

Over Half Million Dollars "High-Jacked" Out of Pay Envelopes Of State Employees For Politics

Need For Tightening Up New Civil Service Law Revealed By Inquiry Into Its Administration

(By ELTON R. EATON)

The votes of the vast majority of the good people of Michigan cannot be purchased with money. That was proven by the results of the recent state election. If they could be bought, there would not have been a single Republican elected in Michigan last fall.

During the last year or so, newspaper readers have now and then read something about reported "two percent" levies being made on the salaries of state employees. Each month, so the story went, every state employee had to cash his or her check and immediately pay into various "flower funds" or "organizations" a portion of the money they had been paid by the taxpayers of Michigan for services given.

Last week sworn testimony to the truth of these charges was brought out during the course of the inquiry into civil service affairs in the state. Witnesses frankly admitted that they were compelled to pay this two percent levy "or else."

The state payroll for the year 1938 amounted to something like $26,000,000. Using these round figures for a basis of computation, it means that there was taken out of the pockets of the state employees for political purposes over HALF A MILLION DOLLARS!

Of course every one did not pay that two percent levy. But some paid much more than two percent. In fact, one poorly paid clerk who received just a little over $1000 per year for her work, was

Not A Single Person In Plymouth Forgotten During Holidays According To Christmas Report

Chairman Arno Thompson Reveals Interesting Data Pertaining To Good That Was Done

Plymouth "has a heart" and a big one, too, there is no question about that.

All you have to do to verify this statement is to read the splendid, comprehensive report just made by Arno Thompson, general chairman of the Christmas Aid Committee, and make plans to see that not a single person was FORGOTTEN in this city during the recent holiday period.

The report, which has been filed with members of the committee, is such an excellent one and points out so clearly the good work that was done. The Plymouth Mail is publishing it in full, as follows:

Plymouth Civic Committee
I beg to submit the following report of the activities of the Christmas Festival committee for 1938 of which your body appointed me general chairman.

An executive committee of seven was appointed to work in conjunction with the general chairman and these seven in executive session appointed eight sub-committees to handle and supervise various phases of the work. A plan of organization was submitted to and adopted by the executive committee and typewritten copies of this plan were given to each of the committee of the whole. By this plan every member of the committee knew, in detail, and in advance, what his or her duties were and when to begin operation. A copy of this plan is attached to and made a part of this report.

In operation no difficulties were encountered in the carrying out of this plan and the close cooperation and sympathetic attitude of each member of the various sub-committees and of the executive committee, to the successful carrying out of the plan in detail, made the work of the Christmas Festival comparatively easy to function and high in efficiency and results. Itemized reports of the food, clothing and toy committees are attached, but I believe a few general observations of the work of all the sub-committees will be of interest to the Civic committee.

Food committee. Mrs. George Chute, contact officer and Mrs. Ward Henderson, chairman, did very excellent duty on this committee, getting a large quantity of canned fruit and vegetables, staple packaged goods, apples and potatoes donated to them and purchasing the remainder needed from 17 Plymouth merchants at exceptionally economical prices. In filling the baskets, each family, the number in the family, adults and children of various ages, as shown by the card, were considered separately and food of different types and quantity applicable to that family was allotted.

When the purchased foods were delivered to the packing room, each lot was placed separately in allotted spaces and in making up the baskets, the heaviest commodities were placed first in the baskets followed in succession by lighter articles until at the end of the line the filled baskets were ready for the routing and delivery committee.

Clothing committee, Mrs. O. F. Beyer, contact officer, and Mrs. William Pettigill, chairman, had a very difficult assignment and accomplished it in a very commendable manner.

New clothing donated by individuals, the Red Cross, the Women's clubs and the Needlework Guild and used clothing collected by the police and Excelsior Service men had to be sorted by sizes, wrapped and assigned

Work Advances On City Planning

The city planning commission in a meeting Monday night made progress in the preparation of the city zoning ordinance by filing over and clarifying several points of the prospective ruling.

A special meeting has been called for February 13, at which time it is planned to continue study of the ordinance and ironing out of details. Study of the proposed ordinance probably will occupy two or three more meetings before a completed draft of the ordinance can be made out.

After that there will be ample opportunity at public hearings for any interested residents of the city to examine the proposed ordinance, make objections or suggestions and be sure that they will be satisfied with the results of the proposed legislation when it is enacted by the city commission in final form.

Frazer Smith Is Dead At 76

Over-exertion while shoveling snow out of the driveway to the garage at his home was blamed for the death of Frazer Smith, 76 years old, who fell dead while trying to clear the way for his automobile about 8:00 p.m. Monday.

He was assisted by neighbors with whom he had been attending a church dinner. Mr. Smith was widely known as a veteran resident of Plymouth and a former rural mail carrier for about 30 years. He had been retired many years.

Funeral services were to be held at 2:00 p.m. Thursday at the Schrader Funeral home with the Rev. Walter Nichol in charge. Burial was to be in Union cemetery, Livonia township.

Successful Career Comes To An End

COL. IRA DUANE HOUGH

Plymouth residents who knew Colonel Ira Duane Hough, prominent Western Union official and war veteran, many years ago when he resided in this city, were surprised at the news of his death that was published in The Mail last week. While it has been many years since he resided here, his old friends had kept informed as to his successful career during the past 30 or 40 years. Besides his many friends made during his residence in this city, a sister, Mrs. Henry Wright, of Plymouth, and other relatives survive.

World war veterans and members of the Masonic lodge conducted funeral services at his late home in Brooklyn, New York.

Women Hear A Talk On Glass

The Woman's Club of Plymouth held one of its largest meetings, Friday, January 20. It was guest day and there were over 125 women present.

The prevailing atmosphere was one of an era of long ago. There was a coverlet on the wall, a variety of pressed glass, which was by members of the club, as well as a display of glass brought by Mrs. Clarence W. Hubbell, of Milford, speaker of the day. A little double drop leaf table, holding an old milk glass bowl filled with snapdragons, was placed next to an old Windsor rocker with hooked rug on the floor.

Mrs. William A. Otwell, in charge of the program, opened it with Mrs. James Sessions singing, "Darling Nelly Gray," accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Hubbell after which Mrs. Hubbell was introduced. She was attired in a beautiful red taffeta gown with lace collar of the vintage of long ago, and was most charming individual both in manner and speech. Half of her talk was devoted to old glass, telling how it was made in the very old days of Sandwich and Pressed glass. Wooden moulds were necessary in the making of pressed glass which required a great deal of time inasmuch as the moulds were all hand carved. She then explained some of the intricacies of blowing glass, how bottles, for instance, were shaped and formed and the number of men required to blow one single piece of glass. She also explained how the beautiful colors were obtained and how the various patterns in pressed glass originated.

The latter part of Mrs. Hubbell's talk was relative to hooked rugs and her first hooked rug was among those on display. She recommended using a regular old fashioned hook and material, preferably wool, for the making of these rugs. It was most amusing to hear of Mrs. Hubbell's ways and means of procuring material for the making of her rugs, one of them being to belong to the "rag picker's union."

She closed her talk with a poem most fitting to the latter part of the program.

The afternoon was brought to a close with a delightful old fashioned tea, the same being served by the committee of the day under the direction of Mrs. Seth Virgo, with Mrs. James Gallimore pouring.

Paul Nash Plans To Open New Subdivision

Paul Nash, of Jener Place, announced yesterday that plans had been completed for the opening of his new subdivision. Complete information about the subdivision will be found in an advertisement elsewhere in this paper.

Use Of Gambling Devices In City Ordered Halted By Police; 20 Merchants Get Warning

High Winds Menace Church Window

High winds swept Plymouth Sunday to the extent that several church windows were threatened for a period. However, no actual damage was reported.

The colored bay window of St. Peter's Evangelical Lutheran church was shaken so badly by the wind that braces were erected to make sure that it would not be blown in.

Harold Coolman also put up braces to prevent blowing in of the large show-windows of his filling station.

At about the same time the winds gathered greater momentum in Detroit, crashed in a large plate glass window of Crowley, Milner and company and made several other panes billow dangerously.

Two Teachers Are Appointed In City Schools

Will Teach Shop, Drawing and Music

Appointments of two new teachers to the faculty of the Plymouth public schools were announced this week by George A. Smith, superintendent of schools, following approval of the selections by the board of education.

The two teachers will take over their duties January 30 at the start of the second semester of the school year.

They are Ray P. Clave and Miss Martha Light. Both were graduated in December from the Michigan State Normal college at Ypsilanti.

Mr. Clave, whose home is at Grosse Pointe Farms, will give instruction in shop work. Miss Light, of St. Johns, will serve as assistant to Miss Dora Gallimore, the music department and Miss Evelyn Fry in the art department.

"The position which Miss Light will fill, that of teaching music and drawing in the first four grades, was discontinued in 1933 because of lack of funds for the work," Mr. Smith said.

"Restoration of the position will mean added opportunities for study in music and drawing not only on the part of pupils in the lower grades but through additional classes in the high school which will be made possible because Miss Gallimore and Miss Fry will have more time to give to the advanced work."

All of the grade pupils now will have instruction two days a week in music and two days a week in art, Mr. Smith said. Only one day's instruction was possible with the former staff limitations, he pointed out.

Red Cross Holds Annual Clinics

The Red Cross committee announces that more than the previous year, Plymouth has shown their faith and goodwill in Red Cross work. Their memberships combined with many fine donations to the work of the local committee make it possible for Plymouth to again hold its regular baby clinic.

The first clinic session was held on Wednesday, January 18 at the Central high school. The baby clinic will continue to meet at the same place, the second Wednesday of every month at 10:00 o'clock a.m. until further notice.

Mushroom Growth Of Operations Noted In Plymouth

Merchants operating gambling devices in connection with their businesses in Plymouth were warned by the police department this week to have the machines taken out immediately.

"Since the first of the year," Police Chief Vaughan Smith said, "there has been a mushroom growth in the operation of small gambling devices, including dice games and baffle boards. Distributors of these instruments probably were taking their cue from other sections near Detroit where gambling has been flourishing on a large scale."

"We have not had that worry here, but the small devices, none of them costing more than a penny, which suddenly appeared in a large number of business establishments in Plymouth."

A police canvass revealed that more than 20 business establishments had gambling devices on their counters or floors, Chief Smith said.

The police department mailed letters to each merchant warning them to take immediate action to rid their places of the devices or face the consequences of operating gambling devices in violation of state and local laws.

No slot machines were found within the city, he added. However, a curb became necessary when the use of the devices in many stores began spreading rapidly to other places, most of them reputable, he pointed out.

There have been a few complaints made against the appearance of the gambling devices, Chief Smith said, but the police department already had been preparing to take action.

He said that to his knowledge no school children had been involved in use of the devices.

"But this is one of the things we must guard against, and the only way to do it is to see that the gambling devices are not permitted to operate in the city of Plymouth," he asserted.

He added that a check-up would be made of the places known to have gambling devices in operation and that police action would be taken if the department's orders were not carried out.

Federal Savings To Canvass Town

The board of directors of the Plymouth Federal Savings and Loan association was successful in securing the services of one of the best advertising agencies available to make a complete canvass of Plymouth to inform local residents of the complete services available at the association offices.

The campaign should better acquaint local people with the facilities now available to everyone. The Add-O-Bank company who will make the canvass offers an unusual but handy household bank as a means of accumulating his savings for purchasing a home or for other useful purposes.

The increasing need for a modernized home provides the local association with a continuous demand for conservative first mortgage loans on real estate in Plymouth and vicinity.

The $5,000 federal insurance now given to each investor by the local association, together with the ability to pay three percent on savings of its members, has made it possible for Plymouth to have one of the best Federal Savings and Loan associations in the country.

At the annual meeting of the Plymouth Federal Savings and Loan association the present board of directors was unanimously elected to succeed themselves. At the directors' meeting, which followed the annual meeting, the advertising campaign was discussed by the directors and it was anticipated that 1939 would be an even better year than 1938 for the growth of new accounts. In 1938 the association had the largest increase in new accounts that had been experienced since the date of its organization in 1918.

C. A. L. HAS SONG PROGRAM SATURDAY

Plymouth Corners Society, Children of the American Revolution, met at the home of Marjory Merriam, Coventry Gardens, at 10:00 a.m. Saturday. The program in charge of Jane Holden was an old patriotic song. Each member had a part in the program. Winfield Holden played several of the songs on his trumpet. After the program, Mrs. Merriam served luncheon to the group and its guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell Moon were in Detroit Monday to attend the funeral of Mr. Moon's son, Mrs. C. A. L. The funeral was held Saturday night at the home of Mrs. Moon.

To Direct Banquet Plans

FRED D. SCHRADER
Chairman

GEORGE A. SMITH

CHARLES RATHBURN

Preliminary plans were made this week for Plymouth's all-Michigan Lincoln Day Charity banquet to be held some time during the middle of February, probably the last part of the second week or early part of the third week of the month.

Fred D. Schrader will, this year, act as general chairman of the executive committee. He will be assisted by George A. Smith, Charles Rathburn and E. R. Eaton.

Other committees will be selected in a few days. It is the plan to serve a menu of all Michigan products as was done last year. There will probably be some slight change in the menu, with hot biscuits and maple syrup providing the "dessert" for the banquet.

Speakers have not yet been secured, but they will probably be announced next week.

Harry Hastings Will Speak Here

Harry A. Hastings, official photographer for the Department of Conservation will be the guest of the Western Wayne County Conservation association at their next meeting, Monday, February 6 at the Hotel Mayflower. Mr. Hastings will show six reels of wild life pictures that he has taken in Michigan and club members are looking forward to a very interesting meeting.

The club will not request young pheasants for spring planting from the conservation department this year it was decided yesterday in view of the fact that birds in this section are increasing each year. The department favors planting only where birds are definitely on the decrease.

Officials of the club announced that 15 pounds of feed had been purchased during the last week and given to farmers who had notified them that birds were in need of feed on their lands. The club is anxious to cooperate with anyone who knows of conditions where feed is necessary and a call to any of the members or officers will bring free feed for the birds.

80 Youngsters Attend Old-Time Ford Dance

Put in Practice Instruction Offered in Schools

Forty boys and 40 girls who have been attending classes in early American dancing were scheduled to attend a party at Lovett hall, in Greenfield village, last night (Thursday) at which pupils from several other schools in this vicinity were to be in attendance.

An old-time orchestra was to furnish the tunes for the old-fashioned dances. About 300 were expected to attend as the guests of Henry Ford. For the girls the affair was to be a special event, as all the young ladies were to attend in formal dresses.

The 80 Plymouth youngsters who were to attend the dance have been taking instruction in the early American dancing, dear to the heart of Mr. Ford, for about 10 weeks.

Mr. Ford provides both instructors and musical accompaniment for the instruction. The classes are held in three hourly periods from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. each Thursday.

B. B. Lovett, who introduced instruction of early American dancing to youngsters of Southern Michigan for Mr. Ford, has superintended the instruction at the Plymouth schools or has sent an assistant to take care of the lessons. Mr. Lovett is associated with the Ford Educational department.

Among faculty members who intended to attend the dance last night with the Plymouth school children were Mr. and Mrs. D. Kinsley Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Evans, Mr. and Mrs. Don Sutherland and Miss Dora Gallimore and Gerald Hondorp. Mrs. Miller, instructor in physical education, was in charge of the arrangements.

Mr. Ford not only provided the orchestra, the place and refreshments, Ford buses called for the dancers, took them to the dance hall and returned them afterwards. Previous to the dance the youngsters were to make a tour of Lovett hall.

The classes in early American dancing provided by Mr. Ford are for pupils from the ninth through the twelfth grades. The classes will be continued in the second semester of the school year, starting January 30.

The classes are devoted largely to square dances, waltzes and other forms of social dancing with emphasis on ballroom etiquette. The party last night was attended largely as an opportunity both for the students to show what they have learned in dancing and to put their lessons in ballroom and social etiquette into practice.

Kiwanians Will Entertain Ladies

Kiwanians will hold a ladies' night party next Tuesday evening at the Hotel Mayflower. The affair will be in the direction of Kiwanian George Haas, who will have as his guests that evening many of the first Kiwanians in Detroit and other high Kiwanian notables.

Dinner will be served in the Crystal dining room at 6:30 p.m. and will be followed by a presentation program which it is understood, will present some of the best entertainers in Detroit to those in attendance.

Captain Elwin Alder of the Salvation Army was the speaker at the meeting Tuesday night and he entertained members present with vivid descriptions of an aerial tour he participated in, early this month. Captain Alder had many interesting moving pictures of the flight taken to Florida where over 2000 planes gathered to officially open the Florida air races. Captain Alder stated that there were over 250 planes from Michigan that participated in the event.

Flint Contractor Builds For Lorenz

Construction is under way on the new building for the D. & C. store on the Lorenz property at the corner of Main street and Ann Arbor Trail. The Morgan Construction company of Flint, Michigan was awarded the general contract and it is anticipated that the store will be open for business in its new location by the first of April.

Excavations for the basement and foundations will be completed this week and it is hoped that concrete can be poured beginning next Monday. The store will have a full basement and will be 100 feet by 40 feet.

The management of the D. & C. store has announced this week that all new fixtures are now under construction for the store and that a complete new line of merchandise will be moved to Plymouth when the store opens.

Quilt Exhibit Wednesday, Feb. 15

The ladies of division No. 3 of the Presbyterian church are holding a quilt exhibit and luncheon Wednesday noon, February 15. The affair is under the direction of Mrs. Vaughan E. Smith and the ladies will have as their guest that day Miss Edith B. Crumb of the Detroit News.

Plymouth to Fight for Slash Equitable With Other Cities

City Manager Clarence Elliott, who made a trip to Lansing last week on the orders of the city commission to find out what the Public Utilities Commission was talking about when it said that Plymouth would share in lower telephone rates set up under a zoning system for the Detroit metropolitan area, said this week that he had learned that the savings to Plymouth subscribers would have totaled an estimated $5,000 total about $1,200 a year.

Protests made originally against phone rates by the city manager as the agent of the city commission had demanded a much more drastic reduction. If the protests had been heeded as the city commission desired, Mr. Elliott said, the savings would have totaled an estimated $5,000 to $7,000.

He was promised by the utilities commission, he said, that he would be provided with information within a week or two as to what savings would result if Plymouth were placed on a zone basis, in the same category with Birmingham, Farmington and Wayne, which are on a comparable basis from Detroit with Plymouth.

Mr. Elliott said that the telephone engineer told him that Plymouth originally was placed on a zone basis with the other communities but that the Public Utilities commission had taken it off on the theory that the volume of telephone calls from Plymouth to Detroit was not as large as that from Farmington, Birmingham and Wayne and that the zone basis for Plymouth was not warranted.

The utility commission stated, however, that the schedule always was open to protest and change, if considered meritable. Elliott predicted that the city commission would make a formal protest as soon as possible and demand parity with Birmingham, Farmington and Wayne in the rates to Detroit and bordering areas in the metropolitan district.

The rates will range from 10 cents to 25 cents for a five-minute call to Detroit, depending on the distance to the various zones which will be set up on an exchange basis.

This would mean that a call from Plymouth to a near point in Detroit would cost 10 cents, the next zone 15 cents. Calls to downtown Detroit would remain unchanged, at 20 cents. But calls to the zone on the other side of the downtown area would cost 25 cents, five cents more than at present.

The contemplated setup, Plymouth residents and business men feel, leaves Plymouth out in the cold as far as equitable reductions in telephone rates is concerned.

Original demands of the city commission would have made the rates considerably lower than is in prospect, with the assurance that rates on calls to downtown Detroit would be lowered. It is anticipated that the city commission will renew the demands for more equitable rates.

Not Single Person Forgotten

to the individual indicated on the case card. The balance not secured through donations was purchased from Plymouth merchants at very reasonable prices. Case cards were used at the time of purchase and the merchant wrapped up each bundle placing the case number thereon so that upon delivery these packages fell directly into their assigned numbered space.

Toy committee, Henry Fisher, contact officer, and Mrs. S. Dube, chairman, also had a very difficult job, but accomplished it exceedingly well. This committee, also, working from case cards, giving complete details of children's ages and sex, sorted out toys to fit the individual child, packaged and wrapped them by case number. These packages then fell into their assigned numbered space along with food and clothing ready for the routing and delivery committee.

Carol committee, Mrs. George Strasen, contact officer, and Richard Chilson, chairman, carried out their part of the Festival by arranging and carrying out successfully a program of Christmas carols in Kellogg park and later breaking up into smaller groups of carolers and cheering a large number of shut-ins, sick and aged people in their homes. Miss Hanna Strasen of this committee was especially kind and thoughtful of the shut-ins.

Aged people committee, Mrs. Elton Eaton, contact officer, and Mrs. John McLaren, chairman, accomplished a very tactful and understanding job of contacting and interviewing the Old Age pensioners, mothers' pensioners and aged shut-ins and allotting to them food, clothing, fruit or a plant as their needs required to provide them a Christmas remembrance.

Finance committee, Floyd Eckles, contact officer, and Frank Burrows, chairman, as it happened fell into a very easy assignment, as the newly formed Old Newsboys and Goodfellows association held their paper sale and provided the committee with ample finances. But in this connection, I wish to call attention to the fact that this committee was standing by and had the Goodfellows failed, theirs would have been a difficult job at the last moment to raise the necessary funds to pay for what had already been contracted for. But keeping in constant touch with the general chairman this committee was ready and we know would have accomplished their task.

File committee, Mrs. George Strasen, chairman and investigator, made an especially fine record on this assignment, her knowledge of the families and children on the list working to the best advantage both to the recipients and the Christmas committee. Through her hard work, long hours and unflinching cheerfulness on the job, we believe no deserving family or child was overlooked or lacked what was needed and none who were unworthy or unneeded were allowed to take advantage of the generosity of Plymouth.

Delivery committee, Harry Mummy, chairman and Harry Brown. To this committee was assigned the task of laying out in routes, the baskets and bundles they were to carry through the courtesy of the Beals Post of the American Legion a truck manned by Legionnaires, and through the courtesy of the city of Plymouth a truck manned by city officials, employees and Ex-Service men, which began distribution at 10:00 a.m. on December 24. The trucks made two trips each and the last trip left the city hall at 2:00 p.m. Due to the committee's knowledge of the city and surrounding country, routes were laid out so efficiently that deliveries were made with a minimum of miles covered and time consumed with the result that this job was finished at 4:00 p.m.

In concluding this part of the report we wish to call attention to the dress campaign, sponsored by the Child Study club, under the direction of Mrs. Joseph Witwer, a member of the clothing committee. Their accomplishment can best be visualized by a comparison of the Detroit dress campaign for the Goodfellows. The Detroit committee secured only .01 dress per capita while Plymouth secured .05 dress per capita of population.

We wish, too, to especially mention the help given the committee by Miss Ruth Hadley, in charge of the Youth Movement, by the Boy Scouts of Plymouth in toy collection and through the Girl Scouts for toy collection and repair, the primary classes of the Presbyterian church for toys, the city of Plymouth and city officials and employees for their assistance and for the use of the city hall.

A great amount of food and clothing and many toys were contributed to the committee by many citizens and organizations who did not wish to make their names known. To all these the Christmas committee extends thanks.

Martin Strasen Marries Detroit

Elsie Gerick, daughter of August Gerick, of Detroit, spoke her marriage vows to Martin Strasen, son of Rev. and Mrs. Charles Strasen, of this city, at 4:30 p.m. Saturday, January 21, in St. Paul's Lutheran church in Northville. The chancel of which was decorated with palms and lighted tapers. The Rev. Strasen, father of the bridegroom, performed the ceremony after briefly speaking on the text used by his father-in-law at his own wedding 50 years ago.

The Bridal March from Lohengrin and Mendelssohn's Wedding March was played by Hanna Strasen, sister of the bridegroom. The bride, who came in on the arm of her brother, Paul Gerick, wore a wedding gown of royal colored moire taffeta, made in princess style, with a taria of the same material, covered by a fine mesh rose colored veil falling to her shoulders. She carried a bouquet of white Killarney roses with stavia.

Rosalie Gerick, a sister of the bride, was maid of honor and carried a bouquet of gardenias and bride made in princess style also and a corsage of deep pink briar-cliffie rosebuds.

Theodore Strasen was his brother's only attendant. The ushers were Edward Drows, of Plymouth, and Robert Smith, of Detroit.

A reception was held in the ladies' parlor of the Presbyterian church in Plymouth, followed by a wedding luncheon in the dining room of the church, covers being laid for about 60 guests. The bridal table was centered with a beautiful four-tiered wedding cake, topped by a miniature bride and bridegroom and flanked by five branched candelabra with tall lighted ivory tapers and bowls of yellow daffodils and pink roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Strasen left immediately on a motor trip to Florida, where they will remain for several weeks. Mrs. Strasen chose for traveling a dress of teal blue crepe with which she wore black accessories. Later they will be at home in the Kenter apartments on Mill street.

The young couple have the best wishes of a host of friends in and around Plymouth for a long, happy wedded life.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick M. Hull of Ann Arbor were guests of Anna McGill and brother, George McGill, Sunday.

Over Half Million Dollars "High-Jacked" Out of Pay Envelopes

required to pay something like $78.00 into the campaign fund during the year.
Mind you, this HALF MILLION dollars came out of the pockets of state employees, most of them under civil service protection.
One witness testified that she was told that it would be "just too bad" for those who did not pay the assessment.
How much additional money was used during the campaign no one will ever know. Some of these employees who were forced to contribute to the state campaign fund, were also required to pay into county and local campaign funds.

Notwithstanding the deluge during the campaign of tainted dollars extracted from thousands who had to make personal sacrifices in order to make the payments, Michigan voters marched to the polls and registered their emphatic disapproval of it all.
What the good people of Michigan did last fall was the most heartening thing that has happened in Michigan in many a decade. It meant that the people would not sell their votes, no matter what party might be trying to buy them. It meant that the voters wanted their tax dollars used for legitimate purposes and not for corrupting elections, and that the HALF MILLION dollars taken from the pockets of the frightened state employees didn't influence the voters in the least.

Not only were state employees compelled to contribute this vast sum of money, but each one was forced to write two or three letters to their friends and acquaintances in behalf of the former governor and his associate officials. These employees were not apparently trusted by their superiors. After they had written the letters and addressed the envelopes, they were compelled to bring the letters back to the offices of the state officials, who PERSONALLY saw to it that they were mailed. Yes, this was in addition to the cash contributions that they were compelled to make.

There is no disputing the fact that there are certain influences which would like to break down the civil service law. THAT WILL NOT HAPPEN! Michigan has made a start under civil service. It is going to be IMPROVED, not ruined. The story of its maltreatment by the last administration will probably never be fully told, it is so long, so putrid and so vicious.

A person occupying a fairly responsible position in connection with one of the state institutions was requested last fall to make a contribution to a state political campaign fund. He protested. Finally when told that he had better do so if he was interested in keeping his job, he produced $50 and gave it to the "campaign fund." That night the candidate for re-election to the governorship was to be in that city and he was advised that he should attend the political rally.

"I listened to him talk about honest government and what had been done to bring it about. Every second that he talked I thought of the way I had been forced to make a contribution to his political campaign fund that very day. It was difficult to restrain myself from speaking out," said this state employee to an associate. He had never before been asked to pay a cent into any political fund or required to attend a political rally.

Civil service was intended to make such a thing as this impossible. A witness declared that every employe of the new tuberculosis sanatorium at Gaylord erected during the last two years was selected by a political committee of the county in which is located the sanatorium. That's the sort of "honest" government they talked about last fall.

How much longer the civil service inquiry will continue is not definitely known. It is being conducted for two purposes, to find out what happened under the new law during the last two years and to find out, too, how the law can be changed to prevent such things from happening in the future.

If the people of the state could spend half a day about the governor's office and see the terrific pressure placed upon him for jobs, they would wonder how it would be possible for any individual to physically withstand such a strain as this impose upon him.

Civil service, if permitted to operate entirely free from all political interference, will bring about honesty in state government quicker than any other thing. It will not only bring about honesty, but there is not the slightest question but what it will bring about a higher standard of personnel and be much more satisfactory to the people than the system that has prevailed in recent years.

No one questions the wisdom of permitting the policy—making officials to remain in charge of the various state departments and be free from domination of the civil service department of any other department. If the people are not satisfied with the operations of the liquor commission or of the health department, the Governor should have the authority to make such changes in the executive offices of these departments that will bring about such changes as the public may demand. But when it comes to kicking out all of the employes of the department to bring about a change of policy, that is out of the question and absolutely unnecessary. The civil service law permits a department head at the present time to dismiss an employe who is disloyal to the department or who refuses to do as he is told. So it can be readily seen that civil service does not tie the hands of any official who thinks it best for the state to change the policies under which he operates his department.

It was not until seven or eight years ago when complete turn-overs in state personnel was inaugurated. It reached its height of absurdity during the last administration and AFTER the enactment of the present state civil service law. In fact, the happenings of the last 18 months or so is responsible chiefly for all the complaints about civil service today. A vicious effort was made to load down the state payrolls with relatives, friends and ward heasers so that they might be "protected" in their new jobs under civil service. It is not going to be a difficult task to get rid of them. But it will take time.

The civil service administration is not at fault for what has happened. Administrators of the law have followed the intent of the act to the letter in an effort to protect the people of Michigan. There is no question but the law needs some changing. But these changes can be made for the good of the state and they WILL BE.

Stark school Ladies' Auxiliary held a party in the new school building, Thursday evening, January 26. There were eighteen tables of bridge, bunc and pinocle. Several out-of-town guests were present to help make this party a success. A delicious lunch was served at 11:30.

Mr. Newstead was awakened Sunday morning by Mr. Savage, who informed him that part of his roof had been strewn around the immediate neighborhood. He immediately arose, dressed and awakened his friend, Fred Byrd to help him. Fred thought Bill was joking in order to get him out of bed, but was finally convinced that Bill's story was true. Both men climbed atop the Newstead home in all that wind storm. When they finished, Bill had blown down. At that time Paul Leurch passed and they tried to motion him to put their ladder up so they could descend, but Paul thought they were just waving to him, so he waved, not knowing the predicament in which they were. Finally some children summoned Mrs. Newstead, who came to their rescue, after first enjoying having them where she wanted them. Hope you didn't get too cold, Bill and Fred, and "long may you wave."

Ray Bowser, member of the local school board, received his first ticket in 25 years of driving. He had pulled up to a stop light in the middle of an intersection in Detroit. Seeing no cars coming from either way, Ray decided to make his left turn. The only car in sight was cruising along the curb. After he made the turn, Ray found that the car was a police cruiser and contained two very unsympathetic police officers. This experience separated Ray from eight dollars.

Tuesday evening was a large one for several neighbors on Wayne road. The Lawrence Bohl family borrowed Mr. Bohl's sister's toboggan and invited Mr. and Mrs. A. Ziegler, Mr. and Mrs. F. Schaefer, Mr. and Mrs. J. Gage, Mr. and Mrs. J. Sitarz and Mrs. A. Smith to go with them to Northville. The weather was ideal—a light snow falling continuously and it wasn't too cold. The guests all returned to the Ziegler home for coffee and hamburgers. Ray was tired but happy and hoped to go again soon.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Ziegler and son have been enjoying skating and sledding on Mr. and Mrs. L. Bohl's property.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Byrd were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Gage Thursday evening.

We wish to correct an error which appeared in this column last week. The announcement in regard to the "Educational and Travel" movies to be held at the Ladies' Auxiliary hall of Newburg, Friday, January 27. There will be no admission, but a free-will offering will be taken.

Mrs. Swarbrick, president of the local P. A., was put in a very embarrassing position one evening last week. She was selected to take some of the children from her neighborhood to Plymouth to see "Snow White." She stopped at the store for gasoline and bought 50 cents worth. Upon arriving at the theatre, she asked the children for their money and they said they had put it in her purse. While others were standing in line waiting their turn, she counted her pennies and discovered that she had exactly the right amount.

Mr. Joe Richard of Orange-town, who has been ill for the past week, is slowly recovering.

On Saturday evening, February 18, the Ladies' Auxiliary is holding its first dance of the season. It will be at the new school. Wallace Savage was hurt while tobogganing at Cass Benton park Thursday evenings. His companions, Maxine Willard, Dorothy Ebersole and Buddy Westfall brought him home. His mother, a nurse in Detroit, rushed home immediately and the doctor was summoned. He suffered concussion, a slight cerebral hemorrhage and minor injuries. Many friends called to inquire about him. His condition is believed to be better and he can return to school before long.

Wednesday, Audrey Morris and Madelyn Simpson went with Mr. and Mrs. Savage and children tobogganing at Rouge park. They had a good time.

Stark School News Grandfather's Clock (By Virginia Savage) 11 years old

On the stairway is Grandfather's clock, And all it does is tick tock, tick tock, And as that hand goes around and around, Down the stairway I go down, And as I stand and stare all I see

Up there is Grandfather's clock Going tick tock, tick tock. My, but it's a pretty sound As that hand goes around and around And as I stand and see that clock It's fun to hear it go tick tock, tick tock.

Stark School Court (By Shirley Lutermoser) At noon, January 20, the children were playing quite roughly on the school hill. They came in only to find sledging rules all made out for them by Mr. Groves and his pupils.

After having made the rules the children and the teacher, Mr. Groves, decided to have a court. The officers are as follows: Judge, Thomas Roberts; secretary, Shirley Lutermoser; the jury for the first night, Bruce Wilcox, Leroy Woodard, Mary Cicirelli, Beverly McKinney and Dorothy Bennett. Juries will be chosen each time.

We are to have court sessions once a week on Thursday nights after school. The penalty for disobeying the sledging rules is writing the rules a number of times, depending on how many times the rules were broken and how serious the offense was. The sledging rules are as follows:

1. Don't use a sled without permission.
2. Don't "hop" a sled.
3. Don't walk up the hill on the road.
4. Don't stand on the hill except at the top.
5. Don't pick up the sled in such a fashion that the occupants on the oncoming sled may get jabbed with the runner of the sled that is being picked up.
6. Stay off the hill when a car is near. Don't hitch on cars.
7. In no way interrupt the ride of a person (Unless a car is coming).

Meet The NITE-LITE!
This tiny "night light" for bedrooms and hallways, stairways, etc., brings more convenience than one can imagine—at negligible cost. A little jewel glowing in the dark, it provides just enough illumination to assure safe footing through the room (it is not bright enough to awaken the children) and it plugs into any electrical outlet. You can leave it on all night for about a fifth of a cent. Purchase it at department stores, department stores, hardware stores and electrical dealers. (We do not sell these lamps.) The Detroit Edison Company.
ELECTRICITY IS CHEAP!
The more you use, the lower your bill.

Woman Saves Dog, Its Bite Kills Her

A characteristic and heroic act of kindness to a suffering stray dog four days before Christmas resulted Monday in the death of Mrs. William T. Kronberg, member of one of Dearborn's oldest families. Mrs. Kronberg died Monday night in Henry Ford hospital from hydrophobia, the result of a bite by a stray dog she had rescued from the Rouge river, December 21, after two hours of effort.

Looking out of the window of her home at 3840 North Dearborn road, the afternoon of December 21, Mrs. Kronberg saw the small dog struggling to stay afloat in the river which flows near her home. Seizing an ax and a shovel from the basement, Mrs. Kronberg climbed into a rowboat with the sole idea of rescuing the dog and without any thought of danger.

It took her nearly two hours to cut through the ice in the river so that she could row the boat close enough to the dog to rescue it. She finally was able to reach the piece of ice on which the mongrel was shivering and pulled him into the boat where it sank exhausted.

As she started back toward shore she observed that the dog was intensely cold and picked it up to warm it in her arms. As she clasped the suffering animal close, it bit her slightly on the cheek. She put the dog down and continued to shore intending to take the dog into the house, but he slunk away.

From time to time since that day the dog has reappeared and Mrs. Kronberg had thrown out scraps to feed it. As late as Sunday, it was seen near the Kronberg home, but police have not yet been able to locate the animal.

Mrs. Kronberg paid little attention to the bite, save to dab it with iodine. To inquiries of her husband and two sons, Theodore, 16, and Lawrence, 13, she replied that the dog had scratched her and that it did not amount to anything. However, she suspected her danger, it appeared and had read articles in medical books in the last week or so on the symptoms and course of hydrophobia.

It was not until last Friday that she began to feel ill. At first she told her family it was a touch of the flu, but she became worse, and medical aid was summoned Saturday. On Monday she was taken to Henry Ford hospital

Circuit Court To Hear Local Case

Municipal Judge John S. Dayton ordered Alva Wallace, 29 years old, of Plymouth, bound over to circuit court on charges of felonious assault at his hearing in the city hall Tuesday afternoon. Wallace stood mute at his arraignment.

Judge Dayton set bond at $1,000 over the protests of John Crandall, defense attorney, and ordered Wallace held in the county jail if bond were not provided.

Only two witnesses were called before a motion was made by the state that the defendant be bound over. They were Albert (Bert) Swadling, of 364 Rose street, who signed the complaint, and Albert Lustig, of 185 South Harvey street, a witness. Mr. Swadling testified that Wallace appeared at Swadling's cafe at 333 Main street about 3:30 a.m. Monday and walked into the kitchen, where Mr. Swadling was asleep. Swadling said he then heard loud talking in the cafe and asked Wallace twice to leave.

Wallace became abusive then and struck Swadling over the head with a heavy four-legged stool, knocking him unconscious. Swadling was treated for head injuries by Dr. Kelly.

Mr. Lustig said that he was in the cafe when Wallace entered. Wallace became abusive and boasted that he could "lick anybody in Plymouth," Lustig testified.

Wallace hit Swadling several times with the stool, Lustig said, then ran out of the place. Lustig and Dwight Crouch, a waiter, ran in pursuit of Wallace but couldn't find him, Lustig said.

Wallace was arrested on the street by Night Officers Ira Hawk and Carl Greenley and held on a complaint signed by Swadling. He was taken to the county jail pending the hearing before Judge Dayton.

Assistant Prosecutor John W. Mowatt, of Detroit, who acted for the state in the hearing Monday said that such a case was unusual for Plymouth, where crimes of violence have been rare. He said that it was the first case of felonious assault in Plymouth in four years.

Schedule For Young People Is A Busy One

Take Advantage Of Leadership Here For Their Amusement

Because of the school dance this Friday, there will not be a dance at the city hall. However, there will be a special class in dancing for boys before the dance Saturday night. Mrs. Blake of Detroit will conduct the class of dancing for boys from 11 to 15 years old. The class will be from 7:00 until 7:30 and is free to any boy who is interested. It is hoped that many will avail themselves of the opportunity. Later, a class for girls will be formed.

Roller skating is proving more and more popular with a large number of young people attending both afternoon and evening sessions. These skating parties are given in the Methodist church every Tuesday. In the afternoon from 3:30 to 5:30 the boys and girls from nine to 12 years old may skate; and in the evening from 7:00 to 9:30 boys and girls from 12 to 18 years old have the floor. The skates are furnished, the charge is small and the crowds are large. All young people in Plymouth are invited to attend.

The children who attended the story hours last Saturday in the city hall said they had the best time ever, for the new games for boys and girls made such a big hit! The girls made a doll house and had dolls' clothes and furniture and dolls for it. One girl made and colored a rug for the house and this Saturday the girls will finish the other rooms. The boys, too, had fun for they had fire engines, fire hose and all the other equipment for a fire house to cut out and assemble. Saturday they will build the fire house and will also hear about fire engines from one of the firemen. After the story hour was over, the boys and girls were all taken to the engine room to see the two fire engines belonging to the Plymouth fire department.

These story hours are for all children in Plymouth between the ages of five and 10 years. The children from eight to 10 years come at 9:00 o'clock and the children from five to seven years old at 10:00 o'clock. A varied program is planned and the children have a grand time every Saturday morning in the city hall.

Destroy Old Plates, Kelly Asks Drivers

Harry F. Kelly, secretary of state, cautions all motorists to destroy their old 1938 motor vehicle license plates as soon as they install 1939 plates on their cars. Kelly points out that in some instances criminals have picked up cast off plates for temporary use on their own cars in the committing of a crime. The danger of this possibility grows during the last few days preceding a license plate deadline. With thousands of plates being carelessly thrown away, available to anyone who might want to use them perhaps for only a few hours and thus motorists sometimes unwittingly lend aid to criminals who could equip their cars with discarded but undestroyed 1938 plates.

For the convenience and help to motorists who do not have the facilities to destroy plates, Kelly has instructed all branch offices of the department of state to accept 1938 plates when 1939 plates are purchased. Such plates will be destroyed as a measure of co-operation with police officials throughout the state.

Kiwanians Are Early Risers

When Edwin Schrader and Herman Backhaus, two enthusiastic members of the Plymouth Kiwanis club, got up before 6:00 o'clock Monday morning to drive over to South Lyon to attend the 7:00 o'clock pancake breakfast of the South Lyon club, they were surprised to see nearly every business man in that town up and around.

The mercury was down somewhere near zero and the two Plymouthites were at a loss to understand why so many people should be up and stirring around so long before the time of the meeting, as they had arrived earlier than expected.

Here's the story as they learned during the meeting—Keith Arms, secretary of the club had been requested to call each member at 6:00 o'clock to make sure all would be at the meeting. He asked Mrs. Arms to set the alarm for 6:00 o'clock. The alarm rang at 3:30. Secretary Arms hurried to the telephone and began calling all the Kiwanians in South Lyon without taking the precaution to check the time.

Long before 4:00 o'clock Kiwanians began to gather at the church dining room where the regular meetings are held. It was not until most of them had gathered at the church before it was discovered that they were some three hours ahead of time.

Mrs. Arms, like all good witnesses, doesn't say whether the alarm was set for 3:30 by error or intent. Anyway, South Lyon Kiwanians started the week at a good early hour.

Blake W. Fisher Weds In Ohio

Announcement is made of the marriage of Blake W. Fisher, Plymouth, and Mrs. Florence Fisher, Port Huron, which took place Saturday, January 14, at the home of the officiating clergyman, Rev. R. H. Shank, pastor of the M. E. church of Ferrysburg, Ohio.

Mrs. Fisher, a former Plymouth resident, has been a teacher in the Michigan College of Beauty Culture in Port Huron the last year.

After a trip to Florida, Mr. and Mrs. Fisher will reside in Plymouth.

Savery Funeral Services Today

Funeral services will be held this afternoon at the Consistory cathedral in the Masonic temple in Detroit for Wm. I. Savery, who passed away at his home in that city Tuesday night. Mr. Savery was 65 years of age and was well known in Plymouth, having spent the early days of his youth in this locality.

At the time he was stricken he was head of the 150,000 Masons in Michigan as grand master of the order. He was born in Madison, Virginia, October 24, 1873 and came to this section of Michigan with his parents when a small boy. After completing a law course at the University of Michigan he was admitted to practice in the city of Detroit in 1904 where he has made his home since.

He leaves to mourn his loss besides his many friends, a sister, Mrs. Effie Renwick, who resides on Ann Arbor Trail and a brother, Coda, who resides near South Lyon. Other members of the immediate family living are the widow, Edith, a sister, Mrs. Roy Waterman, of South Lyon, and Ray L. Savery, of Ann Arbor. He was the senior member of the law firm of Savery, McKenzie and Hamilton in Detroit.

State Officers Visit D. of A.

On Friday evening, January 20, at Jewell & Blain hall, the Daughters of America initiated into their order 55 new members. The class was the largest ever to be taken into the organization in Michigan. State officers made their official visit on this occasion to inspect the work done by the Plymouth officers.

Over 200 people were served to a delicious lunch after the initiation, by a committee whose chairman was Mrs. Bertha Soccol, assisted by Mrs. Marie Hartung and Lillian Kierman. Mrs. Irene Broegman was in charge of the table decorations which were very attractive.

State officers present were Agnes Dobronski, state counselor; Hilda Montroff, district deputy No. 2; Mabel Blough, state vice counselor; Stella Webb, junior past state counselor; Lillian Reynolds, state secretary; Olive Jarvis, state conductor; Florence Powers, state warden; Minnie Parison, state good of the order; Evangeline Richards, chairman of orphans; Margaret Gibson, district deputy commander No. 1; and Mamie Levans and Mary Young, national representatives.

Townsend Club Elects Officers

Monday night, January 30, at 8:00 o'clock in the Grange hall the Plymouth Townsend club will choose its officers for the ensuing year. After which a general discussion on various phases of the new club organization program and ways and means of carrying on this important work will take place with everyone invited to participate.

Sees 27 Pheasants In One Flock

Pheasants—not just two or three—but a whole flock of them—as many as 27 at one time—have during the last few mornings landed in the vacant lot on South Main street across from Roy Jewell's plumbing shop, to feed on the weed seeds along the creek bed at that place.

"They have been coming in there for several mornings lately. A few days ago there was a dozen or so, now the flock has increased until I counted 27 Monday morning," said Mr. Jewell yesterday.

"Everybody around here thought the hunters had killed all the pheasants off, but not by the looks of the flock that I saw this week," he said.

But similar reports are not received from all sections about here. Some farmers living west of the city say they haven't seen only one or two pheasants since the hunting season closed.

Hive Installs Its Officers Elect

Plymouth Hive of the Macca-bees installed its officers for the ensuing year Wednesday evening, January 18 before an audience of 75 members and invited guests and are anticipating a very interesting new year with several new members in prospect. After these services were completed a short program was enjoyed followed by the serving of ice cream, cake and coffee.

The following newly elected officers were installed:

Past commander, Ethel Emerson; commander, Arbutus Killingsworth; lieutenant commander, Clara Mummy; R. K., Edna Magraw; chaplain, Jessie Terry; M. at arms, Grace Howard; sergeant, Bessie Sallow; sentinel, Mary Sackett; picket, Elizabeth Smith; first L. of G., Venita McGuire; second L. of G., Angie Blunk; pianist, Thelma Spring.

The next meeting of the Hive will be held February 1 at which time these new officers will preside. The Guards will also meet that same afternoon to practice for their trip to Detroit, and will have their usual potluck supper to which the entire Hive is always invited.

The singers wore their native costumes which were very colorful and were made by the girls of the chorus. Their program consisted of national folk songs and a talk by J. Evanchuk, chairman, about their country and ways of doing things. He said that their Christmas comes a little later than ours, in fact, they have just celebrated it, but that they also celebrate when we do. He also said that he hoped some day that they would have a government similar to ours. No doubt had the weather been more mild a larger number of people would have attended this most interesting program.

"YOUR HUSBAND HAS PNEUMONIA"
(By O. F. Beyer, of Beyer Drugs)

These are terrifying words when pronounced by your family doctor. For pneumonia is no light matter—it takes a fatal toll every year. The slightest infection of cold should be treated instantly as a serious threat against health, against life itself.

Skilled medical care has saved many a life, will continue to save lives where people are wise enough to call the doctor in time. Many a physician has shaken his head over a patient whom he could have saved, if called earlier.

Certain forms of pneumonia respond to serums, other phases require different remedies . . . in either event trust prescriptions only to a pharmacist in whom the public has confidence.

Chair Urges Reti of Reports

Fun Slow To Rep Their Luck

It returns to the department of conservation an annual report on the status of the fur trade with scarcely a month to go before the deadline and to an announcement.

President Champe of the Western Michigan County Wild Life association yesterday declared he hoped hunters in this part of the state would immediately comply with the request of the department and make reports at once, as it all goes to help the department prepare which is of benefit to sports throughout the state.

Although hunters are believed to have been licensed in 1938 approximately 15,000 have sent in their report to date by the same time last year. About 50,000 hunters have reported thus far compared to more than 65,000 at same time a year ago, when approximately 80,000 small game hunters have sent in their reports compared to about 100,000 the same date a year ago.

The law requires that all hunters and their reports by not later than February 15, regardless of whether or not they bagged any game during the previous season. Information on successful hunters is regarded by game wms as important as that obtained on hunters who have good luck.

Reports are now coming in at a rate of about 5,000 a day, of which about 1,000 are from deer hunters, and department workers are hopeful that the mail will increase as the deadline nears. Hunters who fail to send in their reports are liable to prosecution.

Day report cards are now available at the department of conservation headquarters and offices for hunters who have lost their originals.

Close to 5,000 trappers who also are required to report have sent in their cards but this total is also smaller than that recorded for the same date a year ago.

Northville To Sponsor Ball Wed., Feb. 15

Plymouth will have an opportunity to participate in the nation wide "March of Dimes" against infantile paralysis through support of the fifth annual President's Ball to be held in Northville Saturday night, according to Nelson Schrader, chairman of the committee sponsoring the dance.

The Northville high school gym will be filled with good music and dancers, it is expected. Proceeds of the ticket sales will be evenly divided between the King's Daughters and the Warm Springs Foundation for its fight against infantile paralysis.

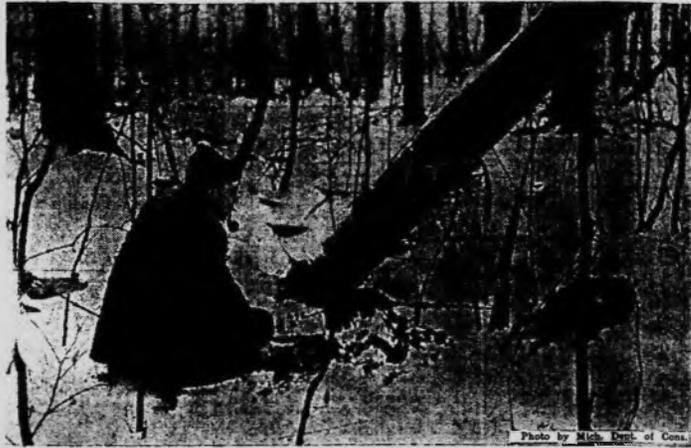

Refreshments will be served by a committee of ladies headed by Mrs. Frederick Hedge. An intermission will afford all in attendance an opportunity to hear President's Roosevelt's broadcast of greeting to the nation. Northville members of the general committee have extended a welcome to all in Plymouth to attend.

Mrs. Kidston, for years, has been interested in seeing to it that the unfortunate in that institution have had as much acceptable reading as possible for her to secure for them. If you will call her, she will see to it that they are collected and delivered to Ypsilanti.

Plymouth In The "Good Old Days"

What do you know about the "good old days" in Plymouth? Following are a few interesting and unusual facts about the city:

Henry Ford once operated a cider mill in Plymouth.

The Greek language was once taught in Plymouth schools.

The Pere Marquette R. R. once ran excursions from Detroit to Plymouth and return.

The Plymouth township board once passed a resolution permitting hogs to run in the highways.

The first anthracite coal used in Plymouth was shipped from Detroit to the consumer in 100-pound sacks.

At one time the only way to obtain a daily newspaper in Plymouth was to meet the trains and buy it off the news butcher.

Plymouth once boasted a brewery which served local and adjacent communities with the favorite beverage.

President William H. Taft once stopped in Plymouth and informed local school children that Plymouth, Massachusetts, was the place where the Puritans landed.

Imbedded within the foundation walls of a house on Main street, erected 40 years ago by a devout Baptist, can be found a bottle of whiskey.

The first home built within the confines of the village was partly constructed of lumber carried by hand and on foot from Detroit, then a village only half as large as Plymouth is today.

Plymouth's first regularly organized bank paid no interest on savings deposits during the first eight years of its existence.

The Plymouth Christian Science church was the first and is now the oldest church building erected by a Christian Science organization in the state of Michigan.

Plymouth once published a newspaper which opposed Abraham Lincoln for president. In fact, during his first campaign, the paper editorially stated that Lincoln would "soon be floating down the saline stream."

The Plymouth township treasurer once had on hand more spurious money than good money. There being no way to dispose of the bad funds, the board finally elected to sell it at public auction. It sold all the way from one cent to fifty-six cents on the dollar. E. J. Penniman, father of Mrs. Kate Allen, bid in some of the wild cat money at one cent on the dollar.

Plymouth residents formerly had their teeth attended to by itinerant dentists. With a kit of what was regarded as the proper tools, these travelers would call from house to house for "teeth to fix." Teeth were sometimes filled with tin. Eventually Plymouth was honored by a resident dentist and thereafter the people let Pelham pull 'em.

Euchre Club After Record

The Canton Center-Cherry Hill Euchre club played its ninth season January 18 with Wagenschultz-R. Waldecker tying the league record of 12 games out of 13. They are now co-holders with J. Shotka and F. Korte, who held the record since 1935. Wagenschultz-R. Waldecker almost whitewashed Freedle-Buckner 12 games to one. Ziegler-Johnson won from F. Hix-Cash eight games to five. F. Waldecker-Thiesen beat C. Finnigan-Elliott seven games to six. The West brothers nosed out Gotta-Blackmore seven to six. Wagenschultz-R. Waldecker and Ziegler-Johnson both have won eight sessions out of nine played and they play together next week.

Save That Poinsettia Plant!

Don't throw that poinsettia plant away! Even though this once gay Christmas plant now resembles a red feather duster and its withered, yellow leaves have all departed from the stalk, it can be saved to bloom year after year with a little care, according to Walter Kleinschmidt, head gardener of the University of Michigan Botanical Gardens.

When the poinsettia drops its foliage, he said, it should be placed in a cool cellar or closet where it can dry out thoroughly and lie dormant for several months. In June or July the plant can be removed from its resting place and after the old soil has been shaken off the roots it should be repotted in fresh, rich soil and in a slightly larger crock.

The plant should then be kept in a warm, light place and given plenty of water, the gardener explained. Poinsettias thrive in a place where the humidity and temperature are both high. It is when the plant is subject to sudden changes, particularly in temperature, that the leaves turn yellow and drop off.

Dondero Tells Of Expenses

(By Congressman G. Dondero)

If the congress approves the complete national defense program now proposed, the appropriations will be by far the largest the nation has ever known in a year of peace. It will amount to $10.50 for every man, woman, and child.

It is proposed to spend $1,336,000,000 for this purpose in the fiscal year 1940; $1,126,000,000 for ordinary army and navy expenditures and $210,000,000 for an additional national defense program.

For purposes of comparison with previous appropriations for national defense, I list those for 1931 to 1939 inclusive:

1931	$ 667,000,000
1932	664,000,000
1933	633,000,000
1934	494,000,000
1935	668,000,000
1936	880,000,000
1937	895,000,000
1938	980,000,000
1939	1,017,000,000

Another phase of our expenditures which is closely akin to national defense is our program of pensions and benefits for war veterans and their dependents. Over the ten-year period, 1931 to 1940 inclusive, the total cost of this phase will exceed nine billion dollars. Annual appropriations for these pensions and benefits have fluctuated from $539,000,000 estimated for the fiscal year 1940 to $2,348,000,000 in 1936.

According to the budget figures just released, our national debt has shown a steady increase from $16,801,000,000 in 1931 to $41,132,000,000 expected by June 30, 1939, with the prediction that it will reach $44,458,000,000 by June 30, 1940. We have had an average annual increase in public debt of approximately $2,828,000,000 over the ten-year period. The greatest increases in our public debt came in 1934 and 1936 with about five and four and a half billion dollars, respectively, being added in those years. This steady increase in national debt has naturally resulted in proportionately increasing interest costs, ranging from $599,000,000 in 1932 to $976,000,000 in 1939. Budget figures now indicate that the interest on the public debt will pass the billion dollar mark, $1,050,000,000, for the fiscal year 1940.

This annual increase in our public debt has been disturbing in view of the fact that during the same years our annual revenues have been much higher in the years 1934-1938 than they were in 1932 and 1933. For instance, our tax revenues in 1938 were more than three times those in 1932 or 1933.

In 1932 our revenues were just over two billion dollars; in 1936, $4,116,000,000; in 1937, $5,294,000,000; and 1938, $6,242,000,000. It is estimated that our revenues for 1939 and 1940 will exceed five and a half billion dollars, an average above 1937 figures.

Over the ten-year period, 1931 to 1940 inclusive, it is estimated that our revenues will total 41 billion dollars and that our expenditures will exceed 68 billion dollars.

Plymouth Rocks Swamped by Panthers 39-11

Plymouth's basketball team topped its fourth game out of the season starts Friday, January 20, following the high scoring River Rouge Panthers on their 39-11.

White helped the score by making nine points worth of field goals and foul shots.

River Rouge held Plymouth defenseless until the last few minutes of the first half when Ross scored in a close shot. The score was 18-0 when Ross started the Plymouth scoring. The Rocks scored no more goals the first half, but River Rouge piled up more points, making the score at the half 30-2 with the Panthers dominating.

Both teams used substitutes at the beginning of the third quarter. River Rouge collected only one point in the third period and six in the fourth. DRAMA STUDENTS ATTEND ANNUAL DRAMATICS FORUM

The third Dramatics Forum sponsored by the Michigan High School Forensic association and the speech department of the University of Michigan was well attended by the Plymouth high school drama class and students from all over the state of Michigan. The lecture given during the first session from 10:00 until 11:00 o'clock dealt with the three basic principles vital to play production, stagecraft, costuming and make-up. These lectures were given by Robert Mellenkamp, James V. Doll and William F. Halstead respectively. The second session from 11:00 to 12:00 o'clock was concerned with other pertinent subjects in the line of drama—Direction and organization by Valentine B. Windt, radio-dramatics by Waldo Abbot, and high school plays by William P. Halstead. The students, in an attempt to get the complete scope of all the lectures, divided into small groups and attended all the various lectures. After a delightful luncheon served at the Michigan Wolverine Cooperative restaurant, the students were shown around the graduate school recently built by an endorsement of Henry Rackham.

The students were fortunate in being permitted to see the matinee performance of "The Petrified Forest" given by the play production and speech department of the University of Michigan. Although the play was not of the type that could be tackled by high school people, the performance was helpful in that it demonstrated a really fine plane of acting. The general consensus of opinion of the Plymouth students was that the day had been used to an advantage and that they felt the play very instrumental in pointing out the way to better acting and better plays.

FACE DEFEAT WITH A SMILE—EDITORIAL

No matter how much money you have, or how well you do you are otherwise, sometime in your life you will have to face defeat. It may be a minor occurrence such as failing to make the football team or failing in an examination, but at the time it is a great catastrophe and reasons just as much will power and courage of you as a major defeat later in life. Since defeat and failure are almost inevitable and unavoidable throughout life, you must try to face them when they come with a smile. It's easy to be gay and smiling when everything is right, but it's another matter to smile when everything's wrong. As Robert V. Service expresses true courage so aptly in his poem, "Carry On."

And so in the strife of the battle of life, It's easy to fight when you're winning; It's easy to slave, and starve, and be brave When the dawn of success is beginning. But the man who can meet despair and defeat With a cheer, there's a man of God's choosing; The man who can fight to Heaven's own height Is the man who can fight when he's losing. When defeat comes your way and gives you a sharp stinging, don't give up in disillusion in an "Oh, what's the use" attitude, but rather laugh in its face even though the laughter is forced and strained. It will make you feel better to know that you are still capable of human emotions. Perhaps you have met defeat with true courage and have passed safely. Perhaps your test is still to come, but whether once or many times, carry on. Hold your head high, set your chin firmly, and march forward with a determined step. If Fate hits you on that set chin and knocks you down, pick yourself up and start again. Above all, don't bow your head in despair and give up. Face defeat with a smile!

I AM FOR THE HONOR ROLL

There is much to be said in defense of the honor roll. While it has its bad points, no institution in history has been without them and this is no exception to the rule. Furthermore, its faults are comparatively insignificant in face of the preponderance of evidence in its favor.

Basically, of course, there is the honor implied by the very title of the system. An honor is a goal to be attained, no matter how slight its reward may seem at first appearance. As Shakespeare says, "If it be a sin to covet honor, I am the most offensive soul alive." All of us are the same way. A goal stimulates effort and enlivens endeavor.

Some would say that the honor roll concerns only the small group which reaches its height, but they have forgotten that the more exclusive an association, the more desirable membership in it becomes. If eighty percent of the student body attained this objective, instead of the fifth that now does, it would no longer be an honor.

Once one makes the honor roll, he gains a reputation of which he is proud, and one which he wants to keep. Addison says it is "better to die ten thousand deaths than to lose your honor."

That the honor roll is an achievement no one can deny. One local father recognized this to such a degree that he gave his daughter a cool five-dollar bill when she finally made it in her sophomore year. Such instances as this should be encouraging to many a mediocre student.

One can readily perceive what a vital and indispensable part of school life the honor roll has become. Without it there would be no way for a student to distinguish himself scholastically, no incentive to study in order to reach the standard set by the plan, no satisfaction of the natural urge to obtain a good name for oneself, and, in short, no reason to study any harder than anyone else. I am for the honor roll.

Found at last! an alibi for the basketball team. Their last game was played on Friday the 13th.

ONE "A" PUPIL DISLIKES HONOR ROLL

The honor roll was established with the intent of promoting student standards and, in this way, promoting student study. It was thought that when the student saw his schoolmate's names on the honor roll, his desire to study would grow to see his name placed beside those of his fellows, or if his name was already there to maintain or better his present marks.

When this practice was established, however, the organizers failed to plan for those students who do their work faithfully, but just aren't quite capable of attaining a "B" average. When this group see their schoolmate's names published in the paper and placed on the bulletin board with honorable mention, they sometimes attempt to attain this honor by copying or cheating. Some plow on through the course, wipe their brows at the end of the year, and breathe a sigh of relief, while others are tempted to stop their education entirely.

These same students could very probably excel in some branch of study for which they possess natural talent, but the honor roll cannot allow for them. It can account for only those who have already found their talents or who are naturally bright in all branches of study.

A good percentage of high school students do their best which is still not good enough to break the honor roll column. Many eminent educators will agree that this person is entitled

Subs Crush Redford Union Once More 20-3

The local high school reserves outpassed, outshot, and outplayed a visiting Redford Union quintet to win their second victory of the season over this team last Tuesday, January 24. So far were the Panthers surpassed that they failed to score even one field goal. The score was 20-3.

The Rocks started out brilliantly, doing the bulk of their offensive work in the first quarter while their foes neglected to crash the scoring column. Gift shots by Wilkie and Holdsworth started the home boys off well, and Johnson added to these with a sweet corner shot, which Wilkie duplicated a moment later. During a dull interim, Holdsworth sank another foul shot. Then Johnson suddenly came to life, whipped in a dog shot, and followed it up with a spectacular shot from the sidelines that caused the crowd to cheer wildly. Butz opened the third quarter by swelling the Blue and White lead to 13 points, sneaking in a shot from a scramble under the basket. Redford Union belatedly tried to make up this deficit when Pepon, guard, and Kowarik, forward, hooped free shots, but Plymouth easily halted this assault. Play, however, became loose and haphazard at this juncture, and continued thus until intermission, which ended with the totals at Plymouth, 13; Redford Union 2.

Basket hooping during the last half continued to be desultory, but the action was much more lively. Owen Gorton, only freshman to represent Plymouth during the game, was the only Rock to tally during the third quarter. Intercepting a pass deep in enemy territory he converted it into a basket, to which he later added a foul shot.

Redford Union's Rose completed the Panther efforts with a free shot early in the final period. The players were tired by this time, and play slowed down considerably, though Robinson dropped in a pair of gift throws for Plymouth. The only other score came when "Sheels" Erdelyi hooped a short shot two seconds before the final whistle.

High scorer for the tilt was Art Johnson, who made six points. Gorton and Wilkie, with three apiece, came next. Redford Union's most vulnerable spot was its passing, which was erratic throughout the contest. In this department the Rocks were noticeably improved.

ROCKS HAND REDFORD UNION 35-12 DEFEAT

Plymouth dealt Redford Union another and more severe defeat in the home gym last Tuesday, January 24, as they trotted off the floor riding the high end of a 35-12 basket shooting match.

The Rocks built up an early lead and led 15-4 at the first quarter's end; Redford was unable to approach within 10 points of this margin during the remainder of the tempestuous struggle. In this first and finest period every man on the Plymouth team scored at least two points. The period's work alone was enough to defeat Redford Union.

Enough passes were bobbled and shots missed in the latter three quarters to suffice for two other complete games.

Only four points were scored for Plymouth in the second period. In the opening seconds Bill McAllister dribbled to the extreme left hand side of the court and fipped in a shot parallel with the basket. Joe Scarpulla duplicated the performance on the right hand side of the court with seconds remaining before the half.

The outstanding factor in Plymouth ball handling proved to be their superior reach. Countless times Birchall, Ross, Baker, Krumm and Smith leaped to steal the rebound shots from the backboard and convert them into a Plymouth score. Birchall's superior jumping at center also provided a Plymouth margin of safety.

As Plymouth defeated Redford Union 33-23 in the first game of the season, it appears that Plymouth has increased its basketball technique to wallop Redford in the return game by such a one-sided score.

Bill McAllister, smallest man on either quintet, paced Plymouth scoring with four field goals. These coupled with six points by Ross, were enough to win the battle, as far as points are concerned.

Two complete teams were used by Coach Jacobs; each of which appeared to overwhelm Redford equally well.

I BELIEVE IN AMERICA

In a topsy-turvy world where dictators glare at us from the pages of magazines and shout at us over the radio; In a world sick with isms and propaganda from pink to scarlet,

I, a plain citizen of these United States, wish to reaffirm my faith in democracy; I believe in America!

America where a humble immigrant boy from Scotland could become a Steel Master;
America where a plain mechanic could become an Industrial Giant;

America where a telegraph operator could become the Genius Who Lighted the World;

America where a lanky, homely lad, born in a log cabin, could become the Leader of a Free People;

America where a man can stretch himself and grow;

America where life is an adventure and the sky is the limit;

America where the sun of inspiration and encouragement shines on men;

America where the individual counts most and human personality is supreme.

I believe in America!

America where a man need defer to no tyrants, be servile to none, and can look the world courageously in the eye;

America where a man can stand on a soap box and say his say without facing a firing squad at dawn;

America where we can laugh out loud at our leaders without being led away to a prison cell;

America where we can sleep in peace without fear of awaking to the cannon roar and marching feet of an invading army!

America where a man can freely worship the God of his fathers or find God in his own way amid the singing-streams and whispering trees of the great outdoors.

I believe in America!

America where our purchasing power is greater than that of the five hundred million people in Europe and larger than that of more than a billion Asiatics;

America where bluebloods and bootblacks, business executives and bums have the same privileges;

America where mechanical slaves help with the work at the press of a button;

America where citizens from playboys to plowboys own automobiles;

America where everybody goes to ball games and eats peanuts;

America where fish poles and golf clubs take the place of swords and guns;

America where the average man is richer and happier than anywhere else on the globe.

I believe in America!

America where we progress through evolution, not revolution;

America where creative thinkers and earnest workers are building a brave new world in which to live;

America where achievement is written in steel and stone and growing things; towering skyscrapers, inspiring cathedrals, gigantic bridges, modern hospitals, beautiful parks, research laboratories and halls of learning;

America where new horizons of opportunity beckon men who possess the pioneering spirit;

America where men may dream great dreams and make those dreams come true;

America where the upward march of man has but begun!

GREAT DAYS.

Days, like men, have destinies good or evil, great or mediocre, which, pregnant with great possibilities for the race, encompass cycles of time.

Such days are February 12 and 22—two days enshrined

JUST THINKIN'

by Charles S. Kinnison.

Conflict

I would not trade my life to be too free of things that bother me. For, I must have some cares, to see the good things that are mine. I would not live that kind of life that kept me out of every strife—Far back behind the line!

And I deserve no kind regard Of any man—or fine reward, If I shall go thru life unscarred—For that would only show That I was one who would not make A valiant fight for any stake, Afraid to take a blow!

For well I know that I'll be struck, When I engage with men of pluck— And I must dare the mire and muck, For every worth-while goal! And tho it smudge my hand and brow, I make myself this solemn vow— It shall not spot my soul!

within the heart of every true American. Not only because they commemorate the birth of two great souls, whose lives are inseparably interwoven with the life of America, but also because they heralded a New Freedom, which was to produce the New Man and the New Civilization.

One can see in the coming of Washington into humanity's ranks, the result of the working of deep world forces which were to find their culmination and expression in the ideal of freedom; and in the coming of Lincoln, one who was to preserve and amplify that which Washington struggled to establish.

Momentous days—February 12 and 22! Days proclaiming the advent of freedom en masse!

Days of gratitude to those who struggled to establish and maintain the new freedom, and gratitude for the privilege of being a pioneer in its realization.

Days of hope for the impoverished, the imprisoned, the despairing—that for them, and for all, the freedom to pursue happiness may become a reality.

Days of reverence for America, the Mother, and the determination to cherish and protect her.

Days of patriotism in which to dwell upon the pricelessness of our birthright.

Days of inspiration to perform our duty as part of the national unity; realizing that as is the individual, so is the nation.

Days of exaltation that the Spiritual Man enables us to visualize the destiny of the new freedom; for which America, for which Washington and Lincoln, were born.

The Finger of Time will forever point, for America and for the world, to February 12 and 22 as great days for mankind.

HIDDEN TAXES.

(Contributed.)

Michigan families paid a grand total of $256,000,000 in hidden taxes on their 1938 retail purchases, the National Consumers Tax Commission estimated in a year-end business survey today.

Retail sales in the state for the old year of $1,674,000,000 slightly higher than the 1937 figure, were estimated in the survey, directed from the commission's headquarters in Chicago.

"More than 15 percent of that amount, or the tremendous sum of $256,000,000 went for hidden taxes," the report said, "those taxes, paid through increased prices on every purchase, averaged $53.04 for every person, or approximately $217 per family.

"Throughout the nation, families in all income groups paid comparative hidden tax amounts. During the year they contributed, for the most part unknowingly, 63 percent of all local, state and national revenues. Every purchase, whether luxury or necessity, was burdened with indirect taxes that forced up retail prices and lowered buying power."

The NCTC, a women's organization waging a "non-political nation-wide crusade against unnecessary taxes that penalize the consumer," made public its report through Mrs. W. R. Alvord, of Highland Park, member of the national committee.

Local groups in more than 2,500 communities across the country already have been organized in its educational campaign, the report said. More than 100 of such groups have been formed in Michigan, it added.

Following the general upward trend, many retail lines in Michigan showed slight increases over 1937 figures, the NCTC survey reported. Despite unseasonable weather which slowed early Christmas sales, department stores, the recognized retail business barometer, reported an indicated two percent increase over the year before, the report stated.

Retail trade throughout the state, the commission said, was favorably influenced by the upswing in the automotive industry last fall. An increase of 50,000 in October employment rolls, as well as similar increases in other months, in the Michigan area, contributed heavily to the final quarter advance.

WELFARE FOLKS GET THE BREAKS

Holding a political job under the late expired state administration may have looked a lot more classy than being a bona-fide participant in welfare relief, but in the final analysis the welfare folks come out ahead, because a two per cent slice out of pay checks every time the boss or some of the other political big shots wanted to buy some flowers or some campaign advertising wasn't conducive to the practice of piling up profitable political perquisites.—Al Weber in the Cheboygan Observer.

AN ARGUMENT FOR CIVIL SERVICE

It is to be hoped that Harry Kelly, the new secretary of state, will push the investigation of an apparent shortage in accounts of the Detroit office until the full facts are known. Until then, it would be out of place to discuss this unfortunate affair except to say that it probably constitutes a good argument for a strong civil service system to replace the outmoded, unreliable political spoils system which is still too much in evidence. Unfortunately, too, is the fact that the name of Leon Case should be dragged into an issue of this sort. Mr. Case ranks with the best of them so far as personal honesty is concerned and we refuse to believe that he knowingly approved of any action which constituted misuse of public funds.—Dick Cook in The Hastings Banner.

EDITOR BERKEY'S VIEWS

The governor regrets that the State is in the liquor business. He favors a plan under which the State would act purely as a clearing house, a tax collecting agency and an enforcing arm. Retail sales he would have made through established retail merchants. Here's where we differ from the governor. We believe that private profit is responsible for a large part of the curse of the liquor business, and we would eliminate all private profit from intoxicants. We are each entitled to have our own views on the matter, but we can't see this alike.—by William Berkey in The Cassopolis Vigilant.

THE COST OF LIQUOR

The head of a Chicago institution engaged in the rehabilitation of liquor addicts has reported that the number of women treated in his institution in 1938 was 90 per cent greater than in 1933. What is more alarming, many of the addicts treated were wives and mothers.

People were fooled by repeal propaganda. They are now learning the cost of repeal; learning that liquor means broken homes, less money for food, more lives lost in highway crashes and more human detritus who beg for cures for the curse of liquor. We were told that repeal would not mean the return of saloons. We were told that no selling campaigns on liquor would be tolerated, that repeal would mean reform. Yet page after page of so-called class magazines are filled with liquor advertising. Most newspapers carry liquor advertising. We are seemingly bent on making a nation of liquor addicts.

The cost of liquor is not just the actual sums spent for whiskey and gin and beer and wine. Included in the cost is

WHAT $2 A DAY MEANS

It is interesting to observe that Dr. Isadore Lubin, Commissioner of Labor Statistics, in his statement opening the monopoly inquiry at Washington, called attention to the 5,200,000 families in the United States, who in 1935-36 had incomes of less than 1,250 a year.

Next, asked the Commissioner, what could these families buy if their income could be raised an average of $2 a day, or about $600 a year? His answer arouses the interest of business men:

With such an increase in income these 5,200,000 families would spend every year: an additional $600,000,000 for food $416,000,000 for clothing, $613,000,000 for housing, $218,000,000 for fuel, light and refrigeration, $224,000,000 for house furnishings, $385,000,000 for transportation, $73,000,000 for personal care, $254,000,000 for recreation and $308,000,000 for medical care.

The stock objection to such an increase is that there would be corresponding increase in costs and that family buying power would remain constant, or nearly so. To answer this comes the objective of industry to produce more goods at lower prices while paying higher wages.

The truth of the matter is that the feat is possible but, just now, nobody seems to have the necessary information upon which to proceed. One of the purposes of the "monopoly" investigation is to secure the data upon which to base positive action, designed to definitely lift the standard of living for Americans.—George Averill in The Birmingham Eccentric.

Why Lenses On Some People and Not On Others

"Doctor, you prescribed lenses for me, but you told my cousin that lenses wouldn't do the work for him and that you had to 're-condition.' Why is that?"

A proper question. Some troubles require re-education of the visual skills, but we find other conditions readily corrected by a lens formula. The secret lies in knowing which is which.

Here, for instance, was a man of 35, who had lived outdoors, and never knew he had a pair of eyes. He had an exceptional mechanical bent and undertook work in a dental laboratory. Within a year, he began encountering intense discomfort. Eye pains were present daily. The "three-o'clock headache" was a regular visitor. He noticed an occasional blur that covered everything he looked at. He then had to stop work until he recovered clear vision. In reading, he had a sensation that the print was moving. In all, he felt he was a pretty sick man!

He wasn't—but you can't expect to come in-doors and bend closely over a bench for hours, doing the most delicate kind of mechanical dentistry, without some re-adaptation of the visual system. He had trained himself in the manual skills of the dental laboratory, but he didn't realize that he ALSO had to train in the visual skills required in his new work. The analysis showed it was a simple matter of prescribing a certain amount of lens power and in three weeks he was right as a trivet,—both comfortable and visually efficient. There was no need to give any orthoptic re-conditioning. The point is, we know when it is needed and when it is not. We don't make "guinea pigs" out of our patients. Some time, we will tell you of the opposite condition, where lenses would have been of little avail at the beginning and orthoptics did just what was needed.
