

Henry Ford Back, Says Good Times Coming

Spends Vacation Developing His New Tractor

Henry Ford, back at work after a two months' vacation on his Georgia plantation, reiterated in an interview today his conviction that a prosperous era is ahead, talked about wars, dictatorships and immigration, and said he was plunging into preparations for volume production of his cheap tractor.

"Nothing that has occurred during the last few weeks," he said, "has changed my belief that a prosperous era is ahead of us. It will come through a greater realization that all wealth comes from the soil and that there must be a greater cultivation of the land."

Ford said he had spent much of his Georgia vacation conducting experiments with his new tractor. He said he has not changed his convictions about the utility of wars.

"Nobody wins in a war but the financial interests that promote it and make preparations for it," he said.

Of dictatorships, he said: "If a dictatorship comes here it will be because the people have been asleep and deserve it." He added, however, that a dictatorship or the threat of such a condition did not alarm him. "There will be a way to handle it or destroy it if it comes," he said.

Of his back-to-the-farm philosophy, Ford said he was convinced a greater production of the soil would lead the way to general recovery.

"We built a tractor nearly 25 years ago," he said, "and while we didn't make any money on it, we did contribute to general business improvement by increasing the farmers' purchasing power."

Ford said he found no justification for curtailing immigration quotas. "The nation," he said, "is big enough to absorb any or all of those peoples unable to find happiness and comfort in their home lands."

Apparently in excellent health, Ford went back to work with the parting comment that a combination of youthful vigor and mature wisdom is needed to conduct the world's affairs.

"Deprive the world of the brains of men and women above 50 years of age," he said, "and everything must come to a standstill. Neither age alone nor youth alone can run the world's affairs. A cross-section of both is needed."

So delightful did the occasion prove that they are now planning for an outdoor picnic in Plymouth-Riverside park during the summer.

Chief Smith Offers Suggestions For Safer Bicycling

Bicyclists Must Ride On Right Side Of The Street

Police Chief Vaughan Smith warned this week that all bicyclists must ride on the right side of the pavement with the traffic.

"Many persons have gained the erroneous impression that bicycles should travel against traffic," Chief Smith said. "This is absolutely untrue. The bicycle is a vehicle, the courts have decided, and all operators of bicycles are governed by the same rules of traffic as are automobile drivers."

The police chief urged that all parents co-operate by teaching their children safety rules before permitting them to ride on city streets or heavily traveled roads.

"Unless bicyclists obey the rules of the road I fear that there will be serious accidents within the city," said the chief.

Chief Smith points out that the following suggestions would make the operation of a bicycle less hazardous:

- (1) Two persons on one bicycle is too many.
- (2) All traffic lights and other traffic signals apply to the bicycle.
- (3) Dismount and walk across a congested intersection where there are no traffic lights. Do not dodge in and out of traffic.
- (4) When two or more bicycles are traveling abreast, they should travel in single file when other traffic is approaching.
- (5) Always give a signal to those behind when turning, by extending the hand. Also, signal before stopping. First look back to see if any vehicle is closely approaching if making a left turn.
- (6) Do not "hitch on" to another vehicle.
- (7) Do not zig-zag or do circus stunts on streets or highways. Such exhibitions are dangerous in traffic.

Chief Smith pointed out also that bicyclists should be exceptionally careful not to bump into pedestrians. Serious injuries often result to persons struck by careless bicyclists.

Another dangerous practice is that of riding bicycles at night without proper lighting.

The state law specifically provides that every bicycle must be equipped with a lighted white lamp in front, visible at least 300 feet, and a reflex mirror reflector or lamp on the rear exhibiting a red lamp on the rear which is visible at least 200 feet to the rear of such vehicle.

Movies Of Kiwanians Shown At Meeting

The Kiwanians looked themselves over Tuesday night. The entertainment for the weekly meeting was the showing of movies, taken by President James Gallimore. Jeers were interspersed with cheers as pictures were shown on the screen showing each Kiwanian member in some familiar setting such as coming out of their business places or other daily sights along Main street. Some fine pictures of the territory surrounding Plymouth were also shown, including fine color films of Riverside park.

Moving pictures were taken of the club members during the Tuesday evening dinner meeting and will be shown at a later date. The high school girls' double quartet, under the direction of Dora Gallimore, rendered several selections accompanied by Carol Campbell at the piano.

Mr. and Mrs. Flynn Ford attended their ping pong club meeting, Tuesday evening, in the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Stalker, in Northville.

Collection Of City Taxes Best In Seven Years

89 Percent Paid On 1937 Roll; 4 Percent Ahead Of 1936

Eighty-nine percent of the 1937 city taxes have been collected in Plymouth, the highest percentage collection recorded since 1930.

City Treasurer Charles H. Garrett reported this week that $62,167 had been collected of the total of $69,807 spread on the city tax roll last July. This year's collection is four percent above that of a year ago when 85 percent, or $57,839 of the $67,986 was collected.

Both the 1937 and the 1936 rolls were spread at the rate of $13.50 a thousand for city tax purposes. The increase in total taxes being taken care of by new sources such as new buildings and increases in the valuation of personal property.

The percentage table on city tax collection gives an interesting picture. In 1927 the city collected 95.1 percent with the percentage figure dropping gradually each year to 71.2 percent for the 1933 tax roll. Then the percentages climbed to the present figure of 89 percent.

Collection of county and school taxes spread only last December 1 was also good. On March 21 a total of 82.5 percent of the school-county taxes had been collected, one percent less than the collection of a year ago.

Of the school taxes for 1937 $44,941 of the $52,996 has been collected compared to $44,800 of the total of $56,093 last year on the same date. The 1936 tax rate for school tax was $21.14 while in 1937 it was $10.29.

Collection of 1937 county taxes totaled $23,010 of the total of $27,021 while the 1936 figures were $19,408 out of $24,369. The county tax rate was $4.84 for the 1936 rolls and $5.27 for 1937.

The tax collection in the city compares very favorably with that of other cities in Michigan, many reporting a much higher percentage of delinquency than experienced here.

City Treasurer Garrett is busy making the returns to the county which handles the collection of delinquent taxes.

Woman Dies In Flames That Destroy Home

Mrs. Burt Brandle Victim Of Early Morning Blaze

A fire that started from unknown sources early last Monday morning, claimed the life of Mrs. Minnie W. Brandle, 63-year-old wife of Burt Brandle, at their home on Schoolcraft road, one mile east of Plymouth.

Mr. Brandle awoke in the front room where he was sleeping and called to Mrs. Brandle in the back bedroom, telling her the house was on fire and that she couldn't get through the house to the door, but to go to the south window in her bedroom where he would help her out. Mrs. Brandle had been partially paralyzed for the past seven years and, apparently, was unable to get close enough to the window so that she might be pulled through. Louis Gerst, a neighbor, arrived in time to assist Mr. Brandle in a futile attempt to rescue her through the smoke and flames.

The Brandles' two dogs also perished in the house, one in a chair in the living room and the other in Mrs. Brandle's bedroom. The fire spread so fast that the house was burned to the ground before aid could reach them.

Mrs. Brandle leaves besides her husband, a daughter, Mrs. Margaret Winkler of Detroit.

Under the direction of the Schrader funeral home of Plymouth, the body was cremated in Woodmere, Detroit, Wednesday. Final rites will be announced later.

The Plymouth fire department was called and responded in remarkably quick time. Some of the firemen reached the station before the whistle had stopped blowing and reached the fire in a few brief minutes.

WPA Projects Employ 92 Here

Ninety-two men were working this week on WPA projects in the city of Plymouth.

Thirty men this week began installing 800 feet of 12-inch sewer on Hartough avenue. The men are working in two six-hour shifts, from 6:00 a.m. to noon and from noon until 6:00 p.m. Each man is limited to 100 hours a month, or a total of 600.

The remaining 62 WPA employees are working on the storm sewer job behind the stores on Penniman and Main streets. The project will eliminate several drains into the Tonquish Creek.

City Engineer Stanford L. Besse expects that 12 of the men now employed on the two projects will be transferred next week to work on parks. It is planned to set out 60 trees on Mill street, between Plymouth road and Wilcox, the west side of Farmer, between Amelia and Starkweather, Burroughs avenue, between South Main and Harding, and Penniman avenue between Evergreen and Sheldon.

City Purchase Of Building For Library Sought

Planning Commission Discusses Proposal At Meeting

A move to obtain a building for a municipal library was discussed this week by the City Planning commission.

The sub-committee on buildings suggested to the full commission at a meeting Monday night that the city purchase a house on a suitable site. The building would be remodeled under a WPA project and the county would contribute largely to the support of the library if the city furnishes the quarters.

Members of the committee pointed out that there would be room in the house to have the library on the first floor. The second floor could be fitted out for use of women's organizations for club rooms, a need long recognized in Plymouth. The commission plans further discussion of this subject at its next meeting.

The Planning commission decided also to recommend to the city commission that the necessary right-of-way be obtained to straighten and widen to 60 feet Garfield avenue between Penniman and Sheridan avenues. A sidewalk would be immediately provided on one side of the street under the plan.

The commission discussed a proposal to move 60 feet to the south the Park avenue entrance to Riverside park in order to eliminate a sharp curve which is considered a serious traffic hazard.

J. M. Bennett, chairman of the Planning commission, presided at the meeting. Other members present included Mrs. Maude Bennett, George Burr, Phil Hohesl and John Bickensstaff.

List 700 Pieces Of Real Estate For May Tax Sale

Plymouth Owners Must Pay Up Or Lose Property

Owners of approximately 700 pieces of Plymouth real estate face the possibility of losing their property because of delinquent taxes at the state-wide tax sale in May.

The total became known here with the receipt of a legal publication which listed the Wayne county property advertised for sale. Property which is tax delinquent for 1935 or prior years, unless the taxes are being paid for under statutory installment payment plans, is scheduled to be placed on public sale by the state.

County officials pointed out, however, that the total number Plymouth lots sold for taxes might be reduced appreciably before the date of the sale arrives. Anyone wanting to save their real estate by paying up the delinquent taxes must do so by calling at the county treasurer's office in Detroit on or before May 30.

The 700 listed for sale are less than one-fourth of the total of 3350 pieces of real estate which makes up Plymouth. Many of the lots listed for sale are vacant although some include homes. Officials pointed out that some of the owners may not know that their property is delinquent and said that an effort would be made to notify the delinquent taxpayers individually.

Auto Drivers Now Must Take Tests

Ward H. Henderson, of 1302 West Maple street, this week became the first Plymouth resident to obtain a driver's license under the modernized examination system which became effective today.

Henderson was examined at the Plymouth police department and was given the written test on rules of the road, and oral tests for eyesight, sign reading and to determine whether he could distinguish signal lights and also colors. He passed the tests and will receive his driver's license by mail from the Secretary of State in Lansing.

Police Chief Vaughan Smith pointed out that all new drivers will have to take a road test in which the applicant must convince the officer that he is able to drive. Persons seeking renewals of licenses will not have to take the road test.

"The day of the easy-to-get driver's license is past," Chief Smith commented as the bureau began to test the drivers under the new system.

At noon 39 sat down at tables graining with the housewives' most choice viands. The Wagers and the Gates were also presented with handsome pots of cyclamens to commemorate the occasions.

The Rev. Hutchins from Detroit and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gale from Washtenaw county Grange were guests. Members were present from Belleville, Romulus, Flat Rock and Plymouth.

After a community sing, roll call was responded to by reciting, "My most embarrassing moment," and provided considerable amusement.

The very timely topics, "The Farm Policy" and "Changes I Would Like to See in Production and Distribution" provoked a lively discussion and most of those present had very definite ideas to present on the subjects.

Many New Voters Register For Right To Ballot

Plymouth voters will go to the polls Monday to select two members for the city commission and to decide a proposed amendment to the city charter.

Campaigning gained momentum this week as friends sought support for Mayor Henry H. Hondorp, Commissioner Ruth Huston-Whipple and Harold Anderson, the three candidates for the two posts.

The amendment, which must have a yes vote of 60 percent to carry, reads:

"The commission shall receive as compensation for their services a sum of $3.00 for each meeting of the commission they attend during the term of office, but shall not exceed 52 meetings in any one year. This payment shall be made from the general fund in the city treasurer. Said officers shall receive no other compensation for services performed for and on behalf of said city during their term of office, provided that in no case shall such commissioners receive compensation for any meetings not actually attended."

The amendment does not raise the rate of pay, inasmuch as the present charter allows compensation of $3 a meeting. However, at present, the annual pay for a commissioner is limited to $90, or a maximum of 30 meetings a year while for several years the commission has had to be in session from 40 to 50 times a year.

A vote of from 400 to 500 is expected. Interest in the election is shown by the increase in new voters registered.

A total of 103 new voters were registered for this election to increase the total of eligible voters to 2603. City officials, pointing out that usually only 400 to 500 vote, urged all registered voters to visit the four polling places, which will be open from 7:00 a.m. to 8:00 p.m. Monday. The voting booths will be at the city hall, the Starkweather school, Central high school, and 818 Penniman avenue.

JUST AS PLANNED.

The Detroit Free Press, a month or so ago, became excited when it seemed to discover that the state budget wasn't going to be balanced this year, or next year. It said something was "dreadfully wrong" in Lansing.

The Free Press should not become excited, neither should it become alarmed.

Frank Murphy knew and the entire state administration knew when the notoriously big appropriations, then asked for, were being voted last winter that the budget would be out of balance.

Murphy had his henchmen in the legislature defeat a series of amendments to the appropriation bills which would have balanced the budget.

Murphy has at no time wanted a balanced budget, if it would in any way lessen the amount of tax dollars for him to squander.

Last fall he blamed the legislature for the "unbalanced" budget. Murphy's henchmen said the legislature appropriated more money than the state was going to take in, therefore the budget would just have to be out of balance. Simply because the legislature appropriated the money, Murphy figures he has to spend it.

But now he comes along with a new alibi for his unbalanced budget.

He says it is the "welfare" load that's going to mess up the budget.

Well, we'll say this for Michigan's governor, he's probably the best alibi expert the state ever produced. That's one thing he is good at—finding excuses for rotten, extravagant and poor government.

Following is the Free Press editorial published under the heading "Something Dreadfully Wrong" in which it discusses the breakdown of state finances:

"Economy in the management of state finances undoubtedly is extremely difficult. But this does not lessen the ominousness of the report that spending in Lansing throughout the first six months of the present fiscal year was $18,000,000 greater than in the first six months of the preceding fiscal year.

"Nor is there any visible hope of a check of the excessive outgo during the remainder of the year.

"The prophecies of the experts are that the present rate of increase over 1936 will continue to the end, and that Budget Director Smith's estimate of a $10,000,000 plunge into the red is "exceedingly conservative". The deficit may go much higher.

"Those so inclined can make all sorts of excuses for this situation. They can talk about the increase in WPA requirement owing to the new high in unemployment, about the needs of the schools, and of local governments and of the old-age pension funds and of the asylums, hospitals and correctional institutions and about a number of other things.

"But back of this remains these facts:

"The state of Michigan is collecting and spending almost $100,000,000 a year more than it was collecting and spending four years ago.

"And with $225,000,000 a year from all sources, or thereabouts, at its command each year, Michigan is not living within its income, but is steadily going into the hole.

"Somewhere, something is dreadfully wrong with the way things are being managed in Lansing."

Again permit us to say that we are surprised that the Free Press thinks there is something "dreadfully wrong" in Lansing. The Free Press should say there is something dreadfully DISGRACEFUL in Lansing.

CONSISTENCY GONE ASTRAY.

The Detroit Citizens' League has for many years served Detroit and Wayne county well in providing enlightenment to voters pertaining to various political issues as well as candidates for public office. Its judgment as a usual rule has been good and its recommendations on the whole generally correct. Of course, it is an impossibility for any group to always be exactly right, and it has erred without doubt.

Through its publication, The Civic Searchlight, the League certainly went astray recently when it tried editorially to justify the underhanded scheming of Lansing job holders to fatten their coffers by tricking the taxpayers of Michigan into the payment of double salaries.

Knowing the generally high purposes of the League and its publication, its position in this matter is beyond all explanation.

There is an HONEST way for public officials to get higher salaries and there is the rotten, underhanded scheming system that has apparently been adopted by some of the penny-ante politicians now holding public jobs. Our criticism of what has transpired has been the tricky undercover way that has been followed in getting these high salaries.

If these officials had, through their proper department heads, gone before the legislature and said it will require higher salaries in order to get the right men for these jobs, and asked for proper legislative appropriations for these purposes, there could be no criticism of the procedure followed. But instead of doing the decent thing, they followed the usual rule of plunder-bund politicians and tried to do it all under cover of darkness.

Cooperation

By James J. Williams

When Mary married William
He said, "Your slightest wishes
I'll make come true." Said Mary,
"Then help me with the dishes."
Bill gladly donned an apron.
He wiped each fork and spoon,
But he hasn't held a dish towel
Since that first week in June.

When William married Mary
She said, "I'll iron your collars.
I do it well—Oh, very!
And we'll have to watch our dollars."
But Mary hasn't ironed them
Since the June bugs flew.
She sends them to the laundry.
It's a good idea, too!

Bill likes his collars better
And Mary never wishes
To have him smear her aprons
And drop her cups and dishes.
They help each other often
In a lot of little ways,
But they're quick at compromising
And I sort of think it pays.

the scheme only to be discovered by a mere chance.

The Detroit Citizens' League nor anyone else can charge The Plymouth Mail with any politics in this matter. We have condemned as bitterly and as strongly as possible, rottenness within the Republican party, just as we have criticized the rottenness, deception and trickery of the present state administration.

The Plymouth Mail does not approve, it never has approved, and it never will approve the double payroll trick certain greedy politicians have been able to "put over" in recent years.

It is true that the present state administration, which is the first administration to introduce the trick into state affairs, probably does not alone stand indicted of this offense against decency in public affairs. There have been rumors, which are probably true, of the same miserable practice being followed in county affairs.

There can be no defense of the scheme. The public does not like the trickery involved in its manipulation and it smacks too strongly of legalized graft to let the practice continue and grow.

The Civic Searchlight has, without doubt, unintentionally erred in what has apparently become a new issue for depressed and harassed taxpayers to fight.

MAKE IT A REAL ONE.

As a result of the enthusiastic observance of Wildlife Week in Plymouth, which was climaxed by a large banquet, there has been organized the Western Wayne County Conservation club. While complete details have not been worked out, organization objectives are being considered for presentation at a meeting to be held soon. The Plymouth Mail knows that the united effort of the type of sportsmen, who make up the membership, cannot help but accomplish results. There is much about here they can do for the good of this entire part of Michigan. We hope that the original purposes are carried out just as enthusiastically as they have started.

A BELATED TRIBUTE.

Friendships formed during early life are the lasting ones—the kind that grow stronger as years pass on. Returning home a few days ago after a brief absence from the state, it was with profound sorrow that the writer learned of the sudden death of Arthur Ogle, a member of the staff of The Detroit News and one of the country's best newspaper reporters. "Art" and the writer of this editorial were youngsters together on The Kalamazoo Gazette. During those days a friendship that grew fonder and closer as the years rolled along was formed. He left The Gazette in early life to take a place upon the staff of one of the great metropolitan papers of Detroit. He rapidly climbed into prominence in Detroit newspaper circles and became one of the country's stellar newspaper men.

Alert, always jovial, and possessed of a rare sense of good humor, trusted by men in high public life, it is little wonder that he became so outstanding in his profession. Time and time again The Detroit News was the first newspaper in Michigan to publish important news—because "Art" Ogle knew how to get big news first.

That great newspapers "have a heart" and appreciate the efforts of men who "work" at news gathering as a means of earning a livelihood, was indicated by the worthy tribute published on the first page of The News and written by George Stark. Apparently, his admiration of "Art" was the same kind the writer formed more than a quarter of a century ago. "Art's" untimely death is a loss not only to The News, but to the entire state of Michigan. He was one of the state's great citizens—a place rightfully won by honorable and distinguished service to millions of newspaper readers.

200,000 JOBLESS BOYS AND GIRLS

We are indebted to Mrs. Dora Stockman of the State Grange for the following challenging figures. They may not be deadly accurate from a statistical standpoint but for the purposes of considering concerning what shall be done, they are sufficient.

According to an article from the pen of Mrs. Stockman appearing in the Michigan Patron, official organ of the Michigan Grange, there are nearly a million and a half of children in Michigan of school age. More than 400,000 of this number are between the ages of 15 and 19 and of these more than half are without any job or employment to keep them busy and interested. Two hundred thousand boys and girls with nothing to do means a lot of mischief. It means an army of boys hitch-hiking from town to town or loafing in pool rooms and hanging around beer gardens. It means a lot of girls painting themselves up to haunt cheap dance halls waiting for some male to pick them up and give them a "good time".

A lot of these boys could find employment on farms during the summer but what farmer can afford to pay them with milk and pork and eggs and other products what they are worth? A lot of girls could find work as domestics but they do not take to that and not many households can afford a maid anymore. Groceries are too high for that.

Mrs. Stockman suggests the public schools must keep their school plants open during the summer vacations. Here again we run into difficulties. Schools cannot be opened unless they are manned by teachers and teachers cost money. It is charged that investments in school buildings in Michigan alone total around $350,000,000 and that they should not stand idle three months of the year. Perhaps not, but after all the very fact they have cost so much is one reason why they also cost considerable to operate and taxpayers already are about at the end of their resources in meeting the regular annual school expense.

At any rate Mrs. Stockman has raised a big question and has pointed out a great problem.—Vernon J. Brown in The Ingham County News.

A streamer headline in a recent issue of the Grand Rapids Herald said that 22 percent of the people of the state of Michigan are on a relief program of some sort. Now, add another 22 percent for persons on political payrolls, plus all the households directly or indirectly interested in a continuation of both of these types of public expenditures, and you have a complete and accurate answer to future election results. Self-preservation comes first. Figure it out for yourself.—Muri DeFoe in The Charlotte Republican-Tribune.

Taxes

We are taxed on our clothing, our meat and our bread.
Our dishes, our tables, our carpets, and our beds;
On our stoves and our tinware and if we should die;
We are taxed on the coffin in which we lie.

We are taxed on our mortgages, checknotes and bills;
On our deeds and our contracts and on our last wills;
We are taxed on our goods by kind Providence given;
We are taxed on our Bible which points us to heaven.
And when we ascend to that heavenly goal,
If they only could do it, they would stick a stamp on our soul.

To Tell Of Wonders Of Little Known Land

The wonders of Bali with its beautiful women, its gorgeous scenery, its exotic dances will be the feature of a motion picture lecture to be presented at the Detroit Institute of Arts, Woodward at Kirby, next Sunday afternoon, April 3, at 3:30, by Capt. Gypsy Pat Smith, soldier, orator and adventurer.

With natural color motion pictures accompanied by his humorous and informative commentary, Capt. Smith will take his audience on a tour of Bali and, in addition, visit the Celebes, Java, Singapore, Malaya, Siam, Cambodia, Angkor Wat, and Indo-China. He will show the natives in their native villages performing their daily tasks, observing their strange religious and social ceremonies.

Capt. Smith was born in a gypsy tent outside Glasgow, Scotland, and lived with the gypsies until he was 18 years of age. Following the World War, during which he served in the British army, he has sought adventure in the out-of-the-way-places of the world. With his motion picture camera he has made a documentary and human interest record of his strange experiences.

Circles In The Water

Toss the stone in the pool. Watch the ever widening circles. The first impulse has passed on and on until every particle of water has felt the action. So with seeing. You may not realize it, but your every act and decision is influenced by your seeing. What you eat, what you wear, what you do, what you like and what you turn away from—all depend on your seeing mechanism. It's more than eyes alone. Back of the eyes is a complex nervous system—a thalamus, a brain. This whole intricate system is at work when you see. Part of this seeing is done automatically, part of it lies within the control of the conscious mind, and these two parts must work harmoniously together. Let one get out of step with the other, and trouble begins—not to be settled until the two nervous systems are again brought into harmony. And when your vision is troubled, your whole life feels the upset in ever-widening circles—your health, your happiness, your very safety.

T Stands for Tiger—a super-sized cat—
So TOUGH that he'd eat you

M stands for Monkey—A FAST-MOVING gent.
When you he sees coming, He's already went!

New Phone Service For Farmington

It is expected that Farmington's new telephone central office, to be located on the second floor of the Farmington State bank building, will be placed in service about June 1, according to J. R. MacLachlan, manager for the Michigan Bell Telephone company in this area. Alteration of the building to prepare it for central office purposes, installation of the central office equipment, improvements of the outside wire and cable plant, and other necessary changes and additions have been under way for some weeks. The Michigan Bell company is expending approximately $22,000 on the project, it is stated.

After the new central office is placed in operation, Farmington residents will have an improved grade of telephone service, Mr. MacLachlan says. Both the local and long distance service will be speedier and of the same high quality as that enjoyed in the larger cities.

The new equipment, which is being installed by the Western Electric company, manufacturing and supply division of the Bell system, was especially engineered for Farmington. It is of the manual type known as "common battery," according to the local telephone manager, and will enable the user to attract the attention of an operator for the purpose of placing a call merely by lifting the telephone receiver from the hook. That will require replacement of the present "crank" type telephones. Customers of the company will be instructed in the use of the new type telephone as the instruments are installed. It is planned to issue a new telephone directory coincidental with placing the central office in service.

At present there are approximately 700 telephones in service there. With the expectation that the community will continue to expand as it has the past several years, the new switchboards will have an initial capacity in excess of 1,000 telephones, and provision is being made whereby additional equipment can be installed as increasing usage of the service may require. The three sections of switchboard now being installed are of the multiple type, whereby any incoming call can be answered by any operator. The long distance lines, as well as the local lines connecting with the switchboards, are being increased in number.

Two features of the new equipment that will help speed the service to local users will be the audible ringing and the audible recall signals. By means of the audible ringing signal, a person placing a call will hear a soft "br-r-r-r" sound in the receiver, which will indicate that the called telephone is being rung. The audible recall signal, installed at each operating position of the switchboard, will enable a telephone user to recall the operator quickly by merely moving the receiver hook slowly up and down.

Louis XIV Was Known as Great or Grand Monarch

Louis XIV, who ruled France from the age of five until his death at seventy-seven, is known as the Great or Grand Monarch, typifying absolute rule in its extreme form. Though he may never have said, "The state, it is I," notes a writer in the Detroit News, he was emphatically the state throughout his reign. His education was entrusted to Cardinal Mazarin and was largely neglected, for which he was afterward ashamed. Writers such as Huddleston in his "Louis XIV in Love and in War" say that this sense of his juvenile inferiority and suppression accounts for his later characteristics of self-assertion, majesty and splendor.

Of only moderate intellect, he had good sense to select wise administrators such as Colbert, who reformed the tax system, encouraged commerce and industry and gave France a navy. He helped literature and the arts, as adding to his own renown. His saying, "Was there not birth enough in the forest of Fontainebleau?" showed how he regretted the neglect of his education, particularly in the principles of virtue.

The Britannica says the judgment of posterity has not repeated the flattering verdict of his contemporaries, but he remains the model of a great king in all that concern the externals or kingship. The palace of Versailles was designed by him to serve as the symbol of his reign and the monument of his greatness. His court and government were installed there in 1682.

"Down But Not Out"
It is said that the expression, "A man may be down, but he's never out," which is used as a slogan by the Salvation Army, was first employed during the Boer war. Upon one occasion while food and clothing were being distributed to people who had been made homeless and penniless by the war, somebody referred to the unfortunate victims as "down and outers." A Salvation Army worker snapped back: "A man may be down, but he's never out." The expression contains so much optimism and hope in plain and simple words that it has survived. "Down and out" itself comes from prize-fighting circles.

A Child Health Day Feature On How New York Schools Are Teaching Dental Hygiene

This unenthusiastic young lady typifies thousands of New York school children who visit Guggenheim dental clinic regularly for lessons in oral hygiene and practical instructions in correct care of the teeth. Objecting at first, they soon find careful attention to the teeth obviates painful dental sessions in the future.

Each youngster's toothbrush is kept in a sterilized rack container at Guggenheim clinic, to be used regularly for "drill" purposes. These students are going through their "daily dental dozen" with vim and vigor.

Off stride, they're being shown the correct brushing movement under supervision of a graduate dentist and nurse. Rubber aprons protect clothing.

Open wide! Youngsters with teeth in bad need of cleaning first undergo a thorough dental scouring, then move to the brushing room where they are taught to keep them spotless.

On the first visit to the clinic, the child's teeth receive a thorough examination. Cavities are filled and, as a last resort, bad teeth extracted. The little patient may decide whether the anesthetic be local or general. This child is taking gas.

Revolutionary Calendar Used Only Twelve Years

The Revolutionary calendar, known as the French calendar that was established after the Revolution, was in use only 12 years and never really took root. It was adopted in 1793, and abolished by Napoleon in 1805. It reckoned the year from September 22, the anniversary of the republic's formal establishment in 1792, according to a writer in the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

There were twelve 30-day months in this calendar. That left five days over, and a sixth every fourth year. The extra days were called the sansculottides, and were dedicated to festivals. The regular ones honored, respectively, the virtues, genius, labor, opinion and rewards, while the leap year day was "the day of the Revolution."

The months took their names from the seasons; the first was the month of vintage, the second the month of fogs. With their equivalents and the Gregorian date on which each began, they were: Vendemiaire (vintage), September 22.

Brumaire (fog), October 22. Frimaire (frost), November 21. Nivose (snow), December 21. Pluviose (rain), January 20. Ventose (wind), February 29. Germinal (seed), March 21. Floreal (blossom), April 20. Prairial (pasture), May 20. Messidor (harvest), June 19. Thermidor (heat), July 19. Fructidor (fruit), August 18.

There was no week. Instead, the month was divided into three periods of ten days each, called decades.

Original Aim of Ku Klux Klan
The Ku Klux Klan, a secret organization, was founded in the South in 1865, in the early part of the reconstruction period, for the purpose of preventing the exercise of political rights by the newly emancipated negroes. Drastic methods were employed in dealing with them and with the "carpet baggers" and others who encouraged the negro to exercise his newly acquired political rights. The Klan was investigated by congress which passed a stringent measure (1871) for its suppression, but it was put down with much difficulty. The report of the joint investigating committee of congress was published in thirteen volumes in 1872.

Wilmoth Sees Farmer Victory

Ira Wilmoth, president of the Michigan Farmers' Union, also well known in Plymouth because of the fact that he is a brother of Mrs. Burton Giles of this city, has recently returned from Washington, D. C., where he has been highly elated over the success of farmers in their first steps to reclaim from the government the illegal processing tax taken three or four years back through the hog-producing program of the government.

This tax was levied under the old A.A.A. program.

As this is written, the agricultural committee of the senate and house are studying testimony adduced by special sub-committees with a view to taking action at this session on a bill which would authorize tax refunds to the farmers.

Joint legislation for the purpose has been introduced by Senator Lynn J. Frazier and Representative William Lemke of North Dakota. It was on this measure that the sub-committee held hearings. Strong supporting testimony was offered by spokesmen for the National Farmers Process Tax Recovery association, an organization representing hog producers of seven states.

Paced by Edward E. Kennedy, noted farm authority and legal representative of the association, witnesses pointed out that the processing taxes on marketed hogs were levied, not on packers or consumers, but on the producing farmers during the days of the triple-A. They emphasized the "moral obligation" incumbent on congress to right this wrong by passing the Frazier-Lemke tax recovery bill.

Others besides Kennedy to testify were Donald Van Vleet, of Greenfield, Iowa, president of the National Farmers Process Tax Recovery association; A. J. Johnson, secretary of the association and president of the Iowa Farmers' Union; John C. Epp, director of the association and president of the Minnesota Farmers' Union; Harry C. Parmenter, director of the association and former official of the Nebraska Farmers' Union; Robert Spencer, vice-president of the association and president of the Indiana Farmers' Union; William E. Tanner, representing the Illinois Farmers' Union, and Ira Wilmoth, president of the Michigan Farmers' Union.

Additional testimony was offered by John Vesecki, national president of the Farmers' Union; Emil Lorica, president of the South Dakota Farmers' Union; C. O. Dayton, Washington, Iowa; R. A. Bielski, lawyer of Sioux Falls, South Dakota and Congressman Lemke.

The general theme of statements made by F.P.T.R.A. spokesmen after the hearing was: "It's up to Congress now". They added, however, in a special interview with the Farm News service that more extensive organization of hog producers would assist vitally in speeding enactment of this Frazier-Lemke bill. A drive for increased membership is under way by the association.

It is expected that the Frazier-

Lemke measure will make all hog producers—participants and non-participants in the A.A.A. control program—eligible to file claims with the Internal Revenue commission for restitution of the illegal processing tax.

It is brought out at the hearings that this tax was exacted from the farmer by the processors (packers) through lower prices paid for hogs. Reports made by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, the Brookings Institution and other authorities were cited in proof of this.

1938 Spring Hats Will Be 'Saner'—Or Will They?

Spring stylists are getting more level-headed about hats, so they say. This collection proves them both right and wrong. You can draw your own conclusions about the little feathered bonnet worn above Rita Johnson of the movies. The skyscraper quill is bright blue.

Rita changes to a tight-fitting little number that's given added height by a colorful bouquet of spring flowers. The soft veil adds "luxury." Nice, we'd say.

But wait a minute. What's this? Betty Furness, also of the movies, dons a "nose-length" veil sprinkled with sequin flowers, fastened on the top of her head with a handmade rose in crease. This isn't a spring hat, really. It's for formal dinner wear, which makes us breathe easier.

Here comes Betty Furness in something less startling and more springlike. John Fredericks designed this number, a dusty pink hat with a black suede band around the edge. The crown is high and a soft veil covers the face. What's your verdict... are 1938 hats better or worse?

Mongolian Pheasants
Mongolian pheasants are typified by the broadness of the collar around their throats and a black "tie" down their breast. They are strong, heavy birds, equal in size to the English ringneck and of healthier stock than the average inbred hatchery bird. The Chinese birds also are pure bred and of healthy stock. The species are very similar, except that the Chinese bird shows a great deal of yellow and the Mongolians are of the red variety.

Tired

I'm tired—oh, so tired—of the whole New Deal.
Of the Juggler's smile, the Barker's spiel,
Of the mushy speech and the loud Bassoon
And tiredest of all of our Leader's croon.

Tired of taxes on my ham and eggs
Tired of "Payoffs" to political yeggs.
Tired of Jim Farley's stamps on my mail
Tired of my shirt with its tax-shortened tail.

I'm tired of farmers goose-stepping to laws,
Of millions of itching job-holders' paws,
Of "fire-side talks" over commanded mikes,
Of passing more laws to stimulate strikes.

I'm tired of the hourly-increasing debt.
I'm tired of promises, still to be met.
Of eating and sleeping by Government plan.
Of calmly forgetting the "Forgotten Man".

I'm tired of every new Brain Trust thought.
Of the Ship of State—now a pleasure yacht.
I'm tired of cheating the Courts by stealth,
And terribly tired of sharing my wealth.

I'm tired of Eleanor on Page one.
Of each royal "in-law" and favorite son.
I'm tired of "Sislie" and "Buzsle" Dahl,
I'm simply—completely—fed up with it all.

I'm tired and bored with the whole New Deal
With its jugglers' smile, its Barker's spiel.
Dear Lord: Out of all thy available men
Please send us a Coolidge or Wilson again.

Nasturtium, Once Used as Food, Scurvy Remedy

Nasturtium leaves and seeds were esteemed as foods long before people began to appreciate their flowers. As far back as the Sixteenth century, while the ships of the adventurous Drake and Sir Walter Raleigh roamed the Seven Seas, it was discovered that nasturtium leaves counteracted scurvy. They were also called "Indian cress," and as such nasturtiums are known in certain parts of the English-speaking world to this day. In parts of Europe people still use the leaves as a salad and pickle the green, full-grown juicy seeds.

As in the case of many others among popular garden flowers, like marigolds and zinnias, nasturtiums are true Americans, states a writer in the New York World-Telegram. History does not record when they first came to man's notice, but their discovery dates back to the beginning of the Sixteenth century, when curious Spaniards found them "somewhere in Peru."

By the end of the Sixteenth century they had been introduced into English gardens by way of Spain and France, and called tropaeolum minus—the Greek word tropaeolum standing for trophy. The circular leaves as they are carried on their stems for all the world resemble the shields carried by the Greek soldiers.

About the year 1690 the original dwarf (minus meaning small) variety was followed by the stronger growing tropaeolum majus. Still later a species from Colombia, called tropaeolum lobbianum, found its way into European gardens. It brought with it a dark blood which has enriched this flower with tones of red, orange and the deep red-browns. From these three ancestors are derived all the nasturtiums in cultivation.

Postal Bonds In Steady Demand

Postmaster Frank Learned has received from Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau the announcement that the total maturity value of United States savings bonds sold through the close of business March 7, 1938, amounted to $1,584,482,875. This total was purchased by more than 1,260,000 investors, and represents an average sale for each business day since March 1, 1935, when these bonds were first sold, of $1,720,375.

A record for one day's sale of savings bonds was set on Monday, January 10, of this year, when $10,029,775, maturity value, of these bonds were reported sold on this single day. Sales by post offices throughout the country on that day represented $9,025,350, maturity value of bonds, and direct-by-mail orders were received in Washington for savings bonds of a maturity value of $1,004,425. The sale of savings bonds for the calendar year 1937 was 34.2 percent greater than for 1936, and the year 1938 exceeded the ten-months' sale of these bonds in 1935 by 82.8 percent.

The total maturity value sale for the calendar year 1937 amounted to $635,419,175, with approximately 600,000 purchasers, and an average sale for each business day of $2,090,200.

Detailed analysis of the daily sale at each of the post offices throughout the country authorized to sell savings bonds was begun on September 1, 1936, and for the year ending August 31, 1937, showed that there was a maturity value sale of $635,748,500, or an average sale of $2,101,500, for each business day for the first year these records were kept.

Among the features of the bonds most frequently influencing their purchase, says the report, are safety, the constant availability of the funds and the fact that savings bonds increase 33 and one-third percent in value if held for ten years. The redemption feature, which eliminates any chance of loss to the investor, appeals to all purchasers. The $100 bond unit is the most popular denomination and has accounted for 30.38 percent of the number of the bonds sold. The $25 unit ranks next with 23.71 percent of sales. The $50 unit is next with a sale of 18.49 percent. The $1,000 unit follows with 18.19 percent; while the $500 unit accounts for 9.23 percent.

As to population groups, cities of 100,000 and over account for 44.62 percent of the sale, cities of 25,000 to 100,000, 13.92 percent, 10,000 to 25,000 population, 10.20 percent, 5,000 to 10,000, 7.68 percent, the remaining 23.58 percent going to the villages and rural America.

THE GOOD EARTH... Sun... Soil... Rain... and Electricity

Farm customers throughout the area served by The Detroit Edison Company are billed at the same rate as city residences. This rate averages 3.47c per kilowatt-hour for farms and is recognized as one of the lowest average rates for electric service in the United States. This rate includes without extra charge lamp and fuse renewals, and minor repairs to appliances, as part of the same low rate. And the more you use the less it costs per unit.

Farm applications of electric power are almost unlimited: On farms served by us, electricity milks cows and cools the milk, separates cream, heats water for sterilizing dairy utensils and for other uses, grinds feed, pumps water to stock, provides running water for irrigation and for all farm uses, brings chicks into the world, warms them under the electric brooder, warms their drinking water and keeps it at the right temperature, provides light to stimulate egg production and plant growth, shells corn, grades fruit, washes vegetables, hoists hay, fills the silo, saws wood, heats soil in hotbeds, sharpens tools and does many other chores. Electricity does these things better and more economically than they can be done otherwise.

One of our farm customers who keeps accurate records saved $363 last year by using $53.17 worth of electricity instead of doing his work by hand. Carefully detailed figures were published in THE MICHIGAN FARMER and included all items of interest and depreciation on equipment.

Sun and soil and rain... These are the elements that have brought bountiful harvests to farmers since the early Egyptians tilled the rich land along the Nile. Now, with these age-old elements, electric power is contributing to better farming. For thirty years rural areas have been served by The Detroit Edison Company. Since 1928 groups of farmers have been able to get Detroit Edison service without any charge for line extensions, provided there are more than a minimum number of farms per mile: In 1928 this figure was 10 per mile; in 1933 this was reduced to 7 1/2 per mile; and since 1935, 5 per mile.

Today, 27,157 farmers are served by 6,414 miles of Detroit Edison farm line; 87.8 per cent of the farmers in the older Detroit Edison territory are now connected to our lines. In the two years since we began serving the Thumb area, the farms there which we serve have trebled.

Farm electrification has been a reality in Detroit Edison territory for ten years.

Plymouth Entry For State Honors

The Michigan Federation of Business and Professional Women will meet in Grand Rapids, Saturday, April 9, and at a dinner that evening in the Hotel Pontiac, will name "the most distinguished Michigan woman of the year".

Each of the 63 Business and Professional Women's clubs in Michigan has been asked to nominate a candidate for the honor.

Two weeks ago the Plymouth Business and Professional Woman's club of which Hildur Carlson is president, named Mrs. Ruth Huston-Whipple as the Plymouth club's candidate for the achievement award. Mrs. Whipple was named on the basis of her work as a teacher, as the author of two books, as a student of public affairs, and for her work in government.

Some of the women who have been nominated by other clubs include Miss Sara Sheridan, Mrs. Ella Gordon Smith, Judge Ruth Thompson of Muskegon, Miss Lida Rogers, who originated the Holland Tulip festival, and Professor Estelle Downing of Ypsilanti.

Church Organs Used in Ninth, Tenth Centuries

The organ, which generally is the form of musical instrument used in churches, is first mentioned in the Bible in Genesis 4: 21. Pope Vitalian introduced the organ into religious services in the seventh century. Church organs became common in Europe in the ninth and tenth centuries. The Puritans were much opposed to the use of organs in the churches. The first denotation in America to install an organ was the Protestant Episcopal church at its place of worship in Fort Royal, Va., in 1700. The first American-built organ was erected at Trinity church, New York, in 1737.

The use of musical instruments in religious services, relates a writer in the Indianapolis News, is of ancient origin. Mention is made in the Talmud of the "shofar," a ram's horn, used in the services. There was also the Hebrew sacred trumpet called the bazzeroth, which was made of beaten silver, and the harp, the psaltery, the timbrel, and the cymbal were used in the ancient Hebrew services. King David, in his psalms, speaks of harps, trumpets, stringed instruments and organs.

Break Into Cottages Boys Arrested

After three cottages on Chubb road between Nine and Ten-Mile roads, were found broken into, Robert Jarlough, 16 years old, and Russell Geis, 19 years old, were arrested by Deputy E. J. McKinley on March 22 and taken to Pontiac. Both denied knowledge of the affair until confronted with their fingerprints, which tallied perfectly with those found on one of the cottage windows. Geis made a statement to the prosecutor confessing his guilt, and implicated young Jarlough. Jarlough was to be released Thursday morning by the juvenile authorities, while Geis was put on six months' probation by Justice Rush Foster, and ordered to pay $12 costs within that time, and report each month to Deputy McKinley. Both boys have been making their home with Earl Baughman on the Nine-Mile road.—South Lyon Herald.

Laws of Oleron Governed Seamen of Earlier Days

One of the first codifications of maritime law was made at the island of Rhodes. This was incorporated into Roman law under the Caesars, and inspired the medieval "Consolato del Mare," the Consulate of the Sea, which prevailed in the Mediterranean. Elements of Rhodian law also were incorporated into the Laws of Oleron, collected in the Thirteenth century, from which most of the English, and consequently the American, sea laws were drawn.

These early codes have been stigmatized as exceedingly cruel, as asserted a writer in the New York Herald Tribune. It is true that by the Laws of Oleron a pilot who wrecked or damaged a ship was forced to make good the loss under the penalty of having his head hacked off by captain and crew. But the authority of the captain was strictly limited. He was required to take the advice of a majority of the ship's company on all major decisions, or be held responsible for any accidents that occurred. Seamen were supposed to "bear with the first stroke, be it with the fist or open hand, but if the master strikes him more than one blow, the mariner may defend himself." And the laws of Wisby, which governed shipping in the North sea and the Baltic, and which were largely based on the Laws of Oleron, provided a fine for a captain insulting his men, and said: "If he strikes he ought to receive blow for blow."

The master's authority grew instead of diminishing with time. The Ordinances of Louis XIV of France, for example, permitted him to "duck" refractory seamen—meaning keel-hauling, a brutal punishment, in which the offender was dragged from side to side of the ship, under the keel, scraping the barnacled hull in transit. Whipping, too, became common and strenuous, since the courts tended to read permission for such "moderate correction" into the quite definite Laws of Oleron.

Dance of the Sharp-tail

Grouse Odd Performance
The dance of the sharp-tail grouse takes place at daybreak, says an authority in the Detroit Free Press. The birds, both males and females, assemble at some favorite place, to go through a performance as curious as it is eccentric. The males, with ruffled feathers, spread tails, expanded air sacs on the neck, heads drawn toward the back and drooping wings, strut about in circles, not all going the same way, but passing and crossing each other at various angles.

As the dance proceeds, the excitement of the birds increases. They leap forward. They stamp the ground with short quick beats of the feet. They produce a hollow sound that reverberates through the still air of the breaking day. Suddenly they become quiet and walk about like creatures whose sanity is unquestioned, when some male again becomes possessed and struts off on a rampage, and the "attack" from which he suffers becomes infectious and all the other birds at once give evidence of having taken the disease.

The sharp-tail grouse is not much of a nest builder, placing its eggs in a hollow in the ground, scantily lined. There are from 10 to 13 dark-colored purplish-buff eggs which fade after they are laid. These hatch after three weeks into youngsters covered with yellowish down.

'Possum Is a Prowler

Although the damage that a 'possum can inflict on bird life through destruction of eggs and young is not to be compared to that by a mink or weasel, this slow moving, night prowling marsupial destroys many nests of ground birds. There isn't much that the 'possum will pass by in the way of food. Bird eggs, insects, berries, roots, acorns, ripened corn on the stalk almost anything attracts the 'possum when he starts prowling over a farm.

TWO PLYMOUTH ENTRANTS WIN THIRD PLACES

Two Plymouth freshmen won two third places in T.V.A.A. contests held last Thursday, March 24, at River Rouge. There were 24 contestants in each phase of competition.

In the interpretive poetry-reading contest, Plymouth was represented by Phyllis Hawkins, who rendered a poem called "Realism" written by her uncle, Dearborn high school won this event with Phyllis as third.

Sally Haas represented Plymouth in the story-telling division with a selection called "The Necklace". Ypsilanti's entrant conquered this classification with Sally as third.

These contests are comparatively new in the T.V.A.A., this being the second year for interpretive readings, and first year for Plymouth, in story telling. Dorothy Bohl represented Plymouth's freshmen last year in interpretive reading.

CENTRAL GRADE SCHOOL NOTES

The kindergartners are learning spring songs and songs about pussy willows. They drew free hand pictures of pussy willows. The children decorated the room with umbrellas. The morning group has started working with clay and is planning to make Easter eggs and baskets.

Miss Campbell's first graders are only one-half present. The measles and chicken pox have invaded the Central grade school. Most of the children can count up to 30 now and write the numbers one to three. Some of the children went into Mrs. Disbrow's room and read a story to them and some of Mrs. Disbrow's people did the same.

Some of Miss Weatherhead's pupils are gradually coming back from their sieges with the measles. They are making fruit and milk posters. Many of the students have brought in nice pussy willows.

Miss Inge's second graders are planning a rock garden. Miss Disbrow's first graders are having a great deal of measles. In view of this fact the pupils are reading supplementary readers until the people absent return.

The children are coloring tulips and windmills to decorate the room. Rose Marie Ericson's spelling team is ahead in the contest. The pupils in Miss Robinson's grade have constructed a fine rock garden with flowers, a pool, fish, and lovely rocks. The children have been making posters of their trip across the United States.

NEW ASSORTMENT OF BOOKS IN LIBRARY

The school library has received a new shipment of books of both the fiction and non-fiction types. The books are of such a varied kind that everyone in the school will probably find one of his favorite types. The fiction group contains books by Hinkle, Pease, Lutes, and others.

Probably the most popular non-fiction book is that by Richard Byrd entitled "Little America". Others covering various topics, especially lives of famous men, are in this selection.

STARKWEATHER NOTES

Miss Lyon's kindergartners are gradually coming back to school. The A group is busy getting ready to read. All the children are enjoying movies these days; one of their favorites is Epaminondas.

The children in Miss Stader's room are to have a show using lantern slides they have made. The name of it is "Health for Danny". The pupils have just completed the study of milk. The project they are working on summarizes the study by showing the importance of milk to the child's health. The children regret that Clarence Wolff is absent with the mumps. The pupils have just completed the story of the "Little Red Hen" in the 1A, and are preparing a dramatization of the story. They have been studying garden work and the garden implements.

Students from Miss Waldorf's public speaking class told stories to the first, second, and third grades Thursday.

Miss Starcher's fourth graders have planted their flower seeds and painted their window boxes. The pupils have begun an extensive study of the early cavemen. They have made pictures showing the cavemen's method of fishing, traveling, fire building, and their homes.

In the spelling contest in Miss Brock's room Marilyn Vershure's team is ahead, having won for five out of eight weeks.

The children have begun their travels in Switzerland in their geography study. Theron Herrick has entered school from Northville. William Bauman won the Detroit News spelling bee—Grant Wiltsie was runner-up. The pupils are studying the New England states in the 5A geography class and the 5B's are studying the West North-central states. Phyllis Thompson has returned to school after being absent since December 2 because of a broken leg. The boys have chosen baseball teams in the fifth and sixth grades. The captains are George Newton, Billy Schoof, Paul Decker, and Harry Glass.

Paula Hoencke, who won the spell-down last year in the fifth grade, won it this year in the sixth grade.

QUEER DOIN'S

You boys and gals didn't know we had a collector of rings in our fair school, did you? Neither did we, but the next time you are around Bob Beyer, notice his right hand—We wonder whose junior ring it is. One of the most studious persons in the senior class is Marion Luttermoser—He was seen in the library the other day with a huge atlas propped up in front of her—but she kept peeping out—so we surmise that she didn't get much done—One of our illustrious juniors—guess who—has been seen lately without a class ring—who is she Bob?—It seems quite the fashion to take candid camera pictures lately—we don't mind as long as they don't catch us in an undignified pose—Some certain young men have been wondering lately "Oh, dear, what can the matter be?"—We suggest for an answer the old saying, "In the spring, a young man's fancy—" you know the rest—Yes, we all get that feeling at this time of year—it makes us break out with poetry—Ah, the spring—beautiful spring.

It comes but once a year. With all its ice and sleet and rain. We're glad that it is here.

Whose picture has Johnny Crisp been carrying around?—It has been brought to our attention lately that Marilyn Holton also has a new interest in life—Does any one around here know of some one wishing to sell a goat?—One of the teachers of this old Alma Mammy wants to buy one—oh, don't you wish you knew who?—Stanton Burton better watch what he says around seniors—Jack Crisp has threatened him with violence if he doesn't—Our medal this week goes to Paul Thams and Shirley Mason for their romance of record-breaking duration—How do you do it, Paul?—Bob Brown is very excited because he has learned there is to be a girls' golf team—We'll bet his interest in golf has suddenly re-awakened. It seems that this Tuck girl rather likes the name of Harold lately.—What do you think of Stunt Night?—We would rather rely on the judges' opinion.—One thing we do admire in this school is the quantity of history Miss Fiegl gives each day, but strange to say, the seniors seem to take fewer and fewer books home each night—Oh, well, some people never learn—We did warn you about April Fool's day, didn't we? Dead and Deader.

It is estimated that the upper peninsula has more than 1,000 inland lakes.

GOINGS ON AROUND P.H.S.

Velma Thatcher and Rose Niedospal saw Nino Martini at the Ford Sunday Evening Hour.

Surprise. Surprise. A surprise party was given Friday night for Charlotte and Neaneette Welch. Their guests were Helen Jones, Eugene Bakewell, Evelyn Stewart, Bob Carlson, Agnes Mattinson, Jim Mulhulam, Bob Whitmer and George Whitmer. The party played games and well into the evening partook of refreshments.

June Jakeway of Flint spent the week-end in our fair village. Eight o'clock, nine o'clock, ten o'clock, eleven. Will you go to sleep, we've gotta get up at seven. Ruth Kirkpatrick spent Saturday night with Jane Springer.

The scavenger hunt season is again open. There have been several murmurings of it but the season was definitely opened with a bang Friday night at Bob Kenyon's party. All you need for a license is a crazy idea, so pick one up and string along with the rest. The first Friday night included the proverbial red hair, but one brilliant lad lacking a redhead procured a white one from his grandmother's head and dipped it into mercurichrome. Oh well, and so it goes. The hunters were Evelyn Bower, Shirley Sorensen, Ruth Roediger, Elaine Eifert, Carol Campbell, Rose Niedospal, Veronica Martie, Dorothy Roe, Elmer Kreger, Robert Lorenz, Paul Thams, Bob Brown, Warren Todd, and George Kenyon. Found a junk missing? Well, I wouldn't want to drop any hints, but if you're any kind of a detective this might give you a clue.

Well, Margaret Zimmerman up and gave herself a party, Friday night, too. Those in attendance were Dorothy McCullough, Mary Hood, Jane Hood, Doris Schultz, Charles Hadley, Harold Hills, Leroy Westfall, Joe Schultz, and Kenneth McMullen.

Pat Braided had as her guest Saturday, Margaret Erdly of Plymouth. Dorothy Bohl spent Friday night with Jane Springer.

Do you like to dance? Do you go for clubhouses? Do you like swing orchestras? Another of the monthly dances were given Friday night at the clubhouse in Rosedale Gardens. Among those who attended were Marilyn Holton, Carolyn Castle, Marion Luttermoser, Lois Schauffele, Jane Talyou, Doris Schmidt, Warren and Wesley Hoffman, Howard Walbridge, James McClain and Douglas Miller.

Betty Mastick entertained the "WE Eight" club at her home Tuesday night. Her guests were Norma Coffin, Betty Knowles, Annabelle Brown, Arlene Soth, Shirley Sorensen, Dorothy Roe, and Betty Korb.

Miss Lundin attended a state regional home economic conference at Saline high school Friday and Saturday.

The longest word Shakespeare ever employed was honorificabilitudinitatibus; it was used in "Love's Labour's Lost".

CLASS NOTES

The 7A hygiene classes are studying water supplies—especially that of Plymouth.

In observation of nature and wild life week, Miss Tyler's English classes read nature stories and poems they found in their text books; they also discussed the signs that tell that spring is here. Some good personal essays were written and book reports, oral and written, were last week's principal assignment.

The 7A home economics class visited the various stores Tuesday to find out which fruits are in season now. They found California oranges as high as 35 cents a dozen in some stores and Florida oranges as low as 19 cents. Strawberries and fresh pineapples are just coming in season. The seedless grapefruit which were four for 19 cents were found to be pithy and lacking in juice.

Miss Walldorf's 10A English class has completed the study of essays; the most interesting adventure type essay studied was "The Elephant" by Carl Akeley, in the nature type "The Mallard" by John James Audubon, in the formal group "My Financial Career" by Stephen Leacock and "The Great American Game" (baseball) by William Lyon Phelps. Those who are interested are working on declamation; after the second class elimination Eugene Bakewell, Dorothy McCullough, Marjorie Smith, and Ronald Cook are those remaining in the contest.

The sixth hour public speaking class has completed the unit of salesmanship. The best speech was given by Marion Shoebridge who asked the class to pretend that she was a demonstrator in Blunk's store and she demonstrated the uses of the Sunbeam Mixmaster.

One hundred thirty-one girls have signed up for the intramural volleyball contest.

Track boys also reported to Mr. Jacobi in the absence of Coach Ingram, who is ill at present. There were around 50 boys out and they had all the pep possible for good track men. There were plenty of runners and jumpers around so the competition should be keen for each position.

Baseball practice started Monday with 100 boys reporting to Coach Jacobi for the various positions on the team. The first day's drills were devoted to the fundamentals of handling a ball and bat and how to throw, field, and bat. Early indications look like the boys may develop into a good ball club.

ORCHESTRA PLAYS AT THE WAYNE COUNTY TRAINING SCHOOL

The double quartet appeared at the Kiwanis club March 29.

BURROUGHS MACHINES DISPLAYED HERE

Students taking shorthand and typing saw a display of Burroughs machines third hour Tuesday in Mr. Lynch's room. The machines shown were the Burroughs calculator and the Burroughs typewriter. The calculator was demonstrated by a woman who ran it at lightning speed much to the amazement of all the students.

Mr. Honeywells, the demonstrator, gave a short talk on the history of the adding machine along with the biography of William S. Burroughs. He also gave a history of figures and told of all the new features and improvements on the Burroughs machines.

John Hancock Was Feared as "Terrible Desperado"

John Hancock, born more than 200 years ago, was one of the most daring of the Boston Patriots during the early history of the colonies and the Revolutionary war, writes Leslie Hartley in the Washington Star. Esteemed as a leader in the Massachusetts colony, he was hated and feared as a "terrible desperado" by the British, who ordered his seizure on a charge of high treason. Warned of these orders when Paul Revere made his famous midnight ride from Charlestown to Lexington, Hancock escaped. As he fled across the fields a shot was fired that was "heard around the world," and the first battle of the American Revolution had begun—the battle of Lexington, April 19, 1775.

In the stirring days which followed, Hancock played an important role. Elected president of the Continental congress, he was serving in this capacity when the Declaration of Independence was signed, and his name, in bold letters, was the first signature on the historic document. Later he was elected the first governor of Massachusetts and held this office, with the exception of the years 1783-1785, until his death in 1793.

Army Day In the Air

America observes Army day April 6 as Uncle Sam turns attention to his air corps, an important arm of defense. At March Field, Calif., aerial bombs are loaded with sand and water preparatory to defense maneuvers. The bottles contain smoke chemicals that leave a trail and enable the pilot to check his aim.

A mechanic adjusts 100-pound bombs beneath an army plane before takeoff for practice at Murco Dry Lake.

While one branch of the army develops the offensive side of aerial warfare, another places emphasis on defensive tactics to combat enemy planes. At Fort Monroe, Va., this 1938-model soldier works on an anti-aircraft director.

Hot Cross Buns Are Legendary

Whence came the hot cross bun? Several legends surround this institution, most of them apparently founded on the following explanation:

The early Greeks offered to Apollo, Diana and other gods, at the spring festival, corresponding to Easter in the Christian church, cakes or "buns," round with small horns. The round feature represented the moon, on which was placed four quarters, representing the stages of the moon.

The Christian church later adopted the custom, making buns of the same dough kneaded for the host, or bread or wafer used in the sacrament of holy communion.

Youth Recreation Program

A youth program which is new and different will be inaugurated Saturday, April 2, in the recreation room of the city hall. This movement is being sponsored by The Woman's club of Plymouth, under the direction of Ruth Hadley. There will be some form of recreation to appeal to each and every young person in Plymouth from the age of five to 20.

This week's program is as follows:

Saturday, 9:00-10:00 — Story hour for children, age eight to 10. 10:00-11:00 — Story hour for children, age five to seven. 2:00-5:30, games for young people, age 15-19. 8:00-10:00 — Special program and dancing for young people, age 12-16.

Young people within these age groups are urged to attend.

A Communication

Dear Editor:

After reading two of the current installments of the president's magazine articles on the supreme court I had nearly been led to believe that nothing good of any legislation could get by the court.

The idea is held out in no uncertain words that after the people (acting through their congressmen) make a law IT SHOULD STAND. I shuddered when I thought of the great expense that the people must bear to have created beneficial legislation—only to have it quickly dashed to the dust. The president pretends that he would be the protector of the law which "the people approve."

That's his story, but let us look at the record:

Checking upon congress we find that it has passed about 70-000 bills since 1790. How many has been "disapproved" by the high court? By decades, here is the count—

1810-1820	0
1820-1830	0
1830-1840	0
1840-1850	0
1850-1860	1
1860-1870	4
1870-1880	8
1880-1890	5
1890-1900	5
1900-1910	9
1910-1920	7
1920-1930	19
1930-1933	12

Total 72
There you have the terrible record—72 laws vetoed by the supreme court over 143 years. How shocking!

But, wait! The president admits that he vetoed 227 laws in the first four years of his administration. These, the people's laws thrown down to dust? Sure, he didn't approve YET THE PEOPLE APPROVE.

Now, Mr. Editor, what I want to know is just WHO is nullifying the will of the people? If it is our beloved supreme court—I'll take vanilla.

First Newspaper Extras
Alfred M. Lee, author of the Daily Newspaper in America, states that extras are older in this country than dailies. He mentioned a Sunday extra of the South Carolina Gazette, a Charleston weekly, dated April 20, 1783. After the appearance of dailies, beginning in 1783, extras were sometimes issued to set forth news brought in by a ship from abroad, or, later, "hot" developments in a sensational murder trial. The latter was common during the late 1830s, especially in New York city and other large cities such as Philadelphia.

Magazine Accepts Pastor's Poem

Dr. D. D. Walton, Hasting optometrist, recently sent a poem written by one of his patients, Rev. S. Conger Hathaway, to The Optometric Weekly of Chicago. It was accepted and published in the March 10 issue of the magazine and is as follows:

Focus Your Faith Through The Lenses of Love.
(Suggested by a fortunate misfortune.)

I broke my glasses yesternight
And everything looks blurred;
Forms are distorted to my sight,
And pictures look absurd.
The day is gray, the colors fade,
Friends' faces all seem strange;
Fantastic shapes are vaguely made.

Old settings disarranged,
Perhaps it may be so with you;
The fault is not without
When things familiar look askew
And fill your mind with doubt.
The world is as it ever was,
God's love is just the same,
Your own misfortune is the cause.
Your eyesight is to blame.
You need new spectacles of faith
To make the world look right;
Put on new lenses of true love
And clarify your sight.
For when you put those glasses on,
All forms distinct grow;
Each sombre shade thus brighter made
Lends life a glorious glow!

Rev. Hathaway is at present pastor of The First Presbyterian church of Hastings.

Bristol Hotels Numerous

Almost every city and town of importance from Paris to Belgrade has its Hotel Bristol. Go to Scandinavia and you find one at Oslo in Norway; go to Italy and they dot the peninsula at Milan, Genoa, Rome and Ravenna. There's one in Lisbon; one in Gibraltar; Austria has them in Vienna and Salzburg; Holland at Arnheim; Belgium at Brussels, and Switzerland at Berne, Geneva and Lugano. They can be found in Rumania and Hungary; Germany boasts well known Hotels Bristol in Berlin and in Dresden; while France has over two dozen from Rheims to Monte Carlo. Curiously, there does not appear to be a Bristol hotel at Bristol in England.

A Communication

Open letter to the editor:

I wish to take this opportunity to congratulate the chief of police upon the efficiency of his police department.

Our chief, as you perhaps already know, has started a night school for his men. He is training his men with the utmost skill as only he could do it. His training at the Federal Bureau of Investigation has given Plymouth something no other city of its size possesses—A G-Man. He is using this training by bringing to his men a repetition of the schooling he had at Washington. There has been a remarkable improvement in the law enforcement of our city within the past year.

Respectfully submitted,
JIM STIMPSON.

Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 118): "God is natural good, and is represented only by the idea of goodness; while evil should be regarded as unnatural, because it is opposed to the nature of Spirit, God."

Emanuel Swedenborg Man of Supernormal Powers It is doubtful that any man, in all human history, was as prolific a creator in as many fields as Emanuel Swedenborg, born in 1788, and known as the "Swedish Aristotle." He was a scientist, inventor, engineer, craftsman, linguist, traveler, philosopher, psychologist, biologist, financier, legislator, statesman, musician, poet, editor, a noble and a democrat. These accomplishments were achieved during the first half of his active life. During the second half, says John J. O'Neill in the New York Herald Tribune, he was a mystic and theologian, and exhibited supernatural powers which were tested by Sweden's king and queen and such distinguished philosophers as Emmanuel Kant. He foresaw events and foretold the date of his own death in a letter to John Wesley, founder of Methodism. His published works comprise eighty-three large volumes, an incomplete record of his eighty-four years of life. Swedenborg's official position was assessor extraordinary of mines, and his creative contributions to technology were extensive. He established scientific assaying of ores. He put the metallurgy of copper and iron on a practical basis, designed efficient furnaces and rolling mills, and made the Swedes produce their own iron instead of exporting the ore. But Swedenborg's great discoveries and inventions in physical science and engineering were eclipsed by his work in biology and psychology.

Swedenborg was born in Stockholm, son of Dr. Jasper Swedenborg, later professor of theology at Upsala and bishop at Skara. When he received the patent granting him nobility, his name was changed to Swedenborg. His illumination, or psychical experiences, came at the age of thirty-two, but he continued his scientific work for many years after. He died in London in 1772 at eighty-four.

Pitcher Plant is First

Among Gangsters of Soil

Foremost among the gangsters of the plant world ranks the pitcher plant. More than two centuries ago this striking, odd and very beautiful plant attracted the attention of gardeners. A Dr. Sarrazen, of Quebec, who was a naturalist as well as a physician, is responsible for its botanical name. However, the common name of "pitcher plant" is the one most familiar to our ears. It is also called the devil's cup, the hunter's cup, the side-saddle plant, the trumpet plant, etc. writes Louise Aldrich Meisner in the New York World-Telegram. It is found in marsh lands in many parts of the United States and in many varieties. The large, handsome, often curiously mottled leaves are closed at the bottom and usually take the shape of a pitcher, which accounts for the name "pitcher plant."

They sometimes have a wing or keel on one side and are from one to two feet long. These leaves are covered with honey glands, which attract flies, moths, ants and other insects. The leaves are also covered with fine hairs, pointing downward, which very effectively prevent the escape of any hapless intruder who ventures over the rim. The insect soon falls down into the bottom of the leaf and is gradually absorbed in the digestive fluid which is accumulated there.

Some species are sufficiently large and powerful enough to hold tiny birds which have been unfortunate enough to have been lured into their fatal depths.

How the Red Cross Came

Over the hospital where wounded soldiers lie, flies a big red cross. The men who carry the wounded men from the field of battle wear a red cross on their arm. Why was a red cross chosen as the symbol of those who care for the wounded? It is simply the Swiss flag—a white cross on a red ground—reversed. It was a Swiss, Henri Dunant, who first pointed out the great need for more humane treatment of those wounded in battle, says Pearson's London Weekly. He wrote a book describing how dreadfully the wounded suffered in warfare, without anyone to look after them. As a result representatives of the nations met in Switzerland, and it was agreed that each country should start a special medical service to attend the wounded. As a compliment to Dunant and his country, it was then agreed that the symbol of the new service should be based on the flag of Switzerland.

Macaroni and Oysters
BOIL small package of macaroni in salt water until tender, then drain. Add small can of oysters, tablespoonful of butter, salt and pepper to taste. If it does not contain enough liquid to make quite juicy, add water. Put in covered baking dish and bake about 20 to 30 minutes. This makes a delicious luncheon dish.

Naming Baton Rouge

The name Baton Rouge means "red stick." All authorities agree that the name was first used by Iberville and his companions when they made their voyage up the Mississippi river early in 1699, but authorities differ as to the reason for this name. According to one account the name was derived from a gigantic cypress tree on the east bank of the Mississippi within the limits of the present city. The wood of the cypress tree has a reddish tint. According to another report, the name was derived from a red pole set up on the bank of a small stream by Indians, either for sacrificial purposes or to mark the boundary between the hunting grounds of the Houmas and the Bayougoules. The exact date of the settlement of Baton Rouge is not known. The earliest mention of the settlement is from the journal of Father Charlevoix, who states that he went to Baton Rouge to say mass on New Year's day, 1722.

Rev. Brodie To Preach Here

The Rev. John F. Brodie, of Detroit, will display a large dispensational chart at the Berea Gospel chapel in the Odd Fellow hall on Sunday, April 3 at 7:00 p.m. The chart is seven feet by 21 feet in size and is electrically illuminated with flood lights and also variegated lights to denote more emphatically special points of interest. It was laboriously drawn by Rev. Brodie and is entirely scriptural, is free from date setting, or the putting forth of denominational views and has won instant acclaim wherever it has been displayed.

Rev. Brodie has exhibited this chart in a number of the leading churches in Detroit and the state and will also have it on display at the large Olympia stadium, in Detroit, seating over 19,000, on Good Friday at a city-wide rally of Christian folk. After this, Rev. Brodie plans a tour of the country exhibiting it.

Our hearty welcome is extended to all to come to view this chart.

Educational Needs Are Stressed

The following, taken from The Northville Record, tells of the address made by Superintendent George Smith of Plymouth, before the Rotary club of that place:

"The schools of the future will be the ones which will find out the abilities and capabilities of boys and girls and then find avenues for expression of these as they are—not as we wish them to be," said Superintendent of Schools George Smith of Plymouth at the Rotary club, Tuesday noon.

"We haven't understood children as we are now understanding them. We have studied the physical side but have neglected the mental with the result that we have children breaking every day in our schools, not from physical ailments but from mental misadjustment. We are beginning to understand that one of the big tasks of the school is to straighten out this tangled thinking. Schools need the help of the psychiatrist in solving these problems of mis-adjusted children," emphasized Superintendent Smith.

Stressing these mental problems, Superintendent Smith stated that experts claim that 25 percent of the patients in insane asylums might have been kept out of them had there been proper adjustment in youth. "The schools must accept the problems of boys and girls who are not getting along," said Mr. Smith, who gave high praise to Dr. T. G. Hegge of the Wayne County Training school for the work this institution is doing in adjusting youths to their surroundings.

"A boy is not necessarily a 'dumbbell' not to like high school," said Superintendent Smith, as he told of the apprentice training course which has recently been established in the Plymouth schools. This course has placed a number of boys in part time work in various sorts of business and industry where they can apply their education to practical every day work. "Too many boys and girls have thought they must go to college, but we are now beginning to see that it is not necessary for everyone to have a college education. Many educators believe that too much stress has been placed in preparing for college, the limited number who go there. The school of the future will care for every boy and girl and fit them for active participation in society. The school must be a service station," concluded the speaker.

A new type of driver, said to have from 10 to 30 more yards in it, has been examined by technical experts for the United States Golf association. Production of the club will be discouraged.

Mr. Godwin drives his car to work every day, then drives it into a pair of cement grooves he made himself, starts the motor, sends it home all by itself at a rate of five miles an hour. It is stopped by a rubber bumper. A short while before Mr. Godwin finishes his work, his wife turns the car around, places it back in the grooves. The auto runs on its rims, has no tires.

IN MEMORIAM
In loving memory of our dear mother, who passed away one year ago, April 2, 1937. Ferdinand Kepernick, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Penney, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Gerds and grandchildren.

IN MEMORIAM
In memory of our dear mother and grandmother, Minnie Blunk, who died April 1, 1931. Like the petals of a rose. That drop off and pass away. So with our dear mother's life. Just faded day by day. And when at last her end came. While we stood in fear. To think of all the loneliness. Throughout the coming years. But some day we hope to meet her. When our day is o'er. In the beautiful Isle of Some where. When sorrows we know no more. Children and Grandchildren.
