

Plan Commission Proposes Changes in Zoning Area

Defense Activity Spurs Need for Increased Housing Districts

With the nation-wide impetus for more housing and greater business activity as a result of the national defense program, it has become increasingly evident that cities must take broader provisions for expansion than during normal times. The country is dotted with "boom towns" wherever the wheels of industry have been speeded for defense production. Plymouth is an important center of defense activity not only because of its proximity to the great industrial center of Detroit but because of the new Kelsey-Hayes munitions plant to be in high gear very soon and because of the many government orders already received by existing local factories. All of these factors will affect local business and the housing situation.

With the increasing housing shortage already apparent in Plymouth, a number of real estate and building firms have started new subdivision developments in or near the city, and private interests have proposed building multiple apartment dwellings in the city to provide housing for workers in defense industries here.

In view of these facts, the city planning commission at a meeting at the city hall last Monday evening proposed several changes in the city's zoning plan to permit the expansion of local business and home-building.

A public hearing on the proposed zoning changes will be held at the city hall on Wednesday evening, April 9, at 7:30 o'clock.

The districts to be changed from Class A and B residential to local business area are on Ann Arbor road from Main to Mill street and a few lots between Main and Harvey streets, and on the north side of Main street between Mill and Holbrook streets. All buildings and premises in local business areas may be used for any use permitted in the class A or B residential business areas or for any other use except the following: Building material or contractor's storage yard, coal, coke, lumber or wood yard, dry cleaning establishment, ice plant or storage house, laundry, machine shop or any similar industrial uses otherwise provided for in industrial areas.

The planning commission further proposed to increase the amount of Class B residential property by changing the following locations: South Harvey street between Wing and Maple streets (including lots 121-133 of Nash subdivision); lot 1 of block 2 of the C. R. Kellogg addition, and lots 294-301 and 285 of plat 12; Holbrook avenue east to the city limits, and two blocks on Junction avenue (including lots 54-79 of Auburn addition to Plymouth Heights) and a few lots facing on Sheldon road in the same vicinity. Class B residential zones are confined to uses permitted in Class A districts, or for apartment houses, hotels, private clubs, boarding and lodging houses and hospitals. The effect of this proposed change is to broaden the zoning ordinance.

Property including lots 16-19 between the Pere Marquette railroad tracks and Goldsmith avenue would be changed to light industrial area, and the rest of the same block including lots 20-24 to Arthur street would be reserved for heavy industrial area.

The purpose of a zoning ordinance is to regulate the development of a city by intelligent planning to preserve property values but at the same time allow for future expansion of both business and home-building.

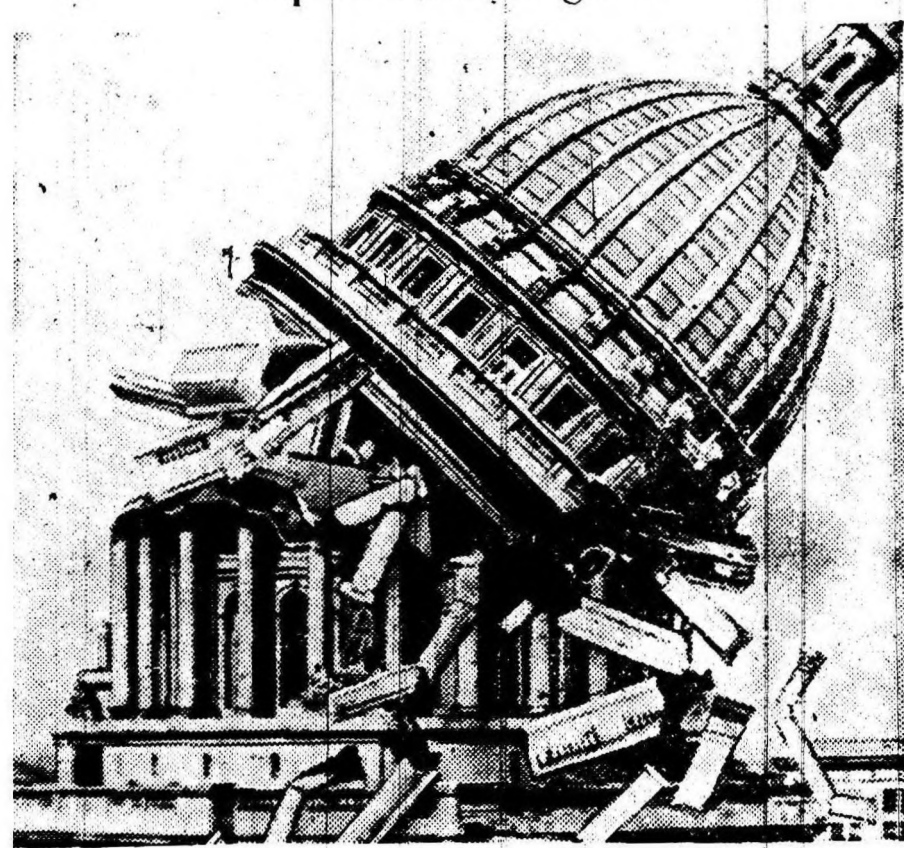

Property owners are urged to attend the public hearing on April 9 and express any objections which they may have to the proposed changes. If the recommendations of the planning commission meet with public approval, they will be submitted to the city commission for a vote. A four-fifths vote of the commission is necessary to effect the changes in the zoning ordinance.

April Fool Again!

Roger Babson Says

Babson Park, Fla., March 28—Today I am leaving Florida and do not expect to be back again until next January. As I am leaving, I find three clippings which I have been saving to comment upon. Let me do so now.

Florida Growers Sad
A short time ago the following editorial appeared in a prominent Florida paper:

"There will not be much comfort for Florida growers in the Department of Agriculture's recent estimate of the nation's citrus crop."

"The federal crop reporting board estimates an all-time record orange crop of 81,000,000 boxes this season; grapefruit production is put at 40,000,000 boxes, a total increase of about 10 per cent over last season. Florida orange production, including tangerines, is put at 28,000,000 boxes. That's about the same as last year. The estimate on grapefruit is a Florida headache. Federal experts forecast the Florida production at 21,000,000 boxes, compared with a 1939-1940 crop of 15,000,000 boxes."

In reply, a reader sends the paper a quotation from Robert Ingels: "There is something wrong with a government when those who produce all have nothing, while those who produce nothing have it all." As I have watched the growers of oranges and grapefruit sweat in their groves to pay interest and taxes and get almost nothing therefor, I cannot help but be sympathetic with the farmers. What is wrong? It is not the law of supply and demand; it must be something else. Let us look at the record.

Whether the fruit growers get anything or not—the railroads get their dollar or more per box as freight, the packing houses get their regular fee, while the middle men get their regular commissions. In fact, the more fruit there is, and the worse off the grower, the more profits are made by these other people. After 20 winters in Florida, I have concluded that the problem will be rectified only through a pooling of the earnings of all these different groups. When all suffer and prosper together then something will be done to help all. This also applies to the officials of co-operative exchanges who get their good salaries just the same, whatever happens to the poor growers. I include herewith the growers of scores of other products from potatoes in Maine to prunes in California, and peaches in Georgia.

Employment After the War.
A second newspaper clipping reads as follows:
"For the first time in ten years, everyone willing to work in our town is fully employed. This compares with a large surplus of labor a few years ago. In fact there is an actual shortage of labor here at the present time. Even our newspaper office is looking for two boys—a condition that never existed before. Of course, this is due to the war orders which have come to our community. But something is wrong when we must manufacture things to kill people in order to give our men employment."

The above illustrates conditions in America and, to a large extent, today in many other countries. Readers brought up in conservative Republican homes have been taught "this is the way of the world" and that these conditions must always be expected. We have been told "the poor will always be with us" and that "under the laws of nature only the fittest should survive." Our difficulty has been not only with the wrong definition of the "fittest," but also with the fact that we have artificially put nature out of balance. Normally, the laws of nature will bring forth a good forest. When man, however, artificially sets a forest

Police Officials Hear F.B.I. Expert

Michigan graduates of the National Police Academy at FBI headquarters in Washington, D.C., gathered for a state FBI banquet meeting at the Wardell hotel in Detroit last Saturday evening. Plymouth was represented at the meeting by Police Chief Vaughan R. Smith who served on the program committee, and Miss Ruth Hadley and Miss Thelma Thompson who entertained the group with songs and accordion selections.

The guest speaker was Hugh Clegg, assistant director of the FBI in Washington, who recently returned from the British Isles where he was sent to study the police system employed by Scotland Yard agents in combating wartime espionage and sabotage. The speaker declared that FBI methods of investigating subversive activities compared favorably with those conducted abroad. Mr. Clegg who returned to this country via clipper plane from Portugal related his observations of the war in England, and stated that he believed England capable of successfully repelling a German troop invasion.

This is the fifth year in which school children have been fingerprinted by Captain Charles Thumme of the Plymouth police department. One copy of the fingerprint card is forwarded to the Michigan State Police at East Lansing, and another copy is placed in the civil files of the FBI at Washington, D.C. It is explained that the children are fingerprinted for reference identification in event of accidents or crimes.

Edward McDonald of the record bureau of the Detroit House of Correction has assisted Captain Thumme in taking the children's fingerprints. Other assistants are the following Boy Scouts: from Troop 1 of Plymouth: Bob Daniel, Bob Bailey, William Elliott, Robert Bachelder and Orlyn Lewis.

Take This List With You!

On Monday, April 7, one of the most important elections in years takes place in Wayne county. It is of unusual importance because of the fact that all of our circuit judges are up for re-election and for the good of Wayne county and Michigan, EVERY circuit judge should be overwhelmingly re-elected. Our judicial system has remained free from all scandal. It has won for Wayne county the distinction of having the most efficient and highest type judicial system in the entire country. But notwithstanding this fact, there is an effort being made by certain selfish groups to sabotage the work of judges who serve the best interests of all the people and not any one special clique.

The Plymouth Mail urges the re-election of every one of our circuit judges. There is one vacancy on the bench to be filled. There are several worthy candidates. The Mail would suggest a vote for either Raymond Kelly or Frank Day Smith.

In view of the fact that there will appear on the ballot a long list of candidates for these highly important public responsibilities, The Mail suggests that you clip this list out and take it with you to the booth on election day and place your cross in front of these names:

- X Joseph A. Moynihan
- X Guy A. Miller
- X Harry B. Keidan
- X Dewitt H. Merriam
- X Robert M. Toms
- X Homer Ferguson
- X Arthur Webster
- X Lester S. Moll
- X James E. Chenoit
- X Ira W. Jayne
- X Clyde I. Webster
- X Henry G. Nicol
- X Adolph F. Marschner
- X Vincent M. Brennan
- X Raymond J. Kelly
- X Theodore J. Richter
- X Thomas J. Murphy
- X Sherman Callender

In addition to voting for all of the above, vote for either one of the following:
Raymond Kelly
Frank Day Smith

L. Besse. The machine is used for breaking up concrete paving for street repair, for cutting ice from city streets and for digging clay or gravel in street construction.

Married Women Cannot Teach

The board of education of Northville passed a resolution at its meeting Monday evening to the effect that the contracts of all married women teachers in the Northville school system will not be renewed at the end of the present school year.

The resolution, climaxing a discussion of several months, was passed by a 3-2 vote of the board. Those voting in favor of the resolution against married women teachers were George Stalker, Ural Clark and Willard Ely. The two dissenting votes were cast by Dr. Linwood W. Snow and Dr. E. B. Cavell.

A meeting of the Plymouth committee of the Women's Field Army of the American Society for the Control of Cancer was held last Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Harold J. Emmons, on Sheridan avenue. The committee for Plymouth is headed by Mrs. Cass Hough, but because of her illness, Mrs. Briscoe, lieutenant, will have temporary charge of the campaign.

This program is arranged for women. The speaker will be a Detroit physician to be announced later. After this lecture, questions will be welcomed.

The entire committee forms a membership committee. The membership fee is $1.00, of which 60 per cent is used for cancer research and the remaining 40 per cent for work in Wayne county. On April 25 and 26, members of the committee will be in the banks to receive memberships.

In addition to the campaign for new members, the Women's Field Army is especially interested in the education of the public to watch for and recognize symptoms of cancer, so the committee asks that all literature on cancer be read carefully.

Postal Employees Give Testimonial Dinner in Honor of Arthur White

A testimonial dinner in honor of Arthur White, retired postal carrier of Plymouth, was given last Wednesday evening at the Masonic Temple by the Wayne County Rural Carriers' association and the postoffice employees of Plymouth. Eighty guests from the postal service in Plymouth and many other neighboring towns gathered to honor the retired veteran.

Mr. White retired in February after serving as a rural mail carrier in and around Plymouth for the last 34 years. The banquet in his honor was arranged by Ezra Rotnour who also served as toastmaster of the evening. Other retired postal employees at the banquet were Robert T. Walker, the first mail carrier in the village of Plymouth, who made his first mail delivery in 1906 and 1907; Isiah Dickerson, who served from 1902 to 1927, and Albert Gates who was an employee in the local postal service from 1904 to 1934.

The guests also paused to pay tribute to Frazer Smith who passed away two years ago after serving from 1902 to 1928.

Local Industries Rushing War Orders

City Health Officer Scores Violations of Sanitary Code

Dr. Luther Peck, city health officer, issued a stern warning this week to occupants of residential and business properties that violation tickets will be issued for failure to observe city health and sanitation laws. Following an inspection of residential and business properties, Dr. Peck reported that many alleys and back yards are in a deplorable condition.

"There is no excuse for this condition. Every property owner and renter is asked to provide containers with covers for the disposal of garbage and refuse matter including tin cans, bottles, ashes and papers. The city has a regular schedule of garbage and rubbish collections when placed in proper containers.

"The burning of papers is not permissible unless wire covered baskets are used to prevent the burning papers from becoming fire hazards," declared the health officer.

Boys' Gunplay Proves Serious

A man was shot in the face and a Pere Marquette freight train was stopped as the result of a boy's gunplay last Saturday afternoon. A group of young boys about 12 years old, trying to stage a "Jesse James" stunt, touched behind an embankment at Trapp's Hollow near the Pere Marquette railroad crossing west of Sheldon road, and one of the boys fired at the caboose of the freight train en route to Toledo.

The shot shattered the window glass in the rear door of the caboose and struck W. L. Chaffee of Grand Rapids, conductor of the train.

The shot pierced the conductor's cheek and delayed the freight-laden train while a local physician was summoned for first aid treatment. The gun was confiscated by local police and the boy turned over to his parents.

Earlier Saturday afternoon, another older boy was seized by police for shooting a .22 rifle at random in a field near Deer street, endangering possible passersby.

Police Chief Vaughan R. Smith issued a sharp warning this week to parents to keep all firearms out of the possession of children.

Factories Hum With Government Defense Work

Spurt of Preparedness Prosperity Reflected in Local Business

Industrial activity in Plymouth is at its highest peak in many years as a result of the demand for speed and increased production for national defense and materials for Great Britain. Plymouth is playing an important role in building the "arsenal of democracy" and the first evidences of prosperity due to the defense program are reflected in improved business conditions locally. The first government orders have been received, and in some cases already filled by some plants, and the prospect of forthcoming contracts promises to keep the wheels of local industry in high gear for some time.

The Plymouth Tube plant is manufacturing a steady supply of steel tubing for the British government and aircraft parts for the Vultee Aircraft corporation in California where Army planes are assembled. Garnett Baker, plant manager, reports a 20 per cent increase in employment at the Plymouth Tube factory since last fall.

Burroughs Adding Machine company's local plant is reported to be supplying the Army and Navy departments with office equipment, far beyond normal production.

For the last two or three months, the Plymouth Stamping company has been engaged in filling priority orders for Army truck and tank parts. According to Henry Honford of the Plymouth Plating company, that concern has just completed and shipped a large order of plated-racks for the Navy department.

Both Allen Industries and the Dunn Steel Products company are regularly engaged in indirect defense production for automobile manufacturers. The Allen Industries supplies insulation materials for automobiles and the Dunn Steel Products company has a large government order for the Navy department and is now awaiting shipment of materials on government priority order for the manufacture of stainless steel baskets for use in ship galley and dining rooms. The Wall Wire plant is also making fixture for airplane parts for the Chinese Aircraft corporation of China.

The latest addition to the industrial scene in Plymouth is the new Kelsey-Hayes munitions factory which will be in full operation in another two weeks. Two thousand men will be employed in this new plant to manufacture machine guns.

The shot pierced the conductor's cheek and delayed the freight-laden train while a local physician was summoned for first aid treatment. The gun was confiscated by local police and the boy turned over to his parents.

Earlier Saturday afternoon, another older boy was seized by police for shooting a .22 rifle at random in a field near Deer street, endangering possible passersby.

Police Chief Vaughan R. Smith issued a sharp warning this week to parents to keep all firearms out of the possession of children.

Mr. and Mrs. August Schultz of Hanford road announce the engagement of their daughter, Esther, to Howard Balko, of Northville, the wedding to take place Saturday, April 19, in Ypsilanti. Miss Schultz is a graduate of the Ypsilanti high school, and is at present employed at the Daisy Manufacturing company.

Robinsons Back From Florida

Looking like a sun-tanned girl out of the Follies of 1941, Harry Robinson is back from the bathing beaches of Miami Beach, Hollywood and Daytona where he has been vacationing his toes in the sand and sun for the past few months. Back in Plymouth with Mr. Robinson is Mrs. Robinson and Miss Rose Hawthorne, who accompanied Plymouth's famous auctioneer to Florida's vacationland.

It was shortly after Christmas day when the Robinsons decided that they were going to pass up for once Michigan's rough and tumble winter weather. They left immediately for southern Florida, stopping in West Palm Beach for a brief visit at the Ira Wilson winter home in that city. Then they drove down to Miami. Here while he was inquiring at a hotel for a friend, some one in the lobby heard his voice and asked if the visitor was not Harry Robinson of Plymouth. The questioner proved to be Edward Shields, now a resident of Syracuse, New York, who at one time lived in Newburg. He was one of the players on the famous Plymouth baseball team of the early days of which Harry Robinson was the captain. It had been more than 40 years since the two met, and it was Mr. Robinson's voice that enabled the New Yorker to so quickly recognize his old friend.

Mr. Robinson had another surprise while in the South. In West Palm Beach he went up to a newsstand to purchase a Detroit paper. To his amazement the "news" running the stand proved to be William Morris, former Detroit Goodfellow newsboy who had sold papers in Detroit with Mr. Robinson for many years during the annual Goodfellow newsboy Christmas sales.

"Unfortunately he had lost both of his legs, but no man ever saw so much good cheer coming out of a wheel chair as I did during that brief visit with Bill Morris," said Mr. Robinson.

Supt. Smith Summoned by Relative's Death

George A. Smith, superintendent of Plymouth schools, was called to Burr Oak Wednesday following the death of his brother-in-law, Elmer Start, who was killed late Tuesday afternoon when gouged by a bull on his farm. Mr. and Mrs. Smith will attend the funeral services at Burr Oak Friday afternoon (today).

Fred Reiman is very seriously ill.

Golden Wedding Is Celebrated

There were 140 names written in the wedding guest book of Mr. and Mrs. James Gates, Sunday, when they celebrated their golden wedding with open house in the home of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Gates. Relatives and friends came from Pontiac, Detroit, Ypsilanti, Ann Arbor, Grass Lake, Northfield, Jackson and Northville to congratulate them on this day which will long be remembered by them.

The home was decorated with many beautiful bouquets and plants, gifts of their many friends. Many other gifts were received by the happy couple, among them being a beautiful angel food cake shaped like a lamb which was lying in a bed of artificial grass, made by a sister of Mr. Gates.

In the evening members of the family gathered in the home and enjoyed the hospitality of the honored couple. A luncheon, which included some of the lovely three-tiered gold and white wedding cake, was later served. On Tuesday Mr. and Mrs. Gates attended the golden wedding celebration of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Wager in Carleton.

on fire, then other artificial means must be instituted to put it out. There would have been no abnormal unemployment problem if the character of our people had progressed at the same rate as the machine. Trouble came when we forgot God and went "machine crazy." It is dangerous now to assume that the employment problem has been "solved." It has been given only a "shot-in-the-arm."

I believe in a social structure which is founded on private ownership and which requires employers and wage workers, hiring and firing, and natural price levels, so long as these do not interfere with the greatest good for the greatest number. If, however, we can take care of the unemployed, when our own production is at stake, we can provide work for them in times of peace. A truly Christian society demands some way of doing this however it hurts both those living on dividends or those living on relief. We must change our fatal individualistic philosophy which believes that only through the material enrichment of the individual is the community enriched. Some day we will put the good of the community—including ourselves—before any individual, including ourselves.

Woman's Club to Tour Cranbrook Friday, April 4

Local Members Also Invited to Redford Club on April 17

The next meeting of the Plymouth Woman's club will be a tour of Cranbrook, in Bloomfield Hills. This meeting, scheduled for Friday, April 4, is to be a guest day.

Club President Mrs. Robert Willoughby has called a business meeting for 12:30 o'clock at the Hotel Mayflower on the day of the tour. All members and their guests are requested to be at the hotel promptly so that the entire group will be able to leave for Cranbrook at 1 o'clock.

The tour as planned is as follows: 2:00 to 2:45, Christ Church; 3:00 to 3:45, Cranbrook Institute of Science; 4:00 until end of tour, Cranbrook Academy of Art.

The committee for the day, headed by Chairman Mrs. L. R. Von Stein, includes Mrs. Wyman Bartlett, Mrs. Paul Bennett, Miss Marion Beyer, Mrs. John Blyton, Mrs. Floyd Burgett, Mrs. Ray Glider, Mrs. William G. Jennings, Mrs. David Lashmet, Mrs. J. L. Nelson, Mrs. Wesley Reid, Mrs. Ralph Taylor and honorary member, Mrs. Carmen Root.

An invitation has been received from the Redford Woman's club inviting members of the Plymouth club to be their guests on Monday afternoon, April 7. The meeting will be held at the Calvary Methodist church, North of Grand River, at 1:30 o'clock.

Any club members desiring transportation to Cranbrook on April 4 or to Redford on April 7 are asked to call Mrs. William Kaiser at 289-W.

In a talk before the Woman's club last Friday afternoon, W. W. Whitehouse, dean of Wayne university, declared "the difference between totalitarianism and democracy is that totalitarianism extinguishes every group in society leaving just an amorphous mass of people, while democracy cultivates bridges of understanding between all interdependent peoples by critical thinking."

Through education, Dr. Whitehouse said, we must teach objective thinking and then have faith that we can trust the people in a democracy to think and act for themselves.

Blasting the claim of the totalitarian countries' needing more space, Dean Whitehouse stated that Denmark has a more dense population in proportion to its size than either Germany or Japan, both aggressor nations.

"We are in a world of inertia and apathy. The totalitarian nations appear more dramatic. We, too, must dramatize democracy and cease speaking of its failure. Rather, we must let democracy express itself," advised the speaker.

"Our world is no longer stereotyped. We must educate youth today for uncertainty. Children are the products of their environment, and if we cultivate an atmosphere of defeatism, our products will be colored by defeatism. It's a world of pressure and propaganda. To maintain democracy, we must study all sides of a question before reaching a decision and maintain a constantly critical attitude in our thinking. Further, we must make our country an arsenal of culture and maintain the processes of civilization as well as defense in order to face the future after the war."

Home-Dressmaking Saves Money and Affords Variety Wardrobe

The woman who can make her own clothes will not only save money but will assure herself of a better fit generally and a greater variety of changes in her wardrobe, declares Mrs. Leon Terry, of Fairground avenue, who makes a hobby of her native skill for dressmaking. Mrs. Terry, who makes most of her own clothes, was awarded a dressmaking prize by the Vogue fashion magazine in 1935, and was later offered a position in the sewing center at the J. L. Hudson store in Detroit.

It was from her mother, Mrs. Grace Boyd, a professional dressmaker, that Mrs. Terry acquired her ability. As a school girl she modeled clothes made by her mother and won the admiration of her schoolmates who often asked for copies and advice in making dresses.

Of course, everyone doesn't have a special knack for designing or making dresses, but you don't have to be a prize-winner to follow a few simple rules of the dressmaking art. For those who would like to try their hand at making a spring outfit for Easter, Mrs. Terry offers a few dressmaking hints.

"It is most important to remember that good material is a good investment," says Mrs. Terry. "For even after the style of a dress has become outdated, one can utilize good material in re-making dresses for the next season. I often make attractive blouses out of old dresses, and skirts from lightweight spring coat materials."

Mrs. Terry advises women not to try making anything too fussy or faddish for such styles often become dated by the second season. In choosing a pattern, one should also try to suit her individual personality.

It is also advisable to buy patterns to fit the largest portion of the body if one has a small waist and larger hip proportions, for it is more simple to cut a pattern down than to add to it. For this reason, it is better for the woman who is unequally proportioned to make her own clothes rather than pay for the many alterations necessary to insure a correct fit.

Mrs. Terry's advice to beginners is to first study the pattern carefully, place it on the material correctly and follow directions, without trying to skip on material or take short-cuts. It is also a good idea to press the material as you work, pressing each seam as it is completed to insure a smooth appearance.

When ready for fitting, consider first the wearing comfort of the dress. It is helpful also to have a neighbor or some member of the family assist in the final fitting and the measuring of the hemline.

Home-dressmakers should never discard any material for left-over scraps may prove useful later as accessory belts or pockets to bring last year's dress up to date.

Garden Yields Vitamin Supply

(By The Master Gardener)
Green vegetables from your own garden offer one of the very best sources of supply for the essential vitamins that are so necessary to the health of your family. Vegetables supply vitamin A, B complex composed of vitamins B and G, and vitamin C.

Vitamin A is essential for growth. A deficient supply of this vitamin leads to weakening of the body tissues and increases susceptibility to bacterial infection, particularly the epithelial tissues. A deficiency of this vitamin has been found to affect the eye. Leafy vegetables are among the richest sources of vitamin A, including spinach, green leaf lettuce, turnip greens, raw or cooked and raw carrots. Complete absence from the diet of the vitamin B complex results in loss of appetite and rapid loss of weight. Green vegetables are among the best of the "protective" foods. Vegetables rich in vitamin B include head and leaf lettuce, celery, tomatoes, peas and radishes.

In diets deficient in vitamin C, humans are less resistant to infectious diseases. Shortage of vitamin C is thought to be an important factor also in the prevalence of tooth decay. The ability of the body to store vitamin C is limited. Diets for all ages, particularly for children, should include an abundance of foods containing vitamin C. These foods are raw cabbage, green peppers, head and leaf lettuce, radishes and tomatoes.

Well-fed vegetables have a higher vitamin content than do those grown on impoverished soil. Well-fed vegetables, too, are more tender and give a larger yield than do slow-growing, undernourished vegetables. So in making your vegetable garden, use a complete, balanced plant food. For early growing vegetables, broadcast or planted in rows, apply four pounds per 100 square feet before planting. In rows, use two pounds of complete plant food for each 50 feet of row. When the soil is prepared, apply the plant food in a strip approximately six inches wide, then rake it into the top soil before planting the seed.

For vegetables grown in hills or transplanted, mix a level tablespoonful of complete plant food thoroughly with the soil in the bottom of the hill before planting. For long growing vegetables such as tomatoes, cabbage, celery and peppers, use four pounds per 100 square feet when the bed is prepared, and then feed a heaping teaspoonful per square foot every six weeks.

Present Concert Monday, Mar. 31

A civic musicale will be presented under the auspices of the Civic Committee of Plymouth next Monday, evening, March 31, at 8 o'clock at the Plymouth high school auditorium. The concert artists will be the Detroit Schoolmen's chorus of 40 male voices, the concert master of the Wayne University Symphony orchestra and two vocalists from the Wayne University music department.

The Schoolmen's chorus will sing two groups of songs including the following program numbers: "Come to the Fair," by Martin; "Turn Ye to Me," a Scotch folk song; "King's Messenger," by Bantock; "Song of the Flea," by Moussorgsky; "Death Rides High," by James; "At the Play," by Forsyth; "Friend of Mine," by Sanderson; and "The Lost Chord," by Sullivan. The chorus which enjoys a national reputation is directed by Howard A. Love, and accompanied by Gene Fenby.

Robert Ritzheim, concert master of the Wayne University symphony orchestra, will play several violin solos, accompanied by his sister, Miss Betty Ritzheim.

Miss Ellen Rosin, soprano and music teacher in the Detroit public schools, and Robert Jones, baritone and assistant in the university music department, will sing solos and duets. Miss Rosin was one of eight sopranos in the Ford Symphony chorus and two weeks ago she sang a solo on the Sunday Evening Hour.

The Wayne University artists will announce their own program selections.

The concert is sponsored by the Civic Committee in an effort to bring music of universal appeal to the community. Tickets may be obtained from members of any of the following organizations: Woman's club, Garden club, Rotary, Kiwanis, Chamber of Commerce, Junior Chamber of Commerce, Masons, O. E. S., D. A. R., Macabees, Business and Professional Women, P.E.O., Redmen, League of Women Voters, American Legion and auxiliary and P.T.A.

Townsend Club Plans Social Program Mar. 29

The local Townsend club has planned a special social program for Saturday evening, March 29, at 8 o'clock in the Grange hall. Guests will enjoy an evening of modern and old-time dancing, vocal selections and refreshments.

The next regular meeting of the club will be Monday evening, March 31, at 7:30 in the Grange hall.

Mrs. Luther Peck was hostess at co-operative luncheon, Thursday of last week, when the Plymouth bridge club members were her guests.

What A Friend Does to A Friend

"Doc, I haven't sold you a ticket to the buffalo banquet this year. I have a couple saved so you will be sure and have a place at the big feast," said Orlow Owen, well known Northville merchant and city commissioner of that community to Dr. Lynwood Snow the other day when Dr. Snow strolled into the store to pick out his new spring tie.

"That's fine, Orlow. I'm glad you saved them for me. Here's your money. I'd forgotten all about it if you had not mentioned it. Here's the money," said Dr. Snow.

Then and there Mr. Owen gave to Dr. Snow two tickets with the under-print, that of a buffalo.

Dr. Snow walked out of Mr. Owen's store highly pleased to think that his friend and associate had been so thoughtful as to save him two tickets for Plymouth's famous buffalo banquet which didn't take place this year because there wasn't a buffalo out at the Schrader buffalo ranch ready for the butcher's block.

Two days ago Mr. Owen asked Dr. Snow how he had enjoyed the buffalo banquet over at Plymouth.

"Say, Orlow, I forgot all about it. When did it take place?" asked Dr. Snow.

"Well, Doc, it took place a year ago last February. But I think maybe if you save those tickets that were for the banquet that took place a year ago, maybe they will be good for the next Plymouth banquet to be held in 1942," declared Orlow.

Up to the present time, Dr. Snow has not been able to secure a return of the cash he expected for some "second-hand" banquet tickets for an event that didn't take place.

Plymouth Tourists Find Mexico An Intensely Interesting Country

Bougainvillea, tropical flowers, brilliant colored buildings, winding roads, abject poverty, and a feeling of amity toward Americans—these were the impressions of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Powell and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lush who returned Saturday from a month's motor tour of 7,125 miles to Mexico.

The two local couples drove first to New Orleans arriving there at Mardi Gras time to see the streets festively decorated. After spending two days exploring the old French quarter and sampling the famous Creole cuisine, they journeyed on toward Mexico, through San Antonio, Texas to Laredo, the border crossing. There custom inspectors glanced casually over their baggage and issued a tourist's permit for 180 days' stay in Mexico. The officials registered no objection to taking cameras into the country, contrary to popular belief.

Monterrey receives more American tourists than any other Mexican city because it is the most convenient first stop past the border and many tourists stop here if they are unable to journey on to Mexico City, more than 600 miles farther. Consequently, it is the most expensive tourist city in the country. "Monterrey seems very Mexican on your way into the country, but far less so on the way out," states Mrs. Powell.

"The roads to Mexico City are excellent concrete highways, but one can seldom drive over 35 miles an hour because of the cattle and pigs roaming at will and the many curves in the roadway," declared Russ Powell.

The travelers were impressed with the modern construction and design of the public buildings in Mexico City where they visited the floating gardens, the pyramids, the bull fight arena and many other shops. Mrs. Lush brought numerous Mexican woven baskets and curios back to Plymouth from all parts of Mexico.

On every hand, guides informed the tourists that the Mexican government and people were not in sympathy with Nazi Germany and that two groups of Nazi agents dispatching propaganda in Mexico City had been seized by Mexican soldiers. The Mexican government is training a corps of "Dane Devils" as officers to be sent to U. S. Army training camps for further training. All Mexican cities are heavily patrolled with a home guard of armed soldiers at all times.

One of the interesting side-trips taken out of Mexico City was to the Secret Convent of Santa Monica at Puebla. This monastery was not discovered until 1935. At that time, there were 20 nuns over 60 years of age in seclusion in the hidden convent. The Catholic church was overthrown as the state religion in 1857 and all monasteries and nunneries were abolished at that time.

The two couples also visited the famous silver mine at Taxco, and while stopping at La Berda, a fashionable mountain-side hotel there, saw Marion Davies and William Randolph Hearst. Publisher Hearst has been writing a series of articles on Mexico in his syndicated papers.

At Acapulco, the playground of the West Coast of Mexico, the Powells and Lushs enjoyed fishing and swimming. On the first day out fishing off the coast, Mr. Lush and Mr. Powell captured five large sailfish. Mrs. Lush caught the largest sailfish in the group, measuring 10 feet and two inches. Mrs. Powell reeled in two sailfish, eight feet and nine feet long each.

Following are scores bowled by the Parkview team took two games from Stroh's even though the Stroh's team outbowed them in totals. Daisy had games of 952, 957, 939 for 2748 while Stroh's had 938, 960, 875 for 2793. Jim Williams helped the Daisy cause by having a 613 series for the evening. Simpson's still held their pace by taking two from the Hotel team with games of 897, 834, 934 for 2665 over 891, 871, 744 for 2566 for the Hotel men. Goldstein's successfully shut out their opponents Wild & Co. with games of 841, 863, 886 to 823, 828, 869 for the Wild men. This incidentally makes the Goldstein men the only team in the league that didn't allow the Wild men at least one game all season. Cavaleade Inn took two from Taylor & Blyton with 2075 over 2309.

Sorry! F. D. S. Is Not on Vacation

What next? Last week the Vacation editor of The Mail thought he had a pretty good news story—a story that was different, a story that was big news because it was unusual.

But now the "big news" of last week has become the big question of this week.

Can you tell when a vacation trip is a business trip or a business trip a vacation trip?

That's the technical question that is now bothering the Vacation editor.

It is all due to the fact that it was reported last week that Fred D. Schrader was taking the first vacation trip during his long, busy lifetime.

By special delivery and air mail, there has arrived at the Vacation editor's desk, the following letter, demanding a "retraction" and "correction" of the "scandalous" report that Fred D. Schrader is on a vacation trip. His trip is nothing of the sort. It is only cattle business down among the orange blossoms and bathing beauties.

Here it is, Gentle Reader—judge for yourself:

"Dear Sir:

"After reading the numerous interesting articles always to be found in The Plymouth Mail, which incidentally I find to be one of the leading weekly newspapers in the middle west, and the arrival of which is always a welcome occasion to the numerous residents of Michigan who have temporarily forsaken their homeland to enjoy the much heralded climate of central Florida, I came upon an article concerning myself and my son-in-law, L. M. Prescott, of Dixon, Illinois. This article dealt with a vacation trip by myself and designated it to be my first vacation since the founding of my business in Plymouth many years ago. However, by way of explanation, and it seems as though an explanation is necessary, due to so unusual an occurrence of this nature, and in all fairness to myself, my departure from home with my daughter and son-in-law was strictly a business trip in the interest of a branch of my business, namely, cattle.

"As is already commonly known, I have a buffalo ranch in Washnaw county, Michigan, near Plymouth, and am a great fancier of prize stock, therefore our intentions in traveling to Florida were to acquire a substantial acreage in Polk county, near Lakeland, to be used as a range for the pasturing of my interest in cattle. Thus, the journey is purely a business trip, out of which may arise a new industry, heretofore unknown to stockmen and agrarians in the middle western states. My possession of buffalo and the excellent knowledge of them has created a reputation which has preceded me to Florida, and has been a topic of discussion as to our intentions of crossing the buffalo with the domestic stock to be found in this vicinity. It has already been conceded that a cross breeding of this type would be very acceptable to the ranchers in nearby counties.

"Of course, the foregoing explanation of the so-called 'vacation' is only a synopsis of what will follow, but I felt that we were justified in clearing my name and record of the black mark against it—a vacation.

"An article including this letter in 'The Mail' will clarify my position and convey to my friends the true purpose of this departure from Plymouth.

"Yours very truly,
"FRED D. SCHRADER."

Amputate Leg to Save Woman's Life

Reports from the University of Michigan hospital state that Mrs. Bert Debar is recovering as rapidly as can be expected following the amputation of one leg just above the knee last Monday night. About two weeks ago Mrs. Debar fell and fractured one of her ankles. Infection developed a few days later and hospital surgeons decided that only amputation of the leg would prevent a spread of the infection.

Mrs. Beverly Smith entertained her bridge club, Tuesday evening in her home on Main street.

Legionnaires Celebrate National Birthday and 11th Year of Local Post

More than 70 Legionnaires and Auxiliary members gathered in the Legion hall at Newburg last Friday evening to celebrate the twenty-third year of the founding of the national American Legion organization and the eleventh anniversary of the local Myron H. Beals post, No. 32.

A special birthday cake, baked by Mrs. John L. Moyer, was presented from the Women's Auxiliary by Mrs. Harry Terry to the post commander, Harry Hosbach. Following dinner, which was served by members of the auxiliary, movies were shown of "The Oregon Trail" and the "Lockheed Airplane Plant" in California. Miss Thelma Thompson of Richmond, Indiana and Miss

A Chance to Go to School

Although they are handicapped physically, "Frank" and "Johnny" are going to school like "other kids." But the majority of crippled children are unable to attend school for the basic education they deserve and need as their birthright. Transportation to school, desk to fit their backs and legs, and facilities for physical attention are needed urgently. Funds raised from the sale of Easter seals now in progress will help insure for every crippled child in Wayne county equal opportunity for education, given the physically normal child, through the efforts of the Michigan Society for Aid to Crippled Children. Seals are available from Russell Daane at the Plymouth United Savings bank or from any Rotary club member.

Fire Causes $200 Loss at Aldrich's

Fire caused by an overheated brooder stove resulted in a loss of $200 to W. L. Aldrich, 9101 Hugh street, in the Joy-Middle Belt section, last Monday afternoon, when his chicken house burned down and some 400 chickens were killed.

Mr. Aldrich, who has been home from work because of an injured arm, noticed the fire when smoke began coming from a ventilating shaft in the coop. He attempted to get into the building at that time, but the interior was filled with smoke, making entrance impossible.

Neighbors soon came and assisted the owner in preventing the flames from spreading to his home, located only a few yards from the brooder house.

The fire, fanned by a strong wind, leveled the 12x20-foot shed and although 17 hens and one rooster were saved, some 400 small chicks and 43 hens and four roosters perished in the flames.

Bigamy Charge Faces Bank Bandit

Ira L. Coulter, 40 years old, alias George Mandell, who was sentenced in Detroit in January, 1938, to serve a 40-year term in Alcatraz Federal prison for the robbery of $6,658 from the First National bank in Plymouth, was charged as a bigamist last week by his wife, Mrs. Mary Coulter, 30 years old, filed the charge in a circuit court suit to annul her marriage. She alleged she married the bandit in Florida on October 10, 1937, unaware that he had not been divorced from his first wife, Mrs. Emma Coulter of Rocky Mount, North Carolina.

Two bandits some three years ago broke into the rear entrance to the First National bank early in the morning. They remained hidden in the bank until the employees arrived at work after which they directed Jack Taylor and Floyd Kehr to open the safe. After gathering their loot, the bandits bound the bank employees in the basement and escaped. It was several months later that the two men were picked up for another robbery and identified by officials of the First National bank.

Government only redistributes existing wealth.

Asks Farmers Not to Burn Grass

Do not burn grass or undergrowth—that is an urgent appeal just made to farmers and other land owners in this vicinity by State Conservation Officer Fred Eckhout who was in Plymouth a few days ago.

"This is the time of the year when pheasants, quail and other birds are making their nests in the dried-up grass that a person is so tempted to burn. The old grass does no harm. In fact, it is better for the soil to permit it to remain on the ground," stated Officer Eckhout.

"Hundreds of nests filled with pheasant eggs are now in the fields about here. One never knows how many pheasant eggs are destroyed when a fire sweeps over a big field and along a fence. We do know that in years when there are practically no fires that the hatch of pheasants is greatly increased, so we appeal to farmers and all others to be careful about setting fires at this time of the year."

Aluminum and aluminum alloys may now be electroplated by a low-cost, easy method. Preparation is by dipping the work in a special solution and then it is ready for the regular plating bath.

A REPORT to America

The Ford Motor Company's business has always been to serve the needs of the American people. In providing them with low-cost transportation for the past 38 years, we have developed one of the country's largest and most useful industrial units. During a national emergency, we feel that these facilities should be devoted without reserve to our country's needs. Toward that end we started rolling months ago, with these results:

1 A $21,000,000 Ford airplane engine factory, started only 6 months ago, is nearly completed. Production will start with an initial order for 4,236 eighteen cylinder, air-cooled, double-row, radial engines.

2 We are building a new $800,000 Ford magnesium alloy foundry, one of the few in the country. It is already producing lightweight airplane engine castings.

3 Army reconnaissance cars—military vehicles of an entirely new type—are rolling off special Ford assembly lines at the rate of more than 600 a month. We have produced Army staff cars and bomber service trucks.

4 The government has given the "go-ahead" and work is now under way for the fast construction of an $11,000,000 Ford plant to produce bomber airplane assemblies by mass production methods.

5 Several months ago work was started, on our own initiative, on an entirely new 1500 horsepower airplane engine especially designed for mass production. This engine is now in the test stage and plans are being developed for producing it in large quantities when and if needed.

6 A Ford aircraft apprentice school has been established, to train 2000 students at a time.

That is a report of progress to date.

The experience and facilities of this company can be used to do much of the job which America now needs to get done in a hurry.

Our way of working, which avoids all possible red tape, enables us to get results and get them fast. This benefits users of our products and workers who produce them.

We are ready to make anything we know how to make, to make it to the limit of our capacity if need be, to make it as fast as we can go, and to start the next job whenever our country asks us to. And to this end, we know we have the full confidence and loyal support of the workmen throughout our plants.

An Open Letter To The People of Plymouth

In the average course of events, too many times, the people in the world today are too willing to accept as a matter of fact, anything done by an individual regardless of its merit.

We believe that the time to acknowledge good work is when it is done and not many years after the task has been completed. Right now, we can think of so many things that have been done by people here in Plymouth that deserve the combined thanks of all of us that it is impossible to mention them all at this time.

Sacrifice of one's time to his community means more than the hours spent in rendering a service. It means personal effort taken away from his own business which, without doubt, in the majority of cases, would prove much more productive from an earning standpoint.

To John Blyton of the Taylor and Blyton department store we are forced to take off our hats. His energy is felt throughout the city of Plymouth and his devotion to his community is shown by his standing in the organizations of the town.

As president of the Chamber of Commerce and president of the Kiwanis club, many hours of his days and nights are spent in the service of helping Plymouth maintain its progressive mood. Yet with all the time necessary to promote the affairs of these two active organizations, Mr. Blyton has brought to Plymouth one of the finest department stores to be found in any city the size of Plymouth in the country.

His modern taste and his determination to afford the residents of this community a store which will satisfy their most exacting demands have done much to make Plymouth a trading center for miles around. His energy is needed at a time like this... his example is one that could be followed by others. We salute his ability, energy and his determination, and we are proud that we can commend him publicly to the residents of this community.

Hard work and devotion to ones business, his community and his family can bring nothing but success, and we believe that success is his.

We, too, along with many other Plymouth business and professional firms, strive to bring the best that can be offered in our line. We join them in an effort to perform a service to the people of this community that cannot be bettered.

Guest Speaker at Salvation Army

Brigadier H. E. Burtenshaw, prison secretary for the Salvation Army in the Central States, and Captain Adolph Kohler, his assistant, from Chicago, will arrive in Plymouth Sunday, March 30, to conduct a series of special meetings in the Detroit House of Correction.

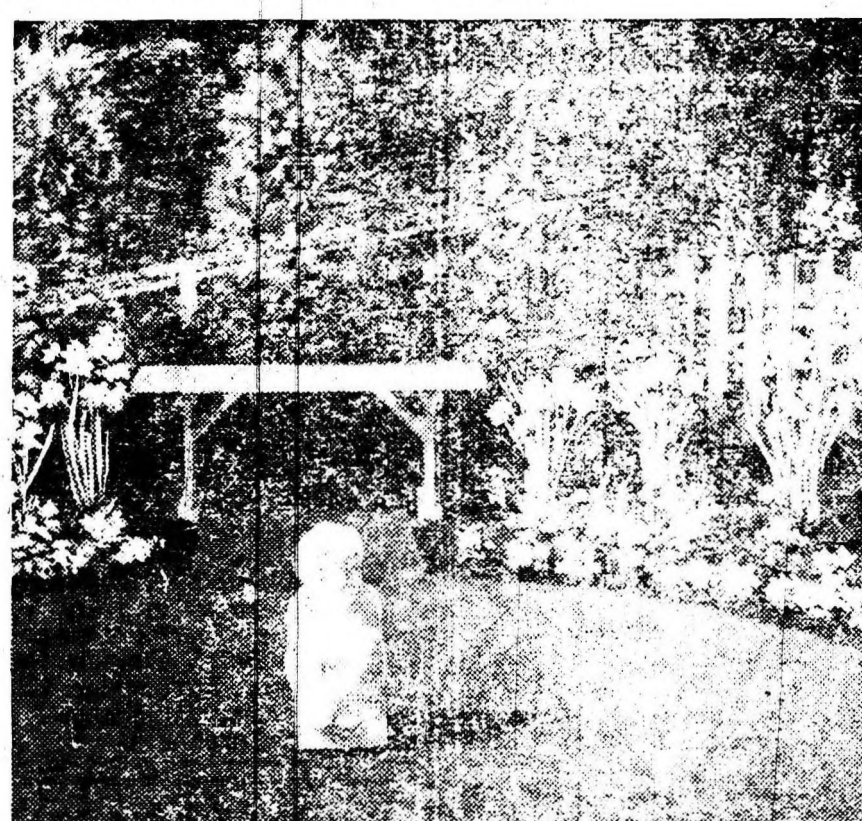

Brigadier Burtenshaw's work is to conduct meetings in penal institutions in the central states and to interview prisoners and seek in every possible manner to help them to a better way of living. He is a musician as well as an able speaker. He plays the piano and the drum and Captain Kohler plays the vibraharp and the piano.

While in Plymouth, Brigadier Burtenshaw will be a guest speaker at the Rotary club on Friday, April 4 at the Mayflower hotel. His subject will be "Salvation Army Work in Penal Institutions."

The two visitors will conduct services at the local Salvation Army hall, 281 Union street, Sunday evening, and on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday evenings of the following week. These services will begin promptly at 8 o'clock and the public is cordially invited to attend.

A glass cleaner of new type is furnished as a concentrate in an envelope for the customer to dissolve. Relative economy as well as high efficiency is claimed for it as it will not blur, streak or reappear.

War Relief Gardens to be Feature at Detroit's Famous Flower Show

A model defense garden for the British War Relief is to be one of the feature gardens at the annual Michigan Flower and Garden Exhibition to be held in Convention Hall, Detroit, April 5 to 12 inclusive. Exhibited jointly by the Detroit Garden Center, the Federated Garden clubs of Michigan and the Michigan Branch of the Women's National Farm and Garden association, this garden is to contain principally such edibles as peas, beans, carrots and onions, these being considered by the British as being the most desirable for their nutritional value and therefore being most in demand. An herb garden in connection with the defense garden will show how many of the herbs which have heretofore been imported from Europe can be grown in the backyard.

An exhibit of outstanding interest and one which has never before been shown, at a flower show will be an amazing collection of 30,000 butterflies, moths and beetles shown by James F. May of Riding Mountain, Manitoba, Canada. It is doubtless the largest collection of its kind ever brought to Detroit. Valued at $100,000 it contains some of the horrors of the insect world as well as some of the most beautiful creatures to be found upon the earth. This collection was assembled by Mr. May over a period of 35 years.

Specimens come from all over the world but principally from South America where many of the rarest kinds are to be found. There is the Indian Scorpion whose sting is fatal to many... the desert beetle from India... so large that it kills mice... the largest butterfly in the world with a 10-inch wing-spread... the largest moth in the world with a 12-inch wing-spread.

Then there is a Hercules beetle from New Guinea. This is a giant, eight-inch specimen which is called the strongest creature in the world for its size because it can roll an object 200 times heavier than itself. Amusing is the "Traffic bug" that bears this name because it lights up at night with a red light in the front and a green light in the rear. Probably the only suggestion of war in the entire flower show, aside from the defense garden, will be the giant moths which resemble bombing planes and fly at a speed of 200 miles an hour.

Also in the scientific vein, an eleven-foot microscope, developed by the Frigidaire division of General Motors corporation and presented by them to the Cranbrook Institute of Science will be on exhibition. The microscopic details of a typical garden will be on view at this booth throughout the flower show. It will reveal garden beauties otherwise unseen. Beneath the lens a slice of basswood twig becomes a thing of geometrical loveliness... the design of a slice of cornstalk surpasses the rose window of a cathedral and a section of pine twig is converted into a colorful mosaic. The hidden processes by which tiny, unseen parts of a flower become seeds will be shown. The infiltration of an aggressor plant into an unsuspecting neutral will be exposed to public gaze and you will find a nest of insect fifth columnists concealing their work of sabotage within an innocent appearing daisy. The placed life pond will be shown to have a population infinitely greater than the state of Michigan.

Garden City Club Rotary Guest

Plymouth Rotarians were hosts last Friday to members of the newly organized Garden City club, sixteen of the Rotarians of the nearby city being present. The Garden City club has a membership of 27, although it has been organized but a few months.

The visitors provided the program that proved to be an interesting diversion from regular set programs.

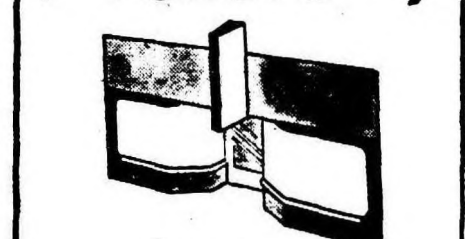

The guests from Garden City were: Mrs. Davis, Arthur Noble, Carl Heavlin, Ralph Ellsworth, Earnest Walters, Frank Rynicki, Francis McMans, R. R. Rives, Barney Handler, Seymour Lipsitt, Dr. Wallace William, Gordon Leadbetter, Roy Campbell, W. H. Kern, Cecil Hershey and Paul Campbell.

Many members of the Plymouth club have found it convenient to make up their meetings at Garden City, which meets each Wednesday noon.

At this week's meeting, Russell Daane, treasurer of the Out-County Unit of the Michigan Crippled Children society and an active member of the Plymouth club, was the speaker. Mr. Daane discussed the exceptional progress that is being made by the Rotarians in this humane endeavor.

Pattersons Home From Southland

Take it or leave it—but just ask John Patterson if it is not true that he had to leave Florida to go to Hot Springs, Arkansas to find a little warm weather during the last winter. Mr. Patterson has returned home from Hot Springs and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Patterson are back from Fort Lauderdale, Florida where they endured the unusually severe cold weather that the Sunshine state experienced during the last few weeks.

Mr. Patterson, Sr., who went to Florida during the early part of the winter, decided some six weeks ago to drive over to Hot Springs to finish his vacation in that well known resort city. He states that the weather has been much warmer in the southern part of Arkansas than it was in Florida at any time during the winter.

Young People Ford Hour Guests

The Methodist church of Plymouth will be represented by 25 of its young people at the Ford Sunday Evening Hour broadcast in Detroit Sunday night. The program, which may be heard over the CBS network between 9 and 10 p.m. emanates from the Masonic Temple.

Richard Crooks, popular lyric tenor of the Metropolitan Opera, will be heard for the third time this season on the Sunday Evening Hour.

Mr. Crooks has won international fame since he was engaged by Walter Damrosch as soloist with the New York Symphony orchestra. When he made his debut with the Metropolitan Opera in 1933 his ovation was so great that he received 37 curtain calls.

Mr. Crooks will be heard Sunday evening in two arias from Handel's "Judas Maccabaeus," the Sereado from "Iris" by Mascagni, "A Dream" by Grieg and "Nina" by Pergolesi, which he will sing with the men's A Cappella chorus.

The Ford Symphony orchestra and chorus again will be under the direction of Eugene Ormandy, musical director of the Philadelphia orchestra.

W. J. Cameron of the Ford Motor company will speak briefly during the intermission.

Newburg Plans Safety Program

A safety program will be presented at the Newburg Methodist church on Friday, April 4, at 7:30 o'clock, by Mrs. James N. Downey and Miss Davis of the safety division of the Automobile Club of Michigan. Following "pop" safety songs and movies, the children will be entertained by Officer Wayne Farnelius of the Bureau of Public Safety of the Detroit police department and his ventriloquist dummy, "Jerry McSafely."

The program is sponsored by the Women's Society of Christian Service of the Newburg Methodist church and will be preceded with a potluck supper in the new church dining room at 6:00 o'clock. The public is cordially invited to attend the dinner and safety program.

ATTACK ON AMERICA

THE STORY SO FAR: Intelligence Officer Benning's warning that 200,000 foreign troops were poised in Mexico for an attack on the United States caused grave concern in Army headquarters, but the people branded the statement as "war mongering." He had just returned from Mexico City where

In the swift jumble of action Boynton caught the fall of wounded men, heard the cries of pain, and the shrill of commanders' whistles, the bark of subalterns above the bellowing artillery. Rifle flashes stabbed the graying dawn as the enemy sprawled to the ground and fired back. Boynton hugged the earth only long enough to satisfy himself that it was an attack wave, not a mere patrol, he had encountered; then he fell back, his men firing intermittently as they ran, to the shelter of fox holes in the outpost.

The outpost line, lightly held, poured lead from its semi-automatics and machine guns. When it found itself confronted by superior forces, its defenders promptly retreated to the main line of resistance which ran a ragged, irregular line of trenches and centers of resistance over a front of ten thousand yards.

Van Hassek's infantry, in waves of men that reached across the whole front, struck the main line of resistance just as visibility exposed the attack.

Colonel Hall of the 9th, observing the attack from a vantage-point, expected nothing more than that. Later, when Van Hassek's scheme of maneuver had cut a critical hole into the division's vitals, the whole force of the frontal attack would come rushing in to mop up with fire and bayonets.

The 9th's Garand rifles, light machine guns, 37-millimeter cannon, and small mortars poured all their hot fury into the surging assault.

One enemy wave after another melted into dead and wounded, but only to be replaced by living waves that poured relentlessly on.

Half an hour of furious fighting passed before Colonel Hall accepted the evidence of his own eyes.

"My God, the fools are going to penetrate our center!" he roared.

Astride the Laredo-San Antonio highway, Van Hassek's infantry drove ahead while successive waves of men melted across open terrain where there was little benefit of cover.

Desperately the enemy commanders fed in reserves from their superior hordes of men out of which they could pay the red costs of their error in underestimating an enemy who had not been expected to offer serious resistance here.

What Van Hassek's infantry lost to their slower bolt-action rifles they made up, by auxiliary arms, light machine guns, mortars of many calibers, light and heavy tanks, superiority of artillery. Shrapnel, mortars, and musketry now beat down on the American centers of resistance with the red convolutions of some Satanic scourge escaped from hell.

Van Hassek's men burst ahead until Boynton could see the distended eyes and gaping, grimacing terror of their faces, as they bared themselves to a death against which they did not dare turn their backs.

The enemy poured on into Boynton's strong-point. Boynton became aware that the survivors of his men were breaking, stubbornly fighting with bayonets, grenades, and musketry as they fell back. Now he saw enemy tanks rolling in on his men, tanks whose steel armor deflected the regiment's ancient 37-millimeter guns that were being used until the new anti-tank guns could be reduced from paper models to actual weapons.

Boynton turned to rally his men, giving to his voice the full strength of his lungs.

"Up and at 'em!" he cried. "To hell with the swine!"

His voice rose above the storm. A second time he raised his voice, then he staggered drunkenly, spun half around, and fell as consciousness snapped from his brain and his life snuffed out.

Having committed themselves to this folly of frontal attack, the Van Hassek commanders fed in reserve after reserve regardless of cost in their determination to break through with as little delay as possible. Once they succeeded in driving a wedge deep enough into the American center, they knew that the whole American sector would roll up in a chaos of defeated regiments.

But to accomplish this, Van Hassek's infantry must drive through succeeding lines. Capturing one, they faced another equally resistant. What the Americans lacked in auxiliary weapons they made up by their unshakable fighting spirit, a discipline hard as steel that put men through the terrors of battle and turned a deaf ear to impulses of flight and surrender. Even succeeding waves of tanks failed to terrorize them or drive them out of position.

All the advantages of auxiliary weapons failed to avail.

One surging mass of enemy infantry engulfed the right of the 23d, and left of the 9th infantry, late in the forenoon. Now the storm rose to new heights of desperation as Van Hassek's infantry sought to break on through.

Five hundred yards the invader progressed, swamping one strong-point after another. The Second's main line was threatened by a wedge that would force it back to its regimental reserve line. A second attack launched against that line, if it succeeded, meant inevitable defeat.

Into the melee came rushing American reserves, a co-ordinated counter-attack by the 3d Battalion of the 23d and the 2d Battalion of the 9th. They hit with a vigor that halted the menacing enemy masses.

Their semi-automatics, pouring death as fast as fingers could work triggers, gave to the attacking American battalions the infantry weight of twice their numbers.

Van Hassek's men fell back, dug themselves into fox holes, waited. A lull came into the firing. The artillery roared on, machine guns, light cannon chattered and boomed. Now the volcanic eruption of battle lost something of its volume. The cries of the stricken could be heard, plaintive wails of "First aid!"

Van Hassek had lost the first round. He had committed the blash of underestimating his enemy. In his haste to blast his way through to San Antonio his conceit had misled him to disregard sound tactical principles. No matter if the enemy had done the same thing by making a stand, the next move now was up to Van Hassek.

At the division command post, General Mole had slept through the morning preparation fire. Only by vigorously shaking him had his aide been able to rouse him out of his sleep.

Dosing himself with strong coffee, Mole coolly watched the development of attack. The Van Hassek strategy had a right to suppose that the Second would hold lightly and run off to successive delaying positions.

Anxiously, Mole and his staff scanned information as it came in over the field wires and from observation planes. Van Hassek's tortuous columns still were moving up from Laredo. But no fresh movement of reserves was located in the immediate American front. Both the Brownsville and Eagle Pass columns were several hours' travel from striking range of either flank.

Casualty reports came in, roughly computed, by noon. One hundred and seven officers, most lieutenants. Nineteen hundred men. A fifth of his command gone, many of them officers and men with whom he had served through long years of peace.

But discipline held up, and a stern, stubborn fighting spirit pervaded the ranks. That word came from the commanders of infantry who had taken the brunt of the losses, it came from the artillery regiments which were still being pounded by long-range artillery.

Against odds of men and weapons there remained the valor of a manpower that could be conquered only in death, or lawful order of retreat.

CHAPTER XII

As succeeding battle reports from the Texas front poured into Washington over the radio, Captain Benning was assailed by growing restlessness at his own inaction in the face of momentous events. Throughout the day he had lolled about the cafes along Connecticut Avenue looking for the Van Hassek staff spies, Fincke and Boggio. Evening found him holding the bag.

"That red welter from Laredo had been reported in meager but graphic detail along with the heroic stand of the 5th and 12th Cavalry Regiments. Captain Boll's achievement in evolving his men through the storm of Van Hassek's air attacks had stirred the country.

Benning and Boll had been classmates at the Military Academy, had gone to the 11th Infantry together as Brill, commander of the army in Texas, reported to General Hague at Washington that he was opposed by greatly superior forces but was ordered to resist at all costs. General Mole, division commander, prepared to make the best of a desperate situation.

Now continue with the story.

subalterns. Benning had served with the 11th for nearly a year until he went to the air corps, from which service he had been snatched for military intelligence duty. Breathlessly he followed every scrap of available information on the 11th.

Benning was picking at his dinner at the Mayflower when there came a final flash on the Boll incident.

"You heard this afternoon of the gallant young officer, Captain Boll of our infantry," the broadcaster announced. "You recall that, although wounded in the cheek, he ignored his own wound and saw his men through to the Second Division south of San Antonio."

The announcer paused, his voice shook with feeling as he read a brief dispatch from San Antonio that brought the incident of Boll to tragic consummation.

"Captain Henry Boll, 11th United States Infantry, died early this evening of wounds received in action. Captain Boll collapsed a few minutes after reaching the hospital and died this evening without having regained consciousness."

For a long time Benning sat looking across the blur of somber faces in front of him, then he left his unfinished dinner and went out into the street. The soldier spirit flared into revolt within him against this soft spot of his own present duty when there was a man's role on the border.

He walked to the Shoreham to get himself in hand. Even Flagwill's assertion that the Coalition spy nest was more dangerous to the country than Van Hassek's present invasion brought him small comfort. But he finally reminded himself that he had a job to do and not until he had done it would there be hope of transfer back to the line of the Army.

Washington, the whole country, was in a state of furor. All day Benning had been shut off from the War Department with its staggering problems, black uncertainties, and crushing workload.

Official reassurance was being fed out over the radio to those sections of the country outside the immediate reach of Van Hassek's invasion. They were told there was no immediate danger of new air raids. The Army was pushing through its interception nets and extending its intelligence service to bring timely warning well in advance of any future raid.

New Orleans, Galveston, and other cities were being organized against air raids that could not be circumvented for the time being. It was a matter of avoiding crowds, of getting underground against demolition bombs and gas. People who could leave those cities were urged to take refuge in towns and hamlets until the danger could be brought under control, although tens of thousands needed no such warning and were pouring into the country with such of their effects as they could carry along.

In New York, Washington, Philadelphia, Baltimore, and other great centers of population, organization against air attacks had been feverishly undertaken. The Middle West and West were told there was no present need for alarm. However, some highly alarming, if unconfirmed, reports of a mysterious brewing of mischief in the Orient, had the coast cities on edge.

Mobilization of the four existent Regular Army and eighteen National Guard infantry divisions was reported sixty per cent complete. The Third Army was to concentrate in Texas as rapidly as possible, but the War Department refused to give out military details. No censorship of military news had been clamped down as yet and the press was printing, without restriction, whatever news it could get.

Benning ordered an elaborate dinner at the Shoreham. Though he had no appetite, he made a pretext of eating while he kept under observation those who came and went.

Before starting on his rounds, Benning had stationed Lieutenant Jones, an intelligence assistant, on guard over the Massachusetts Avenue apartment of Mme. Fajol, with whom Boggio had dined and danced on the capital. Jones' instructions were to hold Boggio under close observation and let Benning know as quickly as possible if the Italian appeared.

Seven-thirty o'clock passed, the Chief of Staff of the Army would soon be on the air in a nation-wide hookup. New dispatches came in from San Antonio.

Flash—"Bombers reported approaching New Orleans, Galveston, and Houston. The Government's intercept nets and intelligence service will give prompt advance warning if any planes fly north of Texas. Everyone is urged to remain calm."

Several persons got up from table at this news and anxiously left the room. Others kept determinedly in their seats, a few affected nonchalant composure. Into the dining-room at this moment came Fincke, his face lined in a surly scowl. He sat down at a table across the room from Benning.

EVER stop to figure why Nature gave you both a nose and a mouth to breathe through?

Your nose, barring colds, does all right for ordinary purposes.

But go up against some heavy exercise—and you can open up your mouth as well and increase the intake of oxygen.

Your 1941 Buick with Compound Carburetion* works something like that.

Its "nose," which is the forward one of your two thrift-size carburetors, does a grand job of supplying "breath" for your engine on normal jobs.

But when the time comes that your engine has to dig in for a tough pull or a burst of power, then your extra foot-

*Optional at slight extra cost on Buick SPECIAL models, standard on all others pressure on the gas treadle opens up the "mouth" and your engine "breathes" through two carburetors.

Simple, isn't it? Yet look what happens:

Your engine always consumes gas according to the need.

By simply taking it easy when easy does it and breathing deep when the work piles up, your power plant gets as much as 10% to 15% more mileage from the same gasoline.

That, in these days, is nothing to be sneezed at.

So why don't you get the whole story from your Buick dealer?

Apprentice Program Expands

Realizing that industry and business today are looking for individuals who have had experience, some 20 boys and girls in Plymouth high school are getting training in some occupation before graduation so that they will be better able to obtain employment after completing high school. This is made possible by the apprentice training program started about four years ago in the high school. The program calls for part-time work on some occupation and part-time school while on the job. The apprentice learns various processes which make him more skilled in the occupation. While in school he studies those subjects definitely related to the job. Thus, he not only gets the actual skill on the job but he also receives the book knowledge and theory which make him a better worker. At the same time the apprentice also may take those subjects required for high school graduation, thus allowing him to be graduated with his own class.

At the present time there are 10 apprentices already graduated from high school who are working full time on a job and coming back to school nights to continue their study in order to complete their apprenticeship and receive their apprentice diploma. There are 10 boys who have completed their apprentice training at present. They are all working at some occupation, with the exception of three called to military service, some of them at places where they learned their trade, others in some trade closely related to the occupation they learned as an apprentice.

The occupations being learned are in many fields, including baking, meat-cutting, office practice, florist work, electricity, laundry work, gas station attending, radio technicians, the selling of dry goods, hardware, men's furnishings, groceries, the learning of dry-cleaning, the manufacturing of dairy products, the selling and servicing of farm machinery, carpentry and plumbing. The success of a cooperative occupational training program depends on a great deal upon the willingness of industry and business in the community to take these young people and give them an opportunity for job training. At the same time the school is fulfilling its part of the agreement by giving the boys and girls a chance to study under supervision those subjects related to the trade. The apprentice program is designed primarily for those students who do not go on to college. Plymouth high school has reason to be proud of its record which shows approximately 30 per cent of the high school graduates go on to institutions of higher learning and comparing this with 12 to 15 per cent throughout the state of Michigan, an immediately discoverable fact is the number of their formal education for Plymouth is far above the average. Nevertheless, there still remain seventy per cent of the graduates who should have some kind of vocational training in school. A part of these receive this in the industrial arts department which fits them for industry. Others get training in the commercial department and in retail selling classes, while a large number of girls get home making training in the home economics department. In the apprentice program participants receive actual job experience while still in school. This experience enables them to say to an employer when he asks, "How much experience have you had?" "I have had from two to four years (depending on the trade) experience as an apprentice and I feel qualified to do the type of work you require."

For statistically minded individuals the total number of hours which all apprentices work during any one month is approximately 5200. A good many of these are instruction hours given by competent persons on the job. The total amount of money they earn in any one month is approximately $1700.

Included with the instruction in school, the students are given help in handling the money they earn. Most of them pay room and board or help out with expenses at home.

Recently at Grand Rapids the Michigan Educational society held its annual convention. At the apprentice training division Mr. Bentley, exhibited some 20 photographs of Plymouth apprentices on the job showing the boys and girls getting the actual experience. It was an excellent means of showing what was being done in Plymouth with a cooperative occupational training program.

Carvel Bentley has acted as vocational coordinator since the program was put into effect four years ago.

Magazine Sale

As the magazine sale heads into the final days, the junior high groups seem to be more aggressive and successful salesmen than those in the upper grades. Good work is being done especially in Miss Lickly's and Mr. Jensen's first hour classes.

Fifty per cent of the money collected in subscriptions during the current selling campaign will remain within the school. The band will use its share of the proceeds to improve its instrumentation and the student council will dispose of the portion by contributing it to help defray expenses for the honor banquet.

Freshman Dance

Mike Kleinschmidt and his orchestra will furnish the music at the freshman dance to be held tonight (Friday) in the high school auditorium at 8 o'clock. Bill Schoof, president of the freshman class, has appointed Miss Rathbun as chaperon and Irene Niedspal and Annabel Heller as chairman. The publicity will be taken care of by Miss Sweet and chairman Jack Schoof and Ester Metal. Mrs. Soule is in charge of the refreshments, assisted by Madeline Allen, Dorothy Carley and Doris Langendorn. Mrs. Haar is in charge of the admission assisted by Norma Jean Bauman and Norma Robinson. The floor and coat room committee will be taken care of by Mr. Wallace assisted by Bob Thams, Cameron Lodge, and Hubert Stewart. Mr. Evans, assisted by Bill Schoof, Russell Downing, and Joe Butler will be in charge of the clean-up committee after the dance.

The Class' Mite

Listed in Nancy Brown's Carillon fund in the Detroit News one day last week was $1.00 from Mr. Latture's speech class.

Although the accompanying letter to the contribution was sandwiched between a couple of love's incompatibilities and the method of raising the money in the first place was a shade mercenary, Nancy thanked the enterprisers glowingly in a short and sweet answer to the class, also printed in the column.

About a week before Mr. Latture found his name among the Brown Benevolents, he was engaged in his customary pursuit of teaching public speaking in Plymouth high school.

"Put appeal in your speech," he had drummed time after time, "Make your listeners want what you have to offer."

So Rose Mary Ray, inspired by this sage advice, cooked a tantalizingly palatable batch of fudge.

The next day she appeared before the class, made a speech, described in detail the making of the delicacy, and expressed in well chosen phrases how good it would probably taste.

"Boys and girls," she said, "I want one dollar to send to Nancy Brown. If you'll contribute a nickel, I might let you have a chance on this fudge."

Very shortly the fudge had been generally dispatched and the necessary funds produced. That was as much as Mr. Latture knew about it until last week.

He's been telling everyone within voice range this week of "How I made the advice to the love-lorn column."

The decorations in an Alaskan motif, were composed of Alaskan items as an appetizing and I feel qualified to do the type of work you require."

For statistically minded individuals the total number of hours which all apprentices work during any one month is approximately 5200. A good many of these are instruction hours given by competent persons on the job. The total amount of money they earn in any one month is approximately $1700.

Included with the instruction in school, the students are given help in handling the money they earn. Most of them pay room and board or help out with expenses at home.

Recently at Grand Rapids the Michigan Educational society held its annual convention. At the apprentice training division Mr. Bentley, exhibited some 20 photographs of Plymouth apprentices on the job showing the boys and girls getting the actual experience. It was an excellent means of showing what was being done in Plymouth with a cooperative occupational training program.

Carvel Bentley has acted as vocational coordinator since the program was put into effect four years ago.

Elect Captain

John Wilkie, star player of the Plymouth basketball team, was elected captain by the squad Thursday, March 13.

Although John is small and muscular he scored a good many points for Plymouth. His percentage is 44.1 out of 14 games with 40 free goals and 15 free throws totaling 95 points. It is rather remarkable that he made such a good average, because he missed three games, being in the hospital with double pneumonia. This didn't hinder his average, for he made up for it in later games. John has been popular from the second grade right up through the present.

In the T.V.A.A. regionals he scored 13 out of the 16 points made by Plymouth.

Lila Selle, blond daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Selle of 592 Deer street, was born in Huntington, Indiana. Lila, who chooses dancing as her chief hobby, wants to be a bookkeeper. She has been a member of the Girl Scouts, and has been on committees for the J-Hop, Senior Prom, and class annual.

One-Act Plays

Students of the ninth, tenth, eleventh and twelfth grades will present four one-act plays in a play contest to be held in the high school auditorium next Friday evening, April 4, at 8 o'clock.

Virginia Rock is general chairman of the contest, sponsored by the student council and directed by students of the senior drama club under the supervision of Miss Winniford Ford. Miss Ruth Erikson, Central grade school teacher, will act as judge.

The freshman play, under the direction of Doris Rowland, is "Boy Meets Girl." The cast includes Joe Briscois, Louise Newman, Robert Thams, Helen Zimmerman, Warren Mason, Dorothy Carley and Norma Furlong.

"Patsy's Papa Protests" is the title of the sophomore play, under the direction of Sally Haas. The cast includes JoAnn Gordon, Janice Downing, Pat Hudson, Josephine Armstrong, Calvin Furlong, Jack Kenyon and Milton Humphries.

Those appearing in "The Bandit From Brooklyn," the junior play under the direction of Charles Bowdler, are Ruth Drews, Francis Weed, Shirley Reamer, Marie Ann Miller, George Chute, Charles Bowdler and Jack Baker.

In the senior class offering, "The Bride Wore Red Pajamas," to be directed by Bob Daniel, are Gloria Jones, Bill McAninch, Evelyn Bohl, Sam Virgo and Archie King.

Ballads

Students in Miss Tyler's eighth grade English class were asked to write a ballad as part of an English assignment. The following poem was written by Donald Rock:

The Winning Team
The score was tied at twenty.
One team had yet to win.
The sun was setting in the west,
You should have heard the din!

The batter swung with all his might.
The ball went sailing high.
Margee at center caught it.
The score was still a tie.

The favored Sluggers came to bat.
The ball came flying wide.
"Strike one," the ump with vigor called.
"You're nuts, that ball's inside."

Margee, our weakest hitter.
To our team's despair;
Was up at bat with two out.
And twice he fanned the air.

Margee let go with all he had.
We thought for sure, "He's out."
By now you surely guessed it:
He hit a circuit clout.

The game is won; let's give a cheer.
But no, the team's disgusted.
You're wondering why? I'll tell you now.
A window had been busted.

Speech Contest
Declamation and extemporaneous contests were held on March 18 and 19 respectively. These contests determined the three participants to enter the final school contest.

The declamation contest was held in study hall. Those who took part were Kenneth Anderson, Russel Everson, Calvin Furlong, Beth Ann Hobeisel, Noel Hoyer, Ella Johnston, Gertrude Kelly, Dorrit Strauss and Harold Young.

The judges were Misses Fry, Sweet, and Tyler. They chose the following three people: Calvin Furlong with the speech, "Roses"; Dorrit Strauss whose speech was "The Call to Arms"; and Harold Young with "Makers of the Flag." These people will now participate in the school finals held on March 26.

The extemporaneous contest was held on March 20. The judges were Miss Bryce, Miss Fry, and Mr. Balden. Five people were in the contest: Alan Bennett, Marion Goodman, Phyllis Hawkins, Bill McAninch and Frances Weed.

They chose as the remaining three: Frances Weed with the topic, "What is Russia Waiting For?"; Phyllis Hawkins' speech was "Are Strikes Hindering National Defense?"; Marion Goodman spoke on "Hitler's Choice—Invasion or Oil?"

These girls will enter the final contest on March 26, thus deciding the school champion extemporaneous speaker.

The semi-final oratory contest was held in the public speaking class on March 24. Those who participated were Kenneth Felt, Jack Lee, Norman Pearsall, Lester Sides, Evelyn Stewart, and Agnes Zimba.

Three ballots were cast. The judges were Misses Bryce, Walldorf, and the class who chose as their representatives Norman Pearsall with the speech entitled, "The Promised Land"; and Jack Lee, who spoke on "The Danger of Un-American Activities."

Those appearing in "The Bandit From Brooklyn," the junior play under the direction of Charles Bowdler, are Ruth Drews, Francis Weed, Shirley Reamer, Marie Ann Miller, George Chute, Charles Bowdler and Jack Baker.

In the senior class offering, "The Bride Wore Red Pajamas," to be directed by Bob Daniel, are Gloria Jones, Bill McAninch, Evelyn Bohl, Sam Virgo and Archie King.

Editorial

With the newspapers, magazines and news broadcasts full of discussions of the League-Land bill, and benefits for the Belgians and contributions for the Greeks and one has to think about living conditions here in America. It is a habit of ours to take our advantages for granted. We are, though, being reminded constantly that we are very fortunate to live in America where there is so much chance for self betterment. One has to stop and think that we, too, have people who are suffering and starving.

We have sections in the large cities in which people are undernourished, have clothing which is far from warm and new. Their plumbing is very bad and often insanitary, which is not only unpleasant but unhealthy. These poor conditions could be helped by the proposed housing projects being discussed and debated. To illustrate the lack of food, many of the public schools are giving free milk and lunches to the underprivileged children because their parents can't afford to give them sufficient amount.

No, these poor people are not being bombed and raided by invading dictators, but nevertheless they are suffering. Is it any worse to be unhappy and feel pain in Belgium or Greece than in America? The only difference is that when people are hurt in those countries they are made martyrs of, and when people die here in the slum areas the average man seems to think, "the world well rid of these unfortunate."

Is this humanitarian? We speak of humanitarianism when we help the Greek and Belgians and yet we take this other attitude.

Perhaps the next time we feel generous and democratic, we will help our own unemployed and suffering, many of whom are veterans from our own last war. Perhaps instead of "All Out" aid for Britain we should have "All Out" for America first.

A question asked in fourth hour American history class the other day was, "What type of people are found in the Philippine Islands?" One bright student said "Filipinos."

Lawrence Jones finds life boring. If anyone can help him please give your advice to Lawrence and help him out.

Teachers' Party

Musical games and early American dancing led by Mr. Trevarrow of Greenfield Village entertained 125 teachers of Group One of the Wayne County teachers at a get-together party held Monday, March 17 at Plymouth high school. Refreshments were served following the entertainment. Group one includes teachers from Plymouth, Northville, Redford Union, Garden City and all rural schools in this area.

Trash Heap

From the fire into the frying pan for if you choose from the frying pan into the fire that is, from the senior play to the one-act play contest seems to be the theme around P.H.S. now. Practice goes on nearly every night after school, juggling from the sounds heard in the different rooms the plays will be very good.

Has anyone ever noticed Ruth Drews' hands lately? It seems that Ruth is jinxed because almost every time she experiments with acid in chemistry her fingers get burned.

Jack Baker is flaunting a new type of hat this season. It's entirely different because of the enormous proportions, it being a sombrero.

All types of pins seem to be the craze now with all the girls. There is everything from Evelyn Bohl's little man which she calls "Cracker, Carnegie and Alloyus" to Doris Shinn's small gold spoon. The bigger and brighter the pins, the better.

Since extemporaneous speaking has begun, speech students are seen walking around loaded down with magazines and mumbled to themselves.

THE SPIRIT OF CHINA NEEDED HERE!

It is with a constantly growing alarm that one reads these days of the savage efforts being made to chisel from the taxpayers of the nation every tax penny that can be scraped up to pay for our defense program. Strikes today for higher wages are followed tomorrow by new strikes for higher wages—with a satisfactory wage or satisfactory condition existing nowhere.

What the answer will finally be, no one knows, but there is such a thing as an indignant public rising up and striking down those who look upon the public pocketbook as a public grab-bag.

What a difference there is in the patriotic spirit of the Chinese people when called upon to build the Burma road. China discovered that in this rapidly changing military world that its safety depended to some extent upon the construction of a new highway, nearly a thousand miles long and through mountainous country.

It called upon its citizens to offer their help—the government said "we will feed you, but that is all the pay we can afford to give you." Each town and each city was asked to provide a certain number of workers for certain periods. What happened?

The unpaid men and women of China didn't even ask the government to provide them the food it offered—they brought their own food to the job.

And then? The great road, built with only pick and shovel, was finished more than a year before engineers said it could be completed!

America's greatest need today as we see it, is just a little bit of the same type of patriotic spirit possessed by the Chinese.

ANOTHER MILK BILL

News dispatches from Lansing say the legislature is considering the enactment of another so-called milk marketing bill. Because of the insistent demand of farmers and milk producers, the legislature two years ago passed a milk bill. Many members of the legislature, with a doubting mind, voted for it because the farmer members of the legislative committee and farmer groups said it would be the first step towards satisfying the demand of the milk producers of the state.

Well, it proved to be just what many thought it would be, a valueless piece of legislation that helped only the so-called milk trust.

Legislators who were willing to give some sort of a milk marketing bill a trial have found out that any milk marketing law is going to be an exceedingly difficult thing to administer satisfactorily.

In view of the past experience of the state and in view of the fact that there does not seem to be any chance at the present time of benefiting the producers of milk who are the ones entitled to first consideration, under the plans proposed, it would be well for the present legislature to dump into the river all of its milk marketing bills.

Sometime a condition will develop whereby the legislature will, through necessity, pass a law that will stand the tests of the courts which will benefit the milk producers and not the milk trust.

JUSTICE BUSHNELL.

It was an exceedingly wise decision made by the voters of Michigan some years ago when they removed our judicial system from politics. While Michigan never suffered to any great extent as the result of the nomination and election of our judges through political parties, nevertheless, the system always carried with it a serious threat to the best interests of all the people of our state.

One of the candidates for re-election to the supreme bench upon the non-partisan ticket at the forthcoming spring election is Justice George Bushnell. He has served several years upon the bench and during that time he has upon very many occasions demonstrated the fact that he is one of Michigan's outstanding justices. He is fully cognizant of the highly important responsibilities of a supreme judge and his every act has been in accord with his belief.

The Plymouth Mail regards it not only as a pleasure but a public duty to give whole-hearted endorsement to the re-election of Justice George Bushnell as a member of the Michigan supreme court.

A CONGRESSIONAL INQUIRY NEEDED.

Councilman John Hamilton, of Detroit, who came to political power and prominence in Michigan upon the wings of the New Deal, has confessed to accepting a bribe of $14,000 in connection with a federal housing project in Detroit. His confession is filled with hints and suggestions of sufficient importance to indicate that the Detroit housing project, and maybe other similar projects carried on by the federal government, is so steeped in corruption and bribery that a congressional investigation should be made of the whole mess.

Hamilton, who was former manager of the Michigan Home Loan Corporation, was one of the New Dealers elected a member of the Michigan state legislature when Frank Murphy became Governor. Having served two terms in the house with him, and long suspecting his methods of operating, the revelations in his confession are no surprise to the writer.

The scandalous affair in Detroit calls to mind an effort the writer made during Frank Murphy's (glorious?) administration to force an inquiry into the gambling and slot machine racket then prevailing in Michigan. (There is now on trial in Detroit a group of former high county officials for alleged grafting in connection with the racket then prevailing.)

The Michigan house of representatives overwhelmingly New Deal controlled, didn't dare vote down the demand the writer had made for the inquiry. Ordinary legislative procedure would have made the writer chairman, or at least a member of the committee of inquiry. But what happened?

This same John Hamilton was made chairman of the committee and Chester Fitzgerald, who is now Governor Van Wagoner's executive secretary, another New Dealer, was appointed a member of the committee. A Kalamazoo representative who played along with these fellows, was made the Republican member of the committee. Later news dispatches say Mr. Fitzgerald has resigned in order not to embarrass the Governor.

And what happened to the inquiry? Hamilton walked out on it and then Murphy's attorney general ruled the inquiry out of existence.

Later the writer in checking over some of the evidence taken before the committee pestered out, discovered some of the important transcript missing. Former Representative Carl Delano of Kalamazoo, had "borrowed" the evidence and that is the last any one ever saw of it.

The country is in war and we haven't much time to look into the rottenness that has crept into our public life in recent years.

But our United States has two jobs to do—the first one is to clean out Hitler's New order and then the second one is to deodorize and purge our own New Deal. Maybe a congressional investigation into the nation's housing projects would be a good place to start. Hamilton's confession provides many leads for congress to work upon.

A BADLY NEEDED ROAD JOB.

How many accidents have happened on Plymouth road between the Newburg triangle and the city limits of Plymouth no one knows, but they have been numerous and in nearly all cases exceedingly serious.

Seemingly because of the fact that most through traffic is supposed to go over the Ann Arbor cut-off, there has not been much attention paid to the Plymouth road, which remains at an 18-foot width for more than a mile. It carries an ever increasing traffic and it is bound to increase with the completion of the vast new war munitions plant of the Kelsey-Hayes Wheel company located on this thoroughfare.

No time should be lost in widening this highway from the Newburg triangle to the Burroughs plant, a thoroughfare that has become exceptionally important, not only because of its vastly increased traffic burden, but because it has become an essential military highway.

LEASE-LEND BILL WILL AID

By approval of the lease-lend bill, the sentiment of our citizens cannot be said to favor war, although thoughts of war's inevitability may be coming much closer. Though not favoring war, there can be no question but what immediate and heavy aid to Britain finds heavy favor; and the lease-lend act probably comes as close to a working basis for this help as any that might be devised.—Web McCall in The Isabella County (Mt. Pleasant) Times-News.

VOTE NO, SAYS JEFFRIES

The two constitutional amendments to be voted on in April have to do with making it more difficult to circulate official petitions; a "No" vote is recommended.—R. J. Jeffries in The Lowell Ledger.

THE UNFORTUNATE PART

The Grand Lodge Chair Company is having its troubles, and the way it looked a few days ago the employees are in for plenty of trouble in case the plant never opens again. Last reports they thought it possible the plant would be closed for good.—Robert Gifford in The Eaton County Journal.

A STRICTLY POLITICAL ADMINISTRATION

There is a feeling at Lansing that the democrats will throw caution to the winds after the legislature leaves town and leave both civil service and republican holdovers out of the window; the ruthless discharge of 23-year Insurance Deputy H. B. Corell has started an all out patronage war.—Muri H. DeFoe in The Charlotte Republican-Tribune.

The annual village election held here Monday was a very quiet affair compared with those held in some of our neighboring villages. There was little or no contest on any of the offices and the entire Workingmen's ticket was elected. Those elected were Harry C. Robinson, president; C. Anson Hearn, clerk; Winn B. Hubbell, treasurer; William T. Rattenbury, assessor; and Robert Chapple, Karl W. Hillmer, John W. Henderson, Louis Reber, John H. Patterson and Fred Hall, trustees.

Those nominated at the Democratic township caucus held at the Conner hardware company store Monday evening were Frank D. Shattuck, supervisor; George C. Gale, clerk; Scott D. Cortright, treasurer; Chauncey E. Baker, justice of the peace; George White, Sr., highway overseer; W. T. Conner, board of review; James Gates, drain commissioner and Ernest Vealey, George Soob, Merle Murray and Titus Ruff, constables. F. D. Schrader, B. D. Brown and Scott Cortright were appointed to the township committee.

EIGHT IN ANY MODEL!

THIS ADVERTISEMENT is addressed to those owners of lowest-priced cars who have often wished they could own a Pontiac, but never felt they could afford one. Its purpose is to tell you that you can afford a Pontiac and to show you why you can. First, Pontiac, far from being an expensive car, is actually a low-priced car—in fact, just a very few dollars more than "the lowest-priced three." As a result, your present car bill, in all probability, easily cover the down payment on a Pontiac.

Second, if the size of your monthly payment is an important item to you, you may easily arrange the number of payments so that the amount of each payment fits your pocketbook. No wonder former lowest-priced car owners are saying: "Monthly payments on my Pontiac are so little more I hardly notice the difference!"

What's more, many owners will tell you that in the long run, you actually pay no more for a Pontiac—you simply invest a little more, because you will eventually get those few extra dollars back again in a higher allowance at trade-in time! See your Pontiac dealer today!
