

Professional Offices Are Looted In Two-Day Robbery Wave At Plymouth and Northville

Clear Fingerprints Are Obtained In Six Burglaries

Plymouth's Police Capt. C. J. Thumme and Chief of Police Louie German, of Northville, conferred this week on an outbreak of robberies in the two towns.

Both officers reported lootings of professional offices in the downtown sectors. Clear fingerprints were obtained by both officers, who said that they were satisfied that if the thieves had a record, police would have a case on the basis of the fingerprints.

Chief German said that he believed the robberies were executed by professionals because of the methods by which the Northville offices were entered.

The officers agreed that the burglars probably were well acquainted in both towns as they chose the proper times and places to effect entries.

Three robberies were reported on the evening of July 7 in Plymouth. Capt. Thumme said, The thieves entered a hallway at 841 Penman avenue and broke down a partition between the Whipple Hair shop, managed by Mrs. Calvin Whipple, and Dr. J. H. Todd's dental office after jimmying open a door.

About $15 to $20 in gold was taken from the dentist's office but nothing apparently had been stolen from the hair shop.

In another upstairs professional office at 862 Penman avenue thieves broke into the rooms of Dr. Paul W. Butz and obtained a 16-mm. film projector valued at $185.

The thieves made their entrance at the supper hour while there was no one in either place, Capt. Thumme said. After this the door to the hall entrance will be locked unless someone is in the building, tenants told him.

There also were three breaking and entering cases at Northville. Chief German said, on the evening of July 6 thieves broke into the office of Dr. H. H. Burkhardt, dentist, by climbing through

Detroit Motorist Pays $50 Fine

The Plymouth police department served additional notice this week that drunk and reckless driving will not be tolerated in the city when a Detroit driver was fined $50 and $5 costs for violation of traffic ordinances a week ago Saturday. He appeared before Municipal Justice John S. Dayton Friday.

The defendant, who pleaded guilty, was Bernard Holodjak, of 1976 Garfield avenue, Detroit. He was arrested on Main street by Officer Lee R. Sackett. He was examined by a physician and found to be drunk.

The local meeting will be the first attempt at an open air rally. There will be singing of gospel hymns and arrangements have been made for special speakers. A cordial invitation is extended to the young people of this community to come and enjoy this meeting.

Plates Go On Sale September 1st

License plates for the last half of 1938 will go on sale in Plymouth the first day of September, according to Harold Finlan, director of the license plate sale for the secretary of state, in Plymouth. "Hundreds of requests are coming into this office every day from people inquiring when the new half year plates will go on sale. According to Secretary of State Leon Case we may place them on sale the first of September and not before," stated Mr. Finlan.

Mr. and Mrs. Jayson Lyke, Mr. and Mrs. George Todd, Delite Taylor, Marion Guck, Jack McAllister, and Bob McSpaden enjoyed a picnic at Rondeau park, Ontario, Monday.

Building Repairs Ordered By City

The city ordered five owners of business buildings to make repairs in the structures this week after an inspection of the city's places of business by Robert Todd, city building inspector.

City Manager Clarence Elliott pointed out that the percentage of faulty buildings was low, with only five out of 77 requiring any changes.

The nature of the defaults in the five buildings consisted of two cases in which building stones or concrete were loose, one case in which an awning was considered dangerous and two other cases where some other fault was considered a possible menace to public safety.

Mr. Elliott said that he expected that the business men would comply with the orders in a spirit of co-operation with the city as well as with an interest in the welfare of their customers.

Asked what measures could be taken if the orders were not obeyed, he said that the city commission could order the repairs and assess the property owner or issue a warrant for his arrest under the state building code, in which case he would be liable to a maximum fine of $100.

"We intend to make this inspection of buildings an annual affair," Mr. Elliott said. "I am gratified to see that so few cases of latent danger were discovered in the inspection."

Triple Checking Guards Tax Money Against Errors

Manager Replies To Charges Made By County Auditor

Triple checking in Plymouth guarantees accuracy in crediting of tax payments, City Manager Clarence Elliott declared this week in taking exception to remarks by Edward Williams, county auditor, before the county board of supervisors last week.

Mr. Williams asked the board to appropriate $30,000 to check the crediting of tax payments by individuals in the county after he charged that errors ran rampant in city, township and village treasurers' accounts in the county.

This charge is false in Plymouth, Mr. Elliott said.

"Plymouth has a triple check on payment of taxes," he said. "First, receipts are posted each day and they must check with deposits. Second, our accounting system demands that the amount of taxes paid must be in balance before the city releases the rolls to the county. Third, outside auditors check Plymouth's tax rolls."

"This firm, North, Bailey and Ross, has checked Plymouth's books for 19 years. In addition, the county treasurer frequently has had that he is always glad to see Plymouth's books because

Daisy Company Puts Three New Toy Products On Market

A "Lil Abner" cork ball gun and "Shootin' Gallery," a double barreled 100-shot repeating rifle and a telescope sight feature the new products being introduced on the market this week by the Daisy Manufacturing company.

The well known characters, drawn by Al Capp and his aides in the famous "Lil Abner" comic strip, play an important part in the "Shootin' Gallery" which portrays Salomey, Mammy and Pappy Yokum. Daisy Mae and Lil Abner. The characters act as targets and can be shot in place by the cork balls fired from the new cork ball gun. An interesting item in this connection is that the first time the local concern is utilizing cork balls for regular ammunition and at the present time there are more than two and one-half millions of the one-half inch cork pellets in the Daisy plant.

The second article making its appearance is the double barreled repeating air rifle that compares favorably with any real, high priced double barreled shot gun in appearance. This gun is excellent for those who wish to teach their sons or daughters the fundamentals of handling a shot gun and has a great appeal to boys because of its accuracy in shooting.

The third item is the new Daisy telescope sight. Made to fit any model Daisy air rifle, it has universal mounting clamps and is modeled after high priced big game telescopes. It is powered with a 2X lens and adds many feet to the distance that the gun may be accurately sighted.

These new products were shown at the toy fair in New York a few weeks ago and met with general approval. The Lil Abner gun and gallery was the hit of the show.

Watch Out!

It has come to the attention of some of the business men that there is an effort being made to put over one or two so-called new advertising schemes in this city. During the past few months some of the merchants of the city have been caught in one or two of these schemes. We wish to issue this warning in advance so that every business man in Plymouth will be on his guard. Times like these always cause the development of advertising schemes to get "easy money" from merchants in the smaller cities. There is never any benefit that comes from them except to the promoters. Watch out! The safe rule is to turn them ALL down. We need the money in Plymouth more than do these outside advertising promoters. Say "NO!"

Officer Traps Plymouth Youths Stealing Gasoline

Confessions Obtained After Pair Returns To Pick Up Loot

Officer Lee R. Sackett set a successful trap for gasoline thieves last Thursday which resulted in confessions from two Plymouth youths that they had been taking gasoline from a Wayne county digger stationed at Penman avenue and Sheldon road.

Officer Sackett noticed two youths fleeing from the machine while he was on patrol. He pursued them and forced them to a halt a few blocks away. In the pursuit, however, he noticed that they had thrown something out of their car.

When he caught up with the pair he identified them but was forced to release them for lack of evidence. He quickly retraced his route and found that a five-gallon can of gasoline had been thrown from the suspect car.

He waited in hiding. In a few minutes the two youths returned. As they attempted to pick up the can of gasoline, Sackett arrested them.

The two said that they were looking for a lost radiator cap. Later, however, they confessed to Sackett and Police Capt. Charles J. Ennume that the radiator cap was only a pretext and that it was hidden under the floor mat.

One of the youths, who says he is 19 years old, pleaded guilty to pilfering gasoline before Municipal Justice John S. Dayton. He was placed on probation for nine months. The other youth, who was not formally charged, was released so that he could be present for registration at a CCC camp.

Police returned the stolen gasoline to the county.

Jacquelyn Schoof and Mary Katherine Moon gave a farewell party for Betty Mastick, Wednesday evening of last week at the former's home on Mill street. The guests enjoyed supper on the lawn, each one coming, being dressed as little girls. Betty left on Saturday on a trip to Alaska with George Buchanan and his group from Detroit.

Postoffice Business For First Six Months Of 1938 Is Greater Than For The Entire Year Of 1936

Records Show Tremendous Growth In Past Two Years

Records just compiled by Postmaster Frank K. Learned reveal that the total gross business of the Plymouth postoffice for the first six months of 1938 exceeds the total business of the Plymouth postoffice for the year 1936.

The total business of the Plymouth postoffice for 1936 was slightly over $28,000.

The total business for the first six months of 1938 was just a trifle under $29,000.

Postmaster Learned states that if the present ratio in increase is maintained for the remainder of the year, that the business of the Plymouth postoffice will be more than double what it was just two years ago.

There is a surer index of the growth of a community than its postoffice business. The coming of the Burroughs Adding Machine company, the Choice Foods Products company, the increasing of the direct mail advertising of the Daisy Manufacturing company, and the corresponding increase in business of several of the smaller concerns of the city accounts, to a very large degree, for the remarkable increase in the business of the Plymouth postoffice.

If the present rate is maintained, the Plymouth postoffice will be raised from a second to first class office within the near future.

First Sunrise Services Will Open In Riverside Park At 5 a.m. Sunday With Dr. M. S. Rice As Speaker

Several Families Plan Picnic Breakfast After Dawn Observance

Plymouth residents weren't fooling this week when they told friends, "I'll see you at the crack of dawn Sunday."

A heavy turnout of local residents and others from the surrounding area, neighboring towns and Detroit are expected to attend the city's first annual sunrise services to be conducted at 5 a.m. Sunday.

The sunrise rites, which will commemorate Plymouth's 110th birthday as a Michigan settlement and the 105th anniversary of the establishment of the first church here, will be conducted on the east side of Whitbeck road in Plymouth's Riverside park.

Plymouth Boy Scouts will direct traffic for the affair. This week a novel feature for the event was suggested by several families who intend to serve a picnic breakfast in the park after the sunrise services proper.

The services will be featured by an address to be presented by Dr. Merton S. Rice, of the Metropolitan Methodist church of Detroit. Dr. Rice is known widely throughout the nation and Michigan particularly for his ability to capture and hold the interest of an audience.

The program will be opened with a call to worship by trumpeters. The invocation will be delivered by Miss Susan Thurman of the Unity Study group.

The assembly will join in singing a morning hymn, the first line of which is, "When Morning Gilds the Sky," after which the Rev. Robert North, of the Plymouth Nazarene church, will offer a prayer.

The choir will sing "The Heavens are Telling," by Haydn, assisted by the trio, composed of Mrs. James Sessions, Edwin Campbell and Carl Bryan.

Paul Zeller, of Ann Arbor, will present a solo, "The Living God," by O'Hara. A scripture reading

Dr. Enss To Take Pulpit of First Baptist Church

He Will Conduct Only Sunday Rites Until September

The Rev. Gustav H. Enss, Th.D., formerly pastor of the Ebenezer German-Baptist church, Detroit, has been tendered a call to the pastorate of the Plymouth First Baptist church.

Dr. Enss will come to Plymouth with a wide experience. He was born in the eastern part of Russia near the Volga river under Czar Nicholas' rule, his father an Austrian, his mother a Hollander, disciple of the Baptist Evangelical branch of the Protestant Reformation of the sixteenth century known as Swiss Brethren and Holland Menonites.

Dr. Enss began his early schooling for the ministry and evangelical work in Halstadt, Russia, and later Odessa in the fertile Ukrainian farm lands not far from the Crimean Peninsula. He took two years in graduate philological work at the University of Berlin.

He married a charming English widow with four small children who was staying at the home of an uncle engaged in a Russian manufacturing plant. They returned to his early boyhood scenes on the Volga for their honeymoon. Both of them were baptized in Europe, she in the Anglican church, Germany, he in

Lightning Blasts Ford Plant Cable

Lightning struck a power cable and pole at the Ford Motor company plant on Wilcox road at 12:08 a.m. Monday and caused lights to go off for a short time but failed to interfere with the production schedule, James Gallimore, manager, reported.

The blast, which struck in the course of a heavy rain and electrical storm that caused considerable damage and started at least one large fire in Wayne county, burned the power cable in half and burned the pole badly.

The Detroit Edison company expected to have the damage repaired by Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Orr Passage visited their cousin, Miss Margaret Carroll, in Detroit, recently.

Mr. and Mrs. William Gayde have had as their guests for a few days, Mr. and Mrs. Eric Von Nostitz of Westfield, New Jersey and Mr. and Mrs. Florian Von Nostitz of Toledo, Ohio, also Mrs. Larry Middleton of Detroit.

Majority Of Stores Will Be Closed Five Hours For Fete

Plymouth business and civic leaders who are in charge of the community picnic plans at a meeting Tuesday night set the date for the citywide get-together as Monday, August 8. About 20 persons attended the session.

Recreation of every description will feature the old-fashioned basket picnic, which will be held in Riverside park.

Committee leaders announced also that Plymouth business men would play the part of a dutch uncle to children of the city. This decision was reached at a luncheon meeting Wednesday when it was decided also that most of the merchants would close their stores from 1:00 to 6:00 p.m. on the day of the picnic.

At the luncheon a committee of 15 was selected to visit every merchant, professional man and factory official to solicit a dollar from each firm which will be

City Attains Lowest Recorded Loss From Fire For Last Fiscal Year; Per Capita Estimate Set At 8 Cents

Mrs. Horvath Wins Trip To Europe

Mrs. Stephen Horvath of this city, was the very fortunate winner of a trip to Europe. She won this wonderful prize by selling life insurance for the Verhovay Fraternal Insurance association, a Hungarian association of which she is a member. The contest was sponsored to acquire new members for the association. There have been two groups previous to this that have been sent to Europe the same way.

Mrs. Horvath will leave for New York City on July 25 and from there will board the S.S. Europa on July 26. The ship will sail at midnight of the latter date.

While on her tour, Mrs. Horvath will visit relatives in Czechoslovakia and Hungary. She plans to visit several parts of Hungary, this being her native country. It will be her first visit in 42 years. She will stay about three months.

Mrs. Horvath wishes to thank all those people who helped her win her trip.

Her many, many friends wish her all the success and happiness on this trip that is possible and they will be anxiously awaiting her safe return in the late fall.

There were three grass fires included, and origins of two of the blazes were unknown.

In comparison, there were 25 fires in the city for the last previous fiscal year.

Per capita fire losses for the last nine years, during which records were maintained were as follows:

1929-30	$0.95 1/2
1930-31	2.50
1931-32	1.44
1932-33	10.61
1933-34	2.86
1934-35	1.93
1935-36	4.48
1936-37	.99
1937-38	.08

Mr. Elliott also said that there now are two men stationed in the fire department for immediate service on Sundays. This action was a response to calls, more necessary on Sundays than on week-days in the case of a volunteer department, he explained.

In addition, Ernest Wilson, of the city hall garage and in charge of all fire department apparatus, is working with six men who are listed as alternate drivers of the fire trucks to teach them all the tricks of driving the heavy machines and of operating the pumps.

Operation of the pumps, Mr. Elliott said, requires technical knowledge of their function and this knowledge is essential for quick and efficient fire fighting. Mr. Wilson was primarily responsible for construction of the new fire truck. He directed and worked on the equipment, which the city a considerable sum of money for the required new machine.

"There seems to be some confusion in the city and surrounding areas as to what to do in case of fire," Mr. Elliott said. "Persons living inside the city limits need to know the telephone operator and tell her where the fire is, its nature, such as a dwelling place, a barn or other type of blaze. In case of a grass fire, call the city hall."

"Remember that speed is essential and that the telephone operator is the only person who is able to blow the fire siren. Don't waste time fruitfully attempting to stop a blaze and then expect the fire department to extinguish the fire when it has gone beyond control."

Persons living in Plymouth or Livonia townships should call direct to the telephone operator, the city manager or Fire Chief Fred Wagonchutz. In case of a grass fire these persons should call the local supervisor.

The Plymouth fire department will not respond to fires in other townships except by special arrangement. Persons in townships other than Plymouth or Livonia should call their supervisors regardless of the nature of the fire."

Burglars Loot Tavern Twice In Two Weeks

For the second time in two weeks, thieves entered the Penman Tavern at Rosedale Gardens Sunday night and escaped with considerable loot in the form of bottled whisky, cigarettes and other merchandise.

Two weeks ago the tavern was entered in the night by burglars who obtained about the same amount and type of loot. At both times, the thieves entered the building through the kitchen.

J. D. McLaren, with a group of Monroe friends, left Sunday for the Ozark mountains where they will spend a fortnight.

22 Plymouth Blazes Cause $435 Damage, Smallest In Decade

Plymouth suffered the lowest fire loss in the knowledge of city officials last year. City Manager Clarence Elliott announced this week following completion of reports for the fiscal period ended July 1. The fire loss amounted to only eight cents per capita.

The 22 fires within the city limits to which the city volunteer fire department answered caused insurance damage estimated at $435, an average of about $20 fire.

In contrast to fire losses estimated on a per capita basis for the last nine years the loss plummeted downward in the last year, from a high in 1932-33 of $10.61 loss per capita.

In addition to the city calls the department also responded to five alarms in Plymouth township, two in Livonia township, one in Canton township and one in Northville village.

The principal cause for city fires in the last year was igniting of wood shingle roofs by sparks from chimneys. This accounted for six of the 22 fires. Other fire calls revealed defective furnaces, two; papers in furnace, one; oil stove, one; cigarette, one; defective chimney, one; defective wiring, one; stove explosion, one; overheated furnace, one; automobile blaze, one, and rubbish, one.

There were three grass fires included, and origins of two of the blazes were unknown.

In comparison, there were 25 fires in the city for the last previous fiscal year.

Per capita fire losses for the last nine years, during which records were maintained were as follows:

Community Picnic Date Set For Aug. 8; Merchants Will Provide Prizes For Children's Contest At Riverside

Plymouth business and civic leaders who are in charge of the community picnic plans at a meeting Tuesday night set the date for the citywide get-together as Monday, August 8. About 20 persons attended the session.

Recreation of every description will feature the old-fashioned basket picnic, which will be held in Riverside park.

At the luncheon a committee of 15 was selected to visit every merchant, professional man and factory official to solicit a dollar from each firm which will be used to purchase prizes in Plymouth for games and contests for children at the picnic.

It was planned in addition to provide refreshments, probably including ice cream, in the course of the picnic afternoon, which will be free to all Plymouth children.

The committee suggested that any merchant, professional man or industrial head who was not contacted could send his dollar contribution for the picnic prizes and refreshments to the Chamber of Commerce at the Mayflower hotel.

The merchants whose places of business will be closed on the afternoon of the picnic will display signs in their windows announcing the fact. It was announced at the luncheon.

A further meeting to crystallize the plans for the big picnic will be held tonight (Friday), at which time committees in charge of various arrangements will make their reports. Definite decisions are expected to be made at this meeting on several details.

A MASTERPIECE OF DISTORTION.

During the past five years and more of the present national administration, The Plymouth Mail has studiously refrained from commenting adversely upon any of the activities of the nation's highest executive. Frequently there has been much said in commendation of some of the aims the President has said he desired to accomplish. In national affairs probably no paper in Michigan or any other state has followed a more independent course than has The Plymouth Mail.

Therefore, The Mail feels perfectly free to publish an editorial taken from the last issue of The United States News, another independent newspaper that in the early days of the present national administration gave strong support to the national administration. The editorial was reprinted by The United States News from The Baltimore Sun, for more than 500 years one of America's strongest liberal Democratic papers. Under the heading, "A Masterpiece of Distortion", the editorial from The Baltimore Sun follows:

Mr. Roosevelt delivered himself of a rousing campaign speech on Friday night. In a subtle appeal to the emotions and the unthinking, in its cloaking of arrogant self-righteousness in the garments of simple modesty, in its distortion of the views and attitudes of opponents, it was a masterpiece. It probably will win him some votes. It certainly will stimulate his own peculiar, personal following.

Naming no names, he tore into Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., of General Motors, with the kind of ferocity that delights the bulk of those who constitute the Rooseveltian army. Mr. Sloan had made the mistake of expressing to his stockholders certain fears about the wages and hours legislation, which is politically attractive but economically so dangerous as Mr. Sloan noted. For this offense, Mr. Sloan's large salary was mentioned by the President in terms of scornful anger. You would not suppose, hearing Mr. Roosevelt on this salary, that he is an intimate of a man of such enormous income as is attributed to Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy. You would not suppose that Mr. Roosevelt had been the boon companion of Vincent Astor and frequently a guest on the Astor yacht, which is one of the handsomest private boats ever maintained from "unearned increment."

You would not suppose that it has been repeatedly stated in print and never denied that Son James Roosevelt, aged 31 years, has acquired a handsome fortune in the insurance business, today possesses an income that runs into six figures and continues to share in insurance profits while occupying a post in the White House.

From the President we also learned that Mr. Sloan has dismissed some of his employees.

You would not suppose, hearing Mr. Roosevelt, that a private employer has the right to retrench when his business declines, exactly as Mr. Roosevelt has repeatedly promised to dismiss public employees when there was no work for them to do. You would not suppose that Mr. Sloan individually and General Motors are taxed by federal, state and local governments for unemployment relief. You would not suppose that there is also a system of unemployment insurance designed to meet the fact that employers must sometimes dismiss employees whether depression occurs under Mr. Hoover or under Mr. Roosevelt.

And when, further, the President assails Mr. Sloan for stating his views in a message to stockholders, at the expense of stockholders for postage, you never would suppose that Mr. Roosevelt maintains in Washington at the taxpayers' expense a propaganda machine whose cost probably exceeds the total cost for publicity of all Presidents from Washington to Hoover, inclusive.

Mr. Roosevelt draws a pious distinction between his position as President of the United States and his position as head of the Democratic party and, in stately terms, explains that in the latter capacity he intends to use his influence only in those State primaries in which there is a question as to loyalty of candidates to the "principles" of the 1936 platform or in which there is clear misuse of his name. He does not, he insists, intend to indicate a preference in a State primary merely because some candidate conscientiously differed from him on a single issue.

You would not suppose there ever had been the recent Democratic Senatorial primary in Iowa. You would not suppose the influence of the White House had been thrown against Senator Gillette. You would not suppose that Senator Gillette had been utterly faithful to the New Deal save in his refusal to support the packing of the Supreme Court, which, far from being one of the "principles" of the 1936 platform, had been kept in complete darkness when Mr. Roosevelt appealed to the people for reelection and was again and again challenged to say whether he would pack the court if returned to office.

You would not suppose that the acquisitive Son James, speaking from his father's elbow in the White House, had intervened in the Iowa primary against Senator Gillette. You would not suppose that Harry L. Hopkins, master of billions for relief and holler-than-thou in denunciation of those who play politics with human misery, had intervened in the Iowa primary against Senator Gillette. You would not suppose that Mr. Hopkins had been publicly sustained in this playing of politics by Mr. Roosevelt himself.

Mr. Roosevelt draws his own line of demarcation in political thought. Those who are with him he calls liberals. Those who are against him he calls conservatives. The conservatives, he conveniently finds, are against old-age pensions and unemployment insurance. They are for monopolies. They are for the gold standard. And so on.

You would not suppose there are men opposed to Mr. Roosevelt who were arguing for old-age pensions and unemployment insurance before he ever uttered a word on that subject. You would not suppose that the criticism today of these measures of social relief runs not against the policy, but against Mr. Roosevelt's administration of the policy. You would not suppose that the anxiety today among critics is not over the existence of a system of old-age pensions, but over the fact that Mr. Roosevelt is using the money collected for pensions from employers and workers to help meet the current operating costs of the Government and that the reserve ordered to be built up consists of pieces of paper, called bonds, which the Government prints and gives to itself—a promise from the Government to pay.

You would not suppose, hearing Mr. Roosevelt attribute devotion to monopolies to his critics, that he began his first administration with the NRA, which was the greatest system of governmentally-sponsored monopolies that this or any other country ever beheld. You would not suppose that five years of the all-powerful Roosevelt Administration passed before Mr. Roosevelt ever departed far enough from that support of what he called "great industrial guilds" to write a message to Congress in which he asked legislation to begin a study of monopolies. You would not suppose that Senator Millard E. Tydings, of Maryland, against whom Mr. Roosevelt is conducting a vendetta, was crying out against monopolies and voting against them when Mr. Roosevelt was fostering them by all the means at the command of his great office.

You would not suppose, hearing Mr. Roosevelt's contemptuous references to those who believe in the gold standard, that Senator Carter Glass had ever delivered his famous speech in the 1932 campaign. You would not suppose that Mr. Roosevelt had courted Senator Glass to deliver that speech in reply to one by Mr. Hoover in which Mr. Roosevelt's fidelity to the gold standard was questioned. You would not suppose that Senator Glass, an aged and then ailing man, had spent weeks in preparation of the speech. You would not suppose that Senator Glass went to the microphone with a physician at his back. You would not suppose that, after his reply to Mr. Hoover, Mr. Roosevelt had described the speech as a "masterly philippic."

Mr. Roosevelt finds that he has won a victory in the fight over the Supreme Court.

You would not suppose, hearing him state the terms of that fight, that he ever had proposed to pack the Supreme Court in a maneuver which his old lieutenant, Gen. Hugh Johnson, called "too damned clever." He talks of other features of the fight. You would not suppose, hearing him speak of the change in the court's theories of constitutional interpretation, that hundreds of critics of the court-packing scheme had argued day in and day out that such change was inevitable without the violence to the independence and integrity of the court that was involved in the packing scheme.

You would not suppose that the time packing was proposed four of the nine justices were battling for liberal interpretation and the debates within the court were becoming historic. You would not suppose that critics of the packing plan pointed out again and again that age and retirements would quickly bring new members to the court, and they would swing the balance to the liberal side without use of any device that was "too damned clever" to be submitted to the people when they went to the polls.

Mr. Roosevelt makes play with the demands of critics, under all the varying conditions of his Administration, that the confidence of business conditions under his Administration made the call for restoration of confidence inevitable at all times. We have had spurts due to the inflationary moves in 1933 and we have had recessions. We have had spurts due to efforts to accumulate goods in anticipation of labor troubles and we have had recessions—the present collapse from the boom of early 1937 being partly in that category. We have had spurts due to the momentary economic and psychological effects of colossal deficit financing of the Government and we have had recessions.

Hearing Mr. Roosevelt, you would not suppose that his chameleon policies, resulting in spurts and dips for five years and in a huge pool of unemployment all the time, had anything to do with the constant call for actions that would restore business confidence.

Nor, hearing Mr. Roosevelt on Friday night, would you suppose that throughout these five years of profligate spending of billions upon billions, there remained in print these words spoken by Mr. Roosevelt at Albany on July 30, 1932, to wit:

We face a condition which at first seems to involve either an unbalanced budget and an unsound currency or else failure of Government to assume its just duties—the relief of distress and protection against loss of savings built up through the years by numberless small investors. This concerns you, my friends, who managed to lay aside a few dollars for a rainy day.

This dilemma can be met by saving in one place what we would spend in others; or by acquiring the necessary revenue through taxation. Revenues must cover expenditures by one means or another. Any Government, like any family, can for a year spend a little more than it earns. But you and I know that a continuation of that habit means the poorhouse.

To hear Mr. Roosevelt in these days, you would not suppose he ever had spoken such words of warning against his own present policies.

Having said so much, it is a pleasure to note that Mr. Roosevelt has been able at long last to make up his mind in the fight between his friend, the boss of the C.I.O., and his friend, the boss of the Jersey machine.

In this fight, the boss of the Jersey machine is not only invading the constitutional rights of free speech and free assembly which are possessed by the followers of the boss of the C.I.O. He also is undermining the rights of all citizens. Mr. Roosevelt, after due and protracted deliberation upon this conflict between his friends, has come out for free speech and free assembly. In this, he speaks, without mentioning names, against Boss Hague, of Jersey City, a powerful politician and an important cog in the Roosevelt-Farley machine.

For this we thank Mr. Roosevelt. And we shall not bother to remember that it may be more dangerous to offend John L. Lewis than to offend Frank Hague.

Danger Lurks In Sun-Goggles

We, in optometry, are carefully studying the effects of various colored lenses on the visual (yes, and on the entire physical) system. We have not reached definite conclusions yet, but we know enough NEVER TO PUT INDISCRIMINATE TINTS AND COLORS in the lenses we prescribe for our patients. There may be real danger in the colors in those 10c and 25c goggles. For instance, we are not certain, but we have reason to think there is some connection between the progress of cataract (which no one wants) and the red and infra-red rays of light. Anyway, we don't ever use lenses that intensify or encourage the red part of the light. We don't know for certain yet, but we frequently prescribe RED-FREE lenses for any patients who show any tendency toward a cataract condition.

Again, these sun-goggles have lenses which are neither ground nor polished, so that there are all sorts of freak lens powers and aberrations which must be hurtful to the wearer. Why put lenses full of errors in front of eyes already full of errors? So many people have made a bad choice of goggles that they ought to be warned if they are to use them at all, the lenses must either be ground with the patient's own prescription or ground and polished "fitovers" supplied by a responsible optometrist.

I remember one man who was proud of not wearing glasses who found he could see better with his sun-goggles. It came out that he did need proper correction and that the supposedly innocent sun-goggles had part of that power in them. Was he surprised? Better have an authority pass on these dangerous playthings!

A budget plan of easy payments is available for those who desire to take advantage of it.

when you buy a new stove today!

Electric cooking is the up-to-the-minute cooking method in use today. The modern electric range represents the last word in fine cooking equipment. But what about tomorrow?

Twelve years is the average length of time a family keeps a stove. This means that the stove you buy today will be cooking for you in 1950. If you buy an ELECTRIC range, you can be sure that it will be as modern then as it is now. The trend is to electric cooking: Sixty thousand of your neighbors now cook electrically. Last year alone, 10,000 families in and around Detroit switched to electric cooking.

What are the reasons for this rapidly growing popularity? An electric range offers 6 proven advantages that you get in no other stove:

- (1) CLEANLINESS—An electric range cooks with pure heat from a glowing wire—heat as clean as sunlight. Your kitchen walls and curtains stay fresh for a much longer period of time, with less frequent redecorating. Cooking utensils remain bright and shiny after long use.
- (2) COMFORTABLE COOKING—An electric range will not raise the kitchen temperature even one degree, no matter how warm the weather. It is a boon during the hot summer months.
- (3) BETTER FLAVOR—Electric cooking has a deliciously different flavor—a natural flavor in foods. Meats and vegetables cook to melting tenderness in their own juices.
- (4) WATERLESS COOKING—The waterless cooking method seals in precious minerals and important food values. On an electric range, vegetables are steam-cooked: Half-a-cup of water is ample.
- (5) MORE LEISURE—An electric range is time-saving... it gives you extra hours of freedom away from the kitchen.
- (6) MODERN COOKING—This modern cooking method is fast, simple, safe—and convenient. Snap the switch and start to cook. Thanks to the accurate oven heat control, you can get the same perfect baking results time after time, without guesswork.

Let your dealer tell you about these features of the 1938-model electric ranges.

See the new electric ranges on display at department stores, electrical dealers or at your Detroit Edison office.

The Golden Text (John 5: 26), is "As the Father hath life in himself; so hath he given to the Son to have life in himself." Among the Bible citations in all Christian Science churches is the passage (Matt. 7: 13, 14): "Enter ye in at the strait gate: for wide is the gate, and broad is the way, that leadeth to destruction, and many there be which go in thereat: because strait is the gate, and narrow is the way, which leadeth unto life, and few there be that find it." Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 324): "The way is straight and narrow, which leads to the understanding that God is the only Life."

See news article announcing Kellogg park rally.—John Walasky, pastor.

CALVARY BAPTIST CHURCH. Holbrook and Harding, Lynn B. Stout, pastor. Less than two months ago 150 Baptists moved down the aisles as one man singing the song "Revive Us Again" and declaring by that act that they would have a revival at any cost. But it begins to look like the cost was too much; and like the case of the "lepers" of our Lord's day we can say: "Where there are ten cleansed?" "But where are the nine?" It seems that the nine felt it their duty to be true to "the cause" instead of the Christ. Revival is coming just the same so "Ahab get thee up, there is a sound of abundance of rain." There will be a sunrise service at Riverside park next Sunday at 5:00 o'clock. Other services are: Preaching at 10:00 o'clock; Bible school, 11:15 a.m.; young people, meet with Nazarene young people, 5:30 in their new church. # Going To Be A Wet Summer

It's going to be a wet summer. There's going to be several more wet summers.

That's what the owls say that one time lived out in Sam Spicer's barn.

That's what the weather experts say according to a news announcement.

A study of tree stumps produces evidence to support the premise that changes in solar radiation affect precipitation and temperature of this planet.

The study, also indicates that the earth is well launched into a several-year period of heavy rainfall.

Rains which last year and this have broken the back of the drought, have transformed the West and Midwest and which promise bumper crops this season, have been paralleled in the past. Proof exists in the growth rings of trees, some of which have left their records during lifetimes of more than 400 years.

The record of climatic cycles supplied by the stumps, tree-ring checks with recorded observations of solar phenomena.

Authority for the statement is Dr. Edwin L. Moseley, professor emeritus of biology of Ohio's Bowling Green state university, a Michigan resident and a long-time member of the Michigan Academy of Science, Arts and Letters.

Dr. Moseley has been measuring the growth rings of trees over a period of many years, according to Dr. R. A. Smith, Michigan state geologist. Dr. Moseley's observations, conducted principally in Michigan and adjoining states, disclose that the growth rings of individual trees, over the entire area, show corresponding characteristics for certain years.

These characteristics, tree-ring patterns which denote periods of heavy rainfall and a corresponding increase in the rate of growth of trees, significantly occur at about 90-year intervals.

Similarly, this 90-year cycle is a variation of the 90-year cycle of the recorded observations of solar emanations over a long period.

The authentic records of Great Lakes levels do not go back much further than 90 years, but they afford other support for the premise of the 90-year cycle.

Pittsburgh records of great Ohio river floods also provide additional testimony to the soundness of Dr. Moseley's theory, it is pointed out by Dr. Smith. So, too, do those of Cincinnati. Thus the maximum precipitation at Cincinnati for the entire period of record was in the year 1847, just 90 years before the most destructive flood in all American history.

Dr. Moseley points out that his measurements of growth rings of trees, which are deposited each year just inside the bark. These layers are known as annual rings. They differ in width, depending on whether the tree had a good supply of moisture at the time the ring was formed.

First Services Set For Sunday

"However," he smiled, "I guess I had a hand in every phase of the work, although I've never had any experience before in building. Not that I directed the work, I just assisted. For instance, if I hired a brick layer, I was the helper."

Mr. North said that although the first services were scheduled to be held in the church Sunday construction of the building was not yet complete. The work probably will be completed in September or October, he said, when official dedication ceremonies will be held.

The church was financed by gifts from the congregation, donations by Plymouth business men, free services of workers and other financial assistance. The church was constructed on land donated for the purpose about two years ago by John Shackleton and the late Henry Domstreich.

Construction of the church followed a steady growth in the size of the Nazarene congregation since its organization in the fall of 1932 by Mr. North, who formerly lived in Detroit.

Coach Company Offers New Schedule And Equipment

The Dearborn Coach company announced last Monday at the noon luncheon of the Chamber of Commerce a new bus schedule to be put into effect, Monday, July 25, by Victor Rouse, president of the company told business men present that the new schedule would call for 16 round trips throughout the day, increasing the speed of the trip and adding four more to those now in effect.

A new deluxe streamlined bus will be used with a seating capacity of 25. The first bus will leave Plymouth at 6:15 a.m. and the last one will arrive here at 12:40 at night. The new schedule calls for a much faster trip from Plymouth to Grand River avenue. The round trip fare of 50 cents will remain the same.

Mr. Rouse stated that the new schedule would be given a three-months' trial and in view of the fact that the line has not been paying it would be necessary to discontinue Plymouth service at the end of the trial period if the business did not increase. He also stated that the company would be satisfied to keep the line running if it was possible to just pay the expenses and he hoped the new schedule and buses would do that for them.

The proposed week day schedule is as follows:

Garden City handed the Whitehead and Kales team of River Rouge a 12 to 5 shelling to take over third place in the inter-county league race. Waldo Scott pitched the entire game for Garden City and allowed but eight hits.

Whitehead and Kales took an early lead in the game, scoring three runs in the initial frame. Garden City soon overcame their disadvantage by scoring four runs to clinch the game for the locals. Charlie Wolfram led the attack by hitting two triples up the inning. Scott and R. Wolfram hit doubles while O'Brien, Anderson and Johnson hit singles. Hill and Sonnenberg had to be content with being hit with a pitched ball.

W. & K. scored a run in the third and one in the fourth, but were shut out the rest of the way. Next Sunday Garden City will play Hamtramck in Garden City. Hamtramck has taken over the franchise originally belonging to Farmington.

TOWNSEND PLAN IN BRIEF

(By DR. FRANCIS TOWNSEND) It proposes: To abolish poverty in the United States. Since everybody in making a living has to sell something—his time, his muscle or his goods—everybody should be compelled to do his share in maintaining the market in which he sells his wares or services. We propose that everybody shall pay a gross tax of 2 percent on whatever he sells each and every 30 days (one month). This in effect will be a national gross transactions tax, which will be levied over the market in which the goods and services are sold.

To wipe out all forms of public charity, such as community chests, poor farms, poor houses, etc. W.P.E. will take over all manifestations of a type of civilization that is obsolete. To promote the general welfare with this tax money, we demand that it shall be collected by the federal government and distributed back into the channels of trade by a system of federal annuities paid to the aged citizens of the nation above the age of 60—the tax money to be pro-rated and paid to retired citizens in the full net amount collected until they are 65 years of age. This annuity the old folks will be required to spend each month for goods or services. We believe that eight million citizens will immediately go on the annuity roll.

To substitute for the thousand and one forms of taxation we now have, just one national tax to be imposed upon all citizens and non-citizens who make a living selling goods or services within the nation.

The forced spending of annuities will immediately stimulate the production of all kinds of goods and commodities as well as the avenues of distribution. Millions of workers below the age of 60 will thus be called upon to create and transport the wealth of goods. Labor will be in great demand. It can ask and receive a just reward for its services.

To reward labor and service as liberally as possible at all times as is consistent with the maintenance of the profit system. With the federal government assuming the function of distributing buying power to the entire population through a federal annuity system as a permanent obligation, the illegal monopoly over the nation's money and credit held by the federal reserve banks and other great moneyed institutions, will be broken.

To bear in mind at all times that tax moneys are to be used, first of all, to promote and advance the general welfare of all the people.

With the shift of pauperism to the nation, using daily a large proportion of the federal transaction tax in creating new trade centers where the such demand for workers that the need for charity will disappear. All who are able to work or serve will find opportunity to do so. He who can and will not work, should not be allowed to eat.

To take from the control of a handful of international bankers the monopoly of the money and credit of the nation that they now hold.

With liberal buying power distributed through the annuity to the aged throughout the nation in proportion to their population, each community will feel the reviving influence of a stabilized prosperity. Jobs and salaries will be procurable by all and abject poverty will disappear.

Schrader's Lead Whittled Down

Schrader's softball team held the league lead by a narrow margin this week, only one win ahead of the Plymouth Hardware club.

Ray Gilder, Plymouth Hardware pitcher, turned in one of the best pitching records of the summer when he turned back 12 Schrader batters by the strike-out route. His speed and curves had the determined Schrader team swinging at anything that came close to the plate.

New Voting Plan For Next Primary

When Plymouth voters and others throughout the state vote in the forthcoming primary election on Tuesday, September 13, they will not be asked to declare their party affiliation as in past years.

The last legislature passed a measure which provides for a secret ballot at partisan primaries throughout the state. Its purpose is to eliminate the necessity of an elector disclosing his or her party preference, as has been the requirement heretofore.

Under the new law, when a voter visited the polling place to vote in a partisan primary election, the clerk, after locating the voter's name and address in the poll book and determining that you were a qualified voter, asked which party ticket was preferred and gave you the ticket or ballot requested.

Under the new law, the voter, after being certified by the election clerk, will be handed a set of ballots, each bearing the same number and stacked together in the upper left hand corner. The election inspector who hands out the ballots, instructs the voter to vote one of the ballots only. The voter takes these ballots into the voting compartment and marks the party ticket preferred. After marking the ballot the voter detaches it from the other ballots and folds it with the perforated or numbered corner outside. The voter hands both ballots, folded the same and separately, to the election inspector, designating the voted ballot by the number marked this one, "I voted this one," or by some other indicating words. The inspector will then place the marked ballot in the ballot box marked "Voted Ballots" and the blank ballots in the box marked "Blank Ballots". At no time will any one be able to tell the party affiliation of the voter.

To substitute for the thousand and one forms of taxation we now have, just one national tax to be imposed upon all citizens and non-citizens who make a living selling goods or services within the nation.

The forced spending of annuities will immediately stimulate the production of all kinds of goods and commodities as well as the avenues of distribution. Millions of workers below the age of 60 will thus be called upon to create and transport the wealth of goods. Labor will be in great demand. It can ask and receive a just reward for its services.

Awning Falls, Mrs. Fralick's Back Broken

Mrs. Emma Fralick was seriously injured last Saturday night when an awning fell from the Rea block on Pennington avenue just as she was passing under it. In some way the awning became dislodged from the building, one of the rods falling upon her head and knocking her to the walk.

Dr. Paul Butz, who is attending her, states that she has a broken back and he is also fearful of a skull fracture. She was first taken to the Plymouth hospital, then removed to the University hospital in Ann Arbor.

Barbers And Bakers To Play Golf

Golf balls are going to fly "like the wind" next Thursday evening out at the Plymouth Hills golf course when the big golf contest of the year takes place between the Sanitary Bakers' golf team and the golfing barbers of Plymouth. Homer Jewell, say the barbers, has rounded out in the best shape he has been in years, even doing some golf driving while on a recent fishing trip. It's going to be some golf contest, with bets favoring the barbers—say the barbers—of 18 to five.

Financing Of Schools State Problem

of schools, only to find that these appropriations were later cut under authorization of the legislature and by the state budget director, one wonders what the future of school financial support is to be." Mr. Babcock said.

Mr. Babcock rightly insists that the state has a definite responsibility to provide sufficient funds, together with local revenues, to guarantee at least a minimum educational program for all the children of the state. These state funds have come from the primary school fund and from the additional state-aid which has been known as the Thatcher-Sauer fund. It is highly desirable that this latter fund be stabilized so that local communities may know exactly what they will have to do locally to provide an adequate educational program.

In order to secure these funds, it has been necessary in the past for school officials to appear before the legislature every two years to present the needs of the public schools and to urge that the proper amount be appropriated. This process of securing money will tend, as Mr. Babcock points out, to force the schools into a political situation which is undesirable.

Public schools should be operated without having to resort to partisan political pressure. This can be accomplished only when the source of income is made definite and not subject to manipulation by those seeking partisan ends. Mr. Babcock suggests that it may be necessary to write into the state constitution definite provisions as to the amounts which shall be appropriated to schools, leaving to the legislature the question of specifying how the money shall be distributed.

For many years, Mr. Babcock said, the schools were largely financed through the local property tax, which in many cases became excessive and needed some adjustment. The passage of the 15-mill amendment has caused great hardship in many school districts. This limitation forced schools to secure new sources of revenue which up to the present time have not fully replaced the loss of revenue from the property tax. It is highly desirable that the local community retain most of the control of the schools through local taxes. It would be unwise for the welfare of public education if it were necessary for public schools to secure all their support from sources outside of the community.

Schools must continue to be supported in large part by the local community, supplemented by funds from sources outside to equalize the burden. Local communities, through local taxation, retain their interest in the schools. There would be great danger in centralizing the support of schools because attempts might be made to control the persons employed in the schools, as well as the subject matter taught. Such an occurrence must be guarded against.

While Storm Rages Its Moonlight

Plymouth residents who had not gone to bed at midnight Sunday night or who were awakened by the rain and thunder storm, saw one of the unusual things that seldom is ever seen.

During the height of the storm when the rain was falling the hardest and lightning was flashing, a full moon was shining brightly. A slight haze was created by the rain.

While light showers fell Saturday, the Sunday night rain proved of a big benefit, as it gave the earth the good soaking it has needed for many weeks.

Morning Song

'Twas a morning drab and dreary,
Dawn of day was soon to break—
Dulled by sleep, my eyes were bleary,
I was up, but half awake!
At the house, I vain would tarry,
For the day looked hard and long,
Then—the little old canary
Warbled forth his morning song!

Did I say that I was gloomy,
That the world looked drab and gray,
And was unattractive to me?
Yes, it's true—I'm 'shamed to say!
But the little glad canary
As he sang, to greet the dawn,
Filled my heart with music merry
And my shadws soon were gone.

I was eager for the day,
Of the day that lay ahead—
It would be a day of tea and
On which God's smile would shed!
I had not a cause for grieving,
I was doubly blest, I know—
And, as I the house was leaving,
I'd a song of gladness, too!

Swedish King Sends Note Of Thanks For Birthday Wishes Of City Dentist

Dr. S. N. Thams, Plymouth dentist, received a letter from the King of Sweden this week, expressing the thanks of the Scandinavian monarch for a message which Dr. Thams recently sent to him extending congratulations on the King's eightieth birthday anniversary.

King Gustav V, whose grandson, Prince Bertil, visited in Detroit this week on a tour of the United States, expressed his thanks in a card bearing the royal crest. The message read: "By command of H. M. the King of Sweden the undersigned has the honour to express His Majesty's appreciation and sincere thanks for your kind wishes."

The letter was signed by C. Bonde, private secretary to the King.

The letter which Dr. Thams sent to the King at Stockholm June 18, read: "Your Majesty—I trust I may not appear presumptuous in extending to you congratulations upon your reaching 80 years. "This letter is prompted by hearing your talk over the radio this morning. I am sure it must have delighted the many thousands of Swedish people in this country."

"Personally I am not Swedish—my parents being Norwegian.

Commissioners Set To Condemn Tonquish Property

Wayne And Inkster Men To Meet Here For Hearing July 26

Three commissioners to hold condemnation proceedings on property delaying action on the Tonquish Creek drain project were appointed this week in the court of Probate Judge Thomas E. Murphy.

The three are P. J. Snyder and Charles Pyley, of Wayne, and Charles Kurtzell, of Inkster.

They will hold a hearing July 26 in the Mayflower hotel to determine damages to be awarded for three parcels of land which the county will have to enter to construct the drain.

The parcels of land are owned by John McLaren and William Pettingill, jointly, and by August Myers. Appointment of the commissioners to condemn the land and award damages followed institution in probate court of petition for legal action to clear the way for construction on the $54,000 project which has been in process of negotiations for several years.

The Wayne county drain commissioner said that he believed that the hearing could be completed in the one session July 26. Once the legal action is completed the project will go into immediate construction.

Herald Hamill, Plymouth civil engineer in charge of the project, said he believed that the work could be completed by October 1. Right-of-way has been obtained on all other property affected by the project.

Marijuana Leaf Goes On Display

At a meeting of the Western Wayne County Wildlife association at the home of Melvin Guthrie Monday night, William Foreney display a marijuana plant which he had found on a trip north.

He distributed leaves of the narcotic weed to the members so that they would be able to identify it in the future. The wildlife organization is co-operating in the national movement to show the public what the weed looks like and to explain the menace it may be to the community when it is permitted to grow, either wild or under cultivation.

One of those present, Jack Johnson, of Mill street, a Ford Motor company employe, took one of the leaves to James Gallimore, superintendent of the Wilford Ford plant. Mr. Gallimore had the leaf mounted between glass plates in an airtight inclosure.

This exhibit of the real marijuana leaf now is on display in the office window of The Plymouth Mail, where anyone may see it and study the distinctive markings.

Police Capt. Charles Thumme reports that many persons have brought weeds to the city hall which as yet none of the real narcotic weed, which also is known as Indian hemp, has been found in the Plymouth vicinity.

Any weed that has a leaf corresponding to that on display in The Mail office window and found growing in or near Plymouth should be reported to the police department immediately.

Another feature of the wildlife meeting was a demonstration of the correct methods of casting for bass. The demonstration was made by W. C. Barnett, of the Detroit Bait company, Detroit. His exposition of the art of enticing the fishy fish was both entertaining and instructional. Members of the group reported.

The letter "A" has stood at the head of the alphabet during the whole of the period that it can be traced historically.

Miss Annabelle Shirey Weds Wesley Kaiser

On Saturday evening, July 9, at 8 o'clock, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fay Shirey, Highland Park, occurred the wedding of their daughter, Annabelle, to Wesley Kaiser, son of Mrs. Cristie Kaiser, Ann Arbor road. The Rev. William Hughes, pastor of St. Paul's M. E. church, Highland Park, performed the ceremony.

The bride was very attractive in a white lace dress over net with which she wore a corsage of white roses and gardenias.

Miss Wilhelme Rocker, of this city, who was the bridesmaid, was dressed in a blue and white organza gown and wore a corsage of pink roses. Harold Shirey, brother of the groom, acted as best man. Forty guests were present at the wedding and reception. The young couple left on a trip into northern Michigan and on their return will reside in Plymouth.

Michigan Crops To Set Record

The July outlook for grains, hays, and other field crops in Michigan is unusually favorable, according to the Michigan Co-operative Crop Reporting Service. Without exception, the yield per acre is expected to be better than average, and in most instances the total production of individual crops gives promise of exceeding the good harvest of last fall. Fruit crops are not so good, varying from one-fifth of a crop for grapes to fairly good crops for pears and raspberries.

The combined acreage intended for harvest of hays, grains, and other field crops is about equal to the combined acreage in these crops last summer. There has been some shifting in the amount of land devoted to individual crops, that is, plantings of some crops have been increased while others have been decreased. Sharp increases are noted in the area seeded to sugar beets and soybeans, being reported at 53 and 40 percent respectively over last year. Hays and beans take up four percent more acreage than they did in 1937. The corn acreage is unchanged. Potato plantings have been decreased by four percent, and small grain acreages are less than a year ago by decreases ranging from two percent for oats to 20 percent for rye.

Grass and hays have made luxuriant growth. The pasture condition on July 1 was 12 percent above average. A near record production of hay is assured. The first cutting of alfalfa and clover was very heavy and was mostly harvested under good weather conditions. In many sections, the second growth of alfalfa is well advanced.

Michigan's grain crops are remarkable for the uniformly good condition in all parts of the state. Localities with poor prospects are extremely rare. Harvesting of wheat is rapidly getting under way. The winter wheat crop is expected to amount to 20,025,000 bushels compared with 18,426,000 bushels harvested in 1937 and the 10-year average of 15,682,000 bushels. This indicated crop is the largest produced in Michigan since 1915. The corn crop is indicated to be three percent below the large crop of 1937, but it is larger than most crops of recent years. Oat production is promised at 15 percent above that of last season and slightly below the average. The acreage is below that of last year and also below the average, but the outlook is for very good yields. The barley crop is one percent larger than the 1937 crop, but due to a downward trend in acreage it is below the 10-year average. Rye production is six percent under a year ago.

Snakes have no eyelids. Their eyes are protected by an immovable section of transparent skin. This is shed periodically with the rest of the snake's skin.

Abraham Lincoln once told a Washington friend that he did not know how to fell a tree, and that he split few rails in his lifetime.

Accident Unavoidable, Passenger Reports

Wishing to correct an impression that Bert Leadbetter, of Plymouth, ran his car into a man who was walking on the highway last week, Mr. Leadbetter reported that the victim of the accident, George Yuginan, had crossed Plymouth road without warning and had run into the front fender of the Leadbetter car, in which she was riding.

Another man tried to hold Mr. Yuginan back, she said, but he darted across the street near Stark road, making the accident unavoidable. The car was traveling about 30 miles an hour, she said, and the vehicle was stopped within a few feet of the spot where the accident happened.

The injured man, who lives at 653 George street, Detroit, was taken to Eloise hospital where he was treated for a fractured knee.

BIRTHDAY GREETINGS MR. FROST

I see by the paper
Where the city's to honor you.
Well, that's the greatest gesture
Any town could do.
Now don't feel you're not deserving
Of the honor you'll receive,
For it takes these kind of functions
To show what we feel, indeed.

I've watched the years go by you
With a heart so full of pride
And things I've wanted to tell you
I've always had to hide.
But three score years and
fifteen more,
Makes me more than doubly sure.

For any man whose done so much;
If I could just your fingers touch—
You helped to build our world of power
With your creative mind
And when your birthday comes along,
We ponder and we dwell
On words we think most suitable
And flowery, as well.

Then after hours of concentration
The words we find
Have no relation,
And so we take that old, old greeting
That never tires with repeating
And send a birthday wish to you:
It seems so little we can do.

While you have given all your time
To make this world content and fine,
A leader of industrial art
That sprang from what looked like a cart,
Twas fondly termed an old gas buggy.
Today, its memories seem funny.

To wit, the man whose dream
came true,
We owe this honor all to you.
Accept my wish and prayerful blessing,
For through your work we're now possessing
A horseless carriage called machine
That goes when filled with gasoline.
And so, again, may I just say
Happy Birthday and be gay.
—Jane Rogers.

Chief Smith Goes To F. B. I. Session

Chief of Police Vaughan Smith left Plymouth this week to attend the Federal Bureau of Investigation retraining school at Washington in session from July 13 to July 23.

Chief Smith's attendance was authorized last week by the city commission. He was one of the graduates of the Federal Bureau of Investigation National Police academy who was invited by J. Edgar Hoover, director, to attend the special retraining school.

Mr. Hoover said that the FBI had maintained retraining schools for its own employes for several years and that the idea of a retraining school for Police Academy graduates grew out of this.

Entrance to the sessions was limited to graduates who at the present time are engaged in law enforcement work. Those who are not now officially connected with regular law enforcement organizations could not be permitted to take the work, Mr. Hoover said. In addition, substitutes and non-graduates of the Police Academy were barred.

There is no expense for the training school or for use of equipment. Mr. Hoover pointed out. Only expenses to be met are those of transportation and living expenses.

The training includes technique and mechanics of arrests, safety in automobile driving, salesmanship in police organizations, surveillance and plants, tour and inspection of the facilities of the FBI uniform crime reporting and crime statistics work, descriptions of individuals, fingerprint identification problems, practical work in searching and disarming the FBI gymnasium, photography in law enforcement work, latent fingerprints, police training school and teaching methods, technical laboratory work, including numerous phases of scientific crime detection methods, and specialized training in handling of various types of scientific equipment.

Officers attending the sessions will have little time for entertainment. The classes will be held from 9:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. daily and sessions will continue through these hours on Saturday and Sunday.

"I sincerely hope it will be possible for you to attend the Re-training school for it not only provides you with this course of training but it also enables you to renew old friendships and to make new contacts both for your own benefit and for your department," Mr. Hoover wrote to Chief Smith.

Chief Smith was associated with Mr. Hoover when he became one of the first officers in the country to attend the special police training schools for officers conducted in Washington by the Federal Bureau of Investigation. He attended the sessions there from January, 11 to April 3, 1937.

Dr. Enss To Take Pulpit

 the Baptist-Evangelical church, Russia.
 They lived for a few years in Berlin where he continued his further ministerial work. Two children were born to them there. The early rumblings of the World War forced them to flee Germany for Mrs. Enss' homeland in Yorkshire, Sheffield, England.
 Shortly after, the family of eight left England for America, there to add four more daughters to their healthy household. Dr. Enss became professor of modern languages at Kansas State university, then obtained his Master and Doctor of Divinity degrees from the Baptist Southwestern Theological Seminary, Fort Worth, Texas, and became an ordained minister of the church.
 Later he served as professor of Bible and philosophy in Goshen college, Goshen, Indiana, and as assistant professor in systematic theology in the Baptist Southwestern Theological Seminary.
 At present he is residing in Ann Arbor where two daughters are at school and a step-son is taking graduate work at the University this summer. The step-son is an instructor in the German language department during the regular university year.
 The Plymouth church looks forward with a great deal of anticipation to the pastoral work Dr. Enss will assume here. Unfortunately the union services for the rest of July and August will restrict his full-time field until September.
 However, he will be present each Sunday morning, excepting July 24, when he will preach in the First Baptist church, Ann Arbor. He will preach at the union services as the Baptist share of this program on July 31, August 7 and 14 in the Methodist church.

Triple Checking Guards Tax Money

 they invariably are in good shape.
 "There always is a possibility, humans being what they are, that a mistake will creep into the records, but under the Plymouth system the chance for errors to exist is eliminated as far as possible."
 Probably the single largest factor in keeping Plymouth's tax bills accurate, he said, is the mailing of double statements.
 Under this system bills for taxes are mailed about July 1 and in cases where the records show that the taxes have not been paid these delinquents receive another bill in October.
 In this case, Mr. Elliott pointed out, a taxpayer who receives a bill in July, pays his taxes and then receives another statement in October would not likely let the matter drop. He would protest, as he should, the city manager added, and the mistake would be corrected, and before the rolls went to the county.
 Any person who has a legitimate reason for doing so, he added, always can inspect the books at the city hall. Another factor in the interests of guarding the taxpayers' money, he said, is that all employees at the city hall who handle city money are bonded.
 The city manager and the city treasurer both are appointed by the city commission, he pointed out, and if any attempt were made to "juggle" the books, or if a mistake was made by one the other undoubtedly would go to the city commission about the matter. Both are required to check the books.
