

Council Appoints L. E. Wilson for One-Year Term

Appointed to Fill Vacancy Created by Davis' Disqualification

L. E. Wilson, who has served two previous terms as city commissioner, was appointed for a one-year term Monday night at a special meeting of the city commission to fill the vacancy created by the disqualification of Dunbar Davis. The appointment of a fifth city commissioner was made at a second meeting of the commission at 10:30 Monday night, following an executive session to select an appointee.

The following resolution was offered by Commissioner Henry Honnord and supported by Commissioner George Robinson:

"Resolved, That L. E. Wilson be appointed for a term of one year which shall expire the third Monday of April, 1942, to the city commission to fill the vacancy created on the commission by the disqualification of Dunbar Davis."

Commissioner Robert Joliffe, who cast the only dissenting vote, explained that the voters of the city of Plymouth at the April election indicated a desire for a change by electing two new members to the city commission, and therefore he believed it would be ignoring the public's wishes to return an incumbent to office.

After considerable discussion of the intent of the city charter, a resolution was passed at the commission's first meeting Monday night declaring a vacancy to exist. The resolution is as follows:

"Resolved, That this commission having heretofore refused to seat one Dunbar Davis upon the ground that he was not qualified to hold the office of city commissioner; therefore, under the terms of the charter this commission declares that a vacancy exists in the office of the city commissioner."

The action drew to a close the controversy over the contested place of Dunbar Davis upon the city commission. The commission ruled that Mr. Davis was not a qualified property owner and therefore ineligible to place upon the city governing body. Commissioner Wilson was frequently mentioned as successor to Davis' unoccupied seat since he received only six votes less than Davis in the April city election.

Committee Plans Sunrise Service

The Plymouth Civic Committee has appointed Evered Joliffe as general chairman of the fourth annual community Sunrise Service to be held in Riverside park in June. The other committee members include Warren Worth, chairman of arrangement; Mrs. Maxwell Moon, chairman of the musical program; Robert Joliffe, publicity chairman; the Rev. S. S. Closson and Evered Joliffe, co-chairmen in charge of obtaining a speaker; with Mrs. Howard Bowden and Mrs. C. G. Parmelee as other members of the committee.

Everyone in the community, regardless of faith, is invited to attend the Sunrise Service. Pastors from churches of all denominations participate in the service and the various church choirs cooperate in the musical program.

The first Sunrise Service was held in 1938 and Dr. Merton S. Rice, pastor of the Metropolitan Methodist church of Detroit was guest speaker. Dr. Clarence Hill Frank, secretary of the Detroit Council of Churches, addressed the Sunrise worshippers in 1939. A vesper service on Sunday evening replaced the Sunrise service last year when Dr. H. H. Straton of the First Baptist church of Detroit appeared as guest speaker.

The speaker and the date for this year's Sunrise Service will be announced by the committee later.

Stewart Dodge Finds Himself to Be Old Timer in Pioneer Drug Club

When several hundred druggists of Michigan met in Detroit last week Thursday night to attend the annual banquet of the Pioneer Drug Club of Michigan, Stewart Dodge of Plymouth discovered that he is really one of the old timers in the drug business in Michigan.

There was just a handful present who were in the "first class"—that is, druggists who have been in business more than 40 years. In the "second class," consisting of those who entered the drug business between 1900 and 1910, there were just a few more—and it is in this class that Mr. Dodge belongs. During all of these years, he has confined himself strictly to the operation of drug stores.

Proof of the fact that it pays to stick to one line of business is found in the success of Mr. Dodge, who operates one of Plymouth's progressive drug stores. In addition to conducting his retail business in this city, he has been honored by his associates throughout the state by being elected chairman of the State Board of Pharmacy. He was appointed to this board three years ago and upon entering his third year of services on the board, his associates elected him their chairman.

"There were many druggists present at the meeting I have not seen in over 20 years," declared Mr. Dodge. "It was a real pleasure to attend an affair of this kind and meet so many friends of the long ago. This year's banquet is one that I will not soon forget."

Outstanding students in the fields of dramatics, music, school paper, forensic activities, student government, and athletic activities as well as those excelling in scholarship will be honored at the banquet. The banquet will be served by the ladies of the First Baptist church.

A native of Saginaw, the ex-governor received his L.L.B. degree from the law department of the University of Michigan in 1916. He is a member of the Detroit Bar association, Michigan state bar, and the American Bar association.

After serving with the National Guard at the Mexican border in 1916, he went overseas at the start of the World War with the 166th infantry of the 42nd (Rainbow) division. He was promoted to first lieutenant and received the Regimental and Silver Star awards and was cited by General Pershing for gallantry in action. He is an active member of the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Mr. Brucker served as prosecuting attorney of Saginaw county and attorney general of Michigan after which he became governor of the state from 1930-32. At present, he is practicing law in Detroit. ## Annual Poppy Day Sale May 24

An appeal to all patriotic citizens to buy a Poppy on Saturday, May 24, date of the annual Legion Poppy sale, was issued this week by the Myron H. Beals post of the American Legion and Ex-Service Men's club and their auxiliaries.

Don Ryder is chairman of the Poppy Day sales for the American Legion, Mrs. Harry Terry will direct the Legion auxiliary and Melvin Alguire is chairman of the Ex-Service Men's group.

"Symbolic of life sacrifice for America and made by men who have sacrificed health and strength for their country, the Poppy is a true badge of patriotism. With our country again facing grave dangers, we need to wear it with sincere devotion to these things for which it stands," declared Mrs. Terry.

The Poppy is the memorial flower of those comrades who fell in France. To wear it is to honor their memory and aid those who were disabled, as well as their families and the families of the dead. Many hundreds of veterans, unable to do other work, are given employment during the winter and spring months making Poppies for the Legion's annual sale. This year, Poppies were made in 81 hospitals and 41 work rooms with a total output of approximately 12,000,000 flowers.

Buy a poppy next Saturday, May 24, to show your patriotism and help some disabled war veteran.

Fred A. Reiman Dies as Result of Stroke Saturday

Pioneer Served as Law Enforcing Officer for Over 40 Years

Fred A. Reiman, 76-year-old pioneer of Plymouth, who spent more than 40 years as a law enforcement officer in Plymouth and Wayne county, suffered a fatal stroke at his home at 160 East Ann Arbor street Saturday evening. Mr. Reiman had been in poor health for some time.

Born on December 24, 1864, on a 20-acre farm located at the corner of St. Antoine and East Grand boulevard in old Detroit, he moved with his parents to Nankin township when a small boy. He attended the rural schools in Nankin township.

Mr. Reiman married Emma Hicks of Nankin on January 15, 1891. The couple celebrated their golden wedding anniversary last January. Mr. Reiman and his bride moved to Plymouth shortly after their marriage and purchased the land on East Ann Arbor street from George A. Starkweather. On this site, he built his present home.

In the days before specialization, Mr. Reiman served as street, drain and water commissioner in the village and chief of the volunteer fire department. His 40 years as a law-enforcing officer included many terms as township constable, deputy sheriff and sheriff of Wayne county. He served for many years as a local police officer when the late George Springer was chief of police. At that time, the police station and village jail was located near the present site of the Daisy Manufacturing company.

While employed as an engineer at the old DUR interurban power house, located on Ann Arbor street at the Pere Marquette railroad crossing, Mr. Reiman helped build the first street car for the old interurban line.

He was an enthusiastic hunter, never missing a deer hunting trip in 33 years. He was a charter member and past Grand Commander of Plymouth lodge, I.O.O.F., receiving a 40-year jewel about 12 years ago.

He is survived by his widow, Emma; three sons, LeeRoy, Russell and Frederick; three daughters, Clara, Rachel and Mildred; seven grandchildren and one great grandchild.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon from the Fred Schrader Funeral home, under the supervision of the I.O.O.F. lodge. The Rev. S. S. Closson officiated and burial was in Riverside mausoleum.

The active pallbearers were Messrs. Fred Cline, F. S. Wilson, Fred Wagonschutz, Robert Todd, William Loomis and Oscar Mattis.

To Be Honored at Banquet, Oldest Mother Absent Because of Accident

Mrs. William J. Smith, aged 80 years, pioneer resident of this locality, is in Wayne hospital suffering from a fractured hip bone. The injury resulted from a fall on the porch of the Smith home on Newburg road Monday afternoon.

The unfortunate accident prevented the fulfillment of a program arranged for the mother and daughter banquet of the Newburg Methodist church Monday evening at which Mrs. Smith was to be especially honored.

Because of the fact that she was to have been the oldest mother present, the banquet committee had planned to have Mrs. Smith deliver the opening prayer and to make a brief talk to the banquet guests as well. She had anticipated greatly upon attending the event and as she was being taken to the hospital, she expressed keen regret that the accident would prevent her from attending. She had been a regular attendant at the banquets from the time they were first started.

Mr. Smith, who is 82 years old, is not in the best of health and is confined to his home most of the time. The Smith family has lived on the Newburg road for much more than half a century.

City's Assessed Valuation Set at $5,600,000

Board of Review Submits Findings to Commission Monday

The assessed valuation of the City of Plymouth for the fiscal year is $5,673,615, according to a report from the city assessor, Arno B. Thompson, and the board of review which held public sessions on the 1941 general assessment roll last Thursday and Friday. The board completed field examinations of certain properties on which requests were made for adjustments last Saturday. This year's assessment roll will be submitted to the city commission for confirmation next Monday evening, at which time the city budget will be given a final review and the city tax rate fixed.

The board reviewed a few minor adjustments which were allowed. Very few adjustments were requested, with only ten citizens appearing before the board of review session," declared Chairman Thompson.

The final figures released by the board for the 1941-42 fiscal year reveal real property valuations of $4,729,930 and personal property valuations of $959,485, totaling $5,689,415. From this total, there was exempted by reason of Civil War widows, Spanish American war veterans and disabled World War veterans $15,800, leaving a net total of $5,673,615 on the general assessment roll. Of the real property valuations, $1,546,930 was in land assessments and $3,167,200 in building assessments. This year's roll shows a net increase of $264,535 over the assessment for last year. The real property values for 1940 were $4,556,150 and the personal property values, $852,930, making an total of $5,409,080 for last year.

The factors accounting for this year's net increase are increased commercial and home building, a slight increase in factory and store inventories and the placing back on the assessment rolls of $81,470 from the scavenger land sale.

Members of the board of review are Arno Thompson, chairman; Mrs. Maud Bennett and Walter J. Smith.

Style Show Proves Success

The auditorium stage was lighted with 60 footlights and colored spotlights overhead and flanked with ferns, palms and pink and white hydrangeas. The 45-foot runway was also illuminated with footlights.

Miss Mary Holdsworth acted as commentator, introducing each presentation. Calvin Furlong presented a dramatic reading and Lois Ridley sang a solo during the intermission. Jean Lehman, June Van Meter and Ruth Drews were accompanists at the piano. Anyone having discarded clothing, quilts or bedding to contribute is asked to bring them to the store this week.

Student Wins Speech Honors

Calvin Furlong, sophomore student at Plymouth high school, again brought honors to Plymouth when he captured first place in oratorical declamation at the district contest held at Howell last Monday afternoon. Well-known for his dramatic readings, young Furlong was awarded first place for his declamation, entitled, "Ropes." The declaimer previously defeated five other contestants in the TVAA league before winning top honors in the district contest in which 25 schools were represented. Second place went to the five contestants in declamation was David Hoeltzel of Marshall. Judges of the contest were Glen Mills and Dr. Kenneth G. Hance of the speech department of the University of Michigan and Ray Hamilton, superintendent and speech instructor of Swartz Creek.

In recognition of his success, young Furlong received a beautiful yellow and blue sash banner, presented by the Michigan High School Forensic association which sponsors these annual speech contests. He also received a Webster Collegiate dictionary with his name engraved in gold from The Detroit News.

Furlong's win marked the second time in the history of the high school that Plymouth has captured top honors in declamation. Two years ago, James Zuckerman, now a senior student, won a unanimous first place at the Melvindale district contest.

Other contests, held in the afternoon and evening, included extemporaneous speaking, oratory, and dramatic declamation. Schools represented in the contests were Adrian, Albion, Belleville, Blissfield, Coldwater, Farmington, Howland, Silesburg, Melvindale, Plymouth, River Rouge, Rochester, Van Dyke, Walked Lake and Wayne. Miss Irene Walldorf, English and speech instructor at Plymouth high school, coached Plymouth's winning declaimer.

Board Approves Recreation Plans

The recreation committee of the city, consisting of Henry Honnord and Robert Joliffe from the city commission, Claude Buzzard and Sidney Seig from the board of education, City Manager C. H. Elliott, Superintendent George A. Smith and representatives of several clubs, met last week and made plans to continue the summer recreation program in Plymouth this year. The committee's request was approved by the board of education at its meeting Monday evening.

The committee finds itself handicapped materially this year because the federal government's service of furnishing recreation leaders has been curtailed leaving only one worker here. It is expected, however, before the start of the program, that additional workers will be supplied by the government. In order to carry on this comprehensive program, it will be necessary along with increased appropriations from the city and school district to devise ways of raising additional money.

The program will include handicraft and two adult softball leagues at both the Central and Starkweather grade schools, neighborhood playgrounds, band concerts, swimming, tennis, shuffleboard and horseshoe and jacks tournaments for children.

School Board Offers Election Proposals

Contracts Let for New Projects at Kelsey-Hayes

Construction of Roads and Testing Range Delayed by Strikes

Contracts have been let to the W. E. Wood Construction company of Detroit, general contractors of the recently completed Kelsey-Hayes munitions factory on Eckles road near Plymouth, for three additional projects in connection with the factory.

An industrial relations building, which will include an employment office, identification bureau, examination rooms and general offices for the plant police, has been completed and will be ready for occupancy very soon. The 30x61-foot brick construction with steel sash windows, estimated at a cost of $16,000, is located at the main gate entrance on Eckles road.

Construction has been started on the other two projects, but work is delayed because of the lumber trucking and concrete strikes. A testing range, 44x178 feet, for the firing of guns to be manufactured at the new plant, is being built to the west of the factory. Estimated at a cost of $20,000, the range is to include an enclosed brick building, 44x58 feet, with reinforced concrete roof, for firing, ammunition and proof-firing at close range. At the far end of this range there will be a 12-foot concrete wall for a backstop, outfitted with a compartment, 12x49, filled with timber cribbing and sand. Between the enclosed building and the wall will be a 400-foot open firing range enclosed only by a fence.

The third project costing $22,000 is a parking lot, concrete roads and sidewalks and grading around the buildings. The forms have been set in place for roads 24 feet in width from the main gate entrance on Eckles road to the boiler room and another north to the first aid station at the rear of the factory.

Machinery is being delivered and installed daily at the factory and an announcement of the start of production will be announced later.

Rambo Heads Membership Drive

Frank Rambo was appointed chairman of the membership committee of the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce at a special meeting of the board of directors Monday night. Plans were made for a membership drive to contact all business men and seek their cooperation in chamber of commerce activities. Jack Taylor was appointed chairman of publicity for the next year.

President Earl Russell expressed gratification with the number of new memberships already received since the organization's annual meeting last week, indicating support for the drive for renewed activities. A special committee was appointed to meet with the city commission next Monday evening to discuss Chamber of Commerce membership plans. Another special meeting of the board will be held during the last week of May before the next regular meeting on June.

Former Manager of Gas Company Falls Dead on Street in Saginaw

Plymouth friends of Lew L. Price, former manager of the Consumers Power company properties in this district, were surprised Tuesday when they were advised that he had fallen dead the previous day while on his way to the office of the company in Saginaw where he has been employed during the last two years.

He had been in good health and recently while visiting with Plymouth friends, he said he felt better than he had in many years. Mr. Price came to Plymouth from Grand Rapids where he had been associated with a public utility in that city for a number of years. Previously he had been employed by the Winnipeg Power company in Canada. Mr. Price was one of the best known utility men in the state.

During the time the Prices lived in Plymouth, he constructed a home on Sheridan road, which is still owned by the family. Mrs. Price and young son, Douglas, survive.

He was born in Kokomo, Indiana, March 21, 1886 and in 1916 he married Miss Elva Foglesong of Freepoint, Michigan. The funeral was held Thursday, burial taking place in Saginaw.

SERVICE... New Records Galore Being Made at Triangle Gliderport

One Glider Goes up Nearly Mile and Half High

(By Skysailor)

On Sunday, May 11, Lyle Maxey flew the XYZ Midwest 100 miles from Triangle Gliderport and landed at Timochtee, Ohio. This is a new distance record for Michigan. The previous record was held by Ted Bellak who flew 75 miles to Saginaw last summer. On the way Maxey reached 8,700 feet as read on his altimeter. At the same time John Nowak in the Polish sailplane Orlik reached 8,700 feet as read also on the ship altimeter. Actually Nowak read his altitude in Polish units, the figure being 240 Wyzsockes. After landing he computed the result in feet. Maxey had a barograph and his altitude can be determined accurately independent of his altimeter reading. Another check on the relative altitude of the two pilots may be had due to the fact that Maxey read 8,500 on his altimeter while near Nowak and thus the two may be able to agree on which now holds the new record for Triangle. The previous record was held by Ted Bellak who had reached slightly over 7,000 feet on the trip to Saginaw. Previous to Ted's flight, Maxey had held the altitude record for Triangle with 6,500 feet in the XYZ Wolf and also in another flight which he made to 6,500 feet in Dallas Wise's Franklin.

While Nowak and Maxey were in the air L. D. Montgomery was also on the way to Fremont, Ohio in the XYZ Wolf. The distance made by Montgomery was 72 miles and the best altitude as read on the altimeter was 6,200 feet. This flight lasted three and a half hours while Maxey made the greater distance in three hours.

Actually there were seven ships all soaring simultaneously from Triangle on this memorable Sunday. Lyman Ward on his first flight for the day in the XYZ Franklin rose in thermal lift and reached 8,000 feet as read on his altimeter. Lyman's feat is the more remarkable because he was flying a training type of glider and because many other pilots had been trying to get aloft in the same ship during the time when the sailplanes had been getting away. Lyman made 36 and a half miles and landed four miles south of Monroe.

Dallas Wise, Jr., in his father's Franklin reached 2,200 feet and stayed up about 15 minutes. At the same time Bud Meeker in the Soarhead's Franklin reached 3,000 feet and stayed up 17 minutes. After Bud landed, Elmer Meeker went up in the Soarhead's Franklin and after reaching 2,600 feet turned downward. He landed seven miles away near Michigan avenue and Newburg road after a total of 13 and a half minutes in the air.

Ted Bellak was flying the Bowlius, Spirit of Youth and reached about 5,000 feet. He stayed up about one hour and landed back at Triangle. He also was in the air before the two short Franklin flights, so that seven ships were in the air aloft from Triangle at one time.

Lyle Maxey had made a flight to Wayne County Airport in the XYZ Midwest previous to starting out on his 100-mile flight. He reached 3,900 feet on this flight and made the 10 miles in about 25 minutes, reporting his best climb as three meters per second.

On his longer flight, made after bringing the Midwest back on the trailer to Triangle and setting up again, Maxey reported just over five meters per second. Montgomery reported a best rate of climb as four and a half meters per second. J. Nowak reported a terrific vertical velocity in Polish units. Lyman Ward reported that the Cobb Slater showed better than 20 feet per second. This reading may have been momentary, whereas the others were for at least one turn of a spiral.

Best results were obtained Sunday by spiralling tightly in the thermals so as to make very small circles. Pilots soon found that by flying rapidly southward after reaching the top of one thermal it was always possible to find another. It is thought definitely that there existed rows of thermals, the rows being in an east-west direction. Had the humidity been higher, undoubtedly cloud streets would have formed. The humidity was 24 per cent at 1:30 p.m. The temperature was 65 degrees. The cloud base of distant clouds was about 9,000 feet. Montgomery reported stretching from about three miles south of Toledo Airport toward Fremont. He flew rapidly along this street using the strong lift to develop speeds of 55 to 60 miles per hour while at the same time climbing at half a meter per second. At such speeds the Wolf would have been losing three meters per second had it not been for the strong lift. From Gibsonburg, Ohio stretching southward at about 3 p.m. there was a row of clouds in even more dense formation than the cloud street stretching eastward toward Fremont.

Saturday, May 12, Charles Kohls in the XYZ Wolf sailplane reached 4,500 feet and flew to Monroe. This distance was 32 and a half miles.

At the same time Bud Meeker reached 5,000 feet in the Soarhead's Franklin. Bud flew to near Ypsilanti and landed in the new field which may some day become a gliderport. Bud landed near the east runway which stretches for a mile north and south.

Saving alone is like drinking alone—effective but sordid. It takes the co-operation of a pal-wife to make saving fun.

Mrs. Lyndon received many remembrances in the form of flowers, plants, greeting cards and letters of congratulation from her host of friends. She enjoys excellent health and remains very active, attending the cooking school at the Masonic Temple Tuesday afternoon and winning one of the prizes.

"My luck held good. But the best prize I have is my friends and I appreciate them all," she commented.

Mrs. Lyndon has two stepchildren, Alfred of Rochester, New York, and Mrs. E. O. Morley of Syracuse, New York, and two of her own daughters, Mrs. Clarence Rathbun and Mrs. Irene E. Shaw, both of Plymouth, as well as five grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Arrested for Old Offense

A breaking and entering case of more than a year ago was charged off the police department's docket this week with the arrest of a missing man charged with the crime. William Jarrett, 41-year-old negro of Detroit, was taken into custody by Officer Ira Hauk of the Plymouth police department and Detroit police officers last Friday in Detroit concluding a year's search which followed the defendant's disappearance.

The man was first arrested on December 5, 1939, on a charge of breaking and entering the residence of Earl Becker on Beech street in Plymouth. Bound over to circuit court and placed under bond, he disappeared after his attorney had advised him to plead guilty to the charge. The home of Jarrett has been under surveillance for some time and finally last week the missing man was arrested and taken before Judge Ira Jayne of Circuit Court. Jarrett entered a plea of not guilty and has been bound over for trial the first week of June.

To get an education, you go to grammar school or high school or college and then read good books for 30 years.

Babson Advises Citizens of America Not to be Too Pessimistic

Washington Gloom Unnecessary, Says Commentator

(By Roger Babson)

Babson Park, Mass., May 16—There is no reason for the pessimism which is about today in Washington, New York, and most of the large cities. It is true that huge sums of money are being taken from the rich through terribly high taxes. This money is being given either to labor in the form of high wages or short hours, or is being distributed to the unfortunate through various forms of relief. Billions are being spent on tanks and airplanes; but are these any more wasteful than pleasure cars and crumpled Crime alone, last year, cost this country $15,000,000,000.

Not Out of Last Depression

There are many reasons why I am optimistic for some years to come. The primary one is because we have not yet got out of the depression which started in 1930. It is true that charts, business indexes, and government reports show that the business patient is feeling fine and has fully recovered. The conservatives, however, say this is due to the hope and the stimulants which he has been given. They insist business, agriculture, and labor still need a surgical operation or at least that the inefficient be naturally eliminated.

But I got a new idea in Washington the other day. Here it is as put up to me by one of the New Deal economists. Said he: "Give us two or three years longer and these economic operations will not be necessary as the patients are constantly dying off. Isn't it just as humane to keep the economically inefficient business, farmers, and unemployed free from pain and let them die naturally as it is to eliminate them now through bankruptcy? They have only a few more years to live anyway." This is a new thought to me; but there may be something in it.

Liquidating Labor

Surely, labor leaders have seen their best days for some time to come. During the past eight years labor has had the sympathy of not only the Administration, but also of a large part of the public. Even the newspapers of the country found it bad business to combat labor. Hence, labor leaders have been riding "high," and hand "some." This situation has greatly changed during the past few days. Strikes have become unpopular and labor leaders have been put on the defensive.

President Roosevelt and Mr. Perkins may not have the guts to get after these labor leaders as they did the bankers and the utilities; but things move very fast these days. Who would have thought that memberships on the New York Stock Exchange—which sold for $650,000 12 years ago—could now be bought for only $20,000 when they carry $20,000 life insurance? Wage workers will be protected in their desire to organize and bargain collectively; but they will not be allowed to defy the Anti-Trust laws or hold up American consumers.

What About Inflation?

Congress has increased the debt limit to $65,000,000,000. Unless there is a negotiated peace within a reasonable time, this debt will approach $100,000,000,000. Whether we will come to the printing of the currency, I do not know. Washington insists that dangerous inflation will be prevented through high taxation, price fixing, and forcing wage workers to put a portion of their money into government bonds instead of spending it. This would keep people from bidding up prices. Things which are largely wasteful or harmful will be taxed especially heavily.

On the other hand, it must be realized that inflation in some form will be one of the methods to be used for defraying the expenses of a long war. Some adjustment of the currency will be needed in order to hold our foreign trade and compete with foreign nations where inflation has already gotten well under way. A mild form of inflation might be quite helpful to business and offers one way of reducing our public debt.

Young Men America's Hope

Most of the pessimism now floating about comes from the older businessmen who cannot forget the "good old days" when taxes were very low and they could do as they pleased. The nation owes these bankers, manufacturers, and merchants a tremendous lot, and should treat them with respect. Statistics show, however, that they are rapidly dying off, and their places are being taken by young men who never knew those good old days. These younger men are not present conditions as normal and do not worry about taxes, government regulations, and other handicaps.

As I travel about the country, it is interesting to note the difference in the attitude of members of our regular chambers of commerce from the attitude of the members of the junior chambers—the "Jaycees" as they are called. Most of the resolutions passed by the older groups are against something; they are trying to sweep back the ocean with a broom. The resolutions passed by the Jaycees are for something; they are interested in launching a ship to sail the seas! Every year more and more of these Jaycees are coming into a position of authority. After returning from a speaking engagement before a sedate chamber of commerce, I am a blue pessimist; but after speaking to a group of these Jaycees, I am a rip-roaring bull.

Conclusion

I am not pigheaded about economic conditions; nor have I rose-colored glasses on while writing this column. Some day America and the world will witness another very severe depression. It may result in a mild revolution, but it may also wipe out the impractical features of the New Deal and again put industry, thrift, initiative, and courage back into the saddle. This, however, is some years off. In the meantime, we are going to finish up World War II and—after a short, sharp readjustment period—have several years of prosperity during the Reconstruction Period which is to follow.

"Magic Eye" Measures Vitamin B<sub>1</sub>

Vitamin B<sub>1</sub>, used in Kroger's enriched bread and flour recently introduced here, is measured by means of a delicate and intricate machine called the Fluorophotometer. Samples of these products are checked regularly by scientists at the Kroger Food Foundation in Cincinnati to see that the vitamin content comes up to rigid standards set by this food research organization which constantly tests all Kroger brand merchandise. As explained by George Garnatz, above, chief of laboratories of the Food Foundation, a small glass container of B<sub>1</sub> solution extracted from the bread or flour is shipped into the machine (A) and immediately the photo cell or "magic eye" undergoes an electric "excitation" which is recorded on the sensitive Galvanometer (B), the amount of "excitation" indicating the vitamin content.

Dairy Farmers Get Increase

A raise of 32 cents per hundredweight to producers of milk for the Detroit metropolitan market was announced today by Howard Wilson of Milford, chairman of the committee representing members of the Michigan Milk Producers association.

Culminating a series of tense negotiations with dealers, Wilson states the agreement reached is a triumph for bargaining when both parties are sincere although hard pressed by economic conditions.

The agreement also included a raise of 5 cents over the price now paid for milk used for cream and other manufacturing purposes, in other words 20 cents instead of 15 cents over condensed code price. Prices quoted are for milk delivered to city plants, and become effective beginning May 20.

Dealers will probably advance their prices to the trade one cent a quart. This will still leave Detroit below other large cities according to government reports.

Wilson stated that dealers will have increased expenses due to commissions due labor through union contracts, higher cost of materials, and taxes, which it is claimed will more than absorb any increase in revenue.

There are 46 quarts of milk in a hundred pounds, the price advance to producers is about two-thirds of a cent advance in city price, Wilson said.

Whenever possible steel end and corner posts should be set in concrete.

Attendance at Night School Sets New Record

Total of 476 Attend Classes This Year; New Courses Offered

Attendance at night school courses and other adult education activities at Plymouth high school this year set a new record. A total of 476 persons took advantage of night school courses during the current year which came to a conclusion last week, representing an increase of nearly 200 over the previous year.

Seven courses were offered for the first time this year including tailoring, dressmaking, food specialties, home building, sales speech, landscape, and religious education. It is significant that in these turbulent times accentuated with defense activity that, exclusive of recreation programs, the two courses which attracted the largest enrollment were machine shop and religious education. These courses made an appeal evidently to those seeking manual training and spiritual guidance.

In the home economics division, 20 attended tailoring classes, and 22 took instruction in dressmaking, both led by Mrs. Charles Humphries and 47 enrolled in the food specialties class. A course in child psychology and parent education, taught by Mrs. H. S. Mallory of the extension department of the University of Michigan, attracted 20 members.

Fifteen attended a new class in home building, sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce, and directed by representatives business men, architects and builders. There were 45 members enrolled in the machine shop course instructed by William Campbell.

In the business training classes,

Parent-Teachers Hold Convention

Plans for the forty-fifth convention of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers to be held in Boston on May 19 to 22, are discussed by Mrs. William Kletez, president, (left) and T. V. Smith (right) keynote speaker and University of Chicago philosophy professor. More than 3,000 delegates representing 2,500,000 P. T. A. members throughout the country will attend the convention.

there were 20 members enrolled in the typewriting section and 18 in stenography, both taught by Harry Fountain. Eight received instruction in accounting from Donald Sutherland. William Cox instructed a class of 20 members interested in speech practice for salesmen, which was sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce and the state department of education. Apprentice training for out of school students was taken by 16 persons. The classes were taught by Carvel Bentley, vocational coordinator at the school.

Ford Trade school students who came to Plymouth to take the night school course in American history, offered by James Latture numbered 10. Miss Evelyn Fry led an art class of eight members and C. L. Porter instructed another group of 20 in landscape. There were 20 in Mrs. Anthony S. Matulis' class in current books, and 42 in Miss Neva Lovewell's course in religious education.

The athletic courses attracted wide participation with 90 men and women enrolled in basketball, 15 in badminton and 50 in early American dancing.

Greatly encouraged by the excellent show of interest in night school classes, C. J. Dykhouse, principal of the high school and director of night school activities, announced that the program will be continued next year and any suggestions for new courses will be welcomed. Special courses are offered to groups of 15 or more.

Jewel Starkweather Wins Honors Because of Good School Work

Miss Jewel Starkweather, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Karl H. Starkweather, Starkweather road, has been initiated into Phi Kappa Alpha, Kalamazoo College scholastic honor society.

Membership in the fraternity is strictly limited, and in order to be considered for admittance, a student must rank exceptionally high scholastically; also, not more than one-tenth of the senior class or more than one-fiftieth of the junior class may be admitted at one time. Election to the fraternity is held once each semester, and a formal banquet provides the ceremonies for initiation rites.

Miss Starkweather, together with John Montgomery, responded to the ritual of initiation for the 14 new members at the banquet Thursday, May 1, in Welles Hall dining room, on the college campus.

Dr. Justin H. Bacon, registrar of the college and president of Phi Kappa Alpha, was toastmaster, and President of the College Paul Lamont Thompson gave the invocation.

Phi Kappa Alpha was organized last year by members of the college faculty holding membership in Phi Beta Kappa, Phi Kappa Phi or Sigma Xi. Its purpose is to promote and give formal recognition to high scholastic achievement among college students.

Mrs. M.M. Willett Displays Interesting Ancestral Deed Recorded in 1659

Mrs. Myron Willett of 784 Holbrook avenue has among her collection of interesting historical papers a deed, recorded in her ancestral home of Norwich, Connecticut, dated 1659. Mrs. Willett's grandmother was a direct descendant of Samuel Gorton, the landowner whose name is recorded in this ancient deed. Mrs. Willett, Mrs. Ina Eckles, George and Forest Gorton of Plymouth and Mrs. Celia Herrick of Northville can all trace their lineage to the elder Gorton of 1659.

The deed, which is interesting in its language and composition, reads as follows:

"Know all men by these presents, that I, Cauhanaganack, alias Tasaconakutt, In Consideration of Dyvers curtesies and kindnesses, received from Captaine Randall Houlden and Samuel Gorton senior, both of Warwick, New England. Red Cross Seeks 1,000 U. S. Doctors To Aid Britain on Far-flung Front

SCOTLAND ENGLAND GIBRALTAR PALESTINE EGYPT HONGKONG BURMA INDIA SINGAPORE NIGERIA BRITISH SOMALILAND

Above, Britain's long lines of defense, crosses marking points where American doctors will serve. Right, a Royal Army Medical Corps physician, treating an emergency case, wears the uniform which American doctors may choose to wear in serving Britain.

Washington, D. C.—Out of the agony of bomb-ravaged Britain has come an appeal for American doctors.

Britain's request is being met. Already the American Red Cross, acting for her sister society in England, has carried the appeal to the nation's medical profession. Up to 1,000 American doctors will be needed by the British Red Cross to supplement the hard-pressed corps of doctors engaged in saving British lives from London to Singapore.

American Red Cross workers who have been in England since the outset of hostilities report the need is acute. Formerly a nation at war needed doctors to treat the sick and wounded on the battle front. Today, with aerial bombardment of civilians, Britain finds her doctors fighting against desperate odds.

American doctors will report to the British Red Cross where they will be allowed to choose service either in the Royal Army Medical Corps or in the civilian Emergency Medical Service, the valiant corps of physicians assigned to home defense.

Their service will be for one year, but at the end of that period they wish to continue, they will be eligible to promotion. To be eligible for service with the RAMC, doctors must be 40 or younger, while the EMS will accept men up to 45.

Despite the cruel aspects of air-out hostilities, American physicians answering Britain's appeal will be protected by the Red Cross Treaty of Geneva, a 77-year-old international agreement still in force on the battlefields.

American doctors, as far as possible, will be allowed to choose where they will serve—whether it be in London, Rangoon, the Middle East or any point of emergency along the far-stretched lines of British defense.

The appeal of the British Red Cross has the endorsement of the President of the United States, the Secretary of War and the Surgeon General of the Public Health Service. Those doctors subject to military training under our own flag are being given special consideration by the Selective Service.

Blind Newsy Calls on Harry Robinson

Although totally blind, William Wagar, an old time Detroit newsboy, came to Plymouth the other day to visit his newsboy associate of the long ago, Harry Robinson. Even though he was a stranger to the streets of Plymouth and had never before counted his steps between sidewalk and curb or between street intersections, the ease with which he was able to travel about the streets was nothing less than amazing. Needless to say, these old time newsboys had a good time visiting with each other.

Dewey Smith's Gun Collection Includes Many Rare Models

Dewey Smith of the Plymouth Mill Supply company at Mill street and Ann Arbor Trail recently added a rarity to his collection of 125 guns which he keeps encased in his office. The latest addition to the collection is a 50-inch barrel gun from Arabia. The gun, an old flint lock type, has a wood stock with about 130 pieces of inlaid ivory and red agate inserts and ornate brass bands around the barrel. Still used in Arabian desert fights, the same type of gun was used in this country during Revolutionary days.

Sergeant Frank Townsend of the U.S. Army recently inspected Mr. Smith's collection and verified that some of his guns are really rare. Mr. Smith, an avid hunter, has collected guns for over 40 years, receiving some from his grandfather. Interesting histories are associated with some of the collector's guns. An old French-made gun, known as the Lefauchex pin-fire army revolver, was used in the Civil War. The type was in use in Europe in 1861. The United States government purchased 12,000 of them in that year at a cost of $13 each for Army use. The metallic shell of the cartridge had a small pin attached at right angle to the length. This meant that the shell could be inserted but one way. The inventor, a Frenchman, was the first to use metallic ammunition in fire arms.

Included among the early American type are an old Kentucky gun, a 50-calibre shot gun used over 100 years ago in killing buffalo, guns used by Indians in wars with the early colonists and a 32-calibre Deringer pistol of the same type used to assassinate President McKinley. France, Egypt, Russia, Germany, Belgium, Holland and England as well as America are represented in the various types and makes of guns in Mr. Smith's collection. The oldest gun in the group is an English-made flint lock gun which dates back to the 1600's.

Glider Pilot Goes Mile High

Ted Bellak, nationally famous soaring pilot, took the sail plane "Spirit of Youth" aloft over Tri-angel airport here Sunday and soared to a height between 5000 and 6000 feet, remaining aloft for more than an hour. The sailplane was built by youth on the National Youth Administration project at Cassidy Lake, near Chelsea.

"The Spirit of Youth," a wooden ship, is the first built by NYA youth at Cassidy lake, according to Orin M. Kave, state NYA administrator, but three others are in the process of construction there at the present time.

This is an experimental project which was authorized by the federal government to steady the feasibility of such construction on a nationwide basis, for use in training aviation pilots, such as Germany did successfully before the present war.

This is the first project of its kind undertaken by the Federal government. Youths who assemble the sailplanes are getting work experience that may enable them to take private jobs in aircraft factories.

Board Cancels May Draft Call

Local board No. 61 including Plymouth, Northville, Livonia and Redford, has received notification from state headquarters that the quota for its sixth call in May has been cancelled. The quota of 38 men first set for May will be included in the quota to be delivered in June.

The board, according to a tentative quota, will be called upon to provide 85 selectees for the seventh call in June.

State headquarters have also requested information from Chief Clerk Everett Jolliffe regarding the number of colored selectees available and due for call in June. There are 15 colored men registered at the local board, none of whom are subject to immediate call.

A total of 143 selectees and eight replacements have been sent from local board to date from which 24 were rejected at induction headquarters, leaving a net delivery of 127 men from this district. The June quota of 85 men will fall 87 short of the board's total quota of 275 men. It is generally believed that the selective service headquarters plans to terminate all current business with the June quota with another registration of new selectees at a later date.

Student Essayist Discusses Symbolism of Stars and Stripes

(By Molly Goldstein)

A flag aloft, a flag with red and white stripes and 48 stars, a flag with its colors bright, reminding us of our country, reminding us of the men who fought to make this nation a free place in which to live. Placed near one of its most substantial pillars—in front of a school that teaches hundreds of pupils what it means to possess a flag as such a symbol—the flag pole was given by the seniors as their gift because they felt it to be particularly suitable for such trying times. By presenting the gift earlier than usual, because they wished to see it in use, not only to have it in front of the school, but also to have pupils and residents of Plymouth stop and gaze at it, they helped themselves and others realize what it means to be an American. In choosing this flagpole not only did the seniors present a gift to the school but they also showed their love for these United States. When the flag took its position on high, everyone stood in awe and reverence to the material evidence of the feeling in each one's heart. Thankfulness and appreciation and love for the opportunities offered to them and to all Americans; opportunities to achieve what is the rightful heritage of every person—life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. I know of another flag pole that was put, not in front of a school, but in a field next to a home. It isn't made of metal; it is not even straight. But on the top waves the stars and stripes—our stars and stripes that convey to all of us the unity of our nation, a nation that will stand forever. This flag pole was erected by several boys between the ages of eight and fourteen. They put their small amounts of savings together and bought a flag. When it was raised for the first time, there was a small group of boys to watch the ceremony. They, too, were experiencing a kind of reverence and an appreciation and love for what America is.

What does this mean? It means that we have the right to freedom of speech, press and religion; it means that we are going to school instead of to a military camp; it means that we have butter and meat for dinner; it means that we may vote when we are old enough; it means that these boys represent children and adults all over America; children and adults who believe in and worship Old Glory as a symbol. It stands for every person being an individual with his own individual rights—the rights that make him proud to say that he is an American.

ATTACK ON AMERICA

THE STORY SO FAR: More than 200,000 foreign troops secretly assembled in Mexico by Van Hasek suddenly invaded the United States. Vastly superior in numbers and equipment to the American forces which opposed them, Van Hasek's troops pushed relentlessly forward. The U. S. army was not prepared for this sudden attack, and could only retreat in the face of overwhelming force. Posing as a fellow agent, U. S. Intelligence Officer Benning accompanied foreign spies bound for the Panama Canal. He learned that their ship carried dynamite which would be exploded when they entered the canal, but was paroled for this sudden attack, and could only retreat in the face of overwhelming force. Posing as a fellow agent, U. S. Intelligence Officer Benning accompanied foreign spies bound for the Panama Canal. He learned that their ship carried dynamite which would be exploded when they entered the canal, but was imprisoned below deck when caught trying to send a warning. He escaped, but too late to save the canal. It was destroyed by a terrific explosion which trapped the U. S. fleet in the Pacific Ocean and left the Atlantic sea coast unguarded.

Now continue with the story.

Benning gave a groan and, as a brooding silence settled back over the night, hurried on. He knew now that the worst must have happened. On reaching Mindi, Benning got a speeder to take him to Cristobal. He got a military car to spin him to Col. Cove. Reports were coming in to Naval Intelligence. The damage at Gatun Locks was undetermined. Miraflores Locks had been dynamited by an American steamer that had put in past Balboa from San Francisco. Dynamite had cascaded huge slides of rock and earth into Culebra Cut in the region of Gold Hill, Alhajuela Dam, at the storage lake on the upper Chagres, had been crippled.

When he reached Panama Department headquarters, Benning found Cove feverishly taking reports from half a dozen assistants whose ears were glued to telephones.
"What's the latest information on damage to the Canal, Colonel?" Benning inquired.
Cove tragically shook his head. "Pretty bad from all reports. My men make the guess it will take months to make any kind of repairs."

Benning asked, "May I get a code message through to Washington tonight, Colonel?"
"The wires are swamped," Cove said dubiously. "The War Department is pounding the C.G. for all details of the attack on the Canal. I'll sandwich your dispatch in at the very first chance."

Benning borrowed the Department code book and prepared a brief report of eventualities for Colonel Flagwill. Reports from over the Canal Zone kept pouring in. Suspects were being arrested in growing numbers.
It was after 3 A. M. before Cove was able to put Benning's report on the wires. He offered Benning a cot in a near-by office and sent Grimes to the barracks. Benning fretted himself to sleep at dawn and woke to a hot sun. Cove was standing over him, tense with excitement.

"Did any of our fleet get through from the Pacific yet?" Benning inquired.
The question brought an agonized grimace from the G-2 chief.
"Part of our Pacific fleet was due through the Canal next week, Benning. Now check this over for yourself. In the Atlantic, four old battleships, a few destroyer divisions, and some submarines. Proud names those battleships—New York—Arkansas—Texas—Wyoming. But they've seen their day for fighting purposes, and it'll take weeks to get some squadrons of our Pacific fleet around the Horn."

"While the matter is in my mind," Benning changed the subject, "I want to know if you'll enlist for me a man named Grimes. He was turned down in New York for flat feet, but otherwise he's really a fine physical specimen. I'm under obligations to him, since there wouldn't be a finger-nail left of me except for Grimes."

"Glad to fix him up," Cove agreed promptly.

The morning summary came in over the wires from the United States. President Tannard was closeted with Army and Navy chiefs. The country was in a fresh panic over destruction of the Canal. Eastern centers of population were in an uproar, demanding naval protection for the Atlantic coast. War census of males of military age was instituted. First draft of a million men was being planned. Volunteer enlistments, after passing the 400,000 mark, had slowed down. Another thirty days needed to fill volunteer quota of 500,000.

On the Texas front the Third Army had finally halted Van Hasek's advance after five days of desperate fighting in which American casualties were estimated at twelve thousand men.

An aide-de-camp came into the room and spoke to Cove. Cove jumped to his feet and went over to Benning.
"The commanding general wishes you to report to him immediately," he said.

Benning followed the aide to a spacious office at one end of which a grave, weary little man sat over a litter of reports and complications. As the aide announced Benning, the general looked sharply up and delivered himself in a crisp, official voice.
"I have instructions from the War Department, Major, to drop you into Mexico City. Colonel Flagwill wishes you to find out what you can about the enemy's Guaymas troops and the trouble in the Orient. You are to report to Flagwill as quickly as possible. Arrangements will be made for a plane to pick you up at a point designated by you in the vicinity of Mexico City. Your plane will take off from Albricht Field in one hour. That is all."

CHAPTER XVIII

Behind him, as Benning took off from the Guatemala terminal air port on the last leg of his flight into Mexico City, reposed the camouflaged observation plane that was to pick him up on the second night thereafter at a secret rendezvous south of Chapultepec. These final plans, as he checked them over, seemed coldly academic in detail, like the laying of a field gun for indirect fire upon an unseen human target. But Benning did not minimize the dangerous complications that lay ahead.

Midnight brought the lights of Mexico City into view. From the observer's cockpit Benning caught the toss of the pilot's arm in signal and bon voyage. His heart was pumping as he lifted himself erect and climbed out of the cockpit.

Into the starlit void he plunged, falling in a backward arc and tolling off three seconds before his hand tore at the ripcord handle of his parachute. Shortly the straps gripped at armpits and legs to tell him the parachute had fed safely out. Above the rush of air he could hear the plane roaring on its way. There came to him a moment's envy of the pilot who would flash back along the friendly route to a safe landing at Albricht Field.

The moon had not yet risen, but the capital's masses were outlined in myriad light clusters, which told Benning the American air service was still too busy at home to strike at Mexico City. Through the starlight he presently caught the black earth toward which he was rushing.

He freed himself of straps, and rolled and secreted the silken chute. Half an hour's brisk walk brought him to the dark little Calle del Nogal, which told him he had landed to the north of Chapultepec. He found a sleepy cabman to drive him direct to Jesus Maria.

Benning's plan was set as he reached the street on which he had lived with Mlle. Ducos.
There was a light in the little Ducos apartment when he reached there shortly after one o'clock. He walked resolutely up to the door and knocked. The immutable law of averages, he argued hopefully as he waited, dictated an occasional bit of luck in his operations.

In a moment the door opened and Benning saw the French girl's diminutive figure framed against the lighted room. But at recognizing Benning, terror flashed into her eyes and she stepped quickly back.

"But no, senor!" she exclaimed. "No such person as you mentioned lives here."

Before she could close the door, a figure strode up from behind her, a gaunt man with shaggy, unkempt beard and bloodshot, haunted eyes in which there was now the gleam of mingled terror and jealous suspicion.
The man's disheveled aspect and wasted face did not rob Benning of instant recognition. It was Bromlitz, the American renegade and murderer, the man in whose shoes Benning had masqueraded in Mexico.

A snarl told Benning that Bromlitz had recognized him. Benning sprang past the French girl to the attack, reaching Bromlitz before the man from Luxembourg could extricate himself from the shock of surprise. Benning drove his fist against the Bromlitz jaw, but did not floor him. A knife flashed from Bromlitz' belt. Benning dove in and pinned his antagonist's arms to his sides.

Bromlitz shook himself with a frenzied strength. Benning clung through one spasm of resistance after another until he felt that his own endurance could not last much longer. With a carefully co-ordinated movement he released his hold and caught Bromlitz' knife hand, twisted it suddenly, and tripped the fellow to the floor.

There was a howl of pain from Bromlitz' throat as the sharp blade crept through his shirt into the flesh of his breast. Benning cast the weight of his body into the lunge. There followed the rasping cry of a mortal wound. Bromlitz' strength relaxed.

Benning stood up. The French operative's face was chalky white, but her blue eyes were cold and unmoved as she observed Bromlitz in the convulsions of his last breath.

"I'm sorry this had to happen here, mademoiselle," Benning told her.

She said with calm indifference: "You've only done me a service, monsieur. Bromlitz has been very difficult of late and I did not dare let him show himself at the palace. Of course, you'll dispose of his body as soon as he is dead."

"Is Bravot now in Mexico City?" Benning interrupted.

"That needn't matter to you. You are leaving Mexico City immediately."

"Of course, as soon as I get the information I came here to get."

"Impossible! I can't play the danger of having you here now. In a few days I hope to be ready to leave for France. Nothing must interfere with my success now."

"I'll make a bargain with you, mademoiselle. I'll leave at once if you can find out when Van Hasek attacks from Guaymas. Also anything you can learn about what is going to happen in the Orient."

Her face lighted up and she gave a gasp of relief. "If that is what you want to know, I can tell you, monsieur. Van Hasek's Guaymas force will move up the Gulf within the present week to attack north with his mechanized and motorized regiments through California. Their objective is to freeze your fleet out of its great bases on the Pacific coast."

Benning's brows knotted. "But such an attack doesn't make sense unless Van Hasek is to have prompt reinforcements."

"To be sure, monsieur. But Van Hasek's whole plan is working out right close to pattern. Denied its bases, a heavy part of your Navy will have to sail at once around the Horn to protect your Atlantic coast from the Mediterranean fleet. At the same time with Van Hasek's attack will come the invasion from the Orient, which is already moving east."

Benning gasped. "Do you know those things for fact?"

"I know that Van Hasek expects me in San Francisco within the next few weeks when he is to take supreme command over your Pacific coast. But by then I will be in France—if only I can learn when the attack upon my own country is to launch itself. In a few days I am to meet Van Hasek at San Antonio—in the meantime, I gather what straws I can from his man Boggio."

"Boggio, you say!"

The words drove fiercely from Benning's throat. He felt the bristling of his hair under the surge of feeling aroused by that name, for the instant lost the thread of portentous disclosure that Mlle. Ducos made. Promptly he recovered his composure and attempted to cover his show with a smile.

He said, in an easier voice, "So Boggio is here in Mexico City?"

"You should learn, in this business, to conceal your feelings," Mlle. Ducos said with a thin smile, and added: "But I can very well understand just how you feel on the subject of Boggio. Boggio has done nothing but boast of the bombing of the White House, ever since."

"Mademoiselle, I can't leave Mexico until I've seen Boggio. A minute alone with him will be enough—and I'll promise to be very discreet as far as your interests are concerned."

"If your Government doesn't know already what I've just told you," she countered, "you should waste no time on Boggio now."

"I have no possible means of leaving Mexico until tomorrow night," Benning confessed. "My Government and I will be eternally grateful to you if you will add this last little service. I promise the greatest discretion in handling Boggio."

The French girl pondered his proposal, testing its play against the risks to her own obligations. Presently a smile played at the corners of her mouth and a cold glitter shone in her eyes.
"At four o'clock tomorrow afternoon, monsieur," she decided, "Boggio and I will drive together south from Chapultepec on the highway to Tacubaya. Boggio will be at the wheel and we will be alone." She extended her hand and added, "I will say good-bye to you now, monsieur, and bon voyage."

Pratt Hurls No-Hitter, First in P.H.S.

Rocks Win Second Game, Beat Ecorse 5-1

Fay Pratt, assisted by better than average support from his teammates pitched the Rocks to a no-hit victory over the Ecorse nine on May 9. Few pitchers hurl a no-hitter in a lifetime, but Fay has attained the distinction of pitching two of these rare happenings. The previous game was pitched while Fay was in the seventh grade. In spite of perfect pitching on the part of Pratt, Ecorse scored one run and robbed Fay of a shut-out. This is the first no-hitter in the baseball history of Plymouth high school.

Plymouth opened the game by scoring three runs on no hits, four walks, a passed ball, a stolen base, and an error. Lacy, Schwartz and Bridge got the gift runs. In the second inning for the Rocks Schaefele singled into center field and was left on third.

Pratt retired the first five batters to face him. Ecorse eached first on a single by Lacy. No more Ecorse batters reached first until the seventh.

In the meantime Plymouth picked up the only earned runs of the game in the fourth. Williams singled and stole second. Schaefele singled sending Williams to third. As Pratt bounded out second to first, Williams scored and Schaefele reached third. Hancock got on when shortstop Martin threw home too late to catch the feet-floated Schaefele who scored Plymouth's fifth and last run of the game.

As the seventh and last inning opened Plymouth held a 5 to 0 lead. While some of his teammates realized he had allowed no hits, Pratt went on the field unconscious of the fact. Redwine, the first batter up, hit a sharp grounder to third which Schaefele fumbled and was recovered by Schwartz. While Lacy was attempting to pull the hidden ball trick on Redwine, Pratt committed a balk sending the runner to second. Martin grounded to Pratt who deflected the ball to Vetal who threw to first for the out. Putting Redwine on third, Kovalek popped out to Vetal. Redwine scored after the catch, depriving Pratt of a shut-out. Bearing down on the last batter, Pratt made Lovaz. Ecorse relief hurler, his sixth strike-out victim.

The game, Plymouth's best to date, brings her win-loss average up to .500. Making 39 errors in the first three games, the Rocks were charged with only two. Each of the Plymouth team handled the ball at least once during the game. The game's most spectacular catch was a running, one-handed stab by Sheppard out in foul territory. Hancock in right and Bridge in center each made good catches. In the absence of Henry Jensen, the regular coach who was injured Tuesday by a line drive off the bat of Brian Bridge, the team was managed by Anthony Matulis.

Plymouth: 5 runs, 3 hits and 2 errors.
Ecorse: 1 run, 0 hits, 2 errors.
Pratt allowed no hits, no walks, and no earned runs and struck out six opponents and was the winning pitcher. Williams caught. Aldrich was charged with three hits, seven walks, two earned runs in addition to three unearned runs, four strike-outs in three and two-thirds innings and was the losing pitcher. He was relieved by Lovaz who held the Rocks hitless and scoreless though he permitted three bases on balls and struck out six batters in three and one-third innings.

Sport Benefits

Plymouth high school drew only $30.00 from the protective coffers of the new Michigan High School Athletic Accident Benefit Plan this year. Major accident victim No. 1, Dean Metcger, missed $300 when he failed to take out the insurance at the beginning of this baseball season.

Only big payments on the policies, which cost $1.50 each, were for football injuries. Ronald Swegles, who was kicked in the mouth in the Clawson game, received $25.00 compensation for tooth injuries. For a twisted knee in basketball, Art Johnson was given $5.00.

Although most of the football and basketball team members were covered by the insurance plan, which is in its first year, enrollment by athletes in the four spring sports has fallen off. In fact, only football and basketball men are the policy members of the insured teams. Metcger, with no insurance, was struck in the eye with a ball in the act of bunting. His eye was severely cut and he was confined for a week in Grace hospital. Probably he will have to shoulder all hospital costs himself.

The insurance plan covers all growing indemnity range accidents of critical significance in all high school sports. It guarantees no coverage on the most common of high school accidents minor in character.

Up to January 1, 1941, 321 Michigan high schools had enrolled in the Benefit plan with 9,900 boys. Total reported injuries were 839. Only about half of the injury claims, however, were recognized as valid with a total disbursement of $5,500. Average claim is about $12.50.

Peace rules the day, where reason rules the mind. — William Collins.

Social Register

This spring air is attracting lots of socialites who are throwing picnics galore. Louise Powell gave one Friday night with a treasure hunt besides. Her guests were: Claude Ebersole, Janice Downing, and Ray Kearney, Ione Stuart and Gordon Vetal, Josephine Armbruster and Calvin Furlong, Sally Haas and Arvel Curtner, Lois Ridley and Michael Kleinschmidt, Rosemary Ray and Dick Virgo, Jean Crandell and Bill Upton, Marleeta Martin and Bill Keefe, Dot Fisher and Bob Fisher, Pat Hudson and Archie King. Another picnic was held in the park last Saturday night. Shirley Reamer and Bob Birt, Ruth Wellman and Carl Robelli, Charlotte Flaherty and El-don Martin, Jean Langendam and Albert Donovan, Maurie McConnell and Beverly Smith were there and afterwards the whole gang went to the new Swing Bowl in Belleville. Mary Jane Oliver and Bob Norman, Betty Brown and Warren Hoffman, Eddie Holdsworth and Lonabelle Rhode were at the Swing Bowl in Belleville, too.

Next favorite to picnicking is dancing. Doris Dubee and Wes Hoffman, Bettv Brown and Warren Hoffman, Lonabelle Rhode and Eddie Holdsworth, Dorothy Rowland and Jack Crisp, Gloria Jones and Jack Gettleton, Lila Selie and Elmer Kroger, Dorothy Ebersole and Ray Pappenger went to Walled Lake Friday night. Marge Merriman and Dick Dailey went to a fraternity dance, "Highland Fling" at the community house in Birmingham Saturday night.

Another picnic was held at Belle Isle Sunday. There were DeRue, DePlanche and Eldon Martin, Betty Holman and John Reppert, Pat Kinahan and Louis Ficks, Elaine DePlanche and Bayless Erdelyi, Elaine Walters and Bob Sessions, Barbara Litsenberger and Wally Eckler. They went swimming at the Detroit Yacht club and took a jaunt to Canada afterwards.

Maria Ann Miller, Marian Goodman, Margaret Jean Niehol and Ruth Dews heard "The Philadelphia Symphony orchestra at an annual spring festival in Ann Arbor last Friday.

Doris Dubee visited her grandparents Saturday and Sunday at Spring Lake near Grand Haven.

Gloria Jones and Jack Gettleton saw Irene Dunn and Cary Grant in "Penny Serenade" at the Michigan theatre in Ann Arbor Sunday, May 11.

After the musicale Friday night, Pat and Bernice Kinahan entertained Bettv Holman, John Reppert, Elaine DePlanche, Don Holman and Louis Ficks for luncheon.

Last Friday, Bob Lorenz, Marjorie Knowles, Doug Lorenz, Marie Gussell and Jerry Shoemaker attended the Northville dance which was supported by the Northville Recreation. Music was furnished by a 10-piece Negro orchestra.

Zoning Talk

C. H. Elliott, city manager of Plymouth, gave a talk on zoning to Mr. Smith's economics class in the local high school.

Mr. Elliott explained the reason for city zoning as a way of keeping certain sections of the city for certain purposes. In this way people can live and work in peace and comfort, as is the right of every property owner to enjoy himself.

He also explained the five groupings of Plymouth. First class residential sections are the most restrictive. Here there can be only a one-family house built or a two-family house which from the outside looks single.

Second class residential sections are for apartments, boarding and rooming houses. However, at no time can there be restrictions on the money to be spent on a building.

A commercial area is one in which stores or any retail buildings are constructed.

A light industrial area is for certain types of manufacturing concerns within limits of expansion and use of goods produced.

A heavy industrial area is for any other type of building. Any building may lower its class, but not better it.

Mr. Elliott foresees every town or city of any considerable size adopting a system of city zoning. It took about two years to complete the plans for Plymouth. He believes that as a result of this system Plymouth has become a better city and will continue thus.

Dance Exhibit

The seventh grade boys and girls of Plymouth high school presented a final early American dancing demonstration last Wednesday afternoon. The dancing, under the direction of Mr. Bernard Carroll and accompanist, Fritz Marks, available through the Edison Institute at Greenfield Village, was sponsored by the Physical Education department. After the demonstration was served by the home economics department. Many parents and friends attended the exhibit which was held in the high school auditorium.

World as I See It

What will it seem like when on June 19 in the evening I, with 160 other students will hear those final, fateful words which will pronounce me graduated from Plymouth high school, from all of my school days, and from 13 years of education. Yes, I say fateful because that is the only word which turns over in my mind. To me it is the ending of childhood and the beginning of womanhood.

For the last four years now we have been gently but firmly told that we would soon be on our own. I am among those who are prepared, having taken heed to those guiding words taken course, basic to my future plans. Suddenly May is here, and next comes June. A new strange feeling mingled with fear, excitement, sorrow, gladness—it's almost indescribable—rises in me as the period of time grows shorter.

Four years ago, as a freshman, I planned a schedule which was to be the beginning of my pavement on the road to success. I chose a profession for my later life very lightly pursued by women. And now comes the war.

My views concerning it—I might be classed as a fatalist or a student of history, but my theory is "History repeats itself" after every war comes depression. Preparation for such a profession as I intend to follow takes six years. In the meantime what am I going to do about all of these $10 and $12 a day jobs which will be hanging under my nose and teasing me. I do look into the future for such highly paid jobs because I feel that war is inevitable and every qualified man will be needed in it. Women will consequently have to take their place in industry. In spite of governmental efforts I believe that inflation will undoubtedly come sending prices sky high along with a necessary wage increase. My problem in consideration of this war is should I go on to college now and chance the possibility of a depression and no job or should I wait with my career and make money? If I do the latter I will be losing my youngest years.

Whatever my choice I believe that I will always include religion in my necessities of happy living. To me religion is what keeps things going. Proof of this is shown in this hallowed world of today which is unsuccessfully trying to squelch it. How far these omnipotent egotists will get remains to be seen.

Being a girl I have decided ideas about marriage. Of course I intend to be married and raise a family. It might be ironic to consider divorce if I want as happy a life as I dream of—but I have considered it. In some cases I agree with divorce proceedings because it seems that some people have such a character that cannot be bargained with but 75 per cent of the cases could easily be compromised. I believe that the chief trouble lies in the ease of getting a divorce. However, with such troubles and ideas in my head I am thankful that I am living in a country in which I am able to graduate, to be able to go into the world with civil liberties and employment opportunities right at my feet. To sum it up it's an old phrase but a true one: "I am glad that I am an American!"

Frosh Baseball

The baseball game between Belleville and Plymouth last Friday May 9 was halted at the end of the fourth because Belleville had to leave. The score at the end of the fourth was 7-3 in favor of Belleville.

The first run of the game was scored by Drake, on an error by Thams. Hook then scored after a fly out to Unger. Bennett relieved Thams behind the plate in the second inning. Due to cold weather it was hard to hang on to the ball, but both teams did a good job of catching. Things looked prosperous in the fourth when Sassa came up and hit a single. Then Schaefele flew out to Kidder. Bennett then stepped to the plate and smacked a home run, scoring Sassa, making the score 7-3 in favor of Belleville. With two out Henry walked. Brink singled and then Wood struck out ending the game. Bill Wood did a good job of holding Belleville to five hits while Plymouth had seven.

Library Projects

As a part of their regular library work each student librarian is required to work out some project for a part of her credit. Two students are making a "Who's Who" of Plymouth which is to include some of the more famous personages of the city. Another student is making bibliography of American folk songs including the Indians and the pioneers. One girl has completed a bibliography of the Red Cross. The bibliographies contain the names, authors, and call numbers of the books that are in the high school library. All books on related topics are included.

In previous years bibliographies have been written on South America, The Panama Canal, The World War, Japan, Africa, the American novels of the pre-Revolutionary period, and also novels of the pre-Civil War period.

The bibliographies may be used by any student in school. It has been chiefly through the leadership of Miss Marian Taylor, high school librarian, that these useful projects have been completed during the last three years.

SENIOR STUDENTS RECEIVE HONORS

Virginia Rock and Paul Harsha of this year's graduating class were awarded honorable mention in the annual contests sponsored by the Quill and Scroll club of which they are members.

Virginia received hers for editorial writing, while Paul's was received for his knowledge of Current Events.

As juniors, Paul and Virginia acted as editor and assistant editor respectively of the Pilgrim Prints.

Racqueteers Win

Continuing their winning streak, the Plymouth tennis team defeated River Rouge 4-1 on Wednesday, May 7.

The Plymouth racqueteers are showing great improvement with every match, played although only two of last year's letter men were eligible to play this season. Winning two of the three singles, the Plymouth lads won both of the doubles. Thus far Plymouth has won three matches and lost three.

The last match lost was to Ecorse, who had a very strong team since most of last year's letter men returned.

The Plymouth tennis reserves played a practice match with Rochester, Thursday, May 8, and won 9-5. Mr. Bentley, tennis coach, feels that a junior high team should be started to make it possible for the varsity to have a strong team in the coming years. The results of the River Rouge are as follows:

Singles: Lorenz (P) (6-2) (6-4); Birt, Tarun) Birt (P) (6-2) (6-3); Dailey, Rosenkoetter) Rosenkoetter (RR) (6-0) (7-5).

Doubles: Lewis-Olds, McPherson-Jacobson) Lewis-Olds (7-5) (6-3). McAllister-Robelli, Denninger-Buck) McAllister-Robelli, (6-3) (3-6) (6-3).

T.V.A.A. Tea

Jacqueline Dalton of the seventh grade from Plymouth high school participated in the interpretative reading contest held at River Rouge on May 8.

Jacqueline's selection was "Penrod's Busy Day" by Booth Tarkington. She was one of four participants of the Twin Valley Activities association. The contest was held in the form of an informal tea, thus there were no prizes or prizes awarded to the contestants.

If you can't think of a snappy retort, a carelessly concealed yawn is often just as good.

Money may talk, but some folks seem never to have taught theirs to utter anything but nonsense.

In the sprints Plymouth scored most points. Bob Sessions and Paul Harsha placed first and second in both the 100 and 220 dashes. Vic Ribblett fourth in the 100. Sessions' times were 10.7 and 24.4.

Jack Baker created his lustiest shot-put to date, 43 feet, for Plymouth's only winning field event, although Eugene Willnow tied in the high jump for first at five feet four inches. In the pole-vault, Jim Wellman placed third and in the broad jump Paul Harsha placed fourth.

Bob Kirkpatrick had to fight to get a second place in the half-mile run, but Jack Christensen was right back of him so Plymouth's point equaled the winners' in the event. In a slow mile, Larry Arnold placed second, Herman Trick, fourth. Time was 5.22.

Eugene Shipley couldn't keep his early pace in the 440 and finished fourth, but Jim Sexton could and gained a second place right behind Ecorse's 59-second winner. Third in the 120-yard high hurdles was Bob Widmaier.

KENYON IN YMCA
Pierre Kenyon, class of '25, was a school visitor Thursday, May 8. He is now boys' work secretary of the downtown branch of the Los Angeles YMCA in charge of boys up to 18 years of age.

Rocks Golf

The Ann Arbor golf team took the second match from Plymouth by the score of 326-354 last week. Frisinger, of Ann Arbor high, lighted the match with a score of 72 on a par 70 course. Strange enough, he did not make a birdie, hitting par on all but the fourth and seventeenth holes.

Owens was Plymouth's lowest scorer with a total of 84. Zuckerman carded 89. Maxey scored 90, while Russell hit a 91. Besides Frisinger, Foster hit an 83, Brier scored 85, and Dose totaled 86. This is the lowest score the Rocks have hit on the home course.

The Rocks won the River Rouge match by a forfeit at the West Shore Country club on Grosbe Isle last Wednesday. One two Rouge men appeared, so the first nine holes were played. Hoffman defeated Frisinger, 42-32 for nine holes while Shoemaker defeated Smith, 44-51. Zuckerman shot 46 and Owens carded 41.

The team is now determining which four will represent Plymouth in the regionals at Huron Hills Country club on May 17.

Class Night Plans

Class night, the one night of commencement week in which students take entire charge, is being planned and discussed by a committee composed of honor students. The theme "Life Goes To School" will be presented as Life magazine would give a program about a senior class. The procedure will be organized under topics as in that magazine.

The senior class received a letter from the D and C navigation line which said that the class may take the Lake Huron Cruise, Thursday, June 5 upon which the executive board gave their approval. It was more convenient for the majority of seniors to go during the week since many have jobs on Saturday. The cruise will be 85 cents per person and the boat leaves Detroit at 10 o'clock in the morning.

When the scent of your pipe is retained longer than usual, it often betrays a storm.

Pentathlon

Girls in the seventh, eighth, and ninth grades will engage in the second annual girls' pentathlon on Wednesday, May 21. Sponsored by the board of education and the Plymouth Woman's club, this is an event in which each girl competes against, not the other entrants, but herself.

The girls' pentathlon is adapted from the boys' athletic event bearing the same name. The difference is in the five events scheduled. The baseball throw, 50-yard dash, running broad jump, jump and reach, and dash and throw, make up the schedule.

Each girl competes for points toward an award. There are three possible prizes. 2200 points will win a bronze medal, 3400 points a silver medal, and 4000 points wins the highest award, a gold medal.

When stretching fence, the tension curves should be pulled to half their normal size and never over-stretched.

More than 40 food elements are needed for the good health of every one in all parts of the country.

A paint brush used in shellac or varnish should be washed in alcohol when the day's work is done.

★When the 29,000,000th Ford rolled recently from the assembly line, an all-time record for the industry was set. 29,000,000 units built by the same management and all bearing one name—a name that has become one of the best-known trade-marks in the world!

It is significant that this achievement comes at a time when our country is making a mighty effort to re-arm swiftly. For to further that effort, to help speed it along in any possible way, we have offered the vast facilities of the Rouge Plant and the assistance of our experience.

As you read this, a new $21,000,000 Ford airplane engine plant, started only last fall, is nearly completed. A new magnesium alloy plant, one of the few in the country, is already in production on lightweight airplane engine castings. Work is right now under way on a new $18,000,000 plant for mass production of big bomber assemblies. Orders have been filled for military vehicles of several types, including army reconnaissance cars, staff cars and bomb service trucks.

In the midst of this activity for National Defense, building the 29 millionth Ford car is simply one part of the day's work.

The public has acclaimed the 1941 Ford car as the finest in Ford history. Ford Dealers are enjoying their greatest sales and expecting their best year since 1937.

It is good to be producing the things America needs, and to be setting records on the way!

"Mortals and Immortals" will be the subject of the lesson-lesson in all Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday, May 18. The golden text (Proverbs 9: 6) is: "Forsake the foolish and live; and go in the way of understanding." Among the Bible citations is this passage (Romans 8: 5, 6): "For they that are after the flesh do mind the things of the flesh; but they that are after the Spirit the things of the Spirit. For to be carnally minded is death; but to be spiritually minded is life and peace." Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (page 492): "For right reasoning there should be but one fact before the thought, namely, spiritual existence. In reality there is no other existence, since Life cannot be united to its unlikeliness, mortality."

CALVARY BAPTIST CHURCH. Holbrook and Hardinberg, Lynn B. Stout, pastor, Joel 3: 9-10: "Proclaim ye this among the Gentiles; prepare war, wake up the mighty men, let all the men of war draw near; beat your plow shares into swords, and your pruning hooks into spears. Truly, the world is building more swords and spears than plow shares and pruning hooks. Can it be that we are coming into the days of which the prophet wrote? At least this is no time for the church to close its doors, and go off on a pink tea picnic. Might there rise up a prophet of God in these days to call Uncle Sam back to the mourners' bench, and a backslidden church to its first love. The message of Calvary church of late has been upon "Rebuilding the Walls." Come thou with us next Sunday morning and hear the Word of the Lord. Louis Abel of the Wheeler City Rescue Mission, Indianapolis, Indiana, will be the speaker at both the young people's and evening services next Sunday night, Bulls Eye No. 97: When a nation is singing "Roll Out the Barrel," then don't blame God for that nation getting the contents of the barrel—sin, misery, crime, poverty, heartache, etc.—remember that is what has been asked for.

Hanford School News

We are back in school now after a week of absence because our teacher, Miss Bodary, was ill. Most of the upper grade children went to the Wayne County Training school Wednesday evening, May 7. Our school did the Norwegian Mountain March.

We have had a lot of flowers in our school room this week. Some of them were lilacs, violets and tulips. We picked the violets and tulips in our own school yard.

We received a trophy from the Automobile club of Michigan for excellence in our safety program of this past year. The boys and girls who have served on our Safety Patrol are Captain Virginia Waldecker, Dolores Daves, Jo Ann Squires and Melvin Shultz.

The world improves in some ways. The opening of school, in the old days, boosted the sale of fine-tooth combs.

How to make horsepower out of Thin Air!

Buick SPECIAL 6-passenger Sedanet, $1006. White sidewall tires extra.*

JUST consider these plain facts about the engines in this 1941 Buick SPECIAL:

The engine that regularly powers this Series develops 115 horsepower and turns up 20.1 miles per gallon at a steady 30 miles an hour in Proving Ground economy tests.

But add Compound Carburetion,† and the same engine in the same model develops 125 horsepower and goes 21.5 miles per gallon by exactly the same tests!

There's more from less gasoline—and it comes, literally, out of thin air.

Because the two carburetors in this exclusive Buick feature handle a larger air volume than can be provided efficiently by a single mixer.

They let us step up compression pressure, which increases power—that in turn permits a more economical rear axle gear ratio, which gives more miles per gallon!

We'll let you figure out what all this means in extra fun, extra thrills, extra satisfaction.

We'll let you size up, too, how nice it is to travel farther more pleasantly—on as much as 10% to 15% less gasoline than former Buicks used.

But for the whole picture, just go get actual, local, delivered prices on a Buick.

You'll find that nowhere else can you buy the same size, the same style, the same power, the same comfort at the same low bargain Buick figures.

†Available at slight extra cost on some Buick SPECIAL models, standard on all other Series.

The vegetables you want ... when you want them!

Before dawn, truckloads of produce start rolling from farm to market. While they are on the road the grower at home is often telephoning buyers and taking orders, so that the whole shipment is sold when his trucks reach the city.

THE truck farmers of Michigan not only raise a huge supply of garden produce for the people of this state, but ship hundreds of tons to neighboring states as well. Growing such crops as asparagus, snap and lima beans, cabbage, cantaloupe, carrots, celery, sweet corn, cucumbers, onions, green peas and tomatoes brings $15,000,000 of yearly income to Michigan farmers.

The most successful truck growers in the state are those who keep closest to their markets—not in miles but in information. They telephone the buyers, find out what vegetables will be most in demand next morning, and have time to gather a load, grade it, pack it, and get it to market early. They gather only what is needed and have no loss. Such telephone service enables growers to supply the vegetables you want when you want them.

"How much is asparagus today?" the housewife asks her grocer. "Is your head lettuce nice and firm?" She knows that her vegetables will come to her farm-fresh, sped on their way by telephone.

THERE MUST BE UNITY.

Former President Herbert Hoover speaking to the nation last Sunday evening, urged that we give unlimited aid to Great Britain and that we strive for national unity as quickly as possible.

In fact, we have no national unity at the present time, he declared—and he further said that the political conditions of the past that had brought about this un-American condition should be forgotten in the face of the exceedingly grave situation confronting our country and in the necessity of building a united front to meet the conflict that is sure to come.

In this we agree with our great former President, a President who was defeated upon a campaign of false issues and charges. But it is going to be no easy task to overcome the hatreds and the ill-will that have been created by the present administration—even though it is something that MUST be done.

Politics, greed and ill-will have no place in our national life, especially at a time when we are in for trouble and plenty of it. Let's unite as never before to keep America for AMERICANS!

A WORTHY SUGGESTION.

An effort is being made to have Mrs. Dudley C. Hay of Detroit elected a member of the Republican National committee to succeed Mrs. Charles Beecher Warren, who died recently. The Plymouth Mail is pleased to endorse such a high type candidate as Mrs. Hay for this important post. She represents clean, progressive politics and has won for herself an outstanding place in Michigan's civic life by her various activities.

Mrs. Hay's selection is being urged on the ground "she is particularly well-fitted by her gifts of vision, organizing ability and capacity for mutual understanding of the problems and aims of people in all levels to assume party leadership and help bring victory to our party's cause in the perilous times that lie ahead."

Mrs. Hay's acceptance of the nomination for the national post was featured by her declaration that "I am distinctly not the candidate of any group or individual. As I see it, one of the most outstanding needs of our party is simply that it must make new friends and supporters. If the contacts which have been mine over so many years in many phases of our civic and community life can contribute to the Republican party's successful future, I will be only too happy to put forth every effort at my command."

Mrs. Hay's selection as Mrs. Warren's successor was ratified April 30 at a meeting of women delegates from all seven Congressional districts, following her endorsement by the Wayne County Council of Women's Republican clubs, which has 27 units. Her candidacy sprang from the wishes of her friends and associates in the Fourteenth District to replace Mrs. Warren with one of her closest friends and co-workers.

Having shown marked ability in fund-raising positions because of her general organizational talent and ability to instill harmony and cooperation into every group with which she has worked, Mrs. Hay's supporters feel that much assistance will be given her candidacy by women who remember her as both membership and Ways and Means chairman of the Republican Women's Federation of Michigan.

She was also organizer and chairman of the Women's Division of the Michigan Republican Finance committee in 1938-39. Mrs. Hay led the statewide women's committee for adoption of the Non-Partisan Judiciary amendment. For many years she has taken a leading part in the work of the Disabled American Veterans' campaigns for Child Welfare.

Civic, patriotic and humanitarian causes in Detroit and Wayne county have known her as a leader willing to give unselfishly of her time and ability for more than a dozen years. The Goodwill Industries, Volunteers of America and the Women's Association of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra have received the bulk of her attention.

Their Views About Public Problems and Issues

STRIKE—WHILE THE IRON IS COLD?

We have had a lot of talk whether or not strikes were causing much havoc in the defense program, but until recently we haven't had very much in the way of calm and authoritative figures. Now National statistics on defense and other strikes that should sweep a number of unsupported declarations into the discard have been compiled.

The study shows that total number of man-days lost from strikes in the first three months of this year were more than three times as great as for the same period in 1940. In all, 4,022,918 man-days were lost in January, February and March of this year; and of this total, 1,578,000 man-days were directly in defense industries.

The time lost in those industries would have been enough to equip about 1,402,480 American soldiers with the latest Garand rifles, or to provide more than five billion rounds of ammunition for those rifles. Seen in those terms—or in any others—the harm done can hardly be minimized.

The great danger lies in the attitude of some who continue to claim, in the face of the evidence, that the number or result of strikes in defense is really not very important. The figures knock that complacency galley-west.

Defense is either vital or isn't. The American people think that it is, and will be paying billions in taxes to support their belief. In the light of that stand, there is an all-important need to work out solutions for any problems that arise without recourse to strikes that cripple our all-out effort for national defense.—George O. St. Charles in The Dearborn Independent.

LOOK AHEAD, LABOR

The labor picture is much brighter calls a headline and this is an aspirin tablet to Oxford thinkers who felt the picture was too dark for American-made comfort. The fact that there are two sides to every story makes us certain, even without the advice of those in the midst of it, that labor has rights and demands that must be met in order to provide harmony. The side of capital must have an audience as well. But during the discussion of strikes on defense jobs, the public in general seems to be more willing to judge against labor than for it. We are thinking in terms of our own skin, I guess. Perhaps if the labor picture is brighter it means that there are hopes for us, that we can get busy and produce to capacity for the maintenance of peace at home. Let labor troubles be solved by mediation and be solved squarely, but don't let labor trouble draw us into a fate worse than wages and hours discord, a fate that would make labor trouble look a bit childish.—Hitler trouble is a worse death.—E. H. Congdon in The Oxford Leader.

YES, WHY?

Why should we spend $39,500,000,000 for the defense of the country and every other alleged democracy in the world and leave on public payrolls men and women who do not believe in the American way of life, but who do believe in organizations that would forcibly overthrow our Government?—George Neal in The Orion Review.

GERMAN EFFICIENCY

The German government is thorough and efficient. Its aim is to build a war machine that can control the world. To do this the German government wishes to grow an army of stalwart boys, and to make this possible it decrees that women under 25 years of age shall not smoke cigarettes. Is there a lesson in this for the American girl?—W. H. Berkeley in The Cassopolis Vigilant.

THE ISSUE

We regret the open break between the President and Colonel Lindbergh. Boiled down, this is the issue: If you feel that you are better off with the British fleet under the command of the Germans then you are definitely in Colonel Lindbergh's corner. If, on the other hand, you feel safer with the British fleet staying British, then you favor the position of the President. That's the crux of the whole discussion. It was Marshal Foch in World War No. 1 who said: "The moral factor is the most important element in war." Now go ahead and make your decision.—M. H. DeFoe in The Charlotte Republican-Tribune.

The bond issue of $100,000 to build a new school to replace the building recently destroyed by fire carried by a large majority at the special election last Tuesday.

Plymouth baseball fans will be glad to know that a team has been organized here and arrangements are being made to put on some interesting games at the local park the coming season. Henry Simpson will manage the team, which will be made up as follows: Elkerton, 1st; Gray, s.s.; Cook, 3rd; Fredericks, 2nd; Tousey, pitcher; Sallow, r.f.; Hantz, c.f.; Fisher, l.f.; Stoneburner, catcher; Gorton, r.f.; Westfall, catcher; Penney, pitcher. The opening game of the season will take place at Athletic Park, Saturday, when Plymouth will cross bats with St. Leo Y. M. C. A. team of Detroit.

The "wet" and "dry" election, which was held yesterday, brought to a close a short and strenuous campaign for both the "dry" and the "wet" forces. The "drys" won with a vote of 340 over the "wets" vote of 204.

B. J. Havershaw has accepted a position with Henry Ford & Son as electrician and overseer of motors at the new Ford plant at Dearborn.

Two large crowds witnessed the great moving picture film, "The Battle Cry of Peace," at the Edison theatre last Thursday and Friday evenings. This great film is not only entertaining, but is very instructive as well. One of the pleasing features of the two evenings was the excellent music furnished by the Chaffers family orchestra.

Dr. Daniel H. Kress of Chicago gave an interesting and instructive lecture on "Cigarettes and Preparedness" in village hall last week Thursday evening. Dr. Kress, who came to Plymouth through the solicitation of the civic committee of the Woman's Literary club, pointed out the evil effects of the use of cigarettes upon the young, mentally, morally and physically, and the lecture was made more impressive by the use of stereoscopic views.

About 35 partook of a fine dinner and enjoyed a social time and program at Charles Westfall's Tuesday. The next G. A. R. dinner will be held with Mr. and Mrs. William Coats of Plymouth in August.

On Saturday evening last Mr. and Mrs. Bakewell gave a miscellaneous shower at the home of H. C. Hager for their son, Alfred, and his bride. Musicians for the evening were Sidney Bakewell, violinist, and his younger brother, Alfred of Detroit, who accompanied him on the piano. Miss Clara Coverdill also rendered many pleasing piano solos and accompanied the younger members of the company in their singing of the old favorite songs.
