

Safety Officer to Address Boy Scout Banquet

Ex-Service Men's Club Sponsors Father-Son Gathering February 10

Highlighting the annual father and son banquet, to be held under the auspices of Troop P-2, Boy Scouts of America, which is sponsored by the Ex-Service Men's club of Plymouth, will be an address by Herbert German of the Public Safety Bureau of the Detroit police department. The banquet will be held at 8:30 Monday evening, February 10, in the high school auditorium.

A limit of 300 tickets has been set, and no tickets will be sold at the door, so persons active or interested in Boy Scout activities are urged to secure their tickets early. More than 100 persons were turned away from the banquet last year. Tickets may be secured at the Beyer Pharmacy, Community Pharmacy or Dodge Drug store, or from any of the committee members.

Dr. Edwin A. Rice, district commissioner of the Boy Scouts, will serve as toastmaster for the evening, and the Rev. Walter Nichol will deliver the invocation. Sidney D. Strong, special field commissioner of the Boy Scouts; George Gottschalk, commander of the Ex-Service Men's club, and Charles Thumme, scoutmaster of Troop P-2, will each give short introductory speeches.

Donald Hunter, son of Harry Hunter, will deliver a toast to the fathers, and John W. Jacobs will give the response to the sons. Following Officer German's address on safety, movies will be shown, and the Ford Mountaineers will entertain with their music. Alfred J. Smith will lead the guests in group singing, and the Plymouth high school orchestra, under the direction of Miss Doris Hamill, will provide music. The Rev. Robert A. North will deliver the benediction at the conclusion of the program.

Another feature of the program will include the selection of the oldest father present with his own son, the youngest father and son, the father with the most sons in attendance, and the father with the most generations represented.

Officers of the Ex-Service Men's club, which sponsors the annual banquet for the Boy Scouts, include George Gottschalk, commander; Lee Sackett, vice-commander; Arno Thompson, secretary, and Harry Mumby, treasurer. Traffic Injuries Total 20 in 1940

An annual report of traffic injuries and fatalities compiled by the Plymouth police department reveals that 20 persons were victims of traffic accidents in Plymouth during 1940. This is the same number as in 1939. There was a slight decrease in the total number of traffic accidents last year with 85 reported as compared with 87 in 1939.

There was only one traffic fatality in the city during the last year, in which William Strong, 85-year-old pedestrian, of North Mill street, died following injuries received when he was struck by an auto in front of his home.

Reporting that six of the 20 accident victims who sustained injuries last year were children, Vaughan R. Smith, chief of police, issued a warning to children riding bicycles in the city streets. "Most of the accidents involving children last year occurred when they were riding bicycles or when they darted out into the street between automobiles," said the chief.

"Bicycle riders are reminded that they have the same responsibility on the streets as an automobile driver, and they must observe the same traffic rules. It is not safe for children to play on sleds in or near the streets where they will be endangered by automobiles. Don't forget to stop, look, and listen always before crossing the street or stepping from the curb," warned Chief Smith, adding that the co-operation of everyone is needed to reduce the number of traffic injuries this year.

Traffic School Enlarges Room

To meet the increased attendance at the Monday evening classes of the training center for traffic offenders at the Detroit House of Correction, A. Blake Gillies, superintendent, has ordered 100 more seats installed. With present seating capacity of 350, the class has now grown to more than 400, and applications for visiting permits from many persons outside the county have had to be denied temporarily until added seating facilities are provided.

Four hundred and twenty-six persons attended the class last Friday evening, which was conducted by Officers German and Izzard of the Detroit Safety Bureau. Officer German, using the method of open class discussion, has created such interest that the men are now vying for prizes which are to be awarded for posters, slogans, or essays on safety.

The traffic school, the first of its kind to be established in a penal institution in the state, was started October 28. Samples of traffic signs as displayed in Detroit and on the highways of Michigan line the large dormitory room at the House of Correction where the classes are held for the inmates. The purpose of the school is to educate all inmates and particularly traffic offenders in traffic laws and responsibilities.

Plymouth high school will be host to four schools participating in the state elimination debate tournament on Saturday, January 25. A round of 16 tournaments will be held throughout the state on Saturday to determine finalists for the state championship debate to be held at Hill Auditorium in Ann Arbor in April.

The undefeated Plymouth debate squad will compete with teams from East Lansing, Howell, River Rouge and Belleville. Plymouth's team will be composed of Virginia Ruck, Bob Daniel and Jim Zuckerman. The question for debate is "Resolved, That the power of the Federal Government should be decreased."

Ball Studio Moves to New Location

The Ball Studio will move from its present location on Main street to 659 West Ann Arbor street on Saturday, February 1. The expansion to larger quarters is necessitated by the steady growth of his photographic business, says L. L. Ball. Business will be carried on as usual during the moving, and a formal opening of the new Ball Studio will be held soon after February 1.

The local photographer reports that 1940 was his best year of business since before the depression. More than 5,000 individual photographs were made and mounted in folders during the fall and Christmas season last year.

The new studio, which was the former residence of the late C. F. Bennett, includes a reception room, private office, camera room, printing room, dark room, dressing room, finishing room and framing room. The reception room will be equipped with a sales counter and display case for sample work, new equipment being installed in the processing room, and modern lighting will be installed throughout.

On the second floor is a filing room in which all the negatives that Mr. Ball has made during the last twenty or more years will be stored. Mr. Ball explains that he purchased the new site which has been completely remodeled to afford more space for his patrons and more convenient parking. He plans to provide private parking facilities in the rear next spring, and also to landscape the back yard for garden photographs.

Mr. Ball started as a professional photographer in Rochester in 1898 after serving apprenticeship in another studio. In 1904, he established his business in Northville, and in 1919 came to Plymouth establishing the Main street studio in which he has been located until the present time. Mrs. Ball is a capable assistant devoting the greater part of her time to the business.

Second Semester of School Year Starts Monday

School Board Faces Problem of Maximum Enrollment in Fall

The first semester of the Plymouth school year ends Friday (today). Seventeen students will have completed their high school work by the end of this semester, but it is expected that all of the graduating seniors will return for post graduate study. No commencement exercises are held at the mid-year.

With the promotion of 43 students into the seventh grade at the start of the second semester, the board of education is trying to solve the problem of accommodating tuition pupils in the Plymouth schools.

Thirty-five class rooms are now available for high school purposes and the average class numbers 25 pupils. It is possible to accommodate 875 students in class rooms, 116 in the library, 100 in the study hall and 65 in the gymnasium, making a total of 1156. The enrollment is now 1043, and 43 students will enter the seventh grade following mid-year promotion. This means that the high school enrollment will be within 20 of the maximum number possible to be accommodated with the present facilities.

Approximately 165 seniors will be graduated in June and 100 students will be promoted from the sixth to the seventh grade. There are 191 students who will complete eighth grade studies in the township district and will seek admission as tuition pupils at the Plymouth high school. Available space will accommodate only 75 tuition pupils. The board of education faces the problem of finding a way to provide for the remaining 116 tuition students before next fall.

The alternatives are a possible addition to the present high school, or the building of a high school in one of the outlying townships to serve present tuition pupils.

Letters of Civil War Days Reveal History Repeating Itself Today

"Again we are in the great struggle for national life. We hear the sounds of preparation—the music of the boisterous drums—the silver voices of heroic bugles. We see thousands of assemblages and hear the appeals of orators; we see them when they enlist in the great army of freedom. We see them all as they march grandly away, under the flaunting flags, keeping time to the wild, grand music of war, marching down the streets of the great cities through the towns and across the prairies, down the fields of glory to do and to die for the eternal right."

That is not a prophecy, but a report of the Civil War days contained in a "propaganda" pamphlet sent with a group of letters to his family by Alfred G. Ryder, uncle of E. A. Paddock, 221 Ann Arbor Trail.

The letters, reporting the conscription of young men in 1862, the lack of proper facilities, and propaganda in the news are interesting as evidence that history truly does repeat itself.

The Grand Army Post at Newburg was named after two of Mr. Paddock's uncles, Alfred G. Ryder, of the Michigan Cavalry, who

The 17-year-old youth, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. The car skidded on the slippery pavement and crashed into the side of the train. Nichols fell from the car and slid under the train. He held onto the train rods for nearly 500 feet until he fell and lay between the tracks while 18 box cars passed over him. Clothing Fabric Made From Milk

Will men in the United States soon be wearing suits made from milk? This question arose upon receipt of several samples of casein fabric at the Michigan department of agriculture from the Milk Industry Foundation in New York.

Commissioner Elmer A. Beam, on examining the samples, stated that although the use of fabric of this kind in making clothing would take care of a large part of our milk surplus, it would also cause a greater wool surplus than we have now.

The sample of casein fabric submitted as suitable for men's suit fabric was of very high quality and compared favorably with better grades of wool fabric. It is heavy, durable and has a very hard finish. It is made from pure casein, a white fibre, which is an ingredient of milk.

Beamer pointed out however, that Michigan farmers as a whole would benefit from the development of the process of manufacturing cloth from milk, because of our rank as a dairying state.

The cash farm income from dairy products in Michigan is upwards of $65,000,000 annually, while income from wool is only $2,000,000 annually in the state.

There are several products being processed from milk that are already on the market. Most important of these are buttons. About 90 per cent of the buttons now sold are processed from milk.

According to government figures, one-half of all auto-owning families in the United States have incomes of $30 a week or less.

Thou hast founded them for

is this passage (II Sam. 1, 21):
"And David spake unto the Lord
the words of this song in the day that the Lord had delivered him out of the hand of all his enemies and out of the hand of Saul: The Lord rewarded me according to my righteousness: according to the cleanness of my hands hath

Reports Record Activity"The railroads are busier than they've been in years with all these government orders," says
Jerry McCarthy, veteran railroad man and watchman at the Pere Marquette crossing on Main street in Plymouth.
McCarthy, who has worked as a switchman and brakeman for the Pere Marquette railroad for the last 15 years and as a watchman at the local grade crossings for the last five years, has been in the railroad service for more than 30 years. McCarthy, who lives at 364 Roe street, started as a brakeman on Pennsylvania railroads when he was only 21 years old. He is familiar to everyone in Plymouth for his faithful work in stopping traffic for the passage of trains through the city.The watchman explains that Plymouth is an interchange station for freight trains. The Detroit-Grand Rapids freights pass through Plymouth on the Starkweather grade, and intersection, and the Toledo-Ludington line crosses through Plymouth at Main street. Freight coming out of Toledo is often transferred to the Grand Rapids line at the Plymouth interchange, McCarthy explains.That Plymouth is an active railroad center is indicated by the fact that there are 10 passenger trains and as many as 11 freight trains through Plymouth daily.Nursery School Plans

State Drops in Park Rating

Michigan ties with Iowa in number of state park areas, ranks third behind Missouri and Minnesota in total acreage of state park property and spends about two cents per year per park visitor, lowest in a group of eight midwest states.

Comparisons are supplied in a report of the National Park Service for the fiscal year of 1939 covering Michigan, Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Missouri, Iowa and Kansas.

Largest expenditure per park visitor is Indiana's 40 cents. Minnesota spent 21 cents per park visitor during the year. Average for the eight states was 15 cents.

Michigan spent $65 per acre of intensive use area, or more than Missouri, Wisconsin and Iowa, but considerably less than the average of $140 per acre.

Based on state population, Michigan spent three cents per capita for state parks, practically the same as Wisconsin and Kansas and slightly higher than Missouri, but only one-third of the average for the eight states.

The proportion of total state budget, represented by appropriations for operating costs of state parks, is a small fraction of one percent in all states and is quite uniform throughout the states reporting, except that Indiana's appropriation is considerably higher than that of other states.

Included in expenditures reported for the fiscal year by the National Park Service is that part of a $285,000 legislative appropriation for purchase of state park lands used for such purpose during the year. Not included are expenditures under the $2,500,000 federal and state program of state park improvements now nearing completion.

Townsend Club Studies New Bill

The Plymouth Townsend club is joining with clubs all over the nation in the Townsend victory drive for 1941 by adding new members and clubs, according to officials of the local club.

A potluck supper and entertainment last Monday evening included vocal and instrumental selections by John Mastick, Otto Ernst, P. Luker and Fred Lute, and the reading of the Townsend flash bulletin with news direct from Washington, D. C., giving the latest developments in connection with Townsend Plan legislation in Congress.

Contained in the bulletin was a statement by Senator Sheridan Downey of California, to the effect that the battle over the new Townsend bill will be in the house of representatives and that if it passes there, it is likely that it will pass in the senate for he has secured numerous pledges and assurances from senators.

The next meeting of the local Townsend club will be Monday evening, at 7:30 in the Grange hall. Following a short business session there will be a musical program and the reading of the latest bulletin. John Mastick in behalf of the local Grange extends an invitation to all Townsend members and the public to attend a "500" card party at Grange hall Tuesday evening.

A strange form of lightning flashes every few minutes throughout each day and night in the region of the Catatumbo River at the southern end of Lake Maracaibo in Venezuela. Known as the "Catatumbo Lightning," this electrical discharge is so bright that it can be seen at a distance of two hundred miles at night.

Badder Files as Judge Candidate

Petitions have been filed with the secretary of state placing the name of Judge George L. Badder of Highland Park on the primary election ballot on February 17 for the office of circuit judge of Wayne county.

Judge Badder, born in Detroit and educated in the public schools of Detroit and Highland Park, received his law degree from the Detroit College of Law in 1924. Known to his many friends under the name of "Roy," Judge Badder has been very active for many years in civic and fraternal activities in Wayne county. He has been president of the Old Newsboys Goodfellow fund of Highland Park for 12 years, and is vice president of the Highland Park branch, Council of Social Agencies.

Judge Badder has served as justice of the peace and municipal judge of the city of Highland Park for 15 years and has built up an enviable reputation as a jurist, being honest, capable, fair and fearless in the administration of justice in his community. His decisions have been almost unanimously upheld and approved by the higher courts, and he was unanimously approved by the voters at the last election, being unopposed for re-election after serving over 13 years in this court. He sponsored and secured the passage of a bill permitting cities to establish municipal courts, and drafted the forms and rules necessary to set up the court in his city. This change has resulted in the saving of many hours time for all litigants and attorneys, and has expedited the work of the court, which handles approximately 6500 cases a year.

He was general chairman of the Service Club committee which recently obtained a new post-office building for Highland Park, and presided at the corner-stone laying and dedication of that building. He was also general chairman of the committee chosen to sponsor a Golden Jubilee celebration commemorating the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of Highland Park. This was a very successful full week of celebration. He is president of the Teen Alumni club of Highland Park high school.

Judge Badder is also very active in church and fraternal circles, being chairman of the board of trustees of the Highland Park Congregational church, past master of Kismet Lodge No. 489 F. & A. An Unpublicized Service

LIKE OTHER PROFESSIONAL MEN, funeral directors often provide service without cost to needy families. And like the doctor, the dentist, the optician, we avoid any public mention of such charity cases. It is our contribution to humanity, gladly given, offered quietly without thought of credit or reward.

We mention it now only because so few people are aware of this phase of our profession. That this firm has such a policy is not unusual among funeral directors, for our code demands that we consider first, not personal profit, but the community good; not creed or social status, but the right of every human being to a funeral service that is reverent and in accord with the burial standards of a civilized people.

D.A.R. Celebrates Anniversary

More than 50 members and guests of the Sarah Ann Cochran chapter, D. A. R., assembled in the Hussey room of the Woman's league in Ann Arbor Monday afternoon to celebrate its fourteenth birthday.

Mrs. Harry Boardman of Jackson, the state chaplain, pronounced the blessing, and Mrs. E. J. Cutler read an original birthday poem. The beautiful silk flag which once was the property of Sarah Ann Cochran was used in the salute.

After a delicious luncheon, eight members of the state board responded to the introductions of the regent, Mrs. J. Merle Bennett. Four regents from neighboring chapters and Mrs. Frederick Lendrum of the Sarah Ann Cochran chapter told of the origin of the names of their chapters. Mrs. Kenneth Kitchen of Northville, accompanied by Miss Selma Schulte, sang a group of songs.

The address of the state regent is always the highlight of the program, and Mrs. Osmond D. Heavenrich's address sustained the reputation made by previous regents. Mrs. Heavenrich urged a record attendance of both senior and junior members at the state meeting in Port Huron in March, where S. L. A. Marshall of the Detroit News will address the members. She spoke of the efforts of the organization in sponsoring legislation to bar the Communist party from presenting a ballot to Michigan voters. Two ambulances have been sent to England and a third one is expected to go soon. The work the organization is doing and always has done for national defense was stressed. The defense magazines and valuable manuals are furnished free to schools. A copy of the constitution for class room study may be obtained from the D. A. R.

Genealogical research sends the members into all the cemeteries of the land and queer inscriptions on the grave stones have thus been brought to light. Mrs. Heavenrich read the following:

Here lies an old woman
Who always was tired
She lived in a house
Where help was not hired.

Her last words on earth were
"Dear friends, I am gone"
Where washing isn't done
Nor sweepin' or sewin'.

But everything there
Is exact to my wishes
For where they don't eat
There's no washing of dishes
I'll be where a lot of arthurs
Forever are ringin'
But havin' no voice
I'll be clear of the singin'.

Don't mourn for me now
Don't mourn for me never
I am goin' to do nothing
For ever and forever.

The singing of "America" closed the pleasant afternoon.

Miss Dorothy McKinnon, Formerly of Plymouth, Married in Detroit

White tapers, Johanna Hill roses and pink snapdragons decorated the Church of the Messiah in Detroit, for the wedding Saturday evening, of Dorothy McKinnon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Neil McKinnon, of Detroit and formerly of Plymouth, and Charles Marshall Rogers, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Rogers, of Evanston, Illinois. The ceremony was performed at 8:30 o'clock by the Rev. William Wood.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was lovely in her wedding gown of ivory satin, made in simple lines with a collar of rose point lace outlining the V neckline, and long train. A coronet of rose point lace held the bridal veil of ivory tulle and she carried white roses and stavia.

Mary Virginia McKinnon, sister of the bride, was maid-of-honor, and wore a dress made with a skirt of shell pink net accompanying a bodice of embroidered net. Yellow daffodils and blue iris formed her bouquet.

The bridesmaids, Edith Gillett, cousin of the bridegroom, of Kenilworth, Illinois, Ann Anderson, of Walkerville, Ontario, Elizabeth Whipple, of Northville, and Jeanne L'Hommieu, of Birmingham, wore gowns made like that of the maid-of-honor only in blue net. They also carried daffodils and iris and all wore coronets of net in matching shades.

The bridegroom's attendants were James Worrall, of Winnetka, Illinois, as best man, George Gillett, of Kenilworth, Illinois, David P. Sanders and Bliss Snyder of Evanston, Illinois, and William Wood, Jr., of Detroit, as ushers.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. McKinnon chose a gown of dusty rose crepe with a bodice of sequins. Her corsage was green orchids. Mrs. Rogers chose a gown of grey crepe trimmed with flowers of gold-colored leather and a corsage of red orchids.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in the Adams room of Hotel Whittier in Detroit, where spring flowers brightened the tables.

The young couple left later on a Western wedding trip, the bride wearing a dress of powder blue under a coat of brown with pink trim and brown accessories. Her corsage was gardenias. They will reside in Evanston.

The bride who is better known in Plymouth as "Patsy," was graduated from Plymouth high school after which she attended the University of Michigan. Many friends extend best wishes.

A wedding rehearsal took place the morning of the wedding, and a buffet luncheon following for members of the wedding party when Mr. and Mrs. McKinnon were hosts.

First and Second Grades

We are making safety pictures. We have a sand table and in it we are showing where boys and girls should ride bikes. We have made up three new poems. They are Zipper Suit, Winter, and A Careful Visitor. We like playing in the snow.

Third and Fourth Grades

We had a great deal of fun when we got back from vacation. The snow came to show us how beautiful it could be, so we cut snow flakes to decorate our room. We made autograph books in English, and were surprised to find out everyone signs his name with capitals as our teacher told us.

Our science notebooks were handed in Friday, January 1, and these people got "A's": Carson Jackson, Kathleen Johnson, Mary Ann Litwicki, Dorothy McInroy, Bobby Snodgrass, John Venus, Douglas Burkholder, Bob Butler, Thelma Canfield, James Daugherty, Harold Furlong, Marvin Hayton, Tommy Larson and Wanda Nielson. We made poetry notebooks too, and so far Dorothy McInroy has written the most and has the neatest one.

Fifth and Sixth Grades

The fifth and sixth grade mothers' tea will meet February 4, 3:30 to 5:00 o'clock. Tom Hollowood was just put on the Safety Patrol. The fifth and sixth grade children are having a Valentine party. Some of the children drew names. We are having refreshments. Some of the children have been sick. These are the ones: Hazel and Bob Schaible, Charles, Orville and Bob Shelton, Harold, Patsy, Sylvia and Bob Jensen, Dorothy, Dick and Rosalie. We are very sorry that Mrs. Canfield is in hospital. She is in Mt. Carmel hospital.

Seventh and Eighth Grades

The eighth grade has finished its mural on "America Grows Up." There are six panels showing "Moving West," "Industry," "Invention," "Political Reform," "Books," "Art," "Education" and "Immigration." The seventh and eighth graders are starting a unit on "Latin America." We have written to the Pan American Union for information on Latin America.

Music News

On February 5, at 2:00 o'clock, some of us are going to attend a concert in the Masonic Temple, Detroit. Listed on the program are the following numbers: (1) Overture "William Tell" by Rossini; (2) Lyric Suite, Op. 54, by Grieg; (3) "Allegro con brio" from Beethoven's "Fifth Symphony"; (4) Intermezzo from "Cavalleria Rusticana" by Mascagni; and (5) "Pomp and Circumstance" by Elgar. Then the glee club will sing "Lullaby" from "Jocelyn" by Godard.

Largest output of iron ore from Michigan mines during the 20-year period, 1916-1935 inclusive, was 18,812,972 tons in 1916, much of this production (for 1916) having been employed in the manufacture of armament for the World War. Average for the 20-year period was about 12,000,000 tons.

Geer School

Harold Nelson has the mumps. Many of our children who were on the sick list are back to school again.

Mrs. Stacey, Betty Reeder Barbara Van Dyke, Esther and Arbutus Sherman attended a music meeting in Ahn Arbor Monday. Most of the time was spent in folk dancing.

We received our report cards Monday. Esther Sherman and Betty Reeder are the only pupils who have been neither absent nor tardy. The following children are on the honor roll: Donald and Joyce Houghton, Mary Peevey, Mary Jane Billings, Janet, and Leonard Millross, Harold Nelson, Jean Tetzloff, Norma Van Dyke, Peter Leemon and Barbara O'Neill.

Our eighth grade has completed its district history and is now taking "Citizenship through Problems" for the remainder of the year.

We have been making music notebooks. Our first section is on upper and lower grade songs which are illustrated. Now we are doing music appreciation.

To this day, a large number of women, particularly those among the Arab tribes of Arabia, still follow the ancient custom of perfuming themselves and their garments by sitting in the smoke of burning aromatic spices.

Plymouth Cagers Bow to Ecorse in Close Game

Ecorse Quintet Wins on Free Throw by Score of 25 to 24

Shooting was fast and furious throughout the basketball game with Ecorse last Friday, although it was far from accurate. The Ecorse quintet won by a single point.

The Plymouth five made a fine showing except on free throws. The Ecorse team led the scoring all through the game except in the third quarter when Plymouth led 21-20.

Baker and Norman set the pace on points with six apiece while Hoffman was next with five. Fouls were numerous on both sides, although Ecorse profited more from them. The tide of the game would have probably been turned if Jack Baker had sunk either of his free throws in the last few minutes.

Compton of Ecorse sunk a free throw in the last quarter to give his team a one-point lead, but Norman duplicated trying the score. Plopan hoped a free throw next to see the game up for Ecorse by the score of 25-24.

Substitutes: Plymouth — Butz, Hancock, Hunter.

Revamped System

When the smoke and dust clears from the semesterly change in Plymouth high school hall traffic, there is to be a reckoning if the new and modified hall-policing system comes up to snuff.

The system that has been in use since the beginning of the high school's student government is to start activity on the first day of the new semester with renewed life and vigor.

Three new offices have been created by a committee of students and teachers, and pressed down into a book of rules and regulations to be given to each trooper. Every offense that has come up in the past has been listed in the new booklet, and complete regulations of the system are designed to leave nothing to be guessed.

Three teachers, one on each floor, will bear the title "Commissioner," and will have charge of the troopers and officers on the floor. Mr. Blunk on the third, Mr. Wallace on the second and Mr. Sheridan on the first are the new commissioners.

The committee that made out the ten-page booklet has added still more checks on trooper activities. Although the hall monitor is still the central pillar around which traffic flows, he will have two superior officers: one is the roundsman, who will see that traffic moves freely and will take care that no pupils obstruct the halls proper; the other is the sergeant, who has charge of between-class traffic.

The sergeant, who has under his control six lieutenant-sergeants, will control more closely the number of students in halls during classes. Each hour of the school day has a lieutenant-sergeant who is responsible for all the floors during his class period. The sergeant will coordinate the six hours.

This is the first time a booklet designed solely for monitors has been compiled. To set forth the principles of the system and the purpose it has undertaken, the booklet outlines the system in detail. It has a flap at the rear to hold summons which the monitor gives out for offenders of high school law.

The rest of the system will remain as it was, with a police-chief and three floor lieutenants. New tasks will fall on each and the system as now outlined calls for a report each night on its results.

Biology Class

Monday, January 13 was an important day for the sixth-hour biology class. They were ushered through the Hall of Biological Principles in Ann Arbor by Dr. Barry, who teaches museum science.

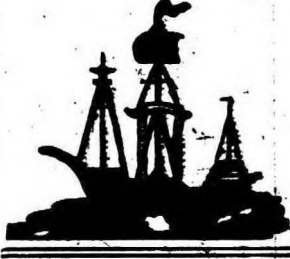

Mrs. Hubbs elucidated the characteristics of her many aquariums. Millions of bottled fish, used for experimental purposes, were seen, fish of every size, color and species are to be found there.

On the fourth floor, Dr. Barry explained the numerous display cases. These displayed life histories, genetics, deep sea adaptations, breeding habits, and many other things of interest to biology students.

The trip was very educational and interesting. Many thanks are extended to those who so generously offered their cars and services—Mrs. Litzberger, Mrs. Rorabacher, Mr. Robelli, Mr. Elzerman and our instructor, Leo Wallace.

Child Study Talk

"The Child Growth and Development" as noted by scientific research was explained by Miss Lillian Mechem, of the Elementary school in Ann Arbor, last Tuesday to 70 high school and grade school teachers. Miss Mechem, a psychometrician (one who compares mental and physical progress by means of graphs) is a member of Dr. Olsen's staff. The Elementary school, where Miss Mechem teaches, is a branch of the University of Michigan. It is a "laboratory" school, that is, one which is using one of the scientific ways of teaching children in the elementary grades.

The system explained by Miss Mechem is an illustrated lecture, concerned the development of the teeth, height, weight and wrist bones. The progress of these are recorded on line charts. Along with these physical developments the mental reactions toward some basis study such as reading is also recorded.

If the lines of the physical graph are all even and parallel, this indicates a normal development and growth of the child. If the lines of the mental graph are also parallel to those of the physical one, this indicates that the child is not only normal physically but also mentally. It also indicates to the teacher that the child did not need to be coached in any special subject.

Suppose, however, that the mental graph "spurts" up away from the physical graph; this means that the child is abnormal. Then again if the same line takes a downward "spurt" it shows that a remedial subject is needed to correct this.

To illustrate this, a pupil in the school showed an irregular descent on the physical graph. A few weeks later this child was taken to a hospital for an operation.

Miss Mechem said that observation showed that a healthy physical development brought about a child with a good mentality in mathematics and spelling. This plan does not put faith in intelligence quotas.

Anniversary

One hundred three years ago Sunday, January 28, Michigan was admitted to the union as the twenty-sixth state. Prior to becoming a state Michigan was known as the Michigan territory and was led by governors appointed by the president of the United States. Detroit served as the capital of the state until 1847, when it was removed to what is now called Lansing. The choice of a new capital city was attended with many feuds and disputes. Almost every city in the state felt it had some qualification which best fitted a capital city. In order to settle the rivalries with as little hard feeling as possible a site on what was then the center of the state was chosen and the city of Lansing sprang up.

Since its admission to the union, Michigan has had three constitutions; the first, that of 1836; the second, of 1850; and the third, the present one, which was ratified in 1908.

The state seal is portrayed by an Elk and a Moose rampant, upholding a shield on which is represented a peninsula with a hunter and the motto "Tuebor." "I shall protect," which has a splendid meaning in the present world crisis. An eagle rests atop the shield. The state seal also appears on the state flag. Our flag is a blue field bearing the state seal.

Michigan's first governor, under the state system, was Stephen T. Mason.

Another motto of the state, and one to which the city of Plymouth adds force is: "Si Quæris Paeninsulam Amoenam Circumspice." "If you seek a beautiful peninsula look about you!"

It's A Problem

It's no fun being a half-year student as 17 people in the present senior class can testify. Mix-ups in grades, subjects, and extracurricular activities have caused a great deal of trouble for their four years of high school, and numerous problems have resulted because these students entered the ninth grade in February. Of the 17, Doris Bridger, Virginia Brockelhurst, Jack Butz, Dorothy Ann Campbell, Robert Daniel, Ben Darnell, Shirley Dunham, Janice Elzerman, Lillian Fisher, Bill Harter, Jack Nielson, Bob Norman, Virginia Rock, Agnes Schomberger, Lila Selle, Elburna Shrader and Sam Virgo, six will be affected by the rule that states no student may compete against other schools during his ninth semester of high school.

Bob Norman and Jack Butz will play their last basketball game this Friday. These two, as well as Shirley Dunham, three of the mainstays of the tennis team, will be prohibited from participating in any league or final tennis match. Jack Nielson, a member of the baseball squad, will be lost to the Plymouth nine, because he, too, will have been in school nine semesters before baseball practice begins. Robert Daniel, member of the track squad last year, will no longer run the high school's track courses.

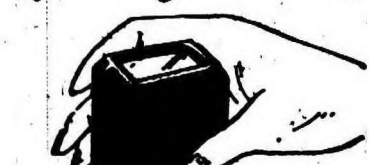

Besides athletics, Plymouth will be affected in one more field—forensics. Both Robert Daniel and Virginia Rock have been active in speech activities during their four high school years. They have debated for four years, and have also participated in spring forensics. Bob choosing oratory for two years and Virginia extemporaneous speaking for two.

One of the greatest disadvantages of entering high school in February, especially if one is planning to go out for sports or forensics, is that by the time he becomes really proficient in his field, he is unable to compete against others for the school. It is so often true that the freshman year in February is of little aid to one attempting to get adequate training to make a team. Another disadvantage is that grade differences don't know what grade they are in since they are taking subjects of one grade, and some of another. Then too, if they change grades in the middle of a school year, and are holding a class office, they must give up their position.

Being a half-year student at Plymouth high school may at some time in the future be no problem, but right now it can be called a "big mess" by those who know.

Dr. R. A. Smith, state geologist, makes the statement that Michigan has known deposits of salt which alone could supply the entire needs of the world for thousands of years to come.

How to Get a Date Explains Tax Law

(Feminine view point)
The one question which is universal throughout the adolescent feminine world is "How can I get a date?" Every girl knows the ways and means to be applied to a boy in the achievement of her purpose—but what good does this do when she doesn't know the method of application? It's like starting to paint a house and realizing that you forgot to buy a paint brush!

Of course if you're the type who coolly and collectively sit back to wait for a boy to ask you out, why you have nothing to worry about. Chances are, 20 to one, though, that your high school days will be over before you've had your share of fun.

There are chances for every girl to become a "book worm" type and catch up on reading "How to Win Friends," and all the columns on personality plus on the woman's page of the daily paper. Allowing Dale Carnegie to persuade your hidden charm to come out to attract people, you'll find that the papers advocate a neat appearance, a trim figure (Please send a 3-cent stamp for the booklet, "How to eat candy and reduce," beautiful hands and nails, well-groomed hair, and the acquisition of a peaches and cream complexion.)

If you want to interest the studious male specimen, dig down into ancient history, but be sure to keep your eye on the modern history going on under your nose. If he does become interested in you, don't play dumb when you enter in a conversation but smile sweetly, your education doesn't permit you to know the answer.

Then, again, if you have your eye on an athletic type boy, you can arouse his admiration for you by participating in all sports.

If you're the type who has no idea of ethics you can get along nicely. All you have to do is grab the other girls' boy friend; or you could resort to asking a boy for a date. In the long run it's safer to be wary than have this kind of popularity.

Are these too many ideas at once? Then put them on a slip of paper, place them in a hat, mix them up, and take one. After you've re-done your personality, you can go into the world as a professor of "How to Get a Date."

Steamrollers Win

The Plymouth reserves dropped their fifth game of the current season last Friday by the score of 24-21 at the hands of the Ecorse Steamrollers on the locals' floor. Well sprinkled with fouls, this game proved an exciting one. At no point in the game did the locals possess the lead, neither were they more than four points behind at any time. At the end of the half the score was tied at 10 all. Plymouth was handicapped by the loss of four men via the foul rule. Birt, Sessions, Donahue and Shoemaker were all removed before the end of the game. Bob Birt was high-point man for the locals with six points but they were topped by Ecorse with eight points. The starting line-ups were:

Substitutions: Plymouth — Bloomfield, Dugan, McAllister, Upton, Evans, Rieblett, Kearney; Ecorse — Shell, Scott, White, Callow, Bruce and Salob.

Senior Sketches

Shirley Ray Dunham reached his sports peak this fall when after three years of football he played as co-captain on the varsity team. He also plays tennis and is in the Varsity club. His aim is to travel and his hobbies are hunting, fishing and tennis. He has two pet peeves, women drivers and insufficient food. He lives at 835 Beck road.

Frances Dunn, a dark haired girl, is the daughter of Mrs. Leona Dunn. Frances, who now lives in Salem, was born in Plymouth. Besides Girl Reserve activities she has been secretary and president of Home Economics club. Frances' hobby is dancing. Her pet peeve is "two-faced" people.

Violet Dutcher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dutcher of 11844 Sherwood Lane, near Middle Belt road, was born in Detroit. Her chief hobby is playing the guitar. Violet is now an assistant Girl Scout leader and she hopes to become a full-fledged one.

Dorothy Irene Ebersole has been secretary and treasurer of her class. A member of Leaders' club for six years, Dorothy has been secretary of that club twice and has been Girls' sports manager. Girl Reserves, Girl Scouts, Stunt Night and the junior play are among her other accomplishments. Dorothy wants to attend Cleary business college and become an accountant. Boys with "lines" and love-sick couples disgust her. She is the daughter of Mrs. Gladys Ebersole.

Being a member of Leaders' club, Girl Reserves, Glee Club, the junior play, "Jane Eyre," intramural sports and committees for the prom and annual have kept Janice Elzerman, daughter of William and Sadie Elzerman, of 1304 Plymouth road, quite busy during her four years of high school. Her chief hobby is basketball and her ambition is to be a secretary. People who wear big hats to the movies and then never sit still is her pet peeve.

William Elliott, the tall easy-going son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Elliott, of 876 Church street, Plymouth, was born in Detroit. "Gus" as he is known to his friends, was chairman of the J-Hop construction, and has been on almost all stage committees for the past two years. William hopes to become a finger print expert or a florist. His pet peeve is people who won't listen to reason.

Harold Fallot, a blond haired boy with an easy-going way, was born in Plymouth, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Fallot who live on North Territorial road. Harold's hobby is model building and he was on the team for the 1940 season. He plans on studying aeronautical engineering after graduation. His pet peeve is a certain girl from South Lyon high school.

President of the Senior Girls' Leaders' club and vice-president of her class is Lillian Louella Fisher, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guy O. Fisher of 486 Hamilton street. Active in Leaders' club for six years, Lillian has been class manager, sports manager, vice-president and president. She is also president of the Girls' Bowling association and a class cheer leader. A member of the junior play cast, she is now class vice-president. Lillian wants to be a registered nurse.

In the tenth grade Ione Stuart and Gordon Vetal were chosen council members.

Bill Schoof was selected president, Mary Margaret Stout, secretary, and Joe Briscoe and Annabelle Heller, representing representatives of the twelfth grade.

The eighth grade vice-president is Ralph Bachelder; treasurer, Ethlene Stahl and student council representative, Bill Bauman. Catherine Moss was elected secretary; Robert Chute, vice president and Heinz Hoencke, student council representative of the seventh grade.

The unknown of students about the election of this semester was noticed in the number of votes. An average of about one-half the registered voters took part in the election. It was also noted that only a very few of the previously unregistered people had the energy or desire to register for this election.

Flu Epidemic

The present epidemic of colds and flu has taken a large toll in attendance during the last two weeks. Ten per cent of the students were absent last week, Mr. Dykhouse said. This is a higher percentage than average.

In addition to the students, three teachers have been absent for a part of last week.

Girl Reserves

Ardith Rowland was re-elected to the presidency of the Senior Girl Reserves at the election of officers held Thursday, January 16.

Virginia Garrison was chosen vice-president; Betty Brown, secretary; Betty Scheppelle, treasurer and Mary Jane Olsaver, inter-club counselor. All the new officers are incumbents except Virginia Garrison. Also all are seniors except Virginia, who is a junior.

Receives Praise

Virginia Rock, in addition to her other honors, has received recognition for an editorial printed in January 10, issue of the Plymouth Mail. She received a letter from Henry Gosler, Cincinnati, Ohio.

The letter read, in part, "I think it so fine that I, a complete stranger to the city and the paper and to you, have clipped the editorial and have sent it to my friends and relatives in Wisconsin."

The poem editorial portrayed life in England before and during the war. The thought was expressed that England will always exist as long as men have courage to go on and a dream to realize.

Judge Dayton

Mr. Smith's commercial law class received a well known visitor last Monday when Municipal Judge John S. Dayton spoke to the class about the various types of cases handled by Plymouth's court. He pointed out that in civil suits, his court could handle cases involving amounts up to $500. Judge Dayton brought out several cases that have been tried in his court and explained the procedure involved in each case. He also pointed out a number of places where many attorneys are lax and thereby have their cases thrown out of court.

Judge Dayton also brought a sheet from the docketbook. On this was traced the history of a replevin suit in which the plaintiff was awarded a judgment.

Dearborn Game

There are many aspects of tonight's game which make it a very important event on the athletic calendar of Plymouth high school. This is the last athletic contest in which Bob Norman and Jack Butz may compete. Probably the main point is the fact that the game is with Dearborn. By defeating River Rouge last week, Dearborn wrested the league lead from the down-river team. Plymouth is tied with Ecorse for third position, with Ypsilanti and Wayne trailing the league. This game may be the turning point of the season, so let's have a big crowd. Rouge is going into its sixth year of championship ball, although they are not now champions because of the defeat by Dearborn.

The seventh and eighth grade basketball teams stole a march on the freshmen last Friday when they won twice from Northville, while the ninth graders lost a double header to Dearborn.

While the eighth graders were winning 15-5 and the seventh graders 15-2, the freshmen were losing 28-14.

The victorious eighth graders were George Newton, Bill Bennett, Don Rock, Franklin Maxcy, Lawrence Eccles, Richard Erdelyi and Grant Willis.

The losing team of the ninth graders was Newton, Hook, Curmi, Dely, Duane and Johnson.

Trained Shop Men in Demand

The experts tell us jobs are scarce; that a high school graduate even with technical training finds job-getting hard; that the scarcity of jobs today and the general competition put the straight-jacket on a prospective worker before he can get started.

William Campbell, instructor of the Plymouth high school machine shop, for one, is not greatly perturbed by these statements. He and his graduates have found that it is no longer a case of finding a job for the boy; it's one of finding a boy for the job. And they can back that statement with fact.

For three years the machine shop course has been taught in Plymouth, and for three years every one of the boys in the department has found a steady machine shop job in adjacent industry with a 45-cent minimum wage. Right now the department believes it has more offers of positions open than the graduating class this year will fill.

When a boy finishes the two-year, three hours a day machine shop course, he has every technical requirement satisfied for a general machine job. A graduate last year, George Tonkovich completed the course honorably and stepped out within a year into a foreman's job.

Besides two three-hour classes on mechanical knowledge during the day session of school, Mr. Campbell has two night classes on Monday and Wednesday which are already overcrowded. Ambitious men from nearby factories attain higher technical knowledge in these classes on the 14 machines with which the shop is equipped.

But if the course is general its requirements and its technical depth is not. A desirable candidate for the machine shop must be either a junior or senior and have had, previous to his joining the course, shop drawing and shop mathematics. All of the 30 boys on the course this year understand the machines thoroughly and since its inception all machine maintenance has been done by the boys on the course. If a part breaks they make another.

Thirty high school boys this semester, 15 each in the morning and afternoon sections, work three hours a day in the shop and receive for their work ten hours of credit a semester. Their credits necessary for graduation are taken during the hours they aren't in the shop.

What plans do the boys follow in making their parts? They draw the plans themselves. When they finish the required semester work, they continue with special projects on their own initiative.

On display in the shop today are some examples of their work during the last semester.

Inspirations

While trying to remember the lines of Pope, Goldsmith, Gray and Burns, I noticed the girl next to us copying said lines from book with great pains. Such brazen cheating, we think! But faith in our fellowman is restored when it develops the girl has been absent and was just trying to learn her poetry.

The most touching remark of the new year was uttered by Eddie Cantor when he said: "Let us be thankful that we Americans have only to worry about what we will put our plates on, and not what we will put ON our plates."

To those members of law class who are still wondering what the "intangible property tax" is, we might say that it is the income tax on the "little man who wasn't there."

Long pitted has been the girl who "just washed her hair and can't do a thing with it." But when one adds to that the fact that some other young thing has a new imitation alligator skin purse just like your own genuine one—that's too much!

FOR MR. DIES

Congressman Dies in his report to congress made mention of alleged law violations and deceptions practiced by the Communist party in various states during the national election. He failed to mention Michigan as one of the states where people were deceived by Communist leaders in efforts to secure signatures to petitions.

It is apparent from the newspaper accounts of the Dies report, that it barely scratched the surface.

We in Michigan know of all the tricks, deception and fraud that was practiced in securing signatures to the petitions that were filed with the secretary of state in order to place the Communist ticket on the ballot last fall.

We know that only a minor portion of the names were signed, knowing that the petitions being signed, were for Communist purposes.

Maybe there are some who do not favor the work of the Dies committee. Maybe the committee has made mistakes, but there is this about it—the committee is smoking out the enemies of America within America. It all helps in the crisis we are facing. Keep up the good work, that's our advice to the Dies committee!

GOOD LEGISLATION

It is surprising what just a few lines written into a piece of legislation will do.

Two years ago when the legislature was considering new fish and game regulations for the state, at the suggestion of the writer, 40 cents of each fishing license was earmarked for use in acquiring frontage along lakes and rivers for public use.

In recent years it has become more and more difficult for people to find places to fish in this state, because of the fact that so many of the good fishing lakes of the north, as well as some of the fishing streams, were being closed to public use by private ownership.

It seemed advisable, therefore, to take some steps to try and remedy the situation. The legislature, readily agreed to the plan and as a result Michigan citizens are now getting their 40 cents' worth out of each fishing license.

Forty cents of each dollar spent fishing license sold since January 1 of last year has been earmarked by the conservation department for purchase of land providing public access to lakes and streams, for improvement calculated to make fishing better and for research.

In the last 10 months, the conservation commission has approved purchases of 51 sites on lakes and streams in 20 counties in both peninsulas.

More than 14 miles of frontage has been acquired at a cost of $84,000.

Frontage acquired on lakes totals 26,760 feet; on trout streams, 36,650, and on non-trout streams, 11,300 feet.

Most recent acquisitions include 400 feet on Rose lake, Osceola county; 4,900 feet on the Sturgeon river in Otsego county; 300 feet on Big Shag lake, Marquette county; one mile of frontage on the Cedar river in Menominee county; 4,500 feet on Swanzy or Oliver lake in Marquette county; 100 feet on Frenchman lake, Chippewa county; 4,600 feet on Dowagiac creek and drain in Cass county; 225 feet on East lake, Kalkaska county; and 204 feet on Bower's harbor, west arm of Grand Traverse bay.

The fishermen's license money spent so far insures their right to fish, for all time, on 36 lakes, 11 trout and four non-trout streams in Allegan, Antrim, Berrien, Cass, Charlevoix, Chippewa, Clare, Crawford, Delta, Genesee, Grand Traverse, Iosco, Kalkaska, Lake Lenawee, Livingston, Luce, Marquette, Menominee, Montcalm, Montmorency, Oakland, Oceana, Ontonagon, Osceola, Otsego, Presque Isle, Van Buren and Washtenaw counties.

LINCOLN, THE POET

The world has honored him as one whose heart Was touched by sorrows of a fettered race— Who, in his kindness sought to ease the smart Of suffering, nor turned averted face; For he was kind to every desolate. And hunted creature—lonely tree and hill; There was a hunger he could never sate, A longing he could never quite fulfill. He was a mighty poet, though he wrote No lines by which the world could know his art; But I am sure he heard the perfect note— Felt rhythms which the mind could not impart, A genial man, and yet with soul depressed, His songs forever locked within his breast.

ONE SERIOUS FIRE

The annual report of the Plymouth fire department shows but one serious fire loss in Plymouth during the last year. That loss was a large one; it was not only a large loss but it might have been much worse. Cooperation of fire departments from nearby communities prevented its spread.

Our fortunate escape from a more disastrous loss last year does not mean that we can become careless or that we can permit the creation of new fire hazards. It is an easy thing to permit a condition to develop which makes disastrous fires possible. And that we should not permit.

Fire is no respecter of age, value or usefulness. And fire's worst ravages lie in the destruction of things which insurance can never replace.

The other day a beautiful old New England home fell an easy prey to fire when an oil stove ignited its venerable walls. That home was of great value as one of the few remaining examples of early American architecture—it was a representative of a great period in our history that has passed. More than two centuries ago its timbers and paneling were brought to our shores from England. And in a few minutes all that was left was a pile of smoking rubbish, and the bare, pathetic columns of the fireplaces.

Few of us live in homes which are of historic interest. But all of us have possessions which are beyond price— which, once gone, are gone forever. Documents, letters, rare books, little mementos of our past lives, souvenirs of happy times and great occasions—when fire takes these, nothing can be done. Valuable as a fire insurance policy is, the money it provides cannot do the impossible. It cannot replace the irreplaceable.

Far worse, many fires take lives. Each year some ten thousand of us die the most horrible of deaths. And fire is almost always unnecessary. It is almost always the result of human failure—someone's negligence, someone's carelessness, someone's ignorance. The fire that could not have been prevented is one of the rarest of occurrences.

We can defeat fire. We can destroy the great destroyer. But to do that calls for the cooperation of every one of us. There should be no slackers in the war against fire.

It means constant alertness on the part of every one. It may be a little late in the year, but why would it not be a good time to resolve right now that Plymouth shall permit no fire hazard to be created and that Plymouth shall have no fire loss during the year of 1941?

A LITTLE KNOWLEDGE

To the layman an airplane is a very complicated mechanism which needs constant attention and supervision. No chances should be taken with it. If it runs out of gas or is otherwise incapacitated, it does not merely come to a stop beside the road.

In this opinion the layman is right. It is amazing to read in government reports that many pilots apparently lose this idea once they become familiar with aircraft. And the contempt bred by unfamiliarity is often fatal. Believe it or not, some pilots have been known to take their friends for a ride without checking the gasoline gauge. Others have gone aloft with faulty spark plugs, damaged wing struts. And the resulting accidents are chalked up at the end of the year against the whole aviation business.

Commercial lines, despite occasional accidents, have a remarkable record of miles flown and passengers carried without accident. This record is the result of caution as well as flying skill. But the private flyer drags the record down by sheer carelessness in a field where carelessness is unforgivable.

An official warning was recently issued to the public against flying with student pilots. The government realizes, apparently, that a little knowledge is a dangerous thing.—Philip T. Rich in The Midland News.

HOW TRUE!

A friend is a very close acquaintance who has never tried to borrow money from you.—R. J. Jeffries in The Lowell Ledger.

IT WILL TAKE CHRISTIANITY

America does not want to become Russianized and see its churches and God disavowed. Neither does it want churches to be nullified by being Hitlerized and told that the state is God. Yet America, by its own indifference to the welfare of the churches is slowly strangling an institution which it would fight to the death to preserve. If any inside power were to attempt to abolish our American churches the nation would rise as one man to defend them. But when the same results are threatened by refusal to attend or help keep them up, there is little sign of alarm.

It is going to take a lot of Christianity to pull the world out of the chaos of world war and anarchy. Just now this nation, for its defense and in its alarm at what may happen here, is teaching its young men the most modern ways of killing and destroying and hating. The Jesus Christ teachings of love for one's fellow men and for meekness and mercy and forgiveness will have to be taught with renewed vigor when and if this war ends before civilization is wiped out.

Let us not permit our churches to run down physically or spiritually—for the hope of the world lies in the bringing upon earth of that Kingdom for which the church was organized.—George Osborn in The Sault Ste. Marie News.

NOT QUITE PARALLEL

Paul S. Bond of Charlotte made a challenging statement at a meeting held in Mason last week when he said, "You fathers pay more attention to hogs than you do to your sons. You don't let your purebred hogs run with scrubs, yet you seemingly don't care, don't even know, who your boys are running with."

That's a good statement, yet not entirely logical. Hogs and boys are not parallel cases because the hog-racer is not concerned with moral issues. He is for physical development entirely and cares not a whit about his pigs growing up to be greedy, loud, thieving and generally unprincipled. Human progeny needs different care. Because they are human their minds must be developed along with their bodies, and knowledge and morals can't be shoved into a trough, and if they could be so shoveled there would be no great rush to devour it.

If the rearing of children were just a matter of crossing certain strains how simple life would be. Successful men and women would be certain that their children would develop the same identical characteristics. Others of us without purebred parents would be doomed, generation after generation, to the gutter. That's the way the world was once operated and it didn't work out. That's why royalty has all but vanished. There is a vast difference between the human and the lower animals. Breeding, through heredity, is a major factor. Environment is another factor. Yet there is something, some spark, some germ, which often upsets all of the hereditary and environmental factors and makes successes where failures could be logically expected and makes failures where successes have been predicted. That is what makes child-rearing the most interesting and the most unpredictable task in all the world.—Nelson Brown in The Ingham County News.

PREPARE FOR THE UNEXPECTED

Advisedly we suggest that ample preparations should be made for a possible depression, should the European conflagration suddenly subside. Prudence would suggest that a part of the earnings should be "salted" away for the rainy day which might arrive, yet which we hope will not come.—J. John Pope in The Grandville Star.

PROTESTS PROPOSED NEW TAX

The suggestion of an Iron county land use committee that unproved mineral rights be taxed in the same manner as other property is not new. Before the state courts on a previous occasion, the court ruled a similar tax unconstitutional on the ground that minerals could not be taxed until they were known to exist. Mineral rights alone were too intangible, and the assumption of minerals is not sufficient. On the other hand, owners of mineral rights adjoining property where they are known to exist prize them highly. If this intangible value exists, they should be taxed, the committee argue, and the argument is not without its point, but a difficult one to define and write into the law. Most of the lands of the state are without minerals and to tax all unproved mineral rights would be an injustice which might deprive already heavily burdened land owners of their property, or force those who own mineral rights alone to relinquish their rights to others who could afford to take the tax risk. If the committee have a plan of procedure, they should delineate it in greater detail.—Eugene Moore in The Iron River Reporter.

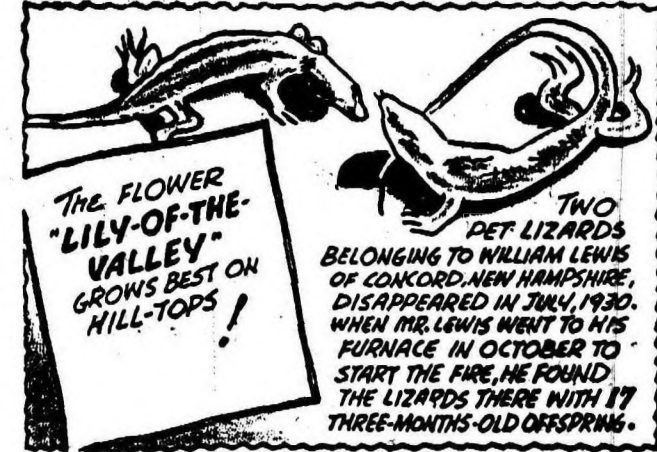

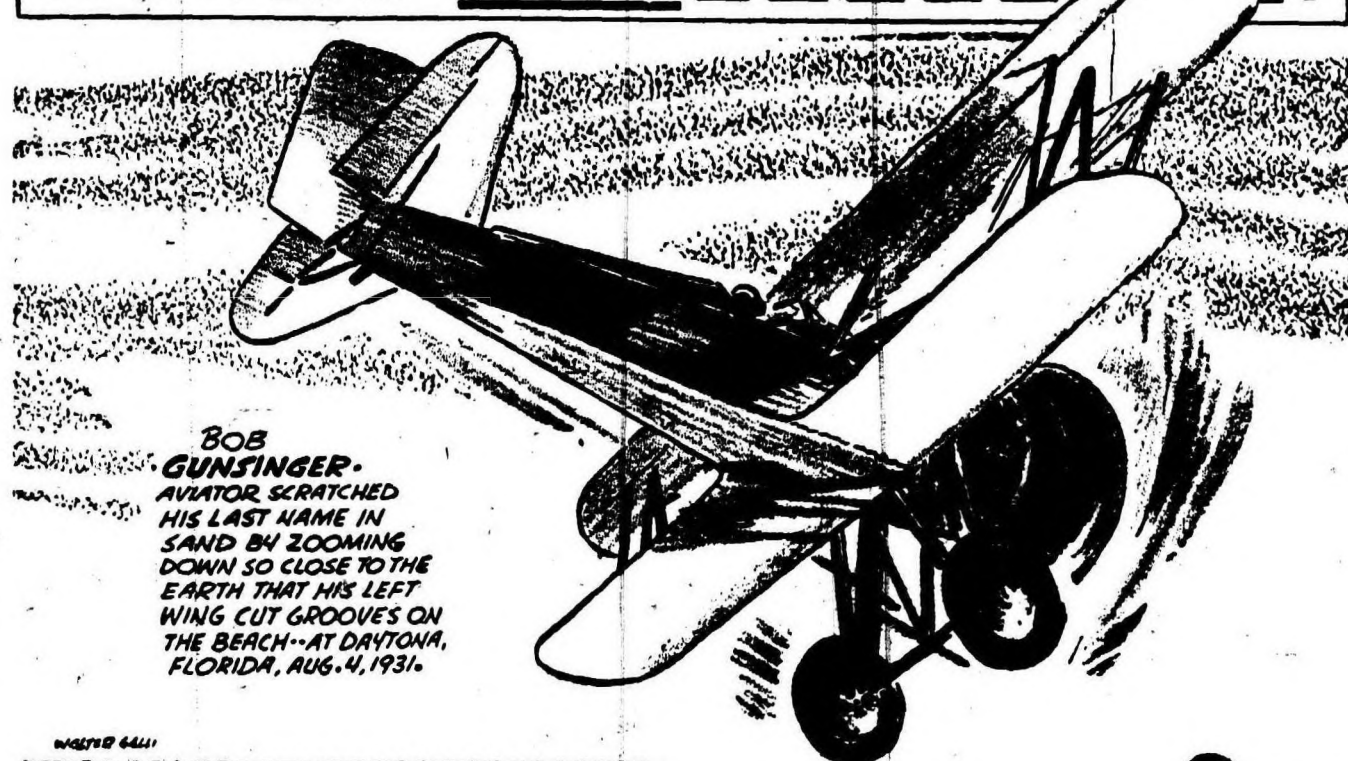

IT'S "BALONEY," HE SAYS

These predictor guys are just about as right as the radio commentators, newspapers and magazines in reporting the war situation. Our idea is that one man knows just about as much as another about it, they're all wrong most of the time, and about all anyone can do is some watchful waiting and see what happens. About all anyone knows is that the world is in a—of a condition, it doesn't know where it is going but is on its way—to where? The guy who gets up before an audience and tells the people this and that as facts, regardless, expecting the people to swallow in one gulp all he has said as the last word, make us sick and disgusted. Many of these fellows fail to realize that the average man does his own thinking today, and the time is past when anyone can tell us anything and expect us to believe it without reasoning it out for ourselves.—Bob Gifford in The Eaton Rapids Journal.

AMERICA'S "WALLOP INDEX"

Now that this nation is really swinging into its national defense program, there is a good chance to look around and judge some of the factors that would give any possible aggressor pause before it—or he—went looking for trouble with the United States. Examining the facts of the case, the conclusion is inescapable that it is the industrial might of this country that is our best insurance against getting embroiled with any other nation in the world. Col. Willard M. Chevalier, publisher of Business Week, has estimated America's "wallop index," based on the national capacity to produce the essentials necessary to carry on a modern war—items like coal, steel, autos, and electric power.

But It's True

Guntsinger actually managed to cut one-foot-deep grooves in the sand. His plane was undamaged and he was unhurt.

"Setting at 100 the German capacity to produce these resources, our own capacity would figure at 242," he declares. "Stacked up against the totalitarian powers, the United States still has the edge despite recent industrial and agricultural acquisitions of Hitler and his Axis partners."

Citing the steel industry as an example, the noted analyst continues: "The capacity of U. S. mills at the beginning of 1940 was 81,619,500 tons. This is nearly twice last year's output in Germany and the countries that have come under German control where mills were operating at a feverish pace. It is 50 per cent greater than the production of the Rome-Berlin-Tokyo axis; and it falls only 15,000,000 tons short of the output of the entire world outside the United States, but including Russia and the British Empire."

Industrial production alone does not make a country strong. National faith and national unity are vital, too. But when all work together, the result surely is foreordained.—Adrian Van Koeve in The Zealand Record.

A JOB WORTHWHILE

In a midwestern town of 3000 an examination was held to fill a vacancy on a rural route of the local post office. Eighty-eight persons took the examination. Among those taking it was the superintendent of the city schools, two high school teachers, the engineer of a large construction company, a skilled linotype operator and a number of college graduates. The job of rural carrier has come to be one of the most desirable jobs to be had in the average small community. The compensation for one-half day's work is more than can be secured in any activity or business in the community. The rural carrier's work is done in a half a day and he has the rest of the day to himself. He receives at the end of thirty years' service, a life pension. He is given two weeks vacation with pay. No other employment to be found in the average small town does nearly as much.—George O. St. Charles in The Dearborn Independent.

LET'S BE FAIR

We were talking to an employer the other day who had a reputation for fair treatment of his employees. He was not very happy over a situation that had arisen in his plant. "I have always," he said, "tried to be fair to my help. I have trusted them to treat me fairly if I first treated them fairly. I have been disappointed with three-fourths of my help. They have adopted little chiseling practices that every employer is familiar with. I am wondering," he said, "why they do it. Why cannot fairness be appreciated? It is going to be necessary to call several of them into the office and call their attention to their short comings and perhaps dismiss them. I am wondering if I have not made a mistake in trying to be too good to them. I wonder how many employees appreciate fairness?" We don't know the answer to this one but it is a tip to every employee who has a boss who does try to be fair, to try and deserve a continuance of fair treatment, rather than resort to petty chiseling practices that create friction and a feeling of lack of appreciation and even imposition. A fair employer is worthy of any employee's constant best efforts.—George O. St. Charles in The Dearborn Independent.
