

Prominent Speakers Secured For Plymouth's Annual Lincoln Day All-Michigan Charity Dinner

Event To Take Place Saturday Evening, February 11 At The Mayflower—Surplus Funds To Aid Needy Children

Saturday evening, February 11 is the date which has been selected for the all-Michigan annual Lincoln day charity dinner to be given by the citizens of Plymouth at the Mayflower hotel. The banquet will start at 7:00 o'clock.

Speakers for the event will be Dr. Eugene B. Elliott, state superintendent of public instruction and John C. Ketcham of Hastings, former congressman, one time master of the Michigan State Grange, state insurance commissioner and at present agricultural counselor in behalf of growers of Michigan products. County Auditor Jack Cowan will also make a brief address.

Attorney Perry Richwine has been selected as toastmaster for the occasion.

Chairman Fred D. Schrader and executive committee members, Charles Rathburn, George A. Smith and E. R. Eaton announce that the complete list of committees for the occasion will be published in next week's issue of The Plymouth Mail.

Meanwhile, in cooperation with Clare Maben, manager of the Mayflower, there is being worked out an excellent all-Michigan menu for the dinner, just like a year ago.

Big Michigan potatoes, produced on the Schrader buffalo ranch will be served hot from the baking ovens. Michigan corn meal will be used in making the corn bread and Michigan produced side pork, with milk gravy, will constitute the menu in addition to hot biscuits made from Michigan flour, served with Michigan maple syrup as the dessert. The corn meal will come from the John S. Haggerty farm. It will be a dinner fit for a king and as substantial as the healthiest wood chopper in Michigan could desire.

The price of the dinner will be 75 cents. The committee hopes that all who purchase tickets will add what they can to the amount so that there will be a goodly sum for the school milk fund.

Superintendent George Smith announces that there is going to be an immediate need for more money to purchase milk for needy children.

Mrs. Edwin Campbell and Mrs. Frank Pierce, presidents of the two parent-teacher organizations of Plymouth, will head the ticket committee. The other members of the ticket committee will be Lisle Alexander of the Plymouth United Savings bank and Jack Taylor of the First National bank. Tickets can be secured at the Mayflower hotel, the office of The Plymouth Mail or from Mrs. Campbell, Mrs. Pierce or any member of the executive committee.

Members of the committee have been delighted to find that there is so much interest in this event which has brought to Plymouth a vast amount of favorable comment throughout the state. The occasion has not only served to advertise Plymouth, but Michigan products as well and it has brought to needy school children the strength giving milk they so badly need.

Legislature Is Asked To Provide Aid For Fathers And Mothers Of School Children; Rich Man On Way Out Of Job

Trace Political Fund Payments Directly Into Office Of Former Governor Frank Murphy

(By ELTON R. EATON)

One of the important bills that the legislature will be called upon to consider during the present session pertains to the question of whether the state of Michigan shall provide the funds to the various districts for the purchase of school books for the children who are in the first to ninth grades.

There are at present some 1,600 school districts in Michigan that purchase school books for the use of the children. In the other 5,000 districts or thereabouts the parents are required to purchase the books.

It is needless to devote much consideration to the hardship this requirement has forced upon thousands of mothers and fathers throughout the state. In our own immediate vicinity the problem of providing school books for children has been practically an impossibility for some parents. As a result the education of the boys and girls has suffered.

The bill that has been introduced by the writer of this article, will serve two purposes. It will not only provide badly needed assistance for the mothers and fathers of school children, but it will lift another load from the shoulders of the real estate taxpayers of Michigan.

In the 1,600 school districts that now provide text books for the students, the money is taken from the general fund of the school district, and a good portion of this money comes from the pockets of the real estate taxpayers.

If the legislature should enact the proposed Eaton bill it will make it possible for every boy and girl to have school books at the opening of the term and it will shift from the shoulders of a group of over-burdened taxpayers another tax load that is becoming increasingly difficult to carry. The state would provide the funds for the school text books in addition to the present school aid act.

Paul Todd, one of Michigan's richest young men who doesn't need a single tax dollar from the people of Michigan but who has indicated that he has such a gnawing greed for "easy" state money that he refuses to give up a state job, is being legislated out of office. It seems that Governor Fitzgerald called Todd over to his office a while back and asked him to cut the expenses of his department something like $45,000 per year. Todd didn't do it. Under the law the Governor cannot fire an appointed commissioner while the legislature is in session. But he can abolish the department and create a new department by changing its name and thereby get rid of the Todd and his kind. Todd has been one of Murphy's right-hand men. He has spent on an average two days out of each month in Lansing, says the Governor and for these 24 days of service during

Discuss Main St. At C. of C. Meeting

Chamber of Commerce members heard a report from Howard Stark Monday on the tabulation of votes regarding action on improving Main street in the near future. Nearly 110 members of the Chamber were mailed cards for them to express their ideas for just what should be done on widening the street and only 51 were returned.

Miss Stoddard stated that 29 members voted in favor of enlarging the street three feet on each side. Eight voted for no parking on Main street from Frack street to Mill street and 14 others sent in various suggestions as to how the matter should be handled.

The chairman of the committee has called a meeting of the members for the latter part of this week to discuss what action should be taken.

Plymouth Woman Is Washington Speaker

Tea at the White House with Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt on Tuesday of last week was the outstanding occasion of Miss Evangeline Purcell's trip to Washington, D. C.

Miss Purcell, sister of Roy Purcell, of North Harvey street, is well-known in Plymouth as the presence speaker, notable representative of peace organizations in many countries, were Carrie Chapman Catt, and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt of the United States; Lady Dorothea Layton, who is the wife of Sir Walter Layton, of England; and M. Louis Delivel of France.

Goodwin Crumbe was home from his visit to the city for the first time in a week.

Dave Galin Says—

"I have tried everything else, even the Detroit News, during the last few weeks and have convinced myself that Plymouth Mail advertising is the best there is for this community, so you may tell your 2900 subscribers that in view of this fact I am increasing the size of my ad to enable me to give them more outstanding meat and grocery specials each week." Dave Galin, proprietor of the Purity Market said today.

Mr. Galin explained that his store had recently joined the A B C group of merchandise buyers and through this affiliation he is able to make great savings on prices which he intends to pass directly to the customers.

The necessity of enlarging his fast growing grocery department became immediate when the new arrangement was made and everything found in the best grocery stores will now be on his shelves. The Purity Market ad will appear on the same page in The Mail as it has during the last 11 years.

Seven Candidates Slated To Run In Spring Primary

Six Men, One Woman File Petitions For City Commission

There are seven candidates who will compete for three commission offices in the city election in April. It was announced late Wednesday afternoon by City Manager Clarence Elliott.

Petitions were filed with the city clerk for George H. Robinson, L. E. Wilson, Mrs. Nell Taylor Curry, F. R. Hoehsel, Henry J. Fisher, Harold C. Anderson and Warren J. Worth.

A primary election in March for the city officers is necessitated by the fact that there are more than 25 years of candidates as officers to be filled. However, the Wayne county primary to nominate a county auditor will also be held on March 6.

Requirements for commission members, as taken from the charter, are: "The commissioner must be 25 years of age, a citizen of the United States, a resident of the city and resident thereof for at least two years prior to his election." Of the candidates who meet these requirements satisfactorily and filed petitions signed by 25 voters, two are up for reelection. They are George H. Robinson, of Maple avenue, retired business man and present commissioner and L. E. Wilson, of Mill street, employee of the Wayne County Road commission, also a present commissioner.

Those who have not previously served on the commission are Nell Taylor Curry, of Penniman avenue, partner in the management of the Plymouth Stamping company and the only woman seeking office; F. R. Hoehsel, of Blunk avenue, engineer for the Wayne County Road commission; Henry J. Fisher, retired business man and former member of the old village commission; Harold C. Anderson, of Joy street, manager of the local Red Indian Oil company agency; and Warren J. Worth, of Ann Arbor Trail, laboratory technician for Wayne County Road commission. The latter two candidates have both been aspirants for the commission in previous elections.

Eckles Heads New Civic Committee

Floyd Eckles was elected chairman of the 1939 Civic Committee at the re-organization meeting Thursday evening in the city hall.

Fourteen representatives of civic groups chose as other members of the new committee Mrs. J. R. Witwer, Mrs. O. F. Beyer, Miss Mildred Stoddard, George Chute and Russell Roe. City Manager C. H. Elliott was the only member re-elected to the group. It was felt that as treasurer, he could better correlate the new program with the old. These people will serve as a general committee, choosing sub-committees for specific projects.

The group will probably follow last year's successful lead and again present a hobby show, field day, sunrise service, Hallowe'en party and Christmas festival.

Arno Thompson made a report on the Christmas activities of the city and the committee members agreed that the most outstanding event in their year's work was the presentation of the Plymouth Goodfellows.

A meeting of the '38 and '39 committees will be held soon in order that the new members may learn the scope of their duties and their responsibility for making as fine a record in civic activities as last year.

Plymouth Joins Ranks Of Class A High Schools

High School's 710 Students Raises Local Rating To Top

Plymouth high school grew from a class B into a class A school with the increase in enrollment this semester, Principal Claude J. Dykhouse announced Wednesday. Fifty-five high school students enrolled for the first time on Monday and Tuesday of this week.

However, the school will not be officially recognized as such until next year's rating is made by the state board.

"We are now one of 65 schools in the state in this class," Dykhouse said, explaining that 700 or more students attending in the upper four grades automatically makes a school a member of class A. Of the schools belonging at present, 38 are located in metropolitan centers such as Detroit, Grand Rapids, Lansing, Saginaw and Flint and only 26 are found in cities comparable in size to Plymouth.

Schools are rated A, B, C and D, according to the enrollment, chiefly for the purpose of arranging athletic games. It is necessary for a school to be definitely classed before students are permitted to compete in state association tournaments or meets.

Superintendent G. A. Smith announced that the enrollment for the entire school jumped from 1876 in the first semester to 1723 for this term. Nine hundred and twenty-two students are registered in the upper six grades, 511 in Central grade and 305 in Starkweather grade school. Bad weather prevented some children from enrolling early this week and Superintendent Smith expects the total enrollment to reach 1750 before the end of the week.

Local Residents Battle Snow Drifts

Huge snow drifts were piled so high over roads and sidewalks last Sunday night that many people were literally "snowed in" Monday morning. According to all reports it was one of the heaviest snows in Plymouth for years. A similar storm occurred in 1934, late in the season but it only lasted a few hours.

City Manager Elliott is to be commended for the work done during the storm. Beginning at 9:00 a.m. and working until midnight on Monday and from early morning Tuesday until noon all the streets were cleared, not only in the business section but in every residential street as well. After shoveling the snow up in high banks along the curbs, it was put on trucks and carried away.

Though car-drivers were well taken care of in the storm, pedestrians had to go through knee-deep drifts before WPA workers came to the rescue. A biting 30-mile-an-hour wind whipped the snow into a mist which made visibility poor and fast travel impossible. About 400 school children, especially those coming from rural districts were absent on Monday because the buses did not run, making a new low in attendance records.

Salvation Army To Welcome Woman Captain

Arrives Here Saturday To Replace Alder

Captain Lamore, one of the first women to be named a leader of the Plymouth Salvation Army, will come here from Cheboygan Saturday to replace Captain Elwin Alder and Lieutenant Gould of the local post. The men left Thursday for their new post in Ypsilanti.

Welcome meetings will be held throughout the day on Sunday to enable the new leader to get acquainted with the members. She will bring no officer as assistant as she plans to lead the work alone.

Captain Alder, who has been in Plymouth for the last 14 months, and Lieutenant Gould, who has been with the group for seven months, received notice from the Detroit office a week ago to go to Ypsilanti. Finishing his work here with a report of the fiscal year, Alder revealed the statistics on the Army's activities for the last five months. Since September 4, 1938, the Plymouth post of the Salvation Army has held 406 character-building classes, attended by 2,169 people; it has held 17 domestic science classes, attended by 108 women; it has held 26 religious meetings on the street with an Army attendance of 242 and 102 indoor meetings attended by 1548.

Much of the Army's work is done in connection with the Detroit House of Correction where they hold an average of seven meetings a month; they have conducted 31 prison meetings since September, attended by 3001. Eight people have been converted during the year.

They also report that they have given relief to 34 families, including 164 persons, and have visited 522 sick and needy. Alder considers the formation of the local Girl Guards the most outstanding accomplishment of the year. Miss Dorothy Eaton, leader of the group, has trained 16 girls in the character-building classes during the year.

The city of Plymouth will receive $6,227.35 in the distribution of the second half Gas and Weight Tax revenues, John F. Breining, vice-chairman of the board of Wayne county road commissioners announced this week.

Of the $2,750,000 to be distributed in the county, Detroit will take 85 percent or $2,283,485.82 in proportion to its population. The remainder will be divided proportionally among the other cities and villages in Wayne county. Plymouth's population which represents one-quarter of one percent of the county, is entitled to one-quarter of one percent of the total tax money or $4,527.45.

According to City Manager Clarence Elliott this is $1500 less than last year when the amount was $7,752.44.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Chappel Saturday evening for cards were Mr. and Mrs. George Tyre, Mr. and Mrs. Neil McMillan, Mr. and Mrs. Warren McMillan, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Blakemore, Mrs. O. F. Beyer, Mrs. J. W. Blakemore, Mrs. Harold Anderson, Mrs. Murray O'Neil and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Gilder.

Phillips Explains Proposed Zoning Ordinance Here

Plan Will Regulate Building In Six City Districts

"Plymouth, as a rapidly growing city, needs a well-planned zoning ordinance to restrict building for industrial and residential sections in the interest of public health and safety," T. Glen Phillips, consultant on zoning for Plymouth said today.

"Zoning is not a panacea for all municipal ills; it is merely a regulation in the interest of the public. It is a companion to building, plumbing and housing codes but does not take their place," he stated. His explanation of the methods to be used, follows:

"The zoning ordinance for the city of Plymouth is drawn with the purpose of stabilizing property values, allowing the city to grow in an orderly manner, and separating residential districts from commercial and industrial. For this purpose it sets apart certain areas for industry and commerce, and establishes residential neighborhoods."

"The city of Plymouth is divided into six types of districts, whose boundaries are shown on the building zone map, while the regulations in force in each are (Continued on Page 2)

Accident Takes Lives Of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Regentik Saturday

Jerry, Otto and Vlady Regentik were orphaned when their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Regentik Sr., who resided on Macumber road were killed in a railroad crash last Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Regentik were driving down Beck road when their car skidded into the path of a Michigan Central passenger train at 10:30 in the morning. Regentik and his wife had become acquainted with a family living near Ecorse and it was on the way to their home that the accident occurred.

Learning of the tragedy, neighbors, Melburn Partridge and his son, Austin, of Territorial road, went to the Whitmore Lake home of Mr. Regentik's sister, Mrs. Eugene a Methodist, and brought her to care for the boys.

From the position of the wreckage and the accounts of the train crew, Police Chief Vaughan R. Smith decided that they were going to their friend's home, when the accident occurred, instead of returning, as was first reported. The wreck was so complete that the car was thrown off the chassis and found 50 yards away. It was necessary to trace the license plates on the car to identify the victims. There is no blinker light at the crossing but state troopers said that the visibility is good there, especially in the day time. The train was going faster than usual, B. Lloyd, conductor, said, because it was making up lost time on the run from Chicago.

Even after identification of the victims was certain, the boys were not told what had happened to their parents until 10:00 o'clock that night. News reporters and photographers went to the Regentik farmhouse, getting information from the boys about Mr. and Mrs. Regentik without telling them that their parents had been more than injured in the accident.

Regentik's rented farm was the only source of income for the family and outside of a little personal property, the boys have nothing on which to live. Jerry, the oldest boy, is 16. He left school at the completion of the eighth grade to help his father with the work on the 164-acre farm on Macumber road, west of Plymouth.

Otto is 14 years old and a freshman at Plymouth high school. What will happen to the two older boys has not yet been decided, but Vlady, five years old, will go to live with his aunt, Mrs. Eugenia Mettack.

Mr. Regentik was involved in an auto accident one year ago when he collided with the car driven by Hugh Cash. Both cars were damaged in that accident which occurred on Penniman avenue and Otto Regentik suffered a fractured jaw.

The father, Jerry Sr., who was 47 years old, came to this country from Russia in 1916 to settle in Novi, and Agnes, his wife, who was 35, was a native of Czechoslovakia.

The bodies were taken to the Ypsilanti morgue for identification and later moved to the Heeny Funeral home in Farmington. The funeral was held from there at 2:00 on Tuesday afternoon with burial in their family lot at Novi.

Explain Proposed Zoning Ordinance

contained in the text. The greater part of the city is classed as residential and subdivided into two types of districts, termed Residence A and Residence B. Residence A consists of single dwellings (one to two families) and multiple dwellings. Residence B District regulations require each dwelling on a normal lot to have a front yard of 20 to 50 feet, and a side yard on each side of not less than six feet in width. Residence B District regulations require 20 feet or more front yard, and a side yard on each side of not less than five feet for a dwelling not over two stories in height, and the width of the side yard shall be increased one foot for each story above two stories.

Churches and temples, public and parochial schools and colleges, libraries, etc., are permitted in Residence A Districts, and in Residence B Districts, hospitals, private clubs, apartments and hotels, are allowed. For all buildings of this character, however extra yards are required.

"Similarly the commercial activities of the community are classed in two categories—local business and commercial districts. The former is intended only for local retail stores and offices serving the daily needs of the immediate neighborhood. In order that such districts may be established in locations convenient to nearby residents without damaging the home character of the surroundings, the height and area requirements are governed by the district in which the local business is located. The commercial district, including Pennington avenue from Harvey to Ann Arbor streets, Main street from Central Park to Maple avenue, and Ann Arbor Trail from Forest to Pennington avenues, is intended for general business purposes, storage and repair garages, storage warehouses, and incidental manufacturing activities such as local bakeries. No front yards are required but rear yards and courts are specified in all cases where residential accommodations are provided. Apartments and hotels are permitted in both types of business districts, either with or without stores in connection.

"The industrial activities of the community are also classed in two divisions—industrial and heavy industrial districts. The industrial districts, that land which is alongside the Pere Marquette railroad within the city limits, is intended for general industry.

"A Michigan statute grants to cities and villages in the state the right to regulate the use of land within their limits in the community interest, by excluding specified activities from certain locations, by limiting the height and bulk of buildings, and by limiting the density of population. The authority of a state to grant such power has been upheld in a long series of court cases all over the country culminating with three recent favorable decisions of the United States Supreme Court. The Michigan Supreme Court has also upheld the constitutionality of zoning in Dawley vs. Collingwood, decided April 3, 1928. The legality of reasonable zoning is no longer a matter of question.

"An ordinance which establishes a set of rules to which the use of all property in the city is subject, is bound to have the appearance, and occasionally perhaps the fact, of arbitrariness. But this feature is practically eliminated by characteristics of this ordinance. It has its own sphere to fill, and the fact that it will little over a decade since its introduction into this country, municipalities with a total population of around 30 million people have availed themselves of zoning protection, is ample evidence that it is filling a real need.

(1) It does not apply the same rules to the entire city but allows for classifications of activity within the city and provides ample scope in which each may be exercised. Every activity usually found in a residential community is provided for somewhere. Industrial plants, insane asylums, and activities which are offensive because of the emission of odor, fumes, dust, smoke, waste, vibration or noise, alone are excluded or regulated.

(2) The provisions of the ordinance are drawn in general terms, permitting as much leeway in the development and use of individual property as is consistent with the desired amount of protection to the community.

(3) The ordinance is not retroactive. Existing conditions which upon passage of the zoning ordinance become non-conforming, are not ruled out of existence or even curtailed in activity.

(4) Numerous provisions in the text make it clear in each case where hardship might result from the application of general rules.

(5) Like any other legislation, the zoning ordinance is amendable. Should new conditions arise warranting a change in the text or an extension of the district boundaries on the map, such a change can be easily made. The advantage is held by a zoned community in which such changes, however, for they can occur only in an orderly way after public notice and public action. Changing conditions in many American communities today are causing much more damage than is repaid in progress, the reason being that they occur without plan or thought of the community welfare. A slight change of property use in the wrong place or at the wrong time often damages a large district in return for a doubtful benefit to an individual. Zoning protects the community against thoughtless or mercenary acts of individuals, by requiring any one who is ready to change the character of his neighborhood to get the prior consent of the people in that neighborhood and of the community at large.

(6) Lastly, a board of appeals is set up to hear and judge cases where the strict application of the law would result in unintended or unnecessary hardship. This board has power to modify the provisions of the ordinance in line with their general intent and to grant variances in specific cases so as to lessen hardship and prevent injustice. Their actions are subject to court review.

The board of appeals will be more fully discussed by Mr. Phillips in the next issue.

Legislature Is Asked To Provide Aid For Parents Of School Children

the year to the state he has been paid $1,000 per year. Under the new act being passed by the legislature a member of the commission will be paid only $500 per year, and must devote all of his time to the job. That means that he cannot run over to Lansing one or two days out of each month and answer to the roll-call as apparently has been done and collect $1,000 per year of the taxpayers' money for valueless services given.

The slimy trail of the money-mad political election bosses associated with the last state administration was tracked directly into the former Governor's office last week by the special legislative committee investigating civil service administration. While it had been brought out in previous testimony that state employees had been hijacked out of a portion of their salaries to be used for the purpose of trying to fix the last state election, members of the committee were surprised when one of the witnesses testified that he had paid his check directly to the executive secretary, Frank Murphy, in the Governor's office. Let's see who was the candidate for re-election running around the state last fall talking about "honest" government? The word "honesty" was pretty badly slandered, it appears, during the last campaign. Not as far as any one knows, has the Governor's office ever before been turned into a cesspool for rotten politics.

State departments can be run without expending more than the amount of money appropriated by the legislature. That fact has been proven by what the conservation department has been doing for the last few years. Not one penny more than the amount appropriated to the conservation department by the state legislature has been spent during this period. It is, as far as known, the only state department that had functioned and lived within its legal appropriation. It is also one of the departments that the last administration was not able to break into, notwithstanding the fact that a desperate attempt was made to do so.

Former Attorney General Raymond Starr did a lot of talking a few days ago about a ruling that had been made by Attorney General Thomas Read. It seems that the new attorney general had ruled that the civil service law permitted various departments of the state to create so-called "one-man" divisions within their departments. Starr declared that such an opinion was an outrageous "political" opinion and that no such a thing could be permitted under the law. A few days later it was discovered that the former attorney general, Raymond Starr, had done exactly the same thing in his own department. He, too, had created a "one man division." Folks around Lansing are now giving the former attorney general that rather impolite expression known as the "horse laugh."

Desperate attempts are being made to prevent Governor Fitzgerald from cutting the state's payroll and getting rid of hundreds and hundreds of needless job-holders. The political hirelings are trying every trick under the sun to keep their useless jobs and thereby keep the tax dollars rolling into their pockets. During the last few days there has been a rapidly growing sentiment in the legislature for kicking out civil service and all of the other laws that in any way tend to prevent the return of economy in the conduct of the state government. There are those in the legislature who hope that this sentiment will not grow to such an extent that it will abolish the start that has been made for civil service within the state government, but it is surprising to know how much more interest there is in the problems of the taxpayers than there is in the wishes of the jobholders to retain their positions. The unfortunate thing about it all lies in the fact that because the last administration over-loaded the payrolls and drove the state so deeply in debt as a result, civil service is being blamed for a condition it did not create.

Ballenger Explains Security Act

The fact that a person works for an employer who is covered by the old age insurance part of the Social Security Act does not necessarily mean that worker is entitled to unemployment compensation if he becomes unemployed.

This statement was made today by John F. Ballenger, manager of the Social Security Board field office in Detroit.

All employers of one or more, in commerce or industry, are usually covered by the Social Security Act's old age insurance plan.

But in Michigan only those employers of eight or more persons come under our state's unemployment compensation law. Therefore in the smaller establishments workers may be covered under the old age insurance plan but not entitled to job insurance benefits if they become unemployed.

The state employment offices should be consulted by those who believe they may be entitled to job insurance benefits, as these payments are made entirely by the state.

Few Intentionally Break Game Laws

Only about one out of every 300 persons who hunt, fish or trap in Michigan is a violator of the fish and game laws.

Prosecution records of the department of conservation show that notwithstanding better law enforcement, the percentage of violations remains low. Although the approximately 4,500 arrests made last year for fish and game law violations were more than the number made in any previous year, the number of persons who bought hunting, fishing and trapping licenses also was considerably larger than in any previous year.

Figuring that at least 1,400, 000 persons were licensed to hunt, fish or trap during 1938, the 500 arrests constitutes only about three tenths of one percent—or about one in every 300.

The previous largest number of arrests made in any one year was 4,326 which was recorded in 1930. In 1937 conservation officers took 4,254 persons into custody.

Col. William A. Bergin, assistant chief of the field administration, attributes the 1938 increase to improved patrol methods as well as to the fact more persons went hunting and fishing than ever before. During both the small game and upland bird, and the deer seasons, more hunters were contacted than during any previous season. Col. Bergin points out. More fishermen also were checked by officers during 1938 than in any previous year, largely as a result of an extension of the inland water patrol system. A larger number of patrol boats were put in operation last year and by transporting them frequently on trailers from one lake to another, officers were able to visit more fishing spots than they could under the old system. During the hunting season, the same technic was used by shifting road blockades frequently from one site to another.

Arrests for fish law violations in 1938 numbered approximately 2,200; small game, 1,000; deer law, 700; fur laws, 200. Miscellaneous charges made up the remainder of the cases.

Distribution Of Pheasants Studied

"To bring 'em back alive" is the aim of the Western Wayne County Wildlife association and strange as it seems, they mean pheasants. On the suggestion of Conservation Officer Fred Eckhout, club members are constructing a pheasant trap which will be placed on the Meadbury Sanatorium grounds. Hundreds of the birds have been feeding there this winter and it was thought that if they could be released in this area it would give a more even distribution for local hunters next fall.

The main problem confronting local club officials is just where the birds should be released if they are able to trap them. Many farmers are not anxious to have any more of them on their farms and officials ask that if anyone feels that his lands need birds and is willing to have them released there, that a call to any member of the club will be more than appreciated.

In many places the birds are grouped for the winter. Mrs. Don Packard reported counting 52 in one group early this week feeding in one of their fields. Mrs. Packard also stated that she has seen robins around their farm on North Territorial road during the last few days.

Members of the association are looking forward to their next regular meeting to be held Monday night, February 6 at the Mayflower hotel. The program for the evening is expected to be one of the most presented to the club yet with Walter Hastings as a headliner for the event.

Hastings, for a number of years chief photographer for the Conservation department in Lansing, has a fine collection of moving pictures of wild life in Michigan and he will bring six of his best rolls to Plymouth with him for the affair.

Euchre Team Has Eleven Game Lead

The Canton Center-Cherry Hill Euchre club has played to the half-way mark now with Wagenschultz and R. Waldecker leading by 11 full games. They lost to Zeigler-Johnson last Wednesday by seven games to six in a hard-fought session. After floundering around in the cellar ever since November 27, Gots and Blackmore, although beaten by P. Hix-J. Cash eight games to five, advanced to seventh place as Freddie-Buckner dropped another to Finnegan-Elliott 10 games to three. With 130 games yet to play, anything can happen.

Fox Increasing In This State

That the red fox is increasing in several areas in Michigan is evidenced by the results of observations by state game investigators and in reports from both farmers and hunters.

The increase is especially noticeable in the two or three tiers of counties in the southern part of the state, particularly in Oakland, Livingston, Jackson, Cass and Calhoun counties. The game investigators say, the gain has been underway for the last two or three years.

Lay opinion is divided as to whether the increase is beneficial or harmful. The department of conservation receives complaints from farmers who charge the fox with killing their chickens, lambs and even pigs. Many hunters believe it takes a heavy toll of pheasants and other game birds. On the other hand, there are hunters who regard fox hunting as one of the best of sports, and most game investigators believe the fox may be more sinned against than sinning.

In several cases in which a fox was blamed for killing some game, investigation revealed that the charges were based on rather dubious circumstantial evidence and that the animal might have been dead before the fox reached it. Game investigators point out that many chickens which die, especially during the winter, are tossed out on the dump pile, and that when lambs die they frequently are left in the field. A fox in the vicinity could very easily appropriate the carrion, which in that instance at least would account for the feathers and bones that could be found around his den later. Game investigators also believe that some of the raids blamed on foxes are actually committed by dogs on the loose.

Field and laboratory studies have demonstrated that the chief diet of the fox is mice and that it also eats such things as insects and berries.

Although fox hunting is not practiced widely in Michigan, one of the advantages of it is that this animal can be pursued when there is virtually no other legal quarry for the hunter.

Benton Speaker Before Townsendites

Because of unfavorable weather conditions the meeting for yearly election of officers scheduled for Monday, January 30 was postponed to Monday, February 6 at 8:00 a.m., sharp in the Grange hall, W. A. Benton of Detroit will be the speaker.

This meeting is of great importance and all members are strongly urged to be present without fail. The public is invited.

Mild Winter Is Help To Deer

According to information received by President Brick E. Champe, president of the Western Wayne County Wildlife association, the weather man has been exceptionally good to the deer in the North this winter. President Champe states that these reports indicate that next fall's hunting will be the best in many a year.

Due to comparatively light snowfall in the north the deer have not been driven into winter yards except in a few sections of the state. Although the deer have been moving somewhat nearer the yards they also have been able to travel for considerable distances without difficulty, thus far. The recent storm left parts of the upper peninsula with a snow depth ranging from 15 to slightly more than two feet along Lake Superior, which resulted in somewhat more concentration of the animals than was noted previously but not as much as usually occurs by this date.

Game investigators point out that snow and weather conditions during the next 45 days or so will determine how much of a loss may occur through starvation in the over-browsed yards. Although weather conditions have been favorable thus far heavy snow and low temperatures could still subject the deer herd to considerable loss.

Deer killed by automobiles and violators and picked up recently by conservation officers have appeared to be in good condition. In some sections they have been roaming their normal summer range and digging for acorns. In the Crystal Falls and Ewen districts a storm proved a benefit to the animals, bending over and breaking down hundreds of trees and thus providing considerable additional browse for them.

State game investigators point out that the longer the deer can go without being compelled to concentrate in the yards the better the chances are for them to come through winter without abnormal loss in the over-browsed yards. When their movement is not restricted the deer naturally are able to find more food than when they become bunched in the swamps and other places where they go to seek shelter during severe weather conditions.

Drive over to the corner of U.S. No. 12 and Haggerty Highway and buy a trial pound of Virginia Style Country Sausage. Give your appetite a new thrill. Nothing else like it anywhere. Adv.

Square Dance Is Friday Feature

As a part of the Youth Federation program, lessons in ballroom dancing are being given each Saturday night in the recreation room of the city hall. Mrs. Blake of Detroit is the teacher and there is no charge for the lessons which are given to all boys between the ages of 11 and 15. The regular Saturday night dances for boys and girls from 11 to 14 years old will be from 7:30 until 10:00 o'clock. It is hoped that a large class of boys will be on hand for the dancing class from 6:30 until 7:30.

Square dancing will be a special feature of the Friday night dance this week. Mr. Mastick will be the caller. A great deal of interest in square dancing has been shown by the young people and it is hoped that many will come out Friday night and learn. The dance will be from 8:00 o'clock until 10:30 and will combine square dancing with modern dancing. Come and watch—you'll soon be doing it!

The Story Hours for small children will be held as usual in the city hall every Saturday. Children eight to 10 years old will be present at 9:00 o'clock; children five to seven years old at 10:00 o'clock. All children are invited to attend.

Roller skating seems to be the favored indoor sport just now as over 100 young people don skates each Tuesday at the Methodist church. Tuesday afternoon from 3:30 until 5:30 youngsters from nine to 12 years old may skate, and Tuesday evening the older group from 12 years old up through high school age may skate from 7:00 until 9:30 o'clock. The charge is small and the skates are furnished. All young people in Plymouth are invited.

CALVARY BAPTIST CHURCH.—Lynn B. Stout, pastor. Snow, snow everywhere you look this morning as I pen these notes. It is one of God's best sermons to every sin-sick soul, "Come now, and let us reason together," saith the Lord, "though your sins be as scarlet, they shall be as white as snow." You often hear this statement: "Same time, same station. I'll be seeing you." Well, Calvary church is at the same place, Harding and Holbrook and the time of services is the same: Preaching, 10:00 a.m.; Bible school 11:15 a.m.; B.Y.P.U., 6:30 p.m.; preaching 7:30 p.m. I'll be seeing you, I hope, I hope, I hope. Bull's eye No. 22. The first impulse when awakened is to pitch that alarm clock out of the window. Many churches have acted on that first impulse and thrown the preacher out and gone back to sleep as far as spiritual things are concerned.

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST Scientist. Sunday morning services 10:30. Sunday school at 10:30. Pupils received up to the age of 20 years. Wednesday evening testimony service, 8:00. "Spirit" will be the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday, February 5. The Golden Text (II Corinthians 3: 17) is: "Where the Spirit of the Lord is, there is liberty." Among the Bible citations in this passage (I Chron. 29: 11) "Thine, O Lord, is the greatness, and the power, and the glory, for all that is in the heaven and in the earth: thine is the kingdom, O Lord, and thou art exalted as head above all." Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 228): "There is no power against God. Omnipotence has all-power, and to acknowledge any other power is to dishonor God."

NEWBURG M. E. CHURCH.—Clifton G. Hoffman, pastor. Sunday morning will be at 10 o'clock. The sermon topic will be "Plans for Building." Sunday school will follow immediately after church. On Friday night the Fidelis Sunday school class is sponsoring the annual father and son tea at 6:30 p.m. in the church hall at 6:30 p.m. Commander Harold Owens is to be the speaker.

ST. PETER'S EV. LUTHERAN church. Edgar Hoenecke, pastor. Sunday school ..... 9:30 Morning service ..... 10:30

ROSEDALE GARDENS PRESBYTERIAN church, John B. Forsyth, minister. Friday evening is reserved as a social night for the intermediate department. Sunday, February 5, is Young People's day in the church. A group of intermediate and senior age pupils will be guests at the Sunday school session. The junior department, under the direction of Mrs. Watt Graham, will have its first session in the club house next door to the church. At the morning worship service at 11, intermediate and senior departments will attend in a body. The sermon theme is, "How Good is Your Eyesight?" In the evening at 7:30, members of the Christian Youth League will conduct a service to which everyone is invited. The program for this service of worship will aim to show how a young people's society works today. Wednesday evening at 7:30, the fifth session of the Bible study class will be held in the church basement. Following this the Women's Auxiliary will have its February meeting, with a program of unusual interest under the direction of Mrs. E. O. Whittington. Thursday evening at 7:30 the session will meet in the minister's study, and the choir will rehearse in the church auditorium.

NAZARENE CHURCH.—Robert A. North, pastor. Holbrook and Pearl streets. Sunday school, 10 a.m.; morning worship, 11:15 a.m. Evening service, 7:30. Prayer meeting, Wednesday, 7:30. Since the Nazarene church was organized back in 1907, there has been a steady growth in its Sunday school department; and today we have over 250,000 scholars throughout the United States and abroad. In all of our Sunday schools the Bible is the main textbook, and our scholars are taught that it is the infallible word of God. There are over 32,000 promises in this wonderful book which we study every week. How many of these promises do you know? How many have you tested and tried, and claim as your very own? Visit our Sunday school and dig out of this mine, the Word of God, some priceless jewels for yourself. Our junior department is growing so rapidly, we have had to divide it and start another class since January first. Since moving into our new church last July the various classes of our school have raised a total of $109.58, which has helped put in our lighting system, heating plant, and build class rooms in the basement, etc. We are glad to report that even the children in our primary department have had a part in helping on our building fund. The first Sunday of each month is "Building Fund Sunday," so next Sunday, February 5 is the day. Last month our offering totaled $19.43, but we should beat this record next Sunday. This month the offering will help pay for that "Nu-wood" ceiling that keeps our church so warm and comfortable. Roger Babson says "A dollar spent in the service of God is an investment for eternity." Come and help in the joyful task of "Holding forth the word of Life." M. P. Clark, Sunday school superintendent.

All the ladies of the parish are to belong to this society. Children's Sunday—Every child of the parish should go to communion every fourth Sunday of the month. College Gives Kerosene Don'ts Although Michigan leads the nation in a march toward rural electrification, too many rural fires result from carelessness with fuels. Any spot that's too hot to place your hands is also too hot to place a can of kerosene. Although its flash point (100 degrees, F) is much higher than that of gasoline, it is still necessary to store and handle kerosene or "coal oil," carefully to prevent fires. Actually it is safe only when it is cold. Here are some "don'ts" from extension specialists at Michigan State College on using kerosene around the home. Don't set a kerosene lamp or lantern on or above a stove or in any other place where the kerosene might become heated. It may flare. Don't locate a kerosene stove, lamp, or heater where curtains may blow over it or against it. Don't place a kerosene lamp close to the ceiling or the wall. Don't place a kerosene stove against a wall. There should be a sheet of metal behind it and an air space behind the sheet of metal. Don't hang towels on a rack above a kerosene stove. They may catch fire if the kerosene flame should flare up or if they happen to fall down. Don't let wicks get dirty or uneven, and keep burners clean. Don't neglect the drip pan. Probably the most frequent cause of kerosene explosions is the habit of using it to start a fire in the range quickly. Equally unsafe is it to fill a lamp or stove while it is lighted, or a lamp while it is hot after being extinguished, or to fill either after dark with the aid of an open light such as another lamp, candles, or matches. If the lamp or stove tank must be refilled at night, use an electric flashlight. Chemical fire extinguishers have saved many homes from being reduced to ashes. Even a bucket of sand or damp sawdust is very effective if used before a fire gets too much start.

Dondero Tells Of U. S. Courts (By Cong. George Dondero) Shortly after the President made his proposal concerning the membership of the Supreme Court of the United States, I introduced a resolution proposing an amendment to the constitution of the United States to fix the number of justices of the Supreme Court. On January 9 I renewed my proposal by introducing H. J. Res 75, which reads as follows: Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled (two-thirds of each House concurring therein), That the following article is proposed as an amendment to the Constitution of the United States, which shall be valid to all intents and purposes as a part of the Constitution when ratified by conventions in three-fourths of the states: Article— "The Supreme Court shall consist of nine active judges, one of whom shall be appointed as Chief Justice, and eight of whom shall be appointed as associate justices, to be appointed by the President with the advice and consent of the Senate. The judges of the Supreme Court shall hold their offices during good behavior, and shall, at stated times, receive for their services a compensation, which shall not be diminished during their continuance in office. The purpose of this proposed amendment is to remove from Congress the discretion of saying how many judges the court should have and to prevent any President, whether Republican or Democrat, from attempting to alter the membership of the court. The Supreme Court of the United States is the only court specifically provided for in the constitution and since it was so created its membership should be subject to control through an amendment of equal authority by amendment to the constitution. In other words, a court created by the people themselves should be fixed as to membership by the people themselves. Article 3, Section 1, of the constitution, which refers to the judicial power of the United States, provides: "The judicial power of the United States, shall be vested in one Supreme Court, and in such inferior courts as the Congress may from time to time ordain and establish." Thus, the constitution delegates to Congress authority to "ordain and establish" inferior courts but it is specific in the creation of one Supreme Court.

Interesting Wise buyers patronize those who advertise. Male humming birds might be allied errant fathers. They desert their mates while they are still roosting and long before the young appear. The misnamed sparrow hawk, which feeds mostly on insects and takes mice and sparrows only when pressed by hunger, is the smallest and most brightly feathered of the hawk family. Michigan has had three constitutions, adopted in 1835, 1850 and 1908. Coyotes, foxes, skunks and even fox squirrels will feed on urticale eggs when then can find them. The mourning dove feeds its young with food prepared in its own body. The food is called "pigeon milk" and is regurgitated by both the male and female parent birds. ## STUDENTS GUESTS OF MR. FORD IN LOVETT BALLROOM AT THE EDISON INSTITUTE

Seventy-four students and eight faculty members, namely, Mr. and Mrs. Evans, Mr. and Mrs. Sutherland, Mr. and Mrs. Miller, Miss Gallimore and Miss Rathburn, were the guests of the students at the Edison Institute in Greenfield Village along with a number of students from the Maccon high school, on Thursday, January 26.

The students were met at the high school and were taken to Lovett Ballroom by means of busses provided by Mr. Ford. These also brought the students back to Plymouth.

The program consisted of various waltzes, a fox trot, and early American quadrilles with Mr. Lovett calling the steps. After the dance there was a luncheon during which the guests were entertained with songs by the mixed chorus of the Edison Institute high school, vocal solos, and violin solo by a student at Edison Institute. Lovett Ballroom is considered the second most beautiful ballroom in the United States. A tour was conducted through the high school to show guests the swimming pool and gymnasium.

Arrangements were made by Mrs. Miller who was assisted by Martin Horvath.

The students of Plymouth high school wish to thank Mr. Lovett for the instruction in dancing and ballroom etiquette.

THE WHIRLING DERVISH

The sprightly blizzard which arrived at Plymouth and vicinity with overwhelming violence this week was not without its dire results. Highways in every section were studded with vehicles dating from the 1928 Ford model "A" to the ultra-modern tear drop zephyrs; all, unfortunately stalled in the roadside ditch. In order to reach the school, many out-of-town pupils were forced to literally dig their way to school. Lucky was the driver who didn't get stuck at least once. The roadscreapers would no sooner complete the cleaning of the highway when a well placed "wall of wind" would render their work useless.

School attendance, too, fell off noticeably. Although it was the beginning of the new semester, only about four-fifths of the pupils were present.

There is always one person whom we can blame for such a disastrous storm: The lowly and forsaken weatherman.

GUESS

(Last week—Grace Squires)
He's tall and dark,
A friend to all,
A junior leader,
Who made Ruth fall.

WE NEED MORE HORSE GREELEYS—EDITORIAL

Today, Friday, February 3, is the 129th birthday of Horace Greeley. Though two-thirds of a century has passed since his untimely death in 1872, his name and fame have become even greater today than at the height of his career, so that he now stands alone and unchallenged at the head of the list of American journalists.

Born the son of a poor New Hampshire farmer, Greeley received but a meager education and began early to make his own way in life. Beginning as a printer's apprentice at 14, he founded a literary weekly called the New Yorker with a partner six years later. He quickly demonstrated his editorial brilliance there and rose by slow degrees until he founded the New York Tribune in 1841. This he molded into a national organ of great influence with his remarkably forceful and dynamic editing. He continued in this capacity for 31 years except for sporadic and generally unsuccessful attempts to obtain public office. The latter culminated in his nomination and campaign for the presidency in 1872, which had as its direct result his death.

Besides wielding an immense influence on American life and politics, Greeley was instrumental in gaining for the American press its title, "greatest influence in the world." Without a doubt the epic figure of the country's journalistic history, he may be classed as a truly great man. In times like these, that "try men's souls," men with the character and ability of a Greeley are sorely needed. It is only cars and phrases as the time-honored, "Go West, young man, go West!" Those words alone would have perpetuated the great editor's memory.

MY HANDBAG

Pansy the Poette
If someone wants a pencil
Or fountain pen, or pin,
I reach out for my handbag
And start to look within.

On top there are some hankies
(One clean—and the other kind)
I remove these and dig deeper
To see what I can find.

I come upon some snapshots,
I pause with them and look,
They often bring back memories
So they're in my pocketbook.

Then next I come to make-up
A comb, compact and such,
And also "coolies" and lipstick,
Though they aren't worth much.

By now I'm nearing bottom
And it's an awful mess,
Erasers, pencils, jewelry,
The point of junk I stress.

But now I've reached the pencil
And hand it to my friend,
But it seems she's tired of waiting
For she had no time to spend.

JUNIOR RINGS ARRIVE

On Wednesday, January 25 the day that the Juniors have long been waiting for arrived, the day that their rings and pins would come. Practically all the juniors agreed that the nicest thing is that these have all been paid for.

The majority received rings big enough to have a ring or a pin they are very satisfied.

JUNIOR'S JOTTINGS

Now that exams are over, the student body is breathing freely once more, with a few exceptions. At least two of those constitute those who flunked their physics exam. The rest are students who also flunked exams. Jack Ross and Bob Hitt have been wearing identical footwear on the basketball floor a few times this season. Jack sports a red sock and a green one while Bob uses their mates. Maybe that's why you get off on the wrong foot, sometimes, gentlemen.

No column is complete without its romantic angle. We, therefore, pause to offer a gem of advice from the pen of Dorothy Packer: By the time you swear you're his, shivering and sighing, and he vows his love is infinite, undying—lady, take a note of this: one of you is lying.

The super-heavy snowfall of the last two weeks brought about the renewal of many winter sports, among them snowball-throwing. Two local boys interrupted their trip home from school one night last week to test their range and accuracy with the snowy ammunition, and in order to do this began throwing innocently over a garage standing conveniently near. Two or three had gone over nicely when they heard a bellow of rage. A stocky, middle-aged man scooted out from behind the garage, vaulted the fence surrounding it and gave chase to the boys, who had already received a snowball neatly plastered to one of his ears. The gentleman in question pursued our friends for one block; by that time they were out of sight. Moral: A look in time saves nine blocks of running.

ODE TO A FOURTH YEAR LATIN STUDENT

Author's note:
With all due apologies to Mother Goose the members of the fourth year Latin have contributed the following parody on the rhyme "Simple Simon."
Lynnton Lyman met a horse trader
Going to the fair
Said Lynnton Lyman to the trader
"What do you have in the line of ponies?"
Author's note II:
Apologies are also due Miss Allen for the obvious ignorance of rhyme scheme, rhythm, and meter—however, the "pony" would be appreciated.

WHAT WOULD HAPPEN IF—

Plymouth got snowed in and we couldn't come to school?
Lewis Gilbert got some funny jokes?
Someone didn't get mixed up every day with the new schedule?
Everyone had passed his history exam?
Jean Anderson made up her mind?
A certain couple would quit fighting?
Bob Norman, Warren Hoffman, and Ed Holdsworth didn't have some girl to pick on?
The basketball team won a league game?
Mary Jane Parmalee's hair was mussed up?
Every senior knew where Washington, D. C. is located?
Whew—someone would have a heart attack don't you think or don't you?

The first grant of land by the federal government to Michigan was made in 1817 for the establishment of the University of Michigan.

Fort Collier on Drummond island was the last outpost to be surrendered by the British as a result of the War of 1812. When the British garrison on Mackinac Island was forced to evacuate it was moved to Drummond island in 1815 where it remained until 1828. Ruins of buildings, an old soldier cemetery and a unique parade ground may still be seen on Drummond island.

Plymouth Gardens News

Fred Byrd, his father and brother are responsible for all the chairs that were borrowed, picked up and returned for our school dedication. Some of our Auxiliary and P. T. A. ladies were at the school most of the afternoon preparing the school rooms for this occasion. We sure appreciate all that these people have done for our school and children.

We also wish to thank Mr. Dobbins, Plymouth road florist, for his splendid co-operation in making corsages and boutonnières for our speakers and guests of honor. Also the use of palms and bouquets which decorated our platform. You will find Mr. Dobbins very happy to serve you at any time.

Bartel's, florists, also honored us with plants to decorate our school room with their best wishes for happy school days.

A great deal of credit for our school activities is due Bill Morris of Stark road. He was the donor of the school flag on the first day of school in the new building and arranged the dedication program at the dedication ceremony. The attractive miniature school which held the place of honor on the chairman's desk during the ceremony was made and donated by Mr. Morris.

We wish to take this opportunity to thank Paul Leurek for his part in obtaining news for our column. We hope everyone will co-operate in the future like they have these last two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Trelp and Mr. and Mrs. J. Gage were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Sitaz Sunday evening.

The boys and girls in the second, third, fourth and fifth grades are enjoying new desks, which are adjustable to their own individual size.

Jacqueline Melanson and Florence Davis of Orangelawn road had an enjoyable time Saturday when they went to the Plymouth theatre on the bus. It was their first experience on a bus without their parents.

Mrs. James Green entertained the following ladies at luncheon on Wednesday at the Chateau Rosseau: Mrs. John Livernois, Mrs. John Hollander, Mrs. Ed Berger, Mrs. S. Ouellette, Mrs. L. Fetterly, Mrs. William Drees, Mrs. George Lariviere, Mrs. R. Labbe, Mrs. H. Eggeston and Mrs. William Howes.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Fetterly drove to Rochester on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Saverio Ouletta and family have sold their home on Stark road and have moved to Rosedale Gardens. We wish them much luck in their new home and surroundings.

Mr. and Mrs. William Simpson entertained Mr. and Mrs. W. Park Saturday evening at cards.

An unfortunate incident occurred on Orange lawn at the beginning of the month. The Lewis family found their pet dog shot and killed.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Gage enjoyed the company of Isaac Groves and Miss Mildred Peters at dinner and for the afternoon at their home Sunday.

We have observed that Al Ziegler's precious Chevrolet had been parked on their back cement terrace to prevent looking for it in the mail boxes. The residents of Plymouth Gardens awakened Monday a.m. to find deep drifts of snow and a blizzard raging out-of-doors. No one was free to drive along smoothly out of garage or driveway without the aid of a shovel or bucket of ashes. It was even impossible to get to the mail boxes due to the depth of the snow. If this keeps up another day, we will all have to abandon automobiles for the old-time horse, sleigh and snow shoes, if we must venture out.

Miss Roediger spent Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Jane Bowser instead of making her usual trip home to New Hudson, due to weather conditions.

We are beginning to wonder if Bill Newstead really put enough nails in his shingles. Sunday marked another episode in Bill's life—the opposite side of the roof had to be put back on after being blown around.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Bohls, Mr. and Mrs. F. Schaffer and Mr. and Mrs. A. Ziegler went tobogganing Thursday evening at Newville and then enjoyed hot coffee and a lunch at the Bohls' residence.

LOWER GRADE ROOM

We have started to build our house. One day it fell down. We nailed it together again. This time we think it will stand.

The third graders are making letter holders in handicraft. The holders have fat postmen on them. The children are making letter knives also.

The second and third graders are having semester tests.

Carol, Joan and Jerry are still ill. We hope they will be back to school soon.

Alan, Bruce and Roger Kidston gave a sleighride for several of their schoolmates last Wednesday. They had a very nice ride through the park. Some of their guests were: Mrs. Minehart, Dolores Schultz, Joanne and Keith Bovee, David Remus, Leon and Allen Christensen, Richard Simmons, Billy, and Robert Clement, Roy, Joy and Doris Bennett, Jaunita, Laurel and Clark Norris, Irene and Donald Hunt, Robert Bartel, Kenneth Rhode and Chester, Robert and James Wood.

UPPER GRADE ROOM

Quite appropriately, the eighth grade are studying 'Snow Bound' by Whittier and the seventh grade, several poems of snow-storms and 'The Great Blizzard' by Hamilton Garland.

The sixth grade is enjoying several books about children who live in European countries.

Our attendance on Monday was twelve pupils out of twenty-eight. We spent the afternoon in sewing and handicraft classes.

Our room is interested in 'Uncle Sam's Moneybags' or the budget for 1939 and 1940.

Our 4-H clubs are planning a sleigh ride for this week.

Our own secret blend of seasoning makes Virginia Style Country Sausage the favorite of epicures and at the same time makes it a really digestible pork sausage. A trial will prove this. See KOCHE & SONS, Corner U.S. No. 12 (Ann Arbor Rd) and Haggerty Highway—Adv.

LOWER GRADE ROOM

We have started to build our house. One day it fell down. We nailed it together again. This time we think it will stand.

The third graders are making letter holders in handicraft. The holders have fat postmen on them. The children are making letter knives also.

The second and third graders are having semester tests.

Carol, Joan and Jerry are still ill. We hope they will be back to school soon.

Alan, Bruce and Roger Kidston gave a sleighride for several of their schoolmates last Wednesday. They had a very nice ride through the park. Some of their guests were: Mrs. Minehart, Dolores Schultz, Joanne and Keith Bovee, David Remus, Leon and Allen Christensen, Richard Simmons, Billy, and Robert Clement, Roy, Joy and Doris Bennett, Jaunita, Laurel and Clark Norris, Irene and Donald Hunt, Robert Bartel, Kenneth Rhode and Chester, Robert and James Wood.

UPPER GRADE ROOM

Quite appropriately, the eighth grade are studying 'Snow Bound' by Whittier and the seventh grade, several poems of snow-storms and 'The Great Blizzard' by Hamilton Garland.

The sixth grade is enjoying several books about children who live in European countries.

Our attendance on Monday was twelve pupils out of twenty-eight. We spent the afternoon in sewing and handicraft classes.

Our room is interested in 'Uncle Sam's Moneybags' or the budget for 1939 and 1940.

Our 4-H clubs are planning a sleigh ride for this week.

Our own secret blend of seasoning makes Virginia Style Country Sausage the favorite of epicures and at the same time makes it a really digestible pork sausage. A trial will prove this. See KOCHE & SONS, Corner U.S. No. 12 (Ann Arbor Rd) and Haggerty Highway—Adv.

Celebrities To Be In Ann Arbor

Celebrities galore will participate in the 1939 May Festival, which will be held in Hill auditorium, Ann Arbor, May 10, 11, 12 and 13.

Gladys Swarthout, sensational mezzo-soprano of the Metropolitan Opera company and movie fame, will be heard in the first program Wednesday night. She has never before appeared in Ann Arbor.

Helen Jepson, another Metropolitan Opera soprano, will sing the role of Desdemona in Verdi's "Otello" at the Saturday night concert; and Selma Amansky, a brilliant soprano from Philadelphia, will be heard Thursday night.

Marian Anderson, world-famed Negro contralto, will be the star at the traditionally brilliant Friday evening program; while Elizabeth Wysor, well-known American contralto, will also be heard Saturday night.

Giovanni Martinelli will sing the leading tenor role in the "Otello" performance; while Jan Peerce, noted American tenor of radio fame, will be heard on two occasions, singing the tenor role in Kodaly's "Psalmus Hungaricus" Thursday night, and again in "Otello" Saturday night.

Richard Bonelli will be heard Saturday night, as will also Norman Cordon, another distinguished Metropolitan Opera baritone. Ezio Pinza will be the stellar attraction at the young people's concert Friday afternoon.

Two distinguished instrumentalists will participate: Georges Enesco, renowned Roumanian artist, will contribute to the Saturday afternoon program in two capacities—in the first half he will appear as violin soloist, and in the second half, as guest conductor for the Philadelphia orchestra, which will play a number of his own compositions. In the second half of the Thursday evening program, Rudolf Serkin, the Russian pianist, of dynamic artistry, will play with the orchestra.

The Philadelphia orchestra, University Choral Union, and the young people's festival chor-their first experience on a bus without their parents.

Mrs. James Green entertained the following ladies at luncheon on Wednesday at the Chateau Rosseau: Mrs. John Livernois, Mrs. John Hollander, Mrs. Ed Berger, Mrs. S. Ouellette, Mrs. L. Fetterly, Mrs. William Drees, Mrs. George Lariviere, Mrs. R. Labbe, Mrs. H. Eggeston and Mrs. William Howes.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Fetterly drove to Rochester on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Saverio Ouletta and family have sold their home on Stark road and have moved to Rosedale Gardens. We wish them much luck in their new home and surroundings.

Mr. and Mrs. William Simpson entertained Mr. and Mrs. W. Park Saturday evening at cards.

An unfortunate incident occurred on Orange lawn at the beginning of the month. The Lewis family found their pet dog shot and killed.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Gage enjoyed the company of Isaac Groves and Miss Mildred Peters at dinner and for the afternoon at their home Sunday.

We have observed that Al Ziegler's precious Chevrolet had been parked on their back cement terrace to prevent looking for it in the mail boxes. The residents of Plymouth Gardens awakened Monday a.m. to find deep drifts of snow and a blizzard raging out-of-doors. No one was free to drive along smoothly out of garage or driveway without the aid of a shovel or bucket of ashes. It was even impossible to get to the mail boxes due to the depth of the snow. If this keeps up another day, we will all have to abandon automobiles for the old-time horse, sleigh and snow shoes, if we must venture out.

Miss Roediger spent Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Jane Bowser instead of making her usual trip home to New Hudson, due to weather conditions.

We are beginning to wonder if Bill Newstead really put enough nails in his shingles. Sunday marked another episode in Bill's life—the opposite side of the roof had to be put back on after being blown around.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Bohls, Mr. and Mrs. F. Schaffer and Mr. and Mrs. A. Ziegler went tobogganing Thursday evening at Newville and then enjoyed hot coffee and a lunch at the Bohls' residence.

ASSISTANCE FOR THE AGED.

Herman M. Pekarsky, who until a few days ago, was supervisor of the old age pension bureau in Michigan, in a report issued just before he was retired from services, warned that too liberal assistance to the aged might endanger state finances.

"Whatever changes are proposed should, however, be considered in terms of the continuing potential COST of the program and the ability of the state to defray the expenses," says Mr. Pekarsky in his report.

That is an interesting sentence in view of all that has happened during the last two years when Mr. Pekarsky was at the head of the department—and of the loudly proclaimed promises of more assistance for the aged and needy people of the state.

Does the retired old age official think that the paltry $9.00, $10.00 or $11.00 per month given to most of the aged people of the state during the last administration is a sufficient sum to provide any human being with food, clothing and warmth? Does he think that the complete elimination of ALL assistance from men and women long past the age of 65 years who are destitute and unable to work, is proper, even though the support of the old people might be a burden upon the taxpayers of the state?

Mr. Pekarsky and his kind failed to properly read the public mind during the last two years. The taxpayers of Michigan did not rise up in revolt against the assistance given to the aged and those in distress. The revolt of the taxpayers was against the use of tax dollars for political purposes rather than for the care of the aged. The taxpayers are perfectly willing and anxious to see to it that the old folks of the state have a sufficient amount of food and clothing to keep body and soul together. In fact, there probably isn't a taxpayer in Michigan who would not be perfectly willing to take on an additional tax payment if he really thought the tax money was needed to care for the destitute old people.

What the taxpayers did not like was the use of tax dollars for the maintenance of political machines such as existed in Michigan during the last two years. One does not have to go beyond Mr. Pekarsky's own department to find out something about the manipulations of the master politicians and the diversion of tax dollars for political purposes.

Mr. Pekarsky's warning that the state might find itself in a financial tangle if additional aid should be extended to the aged is not worthy of consideration—not until, at least, an effort has been made to properly care for the old people by an administration that regards assistance to the aged of more importance than assistance to political quacks.

"DYNAMITE."

The editor of The Plymouth Mail is not sure whether he has been complimented or slandered by an editorial paragraph appearing in last week's issue of The Birmingham

Eccentric. George Averill is the editor and publisher, as readers of The Mail well know. Editor Averill, who has delighted in hanging the hides of numerous high-up public officials on the picket fence where they have withered and blown away, declares that henceforth the editor of The Plymouth Mail is going to be known to him as "Dynamite." It was not for the fact that Editor Averill has buried so many public officials and others so deep in the bowels of the earth that they have never been able to worm their way back to sunlight and fresh air by the use of similar pet expressions, his newly applied nickname might be accepted as sort of a compliment. But knowing what has happened in the past and how he accomplishes his purposes, the editor of The Mail is going to shy a bit away from this newly applied nickname. Of course if he means that the writer is "Dynamite" to a lot of four-flushing, cheating, good-for-nothing political quacks, and the type of despicable government they typify, the nickname will be graciously accepted. But for the present the fingers of both hands will remain crossed.

POLITICS IN WELFARE.

Washington newspaper dispatches have much to say these days about the attempts being made to eliminate all politics from welfare. In fact, a western Democratic United States senator has written into the new appropriation bill a series of amendments which will make it a felony to mingle politics with welfare or WPA assistance by any trick or scheme. The amazing thing about it all is the fact that there are no denials made by the administration of the use of welfare money for political purposes. It seems almost incredible that the alleviation of human misery could be brought to such a low standard. It simply goes to show, however, what can happen when a crowd of grasping job holders are able to control high governmental places.

THE LAST REFUGE.

The other day an elderly visitor was in the office of The Plymouth Mail looking over the want ads in the paper. He was in search of employment in the country.

"I guess the only place left for old folks is the country. We can't get jobs of any kind any more except on farms, and these jobs are getting pretty hard to find. It seems that all of these new fangled things they are doing in Washington is simply making it harder and harder for people to live, especially if you are past 50 years of age."

The brief declaration is a pretty good editorial that does not need additional comment.

DO YOU WANT YOUR OWN DOCTOR—OR A JOB HOLDER?

There is propaganda abroad and efforts being made to socialize medicine. Because there are some people in the United States who cannot afford to pay for their medical care, some would put the medical profession on the same basis as mail carriers or government clerks. They would have the doctors working on a schedule, so many hours a day at so much per day. At least, this is what one gathers from reading and listening to the reformers.

This seems to be an era when reformers are having their inning—their day in the sun. These medical evangelists point to the fact that nearly 50 people of each 100,000 die of tuberculosis today; that tuberculosis is a curable disease; that it is a contagious disease. What they say is the truth. What they leave unsaid represents the evasions and half-truths. What they leave unsaid represents the evasions and half-truths.

The facts are that in 1912 there were 125 people out of every 100,000 dying of tuberculosis. In a quarter century, under the present system great strides have been made by eminent scientists in eliminating contagious disease. Typhoid fever, smallpox and diphtheria are three contagions which have been nearly eliminated. It has been the steady advancement of independent medicine that has accomplished these results.—Schuyler Marshall in The Clinton County Reporter-News.

ANSWER THIS ONE

Of every dollar of U. S. government income, 44 cents is borrowed money, the only security being taxes to be collected some time in the future. Economists can't figure out how this can be done. Maybe they'll have the answer when they learn how to plant grain THIS spring with seeds from NEXT fall's harvest.—James Gallery in The Tuscola County Advertiser.

AGRICULTURE'S ANSWER

John C. Ketchum of Hastings, former congressman, former state insurance commissioner and now a marketing expert, has come as close to having the right answer for Michigan's farm problems as any man we have heard. Quality is the keynote of the Ketchum plan. He would have Michigan farmers gain a preferred market by doing what Maine and Idaho potato growers have already demonstrated at Michigan's expense. Michigan apples, properly graded and packed, will outsell a western apple 2 to 1. Idaho and Maine can not produce better potatoes than does Michigan. But here in Michigan we have not learned to grade and pack for the retail trade, to grade and pack so that consumers demand Michigan products regardless of price. That is part of the Ketchum cure.—Nelson Brown in The Ingham County News.

WOMEN DRIVERS SAFER

"Look out for the woman driver," is a saying that the men use in discussing hazards of the highways. However, a survey made in New York indicates that women are more proficient than men at driving automobiles, or, at least, more considerate than male drivers where pedestrians are concerned.

While women drivers comprise about 14.3 per cent of the drivers in New York City, they were responsible for less than two per cent of all the fatal pedestrian accidents.

If the men want to continue the assertion of their superiority of motor vehicles, it begins to look as if they would have to produce some statistics.—George Averill in The Birmingham Eclectic.

AN HONEST COMMENT

The half hundred exchanges that came to our desk during the Christmas week made a much larger stack than they usually do, and it took a lot longer to look them over and read the things that attracted us than it usually does. If we are to judge the holiday business done throughout the state, especially in the smaller cities and villages for Christmas this year it was very good, and the merchants determinedly asked for that business through the advertising columns of the home papers, all of whom carried more advertising than ever, seemed to convey a deeper Christmas meaning and understanding and left an impression of a confidence, a hopefulness and a revived spirit that if continued will quickly get the country off the welfare and on its own.—Al Weber in The Cheboygan Observer.

Last Saturday the Plymouth degree team responded to an invitation from Ypsilanti Grange to confer the third and fourth degrees on a class of twelve. The orchestra and others that were on the program accompanied the team, about 30 in all. It was a stormy night, but they report a fine time. The team is becoming very popular.

100,000 Women Change Their Minds

Once upon a time, women didn't like to wear glasses. Took away charm. Made women look frumpish. They were thinking of how they looked—not how they saw! You couldn't blame them.

In those days, glasses weren't designed—they were made in a factory, for a factory, and by a factory. They did look frumpish. No thought was taken of the way people looked when the glasses were worn by the patient.

That's all changed these days. Even the lens shapes are designed to suit your particular style of face. The new frames and mountings make it possible for us to overcome facial characteristics that do not add to one's appearance. Noses that are a bit too long, seem shorter with the rightly designed bridge. Snub noses that are the despair of their owners, can be made to seem longer. Deep-set eyes (that may be fine for a "melancholy Dane" or a detective) can be brought out to the facial plane where their real beauty can be observed.

You have only to look around you in the places where well-dressed people congregate to see that women (and men) have discovered that well-designed glasses actually improve one's looks. You will note that hundreds of thousands of women have changed their minds about glasses since, we optometrists learned that "cosmetics" was as much a part of our work as it is of the dentist.

TRIP YOU UP!

Stringing extension cords along the floor, under rugs, or through the air to reach a distant outlet is a makeshift arrangement at best. Such cords are unsightly and in the way, and very easy to trip over. Why not solve the problem by installing one or two additional outlets? Convenience outlets repay their cost many times over. They are such a great help that there's no reason why you should try to get along with fewer than you need. We do not install outlets, but any electrical contractor will be glad to do this work and give you an estimate in advance. The Detroit Edison Company.
