

2,740 Will Share In Pay-Off Of $125,000 By United Savings Bank; Checks Are Now Available

Plymouth Trust Sets Record For Quick Action

Holders of trust certificates of the Plymouth United Savings bank will be pleased to know that a dividend check is available to them upon presentation and surrender of the trust certificate properly indorsed by each of the parties to whom it is made payable.

Certificates must be presented in person to the bank so that the check which is awaiting payment is handed to the certificate holders in person in exchange for the certificate.

The names and address and amount of each trust certificate holder, known also as the beneficiary of the trust, are tabulated in a declaration of the trust, a copy of which is on file with the bank as trustees, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation both in Detroit and Washington and with the Wayne county court.

The surrender of the trust certificate is necessary by the plan so that they may be on file with this declaration of trust to complete the records as to claims.

Bank officials say that checks are all prepared and waiting for the trust certificate holders to call for them. This dividend will place in circulation approximately $125,000, a healthy stimulus to business in this locality and particularly so at this time of year. There will be 2,740 individual payments.

The payment of this dividend brings to a conclusion many months of hard work on the part of the directors, officers and employees of the Plymouth United Savings bank and their attorneys working in conjunction with the Depositors' Committee who have represented the trust certificate holders over the period of the last five years.

It was hoped that this matter could be concluded by May 1, 1938, when the term of the trust expired, but this was quite impossible due to the fact that there are more than 50 banks in the state of Michigan following the same procedure of termination of the trust which involves a transfer of all of the

Gratitude Lost; Merchant Suffers

Plymouth's community Halloween party for the youngsters of the city was marred by only three incidents, one of them more harmful than the others in the estimation of those directing the festive, police reported.

Police dismissed as trivial one window soaping and a broken window. In the latter case the children who caused the accident apologized for the action and paid for a new window pane.

The third case, however, generally was considered a blot on the gay and co-operative undertaking. This was the heavy soaping of the store windows of a Plymouth merchant who had worked hard to make sure that the city's youngsters would have a good time at the community party.

The merchant is William Rose, who was chairman of the committee in charge of obtaining the 104 prizes which were awarded to children at the party for unusual costumes.

It seems a shame that one of the persons who worked hardest to give the youngsters a good time should have to bear the brunt of the only mischief-making of the night, one of those in charge of the party said.

Under the fine which he perpetrated that trick knew that they were turning on one of those who helped to provide them with an evening of fun.

"If they did, there is no defense for them; they ought to have a paddle applied where it would do the most good. If they didn't know, then the least they could do now to make up for it is to apologize to their victim."

COOKING SCHOOL SCHEDULED THURSDAY

In the days "when you and I were young, Maggie," anyone who could throw food of any description on the table was called a cook and hungry threshers never offered any objection, but pretty good to compete with what the restaurants can offer.

An opportunity for Plymouth women to get a few tips on cooking methods will be offered Thursday, November 10, under the sponsorship of the Consumers Power company, and the Central and Starkweather Parent-Teacher associations.

Claudess Bradley, Consumers home service director, will be in charge of the cooking school. The program will start at 2:00 p.m. at the Masonic temple.

Free tickets for the school can be obtained from any member of the Central or Starkweather Parent-Teacher associations.

William Streng Voted For Hayes In 1875

William Streng, who was an attendant Wednesday night at the Fitzgerald banquet at the Mayflower hotel, is probably one of the oldest voting Republicans in Plymouth. He was 21 years of age in 1876 and the following year voted the Republican ticket for Rutherford B. Hayes.

Young Woman Admits Claims Were False

Ordered To Quit City After Sales Talk Backfires

A pretty young Detroit woman caused embarrassment to the family of Stanford L. Besse, city engineer, last week.

The young woman was a member of a crew of seven Detroiters who came to Plymouth last week for a house-to-house canvass as part of a sales campaign of a Chicago sales concern.

The crew asked for and obtained permission for the canvass. A few days later Mr. Besse was told by a neighbor that the young woman had appeared at her home and attempted to sell her products by saying that she was Besse's niece, that he had given her $40 to help her get started and that if she sold a certain amount of merchandise she would be given a regular job in the firm's office.

When Besse complained to the police department, the young woman was brought before Municipal Judge John S. Dayton. Permission for the firm to canvass for sales in the city was revoked immediately by Police Chief Vaughan Smith.

On the promise that she would leave the city and not return and on the same affirmation by the crew manager, the young woman was permitted to leave after signing a statement that she was not a relative of the Besse family and that she did not live in Plymouth as she had represented to some persons to whom she had tried to sell her products. According to Police Capt. Charles Thumme.

The statement, which was signed in the presence of Judge Dayton, read:

"To whom it may concern: I wish to correct the impression on the part of some of the citizens of Plymouth that I am in any way connected with the family of Stanford L. Besse. I am not so connected. Neither is it a fact that I live anywhere in this community, particularly on Ann Arbor Trail. I have simply been here a few days soliciting for a Chicago concern."

The statement was dated October 29, 1938.

According to Chief Smith many of the canvassers intimidated

Children Cheer Halloween Party As Best Ever Held In Plymouth; Even Parents Take Part In Carnival

Youngsters Win 104 Prizes For Costumes

About 1,400 Plymouth children were the guests of the community Monday night in a Halloween celebration and entertainment that for general enjoyment topped any previous affair, in the estimation of the children, parents and others who witnessed the parade and other activities.

Everything imaginable to brighten a youngster's heart was awarded for prizes for the best costumes in the parade of Plymouth youth Monday evening.

The prizes, totaling 104, included games, BB guns, slippers, flashlights, watches, dolls and a myriad of other gifts ranging in price from about a dollar to a quarter. These were purchased with funds obtained by public subscription in boxes placed about the city for the purpose for many days in advance of the celebration itself.

Following the two-section parade, with the younger children joining in with the older ones at the city hall all the children trooped over to the Daisy Manufacturing company parking lot, where children's movies were exhibited, prizes awarded and plentiful refreshments served.

The entire program lasted nearly three hours, but ended near 9:00 p.m. so that none were kept up too late. The surprising thing about the Halloween festival in the estimation of the officials was that it attracted about as many parents and other elders as it did children.

James Gallimore, chairman of the Civic Committee, executive group which sponsored the celebration, issued an expression of thanks this week to the entire community for the responsive way in which residents helped to make the program a success.

Particularly to be complimented for the way in which the program ran off, he said, were those who gave wholeheartedly of their time in working about the city all evening of fun for the youngsters, and those who gave willingly from the pocketbook so that plenty of refreshments, entertainment, prizes, noisemakers and other incidentals could be provided.

The frolicking bazaar-costumed children of the city had an ideal evening for the celebration. The night was clear with a slight nip to it—just enough to whet their appetites.

Boy and Girl Scouts were given credit for considerable help in aiding those in charge to guide the program smoothly. The high school band, led by Arthur Evans, helped greatly to instill some musical pep into the parade.

Platting Of Land Under Way

The completion of platting all expected by May 1, City Manager Clarence H. Elliott said this week.

County surveyors are working on the project and the city is gathering information in order that all plats may be put on the record.

About 200 metes and bounds have been recorded heretofore, he said. Under the old system it is difficult to locate property both from an engineering and assessing standpoint.

Until this work was started all property was located according to the property bounding it, an indefinite method open to criticism and error, he pointed out.

When the platting is completed all parcels of land will be identified by a plat number, which will make it more convenient for owners because their lots will be known as plat number so-and-so instead of the indefinite method of determining its location describing it as bound on the north by the Pettiford property, on the east by the Whiffletree property and so on.

The method also will simplify the treasurer's recording job. In the past property has been assessed and the assessment refused by the attorney general's office because of indefinite description. The whole procedure of assessing the land then had to be made all over again after its location has been established satisfactorily.

Needlework Guild Will Open Drive

The Plymouth chapter of the Needlework Guild of America will hold its annual gathering November 11 at the Hotel Mayflower.

The organization, whose slogan is "The Charity That Helps All Charity," has only one requirement for membership, that the person donate for the charitable purposes of the Guild any amount of money that he wishes to give or two new articles of clothing a year.

"The need is great," says Mrs. Vaughan Smith, president of the Plymouth chapter, "especially for clothing for school children of all ages. Anyone interested in helping the cause is requested to call 24."

The clothing will be distributed according to need under the direction of Mrs. George Strasen, school nurse. There is a special need for shoes and rubbers.

Contributions of new clothing for the annual drive may be left at Blunk Bros. department store, it was announced this week.

The contributions do not have to be purchased in the Blunk store but may be bought anywhere, the management emphasized. The donations will be used in the Plymouth area.

Parcel Post Is Celebrating 25th Anniversary

Value Of Service Pointed Out By Postmaster

The United States postoffice this month celebrates the silver anniversary of the establishment of parcel post service by observing National Parcel Post month.

Previous to 1913 only letters were carried by the postal department. A storm of protest was aroused when the government decided to enter the delivery business, but it died down soon after the service was instituted.

Since that time the postal department has evolved a large business in the parcel post department, and the huge mail

Mission Study Institute Called

An interdenominational, intercommunity Mission Study Institute will be held Wednesday in the Plymouth Methodist church. It will be conducted by Mrs. John E. Martin, of Birmingham, and it is expected that there will be delegations from Northville, Newburg, Salem, Dixboro, Novi, Garden City and Rosedale Gardens as well as a fine representation from Plymouth. All women who are interested are invited to attend the all-day session.

Each year two study books are selected, one in home missions and one in foreign missions, and all denominations use the same textbooks. The purpose of the institute is to give a background for an intelligent study of the books during the coming year.

Mrs. Martin will have curios, posters and all kinds of program materials and study helps. Mrs. Martin represents the Michigan Federated Council of Church Women and is well qualified for her task.

At 10:30 morning session, which begins at 10:30 o'clock, Mrs. Martin will deal with the home mission study book, "The American City and Its Church." At the afternoon session, which begins at 1:00 o'clock, Mrs. Martin will discuss the foreign missions study book, "Moving Millions." A luncheon will be served for 25 cents at noon.

John Q. Smith Dies At Age Of 74

John Q. Smith, who resided at 1127 Penniman avenue, passed away early Wednesday afternoon, November 2, after a long illness at the age of 74 years. He is survived by his widow, Hattie M. Smith, one son, Wesley D. Smith and two brothers, Alfred J. Smith of Plymouth, and Abraham Smith of England; and one sister, Mrs. Mary Jane Collier of Canada.

The remains were taken to the Schrader funeral home, and later taken to his late home. Funeral services will be held Saturday at the Methodist church at 2:00 p.m. with the Rev. Stanford S. Closson officiating. Interment will be made in Redford cemetery.

Proceeds From Ball To Provide Milk For Three Months

Proceeds from the Milk Fund Ball held in Plymouth October 21 and sponsored by the Central Parent-Teachers' association with the co-operation of the Starkweather Parent-Teacher group probably will provide milk daily for undernourished school children for a period of about three months, George A. Smith, superintendent of schools, estimated this week. The sum of $145.80 was realized from the dance after all expenses were paid.

U. of M. Official Discusses Trends For Rotary Club

Says Personality Suffers Under Intellect Stress

Dr. Luther Purdom, head of the University of Michigan Bureau of Appointments and Occupational Information, told the Rotary club Friday that stress has been placed in education upon the sharpening of the intellect to the neglect of the development of a helpful personality.

Studies made in reasons why people fail and are discharged from their jobs show that well over 80 per cent of those who fail do so not because of lack of ability, but because of certain personal characteristics which cause the person to clash with those with whom he is working, he said.

Too great an amount of worry is found among students because of their fear of failure and fear of not measuring up to the demands of their parents and friends, he said. These fears, when left in the mind of a serious student, many times turn to hatred of self or society and expresses itself in either suicide or homicide, Dr. Purdom pointed out.

Dr. Purdom stressed particularly the desirability of guidance in the field of education in order that the individual may become happy and successful in the use of his educational development.

The enormous cost of caring for mental cases in hospitals could be materially decreased if undesirable mental traits, which might later become serious, could be discovered early and, through changed environment of the child, be caused gradually to disappear instead of growing to such an extent that hospitalization might become necessary, he asserted.

The advanced idea in education was well received by the Rotary club as evidenced by the interest and discussion among the members at the conclusion of the address.

Armistice Will Be Remembered At Ex-Service Men's Ball Friday

A week from today, on Friday, November 11, many Plymouth residents will pause during the day to remember scenes and emotions that seem like something out of Hollywood now. But 20 years previous it was very real.

Men cheered and danced jigs of joy. Young women with sweethearts far away cried at the relief of knowing the danger was over; old women sighed at the thought of sons returning still unharmed.

Little knots of people clustered about the streets exchanging the glad news by word of mouth.

But there was no joy for some; for those who had seen their loved ones go away never to return and for those who came back from the world's biggest war with grievous wounds to mind and body.

There won't be the degree of joy or sorrow next Friday that there was on that day 20 years ago, but many will pause to remember.

Many of those who took part in the struggle which ended November 11, 1918, will commemorate that date by participating in celebrations here and elsewhere.

Principal celebration of the anniversary in Plymouth will be the Ex-Service Men's Club Armistice Ball which will be held next Friday night at the Hotel Mayflower.

In Detroit, a huge parade will be formed by those who were serving under the flag when the war ended.

Tonquish Drain Work To Be Started With Ground Breaking Ceremonies At Wing St. Monday Afternoon

Will Open Project

GEORGE DINGMAN County Drain Commissioner

2,899 Register For Election Next Tuesday

Rolls Show 341 Increase Over 1936

Registrations for the final election November 8 mounted to 2,899 in the city of Plymouth, a gain of 341 over the total for the 1936 election. Clarence H. Elliott, city clerk, announced this week.

The substantial increase indicated a strong interest on the part of Plymouth voters in the candidates and issues of the current campaign, especially in view of the fact that the last election was a presidential contest and the November 8 poll covers only state, county and congressional offices.

Entering of registrations ended last Saturday night. The polling places will be the same as in the last election, Mr. Elliott said. A breakdown of the registration figures shows that 718 residents registered in the first precinct, 772 in the second precinct and 409 in the fourth precinct.

The campaign in Plymouth closed hotly this week with the appearance of both Governor Murphy and former Governor Frank D. Fitzgerald, Republican candidate for the office, and members of their slates before Plymouth audiences. Their rallies are described elsewhere in this issue of the Mail.

Barring bad weather, a large vote is expected at the polls here November 8.

Marion Squires and Carol Hammond spent the week-end in East Lansing, the guest of Vivian Towle. On Saturday they attended the Santa Clara-Michigan State game.

Work on the private contracting section of the drain project will be started with the ceremonies Monday. The survey section of the project, which will be done with WPA labor and county machinery and equipment, will be started as soon as it is possible to move a full WPA crew into action, Mr. Dingman said Tuesday.

He estimated that it would be the latter part of November before any actual WPA work was started, but he said it was impossible to set a definite date at the present time.

Mr. Dingman, who is seeking re-election to the office of drain commissioner, has served six terms in the office. A farm boy, he took a correspondence course in civil engineering, gained experience in railroad work and in breakwater construction for the Government Harbor. The Survey section of the project, which will be done with WPA labor and county machinery and equipment, will be started as soon as it is possible to move a full WPA crew into action, Mr. Dingman said Tuesday.

One of the outstanding sections of the program planned for the Armistice Ball in Plymouth will be a tableau under the direction of Mr. Renner, which will portray the departure of the American soldiers from the battlefields of France while many of their buddies lay there forever.

Linking the past with the present and future, the Ex-Service Men's club will celebrate the end of the great war 20 years ago by devoting all the proceeds from the Armistice Ball to the purpose of providing needy school children with clothes and shoes so that they can attend classes.

Harry Hunter, general chairman of the affair, announced this week that dates by participating in the Armistice Ball in Plymouth musicians under the leadership of Don Mielbeck will perform for the dancing entertainment of those who attend the ball.

At the stroke of 11:00 p.m. the next day the ball those present will observe for two minutes a respectful silence as a tribute to those who died in service of the American flag.

Contract Awarded To Plymouth Firm For Low Bid

Ceremonies for the starting of work on the Tonquish Creek drain project will be held at 4:00 p.m. Monday at the place where Tonquish Creek crosses Wing street near the Perfection Laundry.

Breaking of ground will climax a 20-year fight for the project. Since 1918 civic leaders have attempted to find a solution for the wandering creek, which has caused eating away of the banks in times of high water and in summer has advertised widely that it is a sewage disposal ditch.

Herald Hamill, engineer for the project, will drive the stakes designating the point at which work will start. Ground will be broken by George A. Dingman, county drain commissioner, with a special nickel-plated spade prepared expressly for the ceremony.

The spade will be presented to Mr. Dingman by Mayor Henry Hondorp.

Power machinery will take up the work where Mr. Dingman leaves off, to continue the project until or before February 1, when the contract calls for all work to be completed.

The ceremony the school band will present a short program.

Contract for the tiling of the ditch was awarded Tuesday to M. Powell and Son, of Plymouth, by Mr. Dingman at a meeting in the city commission chambers at the city hall.

The local firm won the work with a low bid in due form for $44,995.

"Awarding of the contract to a local contractor offers the city of Plymouth a much better chance of having local labor and material used to the best advantage for the community," Mr. Dingman commented on presentation of the contract to the Plymouth firm.

Public hearings on assessments levied on local property for the Tonquish work are being held at the city hall this week. Mr. Dingman, who urges property owners to check whether they are to be assessed and to make sure that they are satisfied with the terms of the levies as there will be no further hearing on the matter.

He has been available at the city hall from 11:00 a.m. until 4:00 p.m. daily since Monday and will be available at the same hours today (Friday). There will be no hearings Saturday or Sunday and the final chance for a hearing will be offered by Mr. Dingman in the city hall Monday from 11:00 a.m. until 4:00 p.m.

The Powell firm nosed out 11 competitors for the contract. A mix-up last week threatened to delay the letting of the contract when it was discovered that nine items under one of the missing terms had been omitted from the bids submitted by two of the contractors.

However, counsel for the county ironed out the problem by advising the drain commissioner to go ahead with the reading of bids despite to the missing terms and to award the contract on the basis of the lowest bid presented in due form.

Work on the private contracting section of the drain project will be started with the ceremonies Monday. The survey section of the project, which will be done with WPA labor and county machinery and equipment, will be started as soon as it is possible to move a full WPA crew into action, Mr. Dingman said Tuesday.

The names will appear on the regular election ballot Tuesday in their rightful congressional districts. The congressional boundary line is the south city limits of Plymouth.

Republicans Hear Fitzgerald

Republicans of Plymouth and vicinity brought their campaign activities to a close Wednesday evening by a rally held in the Mayflower hotel. A dinner in honor of former Governor Frank Fitzgerald preceded the speaking program, about 150 attending the dinner and some 250 more in the hotel lobbies listening to the address he made. A loud speaker arrangement had been installed so that all in the dining room, lobby and coffee shop could hear the talks.

Dr. Lynwood Snow of Northville presided at the meeting and introduced the various speakers.

Ervin Palmer, former probate judge and candidate for re-election followed Governor Fitzgerald on the program. It was necessary for Mr. Fitzgerald to leave the meeting immediately following his address as he had another speaking engagement in Highland Park. Judge Palmer is well known in Plymouth, having many years ago been appointed to a place in the probate court during the administration of an exceedingly serious problem.

Judge Durfee of this city. Miller Dunckel, candidate for state treasurer, ably and briefly presented some of the problems confronting the state. County Coroner French was called upon for a few remarks.

State Senator George McCallum of Ann Arbor discussed at some length the serious financial condition of the state and declared that the administration that would assume control of the state government January 1 would find a deficit in state funds of somewhere between $30,000,000 and $50,000,000. He said no one in Lansing seemed to know anything about just what the financial condition of the state is and no one can find out.

Congressman George Dondero was the last speaker of the evening. He came directly to Plymouth from radio station WWJ where he had made an address in behalf of the Republican congressional ticket.

Congressman Dondero briefly discussed national issues and declared that if the federal government really desired to help the farmers of the nation, it would immediately stop importing crops that are hurting the sale of American grown crops. He, too, regarded the federal financial situation as during the administration of an exceedingly serious problem.

Governor Murphy Speaks Here

Governor Frank Murphy was the headliner at the Democratic rally held Tuesday evening at the Plymouth high school auditorium. The Governor came to Plymouth from Monroe where he had spoken earlier in the evening to attend the rally here that had been sponsored by Plymouth and Northville Democrats. It is estimated that between 150 and 200 interested listeners heard his remarks.

Edward Buckley of the state highway department presided at the meeting and introduced the speakers.

County Treasurer Sumeracki and County Register of Deeds Harold Stull who have many friends in this locality, were the first speakers. They told briefly of the work of their offices and of accomplishments made during their administration. Clarence Doyle, Democratic candidate for the state legislature in his brief talk, defended the right of candidates to require public employees to make contributions to the campaign funds of candidates. He said that his campaign fund was being aided by city employees and he thought it perfectly proper for state employees to be required to contribute to the campaign expenses of state candidates.

Governor Murphy took occasion to make a partial explanation of a recent article in The Plymouth Mail pertaining to his income of $18,000 per year as high commissioner of the Philippines during the time he was making his first campaign for Governor. He admitted the fact that he was on the federal payroll, but made no explanation of the statements during his first campaign in which he led the voters to believe that he had given up the salary in order to run for governor. He stated that it was at the President's request that his name be left on the federal payroll, because if he had not been elected, it was the intention of the President to again appoint him to the position from which he said he had resigned to run for the governorship. Stanley Backus, of Pontiac, candidate for congress on the Democratic ticket, told of his views and aims if elected. He said he thought the government should establish a "great naval base" somewhere in the Great Lakes to protect this part of the country from foreign invasion. He stated that if elected he would uphold the policies and plans of the President.

SAVE MICHIGAN ROADS!!

Vote YES On Amendment 3

-Tuesday, November 8th-

Amendment No. 3 provides that all money collected for automobile license plates and gasoline tax shall be used for street and highway purposes only, and does nothing else. That is as it should be. The motorist alone pays these two special taxes for the privilege of using the highways. They are based, not on the value of his property but the extent to which he uses the roads. Common justice then requires that the money so collected should be expended for the benefit of the motorist in street and highway maintenance and improvement. The motorist pays his share of all of the general property taxes and the sales tax for schools, welfare and other governmental purposes in addition to the automobile taxes.

Amendment No. 3 does NOT limit to road purposes the use of sales taxes, or any other general tax or regulatory fee levied on automobiles and gasoline. Neither does it prevent the legislature from decreasing or eliminating the license fee or the gas tax if the revenue is not needed for roads. Nor does it take from the legislature the authority to divide the money collected from these taxes between the state, counties, cities and villages for highway purposes in such proportion as it deems proper. The amendment provides only that whatever amount is collected from the motorist shall be used, by whoever spends it, for street and highway purposes only.

Michigan cannot afford to let her highways deteriorate from a lack of funds. Her two largest industries, the manufacture of automobiles and the tourist trade, depend entirely on good roads. The Federal Law requires that Federal Aid for road construction be withheld from any state where taxes on motorists are diverted from highway purposes and Michigan will be so penalized to the extent of several millions of dollars yearly if diversion is not prevented in this state.

Admits Claims Were False

to their prospective customers that they were related to Plymouth residents or that they were friends of neighbors of the person at whose door they were calling.
They obtained the names of their early customers then used the names for getting into the homes—and pocket books—of other residents, he said.

Since they had taken advantage of Plymouth residents after the courtesy of a permit had been extended to them, Chief Smith said they were ordered not to return to the city even for the purpose of making deliveries.
"The bad part about such a case," he commented, "is that the relationship claims seldom get back to the persons whose names have been used, as the customer decides to help out the 'relation' and let it go at that."
"However, when residents are approached under such terms they should check up, especially if they have any intention of making a purchase. If the salesman of saleswoman attempts to work on the potential customer's sympathy, it is a pretty sure sign that something is wrong.

"In such cases residents should call the police department immediately. If the claims are right, no harm will be done as the matter will be handled factually, but if there is something wrong then it can be cleared up without any more victimizing."

Parcel Post Is Celebrating

order chains have been built up on this service.
But Frank K. Learned, Plymouth postmaster, points out that the service can be of inestimable value to local merchants if they just take the time to examine its qualifications to serve them.
"In the immediate rural route area about Plymouth there are over 2,000 potential customers," he said. "Most of these persons have to drive into town to do their shopping or they do it by mail. Plymouth merchants could develop this purchasing block by arranging to have these persons telephone or write them when they want anything."
"They could call a Plymouth store in the morning, for instance, and have their goods delivered by mail that same afternoon for an almost unbelievably low cost."
"And, on the other hand, city residents who have friends in the country could call or write them and ask to have a chicken or some eggs mailed into town. The farmer would leave the parcel at the rural box and the city resident would receive his fresh produce that same day."
There is no celebration of any kind, such as that which accompanied Air Mail week this summer, connected with Parcel Post month, Mr. Learned pointed out. The month, as such, is for the double purpose of pointing out to business men and housewives the inexpensive, rapid and reliable service they have available for carrying bundles of any size and of attempting to aid business and commerce in recovery.
One feature of the parcel post service which is little known, Mr. Learned said, is the receipt department. Persons who wish a receipt for parcels they mail may obtain one for payment of one cent at the time they mail the parcel.
There are many other features which will appeal to those who take the trouble to investigate, Mr. Learned said. He invited anyone interested to visit the postoffice and inquire for more details.

Re-Elect GOVERNOR FRANK MURPHY

Michigan's Great Humanitarian

Because of his genuine concern and human understanding of the needs of the working man, and his impartial treatment of Labor disputes he is the idol of Organized Labor. He has brought us definite business recovery by securing Industrial Peace and Security without bloodshed and through his own efforts.

He is responsible for the Unemployment Compensation law which means that the welfare of every working man and woman in Michigan is protected should their employment cease. He brought us Civil Service eliminating the spoils system from state government.

Through his rural electrification program he has already brought the conveniences of the city to thousands of farm houses.

His health program is a model for every state in the country and embraces hospitalization for many types of cases sadly neglected in Michigan in years gone by.

He has broadened and improved the educational system of Michigan tremendously.

He has increased the old age pension benefits from a meager pittance to a sufficient amount on which to live.

He brought funds to Michigan for Federal Housing which has made Michigan predominate in the nation in this respect.

The law enforcing agencies in Michigan have been unified and co-ordinated by Governor Murphy to a point where strict law enforcement is now the rule rather than the exception!

... AND his plans for the welfare of the people of Michigan have only begun!

Read what former Republican Governor Chase S. Osborn says about Governor Murphy:

"I have been a Republican for many years and I have never left the Republican party, even for Theodore Roosevelt. I am going to vote for a Democrat for Governor for the first time in my life and I am over 30. If it were not for my advanced age I would take the stump for Governor Murphy in this campaign. Governor Murphy deserves re-election for his Health program alone, if no other reason is considered. Governor Murphy's health plan is the greatest issue ever proposed by any Governor in Michigan's history. It transcends all politics because the people's health is not controversial. No more important issue has ever been put before any people in the world at any time. Governor Frank Murphy gave distinguished service in the world war, and came home a captain with the love of the men under him. I think highly of Governor Murphy and I wish him well."

The newspaper men and women of Michigan have unanimously rallied to the support of Governor Murphy because they know the truth at first hand about BOTH gubernatorial candidates and CANNOT BE FOOLED. They are expressing their opinions over the radio AND ON THE ADVERTISING PAGES OF THE PAPERS, WHICH EMPLOY THEM, BECAUSE THEY WANT THE PUBLIC TO KNOW THE TRUTH!

assets to the Depositors' Liquidation Corporation.
All of these banks are in various stages of progress on this program, but the great amount of detail has overburdened the Reconstruction Finance Corporation staff to such an extent that they have been working night and day to take care of each individual bank as rapidly as possible. Thus more time was needed than anticipated.
The Plymouth officers have been advised by members of the R. F. C. staff in Detroit that due to the hard work put forth by the staff of the Plymouth bank and their willingness to work to get this matter out of the way, this case has established a new record on their books for shortness of elapsed time.
They are informed that there are many other banks working on this program, some of which have been working on it longer than the Plymouth bank, but are still a long way from disbursement.
Under the plan adopted to terminate the trust, all of the assets of the trust are now owned by the Depositors' Liquidation Corporation, 607 Shelby street, Detroit, a liquidating agency established with the assistance of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for the liquidation of the assets held in the various trusts throughout the state.
They will carry on the liquidation of these assets, taking whatever action they may deem necessary to effect collection. Plymouth United Savings bank will no longer have any connection with the assets or anything to do with them or with their liquidation. Any individual owning the trust bank will in the future make his payments to the Depositors' Liquidation Corporation and will be advised to this effect by them or by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.
This is the last and final dividend that will be paid by the Plymouth United Savings bank acting as trustee inasmuch as the trust has been terminated. Future dividends will be paid directly by the Depositors' Liquidation Corporation as amounts are available for distribution after the R. F. C. has been repaid for its interest in the assets.
The corporation is being ably and capably operated with a minimum amount of expenditure and it is anticipated that future dividends will be available, the Plymouth bank officials say. The amount of these future dividends will depend, of course, a great deal on business conditions and the extent to which the borrowers repay their obligations to the trust.
The officers and the directors of the bank wish publicly to express their appreciation to the members of the Depositors' Committee, composed of Charles Rathburn, Angus Heeney, Glenn Jewell, Harry Robinson and Eugene Orndorff for their 100 per cent cooperation and for the very conscientious efforts put forth to bring this matter to a conclusion.

Norman Price Completes A & P Anniversary Picture

A&P's beginning in a little shop in Vasey Street of Old New York. It was in the early fall of 1859 that a high-masted sailing vessel carried to America's shores A&P's first stock in trade, a cargo of Canton teas brought from half way around the world. A&P began its business with that clipper ship cargo of tea.

In creating his A&P Anniversary "home picture," Norman Price's skillful artistry of pen and brush was supplemented by a comprehensive, intimate knowledge of the subject. He spent many hours in research before the first line of the picture was drawn. Even after the composition was well worked out and the details carefully sketched, Mr. Price had an old sailor who had spent years "before the mast" check all details of the construction of the clipper ship and its rigging, so that every line would be technically accurate.

Famed for his beautiful and authentic historical illustrations, artist Norman Price was recently commissioned by The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company to create the "home picture" for the 79th Anniversary Celebration of its A&P Food Stores which takes place during the month of October.

Mr. Price's painting, now completed, faithfully portrays a waterfront scene typical of the year 1859—the year of

To Reveal Truth About Russia

The truth about what's happening in Russia today will be told on the Detroit Town Hall platform when Eugene Lyons, author of the widely read "Assignment in Utopia," speaks in the Fisher theatre next Wednesday morning, November 9, at 11 o'clock.

Eugene Lyons set out for Moscow at 30 to be chief correspondent for the United Press in Russia. He was convinced a better world was in the making there. For the next six years he lived and worked close to the great Soviet events he was reporting for millions of American readers. What he saw filled him with disillusion, but not with bitterness.

He was the first correspondent to obtain an interview with Stalin after the latter's rise to supreme authority. He saw the fierce drive for the first Five Year Plan, forcible collectivism, the "show" trials, G. P. U. activities. In his Town Hall lecture, he will tell why today new forces are once more changing the picture in Soviet Russia.

After Lyons left Russia he toured Europe, gathering material for magazine articles in Cosmopolitan, Esquire, Literary Digest, Harpers and others. Since his return to America he has written and lectured extensively. He is editor of "Six Soviet Plays," the only anthology of Soviet drama in English, and of "We Cover the World," a symposium of 16 foreign correspondents.

Bad News for "Doc"

Favorable weather at harvest time has made it possible for Michigan apple growers to offer a crop of unusually fine quality as they prepare to celebrate National Apple Week which begins October 31 this year. Here Ruth Taylor, Michigan State college co-ed, looks over a shipment of Golden Delicious as they leave her father's orchard near Albion. These will join a market parade of McIntosh Red, Jonathan, Greenings and Northern Spies, all varieties for which Michigan is famous. The year's crop total in the state is estimated at six and one-half million bushels, less than half of the 1937 record production. However, growers are still at it with their Michigan Apple Institute, a cooperative advertising movement, to tell the housewife that home grown apples excel in economy, flavor and health-giving qualities.

Inspect Soil Erosion Project

Erosion control methods being used by farmers in northeast Livingston county were viewed recently by Wayne County Agricultural Agent Bisemer and his committee on Agricultural Conservation, Maurice Bird, Paul Otter, and Milo Butler.

The special mission of Mr. Bisemer and his committee was to seek out methods of erosion control being used by farmers co-operating with the Bureau of Soil Conservation. In spite of its fairly level land, Wayne county, the delegation felt, is suffering immeasurably from soil depletion and wind erosion, and to an undetermined extent from water erosion. High-land values over a number of years, Mr. Bisemer explained, had forced Wayne farmers into intensive truck farming that has left little opportunity for rotations and farming practices that aid in the restoration of organic matter to the soil.

Mr. Behymer, manager of demonstrational work of the bureau, pointed to conclusive evidence that the present system of farming failed to control erosion and showed examples of many fields utterly ruined beyond any hope of future use as a result of these improper methods. As a remedy, the Wayne committee saw farmers combating erosion with strip cropping, terraces, soil building rotations, permanent sod, and forest trees.

These men left with a determination to carry home the gospel of soil conservation. From their efforts great benefits should accrue to Wayne county agriculture.

"Who Is Kelly?" He Is a Fine, Outstanding Sample of American

Down here in Wayne county people do not ask "Who is Kelly?" That question is framed by persons residing outstate not familiar with the man or his record. Harry F. Kelly is the Republican nominee for secretary of state. His nomination came as a surprise even to himself. But that he is qualified, able, sincere and loyal no one can deny and the folk who know him best acclaim his many fine qualities.

Mr. Kelly is 46 years of age, and heads a happy family, the group portrait of which is given herewith. In 1936 Mr. Kelly, a prominent lawyer of Detroit, managed Governor Fitzgerald's Wayne county campaign. In 1938 he managed the successful primary campaign for Fitzgerald. For 14 years prior to this he occupied a prominent place in Wayne county and Detroit Republican councils. In civic life and veteran affairs of state and nation Mr. Kelly is well known. During the World War he served with distinction with the Second

Today your voice can girdle the globe

Sixty years ago Michigan's service was limited to a few persons in a few scattered communities. If you were a subscriber you could call perhaps a score of folks in your own town or neighborhood. But you had no way of talking to the next town or across the State.

The change began in 1881, when a Long Distance line linked Detroit with Port Huron — considered a great thing in those days!

Today you not only can talk to almost any one anywhere in Michigan . . . but, due to continuous development and research, your telephone can connect you with 35 million other telephones in nearly all parts of the civilized globe.

The Fords Tell Their Plans for 1939

IF WE KNEW anything better we could do for the country than make good motor cars, we would do it.

By every one doing his best in the job he thinks most useful, this country is going to regain its momentum. We have tried to do our best in our job.

When business was suddenly halted in its recovery more than a year ago, we determined that we should keep going anyway, if not at full-volume motor car production, then at getting ready for greater motor car values that would help future production.

Henry and Edsel Ford, on the occasion of the 35th anniversary of the founding of the Ford Motor Company, June 16, 1938

EXPANDING FOR THE FUTURE

We began to build 34 million dollars' worth of new plants and equipment. We felt that if we could not employ all our men building motor cars, we would employ as many as we could building better production facilities.

We were told, of course, that this was no time for expansion, that a wiser business policy would be to "hold everything"—which means, stop everything. But no one ever got anywhere standing still.

Besides, we are not defeatists. We do not believe this country has seen its best days. We believe this country is yet in the infancy of its growth. We believe that every atom of faith invested in our Country and our People will be amply justified by the future. We believe America is just beginning. Never yet have our People seen real Prosperity. Never yet have we seen adequate Production. But we shall see it! That is the assurance in which we have built.

Business is not just coming back. It will have to be brought back. That is now becoming well understood in this country; for that reason 1939 will be a co-operative year. Manufacturers, sellers and buyers will co-operate to bring back the business that is waiting to be brought back.

This construction program is almost completed. It has increased activity and payrolls in a number of related industries. It has given us better facilities for building better cars and trucks, and eventually our new tractor which is being perfected.

THIS MEANS MORE VALUE

The current program has provided a new tire plant, which will turn out a part of our tire requirements . . . a new tool and die plant that will help us cut the cost of dies . . . and a steel-press plant that will enable us to make more of our own automobile bodies. These are in addition to the plants we already had for producing glass, iron, steel, plastics, and many other things.

We don't supply all our own needs, of course, and never expect to. The Ford engine is one thing that no one's hand touches but ours. Of nearly everything else we use we build some quantity ourselves, to find, if possible, better and more economical ways of doing it. The experience and knowledge we gain are freely shared with our suppliers, and with other industries.

We take no profit on anything we make for ourselves and sell to ourselves. Every operation, from the Ford ships which first bring iron ore to the Rouge, is figured at accurate cost. The only profit is on the finished result—the car or truck as it comes off the line. Some years, there is no profit for us. But we see to it that our customers always profit. A basic article of our business creed is that no sale is economically constructive unless it profits the buyer as much as or more than the seller.

Our new plants have helped us build more value into all our cars for 1939. That means more profit on the purchase to the purchaser. We have not cut quality to reduce costs. We simply will not build anything inferior.

NEW TESTING EQUIPMENT

While we were putting up new plants to produce cars, we constructed new equipment to test them. The first weather tunnel of its kind ever built for automobile research went into operation at our laboratories this year.

It makes any kind of weather to order. The weather it delivers every day would take months to find in Nature. Our cars are weather-tested to give you good service in any climate anywhere.

In other tests, every part of the car is punished unmercifully. Then our engineers tear it down to see if they can find abnormal wear or any sign of weakness.

The money we spend on tests saves you money on repairs. And your family car is safer and more dependable when we put it in your hands.

THE NEW CARS

We have two new Ford cars for 1939—better cars and better looking—but we also have an entirely new car.

It's called the Mercury 8. It fits into our line between the De Luxe Ford and the Lincoln-Zephyr. It is larger than the Ford, with 116-inch wheelbase, hydraulic brakes, and a new 95-horsepower V-type 8-cylinder engine.

We know that our 1939 cars are cars of good quality. We think they're fine values in their price classes.

With new cars, new plants, new equipment, the whole Ford organization is geared to go forward.

REMEMBER?

Just 20 years have passed since the world went wild with news of — ARMISTICE!

Just 20 years ago, on November 11, 1918, the order to "cease firing" sped from front to front on France's great battlefield. It marked an end to the greatest armed conflict in history.

War's end came after Marshal Foch and his staff received the German plenipotentiaries at Rheims, France. On the exact spot where stood the railroad car in which peace was signed, France placed the above memorial stone.

The delirium of armistice returned a few weeks later when the doughboys came marching home. Thousands passed under the triumphal arch erected in New York city. A few days later they were mustered out and headed for home.

But some were not so fortunate. Twenty years later, veteran hospitals throughout the nation house invalids left by the World war, strong-willed men who are striving to "come back" in the face of physical and mental ravages left by gas and shrapnel.

Some paid an even higher price with their lives. In Flanders field the poppies still bloom over the graves of valiant American soldiers. Meanwhile, 20 years after armistice, too many of the World war's lessons have been forgotten.

As early as 1890 the immense stands of virgin pine in the lower peninsula of Michigan had been virtually exhausted.

AMERICA VOTES

In every state but Maine, November 8 is election day; your chance to say "Yes" or "No" to the government.

Throughout the country, lines like the above form each election day as America exercises its franchise. Few citizens appreciate this right; too many complain about government and then do nothing about it. The above picture was taken at a New York polling place, where election machinery must be geared to accommodate a democratic vote.

To tabulate New York's 2,000,000 votes, a special corps of canvassers require 15 days. But this is only for the official count. By midnight on election day, thanks to mechanical voting devices, New York can tell who is winning. Similarly, in national elections, trends can be determined a few hours after the polls close. Newspapers and press associations work all night at a frenzied pace, and by morning their readers know the outcome. A hundred years ago, national election results were not known for weeks.

Despite elaborate mechanism in larger cities, the bulk of America's votes are cast in small towns. Some voting precincts are so small that the polls close within a few hours after opening. Others complete their ballot in a few minutes, taking delight in being the first precinct to report.

YOUR OIL FREE
(UP TO THE FULL MARK)

IF I FORGET TO CHECK IT—

WHEN you drive in my station, I'm going to remember to check your oil. We Shell dealers listed below have agreed to this.

If we forget, just say, "Didn't you forget something?"—and without any hesitation we'll bring your crankcase up to the full mark with Golden Shell. FREE!

WHY THE BRAINSTORM? Well, we know we ought to keep your oil up to the full mark for safety's sake. Besides, we've got an oil that will do the job for your engine like never before.

It's made for the kind of driving you do—STOP and GO. About ten times a day you shut off your engine. Your oil drains down into the crankcase.

When you start up again, engine parts grind together "dry" of lubrication until your oil gets up there. About 3/4 of all the wear on your engine comes in starting.

GOLDEN SHELL OIL LICKS THIS. It leaps to every moving engine part the instant you step on the starter. And it's tough, too, so that it won't break down under the heat of steady driving. In fact—

There's no finer oil at any price than Golden Shell.

Time Defies Rocks in 13-13 Dearborn Clash

Father Time's relentless scythe sliced away Plymouth's chances of breaking a 13-13 tie with Dearborn Thursday, October 29 in a fast game played at Ford field. As the final whistle blew with the ball in Plymouth's possession on the Dearborn two-foot line with but one minute to play in the last period, Doug Prough intercepted a Dearborn pass on their 48-yard line giving Plymouth a questionable scoring chance. This break of luck so encouraged the Rocks that by dint of three completed passes, thrown by Bob Hitt they flew the ball up the field to the Dearborn one-yard line. As they assumed positions for the next play, the time-keeper's whistle sounded, much to the chagrin of Plymouth and the joy of Dearborn.

Dearborn broke into the scoring column early in the game by the use of an old deception, the sleeper. The Orange and Black kicked off, but the Rocks were not able to push the ball past the 50-yard marker, and Leach punted to the opposite end zone. Starting on their own 25, Dearborn's gridders carried the ball all the way up the field to the Plymouth 22-yard line by using a shovel-lateral. Dearborn saw-sawed back and forth between the Rocks' 5 and 20-yard lines, then lined up in pass formation. The ball was thrown apparently to the extreme left of anyone on either team, when suddenly Tennant, a Dearborn man who had camped out almost on the side against the crowd's background, darted across the Plymouth goal line receiving the pass as he ran the last few feet. Another pass, for the extra point, was void.

If Dearborn made their first score easily, the Rocks made their first six points by sheer power and cunning football performance. Beginning on their own 22-yard line as the result of the kick-off, Plymouth marched steadily down the field by completing two passes from Hitt to Ross and by intermingling with the passes a long end run by Keith Jolliffe.

Jack Ross carried the ball over the line on a power play through left tackle. The Dearborn line of point gave Plymouth a one point edge which they retained to the end of the first quarter which ended immediately after Plymouth kicked off after their touchdown.

The Dearbornites chalked up their remaining seven points in the second quarter although they had to use every football tactic at their command to accomplish this end. The two grid-machines engaged in a punting duel for the better part of the second period. This ended abruptly with the ball in the Dearborn right hand grasp on the Plymouth 30-yard line. A pair of line smashes coupled with a Plymouth penalty for off-sides advanced the ball to the Rocks' 10-yard line. Yet another power play placed the ball on the Plymouth two and one-half with the unamusing prospect of four downs to go for two more line smashes netted the Dearbornites the necessary touchdown yardage. Lloyd Tennant then booted a perfect placement once more shifting the dubious lead to Dearborn.

The Rocks were clearly on the offensive, all the way, in the third quarter in which they deadlocked the score for good.

Plymouth kicked off but on receiving the ball on downs they advanced it to the enemy 10, where they in turn relinquished it on downs.

Dearborn's best effort was to get away with a sickly punt to her own 28-yard line. Plymouth received 15 more yards when Prough was roughed while attempting to catch a pass. The Rocks then turned on two power drives by Ross and Gettleton bringing the ball to the opposition's five-yard line, from whence Bob Hitt smashed the remaining yards on the next play. Darnell's kick proved to be wide and the score remained deadlocked the remainder of the game.

The Rocks used two plays almost consistently. The forward pass and the line buck. These were varied by an occasional end run or reverse. Seven of the passes thrown by Bob Hitt were completed.

The starting line-up follows:

Plymouth	Dearborn
Prough	RE Eans
Darnell	RT Neilan
Olson	RG Austin
Curtiss	C Youmans
Thams	LG Coffin
Krumm	LT Fukalek
Jolliffe	LE Tennant
Ross	QB Pillingham
Hitt	LH Splatt
Gettleton	LH Kitzik
Leach	FB Emery

Referees: Catherman, Dearborn; Gust, Michigan Normal; Behringer, Bethany, Substitutions: Hull, Sessions, Scarpulla, Dunham.

LET'S ATTEND DEBATES—EDITORIAL

The record of the local high school debating team is one of the most outstanding in the state, and has been for years. This record was attained, and could only be attained, by a huge amount of hard, painstaking labor. For the most part it has been done by a mere handful of faithful workers under the ever capable leadership of Mr. Latture.

It is a most deplorable paradox, but still true, that by far the high school's most successful team should receive by far the least support. When on Tuesday, October 25, the debaters conquered River Rouge, which has grown so much larger that it is now included in the schedules of the high school's major sports, there were between 50 and 60 people present. Since this was the first debate of the season and with such a formidable opponent as River Rouge, it is not very likely that attendance will increase as the season progresses. At least three times the actual audience should have been present.

It would be safe to say that 80 per cent of the student body has never heard a regularly scheduled high school debate. This year's subject, a proposed alliance with Great Britain, should be of vital interest to everyone. Debates, contrary to popular opinion, are not above the head of the average student; oftentimes they prove as exciting as a tussle on the gridiron. Students who have never heard a debate use this as an excuse: That debates are dry, uninteresting, and devoid of excitement. Since this all is positively untrue, let's attend the next debate, and the next and the next, and support a team that really merits support!

PARENTS' NIGHT: PLYMOUTH HOLDS OPEN HOUSE

In celebration of national education week Plymouth high school will hold its annual parents' night on Wednesday, November 9 from 7:30 until 9 o'clock. The usual afternoon classes of fourth, fifth, and sixth grades will be carried on in routine fashion. The classes will be but one-half hour in length, the fourth being from 7:30 to 8 o'clock, fifth from 8 until 8:30, and the sixth from 8:30 until 9 o'clock. During night school and for a time after 9 o'clock the school will observe "open house" in the many new or improved rooms. The greatly enlarged girls and boys' locker rooms will be open for inspection. The new machine shop will be available during the evening as well as all the laboratories. Since the auditorium of the Central school has not been seen by the public it will be lighted and open during the evening. Although the new combined library study hall will be in use during the school hours persons are urged to see it after 9:00 o'clock.

All parents and friends interested in witnessing students in their classes are urged to attend.

SCHOOL ASKS STUDENTS TO USE NEW BICYCLE RACKS

Bicycle racks have again been constructed for the use of students who cycle to school. About a year ago all traces of the old racks disappeared and until recently all the outlying corners of the high school have been crowded with bicycles stacked in ungainly positions.

Recently two new racks have been completed, built with WPA labor and materials. The largest in front of the grade school holds 57 bicycles and the smaller at the side of the high school supports 43. The racks were built at a total cost of $112.

The high school has spent a lot of time and money constructing these racks for the use of the students. All it asks in return is that they be used so that bicycles will not be parked at all angles and positions which is detrimental not only to the appearance of the school house but also to the bicycles.

CLASS ROOM WORK

The junior high school shop under the direction of Mr. Ingram has recently acquired a new tool-cabinet which allows the pupil to find easily any tool he needs, thus enabling him to do his work more quickly. The cabinet replaces a chest which had no specific system of numbering the tools, and which obliged any one looking for a tool to search through the entire cabinet. Another feature of the new cabinet is the cupboard at the bottom which can hold nails, screws, and other materials that otherwise might become lost.

Several worth-while projects are now in progress in the junior high shop. Two sewing cabinets, a writing desk, and a magazine rack are all being made with recourse to no machine work except the jigsaws.

The second group of 43 girls is in session the fifth period on Thursday. The accompanist for the Thursday group is Vera Ens. New books entitled "Moments Musical" by Wilson have just arrived for both groups. The music is arranged for women's voices in three parts: First soprano, second soprano, and alto.

INFORMATION ABOUT CLASS ROOM WORK

(Omitted from last week)

Miss Saffel's world history classes have been busy the past week taking tests and making maps of Alexander's Empire in the Hellenistic age.

One geography class is studying Japan and watching the newspapers for various actions pertaining to Japan. The other class is now reading about Alaska.

Miss Hearn's fourth hour Latin class has decided to make a scrapbook for their Latin project. They are given a few Latin words a day and see how many English ones they can find that are derived from these words. They are put in this scrapbook and anything that is found in newspapers or magazines pertaining to Latin is clipped.

The third hour class has not yet decided what they will do. Both classes are composed of second year Latin students.

The majority of investment trusts had just about enough cash on hand when the last market collapse occurred, to insure payment of management salaries for a couple of years.

The Junior high food classes made candy for their Halloween lesson.

The 7B clothing classes have started making laboratory outfits for next semester.

The 9B English classes are studying "Goldbug" by Edgar Allan Poe. This is supplemented by his poems and other short stories.

Principal Dykhouse reports that his commercial arithmetic class has to cover a book containing matters about the retail store, the producer, transportation, banking, investments, government, and the consumer. So far the class has covered the affairs of the retail store and is now taking up discussions on the producer and the middle man.

The Home Economics club was entertained Tuesday evening, October 25, by Gladys Davison. The Halloween theme was carried out. The girls played games and danced.

NEW BOOKS IN THE HIGH SCHOOL LIBRARY

Sixteen new books are being entered in the school library; some of them are already in the stacks.

"Haverhill Herald" by Esther Greenacre Hall is the story of Carol O'Farrell who ran her father's newspaper while he went West for his health. The chance of a rival newspaper winning her creates suspense. Arthur Baldwin is the author of the adventures of Corry and Jim Laight on their boat one summer where they came in contact with smugglers and stowaways. The book is called "Sou' Wester Goes North." Frederic Arnold Kummer's "Great Road" leads into the lives of such renowned characters as the Queen of Sheba, Napoleon, Persis and Alexander. "Honey of the Nile," by Erick Berry tells how Henifer and Kem over-hear a plot of the Egyptians to kill Queen Anthesia, but they save her by a perilous trip down the Nile.

"Little American Girl," as told by Marjorie Hill Allee is the tale of how Sarah Reid's sophomore year at Midland was interrupted by a letter sending her to the heart of gay happenings in Paris. These five books are from the Junior Library Guild. The other new books have been ordered from supply houses. The story of a brave young woman who went into the foothills of Tennessee as a rural school teacher — Alvin Harlow and Ella Enslow tell her trials in "School-house in the Foothills." Anne Ellis tells the "Life of an Ordinary Woman," who was not beautiful, famous, rich or educated. She was reared in Western mining camps, but her story is interesting. Helen Ferris invites you to be present at the opening of Barnum's great museum in New York in "Here Come Barnum." Wouldn't you like to follow the adventures in this famous man's life?

Marie Dressler, in "My Own Story," says at six she resolved to make up for her ugliness by making the world laugh at her.

At 60 she knew she had succeeded. Boys will want to read "A Man Must Fight," by Gene Tunney. "When my story is told," he said, "I will tell it myself." He has done it so well that he takes the reader with him in his exciting adventures. Mystery lovers will like "The Pinkertons," by Richard Wilmer Rowan.

Allan Pinkerton, a pioneer in detecting, is a detective the reader through many mysteries included.

YOUTH ENTERTAINERS SHRINERS

(Omitted from last week)

Betty Mastick and Edward Landeau of Miss Walldorf's 1937 public speaking class were selected to speak at the annual Past-Presidents' Night of the Shriner's organization at the Hotel Mayflower, Friday, Oct. 21. Hal Wilson, well-known attorney of Detroit and Plymouth, was toast-master for the evening. Arlo Emery, president of the Suburban Shrine club presided. Betty Mastick spoke on Youth's general opinions—politically, economically, educationally, religiously and socially. Edward Landeau's address dealt with the outlook of youth for the future. He told about the apprenticeship courses offered in Plymouth high school and how these courses fit youth for positions in life.

One of the highlights of the evening for Betty and Edward was being introduced to Elden Auker and his wife.

PLYMOUTH TO MEET CLAWSON THERE FRIDAY.

For the first time in its history Plymouth today will meet the Clawson team which has been defeated only by Melvindale. They have beaten Lincoln Park, Redford Union, Auburn Heights and Roseville. Because little is known of the Clawson gridders there cannot be any prediction as to the outcome of the game. The starting lineup will be: L.E. Jolliffe, L.T. Krumm, L.G. Thams; C. Curtiss; R.G. Olson; R. T. Darnell; R.E. Prough; G. Ross; L.H. Hitt; R.H. Gettleton; and fullback, Leach.

PLYMOUTH'S HIGH SCHOOL POETS

I never realized before how many students of this school write poetry purely for their own amusement until I was assigned this feature concerning those poets. I inquired among a small group of students and was referred immediately to several young poets. One of the most unusual, probably is Fern Mertie. She writes delightful free verse and also short stories and poetry. Fern is very modest about her writings and must be teased before she will show them to anyone. Virginia Rock, whose poems you may have read in earlier issues of the Pilgrim Prints is collecting her poems. Paul Harsha was the only boy poet that I interviewed. Paul writes only a small amount and that is usually on assignment. Mary Pett's chief subject matter seems to be nature. Mary started to collect her poems but has misplaced them right now. I asked Margaret Erdelyi what she wrote about and she answered, "Most anything—I've written from little boys up to heaven." She is collecting her poems also. Phyllis Murphy has a collection of about 50 poems and states that she writes often about very natural subjects. Arlene South likes to jingle about casual subjects. There are doubtless many other poets in the school who would appreciate some attention and encouragement on the part of their poems.

ROCKETTES BOW TO DEARBORN 20-6

The Plymouth Freshman B team which is composed of seventh, eighth and ninth graders suffered a 20-6 loss at the hands of the Dearborn B team Wednesday, October 26. Plymouth played against a much stronger team, and under the circumstances played a very good game. Only a small number of Plymouth boys turned out to play and Coach Ingram selected the players at the field.

ONE HUNDRED TWENTY-FIVE AT ALL GIRLS PARTY

Gypsies, ghosts, tramps, and "little girls" are only a few of the many costumes used at the All Girls' party held Wednesday night, October 26. The girls first participated in a few games and relays. Then a Grand March was formed and the costumes were judged by Mrs. Burr, Mrs. Smith and Miss Fiegl. The prize for the prettiest went to Betty Mastick who wore a dainty flowered old-fashioned dress. The most original were Raggedy Ann and Raggedy Andy portrayed by Jean Schoof and Charlotte Luzius, and the funniest were Belva Barnes and Shirley Sorenson who wore both in one barrel. The classes gave ten-minute stunts and in this field the sophomores won, theirs being a "mock wedding." After the stunts, small mince and apple pies were given out and the rest of the time was allotted to dancing. This party was sponsored by the Senior Girl Reserves under the supervision of Miss Wells, and it certainly was a grand, full-of-fun party.

ART EXHIBIT VISITS SCHOOL

(Omitted from last week)

Twenty-five drawings entered in the last year's Scholastic Art Award contest were on exhibit Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday in the library of the high school. Some of the entries were designs, some pencil sketches, others were portraits and advertising illustrations.

Miss Fry, the high school art instructor, considered all the entries to be very good although they were not prize winners.

Huskers at National Tourney

State champion corn huskers throughout the Middle West gathered Thursday, November 3 at Dell Rapids, near Sioux Falls, S. D. for the national contest, providing a scene not dissimilar to the above Illinois state contest. This year, for the first time, professional corn huskers are barred from the contest.

Your Michigan—And Mine

VALUABLE MARKET
Care—James R. Blackmore was both thrilled and surprised—and who wouldn't be—when he shook $100 in gold coin out of a tattered old blanket recently. Blackmore was appraising an estate when he jerked the ragged covering from a bureau and the coins jingled to the floor.

FOR CINDERELLA'S COACH
Vicksburg—Here's a pumpkin that might qualify, in size at least, for Cinderella's fairy coach. Harry Oswald, local farmer, has produced a prize pumpkin weighing 73 pounds. He also grew a 69-pounder.

TWO BIRDS WITH ONE SHOT
Iron River—Killing two birds with one stone, or rather with one shot, is not impossible, as the Rev. Stafford Anderson demonstrated during partridge season here. While hunting on a woods road, he sighted a "pat" and fired. He bagged his prey, and also its mate, both with the same charge.

JACK AND THE BEANSTALK
Cass City—Although perhaps not large enough to support the giant of the fairy tale, the beanstalk grown on the T. J. Heron farm and displayed here recently was no dwarf. This stalk measured five feet and eight inches in length, and carried 202 pods, most of them well filled.

DOG BARKS, MAN IS KILLED
North Branch—A dog's barking was a fateful occurrence for James Haslick, 55. When the barking dog rushed at him, Haslick jumped aside. He was walking in the road at the time, and as he jumped, he was struck by a car and fatally injured.

FREAKS IN FLOWERS, TOO
Chimax—Two-headed calves are freaks in the animal world, and so are two-faced dahlias freaks in the realm of flowers. Such a specimen was found by Mrs. Otis Scibee in her dahlia garden here. It was yellow in color, and had two complete faces on the one bloom.

SPRING GIFTS IN FALL
Sparta—Two gifts, appropriate to spring, were brought to the Sentinel-Leader office here this fall. One was a spray of red raspberries and the other a snowing snowball, both picked from bushes in local gardens.

MARKED TURTLE RETURNS
Berrion Springs—Although when he carved his initials on the back of a turtle in 1914, Clifford E. Hanson didn't expect to see it again, the turtle did come back. A short time ago, 24 years after Clifford carved his initials, the same turtle appeared on the same farm. The initials were plainly visible, and the turtle was not much larger.

GARDENING RECORD
Nashville—Is it a record when violets blossom three times in open season, and a gardener raises tomatoes, three of which weigh almost nine pounds? That is what happened at the summer place of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Everts here.

Silver Wedding Anniversary Observed

By Mr. and Mrs. Kreeger
Mr. and Mrs. William Kreeger of Robinson subdivision celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary last Sunday. A bouquet of 25 roses was placed in their honor in St. Peter's Lutheran church in the morning service by their children, Andrea and Elmer. A prayer was also offered by Rev. Hoencke. After services a dinner for the wedding guests who were present 25 years ago was served. During the evening they entertained relatives and friends from Northville, Walker Lake, Detroit, Howell and Plymouth.

YOUR BODY

(By O. F. Beyer, of Beyer Drugs)
People who make financial investments seldom do so without a consultation with a banker or financial counselor. Likewise they employ an attorney before making a legal move.

Unfortunately many do not use the same foresight when their bodies show signs of need of medical care. With incomplete understanding of the cause they attempt, usually through some fantastic treatment, to restore health.

Mastery of detailed ramifications of bodily ailments cannot be attained except through the long training period a doctor of medicine passes to enable him to help you to retain or regain your health.

For your present and future welfare be persistent in checking with your doctor at frequent intervals. Also check with him as to the pharmacist adequately equipped by experience and with drugs to compound prescriptions exactly as they should be.

A large party of young people gathered in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Moe, Friday evening when their sons, Lawrence and Gordon, entertained at a Halloween party. Games were enjoyed in the recreation room which was attractively decorated for the occasion, and refreshments in keeping with the Halloween season were served. Those attending were Hazel Straw, Dorothy Martin, Betty Marlain, of Detroit; Dorothy Ross, of Redford; Mary Jane Crawford, of Wyandotte; Betty Jane Lay, of River Rouge; and Katherine Kaletsky, Madelyn Wheeler, Ruth Knowles, Vern Wagenschutz, Mat McClellan, Keith Van Amber, Harold Groth, Lawrence Smith, David and Kenneth Gates, of Plymouth.

On Saturday Mrs. Orr Passage entertained at dinner in her home on Maple avenue in celebration of Mr. Passage's birthday anniversary. Following dinner the guests enjoyed playing "500" and euchre. Those present were Lyman Eberly of Lansing, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. McLeod, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stocken, Mr. and Mrs. James Dunn, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dunn, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Davis and son, Larry Stewart, Maurine Dunn and Ivan Baldwin.

Mrs. Elizabeth Mowbray entertained 12 little girls at a Halloween party, Friday afternoon from 4:00 to 6:00, for her daughter, Mary Lou. Each little guest came in costume and all had a jolly time playing games. Refreshments followed the games which all enjoyed.

Your Election Ballot for Nov. 8 Will Look in Part Like This--Study It Over Carefully

It has been prepared for you by your Representative in the State Legislature
Elton R. Eaton

Who has never missed an opportunity to give aid and assistance to every one in his district and state.

Over 105,000 bushels of good MICHIGAN POTATOES were distributed to distressed families last winter instead of being dumped into pig pens, as a result of action demanded by Representative Eaton when he found out officials planned to destroy a part of the Michigan crop. Eaton saw to it that they went to the welfare instead of being wasted.

Eaton advocated and was instrumental in helping to get the legislature to pass the bill empowering the Wayne county auditors to loan money to country school districts so they can build badly needed school houses or additions. With this county aid and WPA funds the following new school buildings have been erected in our legislative district this year:

- New buildings:
- Livonia, No. 5, Wilcox School, 3 rooms, approximate cost, $30,000.00.
- Livonia, No. 7 Fr., Stark School, 3 rooms, approximate cost, $30,000.00.
- Nankin, No. 1 Fr., Cooper School, 3 rooms, approximate cost, $30,000.00.
- Dearborn, No. 3, Wallaceville School, 3 rooms, approximate cost $40,000.00.

Taylor, No. 2, Fletcher School, 4 rooms, approximate cost, $40,000.00.

Taylor, No. 6 Fr., Treadwell School, 4 rooms, approximate cost, $40,000.00.

Additional:

Taylor, No. 1, Taylor Center School, 6 rooms, approximate cost, $60,000.00.

Taylor, No. 7, Eureka School, 2 rooms, (frame), approximate cost $12,000.00.

Huron, No. 1, Kittle School, 1 room, (frame), approximate cost, $4,700.00.

Romulus, No. 7 Fr., Texas School, 2 rooms, (frame), approximate cost, $7,500.00.

Next year under the rights granted in this legislative bill, and with an appropriation of $125,000 made by the supervisors about 14 more districts will get new school buildings or additions.

Eaton's bill that made possible the hospitalization of all tuberculosis cases is regarded by the Michigan Tuberculosis Society as the biggest "legislative lift" tuberculosis victims have ever received.

It was another Eaton bill which enables the Wayne County Library commission to buy sites, build and maintain libraries in all parts of Wayne county.

Recently he tried to force immediate payment by the state of all obligations owing to merchants, coal dealers and others for supplies provided people in need. While he didn't get all the bills paid, the welfare officials are now making partial payments, as a result of his determined action.

It was Eaton's amendment which took out of the old age pension law the property assignment clause before deserving aged people could get the help they so badly need. He has been a consistent fighter to help the needy elderly people of the state.

At the last session of the legislature Eaton was a co-introducer of a homestead tax relief bill which would have taken some tax burden from the small home owner. He proposes to again seek additional real estate tax relief. He favors direct nomination by the voters of all candidates for state office.

He favors the use of more uniform school text books in all parts of Michigan, with the state providing funds with which school districts can purchase them for school children.

These are just a few of the many things Eaton has been doing. His record has been a most active one for the good of his district and state.

If you intend to vote a split ticket put an (X) in front of his name.

IS MICHIGAN HEADED for BANKRUPTCY?

LET'S CONSIDER THE FACTS

(1) State payrolls increased more than $9,000,000 in 18 months — the greatest boost of tax-supported wages in Michigan history. Lack of building space at Lansing for Murphy's job army has even forced several agencies to move to Detroit.

(2) Steadily mounting deficit in the state treasury. On January 1, 1937, the treasury had a cash balance of $8,775,000. On June 30, 1938 — 18 months later, the officially admitted deficit was $8,741,487 — making a red ink total on June 30, of $17,000,000 UPWARD. And this does not include, in any way, the millions appropriated by the legislature at the special session in August for welfare needs. TODAY the Murphy deficit is somewhere between $20,000,000 and $30,000,000, and mounting every day!

What are YOU going to do about it? Old Age pensions have been reduced because tax money has been squandered! Wouldn't it be better for the unemployed to have adequate state funds for their needs, and what is more important, honest-to-goodness jobs in industry and business?

GOOD ROADS mean everything to all of us. Michigan's top-ranking automotive industry depends upon good roads. Our second most important industry—the tourist business—could not exist without them. Agriculture thrives only when farm products can be rushed to markets over good roads. Business prospers as these basic industries prosper. On election day you will vote on Amendment No. 3, the Good Roads Amendment. Here's what a "yes" vote means to you: As a wage earner "yes" means more jobs; as a farmer "yes" means good farm-to-market roads; as a business man "yes" means more business, and as a taxpayer "yes" means a brake on your property taxes. To your family, Amendment 3 opens up new fields of safe and healthful recreation.

Former Plymouth Business Man Tells Of Experiences With Jap Detectives

Winfield Line And Wife On Way Home From Korea Trailed Everywhere By Officials

Winfield Line, for a number of years owner of the Line store on Penniman avenue, and a prominent business man of Howell, accompanied by Mrs. Line, who has various times addressed clubs in Plymouth, has just written for the Livingston County Press an account of a recent visit to Japan and Korea that is of such general interest that The Mail is publishing it in full.

It relates their many experiences with spies and detectives in the Orient and of the plight of the people in that part of the world. The article follows:

This is an article on a turbulent trip which I and my wife, Grace Song Line, took through Korea and Japan, and from which we have not yet returned to the United States, having stopped in Hawaii for a few weeks to build up our nerves after many unpleasant contacts with Japanese detectives and police. We were last located at Pyeng Yang, the former capital of Korea, and now a hotbed of war preparation facing the Russian border. A thousand airplanes are stationed here, and the air is filled with their ominous roar day and night. This was my wife's birthplace, and here in our relatives' homes we found every light covered with a black hood, as were also in trains and public buildings, in readiness for Russian air raids.

The night before an army detective who had double-crossed us and had plunged us into further trouble with the local police, had come to our house and while interviewing me, had called me a liar. I had escorted him abruptly off the premises, and when my wife heard of the interview and outcome she was deeply worried. The Japanese throw Koreans into jail for no cause whatsoever, but when the detective had threatened me with jail I had told him that they could not put an American citizen in jail without cause. The fellow had asked me if I had any friends in Japan, shortly before I kicked him out, and it was fear that he would lie and frame us that troubled my wife. We were already nervous and run down and our sleep was full of nightmares that night, so we arose before daylight, and leaving word with our relatives to notify the police of our departure, we boarded an early morning train for some Hot Springs a hundred miles distant where we hoped to get some rest and leave our troubles behind us.

Our detectives were not to be left, however, and on our 100-mile journey we had eight of them. At the Hot Springs we took a Japanese hotel and invited the detective to our room where we could get a little rest as he grilled us. His first concern was whether I had brought my cameras, but I had already promised the police in P. Y. that I would not take them so this man had nothing to worry about. He stayed all the afternoon, but he proved to be an unusual detective as when he left he called me Professor.

I had one ludicrous experience in this hotel which has no place in this article, but I cannot help but tell it. The Japanese have no modesty whatsoever, and formerly men and women bathed in the same public bath tubs together. Here in this hotel the mistress had the idea that it would be better if my wife and I took our bath together. We were provided with kimono, to go to the Hot Springs, and as I was ready first, she led me through a maze of passages to the bath tubs. I entered the bath room and was amazed to find myself confronted with three women bathing. I thought we had made a mistake and attempted to turn around and get out, but the mistress grabbed my kimono and motioned me to be seated. She signaled to me that the women would be done soon, and then my wife and I could have the bath. So I sat down and if my face was red it was not my fault. The women finally finished their baths and calmly passed me and left, and here my wife found me waiting.

One never gets used to the detectives, no matter how often they come. Grace said that every time she saw a detective coming it made her heart stop beating, or else pound unnaturally, as we never knew but it might mean the worst. We were both losing weight rapidly from the nervousness of being continually hounded by police, and we were getting our relatives in bad, also, so not wishing to cause them further trouble we decided to go to the capital, Seoul. Here my wife had an influential and interesting cousin whom we correctly figured might make our life a little more enjoyable. This cousin was one of the few prominent Koreans whom the Japanese had not touched. He is one of the leading business men of Korea, having a chain of 400 department stores, the main office and store in Seoul employing 1350 people. Detectives followed us until we left the depot in Seoul, and there we told them that we were going to stay at the Chosen Hotel which is run by the Japanese government. From that time on for the balance of our stay in Seoul we were never questioned by police or detectives. They had no need to as they could watch us so easily, and as we have reason to believe and our friends agreed, that our room was tapped, we talked accordingly. At least we enjoyed this little freedom, although many of the friends who came to see us were taken to jail the following day for questioning.

Our cousin, Mr. Pak, gave a reception in our honor at which I and O. Gaylord Marsh, the Consul-General of the United States, and Mrs. Marsh were the only Americans present, the other guests all being outstanding Korean educators, doctors, bankers and business men. One of the men the Japanese had just released from a year in jail where he had been held, without trial, on general principles. Another of the guests, a professor, was arrested the day after the banquet and we did not see him again during our stay. We only hope that we were not the immediate cause of his arrest.

The situation of the Koreans under Japanese domination is unbearable, and yet the poor people have no place to turn. Any man or woman who amounts to anything, especially anyone who has graduated from an American University, the Japanese hate with a fierce intensity. One prominent American suggested that it was the outcropping of the strong inferiority complex of the Japanese which made them so bitter and cruel to the Korean leaders. In Seoul my wife had many men and women friends of former years. We were a menace to these friends and they were a menace to our safety, yet we met and honored each other. I recall one of two enjoyable dinners with these fine friends, and on one of these occasions I became acquainted with a Y. M. C. A. secretary who had just been released after six months of jail torture. His face bore the white of prison pallor yet his spirit was not broken. Our host on this occasion had been in jail the night before, and one of the other guests had been "invited" to go to jail on the morrow. One evening we were invited to the theatre by three Korean men, all of them millionaires, but modest, educated gentlemen. The next morning we found that all three had been visited by the police after leaving us, for a thorough questioning concerning our activities and plans.

TREMBLING when frightened is caused by the spasmodic working of the nerve force which flows between brain and muscle. There is a series of repeated tiny spasms throughout the nerves of the body causing an attendant reaction in the muscles which results in what we call trembling. Intense anger, joy and certain nerve illnesses will have the same effect.

Educated women told us that they were forced by the Japanese authorities to go throughout Korea and Japan giving patriotic lectures on Japan. Those who refused were thrown into jail. Those who went, hated themselves and their lives so intensely they did not care whether they lived or not. Every time a Japanese troop train passed through the country headed for China, all the school children, teachers, and townspeople had to turn out and wave small Japanese flags and sing patriotic songs. The children enjoyed it for it was just a holiday for them. Their elders were there because it meant losing their positions or even jail for them to refuse. The sight brought hot tears to my wife's eyes. To the casual tourist, passing through the country the Koreans are happily becoming changed into good Japanese subjects, but as long as Japan uses her present cruel and heartless methods of colonization she never will assimilate the peoples over whom she has become victor. My wife, as a Korean, and I, as an American, made a bad combination for the Japanese government, and I'll wager that we cost them over a thousand dollars in the month that we were there. The detectives always traveled third class while we traveled second. There were always two of them, one for each of us, who had to come to our section and pay more money for their passage, an expense which made us smile.

ton, an Englishman who made a life study of peoples of the Far East, the Koreans came not from the Chinese but from a mixture of Mongols from the north and Caucasians from Western Asia, a fact which may explain why Koreans so quickly become European or Americanized while Chinese and Japanese find it much harder to do so. Korea traces her authentic history back more than 3,000 years. It is interesting to note that in Kyung-Ju, a city in southern Korea, are bas-relief carvings on stone temples which date back before the time of Christ, and all of the faces are those of Caucasians. Korean art down to the present day has been needed for its strength and vigor of its lines, with imagination surplussing reality for subject material. Much of the literature and history of Korea stands to become lost forever as the Japanese burned all history books upon their seizure of the country, and it is now a jail offense to record or teach the history of the former Empire.

Korean home life among the middle and upper classes is far from ideal due to the custom of early marriages without the consent of the interested parties. This is gradually changing among the younger folks as love marriages are becoming more popular. In deference to me, because in America, wives are invited to banquets, etc., our Korean friends invited their wives to some occasions. I was astonished to learn that in some cases it was the first time that the wife had ever been out with her husband and other men in 20 or 25 years of married life. The wife is supposed to stay at home and if the husband needs entertainment he calls in Keisang (or dancing girls) to entertain himself and his friends. The women are beginning to awaken, however, and demand equal rights and independence for themselves.

The native Korean dress is fast passing, and surely the Korean women should be thankful as both men and women dress in pure white, and the task of keeping clothes clean takes the major part of the women's time. To see a whole street full of men and women dressed in white linen, silks, and cottons, with the colorful vests of the children intermingling, is a delightful sight which one does not forget. With political positions closed to him, and the field of education dangerous and difficult for a Korean to hold, the men and women of the middle classes are turning from their ancient heritage of idle philosophy to the more urban fields of business, and here they are beginning to make a place for themselves. Living conditions of the farmer and the poor city dweller are still deplorable, and the picturesque grass hut conceals many unsanitary and miserable situations.

In the cities the Japanese spend the tax monies on their own sections leaving the Korean quarters to suffer from unequal expenditure of governmental funds, but gradually the Korean is pulling himself up by his bootstraps, and Korean leaders feel that every year progress is being made in sanitation and living conditions. There is little doubt that in the present Chinese situation Japan has bitten off more than she can chew. She is pouring in millions in money and is sacrificing thousands upon thousands of her young men in her ruthless attempt to crush China, and apparently is getting nowhere. Even though she defeats China she cannot hold her occupation except at prohibitive cost. So-called Chinese "bandits" and snipers are still making the occupation of Manchoukuo and north China an expensive luxury. I can never forget what the American missionaries returning to North China told me on the trip across the Pacific: They told of the wonderful improvements made since the Japanese conquered the country in 1934, and then they ended up by asking of what avail are all the improvements if freedom is lost. The poor Chinese are constantly harassed, afraid, and unhappy under the yoke of their ambitious conquerors, and many of the improvements were made by conscripted Chinese farmers at a total sacrifice of their own crops.

In Korea and Japan the price of raw materials has doubled and tripled in price. Brass and leather, and to some extent silver, have become so expensive that, although necessities in the Korean method of living, they can no longer be enjoyed and used by the common people. Japan has banned all imports, especially from the United States, with the exception of war materials, and as the accustomed necessities and luxuries from foreign lands are thus withheld there is a steadily growing unrest among the people. In the farming communities which make up the greater part of Korea, the government has sold the farmer that next year he must put the greater part of his land into cotton, not for his own use but for the government to use for munitions. We, in America, rightfully growl about our excess taxation, but we are fortunate compared with the Korean and Japanese whose burden of taxation is becoming unbearable. Koreans are forced to contribute to the war fund besides the regular taxes, with the option of going to jail. The whole population is seething with unrest.

The spy system, which is developed in the Japanese Empire as nowhere else on earth, is grinding the personality out of both the Japanese and Koreans as it is trapping both till there is no such thing as private life. In my estimation Japan is facing economic ruin, unless China, with bland Oriental generosity, saves Japan's "face." The Land of the Rising Sun will know ruin and revolution. Who knows then what may be the lot of Korea, the former Hermit Kingdom, the Land of the Morning Calm?

The Rotary club of Seoul is composed of about 80 Japanese and 10 Koreans. Due to Cousin's influence I was asked to speak there, which I did in English, my wife translating in Japanese. Again, we had to smile as we were seated at a side table, although had been German or Italian we would have had seats at the main table. It is my wife's belief, however, that as a better class of Japanese come to Korea, there has been a lessening of cruelty and arrogance so prominent among the lesser educated Nipponese.

VOTE TUESDAY.

There is one duty as a citizen you owe to your country, yourself and your family Tuesday—that duty is to vote. No matter whether you are a Democrat or a Republican, go and vote. The greatest danger the country confronts lies in the hands of those who do not exercise their citizenship rights. Take the time to vote. It is your duty to do so!

THE VICTIMS.

Just about the time that Michigan was being plagued with sit-down strikes and illegal seizures of property, the city of Dayton, Ohio was experiencing a similar condition. Factories were closed for weeks and months. Determined to rid themselves of the labor unrest that had run rampant in that city, a number of the industries closed entirely and others moved out. What has been the result?

News dispatches this week carried the information that the public schools of that city had been forced to close because of lack of funds—closed within six weeks after they had opened for the year! Some 25,000 boys and girls are the victims of all this trouble. They are being deprived of one of the greatest essentials to their future welfare—education, all because of the class hatreds that have been inspired during the past two or three years.

Think of it! It was just a few years ago Dayton was regarded as the model industrial city of America.

AFTER THE ELECTION: WHAT?

The Detroit Free Press has editorially asked a question that has been on the minds of most people during the past three or four weeks. It follows:

The public must have noticed, with great relief, that during the present election campaign Michigan has been free of sit-down strikes and other forms of industrial sabotage.

Word seems to have gone down the line for everyone to be on his best behavior until the votes are counted.

The conclusion is inescapable that if those leaders to whom the rank and file of organized labor look for guidance can stop wildcat strikes during the campaign, they could have stopped them when they were working havoc with Michigan industries.

The question is: Will these leaders, who seem to be able to turn hit-and-run strikes off and on at will, show the same consideration for the public interest, after the election, as they are showing now?

TROUBLES IN THE NATIONAL PRESS CLUB

The following transcript is made from a radio address by Fulton Lewis, Jr., veteran Washington correspondent, over Station WOL and the coast-to-coast network of the Mutual Broadcasting system, October 3, 1938.

It describes in some detail experiences of Capital newspaper men with the National Labor Relations Act in connection with attempts to organize employees of the Press Club.

Mr. Lewis said: "Now, very frequently, the most important and far-reaching events take place very quietly, and inconspicuously . . . and that is just what has happened during the last few weeks, in connection with the National Labor Relations Board.

You know, most newspapermen, here in Washington . . . the editors, the writers, the columnists, and the correspondents . . . 95 per cent of them, I think . . . have always been rather friendly to the Labor Relations Board . . . they support it, and they even defend it, rather generally . . . The basic philosophy of the Wagner Labor Act, of course, is to protect the worker against exploitation, and intimidation . . . and to guarantee the right of collective bargaining.

The principle is generally accepted as desirable, by all progressive, fair minded people . . . very few of the newspapermen have paid much attention to the activities of the board . . . most of the actual news developments there are rather dull, and routine . . . and most of the correspondents . . . without having had any first-hand contact with the board . . . have generally assumed it was doing a good job, in a perfectly fair way . . . they've supported it because they support the theory of the Wagner Labor Act.

But in the last few days the newspaper gentlemen have been awakened with a rather rude start. They've had an experience of their own . . . a first-hand object lesson . . . of the way the Labor Relations Board operates.

And from present indications, that little experience is going to have an important effect on the newspaper attitude, in the future. What happened was this:

The famous National Press Club, you know, is composed of all the columnists, editors, special writers, and news correspondents in Washington . . . it has 54 employees . . . and I might mention, that those employees are excellently treated.

The pay for colored waiters is from $65 to $100 a month . . . (which is far above the union wage scale) . . . plus three full meals a day . . . There's a very large Christmas fund, every year . . . when ever an employee, or any member of his family, is taken sick . . . he gets full pay, indefinitely, and the club pays for all of his doctor's and hospital expenses . . . in some cases, that has gone on for many, many months.

All employees get vacation, every year, with full pay . . . They get almost double wages, for over-time . . . they get their holidays off, with full pay. In the last two and a half years, no employee has resigned . . . and only three have been discharged . . . two of them for stealing and selling hundreds of dollars worth of food, from the kitchen . . . and the other one, for making charges against a fellow employee, which he couldn't substantiate when an investigation was made.

Some weeks ago, some representative of the CIO began agitating, among the employees . . . and trying to organize them, in the Cafeteria Workers' Union . . . A representative of the Labor Relations Board conferred with the executive committee, of the Press Club . . . They set last Friday, as the day for the election.

But rather strange things began to happen . . . a number of the waiters . . . some of them helpers in the kitchen . . . began to make complaints . . . They said that while they were at work, people had called at their homes . . . and told their wives that if they didn't vote to join the CIO, they'd have their legs and arms broken . . . Some of them said that their wives had been told they'd be fired . . .

Then some of them brought in printed circulars . . . which had been sent to their wives . . . explaining why the employees should vote for the CIO . . . Those circulars listed ten statements, of what the employees would get if they voted for the CIO . . . and what they would lose, if they voted against it . . . And a very careful analysis showed that seven of the 10 statements were diametrically untrue . . . they were simple falsehoods.

That was a little disillusioning to the newspaper gentlemen . . . who run the National Press Club . . . They certainly were not opposed to the workers signing up with the CIO . . . if they wanted to . . . and, as a matter of fact, I think a very heavy majority of the newspapermen, in Washington, were in favor of the employees organizing.

But these threats and false promises did seem rather unethical and improper . . . and so some of the officials of the Press Club took the matter up with the Labor Relations Board . . . They said they thought the employees had a right to know the truth . . . to be protected from racketeering and coercion . . . And then came the crowning blow . . .

The answer they got from the Labor Relations Board was, that the Board wasn't in the slightest concerned, with any coercion, or threats, or of intimidation, by Labor organizers . . . who were trying to get the workers to join a union . . . it was merely interested in making sure that the officers and members of the National Press Club made no attempt to tell the workers not to join.

They said the Press Club officers would not be permitted to contradict the false statements . . . or to reassure the employees against the threats of violence . . .

And furthermore, the board itself would not do anything about it. Now, as it turned out, it made very little difference . . . That election was held, last Friday . . . the employees voted . . . 31 to 23 . . . not to join the CIO . . .

But that's a minor point . . . The important angle is what has happened to the sentiment among the newspapermen . . . who make up the Press Club . . . because of this little experience seems to have been a rather severe jolt to their idealism.

There's a feeling that the Labor Relations Board is not giving protection to the workers . . . it's giving license to the Organizers . . . During the last four or five days, I have heard the same remark, from dozens of the men . . . who were strong supporters of the Labor Relations Board, before the election . . .

If this is the way the Labor Relations Board operates . . . no wonder there's such a howl of protest . . . I'm surprised that every business man and industry in the United States isn't yelling its head off.

And unless I'm very much mistaken . . . I think you'll find that the handling of news stories, out of Washington, about the National Labor Relations Board, will take a very different turn, from now on . . . and that's likely to be reflected, in a very different attitude, down at the Capitol . . . I think you'll find that the next Congress will go through with some of these investigations of the Labor Board . . . which were blocked in the last session . . . I think you'll find a general demand for a general house cleaning, and for some adequate explanation . . . as to why the worker hasn't just as much right to be protected against threats, and coercion, and intimidation, by a labor organizer who wants him to join a union . . . as he is against the employer . . . who is trying to prevent him from joining one.

And apparently, from the developments, today, there'll be plenty of support for that investigation, within the ranks of labor itself . . . Because, this afternoon, down in Houston, Texas . . . Mr. William Green told the American Federation of Labor, that he will call for a complete overhauling of the National Labor Board, by the next Congress.

He made the charge that the board is merely a stooge, of the CIO . . . that it's unfair and biased . . . that it does not have at heart the interest of labor in general.

And he announced that the federation will use its entire strength, in an effort to defeat Mr. Donald Wakefield Smith . . . one of the members of the Board . . . when his renomination comes up before the Senate, for ratification."

RAMBLING with Editors AROUND of Michigan

CORRECT.

To regulate the hours of work to 32 per week, as the U. A. W. recently called for, would be to inflict a hardship upon workers themselves. For three reasons, at least. First, too many of them have not other hobby interests to keep them out of mischief; second, Nature never intended man to spend most of his life in idleness; third, with so few hours not enough wealth will be produced to make for a higher living standard in the nation.—George Averill in The Birmingham Eccentric.

DID YOU GET YOURS?

How much of the two million and a half dollars worth of federal aid spent in Livingston county did you get? Every family in the county according to the average was supposed to get $423.00. Did you get yours? Then ask yourself how much of this amount you have had to pay and will have to pay before it is paid.—William Cansfield in The Livingston County Press.

THE BLOODSHED BUGABOO

The Governor's record in refusing to enforce the law and to protect personal rights and property is the weakest spot in the record of his administration. The defense he made of it at Pontiac is the only one he has made, or can make, and it is a weak one. The bloodshed bugaboo could always be raised by any official who fails to enforce the law that he is sworn to enforce; but if officials let lawless ruffians have their way for fear somebody might get hurt, then the reign of law ceases. It ceased in Michigan for a time last year, as far as labor disturbances were concerned; and for that result the governor of Michigan was directly and chiefly to blame.—Stuart Perry in Adrian Daily Telegram.

INVITATION TO GAMBLING

Owners of establishments licensed by the state liquor control commission are a naive lot who do not know much about what goes on in their places of business, if one is to believe Chairman Edward

W. McFarland of the liquor commission. McFarland excused the commission's new policy of leniency toward licensees in whose places gambling equipment is found by declaring that the operators of drinking places are often unaware that slot machines and other gambling equipment have been placed in their establishments.

"We're not revoking licenses if slot machines are found," said McFarland, adding, "We're filing the charges and making the licensees get the machines out of their places of business. We find they are very co-operative. Of course, if they refuse to get the machines out we revoke the licenses."

"So many times," the chairman went on, "we found the machines were stuck in the places inadvertently—often without the knowledge of the proprietor. The machines would be hidden away in an attic or basement and the bartender or someone else would get them out for his friends to play. Then the whole place would be playing them. It hits these licensees awfully hard when we take the licenses away, you know."

"Of course if we find the machines are being operated wilfully and maliciously, we will revoke the licenses. The policy is the same but not so strict," said McFarland. The chairman also declared the commission is having its troubles with operation of policy rackets in drinking places. The licensees do not always know about the racket, he said.

The statement by the liquor control commission chairman offers an invitation to licensees who are inclined to violate the state laws against gambling to go ahead and install slot machines in their places. If there is any complaint they need fear only a figurative slap on the wrist for allowing the bartender or someone else to bring slot machines into their places. That is, they need fear nothing more drastic unless the local law enforcement authorities have the courage to enforce the state's anti-gambling laws.

The liquor control commission chairman is right when he says that it hits the violators "awfully hard" when their licenses are taken away, and it is no wonder that he finds them "very co-operative" in avoiding such situations. He is not, however, encouraging respect for law or the rules of the commission when he takes the stand he has on the question of gambling.—Ironwood Daily Globe.

SIT-DOWN STRIKERS MUST PAY

Here's one way of breaking up the sit-down strike technique. A jury in a Pennsylvania court last week gave a verdict of $5,000 to a company for damages against 204 individual strikers who occupied the company's plant for a week about a year ago.

If the idea gets firmly established that sit-down strikers will be held liable for damages suffered during their occupation of property that does not belong to them, and that they will have to pay the bill, there will be no great rush of strikers to occupy plants during industrial disputes in the future.—Frank Brown in the Bellevue Gazette.

WHERE WPA COULD CURE ITS BLACK EYE

Last week saw beautiful weather—unusually fine, clear, warm weather. In St. Johns there is a WPA project under way. A large part of the work is new curb-and-gutter and sidewalk construction. Some of it is new sewer construction. At no time of the year has the weather been more favorable for this kind of work than it was last week.

In spite of these ideal conditions, work stopped early last week. The men had in the allotted number of hours for that period. WPA rules denied them further time until a new period started. The men needed the work. The work needed to be done. The property owners on the streets where the work was under way were being inconvenienced by torn up streets. Much more can be accomplished in a given time under good weather conditions than when it is raining or snowing.

Why, we wonder, could not these men have been allowed to

Increase In Savings Reported

An upward spurt in savings is noted in latest reports of the 38 insured savings and loan associations in Michigan received today by Nugent Fallon, general manager of the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation through the cooperation of President Fred T. Greene of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Indianapolis.

During the last 12 months savings invested in these thrift and home-financing institutions increased from $23,780,850 to $33,763,420 or $9,982,570. Such savings are fully protected up to $5,000 for each investor by the insurance corporation, a $115,000,000 federal government instrumentality.

In the same period, from September 30, 1937, to October 1, 1938, loans made by these associations for construction, purchase, reconditioning and refinancing of Michigan homes rose $7,098,210 from $21,381,760 to $28,479,970.

These associations made 242 loans in September. The growing list of insured institutions in Michigan shows that they are located in the following cities: Adrian, Battle Creek, Birmingham, Buchanan, Charlotte, Coldwater, Dearborn, Detroit, Flint, Grand Rapids, Kalamazoo, Ludington, Midland, Mount Clemens, Muskegon, Niles, Owosso, Plymouth, Pontiac, Royal Oak, Sault Ste. Marie, Wayne, Wyandotte, Bay City, Benton Harbor, Holland, Jackson, Monroe and Port Huron.

NO CHANCE FOR ARGUMENT

A VISITOR ASKED A COLLEGE senior what the building was that they were erecting and was told that it was the College Greenhouse. The visitor replied: "Since when did colleges begin to give seniors a dormitory all to themselves?" Since we have been in business we have always thought that business came where it was invited, and usually stayed as long as it was well treated.

continue with their work while the weather was suitable? The answer would be that the work must be distributed over a long period of time to relieve unemployment. But that does not quite suffice. It is the distribution of the wages, not the work, that furnishes the relief.

Why not let men work when the weather is good and there is plenty of work to do. Let them build up a credit for this work on the WPA books. Then, if necessary, distribute those wages in the following period at a time when the weather may be stormy and bad. We think this makes sense. Surely neither the WPA workers nor the taxpayers benefit by carrying on projects when weather is bad. Cement work, which has played such a large part in WPA construction, is hindered by cold weather. Cold weather is coming . . . or, at least it always has come in Michigan.—Schuyler Marshall in The Clinton County Republican-News.

POLITICAL "BONERS."

In our opinion it is particularly unfortunate that Republicans should select this particular time to perpetrate so many ugly "boners" in so short a space of time.

We sincerely believe that a change is needed at Lansing. Mr. Murphy has many qualities which can be praised but most of his "beautiful" idealism has been nullified by inept handling of state finances and toleration of organized lawlessness. Michigan has never plunged so deeply into the red and, according to State Treasurer Fry, himself, the Fitzgerald administration ended in the black. Michigan has never before tolerated organized lawlessness and the wanton destruction of property.

It would be useless to attempt to deny that Mr. Fitzgerald is politically open to plenty of criticism. However, he does have an excellent grasp of state affairs and has demonstrated his ability as a capable manager. Those are two qualities which deserve plenty of consideration at this time.

There is great dissatisfaction with Mr. Murphy's regime. Still, several of the big-wigs among the Republican leaders are making it mighty unpleasant to go along with them.—Dick Cook in The Hastings Banner.
