

Vandals Destroy Grave Stones in Old Newburg Cemetery

Vandals sometime last Friday night invaded the Newburg cemetery and turned over some 20 or 30 gravestones, breaking in several pieces some of the tall marble stones as they fell to the ground.

Don Ryder and other officials of the cemetery association, when the damage was reported to them Saturday, asked state police to make an investigation.

The officers responded immediately and are believed to have been able to secure several good fingerprints.

Just who did the damage is not known, but officers are confident that the offenders were probably members of some drunken party out looking for a "good time."

Cemetery lot owners are highly incensed at the outrage and have announced that they will push prosecutions to the limit if officers are able to find evidence as to who the guilty parties are. The Newburg cemetery is one of the oldest in Wayne county and many of the stones destroyed marked graves of some of the first settlers of this part of the state.

Among the grave stones destroyed and tipped over were one marking the grave of Norton Marshall, a sergeant of Company D, Fifth Regiment Michigan cavalry, who was killed in battle during the Civil war, July 19, 1864, near Richmond, Virginia. The remains of the 31-year-old soldier, a Newburg farmer's son who had fought during most of the four years of war, were brought back to Michigan for burial in the family lot at Newburg.

A stone designating the graves of Josiah Smith and his wife, another pioneer family, was destroyed.

Following is a partial list of grave stones that were turned over, and in most cases broken: Mary Ann Everitt, George Ryder, Abner G. Adams, who died in 1860, Marilla Joslin, Thomas Bennett, Hannah L. Bennett, Alonzo Chapman, the Ferguson family, Robert W. Rutter, Blanche Bradner, James D. Norris, the Butler family, the Kipp family marker, the Fels, the Williams family, Ann Curry, who died in 1841, Alexander Tait, who died in 1846, Charles Kidd, Mary Kidd and Jane Williams, who died in 1858. Others in the cemetery were tipped over somewhat but can be righted.

Announce Winners in Tennis Playoff

A majority of play-offs in the first round of the Detroit News novice tennis tournament are completed in Plymouth.

Thirty-six men and 20 women took part in this week's play-off. Pairings were made Saturday and the list of matchings were available Monday. Most of the sets were played the first of the week, but some of the results have not been turned in to playground officials as yet. Recreation Director Anthony Matulis says that as soon as matches are played, results should be given to some member of the staff so that future pairings can be made.

The winner of each match was determined by winning two out of three sets from his opponent. As some of the set scores were not turned in when the winner was announced, many of the following results give only the winner and not his score:

W. Bako over R. Sessions; Edward Reid over W. Lippold, 6-0, 6-0; M. Huber and Harry Frase, no result; Bill Schoutz and H. G. Richardson, no result; Harold Stevens over P. Hansen, D. H. Whipple and J. Angell, no result; A. Parmenter over W. McAllister, 6-0, 4-6, 6-3; J. McLaughlin over R. Straken, Jr.; E. Holdsworth over L. Parmenter; Bill Norman over D. Sweeney, 6-1, 6-3; Rob Norman and J. Klot, no result; William Machan over D. Passage; and O. Beeman and O. Luttermoser, no result.

E. Mastick and J. Packard, no result; L. Coolman over J. Baker, 6-2, 6-2; Dunbar Davis over John Gaffield, 6-1, 6-4; Chase Willitt and Bayless Erdelyi, no result; and Henry Baker over Louis Deby, 6-0, 6-0.

Results in the women's division in the tournament to date are: Margery Allen over Ruth Drews, forfeit; Ruth Wellman and B. Zietsch, 6-3, 7-5; E. Eiert over Jean Hadley, forfeit; E. Barlow over Ruth Hadley, 6-3, 4-1; E. Barnes over M. Erdelyi, 6-3, 6-2.

V. Thatcher over Jean Schoof, 6-0, 6-1; M. Heinz over G. Squires, 6-2, 6-0; B. Smith over D. O'Leary, forfeit; B. Barnes over D. Detting, 6-0, 6-1; and M. Knowles over M. Carr, forfeit.

Mr. and Mrs. John Henderson and son, John, were dinner guests, Wednesday of last week, of Mr. and Mrs. William Rose on the Northville road.

Wild Life Club to Discuss Williamston Plan

Public Urged to Attend Meeting, August 7

As the hunting season for birds and rabbits opens October 15, President B. Champe of the Western Wayne County Conservation association announces that the next meeting, Monday, August 7, of the club will be devoted to the discussion of the Williamston plan for this year.

The Williamston plan is a system of issuing tickets to hunters permitting them to hunt on farmer's property. Tickets are limited thus regulating the number of hunters in this section of the county.

Wayne is the only county in the immediate vicinity open to hunting this year on Sunday, Oakland, Washtenaw and the ones to the south being closed. Naturally it is thought that sportsmen from this section of the state will flock here to do their hunting. But if the Williamston plan is put into effect, hunters will be limited, thus there will not be a wholesale slaughter of game.

The August 7 meeting of the association to be held in the Hotel Mayflower at 7:30, is open to the public and farmers or landholders from western Wayne county are urged to attend. President Champe says that the Williamston plan has a distinct advantage for farmers and that all should be present to formulate the plan to the best advantage.

There will be no program other than the evening's discussion of the Williamston plan. As a citizen, farmer, landholder or hunter it is the public's duty to be present at this meeting to discuss these problems.

Approve School Improvements for WPA Workers

Work to Start When Money is Available

Superintendent George Smith has been notified by Congressmen George Dondero of the favorable action taken by the Works Progress Administration for improvements on the public schools of Plymouth which will amount to $12,715.

The projects, recommended by the board of education, have been designated as "acceptable" to the W. P. A. officials in Washington. The recommendations provide for the improvement of Plymouth high school and grade school buildings and grounds. Work includes constructing addition; plastering, painting, and varnishing; remodeling boiler room; relocating doors, closets, and storage room; removing and rebuilding partitions and windows; constructing a boiler; installing heating, ventilating, electrical, and plumbing systems; laying storm sewers; moving garages; grading and landscaping; and performing incidental and appurtenant work.

The project, according to W. P. A. routine, is now eligible for action taken by the Works Progress Administration of the Michigan office of the W. P. A. and its decision will be governed largely by the availability of funds, the presence of certified relief labor of the types and skills required, and other local considerations.

Bob Champe Hurt in Accident

Bob Champe, son of Dr. B. E. Champe, figured in a one-car automobile accident, one mile east and one mile south of Brighton Thursday night.

Champe was alone at the time of the accident and traveling on the highway. He was driving on the road. He was blinded by the bright lights of an approaching car and failed to make the turn. Champe said that he knew the turn was there, but he failed to turn sharp enough and ran off the road, went down a bank, and turned over.

When found, Champe was unconscious and was taken to Mellis hospital at Brighton. He is now practically recovered from the accident and is at home in Plymouth.

TOWNSEND MEETING IN KELLOGG PARK

The local club will hold its next open air meeting in Kellogg park Tuesday, August 1, and plans to continue these meetings during the hot weather. State Senator Clyde V. Fenner, of Detroit, will be the speaker for this meeting. The public is always invited and welcome.

State Official Visits Friends Here

Joe Thompson, zone distributor of Dodge and Plymouth automobiles, who makes his headquarters at Ypsilanti, visited with friends in Plymouth Tuesday afternoon. Mr. Thompson is chairman of the Mackinaw Island State Park commission and spends a great deal of his time in the summer months on the island administering the affairs of the park. He was appointed to the commission by the late Governor Frank D. Fitzgerald and his term runs for the next five years.

City Ranks 40th in Sale of Postal Bonds

Postmaster Receives Report Covering Per Capita Sale

Plymouth ranks fortieth among the cities in the state for sale of the United States Postal Savings bonds from second class offices, according to a report compiled by the Federal Treasury department and forwarded to Postmaster Frank K. Learned by Ramsey S. Black, third assistant postmaster general. This rank is figured by per capita sale.

The report which covers the year from October 1, 1938, through December 31, 1938, shows that the postoffice sales for Plymouth were $46,087.50. Mail orders amounted to $675.00, fixing the total figure at $46,762.50.

Calumet ranks first, per capita sale, with a total of $219,918.75, followed by Howell, Gladwin, Paw Paw, West Branch, Harbor Beach, Mesick, Allegan, East Axe and Metamora, in the order named.

Plymouth advanced from a second class to first class office, July 1, 1939. Twenty-one of the 110 second class offices in Michigan advanced to first class this year. In order to be placed in the first class, the receipts from that particular office must exceed $40,000.

The per capita sale for Michigan is more than the average for the nation by a few cents. Michigan's per capita sale is $4.86 whereas the national figure is set at $4.32. The average daily cash sales of savings bonds is $1,750,121.90 for the United States.

The highest per capita sale in each postoffice class in Michigan is as follows: Ann Arbor, first class; Calumet, second class; Weidman, third class; and Menasha, fourth class.

Top ranking postoffices for each of the four classes are Detroit with sales of $10,175,662.50; Calumet, $219,918.75; Cass City, $44,775.00; and Pompeii, $15,000.00.

Rotarians Hear About Boy State

Plymouth Rotarians last Friday noon heard much about the Boy State, conducted at East Lansing recently under the direction of the American Legion of Michigan.

The three Plymouth representatives from Plymouth who had the privilege of attending the Boy State during the brief period of its existence, were called upon by Harold Anderson, chairman of the program committee, to tell of their experiences.

As readers of The Mail know, the Boy State is a system of government set up to rule the vacation camp of several hundreds of youngsters who are selected by American Legion members to attend the camp each summer.

The "government" is created along exactly the same lines as the county and the state operate under.

James Stevens, who was elected deputy state treasurer, told of his experiences while serving in that high position, and George Blyton, named assistant chief of police, related his experiences as a law enforcing officer. Earl Meriman, elected a member of the state legislature, related many incidents of differences in enacting legislation for Boy State.

Rotarians thoroughly enjoyed the talk of the young men, who were enthusiastic over the experiences they had enjoyed while attending Boy State.

Large Crowds Hear Wayne Evangelist

Evangelist Fred Brown is drawing large crowds to the tent, Michigan avenue opposite the high school, in Wayne. This is his last chance to hear one of America's most outstanding evangelists. His subjects for the coming days of his stay here are:

Friday night, "Wings Like a Dove"; this will be young people's night. Saturday night, "Our Long Home"; this will be family night. Sunday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock, "Signs of Times"; Sunday evening at 7:30, "Sudden Death."

U. S. Department of Agriculture to Trap Here

Japanese Beetle Object of Federal Inspectors

During the next few days the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine, in cooperation with state and local officials, will place 250 green and white metal insect traps in Plymouth to ascertain whether the Japanese beetle is present. Should infestation be found the information would be used to guide possible control activities.

These traps will be placed chiefly in residential sections, and those doing the work will be credentialed which will be produced on request. State officials ask residents to cooperate by allowing the traps to be placed on their property for a period of about thirty days. Police have been notified about the work.

Each trap will be visited at frequent intervals by an inspector working under the supervision of T. J. Wehrschmidt, Detroit, Michigan.

The Japanese beetle is a pest of economic importance in sections of the country where it is abundant. Most of the insect's life is spent in the soil where the grub feeds on the roots of plants. The adult, which is present in the summer, is about one quarter of an inch long with a green head and brown wing covers. The feeding of the adult damages the flowers, fruit and foliage of many plants.

In this section the first appearance of the beetle would be noticed on grape leaves or in the blossoms of roses.

Trap inspectors do not have information about other plant pests. Requests for such information should be addressed to State Entomologist, Lansing, Michigan.

Northville Woman Speaks to Young Republicans

Club Holds Its First Picnic at Riverside

"Don't sling any mud," and "work together" was the advice Mrs. Arthur Carlson, of Northville, gave the newly formed Young Republican club of Plymouth at a picnic held at Riverside park, Thursday evening, July 20, attended by 20 members.

Mrs. Carlson's purpose in speaking to the club was to arouse interest in local activities and tell the club about similar organizations throughout the state.

"Be sincere in your citizenship, keep good morals and still have a good time," Mrs. Carlson said. Following the picnic, dinner and speech, the club held a short business meeting. Belva Barnes, president of the club, opened the meeting; Mary Holdsworth made a motion that a membership committee of three be formed and Kye Moon supported the motion. The committee members are Harry Fischer, Belva Barnes and Ralph Fischer. Mrs. Carlson also moved that an inter-club committee be formed, seconded by Barbara Olaver. The purpose of this committee will be to help other clubs and to promote inter-club relationship.

To the club of blanks were filled out by members. One had to do with state information and the other was for the president's files.

Young Republican clubs are springing up all over this section of the state, said Mrs. Carlson. Northville and other municipalities in the vicinity of Plymouth are making plans for such an organization and one of the purposes of the local chapter is to aid these newly formed clubs in their preliminary work.

Mixed Team to Play Softball Tonight

A novel thing in the line of softball will be seen tonight (Friday) when the Schrader team of the Central league plays an exhibition game with a team composed of five men and five women from the Register of Deeds' office at Detroit. The game is called for 8:30 p.m.

Three of the girls are collectively picked on an all-star team that played in Chicago.

The Detroit team is booking games throughout Wayne county and is open to schedule games on Friday nights.

Band concerts will continue as for the last two weeks. This Saturday Lewis Evans will direct the band in Kellogg park on the band stand at 7:30. Following the one-hour concert the merchants of Plymouth have an important announcement for shoppers.

Announces Picnic Plans

HAROLD P. ANDERSON

Community Picnic Date Set for August 9

Harold Anderson Heads Committee to Plan Affair

The committee in charge of arrangements headed by Harold P. Anderson, announces that the second annual community picnic will be held at Riverside park, Wednesday afternoon, August 9.

In order that there will be ample space for the affair, which will attract hundreds of Plymouth residents, it has been arranged to have the picnic grounds designated as the entire space from the wading pool up to and including the horse shoe pitching courts on both sides of the road.

A varied program has been planned by the committee which will provide fun for both adults and children. It is planned that prizes will be awarded to winners of contests. The prizes are offered by merchants, manufacturers and professional men of Plymouth.

Free refreshments are offered by the committee including pop, ice cream and cookies. The Plymouth Boy Scouts will have their first aid tent set up on the picnic grounds to administer aid if the occasion demands.

It is also expected that a number of merchants will close their places of business to observe the picnic. However, if stores are closed, in all probability signs will be posted announcing the fact in ample time for pre-picnic buying.

Some of the events scheduled on the program are as follows: races for boys and girls, men and women; potato peeling contest; watermelon eating contest; balloon kicking contest; egg catching for men; tug of war; nail driving contest; peanut races; and a ball and chain race (watch out for this one). The complete program will be announced next week.

The community band will give a concert some time that afternoon. Also, softball games have been scheduled for the day.

The committee in charge of arrangements for the picnic is composed of Harold P. Anderson, chairman; Clarence Elliott, William Rose, William Chioff, Howard Stark, Anthony Matulis, Floyd Eckles, R. H. Smith, John MacLachlan and Edgar Ericson.

No Extension for Auto Plates

With less than five weeks remaining before the August 31st deadline on first half year auto license plates there are still close to 200,000 motorists in the Detroit district operating on "first half tags."

Many inquiries have been received by Harry F. Kelley, secretary of state, and at the Plymouth branch office as to the possibility of an extension of time on the first half plates.

"Such an extension of time is not possible under the law," said Mr. Kelley today. "You must either have the full year plates, good until March 1 next year, by September 1 or quit using your car until such time as new plates are obtained. Sale of the full year plates at half price began July 11 in all of our offices and but comparatively few of the holders of first half plates have applied for the full year tags. It, therefore, seems inevitable that the last few days will find our offices jammed to capacity. I would like to earnestly urge every person who can do so to get their new plates as early as possible and avoid the discomfort of lining up in last minute crowds."

A person in applying for full year plates must surrender the first half plates which are promptly destroyed to prevent possible illegal use.

Would Use Surplus Highway Funds for Crippled and Afflicted Children and Relief Needs

Kiwanians Hear State Trooper

State Trooper Nemtzig of the safety and traffic division of the Michigan State Police was guest of the Kiwanis club at its meeting at the Mayflower hotel, Tuesday evening.

The trooper showed interesting moving pictures, "Your State Police," illustrating the training and life of a State Policeman. The pictures were interesting to the Kiwanians in that they showed the different phases of the work carried on by the department of safety, and other sorts of police activity. It also demonstrated the use of radio and its connection with public safety and criminal apprehension.

"Michigan State Police have the most complete finger print record both criminal and civilian, in the world, excluding those of the Federal Bureau of Investigation," Nemtzig said.

At the conclusion of the illustrated lecture, the state policeman answered questions asked by the Kiwanians.

Grover Shannon arranged for the appearance of Nemtzig, who is from the post at Seven Mile road and Grand River avenue.

Blyton Attends Buyers' Show

John Blyton of the Taylor and Blyton department store will leave for Chicago Sunday to attend a week's convention of the Interstate Merchants Council, which convenes July 31 to August 5.

The convention is a bi-annual affair; a meeting is held in February for summer buying and the July convention is for winter buying. Blyton will be in charge of his winter and Christmas buying next week.

In addition to the warehouse exhibitions and shows, the larger hotels will have from two to 14 floors set aside for displaying all kinds of wearing apparel, china, silver, glass and other goods that department stores sell. There will be 250 lines on display, 18 trade shows, 12 fashion exhibits, banquets, luncheons and breakfast clinics. Everything will be organized for quick and complete buying.

The Interstate Merchants Council is the retail affiliate of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

At the February convention there were more than 22,000 buyers present from all sections of the United States. As many or even more are expected this summer.

As sales in the dress department of Taylor and Blyton have increased rapidly this summer, Mr. Blyton announces that when he returns from the Chicago convention the second floor of the store will be rearranged. The drape and curtain departments will be moved to the basement so as to give more room for additions to the ready-to-wear department.

Formulate Plans for Song Fest

Ruth Hadley reports that plans for the community sing to be held in Kellogg park, August 24, are being rapidly formulated and that groups have already begun to practice for the program.

C. E. Brown, teacher of band and orchestra instruments in the Plymouth schools, has organized the German band which has in the past played on the streets of Plymouth. It is expected that the band will take a part in the song-fest.

As it is planned, sections of the program will be comprised of songs taken from different countries and races in the world. Miss Hadley has made arrangements for Italian, Russian, Irish and Negro songs.

Each race or country will be represented by a scene played by Plymouth young people. Some are portrayed by songs and chorus numbers with their own proper handling of all medical welfare cases, but the law says that they may assist in auditing and reviewing all bills for medical services.

It was strongly urged by myself and others that this provision of the law for county medical advisory committees be made mandatory in the new act, but because of the fact that the proposal is somewhat of a new venture into the field of welfare administration, many felt that the law should not make the appointment of such committees mandatory, but permit each county to make such appointments if its county board desired to do so. It was because of this variance of opinion which resulted in the decision to write into the law a provision which will permit each county to set up a medical committee if the board desires to avail itself of the services of the various medical groups who are willing and anxious to see a proper, economical and efficient administration of the law's splendid cooperation and assistance given to the committee in helping to frame a law for the proper kind.

I would like to state at this point that the members of the social aid and welfare committee of the House of Representatives are under very great obligations to the Wayne County Medical Society and the Michigan Association for the splendid cooperation and assistance given to the committee in helping to frame a law for the proper kind.

Local Representative Speaks Before State Supervisors

Speaking before the annual convention of the Michigan Association of Supervisors at Cheboygan Thursday, State Representative Elton R. Eaton, of Plymouth, urged strongly that the Governor call a special session of the legislature for the purpose of repealing the constitutional amendment adopted last fall which ties up nearly one-half of the state's income for highway department purposes.

He declared that if the state could have at least five or six million dollars of this money, the crippled and afflicted child problem and needed additional funds for welfare and old age pensions could be secured without additional taxation. He said:

When the chairman of your program committee requested me to discuss with you briefly today the welfare act which is a record both criminal and civilian, in the world, excluding those of the Federal Bureau of Investigation," Nemtzig said.

At the conclusion of the illustrated lecture, the state policeman answered questions asked by the Kiwanians.

Grover Shannon arranged for the appearance of Nemtzig, who is from the post at Seven Mile road and Grand River avenue.

The drape and curtain departments will be moved to the basement so as to give more room for additions to the ready-to-wear department.

It will be seen from this requirement that the various county medical advisory committees will be made up of those who are thoroughly familiar with health matters and who know something about the proper costs of medical services.

These committees will assist in formulating medical care for the unfortunate people of Michigan who must seek medical treatment at the expense of the public. Not only will these committees provide the county welfare boards with rules for proper handling of all medical welfare cases, but the law says that they may assist in auditing and reviewing all bills for medical services.

It was strongly urged by myself and others that this provision of the law for county medical advisory committees be made mandatory in the new act, but because of the fact that the proposal is somewhat of a new venture into the field of welfare administration, many felt that the law should not make the appointment of such committees mandatory, but permit each county to make such appointments if its county board desired to do so. ### Rosedale Gardens Writer's Book Picked by Guild

Jack Van Coevering Writes Stories About Birds

Jack Van Coevering, whose home is at 9816 Ingram, Rosedale Gardens, has recently finished a book, "Real Boys and Girls Go Birding," (J. B. Lippincott company) which was chosen by the Junior Literary Guild as their selection for September.

The book is illustrated with dozens of photographs taken by the author and contains 14 stories of adventures in birding.

Being written in a language which every child is able to understand, Van Coevering tests the stories he writes on his own children, Carl, eight years old, and Greta Jane, 5. The children are also the leading characters in some of his stories.

The stories are based upon real hikes with real children and each photograph is a result of hours of watchful waiting for the birds to

Van Coevering plans that a series of books will follow the one he has just written to cover the field of animal life, fishing and wild flowers. His next volume is intended to be "Real Boys and Girls Go Hiking."

Born in the province of Gelderland in The Netherlands, Van Coevering was taken to Grand Haven by his parents when he was seven years old. After studying at Calvin College and the University of Michigan, he began his career in journalism in 1926 as assistant outdoor editor of The Grand Rapids Herald. Since 1931 he has been wildlife editor of The Free Press.

The stories in "Real Boys and Girls Go Birding," tell about geese, heron, larks, robins, mourning doves, waxwings, kingbirds, owls, hawks, pheasants, terns and wrens, with a separate story about a Christmas party for the birds and a chapter on suggested adventures for other real boys and girls.

Mr. Van Coevering was one of the first members of the Western Wayne County Wildlife association of Plymouth, and served on its board of directors until this year.

Jay Club on Camping Trip

The Jay club left for a week-end camping trip at Silver Lake today (Friday). Nine club members and two counselors took the trip. They plan to have another such outing later in the summer.

Next week the Starkweather Junior American Citizen club will meet at the grade school at 5 o'clock and will have a pot-luck supper in Riverside park, after which they will practice for their part in the Community Sing. All Girls' club members will take part.

Wednesday the Central J.A.C. club will have a picnic in Cass Benton park. Club members should be at the high school at 5 o'clock, Wednesday. Thursday the Jay club will meet at the city hall at 7 o'clock for a meeting, after which they will go to their counselor's home for a special meeting. All club members who are not away on vacations should attend as important plans will be made. Friday, the Cardinal club will meet at 6:30 in back of the high school and will practice baseball as they plan to play a girls' team from the Training school very soon. After a short practice the girls will have a social meeting in the city hall.

"All girls and boys should attend the sing practice every Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the grade school auditorium," Ruth Hadley, leader, announced.

Newburg Church to Have Picnic

The Sunday school of the Newburg Methodist church of which J. M. McCullough is superintendent, is going to hold its annual Sunday school picnic at 2:30, Saturday, July 29 in Riverside park. Under the capable leadership of Bob McIntyre a picnic has been planned that is going to provide plenty of fun for everyone—from the youngest child to the oldest adult. Bill Hamilton and Henry Mielbeck as co-chairmen of the program committee are providing a great number of interesting events for all the picnickers to participate in. Perhaps the most novel will be the wife calling contest which is limited, of course, to husbands only. Prizes will be given to the winners of all the various events.

An important announcement will be made relative to one of the items on the program.

Mrs. William Loesch is in charge of the tables. All the food, except ice cream and coffee, will be provided potluck. There will be signs in the park to direct everyone to the location of the picnic.

To remove ink from fingers, dip fingers and an unburned sulphur match in water. Rub the match over the ink spot until it disappears.

Northville VII	0	2	.000

Building New Type of Boats

A new type of small boats is being constructed by the Plymouth Mill Supply. Introducing something new in a line of boats, the company offers the first five at a reduced cost. The boat weighs only 95 pounds and one man can easily handle it.

The Dew-Craft, as the new boat is named, is 12 feet long, 16 inches deep and is of welded construction. Weldwood is three-ply Douglas fir welded together by bakelite. The company submerged a piece of the wood in water for six weeks and upon taking it out were unable to split the piece, and in order to see the condition of the bakelite, had to chisel the pieces of ply apart. Such wood is used for the floor of buses, boats, station wagon panels, etc.

Every joint and seam of the Dew-Craft is put together with bakelite glue and calking cotton. The exterior, interior and oars are coated with bakelite varnish. The varnish is manufactured by Rice and Son whose homes are in Plymouth with the bakelite plant at Northville.

Interested persons may inspect the shop of the Plymouth Mill Supply and view the new Dew-Craft under construction. Two men are building the boats and improvements are being made as each boat is constructed.

Central All-Stars Tangle Thursday

Two all-star teams managed by Johnny Urban and Bernard Demascio played at the Central playground Thursday evening, July 20. Urban's team won, 11-6.

The all-star teams were picked from players in the eight teams in the Central league. The largest representation, on the two teams was by the Super Shell team which placed ten men. The Daisy team placed eight players, Schrader, seven; Plymouth Hardware, six; Sutherland, five; Times, three; Willoughby, two; and Plymouth Mail, one.

Batteries for the winning team were R. Egloff, O. Egloff and J. Williams and Darnell, R. Egloff walked one, struck out one and allowed six hits in four and one-half innings. O. Egloff walked eight, struck out five and allowed two hits in four and one-half innings.

Kleinschmidt, Gilder and Krumm and R. Smith formed the Demascio team's battery. Kleinschmidt walked two, struck out none and allowed 13 hits in the four and one-half innings that he pitched. Gilder who came in at the first of the fifth, walked three, struck out three and two men managed to get hits from him.

Vaughan Smith, the only man on Demascio's team to get more than one hit, managed to get two singles and a triple in five trips to the plate.

Hudson, playing on Urban's team got one single and two doubles in three times at bat. Other team members who were power men for the attack were D. Gillis who connected for two singles and a double, O. Egloff hit a home run and walked once while up to the plate twice and L. Herter also hit a homer.

Starting lineups were: For Demascio's team: Krumm, c; H. Wagonschutz, cf; V. Smith, 1b; Wolfe, 1b; Drake, rf; B. Fisher, 2b; W. Carr, 3b; C. Carr, ss; Schiffe, lf; and Kleinschmidt, p. Substitutions were R. Smith, c; Jewell, cf; R. Burley, 1b; D. Carr, rf; Schrader, 2b; Kincaide, lf; and R. Gilder, p.

cf; Darnell, c; Gaffield, 1b; L. Smith, lf; Baker, rf; and O. Egloff, p.

Urban's team collected 11 runs, 15 hits, six left on base, five walks, three strike-outs, two home runs, three two-base hits and 10 singles.

The losing team was able to score six runs on eight hits and nine walks. There were 10 left on base, six strike-outs, seven one-base hits and one three-base hit.

The winning Urban team will play the winner of the game which is to be played between two all-star teams picked from the Starkweather league. The game will take place on Central playground, August 3, at 6:20 o'clock.

Bicyclist Stops in Plymouth on Leg of 10,000-Mile Trip

Hoping to travel 10,000 miles by bicycle before his twenty-first birthday in October, Paul Henning, a 20-year-old Minnesota boy, stopped in Plymouth last Friday evening before traveling on to Detroit. While at Plymouth, Henning was the guest of a friend, Kenneth McMullen of Newburg.

Accompanying Henning on his trip is his 32-pound shepherd dog, Ginger. Together they have made the 1,321 mile trip from Albert Lee, Minnesota to Plymouth, working along the way and really saving money. Paul started from a small southern Minnesota town with $2.15 and has made enough along the way doing odd jobs, such as picking strawberries at St. Ignace, to send home $5. He also made souvenirs fashioned from paper birch bark.

While in Detroit he will have some photographs taken of Ginger and himself which he plans to autograph and sell.

Paul's present tour will cover 10,000 miles by October 10. He won't stop then, however, as he will leave for the San Francisco Exposition next fall. Henning has set his goal at 100,000 miles, which will take him to South America, Europe and South Africa.

Collecting autographs of famous personages is one of Paul's favorite hobbies. He now has 1,691 signatures and hopes this number will grow to 15,000 by the time his tour is completed in the fall.

Crown Prince Olav of Norway autographed Henning's book at the Concordia Lutheran church at Superior, Wisconsin, Sunday, June 18. This is Paul's most highly prized autograph.

The 20-year-old Minnesotan has met 2,500 people since May 27, and he hopes to meet 20,000 individuals prior to the termination of his 10,000 mile tour.

Governor Harold E. Stassen; Mrs. Prentiss Brown, wife of the United States Senator from Michigan whose home is at St. Ignace, and Mrs. John Miller of Detroit are among Paul's prized autographs. Also in this list are Willis D. Lincoln, whose grandfather, John, was a second cousin to President Abraham Lincoln; and Governor L. D. Dickinson, of Michigan.

In the course of his journey, Paul has climbed the world's highest ski slide, at Iron Mountain, Michigan, which has a 500-foot vertical drop. He visited the oldest city in Michigan, St. Ignace, founded in 1672; attended Holy Mass at St. Ignatius church, St. Ignace, and trekked through the Hartwick pines at Grayling. This forest of pine trees is the only virgin timber of this sort left in Michigan. While at Grayling he visited the National Guard encampment.

Paul has letters of introduction to two United States Congressmen, which through them, he has a fine opportunity to meet President Roosevelt.

He hopes to meet Fr. Coughlin and Henry Ford while in Detroit.

Henning's east goal is the New York World's fair.

Paul believes that the best education one may attain is through traveling, because one actually comes in contact with persons, places and things that others merely read about.

After completing his 100,000-mile trip, Paul contemplates attending Antioch College at Yellow Springs, Ohio.

Glenn Jewell Finds That Fishing in East Is Poor

Returns From Trip Through Eastern States

"There is better fishing in Michigan than in the New England states," says Glenn Jewell, who has just returned from a tour of the eastern part of the United States. "There is some lake fishing, but the trout are just about gone from the turbulent mountain streams that one hears so much about," he went on to say.

"The natives told us that we were just wasting our money in buying trout licenses when we inquired where to fish. The streams look ideal for trout, but they are fished to death every year."

Making their destination Quebec, Mr. and Mrs. Jewell started in a round-about way of getting there. They headed for Niagara Falls, crossed the river at that point and went into upper New York. Passing through Rochester they headed for the Adirondack mountains where they viewed Old White Face, one of the highest points of the range, a few miles above Old Forge. The mountain gets its name from the portion of bare rock which is near the summit.

Continuing eastward they came to Lake Champlain. By ferry they crossed the lake to Burlington, Vermont, and went on to Lancaster, New Hampshire.

Among the more interesting places that the Jewells visited was the Franconia notch on which is the "Old Man of the Mountain." This formation appears to be the profile of an old man.

From there they journeyed to Mt. Washington, one of the highest points in New Hampshire. They took an old cog railroad to the top. It was nearly a 40 percent incline. Each train had only one coach and three trains were used before they reached the summit. From the top on a clear day one may see the Atlantic ocean which is many miles away from this point. The trip to the top and return lasted four hours and in the 52 years of operation, there have been no accidents nor has there been anyone killed taking this dangerous ride.

In the vicinity of Crawford and Pinkham notch there is a number of summer resorts, hotels, inns and cabins. Mr. Jewell said that in so remote a spot it was difficult to believe that enough people would come for the summer, but the hotels, having as many as 400 rooms apiece, are often filled.

As Mr. Jewell is interested in geology, one of the most interesting spots he visited was the Chetford mines in Canada. There they take asbestos rock, hornblende, from the mountainside. The whole city is typically one of mining and is controlled by the Johns Manville company. They finally arrived at their destination, Quebec. The city was found to be quaint and interesting. Mrs. Jewell said, "One can spend days there without seeing anything. We liked especially the museum where we spent five hours, one day."

Quebec has its own Fifth avenue. Behind the Chateau Frontenac, one of the larger hotels, near the shore of the St. Lawrence river, there is a boardwalk where, along toward evening, the people parade back and forth in their Sunday best.

When they ferried across the St. Lawrence at Levis on their return trip it happened that there were three American gunboats just approaching the old fort at Quebec. As they drew near, a 21-gun salute was fired, and the Canadians answered the volley with 21 shots from their own cannon.

The thing that impressed the Jewells about Quebec was the narrowness of the streets. In traveling down the oldest street there was scarcely one foot of clearance on either side of the car.

Leaving Quebec they visited the Old Kent House, which was formerly used by the Duke of Kent and is on the way to St. Ann. It is situated at the side of the Mt. Morency falls which are said to be 50 feet higher than Niagara Falls. The house, when abandoned by the Duke, was used by Ex-President Taft as a summer home.

In Maine the Jewells stopped at the Kennebec river, once famous for its salmon fishing, but now only known for its fishing history. This river is about 15 miles south and west of the much-talked-about Moosehead country.

Near Hanover and Andover in the Newbury and Paris range of mountains the mining industry commands the attention of tourists. There, feldspar and mica are taken from the range. Also a rock formation from which imitation gems are made for costume jewelry is taken. From the feldspar, pottery clay is derived.

"People are actually panning for gold on the Swift river, and getting some, too," Mr. Jewell said.

From Bar Harbor to Gloucester the fishing industry is most important. Gloucester is typically Portuguese. Located there is an artist colony which with its quaint atmosphere all goes to make Gloucester the city that it is.

The next place of interest visited was the historic Revolutionary War battlefields at Lexington and Concord.

Finding that they were a few days ahead of schedule, Mr. and Mrs. Jewell decided to go back north to Vermont where they visited the famous "Sugar Orchards," sugar bushes to Michiganders. Then following the Mohawk trail, their course was set for Michigan and home.

The Jewells took about 800 feet of movies in color which in future years will remind them of their vacation in 1939.

The Past Matron luncheon club was entertained Wednesday at the summer home of Mrs. F. D. Schrader at Island Lake.

Next winter Orena Wilder will have to ride the 14 miles from her home in Walden, Kentucky, to the college in Williamsburg all by herself. For her father, M. H. Wilder, 44, and her two brothers were graduated this year. Orena is a senior at the college.

When Austria Started World War 25 Years Ago

Twenty-five years ago Friday, July 28 Austria declared war on Serbia and thus precipitated the World War; just 30 days after Archduke Franz Ferdinand had been assassinated at Sarajevo. Photos show Count Berchtold, foreign minister of the old Austrian-Hungarian empire, whom Biographer Emil Ludwieg blamed for inducing Emperor Franz Joseph to war on Serbia; and Serbian troops manning heavy field artillery which helped make the Austrian invasion a disastrous failure.

Attendance Still on the Increase

Attendance in the summer recreational program continues to increase even though Plymouth and vicinity is suffering from the recent hot spell. The weather has made no difference in the enthusiasm and interest shown by the children, and all seem to be enjoying and deriving benefits from the program planned by the capable staff, headed by Anthony Matulis.

The officials are directing numerous and varied activities and all are being supervised with utmost skill and care.

Tennis has taken the limelight in tournament matches are being played at the Riverside park courts almost every morning and evening this week. The results are printed elsewhere in this paper. ## Miss Barbara Adams Weds New Jersey Resident in The East

In the chapel at Smith college, Northampton, Massachusetts, on Tuesday evening, July 18, Miss Barbara Nancy Adams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Parker Adams of Grosse Pointe, Michigan, was married to Alfred Wolwood Jones, son of Mrs. Adam LeRoy Jones of Montclair, New Jersey, and the late Professor Jones. The ceremony was performed by the Reverend Archibald Black of the First Congregational church of Montclair, and Professor Wilson T. Moog of the department of music of Smith college presided at the organ. The guests were limited to the immediate relatives and close friends of the couple.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white satin, point lace, and net, the long veil falling from a cap fastened with orange blossoms. She was attended by Miss Jean Marie de Forest of New York.

Arthur Clements Twitchell, Jr., of Westhampton Beach, Long Island, a college classmate of the groom, was best man, and the ushers were the groom's two brothers, Murray LeRoy Jones and Wallace Sylvester Jones.

The wedding party met at a noon luncheon at the Lord Jeffrey in Amherst, and an informal reception following the ceremony was held at the home of Miss Clara P. Bodman on Elm street, where the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Frank B. Adams, her parents, her aunt, Mrs. Thomas D. Macmillan, the groom's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George Weidner Murray, his mother, and Miss Bodman assisted in receiving.

The bride was graduated from Miss Beard's school in Orange, New Jersey, and is a member of the class of 1940 at Smith college. Her early American ancestry includes Colonial and Revolutionary officers of the Adams, Eaton, Cressy, Parker, and Webster families. Her grandfather, Dr. Frank B. Adams, was one of the physicians active in Michigan's early public health measures, and practiced in Plymouth, Michigan, from 1883 to 1905, moving then with his family to Northampton.

The groom holds his bachelor's and master's degrees from Columbia university, where his father was long a member of the department of philosophy and director of admissions. He is under appointment as a member of the faculty at the University of Maine and the young couple will reside in Orono after two months in Michigan and the Adirondacks.

Sec'y of State Releases Total Registered Cars

Number Greater Than Last Year's by 13,465

Comparative figures released for publication July 21 by Harry F. Kelly, secretary of state, reveal a total of 1,585,463 automobile registrations for the year 1939. This total shows an increase of 13,465 registrations over the entire 1938 period.

Full year plates issued for 1939 number 1,001,093 sets, while half-year plates total 584,370 sets.

During the next four weeks more than a half million sets of half-year license plates will expire. These plates must be replaced by full year plates not later than August 31, 1939.

Mr. Kelly fears that unless prospective purchasers buy their plates early, the same hardship that was invoked upon the public in 1939 will be repeated this year.

Full year license plates went on sale at the branch office of the secretary of state at the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce office in the Mayflower hotel, July 11, for half price.

Mrs. Harry Davis, of Coalport, has just completed a quilt of triangular patches that she started 23 years ago.

Garden Party on White Estate

The lovely garden of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur White of Canton Center road was the center of attraction one evening last week when a sizeable and appreciative audience heard Miss Olive Genovese recite a varied program, including her original interpretation of Matrilinck's "Blue Bird."

The stage which had been artfully arranged in a natural setting of trees and flowers was lighted with many colored lights and scattered through the trees of the spacious lawn were gay, colorful Japanese lanterns.

Many of the guests assembled early and had the pleasure of enjoying in the twilight the rock garden, peacocks, pheasants and other unusual attractions that enhance the beauty of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur White's estate.

Five high school girls, dressed in their prettiest summer formal, acted as ushers. The lake covered refreshment table was centered with an exquisite cut glass punch bowl on a high crystal standard. On each side stood low bowls of garden flowers and the dancing candle light from tall candelabra added their touch of quiet loveliness.

Quite in harmony with this setting were the clear, high tones of Miss Betty Ridley's voice and the low sweet melody of Dr. H. C. Rufes' violin. Their accompaniment was played by Mrs. M. J. O'Conner upon whose shoulders rested the burden and correspondingly the greatest credit for the success of the garden party.

She was assisted by many willing workers culled from the ranks of the Methodist Men's club, Ladies' Aid and choir and wishes to express her appreciation to everyone who contributed in any way for not only were the brain and brawn of the men needed, but the dainty cookies and delicious punches whose ingredients were partially donated by three local merchants helped materially. All in all, the party was a successful venture which will long be remembered.

Barbers Clip Opponents

The Barbers continue to shave their opponents in the Plymouth golf league. Following them in second place is the Bell Telephone team and down the line in order is Mac's Service, Plymouth Mail, Todd's Market and Jewell's Cleaners.

There are only three weeks of tournament play left before the contest ends, at which time the prizes will be given out. With plenty of time for the places to still be juggled about a bit, it is predicted by Casey Partridge that the contest is almost certain to be a photo-finish with the next three weeks telling the tale.

Next week is the 13th week, and the schedule is as follows:— August 8: Barbers vs. Todd's; Blunk & Thatcher vs. Newburg Fords; Cloverdale vs. Metro-Life.

The team standings and points are, Barbers, 37; Bell Telephone, 33; Mac's Service, 30; Plymouth Mail, 25; Todd's Cash Market, 21½; Jewell's Cleaners, 21½; Newburg Fords, 20½; Union Paper & Twine, 25; Blunk and Thatcher, 25; Wild & Co., 24½; Sanitary Bakery, 24½; Metro-Life, 22; Maybury San., 18½; Bill's Market, 14½; Cloverdale, 13; and Ken & Ork, 12½.

In seeking a divorce from her husband, Mrs. Marie Buckley, 25, of Chicago, waived alimony, saying she could support herself as a gymnasium teacher. Grounds for divorce were that her husband beat her. The court wanted to know why, if she was a gymnasium teacher, she didn't hit back. Mrs. Buckley answered, "I'm a lady." She was given the divorce.

Crop Conditions Above Average

Big Yields Predicted for State

Exceptionally favorable growing weather prevailed during June. The month was moderately warmer than usual, and the rainfall was frequent in occurrence and ample in amount. The condition on July 1 of all field and fruit crops, with the single exception of spring wheat, was above average according to the reports received from growers by the Michigan Co-operative Crop Reporting Service. The composite condition of 16 leading field and fruit crops was 81.9 percent of normal, compared with 77.7 percent a year ago and a 10-year average of 73.5 percent. While most field crops showed only a slight lower condition percentage than on the corresponding date of last year, the fruit outlook was far better. The total acreage of 14 principal crops for harvest this year was estimated to be about one percent less than that actually harvested. This lower condition percentage for average abandonment between July 1 and the harvesting dates. The actual abandonment in 1939 was considerably less than usual. For that reason, it may be assumed that there has been no material difference between the two years in total planting. The official report shows an increase of 3 percent in hay acreage this year compared with last year; an increase of 18 percent in spring wheat; an increase of 15 percent in barley; an increase of 4 percent in rye; an increase of 50 percent in flax; an increase of 6 percent in corn; an increase of 75 percent in soybeans. Crops showing decreases are as follows: Winter wheat, 21 percent; corn, 3 percent; sugar beets, 4 percent; and field beans, 6 percent.

For the third successive year corn prospects are excellent. The report on the condition of corn indicates an average yield of 38 bushels per acre. If such a yield is obtained it will be the highest since 1925. Wheat prospects remain practically unchanged from the previous monthly report. The indicated yield of 21 bushels per acre is equivalent to a production of 14,880,000 bushels. This is more than 4,000,000 bushels less than was harvested in 1938, as a result of a 21 percent reduction in acreage.

Dry weather in May retarded the growth of oats and barley and, while considerable improvement has been noted in some of the yield per acre, is expected to fall short of that obtained in 1938. The July 1 condition indicated a yield of 32 bushels of oats and barley last year. The yield of rye is estimated at 13 bushels per acre against 13.5 bushels harvested in 1938.

The acreage devoted to potatoes was estimated at 265,000, an increase of 6 percent over the previous year. The reported condition of 86 percent indicates a production of 27,825,000 bushels in comparison with a crop of 30,000,000 bushels in 1938. Such a production, if realized, would be 7 percent larger than the average of the preceding 10 years. Prospects for the crop are generally good throughout southern and central Michigan. In some northern districts, especially in the leading commercial counties of the Upper Peninsula, heavy rains have rotted many seed and considerable replanting has been necessary. In some other local areas planting has been delayed by frequent heavy rains.

The estimated acreage of sugar beets for harvest is placed at 117,000, which is 5,000 acres less than the area harvested last fall. The condition of the crop was reported as 86 percent of normal, which reflects a probable yield of about 8.5 tons per acre under average weather conditions for the remainder of the growing season.

The acreage of field beans for harvest this year, after allowing for average abandonment, was estimated at 439,000 acres. The reports of growers indicate only a slight reduction in plantings in the leading commercial counties but a considerable reduction in outlying districts. Growing conditions have been favorable in most sections, and the reported condition on July 1 was 86 percent of normal. The yield is one point higher than on the corresponding date last year and 11 points above average. On the basis of average weather conditions for the remainder of the season, such a condition indicates a total production of 3,504,000 bags.

The acreage of all tame hay was estimated at 2,714,000 acres which is about 3 percent more than was harvested in 1938. Of this amount, 1,100,000 acres is alfalfa; 1,374,000 acres is clover and timothy; the remainder being various miscellaneous kinds. The acreage of alfalfa is the second highest on record, being exceeded by 3,000 acres in 1937. The condition of alfalfa was reported at 87 percent of normal, and of clover and timothy at 83 percent. The crop made decided improvement during June. Haymaking began later than usual, frequent rains having delayed operations. The reports of growers indicate that quantities of hay have been more or less damaged. Total production was estimated at 3,667,000 tons, compared with 3,714,000 tons harvested last year, and 3,040 tons on the average for the preceding 10 years.

Three Concerns Build Near Business Area

Finlan, Gustin and Bowling Alleys Nearing Completion

Commercial building near the business section in Plymouth has forged ahead during the summer months. Three buildings are being erected, one on South Main street and the other two on West Ann Arbor Trail.

Charles Gustin is constructing a building at 628 South Main street that is to house three concerns. The Ericsson Dry Cleaners, formerly Ericsson and Day, long established in Plymouth (will occupy one-half of the building and Richard Kimbrough, handling a line of electrical appliances will move to the other portion. Mr. Gustin plans to have his plumbing shop at the rear.

The structure has a frontage of 33 feet and runs back 60 feet from the sidewalk. The building is constructed of fireproof brick and cement block. It is to be painted white except for the brickwork at the front of the building.

It is expected that work will be completed sometime during the next two weeks, and the business establishments will move to their new location then. Bowling fans from Plymouth will be glad to know that soon, perhaps by the first of September, the bowling alleys at 564 West Ann Arbor Trail will be ready for play.

The building is of new type construction and modern throughout. Financed by Manna Blunk and Robert Todd, it is expected that these alleys will be among the finest in Michigan.

At 893 West Ann Arbor Trail, C. L. Finlan and Son are erecting an office building which is expected to be completed early in September. The building is a one-story structure with a frontage of 36 feet and a 28-foot depth. It is constructed of cinder block and decorated with brickwork, making it fireproof throughout, and planned in such a manner that upper floors may be added if desired. The building has two suites of offices, one to be occupied by the Finlans and the occupants of the other have not been made known.

The Finlan insurance agency has long been located in offices in the Mayflower hotel and when they move to their new location, the hotel offices will be taken over by the Mayflower manager, Ralph Lorenz.

Another project near the business area is the Tunquish drain construction which is rapidly nearing completion. When the conduit is covered, a new street, Forest avenue, will continue from what is now a dead end at Wier street to West Ann Arbor Trail. The new street will be 50 feet wide.

Residents along South Main, Wing, South Harvey, West Ann Arbor Trail and the other portions of town that are near the creek bed, fully realize the distinct advantage of the tile during the recent hot weather.

A tablespoon of kerosene added to the water with which windows, mirrors, and glass on pictures are cleaned will make them shine bright and clear.

Mrs. Charles Lance's eight-year-old canary is back in its cage at her Marion (Ill) home after an 11-month vacation. The bird had been missing since last summer when a cat jarred the door of the cage as it hung on the front porch. The canary was found perched on a fence near the Lance home and was coaxed back into its cage.

Would Use Surplus Highway Funds for Crippled Children and Relief Needs

of a welfare administration in the state government. Each county should immediately avail itself of the rights extended to it for the establishment of county medical advisory committees. It will save the taxpayers hundreds of thousands of dollars.

During the past few days there has been much said about the danger of the crippled and afflicted children of the state not receiving the proper medical and hospital aid that they should have.

Every person interested in the welfare problem is also interested in the care of afflicted and crippled children. In fact, nearly all of these cases are welfare problems and those conducting welfare work throughout the state have long realized that the administration of crippled and afflicted child work should be consolidated with the newly created state welfare department.

It was the purpose of the social aid and welfare committee of the house of representatives last spring to write a provision in the new welfare law turning over to the welfare department this responsibility. In fact, the required sections had at one time been written.

Only after the urgent insistence of some members of the Crippled Children Commission was the decision of the house committee changed.

The Commission pointed out that it was its belief that as long as the work pertaining to afflicted and crippled children was being carried on satisfactorily under its direction that this was not just the time to bring about a consolidation of all of these activities. It was argued that the state would be setting up an entirely new welfare organization under the new welfare law and that there would be more or less confusion in the work, for a time at least.

Members of the commission agreed that the administration of the afflicted and crippled children work belongs under the welfare department, but strongly recommended that the step not be taken until the next session of the legislature because of the reasons stated.

It was with hesitation that some members of the house committee finally consented to the proposal to consolidate all of these activities just at this time.

Developments of the last few days have fully convinced me at least that the step should have been taken when the new welfare law was passed. I do not mean in any way to criticize the Crippled Children Commission, but as practically every crippled and afflicted child case is a welfare case, there is no reason why the administration of this work should be carried on by a separate group.

But this action was not taken and we now have the problem on our hands to take care of these cases in the best way we can.

Even though the law leaves the administration of these cases under the Crippled Children Commission, the problem has become one for the new welfare department and all of us to work out as quickly as it can be done.

The condition that has caused so much criticism has been brought about as the result of state finances. There is not sufficient income for state officials to meet all obligations of the state government. The University of Michigan hospital is a public hospital, but it is in exactly the same position as the state government, and it has no reserve it can use for temporary emergency cases. I have declared it is the duty of the hospital to accept all of these cases irrespective of its financial condition, but its bills, like those of the state, must be paid some time and it has no reserve fund.

There is no need in discussing with you the reasons, and why Michigan is in this financial plight. Everyone knows why.

I do not know whether you will agree with me or not, but there is a way out for the relief of the situation we are in. My proposal will require a special session of the legislature as well as a special election of the people of Michigan, so we can have the steady flowing golden gusher of the state highway department.

Why Michigan voters last fall ever wrote into the constitution that all of the $48,000,000 or more revenue from the weight and gas tax could only be expended for highway purposes is more than I can understand.

I have a proposal of the state highway department, and when the voters approved it, they tied up almost one-half of the entire state income for one single state department. It might have been smart politics, but it has proven a calamity to the state.

While we are facing the possibility of turning crippled children out of hospitals, some of us have no state funds with which to pay for their treatment, we have voted almost $50,000,000 for highway improvements, grade separations, street widenings and other thoroughfare projects that can wait a year or two without the slightest inconvenience to anyone.

I hope that you will agree with me on this point and that you will urge the Governor to call a special session of the legislature so that we can ask the people of Michigan to give the legislature a right to use some of these surplus highway funds for the relief of our afflicted and crippled children.

There is no one in Michigan more interested in the welfare of our unfortunate boys and girls and our unfortunate men and women than you who are gathered here today to discuss the best ways of spending tax dollars for the benefit of our distressed people.

You know and I know that the legislative appropriation made for welfare and old age pensions will probably fall far short of the needs of the state during the present year. While it was the intent of the legislature to require counties to meet as much of the welfare cost as possible, we all know that there are many counties in the state that are unable to raise additional tax revenues.

The entire income of the state government will probably be somewhere around $101,000,000 this year.

Take $48,000,000 out of that total for highway purposes and another $41,000,000 for public school aid, and you have left barely $12,000,000 for your crippled children, for welfare, for old age pensions, for the state hospitals, for the normal schools, for the University and State college, for the dozens of other state institutions and all of your state departments, except the highway department.

Add to this condition an inherited $30,000,000 deficit of the last two years, without a single extra cent coming into the state treasury to pay off these old debts, and you have a fair idea of the financial plight of the state.

I hope that you will agree with me on the necessity of asking the Governor to call a special session of the legislature for the purpose of making an effort to repeal the highway department constitutional amendment which ties up almost $50,000,000 of the state's income.

Some will say they do not believe in "diverting" any of this income from the automobile weight tax and the gas tax. That will be the big argument of the highway department.

Let me ask you, do you think it more important that thoroughfares in the city of Detroit be widened than it is to care for the suffering of our state? To widen these streets it is necessary for the highway department to purchase expensive business frontage that is being used daily and providing the owners with a substantial income.

I do not wish to be misunderstood. I favor highway development and highway improvements. We have to have it all.

But why not call a halt on some of this work for a time and use the money so badly needed for the relief of suffering in our state?

If we could have but $2,000,000 of this money for the afflicted and crippled children, the state could easily take good and proper care of every child in need. If we have another $4,000,000, or $5,000,000 for relief and old age pensions, state officials and the supervisors of Michigan would not have to be spending sleepless nights trying to figure out ways to secure additional tax money to help feed and clothe our hungry people. We all know that new taxation is out of the question.

Under our new welfare organization we will be able to eliminate many of the abuses that have characterized the relief situation in past years. We should be able to operate with less administrative costs.

All that we ask for during the next two years is a sufficient amount of money to carry on the humane task that confronts us.

I have told you of the way to secure these funds—and I hope that you will agree with my proposal and do what you can to eliminate the control of the state highway department over nearly one-half of the state income so that we can have some of this money to feed the hungry, and care for the crippled and afflicted children of Michigan.

Five Permits Issued Since July 1

From May 1 to July 1, Ten Buildings Started

During the month of July there have been five building permits issued by the city, four of which are for residences.

Two of the houses are to be built in the ten-hundred block on Carol street. Orvil Wright will build to the extent of $1,200 at 1029 Carol and Fred Wagenschultz plans a $2,300 house at 1045 Carol street. Fred A. Hubbard and Company have permits to build a $3,300 house at 242 Auburn and another at 371 Pacific for $3,000.

The C. L. Finian and Son building under construction at 893 West Ann Arbor trail has an estimated cost of $3,500.

From May 1 to July 1, 1939, there were 10 permits issued to build, involving $32,650.

At 362 Pacific avenue, Fred A. Hubbard and Company is building a $3,500 house and $4,300 is being spent by R. Blomberg for a home at 348 Arthur. Two families have obtained $500 permits to change their single homes to double. One is at 189 Union and the other at 455 North Mill.

The Blunk and Todd $7,500 bowling alley is being built at 584 West Ann Arbor trail. B. J. Curtiss has been permitted to build a $4,100 home at 417 Auburn and $2,500 is being spent by George Burgett for a home at 202 North Holbrook. R. F. Widmaier is building a $3,950 house at 473 Adams street. W. Hoisington's home involving $1,800 will be at 189 Union and a single family home will be converted to a double house at 115 South Mill. This change will cost $2,000.

F. J. Sanders is building a $2,000 home at 651 Auburn. It is planned that all of the buildings which are now under construction will be finished by the end of the summer. They will not be added to the city tax rolls until April, 1940, however.

One of the latest and most comprehensive views of West Virginia's new 10-million dollar state capitol, designed by the late Cass Gilbert, New York City. The structure is considered one of the finest governmental buildings in the United States.

Phone Company Helps Police

For the purpose of aiding the federal, state, county and municipal law enforcement officers in their war on crime in the state, the Michigan Bell Telephone company has issued the sixth edition of its Police Telephone and Teletype directory. Copies are being delivered to the authorities throughout Michigan, including Chief Vaughan Smith, of Plymouth, according to J. R. MacLachlan, the company's manager in this area. Copies also are being supplied to newspapers for the use of their editorial staffs in getting into quick touch with the authorities.

Listed in the directory are the names and telephone numbers of the chiefs or heads of all municipal police departments; sheriffs of the 83 counties; commanding officers at all of the 39 state police posts and the several federal law enforcement bureaus or branches in Michigan, including the Alcohol Tax Unit, Bureau of Narcotics, Customs Service, Federal Bureau of Investigation, the Immigration and Naturalization Bureau, Postoffice Inspectors, Treasury Department Secret Service, U. S. Marshals, and their several units and branches.

Reproduced in the book is a map which shows the layout and locations of instruments in the Wayne county teletype law-enforcement network, together with the call numbers of the 25 machines in use. The Wayne county police teletype system ties together the Department of State at Lansing, the Detroit and Rockwood state police posts, the Wayne sheriff's offices, Detroit police radio station on Belle Isle, Grosse Pointe township police radio station, and the police departments of various municipalities including Dearborn, Detroit, Ecorse, Wyandotte, Flat Rock, Plymouth, Highland Park, Hamtramck, Grosse Pointe City, Grosse Pointe Farms, Grosse Pointe Park, Grosse Pointe Shores, Lincoln Park, Melvindale, Northville, River Rouge, Trenton, and Wayne.

CONGRATULATIONS

You'll probably be over to the New York Fair.

But Uncle Sam goes everywhere. So I'll entrust this in his care.

It's time for you to take a bow. Although it's hot to stand.

Our applause From all across the land. You have reached another milestone.

In July's midsummer heat And it's on this grand occasion That we join in and repeat "Happy Birthday" in a chorus With a voice both loud and clear.

And we wish for you an Abundance of good health and Lots of cheer.

Three score years, then add six more.

Why! It doesn't hardly seem. But your birthday says "It's true." So, congratulations, Mr. Ford.

To you. —Jane Rogers.

Milford Ready for Fair

Big preparations are under way at Milford this year for the 59th annual Oakland county fair, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, August 10, 11, 12, and which incidentally is but two weeks away. Floyd Willett, president of the fair, and W. S. Lovejoy, secretary, state that increased interest has been shown this year among exhibitors, with the result that livestock display will be "better than ever." Also the fair will have an excellent display of farm implements, machinery and tractors.

An exhibit which will attract a great deal of interest will be one made by the Edison Institute, showing antiques from the Ford collection. Horse racing, two horse-builing contests, livestock barades, a tractor pulling contest, fireworks, mid-way, two big shows, the Pine Ridge Follies of Lum and Abner radio fame, and a big rodeo and circus will make plenty of entertainment.

"Action is the proper fruit of knowledge."—Thomas Fuller.

Wayne Rotarians Hear Gillies

An intelligent policy of parole from penal institutions will do more to effect governmental economies in prison and penal administration in the long run than will any amount of drastic punishment. This was the contention of Superintendent Blake Gillies, head of the Detroit House of Correction at Plymouth, when he spoke before the Wayne Rotary club last week Tuesday noon in its regular meeting at the Wayne Hotel.

Stating that he thought that because 65 per cent of most prison inmates were ill-fitted mentally for normal, productive, social life, he ventured the opinion that a future policy of employing mental physicians on a much wider scale than heretofore dreamed of would result in virtual abolition of prisons as they are known now. With the resources of science now at hand, he said, our problem is one of education, educating the people and the taxpayers to the point of view that preventive treatment, and individual case treatment and social rehabilitation will solve many of the problems that crime makes.

Superintendent Gillies touched briefly on the administrative problems that these in charge of the 800 inmates of the institution face: because of the changing nature of his institution's population (many are but 30 to 90-day sentences) the problems of turnover are great, he said. However, he continued, by strict surveillance and a policy of putting responsibility directly upon the convict, only 12 out of 17,000 escaped last year, he said. All of these were returned.

Placing the operation of the House of Correction on a business basis, claimed the speaker, has put the institution out of the red as far as the taxpayer is concerned. Increased production of goods on the 1,200-acre farm, 1000 of which is under cultivation allowed them to show a neat profit. He stated that he expected his institution to show a profit during the fiscal year which started in July. He touched upon the benefits that education and vocational guidance can give to those who are committed to the prison. A lack of education facilities was cited as one of the chief objections which he had.

Pinball Machines to be Licensed

Action to curb minors from playing the pinball machines located in Wayne was taken Tuesday night when the village commission of that place at its regular bi-monthly meeting adopted an ordinance stating that the owners of the establishments in which the pinball devices are found shall not "permit such mechanical amusement device to be operated by any minor under the age of 21 years, except when with parents."

The ordinance provides for the licensing of the machines which caused such a furor in the larger towns when it is alleged that they are used as gambling devices. No such charges were aired at the commission meeting Tuesday night. The licensing provision of the ordinance as passed by the commission states that an annual fee of $2 for each machine is necessary, that distributors of the machines must secure a $25 license for such privilege, and that permission for transfer of licenses must be given before a license can be changed. Violation of the ordinance may be punished by 90 days imprisonment or $100 fine, or both.

How to Cook Fish

Nearly everyone likes good Michigan fresh fish. Here is the way to properly prepare and cook the various kinds:

Whitefish, trout (lake or brown), pike, pickerel, muskellunge—fry, broil, bake, stuffer or boil.

Bass, bluegills, pan fish, smelt, perch, brook trout—fry or cook shore style.

After cleaning and scaling prepare all kinds of Michigan fish by wiping thoroughly dry, then dusting lightly with flour, corn meal or cereal flakes.

To fry—Use deep fat, very hot. When cooked, place on brown paper so that excess grease may be absorbed.

To broil—Preheat oven until very hot, place strips of bacon or salt pork under fish to avoid sticking. When brown, use lower flame to finish.

To bake—Lay flat, skin side down, on well-buttered shallow pan. Sprinkle with fine bread or cracker crumbs, salt and paprika, one tablespoon each of finely cut onion and parsley. Bake in hot oven and baste frequently with melted butter.

Shore style—Clean and dry fish but do not bone. Fry slices of salt pork or bacon until crisp, then remove from pan. Put in the fish and fry over hot fire until well browned and crisp. Serve with bread and butter, strong coffee and all you will miss is the tang of the wood smoke. Perch and all pan fish are delicious cooked in this fashion.

Stuffing—Any large fish, preferably whitefish, trout, pike or muskellunge. Dry thoroughly, do not bone, butter inside of fish generously. Fill with stuffing made of two cups stale bread crumbs, one tablespoon each of chopped parsley and onion, scant one-half teaspoon each of salt and powdered summer savory, generous dash of paprika, one cup finely chopped apple and one-half cup diced celery. Moisten with little milk, stuff and sew securely. Bake in moderate oven one hour or longer if necessary, depending on size of fish. Serve with lemon sauce or rich cream sauce.

Smoked whitefish—Served without further cooking, if desired, but a favorite method is that of simmering in butter to which a bay leaf and slice of lemon have been added. Brook trout—Should be dusted lightly with flour and fried in butter. Smelt—Are drawn but heads and tails usually left on. Fry in deep fat, very hot, until crisp and brown.

Small lake trout—Are often seen in cheesecloth and boiled in milk. A pioneer method of cooking small, tender fish. Serve all fish on hot plates.

When C. W. Grimes, a Plant City (Fla.) strawberry grower, went to market he took with him a full quart which contained four berries on the bottom row and five on top.

Why Michigan Is a Favorite State Among the Nation's Tourists

Natural Attractions Abound Nearly Everywhere

(By Gene Altman)

Michigan owes most of its alluring appeal as an ideal vacationland to the simple geographical fact that it forms a peninsula.

Translated into less pedagogic language, Michigan is, verily, The "Lake State."

When J. Lee Barrett, of Detroit, manager of the Southeastern Michigan Tourist Association, proposed that Michigan be known officially as the "Lake State" and that automobile license plates carry this advertising slogan, he probably felt that the word "peninsula" was too coldly scientific, being the cause rather than the effect, whereas the word "lake" conjured immediately a happy, mental picture of outdoor enjoyment.

The dictionary defines a peninsula: "A piece of land almost surrounded by water and connected with the mainland by a neck called an isthmus."

With our getting sidetracked into an embarrassing discussion about what counties constitute the "neck," consider for a moment the following facts. Most of them, we venture to say, are unknown to the average native who looks at Michigan with complacent indifference just because it is commonplace to him.

Leads in Shore Line

Michigan has more shore line than any other state in the Union.

Four of the Great Lakes—Superior, Michigan, Huron and Erie—create the two peninsulas.

There are 492 miles of frontage on Lake Superior, the largest body of fresh water in the world. Along Lake Michigan the coast line extends for 855 miles with harbors and inlets adding another 90 miles. Lake Huron borders the state from Mackinaw City to Port Huron, a distance of 455 miles, and there is another 107 miles of shore line from St. Ignace to Detroit. The Lake Erie shore line totals only 47 miles.

In addition to these waters of the Great Lakes, the St. Mary's river, connecting Lake Superior and Lake Huron, is 89 miles long; the St. Clair river and Lake St. Clair have a Michigan shore line of 85 miles, and the Detroit river between Lake St. Clair and Lake Erie stretches for 33 miles.

4,187 Named Lakes

And this is just the beginning, as the Showboat captain would say.

Michigan has 4,187 named inland lakes ranging in size from Houghton lake with 18,950 acres and Torch lake with 18,000 acres down to lakes of ten acres or less. Nine lakes are larger than 10,000 acres; ten lakes have areas from 5,000 to 10,000 acres.

And then, in the wilderness areas of the north are an estimated 1,000 additional unnamed lakes.

The shore line along the Great Lakes, together with the thousands of inland lakes, have made possible an outstanding system of state parks. How many? Guess again, for the total is 57 exclusive of approximately two million acres of state forest lands which have been made available to the public for camping. In an average year the state parks are visited by 9,000,000 people who come from all sections of the United States as well as Canada and Mexico.

Michigan's white fleet at the Straits of Mackinac may be commonplace to you, but it is a source of great interest to tourists.

The ferry service between the two peninsulas is the only one of its kind maintained by a state highway department. Five state-owned and one leased vessel are now operated at the Straits during the summer tourist season. In 1937 the state purchased a car ferry of the Ann Arbor railroad and re-named it the "City of Cheboygan." Last year a Pere Marquette car-ferry was purchased, modernized and named the "City of Munising."

Automobile traffic has grown from 10,000 vehicles in 1923

when the state went into the ferry business to about 275,000 annually at this time. Commissioner Murray D. Egan Wagner has stated that the saturation point has been reached in the number of boats that can be handled efficiently between present terminal docks.

Tonnage at Lake Ports

Because the lakes are open to traffic from March until late November and sometimes to mid-December, the port cities of Michigan unload supplies for the inland industrial centers and then load shipments of the finished products throughout most of the year.

The total value, in 1938 of tonnage in Western Michigan harbors was close to a half billion dollars. Frankfort, car-ferry terminal of the Wabash-Ann Arbor railroad, led with $132,882,000. Muskegon, terminal for the Grand Trunk-Pennsylvania railroads, was next with $112,806,000. South Haven was the only port city to show a gain last year. Much of this was due to shipment of foreign and Canadian wood pulp for paper mills located at Kalamazoo.

At Detroit the heavy lake traffic prompted in 1936 the establishment of a marine post-office, the O. P. Mook, which operated on three regular hour shifts and meets all ships passing up and down the Detroit river to receive and distribute mail.

Approximately 175 freight vessels ply the waters of the Great Lakes. Of these the Pittsburgh Steamship company operates a fleet of 79 ships in transport of ore, coal, and oil.

Being two peninsulas which are served by four of the Great Lakes, it is only natural that Michigan should lead all lake states in production of fish.

Michigan ranked first in 1938 with a catch of 28,984,000 pounds. Ohio was second, followed by Wisconsin, New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois and Minnesota.

At one time the whitefish harvest stood at the top in terms of dollars. Today it has fallen far below the lake trout which, last year, had a dollar yield of $1,521,000.

Commercial fishing once was a stable industry. Fishermen could not agree among themselves as to the need for conserving the natural fish supply. States did not intervene until in recent years. As the Marquette Mining Journal pointed out recently, "Fishermen, as a group, have not harvested their crop wisely. They have taken more fish than the lakes could stand and have used ruinous methods."

Commercial fishermen dispute the charge of depletion of fish life. They quote the U. S. Bureau of Fisheries that annual catches in the Great Lakes have varied but little during the past 25 years. The 1932-1938 catch in Lake Superior, in fact, was 31 percent above the average for the past 25 years.

Michigan's fishing industry, being a leader among those in the lake states, now takes an interest in conservation measures. Fishermen at Frankfort, for example, recently proposed lengthening of the closed seasons for whitefish and trout.

Official Motto

Michigan's upper peninsula has been pronounced by experts to possess soil and climate ideal for the culture of choice potatoes.

Robert Pelletier, manager for the Upper Peninsula Potato Farms, Ltd., ranch near Chassell, started natives recently by declaring that there is actually more land in Michigan's upper peninsula ideally suited to potato growing than there is in the entire state of Maine.

Pelletier, a former Maine potato farmer, states that his firm eventually will have 10,000 acres under annual cultivation. Much of it today is idle cut-over land along the shores of Lake Superior.

Surprisingly enough also is the recent discovery that Upper Peninsula rutabagas are comparable in quality to the very best grown in the United States or Canada.

Do you know your Michigan? There is ample evidence everywhere that the peninsula state has been generously blessed by Nature. The official motto of Michigan expresses it well: "If you seek a delightful peninsula, look about you."

"Error of thought is reflected in error of action."—Mary Baker Eddy.

Lowell Showboat Wednesday, Aug. 2

The 1939 production of the famous Lowell Showboat will climax a supper and brief business program, to be held Wednesday, August 2, at Lowell for newspaper editors and publishers of the Michigan Press association.

Arrangements are being made by Harold Jeffries of the Lowell Ledger, weekly paper, who is a district president of the association.

A 90-foot showboat, floated on 200 gasoline drums, carries a band, orchestra and a cast of 160 entertainers on a trip down the St. Lawrence river to the dock-stage which is one-half block from Lowell's main street. There a stadium has been erected to seat 5,000 people in reserved seats each night.

C. H. Runciman, a member of the state welfare commission, acts as master of ceremonies for a show which features an old-fashioned minstrel show and chorus, and 20 star acts in a fast-moving, two-hour entertainment to be given August 2, 3, 4, and 5 starting at 9:00 p.m.

Among the special guests of honor on "MPA Night" at the Showboat will be Secretary of State Harry F. Kelley and Auditor General Vernon J. Brown.

GOOD JUDGMENT ON THE PART OF GOOD CITIZENS

There has been considerable propaganda in some newspapers during the past week or so in an effort to force the state to increase its allowance to the hospitals for treatment of crippled children. The legislature last spring fixed the rate at $3.50 per day, basing this figure upon the report of the Crippled Children Commission which showed that the average cost a year or so ago was only $3.21 per day to the hospital. Some of the hospitals taking care of these cases demanded $4.50 per day and in an effort to force action, started a high pressure campaign to bring about the increase.

They hit upon the humane side of the issue, believing thereby that public sympathy would be aroused to such an extent that the state would be forced to make the increase.

For a few days there is no question but what the promoters of the plan did have public sentiment with them. But how quickly the tables turned when the public learned why the action had been taken by the legislature!

It is an entirely different sort of a story at present. In support of the legislative action, the Wayne County Medical Society, an organization composed of some of the most public spirited physicians in Michigan, was quick to come to the support of the legislative action. These physicians and surgeons know well the problem facing the state, and they have pledged themselves to help the legislature solve the problem, an entirely different attitude than that expressed by some of the "pressure" groups who were out to get more of the taxpayers' money.

The following excellent editorial appeared in the last issue of The Detroit Medical News:

"The appropriation made by the legislature seems insufficient to carry on all the health programs that were under way. There is much commotion about it. It would appear that some who need medical care may not get it from government subsidy. Every case that positively needs medical care should have it and the medical profession will stand solidly back of this statement.

"The legislature is trying to balance the budget and it apparently intends to trim every unnecessary activity. It intends to put a stop to creating more tax-supported jobs, to employ more workers, to create more statistics, to give more profits of the need for more tax-supported jobs, more employes, more statistics, ad infinitum until enough feet are in the trough to return the distributors of other people's money to office; and this vote circle is enlarged as more and more people receive government largess.

"What shall we say of a legislature that deliberately does the unpopular thing in the process of doing its duty? The legislature is not employing the vote-getting way. Have we not constantly complained of the peril to good medicine of ever-increasing political medicine by ever-increasing political jobs, supposedly to help the sick? Do we not believe that to a very great extent the type of activity in Washington, symbolized by the Wagner Act, tends to ultimately destroy good medicine in America?

"Shall we 'strike' because the legislature has tried to balance the budget? The medical profession does not strike. Let us have no such talk. Whenever the politicians in Michigan attempt to tamper with health for political purposes, the 5,000 doctors of the state will attend to them at the next election. We propose to see to it that those in medical need get what is best in a long-continued health program, not what is politically expedient.

"Do we think it is a good thing for the legislature to try to balance the budget, or do we not?"

"Until further differently informed than at present, we are for the legislature."

THAT FRONT YARD.

"The only way in which we can ever hope to bring about a happier state of human affairs is by doing so first of all within our own bailiwick," Hendrik Wilhelm Van Loon, genial philosopher-historian, cautions would-be reformers in the current Rotarian Magazine.

"Our present world is nothing to be proud of," he admits, "and is sadly in need of a complete overhauling." But how best to change this gloomy picture?

In answering this question, Van Loon asks that he not be suspected of any undue optimism. "Both by nature and by training," he explains, "I am rather a follower of the doctrine which holds out mighty small hope for the future of the human race. But if I am entirely honest with myself, then I must confess that, given just one percent of one percent of a chance, the average man is not quite so bad as we sometime depict him in all his sorrowful cussedness and greed. And I have discovered that on the whole he will function best of all if we appeal to his sense of duty as a good neighbor, rather than if we go after him with Acts of Congress or orders issued by the board of selectmen.

"These are necessary, too, for the more serious aspects of life, and Heaven forbid that we should try (for the next few million years at least) to do without the policemen on the beat. But for all ordinary, everyday efforts to make our world a little pleasanter and a little more livable, I would on the whole prefer to rely upon individual action rather than upon any sort of mass action.

"If," he continues, "you want to reduce the particular point of view in which I see some hope to a short and eloquent sentence which might well become a world-wide slogan, suppose I give it to you:

"If each one of us will take care of his own particular front yard, then we shall have a pleasant village in which to live; and a world full of pleasant villages would, I think, be a pretty decent one for most everybody."

TAXPAYERS REVOLT.

A few days ago there appeared in The Iron River Reporter editorial comment pertaining to the taxation problem in the Upper Peninsula city. It pretty clearly tells why taxes are high and what has to be done to terminate the growing tendency to take more tax dollars out of the pockets of the taxpayers.

So well does the editorial express the present day trend, that it is published in full, as follows:

"Iron county voters have definitely indicated they disapprove of extra levies for the schools and relief agencies. The county's request for three extra mills fell far short of a majority and the schools in the Crystal Falls and Stambaugh districts fared little better. Even under pressure of need of more tax funds for the education of their children the voters remained adamant.

"From this we may judge the public is swinging away from the wild spending orgies they have observed and back to some rationalism in government administration. The reaction may extend to short-rationing public agencies to a point where services will be diminished, but when this time comes the public will be in the safe position of ordering them reinstated, if they wish, and agreeing to meet the tax bill.

Where money runs short, sacrifices will have to be made but the denials may bring their compensations. Bulging budgets always induce carelessness and extravagance, while from the necessity of hard frugality may be wrought worthwhile lessons in maximum values.

"In point is the discussion already heard in at least one school district that such appendages as band and athletic instruction may have to go. The plaint will rise that students are as much in need of aesthetic and recreational expression as in the simple fundamentals of pure academic instruction. If so, the public in due time will decide but meantime, they hope, further searches into economy will save the requisites and allow something over for the front line luxuries.

"The course of action applies even more forcefully to county administration which, admittedly, has been less watchful of its dollars than the schools because political action is more firmly rooted there. The county is coming into hard financial days and the supervisors face the mental discipline of probing into ways and means of getting along on income, even though it must be stretched to cover multiple new needs.

"Tax increases are not entirely the creature of the public spenders for year by year the public has demanded more government services. Government, being responsive to the public will, has yielded to demand. The revolt of the taxpayer may mean the public is now ready to get along with less, but if the normal course is followed, the public will soon repent, admit its error, and clamor lustily for the pre-economy day comforts."

CITIZENS LEAGUE PLAYS WATCHDOG

In an open letter to the board of supervisors, a Citizens League in Oakland county mimes no words in calling attention to an "alarming condition" in which the county board is spending far in excess of its current revenues.

The League raises the "bankruptcy signal" ahead, and warns that the reserve of delinquent taxes, in which Oakland county was one of the most delinquent in the state, is about "washed up" as a source of anticipated revenue for excess spending.

It is true that delinquent taxes, piled up since 1929, have become dead assets in almost every county. The two tax sales conducted since they were resumed in 1938, after a suspension of six years, were colossal "flops" as revenue producers. One of the state's worries now is what to do with all of the delinquent tax lands that have reverted to state ownership, or will when legal details of the last two sales are completed, and some ingenious schemes are being offered, some of them bordering on outright tax cancellations, to prevent the state itself from becoming Michigan's largest landlord.

The Citizens League in Oakland may, however, be shouting up a hollow tree. What government unit, from Washington down, is not spending in excess of income? Michigan is doing it, as the recent combative budget-balancing at Lansing proved. Every state is doing it. Nearly every county is doing it.

To find governmental units that are not spending in excess of income one must come down to those municipalities, townships and school districts where management has remained in capable, frugal hands. Even they are becoming fewer as the spending mania spreads.

It is not difficult to place an accurate finger upon the cause of current prodigality. The nation, the states and the counties have assumed too many obligations that were formerly local or individual are being too heavily upon these units of government.

that grow progressively larger from the county seat to the national capital. Money from them is too generally regarded as manna from heaven. It seems impossible to convince the public that, instead of manna, it is money collected direct from the people's pockets and returned, usually in lesser amount than it was collected.

It may be that many counties need a Citizens League as outspoken as the one in Oakland. Such leagues may be useful in informing the people of financial perils, but all of their protests will avail nothing until sentiment crystallizes to the point of demanding a reamping of the system under which the public's money is now being over-spent.—Don F. Cochrane, in Hartford (Mich.) Day-Spring.

THE BEST WE GET IS WHAT WE DON'T PAY FOR

We once heard the late Governor Fred W. Green say that the best government in Michigan was given by those who serve without salary . . . the honorary committees. We thought of that Monday night at the annual school meeting in St. Johns. People must be satisfied for only about 50 of the possible 2,000 were present. Our school officials set a budget last year, lived up to it, made numerous improvements, paid all bills and ended the year with about $9,000 in the treasury . . . and this while other districts in the state were crying poverty.

Theodore Townsend, for many years a school man himself, appreciated this and said so. Those present concurred in his statement. The whole community does, we know. Messrs. Lucht, Frace, Matthews, Osgood and Ahern deserve credit. They get no pay for their work. Their service is the kind Governor Green mentioned—a civic service which takes hours of their time and is a serious responsibility. Unanimously they say that Supt. Bemer has been an efficient and co-operative aid in carrying out their sound policies.

Nothing is more important than good schools. Good schools in St. Johns have become a tradition. It reflects credit upon the citizens as well as those who they choose to manage this institution.—Schuyler Marshall in The Clinton County Republican-News.

DO YOU KNOW WHY INDIANS FIND IT HARD TO TALK IN THE DARK?

Or perhaps you never knew they were so handicapped.

The reason why Indians stutter at night is given by M. J. Julian, president of the Better Vision Institute. He points out that Indians and other primitive peoples with limited languages depend greatly upon signs and gestures to communicate their thoughts, and that if their auditors cannot see what's going on in the way of hand movements, they miss the point of the conversation.

Contrary to popular thought, language was first visual, says Mr. Julian. Prehistoric man carried on his entire conversation with gestures and signs. Then he learned to associate certain sounds with the gestures, and frequently vocal sounds in imitation of an animal or a bird were used. Even today, young children, on seeing a picture of a dog, refer to it as a "bow-wow."

Written language developed largely from rude drawings to represent objects. At first there were few vocal sounds associated with such pictorial language. From such beginnings it took many thousands of years for the alphabetic and spoken languages to evolve.

Modern science has overcome this primitive deficiency through the great strides made in optometry now available to all of us. One of the most modern optical clinics and one of the most efficient staffs of optometrists in Michigan is at your service in Plymouth at the offices of
