A FOURTH OF JULY EDITORIAL

(Contributed)

Nearly 75 years ago, a gaunt, unhandsome man, whose face was careworn, and whose figure was stooped, revealing the agony that was almost smothering him, delivered a speech of only about three hundred words in length. Scarcely any attention was paid to that man or to the words that he uttered,—at the time. It was because he was the nation's ruler that he had been given the opportunity to make any remarks on this occasion.

Not Abraham Lincoln, President of the United States, but another man—Edward Everett—a noted orator, had been chosen as the principal speaker, and he spoke first. He held the crowd spellbound two hours and newspapers the next day devoted much space to a report of his masterly effort. Of the other man's speech most newspapers made no mention, beyond saying that he also spoke A few of the larger papers printed what he said, but without comment.

About everybody forgot what the man who spoke two hours had said. The other man's utterances, because of its brevity and manner of delivery, began to be recalled by its hearers and for decades it has been classed among the world's literary masterpieces.

Fourscore and seven years ago our fathers brought forth.

Fourscore and seven years ago our fathers brought forth, upon this continent, a new nation, conceived in liberty and dedicated to the proposition that "all men are created equal."

dedicated to the proposition that "all men are created equal."

Now we are engaged in a great civil war, testing whether that nation, or any nation so conceived and so dedicated, can long endure. We are met on a great battlefield of that war. We have come to dedicate a portion of it as a final resting place for those who died here that the nation might live. It is altogether fitting and proper that we should do this. But in a larger sense we cannot dedicate—we cannot consecrate—we cannot hallow this ground. The brave men, living and dead, who struggled here have hallowed it far above our poor power to add or detract. The world will little note, nor long remember, what we say here; but it can never forget what they did here.

It is rather for us, the living, to be dedicated here to the unfinished work they have thus far so nobly carried on. It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they here gave the last full measure of devotion; that we here highly resolve these dead shall not have died in vain; that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom and that government of the people, by the people and for the people shall not perish from the earth.

The occasion of the masterpiece of oratory and the scene was that of the dedication of the burial place for Union soldiers who died in battle—a field over which a part of the Battle of Gettysburg had raged.

It was only by chance that President Lincoln spoke at all, for had the original date chosen for the dedication been observed, it is likely that he would have pronounced only the simple formula of official dedication. The date set was October 23, but Everett advised that he-could not conveniently be there then. The dedication was postponed to November 19. No invitation was sent to the President until November 2. Then he was very formally told that "Hon. Edward Everett will deliver the oration... It is the desire after the oration, you, as Chief Executive of the nation, formally set apart these grounds to their sacred use by a few appropriate remarks."

With the invitation went a note from an official of the grounds to their sacred use by a few appropriate remarks." With the invitation went a note from an official of the Soldiers' National Cemetery board, telling the President the writer hoped Mr. Lincoln would feel it his "duty to lay aside pressing business for a day and come to Gettysburg to perform this late sad rite to our brave soldiers." Thus the President virtually was commanded to attend a dedication ceremony that had been postponed for the convenience of another. It was rather hoped by the committee in charge of the arrangements that "Old Abe" would not attempt to make a speech. The members feared his uncouth appearance and homely vernacular would not make a good impression on the rich and cultured supporters of the cemetery project.

Lincoln seemed not to notice the slight and accepted the rtyred President's words have become classic, heir immortality guaranteed by their majestic but simple hearty. Spoken for a particular moment, intended to serve but in instant's need, the nobility of both the thought and the uttrance was so compelling that multitudes far reand the uttractive was so compelling that multitudes far removed from the original occasion feel the power of the message and respond to its appeal. No other oration of modern times has been its could. It stands alone, an unparalleled expression of the grandeur of a master spirit, the elemental splendor of an illuminated soul.

Critics have declared that the text may be scanned, and it frequently has been printed in the typographical arrangement of poetry. To the question as to the source of its music, analysts they explain the Pealmand Shekespears.

analysts have replied by citing the Psalms and Shakespeare, but it is not exclusively a mechanical trick of rhythm which gives it its mystic character of limpid and harmonious prose. In point of fact, the address may be explained only in terms of aspiration. It is like a fragment of opalescent sky, a flash of climbing flame, a scrap of verdant wind-swept hillside, or a mighty wave of the illimitable sea—it is dynamic as these things are, natural and authentic as the universe is. Lincoln shared with the Psalmist and the Bard of Avon the instinctive capacity, judgment and charity which are aspects of divinity, yet are deeply human.

The address, then must have come out of the infinite, and it was America that spoke at Gettys urg. So viewed, the Emancipator's phrases signify the dedication not merely of a battle-field but of a nation. Consecration in them, patriotism and loyalty shine from them, and lowe and mercy reach out through them to touch the heart of mankind.

One by one, in an unending sequence, the curtain of the ages will fall, and Lincoln and his vision will remain.

WHY NOT START IT?

During the recent convention of edvertising men held in Detroit, there was much said about the present troublesome times in the nation. Responsibility for much of itewas placed by these leaders who know pretty well-what public sentiment is, upon "gabbering" and false leaders by. Even Donald Richberg, a former No. I brain truster, deglared it was time for "the shouters and sluggers" to be driven but of public life. With this statement, The Plymouth Mail is in perfect agreement. As between the "shouter" and the "slug er" sometimes one in inclined to believe that the "shouter" is the more dangerous of the two. Without the "shouters" to occourage hatreds and disturbances, there wouldn't be any need for the "sluggers."

Sometime ago Senator Robert Latellette came to Detroit to give an address. Desiring to hear what he had to say, the writer went down to the Cass-Teen school where the address was given.

address was given.

There were two "presiding orators." Both of them in presenting the program declared that the 1000 or 3000 people present should not expect to find accurate reports in the Detroit newspapers of what Senator LaFollette would have to say. In fact they declared that there would be actual distortion in the Detroit newspapers of the statements the senator would make.

would make.

After hearing these remarks as to what might be expected in the reports of the senator's remarks, all three Detroit papers were read with more than usual interest the next day. The Free Press report was a brief but absolutely accurate report of the address. The Detroit Times reporter-picked out of the address the few facts he regarded as important, and these were reported just as given by the senator. The Detroit News carried nearly a full column of the address. The News either had a stenographer take down the statements of the senator or else it had a copy of his address. All of the important portions of the senator's remarks were reported verbatim. In fact so accurately was the senator quoted by all the Detroit papers that one had a right to suspect that each paper had been provided with copies of the address.

But the big crowd present was told in advance that the

But the big crowd present was told in advance that the Detroit papers would present only distorted reports of the address, if they said anything about it at all.

Not only was the speech accurately reported, but Detroit newspapers gave it much more prominence than the address merited.

WILL SPENDING AND LENDING INFLUENCE COMING ELECTIONS?

COMING ELECTIONS?

It is seldom that a man high in public office and acquainted with political code, openly and brazenly lays himself wide open to criticism through violation of that code. Harry Hopkins, head of the federal WPA did that. He publicly indicated that the people of lowa would be smart to vote for one Democrat who was a 100 per cent New Dealer, rather than for another Democrat who had voted against packing the Supreme Court and other New Deal measures.

Coming from Mr. Hopkins, in his nationally

spec cent New Dealer, rather than for another Democrat who had a voted against packing the 'Supreme Court and other New Deal measures.

Coming from Mr. Hopkins, in his nationally prominent position and with his billions to hand out to people who are in distress, the matter was offensive to many of the thoughtful members of his own party. They sought to attach an amendment to prevent the use of relief funds in politics. The amendment offered by Senator Hatch (D) of New Mexico was defeated 40 to 37. Another amendment offered by Sen. Austin of Vermont was defeated 35 to 33.

In the debate regarding these amendments, Senator Barkley of Kentucky, talking against the amendment to take relief funds out of politics, said:

"I do not admit that as a matter of principle or as a matter of policy Mr. Hopkins was guilty of any more of an indiscretion because he spends the money than are we who appropriae it and put it at his disposal if we go around over the country expressing our views with respect to politics."

In other words, if the U. S. Senate appropriates money for the relief of distress and hunger..., but, if Harry Hopkins uses that money in such a way as to influence elections, then according to Senator Barkley, Mr. Hopkins is no more at fault than are the senators who appropriate it.

If we can read English and understand these simple words, this is cock-eyed reasoning. The money, is being appropriated to relieve distress. Nothing wrong, with that. But ... if it is used to swing elections ... there is plently wrong ... IF WE ARE TO HAVE. HONEST ELECTIONS.

It was Senator McCarran, Nevada Democrat, who replied to Senator Barkley. He asked the Kentucky New Deal leader: "Today how many are there in America whose meal ticket is controlled by some federal agency? Does that federal agency controlled by some federal agency? Does that federal agency controlling that mogal ticket have the power to say to that individual that unless he votes as the one controlling says he shall vote, he will be cott off, or shall American c occupy?"

Will the $3,700,000,000 be used where it will "do the most good" in the coming months before elections? What do you think?—Schuyler Marshall in The Clinton County Republican-News.

WHAT TAX EATERS COST.

The cost of taxation is not only the amount of money which the taxpayer pays, but what he gets for his tax money. In other words, how much of the tax money is eaten up in the cost of collecting and administering the taxes?

One of the objections put forward to all proposals to broaden the tax base by imposing income taxes on incomes much lower than those which are now covered by the law, is that it would cost more to collect the taxes than the net revenue would justify. That is not always true, however. The most widely-spread income tax is the tax which 30,000,000 workers pay on the Old Age Benefit Accou under the Social Security Act. This is a straight income tax, so de ignated in the law. It costs the government practically nothing collect it. Employers deduct it from their employe's pay, and tur it over to the federal collectors, and that is all there is to it.

it over to the federal collectors, and that is all there is to it.

The gasoline tax is one on which the cost of administration varies greatly from state to state. This, too, is a tax which is collected almost automatically; but as between states there is great divergence in the proportion of the gas tax which sticks to the fingers of tax caters before the proceeds get into their state treasuries.

The Twentieth Century fund, in a recent report on the administrative cost of gasoline taxes, report that the average is half of one percent. In Arkansas, however, a full three percent of the state gasoline tax is absorbed by, tax eaters, That this is an excessive cost is indicated by the fact that North Carolina collects its gasoline taxes at a cost of only one-tenth of one percent. California absorbs only a fifth of one percent of gasolne taxes in administrative costs, but on the other hand, spends seventeen and one-half percent of its motor vehicle license tax in collection and accounting costs.

The unnecessary and wasteful expense of tax administration, usually in the hands of state and local politicians, is one of the reasons why taxes throughout America are so high and why tax payers get so little for their money—George O. St. Charles in The Dearborn Independent.

REALITY

Not every person is able to separate illusion from reality. As a rule, it is much pleasanter to believe in the illusion, and of course, it is an underlying trait of human nature that we are all mighty charitable toward ourselves.

Nevertheless, personal prosperity requires the ability to face reality. How able are you to look at yourself objective-ly? You have been living with yourself for many years and have seen yourself so long that PERHAPS YOU DON'T SEE YOUNSELF AT ALL! It's like the steps to your house. Chances are you couldn't for the life of you, say how many there are! But if one were added or one taken away, you would stumble.

The minute way find.

would stumble. The minute you finish reading this, close your eyes. Try to see yourself as you look and act to others. What do you look like? How do you behave? What is your customary facial expression? How do you stand, sit, latk, laugh? Pick out something that could be improved (impossible?) and set yourself to making the change. See what improvements you can bring about: in your work, yourself, in your relations with others—especially in your home.

Reality is fact and there is too little fact and too much opinion in all our lives for our greatest happiness and success. Do you actually know the facts about your seeing ability—or are you accepting the illusion you now have as a reality?

shows a modern manufacturing city. A train steams by in the background. A large manufacturing plant is shown. There is the side of a church to the right, a water tank in the center and, to add a touch of realism, a tramp siceping in a word pulled up on the tracks to the left.

The mural thas attracted favorable comment from many visitors to, Plymouth and nearly every day. Postmaster Frank Learned reports, local persons visiting the postoffice stop to examine the mural and comment on it.

The mural was painted by Carols Lopez, who was commissioned for the job by the Treasury department. The postoffice was completed in 1935 and occupied early in 1936.

The My will pave Church street between Harvey and Main streets, beginning construction within about two weeks. City Manager Clarence Elliott said this week. The project, to be city financed, will amount to about $7.400, which Mr. Elliott estimated would be a savings of about 20 percent over the cost of having the work done privately. He pointed out that the paving was essential as a part of the civic center program, enlancing the beauty and utility of the area.

To reduce the waste of stop-and-go driving, Shell engineers devel-oped a way to "balance" gasoline. This balancing process com-pletely rearranges the chemical structure of gasoline . . . makes Super-Shell "digestible" for your motor, just as cooking makes food digestible for you.

At all times, your motor gets he full benefit of Super-Shell's high energy content.

On Tuesday Mr. and Mrs. Austine Winple and Oscar Huston were dinner guests of their uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer C. Ht/ton. in Birmingham, after visiting the Detroit Zoological park.

The Harry S. Wolfe real estate office on the Five Mile road near the Farmington road was entered by robbers last Thursday night and two typewriters were stolen. State police are investigating. This is the third time within a year that the office has been robbed. Even a bright light left burning in the building does not keep the thieves away. Plymouth Taxi Service Is Unexcelled Anywhere
