs. O'Brien had accepted more than $15,000 under the provisions of the will before starting her actions to deny it.

Just Like The Big City Daily Newspapers!

The Plymouth Mail offers to its advertising patrons one of the best advertising illustration services in the country. Six years ago The Plymouth Mail was not the patron of any advertising illustration service, but to enable the business men of this city to place their goods before the public in the same favorable way that the big city stores do, The Mail secured what we believe to be one of the best advertising "mat" services issued in this country. The fact that it is used by one of the biggest newspapers in Detroit and in some of the other larger newspapers outstate, justifies The Mail in believing that good judgement was used in its selection. This ideal advertising service is at all times available to the advertisers in The Plymouth Mail without additional cost.

Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 390): "We cannot deny that Life is self-sustained, and we should never deny the everlasting harmony of Soul, simply because, to the mortal senses, there is seeming discord."

Come and worship with us and everyone is welcome. God's word tells us in Romans 6: 23 "For the wages of sin is death; but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord." We hate death for it has a lasting sting when one of our own is taken away and also by far the greatest majority do not like the fact of death coming into their life and taking them away. But here is Christ offering life to all who will accept Him, not only a life after death but eternal life right now. Come and hear more about it.—John Walaack, pastor.

Henry William Herbert was America's first sports writer. Known as Frank Forester, he wrote the "American Turf Register" in 1839, in addition to numerous other articles and books on sports.

Only a few hours after he had purchased an automobile, Alfred Sjoblad, of Waukegan, Illinois, stood by and saw the machine demolished by a speeding train. Sjoblad and three friends had leaped to safety when the car stalled on a crossing.

Although the squid is about as large as a whale, it cannot cope with the monarch of the oceans in free-for-all fighting. However, once it sees that a whale is getting an advantage, it plunges to the bottom, uses its tentacles, tries to hold the whale down until the latter has been drowned. Perfection Tied For First Place

Bryan Hovey, Sunday, pitched a six-hit ball game until the ninth inning to keep Perfection Laundry in first place tie with Cass Benton in winning from Glenn Gray, 6 to 5.

Adam Panosian showed the fans why he is the best relief pitcher in the league by going into the game in the ninth inning with a runner on second and third and two out and then struck out Legault to end the game.

Joe Horvath and Joe Schomberger were the leading hitters for the local team by getting two out of four. Horvath had a single and a double, while Schomberger had a single and a triple.

Next Sunday the strong Wyandotte team will be the local attraction. They had won six consecutive games up until last Sunday, when they finally lost a game to Garden City. They and Cass Benton are the only teams in the league that have defeated Perfection Laundry and it took them 11 innings to turn the table. Sunday's game will start at 3 p.m. at Riverside park.

Garden City Adds Another

A home run by Slug Tatro of the Garden City gas house gang with two men on in the fifth inning gave Garden City a well-earned victory over the St. Stanislaus club of Wyandotte by the score of 7 to 5. Lovell Hill, Manager Henschell's ace in the hole, started on the mound for the local lads, but had to be relieved in the fifth inning when bad support allowed Wyandotte to get in striking distance of tying the score. Hill struck out nine men in the short time that he was in the game.

The highly dramatic part of the game occurred in the ninth inning. Ray Fyle, who relieved Hill, started the ninth inning by walking the first two men to face him. He was lifted at this point and Waldo Scott went to the mound for Garden City. The first ball that he pitched was converted into a line drive to deep center field on which Charlie Wolfram made a fine catch. The ball might easily have gone for a home run. Scott bore down and fanned the next batter on three pitches. A tap to the box which was converted into the third out climaxed a remarkable bit of relief hurling on the part of Waldo Scott.

Wyandotte collected four hits off Hill, but was able to get only two off of Ray Fyle. Walks and errors accounted for most of Wyandotte's runs.

Next Sunday Garden City will play Belleville in Garden City. Garden City defeated Belleville 2 to 0 in their previous encounter. Waldo Scott pitched that game, allowing but six scattered hits.

At one time, the tea plant was grown experimentally in South Carolina, but it did not become profitable because the labor cost there was so much higher than in the Orient.

RAMBLING with Editors AROUND of Michigan

IN THE SADDLE.

A commentator states that the second Michigan utility strike in the Saginaw area was "started in a holiday spirit". He says that Michigan laborers feel they are "in the saddle" and can do as they like and get away with it.

A holiday mood which benefits only one labor group and proves extremely costly to another is not likely to be excused.

When the play spirit is inspired by radicals in a small group just to demonstrate the power of that group, the rest of the citizens who are affected cannot long endure such destructive conduct. The ordinary citizen is the one left holding the bag, while labor leaders and radicals stir up sit-downs, power shut-offs, even city snatching. The butcher, the restaurant owner, the grocer, the individual property owner, every man who earns his living—they are the ones who suffer when the illegal acts of radicals are permitted to continue.

We have a government of laws to direct our governor and state officials, and it is time that every citizen demand that the law be enforced AT ONCE, before the lawlessness of a minority group has destroyed all morale and respect for law. "Who gave Governor Murphy discretionary power to say when or whether the law should be enforced?" Governor Murphy is under oath to enforce the laws and the people of Michigan are allowing him to substitute for them some arbitrary decision of his own.

After the famous blood-purge in Germany in which some two hundred or more persons were assassinated, Hitler said:

"If someone asks me why we did not invoke an ordinary court to deal with these men, I can only tell him that in this hour I was responsible for the fate of the nation, and therefore the supreme court of the people during these 24 hours CONSISTED OF MYSELF." —Crystal Falls Diamond Drill.

DIAMOND IN THE UPPER PENINSULA.

It is difficult to approve the action of the band of loyal citizens who may have overstepped the strict limitations of the law and who put to rout the alleged ringleaders in the woodmen's strike, which has paralyzed the industry in Gogebic county for more than a month.

It is equally as difficult to conceive that a government, constituted to protect private property and to guarantee every man a right to seek happiness, would continue to waver in its policy to see that these fundamental precepts of our government are maintained. The uprising of the respectable citizenry in defense of its property and privilege to work Wednesday night was the direct result of this vacillating and sympathetic attitude of both state and national government in all such similar situations in the past six months.

We offer no criticism to city, county or state law enforcement groups. These officers have answered every call, have worked effectively with limited men and resources, but hindered and tied at the same time by the lack of a determined governmental policy. Were these officers given the authority to do the job as they saw it with the blessing of those in Lansing or Washington, the present strike would have been settled weeks ago.

Those who witnessed the assault of hundreds of alien strikers at Marquette Wednesday, saw the damaged trucks and talked with the daring drivers who rode these loaded vehicles through the barrage of rocks and other missiles cannot hold any sympathy for the strikers or any of their organization.

The opportunity of the logging operators to get their logs out of the woods before the product was unfit for the mill and the right to a job has been denied. No one can say that the operators have not agreed to the terms of the strikers. Wages have been raised, working hours adjusted and camp conditions improved as outlined by the strikers' demands. The only issue which stands in the way appears to be recognition of a union whose patriotism has been denied by an established laboring man's group.

The events of the past month would seem that the source and fountain-head of the strike is closely related with the Communist organization of this section of the country.

It may be difficult for some straight-laced Americans to look at the situation squarely, but put yourself in the place of the logging operator or the man who wants to work and who has already risked his life that he might work. The job is not one entirely for law enforcement officers. It is the job for every American. A few more such demonstrations as Wednesday night and the country will be back in the hands of Americans again.—H. L. Tregison in the Wakefield News.

Here Is A Camp For Trailer Tourists

Red Bridge park, newest of Consumers Power company free tourist camps, was officially opened to public use July 2 as an unscheduled feature of the Manistee Forest festival, it was announced today by Frank G. Boyce, Consumers vice president in charge of electric production and transmission. The park is on Manistee river, about half way between Cadillac and Manistee.

Developed during the closing months of 1936 and the first half of this year, Red Bridge already has been sought out by numerous picnickers and casual visitors, according to Mr. Boyce, but its first large-scale use by trailer-tourists and campers is expected to occur as the Forest festival gets under way.

The new camp occupies a wild and heavily-wooded site on the Manistee river bluffs a few miles east of Brethren in Manistee county. Wild life abounds in the surrounding territory—a celebrated deer country—and the Manistee and such neighboring streams as Little Bear creek and Sands Creek provide excellent trout fishing.

In the simple entrance and in all the park buildings, a rustic atmosphere has been preserved. Lodge, ice house, garage, fuel house, toilets and root cellar have been constructed of logs. Tables and benches likewise are of log construction, log housings cover pumps, and a log stairway of 80 steps leads down from camp sites to picnic grounds on the flats below.

Mr. and Mrs. Christy Brown, well-known residents of the area, are in charge of the camp. Baked goods and staple articles, dry firewood, ice, gasoline and oil are available at the caretaker's lodge, and fishing boats may be rented at small cost. No fee is charged for use of the camp, water supply or camp stoves. Designed to produce much heat with little fuel, the stoves are of metal, bolted to cement foundations.

A driveway circles the entire property and camp sites are laid out, far enough apart for privacy, in such a way that trailers may be parked easily and driven out without turning around.

Red Bridge is reached from the Dr. W. E. Coates Memorial highway running due east out of Brethren.

Eastern Michigan partner of Red Bridge is Old Orchard camp, opened last year by Consumers. It is situated on the famous Ausable river and the county highway between Hale and Oscoda, about a mile west of Foote Dam. It embraces almost 50 acres. Facilities are of the same type and completeness as those at Red Bridge.

Crops To Be The State's Biggest

The Michigan crop outlook on July 1 is generally favorable. The indicated production is larger than that harvested in 1936 for every crop except sugar beets and pears, according to V. H. Church, agricultural statistician for the joint federal-state crop reporting service. While heavy and frequent rains in the southern four or five tiers of counties seriously interfered with the planting and cultivating of spring crops and injured or drowned out many acres of onions, sugar beets, potatoes and other cultivated crops, growth has been normal or better in that area. Conditions have been almost ideal over a broad belt in the central portion of the lower peninsula, while the northern portion of the southern peninsula and the greater portion of the northern peninsula has experienced a rather severe drought condition.

The total acreage of the 14 important Michigan crops is nearly three percent larger than that harvested last year although it is slightly less than the amount planted in 1936, the difference of 3.6 percent being the acreage abandoned last fall as a result of drought in mid-season and damage caused by rains during September and October. Heavy rains prevented planting the full acreage of sugar beets that were intended this year, and have destroyed and damaged some of the acreage after planting, so that the acreage is only 76,000 compared with 98,000 harvested in 1936. Drought and heat last year destroyed many few seedlings which results in a 3.6 percent reduction in the acreage of hay for harvest this year. Farmers were also unable because of continuous rains to seed as many acres of oats as intended, the total being about 3 percent less than was harvested last year. All other important crops show moderate increases in acreage.

The Michigan winter wheat crop is generally good in all sections and promise a production of 23,207,000 bushels, Michigan has not produced a wheat crop of this size since 1928. Not only are good yields expected but the acreage is the largest since 1922. Corn acreage was increased eight per cent over last year and the indicated crop based on July 1 condition, is 50,220,000 bushels as compared with 36,750,000 bushels harvested in 1936. Oats promise a fourth larger crop, barley a 45 percent larger crop, and rye a 17 percent larger crop than last year.

The state's potato crop, notwithstanding the unfavorable effects of wet weather in southern counties and drought in northern counties, is indicated to be 29,715,000 bushels as compared with 26,125,000 in 1936. The larger production is due in part to an increase in acreage. Bean growers planted 489,000 acres which is an increase of 23,000 acres over the area harvested last fall. The crop has suffered a great deal from wet weather, considerable replanting being necessary because of weather damage and losses caused by bean maggots. The condition is 6 points below the 10-year average and the indicated production of 3,178,000 bags is only about a half-million bags more than the short 1936 crop. As the planting was only recently completed, much can happen during the next six weeks to materially change the outlook as the estimate allows only for the average change as recorded in past years.

Haying has been greatly delayed by wet weather in the southern districts, and much hay has been damaged. However, the crop is heavy and with more favorable weather in recent days the cutting is largely out of the way. With average weather for the later cuttings, the total crop is expected to be 3,486,000 tons, about one-eighth more than was cut in 1936 from a larger acreage. The acreage of alfalfa, which has steadily increased throughout the post-war period, has reached the all-time peak of 1,125,000 acres for this state. This acreage is exceeded by that of only two other states, Minnesota and Nebraska.

The season has been unusually favorable for the state's fruit crops. Spring freeze damage was limited to small areas and was relatively light. Ample moisture has produced excellent growth and, while much fruit dropped during June, a good setting remains and much thinning is found necessary, especially of peaches. Present prospects indicate the following percentage increases in production over last year: apples, 50 percent; peaches, 66 percent; plums, 49 percent; cherries, 24 percent; and grapes, 63 percent. If these indicated increases are attained it will be the largest Michigan production of apples since 1920, of peaches since 1898, and of grapes since 1932 and the largest cherry crop for this state on record. While the pear crop is relatively large it was also large last year, and the present outlook is for a production 30,000 bushels smaller than in 1936.

Farmers are seriously handicapped by a shortage of farm labor; the supply being only 68 percent of the demand. Farm wages have been advanced about 28 percent over the same date last year, but the urban factories and local state and federal projects are providing employment at a level of wages that cannot be successfully met by farmers. In an effort to offset the labor shortage, farm sales of tractors and other labor-saving machinery show unprecedented increases, but there is still much farm work that cannot be performed with machines. Hence, an early solution of the farm labor problem is sadly needed if farm crops are to be properly cared for and harvested without undue losses.
