

Postoffice To Add New Route and Employees

Growth of City Demands New Delivery Limits

Postoffice to Name City Mail Carrier and Three Clerks

The Plymouth postoffice has received authorization from the postal department in Washington to extend city delivery limits, necessitating the addition of a fourth city mail route and the appointment of four additional postal employees. The addition of another new route will mark the first such expansion in the city postal service since 1927 when city route 3 was established. The extension of city delivery service is the result of the growth of new home developments and increase home-building on all streets in the existing routes. To receive city delivery of mail, districts must be at least 50 per cent developed.

Those areas which have formerly received general delivery service and will soon be included in the city delivery service with two mail deliveries a day include homes on Mill street from Main street to Ann Arbor road, Maple avenue from Jener Place to McKinley street, Pacific avenue from Williams to Junction, Evergreen from Blanche to Junction, Harding from Burroughs to Edison avenues and all houses on Edison avenue in Maplecroft subdivision.

The extension of city service and the increased delivery load on existing routes will necessitate the appointment of one additional city mail carrier, two additional regular clerks and one additional substitute clerk to handle increased postal business.

Additional postal employees will be drawn from the files of applicants who have already fulfilled civil service requirements, and the appointments to these new positions will be announced next week by Postmaster Frank Learned upon their confirmation from Washington. Residents on those streets to receive city delivery are asked to provide proper mailboxes as soon as possible.

Enlarged D & C Store Opens

The new Enlarged D & C store at the corner of Main street and Ann Arbor Trail will hold its formal opening this week-end. The store addition includes a fountain-luncheonette, 40 feet in length with 23 counter seats. Equipped with stainless steel fixtures and food compartments for hot dishes, and red leather spring seats, the new lunch counter will feature nationally advertised food products, states T. C. Woodworth, supervisor of D & C stores. Carry-out service will also be available.

The addition includes a spacious kitchen at the rear of the store and new store counters. Five additional employees have been engaged for the lunch fountain.

The three new store counters provide an enlarged greeting card and gift wrapping department and a new record and phonograph department. For the convenience of patrons, a large entrance has been added at the corner of Ann Arbor Trail and the alley parkway at the rear of the store. Lester Dewitt, store manager, invites Plymouth residents to visit the new enlarged store this week-end.

New Dairy Store Opens Saturday

Manager John McGuire announces the formal opening of the new store of the Guernsey Farms Dairy at 748 Starkweather avenue on Saturday, April 12. The store was formerly known as the Chaslen Farms Dairy, Inc. Another Guernsey Farms Dairy store is located at 125 Center street in Northville.

The new dairy store will feature a complete line of dairy products including pure, rich Guernsey milk, coffee cream, whipping cream, chocolate milk, buttermilk, orange drink, butter, cottage cheese and ice cream. All Guernsey Farms milk is produced on the company's own farms from registered tested Guernseys.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Thompson are entertaining friends from Indiana, for a few days visit.

Annual Budget Provides for No Tax Increase

Budget Submitted to City Commission at Tuesday Meeting

Plymouth property owners will face no increase in taxes during 1941-42, it was revealed when the city's annual budget was submitted to the city commission last Tuesday evening. Although the budget recommendation provides for an $11,000 increase in total expenditures, the total revenues to be received by the city show a corresponding increase, and the budget committee states that the expenses may be met with a tax rate of $12.80 per thousand which is the same rate as that for the last fiscal year.

The increased revenues anticipated by the city will result from an increase of about $170,000 in assessed valuations due to the number of new buildings erected during the last 12 months, and the placing back on the rolls of about $70,000 for lots which became state-owned on November 3, 1939 in the scavenger land sale.

The budget provides for total expenditures of $1,013,885.50 of which $71,537.50 is to be raised by property taxes as compared with $66,039.47 last year.

Outstanding features of the 1941 annual budget are provisions for salary increases of city employees, the continued retirement of bonds to reduce the city's bonded indebtedness, and provisions for a Capital Improvement program.

"In the preparation of the budget, it was felt that no general increase should be made in the tax burden, and that due consideration should be given to the unsettled conditions and the program of national defense which will undoubtedly affect the city of Plymouth during the coming year," declared Mayor Ruth Huston Whipple and City Manager C. H. Elliott, members of the budget committee.

"For the most part budget items are similar to last year except where wages and salaries have been increased to balance the increase granted by private employers and the increased living costs. This budget is planned so that no additional indebtedness should be incurred."

The salary increases provided in the proposed budget include $10 a month more for the secretary to the city manager, the city treasurer, bookkeeper, city engineer, two police patrolmen and the police clerk; $5 a month increases for the police captain, the superintendent of public works and the city hall janitor; and increases in hourly wages for city mechanics and laborers. These increases were made in accordance with the salary schedule adopted by the city commission. The salaries of the city manager, police chief, health officer and city assessor shall remain the same, according to the budget.

The capital improvements program provides for an appropriation of $15,030 for blacktopping, paving, sidewalks, sewers, water, sanitary sewers and park developments.

The budget provides for the retirement of $23,867.50 in principal and interest on general obligation and water bonds, leaving a balance of about $105,000 to be retired in the next ten-year period.

Appropriations have been cut for the city's welfare load which in large part has been taken over by the county, and for the city's commission's services because the next year is an off-year for elections. Increased revenues will accrue to the city from the municipal court since all fees collected are to revert to the city's general fund rather than to the justice.

The 1941 assessment roll will be completed by May 1 and the budget as submitted to the city commission last Tuesday will be studied by the board of review on May 8 and 9 for final approval. Copies of the city's annual budget are available to interested taxpayers at the city hall.

To Present Play

Members of the choir and Booster class of the First Methodist church are presenting the comedy, "Womanish Wedding" at the Methodist auditorium on Thursday and Friday nights, April 17 and 18. More than 60 prominent business and professional men will take part in the production.

According to the cast, the farce is a merry hodge-podge of screwy skits, bass-voiced beauties and goosy comedy. Nearly half the local actors will appear in feminine roles, and they expect to show their wits and sweethearts exactly what the sex-charged women should be wearing this spring. Glibly they talk of the latest thing in evening gowns, hair-dos and exotic make-ups. Miss Jaymie Hicks, director for the production will furnish wigs, costumes and make-up for the magic transformations being planned.

Linnea Vickstrom will play the incidental music for the comedy, and also accompany the soloists. Music plays an important part in many of the colorful impersonations and furnishes a mood for the entrance of each of the many characters.

Players are still being added to the cast, but the latest bulletin from the talent-scouts listed the following characters: Butler, Charles Garriett; Susie, Lincoln Lantz; Sally, Chase Willett; Jerry, Henry Worden; Jenny, Rockwell Smith; bride's weeping mother, Robert Lickard; bride's comforting father, Harold Anderson; bad little brother, Robert Willoughby; Wayne Smith; Ike Rosenstein, William Smith; old maid aunt, Horace Thatcher; bride's grandmother, Earl D. ## City Forms Group to Aid Namesake Town in England

Local Organization to Broadcast Message to Plymouth, England

A Namesake Town committee was organized here last week to lend material and spiritual aid to the stricken city of Plymouth, England. The local organization is affiliated with the national Namesake Towns committee group which is directing similar activities in more than 2,000 Plymouths throughout the United States.

The local committee will hold a general meeting next Monday evening, April 14, at 7 o'clock at the city hall to plan benefit projects and parties to raise funds for aid to Plymouth, England. The committee also plans to distribute names of children with whom local Boy and Girl Scouts and school children may correspond. Plans will be discussed at Monday's meeting for sending a mobile kitchen unit to Plymouth, England, which has suffered severe bombing attacks recently.

Upon receipt of a communication from the national organization, Mayor Ruth Huston Whipple called an organizational meeting of representative service groups last Thursday evening. Delegates were selected from only those organizations which have corresponding organizations in Plymouth, England to attend the first meeting of the local group last week. These international cooperating groups include the Rotary Club, YMCA and YWCA, Church of England (Episcopal church), Roman Catholic church, Methodist church, Christian Science church, the Hebrew church, the Women's Volunteer society, the Chamber of Commerce, local educational authorities, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, the Devonport high schools for boys and girls, the Plymouth colleges for boys and girls, the grammar schools, Sutton high school for boys and the Stoke Damerel high school for girls.

At a meeting last Sunday afternoon, the following central governing committee was appointed by Mayor Ruth Huston Whipple temporary chairman: Mrs. Thomas Moss, Mrs. Otto Beyer, James J. S. Gallimore, A. J. Smith, Robert Jolliffe and Arno B. Thompson. The organization requests that any persons living in Plymouth or vicinity, who are former residents of Plymouth, England or who have friends or relatives in the "namesake" city, notify any members of the above committee.

Open New Service for Soft Water

The Soft Water Service company, established by Manager William Clarke at 276 North Main street, this week, offers a new service which is exclusive in the city.

The new company specializes in soft water service, installing water softeners in the basements of homes and services the units at regular intervals. Under this novel plan, the company owns and services all equipment. When servicing becomes necessary, a service man removes the unit which has been in use, and replaces it with a new one.

"This plan provides sparkling 100 per cent soft water at the turn of the faucet without an investment or any attention from anyone in the household. The removal and replacement of the water softener unit is as simple a process as reading a water meter," declares Manager Clarke. The company's service shop is located at 587 West Ann Arbor Trail.

Ruth Gillis Falls Dead in Home

Miss Ruth Gillis, aged 66 years, dropped dead in the basement of her home on Dunlap street in Northville Monday. It was apparently sometime after she had expired that her body was found by her sister, with whom she lived. Miss Gillis many years ago was employed by The Plymouth Mail, going from Plymouth to Northville to enter the employment of The Northville Record. She was especially active in charity work and had for many years been one of the officers of the Kings Daughters, having at times served as its president. The funeral took place Wednesday.

Two New City Commissioners Elected By Plymouth Voters

Light Voting Marks Election in Townships

Contest in Canton; Livonia Approves Zoning Proposition

Light voting characterized the elections in Plymouth, Canton and Livonia townships Monday. Canton township offered the only political contest for local offices, with the present incumbents being unopposed in both Plymouth and Livonia townships. An advisory vote on a zoning ordinance in Livonia township was approved by a vote of 700 to 329.

With the exception of some of the local political offices in the Canton township contest, each of the townships scored heavy Republican majorities for all state offices and voted to return most of the incumbent circuit court judges to the bench.

Next Monday night, the sportsmen will gather at the Hotel Mayflower for the club's annual smelt dinner. The meeting is planned in conjunction with National Wildlife Week from April 13 to 19. The guest speaker at this meeting will be Father Wilkoski of Gibraltar, Michigan, who will show movies of Alaska.

Robert Merriam is program chairman in charge of the dinner meeting.

Local Ford Plants Keep Going on Full Schedule for Present, at Least

Ford plants at Plymouth, Waterford, Newburg, Nankin Mills and Milford which have not been seized by roving mobs are just as busy as they were before the big Rouge plant at Dearborn was closed. While the Northville and Phoenix plants were forced to shut down throwing some 600 men out of employment because of inability to secure supplies from the Rouge plant, these five other nearby plants are running full time as they had on hand plenty of material on which to work. Local Ford workmen are hopeful that they will be able to continue their steady employment. There are about 120 working at Waterford, 37 at the Plymouth plant, 31 at Newburg and 80 at Nankin Mills. Between 150 and 200 are employed at Milford.

New Commissioners

GEORGE ROBINSON

DUNBAR DAVIS

George Robinson, R. Jolliffe and D. Davis Win

City, State Proposed Charter Amendments Win Voters' Approval

Two new city commissioners, Robert Jolliffe and Dunbar Davis, and one veteran incumbent, George Robinson, were elected in the city election Monday and all of the six proposed charter amendments were approved by the voters. Only 904 of the city's 2300 registered voters went to the polls for the spring biennial election in which two state amendments, circuit court judges, and important state officers were voted upon.

J. Rusling Cutler was elected municipal judge with a total of 563 votes. The incumbent judge, John Dayton, who was not a candidate for re-election, received 19 votes and there were 15 other scattered votes for the office of municipal judge. Leroy Reiman received 85 votes to be elected constable from a field of 25 other scattered votes.

Plymouth recorded heavy Republican majorities for all of the state officers, with a 3 to 1 vote for Leroy C. Smith, Republican candidate for state highway commissioner. Eugene B. Elliott, Republican candidate for the office of state superintendent of public instruction, also scored a heavy majority in Plymouth.

Both proposed state amendments were approved by local voters and all but one of the incumbent circuit court judges were returned to office. Raymond J. Kelly, past national commander of the American Legion, received 373 votes to place seventh among the field of circuit judges. The only incumbent dropped from the local field was Thomas J. Murphy.

In the city election, veteran George Robinson received the largest number of votes for the city commission with a total of 541, followed by Robert Jolliffe with 513, and Dunbar Davis with 460. Incumbent L. E. Wilson fell short by only six votes with a total of 454 and Warren Worth, also an incumbent, received 381 votes. Precincts 3 and 4 tallied the heaviest number of votes with 261 and 260 respectively. A total of 221 votes were cast in precinct 1, and 162 in precinct 2.

The complete tabulations of votes for city and state officers and charter proposals will be found on another page.

City Seeks Data on Eligibility of Dunbar Davis

A question of the eligibility of Dunbar Davis as a member of the city commission arose as a late development of the election at the city commission meeting last Tuesday evening, April 8. The city charter requires that any person holding elective office in the city must be a property owner and a resident for two years. The city commission has questioned Mr. Davis' claim to part-ownership of a lot at the corner of Arthur and Farmer streets, described as lot 189 of the Sunset addition.

The city commission authorized the city manager to investigate the ownership of this lot at the office of the Register of Deeds in Detroit. Commissioner-elect Davis, appearing before the city commission last Tuesday, stated that he jointly with Perry Richwine purchased the described lot in a state sale of public scavenger property on January 10, 1941, and he further offered as evidence a quit-claim deed containing the names of Perry Richwine and Dunbar Davis. The same question arose at the time Mr. Davis filed petitions for his candidacy for the office of city commissioner, but according to law, neither the city clerk nor the commission is empowered to reject petitions signed by qualified voters, but they do have power of question of qualifications of those elected to the commission.

Feed Plants for Larger Blooms

(By The Master Gardener)

It is said that zinnias, annual phlox, nasturtiums, bachelor's buttons and larkspur will bloom earlier if transplanted. Gardeners are cautioned, however, that such plants, and also the blooms will be somewhat smaller than if they were not transplanted.

But if you will use a complete, balanced plant food when transplanting, you will find year plants will have everything—good general growth and size, early and large blooms and many of them.

The month of April is also an excellent time to feed all your trees, both fruit trees and shade trees. Usually one feeding a year is sufficient but if trees are in bad condition, a second feeding in late fall may be advisable. A yearly feeding with a complete, balanced plant food will remove deadwood from underfed trees.

HOW YOU CAN GROW A SMOOTH, VELVETY-GREEN LAWN

For maximum growth, grass needs 11 different food elements from the soil. Vigoro, the complete plant food, supplies all 11 needed elements in balanced proportions. It encourages a mass of deep foraging roots and a top-growth so thick it helps check the weeds! And only 4 lbs. of Vigoro to 100 square feet makes a complete feeding. Vigoro is equally effective on flowers, shrubs, trees, and vegetables. It is clean, odorless, sanitary, easy to use—and by far your best buy in plant food.

Realizes the value of a Refrigerated Food Locker

★ The Smart Man's Way

Why a Locker?

Fresh Meats throughout the year.
Butchering any time of year.
Frozen Meats are more palatable than salted, canned or cured meats.
Locker plant provides expert butchering and cutting, service.
Proper storage temperature.
NO FOOD SPOILAGE.
City customers can purchase wholesale cuts of meats.
Supply as convenient as a butcher shop.
Better cuts of meat for less.
Vitamins retained.
Spring chickens, ducks, geese and turkeys always available.
Shortages in the winter months when they are good!
Locker meals are more tasty.
Vegetables retain color, make meals more appetizing.
Cooking time of frozen vegetables is less.

Here is What the Experts Say

A United States Department of Agriculture Meat Specialist Says:
Cold-storage lockers and the continuing adaptation of their equipment to local needs are but natural steps in the progressive task of bringing refrigeration closer to the farm home. Locker plants do not replace household refrigerators, pressure canners or curing barrels. They are a supplementary means by which a family may maintain an adequate food supply at all seasons of the year.

Families use cold-storage lockers because they enjoy adding fresh frozen products to the regular diet of canned and salted foods. Village patrons find that they can buy from the farmer or wholesaler, a better quality of food, especially beef, than the local retailer often can afford to carry. Sportsmen use lockers for storing fish, venison and birds. All patrons can have foods from the locker at a lower cost than the generally prevailing retail prices.

With a home-grown supply of lean meat, dairy and poultry products, fruits and green vegetables, families have available the essential proteins, minerals and vitamins reported as deficient on 40 per cent of the farm tables. Cold-storage lockers are an economical means by which these rather seasonal foods can be preserved and used throughout the year.

Freezing Makes Beef More Tender

Below-freezing temperatures most desirable, say D. G. HANKINS and R. L. HINER of the United States Department of Agriculture in Washington, D. C.

"A cold storage locker will give service to the extent that it can increase the healthful variety and quality of foods available and decrease the need for cash to purchase the family's needs. Clean, sanitary, well operated plants will be an asset to the family that tries to feed itself on home raised foods."

What Are The Advantages to You?

Food, and its proper preservation, has always been one of Man's greatest problems—how to preserve it in times of plenty, for use in times of scarcity. Canning, smoking and pickling have been used—but NOW foodstuffs can be held in quantity in their natural fresh state over long periods of time. The Refrigerated Locker System is the answer, and a few of its many advantages to you are given below.

CHOOSE YOUR FOOD—You can select "prime" meat, foodstuffs and produce from your own property—or you can buy wholesale when the market is low.

LESS WORK—Tiresome home smoking, pickling and canning or preserving can be eliminated, and sweating hours over the stove, and the labor and drudgery of such work can be forgotten.

CONVENIENCE—Think how convenient it will be to go to your Locker and find just what you want, ready to cook or to eat—and whenever you want it. Also to know that it is under your own lock and key—in your personal Food Vault.

NO SEASONS—"Seasons" for certain foodstuffs are eliminated. Butcher and store your food in summer or winter. Have juicy fresh steaks in mid-summer—have corn on the cob or strawsberries on your dinner table in mid-winter.

COMPLETE SERVICE—Butchering, cooling, aging, expert cutting, grinding, packaging, labeling and dating, freezing and storing under sanitary and cold storage conditions—ALL THESE are done for you in the Locker Storage Plant.

SAVINGS—Even with these many services rendered for you—and the many advantages—there is a definite saving in dollars—depending, of course, upon the size of your family and your rate of consumption of food. In many cases the saving is reported to be as high as $100 per year.

of Keeping the High Cost of Living Within His Pocketbook ★

We Want You to Know Your Locker Plant

The most productive season of the year is at hand . . . Home-grown fruits, berries and vegetables will be in abundance at seasonal low prices . . . Our present locker space is almost exhausted and we are already planning for 80 more if the demand becomes apparent. Because of the scarcity of metal, lockers are going to be hard to get . . . Your reservation of a locker now will eliminate the possibility of a disappointment in the near future. An early reservation will assure you of a preferred location . . . ACT NOW . . . Reserve yours today!

The Consumer★

Knows that lasting, sound prosperity must start from the ground. The city offers many advantages . . . higher wages . . . shorter hours . . . Something must be done to raise the farmer's income. How can locker storage enter into the picture? Well, for example, last season farmers sold their produce for about the following prices: Strawberries at 3 quarts for 25 cents; beans, 50 cents a bushel; spinach, 25 cents a bushel; peaches as low as a dollar a bushel, and many others at these low prices. No wonder acres full of fine crops were never even touched. It didn't pay the farmer to harvest his crop.

NOW . . . later in the year when the consumer began to crave some of the farmer's items, what did he pay for the same . . . and in many cases the farmer paid right along with him . . . strawberries, 25 cents a pound; beans 21 or 23 cents for 12 ounces; 21 cents for 16 ounces, of spinach; peaches, 25 cents a pound, etc. In fact, some of the better advertised brands even more. In some cases shipped-in produce cost as much as the better grades of retail fresh frozen products and they certainly couldn't compare in flavor and taste.

Draw your own conclusion . . . YOU CAN SAVE . . . THE FARMER CAN SAVE . . . HOW? . . . that's easy . . . own your own food storage locker and take advantage of the low market prices that crops afford when they are harvested.

Store your own home grown foods . . . preserve their rounded flavor, freshness and vitamins . . . You'll be surprised at the tremendous savings made possible for your family and just think of the extra added feature of having the best of foods when you want them.

Even though 50 per cent of our storage users are farmers, the other half of our patrons are doctors, lawyers, business men, manufacturers and housewives, in other words, people from every walk of life who desire the best uniform quality at great savings or, as a banker said, the locker renter is the man who has some and is trying to save more . . . THIS CAN BE DONE . . . WE INVITE YOU TO CHALLENGE THIS STATEMENT and LET US SHOW YOU THE PROOF!

Refrigerated Food Lockers Become the Money-Saving Link Between the Farmer and the Consumer . . . It Works Both Ways . . . Try it and You'll Prove it . . .

Food for Thought

"On the market today there are 143 brands of quick frozen foods . . . That is a sign that there is money to be made in freezing produce and meats . . . Why not make that yourself by owning your own locker in a storage plant?"

Quality . . . Economy . . . Service . . . you can depend on uniform quality because every cut of meat that you serve for months comes from the same animal . . . you are aware of the fact that buying a larger quantity will save you money . . . From a service standpoint we are able to offer you Purity's fine processing whether you bring your own animal, buy from us or direct from the producer. Protect the family's health . . . Did you know that freezing pork for 20 days in a locker room will eliminate the possibility of TRICHINOSIS?

Actually "fresher than fresh" . . . recent investigations by food research authorities have proven vegetables quick frozen and kept frozen in storage lockers come to the table actually fresher than from the fresh vegetable market.

The item that you raise and sell in the fall at wholesale prices must be bought back in the winter at retail . . . save the difference . . . put your produce in storage and enjoy it at wholesale prices during the long winter months.

This week alone pork advanced in price $1.00 per hundred pounds . . . Just think . . . if you had your locker stocked, you would have saved many dollars on the family meat budget.

Yours for the asking . . . We'll gladly furnish you, free of charge, the Ferry-Morse Seed Co. pamphlet entitled, "Best Vegetable Varieties for Locker Plant Storage."

Plymouth Girls Sponsor Play Day

Girls' basketball teams from each class at Dearborn high school participated in games with Plymouth high school teams in the annual Play Day program sponsored by the Leaders' club of the local school last Tuesday afternoon.

Following games between the freshman and sophomore teams from Dearborn and Plymouth schools, a hot lunch was served through the cooperation of the refreshment committee of the Leaders' club and the home economics department.

In the evening, the girls presented a variety program of entertainment which featured a solo by Annabelle Becker, a tap dance by Gloria Beck and a solo by Lois Ridley followed by a song fest and dancing. Following the entertainment, the junior and senior class teams played basketball. The sponsor in charge of the Play Day program was Mrs. Kingsley Miller, girls' athletic director at Plymouth high school.

Winning all four games, the Plymouth girls' basketball teams scored their third consecutive triumph over their opponents in the annual Play Day competition. The freshman game ended 24-4, the sophomore game 30-6, and the senior game, 26-3. The junior game was the most interesting. With Plymouth trailing 9-12 at the beginning of the last quarter, they picked up enough points to eke out a 16-14 victory to sweep the series.

Plymouth Golf Club Opens April 19

The Plymouth Golf and Country club will open for the spring season Saturday, April 19. The club house will re-open under the management of Walter Graves. As in former years, the club will specialize in chicken and steak dinners, banquets and private parties.

The 18-hole golf course has been completely re-worked and finished and will be open to golfers on Saturday also. William Rambo, pro-manager, announces that special attention will be given to golf beginners.

JayCee Group Enjoys Movies

With accompanying movies of outstanding games in the American League last season and the World Series games between the Detroit Tigers and the Cincinnati Reds, George Moriarity, retired umpire of the American League, outlined the principles of basestealing, batting and pitching before a group of 40 JayCee members last Friday evening.

The group also voted two changes in the organization's by-laws establishing a pro-rated system of dues and providing for two vice-presidents to whom organization committees will be responsible.

Two teams from the local JayCees were defeated by two teams from the Ann Arbor group in a bowling tournament at the Parkview Recreation alleys Sunday afternoon.

They Served on Election Boards

Twenty residents served on the election board for Monday's spring biennial election. The chairman and election inspectors included Mrs. Arthur J. Todd, Verne Rowley, Hugh Means, Mrs. Paul Nash and Charles Burch, precinct No. 1; Mrs. Ruth West, Mrs. Maud Bennett, the Rev. L. Stout, Mrs. Harold Jolliffe and Mrs. Grant Simpson, precinct No. 2; Mrs. Sidney D. Strong, Ernest Housman, Mrs. William Squires, Mrs. Rose Havershaw and Miss Ada Daggett, precinct No. 3; and Arno Thompson, Mrs. J. Goodman, Robert Zimmerman, Mrs. Charles Humphries and Mrs. Francis Doerr, precinct No. 4.

The most important part of the election of a women's fence is the setting of the end and the corner posts. They must be well anchored and braced with braces at the proper angle.

The brace from the top of the end post to the top of the brace post should be four inches square and No. 9 wire looped twice should tie in the top of the brace post to the end post at the ground line.

Crippled Aid Drive Opens

Receipts to date from a direct-mail campaign and a benefit dance held at the Masonic Temple last Friday evening for the Crippled Children's Aid society total approximately $150, according to Russell Daane, state treasurer of the society.

About 900 letters containing sheets of Easter seals for the aid of crippled children in the state have been sent out to residents of Plymouth and vicinity and the preliminary response indicates the campaign for funds will exceed last year's quota of $500, said Robert Willoughby, local chairman of the drive.

The Easter Seal sale is conducted throughout the month of April and seals may be purchased from any member of the Rotary club.

A benefit bridge party will be sponsored by the Woman's Club of Plymouth at the Masonic Temple to raise additional funds for the campaign. The date of the party will be announced next week. Mrs. Richard Bloomfield will be general chairman.

Sunshine Brings Schrader Home

Fred D. Schrader's "business" trip to Florida was cut short last week when he discovered that the sun was shining brighter in Michigan than it was in Florida and that his potato ground out at the buffalo ranch was ready for the plow.

Palm trees, orange blossoms and bathing beauties lost all their appeal as quick as a seat when he read in The Mail that activities out in the country were on with a rush. He brought back with him to Plymouth, Mrs. Schrader and their daughter, Evelyn who had gone to Florida early in the winter.

What does he have to say about Florida? Try and catch up to him long enough to find out.

Visit Famous Floral Gardens

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Root Sr. returned last week after a four months' visit in the South spending three and a half months in Winter Haven, Florida and two weeks in New Orleans. Enroute from Florida to New Orleans they took the Azalea Trail along the Gulf of Mexico when these beautiful flowers were in full bloom. At Mobile, Alabama, they visited the famous Bellingrath gardens, said to be the largest and most beautiful in the world.

At New Orleans the Spring Fiesta was on and they visited the old Spanish and French quarters with a guide. On their way home they stopped off at Natchez, Mississippi and visited the beautiful ante-bellum homes and lovely gardens and at Vicksburg the National Military park and saw the beautiful homes and parks in Memphis, Tennessee.

The first record of a citrus orchard in California is that of the orchard at San Gabriel Mission near Los Angeles in 1804.

The 18,000 citrus growers in Arizona and California give employment to some 200,000 persons. And approximately 30 million dollars in wages is annually paid to grove and packing house employees.

How does your garden grow?

This is the time of year when Michigan folks turn with joy to their spades and rakes and seed packets. Nowhere in America do people think more of their flowers and kitchen gardens. Nowhere are finer vegetable and flower seeds produced. Michigan is world-famous for the breeding and marketing of improved seeds, bulbs and flowers.

To seedsmen and commercial flower-growers the telephone is indispensable, because speed is so important in their business. Seed orders for the short planting season are filled and shipped within a few hours of the time they are received. Ordered by telephone, fresh-cut flowers are rushed daily from Michigan's 700 greenhouses to city dealers.

And when you want a bouquet for the table or plants for the window-box, you have only to pick up your telephone and call the florist.

In the long, painstaking process of breeding seeds, undesirable types are gradually weeded out. Here young plants are being examined under a magnifying glass.

How LONG is a Gallon of Gasoline?

WELL, it's longer going downhill than up, longer going slow than fast—but the important new discovery of the year (or since Buick's Compound Carburetion* appeared) is that it's longer when you have two carburetors teamed like Buick's than when you have one!

Here's why:

In easy going like most of your travel, just one of Buick's smaller-than-usual carburetors thrifly handles all engine requirements.

Only when you want extra power does the second carburetor come in.

Then, momentarily, it adds extra fuel and extra power only while it's needed.

Result is that carburetion is always fitted to your driving need.

You're never driving with a carburetor that's bigger than you need for low-range travel, or one that's too small for top-range performance.

Now the net result is that the same-size engines give up as much as 10% to 15% more miles-per-gallon than last year.

And that's a handsome saving—mighty handsome in a car big and roomy and smart as a Buick.

Look over the next Buick that passes you—or better yet, go trial-drive one—and see if you don't agree.

Taxation, Borrowing and Cheap Money Does Not Worry Babson

Fa. Economist Wonders Why Government Does Not Put Tax Levy Upon Income From Crime

(By Roger Babson)
Washington, D.C., April 11.—Tax returns and tax payments in March shattered all previous records. However, the taxes collectible this year will be far short of our requirements. Not only are our defense charges increasing rapidly, but the outlay of the federal departments of government has risen over $3,000,000,000 in the past ten years. Washington apparently expects sacrifices on the part of everyone except itself. Hence taxes are being raised to support its increased costs as well as to bear the expense of defense.

Proposed Higher Taxes
The plan to tax all new government, state, and municipal bonds is a step in the right direction. This, moreover, should not be general business and industry. Mr. Morgenthau hopes that taxes can supply two-thirds of our spendings, while borrowing will carry the other one-third. This would mean for 1942 further increase of more than $3,000,000,000 in tax payments. This seems to me to be too much, but unfortunately I am a statistician and not a politician.

Half of the needed money should come from higher tax receipts upon a larger national income without increasing the tax rates. The remainder, the treasury claims, must come from wholly new taxation. Raised rates on corporation and private incomes can provide some of this new revenue. This may mean a two percent increase in normal taxes on private incomes with surtaxes beginning on net incomes of $3,000 instead of at the present level of $4,000. The defense tax of 10 percent may be raised. Estate and gift taxes may come in for upward revision. A raise from 24 to 30 percent for corporations earning over $25,000 is possible. If these new taxes will help us "pay as we go" they should not be resented. It is better to pay for our way of living in cash than in blood.

"Od-Bye" To a Debt Limit
In the wake of the passage of the Lend-Lease bill last month, we have seen negotiations to take over Britain's war contracts in exchange for her manufacturing plants and of her real estate in this country as well as her securities. We have seen billions of new appropriations for our own defense measures. The passage of the $7,000,000,000 "arsenal of democracy" bill increased our per capita debt by $53. This alone boosted the per capita share from $348 to $399, or about $2,000 per family.

When the latest debt figures for the quarter ending March 31 are available, the total will be found to be rapidly approaching the present ceiling of $65,000,000,000. In so saying, I am considering this in terms of what we are already committed for and of what we expect to do. The original budget cost of the defense program for 1942, submitted by the White House to Congress in January as totaling $28,480,000,000, has been raised to $35,480,000,000. Of this latest $7,000,000,000 appropriation, labor will get 40 percent; materials will cost another 40 percent; and 20 percent will go for management, interest, and overhead.

Why Not Cut Crime?
I have told readers of this column that I would try to warn them when the inflation situation becomes dangerous. That time is not yet at hand. The heavy taxes already assessed should postpone the evils of inflation. When taxes are raised above a certain amount, however, concerns fold up and new concerns dare not start in business. As a result, the nation's total income falls off and the government does not collect as much real tax money with the higher rates as it did from the lower rates. In cases where the government has taken over factories, or public utilities, all the tax money is lost. This appears in those cities where new government housing schemes are under way. Therefore, every reader is justified in fighting taxes and working to keep them down.

Besides, there is a way to raise these billions needed to defeat Hitler besides resorting to taxation, borrowing, or inflation. We can cut down our crime bill. By doing this, we can keep from decreasing either our taxes or our debt. Moreover, we can enjoy an even better standard of living. The annual crime bill for the United States is $15,000,000,000 per year. This staggering cost does not include the billions spent on commercialized vice, illegal gambling, narcotics, etc. It includes only goods destroyed, buildings burned by criminals, and the cost of operating police systems, prisons, and insane hospitals, plus the loss of production of those involved. Let Mr. Morgenthau get some of his needed money by reducing the crime bill.

Don't Worry Yet
In spite of our carrying much of the financial burden of other democracies, as well as the defense and civil expenses of our own country, our resources are enormous. Against our borrowing must be set the public and private wealth. We can go a long way before this is exhausted. No one, however, can afford to stand idly by as our government gets deeper into debt without helping in some way. We can at least reduce our private debts. I do not expect the time will ever come in this country when one will be penalized for saving money! I still believe in our dollar. Certainly, many people outside our borders believe in it too!

Savings, however, should be invested judiciously. What was safe in your father's day may not be safe today. New rules are in the making; but those who recognize them should have nothing to fear. Truly, these are wonderful times in which to live. As Thomas A. Kempis said, "It is good for us now and then to have some troubles and adversities." Until they can be solved, we should have faith in our leaders. Confidence, not fear, should rule our hearts and our heads.

About 78 per cent of all driving done by Detroit motorists is on the city streets and 22 per cent on rural roads—mostly on state highways in rural areas, which carry two-thirds of all Michigan traffic volumes.

ATTACK ON AMERICA

THE STORY SO FAR: More than 200,000 foreign troops which had been secretly transported to Mexico, suddenly invaded the United States. Intelligence Officer Benning had discovered their plans while a spy in Mexico City where he had gained the confidence of Fincke.

CHAPTER XIV

Benning left the hotel at nine o'clock and walked to the Empire State Building. During the night he had collected available information of the Andes Gold Mining and Milling Company. The firm had been operating in New York for ten years past. It was a small but regular dividend payer, was not listed on the stock exchange, and had conformed to all laws and requirements in regard to its operations and transactions. Simon Salvatore, a Chilean, had recently taken over as managing director.

On reaching the forty-fifth floor, Benning went direct to the company's offices and stepped inside. A fat roly-poly of a man with catlike smirk stamped on his round face came up to Benning at once to search him with small round eyes that glinted suspiciously appraisal through horn-rimmed glasses.

"I am Mr. Oldfer, office manager," he said in an ingratiating purr. "Is there something I can do for you?"

"I am a stockholder," Benning said, intent on completing his reconnaissance of the room in the shortest possible time. "I wish to inquire if it is true the company is disposing of two mines, the Palacio Quatras and the Silver Sabers?"

Oldfer's upper teeth gnawed nervously at his lower lip at this blunt identification of the visitor as a Van Hassek agent.

"Maybe," Oldfer hesitated, "you want to see Senior Salvatore?" "Nonsense!" Benning said with authority. "You say you are the office manager and I have just introduced myself fully. I'm in a great hurry, Oldfer."

Benning stepped decisively past the fellow and went to the open "B" cabinet at which a ruddy clerk of Slav features was working. While Oldfer pattered up with muttered protests, Benning thumbed through the Baltimore entries. Ramsey, Ringold, Rosser, Rouse, Rumbolt. He noted that after each listed stockholder there were symbols purporting to show number of stock shares held, dates of dividend payment, and other listed data.

His eye caught the pertinent detail that in the Baltimore file, as compared with other files through which he hurriedly skimmed, there were many more entries on each card. Baltimore, headquarters of the Army's Third Corps Area, and flanked by some of the Army's important arsenals and secret proving grounds, was a logical beehive of espionage activity.

"Very good, your Baltimore file shows the proper activity," Benning announced, turning abruptly away to face Oldfer. "Thank you for your courtesy."

"Senior Salvatore will be here very soon," Oldfer said. "It is necessary that you talk with Mr. Salvatore before you leave."

"Tell Salvatore," Benning said, scowling at his watch, "that I'll be back by eleven at latest. Just now I'm in a hurry."

"Oh, no, but you will wait," Oldfer whined. "Ja, you will wait, or Senior Salvatore would never forgive me." He turned to one of his clerks and cried, "Here, Backropp, you will keep the gentleman company until Mr. Salvatore arrives!"

A barrel-chested man whose squat legs, long angular face, and flailing arms gave him the aspect of an orangutan, stepped forward with a nod. The others moved closer. Benning saw that only by force might he pass out the door of the Andes Gold Mining and Milling Company. Numbers were against him.

"All right, Oldfer," he yielded with annoyance. "I'll wait a reasonable time."

Backropp escorted Benning into the Salvatore private room behind the main office, where he indicated a seat in front of Salvatore's mahogany desk. Backropp sat down close by and folded his ponderous arms across his chest. Two others of Oldfer's men quit their work at the files to take position just outside the Salvatore door. Benning saw that he was as definitely a prisoner as if he had been bound and gagged.

INSTALLMENT TWELVE

and Bravot, two enemy officers, but his warning had gone unheeded. The President was killed when Washington was bombed. General Brill, commander of the U. S. army in Texas, was opposed by greatly superior forces led by Van Hassek. In spite of Brill's desperate like the way he nosed about into our things, so I have him waiting for you."

Salvatore strode into the room, an erect, saturnine man in morning coat, striped trousers, and lurid neckwear. Even in the shock of recognition, Benning's startled mind flashed to a whim of professional observation. This man's presence confirmed his every suspicion of the Andes Gold Mining and Milling Company. Salvatore was Gaujos, the masquerader with whom he had traded shots at San Antonio, the man who as Colonel Bravot had been his chief of section in Van Hassek espionage service at the Palacio Nacional.

Bravot sat down at his desk and fixed his gaze on his visitor. In his cold, blunt eyes there showed no recognition of the American agent whom he had glimpsed at San Antonio and failed to recognize in Mexico City.

"What explanation have you to offer of your visit here?" Bravot inquired.

"I'm here from Mexico City, Colonel Bravot," Benning answered with "A ponderous hand closed over Benning's mouth."

calm assurance. "I have identified myself and am prepared to do so again. The precise nature of my mission I am not permitted to disclose to you. Beyond that I've nothing to say."

Without taking his eyes from Benning, Bravot slowly opened a drawer of his desk and brought out an automatic pistol.

As he leveled the weapon across the desk Bravot's left hand went to a call button which sent a rasping summons into the outer office. Oldfer came in at once.

"We have had a close call, Oldfer," Bravot said. He passed his left hand across his forehead, now wet with perspiration. "This man is an Army Intelligence agent who shot at me once, and whom I stupidly overlooked in Mexico due to my preoccupation with other matters."

Benning heard the outer door open. Oldfer, terror leaping into his little eyes, jumped across the room and slammed Bravot's door. Benning sprang to his feet, but the ape-like arms of Backropp were about him in an instant with all the crushing force of motor-driven prongs. A ponderous hand closed over Benning's mouth and shut off articulation.

Benning felt himself lifted clear of the floor by a strength against which his own sinews were powerless. Backropp carried him across the room to the Bravot concrete vault that lay open behind heavy steel doors. The ape-man hurled him inside with a stunning violence and heaved the doors shut.

Benning picked himself up and shook his head to clear his wits from the shock of his fall. Only the habit of self-discipline saved him from panic as he found himself engulfed in this black, steel-encased void. He heard the vague click of bolts as the door was locked, then silence.

He felt about the interior of his prison and estimated its dimensions as some six feet wide by ten feet in depth.

He knew that rescue depended largely upon that phosgene cigarette he had tossed out the window as a signal to Intelligence operatives below. He argued that they had caught the signal; it must have been G-2 men who invaded the Andes office at the critical instant of his imprisonment.

His ears strained for sound, but there was only silence. He tried kicking at the foot-thick steel doors, but there was no response. It came resistance, Van Hassek's troops pushed relentlessly forward. Returning to Washington, Benning met Fincke who had come there to do espionage work but continued to pose as a friend. A week later he saw Fincke enter a restaurant. Now continue with the story.

to him that in the heart of a great city, with its teeming millions, he was as completely sealed away as a dead man in a tomb.

Out in the offices of the Andes Gold Mining and Milling Company a blunt new crew had taken over, headed by Lieutenant Colonel Wallace, corps area Intelligence officer. Three of Wallace's officers were checking through the company records, three others were standing guard over four glum prisoners.

This sharp transfer of authority had been accompanied by a brief, tragic violence. In a corner of the office, covered by a rug, lay the body of Backropp. A bullet from Wallace's pistol had been needed to end Backropp's resistance.

"All right, Oldfer," Wallace threatened, the cowering fat man who sat in front of him. "I'll give you one more chance to remember the combination to that safe. If you do remember, I'll make it an internment camp, if you don't I'll have you hanged inside a week!"

He lifted his wrist to his eyes and glanced at the time. "I'll give you exactly thirty seconds more to decide whether you live or hang."

Ten seconds had passed when the office door opened. Safe experts reported in to tackle the job of opening the vault. Oldfer was jolted into decision by knowledge that if the man in the vault emerged alive, the jig was up with him.

"I'll open it!" he cried, leaping to his feet. "Ja, I'll open the safe, if you promise me I don't hang for it!"

Oldfer fairly raced to the steel doors and nervously fingered the combination. In his excitement three trials were necessary to complete the combination. Colonel Wallace seized the door and pulled it open. Benning was lying on the floor, his right hand clutching a small pocket notebook.

Wallace lifted the unconscious man to a sofa in the Salvatore room. A medical officer, who had been hurried in from Governor's Island, took pulse and temperature and applied stimulants. In a minute Benning opened his eyes and, on orienting his mind to the whirling gray world about him, attempted to sit up.

"The captain will be all right shortly," the doctor predicted. "It's just as well, however, you got him out of there without much more delay."

Half an hour later Benning insisted on getting to his feet. His legs were wobbly under him, the long, steady throb of his pulse reverberated in aching temples. But he waved the medico aside and went into the office where Wallace and his men were working.

"Here, Benning, you'd better take it easy," the corps area G-2 chief admonished.

"I'm feeling better," Benning answered. "What's the score now, Colonel?"

Colonel Wallace was effervescent. "The Andes Gold Mining and Milling Company," he exclaimed, "is the most valuable mine in the world right now. No question about it, we're headed for the biggest spy roundup in history."

"Where's Bravot?" Benning wanted to know. "Bravot, alias Salvatore."

The glow of Wallace's face vanished into gloom. "Pretty bad luck, Benning," he said heavily. "He managed to slip out his private door as we entered. I had Lieutenant Crane guarding the hall. Salvatore killed him with a small automatic and was lucky enough to catch a cage down before we could get out there. By the way, Benning, when you feel up to it, Colonel Flagwill wishes you to call him at the War Department."

Benning checked through the haul of records. There was no need of cryptographers on the job. In a false bottom of Bravot's desk, Wallace had unearthed a code book which unlocked the symbols.

The first estimates showed seventeen thousand cards of stockholders. Many of these were innocent purchasers, Wallace thought from the first results of his check, but there was evidence of thousands of enemy agents, scattered in important posts and positions throughout the United States.

An hour later Benning went to the McAlpin. His legs still lacked strength and he took a cab for the short ride. Upstairs in his room he called Flagwill, who was on the line promptly.

"Glad you're all right, Benning, you had us worried!" Flagwill exclaimed. "A great piece of work, simply great! Report back as soon as you feel like traveling. Benning," Flagwill's voice trailed into gravity. "Things are looking pretty black right now—and we've got to find out what's ahead of us. General Hague suggested—well, if you think you've a chance at it—thought you might learn something—in Mexico. Of course, we'll let you decide."

"Very good, sir," Benning assented. "I'll report in Washington on the next available plane."

Pupils of Miller-Geer School Prepare History of the District

Pupils Do All of Research Work as Well as Writing

Pupils of the Miller-Geer school have for some weeks been working on a history of this well known school district. They have conducted all of the research work, and have prepared the entire history, under the direction of their teacher, Mrs. Gladys Stacey.

It has so much merit as well as interest that The Plymouth

Mail is publishing it in full as follows:

For several weeks the children of this school have been making a study of the local history of the school and district. Much information has been accumulated by interviewing early residents and by reading old books and records. The eighth grade was the leader in this project and made separate histories of their own. It is believed that we have gained many desirable outcomes from this project such as interest in the appreciation of the past, to appreciate our present school, improvements in subject matter, and the completion of a history which will be of great value in the future.

Here is a short history which will be of interest to residents or former residents:

The name of our school is the Geer school, a brick building located in Superior township on the corner of Gottfredson and Ann Arbor roads. It was named after William Geer who was in charge of the building of the school in 1880 and contracted Joseph Warner of Ypsilanti to build it.

Early in the 1800's we are told, that the pupils had a log school on Gottfredson road about one half mile from the corner. Up until 1880 the children went to a frame building located on a knoll a short distance from the corner. The school was called the Miller school after a man that donated the land.

The interior of our present school is much like that of former days. The high windows, woodwork, vestibule and cloak rooms remain the same. The 18-foot ceiling has been lowered, a large platform which extended across the front of the room removed, a sub-basement was built and a furnace replaces the old oak stove. Single seats and desks are used instead of double ones and it no longer is necessary to keep a key to lock each desk. A recitation bench and a book case which still contains some very old books are the only pieces of furniture bought about 80 years ago that are now used. A filing cabinet, utility cabinet, radio, sink, reading tables and primary chairs have been added to the interior in the last three years.

The exterior of the building is the same as when built except for the loss of the belfry replaced by an electric bell. The shutters were removed from the windows a few years ago also.

The school year in early times consisted of two terms. The boys attended in the winter and the girls in the summer. The boys had their work on the farm which kept them from attending during the warm months. One year there were 18 boys which was a small enrollment compared to other rural schools. Most of the boys were very large and old for their grades sometimes 21 before leaving school. Later on the girls and boys attended school together.

Some of the teachers of former days have been traced back to 1865. These teachers taught in the frame school. Delia A. Benham, Mary Fitz Simmons, and Lucy Alchin taught summer terms and a Mr. McKee the winter term between 1865-1868 for $2.25 per week. In 1871 Lucy Brown, 1872 Etta Forshee and during the winter Arthur Stevens a Civil War veteran. He taught from 1873-1876. When the new building was built in 1880 Myrtle Chase was the first teacher starting to teach at 16 years old, much younger than some of her pupils. She was followed by Libbie Freeman, Sara Congden, Carrie Finton and Lillian Crippen up to the year 1890.

The early subjects taught were the three R's, reading, writing and arithmetic and spelling mostly by oral. Later a textbook for history and grammar was added. Each child had a slate and a home made quill pen. Reciting was done as the children stood before the teacher.

The principal school entertainments were box and neck-tie socials. One social was put on to buy a bookcase for books that had been bought with fair money. The children were entertained by playing games such as ant-e-ver, duck on the rock, dog and deer and prisoners goal which are handed down to us and still enjoyed.

Many interesting anecdotes have been told to us showing that "boys will be boys." One morning the teacher was greatly surprised to find that the room was full of smoke. To his amazement one large boy had crawled to the top of the building and put a board over the chimney. Not only the teacher but the pupils were smoked out that day so school was dismissed.

Nearly 100 years ago two cousins, Augustus and Chester Root came to this locality from New York state. A boat was taken by them from New York to Toledo. While at Toledo the boat left them and they had to walk to Detroit through the swamps and woods following at first the smoke of the boat. They went through many hardships sometimes without food, sleeping in the woods with the dangers of wild animals and Indians. It took them six weeks to make the trip to Detroit. Then they followed an Indian trail now Ann Arbor road and purchased land from the government in this locality. The government patent deeds received by them were signed by John Quincy Adams. Augustus Root was the grandfather of John H. and Charles Root Sr. who are now living on the farm handed down to them from that time.

Another old resident was George Walker, father of Ira Walker. Ira now lives on the same farm and went to school 70 years ago in the frame school. Other early settlers and residents were John and Whitney Voorheis, William Geer, T. V. Quackenbush, Marian and Ella Jackson, Albert Chase, Peter Van Voorheis, W. H. DePew, Clark Sly, L. Laraway, D. Freeman, Abraham Balk and Francis Blood.

The early roads were very bad. During the winter the snow was deep and in the spring so muddy that traveling was difficult. We are told of a country doctor who traveled many miles on horseback through the mud to aid the sick. The oxen drew the wheat and pork to Detroit over the plank road, now Plymouth road and on arriving at Starkweather avenue a toll was paid for using the road. The stage coach went from Chicago to Detroit carrying passengers and mail, stopping at the different taverns along the way. One of these taverns called "Burrows Dina" was in our district and now is the home of William Grammel.

The problem of getting mail seemed to be an important one in early times. A postoffice was located in Burrows Dina and as the stage stopped here it left the mail. Each farmer was responsible for getting his own mail. Later the stage discontinued and another way to get mail was taken up. Enough signed a petition to have a postoffice and mail carrier so one was located on the William Geer farm. A mail carrier went to Ann Arbor three times a week leaving the mail. The wages of the lowest bidder for a mail carrier was $125.00 per year. The first mail carrier was Robert Walker.

There were no churches in this district but most of the residents went to Free Church which was located two miles away on Gottfredson road between Ford and Cherry Hill roads. Free Church was torn down later and the material taken to Detroit to build another church. A Sunday school was held in the Kenyon school with Arthur Stevens, our school teacher, as superintendent. The church entertainments were Ladies' Aid on Thursdays and picnics in the woods in the summer.

The old fashioned husking bees were enjoyed by all during the fall months. There were contests to see who could husk the most corn and lucky for the man who found a red ear of corn as he had his choice to kiss any young lady. Cider and doughnuts was the chief refreshments. Old time square dances and swimming matches were common amusements for young and old.

Some interesting tales have been told about the Indians. Many times they were hungry and begged for food at the door and if no one was around they either went away or went in and took possession any way. One time the grandmother of Charles and John Root was rocking their father, the baby. Suddenly she heard Indians approaching. The baby was crying and she tried to comfort him so the Indians would not hear them and might go away. This was all in vain so she handed a loaf of bread out of the window and they went away satisfied.

Another story was told that bullet holes were found in the logs of a log barn when torn down a short time ago in this vicinity. The shots were fired about 100 years ago, and while digging in a yard some logs were found and when older residents were questioned found that they were the remains of a bridge showing that the Ann Arbor road had been moved quite a distance north of that location.

The Republicans and Democrats in early days were still in keen competition. A number of years ago each party held their campaigns on opposite corners at the same time across from the school, each trying to put on a better one than the other.

At this time there are 18 pupils enrolled in our school. Our teacher is Mrs. Gladys Stacey. We have a Parent-Teachers' association in which nearly every resident of the district takes an active part. The present board members are William Grammel, Frank Hesse and Gust Eschels.

Richard Erdelyi Submits Prize Essay on "My Duty to the Flag"

Richard Erdelyi, 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. William Erdelyi of 751 Forest avenue, and an eighth grade student in the Plymouth Junior high school, was announced the winner in an essay-writing contest sponsored by the Woman's Club of Plymouth this week. A member of the Young Writers' club of The Detroit News and of Troop P-2 of the Plymouth Boy Scouts, young Erdelyi submitted the prize-winning essay entitled, "My Duty to the Flag."

"My first duty to my flag is reverence. Reverence for the ideals for which it stands. The red denotes the sacrifice of lives that have perished to preserve it. The white signifies the purity of the souls who perished in their aims and purposes to maintain our freedom. The blue stands for the loyalty manifested by the willingness of forefathers to give all that we who follow might benefit in a land of freedom and democracy. The broad stripes of red and white will always bring to mind the gallant fight of the 13 states which constitutes the beginning of our independence. This gives us cause to honor their motives forever represented in my flag. The field of heavenly blue with each star in its own place represents our states that comprise these United States and yet still stands along on its own merits. From these we might repeat our motto together, 'United we stand, divided we fall.' Our symbols are clearly defined and therefore we can appreciate the beauty and warmth of the flag," the essayist wrote.

It is altogether fitting and proper, therefore, that I shall at all times honor and display my flag with these ideals in mind. I must never allow the flag to drag on the ground or trail in the water. I must learn thoroughly and fulfill to the best of my ability the rules governing the honor and display of my flag.

"To me my flag signifies the fact we are living in a country where freedom is cherished and, therefore, is an emblem of the rights and privileges of all its people.

"My responsibility then is very clear. I must cherish this freedom and protect my flag and country from anyone or anything which threatens to destroy it. Therefore, I shall always honor and respect the flag of the United States of America," he concluded.

Fair Weather Grooms Trackmen

Sunny, summery days accompanied Plymouth's track candidates for the entire first week of practice in their conditioning windings about the fifth-of-a-mile Plymouth track.

No threat of last year's bleary, wet and dreary cold that made necessary the postponement of four straight meets was apparent during the first five days of conditioning. Wet weather at the first of the week finds the tracksters with the school gymnasiums as escape centers.

When the first inter-school track meet of the year, a dual affair on the Plymouth track with Belleville April 22, falls due, Plymouth tracksters will have had nearly a month of outside work to attain necessary competitive conditioning.

Warm-up suits were issued on the first day of practice to the 42 candidates, mostly freshmen, who reported for the team. Other boys are expected to come out as the season progresses.

Lacking in several events are several starts on the track team as a result of graduation. Bob Marshall, star half miler; Doug Prough, winning pole vaulter; Jim Butler, only hurdler, all leave their events open.

Plymouth hasn't a single veteran hurdler, a quarter miler, a half miler, or a pole vaulter, or a tried relay team as it faces TVAA competition this year. Two other of last year's winners have left school.

In the sprints Bob Sessions and Paul Harsha are still available. Bob Kirkpatrick with cross-country experience is out for the mile and several other cross-country men are out for distance events.

May 2—Wayne, there.
May 9—Plymouth and Ecorse at Ypsilanti.
May 13—Dearborn, there.
May 17—Regional at Ypsilanti.
May 24—State at East Lansing.
May 29—T.V.A.A. at Ypsilanti.
League games (triangular).

Out of the ordinary this year is the Plymouth schedule. Most of the league meets have been scheduled triangular and none of them are at Plymouth. The three-way schedules reduce the chances for trackmen to win the necessary 10 points for a letter. Only eight meets have been scheduled to date.

April 22—Belleville, here.
May 2—Wayne, there.
May 9—Plymouth and Ecorse at Ypsilanti.
May 13—Dearborn, there.
May 17—Regional at Ypsilanti.
May 24—State at East Lansing.
May 29—T.V.A.A. at Ypsilanti.
League games (triangular).

Spelling Champion

"Acquaintance" was the word which made red-haired Franklin Maxey, eighth grader, the champion speller of the Plymouth seventh and eighth grades over Rosamund Busby, also an eighth grader.

Ten spellers from each grade participated in the bee which lasted about half an hour.

The word "accommodate" proved to be the downfall of the most numbers of young spellers when it proved too difficult for five students.

The time and place for the district bee has not been announced as yet, but the representatives of the Starkweather, Central grade, and seventh and eighth grades of the high school will participate when it does occur.

Here 'n There

A number of activities are being planned for the week following Easter vacation. For instance, the Tuesday after vacation finds the spring sports in full force. The golf team has a match with Ann Arbor high, and University high at the Huron Hills course. The track team will have its only home meet with Belleville on the same day. The tennis team also has its first match of the year, meeting Ferndale on the home courts.

The following Thursday, April 24, is the T.V.A.A. musicale at Pease auditorium in Ypsilanti at 7:30 p.m. The same afternoon is a golf match with Howell on the home course at the Plymouth Country Club.

The next day, Friday, is a schoolmasters' conference at Ann Arbor. Consequently there will be no school. But there will be a tennis match at Rochester and a track meet at Birmingham, which should be a good one.

The following week shows a tennis match with Roosevelt high at Ypsilanti on the 22, a baseball game at Ypsilanti and another golf match with Howell, there, on May 1.

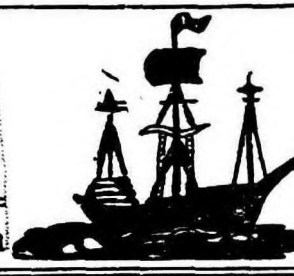

Increasing the production of useful goods gives the widest distribution to new wealth.

Tenth Grade Wins Play Contest

An audience of more than 500 persons enjoyed the one-act play offerings presented by each of the classes of Plymouth high school last Friday evening in a contest sponsored by the student council of the school.

The tenth grade captured first place honors with its play, "Patsy's Papa Protests," directed by Sally Haas. The sophomore play cast included Jo Ann Gorton, Janice Downing, Pat Hudson, Josephine Armbruster, Calvin Furlong, Jack Kenyon and Milton Humphries.

The seniors were awarded second place with a play entitled, "The Bride Wore Red Pyjamas," which was directed by Bob Daniel. Gloria Jones, Bill McAninch, Evelyn Bohl, Bob Daniel, and Archie King were the players.

"The Bandit From Brooklyn" was presented by the junior class and "Boy Gets Girl" was the title of the freshman class play. The ninth graders were awarded a special prize for selling the most tickets for the contest program. Miss Ruth Eriksson served as judge.

Special intermission numbers were presented by Kenneth Hannah who gave an accordion solo; Lois Ridley, vocal solo; Calvin Furlong, humorous reading; and Donald Vanderveen and Bill Upton, trumpet duet.

Banquet

Forty students and three teachers, Mr. Jensen, Mr. Fountain, and Mr. Dykhouse, attended the banquet and theatre party given at the Mayflower hotel Wednesday evening, April 2, for the winners in the magazine-selling contest sponsored by the Crowell Publishing company. The contest was won by Mr. Jensen's home room. Twenty members of Mr. Fountain's home room, the runner-up in the class race, also attended. All the students greatly enjoyed the dinner, which began with Swiss steak, and ended with ice cream and strawberries. Several boys led cheers for Mr. Shields and the teachers. Mr. Shields then gave a short speech in which he thanked the students for their cooperation, and hoped that next year's sale will be better. Last year Mr. Fountain's home room defeated Mr. Jensen's by only a few points; this year the two rooms reversed their positions. After the banquet the group saw the picture, "Life with Henry."

TO YOUNG AMERICA

America means freedom. Of worship, speech, and press. For you, for me, for everyone. In spite of creed or dress. Who lives in this great "free-land" Where men are all born free And will fight when they are needed To retain their liberty.

America: I love her! What does she mean to you? Is she first in all your thoughts. Or do you shrink from being true? Are you proud to hold her colors Up to those who dare defy The glorious red, the white and blue That will ever heavenward fly?

Don't be ashamed of your country! She's not ashamed of you. But be proud, and always glory In the red, the white and blue. For they mean that we have freedom That no one can take away. So be glad, and thank the Father. For the peace we share today.

—Norma Jean Strautz, Class of 1943.
Written because of the need for patriotism and unity.

Inspirations

(By A. Hope)

In the spring come bluebirds, butterflies, amorists and athletics. Also, as sort of caboose on this four-car train, come chlorophyll, cocoons, couples, and "cuts." Easily the most pathetic, out of place, ill-timed is "cuts." We speak of athletic cuts—those physical unfortunates who apply themselves with vest and vigor to a spring sport only to discover on a dismal, sunny, spring day their name is no longer on the list of baseball candidates, or track eligibles, or tennis wasters, or golf rounders. How cruel high school justice must seem to them. How cruel general existence must appear. But it's only for a period of days; chlorophyll and cocoons and couples are still within range, and stuff like good backs, and enthusiastic teachers and commendable precepts is still within easy access.

Still in spring a body has a desire to follow the crowd, to join in the general fun. It's indeed an acid pill that must be swallowed when one's best friends remain on a team or when one's best girl cheers on athletes on a team he couldn't make.

Time passes like lightning in high school days and such wounds, however, penetrating they may appear, are soon forgotten. Carl Sandburg probably wasn't thinking anywhere near this subject in his poem "Grass," but he carries the point: Pile the bodies high at Austerlitz and Waterloo. Shovel them under and let me work—I am the grass. I cover all... Two years, ten years, and passengers ask the conductor: What place is this? Where are we now? I am the grass. Let me work.

EASTER (Contributed)

I am Easter.
I am the anniversary of the resurrection of Jesus Christ.
I am celebrated on the first Sunday after the full moon that occurs on the vernal Equinox (March 21) or any of the 28 days thereafter.
I am a joyous festival of wonder, confidence and hope.
I gave to early Christianity its irresistible power of expansion.
I am appropriately celebrated in the morning, with spring flowers, brilliant music and an exhilarating challenge to faith.
I have held the world in astonishment for nineteen hundred years.
I do not appeal to credulity and superstition, but to open mindedness in the presence of historic facts.
I generate an exultant spirit of hope which, more than argumentation, predisposes people to believe in immortality.
I stimulate the "conviction that death cannot separate the Christian from Christ, or from God."
I am the source of dependable knowledge and confident assurance concerning eternal life.
I am concrete evidence of the inability of death and sin to thwart life and its highest aspirations.
I am the divine attestation of the victorious fulfillment and completion of Christ's ministry.
I take away the fear of the grave.
I assuage the anguish and bereavement of those who part with loved ones.
I challenge all Christian people so to understand the quality of their faith and its present significance, that its duration and location become matters of relatively minor concern.
I am an appropriate occasion for considering the immortality of the church and the reality of the church invisible.
I am an integral and necessary part of the gospel of salvation by faith in Jesus Christ.
I am the source of assurance that there is no end to the life that is identified with the living Christ.
I challenge the world to know Jesus and the power of His resurrection.

PLEASE TELL.

Washington New Dealers have been quick to prosecute foreigners alleged to have sabotaged ships that do not belong to Americans. Does it not seem strange to think that machinery belonging to Americans used in the production of arms and supplies for national defense can be sabotaged and completely destroyed, and high state and federal administrative officials will do nothing about it?

UNCOVERING A CESSPOOL.

It appears that it did not take former Governor Alex Groesbeck, a member of Michigan's civil service commission, very long to uncover one of the state's biggest political cesspools. Lansing newspaper dispatches a while ago indicated that the former Republican Governor is making some inquiry into the secretary of state's set-up in connection with the collection of the automobile weight tax through the sale of license plates.

If the former Governor finds that he has the authority and if the civil service law is sufficiently broad enough to permit him to get at the bottom of things, he will discover something in state government that back in his day if such a thing had existed, he would have kicked the responsible officials down the back alley so far that they would never have been able to find their way back.

The management of this one department of the state's business during recent years under both Democratic and Republican administrations has been nothing less than shameful.

It is within this department where the "shake-down" of state workers has flourished like rag-weeds during recent years. How many hundreds of thousands of dollars have been taken from the pockets of state employees by the present and former secretaries of state for their political jack-pots no one will ever know, but the amount has been exceedingly large, there is no question about that. It appears that it does not take the former Governor long to find out where the putrid spots are within the state government.

PATIENCE WITH LABOR.

Probably there is no one in Washington who has a clearer picture of the problems of our nation than David Lawrence, editor of The United States News. He knows what he is talking about, and he knows, too, how to express his ideas. A recent article by Mr. Lawrence in his publication about America's labor program is, therefore, of more than ordinary interest. It follows in full:

If ever there was a time for patience in handling the labor problems of America it is today.

For the American people are growing impatient over the large number of disputes that are delaying vital work on defense contracts.

And when impatience finds its outlet in widespread demands on the part of the press and the public generally for a change in trade union tactics, there is no telling to what extremes the pendulum may swing in wiping out legitimate rights and privileges.

The question may appear one-sided but it is not. The frailties of human nature are confined neither to employers nor employees. The battle for economic power has been going on between workers and employers for many decades. Intermittently there have been excesses which have caused a revulsion of public opinion. Labor leaders have sometimes overplayed their hand and lost more in a few weeks than they had gained in years.

The nation is in no mood for obstruction. It wants production on defense work to go on uninterrupted. It is asking employers to make sacrifices. It is asking labor unions to make sacrifices. It is asking the youth of the land in army camps to make sacrifices. This is no time for business as usual or trade unionism as usual or picketing as usual or strikes as usual. It is a time for the subordination of every interest to the public interest.

How then shall the public interest be ascertained? Who will decide for the duty of government in the labor disputes that have arisen? President Roosevelt has taken the necessary first step. He has created a national mediation board.

It has been argued that the new mediation board cannot act till the Secretary of Labor certifies the cases. Recently some criticisms have appeared expressing impatience with the Secretary on this point. The adverse comment is based on an unfamiliarity with the procedure. The U. S. Conciliation Service is a part of the Department of Labor. At its head is the most experienced mediator in America—Dr. John R. Steelman. It is proper and desirable that his excellent staff be given an opportunity to mediate before a dispute is certified. This will not mean long delay but useful groundwork for the national mediation board in the event that Dr. Steelman's experts fail. We are not asking that the disputes be automatically certified by Dr. Steelman through the office of his superior, the Secretary of Labor.

The American people are naturally anxious that no time be lost in settling strikes. But there are grievances which must be tackled and there must be some way to meet them. It is the failure of Government to provide an effective means of settling these grievances, especially as they relate to collective bargaining, which has brought on some of the larger strikes.

For Government now to say that men must return to their jobs and allow negotiations to proceed while they continue work is logical. But it is not enough. There must be an assurance that these questions will not be allowed to drag on without settlement. For after all, the main leverage which the workers have is the right to strike. If they yield it, as has been done in Britain, Government must bring into the situation pledges of settlement that amount almost to a guarantee that decisions will be made promptly.

Unfortunately the machinery of Government in handling labor disputes is defective. Again the human equation enters into the picture. The National Labor Relations Board should have been able by judicious policy and action to prevent many of the present strikes that are delaying defense work. The Board has been too zealous on one side of the fence. It has not represented the public interest but has considered itself an instrument of labor unions and too often the spokesman of one set, namely the industry type rather than craft unions.

President Roosevelt has temporized with the situation and so has Congress. The Board's fundamental conception of its duty is wrong. If the language of the Wagner Law permits a discretionary interpretation of the statute, this is no reason for sensible-minded Board members to adopt a narrow construction when the public interest demands an objective attitude.

If the personnel of the Board is so biased that it cannot function in the public interest, it should be changed at once. The defects in Labor Board procedure are numerous but among them are the following:

1. A refusal to order of its own initiative immediate elections for collective bargaining agents and to safeguard the interests of all workers in such elections.
2. A discrimination in favor of national unions as contrasted with independent employe organizations. This is an abuse of the law's powers and one of the roots of America's present day disturbances.
3. Collusion between labor unions and Board officials in framing complaints and timing of the announcement of decisions to coincide with organization campaigns by union organizers.
4. Wholly unlawful interpretation of the powers of the Board as permitting mandatory orders to be issued in the name of the Government whereby strikers must be reinstated even if they commit unlawful acts. The Board has encouraged strikes and violence by its misguided policies. Not only was the "sit-down" strike and seizure of property considered by the Board not to be a deterrent in its orders to reinstate strikers, but the Board today actually condones the "slow-down."

The Labor Board could be a constructive force in handling labor disputes and assuring collective bargaining but it has a warped judgment as to its relation to the public interest. The present Board of three has two members who have seen some light and are trying to weed out malfeasance in personnel and staff, but the majority is in a constant conflict with the minority member. The best thing Congress could do would be to create a new board of five at once, thus allowing President Roosevelt to reappoint whomever he pleased and to add new members.

The Labor Board, however, is not the only offender. The Supreme Court of the United States by some of its decisions has also encouraged labor strife. When the Court narrowly construes the statute so as to blind itself to common sense, then there is something plainly wrong with the legalistic approach. The Court has actually allowed in some cases satisfactory relations between employer and employee to be upset because of technicalities raised by the Labor Board.

Likewise, Justices Douglas, Reed and Black have in a recent case indicated that violence on the picket line is of less concern to them than the abstract rights of labor. Fortunately, Justices Frankfurter, Murphy, Stone, Roberts and Chief Justice Hughes took the opposite view.

Not only has the Norris-La Guardia Act been shortsightedly construed by the Supreme Court to prevent the application of the Sherman Antitrust Law relating to restraints of commerce by unions, but now labor strife, confident of friendly intervention by radical-minded judges, is pushing the State legislatures to pass similar laws which will virtually prevent the injunction process from being used in attempts to preserve order.

When labor unions become active in politics and control the sheriff's office and the governor's chair so that troops and police are withheld from strike areas as labor unions hire outside strong men to intimidate and coerce and even attack workers, there must be a change. The American people will not be patient much longer while they wait for such a change.

Last week at Bethlehem, Pa., the CIO leaders of the strike openly boasted of the violence committed against the police. This is the kind of thing which makes for vigilantes and lynching rule. It is also the kind of thing that converts millions of people into silent fascists ready to approve of a dictatorship some day which will deal with unions as they have been dealt with in Europe.

It is to the interest of labor leaders to act as statesmen, repudiating violence and rowdism wherever it rears its ugly head. It is to the interest of employers to avoid giving provocation by endeavoring to use the defense contract as a cloak for injury to the cause of trade unionism. It is to the interest of Government to get the facts and make them public at once. Publicity is a more effective weapon than any fiat of Government forbidding strikes or lockouts.

There is one danger, however. It is that malcontents will abuse the patience of Government and the honest labor leaders by provoking a series of strikes, no one of which in itself will delay production very long but which in the aggregate constitutes a huge system of sabotage against our whole defense program.

Let us, however, first learn the exact truth about these controversies. Congress and the press and the Government departments can throw the searchlight of scrutiny on what is happening so that responsibility for delaying the defense program can be quickly ascertained. And once ascertained, the American people will lose no time in applying the right remedy.

OUR COMPLIMENTS.

There has been considerable discussion in state newspapers about the activities of highway department employees in the political campaign that just came to a close. What other employees might have done throughout the state we haven't the slightest knowledge, but we do know that as far as the employees of the Plymouth office of the department are concerned, one would never know that there was a political campaign taking place. The Plymouth employees obeyed the intent and spirit of the new civil service act to the letter, and for that we pay them our respects. We know, too, that other citizens of Plymouth have the same kindly sentiment towards the local highway employees because of their strict observance of civil service regulations.

A GOOD IDEA

Wouldn't it be a swell thing to bring together all of the newcomers, those who have moved into our areas in the past year or two, and provide a big public reception for them? So many, oh, too many, have taken no interest in the community in which they reside. Hundreds of them have never become acquainted with the local butcher, the baker and the professional man who depend on acquaintanceship for the success of their business. Many of the newcomers fail to become acquainted with their neighborhood because no one seems to take a personal interest in them. They do not attend the churches because they feel that they are unwanted strangers. No one seems to extend their hand in fellowship. The business and professional men are lamentably distant to strangers. What every community needs is a rekindling of the warm-hearted friendship for the newcomer, which was so evident in the nineties.—J. John Pope in The Grandville Star.

NOW AMERICAN INDUSTRIES

Labor racketeers and gangsters (and they now occupy key posts in the CIO), who were trained in Communist schools in Russia and Germany, now teach sabotage to American workmen.—Milton Carmichael in The Detroit Courier.

THE GREATEST LOSS

Money is the weapon the United States already is using to influence the course of armed conflict in Europe and Asia and trade war elsewhere. In using money as its weapon, the United States probably stands to lose dollars. This loss in dollars may be large. The theory is that, even if large, it represents the alternative to a loss of many lives.

The federal government has mapped means by which United States money will help Britain win the war. Loans to China, Finland, and China again with the lid off so China can now buy guns and airplanes and ammunition and other American products useful in winning the war is one phase. The creation of an American corporation in which the British government would place British-owned investments within the hemisphere with these bonds serving as assets against which the bonds of the American corporation would be issued is another means. Then there is the agreement of the RFC to guarantee payment of any bills for products bought in the United States if the British are unable to pay, as they say they are, and the President's barter system newly announced.

The financial legation is for the one purpose of keeping the Axis opponents supplied with materials of war and food supplies while the Axis powers are wearing down their resources of all kinds. The importance of this in a prolonged war is likely to be the difference between victory and defeat.

America's losses in money, to be placed upon the people in taxes, will be heavy, but they will not equal the losses of life and the possibility of living in an economic and political world dominated by Hitler and his philosophy.—Eugene Moore in The Iron River Reporter.

A complete re-organization of the school has been necessary after the great disaster of last week. School begins Monday, April 10. There will, of course, be no bells, and pupils are requested to guard against tardiness on that account. The general office will be in the Reading Rooms of the Christian Science church; the first grade will meet in the basement of the Baptist church; second and third grade, Christian Science church; fourth and fifth grade, Universalist church; sixth grade, Mrs. Allen's work shop; seventh grade, town hall, and eighth grade, Masonic dining room. The high school will use the Grange hall.

Mrs. Kate Allen very pleasantly entertained about sixty friends at a dancing party in Penniman hall last Friday evening. Many of the guests came in costume which caused much merriment. Dancing continued until a late hour and all present declared Mrs. Allen a delightful entertainer.

There seems to be considerable enthusiasm manifested in favor of organizing an association to hold a poultry and pet stock show here some time next winter. Rev. A. L. Bell presented the matter at the Grange meeting last week Thursday and it met with the heavy endorsement of that society and it was voted to appoint a committee of five to assist the project along. It has been decided to call a meeting of everyone in Plymouth and vicinity who is interested in the project.

William Tillotson has commenced excavating for a new house on Harvey street. Bert Crumbe has the contract.

William Rice has purchased a lot of William Blunk at the corner of Williams and Ann streets and will erect a new house thereon.

Mr. and Mrs. William Kaiser who moved to Ypsilanti several months ago, have returned to Plymouth, and Mr. Kaiser has taken his old position in the Central Market. They will move their household goods as soon as the roads will permit.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Oldenburg entertained the buffers at the Markham factory and their wives and the members of the Young People's society of the Lutheran church at an oyster supper at their home on Blunk avenue. The evening was pleasantly passed with music and cards.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Todd have moved into the house on Starkweather avenue recently vacated by Mr. and Mrs. Saterlee.

The Plymouth telephone girls will give a dance at Penniman hall, for the benefit of the Plymouth high school. Music by VanDuCar's six-piece orchestra.

A very pretty home wedding took place at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Chambers, South Main street, when their daughter, Myrtle K. was united in marriage to Emory D. Holmes of Perrinville, by Rev. Exelby of Wayne. The Chambers' home was very attractively decorated in green and white for the wedding. The bride was becomingly dressed in white embroidered net and she carried a bouquet of bridal roses and fern tied with a large bow of pink tulle. She was attended by her sister, Mayme, who wore a dress of maize colored silk over white net and carried a bouquet of pink carnations and fern. The bridegroom was attended by his brother, Edward. The bride is one of Plymouth's most popular young ladies, while the bridegroom is well and favorably known at Perrinville. The young couple has the congratulations of their many friends.

Former owners of low-priced cars are making this Pontiac's greatest year!

A PENCIL AND PAPER are all that you need to figure why more Pontiac "Torpedoes" are being bought by former all-three owners than ever before.

Simply mark down the delivered price of the Pontiac De Luxe "Torpedo" and subtract from it the delivered price of the de luxe model of any of the lowest-priced three. The difference is so slight that owners say you hardly notice it when spread over easy monthly terms.

Then add your estimation of the value of all the extra features Pontiac gives you—its greater size, its ultra-smart Body by Fisher, its Triple-Cushioned Ride, True-Arc Steering, Lifetime Oil Cleaner and scores more—and there's your answer to Pontiac's record success. But why figure this out for yourself—let your nearest Pontiac dealer do it for you today!
