Five Thousand Persons Witness Colorful Ceremony At Dedication Of The Villa St. Felix on Labor Day

Archbishop Mooney Officiates; Mother-General Also Attends

The Villa St. Felix, the new $1,000,000 motherhouse and novitiate of the Detroit Province Felician Sisters was dedicated in a colorful ceremony Labor day by the Most Rev. Edward Mooney, Roman Catholic archbishop of Detroit.

More than 5,000 persons, including Mother Mary Pia, of Cracow, Poland, American-born mother-general of all the provinces of the Felician Sisters, witnessed the rites.

The arrival of Archbishop Mooney, officiating at a dedication for the first time since his enthronement, was greeted with a salute fired by Polish Legionnaires, a trumpet flourish and the crown-sword salute of the Knights of Columbus.

The procession wended its way through the thousands of spectators at 10 a. m., marching from the center door of the convent to the door of the convent church, where the archbishop intoned the dedication. He then made a tour of the outside of the church. Then the archbishop, other dignitaries and the 100 priests who attended filed into the church chanting the litany of the saints. Following the dedication Fr. Ladislaus Krzyzosiak, acting rector of St. Cyril and Methodius Seminary, Orchard Lake, offered a solemn high mass, coram episcopo, in honor of the presentation of the Blessed Virgin Mary.

It was the founder and first rector of St. Cyril and Methodius Seminary, Fr. Joseph Domrowski, who brought the Felician Sisters to this country more than 60 years ago. Their first community was at Polonia, Wisconsin, and later the motherhouse and novitiate were moved to Detroit.

The new Villa St. Felix replaces the original motherhouse at Canfield and St. Aubin avenues, which has been made into an orphanage for girls.

Fr. John J. Bonkowski, preaching in Polish during the mass, praised the labors of Fr. Domrowski and of the group of five sisters who began the work of the order in the United States.

At the close of the mass Archbishop Mooney, who presided at the metropolitan throne, congratulated the sisters on their achievement and expressed "my own deep desires, and those of their friends and of all whom they have served that the hope which this day inspires may be realized in this community."

Thanking the sisters, in his own name and in the name of the bishops who have preceded him at Detroit, for their untiring

Through this cooperation of the P.T.A., students are able to sell and buy their school books. It is a splendid and worthwhile service which everyone appreciates.

City To Start Weekly Collection Of Rubbish Here

Second Major Service Begun This Year

The city of Plymouth will inaugurate a new service of weekly collections of rubbish on October 5.

The plans, approved by the city commission at a meeting Tuesday night, call for pickup service once a week without charge if the householder places the rubbish in containers in the front of his home or at the rear if a passable alley runs past the residence.

In announcing the new service, the second to be started here this year, City Manager Clarence Elliott said that the regular rubbish collection would begin after a big rubbish clean-up campaign the previous week. He asked co-operation of householders to clean out all the rubbish so it can be picked up during the campaign. Elliott said that extra trucks would be put on for the clean-up with work concentrated in the first precinct on September 28, the second precinct on September 29, the third precinct on September 30 and the fourth precinct on October 1.

In connection with the regular weekly pickup service to start the following week the collection will be made in the first precinct on Tuesday, the second precinct on Wednesday, the third on Thursday and the fourth on Friday.

There will also be an added special service provided by the city at a rate of five cents a bushel of rubbish for householders who want the rubbish taken from their basement or shoveled up from the yard. There will be no charge however for anyone who places rubbish in the containers and places them outside of the house in a handy place for the pickup truck.

The city will also shovel and haul away ashes at a charge based on the time necessary to do the job.

Elliott said that on October 5 also the garbage collection service, inaugurated last June, would at that time go on the winter schedule of one pickup a week.

The city will sell special rubbish collection credit cards for $2 each for the householders who want the extra service from basements. The cards will be available from both the driver of the truck and at the city treasurer's office.

August Postal Receipts Jump Seven Percent

Plymouth Postoffice Shows Nice Gain Over 1936

Postal receipts at the Plymouth postoffice jumped seven percent during the month of August compared to the month of July.

Postmaster Frank K. Learned reports that postal business, always a good indicator for general economic conditions, has been gaining throughout the first eight months of 1937.

The latter part of August also showed the seasonal upturn in business as the summer months, the lowest portion of the business year, ended.

"The Good Earth" Opens Five-Day Run Here Sunday

Penniman-Allen Theater Offers Special Feature

"The Good Earth," the greatest movie production of 1937, comes to the Penniman-Allen theater Sunday for a five-day run.

Luisa Rainer and Paul Muni, co-starred in the production, reach new heights in this movie version of Pearl Buck's best-selling novel. The picture, pronounced by many as a "cinema epic," shows the struggle of a poor Chinese family including magnificent scenes of a revolution, and the successful fight against famine and plague.

The Plymouth debut of "The Good Earth" will be at 2:30 p. m., Sunday which also will mark the resumption of the theater's policy of Sunday matinees. Three other showings, at 4:48, 7:03 and 9:20 p. m., are scheduled Sunday. Two showings, at 7 and 9:20 p. m., are to be given on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

Sudden Death Shocks Family

Robert Hitt, 15, Wins Second State Horseshoe Title

Plymouth Youth Outclasses Older Opponents

Robert Hitt returned to classes in Plymouth high school this week after winning his second straight state horseshoe pitching championship in two years.

Robert, the fifteen-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Vern Hitt, of 761 South Harvey street, retained his title in a thrilling match which was decided on the last pitch in his battle with thirty-six-year-old Carl Lundgreen, Detroit city champion.

After three days competition at the Iron County Fair in Iron River, Robert and Carl tangled for a seven game tilt to decide the title. Each had won three games when the seventh started.

It was a nip-and-tuck battle with the two pitchers hurling two ringers apiece on nine occasions in the final game. Then with Bobbie leading 48 to 48, the Detroit hurler a ringer, then he missed on his second shot. Hitt's first shot was a ringer, which cancelled Lundgreen's and saved his title. Then taking a cool aim, Robert threw his second shoe—a ringer—which gave him a 52-48 victory and the championship.

The Plymouth boy, who plays baseball and basketball in school where he is a member of the tenth grade, was first interested in pitching horseshoes six years ago and entered his first tournament in 1935. He was beaten but again entered the state tournament in 1936 at Marquette and won his first title against more experienced and older foes. This year he competed at the Ionia Free Fair in a special tournament and finished second. He will wind up his 1937 competition in a special tourney at Saginaw next Sunday.

Welfare Graft In Old Days Just Like Today

The Beginning Of Relief Work In Our State

(By ELTON E. KATON) Probably the writer of this article has written more columns of space on the welfare problem of Michigan during the past two or three years than have been prepared on any other subject. Knowing full well the abuses of our new system, its short comings and its frightful burden to the taxpayers, it is but natural that there has been an inclination to pass this information along to the readers of The Plymouth Mail.

Because of the fact that there is such a vast part of our tax money being spent on welfare and because of general public disgust in the way welfare is being handled, it might be interesting to turn back the pages of Wayne county history to the early days of "welfare" in this part of Michigan and see how the problem was taken care of in the early days of Michigan and Wayne county.

Lillian Horsfall Is Fatally Hurt On Plymouth Road

Ten-Year-Old Girl Darts In Front Of Automobile

Lillian Horsfall, ten years old, was killed Friday afternoon when she darted in front of a car driven by Beryl Miller, 24, of Eloise.

The girl's mother, Mrs. Hazel Horsfall, 29, of 1308 Plymouth road, expostulated the driver of blame. She said that Lillian ran from her side toward a mail box across Plymouth road near Hagerdy highway.

Police Chief Vaughn Smith and Wayne county deputy sheriffs investigated.

Although traffic was exceedingly heavy over Labor day weekend not a single accident was reported within the city of Plymouth.

Funeral services were held for the little girl at the Schrader funeral home at Northville on Monday afternoon. The Rev. C. M. Pennell of the Salem Federated church officiated.

Herald Hamill Named Engineer For Creek Job

Tonquish Project To Be Completed By January 1

The Wayne County Drain commission announced this week the appointment of Herald Hamill, of Plymouth, as engineer in charge of the Tonquish Creek improvement project.

Hamill is already busy working out specifications for the job of covering the creek from Harvey street to Wing street within the city. The job will be done by contractors with the contract to be let as soon as possible, probably in October. It is hoped that work will get under way quickly with completion of the improvement by January 1.

The entire project, which will cost from $35,000 to $40,000, provides for the covering of the creek with cement as well as widening and straightening of the existing bed of the creek. It is also proposed to extend Forest street and re-locate the bed of the creek along the public right-of-way. It will eliminate cutting through private property. Hamill already has obtained six of the seven deeds to property involved in this phase of the improvement.

This project, long sought here, will eliminate complaints of many citizens about the flowing of what amounts to an open sewer through the main business section.

Rock Gridders Turn on Speed In Workouts

Sixty-five Boys Report For Football in Plymouth

Plymouth high school's football squad of 65 players, largest to report in several seasons, settled down to grueling workouts this week to prepare for their opening game with the Michigan School for the Deaf at Flint, on September 18.

Coach Milton Jacob and assistant coach Wallace said that they were more than pleased with the spirit and ability shown by the Rock candidates during the warm weather pre-season sessions which started September 1.

The veteran gridders who reported this fall include G. Moe, D. Prough, G. Krumm, D. Evans, J. Archer, J. DeLaunier, H. Olson, Captain M. Sackett, N. Curtis, J. Ross and R. Gilles.

The boys looked in fine physical shape during the workouts and it appears that several veterans will have a merry battle on their hands if they are to hold their old posts. Although a little early to pick starting line-ups, it looked this way this week.

G. Moe and D. Prough, a veteran pair, look like fixtures at the ends. Joe Archer, who has gained some weight and speed during the summer, and I. Packard have been working well at the tackles while J. DeLaunier, H. Olson, E. Rutherford and R. Lorenz are clicking at guards. Another battle looms at center between Captain Sackett and N. Curtis while Jack Ross stands out at quarterback, R. Gilles and O. Egloff are kicking and passing well and top all halfback candidates. At fullback G. Krumm is getting plenty of competition from H. Leach and L. Smith.

With a tough schedule of games listed for this fall, Coach Jacob has impressed his large squad that past performances will not decide the starting line-up.

"The best man will get the call for each position and he'll have to be a fighting football player to hold it," he said.

After the opener, the Rocks will meet Redford Union at Redford on September 24, Dearborn here on October 15, Ecorse at Ecorse on October 23, Wayne at Wayne on October 28 and Northville here on November 5.

Couple Killed In Plunge Within Smoke Stack

Miss Hilda Williams, twenty-year-old Mayflower hotel waitress, and Michael Schlemmar, 47, a construction crew foreman, fell 245 feet to their deaths Tuesday afternoon while on a forbidden sight-seeing trip to the top of the new smoke stack at the Burroughs Adding Machine plant being built on Plymouth road.

Mrs. Williams was accompanied by Mrs. Florence Jordan, another waitress at the hotel, who drove to the construction site shortly after the waitresses were off work at 3 p. m.

Miss Williams was anxious to go up to the top of the stack," Mrs. Jordan related. "When we got out there we saw Mike Schlemmar and went into the power house beneath the stack."

The brick smoke stack raises 175 feet above the roof of the 55-foot power house and the only method of scaling the height is to stand on a round cement block, 12 inches in diameter, and being hoisted up the 245 feet inside the stack by a motor-driven hoist.

"Hilda and I both planned to go up," Mrs. Jordan related. "Only one of us could go at a time so Hilda and Mike got on the platform and signaled to be hoisted. As I watched them being pulled up to the top I suddenly decided that I didn't want to go up because it looked too dangerous."

"As they reached the top I noticed Mike's hat fall off. I think maybe he knocked it off when Hilda started to fall. Then there was a scream and Hilda's body tumbled to the floor of the power house at my feet."

Miss Williams was killed instantly.

"The Mike, at the top of the shaft, jingled the bell to have the hoist lowered," Mrs. Jordan continued. "After he had come down part way he suddenly fell off the platform and his body landed on the ground right where I had been standing until someone pulled me back a second before."

Schlemmar, a veteran stack construction foreman, was still conscious when witnesses picked him up after the fall. He was brought to the Plymouth hospital and then was rushed to Providence hospital in Detroit where he died about 6 p. m., less than two hours after the mishap.

Schlemmar told officers that while being lowered, after the girl's fatal plunge, that he became panicky while about 150 feet from the ground.

"My legs buckled under me and I, too, fell," the injured workman said.

Schlemmar, who had been living here for the duration of the construction job, had a wife and four children in Chicago.

Mrs. Jordan said that Miss Williams had wanted to go to the top of the smoke stack ever since another waitress at the hotel, Mrs. Ulva Morris, made the trip to the top two weeks ago. Miss Williams was going out to the construction site the following day but officials in charge of the construction told her that it was too dangerous and that she could not go up into the stack. Men working on the job at the time Mrs. Morris made the trip were warned never again to take anyone to the top.

Miss Williams, who had worked at the hotel here for eight months, had a weak heart and could not go on derby racers and other speeding rides at amusement parks, her mother, Mrs. Bernard Williams, who lives in Twining, Mich., told officers in Detroit during the investigation Wednesday.

It was believed that Miss Williams either fainted or suffered a heart attack and, despite Schlemmar's heroic efforts to save her, plunged to her death.

Wayne county deputy sheriff and State troopers took Ray Weir, another member of the construction crew who was operating the hoist, into custody for questioning shortly after the accident. Post mortems were held in Detroit Wednesday.

Funeral services for Miss Williams will be held in Detroit.

Public Schools Set Record In Enrollment

Plymouth Has Increase of 102 Students

Plymouth public schools opened Tuesday with an enrollment of 1566 students, the largest in the history.

The 1937 first day enrollment was 102 more than last year. In 1935 there were only 1442 students enrolled and in 1934 only 1340.

The biggest increase came in the high school where, this year, there are 780 enrolled, compared to but 683 last year. The largest class is the ninth grade with 196 listed, compared to 117 in that class last year. The tenth grade dropped from 158 last year to 115 this year while the eleventh grade increased from 95 in 1936 to 159 this year. The seventh grade has 112 this year compared to 101 last year, the eighth 97 compared to 108 last year, and the twelfth increased from 95 in 1936 to 101.

In the grade schools the enrollment at Central this year is 482 compared to 476 in 1936 while Starkweather has 304 compared to 305 last year.

It is expected that the total enrollment, when late students are included, will go well above the 1600 mark.

Firm Organized To Build Homes In Plymouth

To Fill Vacant Lots With Moderate Priced Dwellings

Through the efforts of Harold Woodworth, a real estate broker, a new firm has been organized which will be known as the Plymouth Construction Co.

The new group plans building a number of dwellings within the City of Plymouth to be placed on the market. The homes will range in price from $2,000 upward.

C. A. Richmond, superintendent of the company, said that it is contemplated to fill vacant lots here with homes for persons with moderate incomes to help alleviate the growing shortage of houses here.

The firm will specialize in houses which will sell for $2,200, $2,850, $3,850 and $4,450 with arrangements for low down payments under the Federal Housing Administration set-up. The payments, including interest, insurance, taxes and principal under this plan, would be from $18 monthly and up.

Woodworth said that most of these homes would have the usual conveniences including air conditioning, a recreation room, hardwood floors and full insulation.

The firm plans to employ all skilled labor and building supplies which are available in Plymouth.

OLD PLYMOUTH RESIDENTS KNOW.

A California community has a publicly-owned electric plant. Last year this plant earned a profit of 37 percent, according to its managers—because the local residents pay much higher rates than do comparable towns in the area served by private systems. Demands for rate reductions have not been met.

Commenting on this, the local newspaper says: "No private utility would be permitted to operate at a profit of 37 percent for one year. The law makes it unlawful for them to earn that amount of money on their investment, and their rates, costs and other operating data are open to the railroad commission, which protects the public. No such protection as this exists, however, in the case of public utilities. The railroad commission has no jurisdiction over rates, net earnings or operating costs and the limit is about what the traffic will bear or what the public will stand hatched for."

A case where a municipal utility earns a big profit is probably an exceptional one, as Plymouth residents of the many years ago will know. It is much more common for municipal utilities to lose money and create deficits which must be paid out of general funds, by all city taxpayers. In order to create superficially low rate levels, politically managed plants will use deceptive systems of making financial statements, will be given special services, such as accounting and billing, without cost to the plant, by the town government, etc. Again, state regulatory commissions have no authority to intervene, even though practices are employed which would not be tolerated for a second in a regulated private system. The public has no protection.

In view of the record, it is no wonder that the number of public plants in this country has steadily declined for many years—and that in the great bulk of recent elections, voters have steadfastly refused to go into the power business.

Lines to a Lovely Lady

by Lawrence Hawthorne

You may not know, lovely lady,
That my heart has adored your charms:
You may not know that I love you so—
That I long for your lips and arms!
No word has ever been spoken,
For I feared you could never care;
And yet—ah well, yearning bids me tell
Of the dream I would have you share!

Just you and I and the moonlight,
In a garden where roses grow—
Just you and I, while the world rolls by,
And the years gently come and go . . .
I dream this dream of enchantment,
And I wish that it might come true—
That some glad day I could steal away
To this garden of dreams with you!

Liquor Tax.
Boxing Exhibition Tax.
Racing Meet Tax.
Poll Tax.

And then comes the Government in Washington with its tariff duties and a maze of internal revenue taxes, among which the more lucrative are:

- Personal Income Tax.
- Corporation Income Tax.
- Inheritance Tax.
- Gift Tax.
- Stamp Taxes on Playing Cards, stock and bond issues, deeds, foreign insurance policies, passage tickets, capital stock transfers, sales of produce on exchange.
- Distilled Spirits and Alcoholic Beverages Tax.
- Non-Intoxicating Liquors Tax.
- Tobacco Taxes.
- Oleomargarine Tax.
- Narcotic Drugs Tax.
- Manufacturers Excise Taxes.
- Telegraph, Telephone, Radio and Cable Facilities Tax.
- Oil Pipe Line Transportation Tax.
- Check Tax.
- Amusement Admissions Tax.
- Club Dues and Initiations Tax.

After all those have been paid the taxpayer has still to settle with county and city for another list of imposts and impositions that would take the balance of this column simply to name.

And yet it has been proposed to burden Michigan with still another onerous tax, a state income tax.

The load of taxation now being carried by the people threatens to dry up its own sources.

The addition of a state income tax would hasten that process by further driving industry and business out of Michigan, recently declared an editorial writer in The Free Press.

CAPITAL FOR THE RELAXING YEARS.

Life insurance business is of greatest service, not to the beneficiaries of dead policyholders, but "to those who live to enjoy the fruits of their foresight in preparing for the proverbial 'rainy day,'" as the Topeka Daily Capital says.

Last year, the companies disbursed about $2,400,000,000. Close to two-thirds of that, $1,460,000,000, went to living policyholders. The remainder, $940,000,000, went to beneficiaries.

Here is the best "sales talk" life insurance can have. The time is long past when we purchased insurance solely as a means of protecting dependents. We still do that, and in addition we purchase it for ourselves as well—with it we attain planned, earned old age security. It provides the capital for the relaxing years, when the working years are over.

RAMBLING with Editors AROUND of Michigan

MEANEST CUSS ON EARTH.

The meanest cuss on earth is the fellow who has done you an inexcusable injury. You may never have done him any harm whatever, but he will lose no opportunity to do a dirty thing to you. He has been rendered ugly by the realization that he has taken unfair advantage of you. That's human nature.—The Grand Ledge Independent.

VISITORS DO NOT PAY.

Visitors to Omaha, Nebraska, are exempt from dropping a nickel into the slot at parking meters. All others are expected to comply with the law except on Sundays and legal holidays. Parking meters are popular in western cities. St. Louis, Oklahoma City, Salt Lake City have found them desirable. Pontiac, Michigan, so far is the only city in this state which has placed them along side of the curb in congested areas. It should be worth a nickel of any man's money for an hour's parking privilege on downtown streets and Grand Rapids, which has kept pace with traffic regulations will find it practical, desirable as well as profitable to install them. Adopt the meter system and permit right hand turns on a red light at the driver's own responsibility and this city may be credited with being among the foremost in traffic control and up-to-date regulations.—J. John Pope in The Grandville Star.

WHICH IS THE RIDICULOUS?

The True Story magazine for September has the life story of Governor Frank Murphy, but why he should choose such a magazine with its lurid stories of sex life is a mystery, just mixing the sublime up with the ridiculous.—J. E. McMullen in The Linden Leader.

BUYING VOTES.

We note that a good many Republicans in Michigan believe that because so many prominent Democratic leaders turned against the President and defeated his court-packing bill, and because Governor Murphy's administration has proven to be so unpopular, that 1938 will be a Republican year in Michigan. We would like to believe that is so, because we would welcome any sound change of administration, but we are not forgetting that the national government is still our chief almoner, dispensing great sums of the taxpayers' money with a liberal hand, and that some of our state officials have built up the most widespread and the strongest political "machine" that has ever functioned in this state where political machines are no novelty. After watching the Democratic machine operate last spring, with only a short time in which to prepare it for action, we have some idea of how powerfully it may operate next year when the managers have had ample time to get it into condition and to see that every bearing is well greased. Unless the taxpayers of the state arise in righteous wrath and unite to secure a change the Republicans will find they are battling with a relentless foe that is well entrenched and has the most ammunition. If you don't believe this is so, just note the increase in the number of state employees and the tremendous increase in the total of salaries which the taxpayers are called upon to provide funds for. And if by chance the Republicans do get in next year and can't run the state machinery for far less money we're going to be against them, too.—William Berkey in The Cassopolis Vigilant.

Michigan Has Low Forest Fire Loss

Michigan faces the normally hazardous fall months with a good chance of finishing the year with one of the lowest forest-fire losses on record.

Forest-fire has been held to small gains by the state detection and suppression force this year. As of September 1, Michigan's fire losses, exclusive of national forest lands, covered a total of 14,052 acres. The total number of fires recorded on that date was 1,033.

Last year on September 1 there had been 2,344 forest fires and the total area of forest lands burned over was $1,589. Authorities regarded the 1936 season, however, as being the worst in the past 15 years.

The all-time low forest-fire loss in Michigan was compiled in 1935 when only 18,119 acres of land were burned over.

Normally early fall months are a period of high fire hazards in northern Michigan, because of drying vegetation and the presence of large numbers of hunters in the woods. Fire prevention authorities ask the cooperation of hunters in keeping the fire losses down this fall.

FIRST Air Conditioning FOR BETTER LIVING—

And Now

LIGHT CONDITIONING for your home!

Just as air conditioning modifies raw air to make it most suitable for human use, so LIGHT CONDITIONING modifies raw light . . . screening it to eliminate glare, diffusing it to avoid harsh shadows, intensifying it to the proper degree for easy seeing, and softening or shading it for decorative effect. The bare light bulb is just the starting point in the Light Conditioning process.

Science has delved deeply into the effect of light on eyes, body and mind. Improper or inadequate lighting can be physically harmful. Science has developed marvelously delicate instruments that measure light . . . in order to help decide exactly how much light eyes NEED for various seeing tasks. Light Conditioning is the application of scientific principles of lighting to the aid of human SEEING.

Why not Light Condition YOUR home? It will pay you in increased comfort and enjoyment—and it costs surprisingly little. Oftentimes, few changes are needed in your present lamps and fixtures. One or two skilled touches can achieve a transformation that is unbelievable. Without obligation, our Home Lighting Adviser will measure your lighting with the Sight Meter, room by room, making helpful suggestions. You need not follow her recommendations unless you wish. There is no charge for this service. Telephone for a Home Lighting survey today.

"Substance" will be the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday, September 12. Among the Bible citations is this passage (Prov. 3:9): "Honour the Lord with thy substance, and with the first fruits of all thine increase." Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 278): "Which ought to be substance to us—the erring, changing, and dying, the mutable and mortal, or the unerring, immutable, and immortal?"

"We are on our way with an ever more insane speed and tension, but we do not know where we are going: We have chosen no goal and charted no course." Your church membership, your offerings, your very service may be a meaningless thing apart from the vision of eternal life. Come and think with us about it on Sunday morning. Bible school at 11:15. At 7:30 the pastor speaks on "The Homesteadness of the Soul." How much of your unrest your dissatisfaction, is to be found in the very hunger of your heart? It was not terror that smote the prodigal deep. It was home, home, for which his poor soul was crying. We will help you to find Jesus and a life that satisfies. Remember our prayer service next Wednesday evening at 7:30. Our lesson will be an exposition of "The Call of the Fisherman." Luke 5:1-11. The adult choir rehearses after the prayer service. Our Young People will be called together in the very near future, watch for announcement. They WANT to serve you well

TELEPHONE SERVICE in Michigan is as fine as anywhere in the world. Several factors combined to make it so, but no factor is more important than this: The sense of personal responsibility shown in the work of the 9500 men and women who furnish Michigan's telephone service. Their remarkable devotion to duty is an accepted fact. Time and again they have won public gratitude by their quick-witted, heroic conduct during flood, fire and storm. But their diligence is not limited to emergencies; it is carried on through every hour of every day—through all the routine necessary to maintain, without interruption, the high standards of the service. Trained for their work, these men and women know how to do it well. Equally important, they really want to do it well.

Work Rushed On Construction Of New Plant Here

Precision Products Company Plans Early Start

Rapid progress was reported this week on the construction of an addition to the former Sturgis garage plant at Amelia and Mill streets to provide a manufacturing plant for the Precision Products company of Detroit, which is to locate in Plymouth.

William H. Maher, president of the company and one of Detroit's leading business men, said that production of auto parts would get under way in Plymouth late in September or early in October. The company plans to employ about 25 men at the start but eventually between 35 and 50 will work there.

The construction work, the contract for which is held by Paul Wood of Plymouth, reached the cement pouring stage this week. The job is scheduled to be finished around September 22.

The company has not yet announced the type of automotive parts to be produced here.

Welfare Graft In Old Days

That there was graft, that there was waste and squandering of money supposed to have been spent for welfare and that there were welfare "chiselers" then just as now.

The following data, compiled by Silas Farmer, city historian of Detroit for many years, published over 47 years ago under the heading, "Poverty and Relief," will be of exceptional interest to readers of The Mail:

"The first settlers were mostly poor, but for many years pauperism was unknown. The pluck that inspired the coming to a wilderness, and the vigilance which a residence in such wilds demanded, precluded that supineness of which poverty is born. True, there were times of trial and seasons of distress; crops failed, and more than one gaunt famine hovered above the palisades of Pontchartrain. Such times, however, were only incidental. Game and grain were usually plentiful, and the few families who dwelt here ate their own bread and asked no alms of strangers. Not until the Yankees came did 'beggars come to town,' and then not because upon their advent the population increased, and as towns grow, beggars multiply.

"The relieving of the poor enlisted the attention of the Governor and Judges soon after the Northwest Territory was organized. By act of November 6, 1790, the Court of Quarter Sessions appointed one or more overseers of the poor for each township, and old records show the appointment in 1801, for the township of Detroit, of Jacques Girardin; James May, Robert Guoin, and Gabriel Godfroy were appointed in the place of Guoin in December, 1803, and reappointed in 1804.

"In 1806 the sum of $25.00 was appropriated by the Governor and Judges for the support of the poor in Detroit.

"By law of March 30, 1827, each township was authorized to elect two overseers of the poor. On October 29, 1829, each township was authorized to elect five directors of the poor, and the office of township overseer was to terminate after April 1830. By Act of February 26, 1831, the plan of one director for each township was revived, and in March the following was appended to the notice of an election:

"Immediately after closing the polls, a tax will be voted for the maintenance and support of the poor of Detroit for the ensuing year. 'At this time the city marshal acted as the almoner of the city, and from time to time small sums were placed in his hands for distribution.

"On March 14, 1840, the council appointed a committee to contract with the superintendent of the county poor for the support of city paupers at eighteen cents per day. The council proceedings for 1847 and 1848 show that when occasion demanded, it was customary for the aldermen to vote such sums as they deemed necessary for the support of the poor. The office of city director of poor dates from Acts of April 23, 1833, and March 7, 1834, which conferred upon the council the power to do for the poor what under the state law the county directors were required to do. Up to February 21, 1849, the officer was appointed by the council; after that date he was elected. Under the ordinance of January 14, 1862, the director advertised for proposals, and bids were received from various persons for furnishing groceries, meat, flour, and wood. Under ordinance of December 14, 1869, the poor-master gave orders for needed articles upon stores in different parts of the city. Orders amounting to $17,323 were given on about 200 different stores in 1878; the wood bill for the same year amounted to $3,760. The amount given at any one time to the same person, or the total amount given to the same person or family in a given length of time, was entirely discretionary with the director of the poor; his orders on the stores were paid monthly by the city treasurer. That this discretionary power was not always wisely exercised is evident from the report of a committee of the Common Council made in April, 1870; it shows that of 1,236 families who received provisions in February of that year, 400 could not be found, and 223 were unworthy; wood was also reported to have been delivered to 120 different families that could not be found.

"In furtherance of their work, on December 13, 1880, the commissioners opened a store in Firemen's hall, from which they supplied various articles of food to persons in need. The store was closed on March 26, 1881, and they returned to the old plan of giving orders on grocers. These orders may be presented at any grocery, but a printed notice on the order forbids the delivering of liquors, or of any articles except flour, potatoes, sugar, bread, tea, coffee, meal, rice, lard, soap, beans, fish, candles, oil and matches. The amount and price of each article must be noted on the order, and certified to by the grocer."

ing cooperation. Archbishop Mooney expressed the hope that "the sisters who will be trained here may have that fine devotion to tradition as well as that forward looking spirit of adaptation to the needs of the age, which makes the Church catholic in time as well as in place."

M. E. Ladies' Aid Elects Officers

The Ladies' Aid society of the Methodist church held its first meeting for this church year in the church parlors on Wednesday afternoon, September 1.

The meeting was opened by Mrs. Earl Kenyon, the retiring president, presenting Mrs. I. N. Dickerson, who installed the new officers for the coming year.

In a very impressive service the following officers took their places: President, Mrs. John Blyton; first vice president, Mrs. George Burr; second vice president, Mrs. George Fischer; secretary, Mrs. Earl Wellman; treasurer, Mrs. Carl Martin; circle leaders, Mrs. Miller Ross, Mrs. Arthur White, Mrs. Harry Irwin, and Mrs. George Fischer; circle assistants, Mrs. Lloyd Fillmore, Mrs. William Bredin, and Mrs. James Latture.

Mrs. Blyton then took the chair and, in her able and gracious manner, conducted the business meeting of the society.

Many plans for the year's work were made and discussed, among which was a bazaar and church supper to be held December 1.

Mrs. L. E. Wilson, program chairman for the day, introduced Mrs. Peter Stair, wife of the Methodist pastor of Brightmoor, who gave the ladies a most helpful and inspiring talk concerning the work and aims of the women of a church society. The ladies are always delighted to have Mrs. Stair as their guest, and they were also most happy to welcome Mrs. S. B. Closson, wife of their new pastor.

Tea was served from a beautifully decorated tea table, presided over by Mrs. John Blyton and Mrs. William Hood.

The annual diet of the average American includes 62 pounds of beef, 12 pounds of coffee, 102 pounds of sugar, 177 pounds of flour, 160 pounds of potatoes, and 918 pounds of milk.

Revival Meetings To Be Held Here

The Rev. S. J. Brooks, of Bay City, will come to Plymouth to open old-fashioned revival services at the Church of God, Main street and Penniman avenue, beginning Sunday.

Services will be held each evening at 7:30 with special services on Saturday nights. The Rev. E. L. Harris, pastor of the church, is in charge of arrangements for the services.

Blanche Curtiss Weds John Ousterhoudt

The marriage of Blanche Jane Curtiss, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Curtiss, of Plymouth, to John Ousterhoudt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Ousterhoudt, of Garden City, took place at 8 o'clock, Saturday evening, September 4, in the Methodist Episcopal church. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Stanford S. Closson.

The bridal party took their places before an embankment of palms, baskets of asters, gladiolus, dahlias and daisies while Ruth Hadley, of Plymouth, sang, "The Voice that Breathed O'er Eden," by Woodford, accompanied by Mrs. M. J. O'Connor. This was followed by the traditional Lohengrin wedding march sung by a double quartette from the church choir of which the bride is a member.

Mr. Curtiss gave his daughter in marriage. She wore a wedding gown of white satin made with long train and flowing veil of tulle. She carried pale pink roses. Mrs. Inez Curtiss Lock, sister of the bride who was matron of honor, wore a gown of pale pink lace over satin and carried tall-tapered roses. Ardy Curtis, another sister, was the flower girl, carrying a basket of sweet peas and roses. She wore a dainty gown of yellow organdie.

The bridegroom was attended by his brother, Harry Ousterhoudt, of Detroit. The ushers were Roy Westphal and George Curtiss.

The bride's mother was attired in a royal blue georgette and Mrs. Ousterhoudt wore a black lace gown. Both wore a corsage of tall-tapered roses.

At the conclusion of the ceremony, the quartette sang the wedding hymn, "O Perfect Love," with the Mendelssohn wedding march as a recessional. The reception, with 75 guests present, was held in the church parlors which were beautifully decorated with Zinnias and other fall flowers. The buffet table was laid with white linen, centered with the bride's cake which was decorated with pink roses and doves and topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom. At either side were white tapers in silver holders and at each end of table low bowls of white, pink and delicate lavender flowers were placed on silver trays.

Mr. and Mrs. Ousterhoudt look a short wedding trip returning Monday to their home at 898 Arthur street, Plymouth.

Garden City Wins Week-end Games

Behind six-hit pitching by Waldo Scott, Garden City defeated the Belleville Merchants Sunday 8 to 2 and eliminated them from the play-offs in the Michigan Inter-County League.

On Labor Day Garden City journeyed to Wyandotte and knocked off the St. Stanislaus club 7 to 2 when Lovell Hill turned in a masterful piece of pitching to set down that club with five scattered hits. The defeat also eliminated Wyandotte from the play-offs, leaving Cass Benton, Glenn Gray, Plymouth Schrader, and Garden City to battle it out for the championship. Cass Benton and Glenn Gray have yet to lose a game, and they will play each other Sunday. Garden City and Plymouth Schrader will play in Garden City. A defeat to either team will eliminate the defeated team. The winner of the Garden City-Plymouth game will engage the loser of the Cass Benton-Glenn Gray game. The winner of this game will then play the winner of the Cass Benton-Glenn Gray contest and must win two games from that team to win the championship.

Johnny O'Brien led the hitters over the week-end by collecting a home run, a triple, a double and two singles. Slug Tatro followed closely with two doubles and two singles.

Waldo Scott struck out fifteen of the Belleville players and was closely rivaled by Ace Hill who struck out thirteen of the Wyandotte players. Scott allowed one earned run while the Ace gave the opposition both of their runs with wild pitches in the fifth and sixth innings.

The TONQUISH CREEK BREEZE

Published at Tonquish Creek, Michigan

The People's Watch Dog
Vol. 1 No. 13

Walt Harms has set up headquarters for his candidate for constable, Honorable Matthew Stephens Madison Powell. He says the campaign is going to be a clean one, but a hot one. Candidate Powell has so far refused to discuss the planks in his platform.

It looks pretty much now as though Carl Shear is going to be the candidate to oppose Honorable Mr. Powell. Backers of Carl (Fight-'em) Shear says he will probably throw his hat in the ring in the next issue of The BREEZE.

Stanley Corbett thinks it looks pretty much as though Candidate Powell has out-smarted his opponents. He has signed up as his manager the only person living in the Creek who knows anything about Missouri river mud. It looks as though this might be a sort of mudday campaign.

Things are pretty quiet down around the Creek's family table these days. No one is saying very much. They want to be sure which is going to be which in the race for constable before telling who they are for.

The editor of the competition to The BREEZE had his picture taken, then he had it enlarged and colored and hung it up beside that famous painting of Creeker Clair Maben that graces the walls of the Mayflower. The hotel management isn't saying much about it, but they are hinting that it has been driving trade away. It seems as though some people have more nerve than they need.

One of the Creekers lost control of his buzz-wagon the other day. He got back on his payments.

William Conner says he heard one time they had to burn down a school house in a neighboring district to get some of the boys out of the second grade. He didn't say what district it was, but some are thinking it wasn't so far away from the Creek.

The BREEZE has just learned that the editor of the low-down sheet we refuse to call our competition any longer has left town to rest up. It's about time he did something like that. He not only needs a rest but he needs something else. It looks as though he makes himself as tired as he does other folks. It's a good thing for the Creek that he is gone for a while. Maybe we will have some peace now.

The BREEZE has been looking around the woods up the creek. There's something up there somewhere that attracts folks just like molasses does flies. Maybe it's a still, but after a half day of diligent searching, nothing could be found that had the right smell. The fragrant Tonquish odor was missing too. There will be some more Sherlocking later.

Editor BREEZE:
You wanted a letter from some of your readers. Well, here's one maybe you won't like. I'm protesting in behalf of the moose of the world. As you know I am the only living man in Tonquish Creek who ever shot a real moose. His head is hanging on the wall in the Mayflower. Every day he looks down upon the Toms, Dicks and Harrys of the Creek. Some of them he's disgusted with and some of them he ain't. Now it seems that a lot of social climbers have been having their pictures taken and hung up around that moose head. There's one squinty looking fellow who, you'd think to look at him, had a mouth full of tobacco juice with no place to spit it. He's got his picture right up there next to my moose—and I'm telling you the moose don't like it. I can't figure out how anybody would like the looks of that picture. Then there's the picture of three hickers in some old broken down tin Hesse. They are giving the fellow in the middle the squeeze play. It's all so disgusting! I can't write any more about it. Now if you want to please the moose and me, just get rid of some of that trash hanging around my moose's head.
MATT POWELL,
(Fightin' Mad).

Want To Live? Then Stop When You Come To Ry. Crossings

Although more than $70,000,000 has been spent in the federal program of grade crossing elimination and protection, fatalities at rail-highway crossings continue to mount, L. B. Rice, manager of the Plymouth A.A.A. office, declared today.

"During 1936," he said, "a total of 1,786 lives were lost in grade crossing crashes, while nearly 5,000 persons were injured. The greater volume of highway traffic and the greater speeds of both trains and automobiles during the past year undoubtedly were primarily responsible for the increase. However, last year's total was still far below the record of 2,568 grade crossing fatalities registered in 1928.

"At the present time, a total of nearly $100,000,000 has been apportioned to grade crossing projects which are now under construction. These include 797 new separations, 138 reconstruction jobs and 345 protection projects.

"With appropriations for grade crossing elimination and protection now included in the regular federal-aid bills, the outlook for eventually bringing the number of grade crossing fatalities down to the very minimum is extremely good.

"Completion of the state highway planning surveys, now under way in forty states, will make possible the selection of grade crossing projects on a much firmer foundation of knowledge as to where the need is greatest from the standpoint of both train and motor vehicle traffic of the present and of the future.

"This, of course, is a long-range program. In the meantime, it behooves every motorist to exercise the utmost care and caution at all grade crossings. The records continue to show a surprising number of motorists who crash into the sides of trains sometimes even when the crossing is protected by lights, bells and gates. The time-tested slogan of "Stop! Look! and Listen!" is still as important as ever."

4 MILES IN 5 ARE STOP-AND-GO

It's the costliest kind of driving you do

STARTING UP after just one stop can waste enough gasoline to take you 1/3 of a mile.

To cut down the high cost of stop-and-go driving around town, Shell engineers have developed a way to "balance" gasoline.

By this balancing process the entire chemical structure of gasoline is rearranged. Actually it is made "digestible" for your motor, just as food is made digestible for you by cooking.

When starting, shifting, accelerating—at all times—your motor gets the full benefit of Super-Shell's high energy content.

"Motor-digestible" is the best way to describe this gasoline.

Try a tankful of Super-Shell next time you need gas. There's a Shell station near your home.

City Manager.

A group of some twenty women sat down at the home of Mrs. Luther Passage Wednesday noon, preceding the first meeting of the Home and Foreign Missionary societies of the Methodist church for the current year. The meeting was in charge of the efficient new president, Mrs. W. C. Towle. In the absence of the spiritual life leader, Mrs. Terry, Mrs. Closson gave an inspirational talk and led in earnest prayer for a deeper spiritual life in the whole church membership, and for the success of the year's work. Miss Mabel Spicer, in charge of the educational work, outlined the interesting and instructive programs her committee has planned for the 10 monthly meetings. In a way that showed her familiarity with her subject, Mrs. I. N. Dickerson presented the first part of the "Home" study book, "Rebuilding Rural America," which impressed her listeners with the tremendous task confronting the Christian church throughout America today. The aim of the society this year is to double its membership, each member bring a member. The next meeting will be on October 13 at the home of Mrs. William Bredin on Ross street.

The giraffe is one of the queerest animal known to man. It has the spotted skin of a leopard, the callous breast of a camel, the head of a horse, and the neck and hoof of a stag.

Pig iron is made by pouring molten metal into a long mass, with shorter pieces attached to it; the long piece is called the sow; the shorter are called the pigs.
