FOR DEFENSE

★ BUY A SHARE IN AMERICA ★

Put YOUR Dollars to Work for Uncle Sam and the Security of Every American!

We who are beyond the age limit for military service can best back up the splendid, clean-cut, loyal young men being taken from our community by investing every dollar we can spare in our government's defense bonds. These dollars will be spent to provide the best our Army and Navy can secure for the comfort of our boys called into military training.

Then, too, every dollar invested in purchases of Defense Savings Stamps and Bonds is a dollar invested in the future of our America!

Our government needs both man power and dollar power . . . It must have money to prepare against the dangers that confront us and it is asking that every citizen do his bit in this great cause.

But why should we expect our government to ask us to make this investment? Every loyal American should regard it as an honor and a distinction to possess as many Defense bonds as his means will enable him to buy.

Go to the Plymouth postoffice today, or to the First National or United Savings bank and invest your dollars in OUR United States!

(This advertisement is a contribution of The Plymouth Mail to the government's campaign to speed up the purchase of our Defense Bonds)

Rains Aid City's Well-Water Supply; Consumption Shows Steady Increase

Recent rains have been a blessing in more ways than one. They have helped the farmers. They have helped the finicky home owner who desires every blade of grass in his lawn to look like Milady's hair just after she has left the beauty parlor, and they have helped even the city of Plymouth. Yes, sir, the rains have brought the city's water supply level up to a point where there isn't a possible chance of a water shortage this year, unless of course there should be a long drought later in the summer.

City Manager Clarence Elliott and other municipal officials seem to be quite elated over present conditions out at the city's "water farm" on the Beck road, where Plymouth folks get their average of 83 gallons of water per day during the entire year.

Inquiry reveals that the amount of water being consumed in Plymouth is showing a steady increase each year. A total of 169,000,000 gallons of water was consumed during 1939-40, and this year's total will approximate 175,000,000, or an increased consumption of about 12,000,000 gallons in the last year. This increase is the result of an increase in the number of residences and factories in the city, and also because most factories are working at greater capacity, thereby necessitating the use of more water.

The source of the city's water supply is situated northwest of Plymouth on Beck road where the underground water gathering system consists of driven wells and pumping equipment for delivering the water to the city. A reinforced concrete storage reservoir is also connected with the supply line, and a booster pumping station, located near the intersection of Mill and Starkweather, is equipped with two centrifugal pumps by means of which the water brought by the supply line is delivered into the city distribution system at a greater pressure. The average water pressure now is 45 pounds per square inch. A system of supply pipes and feeder mains supplies water to all residences. An elevated steel tank connected with this distributing system is located in the park at the rear of the Presbyterian church property. The reservoir contains 1,900,000 gallons which is sufficient to supply the population of Plymouth for about four or five days in the event of an emergency. It has been estimated that the source of water supply from city-owned wells is adequate to serve the needs of Plymouth if the population should increase beyond the 7,000 mark by 1950.

The maximum yield, as tested by the engineering department recently, is 770 gallons per minute. Most of the city's supply pipe-lines are four, six and eight inch pipe, but in accordance with a ten-year master plan for the improvement of water distribution adopted in 1936, all new lines being installed are of 10- and 12-inch pipe.

In 1937, there was 2,000 feet of 12-inch pipe installed on Evergreen from Penniman to Farmer and in 1938, there were 3,000 feet of 12-inch pipe installed on Mill street from Plymouth road to Ann Arbor road. It is expected that the city will lay another 12-inch main this year from the booster station to the tank located in the center of the city.

Meanwhile, the cost of per capita water consumption is constantly being reduced by the steady retirement of water bonds which originally totaled $230,000. There is now only $52,000 outstanding in water bonds, the last of which will mature in 1951.

Troop LVI Has Overnight Hike

Livonia Center Boy Scouts of Troop LVI had their first overnight hike last week-end when leaders and assistants, accompanied by Scoutmaster William Cook, camped Friday night on the banks of Belle creek. The balance of the troop hiked to the site Saturday where they took various second class tests.

The hike and camping excursion was more or less an introduction to that phase of Scouting for the boys who for the most part had never camped outdoors before. They put their entire camp in order, consisting of nine tents and a first aid station. Each of the four patrols purchased two tents with proceeds from the sale of paper and the Scouters club bought the other. Troop committeemen Lawrence Larson and John Kurtz assisted Scoutmaster Cook in overseeing the boys' activities Saturday.

Cooking and the knife and hatchet tests were passed by most of the Scouts as part of their second class activities.

Because of bad weather, trappers along the Lake Erie shore took only about eight per cent more muskrats during the extended 1940-41 season than during the previous year, according to estimates of a conservation department investigator. Trappers reported the "rat" supply still heavy at the end of the second month's trapping.

Gardens Group Has Book Club Meeting

On Thursday evening, May 15, at the Rosedale Gardens clubhouse, Mrs. Edward Hauk, of Plymouth, presented a most interesting review of the new first novel by Lorraine Carr, "The Mother of the Smiths" to the Women's club of the Rosedale Gardens Civic association. The story is about a mother's courage and her sacrifices and love for her family against great difficulty. Mrs. Hauk presented it beautifully, and everyone present, thoroughly enjoyed it.

Mrs. Lester Bookout also gave a group of piano numbers including selections by Chopin, Schubert and Rachmaninoff. Refreshments were served by the committee including Mrs. William Culbertson, Mrs. C. A. Bucknell and Mrs. Harold Crisp.

Garden City Stops Schraders, 7-2

Pitcher Baker of Garden City had the Schrader-Haggerty team of Plymouth handcuffed Sunday at Riverside park, allowing only four hits. Schraders lost the game to Garden City, 7-2.

The Garden City boys stopped a rally of Plymouth in the second inning when they made a triple play. The bunt sign was on with two men on bases when Jim Williams bunted a pop-up to catcher who threw to second base to double Harold Williams, and then threw to first to double off Joe Horvath, completing the triple play.

DeBozy was losing pitcher for the locals. Schomberger was the leading hitter for Schraders with two out of four.

Next Sunday, the boys will play at Riverside Park with Melvindale.

Lutheran Church Plans Confirmation Services

Semi-annual confirmation services for children of St. Peter's Evangelical Lutheran church will be held at 10:30 o'clock next Sunday morning. The boys to be confirmed are Robert Bartell, Chester Wood, Arthur Sieloff, Donald Rock, Roland Jarskey and Kenneth Brinks. They will receive their first communion on Whitsunday, June 1, at 10 a.m.

Women's Club Plans Strawberry Festival

The board of the Women's club of the Rosedale Gardens Civic association met on Tuesday evening, May 13, at the home of Mrs. Ralph Baker to discuss and make plans for "An Old Fashioned Strawberry Festival" to be given at the clubhouse on Saturday evening, June 14, rain or shine.

This is to be a community affair, and all residents of the Gardens and their friends are most cordially invited to attend.

Plans were also discussed for the fall program, and an interesting year is promised to all members of the Women's club.

Plan More Aid for Gardeners

(By E. I. Besemer)
The fruit and vegetable growers around Plymouth, Belleville, Wayne and other sections of Wayne county will have the additional services of an extension agent who will have his headquarters at the Western Market. Raymond L. Klackie is the new extension agent for the Detroit Marketing area. He will serve the growers of the five or six counties that bring produce to the eastern and western markets.

He plans to be on the markets with the mornings to help growers with their problems and use the afternoons for field work.

Mr. Klackie has a background of small fruit and vegetable farming in Berrien county, he graduated from Michigan State college in 1936 and has been in the fruit tree department of the Monroe Nursery for the last four years.

Bowlers Win Awards in Tournaments

Auctioneer Receives Unusual Goods From Old Circus Performer

Auctioneer Harry C. Robinson last week received three truckloads of furniture, glassware and other articles which were the belongings of a 52-year-old woman long associated with the Barnum and Bailey circus. The old-time circus performer died suddenly in Detroit. Among the most choice articles is a collection of fine cut-glassware and several genuine mahogany furniture pieces of unusual quality.

George Veresh Drowns Sunday

George Veresh, 19-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Veresh of 114 North Mill street, drowned in Edison lake near Belleville Sunday afternoon when he was thrown from an outboard motorboat which upset on a turn into the boat landing.

His two companions, Elmer Passage and Charles Williams, both of Plymouth, were rescued. Passage and young Veresh were both thrown clear of the boat, but Veresh apparently struck his head on the upturned boat. According to his companions, he was too stunned to make any attempt to swim. Williams, who was steering, was pinned in the boat, but managed to free himself and hang on until rescuers reached the craft. Veresh's body was later recovered.

Young Veresh attended Detroit schools and worked as a greenskeeper at the Hilltop golf course near Plymouth. He is survived by his parents, five brothers, Stephen, John, Albert Frank and Edward and two sisters, Helen and Ethel. Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 from the family residence with the Wilkie Funeral home in charge.

Livonia Center Parents Attend First Meeting of Cub Scouts

Eighteen parents of boys intending to be members of a Livonia Center Cub Scout pack were present at the first parent-instruction class held Friday evening at the Community church. Tomorrow (Thursday) evening the second in a series of three of the meetings will be held at the church, starting at 7:30 o'clock.

All parents interested in having their sons become Cubs are urged to attend every one of the meetings. Robert Rousch, director of cubbing activities for the Detroit area council, spoke at the meeting last Thursday. He said that cubbing will develop better boys and better parents. Also he remarked the boys and grass will not grow in the same back yard. Movies of Cubs at work in their "dens" were shown as were various charts and exhibits.

Michigan now has 16 active Pittman-Robertson projects, more than any other state except Idaho. Forty-three states are participating in study and improvement of game conditions under the federal aid in wildlife restoration act, with the federal government paying 75 per cent of the costs.

School Districts Near Plymouth Plan New Schools

Vote New Buildings at Clarenceville, Cooper; Stark Plans Addition

Electors of school districts in three neighboring localities east of Plymouth have recently voted authorization for bond issues for new schools and additions and plans are being completed for construction. Clarenceville and Cooper school districts have voted to erect new school buildings and the electors of Stark school district have approved plans for an addition to the present school building.

Clarenceville school district electors have voted to transfer $40,000 from their general fund to the building and equipment fund making possible the immediate construction of an eight-room school on a recently purchased site on Middle Belt road, between Seven and Eight Mile roads. Plans have been approved by the board of education and bids have been let for the proposed eight-room annex which is to be built entirely with available school district funds. It is expected that construction will start immediately in order that the building will be ready for occupancy at the beginning of the school year next September.

The addition to accommodate the seventh, eighth, ninth and tenth grades, is expected to make possible a full day session for all grades. At the present time, a half-day schedule is in effect in a large portion of the grades. The new building will be two stories high, with provision for the future addition of other classrooms. Stark school district electors voted to float bonds amounting to $15,000 for the construction of an addition to the present school building and the revamping of the school's heating system. The new addition, according to present plans, will provide two new classrooms and an office as well as modernization of the heating system.

Last week, the electors of Cooper school district voted to build a $10,000 school building of five to eight rooms to be located just west of the present school. The voters also approved the purchase of the present site for $300 and an increase in tax millage to six mills above the present 15 if necessary to carry out the building program. The increased millage necessary to retire bonds within the required five years, has been approved by the state debt commission.

Action for the construction of new school buildings is widespread throughout this entire district as a result of increased population due to the defense activities in the industrial metropolitan area. This recent influx has served to crystallize the demand for remedying increasingly overcrowded conditions in the public schools.

ATTACK ON AMERICA

BY GENERAL ARRED WHITE
W. N. U. Release

THE STORY SO FAR: More than 200,000 foreign troops assembled in Mexico by Van Hasek suddenly invaded the United States. Vastly superior in numbers and equipment to the American forces which opposed them, Van Hasek's troops pushed relentlessly forward. The U. S. Army was not prepared for this sudden attack, and could only retreat in the face of overwhelming force. High army officers worked desperately to organize an effective resistance against the invader. Intelligence Officer Benning barely escaped with his life when a dynamite-laden ship exploded in the Panama Canal, trapping the...

CHAPTER XIX

Colonel Flagwill had sprawled out on a cot in his office in the Munitions Building for a few winks of sleep at sunrise, when he was shaken to wakefulness by an assistant. "Here's our report from the Fourth Army at San Diego, sir," the assistant reported. "Air reconnaissance confirmed Major Benning's report from El Paso. Van Hasek's troops are moving north from Guaymas! Facts confirmed by photographs taken by one of our observation planes."

The admiral's face went ashen; He swallowed several times and licked purple lips. "That, sir," he said in a low, trembling voice, "is a matter of decision entirely beyond my province. I can only give you the facts as to the limitations of your navy."

putting out of here, Hawtry. I want to get to the Puget Sound country as soon as possible." They took off at once for San Francisco. Below them they saw the roads massed black with fleeing thousands from Los Angeles, Pasadena, and towns along the path of impending invasion. At San Francisco they put down for the night because of heavy fogs. The city was in a panic. Steady streams of people were pouring out of the city on all roads. The Mint was being emptied, money and securities from banks being shipped by train and truck.

Flagwill sat up and read the report with a blank expression. The staggering succession of events, the crushing responsibilities of the past few days had bankrupt him of emotion.

He halted and looked from one to another. His face now was wrinkled and drawn until he had the aspect of a very old man.

A new terror fed the panic. Fog had engulfed most of the coastline from Seattle to San Francisco. Visibility had been stripped from the sea by vast blankets of fog. Air observers were land-bound. If the fog held out through the next few days, the invader would be able to put ashore in whaleboats and establish a foothold unhampered by American fighting planes.

"Well—one more report from our Asiatic fleet and we'll know the worst," he muttered. "Is General Hague at his desk yet, do you know?"

"The inevitable decision," he added, add wet his lips with several nervous flicks of his tongue. "You, Admiral, will be prepared to withdraw your fleet to the Atlantic to protect the country's vital centers of population. You, General, will meet the invasion as best you can at the Pacific shore, and fight a delaying action. There must be no public announcement of this decision temporarily to abandon the Pacific coast. We are simply yielding to the inevitable. That is all, gentlemen."

With nightfall word came to San Francisco that the Fourth Army was retreating north from San Diego. General Brunn refused to make any announcement, but the secret leaked that his divisions were headed into the region of Sacramento. News of this retreat converted panic into frenzy.

"Let him come in," Flagwill interrupted. Benning responded at once, his face a peculiar chalky color. Flagwill's eyes centered on the major's left arm that hung from his neck in a woolen sling.

"A momentous decision had to be made by the commander of the Fourth Army. General Brunn and

In the morning Hawtry took a chance against the fog. He found a hole at Medford and put down to refuel. Four hours later, Hawtry nosed about in the feeble sky over Fort Lewis until he found a rift and dived to a landing.

his general staff had been in a huddle through long hours. American bombers, attack and pursuit planes, had hammered Van Hasek's marching columns without greatly reducing their relentless northern movement.

"You didn't tell me you'd been in a jam," Flagwill accused. "What are all the bandages about?"

Benning smiled placidly, and said: "The sawbones took a Luger slug out of El Paso, sir. I've only myself to blame for taking foolish chances, but at least all's well that ends well, and I suppose I'll always feel better about the way I handled it."

Here on Puget Sound, some two thousand miles north of Brunn's retreating divisions, was the northernmost element of his Fourth Army. For defense of the Northwest were two National Guard Divisions and part of the Third Regulars.

"What about Boggio?" Flagwill sharply interrupted. "When I met him, instead of shooting him at sight, I said, 'Boggio, I'm Major Benning, United States Army. I understand you claim responsibility for bombing the White House.' Boggio snatched out his pistol and went into action. I aimed very deliberately at his heart and effected a clean bull's-eye. I didn't even know it'd been hit until some minutes later."

"This fog has us stumped," he groaned. "We know enemy transports are not far off shore—they may make a landing tonight. But they can land anywhere from Gray Harbor on down the coast into Oregon. All we can do is watch and wait, keeping our reserves massed and mobile. When they do land, all we can do is fight them in successive positions for a day or two and then pull out for the Cascades!"

Private Band knew that friendly patrols were not allowed in front of his own position. His heart pounded so hard he heard nothing else.

Flagwill nodded gravely and said: "I'm glad you did it just that way, Benning. Hope your arm isn't in too bad a fix."

"Just a little hole, sir. El Paso gave me anti-tetanus treatment and said I'd be as good as new in a short time. Things seem to look pretty black just now. Anything new from Panama?"

"There's men moving," someone hoarsely whispered. Private Band knew that friendly patrols were not allowed in front of his own position. His heart pounded so hard he heard nothing else.

"Yes, Engineers affirm that it'll take a year to put the Canal in commission." General Hague's aide-de-camp banged into the room with a summons, his ashen face and distended eyes eloquent of some major catastrophe that he did not wait to disclose.

Benning passed up the hospital to search through intelligence summaries and press reports. They reflected a world now black as pitch with stark omens of mighty violence.

A stab of flame leaped from the muzzle of Rand's gun. A succession of sharp flames followed as he poured the murderous might of his machine gun into the night. A shrill cry rang out in front.

"I regret to say, General," President Tannard responded, "that with all my years in the Senate I didn't realize that condition." The President turned to Admiral Hunt and asked him, "With the loss of your naval bases on the Pacific, you will have Pearl Harbor to fall back on?"

Benning heard the decision with a gloomy tightening of the muscles of his jaw. Events of the past few days had dulled his sense of acute feeling, left him numb and dazed. Brunn's decision meant the abandonment of the great Naval Operating Base at San Diego. It meant the first move of the land forces in evacuating the Pacific coast.

From a mile behind the shoreline the commander of a battalion of howitzers barked an order. Muzzle flashes cut the night momentarily to ribbons. The earth rocked from the force of the explosion that sent high-explosive shells screaming to the unseen shoreline.

"Then you recommend abandonment of the Pacific coasts, at least for the time being?" President Tannard demanded.

To Safeguard Public Health

There are many disease-bearing micro-organisms that are exceedingly difficult to destroy, and their powers of destruction do not cease when the body they have attacked is lifeless. They continue to be a menace to the living. To sterilize these dangerous bacteria is an important part of our sanitation service, a professional service in the interests of public health. Our duty is to the living and we try to make that service much more than a merely scientific duty. Our tasks are performed in a spirit of true sympathy and neighborly understanding... to comfort as well as to protect.

"I'm Glad I'm an American," Declares Robert Sessions in School Essay

"I'm Glad I'm An American" is the testament of Robert Sessions, Plymouth high school senior, who presents a summary of our inherent democratic privileges in an essay written as part of a project of James Latture's senior class in American government. Mr. Sessions' essay follows, in full:

Our country was founded and built on the basis of freedom of the individual, such as freedom of the press, religion, the right to assemble, trial by jury, right to vote and hold office. The people who first came here came for a purpose, to get away from the dictatorial actions of kings and queens. The people didn't mind the hardships of getting over here or what ordeals faced them. It was worth all the trials and tribulations to be able to say what they wanted, do what they wanted, and think what they wanted.

Later the people declared themselves free and independent and drew up a constitution which guaranteed all these things that the people had fought and died for. These rights and liberties we now enjoy. Without thinking, we abuse these rights at times. The average person takes these rights for granted as a part of our mode of life, although men and women who are thinking of tomorrow shudder at the thought of losing these rights and finding a totalitarian form of government in their place.

In totalitarian countries one would be put in a concentration camp, a living death, for uttering a single word against the government. Luxuries are almost unheard of in nations of this kind. If you are fortunate enough to have a radio, you must listen to programs approved by the government because it is not wise for the government to let the individual learn of any better conditions outside of their country. Automobiles are hard to obtain. Facts and figures show that there is only one car to every 44 persons while in America there is a car for every four. It takes gasoline to run these cars and money to buy the gasoline and in Germany the government takes a large percentage of the gasoline for the army and navy, while 75 per cent of your income also goes to build up a supreme military machine. In other words, you just have to grin and say you did your part for the government and then tighten up your belt again.

People say there is no unemployment in these countries. Of course not, for if there aren't any jobs in the munition factories, you are compelled to join the labor corps which builds roads, gun emplacements, barracks, army camps and bases. At an early age you are compelled to join an army school where the beliefs of your country are drummed into your head while you are taught that war is glorious. Here in "good old America" you can kid about the President's fishing trips every month and about the supreme court having to decide on women's hats, without being thrown into a concentration camp. Our government is divided into three departments, each checking upon the other so that we will always be free. The house of representatives and the senate make and pass laws for the welfare of the people. The laws that have been passed by both houses go to the President to be approved. If he vetoes it, it then goes back to the congress in which it originated and if it receives a two-thirds vote in both houses, it then becomes a law. When the people don't like the policy of a party they can vote it out at the next election and if they don't like an office holder, they can use the American privilege of recall. In America, in your childhood days you can play cops and robbers, for fun while in Germany they play for keeps. In America, sixteen-year-old children are going to school, which will benefit the world while boys of the same age in Germany are fighting which will benefit no one. In America you don't have to join the army unless you so desire, although in this emergency our democracy is doing its part willingly by drafting its men for the war against Hitlerism.

My idea of what democracy means is the right of every person to attain the position for which he has the ability, even if he was born on the wrong side of the tracks. Again I say the right to think, do and say what you want is most sacred and valuable to the individual.

If the beliefs of this country could be carried to the whole world, war for the most part, would be banned and world harmony would prevail. I will do my part for America, for you see, I'm glad I'm an American.

Tulip Time in Windmill Park, Holland, Michigan. Acres upon acres of neatly tended tulip beds are now in full bloom.

Tulip Time in Michigan's Own Holland

THIS WEEK—from May 17 to May 24—one of our country's loveliest festivals takes place in Holland, Michigan. Tulip Time is an institution known from coast to coast. Some 750,000 people are expected to visit the town and view the 3,000,000 tulips that border its streets and parks with gorgeous color.

The people of this up-to-date American city still preserve the love of gardens brought by their ancestors from old Holland. Today a great part of all the nation's tulip bulbs are raised in this one district.

Each spring thousands of telephone calls are made from all parts of the country, keeping six girls at Festival Headquarters busy answering inquiries about the progress of the tulips and arranging for accommodations during the festival. Michigan has a right to be proud of Tulip Time.

☆ Our First Defeat Administration and Industrial Management Surrender at Point of Gun as Labor Gets 100 Per Cent of Its Wage Demands, Thus Increasing Defense and Starting Inflation ☆ By David Lawrence, Famed Washington Political Observer and Editor and Publisher of The United States News ☆

The biggest news for America last week was not the flight of Rudolf Hess.

Nor the decision of Marshal Pétain to turn the African colonies of France over to Hitler. Nor the rise of Axis power in the Near East.

The biggest news happened here at home—in Washington where President Roosevelt suffered the most ignominious defeat of his public career. Unable or unwilling to deal with the CIO any other way, he permitted his own National Defense Mediation Board to grant 100 per cent of the wage demands of the auto workers' union and thus set the pace for a nationwide set of wage increases even as the Government strove feebly in other quarters to argue against price rises and inflation.

It was not the management of General Motors which surrendered in the settlement recommended by a board of President Roosevelt's choosing. It was the Government of the United States which surrendered. At a time when the youth of the nation is being compelled to serve at $21 a month, the auto workers had their pay boosted by $208 a year. With overtime it will mount still higher. Nearly 70 per cent of the total number of employes already were earning $2,000 to $2,500 a year.

The new increase in wages, estimated to be about $50,000,000 a year, is equivalent to about a full year's pay for 200,000 draftees or the personnel of 17 modern army divisions.

ENTIRE COST OF LIVING AFFECTED BY WAGE BOOSTS

The General Motors Corporation can stand the increase but can the American people stand it? For the wage level set in one company affects all the others and likewise raises the wage scales in related industries. And the American people will have to pay the increased costs all along the line. Prices certainly cannot be held down if wage costs increase. The scales paid for non-defense work automatically become the prevailing wages paid for defense work. Many of the auto workers are about to be transferred to defense contracts as the Government compels a 40 per cent reduction in automobile production. On most of the defense contracts, the big manufacturers are making less profit by a good deal than on their normal operations. This is because many of the contracts are on what is known as a "cost-plus-fee" basis. The fees fixed are amazingly small in relation to operations on non-defense work and usually net the companies only about one per cent of the gross amount of the contract. But the wage costs—well, these can skyrocket anywhere, for the companies do not pay them. The American people do. And the principal agent of the American people is the President of the United States, who is supposed to keep the costs of national defense down instead of letting them go up to any heights demanded by a minority group of citizens at the expense of the vast majority.

LABOR IS USING ECONOMIC POWER AS BLUDGEON

Why didn't the General Motors Corporation refuse to grant the wage increase, knowing that the effect on our economic system and on the cost of the defense program would be damaging?

The answer is that the General Motors Corporation had no alternative. If it refused the demand, it would have brought on a major strike involving some 250,000 employes. And in strikes nowadays there is no protection whatsoever for the men who want to work. There no longer is a democratic method of taking a strike vote. The laborers, moreover, who disagree find themselves coerced by pickets who use violence. The President of the United States and the Governor of the state of Michigan recently refused to enforce the laws with respect to mass picketing and violence at the Ford plants. What assurance would the General Motors officials have had that they could operate their plants if they refused the union demands? None whatever.

There was a time when the nation was led to believe that the only thing wrong with the labor problem was the refusal of management to bargain collectively. This was supposed to be the difficulty in the Ford case. But here is an instance in which one of America's largest employers has bargained collectively, in fact has had a union contract ever since the "sit-down" strikes of four years ago. Now that labor has achieved the right of collective bargaining, what is labor doing with its economic power? Is it exercising self-restraint in a national crisis or is it out to get all it can, irrespective of the effect on the rest of the citizenry? Unhappily, the answer must be given that labor's leaders are abusing their economic and political power. The record belies any other conclusion.

The definition of "collective bargaining" in this case can plainly be written today as collective bludgeoning—a complete surrender by management to whatever wage rates labor happens to demand. In this instance it is plain, too, that the full acquiescence of the Roosevelt Administration was behind the surrender.

There was another demand—the closed shop—which would have meant a complete monopoly for the CIO auto workers union against the AFL. This was abandoned by the union for the present—it meant no financial sacrifice to give it up and was doubtless a trading point from the beginning. Anyway, the CIO has the exclusive rights of representation for the majority and, having secured a large wage increase, the closed shop provision becomes less important to the union. The issue will be revived in due course—one year hence. The unfortunate truth is that General Motors, compelled by circumstances over which it had no control, denied potential protection if it refused to accede. took the only course available—capitulation.

But the responsibility is on the Roosevelt Administration, which not only encourages wage boosts but declines to tax these profiteering benefits.

INEQUITIES IN TAX LAWS WILL CAUSE INFLATION

What may not be generally realized, however, is that the workers are committing economic suicide by allowing their selfish leaders to insist on higher and higher wage scales. The vast amount of purchasing power created by the payroll increases must go somewhere. It will be found bidding soon for consumer goods. The Government will try to hold prices down. This is impossible unless wage costs are held stagnant. The Government will force a curtailment of production in certain non-defense articles because of scarcity of raw materials but this will not affect a large number of articles which will go up in price because labor costs there, too, will rise. And an extraordinary demand usually boosts the price.

We are on the threshold, therefore, of an inflation cycle of incalculable proportions. The well-to-do will be taxed heavily—in fact to the point of confiscation. About 700,000 persons with incomes of $5,000 a year or over will have to bear the principal burden—they will pay 75 per cent of the increased taxes. They will economize and also their incentive will be repressed. Meanwhile, because of politics, about $12,000,000,000 of gross income earned by 80 per cent of America's families in the lower brackets will escape income taxes and direct defense taxes.

Because of politics also, the Administration is just now boosting farm prices by Government loans.

ADMINISTRATION DOMINATED BY POLITICAL FEAR

This combination of political chicanery doesn't make sense for anybody—not even for the supposed beneficiaries. Because when inflation starts it affects the lowest income groups first and especially the large number of persons like school teachers and employees of federal, state and city governments, whose salaries rarely are boosted. It is usually long after the hardships of an increased cost of living have begun before persons with more or less fixed wages or salary rates are given increases to offset rises in the cost of living.

Economic leadership in Washington plus a certain courage to fight against selfishness in whatever form it rears its head could have averted the defeat last week in Washington. But so long as political fear dominates the governing authorities, there can be no effective leadership in a war emergency.

It is precisely this sort of decay and disintegration from within in democracy that gave Hitler his chance in the last eight years. The French Republic collapsed because of this very internal poison.

America is supposed to be in grave danger. The President himself says it is the most critical era in the history of our republic. Democracy is believed to be fighting for its life. But judging by what is happening in Washington, the disposition is not to save America but to save the New Deal—to conserve its political power and to curry favor with groups which can win another election.

The public has a right today to make such an inference and to call an Administration incompetent and inconsistent which, on the one hand, cries out about keeping prices down and, on the other hand, encourages a rise in labor costs and farm prices.

It was the farmer and labor alliance which gave the New Deal its third term. It is the fear of the farm and labor vote by a selfish group of politicians that may be giving America its last term of free government.

For the economic collapse that must some day follow such foolhardy policies as are being pursued today must inevitably produce a terrible reaction against democratic government and sow the seeds of fascism in America.

The Plymouth Mail Plymouth, Michigan

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

TAX TROUBLES.

According to the newspapers, Supervisor John Sherwood of Sumpter township is having some difficulty with the new tax set-up for that township. It seems that Sumpter is the last township in Wayne county to adopt the county tax equalization program that Plymouth put in force some years ago. There are some objectors to the plan in Sumpter, just as there was in Plymouth at the time of its introduction here. But after a few years of experience, the tax equalization plan has proven, (in Plymouth at least) that it is right and just.

When the plan was adopted in this city, The Plymouth Mail property was one that was hit by what we felt at the time as a pretty stiff blow by the increased valuation that was made. But as we have reviewed the assessments and noted the apparent fairness of the tax officials and their efforts to equalize the tax values, we have come to the conclusion that our complaint at the time was unjust. This has been the experience elsewhere in the county. The Mail, like all other taxpayers do not like to pay increased taxes, but we think the county tax officials have done a pretty good job in trying to be strictly honest and fair in their tax equalization program—and that is our conclusion after some years of experience with the plan.

We thought when the change was made and we were given a raise and others were given a decreased valuation, that there was something wrong somewhere in the way the officials figured out this tax problem, but time has proven that they were right and we who objected were wrong.

That is probably the way it will work out in Sumpter township, but meanwhile it is not a pleasant task that confronts the able supervisor of Wayne county's last township to come under the tax equalization system. Taxpayers are the class of people who find it necessary to watch their dollars—and they rightly ask a lot of questions—which of course supervisors and other tax officials must answer satisfactorily.

He who loves not his country, can love nothing.

ISN'T IT ABOUT TIME?

The Mail does not like to assume the role of a nagger or of a critic, but we wonder if the time has not arrived when we should go ahead and complete that badly needed public parking space in the rear of the business blocks along Penniman avenue and Main street? The city commission made an excellent start in this direction a year or so ago, but it seems that some little property dispute is holding up the final completion of the parking lot project.

There is only one way to settle an argument—and that is to settle it. Maybe it will require a little give and take on both sides. If so—then for the public good let us do both—give and take.

The city commission has long felt the need of additional parking space and The Mail has time and again commended our city fathers for their efforts to help improve a serious parking situation. But the time has now arrived for final action—and a public parking lot that will be a credit to Plymouth.

BLACK JACKING DEFENSE.

"I am getting all out of patience with all this talk about money. This is no time to ask for quotations on the defense of the United States . . . This job can't be handled with money. It must be handled with our hearts."—William S. Knudsen.

THE AGGRESSOR NATION.

In the past 76 years German armies have invaded their neighbors five times: In 1864 they invaded Denmark and seized one of its provinces; 1866 it was Austria; 1871 it was France, taking from that country Alsace and Lorraine, and cash to the amount of $1,000,000,000; 1914 Germany invaded France again; 1939 it was Poland, and a long list thereafter.

The Nazi love of war was testified as recently as last July, when Nazi Labor Front Leader Robert Ley declared in a speech at Bayreuth, Germany:

"War is no punishment, but rather the ultimate and most beautiful test of strength of the German people and their fitness to live."

But if we hark back 2,000 years we find that Caesar wrote of the Germani (De Bello Gallico VI 23):

"The Germans think it is a true sign of valor when their neighbors are compelled to withdraw from their lands and when no man dares to settle near them. At the same time they will be safer thereby, having removed all fear of a sudden attack."

WE QUITE AGREE.

Secretary of the navy, Hon. Frank Knox, the other day declared that "regardless of our feelings or political affiliations, we owe (our Commander-in-Chief of the Army and Navy) every measure of support possible."

William Knudsen, another outstanding Republican who is helping to build the national defense, declares that America needs and should have the most powerful armed forces in all the world.

We are in complete agreement with the views of both Republican Knox and Republican Knudsen. This is no time for politics—and this comes from one who has been one of the severest of critics of much of the political maneuvering of New Dealers.

We face a violent, dangerous situation and to meet it we must become the most powerful military nation of all time.

WE THE PEOPLE WILL PAY.

No one will begrudge any person additional wage increases, but does it not seem that just at this time when our nation is so severely threatened from all parts of the world, that a little more thought should be given to our self-preservation than to our pocketbooks? And to the average citizen, it looks very much as though an exceedingly unfair advantage is being taken of our country in forcing so many strikes in industries that are working on national defense orders.

Even though one desires to be as broad-minded as possible about the situation, many of the strikes in defense industries do have every appearance of being inspired by a desire to wreck America and help the enemies of our nation. Every dollar paid out in graft, every dollar paid out in excess profits, every dollar paid out in excess wages, will come directly out of the pockets of the taxpayers of America. It will not be the General Motors who will pay the wage increase just granted—that wage increase will be paid by EVERY taxpayer in America! You, and your neighbor and your neighbor's neighbor will foot that bill. Maybe it was a merited raise, maybe the company should have granted it without any hesitation, but the part that John Public does not like about the strike situation is the general appearance it has to the man who holds a dagger at another's heart—and says "give me what you have, or I'll take your life."

Seemingly it is impossible for Washington officials to instill into the minds of the vast majority of American people that we are now in a life and death struggle—a struggle that may mean the end of all the liberties we now possess unless EVERY person in this country is willing to sacrifice as we have never sacrificed before. We must go without—and we must accept conditions that may look unfair to us—but is it not far better to do that than lose all that we have or ever hope to have?
