

Cuba!
What about it? What kind of a country is it? The people—what about them? Is it an interesting place to visit? Is there much difference between this island republic and the state of Florida, which is its nearest neighbor? What of its future?

Cuba is 730 miles long, a distance that is about equal to the distance between Plymouth and Ironwood, Michigan. If you drive from Plymouth to Jackson, you have driven a distance that is equal to the width of the island. While the island is about 50 miles wide in most places, there is one section that is about 160 miles wide. The area of the island is about equal to that of the state of Pennsylvania.

Of all the unusual places in the western hemisphere, Cuba doubtless is one of the outstanding. Interesting, intensely so, its climate is delightful. Its people are courteous in the extreme. From the standpoint of a tourist, it offers sights far different than the writer has ever before encountered on numerous trips about this part of the world. Only twelve hours by boat from Miami, Florida, less than two hours by plane, Cuba in the past few years has become the mecca of thousands of American tourists.

But of course all travelers do not see things alike. Our reaction to the visit to Cuba was somewhat different than that of some others who returned on the same boat. Some complained about the beggery by children, which they said was most annoying. They objected to the almost insistent suggestions for tips for every sort of service given. They didn't like the constant appeal that was made in an effort to get tourist dollars. Of course no one likes anything like that, but there is no use complaining about it. One does not have to give unless he desires to do so and the bright, intelligent and alert Cuban guides discourage it as much as possible.

One must remember that Cuba is an exceedingly young nation. It was for centuries held down under the heel of Spanish rule. The Cubans were deprived of educational rights and opportunities. They were dominated by brutal and heartless officials and when the country emerged as a free and independent nation, it had to begin building from the very bottom.

Its freedom was won within one generation. To us it is progress during the brief time it has had its liberty is most amazing. Cuba has had its ups and downs since winning its freedom. Like unto our own country's history, the best interests of the masses have at times been betrayed by some of its former officials. But Cuba is on the way up and some of the annoying things that tourists should overlook will disappear as the country becomes more mature.

From either Miami or Key West an exceedingly low cost trip can be arranged through any of the many tour groups that operate in Cuba. Because of the fact that the West Indies Travel Service, Inc., is a Cuban owned and Cuban managed organization, the writer thought it best to take the tour arranged by this enterprising organization. It is managed by Carlos Blanco, a keenly intelligent Cuban who is as familiar with whims of people in the United States as he is with the residents of his own country. Fortunately, too, was this arrangement because there was constantly with the group, Juan S. Llanos, and Charles Odio, two Cuban guides who not only knew all about the interesting places visited, but possessed a historical and economic knowledge of their country that made our visit of much more than ordinary interest.

People of Cuba are intensely proud of their great public buildings. Right now interests in these vast structures seems to be a bit out of step with some of the other more pressing economic problems of the island, but of course these matters will eventually adjust themselves. The capitol building at Havana is a beautiful structure. Embedded in the floor is a big diamond said to be worth more than $40,000. From this diamond marker all distances in the island are measured. How long do you suppose such a rich prize as this would remain in the floor of the capitol at Lansing or in Washington? The fact that no effort has ever been made to molest this valuable jewel easily accessible to the public, attests Cuban respect for its government.

The matter of taxation seems to be one that Cuba has yet to work out. Users of gasoline pay 32 cents a gallon, of which 17 cents is a gas tax, probably the highest tax on gasoline anywhere in the world, where it is used extensively. On the other hand Cuba has no tax upon real estate. It has no income tax. One can readily understand the influences back of such a tax system. But, as previously stated, Cuba is a young country. These are problems that will eventually be worked out.

Township Caucus Re-Nominates Present Officers

Charles Rathburn, Jr. Marks Fifteenth Year as Supervisor

Township officers re-nominated at the caucus of township electors Monday evening, March 3, at Grange hall, include Charles H. Rathburn, Jr., who will enter upon his fifteenth year as township supervisor this spring; Norman C. Miller, clerk, who was re-nominated to his tenth year of office; Samuel Spicer, treasurer; Jesse Tyler, member of the board of review; Robert Holmes, highway commissioner, and Russell Coon, Edward Howard and Floyd Miller, constables.

The only changes in the township officers nominated for the April 7 spring election were the naming of David Baker as constable in place of Eld Eider, and of Walter Postiff for a four-year term as justice of the peace.

Supervisor Rathburn is third in line of service among the supervisors in Wayne county. Jesse Ziegler having a record of 20 years in the office of supervisor of Livonia township, and John Sherwood, formerly of Livonia township and now supervisor of Sumpter township, who has been supervisor for a period of 18 years.

Born in Wayne, Michigan, Supervisor Rathburn came to Plymouth township in 1907, first taking public office as clerk of the village of Plymouth in 1908. In the following year, he was elected treasurer of the village.

In 1914, Mr. Rathburn became clerk of Plymouth township, and for the next two succeeding years was treasurer of the township. At that time, the township officers met in the garage building on Ann Arbor road now occupied by Earl Mastick, later moving to the Grange hall when that building was completed.

During the ten intervening years from 1916 until 1926 when Mr. Rathburn was first elected supervisor of the township, he was engaged in the automobile business.

A total of 1600 half-year and 3000 full-year license plates were sold at the Plymouth office of the secretary of state from the first of the year until the deadline for 1940 plates last Friday, February 28, according to Frank Rambo, in charge of the license office.

These figures represent a considerable increase over last year's sales which totaled 1400 half-year and 2600 full-year license tags. The greatest increase this year was in the number of half-year plates sold which is more significant in view of the fact that the half-year tags went on sale two weeks earlier last year.

Two additional workers were hired to aid in the last-minute rush before the deadline. On Friday, 742 license plates were sold as compared with only 450 last year. Following the deadline for 1940 plates on Saturday, an additional 350 plates were sold. No less than 100 telegrams were dispatched to Lansing for duplicate titles during the last days of the sale, Rambo stated.

Fire Razes Roof of Leach Residence

Fire razed the roof and damaged the second story of the home of Emerson Leach at 509 West Ann Arbor Trail Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock. According to Fire Chief Fred Wagenschütz, the fire apparently started from an overhead wire. The estimated damage, according to firemen, was about $500. The property is owned by Elmer L. Smith of Northville.

Name Nominating Committee for Wild Life Election

Program Features Movies of Collapse of Tacoma Bridge

A nominating committee, composed of Lisle Alexander, chairman, Robert Merriam and Harold Underwood, was appointed for the annual election of officers of the Western Wayne County Conservation association at the club's meeting last Monday evening, March 3, at the Hotel Mayflower. The third annual meeting and election of officers of the association will be held on Monday, April 7.

A highlight of the club's program Monday evening, showing by Glenn Jewell of movies of the collapse of "Galloping Gertie," a dramatic news event of last fall. The movie was secured by Robert Merriam who is associated with the bridge department of the Wayne County Road commission.

The Wild Life association authorized its secretary to contact state Congressmen regarding the proposal to prohibit Sunday hunting in certain counties of Zone 3 which includes southern Michigan. The club favors a policy of no discrimination between counties in hunting rules, and will advise Congressmen to either close all counties for Sunday hunting or to permit open hunting in all counties.

He Sells 2,559 Buicks in 20 Years

Time rolls around pretty fast to one who is busy long hours of the day—that is why Carl Shear of the Plymouth Buick Sales company nearly overlooked the fact that just 20 years ago this month he established the automobiles sales agency that he has directed in Plymouth during the past two decades.

Mr. Shear had previously conducted a grocery store out at Beach, just north of the Plymouth road. After he sold this store he traveled for the wholesale grocery firm of Lee & Cadz for a time. It was just about this period when the selling of automobiles started to become big business.

Since 1921 Mr. Shear and his force have sold 2559 Buick cars in Plymouth and vicinity. This is an outstanding record in itself.

It was in 1932 that he took on the sales of Frigidaires, and since that time he has sold 434 of these cooling machines. In 1939 he added the Bendix home laundry machine line, and during that time he has sold 65 of these machines.

That is a record that any one can well be proud of, and Mr. Shear declared the other day when he was reminded of the fact that he had been in the auto sales business for twenty years, that he hoped to make the next twenty years far better than the past twenty had been.

Livonia Bowler Joins Hall of Fame With Perfect "300" Game

Frank Bock, of 11676 Littlefield avenue, Livonia township, joined the bowlers' Hall of Fame last Sunday night when he rolled a perfect game in open play on the Livonia Recreation alleys. Bock scored 17 strikes in a row, striking in the eighth and ninth frames and striking out in the tenth of his first game, and 12 for a perfect 300 tally in the second game.

A member of the Schaffer orchestra team, Bock has an average of 174 in house league bowling. He was awarded the house prize of $15 for his perfect game and a prize of $30 in trade from the Ely Fuel company.

Fire Destroys Nelson Residence

Two families are homeless as the result of a fire which destroyed the home of Attorney John Nelson, Five Mile and Braden roads in Phoenix subdivision, early Saturday morning.

The Nelsons, who built the modern, six-room home with attached garage only a year and a half ago, planned to move out Saturday, and the Carl Schusters of Harvey street who purchased the Nelson residence had planned to move in Saturday. As a result of the fire which burned the Nelson residence to the ground, the Nelsons are living at their daughter's home across the street, and the Schusters are staying with Mrs. Schuster's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Bakhaus.

Three guards at the House of Correction, who were driving home from their work, sighted the roof of the Nelson home aflame. They reported the fire, arousing the sleeping Nelsons. Just before the roof caved in, the Plymouth fire department answered the call, but according to Chief Fred Wagenschütz, there was no hope of saving any of the property when they arrived on the scene. Damage was estimated at more than $10,000. Valuable household furnishings, many of which were stored in the attic, were a total loss. The source of the fire is unknown.

New Buildings Near Completion

Two new commercial buildings now under construction in the Plymouth district contained Tuesday for Fort Sheridan, Illinois. They are First Sergeant Stanley Allen, Privates John Nelson, Earl Beckwith, Roy Westfall, Elmer Fulton, Fred Drews, Harold Hills, Clyde Lasslett, Donald Peck, Gilbert Rohde, Orin Horn and Norman Jackson.

The exterior of the professional center building has been completed with yellow face brick across the front, and white lime brick on the side and rear walls. The large casement windows in each of the office suites. The sub-flooring and roof are now completed, and the plaster work on the interior walls has just been started.

A total of 12 building permits for constructions valued at $12,995 were issued during the month of February. The two commercial jobs for which permits were taken out include an addition, 42x57 feet, to the Plymouth Plating and Finishing Works, and Amelia streets, and the construction of a four-family apartment building, 28x80 feet, at 945 Wing street between Forest and Harvey streets. The addition to the Plymouth Plating Works of which Henry Hondorp and Frank Henderson are owners is nearly completed, according to Contractor Mills. The building of the proposed apartment building is pending a zoning decision of the board of appeals to be determined Monday, March 10.

The only new home constructed during February was a five-room frame house at 724 Pacific avenue between Farmer and Junction streets, at an estimated cost of $4,600, by V. M. Pilgrim of Northville.

The balance of the building permits were issued for additions and repairs to homes and business offices.

Mrs. William Lomas, Newburg, Finds Long-Lost Brother, Missing 31 Years

"Stranger than fiction" is the story of Mrs. William Lomas of Horton road, Newburg, and her long-lost young brother, E. David West, who were re-united two weeks ago after a lapse of 31 years during which Mrs. Lomas knew nothing of her brother's whereabouts. After 31 years of inquiry and search, Mrs. Lomas on a chance clue located her "missing" brother only 25 miles away in Detroit on February 12.

Mrs. Lomas last saw her brother in April, 1910 at their family home in Pawtucket, Rhode Island, just before he joined the United States Navy and started on a career of travels which took him around the globe. Mr. and Mrs. Lomas were married in Pawtucket in 1905, and left there in 1910 to come to Detroit. They brought with them Mrs. Lomas' mother, Mrs. Julia A. West, who died five days after moving to Detroit.

As West continued his journeys with the navy to remote corners of the world, letters became less frequent and finally all members of the family lost track of him. In 1926, Mrs. Lomas wrote to the Navy Department in Washington, D. C. to find out if her brother had been discharged from service. Missing to his family during the war years, they wondered if possibly West had been killed in battle. A reply from the Navy Department revealed West had been honorably discharged and returned to civilian life—somewhere.

In January, Mr. and Mrs. Lomas returned East for a visit with relatives, and Mrs. Lomas' eldest brother, George West, reported that he had heard indirectly that Brother David was living in Detroit. Upon their return, the Lomases consulted the city directory, and found E. David West

Unusual Honors For This Candidate

LEROY C. SMITH

It is not often that a state political convention steps out of its way to "draft" a candidate for public office, but that is just what happened the other day over at Grand Rapids when LeRoy C. Smith, famed Wayne county highway engineer-manager, was given the Republican nomination for state highway commissioner without a contest. There were three or four well known highway men who were candidates for the honor, but when they were advised that Wayne county's well known official might be induced to accept the nomination, they immediately withdrew and offered him their unlimited support.

So it pays to do a good job, no matter what the job might be. Mr. Smith had every vote in the state convention, not one delegate voting against him.

Wayne county probably has the most outstanding highway and park system of any metropolitan district in the world, and its development has been due largely to the efforts and foresight of Mr. Smith. Residents in and about Plymouth need not be told of what he has done in this part of the state. Every one is familiar with his amazingly beneficial highway and park projects. His host of friends in Wayne county plan to put forth every effort to have him elected state highway commissioner, so that all of Michigan can have the services of such an outstanding highway official as Mr. Smith.

One of the secrets of his remarkable success in Wayne county has been due to the fact that he has kept politics out of the road business—and that is what will happen in Michigan if he should be elected state highway commissioner.

Mrs. Thomas Gray is seriously ill in Ford hospital.

Supt. G. A. Smith Confers on Aid at Washington

Bill Introduced for 150 Million Aid Grant to Defense Centers

Plymouth's request for a federal school aid grant of $190,000 is the second claim on file from the state of Michigan for increased facilities made necessary by national-defense activities, it was learned by George A. Smith, superintendent of Plymouth schools, last Thursday when he was in Washington, D. C. to check on the status of the request filed by the Plymouth board of education in January. Superintendent Smith stopped in Washington last week after attending the National Education association's convention in Atlantic City.

Camp Custer in Battle Creek filed a prior claim for federal aid, and the third request from Michigan is for the construction of a United States tank plant on Gratiot avenue in Oakland and Macomb counties.

With Congressman George A. Dorr, Superintendent Smith called upon Representative Fritz C. Lanham of Texas who has introduced House Bill No. 3570 carrying an appropriation of $150,000,000 to care for needs deriving from national defense activities.

From his discussion with legislators and with the commission of education in the Department of Interior, Superintendent Smith stated, "Whether Plymouth receives any federal aid and the amount to be received will be determined by the reality of the apparent need when federal investigators come to Plymouth. It will be recalled that the Plymouth board of education made a request for funds for an addition to the high school building, and also for the construction of a grade unit on the recently purchased site near Robinson subdivision."

"The problem of school attendance is complicated by a considerable influx of additional students because of a munitions factory which is being built within our school district by the Kelsey-Hayes Wheel company, and because of the four units of the Ford Motor company located in or so near to Plymouth that the increased defense activities enlarge materially the numbers of people employed in these units and also the number of children attending our schools," declared Superintendent Smith in a letter to the federal office of education in January.

In his report to the federal government, Superintendent Smith estimated that there would be an additional 500 children in the grade schools by September, 1941, and an additional 350 children in the high school next fall, necessitating the addition of several new teachers.

The total enrollment in Plymouth schools at the beginning of the second semester in February was 1930, only 35 short of the school's maximum capacity, which threatens to present a problem by next fall.

Complete statistics and of the local petition for federal aid have been prepared and distributed among members of the United States Congress.

Truck Crushes Northville Youth

Darwin M. Gladman, 21, of Northville received serious internal injuries when he was caught between a coal delivery truck and a house at 190 Blunk street last Saturday afternoon. Mr. Gladman accompanied Melvin Sockow, 17, of 1425 Plymouth road, truck driver for the Plymouth Lumber and Coal company, on his delivery routes all day Saturday. When Sockow went to the home of Eugene Benson at 190 Blunk street to deliver an order of coal, Gladman went to the back of the truck to help guide Sockow in backing up to the coal window.

According to police, Sockow lost control of the truck momentarily when his foot slipped off the clutch as he tried to back the truck over the curb, crushing Gladman between the truck and the house. Gladman was taken to University hospital in Ann Arbor where his condition is regarded as serious.

Mrs. Charles Beyer and Mr. and Mrs. Jarvis Wendland spent the week-end at Pontiac, visiting at the home of Mrs. Russell Themm.

Plan Annual J-Hop March 21

The class of 1942 has chosen Earl Stevens and his nine-piece orchestra to play at the annual J-Hop to be held on March 21, at 9 o'clock in the high school auditorium.

The theme of the J-Hop this year commemorates the purchase of "Seward's Folly," Alaska, from Russia 74 years ago, almost to the day March 30. The ante-room is to be decorated as an Alaskan coastal steamer. The walls of the gymnasium are to be covered with pictures depicting Alaskan scenery. The ceiling, to be covered with fireproof crepe paper first used successfully at the New Year's Eve dance, will be an aura of colors as found in the "Northern Lights."

Earl Stevens' orchestra, very popular in Ann Arbor, has played several engagements at the Michigan Union and the Woman's League there and at the I. M. A. auditorium at Flint and the Flint Junior College. The orchestra has played for formal dances at school in Bloomfield Hills, Pontiac, Sturgis and Ypsilanti. Featured with the orchestra are two vocalists, Al Burt and Johnnie Howard.

The general chairman of the affair is Russell Ash, assisted by Louis Kolin, in charge of the decorations committee, and Jane Lehman, in charge of executive committees. The other chairmen are as follows: Louis Kolin, ceiling decoration; Jack Baker, construction; James Arigan, lighting; Velma Stokes, decorations; Nancy McLaren, floor; Donald Folsom, check rooms; Virginia Garrison, refreshments; Douglas Lorenz, music; Joan Steinhurst, invitations; Frances Weed, chaparrone; Jim Sexton, programs; and George Chute, publicity. Assisting these committees are the class advisors, Miss Killham, Miss Saffell, Miss Hearn, Mr. Ingram, Mr. Campbell and Mr. Latture.

The Junior Hop is an invitational dance and invitations may be secured from Joan Steinhurst, Marie Ann Miller, Ruth Drews, Cecilia Herbert, Virginia Dunham, and Gladys Davidson.

The chaperones for the Junior Hop will be: Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Dykhouse, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Buzzard, Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Strong, Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Fischer, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Kirkpatrick, Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Burt, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Lorenz, Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Chute, Mr. and Mrs. O. Reamer, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Weed, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. McLaren, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Drews and Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Folsom.

The club reporter still says "Rev. Jones," but it might be worse. At least he doesn't say "Hon. Jones."

More taxes will be collected because personal exemptions are lower, surtaxes are higher, and because 10 per cent has been added for national defense.

Rotarians Hear Talk on Balkans

Members of the Rotary club enjoyed an excellent talk last Friday by Professor Robert H. McDowell of the University of Michigan regarding the present situation in the Balkans. The speaker who has spent some 14 years in the Balkans presented first hand information from personal observation on conditions in those countries. Professor McDowell appeared before the club last May and many of the things he said at that time have since come about.

A representative of the social security board in Detroit will be the guest speaker at the next Rotary meeting Friday (today). He will answer any questions members may offer about social security taxes and will explain the entire social security act for the benefit of employers.

Nominations for the board of directors for the ensuing year will be presented at Friday's meeting for the April election of officers. The nominating committee, consisting of Andrew Dunn, as chairman and Ford Lyndon and Stuart Dube, will present a list of 15 nominees.

Be such a man, and live such a life, that if every man were such as you, and every life a life like yours, this earth would be God's paradise.—Phillips Brooks.

The good must have superior understanding. They are the only ones who can classify people as good and bad.

'Now Is the Time' for All Good Gardeners to Come to the Aid of the Lawn

By The Master Gardener

Don't be a last-minute gardener if you want a nice lawn this year. If you don't have a good stand of grass, get busy now. Feeding is the first requisite. You can make sowings of grass seed again and again, but if the soil does not contain sufficient nourishment to support the young grass plants after the seed has germinated, you will soon have the same bare spots, or worse still, weed patches.

To renovate your lawn for spring, first rake the lawn, removing any debris which may have accumulated on the lawn during the winter, so it will not interfere with the growth of the grass. Then apply a complete balanced plant food as soon as the snow has melted. Make application at the rate of four pounds per 100 square feet. If the grass has not yet started into growth, it is not necessary to water the plant food in. If growth has started, be sure to water application when the grass is dry, and after applying, roll the lawn to carry the plant food down into the soil, and to wash it off the grass blades.

After these preliminary steps, the gardener should consider the condition of the lawn. The lawn should be mowed and the weeds eliminated. If the lawn is in poor condition, it may be necessary to reseed. The lawn should be mowed and the weeds eliminated. If the lawn is in poor condition, it may be necessary to reseed.

The ground is then ready for seeding thin and bare spots with a good grade of grass seed, using from three to five pounds per 1,000 square feet. Before seeding, only rake the soil in bare spots and in seeding such areas about twice as much seed as is used in thin turf. After seeding, cover the seed lightly with top soil to protect seed, and give it a chance to germinate. This work should be done early in March, for it is then that moisture and temperature conditions are most favorable to the growth of grass. Grass seed germinates and the young grass plants develop best when the weather is cool and moist. If seeding is delayed, and the seed does not germinate until the weather becomes warm and dry, many of the young grass plants may die and those that survive will not be deep-rooted and vigorous.

Garden Clubs Hold Joint Luncheon
Nearly every member of the Plymouth branch of the Woman's National Farm and Garden association has made reservations for the annual spring luncheon to be held Monday, March 10, in the Hotel Mayflower, when the Rosedale Garden club will be guests to the Northville and Plymouth branches.

Mrs. William King, president of the Rosedale Garden club, reports that a large number will attend from there as well as many from the Northville unit.

The luncheon will be served at 12 o'clock, following which the speaker, Dr. Edwin B. Mearns, professor of botany at the University of Michigan, will speak on "Color in the Garden."

Mrs. Claude R. Rescogole of Sylvania, president of the association, has accepted an invitation to be present, marking her first visit to Plymouth.

The luncheon will be restricted exclusively to members of the three groups. Members of the Plymouth group are reminded of the social parties to be given during the next two months.

Consumers Power Plans Expansion to Meet Needs of National Defense

Both Electric and Gas Services to be Increased

Consumers Power company owner of Plymouth's gas service will spend $14,000,000 on additions to and improvements of its electric and gas facilities in 1941. It has been announced by Dan E. Karn, vice president and general manager at Jackson.

The company operates in 57 Michigan counties and maintains division headquarters in Grand Rapids, Flint, Lansing, Saginaw, Pontiac, Kalamazoo, Battle Creek, Bay City, Muskegon, Owosso, Cadillac, Manistee, Alma and Hastings as well as in Jackson where the general offices also are located.

Electric generating capacity will be increased 17 per cent during the year, Mr. Karn said, through expansion of the John C. Weadock and Bryce E. Morrow plants. An additional 35,000-kilowatt turbo-generator will go into operation in the Weadock plant April 1, and an additional 50,000 kilowatt turbo-generator is scheduled to be ready for service in the Morrow plant Sept. 1. The Weadock plant is on Saginaw Bay at the mouth of the Saginaw River north of Bay City. The Morrow plant is on the Kalamazoo River at Comstock a few miles east of Kalamazoo.

"These new units were ordered some time ago," said Mr. Karn, "for it takes approximately two years to obtain delivery on such equipment. They will go into service at an opportune time, placing the company in a still better position to meet the demands of the national defense program."

Mr. Karn revealed that still another 50,000-kilowatt turbo-generator has been ordered for the Weadock plant. It will go into operation in the summer of 1942. Enlargement of the Morrow plant to accommodate its new 50,000-kilowatt unit was begun last September. The turbine room wing is being extended and a dam three-quarters of a mile long is being built across the Kalamazoo river. Behind this dam a pond of 800 acres will form. Purpose of the dam and the pond is to stabilize the flow of cooling water through the plant, which, like the Weadock plant, is a steam-electric station of advanced design.

The turbine room wing of the Weadock plant will be extended, beginning next autumn, in preparation for the installation of the 50,000-kilowatt unit recently ordered.

Most pretentious project of the Gas Department for 1941 is completion of a natural gas transmission line to carry natural gas from fields in Riverside township, Muskegon county, and Winterfield township, Clare county. This line will be 58 miles long, and about 20 miles already have been built. Its southern terminus is a few miles east of Midland, where it joins with the present line connecting the Six Lakes Field with Lansing, Saginaw, Bay City, Midland and other communities.

Facilities for gathering, regulating and metering the gas from existing or contemplated wells in the Winterfield and Riverside natural gas fields will be provided. About 12 miles of gathering lines will be required in Winterfield, and about five miles in Riverside. To stabilize pressure in the natural gas line to Lansing, a compressor station will be built in the Crystal natural gas field. Another compressor station will be constructed in the Home natural gas field. Numerous additions to and improvements of the gas transmission lines and distribution mains throughout the company's service area will be made.

Consumers plans to spend approximately $1,000,000 on rural electric line extensions during the year, and approximately $2,000,000 on other electric line extensions to handle new residential and commercial business. Gas main extensions for new business is estimated, will cost $560,000.

ist camp ordinance to regulate the location of such camps passed its first and second readings at Monday's meeting and is now ready for final passage.

The commission requested that City Manager C. H. Elliott draft a change in the present peddler's ordinance eliminating the clause of the May 31 deadline for all licenses. Peddlers, for which peddlers must pay $75, will expire a year from the date of issue.

The city treasurer reported to the commission that 95.2 per cent of the city taxes have been collected to date, as compared to only 92.2 per cent last year, and that 93.3 per cent of the county taxes and 91 per cent of the school taxes levied in December have been collected.

The construction of a sidewalk on the south side of Palmer street between Harvey and Main streets by WPA labor and a sewer main on the street between Blanche and Junction streets by city labor were both approved following hearings on the proposals.

Authorization was granted by the city commission for Police Chief Vaughn R. Smith, Melvin Partridge and Mayor Ruth Huston Whipple to attend a milk convention at Grand Rapids on March 13 and 14. Demonstrations of a new microscopic inspection test of milk will be given at the convention. This new method of testing enables inspectors to inform farmers of the exact deficiency of each sample of milk tested.

ture if they are dressed in slacks. Men must wear their coats within the building.

Cuba, which under Spanish rule, experienced probably the most brutal form of punishment of any nation of the world after gaining its freedom, abolished capital punishment. In the old days under Spanish dictatorship methods of punishing both political and criminal prisoners were beyond description. The free Cuba decided it wanted none of it. It is interesting to note that Cuba is not bothered greatly with crime waves.

This is a pretty small world after all. The Cuban Tourist Commission publishes in Havana a tourist bulletin each day, listing the arrivals of visitors at various hotels. The telephone in our hotel room rang one evening. Some one had called for Mrs. Eaton. Imagine our surprise to have the pleasure of meeting in Cuba two young ladies from our own part of Michigan who were also touring Cuba. The callers proved to be Mrs. Illene Burke, former private secretary to Captain Edward Denniston during the time he was warden of the Detroit House of Correction near Plymouth, and Mrs. Mildred Moore Ely, now employed at the William H. Maybury Sanatorium at Northville. The younger people of Plymouth will recall that Mrs. Ely was one of the star basketball players and all-around girl athletes of the Plymouth high school during her school days. Mrs. Burke is now associated with the Detroit police department. Both young ladies took a dip in the Atlantic at Havana's famous bathing beach. They climbed the highest wall seen for many years in the world. In fact, there wasn't much in or around Havana that they did not see. Mrs. Ely, who has not been in the best of health, seemed to be considerably improved as the result of the warm sunshine and balmy climate of the southlands.

It has been nearly two decades since the writer lived in Kalamazoo. Naturally once in a while here or somewhere else about the state, it is a pleasure to meet an old time Kalamazoo friend. But can you imagine one's surprise to come face to face with a friend who has not been seen for nearly twenty years on the deck of a ship a hundred miles or more out on the Atlantic ocean? That happened the night before we landed in Havana. On board the "Florida" was Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Crill of Kalamazoo. Mr. Crill for more than a quarter of a century has been the owner and manager of the well known Prudential Nursery company of Kalamazoo, one of the best known nurseries in the state of Michigan. They, too, were on their way to Cuba for a visit to this interesting island republic. Mr. Crill served as a member of the Kalamazoo board of education for nearly 15 years. Kalamazoo, as educators about the state know, has one of the finest public school systems in the country. During the trip on the island, Mr. Crill found more than ordinary interest in the numerous tropical gardens the tourists had the pleasure of visiting.

Do Pimples Embarrass You?

There is no season for any well-meaning, right thinking face to break out into pimples and such. For goodness sake it should always be the season for festivity, fun and frivolity. And even one small pimple can make it kind of hard for any face to travel with any degree of self confidence and success.

If your heart set on some swell party, you look in the mirror and find to your horror one of the beastly little blossoms, you don't have to submit or moan. None of that, please. Just get at once a jar of Ann Bruce Sulphurized Beauty Cream and simply wash your face in soap and water, rub a little Sulphurized Beauty Cream on the blemish and rub it gently. It has none of the repugnant odor of most medicated ointments. Rather, it is faintly and delicately scented and as soon as you put it on vanishes like most expert vanishing creams. Sulphurized Beauty Cream can and does cope with numerous surface skin disorders—whiteheads, blackheads, acne. Since it has a drying rather than a lubricating effect, it is also a corrective for oily skin for which creams are usually taboo.

Sulphurized Beauty Cream usually makes the average pimple disappear overnight. Of course if your skin is in a state of great disorder you will have to give it time for complete results and you will want to use a companion preparation, Ann Bruce Sulphurized Face Powder, which contains salubrious calamine and zinc oxide as a further aid to assure complete results.

Ann Bruce Sulphurized Beauty Cream and Sulphurized Face Powder are both priced at 75 cents and available at the DODGE DRUG STORE in Plymouth.

business in Plymouth, first selling Fords and then the old Overland and Durant cars. When he started as supervisor in 1926, the township included the village of Plymouth, which was not incorporated as a city until 1932. Since that time the township has doubled in valuation, and in the number of registered voters, and today Plymouth township is in the best financial condition of any township in the county.

It was Supervisor Rathbun who first sponsored a move to secure fire protection paid for by the township rather than by individual property owners.

Plymouth township has not levied a township tax in the last two years, and during Supervisor Rathbun's administration has had no bonded indebtedness. The highest township tax ever levied was $6.50 a thousand, and the highest county and school tax rate levied in the township was $23 a thousand. The county and school tax rate reached its lowest mark during the last two years at $14.85 a thousand.

Supervisor Rathbun has maintained a "pay-as-you-go" financial policy during his 15 years of office, which permitted the township to weather the storm throughout the depression years without incurring any bonded indebtedness.

Stark School News

We are proud to say that two students from the seventh and eighth grades won prizes at the ice carnival at Newburg lake last Saturday. In the seventh grade Richard Vaughn won first prize in the hundred yard dash. In the eighth grade Geraldine Savage won first prize in figure skating for girls. In the third grade Lois Opland won second prize in the small children's contests.

The eighth graders are sponsoring a show to raise money for their graduation. The name is "King of Kings" and it is a religious picture. It will be featured on Saturday evening, March 15, at 8 o'clock. Admission is 25 cents for everyone. We are sure you will enjoy the picture very much. Everyone is heartily welcome. We hope for a large attendance.

Attention parents! Do your children get enough vitamins? The government is sending us commodities absolutely free for this purpose. But the students who cook this commodity cannot prepare them to get the most good out of them without the proper instructions. We wish that you mothers would volunteer to come to the school and help the boys and girls cook. We have a modern kitchen with an electric range, a good sink, a new cooking utilities, and a new linoleum. What more could appeal to a mother than a clean and modern kitchen. It's really for the good of your children, so if 20 mothers would volunteer, it would be a great help to us.

The upper grades had a music test last Wednesday. The test was comparatively easy, and lasted 35 minutes.

Champ Leaps Car at Sports Carnival

With the greatest of ease, Alfred Orin, former national ski champion, starts the queen's "court" at the great Winter Sports State Park at Grayling, Michigan, by leaping over a Chevrolet Sedan. Miss Yvonne Bradley (third from the right) has been elected Snow Queen and, with her court, welcomes the colorful crowds of winter sports fans who arrive by the thousands in automobiles and snow trains. Six steel toboggan slides and acres of skating rinks are now in operation, and three ski towers and 75 miles of marked ski trails are planned for this huge winter sports development under the supervision of the National Park Service and the Michigan State Park Department.

Infant Death Rate Hits New Low

Michigan's infant death rate for 1940 was the lowest in the state's history. Provisional figures of the state health department show that deaths of babies in their first year of life were at the rate of 40.72 per 1,000 live births.

The 1940 rate was the third successive record for the state. In 1939 the rate was 41.85 and the rate for 1938 was 44.54.

"In comparing the 1940 infant death rate with that of 1930, we find a drop of one-third during the ten-year period," said Dr. H.

Allen Moyer, state health commissioner. "In 1930, 98,882 babies were born, and 6,213 of them died. The number of births in 1940 was 99,139 and the number of infant deaths, 4,038."

Two parallel movements are mentioned by Dr. Moyer as major factors in establishing the new record, the increasing number of mothers who are seeking medical care through pregnancy and the development of better facilities for that care. He also gave credit to the husbands who are willing to pay doctor bills before the baby comes, to physicians who bring to their patients the most modern, tested methods in obstetrical care, to the public health nurses who are promoting proper medical care during and after pregnancy, to more sanitary milk and water supplies, improved methods of food handling and to the health departments throughout the state which have made improvement in maternal and child health one of their important goals.

George A. Smith Attends National Education Meeting at Atlantic City

Preparation for war was the dominating factor of nearly every meeting of the National Education association's convention of 10,000 school administrators at Atlantic City, New Jersey, from February 23 to 27, according to George A. Smith, superintendent of Plymouth public schools, who attended the annual meeting.

The principal problem considered at the 1941 meeting was "How can schools best cooperate in the present preparedness problem?" The theme taken for the convention consisted of three parts of the preamble to the constitution: To provide for the common defense; to promote the general welfare; and to secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity. Each day, along with the general program in the morning and evening, afternoon sessions, taking from 11 to 15 groups, were held, discussing the various phases of the three major topics.

Sunday afternoon a vesper service was held with Dr. Sockman of Christ's Church, New York, and the Radio Church of the air, speaking on "Youth and Present-Day Problems." He said in part that "the measure of good citizenship today is the measure of adults' interest in youth." He maintained that youth must be impressed with the fact that the future is worth living for. "Schools and colleges," he said, "have been more concerned with teaching people technique and rules for living, than in teaching them what to live for. America has been a dream to the immigrant and the American youth—a dream of opportunity, of independence, of happiness. If we destroy this dream, we destroy America."

Dr. Studebaker, commissioner of education for the United States, speaking on Monday, stressed the need for vocational education in order that the future will not find us in our present need—the need for skilled mechanics.

At the general session Monday morning, T. V. Smith of the University of Chicago, and the Chicago Round Table, speaking on "The Place of the Politician in American Life," stated that the function of the politician was to compromise disputes so that both factions will accept it but neither will be satisfied. He felt that the legislators will be just as fair as the voters want them to be since the officials are responsible to their constituents.

In the evening an outstanding talk given by Joseph Starnes of Alabama, a member of the Dies Committee, proved of great interest to the convention delegation. Senator Starnes, citing documentary evidence in possession of the Dies Committee, claimed that "through subversive activities in the United States for the last 20 years, a threatening foothold has been secured by other organizations advocating a different type of government. Fascism has been working through the German-American Bund and allied organizations with membership of 25,000 backed by 75,000 sympathizers. Their method is to place Bund members responsible to Germany in important positions in government, army, and industry. Communistic groups have been boring especially in educational institutions and organized labor." He said, in relation to labor that "Communism has never been successful in getting a foothold in the AFL, and that while the CIO is not a Communistic organization, known Communists are holding posts of responsibility within this group."

Dr. Isaiah Bowman, president of the John Hopkins University, spoke on "Power Politics of 1941," declaring that the great problem for democracy was to provide food and machinery for distribution so that none will be hungry. He also advocated that the draft boards be continued in the form of employment bureaus to find jobs for men after their return for service.

Phillip Murray, president of the CIO, and principal speaker at the Tuesday session criticized six of the larger industries in the United States for the fact that the management profited from $450 to $2200 a man during 1940. Maintaining that any economic system that allowed such a high profit was unjust, he also declared that any conflict in the present defense program would be due to the refusal of capital to allow labor to improve its living conditions.

Tuesday evening the Associated Exhibitors presented Gladys Swarthout of the Metropolitan Opera company with the National Broadcasting company orchestra. This was followed by the Quiz Kids, a regular Wednesday evening feature over NBC.

Following the convention, Mr. Smith spent a day in Washington to determine the possibility of obtaining funds for additional school buildings.

The first importation of Dutch belted cattle was made in about 1838. The first importation of importance, however, was made in 1840 by P. T. Barnum for show purposes.

A new use for antique firearms was discovered recently in Wolfeboro, N. H.—that of a fire alarm. Heat of a fire in a bedroom set off the charge in an ancient musket decorating the room, calling attention of the owner to the blaze.

Plan Program for Music Festival

Eleven stars of the opera and concert stage, the Philadelphia Orchestra, the Youth Chorus and University Choral Union will take part in the forty-eighth annual May Festival in Hill auditorium at the University of Michigan, May 7, 8, 9 and 10.

Favorites of previous festivals on the program this year are: Dorothy Maynor, soprano, who will appear on the traditionally brilliant Friday night program; Enid Szentoth, Irish-Hungarian contralto; Norman Gordon, bass; and Lawrence Tibbett, of Metropolitan, radio and recital fame, who will be the star of the first night.

Four vocal stars to be heard for the first time at the festival include Jarmila Novotna, Czechoslovakian operatic soprano, Suzanne Sten, Hungarian-Viennese mezzo-soprano, and Charles Kullman, tenor and Mack Harrell, baritone, both American stars of the Metropolitan.

Thor Johnson will lead the University Choral Union in "Alleluia" by Thompson and Brahms "Requiem" during the first half of the Thursday evening program, with Jarmila Novotna and Mr. Gordon as soloists. On Saturday night, Choral Union will give Tchaikovsky's opera, "Eugene Onegin."

Gregor Piatigorsky, Russian violinist, will appear Thursday night in Strass' monumental "Don Quixote" violinello concerto. Jascha Heifetz will play Sibelius' violin concerto in an all-Sibelius program Saturday afternoon, while Jose Turbi, as piano soloist Friday afternoon, will also conduct the orchestra from the pianoforte.

Juva Higbee will lead the Youth Chorus in D'Indy's "St. Mary Magdalene" Friday afternoon, with Suzanne Sten singing the soprano role. The Philadelphia Orchestra, with Eugene Ormandy conducting, will participate in all six concerts.

Townsendites Push New Bill

The Townsend congressional steering committee, consisting of a picked number of staunch supporters from the various states, met last week with Chairman James F. O'Connor to map out plans of strategy for a determined and sustained effort to secure definite action on and enactment of the new Townsend bill H. R. 1036 at this session, and as soon as possible, according to information received by local Townsendites.

The usual weekly meeting will be held next Monday night at 7:30 in the Grange hall.

Two Local Couples Return From 7,000-Mile Tour of Southwest

That the threat of Nazi infiltration from Mexico is of more concern to residents of southern Texas and southern California than the much-publicized Japanese threat was observed by Roy C. Jewell, who, along with Mrs. Jewell and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Nash of Plymouth, returned last Saturday from a month's tour of the West. Mr. Jewell reports that there is a great deal of talk and apparent concern among the citizens of the border states about the reported training by German officers of an army of Mexicans.

During the course of travels which took them 7,162 miles through the southwest of the United States, the Jewells and Nashes saw huge military preparations in United States government training camps which resemble the activity of the old gold rush days. Fort Knox, Kentucky, was so overcrowded with army trainees that the tourists were obliged to drive on to the next town for their first-night stop-over. In El Paso, Texas, at Fort Bliss, they saw a round-up of 5,000 horses in service at a cavalry camp unit.

The Jewells reported they first drove through Louisville to New Orleans, where they visited the old French sections and sampled the famed Creole cuisine. From there they journeyed through Texas, New Mexico and Arizona, driving on to San Diego, California. The most impressive sight in New Mexico was the Carlsbad Caverns, 30 miles of colorful filigrees of rock formations located 750 feet below the surface. These caverns were discovered in 1901 by Jim White, a Texas cowboy. Now owned and operated for tourists by the United States government, the caverns

He revealed that the government is now engaged in drawing new maps for national defense, the last having been made in 1902. The guest speaker was secured for the Kiwanis club meeting by Julius Kaiser.

Earl Mastick, program chairman for next Tuesday's meeting, has secured Judge Badger, of Highland Park, who will show movies of several of his hunting and fishing trips in Michigan.

"Jerry McSafety" Entertains Class

Members of the traffic classes at the Detroit House of Correction, last Monday evening were treated to a half-hour of entertainment by "Jerry McSafety," the Charlie McCarthy of the Detroit police department. Jerry's real voice is that of Officer Fennell, who uses Jerry in his work as safety instructor in the schools of Detroit.

Officer German instructed the class in the problem of "right of way" and sighted the carelessness and unfairness of drivers as causes for so many intersection accidents.

Officers from the license bureau were present. Officer Breardon of that department stated that two officers from the bureau will attend each class session.

THE STORY SO FAR: Intelligence Officer Benning learned in Mexico City that 200,000 foreign troops under Van Hasek were poised along the Rio Grande for an invasion of the United States. He succeeded in gaining the confidence of Fincke and Bravot, two enemy officers, before returning to

CHAPTER VIII

Captain Franklin Boll, in command of two outpost companies of the 11th United States Infantry in the vicinity of Laredo, had patrols along the Rio Grande watching for the first Van Hasek wave. Word had flashed through of the bombing of San Antonio and Boll knew that the land invasion must be shaping itself already for a vital blow at Texas when daylight came.

Colonel Denn had spent a fretful night, well knowing the tight pinch in which he might find his regiment at dawn. His regiment was at peace strength, rifle companies running as low as seventy, total strength 1,132 officers and men. No artillery support had been sent him from Fort Sam Houston, his only supporting weapons were the 37-millimeter and small mortars of his weapons companies. His ammunition supply was less than one day of fire.

Such a thing as intercepting suspected points of enemy river crossing was out of the question. He had given Boll, in outpost, eight machine guns and some light mortars.

Lightning flashed in the distance. A shrill screech came plowing through the night. High explosives crashed in to turn night into bedlam. Fragments found a victim who fell with a howl of pain. The crew of a machine gun was dropped. Men scattered, lay flat on their faces, helpless against this hurricane of destruction that howled down upon them across the Rio Grande.

All existence was now engulfed by the seething uproar of artillery. Boll saw that the regiment was claiming the fullest force of Van Hasek's rage.

Half an hour and Boll's casualties were twenty. Patrols had been sighted, an increasing number of skulkers were reported closing in. Boll saw that his position was becoming untenable.

He started his men slowly to the rear, with two squads covering his withdrawal. The enemy, suspicious of a possible trap in the night, followed cautiously. From this Boll guessed that only the first scattering bridgehead troops were in action. But, having guessed that the Americans were without benefit of artillery, the Van Hasek officers now would use the main bridge and move across the Rio Grande in force.

Boll had covered less than two hundred yards when a runner arrived from Colonel Denn.

"The colonel says get back as fast as you can!" the messenger panted. "Regiment is pulling out right away for the Nueces."

Half an hour later, Boll panted into the regimental position. Captain March, assistant plans and training officer, came hurrying up from a vacated regimental position.

"Regiment pulled out twenty minutes ago," March reported to Boll. "You're to follow at once as rear guard. Trucks are ready behind this hill. Colonel Denn left you some baldoliers of extra ammunition, but we ought to get back of the Nueces before we fight. Second Division is taking position somewhere back there. Hurry your men along, Captain!"

By jamming his men seventeen to the truck, Boll got his command on wheels. Two trucks went to the wounded, one to his three remaining machine guns. He studied the luminous dial of his watch, an anxious scowl on his face as his convoy made ready to pull out. The hour was a little past three o'clock.

A plane shot overhead, traveling high and fast. Its shrilling motors sent a chill down the captain's spine.

"It'll be just too bad for us if we're not at the Nueces by daylight," he muttered to Captain March. "And with light due in half an hour, I'm afraid we just can't make it!"

Major General Brill, area commander, kept his head through tangled hours whose crises might have

Washington, Flagwill, acting chief of Military Intelligence, told him that forces were also reported massing in the Mediterranean and the Far East. Benning continued to pose as an enemy agent when Fincke later appeared in the capital. Without warning, four southern cities were attacked from the air. Wash-put an officer of lesser mettle in a dizzy whirl. Inventory disclosed that the Second Division had escaped the sudden storm with loss of forty-odd cars, trucks, seventeen men, five officers, and two pieces of artillery. Having given the Second its orders to assemble and march on Kirk, Brill set about his final tactical plans.

From time to time Brill and his staff were interrupted by reports of air disasters over New Orleans, Galveston, and Houston. Total losses there aggregated twelve hundred. General Brill directed his senior aide to get General Hague at Washington on the long-distance. The hour was nearing three o'clock when the Chief of Staff of the Army reported ready to talk.

"My best judgment is to pull out of here," Brill said, after he had reported latest developments in Texas. "We're too thin to make a fight for San Antonio, but we can do some good delaying back of the Colorado and Brazos while you get troops enough into the Fort Worth country to make a stand."

The Hague voice responded with quiet firmness. "You'll proceed at once against the enemy, Brill, and make a stand in front of San Antonio with your Second Division."

Brill groaned. "But Hague, are you sure you understand the whole situation down here? It's simply inviting a lot of nasty losses to no purpose. I haven't force enough to make a stand."

"Let's not debate the matter," General Hague interrupted stoutly. "Is that clear, Brill?"

"Perfectly, sir." There was neither remonstrance nor equivocation in the area commander's voice now.

In a calm voice Brill repeated the Hague decision to his staff. He offered no comment. Without speaking, the staff went to work on its new plan.

Circling to the south, Brill found the due-south road to Kirk, which was under military traffic control, and sped to the village, where he found General Mole, division commander. Mole was a thin bit of military hickory now nearing retirement age.

General Mole received his superior's battle orders with a monosyllable of acquiescence, as if to hoard his faded energies, and promptly set to work with his staff. The division staff was familiar with the country and made prompt plans for organization of a defensive position. Orders were ready within half an hour, and since there was no enemy immediately in prospect, the regiments proceeded to their positions in their cargo trucks.

General Brill stood in the growing dawn gravely watching the Second pass out to its battle lines. A force of 10,837 enlisted men and two warrant officers, led by 546 officers.

As Captain Boll sprang into his station wagon with his lieutenants, and sped to the head of his truck column to set the pace, his eye caught the flash of light that turned the waning night into day some miles ahead of him.

"Step on her!" he barked at his driver. "They'll spot us in a minute—and we're still in artillery range."

Boll sat with hands gripping his knees while he observed the bursts. Luckily they were striking to the right and doing no damage. But shortly the firing ceased, the air observer roared by again with a flare, and rushed off to radio correction to the distant gunners.

He saw that there was the first touch of gray in the air, dawn only a matter of minutes. It would be a miracle if he reached the Nueces with half of his men and trucks.

As the night thinned out, he caught

"Overhead the flock was growing."

ington was heavily bombed and the President killed in the assault. National forces were ordered mobilized, but the army was ill prepared to repulse the well trained and equipped enemy columns which were about to advance against them.

"Man" will be the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday, March 9. The golden text (I John 3: 2) is: "Beloved, now are we the sons of God, and it doth not yet appear what we shall be; but we know that, when he shall appear, we shall be like him; for we shall see him as he is." Among the Bible citations is this passage (Col. 3: 4): "When Christ, who is our life, shall appear, then shall ye also appear with him in glory." Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 325): "When spiritual being is understood in all its perfection, continuity and might, then shall man be found in God's image."

Two good mixers are better than one

THERE you sit, watching the long road ahead as it dips and rises.

Under your feet there's a quiet whispering, to let you know that all eight able Buick cylinders are happily on the job.

You're giving not a single thought to what's happening under that long bonnet nosing out in front, but here's what's going on:

Instead of the single, compromise-size carburetor you find on most cars, this Buick FIREBALL eight with Compound Carburetion* has two good mixers on the job.

A single one of them—the front one—keeps you rolling smoothly, easily, quietly, on the very minimum rationing of gasoline.

But the other carburetor is alert and ready for any sudden need. Just tramp down on that accelerator pedal—it goes into instant action, giving you more fuel and more power for any emergency purpose!

It's almost like having two engines—one to handle normal requirements thriftily, another to team up with the first for extra oomph and wallop when you want it.

That kind of teamwork pays.

And owners by the thousand will tell you it's more economical too—as much as 10% to 15% more economical.

If you haven't experienced what it feels like to have that under the bonnet of your automobile, better go have that Buick demonstration now.

Rocks Lose, 38-30

Dearborn and Plymouth ushered out the 1940-41 Twin Valley basketball season with a continually close contest which Dearborn as hosts, won 39-30 last Wednesday.

Second only to River Rouge in games won, Dearborn labored all through the contest to keep a slight lead. Although Plymouth is nearer the bottom than the top of the league this year they were able to match Dearborn basket for basket from the half on.

Dearborn in the first and third quarters started its second team, and the seconds were more effective against Plymouth than was the five star line-up that had won eight previous games and lost 2.

Plymouth coasted in the second quarter and Dearborn jumped on the scoring train at once to sink 12 points to Plymouth's seven to gain the necessary winning lead. The score at half time, by virtue of the second quarter split, was 20-13 in Dearborn's favor.

From then on neither team could spring a scoring play that wasn't echoed seconds later by another of the same variety. Thus the third quarter score was 30-21 and the final 38-30.

Only four Plymouth men had a hand in the scoring, but two of them, Johnnie Wilkie and Art Johnson, had more points than any one of the nine Dearborn players who made at least two points.

Johnson hooped four free throws in the last half besides one in the first, and looped 4 field goals to lead the scoring with 13 points. Wilkie shot 5 field goals for 10 points, the second high score. Dick Winkler and Harry McWilliams with eight points each were the only Dearborn good-scoring men.

The game was plenty rough and both teams played hard, fast basketball. The other Dearborn game at Plymouth was also rough, but the score was 40-26 in Dearborn's favor.

The scoring: Plymouth 30—Lacy, r.f.; Gorton, r.f.; Olds, r.f.; Hoffman, l.f.; 2, Baker, c.; 6, Wilkie, r.g.; 10, Johnson, l.g., 13.

Dearborn 38—Winkler, r.f., 8; Reader, r.f., 7; Victor, r.f., 2; Sutherland, l.f., 2; Linton, c., 2; Houston, r.g., 2; Nielan, r.g., 2; Cameron, l.g., 4; McWilliams, l.g., 8.

Rocks Downed

Plymouth's Reserve basketball team lost a mid-week game to Dearborn on Wednesday, February 26 on Dearborn's floor, by the score of 39-12. Plymouth was trailing the victorious Pioneers at all parts of the game and at no time did they present a serious threat to the Dearbornites.

On scored by Wagner, Chadcock, and Wisely. Dearborn jumped off to a lead in the first quarter. Bob Sessions gave Plymouth some small measure of joy when he tallied a free throw to make the score 6-1.

In the second quarter Plymouth out-scored Dearborn when Donahue and Ebersole scored four points to two points tallied for Dearborn on a field goal by Elder.

During the half a team of mid-gets played a game similar to those played on the home floor during the half.

In the third and fourth quarters Dearborn had everything just about as they pleased in that they scored 31 points in those two periods while allowing Plymouth to tally only 7.

Wagner and Wisely were high scorers with eight points each.

The lineups were as follows: Plymouth—Donahue, Dougan, Kearney, Shoemaker, Substitutions—McAllister, Hook, Slater, Johnson, Newton, Bennett, Curmi, Ebersole, Dely.

Dearborn—Wisely, Chadcock, Seput, Marshall, Wagner, Substitutions—Elder, Pierce, Gregory, Potthoff, Rothwell, Flier, Catherman, Wilson.

Trash Heap

Hello again! What in the world is everything coming to? First we see Bob Dailey and his first class finger wave—then next we see a pact concerning the fact that a number of boys are NOT going to shave or cut their hair until the J-Hop. Well, could be, but we say maybe the girls won't like it, or is that the idea?

It's either spring or the down brake! Messieurs Kiof, Lee, and Bennett have come to the conclusion that "The Chicken came before the egg." Although it slightly resembles Darwin's theory, it follows these lines: "Many, many thousands of years ago when the world first came into being, one-celled animals developed. Those which were smaller than their neighbors were jumped out of the water onto land, developed legs, and developed wings to fly from their enemy. Thus came the chicken." Well what do you think?

Since about two weeks the gals of Plymouth have been seeking other territories. Detroit is still the most popular, but ask them about other cities. Gloriette and Betty even go to Pennsylvania while it is said that Carolyn Castle still corresponds with the boy from Melvindale—way back from that night game. Lansing also finds some Plymouth gals at its call—eh, Marge and Doris?

Archie King's original joke: 1st Guy: "You shock me!" 2nd Guy: "Aw, go on you shock me, my battery's low!" Life is hardly respectable if it has no generous task, no duties or affections that constitute a necessity of existence. Every man's task is his life preserver. —Emerson.

Essay Contest

Twenty-five eighth grade students have entered the essay contest sponsored by the Daughters of the American Revolution. The subject is "My Duty toward the Flag." These essays must be in by March 1. Miss Bryce will pick out the best ones and give them to Mrs. Robert Willoughby, chairman. A committee of the D.A.R. will award a first prize of one dollar. This essay will be entered in the district essay contest. The local contest is sponsored every year by the Plymouth D.A.R. who usually give the award to the winner in Honor Assembly.

Mustangs Downed

The Plymouth Rock seconds tamed the Northville Mustangs last Friday evening 26-15.

Ed Dely's shot in the first quarter seemed to spell victory for the locals, for they maintained a two-point lead throughout the game. The first point for the Mustangs was scored by Ogden, the center. Curmi then shot from the center of the floor, jumping ahead by two points. The quarter ended with Houghton shooting a free-throw making the score 4-3 for the locals.

The second quarter opened with Mr. Jensen sending in a new squad which helped considerably. This quarter did not afford much in the way of excitement, but it ended with the Plymouth five barely ahead 13-12.

The third quarter was much the same as the second, although the Rocks scored 7 points to Northville's 4, ending with the locals in the lead 20-16.

The fourth quarter was the fastest and the best. The quarter started with Plymouth still in the lead 20-16, maintaining their two-point average. After considerable snappy playing Northville pushed the score to 23-20, although Plymouth still maintained its lead. Good sportsmanship was shown by both teams.

With two minutes to play, a technical foul was charged up against Plymouth with the score 26-24 still in Plymouth's favor. Widmaier was chosen to shoot the foul and time was called to discuss the matter. After a slight argument with the referees, they decided to give Plymouth a foul shot and the ball was given to Ebersole who was to shoot for Plymouth. He made the shot also, putting Plymouth ahead by one point. With about 20 seconds to play, the buzzer sounded and the crowd mistook it for the final buzzer, but it was only a "sub" what a disappointment! When the final buzzer sounded the Rocks won—26-25.

The starting line-up was as follows: Plymouth—Hook r.f., Bennett l.f., Curmi c., Johnson r.g. Substitutions: Newton, Donahue, McAllister, Dougan, Sessions, Kearney, Slater, Shoemaker, and Ebersole.

Northville—Houghton r. f., Ogden c., Slesser r.g., Babbett l.g. Substitutions: Parmenter, Nanfranpwoz, Widmaier, Folenio.

Referee, Jack; Umpire, Crowe.

Inspirations

The senior play, "Pride and Prejudice" is now indirectly—and unwittingly—the center of a whirlwind of social change, physical transformation and show of individual virility, which will undoubtedly blow over very rapidly and very humorously. It's about whippers.

You see, in the polished era in which the play is based, it was the custom for men to wear their hair in a manner approaching that of the sideburn. So some enterprising seniors who are in the play tried out the idea. They started to grow sideburns.

It now develops that the sideburn-growing power of some of the seniors is vastly superior to that of others—hence, much variety in color, curl, and style of sideburn; hence much variety in method, appearance and general comment on sideburns. The more hirsute of the class who now sport the biggest sideburns are enjoying their full quota of admiration; the gentle, less gifted type of senior boy, however, is doing his best and absorbing a wealth of comment.

As soon as the novelty wears off a bit and the play date, March 6 and 7 passes we will bet that the fad will end—abruptly. But we didn't know before that Plymouth's seniors were so close to being men.

It probably would not be wise to blaspheme any particular authority on the condition of pencil sharpeners about Plymouth high school, but it will not hurt to comment on them generally. About three teachers in every school today have a pencil sharpener that lives up to its title. The rest are either so filled with accumulated dust and scrapings they won't function or they're so in need of reinforcing that they fall apart when a pencil is injected. They need fixin'. Might this not be a good punishment for unruly pupils sentenced to hard labor by Plymouth's iron-fisted traffic court?

To make your popovers really pop over, be sure to have the baking pans well greased and very hot. The pans should "sizzle" when you quickly touch them with fingers dipped in cold water.

J-Hop Plans

Numerous couples will glide gracefully on a shining dance floor to the strains of music provided by Earl Stevens' orchestra on March 21, the date of the J-Hop.

Before that time, however, many hours of hard work will be required in preparation for the occasion. The invitations committee has been busily receiving names and writing out invitations. Not the least of their jobs is licking postage stamps to go on the envelopes. Add writer's cramp to that and you will have a fair idea of their state at present.

The sidewalks committee has made a design, transferred it to the proper construction paper, and painted in the scenes. You may see the result of their handiwork at the J-Hop.

When last interrogated, the chapter committee reported that 13 couples had consented to serve as chaperons with possibly two more couples to accept later.

Before the night of March 21 rolls around, the rest of the various committees will have swung into action to help make an enjoyable evening for "lovers of the dance."

Social Register

After the Northville game Friday night some of the Plymouth high school students went to dance at the Oasis Swing Bowl, and also to celebrate the victory.

They were Delores Wilson, Gloria Jones, Sam Virgo, Shirley Reamer, Sally Haas, Arvel Currier, Doris Rowland, Jack Butz, Mary Ellen Burgess, Jack Gettleston, Ruth Granger, Wes Hoffman, and Bob Hancock.

Bob Daily, Phyllis Jones, Bob O'Connor, Yvonne Taylor, Dick Daily and Betty Grimmer were present at the informal Polar Bear Prom given by the Cubs at the Bonnie Brook Country club Friday, February 28.

Marian Parsons, Orlyn Lewis and George Parsons attended a birthday party given by Mary Musgrave of Detroit, Saturday.

Doris Duboc, Paul Smith, Margery Merriam, and John Cogger saw Warner Baxter and Ingrid Bergman in "Adam Had Four Sons" at the Fox theatre, Saturday, March 1.

"Kitty Foyle" starring Ginger Rogers was the picture Betty Mae Wilkie and Evelyn Stewart saw at the Palmis Theatre last Saturday night.

Mildred Brose and Fay Pratt attended that new movie in Detroit, the Royal theatre, where they saw Dorothy Lamour in "Moon over Burma" and "Sky Murder," Saturday, March 1.

Tom Lacy was host to Paul Smith and John Cogger of Lansing for the week-end.

Dorothy Fisher spent Saturday night and Sunday as the guest of Sally Haas.

The Shrine Circus held an attraction for Ruth Granger, Wes Hoffman, Wanda White, Walled Lake, and Harold Granger who went last Saturday night.

Betty Holman and Johnnie Reppert attended a roller skating party at the Roller Drome in Detroit last Sunday night. The party was given by a group of students from St. Mary's high school.

Virginia Garrison was the dinner guest of Carolyn Sanford before the basketball game last Friday evening.

Helen Henry visited Virginia and Bonnie Bakes in Muskegon last week-end.

Robert Fisher attended a shoe convention at the Statler hotel in Detroit, Monday, March 3.

Margaret Jean Nichol and Dorrit Strauss went to hear Nathan Milstein in Ann Arbor, Tuesday, March 4.

Assembly

"Five for Bad Luck," a one act comedy directed by Miss Winnifred Ford, was given by members of the Senior Drama club for an assembly Thursday, February 27. The plot centers around five dollars donated by some college boys to Bert, the local Don Juan as compensation for having to escort Effy, an ugly duckling, to the prom. Some very funny scenes result when Effy finds out the scheme and decides to make Bert earn his five dollars.

Gloria Jones as Effy and Milton Humphries as Bert headed the cast. Their support included Phyllis Nichols, Archie King, Janice Downing, Pat Hudson, Jim Sexton, and Robert Bachelder.

The play was preceded by two selections from the double quartette. Following the play, the cheerleading staff led some yells in a short pep meeting.

Industrial Arts

In the industrial arts department there are seven different classes in addition to the elementary manual training classes from which students may select courses. These include machine shop, woodworking, pattern making, auto mechanics, radio work, mechanical drawing, and shop math.

The machine shop, supervised by Mr. Campbell, is also open for two hours at night. In this shop one learns how to work with metal, and the operations of turning it on a lathe, getting the cylindrical or circular shape, planing and shaping it to reduce or form a straight edge, and boring or drilling. The process of planing and shaping consists of clipping and planing the metal, taking off a fraction of an inch at a time, the amount depending upon the size and hardness of the metal.

In planing, the metal is placed on a table which moves back and forth, the tool bit or cutting edge remaining stationary. This method has the capacity for much larger stock than shaping, in which the bit moves while the stock remains in place.

At the present time, thirty students from the eleventh and twelfth grades are enrolled for the two-year course. In order to do this work properly, one must take shop math and machine shop drawing.

There are more than 100 boys enrolled in the woodworking shop, under the supervision of Mr. Clave and Mr. Ingram. This is the place where the fine woodwork is turned out, such as inlaid tables, the quality of which would meet the approval of any master craftsman. The shop also does out stage construction work, and last November was called upon to produce kiddie-cars for the welfare department.

The pattern-making class has no connection with a sewing class. Under the direction of Mr. Clave during the fifth hour of the wood-working shop, the class members construct patterns of plaster of paris or wood, transferring them to the regular sand molds for casting various metals. The class has just recently completed an electric melting pot in which to melt the metal before casting. This class may be considered as a pocket-sized edition of a foundry.

Also under the direction of Mr. Clave is the auto-mechanics class which meets during the first hour of the second semester. Its purpose is to acquaint the students with the various parts of an automobile and their maintenance. Perhaps some of the girls should take this course to determine the location and function of the radiator.

Radio also has its place in the mechanical arts, meeting in room 20-A during the first semester. Mr. Clave instructs this group in the international Morse code used by the world over by the radio "hams" (amateur operators), and the operation of the transmitter. The main purpose is to prepare the other wave aspirant for his radio license examination.

Mechanical drawing attracts many students not interested in shop work who are considering a career as an architect, draftsman, or some form of engineer. Mechanical drawing is the use of straight edges, compasses, dividers, and several other instruments, in making drawings to be used in the construction of the project shown on paper. The drawing paper, measuring 11x19 inches, is tacked onto a drawing board, making sure that the edges are parallel to the edges of the board. In the construction of the straight lines, a T-square and triangles are used; the T-square is in the form of a T with the head placed against the edge of the board so as to make the stem perpendicular to the edge, and the triangles are of two shapes, both having a right angle, the rest of the angles being of thirty and sixty degrees on one triangle and forty-five on the other. Through a combination of these two a great number of angles can be made. Mr. Jensen heads the general drawing and architecture classes while Mr. Ingram has charge of the machine shop drawing, required of the student before he can enter the machine shop.

Mr. Ingram also has charge of the shop math class in which the prospective machine-shop student learns algebra and geometry needed in the shop.

Benefit Dance

The senior drama club of Plymouth high school will present a one-act play at the intermission of the band and student council-sponsored dance on March 14 at the high school.

Mike Kleinschmidt's orchestra is to play for the dance, aimed at clearing a deficit in the band fund made by the purchase of several new musical instruments.

The band later this year will enter the Southeastern Michigan band and orchestra festival at Ann Arbor.

Rocks Win, 41-25

Taking the lead at the very beginning of the game Friday, February 28, and holding it, gave Plymouth high school basketball team their second victory over Northville this season, by the score 41-25.

It was an extremely clean game all the way through, and baskets were numerous. Johnson led the Plymouth attack with 16 points while Baker was second with six. Gorton and Hoffman followed with three apiece.

This was the last basketball game of the season before the eliminations at Adrian. The Plymouth quintet has won three games this season and lost nine. Hoffman and Johnson are the only players who will be graduated in June.

Plymouth: Olds r.f., Hoffman l.f., Johnson r.g., Wilkie l.g., Baker c.

Northville—Boyden r.f., Hartner l.f., McArthur r.g., Holcomb l.g., Widmaier c.

Substitutions: Plymouth—Gorton, Hancock, Lorenz, Lacy, Hunter, Birt, Northville—Eaton, Junod, Funke.

Repeat Play

The second cast of the fifty-two man production, "Pride and Prejudice" will present the senior play for the last time tonight (Friday) in the high school gymnasium.

Archie King and Lesteen Sides are the leading players in tonight's complement of the largest play cast in school history in the play presented Thursday by another complete cast.

Miss Winnifred Ford, assisted by Mary Lou Wright is the director of this years play, a dramatization by Helen Jerome of Jane Austen's "Classroom."

The play is a subtle satire by Miss Austen on the polished society of the late 1790's.

Bill Herter, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Herter of 139 Liberty avenue, has a dual personality. Bill was to be a machinist, but his hobbies are athletics, hockey and hunting. Bill has been on the football team for the last two years. His pet peeve of the fiery hair is "Red."

Behind a Name...

The American Barclays descend from a renowned Scotch stock, tracing its ancestry back to King Bruce of Scotland. Family arms: Three maltese crosses of gold and a silver chevron on a red shield. Motto: The cross of Christ is our crown.

We've made a name for ourselves in the field of diamonds and fine ring mountings. And despite the prestige of one of our diamonds, you can own one of them for a very small amount. Even the most modestly priced of our rings are superior gems.

Senior Sketches

Orlyn C. Lewis, of 888 Hartough, Plymouth has been the drummer for Plymouth's band for five years. With this reputation he has been music chairman of both the J-Hop and the senior prom. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Carlton R. Lewis, Orlyn hopes to be a successful mechanical engineer. He has been in the junior and senior play, Hi-Y, and Cross Country.

Ford Lounsbury, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Lounsbury of 638 South Harvey street, Plymouth, likes all kinds of sports. Ford has been in torch club and Hi-Y for two years. He hopes after graduation to become a radio sports announcer.

With his pet peeve concerning "the foreign interpretations of my name," Bill "Scotty" McAninch intends to get a straight "A" for one month. (Teachers please take notice.) Bill, who was born in Highland Park, Michigan, lives with his parents at 10035 Seminole avenue in the newer Detroit subdivision. He has been active in Student Council, photography club, Hi-Y, golf, senior play, and the senior prom of which he acted as assistant chairman.

A sparkle in her eyes and a smile on her lips, that's Margery Jean Merriam, the lass with the wavy light-brown hair. Margery is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Merriam of 15500 Surrey Road, Coventry Gardens. Her chief hobbies are writing letters and keeping scrap-books. Pilgrim Prints, Girl Reserves, the double quartette, Glee Club, cheer leader.

Helen Marcoe, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Marcoe, was born in Dearborn, Michigan, and now lives at 2100 Schoolcraft road. Helen's aim is to get a job in a factory and her pet peeve is dress shoes worn with anklets. Her activities during high school include all girls' sports, three years glee club, and the junior play.

Ernestine Mead who lives at 11422 Ingram, Rosedale Gardens, lists ice skating and horseback riding as her hobbies and high school students who smoke and drink as her pet peeve. She was born in Detroit and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Mead. Her aim is to be a beauty operator.

To be a dress designer is the aim of Ruth Ann Highfield, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred S. Highfield, who lives at 344 Amelia street. Her hobby is ice skating and her pet peeve, people who talk behind other people's backs. She has participated in girls' sports and Home Economics club while in school.

Archie F. King, of 563 Canton Center road, has been member of the Pilgrim Prints, a drum major, a Boy Scout, and a junior play lead. Archie, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester King, was born in Jeanette, Pennsylvania. Difficult, perhaps, will be the aim of this boy who hopes to be a surgeon, as his pet peeve is "getting out of bed."

Chief Hobby: Homework. Believe it or not, but there is such a person. Clayton Harold Kelly, of 713 Blunk avenue, is the object of our efforts. Clayton, whose father is G. W. Kelly, has been in the Photography club and Hi-Y. Clayton wants to become an office worker, and women drivers are his pet peeves.

Roberta Smale daughter of Mr. and Mrs. V. H. Smale, of Rosedale Gardens, was born in Saskatoon, Saskatchewan, Canada. Roberta has been a member of Girl Reserves, glee club and has participated in intramural sports. Her chief hobby is giggling, as students in second year French will testify. Her aim is to have as much fun as possible and her pet peeve is unhappy people.

February Traffic Tickets Total 26

Traffic violation tickets issued during the month of February total 26, according to the monthly report submitted by Chief Vaughan R. Smith to the city commission Monday evening. There were 24 traffic tickets issued last month, and only 19 in February of 1940. The total number of traffic tickets issued to date this year is 50, slightly over last year's mark of 43 tickets for the two-month period.

While the number of traffic tickets issued is higher to date this year, the number of traffic accidents is lower than for the same period last year.

Of the 26 tickets issued last month, 11 were for speeding, five for improper parking, four for overtime parking, three for reckless driving, and one each for failure to observe stop signs, driving through amber light, and driving without operator's license. The total fines collected for these violations was $71.00.

Court cases during February included one felonious assault case (found not guilty), two drunk and intoxicated charges, one simple larceny, one non-support charge and one charge of obtaining money under false pretenses, which was bound over to circuit court. Fines collected on these cases amounted to $25.00, and court costs totaled $10.00. The police department also issued 283 drivers' licenses during February.

Class B and class C high school basketball teams will compete in the district basketball tournament at Farmington Friday and Saturday, March 7 and 8. The opening session Thursday night featured a Class D tilt between Hartland and Orchard Lake-St. Mary's.

Thirteen teams will vie for district championships, and judging from the season's performances they will provide an exhibition of stellar competition and inspired play that promises plenty of excitement.

Drawings for the games were held last Friday afternoon, and the schedule is as follows: Friday: 5:30 p.m. — Holly vs. Clarkston (Class C); 6:45—Brighton-Keego Harbor (Class C); 8:00—Fenton-Redford Union (Class B); 9:15—Milford vs. winner of the Walled Lake-Farmington contest (Class B).

Saturday: The two winning teams in each class will compete for the district titles, with the Class D game at 6:35, Class C at 7:55, and Class B at 9:15.

The tourney is a part of the state-wide competitions fostered by the Michigan High School Athletic association, under the direction of C. R. Forsythe, Lansing. Winners in Classes C and D will compete in the regional tournament at Lake Orion the following week. Class B winner will go to the regional tournament at Ypsilanti.

CONGRATULATIONS

Congratulations are in order for Paul Wiedman and his Plymouth Motor Sales. This week the concern is celebrating its twentieth year of business in Plymouth. Twenty years of service to local motorists and 20 years of bringing Ford products to the residents of this community is a long time.

Mr. Wiedman is to be congratulated upon the birthday of his business all the more noteworthy in view of the fact that this particular field of endeavor, selling automobiles, has one of the highest casualty rates of any business in the country. We hope that we may be able to congratulate him at the end of another 20-year period.

IT CAN BE DONE

Any problem when properly approached can be solved to the general benefit of all parties concerned. Last week negotiations for an equitable contract between the International Association of Machinists of the American Federation of Labor and the Wall Wire Company were brought to a close.

At an election held the latter part of November to determine who should have the bargaining rights at the Wall Wire plant employees gave an overwhelming majority to the A. F. of L. Since that time a committee of workers, collaborating in close harmony with the plant executives, have worked out all of the details pertinent to such a contract.

Needless to say, both sides were forced to concede points vital to their interests throughout the negotiation period, but what a fine thing it is that here in Plymouth a problem can be approached in a business-like manner and a satisfactory agreement finally reached.

Both labor and management are to be complimented upon the final contents of the contract. All parties concerned will profit by closer cooperation and harmony in their daily work.

COMMUNITY PICNIC

Last year's community picnic was the largest one ever sponsored by the city. An estimated 2,500 local residents and children participated in the program and barbecue held early in August.

The committee in charge of the affair in its recommendations to the Plymouth Civic Committee suggested that a more concentrated effort be put forth this year to combine all Plymouth Industrial picnics so that all might be held on the same day.

Since the Civic committee has this thought in mind it would seem wise if plans were laid right now to make this the biggest event of its kind ever held here. Perhaps the bringing in of a little "home-coming" atmosphere might help to extend the influence of the day.

The idea concerning factory picnics was not intended as one to have each plant lose its identity on that day. Considering the size of Riverside Park all of the picnics held each year by Plymouth concerns could still be held on the same day and yet each could approach its own entertainment and food problem as they liked.

The soundness of the suggestion comes from the angle of closing the town up for an afternoon and making it of general community interest for the residents to visit the park and attend either their factory picnic or the community picnic itself which should again furnish the entertainment that it has in the past.

It would not seem unwise on that day to perhaps stage the Soap Box Derby. Since this event is also held in the park and last year nearly 1,500 people attended, it would provide entertainment for many who would go to the park to spend an afternoon and evening.

Certainly Plymouth is fortunate in having Riverside Park at its front door and what better way can the community, as a whole, take advantage of a recreational center such as this provides than to set aside one day each year in which to make it a headquarters.

Their Views About Public Problems and Issues

IT WILL TAKE CHRISTIANITY

America does not want to become Russianized and see its churches and God disavowed. Neither does it want the churches to be nullified by being Hitlerized and told that the state is God. Yet America, by its own indifference to the welfare of the churches is slowly strangling an institution which it claims it would fight to the death to preserve. If any outside power were to attempt to abolish American churches, the nation would rise as one man to defend them. But when the same results are threatened by refusal to attend or to help keep them up, there is little sign of alarm.

It is going to take a lot of Christianity to pull the world out of the chaos of world war and anarchy. Just now this nation, for its defense and in its alarm at what may happen here, is teaching its young men the most modern ways of killing and destroying and hating. The Jesus Christ teachings of love for one's fellow men and for meekness and mercy and forgiveness will have to be taught with renewed vigor when and if this war ends before civilization is wiped out. Let us not permit our churches to run down physically or spiritually—for the hope of the world lies in the bringing upon earth of that Kingdom for which the church was organized.—By George Osborne in Sault Ste. Marie News.

GOOD GOVERNMENT BILL NO. 1

The new consolidated revenue collection bill which would put collection of more than $100,000,000 of tax revenue in one streamlined department, headed by a director appointed by the Governor for 10 years, but removable only by State Supreme Court after proof of misfeasance or malfeasance in office, has been introduced in both House and Senate.

It is the first of the "Good Government" Bills, which taxpayers and believers in good government all over this State have long been waiting for. They will not allow the 1941 Legislature to toss it aside as lightly as the 1939 body did toss aside a similar bill.

When taxpayers from every county in the State visited the Capitol on February 4, it was to tell the Legislature that this bill typifies the kind of government they wish to see Michigan adopt without further delay. Michigan is the last of the large states to modernize its revenue collection system. It has been losing no one knows how many millions of dollars through inefficiency and spoils patronage methods.

The public has pledged the Legislature through the taxpayer movement that it is going to pay constant attention to the affairs of its government hereafter. The public expects the Legislature to reciprocate by removing partisan obstacles and petty bickering from the path of such bills as this one.—George Averill in the Birmingham Eclectic.

TAXES THAT HURT

There will be a great many people to pay income taxes this year who have never had that questionable pleasure before. The reason of course, is because of the lowered exemption. Single persons with an income of $800 must make a return. This has been lowered from $1,000, while the exemption for married couples has been lowered from $2,500 to $2,000.

In a way we are glad that these exemptions have been lowered. By that we do not mean that we get any pleasure out of seeing more people sweat and fume over the intricacies of the complicated forms which have to be filled out. We do mean that as a matter of general policy it is good to have taxes that hurt.

Why? When people pay a tax in an amount that dents their pocketbook, even slightly, they become aware of the costs of government, of war, of new schoolhouses or what have you. They know that cost is hitting them—and hitting them in their sorest spot—their pocketbooks. In contrast the taxes collected in millions by the sales tax method, the specific tax method, the six cents they pay on each pack of cigarettes or the extra three cents for theatre admission, are hidden taxes—or painless taxes.

Tax spenders like painless taxes. They like the method of hooking three cents here and eight cents there. The people don't miss it—or if they do miss it, they do not know where it is gone, or how, or when. That encourages the tax spenders to spend more and more and the people who pay more and more and have less and less.

A few hundred thousand more income tax payers may not correct conditions, but it is a step in the right direction. There will be that many more people who will be distinctly aware that they are paying and they will know the amount.

Taxes that hurt make for good government.—H. M. Meyers in The Arenac County Independent.

RESTRAINED BUYING

Having heard or read of Mrs. Roosevelt's belief that automobiles should no longer be manufactured for pleasure use and the factory production facilities turned over to defense armaments and supplies, many have wondered if they should, as a patriotic citizen, defer the purchase of a car or a refrigerator and like consumer goods.

Automobile dealer representatives have been quick to challenge the wisdom of Mr. Roosevelt's remarks, asserting any such dislocation in an industry employing thousands of workers would cause economic repercussions beyond description. Any sudden large scale abstinence from consumer goods without any plan or forethought by millions of well-meaning people might be as upsetting to the national life just at present as the destruction of a key defense factory.

A mass boycott of automobiles for no other reason than a patriotic belief that the plants ought to be used to turn out airplanes could be disconcerting to all industry and would make the difficult transition from peace to a defense economy now underway harder to carry through. Put in place of automobiles almost every kind of consumer goods you can think of and you can see what might happen.

In a totalitarian country the shift might be made, and probably would, without regard for hardships for man is subject to the state. Totalitarian economy does not consider standards of living against military necessity. Democratic processes and economy is a different story.

The time hasn't yet been reached, with the existing figures of unemployment and idle money and machines, to embark on reckless rationing. The time may come fairly soon in some commodities but the defense commission will advise people whenever they want such buying curtailed.

The issue is delineated by a writer in the Christian Science Monitor who explains the defense effort is putting thousands of people back to work who are going to get regular incomes and be able to buy more things. American agriculture is keyed to produce a vast amount more of food than the consumers have been able to pay for in the past decade. Some of that surplus may now be eaten up.

American factories, which even in the boom year of 1929 produced only up to an estimated 80 percent of capacity, have a good deal of idleness also for an additional expansion of consumer goods which the bigger national income will bite into. It is true that industrial production is above the 1929 figure right now but all kinds of labor-saving inventions have gone into the factories since 1929.

In most directions, industry can go a long way yet before there is a labor shortage or a shortage of raw materials that will interfere with the defense program.

Citizens are agreed that the defense program must come first and we may anticipate quotas on production of certain goods requiring special raw materials or special labor skills. Until authorities establish those quotas or similar other restraints, the consumer might well go on with his buying as he has been doing after an appropriate participation in the treasury's forthcoming "thrift-defense" program. Nothing could be better for the nation than that certain underprivileged sections of the people should get more and better food.

Of course the time may come when the out-pull of non-defense factories cannot keep pace with the rising national income, boosted by defense. All the new workers will be buying new goods, and the nation as a whole will find itself on a more prosperous war-boom level. That is the time when government economists, who are even now looking well into the future, fear inflation, if there are not enough goods to go round, prices rise, unless they are artificially controlled.

One way to prevent that is to hold down the national income by higher taxes. Then the people cannot buy so many new goods. Another is to promote voluntary saving, just as is now being started by the treasury campaign. That keeps down the amount that can be spent for new goods, too, and supplies the government with funds. Still another approach is through a whole series of controls, restraints and priorities. These things may or may not be necessary in the days ahead, either singly or together.

For the time being at any rate a reasonable middle-course seems called for. Thrift is always a virtue and it may well be encouraged now by the new Treasury defense loan campaign. But thrift that carries with it a boycott of certain products on ill-informed grounds, upsetting industries and throwing men out of work would not help the defense effort; it would seriously handicap it. Eugene Moore in The Iron River Reporter.

When Mr. Furness was four his father suggested that he save the seeds in an apple he had been eating. Michael did, and became so much interested in the activity that he made it his business. All his trees today come from either the original seeds or from trees grown from them.
