

Michigan's 1939 Law Makers Give State Most Progressive Legislative Program in Recent Years

It Has Balanced the State Budget and Passed Many Needed and Beneficial Laws

(By Elton R. Eaton)

Michigan's 60th legislature has completed its obligations to the state of Michigan and its members have now turned over to the administrative officials the responsibilities of conducting the state government in accordance with the intent, and under the new regulations, imposed by the members of the house and senate.

Notwithstanding the tragic and unfortunate loss of the Governor and advisor during the early weeks of the session, the 1939 legislature has written into the history of Michigan one of the most outstanding, progressive, beneficial and best records of any legislature in recent years.

It is true that there have been harping critics; critics who assailed the Governor and the members of the legislature almost before they had assumed the responsibilities to which they had been elected. Some of it has been criticism due to lack of information. Some of it has been due to politics. Some has been just plain viciousness.

Left alone without captain or pilot at the time when executive assistance and cooperation was of greatest need, the legislature did not flounder. It accepted its responsibilities and it has given to the citizens of Michigan a balanced state budget and new and progressive legislation that will be of material benefit to every person within the state.

Not only has the legislature kept state expenditures within the anticipated income, but it has provided the public schools, the institutions and the departments of government with sufficient funds to meet their responsibilities and it has kept faith with the voters. There is one possible chance of a deficiency appropriation need and that may have to be made for the welfare department. But sponsors of the new welfare legislation which consolidated the various welfare activities under one administrative body believe that the additional local contribution from the various counties and the savings in administrative costs will be sufficient to offset the decreased state aid. Under the old law there are many counties in the state that provided practically no funds for welfare purposes. Under the new law, these counties must first expend from their own funds an amount that will after expenditure by the counties be matched by the state. This requirement of local responsibility which will go hand in hand with local welfare control ought to save the state from providing additional welfare funds for local government units, and keep the state budget in balance.

THE REPRESENTATIVES AND THE SENATORS.

It might be well before continuing this review of the work of the legislature to briefly mention something about the legislature itself. As every one knows, due to public resentment against the work of the 59th legislature and the administration of state affairs, Michigan electors last fall sent to the legislature a far greater number of new members than ever before. As a result it would be expected that a house or senate made up of so many new members unacquainted with legislative procedure and lack of knowledge of state affairs would do a lot of stumbling around, especially in view of the untimely loss of executive leadership and counsel.

But such was not the case. Michigan voters sent to Lansing a group of conscientious, hard-working, loyal and intelligent citizens to serve as new representatives of their districts in a legislature confronted with more important and serious problems than any legislature in Michigan's history.

Increase Jumps in Playground Activities

Recreation Program Attracts More Than 3,000 First Week

There has been an increase of 600 participants and spectators over last year in the summer recreation project during the first week. Recreation officials will conduct the local round of a state wide novice tennis tournament which is sponsored by The Detroit News, July 22 to August 6. Entrance blanks for the tournament may be obtained at the office of the Central elementary playground and must be in by Tuesday, July 18.

The tournament is open to all players in any community in Michigan. Establi players who have not won a major tennis title, been ranked in the first 10 anywhere, received a collegiate letter in tennis, won a high school title, or a previous novice event. Entries close on Thursday, July 20.

An all-star softball game will be played at Central playground Wednesday evening, at 6:15, July 20. The selections were made Friday and the names of the players and their respective teams will be announced in next week's Plymouth Mail.

Sail to Germany on Vacation Trip

Mrs. Reinhold Ruehr and two sons, Otto and Norman, sailed from New York for Germany on the S. S. New York Wednesday at midnight. During their stay in Germany they plan to visit in the vicinity of the Thuringian mountains in the central part of the country and the Black Forest in the southwestern part.

Mr. Ruehr did not accompany his family on the trip as he has recently taken over the Heide greenhouses at Mill street. His wife and children plan to return to the United States the first of September in time for school.

Parents Appear in Court for Son

In behalf of their son, a Flint father and mother appeared in Judge Dayton's court Wednesday morning to answer to charges brought about when the son was arrested for obtaining money under false pretenses.

By using his former employment in Plymouth as a means of identifying himself, the boy passed bad checks here a few weeks ago. He and his accomplice, another 25-year-old resident of Flint were arrested in Cadillac three weeks ago and held there on a warrant issued by the Bay City police department. The boy also had a report from that city that he had passed worthless checks.

They were taken to Bay City where they were held on the charge. Plymouth police also issued a warrant for their arrest, and on Wednesday July 5, the parents appeared on behalf of the two boys at Judge Dayton's court.

Because this was the boys' first criminal offense of any nature, the case was dismissed after restitution was made and all costs were paid in the Plymouth case.

Plymouth Ballteams to Clash Sunday

Plymouth's two baseball teams, Schrader-Haggerty and Plymouth-Allen, will meet next Sunday at the Riverside diamond in which will prove to be the game of the season for both teams. There is a great amount of rivalry between the two clubs and each one is out to get the scalp of the other. Both of the aggregations are made up of fine ball players and spectators will without a doubt, see one of the best games of the season when they clash next Sunday.

The Plymouth-Allen ball team won another game July 4, when they defeated the Ace of Clubs, a Detroit team, at Riverside park, 6-8.

Not faring so well, the Schrader-Haggerty dropped their game with Northville, 2-0, before a large crowd at the Cas-Benton field.

Wild Life Association Plans Steak Roast Monday Night

Steaks will sizzle Monday evening at 6 o'clock when over 100 members of the Western Wayne County Wildlife association will hold their annual summer outing at the big picnic grounds on the Melvin Guthrie farm on Newburg road, about a mile south of Newburg. President Brick Champe stated yesterday that everything is in readiness for the event. He has ordered some of the biggest and juiciest steaks to be had in Plymouth.

Along with the steaks will be served fried potatoes, rolls, coffee and onions.

"It's going to be the kind of a steak dinner the fellows like when they are out hunting and the mercury is fluttering around the zero mark," said Dr. Champe. "Of course we expect the temperature Monday night to be way up high but I am sure that the fellows will enjoy a mid-summer taste of a good, old-fashioned, hunting camp dinner." Secretary Lisle Alexander who has been sending out notices to members, states that the prospects are that over 100 will be present.

Mother of Former Cubs' Pitcher Dies Here Friday

Catherine Reulbach Lived at Home of Niece

Mrs. Catherine N. Reulbach, mother of the former Chicago Cubs' pitcher, Edward N. (Ed) Reulbach, died Friday at the home of her niece, Mrs. Floyd B. Sherman, 276 North Harvey street.

Mrs. Reulbach, who was 85, was exceptionally active during her stay in Plymouth. She had planned to make her home with Mrs. Sherman and had already made a host of friends here.

Funeral services were held at St. Dominic's church in Detroit, Monday at 9 a. m., with the burial in Mt. Elliott cemetery.

Mr. Reulbach, who until recently lived in Maplewood, New Jersey, now resides at 721 Atkinson avenue, Detroit. He is employed in a business of distributing automobile motors.

Reulbach led the National League pitchers in 1908 with 24 victories and seven defeats. He spent 12 active years in the major leagues, coming to Chicago in 1905 and playing for the Cubs until 1915. He was traded to Brooklyn in 1913, left there a year later and finished up with Boston in 1917.

Following his graduation from the Trowbridge school, Reulbach attended a private school in Pittsburgh, later going to Notre Dame and still later to the University of Vermont.

His wife, Nellie W., is from Vermont. The Reulbachs had a son, Edward, who died at 21 of tuberculosis which followed a spinal injury. They spent three years in Europe in search of physicians to cure their son's illness.

Reulbach's father, Edward J., died several years ago. He was manager of the former Peninsular Car company in Detroit.

Mrs. Catherine Reulbach came from an old French family, the Paulis family, and her brother was a prominent painter, Francis P. Paulis of Detroit.

Maple Limb Grows Around Big Wire

While over in Kellogg park last week the day following the heavy wind that swept this district, Edgar A. Thomas saw lying on the ground a branch of a maple tree that had grown completely around a heavy insulated wire. Apparently the wire, which had at some time been cut by lightning, had remained against a small limb. Constant rubbing of the wire against the limb had apparently cut a groove in the limb and in time the branch had grown completely around it.

Truck Parking Ban Removed on Some Streets

Smith Recommends Action to Lessen Parking Problem

Police Chief Vaughan R. Smith recommended at the city commission meeting Monday night that the truck parking ban be removed for a period of two months on the north side of Penniman avenue and on the west side of South Main street between Fralick street and Penniman avenue.

During this time the police department will investigate as to whether the parking problem for trucks is lessened.

"Some of the store owners and trucking companies have complained to us because of the facilities for truck parking in our downtown area since the truck parking ban was put into effect. We feel that as long as most of the stores along Main street have alley entrances, if we open Penniman up to truck parking, most of the complaints against the system will be eliminated," Chief Smith said.

Later the stage players will battle the Schrader-Haggerty team on the same field.

First "Clear Fourth Record" Police Can Remember

Here is big news! No, it is not about how many suffered injuries from automobile accidents or fireworks in Plymouth on the Fourth of July.

It's BIG NEWS because of the fact that as far as any Plymouth police officers can remember, this is the first Fourth of July without some kind of a serious accident. There was not a single accident of any kind in Plymouth last Tuesday.

One, two or more traffic accidents in which some one has been killed or injured or some child burned by fireworks has been reported to the department every year for a generation or more, police records show.

But Chief of Police Vaughan Smith declared yesterday that there was not a single person injured within the city limits of Plymouth on the Fourth.

The traffic in and out of the city was exceedingly heavy until late in the evening.

There were two accidents reported in the country, one at the junction of Ann Arbor road and Plymouth road two miles east of the city and another out on the Territorial road.

A few children in Plymouth secured firecrackers from some outside source, but these fortunately were discharged without injury to any one.

In Idaho there's a watchmaker who opens safes as a hobby. So skillful is he at his sideline that frequent calls for aid come to him from far and wide. One day he received a call from a firm in Oregon. The combination on their big safe was lost. It had to be opened without delay. They knew of his ability. Could he help them? He told them to put the telephone mouthpiece directly above the dial of the safe, then to turn the dial slowly while he listened to the clicks it made. Fifteen minutes later he told his anxious client the correct combination.

THE DOCTOR AND THE CAUSE

(By O. F. BEYER, of Beyer Drugs)

A physical let-down is a sign of something that may become serious unless properly treated by that good friend of mankind—the family doctor.

Experience in this instance is not the best teacher—merely the most expensive. The better part of wisdom is to take the matter in time, relax in the doctor's office, tell him all about it, receive his skilled advice.

His advice may be mostly to cut down on extra activities, or it may include medication. In either case, follow his advice implicitly.

Always remember how important it is to have prescriptions compounded in the precise manner required to secure the most gratifying effects.

Marguerite Daugherty Weds Charles McKenna of Detroit

Marguerite Mae Daugherty, daughter of Mrs. Irene Broegman, of this city, and Ivan Daugherty, of Detroit, was united in marriage to Charles McKenna, son of Mr. and Mrs. William McKenna, of Detroit, at 7:30 o'clock Saturday evening, July 1, in the First Methodist church of Plymouth. Reverend Stanford S. Closson officiating at the ceremony.

The altar was decorated with baskets of roses and palms. Preceding the ceremony Mrs. Pauline McKenna, of Detroit, sang "Because" and "O, Perfect Love" with Mrs. M. J. O'Conner as her accompanist.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a princess style gown of white lace with a full length skirt and full length veil attached to a coronet of pearls and rhinestones. She carried a bouquet of white roses, delphinium and baby mums.

Margaret Horvath, of this city, maid of honor, wore a pale pink net dress and carried a bouquet of yellow roses and blue delphinium. Ruth McKenna, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid and wore a dress of pale blue organza. She carried a bouquet of yellow roses and baby breath.

Daniel McKenna, brother of the groom, was the best man and attended the groom.

The bride's mother was gowned in blue lace for her daughter's wedding and Mrs. McKenna in a blue silk crepe dress. Both wore corsages of yellow roses.

A reception for 90 guests, consisting of relatives and close friends, was held following the ceremony at the home of the bride.

The couple will be at home to friends at 750 Arthur street. The bride is a graduate of Plymouth high school.

They have the best wishes of a host of friends.

Annual Flowers
Let me remind you of a few fundamentals that folks often overlook in laying out their flower borders.

The first of these fundamentals is that flowers should be massed. They look a lot more striking when they're planted in beds and clumps, a number of the same variety together, rather than in long thin lines or scattered here and there. The second is that flowers always appear to better advantage if they have a background, such as a green hedge, to make their lovely colors stand out. Woodbine or some other hardy climber on a wooden fence will give you the same effect.

In laying out flower borders, it's important to remember to get them in the right scale for your garden. Remember that if they're less than four feet wide they don't let you get good mass effects with solid flowers and if they're more than ten or twelve feet wide they're pretty hard to cultivate. As far as shape is concerned, I think curving outlines are usually more graceful and less monotonous.

Make sure that your soil is neither very sandy nor too heavy with clay, and pulverize it very thoroughly before planting. Flower seedlings are so tiny that they just can't get along in a cloddy soil. And they can't get along without food either. They need eleven different food elements from the soil, and a lack of even one of these will cause trouble. So when you're preparing the seed bed, mix in some complete plant food—a food that supplies all eleven of the food elements growing things need from the soil in scientifically balanced proportions. Four pounds of food per 100 square feet—that's about a pint of it to every five by five plot—is a fine square meal for your plants.

As for how to plant different varieties of flowers, it's a good idea to buy well-known, reliable brands of seeds, and follow the directions on the back of the package carefully.

Quite a few folks have had bad luck with their annuals because they forgot one fact—that most of these flowers need a lot of sun. If you want to grow flowers in partial shade, though, here are some good varieties for the purpose: snapdragons, cornflowers, forget-me-nots and pansies. Certain other varieties can stand long dry spells better than others, too. My experience has been that calendula, petunias, verbena, portulaca, centaurea, scabiosa, larkspur, and gallardia are the best of these.

Here's an interesting fact about flowers. For some reason, it tires flowers to form mature seeds, and once you let the blossoms wither on the plant and go to seed, the flowers are likely to stop blooming. So it pays to cut them regularly. Plant them carefully weed them thoroughly, and cut them when they blossom. Following these four rules, plus one more—feed them a square meal—will give you a lovely flower garden this year and every year.

Michigan's 1939 Law Makers Give State Most Progressive Program

lature since the adoption of the present constitution. The legislature was fortunate in the selection of its speaker, Howard Nugent. Careful, conservative and absolutely fair, he made an excellent official. Fortunately, too, was the action of the house when it accepted the recommendation of Governor Fitzgerald, of Audley Rawson, another resident of the Thumb district, as the Republican floor leader. Representative Rawson, a close personal friend and admirer of the former Governor like the speaker, put forth every effort to see to it that a good job was done. Coupled with these two selections, the house had as its clerk the veteran Miles Gray, who kept the legislative procedure in a straight and clear parliamentary path. Michigan can well be proud of the group of new representatives it sent to Lansing. They did a mighty good job under most trying circumstances.

THE TALK ABOUT CIVIL SERVICE.

Because of political reasons there has probably been more said about the legislative action pertaining to the civil service question than any other issue before the legislature. When Governor Fitzgerald first proposed a merit system for the selection of state employees, the writer was one who thought the deceased Governor was right in his views. These views have not been changed. Political fortunes brought about the enactment of a law which sought to set up something in which Mr. Fitzgerald was not a part but the fact that he was a member of the legislature during that time and has first hand knowledge of all that happened.

It has been freely and loudly charged that the present legislature scuttled the civil service law for the purpose of going back to a so-called "spoils system" in the selection of state employees.

Let it be said emphatically that Michigan at no time previous to this year had any sort of a civil service or so-called merit system. It is true that in 1937 a law was passed which set up something of this kind, but never in the history of Michigan did the so-called "spoils system" flourish so lavishly as during the years of 1937 and 1938. As everyone well knows, a merit system in government has for its object the selection of qualified, courteous, loyal, honest and efficient workers who are more interested in doing a good job for the state than they are in the political fortunes of some aspiring office holder.

That did Michigan actually get under its first civil service law? One of the rottenest SPOILS systems that ever infested any city or state government. Cooks were assigned to institutions to prepare meals for tuberculosis patients who had never even boiled potatoes simply because they had a political drag somewhere. One prison warden swore to testimony that he had fired nearly 100 old time employees of the institution in order to make jobs for his own party henchmen. State employees were required to prepare, print and distribute political propaganda at state expense. Practically every person employed by the state was compelled to take out of their pay checks stated amounts each pay day and turn the money into a political slush fund. So perfect was this high-jacking system worked out that there were regular collectors appointed in state departments to see to it that the state workers employed UNDER the alleged civil service system paid their share into the political jack-pot. State employees were told that if they didn't pay, their civil service jobs would be ended. Stenographers receiving barely a hundred dollars per month were forced to pay in some cases almost ten dollars per month. Cripples who held state jobs were compelled to take out of their pay a financial way. The functions of state government practically stopped for a period of ninety days preceding the last election because of the political activities of alleged CIVIL service employees of the state government.

That is the kind of civil service many members of the present legislature sought to eliminate from the state government. In fact, it is rather a surprising thing that any form of civil service was retained especially in view of all that happened under the previous administration of Mr. Fitzgerald and the fact that the commission came to the legislature almost as soon as it convened and asked for a deficiency appropriation practically as large as was the original appropriation.

Some newspaper editors have referred to the new civil service law passed by the present legislature as the "ripper" bill. That is a pretty good word to describe it—because it was the intent of the legislature to rip the dirty hands of the greedy, mercenary "big shot" political bosses and unfeeling public officials out of their pockets of contemptible and unfeeling officials. It was the intent of the legislature to rip the dirty hands of the greedy, mercenary "big shot" political bosses and unfeeling public officials out of their pockets of contemptible and unfeeling officials. It was the intent of the legislature to rip the dirty hands of the greedy, mercenary "big shot" political bosses and unfeeling public officials out of their pockets of contemptible and unfeeling officials.

The present legislature tightened up the new civil service law to such an extent that it will be a crime for any state employee to play politics and enter into political schemes such as flourished until the first of this year. It made other changes in the law, which may prove of benefit. It is the hope of a very large number of Republicans that a fairly and well administered civil service law can be made effective in Michigan. The unfortunate part of it is, however, that civil service got off to a bad start in Michigan. But there isn't much question but what civil service is here to stay and it will be to the benefit of the taxpayers of Michigan if eventually the so-called merit system in government can be properly conducted.

LEGISLATION FOR MICHIGAN FARMERS.

When the 1937 legislature adjourned two years ago not one single act had been passed by the state legislature which was of benefit to the farming industry of Michigan. Not since the establishment of the state department of agriculture back in 1921 has a legislature taken so many steps to help the farming industry as did the legislature of 1939. Nearly a dozen bills were enacted this year that will be of direct benefit to agriculture. Michigan is one of the greatest apple growing states in the nation. It has become one of the country's outstanding egg producing states. The legislature has provided ways and funds so that the state will be able to market its products through these products and through the advertising campaign that is being conducted, there is bound to be a tremendous out-state increase in sales of these Michigan money producing crops. There was passed a milk control bill. The purpose back of this legislation is to put into the pockets of the milk producers a bigger return for the milk they market. It was a highly controversial piece of legislation, but the legislature enacted it with the hope that it will accomplish its purpose and give to the milk producers of Michigan a greater income than they are now receiving. If the present act does not prove of the benefit that its supporters anticipate that it will, the next legislature will be in a better position to know what to do as a result of the experience and knowledge that is bound to come as the result of the enactment of the present milk law.

MICHIGAN WORKERS ARE HIGHLY PLEASED.

There was a lot of haranguing last year in the fall campaign about what had been done for the working man by the present session of the legislature. As far as anybody could ever find out, the record was about as nil as a record could be. Probably never did a previous legislature take more important and decisive steps to help the workers than did the present legislature. It passed a labor relations bill that is bound to result in bringing about a better and more uniform understanding of present day labor problems. It passed the first piece of legislation enacted by any state in the Union which protects the worker from greedy and unscrupulous superiors. No longer can any boss tell some job that he can have a job if he will pay him $10 for the job or agree to buy his groceries from the store of some brother, friend, cousin or uncle. Factory workers, retailers and industrial officials regard this new law as of untold benefit. In fact, there was not one single bill opposed by representatives of workers that was enacted into law. Among the many bills that were passed of benefit to labor, were the amendments made to the unemployment insurance act. Changes made by the present legislature in the law enacted at a special session of the legislature in 1936 are of untold benefit to the unemployed workers. In fact, the changes voted make the Michigan law one of the best in the country. STATE WELFARE ACTIVITIES ARE CONSOLIDATED.

The legislature brought about the badly needed consolidation of all state welfare activities. In enacting this highly important piece of legislation it delegated back to the various counties of the state both responsibility and control of welfare problems. This ought to bring about a tremendous saving in the administrative costs of handling Michigan's welfare problems. It was a good bill that was passed. There was planned, however, by the house committee a great degree of local welfare control than provided in the bill that was passed, but nearly all important legislation is the result of compromise and if the home rule provided under the new law is not as sufficient as it should be and the so-called "dual control" that is in the act does not work out satisfactorily, the next legislature can easily remedy the condition. An excellent start has been made and Michigan will profit as a result of the new welfare legislation.

CONSERVATION, TRAFFIC AND WAYNE.

Much was done to advance the interests of conservation development in Michigan. The new game laws are an improvement over the old. The legislature made it mandatory for the conservation department to purchase lands so that many lakes and streams that are being closed to public fishing, can be made available once more to the public. It passed the advertising tourist appropriation bill. It enacted what is generally termed the model traffic law of the nation. It passed numerous health bills of benefit to the state. At the suggestion of the Michigan Automotive Trade Association it plugged up the holes in the state sales tax law whereby the state was losing hundreds of thousands of dollars in tax money collected on sales of new automobiles. The legislature liberalized the old age pension law and it gave to Michigan home builders the first and best protective law they ever had from scheming building contractors. It clarified the tax laws by defining intangibles and setting up a provision whereby this tax can be collected. It has been erroneously stated that the intangible tax is a new tax. Under the tax laws of Michigan, intangibles have always been subject to assessment and taxation for years. It has been the hit-and-miss policy of assessing officers which brought about the necessity of enactment of the new statute defining intangibles. No changes were made in the liquor laws. Never before has Detroit and Wayne county been so specially favored by a legislature as the present one. Detroit was saved from financial chaos by legislative action. There were many other bills passed that are of direct benefit to both Detroit and Wayne county. In fact, practically every request of both the city and county pertaining to legislation, was granted, with one possible exception. No other legislature ever treated the metropolitan center with such consideration as the present legislature.

ABOUT SOME OF THE ELECTION BILLS.

It cannot be expected that all of the good and beneficial legislation proposed for enactment can be passed at one session. It is but natural that the writer was disappointed over the failure of the enactment of a bill which would have greatly benefited the nomination convention system of Michigan. But when it is realized that one of these beneficial measures passed the house of representatives by 90 votes, with every Republican and Democrat present voting for it, and that the opponents of the measure had to depend upon Democratic votes in the senate to beat the bill, one should not be too disappointed. Only four Republican senators could be influenced to vote against the bill. It failed by only one vote. The proposed measure would have gone a long way to right a serious condition in Michigan—but there is another legislative session less than two years away. With the sentiment of the voters so strongly in favor of the proposal, there is no question but what it will be enacted into law in 1941.

There were other good bills besides this one that fell by the wayside. A few were passed that should not have been passed. A very large number of legislative proposals were never reported out by the various committees as a result of the good judgment displayed by the committee members.

There is one important task remaining for the state legislature to do, and that is make some provision for the payment of the $31,000,000 deficit that has come down from the previous administration. The matter was not considered at the final session because of the absence of Governor Dickinson from the state. At any rate it probably will require a special session to fully consider the best way to raise funds to meet these old obligations. They are debts that have to be paid, and from all that any one can see, there is no way of paying them out of the present income of the state. But that is a problem for the legislature to settle at a special session Governor Dickinson will doubtless call before winter.

Michigan is a great state. The 1939 legislature did much to help make it a far greater state.

Americans paid a greater share of the nation's total income in taxes in 1938 than in any other year as far back as records are available, according to a report on the trends in taxation by the National Industrial Conference Board. The share taken by taxes last year was 22 cents per dollar of national income, a marked increase over the previous peak in taxation in 1937 when it was 17.7 cents per income dollar, at the market soon.

Changes in State No-Work Law Help Employer and Employee

McDonald Points Out Improvements in Measure

Vital changes in the state's unemployment insurance system became effective today, following the signing by Governor L. D. Dickinson of Act No. 200 amending the law.

Major changes of importance to workers and employers were outlined and explained by Harry A. MacDonald, chairman of the Michigan Unemployment Compensation Commission responsible for administering the law.

"It is essential to the success and continuation of the Unemployment Compensation program," McDonald said, "that all employers and workers thoroughly understand these changes, in order that the greatest possible benefit may be obtained from the law."

"Unemployment compensation is not charity nor welfare but insurance, organized along the lines of established insurance principles. Amendments to the law made by the 1939 legislature are for the most part simple changes in the conditions established to protect the soundness of the law as an insurance program."

McDonald outlined the major amendments as follows:

1. Establishment of a completely new "merit rating" system to be known hereafter as an "Employer Experience Index," whereby employers may, by stabilizing their employment, obtain a lowered contribution rate beginning in 1942. Beginning in that year, the contribution rate may vary from a low of nine-tenths of one per cent, to a high of four per cent.

2. Removes from the coverage of Michigan's law, employers and employees subject to the Federal Railroad Unemployment Insurance Act, which becomes effective July 1.

3. Establishes flat minimum weekly benefits of $6.00 and $7.00, depending on the amount of earnings during certain periods of time.

4. Establishes new maximum limitations on total benefits which may be received.

5. Changes the waiting period requirements from three to two weeks, with provision for two additional waiting period weeks in one year. A maximum of four waiting period weeks in any one year is also established.

6. Changes the definition of qualifying wages, the means used to determine a worker's eligibility for benefits. A worker must now earn at least $200.00 during the first four of the last five completed calendar quarters immediately preceding the first day of his benefit year, with at least $50.00 of this amount earned in each of two different calendar quarters in such period.

7. Strengthens the disqualification provisions. Workers are now required to actually serve the weeks they are disqualified, unless employed. In addition, under the amended act, the individual who leaves work voluntarily without good cause and refuses to return to employment, will remain disqualified until he has earned wages of at least $200.00 after the refusal of employment.

8. Changes the definition of "base period," the period of time used to determine the wages used to determine the benefits an eligible worker may receive. The term now means the first four of the five completed calendar quarters immediately preceding the first day of an individual's benefit year.

9. Changes the definition of "benefit year," the period in which benefits may be drawn. The term now means the four consecutive calendar quarters beginning with the calendar quarter containing the week for which a claim is first filed for purposes of determining eligibility with respect to governing wages. Subsequent benefit years similarly determined.

10. Redefines the term "total unemployment." A worker is now considered totally unemployed during any week in which he earns no remuneration in excess of $3.00 in subject, non-subject or self employment.

11. Excludes from the coverage of the law service performed by real estate salesmen and agents of insurance companies paid on a commission basis. The legislature also excluded service performed in logging or woods operations paid wholly on a piece work or quantity basis unless such services are included as employment under Title Nine of the Social Security Act.

12. Puts "teeth" in the law in matters relative to fraudulent filing of claims, in addition to retaining present provisions making it possible to criminally prosecute fraud cases in the courts.

13. Requires restitution of benefits received when ineligible. Benefits thus received may also be deducted from any future benefits payable to the worker.

These amendments are of vital importance to workers and to employers and it is essential that both groups obtain a thorough understanding of them.

High houses need tall-growing spreading plants like honey suckle; low houses, such as Cape Cod cottages, may use annuals such as petunias or perennials like hollyhocks or iris for foundation plantings around them.

Americans demand "Convenience"

America has 20 million telephones, 30 million automobiles, 40 million radios. It leads the world in the use of electric appliances, automatic heating and other conveniences. Logically, too, it leads in the use of bank checks. America's banks handle 10,000 checks every minute and have 23 billion dollars of checking deposits—eloquent proof that Americans demand financial convenience, too.

Years ago, the Sunday afternoon promenade often led to our fountain where refreshment and good fellowship awaited the strollers. Many of the acquaintances we made then have endured through the years. Pictorial History of Conner Store in Plymouth

A Village Showplace 50 Years Ago

The Conner store was one of Plymouth's most attractive store buildings back some 50 years ago. (Notice the old wooden town pump near the shade trees along the Penniman avenue side of the store.) This brick structure was built 51 years ago to replace the old wooden store building.

This view of the Conner store was taken after the erection of the first addition on the Main street side of the store just 35 years ago this summer. The other addition to the store on Main street occupied by the Draper Jewelry store was built in 1922. The hitching railings on both Main street and Penniman avenue can be seen in the view. This picture was taken during the winter. A cutter is on display on the sidewalk in front of the store. The trees on the south side of the store were removed over a quarter of a century ago.

The wooden store building shown in this view for the years 1857 and 1884 was removed to make place for the new brick building. The wood structure erected by the pioneer Bennett family some 100 years ago has been remodeled and is now the residence of Mr. and Mrs. George Farwell at 169 Adams street.

Training School Celebrates

Some 800 boys and girls began their summer vacation Monday, July 3 at the Wayne County Training school. The children finished their ten-month school training period. Eagerly awaiting the months of July and August the children will be busy with attractive recreational activities. An increased recreational personnel will be ready to begin the summer program for the children. Extensive outdoor games, cottage projects and indoor swimming in a big pool will replace the formal school program, according to Dr. R. H. Haskell, superintendent of the institution since its beginning, 16 years ago.

A gigantic morning parade involving almost all of the children was staged July 4, followed by a field day in the afternoon. All of the cottages, 15 in number, entered competition for the best float. The floats were made by the boys and girls during their spare time and under the guidance of the cottage supervisors. Clothing of the children in the parade were in keeping with the nature of the float. Boys in the Buffalo cottage displayed their Buffalo Express train float in the parade. The float attempted to show the growth of transportation in America from the early puffing train to the modern China Clipper. The float began with an early model train with cars and ended with a monoplane. Members of the cabin dressed as pioneers, Indians, cowboys, pilots followed the float.

Interest in the making of the floats has been keen. They have indicated creative ability on the part of the children. Awards were given to the three best floats. The huge parade started at the fire department of the school and was led to and around the flag pole. There a cottage song and yell contest was held. Prize ribbons were given to the winners. With the assistance of the supervisors and the education department the children originated their own yells and songs. One of them runs: "Heigh Ho! Heigh Ho! All marching in a row; we'll keep on singing all day long, heigh ho, heigh ho, heigh ho, let's watch our cottage grow; we'll absolutely end the day with a heigh, heigh, ho!" Real cottage spirit is developed like rival universities on the football field. Following the contest, Dr. Haskell gave a brief talk. In the afternoon they took part in the Fourth of July field day directed by the recreation department of the Wayne County Training school.

PICKS UP TREES

Lincoln Park (MPA) — An over-zealous citizen is the only type of person that would be likely to commit this crime. During Lincoln Park's clean-up and beautifying campaign, someone removed three pine trees from the yard of Leland Vogel's home. All were two feet tall and valued at $11, Vogel told police.

Final Rites for Business Leader school house that he attended Boys and girls attended school until their parents thought they had enough education and then they went to work.

Mr. Conner worked for a time in a lumber yard located where the Plymouth Lumber & Coal company is now situated. Then he attended business college for a time in Detroit and upon his return to Plymouth he went to work for his father in the hardware store.

The store opened at 6:00 o'clock in the morning and seldom closed before 11:00 o'clock at night. Practically everything except groceries and clothing, a rapidly growing country town needed, could be purchased at the Conner store. Buggies, kerosene lights, horse shoes, candles, farm tools, cutters and implements of nearly all kinds were carried in stock. In addition to dealing in this extensive stock, the store purchased old rags, copper and iron. Often this material would be taken in trade for tinware, or some other article of merchandise.

Around the big heating stove in the old store, the well known citizens of Plymouth gathered nearly every night to discuss issues of the day. Mr. Conner, like his father, was an ardent Democrat in the old days. It was but natural that his store became the headquarters of the party. The political discussions were frequently enlightened by numerous Republican friends of the Conners. In fact, for years the store was one of the popular gathering places during the evening hours for the citizens of the community who were alert to the issues of the day.

The young son of the Conner family frequently joined in the discussions that took place in his father's store. But if there was trade to wait on, it fell on him to do the work, as the father saw to it that young Conner was well schooled in the mercantile business.

Mr. Conner was an excellent ball player and for many years played on Plymouth's championship team.

It was on March 4, 1898 when the firm of M. Conner & Son was formed. The business of the store grew rapidly.

As years rolled along, Mr. Conner who had always been active in the affairs of the young community, began to take an active interest in community affairs. He served for a time as superintendent of the village water works system.

When there was some discussion as to whether Plymouth should adopt the manager form of municipal government, he was one of its strong advocates. The voters decided to make the change on December 17, 1917. The next spring the honor fell to Mr. Conner of being elected the first village president under the new form of local government. He assumed office on March 25, 1918 and the following year was re-elected president for another term.

Soon after joining the Rotary club when it was first organized he became one of its most active and interested members. Two years ago he was presented with a diamond Rotary pin because of the fact that he had not missed a meeting of the club in ten years. He thoroughly enjoyed the club and kept up a perfect attendance record until illness made it impossible for him to attend.

Besides his business and civic activities, he was for years one of the best workers in the Masonic lodge. He had served in all of the various offices of the organization and some years ago was honored by being made a life member.

It was on February 24, 1888 when he married Miss Mary Katherine Wilcox, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Wilcox, pioneer residents of Plymouth. She died a number of years ago. Two daughters, Mrs. Hazel Katherine Moon of Plymouth and Mrs. Elizabeth Jane Tilton of Concord, New Hampshire, and a sister, Miss Mary Conner of Plymouth besides five grandchildren survive. Funeral services were under the direction of the Schrader Funeral home.

Plymouth Now Has First Class Postoffice

Advancement Effective on 25th Anniversary as Second Class Office

Just 25 years from the time that the Plymouth postoffice became a second class postoffice it has been advanced to the position of a first class postoffice, was the interesting discovery made last Saturday morning when Postmaster Frank Learned and his staff assumed their duties under the new regulations that prevail pertaining to a first class office.

It was exactly 25 years ago, Saturday, that the postoffice was raised from a third to second class rating. Mark Ladd was postmaster at that time. With this advancement of the office to a second class he was permitted to have an assistant and one clerk. He appointed Miss Camilla Ladd as assistant and Miss Rose Hawthorne as clerk. Miss Hawthorne just recently resigned as assistant postmistress.

In 1914, the assistant postmaster and clerk each received $800 yearly and the postmaster's salary was $2,100.

An office with receipts of $8,000 to $40,000 is in the second class and all those offices with receipts totaling over $40,000 per year are first class. The Plymouth postoffice has more than quintupled its postal receipts in the last 25 years.

At the time the postoffice became second class there was considerable controversy as to whether Plymouth residents would receive free mail delivery service. Louis Hillmer, then president of the village, communicated with Senator Charles E. Townsend who took the matter up with the superintendent of free mail delivery. It was not until October, 1914 that a two-route city delivery service was started in Plymouth. A third route was allowed in January, 1928. Three rural routes now deliver mail to the outlying districts.

Due to the fact that there have been additions to the staff of the postoffice as they have been needed, there will be no additional employment at the present time. There are 20 persons in the postal service at Plymouth. A dead letter office will be established here in accordance with the regulations of a first class office.

Postmaster Learned attributes the growth of the postal receipts to the growth of the city.

He said, "Because of the great amount of mail passing through this office from the various manufacturing and business concerns of Plymouth, and because of the steady growth of the entire area served by our postal routes, it was apparent to us sometime ago that Plymouth would soon become a first class office."

His prediction came true sooner than he anticipated.

After a dinner celebrating her eighty-third birthday anniversary, Mrs. Belle F. Wise, of Shelbyville, Indiana, climbed on the rear seat of a friends motorcycle and went for a ride.

Bowling Alleys to be Laid Next Week

Building Exterior Completed; Interior Being Decorated

Finishing touches are being made on the building that is to house the bowling alleys on West Ann Arbor trail. The building itself is completed in so far as the walls, wiring, roof and floor are concerned. Locker rooms, rest rooms, storage rooms, concession room and the pin boys' rooms are partitioned off and are being sealed with plaster boards which will be painted or covered with plaster.

Work will begin on the alleys proper approximately July 10; they will be of the finest construction, using new materials and done by experienced workmen. New equipment will be used throughout when play begins September 1.

The building is of the latest design and construction. It will be steam-heated, with electric fans driving the hot air to all parts of the building. A similar set-up will be used in the summer, using cold water as the means of cooling. As far as possible, a uniform temperature will be kept in both winter and summer.

The building construction is being financed by Manna Blunk and Robert Todd. Paul Wood was awarded the building contract.

When completed, the bowling alleys will provide a new center of recreation in Plymouth. They will be centrally located, close to the business district and have a price per line that will be easily within the reach of those who wish to play.

Dairy Club Meets at Korte Farm

Nevels Pearson, assistant state club leader and E. I. Besemer, county agricultural agent, met with the Dairy Club members for a demonstration on the fitting, showing and judging of dairy cattle.

The club members and their fathers met in the morning at the farm of Fred Korte of Plymouth. Mr. Pearson demonstrated how to fit and show a calf for the county fair.

The group, numbering 35, enjoyed a picnic lunch arranged by Margaret Eckhardt, county club agent. Margaret Cole, home demonstration agent, assisted.

Three Concerns to be Under One Roof

Gustin Builds for Appliance Shop Cleaner and Plumber

One very distinctive evidence of Plymouth's growth is the amount of building going on within the city. Houses are springing up and new business establishments are built.

Some businesses are merely moving into larger buildings to provide ample space for their growing trades. Others are starting anew, while still others are renovating their well-established and reputable business houses.

A new building, which is to house three concerns, is being constructed on South Main street by Charles Gustin. Norman Schoof has the building contract.

The building is to be partitioned off to accommodate the Ericsson Dry Cleaners, formerly Ericsson and Day, who will move to their new location the latter part of July when the building is completed. Richard Kimbrough, handling a line of electrical appliances, will occupy the other portion.

Mr. Gustin will have his plumbing shop at the rear of the newly constructed building.

The structure has a frontage of 33 feet and runs back 60 feet from the sidewalk. Eight men are employed in constructing the building of cement block with a brick front. It is to be painted white except for the bricks at the forepart.

Plymouth welcomes commerce because the prosperity of a town depends upon the business that it does. As business increases the town receives more taxes which enables it to offer more advantages, attracting more people to live within its limits; and as the population grows, so does business. It is a cycle which depends upon the people's trade with local concerns. You are the people; help Plymouth grow.

Signers Needed for Water Main on Williams Street

Commission Grants Use of Kellogg Park to Townsend Club

Because of the fact that not enough property owners signed a petition for the construction of a water main and sanitary sewer along Williams street between Pacific avenue and Arthur street, it was recommended by the city commission at the regular meeting Monday night, July 3, that the petition be again returned for circulation so that more signers might be secured. The petition from the same locality for water improvements was also returned for similar reasons. Sixty per cent of the property owners must sign such a petition for action by the commission. The water main and sanitary sewer petition had only 47.8 per cent of the owners and the petition for water improvements contained the names of 41.3 of property owners.

The city commission granted permission to the Townsend club for the use of Kellogg park one night a week during the summer months.

A hearing was held for the construction of a sidewalk on Mill street from Park avenue north to the old walk. The matter was laid on the table so that the commissioners might have an opportunity to investigate the 633-foot construction.

The city manager was authorized to purchase $390 worth of tarvia in addition to the June 19 order from the Barrett company to complete the road project for the summer. By July 14, all the work should be done on the streets that are to be treated to alleviate the dust menace.

Leaves for Trip to Poland

Stephen Horvath, of this city, is sailing for Europe on July 13 as a result of winning a trip through selling insurance for the Verhovay Fraternal Insurance association.

Mr. Horvath is sailing on the steamship Pilsudski which will leave her dock in New York shortly after midnight, July 12. Her port will be Danzig, Poland. Upon arriving there, Mr. Horvath will immediately take a train to Hungary to visit relatives and friends. Along with him will go 24 other fortunate winners from different parts of the United States.

He plans to stay approximately eight weeks, returning some time in September.

Best wishes for a successful and happy trip are extended from Mr. Horvath's many friends.

Pellerito Resigns at Training School

Philip Pellerito, supervisor at the Wayne County Training school, for the past four years, resigned his position to become associated with the Stebbins Oil company, Reed City. George Stebbins is a brother of Mrs. Philip Pellerito. Plymouth regrets losing Mr. and Mrs. Pellerito, but extends best wishes for their success in this new undertaking.

By an old custom whales captured in English waters belong to the king of England.

Townsend Club Hears of Convention

Members of the Townsend club at their regular meeting last Monday evening heard an interesting report of the Indianapolis convention by Roy P. Woodworth, one of the delegates to the convention from the local organization. The reports of other delegates will be heard at the meeting to be held Monday evening. Mr. Woodworth declared that the convention was the largest and most enthusiastic meeting he had ever attended.

New Ford Tractor a Power House

The new Ford tractor is out and soon will be in full production. At the preview, which the agent had the opportunity to attend, the tractor and Ferguson implements were demonstrated to about 450 persons from 38 states and 18 foreign countries.

The tractor is light weight, has a four cylinder engine, a wheelbase of 70 inches and a normal tread of 48 inches which may be widened to 76 inches in 4-inch steps. It is equipped with four pneumatic tires. The hydraulic implement control acts instantly to raise or lower the implements. The tractor showed tremendous power in the demonstrations; this combined with light weight ruggedness of construction, ease of handling and adaptability to use in small fields makes it a real competitor of the horse which it is designed to supplant.

"Sacrament" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday, July 9. The golden text (Psalms 51:10) is: "Create in me a clean heart, O God; and renew a right spirit within me." Among the Bible citations is this passage (Isaiah 53:7): "He was oppressed and He was afflicted, yet He opened not His mouth; He is brought as a lamb to the slaughter, and as a sheep before her shearers is dumb, so He opened not His mouth." Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p.20): "Despised and rejected of men, returning blessing for cursing, He taught mortals the opposite of themselves, even the nature of God; and when error felt the power of Truth, the scourge and the cross awaited the great Teacher."

THE NEW Mercury 8

OWNERS SAY "It's Swell!"

Read why these experienced car owners bought the Mercury 8

$894

Is the price of this Sedan (delivered in Detroit, taxes extra).

We asked a number of people who formerly owned other cars in the medium-price field why they switched to the Mercury 8. Read their answers at the right. Add them together and you see why this brand-new, grand-new car is an outstanding value.

Here's the important point... Mercury owners liked the car before they bought it. They liked it even better after they got it. Owning it and driving it brought out four additional features.

"MAKE IT A MERCURY" FOR A NEW THRILL IN MOTORING

BEFORE they bought the car we asked—

"What features influenced you most in choosing a Mercury over the car you owned previously?"

APPEARANCE The beauty of the Mercury was stressed in more than 84% of the interviews. You get style leadership in a Mercury.

ROOMINESS More than 70% included the Mercury's spaciousness as one of the big reasons for buying.

QUALITY Materials and fine workmanship influenced a majority.

POWER AND SMOOTHNESS Power of the 95-hp. Mercury engine and smoothness of eight cylinders.

LOW PRICE influenced many. A price backed by the Ford Motor Company's reputation for good value.

AFTER they bought the car we asked—

"From your experience with the Mercury 8, what additional features do you like now?"

PERFORMANCE This was mentioned most prominently by all.

ECONOMY Low fuel and oil consumption was the next most popular feature. Owners reported up to 20 miles per gallon.

HANDLING Ease of steering and parking were third on the list of preferred features. Hydraulic brakes are another Mercury feature.

EASE OF RIDE Owners were so impressed with the advantages of Triple-Cushioned Comfort that they mentioned this among the first four outstanding features.

Says Sod Covered Orchard Is Best

To cultivate orchards or maintain them in sod—that's a question many Michigan orchardists would like to have answered.

There has been some dispute on this matter among horticulturists, but recent experiments, according to Paul Barrett, extension soil conservationist at Michigan State college, indicate that the sodded orchard not only controls erosion, but on some sites it actually increases yield.

This has been the experience of soil conservationists, Barrett says, and a like conclusion was reached in recent investigations in Pennsylvania.

"Yields should be measured over the entire period that the orchard occupies the soil and the condition of the site for future use should be considered," soil conservation men report.

The Pennsylvania experimenters sampled 48 apple, peach and cherry orchards in different parts of that state and found that orchard soils in sod were much higher in organic matter and total nitrogen and less compact than those with cover crop or clean cultivation, Barrett reports.

"Erosion occurring under clean cultivation in orchards on sloping land may be so severe that the site is practically ruined for future use," Barrett says. "Even the system of using cover crops allows considerable erosion, for the ground is usually bare at the period of the year when erosion is most severe."

"If the land has been ruined for further use, it puts a different slant on profits supposedly made on fruit sold."

A LIFE WELL SPENT.

It was with regret but not surprise that Plymouth residents read last week of the passing of William Conner, life-long citizen of this community. He had been ill for many months. Weeks ago it became evident that there was practically no hope of continuing the life of one who had seen Plymouth grow from a small cross-roads settlement to one of the most attractive and progressive cities in Michigan.

It was but natural that one who had spent practically all the years of his life within the community should be active in its affairs. His father was one of the early business men of Plymouth and when young Mr. Conner grew up, i. e. became associated with him in business. After his father died, the young Mr. Conner took over the conduct of the business and remained actively in charge of it until ill health curtailed his efforts.

Mr. Conner typified the business man of the past generation. He was careful, considerate, saving, and always busy. He believed in the strictest of integrity and his business was conducted that way.

To him went the distinction of being the first village president after the citizens had adopted the manager form of government for Plymouth. He believed a change from the old to newer way of conducting the business of the village would be better for the community. Time has proven his position to have been correct.

Indeed, it is with sorrow and regret that Plymouth has been called upon to pay final tribute to such a high type citizen and business man as was William Conner. He and his elderly associates in the city are the men who had much to do in making Plymouth the outstanding community that it is. They dared to venture and in the freedom possessed by business men of the past generation, they were not afraid to stake their all upon what the future might bring. That is why today we have beautiful communities, great industries and great institutions.

The one hope of our future lies in the development of another generation of men of the type of Mr. Conner. He was a good citizen, a loyal supporter of our community and its activities. He lived a long and useful life.

PLYMOUTH'S GOOD FORTUNE.

Not only were members of the First Methodist church pleased last week when the news was published that Rev. Stanford S. Closson had been returned to this city for another year's work by his church conference, but the entire city rejoiced with the members of his congregation. In the two years that Rev. Closson has resided in Plymouth, he has won for himself a host of friends and many admirers for the excellent work that he has been doing. Plymouth is blessed with an exceedingly high type ministry in all of its churches. They work together in close cooperation and as a result of their united efforts, the community profits thereby. May the next year or years of Rev. Closson's services to his church and city be as beneficial for the city as has been his first two years of endeavors.

EQUITY FINANCING.

By H. I. Phillips

(Reprinted from The New York Sun)

"Henry Ford started the Ford Motor Company 26 years ago with $2,800."—News item.)

THEN

A man demonstrates a horseless carriage and asks financial backing. He says his name is Henry Ford.

Nobody knows him. He says he needs about $2,800. He gets it.

The business starts.

TODAY

A man demonstrates a horseless carriage and asks financial backing. He says his name is Ford.

Nobody even asks his first name after he mentions $2,800.

He goes to some wealthy men but they tell him this is no time to take chances.

He goes to a banker. The banker says a horseless carriage might go all right, but the bank is putting all its money into Government bonds.

He goes to a close friend, who expresses the belief a horseless carriage might have a future, but that on account of the economic setup, the unbalanced budget, the inflation scare, etc., it is no time to launch a new project.

He goes to another close friend, who is quite delighted with the horseless buggy, but who "isn't putting any money into anything now on account of the European situation."

He goes to a politician. The politician says a horseless carriage looks okay on paper and might be profitable through replacing the horse and buggy; but that to replace the horse and buggy would be to throw blacksmiths, hack drivers, feed store workers, harnessmakers, etc., out of work.

He finally locates a couple of capitalists who have imagination enough to see a future for the automobile, but he drives them out by predicting that "they will make millions." The thought of what they will pay in taxes scares them so much they order Mr. Ford to forget all about it.

He decided to try Wall Street.

The SEC demands a demonstration. The car works perfectly, but the commission cautions Mr. Ford against undue optimism, overstatement or the use of superlatives. It holds up everything while it makes a six-month inquiry to see if his right name is Henry Ford.

A broker agrees to float stock.

The flotation is rendered a little difficult by SEC rules that lines in the advertisements such as "may ultimately become as popular as the horse and surrey" and "likely some day to take its place as a pleasure vehicle" be deleted in the interests of honesty.

Ford quits Wall street, finally gets $2,800 from a group of friends—Heaven knows how—and starts a small shop.

Labor delegates warn him that for every man he hires to make an auto he must hire at least one livery stable worker.

There are a series of strikes. They are referred to the NLRB. The NLRB investigates for a year and a half and files a report charging that a horseless carriage industry is unfair to whip makers.

Mr. Ford appeals to Washington and explains, rather pathetically, "All I am trying to do is to make some horseless carriages."

There are frenzied speeches in the Senate and House in denunciation of the new invention by orators who speak as "a friend of that noble animal, the horse."

The President names a Commission "To Inquire Into the Aspects of the Horseless Carriage With a View to Possible Effects on the Economic and Social System."

The committee announces it will have a report ready in three years.

LOGIC—BY A WORLDLY EDITOR

We saw something in the newspapers the other day about Governor Dickinson attending a wholesale baptismal service on Belle Isle, Detroit. The governor's religious proclivities are getting plenty of publicity these days. That's because he is governor, we suppose, but even before when he was lieutenant governor, he established a wide reputation as an old-fashioned rock-ribbed churchman. We do not criticize, or mean to ridicule the governor for his personal beliefs. That's his business. We do suspect that there are relatively few people who can or do subscribe to such a rigid program as Mr. Dickinson finds to his liking.

In fact, we think that most of we common ordinary mortals are benefited by a few minor vices. We can remember pretty clearly when playing cards, dancing, smoking, or going fishing on Sunday was a sure-fire through-ticket to hell. For a young man to indulge in a bottle of beer was a signal for his family to call in their sympathetic neighbors and pray for his lost soul. We never questioned the sincerity of these people—neither did we agree with them. Too often we knew that some of the most vociferous of them secretly did a little indulging themselves. It occurs to us now that these little secret vices were what probably relieved the tension and enabled them to go along with the program.

In times past too much glamour was attached to minor vices through the very agencies which condemned them. Cigaret smoking, smutty story telling and occasional clandestine bouts with hard cider were the popular vice-diversions of youngsters forty years ago. From our observation, we have been unable to detect that today's school kids in the 'teen age are as prone to such things as in the old days. In fact, we believe there is less of it—much less of it. We may be wrong.—Schuyler Marshall in The Clinton County Republican.

DESERVED HONORS!

Salutations to Mr. Guy Jenkins, chief of the Lansing bureau of the Grand Rapids Press, who has been made an honorary alumnus—whatever that is—of the University of Michigan. Mr. Jenkins will be a credit to the Ann Arbor school or any other outfit that sees fit to confer comparable distinctions. Mr. Jenkins is an all wool and a yard wide newspaperman. He hates corruption in public business and works for a paper that sees eye to eye with this policy. Jenkins is a credit to his paper, his profession, his friends and the University. To a fellow who was heaved out of high school somewhere between the 10th and 11th grades, it is something of a compliment to know this newly acclaimed academic somebody and are we ever happy?—Muri H. DeFoe in The Charlotte Republican-Tribune.

NOT FOR OUR IDEA!

It has been seriously proposed that Michigan issue $30,000,000 in bonds to take care of the deficit left by the Murphy administration and which will be added to by the present administration unless some drastic cuts are made in expenses. Although the proposal has been made in good faith, we doubt that it would be so acceptable by the people of Michigan. We believe that the bonds would be voted down by a huge majority.

The sales tax was enacted to provide more money for Michigan. It did and it does provide more money. In fact, Michigan has been collecting more tax money under the sales tax than it ever did under the property tax. Of course, a lot of the state money now flows back to counties, cities and school districts. Much of it goes for relief. Yet the taxpayers remember that when the sales tax law was enacted it was to be only an emergency measure, a measure to be dropped as soon as the emergency passed.

That emergency for more tax money is still with us. Legislators and other state officials have pretty well proved that the more money they have the more they spend. They have also proved that as long as there is money in any fund and as long as the state has credit that expenses will not be reduced in any great degree.

Part of the blame for the state's financial troubles lays with us who are not organized into pressure groups. Legislators are visited by delegations seeking this and that, demanding that more money be spent here, demanding that some service be extended, weeping and wailing when any mention is made of reducing expenses and thereby keeping within the budget. The rest of us go our own way. We do not go to Lansing and ask that expenses be cut and so the legislators finally give in to the demands of special interests. It is the human thing to do. How often have we seen children who teased their parents for this and that, and eventually getting it although the parents knew that the family purse could not afford it.

Yet by and large people are opposed to government extravagance, to unbalanced budgets and heavy taxes. They know that by practicing economy we can have just as good schools, just as good a relief program, just as good roads and just as good government as we can by spending more than we take in. In fact, most people believe that unless a halt is called to spending that bankruptcy will bring down schools, relief and all the rest.

A good way to find out how the people feel on state extravagance is a special election on a bond issue. The result would likely be a shock to those theorists of the easy-spending school.—Nelson Brown in The Ingham County News.

A quiet but pretty wedding took place Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Mack, of Hoesnik, when their daughter, Pauline, was united in marriage with Harold J. Cobb of Detroit, the beautiful ring ceremony being used. After Rev. A. L. Bell had pronounced them husband and wife and the customary congratulations were received, the company was invited to the dining room, where they partook of an excellent supper. An article in the Detroit Journal of Wednesday morning states that Mrs. Jones and brother, who under the name of the Alseium Theatre company, have been giving picture shows in the village hall here for the past three years, will build a new theatre in Plymouth. Several sites have been offered her, and as soon as she makes the selection, ground will be broken and a neat little theatre, 30 by 100 feet, and a seating capacity of 500 or 600 people, will be erected. This move on the part of the Alseium company is the result of the village council's refusing to grant their petition to continue its shows in the town hall, and entering into an agreement with local parties for picture shows on the nights formerly taken by the Alseium company.

On July 1, the Plymouth postoffice went on the list of second class offices. Under the new order of things, the office will have an assistant postmaster and one clerk, the salary of each to be $800 per year. "THE STORY OF ALEXANDER GRAHAM BELL"

A stirring simple human drama of a man of genius and the courageous woman who stood always at his side. A picture as great as the love it immortalizes.

Coming soon: "Rosa of Washington Square," July 2, 3, 4; "Return of The Cisco Kid," "Joanna."
