AID FOR CITIES AND VILLAGES.

Within the immediate future there will be pending before the legislature the all-important question of state financial aid to the cities and villages of Michigan. Probably this will be the most controversial problem of the ses sion. State officials and many members of the legislature, especially those from up-state rural districts, are not at all receptive to any division of the state funds with villages and cities, even though at Northern Wayne County District

The recently organized group of mayors who are seek-ing this assistance have finally hit upon the plan of returning to the cities and villages one sixth of the total amount of sales tax collected.

This plan is in lieu of the proposal made by the governor's tax study commission that the state sales tax be cut to two and one half percent and the cities given a right to collect the other one half percent that had been taken off the state sales tax.

This tax study commission plan would involve considerable additional work in collecting the tax. It would also lead to confusion in collecting a half percent on all retail sales made, the state tax being fixed at two and one half percent instead of three percent. But there is not much use in discussing this plan because it is already dead. There will be no split in the method of sales tax collection. If the split in the fund is made in any way, it will be after collection by the state, as the writer suggested in this column a month

It was pointed out then that the state through a so-called swamp land tax, diverts enough money to some northern counties to pay the entire county payroll of these counties. Others get almost enough out of this diverted fund to pay most of their operating expenses.

There are some cities and villages, especially in those sections distress it will be necessary to help those that are not hard pressed As some members see it, there can be no distribution of a state Red Cross Drive

That is my idea of the right way to aid Detroit, Grand Rapids and other cities and villages where there has been a large growth o

During the next two or three weeks, Michigan folks will probably be hearing considerable about a bill which has been introduced in the legislature providing for the incorporation of all labor unions. The bill has not been printed as yet, and I have not had an opportunity to read it over, but seemingly there is much sentiment around the city of Lansing for the measure. There is no doubt but what it will provide plenty of discussion when it is up for consideration.

Next week the house will give consideration to a bill which has come out of committee with a recommendation that it pass, which if enacted, will permit oil companies to drill in lakes and streams of Michigan and along the shore lines of the Great Lakes for oil. Wouldn't that be a fine bill to pass!

Michigan has spent millions of dollars in relocating its highways along the shore lines of the Great Lakes to provide scenic drives for the vast tourist traffic of the state. It has been able to retain to a very large extent the beauties of all the shore lines of the big lakes. Now at one stroke of the pen so to speak, it is proposed to knock it all out so that oil companies can drill for oil any old place they may desire along the shore lines of the Great Lakes or in any of the small

The backers of the bill say that it might be possible to control the refuse that flows from an oil well. But there is no control possible. And what an unsightly mess there would be along the lakes, with a lot of oil wells sticking up out of the water, even though it would be possible to control the nasty refuse that flows from an

It is said that the vast Saginaw bay region is the objective of the bill. Oil companies believe there is a big oil field under Saginaw bay so they want to destroy the greatest recreational and sportsmens' paradise in this part of America for the benefit of the pocketbooks of Saginaw bay provides for the tables of Michigan families hundreds of tons of fish every year. In the fall of the year, millions of ducks land on Saginaw bay in their flights southward for the winter. No one has ever estimated the amount of food these duck flights provide for Michigan families, but it must be a vast amount. In addition to the food that comes from the bay and would be destroyed later in the month. by an oil field drilled in the water, that section of the Great Lakes is one of the country's most famous resort centers.

One must be on constant alert to safeguard the interests of our great state. Rarely a session of the legislature passes without some effort being made to raid the natural resources of Michigan—the resources that belong to every person who lives within the boundries of the Great Lakes.

If a constitutional amendment should be passed by the legislature and later approved by the voters of Michigan, no convicted grafter could ever hold office in this state again. There is now pending Plan Auxiliary before the legislature such a provision. It is quite surprising to know that Michigan is one of the few states of the union that does not have this provision in its constitution. We're going to try and put it in.

Hunters Finally Get Their Fox

After four and a half hours and about 20 miles of chasing, the intrepid hunters of Plymouth finally got themselves a fox last Sunday. They finally caught up with the varmint back of Ross' Greenhouse west of town, right about where they started when Matt Everett broke his (the fox's) legs with three well placed shots from about 400 feet distant. They might as well have stayed there and waited for the fex to run himself out and saved a lot of wear and tear on themselves. Of course there's no guarantee the critter would have come back there had they not been chasing the vicious little varmint tore a neat laceration into the leg of Jim Gothard's dog. Fred Rhead's full blooded black and tan, making his first test, did fine work, according to Bill Rose and deserves the lion's share of the credit for bringing the fox to bay. After Everett's shot had slowed

Weddings

Strachan-White,

Lovely in all its details was the vedding of Leah Wanda White, of Detroit, and Ensign Jack L. Stra-chan, of Walled Lake, which took place Monday afternoon, Feb. 26, in the Lake Worth, Florida Calvary Methodist church. Dr. Thomas S. Brock officiated at the ceremony in the presence of a few friends and close relatives.

Holloway-Rorabacher. The First Presbyterian church of Plymouth was the scene of a wedding Sunday evening when Miss Velda Rorabacher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Merle Rorabacher bride of Robert K. Holloway, ra-dio man 3/c, son of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Holloway of Ypsilanti. The ceremony was performed at 8 o'clock by the Rev. Henry J. Walch in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends. Palms, white tapers in tall stand-ards and white gladiolus formed an attractive setting for the cere-

Preceding the service Mrs. Earl Reh sang "I Love You Truly" and "Because" during the ceremony. The bride given in marriage by her father, wore a white satin dress made with fitted bodice and high neckline with narrow collar. The yoke and collar were trimmed with seed pearls, and the sleeves were close fitting ending in points over the hands. Her skirt was made with a long train. A coronet of orange blossoms held her fingertip veil and she carried white sweetheart roses.

Thelma Becker, of Pittsford, a twin sister of the bride, was the maid-of-honor. She wore an aqua blue dress, the bodice of marqui-sette and the full skirt of net over satin. She wore a rose of net in satin. She wore a rose of net in her hair which held her shoulder length veil. Her bouquet was of yellow beauty roses.

The three bridesmaids, Barbara Martin, Lila Mumby and Velma Evans were gowned alike, Barbara and Lila wearing blue marquisette and net and Velma wearing nink. Each, wore a headdress ing pink. Each wore a headdress of matching net and shoulder length veils. The yokes of the bodices were outlined with a narrow band of eyelet embroidery which extended down the back forming a V. The net skirts were very full The bridegroom was attended by his brother, Don, as best man and ushers were Glenn Holloway, a cousin of the bridegroom; Derward Jewell, a cousin of the bride; and Gerald Rorabacher, the bride's brother. Mrs. Rorabacher chose a becoming street length dress of sheer silk crepe in deep fuchsia shade while Mrs. Holloway wore a sheer navy blue and white. Their cor-sages were of gardenias.

A reception followed in the dining room of the church with 150 guests present. White tapers and white gladiolus were used in the

"I dislike women who smoke and drink," declared Jean Norgren, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Norgren, Napier Road. She has been active in all sports, Girl Reserves, Red Cross, worked on J-Hop and Senior Prom commit-tees, Senior Annual and Senior Play committee. Being a lover of music, Jean collects all sorts of records all the way from Bach right down to Harry James. "My favorite food" Jean said "is mashed potatoes; I love them, although they do my waistline no particular good." After graduation in June, Jean hopes to attend col-

"Conceited people are my pet peeve," declared Ruth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Gotschalk, of Gottschalk road. Ruth has taken part in J-Hop committee work, Junior-Senior farewell, and two years of Red Cross. She is taking general course. Her hobbies are taking and collecting snap-shots; she likes all sports. After graduation she wants to enter some branch of military service. If the war is over she would like to travel as much as possible. As she likes to sew, she feels some job onnected with dressmaking should be her vocation. She has been going to school in the morning and working at the D & C dime store in the afternoon during ner senior year. Definitely a boy interested in radio is Rex Lee Parrish, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cordie Parrish, Arcola avenue. Rex has been active in all sports especially track.

When asked what his pet peeve was Rex just smiled and said "tightwads." His hobbies vary from radio to dancing. He hopes next fall he can attend college, provided the services don't call him first.

"People who won't leave me alone when I'm busy," says Lois Mills, are her pet peeve. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Mills of South Main street. Mills, as she is called, is fond of all sports. Lois is following a college preparatory course but, "I am still uncertain as to the college I shall attend," Lois says. Among the things she has participated in are Girl Reserves, Leaders' Club, member of a J-Hop committee, and a member of the band as a drum majorette.

"Yum, pineapple pie is my fav-orite," replied Nora Wefsenmoe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter E. Wefsenmoe of Hammill avenue when asked her favorite dessert. Her hobby is collecting souvenirs and her pet peeve "girls who wear anklets with pumps." Nora has traveled in Minnesota. She has been a Girl Reserve, a member of Red Cross, and chorus. She is taking a genera' course and plans to become an interior decorator.

Booklet for Girls Issued by Dean

How to earn and learn at the same time in college is outlined in a little handbook entitled "Unclass of '44, Dick Daniels, Harold derwriting Your Own Education" Todd, and Bob Deyo were in which is available to high school seniors in Michigan.

Just published by the office of the Dean of Women at the University of Michigan, the booklet is intended especially for women, although its general principles are equally good for men.

The booklet points out that today more students than ever before are earning part or all of the cost of their education, and that the old prejudice against this has disappeared.

right, and this consists of making a definite budget for both finances and time. The booklet tells how the university advisers help to draw up these budgets. Other sections deal with various ways of earning part or all of the costs of an education, what kind of work is available and how to get that History

OUTFIT HELPING TO WIN GREAT VICTORY.
Pfc. Max L. McDonald, 40207
Gilbert street, is another one of the many hundreds of Plymouth lads helping to write victory paragraphs in America's fight against enemies of mankind.

From the field censor's office of the 6th Army Group somewhere in France, comes the following interesting news article pertaining to the outfit in which Max is serving his country. From "railway-men" to "cheminots" to "ferrovieri" and back to "cheminots." That, in brief, is the overseas history of the men in the 761st Rail way Transportation company, for that is what they have been called as they moved from the British Isles to North Africa to Iitaly and to France.

The 761st, an important unit in which supports all the troops of the U. S. Seventh and French First armies on the Western Front, was activated July 28, 1942, at Camp Shelby, Miss. Veterans from three of the oldest railway operating battalions, the 727th, the 713th and the 711th. joined the 761st just before and after it arrived in Scotland on September 5, 1942, only five weeks after its activation.

In England, the company operated a small British military experimental railroad. The line, with 12 miles of track and eight stations, presented many prob-lems that the railwaymen would meet later. Also, about 10 train crews from the company trained on the London, Midland and Scottish railway.

The 761st landed at Oran three days after the initial North African landings, while the firing was still going on. The company immediately took over the railroad station in Oran and supervised rail transportation between that city and Algiers. Moving to Italy in June, 1944, the 761st had the job of operating the Naples terminal and furnishing yardmasters, checkers, interpreters at the docks, railyards and movement control offices, and other personnel. Similar duties were assigned the unit when it moved into Southern France. Keeping supplies moving from the great ports to the men at the front has meant plenty of hard work. The 761st recently shared in a commendation of the 1st military railway service by Lt. Gen. Jacob L. Devers, commanding general of the 6th army

> FEET FROZEN, GERRY OLSON NOW IN ENGLISH HOSPITAL

Gerry Olson, son of Mrs. Olive Olson, 11646 Brownell, is in a hospital somewhere in England, where he was sent after both of his feet had become badly frozen while fighting in front line trenches somewhere in Germany.

In recent letters home he gives some idea of the terrors of the war and the desperation with which

Germany is fighting.

"The German people the people who are not in uniforms, do all they can to kill American soldiers. I just missed it twice, but the peo-ple who tried it are not going to worry about paying any more taxes," he wrote.

"I hope that Willard has not gone overseas yet and that he will never have to fight in Germany. It is pure hell. "I had some souvenirs for the girls, but the Germans got them all back just before Christmas. "It just doesn't seem possible to be fighting for your very life one day on a patrol right up in front, and then the next day to be way back of the lines where you are able to sleep in peace in a nice clean bed and not like a possum. The nurse says I am getting along fine. I just had to get up and make my own bed." In previous letters Gerry had told of suffering from trench feet and that his feet had been frozen three different times. Trench feet comes from standing and wading for days in water and mud.

ERNEST E. FOLSOM LOOKS TO FUTURE WITH KEEN INTEREST.

Do not for one second think that the boys in the armed forces are not watching what the people back home are doing to prepare for the return of "Our Boys" after victory has been won.

A pretty good idea of how observing they are can be found in the following letter from Ernest E. Folsom, a Plymouth boy who joined up with the navy soon after he passed his 16th birthday.

He writes: "I have just received two more home town newspapers and I want to thank you for the consideration you and the rest of the people at home are showing for the boys.

"You don't know me I am sure by my real name because I was known as 'Arky' before entering the service and I was too young to get around much. I was 17 then and I will be 21 this month. "What interested me most in

The Plymouth Mail was the post war plans Plymouth has for the servicemen. I try to gather as much information on that subect as possible because my enistment is up this month and I will soon be getting out with the rest of the boys.

"I am certainly going to take advantage of those night classes. History shouldn't be so tough. I have been in more different countries than states in the U.S.

"I am on a destroyer tender now. This is my third ship since I have been in the service. We do all sorts of repair work on ships. (Just like a mother to them). I never realized before I came aboard this ship that so many things could go wrong with them: "We are tied up somewhere in England but I can't say where or what we are repairing, you can probably guess.

"I have been keeping track of my old buddies in The Plymouth Mail and the ones I don't read about there, my wife writes about

"Well I'll have to stop now and write another letter so I want to say thanks again for the paper. "I didn't know at first where it was coming from, as I could find no return address. "If any of the boys in England are interested in finding me or getting in touch with me I'll glad-

Warns About Use Ask Again For of Lumber Here

With the lumber supply situation daily becoming more critical, rural residents of Wayne county have been warned by Fred C. Ernest chairman of the Wayne county U. S. Department of Agriculture war board to limit construction to limits imposed by the war production board.

"If lumber is used for unauthor zed purposes, more stringent conrols will have to be imposed," Ernest said. "Civilian users of lumber will be cramped more than now if construction for unauthorized uses continues."

Russell Roe, of the Roe Lumber Co., said to his knowledge there s no unauthorized building going on in Plymouth.

"Of course we have no way of policing construction and knowing how much material is being obtained elsewhere." Roe added. "But we are cooperating as best we can."

Roe said that his concern is ou finishing lumber and white pine, and "we can't get any more without high priorities." Flooring, ceiling and siding lumber also is very scarce, he asserted. Under WPB regulations, no per son can spend more than $200 in one year for any type of residenial building or commercial struc-ture, including roadside stands, Ernest explained. There has been a tendency toward some construction for non-essential uses such as summer cottages, cabins, and additions to farm homes, he said.

"Farmers are permitted to spend up to $1,000 a year on all farm building but of this amount not more than $200 can be spent on a farm house or residential building," he explained.

"If it is felt there is a need to do construction work, the USDA War board should be consulted. We can advise steps to be taken to obtain the necessary authoriza-

Ernest also requested that farmers cutting their own logs channel the resulting lumber into war ef-fort, if possible.

Highway Plan

Ziegler told the Michigan State Association of Supervisors at their annual meeting here last week. Michigan will receive $16,683,000 a year in federal aid funds for three consecutive years immediately following the end of the wartime emergency, Commission-er Ziegler explained to the super-visors, with $4,135,000 to be exended on farm-to-market roads, 5,713,000 in urban areas and $6,-835,000 on federal aid trunklines. This money will be matched 50-50 by Michigan, thus doubling these

Commissioner Ziegler said the State Highway Department has been working in close cooperation with the counties and cities of the state on wartime maintenance problems and in plans for postwar construction and will continue to do so because he firmly believes Michigan's 85,000 miles of county roads, 11,000 miles of city streets, and 9,400 miles of state trunklines are not separate systems but a complete transportation system with muual problems that should be met mutual and cooperative

In line with this policy, the commissioner said, the State Highway Department has been conferring with county and city units of government before determining exact locations for major postwar road projects in order that state and local traffic problems may be solved in the most satisfactory manner to all con-

The commissioner revealed the Highway Department has completed plans for projects sufficient to make uprits construction program for the first postwar year. These projects could be advertised within 90 days after the end of the war if building restrictions are lifted within that time.

Quilt Material

The Navy Mothers have issued plea to all householders not to throw away old coats, skirts or rousers when they start cleaning out the attic during the approaching spring cleaning season.

They ask that the spring cleaners remember them and the warm quilts they make of the discarded articles of clothing for wounded service men.

In the past year they made 235 quilts and this year they could use twice as many since convalescent hospitals are "full to overlowing.'

Anybody having any old clothes is asked to call Mrs. Erland Bridge, at 1068-J, and she will be glad to pick them up. Or they can be left at the A. R. West Imple-ment store, on Main street.

Study Dodge Street Parking

Police Chief Lee R. Sackett and City Manager Clarence H. Elliott are considering the advisability of eliminating parking on the south side of Dodge street, between Main and Union streets.

The proposition is under study because of the fire hazard caused the parking. If the fire department had to make a rush rip down Dodge street, it would be greatly hampered by such parking.

Sackett said he would appreci-ate any comment from interested parties on the proposal.

Design V-11, Early American Type

Your New Home ...

We present these plans hoping they will prove interesting and helpful to you in making plans for your future home. Please ask our assistance at any time. Complete working drawings are available for each house we illustrate.

In a survey conducted by a National magazine for the purpose of getting some first hand information as to the types of homes people are thinking about for the Post-Victory period, this design received the largest number of votes.

This snug little home is a modified Early American type. A portion of the first floor walls are of brick and the balance of the walls of frame. Thus variety and interest are created in the design.

A story and a half in height, this home provides a comfortable and efficient floor plan. The splendid living room has a large bar window, a lower level vestibule brings the step to the entrance door closer to the ground creating the impression of greater snuaness.

It is difficult to find a plan that has more good features. For example, the Ushaped kitchen is ample, with a cozy, dining space at one end for informal meals; quick access to the front door may be had; there is a first-floor lavatory off the vestibule, and a direct entrance to the basement from the kitchen.

Bedrooms on the second floor are well planned with an ample bath and closet space.

This charming compact dwelling will grace almost any suburban location.

VICTORY'S SONS

RING a counter attack by the Japs on Guadalcanal in September, 1942, the enemy drove through the Marine lines at some points, and reached the field artillery batteries. When the leader of his platoon was forced out of action by wounds, gunnery sergeant Edward McGloin assumed command as the next in rank. It being a night battle, Sergeant McGloin was unable to see the results of his fire. Ordering his men to continue at the same range, he advanced toward the Japs, disregarding their machine guns and mortars, to get more accurate firing data. Before he had moved very far a bullet lodged in his chest. McGloin crawled back to his battery, where one of his men applied rude first aid. Then, propping himself against a tree, McGloin resumed command.

The hard-pressed Marines, however, were falling back before the weight of numbers. Jap infantrymen were now right in front of the artillerymen. Sergeant McGloin ordered the gunners to take up their rifles and to defend themselves. He summoned his reserve strength and hurled hand grenades at the advancing enemy, until a Jap grenade ex ploded nearby and blinded him temporarily. The firm stand of Sergeant McGloin and his men, however, gave the other Marine units time to reform, and they surged back recovering the position.

Babson Park, Fla. March 9—I am astonished by figures just released. These show that over 3,-600,000 draftees have been turned down because of poor physical condition and over 1,600,000 discharged; while the average intelligence of the entire army equals only that of a 13 year old boy.

Loans and Education

Yet, politicians pretend that this ituation can be remedied by loaning each returning soldier from $2,000 to $10,000, or by giving him $500 per year plus $50 per month to get some kind of a diploma! I am glad to have veterans receive these gifts; but they must not think the loan or the diploma will enable them to operate a business successfully or even to hold a good job.

It would be far better for the government to help these men develop self-mastery and constructive thinking;—to use themselves as a laboratory instead of bothering with some college laboratory. The truth is that their brains have been in a concentration camp for the past few years. The veterans' future depends upon the use of their brains, in hard constructive thinking under expert guidance.

Your Boys' Brains

Without doubt the United States will enjoy a few years of "pros-perity" following World War II. Certainly, this will last until the people spend the money whichsince 1940—they have been accumulating. As to what will happen thereafter will depend upon the thinking powers of the returning soldiers. G.I. loans and free education will not keep people em-ployed. In fact, why should any man expect any other man to employ him? Why should not all have initiative and originality enough to create their own jobs?

The answer to the above ques-ion is that very few people have been taught to do original and constructive thinking. This is a basic cause of unemployment and one which must be rectified. Here are matters of great importance to every parent: Has your boy a definite goal in life? Has he selfcontrol and self-mastery? Has he imagination energy and stick-to-it-iveness? Has he been "born again" spiritually? Is he returning from the war more or less thoughtful,—with better habits? The answer to these questions by honest mothers will determine whether the United States' debts will be paid or repudiated as well as our postwar employment situa-

Great Discoveries Ahead

At the Adult Conferences to be neld at the Babson Institute in April and May, these questions will frankly be discussed. Parents will then be given definite help by experts. The first step is to realize that body, mind and soul are one, and that a truly spiritual rebirth is the most effective foundation for a useful, healthy and appy life. But those attending these Courses will learn of other methods of stimulating men which have untold and unlimited possibilities.

The future of your boys after the war will not depend upon money or college diplomas but money or college diplomas but upon self-mastery and brains. Neither of these needed assets is secured by reading books or by listening to the radio. They will come only through self-development hard thinking and bitter experience. perience unless some entirely new methods are discovered. Personally, I believe such discoveries will take place. Hence, I am optimistic as to the future. There should be hundreds of thousands of Edisons, Einsteins, and Fords!

Encourage Employers

Heretofore, brain surgeons and psychiatrists have worked only with the insane or those who are broken-down nervously. In the new era following World War II I believe they will work with nor-mal boys to stimulate their thinking and personal powers. You see immediately that this has tremendous possibilities and could completely revolutionize educational methods as well as religious work. We will have more and better employers. Let every reader encourage the employers which are now carrying the purdens of the war and are preparing for the new tasks of the peace years ahead.

The ladies who took part in the Matrons' Contest, at the high school auditorium, Wednesday evening, all did so well that the udges, Miss Allen, Miss Gill and Mr. Ross had considerable difficulty in choosing the winner, but finally decided that from a technical standpoint, Mrs. Charles Bovee took the honors, while Mesdames Kenter, White, Humphries and Dicks all tied for second place, and Mesdames Sayles, Spicer and Howell deserve great credit. The prize, a pyrex casserole, was presented to Mrs. Bovee by Rev. F. M. Field. Before the contest, the high school orchestra, under the leadership of Miss Jewell, rendered some fine numbers. During the evening, the Misses Foster and Leach and Messrs. Calvin and Austin Whipple, accompanied by Miss Penney on the piane, all sang in their usual charming manner. Miss Ellen Gardner drilled the ladies for their readings, and the result showed she made a very efficient

,The Charles Roberts farm of about 65 acres located at the southern limits of the village, has been sold to Leinbach-Humphrey Co., a prominent real estate firm of Detroit, by A. E. and W. S. Bake, who purchased the property from Mr. Roberts last fall. The Detroit purchasers will plat the property and make the necessary improvements that will make it one of the finest residence subdivisions in Plymouth. The name that has been chosen for the new subdivision is 'Maplecroft" subdivision. It is planned to put the property on the market the coming spring.

ONE FOR ALL ... Mr. Jones lives in a trailer. Mr. Smith owns a cottage. And Mr. Clark dwells in a mansion. But Detroit Edison furnishes all of them with exactly the same dependable electric service. Nobody can buy an "exclusive" grade, for all are provided with the same high quality-the best we can provide. And while most other living costs have been going up, residential electricity hasn't advanced a penny in price since the war began.

Don't waste electricity! Conserving it saves coal

LENTEN DISH . . . Our Home Service Department suggests another dish for Lent:

Baked Oysters with Spaghetti

1/8 cup melted fat 11/2 cups milk 2 tbs. flour

Cook spaghetti as directed on package. Scald the oysters in their own liquor, reserving the liquor. Oil a baking dish, put in a layer of the spaghetti and then a layer of the oysters, season with salt and pepper, and repeat the layers until all the oysters and spaghetti are used, finishing with a layer of spaghetti. To the liquor from the oysters, add enough milk to make a pint, reserving a small quantity to mix with the flour. Scald the remainder, add the scalded milk to the moistened flour, stir well and simmer 20 minutes. Add the melted fat and pour over the layers in the dish. Top with bread crumbs mixed with melted fat, and bake in a hot oven (400-450° F.) just long enough to brown the crumbs, about ten minutes.

SERVANTS' ENTRANCE ... The electric outlet on your wall is a "servants' entrance," providing many extra helping hands that save you time and lighten housework whenever you plug in your electric appliances. But you can't make efficient use of all the servants if there are not enough outlets in your home. Remember the extra demands of postwar electrical living when you plan to remodel or build a new home.

Saving electricity saves coal, transport and manpower

KITCHEN CRAFT ... To delay the rusting of pans, grease all new pans and put them in a warm oven before using.
